As the final page of the calendar rolls around on 1982, we pause to wonder where the year went. Does time pass faster as we grow older, or does time speed up as the years pass? Who knows?

Football has given away to basketball, and the Lions of 1982, who were picked to finish at the bottom of their district, had a fantastic season and etched a place in the hearts of their fans for years to come.

Thanksgiving has passed and thoughts of Christmas begin stirring. The first day of the last month has arrived. The Ozona Womans League had another successful bazaar and club members are busy toiling for their own families, for the coming holiday season.

One more word on the bazaar...we always order pecan pies from Janey Chandler, or try, they are really delicious. Well, somehow, this year things got a little mixed up and by the time I got to the bazaar to pick up pies they were no where to be found. Janey was embarrassed; we were frustrated, and my Thanksgiving dinner was due the final touches. However, I did have a lush coconut pound cake from Janey's kitchen and I begged her not to bother about the pies. She insisted, and would you believe, I had a warm pecan pie delivered to the office the very next day. The only reason I didn't have two, Janey placed one to cool on a range burner which had inadvertently been left on. I just cannot imagine this kind of dedication, and all the league members have the same determination to make the bazaar the best for everyone. They deserve our appreciation and thanks, as they furnish Thanksgiving desserts for just about everyone in town.

I didn't intend to get off on throwing bouquets, but that seems to be what happens when I finally get started. Back to the holiday season...We will be publishing our Christmas edition Dec. 22, and our New Year's edition on Dec. 29. You also may remember our Christmas edition is filled with letters to Santa along with Christmas wishes from individuals and merchants. So, if you have a youngster who wants to write to Santa, you may drop your letters by the office prior to that time. The children in the Primary school have Letters to Santa as a project, so if your youngster is in one of the lower grades, the teacher will take care of this. Also, anyone wishing to send a greeting through the pages of the Stockman may want to drop by and pick a greeting from our new and beautiful book of greetings.

For both editions, we need your news items as early as possible. Hopefully, a week before the deadline. Of course, we know that's impossible, but too many people seem to have the misconception they must wait until noon Tuesday, before calling or submitting news. This can become a nightmare for a weekly newspaper, especially when you are working shorthanded.

Perry Hubbard broke his other leg last week. He and Lib Applewhite are racing for the "Most Broken Bones" award. Here's hoping they will call it a draw as of now.

BEHIND THE RISE IN HOUSING COSTS

By Edwin Feulner

Interest rates on federally backed FHA home loans have fallen to 12 percent, and with the various "buy down" plans that are available, 11-percent mortgage interest rates are beginning to see the light of day again.

That's good news for the beleaguered housing industry and even better news for many would-be home buyers who have been forced out of the market by sky-high, long-term lending rates.

But don't be fooled. It doesn't signal a return to the kind of affordable housing that was available in years past.

And for that, a group of housing experts explain in a new book, we have our good friends in Washington and our state capitals to blame.

According to M. Bruce Johnson, Director of Research at the San Francisco-based Pacific Institute and editor of the weighty new book, RESOLVING THE HOUSING CRISIS (Ballinger Publishing Company, 1982), misguided government policies have increased the cost of a new home by more than 30 percent over the past decade, hastened the conversion of rental units into condominiums, discouraged the building of new rental units, and generally played havoc with the real estate market.

A past president of the Western Economic Association, Dr. Johnson says that while not all of the housing industry's woes can be laid at the doorstep of the politicians and bureaucrats, there can be no doubt that their meddling resulted in the 153-percent increase in the median price of homes ($31,900 to $80,700) from April 1972 to April 1981, while the consumer price index increased "only" 115 percent during the same period of time. And, of course, housing prices have continued to climb.

Imagine, he says, even with the present high interest rates, what would be happening to the housing market if the average home cost 30 percent less.

"As Congress and state and local lawmakers attempt to grapple with the depression in the housing industry, we ought to consider the sorry record of government intervention," Johnson argues. "The high home prices, high property taxes, high rents, high interest rates, and excessively priced sewer, sanitation, fire-protection and other property-related public services are problems created in the very halls of government which now propose further rules, new regulations, and a variety of bail-out schemes that in the long run will likely harm many more people than they help."

Just a few weeks ago word filtered out of Washington that the feds are now considering some sort of construction moratorium along Atlantic coast beaches. You know what that means?

The price of existing homes is going to skyrocket, and the few new homes and condos that are built will be affordable only to the super-rich.

What's happening is no mystery. Cut back on the number of houses available, and the price of the remaining dwellings will rise accordingly. Remove all of the elitist roadblocks to home building, and housing costs will be moderate.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Even the Democrats agreed that Republican Gov. Bill Clements' nominee for Supreme Court Chief Justice is a good one.

Last week the governor named Associate Justice Jack Pope to replace Chief Justice Joe Greenhill who retired last month.

Pope, 69, a long-time Democrat who did not seek re-election this time, will fill an unexpired term for two more years.

Clements' camp hoped the nomination of Pope would defuse a potential political powder keg. Three weeks ago some 15 Senators wrote Clements they would block this and other appointments unless he left the naming of the new chief justice to Gov.-elect Mark White.

Pope's nomination drew praise from many Democrats, even among the senators, and also from White. White also left it up to the Senate whether to act to block Pope's confirmation.

If it is unclear whether there will be a Senate confirmation battle, it is also unclear just why the Democratic senators are spoiling for a fight.

Former Atty. Gen. John Hill wants the nomination and that's no secret. He said again last week that he will run for it in 1984, and many of his supporters would like White to appoint him, if Pope is blocked.

Clements, Hill

Then again, Clements as governor has named hundreds of conservatives, including a good many from the oil industry, to boards and commissions in his four year tenure.

Before he leaves office on Jan. 18, he will be able to name a couple of hundred more, a fact which rankles Democrats who oppose him.

The letter may have been a tool to back off, to warn Clements to be careful of his next selections.

Forcing Clements to back away is an almost futile gesture, but it may have worked this time. Democrats will be hard put to block someone of Pope's philosophy and caliber, but the Senators have steered Clements away from naming a hard-right winger, or even an up-and-coming Texas Republican.

Finally, although Pope has no visible enemies in the Senate and is a respected jurist, he must fight for confirmation against the forces of John Hill. Clements has left himself in good position on this one: if Pope loses, it's not Clements' fault. And since Pope is not a threat to run two years from now, Clements may hope to deter

Hill from reaching for the seat right now.

Railroad Commission

The Texas Railroad Commission, due to face legislative scrutiny under Sunset provisions this session, will get a whole new face if a bill by a Dallas senator is approved.

A bill by Sen. Oscar Mauzy would expand the agency from three members to nine, changing them from statewide elected officials to single-member districts.

Mauzy has also filed similar bills to restructure the Public Utility Commission and Texas Highways and Public Transportation Commission in much the same way.

Whether any of the bills pass, they are still a means of applying pressure to the commissions, getting them to go along with other proposed reforms this year.

The commissions are subject to lobbying from large private companies, and Mauzy's bills are viewed as a means for the Legislature to equalize its grip.

Clayton To Stay

Outgoing House Speaker Bill Clayton, who understands the lobbying process as well as anyone, could well find himself facing Mauzy and the more moderate Democrats on issues affecting these commissions.

Clayton said last week he will stay in Austin to do "legislative work, political work, business consulting work—we want to be able to do the whole gamut."

Clayton said it was possible he would be lobbying his former colleagues in the Legislature.

He also indicated he will save the $300,000 already collected in his officeholder account for a possible future political race.

Million Dollar Fees

Out of the landmark prison rights lawsuit two years ago was a federal judge's order to the state to pay $1,663,000 in legal fees to the lawyers representing the prisoners.

Last week Gov.-elect White, still acting as attorney general, said he will appeal the state's paying the fees as "excessive", and implied they were undeserved.

Historic Christmas scheduled

Ozonans who find themselves in the city of San Angelo, this weekend might be interested in "Christmas at Old Fort Concho," sponsored by the Fort Concho Museum Board.

The event will be a fantastic heritage celebration of Christmas Past, a radiant lighting ceremony to herald Christmas Present, and an exciting Christmas market and gift bazaar for all West Texas.

The extravaganza will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday. There will be a Christmas market and gift bazaar, plenty of food and entertainment, a tree-lighting pageant at dusk, Christmas market until 8 p.m., including visits with Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, carriage rides and chapel services at the fort to close the celebration.

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: If a company with pending contracts sells to another company, does the purchaser have to fulfill the contracts?

A: The sale documents describe what the buyer purchased. There are many variations on the purchase of an on-going business, from equipment only to future income from current contracts. Parties typically contract to bind themselves and "their successors and assigns."

This allows contractual obligations to be sold, bought or assigned. The new owner would stand in the place of the original contractor: he would have to fulfill the contracts or defend his breach.

Q: Is there a law in Texas allowing a wife to file for separate maintenance, in a case of extreme mental cruelty and incompatibility? If not, what else can I do, short of divorce?

A: Texas does not have any provisions for enforcing separation and maintenance unless a divorce has been filed. Once the marriage is before the court, temporary orders can be entered for support, for use of the home, and for keeping the couple from interfering with each other. After the couple has been separated, the actual divorce can be postponed until final terms are reached or until the couple decides to reconcile.

Q: I have two questions about city laws. First, where can I read the law controlling the water service deposit for my town? Second, how can I protect myself from my neighbor's dogs? They bark and tear up my lawn.

A: The City Attorney's office will be able to refer you to the water deposit regulations. They might invite you to come by to read the ordinance, or send you a copy.

If there is a barking dog ordinance, the City Attorney will advise you on how to enforce it. Also, if there is a leash law in your town, call the pound and have the dogs picked up.

Q: My husband has to pay a lot of child support for his eldest daughter who is going to college. Is there a way to decrease this support?

A: Modification of orders concerning custody, visitation, and support can be granted by the Court upon a showing of a change in circumstance. In Texas, these matters stay open until each child of the divorce reaches 18.

Your husband may be paying college support even past his daughter's 18th birthday because he and his ex-wife entered into an agreement incident to the divorce. You should study the documents describing the divorce and child support to see whether there are any limits on your husband's right to seek modification.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P.O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

Debra Says

By Debra Price

Chinese cuisine has been on the Texas scene for more than a century.

Railroad construction first brought the Chinese to Texas in 1870. This marked their entry into Texas culture and introduced various types of Chinese food.

Chinese-style food is exciting but different in flavor and takes a minimum of time to prepare. "Stir-frying" is the most popular cooking technique. Slivered or diced vegetables and meat are cooked in hot oil over high heat and stirred constantly. Scarcity of fuel in China dictated this rapid cooking method over high heat.

A large heavy skillet or a wok—a round-bottomed, high sided metal pan—can be used to produce crisp, crunchy vegetables and distinct flavors that typify this technique.

Pork—fresh or in cured forms—has been a favorite in Chinese dishes. When selecting pork for all types of cookery, use appearance as your guide to quality. Choose fresh or cured pork that has a high proportion of lean to fat and bone. The flesh should be fine textured but firm, and color of the lean in fresh pork should range from grayish pink to red. Lean cured pork, on the other hand, should have a deep pink color.

In stir frying pork, the meat will lose its pinkness and turn white when cooked. Never add more than one pound of pork or other meat at a time to the fry pan or wok for this method of cookery. A larger amount will lower the temperature of the pan too rapidly. If larger quantities are needed, then stir-fry in batches.

Here are two USDA recipes featuring Chinese cuisine. You may want to introduce your family to this unique stir-fry method of cookery. Calories per serving and menu suggestions are included with each recipe. Children, in particular, would probably enjoy an added mealtime challenge of using chopsticks with the foods.

Chinese sweet-sour pork [6 servings, 1 cup each]
Oil for deep fat fryer...as needed

Egg, beaten...1
Flour, unsifted...½ cup
Salt...½ teaspoon
Soy sauce...1 teaspoon
Water...¼ cup
Pork shoulder, cut in ½-inch cubes...1½ pounds
Cornstarch...2 tablespoons
Sugar...¼ cup
Vinegar...¼ cup
Water...¼ cup
Soy sauce...1 tablespoon
Green pepper, cut in squares...½ cup
Pineapple chunks...13 oz can

Sweet mixed pickles, drained...½ cup
Heat oil to 375° F in deep fat fryer or heavy saucepan.
Mix egg, flour, salt, 1 teaspoon soy sauce, and ¼ cup water.

Coat pork pieces with egg mixture.
Fry in hot fat until brown, about 5 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper.

Mix cornstarch and sugar in saucepan.

Add vinegar, ¼ cup water, 1 tablespoon soy sauce, green pepper, pineapple, and pickles.

Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened and clear.

Stir in meat. Heat to serving temperature.

Calories per serving: About 430.

Menu Suggestion—Serve with buttered rice and broccoli spears.

PUBLICATION GUIDELINES FOR WEDDINGS

Engagement announcements and pictures should be in this office not later than six weeks prior to the wedding. Wedding pictures and wedding information must be submitted the Monday following the wedding. The Stockman will no longer be able to give space to a wedding occurring prior to the first edition following the event.

Caring for quilts

With fall at hand and winter on the way, quilts and comforters will be in the limelight as they are taken from storage and put to use.

"Before using a quilt, check its condition, fiber content and age. An heirloom quilt, for example, should not be used on the bed where people will sit or pull on it," explains Dr. Peggy S. Owens, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Start with the least complicated and damaging method when cleaning quilts, Owens advises. Airing will remove any musty smell acquired during storage. To remove dust or surface soil, vacuum with an upholstery tool. Cover the quilt with fiberglass screening—but don't vacuum directly on the quilt.

Strain removal is unwise on older quilts because it weakens the fibers. Dry cleaning solvents remove oily stains but are usually too harsh for older quilting fabrics, the specialist warns.

"Wet cleaning must be done carefully. Do not machine-wash or dry or line hang a quilt. Soak in a bathtub using a very dilute detergent solution. Rinse several times to remove detergent. Then support the weight of the wet quilt to prevent strain on fabric and stitches. Dry on a bed sheet outside," Owens advises.

Repair any damaged areas to prevent further deterioration.

Store quilts flat or rolled. To protect from dust and light, use a dust cover of well-washed cotton muslin, percale or new tissue paper. Do not store quilts in plastic, cardboard boxes and unsealed wooden boxes, such as cedar chests.

"Folding a quilt for flat storage causes stress on fabric, stitches and batting placement. Fold as few times as possible, placing tissue paper between folds. Fold off-center and in a different place each time to relieve stress on the fabric. Don't stack heavy quilts on top of each other, and don't hang quilts to store," Owens says.

Quilts—new as well as old—require special care and thoughtful use in order to increase their usability and heirloom quality, she adds.

Child development is worry for parents

A common worry among new parents is whether their child is developing normally.

Parents should be reassured that most children are normal and that a wide range of conditions and behavior are considered "normal."

Because no two children are exactly alike, parents cannot accurately judge their child by comparing the youngster with another. But most children go through developmental steps at certain ages, and knowing these can relieve many anxieties for parents.

The Texas Medical Association offers these milestones as a general guide in child development:

1 month: lifts chin off floor; 2 months: lifts chest off floor; 3 months: reaches for objects but without success; 4 months: sits with support;

grasps small objects; 6 months: sits in high chair; grasps dangling objects; 7 months: sits alone; 8 months: stands with help; 9 months: stands by holding onto furniture; 10 months: crawls; 11 months: walks if led by one hand; 12 months: pulls up and stands with the help of furniture; 13 months: climbs up a few stairs; 14 months: stands alone; 15 months: walks alone; before third birthday: talks in short sentences.

These time periods for development are broad generalizations. A normal child might well be behind or ahead at any stage. Still, parents should be attentive to the general course of normal development. Any major departure from it should be discussed with the child's doctor.

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Now that one festive holiday is over, and another is approaching, everyone will have a full December calendar. Usually December is an unpredictable month in Texas. You can expect freezing nights and followed by warm, sunny days. This month may be the only one of real rest from gardening. That is because other interests push our gardening enthusiasm to the background. Not that there are not plenty of chores to do.

You can start dormant spraying, proceed with winter pruning, and start all types of tree, shrub, fruit and rose plantings. The continuous job of cleanliness that comes from the falling of leaves is always with us. The county is continuing clean-up and pick-up so do take advantage of this and have your trash ready.

When you buy your Christmas tree, shake or bounce it; if its fresh, the needles will remain firmly attached. When you get the tree home, cut off the end at least an inch above the original cut; then stand it in a deep bucket of water over night or until you are ready to decorate. It is better to display your tree in a stand that holds water, to prolong its freshness, use the following mixture instead of water: 1 cup lemon-lime carbonated beverage per gallon of water. A fairly large tree may absorb a quart of liquid daily, so frequently replenish the mixture.

Use good pruning practices when cutting foliage for holiday arrangements. Remove nandina stems at a point 3 to 4 inches above ground level, when cutting branches of holly, cedar, pyracantha or pine. Cut them back flush with their point of origin, avoid taking all the branches from the same spot. Collecting greenery can also be used as an opportunity to reshape a plant or remove wayward branches.

Your gardening friends will appreciate gifts they can use in their garden, such as seeds, garden gloves, baskets, watering cans, hand pruners, clay containers and soil components. A book for gardening library is always well-received.

We are grateful for the great rain.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cope and daughter, Ashley, of Fort Worth, spent the holiday weekend here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beecher Montgomery.

More Than a Guide

A lighthouse is much more than a pretty picture for tourists to snap, or artists to paint. We get so wrapped up in its scenic value that sometimes we tend to forget it was built for a purpose. It was meant to keep ships from coming aground and crashing on the rocks.

A church is also a lot more than an architectural gem, no matter how perfect its structure. A church is there to keep human souls from crashing on the rocks of life. It is a guide for refuge and understanding. The world would be bleaker—and very much less beautiful—if lighthouses and churches were to disappear.

Care Center News

BY ANN McCARTNEY
DIRECTOR OF ACTIVITIES & SOCIAL CARE

Third Sunday activities included a double musical program. At 3:30 seven members of the Elementary Church School Classes I-V of the United Methodist Church gave a brief song service. The older girls also presented the home with place cards for Thanksgiving. Students participating in this project included Terel Seahorn, Kelly Williams, Tami Reagor, and Jennifer Colin. Their leader, who also played the piano for the song service, is Lou Haire. Accompanying these girls and helping with the song service was Cullin Curry, Courtney Childress, and Leesa Haire as well as leaders Susie Childress and Ann McCartney. This was followed at 4:00 by a song service given by Rev. Nelson Lanham and Rick Rice. Reports were that this too was really enjoyed by all residents in attendance.

After supper on Sunday residents were treated to a special Thanksgiving cake donated by the Southside Lion's Club. It was thoughtful of this group to remember our residents at this time.

Since this is Thanksgiving week, the ceramic session was held on Monday with beauty shop day being on Wednesday. Volunteers for ceramics were Ruth Hester and Louise Johnigan. Residents participating included: Maude Pettit, Moriana Perez, Ola Mills, Bertha Miller, Juana Hernandez, and Tomasa Ramos.

Monday afternoon residents were treated to a birthday party in honor of Virginia Russell and given by her daughter Sue Linthicum and her friend Stella Jackson. Punch and cake was enjoyed by all residents. Following this special treat the residents were given a slide presentation on the Piney Woods of Texas furnished by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service through Debra Price.

Tuesday morning winner of bingo's El Chato's dinner for two was a tie between Louise McWilliams and Tomasa Ramos. Volunteers were Dorothy Doll, Alice Ross, and Mr. and Mrs. Japson Pettit.

Tuesday afternoon we were all set to go to the League Bazaar and then the bad weather set in so that activity had to be cancelled. Crafts of crocheting and ceramics were continued as usual.

Wednesday morning, as mentioned before, was beauty shop morning and Bonnie Warth, Madye Jo Humphreys, and Arlene Clayton were all on hand to do their usual good job.

Wednesday afternoon the Faith Lutheran Church brought our Bible study of the week. The service was led by Mr. Charles Huffman and included the children's choir of Lora, Rebecca, John Jr., Walter, Rusty, Terri and Kelly. This choir was really an added treat and we hope they will come again soon.

Brownie Troop #129 followed Bible study with a special Thanksgiving program. Members attending included Elizabeth Gonzales, leader, and Brownies Tricia Borrego, Tiffany Vargas, Christina Gonzalez, Diana Ramirez, Heather Criswell, Casey Russell, Monica Mundell, Heather Hanna, and Stephanie Gonzales. They presented a fruit basket.

Thursday was Thanksgiving and residents who didn't go out to be with their family enjoyed the Dallas football game and the cake made in activities the week before.

Friday morning was again bingo playing time. Nina Mayfield was first place winner of the gift certificate donated by Westerman Drug. Bertha Miller came in second. Volunteers Dorothy Doll, Anna Bell Patrick, and Alice Ross were all on hand to help.

And, speaking of helpers, Jorge Briones, manager of Perry Brothers, repaired our aquarium this week free of charge. This was a tremendous job and his efforts were greatly appreciated. Several other employees of the Care Center got into the act of helping empty, fill, transport, and clean. All these operations are essential to the maintenance of an aquarium and the help of everyone is greatly appreciated.

Studt Lovell returned to his home here Wednesday, after spending two weeks in a San Angelo hospital following a heart attack.

PECAN SHOW FOOD WINNERS-Stacey Poage, front center, had the champion candy in the food division and the other three came in winners as well, Virginia Cotton, reserve champion pie; Beth Boyd, champion miscellaneous division, and Janet Hill champion pie and champion cookies. Recipes will be printed in a future edition.

James Henry Joslin, Jr., 59, died last week in Houston, after suffering a stroke. Funeral services were held there with burial in Mississippi.

Mr. Joslin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Joslin of Ozona. He is survived also by his wife and three children of Houston, and a sister Barbara Strickland of Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Perry entertained several members of her family during the Thanksgiving holidays. They included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Higgins and Mr. and Mrs. N.E. Harlow, all of Oklahoma City, Okla. and the Perry's son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Perry and son, Bryan, of Abilene.

the major contributors to heart attacks and strokes, reports Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Although progress has been made to increase public awareness of hypertension and to develop effective ways of treating it, the problem still remains a major health concern.

"High blood pressure often has no clear signs or symptoms and a person can have it and not know it. That's why it's so important to get your blood pressure checked regularly and, if it is high, to follow the treatment your doctor prescribes," Shirer says.

Leaders of an industry-funded symposium on nutrition and blood pressure control recently gave these guidelines concerning hypertension. They recommended that people:

Define their risk status, including diabetes, obesity, and family history of the disease.

Check blood pressure regularly, whether or not they are in a high-risk group.

If pressure is normal, continue present lifestyle.

If pressure is slightly high, begin a program of moderate exercise; lose weight, if needed; and reduce salt intake as necessary.

Stop smoking and cut down alcohol intake.

If over 40, get a doctor's advice on exercise and take a stress test.

Do not drastically alter your diet by cutting out all fats or all salt-containing foods, or by following only a high fiber diet. If you cut out dairy products because they contain salt, you will also lose calcium, which is essential to blood pressure regulation.

If sodium-sensitive, follow a prescribed medical diet. Persons with normal blood pressure need not restrict their salt intake, but prudent use is advised.

If your doctor decides that you don't need medication, don't insist on it. It's better to regulate blood pressure through diet and exercise than with chemicals.

APPRECIATION LETTER TO ROSS A. ALEXANDER

By Noemi Gonzales
On behalf of the student body and the Lions, we would like to thank Ross A. Alexander for all the help he has given to the student body.

He has helped the student body by covering the sports events in the newspaper and the radio. He also has posted the morale and spirit of the students, players and the community.

Ross has also been involved in all our activities so far and has done a very good job at it.

We are very thankful for everything he has done to help boost the spirit, not only of OHS students, but also the Ozona fans as well. Everybody appreciates this very much.

In the future, we hope he will keep supporting the other teams such as tennis, track, basketball, UIL, etc. not only this year, but for as long as he lives in Ozona.

With Deepest Thanks
OHS Student Body

ENTHUSIASM LIVES

By Robbie Turnley

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm. Bob Ufer, for 37 years, was the enthusiastic radio voice of Michigan Wolverine football. He delighted listeners with his emotional play-by-play coverage of the Saturday afternoon football games until shortly before his death in 1981. If you heard him, you would immediately know whose side he was on.

His radio audience would often hear him exclaim something like this: "History will record that on a bee-yoo-tiful overcast Saturday afternoon here in little Ann Arbor town more than 100,000 fans came out to see MEESH-EE-GUN battle Ohio State!" This shows that someone who dedicates himself to a cause he loves seems to appeal to people.

The fervor of that sportscaster reminds us how natural it is to respond with intensity to something that is close to us. This is especially true in school activities. We should all be enthused about these activities, especially in football and band since these organizations have had a great leading semester. Many other activities are beginning now in school and will be beginning soon. We must challenge ourselves to daily enthusiasm and involvement.

What about us? Do people quickly recognize by our enthusiasm that we love our school? Do our lives give evidence of wholehearted praise for our school? STUDENT OF THE WEEK By Cyndi Trujillo

The student of the week is Al Ramirez, a sophomore at Ozona High.

Some of Al's interests and hobbies are riding around, listening to music, and watching television. He has been involved in basketball, football, and track during his high school years.

Al's family consists of his father, Alfonso Ramirez, and his mother Minnie.

Al will receive a boutonniere, compliments of the Flower Basket of Ozona. A VERY BUSY TEACHER By Gayla Bell

Mrs. Stuart has lived in Ozona a total of 15 years. She moved here with her parents when she was a junior in high school, and she graduated from here.

Mrs. Stuart's family consists of her husband, Gregory, her 6 year old daughter, Shelby, and her 4 year old daughter, Emily.

Mrs. Stuart received her degree from Angelo State University. We asked Mrs. Stuart why she chose teaching as her career and she said that teaching was all she ever wanted to do. She also said, "I guess part of it was because my mother was a teacher."

Mrs. Stuart is the cheerleaders' sponsor this year and this job has a great deal of responsibility. They have to go to all football games and all in-town basketball games. She is responsible for making sure that the cheerleaders get their signs, locker favors, and other equipment ready for each week.

Along with her responsibilities as cheerleader sponsor, Mrs. Stuart has been the senior sponsor for the past six years.

Before Mrs. Stuart began teaching in Ozona, she taught three years at Lakeview.

Some of Mrs. Stuart's favorites are blues and reds, any kind of food, and progressive country music. FOR WHAT ARE YOU THANKFUL?

Trapping, an integral part of our heritage

To fully understand the role of trapping, it is important to realize that it is an integral part of our North American heritage. America was founded and settled and all of the frontiers were opened by the trappers and hunters.

Native Indians and early European settlers used trapping as a means of survival, especially in the North. Many Indians were master trappers and depended as much upon their ability with pitfalls, snares, and deadfall traps, as they did upon their bows and spears for food, clothing, and shelter. Effective use of their traps helped protect their limited crops from animals, for losing even a small part of a year's plantings was often disastrous in the face of a severe winter.

In the early years, settlers used the same techniques of the Indians. These early ways of trapping involved tremendous amounts of time and labor and were inefficient, often failing to hold the animals. In 1823, Sewell Newhouse revolutionized trapping with his perfection of the leg-hold trap. This added greatly to the trapper's effectiveness since it could be used for long-legged animals such as the wolf and fox as well as for shorter legged animals.

Unfortunately, critics of trapping express more concern over the quality of death rather than the quality of life. Any surplus of wildlife that is not harvested by man will be subjected to the cruelest controls indicted nature to restore a more normal population level. Left to her own devices, nature will take her own harvest, far more devastating and complete than the most devout anti-trapper would care to witness. Not the comparatively swift death of the trapped target animal, but the slow death of weeks from starvation and disease inflicted by nature herself.

Trapping techniques, traps and the people who use them, have changed considerably. People of all walks of life are among present day trappers. For many, the extra income from a trapline is often a buffer against hardships. To others, it may be a means of paying for food, rent, extra income, and also an education. A large trapline requires hours of plain, hard work. Yet, for some trappers it is a form of recreation and income. There are doctors, lawyers, farmers, ranchers, school teachers, congressman, and many other professions involved in trapping. The following are hopefully some suggestions that might be helpful to you if you plan to try this outdoor sport that can be profitable.

A license is required to sell your furs. To get the most for your furs the following procedure should be followed when skinning your furs. Cut at the joints of the back legs up through the rectrum and pull the fur over the head of the animal like a sock. Be sure not to cut the fur with your knife. Roll the fur up and put it in a plastic bag with the fur to the outside and freeze. You must thaw the fur for 2 to 4 hours at room temperature before taking the fur to the buyer. (Do not use water to thaw fur.)

Texas has a coat type raccoon which is used for making coats. The darker raccoons are worth more than the yellow ones. The yellow coon is not as desirable to the eye as the darker color coons with silver bellies.

Turkey is abundant for holiday season

Turkey, now a year-round favorite, is a traditional holiday food. It's protein-packed low calorie, flavorful and economical, and consumers should find an abundant supply of fresh, wholesome birds this season.

Beverly A. Rhoades, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, points out that turkey is one of the most economical meat sources available. "Fresh turkeys displayed in meat counters are USDA inspected for wholesomeness and most are Grade A, indicating they are fully fleshed and meaty, well-finished with no parts missing and no skin defects," Rhoades says.

Lower grade turkeys are equally wholesome and nutritious, but may not be as visually appealing in the package.

Processed turkey offered at meat counters is inspected again to approve label information and ingredients.

"Tenderness of the meat is determined by the age of the bird, rather than the sex, grade or size. A 25-pound turkey is just as tender as an eight-pound bird of the same age. Toms are generally as tender as hens of similar age. For greatest tenderness, look for the words 'young' or 'fryer-roaster' on the label, Rhoades says.

To determine how much fresh turkey to buy, plan for three-fourths pound per person, or for planned leftovers, purchase one pound per person. When choosing whole turkeys, large birds may be the most economical buy per serving. Rhoades explains, and leftover meat can be stored for later use.

Pre-basted and pre-stuffed whole turkeys are available but cost more per pound than plain frozen turkeys. "There is little difference between the blue coons are worth less because the fur of the coons have not primed and the guard hair will fall out. The kitten coons or sow coons are not worth much and it would be best to release them and leave them in the woods if at all possible.

The strong dollar is going to hurt the price paid for all types of fur caught throughout the United States. The Europeans will not pay any more for furs than what was paid last year. Their currency is worth 20%-35% less than last year, therefore we them in the cooking process for moist and tender meat," Rhoades says.

Turkey parts or processed turkey may be used instead of the whole bird for some occasions, but generally cost more per pound. Packaged turkey parts allow consumers to choose white or dark meat, or an assortment, to please the family.

Turkey roasts offer variety and are available in all-white or all-dark meat, or a combination of both.

Processed turkey is parti-

Advances reported in heart disease

Echocardiography is rapidly establishing itself as one of the most important advances in the diagnosis of heart disease.

As its name indicates, echocardiography uses high-frequency sound waves (ultrasound) to view the inside of the heart, says the Texas Medical Association. The principle is similar to that of sonar used in ships to determine ocean depth. This involves measuring the time it takes for the sound wave to bounce off the bottom and return to the ship.

Aimed at the heart, ultrasound indicates the depth of the organ's various parts and, with a timing device, allows the doctor to determine certain aspects of the heart's motion. Problems may be detected. These include the thickening, narrowing or shortening of heart valves, which can result in valve leaks.

Echocardiography also may detect a tumor causing the heart to malfunction, heart chambers that are too small or large, or fluid around the outside of the heart. A heart wall that know that the price of our furs will be between 20%-35% lower than last year, unless there is some drastic change in reference to the dollar.

If you are looking for a place to market your furs you might try dealing with D&W Fur Company Inc. They have been buying furs in this area for thirteen years. D&W Fur Company, Inc. spent approximately $25,000 on wildlife in this area last year. They will be starting Dec. 5 and will be here on Sundays, 6:45 a.m. to 7:30 a.m. at the M&M Cafe, Ozona.

cularly popular because of convenience, versatility and storage ease. Cooked, cured or smoked turkey may taste similar to pork or beef counterparts, but usually has its own distinct flavor. Turkey "ham" is actually thigh meat rolled and seasoned to taste like ham. Ground or link turkey sausage is a reduced-calorie sausage. Turkey luncheon meats with a deli flavor and aroma are seasoned to resemble their counterparts in the luncheon meat field.

When weather permits, leave the skin on the carcass to help conserve moisture. However, a little common sense dictates that carcasses should be skinned and covered with a fly proof bag in hot weather if a cooler is not accessible. Also, a male in the rut may have a strong urine odor on the hind legs and probably should be skinned prior to storage.

If the family prefers a somewhat more intense flavor which is similar to aged beef, hang the carcass in a locker for about a week before final processing. Again, common sense dictates storage in a clean locker which eliminates contamination of odors from poorly handled carcasses.

These recommendations are not the only way to handle carcasses, the agent emphasizes. Many hunters moves improperly or bulges out can be detected. In children, congenital problems may be found.

Echocardiography is being used successfully for screening patients and determining those who need more elaborate tests, such as cardiac catheterization, angiography and other exams that require hospitalization and carry some risks. Though requiring rather elaborate apparatus, echocardiography involves neither hospitalization nor the use of tubes or needles. Rather, a small, microphone-like device is placed on the patient's chest.

The instrument also is used to follow the progress of heart disease in patients who have undergone cardiac catheterization and angiography. This often eliminates the need to repeat these elaborate tests.

Cardiologists--doctors who are heart specialists--also use personal history, a physical examination, x-rays and the electrocardiogram (EKG) to diagnose heart problems. But echocardiography has enabled them to diagnose

Hunter influences deer meat quality

Deer hunters will soon be bringing home a lot of venison, and its quality depends a lot on how the deer carcass is handled.

The entire process of handling the carcass from field to table can add or detract from the desirability of the final product, says Billy Reagor, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The hunter plays an important role in determining whether a deer steak is tender and tasty or tough and bad-flavored.

Reagor offers these recommendations for hunters to help improve the quality of venison they bring home.

Whenever a choice is available, select a female animal for less flavor intensity (gaminess). This does not mean that male animals provide undesirable meat, but rather that most consumers may prefer the less intense flavor of the female.

Whenever possible place the shot in the neck or head to insure a clean, rapid kill. This prevents post-shot stress and also reduces tissue damage considerably.

Field dress the animal as soon as possible. If contents of the intestine or paunch have been spilled, rinse the carcass with water. A publication, L-634, entitled "Field Dressing Big Game" is available from the county Extension office and provides more information.

When weather permits, leave the skin on the carcass to help conserve moisture. However, a little common sense dictates that carcasses should be skinned and covered with a fly proof bag in hot weather if a cooler is not accessible. Also, a male in the rut may have a strong urine odor on the hind legs and probably should be skinned prior to storage.

If the family prefers a somewhat more intense flavor which is similar to aged beef, hang the carcass in a locker for about a week before final processing. Again, common sense dictates storage in a clean locker which eliminates contamination of odors from poorly handled carcasses.

These recommendations are not the only way to handle carcasses, the agent emphasizes. Many hunters have a preferred method for bringing home quality venison.

If a hunter has no experience in handling deer carcasses, or has had a bad experience with deer meat, these suggestions may provide a means of increasing the use of deer meat. Further suggestions on care and cooking of venison can be found in the publication MP-1333, "Big Game Cooking Care," also available from the County Extension office.

A look ahead at the Lion basketball team

By-Ross A. Alexander

John Curry is a very deliberate basketball coach. His intricate and well thought-out, fast-paced patterns are not quite what Ozona roundballers are accustomed to, and the required period of familiarization and personnel experimentation will necessarily be a somewhat prolonged one. "Up until Christmas, there will be quite a bit of teaching and an involved period of explaining our system to the guys and then ascertaining just what they can do. Since this will take time to absorb, and since so many offenses have to be patterned around the capabilities of the personnel, we look at this season as a three part enterprise," the coach said recently. "This pre-Christmas period would be the first third, then district play commences and that's the second trimester so to speak, and of course, depending on our performance during district play, the playoffs would be what we'd consider the third portion to the season."

Coach Curry feels that he has some excellent talent on the Lion's basketball team this season and that once his system has been absorbed and fully comprehended, the Lions will not only be competitive, but fully in the thick of this season's district championship hunt.

And he should know a winner when he sees one. In his relatively short coaching career, he already has posted a state championship and is anxious to translate the current Lion championship appetite into an '83 realization in his first season as head basketball coach.

"The personnel here are talented and fortunately are win-oriented," Coach Curry stated, with a twinkle in his eye. "My entire approach to the game emphasizes quick reaction both offensively and defensively, combined with solid over-all floor play to create situations that will tend to favor our strengths. Since I prefer to do my own scouting and quantitative assessment of opposing teams, and since I'm relatively unfamiliar with just what quality of talent we'll be up against this season, we sort of figure to select a highly stylized, patterned play to throw out, and just see how well our opposing teams adjust."

Coach John Curry is a thinking man's kind of head coach and respect for his system is already being demonstrated in the comments of his players.

Harvey Huerreca, who is an Ozona gridiron all-district running back, will figure prominently in Coach Curry's run 'em and gun 'em game plan. Harvey spoke with admiration of the Curry program:

"He believes in fitness and finesse. The exact, precise execution of get-it-up-the-court kind of basketball that challenges the physical condition of your opponents. That's my kind of game and I'm sure the rest of the guys like that sort of game also. I really feel confident that Coach Curry can mold a lasting championship tradition for Ozona basketball. He is a terrific coach, with a solid winning perspective, and he'll get 100% out of you, or you won't be playing very much...not for this guy. This is going to be quite a season before it's through."

Coach Curry will employ an interesting offensive approach this season that is bound to bring excitement and possibly some unprecedented high scoring games for the Ozona basketball fans to savour. Utilizing a three guard attack, with Zeke and Magic playing more of a power forward type game, Coach Curry expects to exploit the exceptional speed of people like David Badillo and Huerreca, and the solid, intelligent play of Dan Bean and Gary Whitehead.

"These kids are very bright and capable of absorbing the structure and the intent of our system. After an initial period of personnel experimentation, we'll be able to hopefully pattern game plans which will effectively utilize the unique strengths of these various individuals in an overall blend which will both put points on the board, and give structure to the team's on-court identity. I've been impressed with Robert Flores and Ed Borrego...both have shown considerable court presence and confidence, and both can put the ball up with a good percentage of success...any persistent shooter who has a poor field goal percentage can hurt the team more than help."

As I watched Larry Galindo, with his smooth, efficient ball handling in a recent practice session, it became unavoidably apparent, that Coach Curry's game will be an interesting contrast from the basketball Ozona has become accustomed to seeing. With the talent he obviously has to work with, coupled with the strong desire to win one senses in his players, John may quite likely discover the sweet twinge of a winning coach's satisfaction at the installation of a successful basketball program.

Notes from the locker room---

By-Ross A. Alexander

Magic dribbled to the high left pivot, and quickly traversed the lane with a spinning jump shot which hit with a loud swish. David Badillo, not to be out done, took the ball across the mid-court line with a left handed dribble, head faked twice and shot by his man down the lane laying the ball up with reverse rotation for a spectacular driving deuce done with his own brand of silky perfection.

Afterwards, I spoke to these two jocks about the shape of this year's Lion team.

Magie: "Zeke is who folks had better watch this year. You can't believe how good that guy is. He can shoot with fantastic accuracy, he can rebound with anyone, and can ignite the squad with his passes and screens. If Zeke wants the Lions to go this year, he can do it practically by himself, he's just that dominant."

Robert Massey is no slouch himself. With a fine jump shot which he can reliably call on from just about anyplace on the court, and a court savvy which puts him seemingly at just the proper open position to receive a pass or pull down a crucial rebound, Magic stands with Zeke as another huge obstacle to any opponent's hopes of defeating the Lions this year.

These two gentlemen, playing mostly power forward slots, will have to contribute mightily off the offensive boards if the Lion basketball season is to be a success. They will draw plenty of inside attention and its likely they both will draw quite a few fouls from over zealous defenders bent on stopping them.

New books on health available

A number of new books on the market these days deal with health--both mental and physical--and how to take care of yourself.

The library has several new books to guide you down the road to good health. Some of these books are:

- When Bad Things Happen to Good People; Living, Loving and Learning; The Woman Doctor's Medical Guide for Women; How to Look Better, Feel Better, and Get the Most Out of Life; Life Extension; Jane Fonda's Workout Book; The Diabetic's Diet Book; The Jane Fonda Workout Book for Pregnancy, Birth and Recovery; Pickles & Ice Cream: The Complete Guide to Nutrition During Pregnancy; Richard Simmons' Never-Say Diet Cookbook; Weight Watchers 365-Day Menu Cookbook.

The Crockett County Library is open on school days from 8:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and Monday and Thursday nights from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. Community members are invited to come by and browse through the shelves at their convenience.

Get a written estimate for your automobile repair work, suggests Bonnie Piernot, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Even though no law requires written estimates for vehicle repair, most reputable mechanics or car dealers provide one. If they don't, you can request one. Also ask the mechanic to call you if the work will cost more than the estimate says by 10 percent.

"Magic shoots well from the free throw line," one of his close friends confided. "If they try to play him too close, he'll get a lot of 3 point opportunities, and Coach Curry seems to be planning on that kind of eventuality."

David Badillo, a fine-shooting playmaker, can take it to the hoop without fear or hesitation. His passes are sharp and his jump shot is a force to be reckoned with at all times.

"I expect Badillo to give teams fits," a long-time Lion observer noted after a recent practice session. "The guy is so quick and he can shoot the ball so well, defenders are going to go crazy trying to put a lid on him. He'll probably lead the District in assists, steals and shooting percentage, and if he does, the Lions will be tough to beat...period!"

When asked about all that build-up, David shook his head. "Our offense will most likely be a quick-paced, running, fast-break type with perimeter shooting only when there is coverage for the boards. We are a fast team and the type of game Coach Curry is developing around the team's speed will undoubtedly produce some high scoring exciting basketball. We look forward to all the fans turning out to cheer us on. That's really going to keep the adrenalin pumping in us."

Magic had hit 3 jumpers in succession from a stride inside the center circle. Others in the gym had stopped just to witness the spectacle, and he seemed to love it. He eventually missed one, charged down the lane for his follow through and missed the lay-up. Everyone broke up with laughter. "Hey Magic," someone shouted, "You hit all those long jumpers and miss the chipie?" More laughter.

Magic smiled, shrugged his shoulders and dribbled to the deep left corner, wheeled around and fired a jumper that hit as if it were a guided missile.

The laughter abruptly halted. Lion opponents will have their hands full this season.
