I have been accused of manipulating the football contest to allow mostly women to win. This is nothing more than sour grapes on the part of the male football fan in Ozona. Tom grades the entries each week and I never see them. He could hardly be called pro-feminist and anyone who knows him can attest to his macho, redneck, West Texas image. If the women are winning, and they are, it is plain and simple that they are better winner pickers than the men. What makes it look even worse for the men is the fact that we have about twice as many of them enter each week than women (chuckle, chuckle).

You know, you've always heard of men giving their wives a gun they want for a birthday present or a chain saw or a train set, or whatever. It's really a dirty trick, but I inadvertently did it to Tom last week. It was his 55th birthday, and I tried to think of something different to give him. I came up with a perfect gift, a video computer system, which will play any number of games electronically. As luck would have it, I found one on sale. The package came with one game cassette, but I bought an extra, "Space Invaders," because that seems to be the most popular one. While I was waiting to have it wrapped, I found they also offered a "Bridge" cassette and I just couldn't pass that up. I thought I'd see what it was like between 2 and 4 in the morning when I am up with chronic insomnia anyway.

I could hardly wait to get home and get it hooked up. Tom didn't seem too impressed when he opened it and I couldn't get it working. I called Oscar Kost in and he got it going. He and Tom played one game of Space Invaders and it was time for the darn ballgame. Men are addicted to ball games, you know. It doesn't matter what kind of ball, golf, tennis, baseball or football. They will sit in front of the television for 24 hours if there is any kind of ball game on the tube.

Finally the ball game was over and he went to bed. I crept in and turned the "game" on and decided to use the bridge cassette. I was absolutely fascinated and at daybreak I was still playing the game. After an hour's sleep and after Tom left for his weekly Saturday morning visit with Misty Dawn, I dropped everything and went back to the "game." I felt all kinds of guilt with beds unmade, dishes to be washed, etc. but I couldn't stop. I finally had to give it up and get to other things, but as soon as 2 a.m. came I was up and at it again. This time I couldn't make it work, and my panic was as real as if I had smoked my last cigarette at that hour of the morning. I could hardly wait for dawn to get Oscar to see what was wrong. It was the fine-tuner.

Now that I've got it operating and know how to keep it that way, I begrudge every minute I have to spend doing anything else. I know you won't mind if I cut this short this week and get back to the "game." Best birthday gift I ever gave Tom.

Mental health

The annual mental health drive will be held Thursday, Oct. 29, at 6:00 p.m.

Volunteers are needed for the door to door drive. Please call Mrs. Erby Chandler if you can assist in the drive.

OFFICE BUILDING NEARS COMPLETION-This 12-unit office building will soon be ready for occupants. Each unit is complete with rest room. The building should alleviate the office space shortage here, but the housing shortage will apparently remain until the oil boom is over, which is projected to be ten years.

New national bank for Ozona is in the offing

A new national bank for Ozona and Crockett County is nearing reality with the filing of the application, which was accepted October 1, by the Comptroller of the Currency, Washington, D.C.

Organizers of the bank are W. D. Noel of Odessa, James L. Powell of Fort McKavett, and three Ozona men, Wesley Richardson, Tom Cameron and Bill Black.

After deciding there was a need for another bank in Ozona, the five men began working through the long string of red tape to get a charter. Rumor from a year ago became fact when the application was accepted for filing. One of the organizers said, with somewhat relaxed banking laws, the charter should be issued in three to six months after the filing date.

Services today for Ms. Seelye

Funeral services for Mary Freeman Seelye, 93, were held at 10 o'clock this morning, Wednesday, at graveside in Cedar Hill Cemetery with Rev. Nelson Lanham officiating.

Mrs. Seelye died early Monday morning in Crockett County Care Center where she had been a resident for the past few years. She was born Mary Phoebe Adwell, December 15, 1887, in Monroe County, Ky. She was married to Malvern Hill Freeman, Dec. 22, 1910, in Itasca. He died Feb. 10, 1924. She later married George W. Seelye, Nov. 6, 1943, in Dallas. Mr. Seelye died in 1961.

Mrs. Seelye moved to Ozona in 1961. She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Ozona.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Leota) Cox; a grandson, Robert Doyle Cox of Round Rock, and two great grandchildren.

The bank will be located on Hwy. 290 between the Flying W Lodge and the W. E. Friend ranch. It has not been decided whether the bank will begin operation in temporary quarters at that location when the charter is issued or whether actual banking operations will wait until a new, modern building is constructed.

The directors prefer Crockett County National Bank for the official name, but Crockett National Bank of Crockett County, Texas and First National Bank of Ozona are also being considered for the title.

Total capitalization for the new national bank will be $1,500,000 with 150,000 shares offered at $10 per share for total capitalization.

$750,000 will be allocated to capital and $750,000 to surplus. Par value per share will be $5.

Noel is a retired chairman of the board of El Paso Products Co. He is a director of American Bank in Odessa and San Angelo National Bank and is on the board of the Texas Commercial Holding Bank of Houston. He has interests in several television stations and mineral interests in Crockett County besides owning the Fort Terrett Ranch.

Powell is a Fort McKavett rancher and on the board of directors of San Angelo National. He is also on the TCHB of Houston board of directors and is a director of the Mertz bank.

Richardson is a local rancher and businessman and a Texas Sheep and Goat Raiser Assn. director. He is a graduate of A&M University.

Cameron is a director in Lake Air National Bank in Waco. He is a graduate of Baylor Law School and was in private practice in Waco before moving here three years ago and taking up the duties of Crockett County Attorney. He is also engaged in ranching in Crockett County.

Black, also a local rancher, is on the board of directors of Wool Growers Central Storage out of San Angelo and Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Assn.

Lions roar past Eagles for win

By James Pagan

The Ozona Lions roared their way to their second district victory in Eldorado Friday night, thumping the Eagles 33-13. Spirit will be high when the Lions host the Mason Punchers Friday night in another district tilt.

The Eagles gave the Lions a scare early in the game Friday night when they scored on a pass play with less than two minutes into the first quarter. The PAT was good and the Eagles had the lead 7-0.

However, the Lions tied it up when the Lion offense rolled downfield and Felix Flores punched in from the 2-yard-line for the score. Will Mason added the PAT to tie the score.

The Lions really poured it on in the second quarter. Greg Fierro scored from a yard out, but the PAT failed. Felix Flores got his second touchdown of the night as he went in from 6 yards out, again the PAT failed, but the Lions led 19-7 at halftime. The second half was all Ozona as they scored two more times and held the Eagles to one score. Harvey Huereca scored from a yard out and Mason added the PAT. David Badillo scored from the six-yard-line after a drive and again Mason added the PAT.

With less than a minute left to play, Eldorado scored on a 4-yard pass. The PAT failed and that ended the scoring for the night.

Although total yardage was close to even between the two teams, the Lion defense was very effective. Most of the Eagle yardage was made after the Lion second string defensive unit was sent in.

Ozona had 15 first downs to 14 for Eldorado. The Lions had 183 yards rushing and 94 passing for a total of 277 yards. The Eagles rushed for 200 yards and passed for 45 for a total of 245.

The Lions were 6 for 15 in the passing department with 2 interceptions. The Eagles completed 6 passes out of 18 attempts and were intercepted 4 times. The Lions lost 2 fumbles and the Eagles lost 3.

School board has busy agenda

Several important matters were taken up for discussion when the Crockett County School Board met last week in regular monthly meeting. Besides routine matters, the board discussed projects for the primary school, nominated three to serve on the County Appraisal District, House Bill 341, the results of the English proficiency tests and the possibility of restoring the former junior high school building.

Superintendent Foy Moody gave the board a report on two projects for the primary school which had already been approved in an earlier meeting. Moody told the board the county had been asked to cut a road in front of the primary school across the draw to give another outlet for traffic. He said the county road crew would get the road cut this fall and pave it in the spring.

Another project is seven new guard lights for the school in an attempt to light the area and serve as a deterrent for vandalism and impromptu gatherings during the night. Moody told the board that engineers from West Texas Utilities in San Angelo had been here and staked out locations for the seven lights.

The board nominated Joe Couch, Jeffrey Sutton and Tommy Stokes to serve on the board of directors of the Crockett County Appraisal District to comply with HB-30. The men will serve two-year terms beginning January 1, 1982. They will be joined on the board by Johnny Jones and Sostenes De-Hoyos, who were appointed by the Commissioners Court. The board will appoint the board of equalization, or board of review, as set out in the new tax law. Elected officials can no longer serve on the board of equalization.

Another new law, SB 341, concerning the term contract non-renewal act, was also discussed at length but no action was taken. The bill is now law and the policy for the local school will be adopted in the November meeting.

Results of the English proficiency test were given to the board. Of the 220 students in grades kindergarten through sixth who took the test, a total of 17 failed to pass. Fourteen of the 17 failures were students who had moved to Ozona from Mexico in the past year. All sixth graders taking the test passed, along with all fifth graders. Two students failed the test in the fourth grade, one in third grade, and one in second grade. There were two failures in first grade and 11 in kindergarten.

Renovation of the former junior high building was discussed. A company, specializing in restoration of old buildings while keeping the historical appearance, has asked to talk to the board about the project. A representative from the company will meet with the board in December and present them with a graduated plan for renovation. The board discussed the possibility of undertaking the renovation in steps, giving strong consideration to replacing the windows and roof.

A financial statement of the cafeteria operation was given and the board was told it will be difficult to break even this year, due to new federal guidelines for free lunches and increased costs for labor. While 550 students were eligible for free lunches last year, only 400 have met requirements for this year.

Also discussed were the new UIL re-alignment and district assignments for the next two years which will be released November 2. As it appears right now, there is a 90 percent chance Ozona High School will go triple A when the figures are released.

In other business, the board approved the general fund, athletic fund report, and the bills for payment. They also accepted a bid from L-B Motors to purchase a new pickup for the Ag. Department.

Acton re-elected to SWCD board

Earl Acton was recently re-elected to the Crockett Soil and Water Conservation District board of directors October 13. Acton represents Zone #2 of the district.

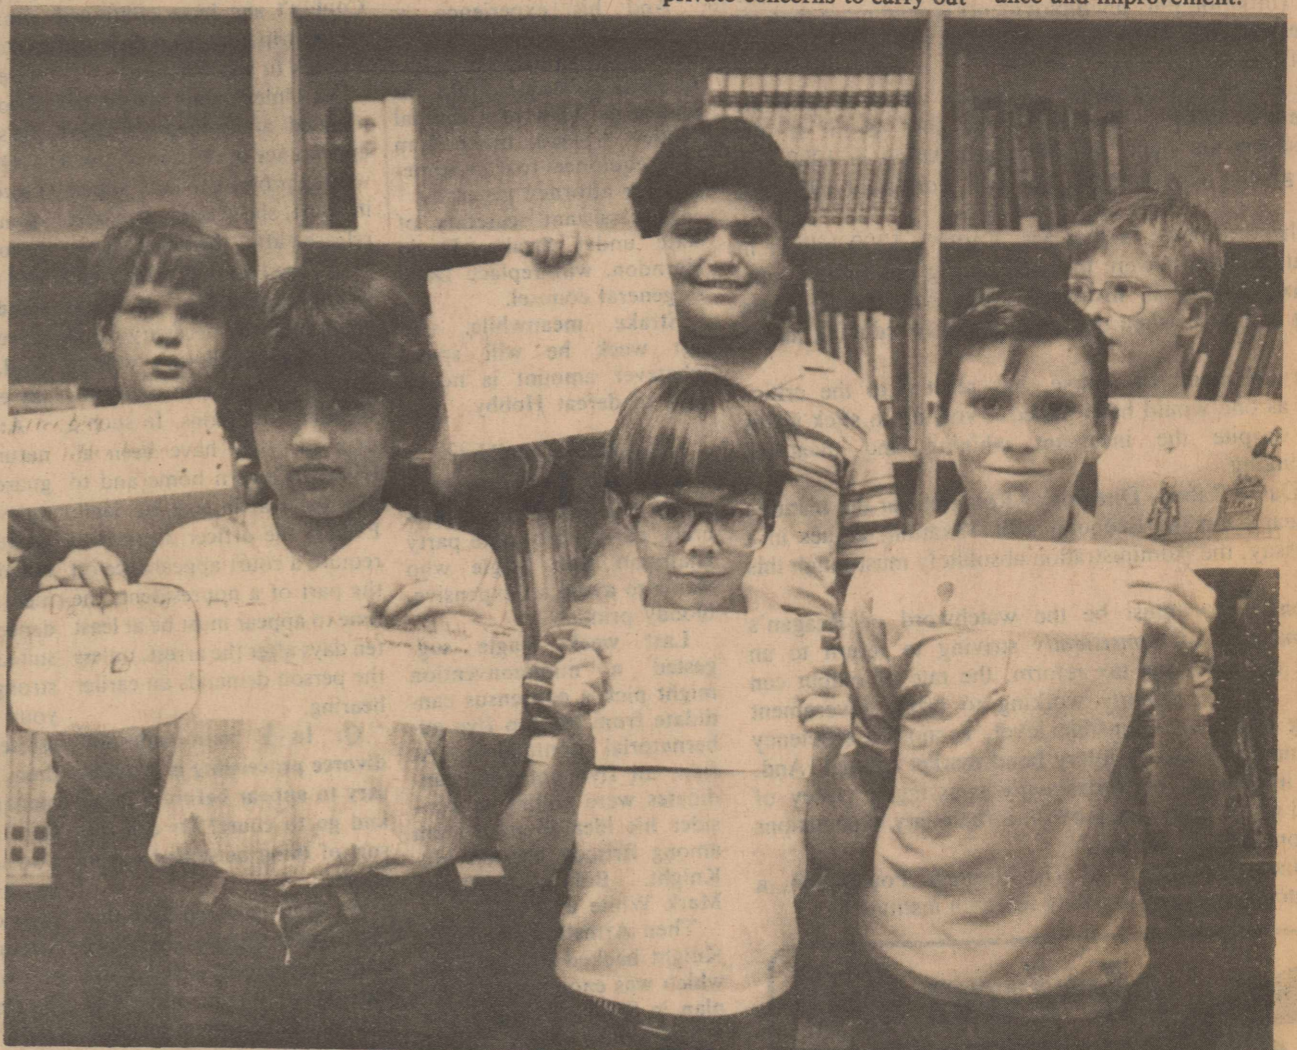

The purpose of the Crockett SWCD, is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on ranch lands within the district and to serve as a voice for ranchers on conservation matters and other issues affecting private property rights of landowners.

The board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with these governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes.

As one of five individuals serving on the district board of directors, Acton will be responsible for district policies and procedures for carrying out the district program within the framework of the Texas soil conservation law.

Organized in 1950 the Crockett SWCD's purpose is to further soil, water, and plant conservation application to the land within the District. The District believes the health, safety, and welfare of all people lies in the protection of our natural resources. One of the basic objectives of the District is to use each acre of land according to its capabilities and to treat each acre in accordance with its needs for maintenance and improvement.

CONTEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED-The Myrtle Post Garden Club held a logo contest in the Intermediate School for its upcoming litter campaign. The winning logo will be used for bumper stickers. Prizes were presented to the winners in ceremonies Tuesday morning at the school. First place went to Shane Cooper, front right; second place went to Michelle Lambers and third to Pete Ramirez. Honorable mention went to Jeff Schkade, Judy Fierro, Ivan Bridges and Brian Cooke.

STEADY AS YOU GO, MR. PRESIDENT

By Edwin Feulner

President Reagan's late September budget message appears to have been a prime time hit on Main Street, U.S.A., but left them less than enchanted on Wall Street.

The word on Wall Street, echoed in the Ivy Towers of the intellectual elite, is that Reaganomics is a failure. It isn't working, Nobel Prize winning economist Lawrence Klein of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School tells a meeting of the National Association of Business Economists. It can't and it won't work says the ever-unflappable John Kenneth Galbraith; the stock market continues its rollercoaster antics, and on television sets across the nation the posers of TV commentary talk in carefully modulated tones of administration failure on a grand and glorious scale.

But wait a minute, says the President. How could the whizz kids of Wall Street, and their economic soulmates, argue in September that the program is failing, when the major provisions of the supply-side tax plan hadn't yet gone into effect?

Fortunately for the President, the facts tell quite a different story. According to Warren Brookes, one of the few economic analysts who's unafraid of the hard, grinding work needed to sort through all the claims and counterclaims made by the economic fraternity (Does anyone still wonder why they call it the "dismal science"?), the Reagan economy actually is outperforming the Carter economy in most categories. For example:

...When Mr. Carter left the Oval Office in January, the year-to-year inflation rate (as measured by the Consumer Price Index) was 15.2 percent. "It is now running slightly under nine percent, and the producer price index (PPI) indicates clear downward movement over the next three months."

...Mr. Carter left us with 7.4 percent unemployment, Brookes notes. Despite 20-percent interest rates (the prime rate was 20.8 percent in December 1980, Carter's last month in office), unemployment stood at 7.2 percent in August.

"This means," Brookes notes, "that the 'misery index' (inflation plus unemployment) is now more than six full percentage points below what it was when Reagan took office."

As for the federal deficit, a subject which delights the President's critics, Brookes says that even if the gloomsayers are right, Mr. Reagan's deficit in 1982 will be no greater than Carter's last two, for fiscal 1980 and 1981.

"The difference is that Mr. Carter's $200 billion in cumulative deficits were incurred during the highest four-year tax increase in history," while Mr. Reagan's are coming at a time when the government is reducing its tax bite.

The President, of course, has reacted to the critics exactly as one would have hoped - vowing to stick to his plans, despite the incessant whining and theatrical handwringing.

As David Raboy, Director of Research for the Institute for Research on the Economics of Taxation, argues in a recent essay, the Administration absolutely must tough this one out.

"Consistency must be the watchword of Reagan's policy-makers. By consistently striving to return to an efficient economy via tax reform, the rate of output can increase. By consistently working to bring government spending down to a sensible level, economic efficiency can be increased, and a jittery bond market calmed. And, equally important, by consistently stressing a policy of slow and stable monetary growth, inflationary expectations can, at long last, be broken."

THE UNHOLY TRIO!

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Texas got a new Secretary of State, the Democrats failed to settle on a consensus opponent for Gov. Bill Clements, and the Redistricting Board laid out the end-game schedule last week at the Capitol.

Clements announced the appointment of his general counsel, David Dean, to replace Secretary George Strake, who quit earlier this month to run for lieutenant governor against Bill Hobby.

Described by Clements as "a tower of strength in our administration," Dean, perhaps more than any other staffer, has shaped the political direction of Clements' term, particularly with policies to lure disenchanted conservative Democrats.

Dean, a former Democrat, was general counsel to former Democratic Gov. Dolph Briscoe. Following Briscoe's 1978 primary defeat at the hands of John Hill, Dean led a contingent of Briscoe supporters into the Clements camp.

The group has been credited with tipping the scales to give Clements a narrow victory over Hill. Dean became deputy campaign manager for Clements, even though he still called himself a Democrat. Now, he says, he's a Republican because the liberals still maintain control of the Democratic Party.

Future Candidate?

His promotion moves the experienced young counselor one step closer to a possible political candidacy. As chief elections officer of Texas, he will doubtless learn what little he doesn't know already.

And his experience as counselor, campaign treasurer and campaign manager for two governors, plus his tenure as head of Criminal Justice System make him well equipped to run someday for attorney general.

An assistant secretary of state under Strake, David Herndon, will replace Dean as general counsel.

Strake, meanwhile, said last week he will spend whatever amount is necessary to defeat Hobby.

Consensus Candidate

Campaign financing is also on the minds of Democrats, particularly state party chairman Bob Slagle who wants to avoid an expensive, bloody primary.

Last week Slagle suggested a mini-convention might pick a consensus candidate from the top five gubernatorial contenders. At first, all five potential candidates were willing to consider his idea to pick from among Briscoe, Peyton McKnight, Bob Armstrong, Mark White and Hill.

Then Armstrong and McKnight backed off the idea, which was enough to kill the plan in Slagle's mind.

His stated intent was to set up a method whereby the party could concentrate its best efforts on beating Clements, not itself, and if only one candidate was reluctant, then the agreement could not work.

Redistricting Schedule

The Redistricting Board must reach an agreement on new districts by Oct. 29 or turn the task over to the courts, and tension is mounting as the panel approaches its deadline.

The initial vote is expected to be taken on Oct. 25, leaving four days to work out a compromise among the different maps which are to be submitted.

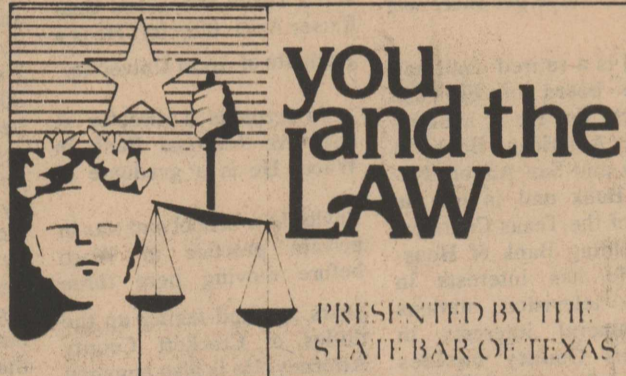

Hobby says he has completed his plan for the Senate, and it does not pair any of the incumbent senators. House Speaker Bill Clayton, who has a number of alternate House maps, apparently has not decided on a final version. Neither has the staff of Comptroller Bob Bullock, working on plans for both chambers.

For a dramatic flourish, Bullock will return on Oct.

23, in time to vote on the issue. He has been undergoing treatment for alcoholism at a California clinic, and has missed all the preliminary jockeying. The return of the brash, macho Bullock has several individuals a bit nervous about their political fate at the hands of the majority of the board.

Pen Registers

A small device called a pen register has civil libertarians up in arms at the Capitol. The device, which can be attached and used to record the telephone numbers of calls made from any telephone, is apparently legal, an oversight of the Legislature which passed the wiretap bill last session. There is no legal prohibition against use of the pen register, and Department of Public Safety officials take that as a green light to use the device against criminals.

Q: A friend of mine was visiting me from out of state. While returning home she was stopped by a Texas police officer for speeding. She was told she would have to see the local justice of the peace before she could proceed. Couldn't she have continued on her trip home and then sent a check to pay her fine?

A: Unless your friend demanded an immediate court appearance or refused to give a written promise to later appear in court, she should have been released after the ticket was issued. The fact that your friend was a nonresident of Texas eliminated the necessity of an otherwise mandatory written notice to appear in court for speeding violations. In such a case she may have been allowed to return home and to pay the traffic fine by mail. Even if the officer decided to require a court appearance on the part of a nonresident, the time to appear must be at least ten days after the arrest, unless the person demands an earlier hearing.

Q: In a "non-contested" divorce proceeding is it necessary to appear before a judge and go to court? Or can this sort of thing be settled out of court?

A: State law requires that one party appear and give sworn testimony proving up the basic jurisdictional requirements for divorce. These are basically that the parties are married; that they have separated; that there is no hope that they will reconcile; that one or both parties has been a resident of the state of Texas for at least six months and a resident in the county where the suit is filed for at least ninety days. Everything else, such as conservatorship of the children and division of property, can be settled out of court. The Judge can then be asked to approve the parties' agreement, and to grant the divorce incorporating the couple's terms.

Q: I am divorced and have custody of my two small children. If I die before they become of legal age and if I had no will, would my ex-husband, the children's father, receive custody of the children? And, what would happen to my estate?

A: The children's surviving natural parent will become guardian upon your death unless he declines to be appointed or unless other family members contest his appointment. The Court will hear evidence as to the person best suited, but there will be a strong presumption in favor of your former husband. Your estate would go to your children, but would have to be managed under Court supervision until they each reach 18. You could avoid this and even possibly affect appointment of your children's guardian in a carefully written will. The cost of a will is far less than having the Court settle a contest between family members.

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

After the refreshing and needed showers of last week we should have a beautiful countryside for several weeks before a frost. Also it should improve the soil for fall planting of gardens, trees, shrubs, and other plants.

Now that it is time to plan for planting shrubs and trees, observe the fruit of these ornamental plants that are now displaying their autumn beauty. Some of these are: Purple beauty berry (Callicarpa). These lavender to purple berries are one of nature's most unusual fruit colors. After the shrub drops its foliage in Autumn, the clusters of berries appear to have been skewered on the bare stems. They are a favorite food for birds. Staghorn sumac (Rhus typhina). This is a real eye-catcher along country roads and highways. The clusters of red fruit blaze into view in late summer to be joined by the reddening fall foliage. Holly (Ilex). Within this large group of plants, there are evergreen and deciduous types, as well as shrubs and small trees. Sweet Autumn Clematis vine (Paniculata). This isn't the clematis prized for its huge spring flowers. It is a deciduous vine, but a different sort. It blooms in late summer, producing a subdued glow of tiny, fragrant, white flowers. In Autumn, the plant is spectacular with its drifts of feathery pinwheels that are actually fruit.

Chinese tallow tree (Sapium sebiferum). One look at the fruit in Autumn will tell you why the Chinese tallow tree is often called popcorn tree. Its foliage is beautiful if we don't have an early frost or freeze.

Sargent crabapple (Malus sargentii). This is a more shrubby plant than the tree that flowers in the spring. It does flower profusely in spring, but Autumn is its best season. It comes to life after the foliage drops, revealing hundreds of bright red crabapples covering the tree. It has a shrub like habit of growth.

Nandina (Domestica). Autumn is nandina's showiest season. The berries, which were green all summer, have developed into beautiful clusters of brilliant red that will last until late winter. The foliage also has its own seasonal changes, and is attractive throughout the year. After the first hard freeze, they often turn a purplish red, especially if in full sun. In the Spring bronze red, changing to a light green. By early summer, the leaves are a rich, glossy green until Autumn. On plants grown in the shade, the foliage has a bluish cast, regardless of the season.

Available now are two low-growing selections and neither require pruning. Compacta is a dense, low plant about 4 feet tall with brilliant red winter foliage. Harbour Dwarf is a popular new selection that grows only 2 feet tall and can be used as a ground cover. These are usually chosen for size and foliage color rather than fruit.

Next week pruning Nandina and tips on culture.

Couples golf play

In couples golf play Tuesday at the Country Club, the teams of Joan Nicholas and Steve Poage, and Bobby and Jerry Fatout tied the team of Marie and S. L. White, and Marilyn and Bud Cox, for first place.

Winning second place was the team of Barbara and Bob Wallace, and Jimmie and Pete Jacoby. The couples play team select shot to determine winners.

Winning closest to the pin on number 9 for the ladies was Jimmie Jacoby and for the men, Bob Wallace. The couples meet each Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock for regular play.

DUPLICATE BRIDGE

Winners in Duplicate Bridge Club play Saturday at the Country Club were Mrs. Sherman Taylor and Mrs. Robert Cox, first, and Mrs. Pete North and Mrs. Gene Williams.

In play Sunday Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Tom Montgomery won first and Mrs. Bob Bailey and Mrs. Gene Perry were second.

To, Ghosts and Goblins—be careful Halloween night.

WESTS CELEBRATE 60th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY. Mr. and Mrs. O. D. West celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary with a dinner at their home Thursday, hosted by their daughters Jane Miles of Centralia, Ill. and Beth Boyd. Another daughter, Gloria Lambert, of Houston was unable to attend. The Wests were married Oct. 15, 1921, in Talpa.

Mrs. Mitchell host for League meeting

The Ozona Womans League met in the home of Mrs. Gary Mitchell Tuesday, October 13, for their regular bi-monthly meeting. Thirty members and guests enjoyed refreshments served by Mrs. Mitchell.

Mitch Mikeska presented the program which consisted of a demonstration of the creation of a piece of bronze sculpture. Mikeska related step by step the long and tedious process in producing a piece of bronze sculpture.

One point that was especially interesting was the fact that the original has to be cut into pieces, a mold made of each piece, then reassembled after casting. In essence the artist has to make another original...from the true sculpture. By the end of the program, each member agreed that a bronze sculpture if priced by the many long hours involved in its completion would be worth a fortune.

Sandra Childress, president, conducted the business meeting preceding the program. Judy Justiss gave the inspirational reading and Janie Chandler asked for volunteers to help her on the Mental Health Drive which will be conducted in the near future. Bazaar Chairmen Mrs. Mitchell and Paula Bailey handed out a list of the various booths and their workers.

Bazaar is set this year for Tuesday, November 24. Belinda Wilkins asked that the League consider designating the money received from the raffle held during Bazaar to the need for toys and equipment at the new Methodist Church Day Care Center. A vote was taken and it was passed that the raffle money be so designated.

Members attending included: George Ann Aycock, Virginia Baggett, Kay Braden, June Cameron, Cathy Carson, Karen Childress, Becky Childress, Elizabeth Clark, Jill Crawford, Lou Deaton, Peggy Holden, Betty Hoover, Carol Hunnicutt, Mary Jo Mason, Sammy Pierce, Judy Probst, Jane Richardson, Sherry Scott, Jodie Sessom, Vickie Stokes, Chesta Stuart, Carmen Sutton, Elizabeth Upham, Nancy Vannoy and Darolyn Webster.

Guests were Lee Allen, Mrs. Madye Jo Humphreys, and Mrs. Mitch Mikeska.

Ghosts and goblins are not immune to the impact of an automobile, at least on Halloween night.

Supper Bridge Club

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kost and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Montgomery were hosts for Supper Bridge Club Saturday evening at the Civic Center.

High score went to Mrs. Sherman Taylor and second high to Mrs. Evert White. Mrs. J.B. Parker won the bingo.

Others playing were Mrs. Joe Bean, Mrs. Charlie Black, Mrs. James Dockery, Mrs. J.J. Marley, Mrs. Bill Mason, Mrs. Kirby Moore, Mrs. Buddy Phillips, Mrs. C.O. Walker, Mrs. Jake Short, Mrs. Gene Williams, Mrs. Jack Williams and Mrs. Byron Stuart.

Debra Says

By Debra Price

When working women plan family meals, give yourself a break and plan to use some convenience foods to save time. Select convenience foods carefully. Some do not cost more and these save time and money. Some cake mixes for example, do not cost more than "from scratch" baking.

Making your own master mixes such as pancake or cocoa mix can save money and be a real convenience. Plan ahead meals make preparation and serving easier. If you plan pancakes for breakfast, measure the ingredients the night before and set the coffee pot up ready to plug in. Preparing ahead can make a big difference in how easy the meal turns out.

The better organized you become in the kitchen the more free time you will have to enjoy your family and other activities.

Calling All Homemakers

Brought To You By Brown Furniture

If someone were to ask, "What is the most important piece of furniture in a home?", in most cases the correct answer would be the sofa, because it is generally the largest and major item in that room around which your entire home is planned the living room.

Since it is the focal point in most living rooms, the selection of the right sofa is of utmost importance in planning the remainder of the room, and, in many cases, planning the rest of the house.

In selecting a sofa, the first thing to consider is the size of the sofa in proportion to the room and the place it is to be used. In some cases, manufacturers make the same sofa in several different sizes.

After the all-important matter of size has been settled, then you can consider such things as the shape, style, color, fabric and comfort.

For small living rooms, there is the "love seat" or two-seater sofa. In larger rooms, these "love seats" can be used in pairs. However, most people use regular sofas which vary in size from 60 to 100 inches in length and more. Convertible sofa-beds are also available in all styles of beautiful sofas.

We can help you pick the right sofa for your home, and we always have the finest selection you can find.

Does the name make a difference?

St. John wasn't his last name — that was French and usually mispronounced. But around Cape Cod, he was known simply as St. John, after his home town in Canada.

His appearance seemed far from saintly. Yet it never seemed awkward calling him that. He loved people. He loved the sea. He loved hard work. Most importantly, he loved his church and God. And his enthusiasm was contagious — somehow you felt better after you'd been with St. John.

It's refreshing and exciting to run into someone who tries hard to put his religion into living and working.

Remember that every day. Then folks might feel that same excitement when they run into you and me. That's something to strive for.

Church leaders address problem of child abuse

"Churches in Texas need to get turned on to the problem of child abuse and neglect," a church official said here recently.

Speaking at the 36th annual Town and Country Church Conference, Jim Suggs, executive director of the Texas Conference of Churches, outlined the child abuse problem in Texas and asked church leaders and ministers for their help.

"Last year some 137,000 children in Texas were served by the Texas Department of Human Resources," he pointed out. "These are verified cases of child abuse or neglect. However, there actually were about 300,000 instances of child abuse and neglect in the state the past year."

Suggs noted that about 8 percent of all the children in Texas will be abused or neglected this year and that about 100 will die because of that neglect or abuse.

"Child abuse and neglect is happening everywhere, including in our own communities," he said. "The problem is that it's been kept in the closet."

"Child abuse and neglect is a problem of relationships in families. It abounds where love is absent," Suggs added.

Another speaker, Bill Blackburn, with the Baptist

General Convention of Texas, called for greater emphasis on family ministry. He said the church must be a carer of families, it must be an advocate for families, it must challenge families and the various notions that exist, and it must continue to be the church-sensitive to the spiritual needs of people.

"We need to be aware of the dynamics of our own family origin and our present family," Blackburn told some 100 conference participants. "We need to understand the family as a system, and we need to move from a 'crisis' to a 'preventive' orientation in dealing with family problems."

Blackburn advocated appointing a family life committee that represents the church. The role of this committee would be to survey the needs of the congregation and community and to plan programs and activities to meet the different interests and populations.

Blackburn also encouraged the ministers and lay leaders to support family ministry from the pulpit, to be ready for resistance to certain programs and activities, and to expect new family problems to arise as a result of a concerted effort to deal with current problems.

Conference participants also were challenged to work hard to foster sound marriage relationships within their congregations and communities. Carlos McLoud, president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, noted that at least half of the marriages that take place today will end in divorce.

"There is no such thing as a dream marriage," he emphasized. "There are difficulties in every marriage."

The big problem, according to McLoud, is that "because we always want more of the good things in life, we don't enjoy what we have. Americans today are characterized by hopelessness and emptiness. We continue to want more and more."

"If we have a healthy marriage, we have a lot better chance of having a healthy family," he said, focusing on the conference's theme of "Challenges Facing Texas Families."

The annual conference was sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System.

From "Good Old Days" comes this poem, author unknown, which says so clearly all a volunteer needs to know when visiting our residents.

Daily Motto

If any little word of mine may make a life the brighter,

If any little song of mine may make a heart the lighter,

God help me speak the little word and take my bit of singing,

And drop it in some lonely vale to set the echos ringing.

If any little love of mine may make a life the sweeter,

If any little care of mine may make a friend the fleetier,

If any lift of mine may ease the burden of another,

God give me love and care and strength

To help a toiling brother. Gertrude Daniels had a pleasant surprise this week when she was told by Cathy Reavis and her Girl Scout Troop #51 that they had adopted her and she now had several new "granddaughters."

Charlotte Judd and her Girl Scout Troop #128 surprised Nila Turnell, Maude Pettit, and Cora Webb in the same manner. They too, are now "grandmothers" to the troop. All four ladies were pleased to be chosen. The possibilities for services are unlimited. Maybe this will be only the start and eventually all our residents will be "adopted."

Troop #128 decorated all our doors with Halloween name tags. Special thanks goes to Blanche Walker for donating White Minx rinse. Also, thanks to Estelle Casey for the library books.

Second Sunday services conducted by the Catholic church included a nice group of approximately eight people. The music and service was enjoyed by all residents.

Domino players on Monday morning included Paul Cavin, Louise McWilliams, Maude Pettit, Bertha Miller, and Seferino Garcia. Verna Talley, our only October birthday, was honored with her birthday party on October 12. She received a lovely corsage, donated by Maxine's Florist, a pretty cake, donated by Polly's Cakes. Hostesses were Verna's daughter and granddaughters: Alma Wilson, Chesta Stewart, and Darolynn Webster.

Over-all winner for the week of our Tuesday and Friday bingo games were: Grace Cotter, first, with a gift certificate from Watson's Department store; Juana Hernandez, second, and Maude Pettit, third.

We continued to read the life of Helen Keller, had our Spanish Hour, and our Thursday beauty shop. On Wednesday afternoon Maude Pettit, Gertrude Daniels, Bertha Miller, and Nila Turnell met as our foods committee. They discussed their likes and dislikes and ended the meeting by sending tips to the kitchen.

A new group of volunteers met with us for the first time Thursday. Rev. Dennis McKain and five church ladies from the Faith Lutheran Church are new sponsors of our Thursday Bible study. We welcome this group and are looking forward to their weekly visits.

A return group with us Thursday night was the Jamie Knox Band. Jamie, along with Don Kilgore and his dad, J. D. Kilgore, gave us a fine entertainment program with their "picking, singing, and stringing." This group promises to come every third Thursday of the month. (If you saw Tomasa Ramos dancing you'd know how much this group was enjoyed!)

Remember, if your group plans to do something special for the Thanksgiving or Christmas holidays, you need to get the schedule before the first of the month in which you are coming.

Halloween safety for children

Flame-resistant, light-colored clothing, preferably with reflective tape, is the safest way to dress children on Halloween.

The Texas Safety Association says parents should purchase Halloween costumes that will protect their child from possible fire and make them highly visible to motorists, especially after dark.

Parents can either buy ready-made reflectorized costumes or purchase reflective tape and sew it on all areas of the costume. Parents should not try to make their child's costume flame-resistant through a homemade solution.

Although masks are traditional Halloween garb, Texas Safety Association says parents should paint their child's face with cosmetics and include a hat as part of the costume. The eyeholes on masks are usually so small that they severely limit a child's vision and totally block it if the mask is moved around.

If there's a chance of rain, parents should provide their child with an umbrella and shoe rubbers. A soaked trick-or-treater running for cover could slip and fall on the pavement.

The Texas Safety Association wishes youngsters and their parents a fun and safe Halloween.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryan of Houston were weekend guests of her mother, Mrs. Bailey Post. Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Post attended the Haskell school homecoming during the weekend.

Gas heating saves $226 per year!

Compared to the heat pump, gas heating can save you $226 per year on your utility bills. So if you hear that a heat pump is "more economical", remember, that is comparing it to other electric heating . . . not to gas! No other heating system even comes close to gas for economy. At Energas, we are committed to help you get the most for your heating dollar. Gas heating, combined with good conservation practices, saves energy, too.

FOOTBALL FEVER

By-Sue Ellen Black
If you attended the football game last Friday, you may have noticed some small footballs being thrown to the fans. The cheerleaders threw the footballs when the Lions scored their touchdowns and at other times during the game. The fans went wild! People were leaping up and down and madly waving their hands for a football. Many fans were sorely disappointed when the supply of footballs ran out. But never fear, thanks to the Ozona National Bank, who donated the footballs, the cheerleaders will be throwing footballs at the remaining home games. So, if it is a football you want, brush up on your catching techniques and come on out to the football games.

J.V. FOOTBALL

By-Leanna Kramer

Last Thursday night the Ozona J.V. met the Eldorado Eagles in district play at the Ozona Lion Stadium. Ozona's touchdown was scored on a 70 yard pass play to Robert Flores from Al Ramirez in the fourth quarter. The two point conversion from Ramirez to Flores was ruled no good.

When Coach Porter was asked about the Lion's performance he replied, "Yes, I thought we played well. We just made too many mistakes. We started with good drives then we were stopped by mistakes, penalties, and fumbles. We had at least three opportunities to score and mistakes held us back. Yes, I'm reasonably pleased with our team," he said.

The J.V. team is open this week so they will have a little time to prepare for their next non-district game with Sonora. Practice up and get a Bronco J.V.!

LIONS RUN OVER THE EAGLES

By-Marilyn Wester
Friday night the Lions went to Eldorado to play their third district game. The Lions took the victory with a score of 33-13. Coach Maldonado stated that they played exceptionally well as a team. They played a good offensive ballgame and he said this was needed for them to gain confidence in what they are doing. In the first quarter Felix Flores scored a touchdown to tie the score 7-7. Then in the second quarter Greg Fierro and Felix Flores both scored touchdowns, but the extra points weren't good. At half-time the score was 19-7.

After half-time the Lions came back ready to win. In the second half the Lions scored two touchdowns. One was scored by Harvey Hurecca and one by David Baddillo. Both of the extra points were kicked by Will Mason. Eldorado scored one touchdown the last quarter and this made the final score 33-13. Coach Maldonado said the Lions gained a lot of experience in this game and everybody got to play. He said this was a good example of what the rest of the season should be like to run for district championship.

She also attended Southwest Texas Junior College, Uvalde, a year and is now manager of The Tin Lizzie restaurant. Close contact spreads mono Infectious mononucleosis, or "mono", as it's commonly called, is not for teenagers only. Although the disease has been known as "the kissing disease" for years, mono may be just as common in children as in teenagers, says the Texas Medical Association (TMA). Many adults have had light cases of the disease without knowing it and are therefore immune to it.

Mono is a blood disease caused by a virus. Symptoms are extreme tiredness, sore throat, swollen lymph glands, enlarged spleen and liver, and sometimes fever and rash. Most symptoms go away within a couple of weeks, but a feeling of weakness may continue for as long as a few months. This makes mono a very frustrating disease for usually energetic and active children and teens.

Mono is tricky to diagnose, especially in children, because it can masquerade as many other, more serious diseases, and it can coexist with other diseases at the same time. Blood tests, particularly the Monospot test, can aid physicians in diagnosing mono, but sometimes these tests need to be repeated a few times to get an accurate diagnosis.

Because mononucleosis is caused by a virus, there is little that modern medicine can do to help. The disease just has to run its course.

Divine exploits often defy scientific explanation or comprehension.

New law requires proof of insurance by drivers

Beginning January 1, 1982, Texas drivers contacted by Department of Public Safety officers during traffic stops and vehicle accident investigations will be required to furnish proof of compliance with the new compulsory liability insurance law.

Under House Bill 197, an amendment to the Safety Responsibility Act approved this year by the Texas Legislature, all drivers must carry minimum liability coverage for medical expenses of $10,000 per person ($20,000 for two or more persons) and property damages of $5,000.

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director, said troopers will accept as evidence of insurance coverage the policy for the vehicle being operated or a document issued by the insurance company.

"Such a document must contain a statement that the liability coverage for the motor vehicle is the minimum prescribed by the law," Adams said. "The document must also include the name of the insurance company, name of the insured person, policy period and policy number. This document may take the form of a letter or a card, depending upon the preference of the insuring company."

Adams pointed out that DPS troopers will be enforcing the provisions of this law along highways and rural roads.

"Local police officers and sheriff's deputies also have the authority to request this information from drivers," the DPS director said. "I am sure most law enforcement agencies in our state will also be enforcing this statute in their respective jurisdictions."

Drivers who do not maintain the specified coverage risk being fined at least $75 for the first offense and a minimum $200 for subsequent violations. In addition, a conviction under this new law will result in the suspension of the violator's driver license and motor vehicle registration unless the violator established and maintains proof of financial responsibility for five years from the conviction date. Adams also said vehicles which are to be used in the driving test by new driver license applicants must be covered by the minimum liability insurance specified by the law. Applicants will have to certify on the license application that the minimum coverage is in effect for the vehicle before they will be permitted to take the driving test.

The DPS director predicted that more Texans will obtain the required liability coverage when the new law goes into effect.

"Current figures show that approximately 74 percent of the drivers involved in accidents carry liability insurance," Adams said. "This indicates that a substantial number of people must secure the required coverage or face the possibility of heavy fines and loss of driving privileges."

Out-of-state, government-owned and self-insured vehicles are exempt from the insurance requirements of the new law. However, drivers of self-insured vehicles will be asked by DPS officers to produce evidence of self-insurance at accident scenes and traffic stops.

Peptic ulcers are lifestyle ailment

A stomachache that won't go away; a burning sensation in the gut whenever you get upset; a gnawing pain under the rib cage—all these can be symptoms of a peptic ulcer.

Each year more than three million Americans develop ulcers. More than 15 percent of the population will have an ulcer at some time in their lives, says the Texas Medical Association (TMA).

The cause of ulcers is an excess of gastric juice. This extra acid literally "eats" a hole in the membrane lining of the duodenum (the first 8 to 10 inches of the small intestine) or stomach in much the same way that food is normally digested.

To give these gastric juices something to digest besides the body itself, it is advisable to eat some food every two hours or so. A cracker or two will keep the stomach from being completely empty.

Flavorful foods do not worsen an ulcer. Very bland or all-milk "sippy" diets have been shown to be generally unnecessary, except in the very acute stages of an ulcer. Antacids and other medications may be prescribed for acute ulcer attacks.

Sometimes ulcers bleed, and pain is often the only symptom. This is why it is essential to seek medical attention if you suspect an ulcer. Few ulcers require surgery, however, and most will heal if properly treated.

In the August issue of TMA's medical journal, Texas Medicine, John R. Kelsey, Jr., M.D., clinical professor of medicine at Baylor College of Medicine, Houston, says that ulcer treatment includes diet, rest, stress management and sometimes medication. Dr. Kelsey recommends that people with ulcers avoid tobacco, caffeine and alcohol, all of which are irritating to the stomach. Aspirin and other drugs used by people with arthritis are to be avoided, if possible, because they aggravate existing stomach problems and sometimes create them.

Stress is an important factor in the development and management of ulcers. Very often a counselor or therapist is recommended for ulcer patients.

A well-balanced diet, avoidance of harmful substances and stress management sometimes amount to changing a person's entire way of life.

Today's families have bearing on the future

By the year 2000, family lifestyles will be vastly different-including "jobs" for three-year-olds and many more work-at-home parents, says Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist.

Addressing the 1981 Town and Country Church Conference, sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service on the Texas A&M University campus this month, Taylor said families' abilities to face today's challenges will have a direct bearing on the future.

"Adaptability" is the key--to facing today's challenges and preparing for the future with all the changes it will bring," Taylor says.

"Events will occur. Technology will progress. Change is inevitable for growth. 'It's the human who must adapt.'"

Facing today's challenges and the future is a challenge in itself, but it's not a fearful one, Taylor told her audience of ministers from throughout Texas.

"We have coping skills, even some new ones we haven't tried out yet," she said, emphasizing again the importance of adaptability and flexibility.

Taylor is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

According to Taylor, trends and challenges for families in the next 20 years--by the year 2000--will include these:

Onset of "prosumers" (consumers will become producers of more of their own goods and services. For example, for medical needs, there will be increased family self-help for maintaining healthy family members, caring for sick ones and providing home care and rehabilitation for recovering ones and the elderly. Family members will perform many tasks medical professionals have done in the past, such as administering inoculations.

Emphasis on "closer" ties between families and the school system for teaching children along with emphasis on coordinating formal education with work programs for youth. For example, the educational system will involve starting children to work at age three in jobs they are capable of doing around the home.

Religions and families will focus on the role of "church" as a resource. Of special interest will be how the church provides guidance and counseling, the church as a social setting for family activities (churches will be open more days a week), and, on the other hand, ways the church intrudes on family members' freedom of choice in important areas of their lives.

Real sharing will take place concerning deviant behavior and rehabilitation. Sharing will occur between family, community services and professionals. This challenge may serve as a catalyst for major penal-system changes, Taylor predicts.

Electronic advances will create a "cottage industry" for men and computers and other technological advances will enable men and women to work at home in such professions as banking, journalism, education and many others. When that happens, different challenges will have to be faced. For example, "flexi-time" (Arranging schedules to meet both work and family requirements) may pose challenges, along with "shared jobs" and "cabin fever"--as work and home both function in the same space with parents and children all working together literally.

Fathers will become even more involved in child rearing as the "cottage industry" becomes reality, Taylor says. Also, downtown areas of cities will decline and there will be fewer commuters. Lifestyles will become less self-indulgent as shortages in energy sources, money, useable land and plant life affect the level and quality of living. There will be a greater acceptance of single parents. Communes of the elderly may emerge, too, along with conglomerate housing for younger or newly organized families and extended families of several generations sharing the same household.

Child immigrants to the United States in the 1970's will have grandchildren by the year 2000. Cultures challenging the U.S. heritage will be Eastern, Hispanic and Third World in origin.

Cohabitation and marital lifestyles of the late 1980's, the 90's and the 21st century will be opposite those of the 1960's-early 1980's. Parents will be very traditional in their approach to marriage and sex--including new parents and those who in past years held to non-traditional values. Economic independence of women will add to increased divorce rates, but economic pressures in general and emotional needs will counter this trend with a high remarriage rate.

Forecasts for sexual activity is mixed. It will continue to occur both in and out of marriage with less guilt and more enjoyment. But the generation of free and/or open-sex adherents are becoming bored and disappointed in easy-going sex without commitment.

Four-and five-generation families will be the norm by the year 2000. As the baby boomers become senior citizens, the population will be proportionately old.

The question now regarding that fact of the future is this: who will provide care and/or services for the elder majority of the U.S. population? Taylor says.

With older adults becoming the majority age group in the nation, children will lose status over the next two decades and "gray power" will surface.

Genetic research offers challenges for the year 2000 that are mind-boggling, Taylor notes.

Test-tube babies, choosing the sex of a baby or choosing mental and physical characteristics of a fetus are just a few of the options that will be open to prospective parents, the specialist says.

Growing lilies to highlight meeting

Growing Easter lilies and various types of foliage plants will be featured at the annual Texas Greenhouse Growers Conference at Texas A&M University Nov. 4-5.

The program begins with registration the first day at 8 a.m. in Rudder Center, announces Everett E. Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

In addition to discussions on Easter lily production, speakers will talk about disease prevention and control when growing lilies and how to use new lily hybrids.

The first day's program will also feature discussions on personnel management and greenhouse construction to conserve energy.

Talks on foliage plant production will highlight the second day of the program and will include discussions on insect control and prevention in the greenhouse and automation in greenhouse production.

The program will also feature a panel of greenhouse growers and managers who will discuss innovative ideas and techniques in greenhouse production.

A tour of floriculture research facilities at Texas A&M will conclude the two-day conference, notes Janne.

Speakers on the program will include greenhouse growers and university research and Extension personnel from Texas as well as several other states.

Fall's many choices of knitted surface textures are on the fashion scene. New varieties range from silk-like smoothness to sueded finishes to fuzzy, napped blanket looks.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Jerry Lay

Here's a World Series oddity. Although Ty Cobb was one of the greatest baseball players of all-time, he never in his life played on a team that won the World Series. Cobb played in the majors 24 years and was never with a World Series winner.

What pitcher set this amazing World Series record: He pitched in all 7 games of one World Series and didn't give up any runs in any game. Who did that? Answer is Darold Knowles. He pitched in all 7 games of the 1973 World Series for the Oakland A's and never gave up a run. No other pitcher in history ever appeared in 7 games of one World Series.

Has any National Football League game ever been postponed by rain? It's happened only twice in history. The Philadelphia Eagles called off a game because of rain in 1936, and the College All-Star game against the Pittsburgh Steelers in the summer of 1976 was ended by a rainstorm in the third quarter.

I bet you didn't know... L-B Motor Co. has a wide selection of cars and trucks to choose from. Come in and see our 1982 models Today!
