Voters OK school bond issue Tues.

Though the voter turn-out may have been a disappointment, the resounding favorable vote last Tuesday for the 1.5 million dollars school bond issue was welcomed by school officials and patrons interested in expansion of teaching facilities and in preservation of an historic school building.

By an approximate 18 to 1 margin, voters who cast their ballots in the bond election favored the issue. The vote was 234 in favor of the bond issue and 13 opposed.

The proposed improvement program to be carried out with proceeds from the bond sale will include additional educational facilities at the high school campus which will be used for curriculum expansion. To be included in the project are future classrooms for instruction of the more gifted students, the remedial and handicapped students and vocational students. Also computer education will be taught in this building as well as art and speech.

The bond issue will entail only a tiny boost in the tax rate, estimated at 2 cents on the $100 valuation.

Conservationists in the community are particularly pleased that the school board is finding need for the historic building, the first high school in Ozona, built of native rock quarried from a hillside a few hundred feet from the structure itself. The board has pledged itself to maintain so far as is possible the original architecture of the building.

Circle Bar teampreps for Indy

As a warm-up in preparation for entry in the Indianapolis 500 racing classic in May, the Ozona Circle Bar Racing team has just returned from their first race of the 1983 season.

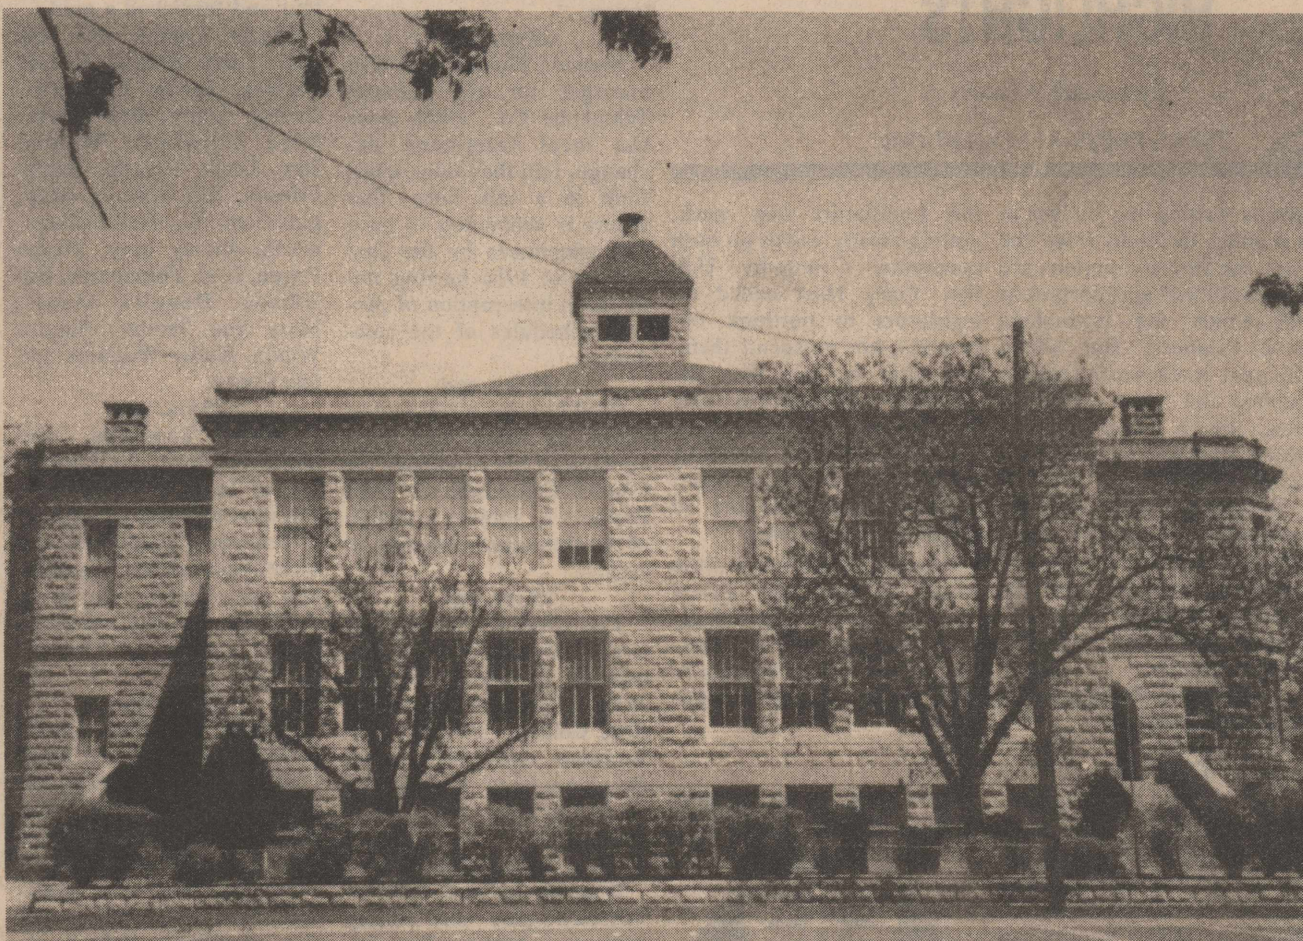

The racing team took part in the Kraco-Twin 200 event held in Atlanta, Ga., Sunday, April 17. The double header at Atlanta consisted of two 200-mile long races. The first race was for stock cars and the second the season opener for the CART Indy Car Series.

Chet Phillip, rookie driver, qualified the Circle Bar Wildcat in seventeenth position at a speed of 184.5 miles per hour. Phillip had to withdraw from the race at mid point due to engine failure, but in spite of the failure managed to finish seventeenth in the field.

"The Circle Bar Wildcat is powered by a Cosworth engine," says owner Tom Mitchell. Mitchell also reported the Wildcat was the oldest car entered in the race and that it competed very well against the newer models.

The racing crowd was entertained between races at Atlanta by a concert featuring Merle Haggard and Charlie Daniels.

Mr. Mitchell and the Circle Bar Auto Racing Team will be leaving the first week in May for Indianapolis, Ind. where they will be vying for a starting position in the Indy 500 which will be run Sunday, May 29.

HISTORIC BUILDING SAVED-Crockett County voters last week assured a new life for this historic building, which served as Ozona's first high school building. A 1.5 million dollar bond issue was roundly approved by a vote of 237 to 13 to provide funds for renovating and refurbishing the native rock structure which sits on the high school campus and which has been designated by the State Historical Commission for a historic marker. The renovated structure, whose original architectural lines will be retained, will be used for high school classroom work and for expanded school curriculum.

Ozona launched balloon lands on Missouri farm

Children at Ozona Intermediate School were exuberant this week when they received an answer to one of the cards attached to a helium balloon that was released along with over 200 other balloons last Wednesday.

Stacie McDaniel, fourth grade student, received an answer to her card from Chamber of Commerce President F.X. Peters in Lutesville, Mo. The balloon and card were found on his ranch the morning after they were released, 900 miles from Ozona.

Stacie was properly thrilled when she received the following letter signed by Mr. Peters, and dated April 14, one day after the balloons were released:

"Dear Stacie," Mr. Peters wrote: "I found your balloon this

"As I am president of the local Chamber of Commerce, this is an unusual find for me. In case you are interested I am enclosing some information about our area. We are about 900 miles or so northeast of you. Our town has about 9,000 people. We are about 30 miles west of the Mississippi river and Cape Girardeau in the boot-heel of Missouri. Tom Montgomery still improving

A heavy pall of anxiety hung over the Stockman staff early this week as the newspaper's editor Kitty Montgomery, was in San Antonio at the bedside of her husband, Tom, who suffered a serious heart attack after undergoing surgery for a hip joint replacement in Audey Murphy Veterans Hospital Thursday of last week.

Frequent reports from his bedside have indicated steady improvement in Tom's condition and presstime reports have him in much improved condition.

surprised Tot Holmsley, as their Track Mother of the Year. The plaque was presented to Tot prior to the final of the meet for her faithful support and the ever present posters of encouragement.

Coaches Sewell, Sexton and McWilliams expressed their thanks to the South Side Lions for manning the concession stands at the meet and to the many fans who lent their support at the district meet.

Other Lions contributing to the team meet totals were Paul Tambunga, Lionel Munoz, Fabian Delgado, Matt Gutierrez, Gino Tambunga, Al Ramirez, David Vargas and Rowdy Holmsley.

Ozona students place 2nd

Ten students from Ozona Junior High School traveled to Crane, Saturday, April 16, to compete in the district literary meet. Although Crane won the first place trophy, Ozona's score of twenty-five points was enough for a second place tie with Sonora.

Of the ten students who competed, six placed. These are the following: Jennifer Parks, first, and Michael Glaze, third in Readywriting; Mark Sellers, third in Number Sense and fifth in Oral Reading; Jennifer Probst, sixth in Oral Reading; Darla Judd, fourth in Number Sense and sixth in Spelling and Plainwriting; and Robin Bolf, sixth in Number Sense.

Also competing at the meet were Bernice Ybarra, Lisa Colin, Trebie West, and Bret Hood.

Accompanying these students to the meet at Crane were Mr. C.R. Womack and sponsors Mrs. Mary Nations, Mrs. Bettye Hoover, Mrs. Jill Crawford, Mrs. Peggy Bien, and Mrs. Frances Curry.

Sharp murder trial to begin here Mon.

A total of 153 prospective jurors have been summoned to appear in district court here Monday morning, May 2, for possible service in the trial of Michael Eugene Sharp, accused of the murder of Brenda Kay Broadway, 31, in Kermit, Texas, on June 11, 1982.

The case was transferred here on a change of venue from 109th district court at Kermit. The trial will be heard by District Judge James Clack of the 109th district and will be prosecuted by District Attorney Mike Fostell, assisted by Steve Taliaferro, county attorney of Winkler County.

Sharp was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Mrs. Broadway's daughter, Christie Michelle Elms, 8, on the same date. His trial was held in 137th district court at Lubbock, on a change of venue from 109th district court at Kermit.

Mrs. Broadway and her two daughters, Selene Kay Elms, 14, and Christie Michelle Elms, 8, were allegedly abducted from a car wash in Kermit at 1:30 a.m. The bodies of the mother and daughter were found in a shallow grave about 11 miles southeast of Kermit.

Selena Kay Elms, the 14-year-old daughter, escaped and ran naked five miles across a pasture to an oil rig where she reported the incident.

A warning to persons who summons for jury service in the coming trial here was issued by County Clerk David Weant. Mr. Weant warned members of the panel against failing to appear at the 9 o'clock court start unless they are legally eligible for exemption from jury service and have executed the necessary affidavit attesting that fact, and submitted it to the clerk's office.

"Judge Clack has made it plain that if there are any who fail to show up for jury duty after being summoned and without legal excuse will be picked up by the sheriff's department and will be subject to fines for contempt of court," Clerk Weant said.

Selection of a jury to hear the case is expected to take from two to three weeks and the trial another week or possibly two, court officials have estimated.

Accident claims life of 23-year-old Ozonan

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning from the Catholic Church in Ozona for Trzell Hayes, Jr., 23, of Ozona who was killed in an auto accident 3 1/2 miles west of Llano, Texas, about 8:30 Tuesday morning.

Young Hayes was returning to his home here from Nacogdoches, Texas, where he had attended Stephen F. Austin University the past year and lately was manager of an apartment complex in that city. Department of Public Safety reported that Hayes was alone in his car when he apparently lost control of the vehicle and it left the road surface and rolled over three times.

Llano DPS Trooper Rodney Hardin investigated the accident. Hardin said Hayes was west bound on Highway 29 and he was thrown from the vehicle as it rolled over. He was transported by ambulance to Austin's Breckenridge Hospital where he was pronounced dead at 11:02 by staff physician Dr. Ken Marberg.

Hayes was graduated from

Ozona High School in 1978. He attended South Texas State at San Marcos where father in the automobile repair business while he was growing up. He is survived by his parents, Trzell and Mary Hayes of Ozona; by three sisters, Mrs. Randy (Sherry Ann) Lloyd, and Misses Lydia and Mary Lou Hayes, both of the home and his grandmother, Mrs. Sherri Davis of Ozona. A great, great aunt, Mrs. B. I. Hall, of Brenham, also survives.

Methodist Church begins new series

The Pastor of Ozona United Methodist Church announces the beginning of a new series of sermons beginning this next Sunday, May 1, at 11:00 a.m.

The series of sermons will deal with the writings of the Apostle Paul and spiritual gifts. If you have ever wondered what your particular gift might be--then this series will be of interest to you.

WHEN THE CATALOG BLOWS A FUSE

By Edwin Feulner

Remember when you were younger and the most exciting mail you received each year was the Sears Roebuck catalog?

Today, of course, we are older, wiser, have a few more dollars to spend than we did in the 1950s, and if you're anything like me your mail just oozes with slick pamphlets (most of them unsolicited) offering everything from caviar to cactus plants, camping gear to children's clothing, computers to chocolate candy.

For pure snob appeal there is even the Neiman Marcus Christmas catalog, the ultimate in both trendy and pricey. If it's something you never wanted and can't afford, chances are you'll find it in the Neiman Marcus Christmas book.

I'm reminded of all this because one day pretty soon we may look back at the junk mail with nostalgic longing—the same way we now look back at the Sears Roebuck catalog.

Instead of going to shopping malls or thumbing through mail order catalogs, we'll do our shopping by scanning a "videotex" screen in our home.

We'll shop at home; do our banking from home; and we'll subscribe to electronic newspapers and magazines and other information services which will give us only the news and information we want, and when we want it.

The videotex revolution, those most familiar with the subject say, is really the next stage of the home computer revolution. First there were the video games, and then the home computers that did more than provide us with the opportunity to stave off the space invaders. Thanks to the genius of the Apple, Commodore and Radio Shack computers, people who write for a living have "word processors" in their home offices; elementary- and secondary-school children are now taught computer-speak and attend computer camps during the summer, and when the tax man cometh in April of each year, some Americans can now touch a few buttons on their home computers and their tax records for the year come forth like so many good little soldiers in the service of the IRS.

The question many have had, however, has been: what's next. And videotex is the answer.

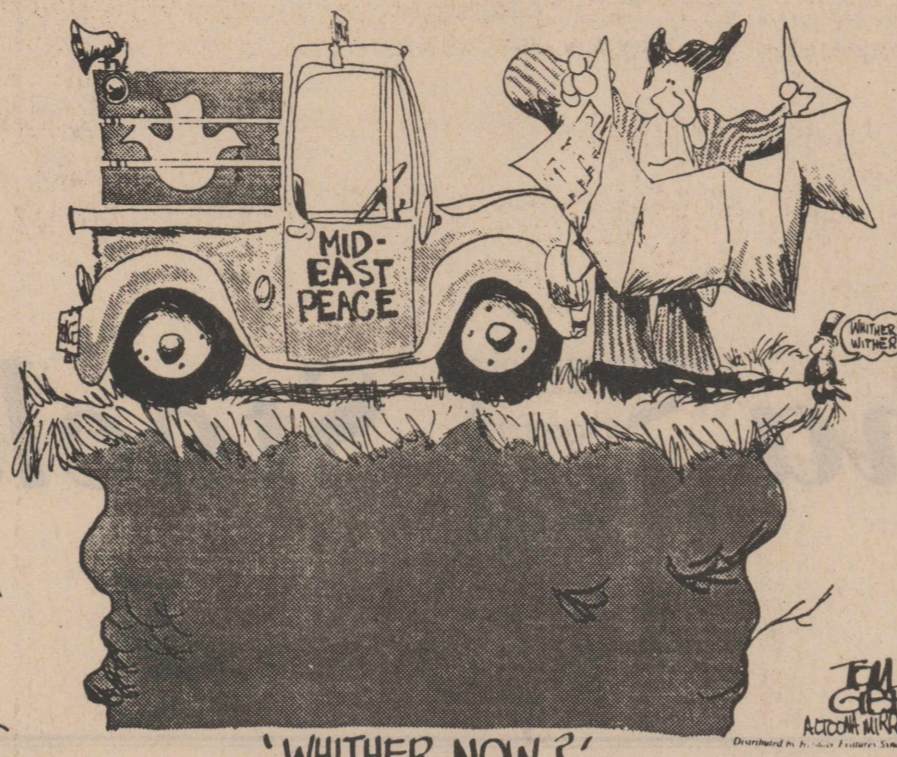

Just what is videotex? Aficionados—the kind of people who will be hanging around the exhibit halls at the upcoming "Videotex '83" conference in New York (June 27-29 at the Hilton)—think it is among the most important communications developments since "television, telephones and cars." What happens is simple; using a videotex system a person can retrieve data and perform electronic transactions through a television monitor linked to a computer.

The kinds of information that are likely to be available are as diverse as your imagination will allow: news; sports scores; weather reports; TV listings; the lineup of movies at local theaters; airline flight schedules; stock quotations.

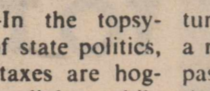

Just recently, J.C. Penney, one of the country's largest retailers, announced that it was entering the field . . . and that customers would soon be able to shop at home using a videotex catalog. The nation's largest retailer, Sears, also is expected to offer such services.

To me, the old Sears catalog still represents something in our past worth remembering. Perhaps, someday, videotex will be equally a part of our lives, as more and more of our daily business is conducted from our homes. I wonder, however, what happens if the 'catalog' blows a fuse?

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
 By Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—In the topsy-turvy world of state politics, taxes, taxes, taxes are hogging the limelight while pretty near blinding any observer trying to closely watch the show.

Early last week, House and Senate budget writers crowded they had finally balanced the state budget at $29 billion with no new taxes, and conservatives in the House (where a tax bill by law must originate) vowed no tax bill would make it out of committee there.

Within four days, following an onslaught on the Capitol of tax hike proponents, most of that same leadership was touting the probability that some form of tax hike will be passed this session.

Governor Mark White, who wants a tax hike to upgrade public education and teachers salaries, announced after an hour-long skull session with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis he expects the trio to reach agreement to raise some state taxes and finance most of the state's spending needs.

Speaker Lewis, who had until last week stood firm against any tax hikes, did not commit publicly to a softening of position, but surprised many by saying he is looking at the options.

Most surprising was Hobby's announcement he may have found a loophole allowing the Senate to initiate an increase in the state gasoline tax which funds highway construction.

"The Pothole Bill"

Hobby said the proposed "pothole bill" which revises the highway spending formula could provide a legislative vehicle for a fuel tax hike. The Senate can initiate a tax-increase proposal provided the money was intended for a dedicated fund and not for general coffers.

However, the initial reaction of Capitol legal staff was their office would not provide such a loophole. A gasoline tax is favored by many legislators because its proceeds are split 75-25 between highways and public schools, thus providing an estimated extra $642 million for roads and $214 million for education.

"Wish List"

Why the need for taxes if the budget leadership has balanced the budget as it claims?
 This session the Legislature is writing the budget in a manner different from the past: the first six sections are the traditional appropriations bill which the lawmakers have balanced. But added this year is a seventh section, dubbed the "wish list" section, which contains proposed increases in funding if taxes are raised.

Contained here are the proposals to increase highway construction, prison construction, increase teachers' salaries, increase state employees salaries, fix the state's potholes.

Spending in Section Seven is about $2 billion.

The Senate

The Senate voted to suspend the rules and allow consideration of the controversial horserace wagering bill, but an all-afternoon filibuster by Dallas Republican John Leedom postponed a vote on passage until after the weekend. Leedom read fistful after fistful of anti-horseracing mail while his bored constituents yawned, left to go eat lunch, then returned to give him the temporary victory.

Earlier in the week, the Senate approved measures to:

—Authorize school districts to excuse students of all faiths on holy days but count the students present for state funding purposes.

—Outlaw sport dogfighting for betting or entertainment.

—Allow the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission to order new car dealers and manufacturers to replace "lemon" vehicles or refund the purchase price.

—Penalize persons giving false residence information or establish guardianships so school-aged children can switch public schools.

The House

The House approved legislation which would:

—Set up a "workfare" program for recipients of state welfare benefits.

—Allow Texas voters to decide whether to issue $500 million in bonds for low-interest loans to farmers and ranchers.

—Make the unofficial counting of votes in statewide elections a duty of the secretary of state, replacing the private Texas Election Bureau.

Hart, Mondale

Two Democratic presidential hopefuls separately addressed joint sessions of the Legislature last week, getting mostly yawns on both occasions. Colorado U.S. Sen. Gary Hart called on legislators to outthink opponents, not outspend them, just after he met with the governor and minority caucus members. Former Vice President Walter Mondale, speaking two days later, vowed greater support to education and science.

Mondale touched a little closer to home by asking legislators to increase education funding, but he drew the line on telling Texans to raise taxes for teachers salaries.

probably prevails over any claims by your children. In Texas, for instance, it is possible to "disinherit" children: one does not have to leave them any property.

Write the Clerk of the County where your ex-husband died. Ask for copies of the Will and of the inventory of the estate. These documents will tell you what he owned at death and who was named to inherit. If he left no Will, you will need to consult an attorney to evaluate the children's rights.

Q: Are places of business required by law to carry liability insurance for persons injured on their premises?
 A: Under Texas law—a place of business—that is, the owner of a business—is not required to carry liability insurance. However, since a business person is responsible for accidents or injury that occur on his property or premises and faces the possibility of a lawsuit, it would be imprudent for the business person to be uninsured.

JIM'S FOODWAY

Mexican Fiesta ...

One of the most popular ethnic foods is Mexican. However, there are many versions of this special food style. Mexican cookery is more than tacos, burritos and refried beans. It is a blend of Indian and Spanish cultures with readily available foods. Spices vary from region to region. It is best to try a lightly spiced version until you become accustomed to the more highly seasoned taste. Here is one adaptation we like. Try it soon, it's not highly seasoned.

Taco Meatloaf

- 1 1/2 lbs. lean ground beef
- 1 c. chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 (1 3/4 oz.) package taco seasoning
- 1 egg
- 1 c. finely crushed corn chips
- 1 (16 oz.) can tomato sauce
- 1 (16 oz.) can refried beans
- 1 c. shredded Cheddar cheese

Combine beef, 1/2 onion, garlic, seasoning, egg, corn chips and 1/2 of the tomato sauce. Mix well, pat out, on wax paper or plastic wrap, to form 12x15" rectangle about 1/4" thick. Spread beans over meat to 1" from edge. Sprinkle with remaining onion and cheese. Roll to form a loaf, using paper to help lift and roll. Seal edges and ends firmly. Place in 9x13" baking dish. Add remaining tomato sauce. Cover and bake at 350°F. oven for 1 hour or until done. Serves 8.
NOTE: 1 (4 oz.) can chopped green chiles can be added to onions and cheese mixture if desired.

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

So far this month, "April Showers" have not materialized, but we did have a freeze in part of our city. Some say it really killed their vegetable gardens, while others seemed to have escaped any damage. Anyway, I notice the pecan trees are very full of blooms so we will be looking forward to a good fall crop. Keep them watered if the dry weather continues.

Last Thursday was a beautiful day for our Annual Flower Show and we were surprised to have as much horticulture to show after the rough weather we have had this spring. Many thought it the best show we have had since we started having them in 1957. Anyway, the judges were very complimentary of the whole show, and were guests for a luncheon before the judging began.

It should be getting warm enough to plant caladium bulbs. The soil needs to be warm so they won't just stay there and rot. They are one of the most popular and attractive plants for shady or partial shady areas for your garden. They also do well if planted in pots where color is needed.

You can hasten the season by buying started plants if you lost seedlings during the cold. If in no hurry, there is plenty of time to plant the heat-loving annuals. Since the soil is warming up, seed should germinate much faster. Some are cosmos, amaranthus, celosia, marigold, zinnia, and portulaca.

If it doesn't rain soon, shrubs and newly planted trees should be watered. This is necessary for the new growth which is forming. Our light showers don't go deep enough.

Don't be alarmed if evergreens such as live oak, abelia, photinia, loquat and magnolia are shedding their older leaves. Mature leaves are being replaced by new growth.

May 2-3-7-8 Root crops.

Growing tomatoes like a pro

If Texans could choose but one vegetable to grow in their gardens, the tomato would win hands down.

Tomatoes are grown in about 95 percent of all home gardens in Texas, estimates Dr. Sam Cotner, a horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Once people taste the great flavor of vine ripened, homegrown tomatoes, they just don't want any other kind, says Cotner.

Tomatoes are thought to have originated along the slopes of the Andes Mountains in South America and were brought northward by migratory tribes of Indians. Early explorers took the fruited plants back to Europe and from there it came to America. The first recorded instance of the tomato being grown in the United States was by Thomas Jefferson in his garden at Monticello in 1781, notes Cotner. However, the influence of the French cuisine in South Louisiana actually started the tomato on its way to becoming every gardener's favorite vegetable.

Before setting out transplants, get the soil in good shape by adding plenty of organic matter and a complete fertilizer such as 10-20-10 or 12-24-12.

Set plants at least three feet apart, with three to four feet between rows. Use boards, shingles, milk cartons or something similar to protect them from early spring winds. Wire cages around plants can provide a structure for plastic trash bags or plastic sheeting that will protect young plants. Later the cages will support the plants, eliminating the need for staking and tying each plant.

Tomatoes also need nurturing throughout the season. This means applying a fertilizer solution--one to two tablespoonfuls of a garden fertilizer dissolved in a gallon of water--every week to 10 days once small tomatoes appear. This solution can be applied in a depression in the soil around the base of the plant or in pots or containers (with holes in the bottom for drainage) set in the ground mid-way between each plant.

Cotner also emphasizes the need for proper watering during the growing season and for controlling insect and disease problems should they occur.

Paying attention to these key practices can lead to a bountiful harvest of tomatoes--the Number One Texas vegetable.

LOOKING FOR GOD

Some say you find God just as well in a garden, in the woods, or on a golf course as in a church -- that God is everywhere. But be honest about it.

Are you not more apt to think of weeds, or mosquitoes, or a poor shot than you are of God? And after all, you have made this outing to seek pleasure.

But when you go to church, it is with the specific intention of worshipping. Here you engage in prayer, praise and thanksgiving. Here you mingle with people who are seeking God and have come to feel His presence. In the quiet beauty of a sanctuary you find few outside distractions, and you know that this place is dedicated to the service of God.

For peace and happiness which comes from really feeling God's presence, worship in the house of the Lord this week -- make it a regular practice.

Lives saved by Medic Alert

National Medic Alert Week was April 3 - 9, 1983. Its purpose is to call attention to the need and value of emergency medical identification in the situation where a patient is unable to speak or otherwise communicate that he or she has a hidden medical condition.

The unique Medic Alert system consists of an alerting device (worn as either a bracelet or necklace), a 24-hour emergency answering service, and a wallet card reissued every year to assure emergency medical personnel they are working with medical history that is 12-months or less old.

Each alerting emblem is engraved with the member's hidden medical condition, his or her individual Medic Alert membership number and the toll-free emergency answering service. If the member is stricken in a medical emergency and is unable to communicate his or her hidden condition, the emblem provides the information needed by emergency personnel who can then call Medic Alert and receive, within 30 seconds, the member's emergency medical data which has been stored in computer files.

Third number charges subject to approval

Coin telephone users wanting to charge a call to a third number are now subject to having the charges approved by someone at the third number. General Telephone Manager E. O. Cambern said this new rule went into effect on April 1, 1983.

The verification process is designed to help eliminate fraudulent billing of long-distance calls and protect customers from having unauthorized charges appear on their bills.

Under the change, if an individual at the third number doesn't answer and approve the charges, the caller will be asked to provide

DWI offenders often go free to drink and drive again

Intoxicated drivers involved in an injury-causing accident often go free, with little penalty, to drink and drive again and again, says a safety official.

This happens due to what is called "deferred adjudication," says Dr. Gary Nelson, vice president of the Texas Safety Association and a safety specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "The practical effect of deferred adjudication is to allow alleged DWI offenders to continue to drive, serve no jail time, receive no insurance penalty and have no record of a drunk driving offense."

The Texas Legislature is currently considering Senate Bill 1 which includes elimination of deferred adjudication. Probation for first offense DWI would still be allowed, but it would be part of a driver's record for future DWI court action. Sen. Bill Sarpalius of Hereford, co-sponsor of the bill, expects strong debate on this issue before a decision is made.

The court's final judgment is then based on known actions of the defendant during the deferment or probation. Successful completion of probation only requires that the defendant avoid being arrested and charged with crimes, including DWI, and not be brought before the same court in which he appeared for the earlier charge.

Following successful completion of deferred adjudication, the defendant's court record is either removed or excluded from use as evidence in later DWI arrests. Thus, says Nelson, there cannot be a repeat offense if the first offense never becomes a matter of record. Theoretically, then, a drunk driver is allowed unlimited "first offenses."

Department of Public Safety

ty records indicate some individuals have been charged with first offense DWI as many as 10 to 15 times. These offenders often go on to cause DWI accidents resulting in serious injury to others, Nelson says.

Gas plant reopens

Ozona Gas Processing Plant, located two miles south of Ozona and partly owned and operated by Delta Drilling Co. of Tyler, Texas, resumed production this week following a cut-back last month.

The plant has 17 employees and has remained open. However, due to an unfavorable market for gas and gas products, the plant has cut back on its gas products operations. The plant's chief customer, Northern Natural Gas Co. has experienced major cut back in gas demand, resulting in the reduced schedule for the gas processing plant.

The plant will continue operating on a reduced scale of 20 days on and 40 days off for an indefinite time.

Brush management can save rangeland

All the cattle rustlers in Texas' entire history probably didn't steal as much from landowners as brush does in a single year.

A new brush management system, developed by scientists at Texas A&M University, can help landowners control the plant pests that have invaded 88% of our 107 million acres of rangeland.

Brush uses huge amounts of sunlight, water and plant nutrients needed for grass production. For example, it is estimated that if even half of just the mesquite brush in the State was controlled, that beef production could be increased by about 136 million pounds annually.

A few decades ago, early workers set out to eradicate brush but soon found that approach so costly that it was economically impossible. Brush control was adopted in the 1950's as the alternative approach to eradication, and brush control research developed a number of useful range improvement techniques.

However, range scientists say no single method is perfect and that each has limitations, as well as its strong points.

"Really effective brush control must incorporate the best of all known systems into a coordinated plan that will make full use of the entire range resource, including wildlife," says Dr. C. J. Scifres, the Thomas M. O'Connor Professor of Range Science at Texas A&M University.

Scifres serves as leader of a task force of Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientists working to develop applications of a relatively new concept, Integrated Brush Management Systems, called IBMS, for short.

This group includes J. R. Connor, Range Economist; J. M. Inglis, Wildlife Management; and Range Scientists R. P. Smith, J. L. Mutz, W. T. Hamilton, G. A. Rasmussen, B. H. Koerth, and L. R. Garoian.

Scifres emphasizes that IBMS are long-term management programs that are developed to apply brush management to meet specific range resource management needs. Emphasis is placed on taking advantage of the strong points of brush control methods by applying them in complementary sequences or programs.

"IBMS are designed to optimize production from all uses of the rangeland," Scifres says, "and therefore consider the economic role of game animals, as well as livestock."

"The present economic framework surrounding range livestock production dictates that more cost-effective approaches to brush management be developed."

IBMS uses economic analysis as one of the most important criteria for decision making by range managers.

For example, economists J. R. Conner and L. R. Garoian recently found that IBMS based on a single herbicide application, periodic prescribed burning, and sound grazing management combined to increase the rate of return by as much as 13% over the conventional single-treatment approaches, such as repeated aerial spraying, for improving Coastal Prairie rangeland infested with McCarty Rose.

Use of prescribed burning is a good example of the potential for incorporating "old" management methods with new technologies, in IBMS. Scifres cites the integration of prescribed burning with use of tebuthiuron, a relatively new herbicide, and grazing management as a three-way example of the effectiveness of IBMS.

The tebuthiuron-prescribed burning based IBMS is especially effective for improvement of rangeland infested with whitebrush, a woody species which resists control by conventional methods.

This approach has been under study since 1975, on a site in South Texas, and researchers feel that range improvement can be maintained for at least another 10 years with intelligent use of prescribed burning and sensible grazing management.

Development of IBMS requires several steps in an organized decision-making process, Scifres says. First, management objectives must be developed for the targeted management unit. Present production must be characterized and potential production estimated.

These activities are based on the tried and true ecological principles underlying range management, especially an understanding of the concepts of range condition and range-condition trends. All applicable brush control technologies must be carefully considered as to their effectiveness in the desired vegetation conversion.

The range manager then selects the sequence of brush management alternatives that will best meet his overall objectives, using economic projections as one comparative tool. The systems are planned for 15 to 20 years but have built-in flexibility to incorporate technological change and periodic updating, to accommodate redirections by management planning.

"Increasing availability of computer technology may allow development of methods for ranchers to make decisions," Scifres says, "using IBMS concepts, to best fit their specific situations."

"Although much research is still required, the experiment station research group is optimistic that the IBMS process will have broad applicability to range management problems in South Texas and other areas," Scifres concluded.

Science symposium for University Extension

Science students from across the state will converge upon the University of Texas at Austin May 31 - June 3 for the annual Texas Energy Science Symposium for High Schools.

The event, in its 23rd year, is expected to attract more than 400 students and their teachers who will hear scientists and engineers discuss energy related topics.

Selected to attend from this area is Katrina Burger student at Ozona High School. Science instructor Frank Reavis will accompany her to the meeting.

Ten investor-owned utility companies, including West Texas Utilities Company, are members of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation which jointly is sponsoring the symposium with the University.

Participants will spend two afternoons on tours of science laboratories at the University, including those which conduct experiments sponsored by the Foundation in the Thermonuclear (fusion) research.

Tim McMurray, Local Manager of West Texas Utilities Company, said, "Our Company is privileged to help sponsor this event which has proven a great benefit to the young people who have participated in years past.

"By attending, students and teachers will receive first-hand information from some of the most authoritative energy experts in the nation. It is truly an educational experience," he added.

The Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation was created in 1957 for the advancement of knowledge of energy, particularly nuclear energy, through scientific and educational activities. Its research efforts are presently directed towards controlling fusion reactions through programs being carried out at the University of Texas at Austin laboratories with the ultimate goal of using energy from nuclear fusion for the generation of electricity.

April oil allowable at maximum

The Railroad Commission set the Texas oil production rate for May 1983 at the market demand factor of 100 percent for the 75th month in a row and the 131st time since the Commission first went to the ceiling level in April 1972.

Chairman Mack Wallace and Commissioner Jim Nugent directed the continuance of the maximum statewide allowable after receiving and reviewing purchaser nominations for Texas oil in May totaling 2,473,449 barrels per day, an increase of 14,069 barrels daily when compared to April buyer requests. May 1982 nominations totaled 2,452,593 barrels daily.

Next month's permissible rate of output is calculated to average 2,919,818 b/d with actual production estimated at 2,375 million b/d. The maximum allowable applies to all but 10 fields in Texas that are assigned lower legal rates of flow for conservation purposes. Actual production in May 1982 was 2,401,824 barrels daily.

Wallace reported that May 1983 nominations for the purchase of Texas gas totaled 17,251,827 Mcf/d. Gas nominations for April amounted to 18,609,169 Mcf/d. May 1982 gas nominations totaled 23,262,308 Mcf/d.

The next statewide oil and gas hearing will be held Thursday, May 19, at 9 a.m. in Rm. 107 of the Railroad Commission headquarters building at 1124 S. IH 35 in Austin.

Crockett County Care Center News

BY ANN McCARTNEY
DIRECTOR OF ACTIVITIES & SOCIAL CARE

A nice group of residents met in the dining room on Tuesday for one of the favorite activities, bingo. The winner of the El Chato dinner for two was Maude Pettit.

Another favorite activity, eating, was enjoyed when residents were served cookies donated by Lorraine Hyde. Later in the week they were again treated to donuts from Donuts, Etc. It is nice to have so many good, local cooks.

Wednesday morning ceramics were enjoyed by Maude Pettit, Ola Mills, Tomasa Ramos, Inez Biggs, Bertha Miller and Moriana Perez. In the afternoon all residents who daily come to the living room enjoyed a film about our great state of Texas.

Wednesday night residents were treated to music furnished live by the Knox Band. Our largest crowd of residents are always on hand when we have live music, an activity really enjoyed by our center.

Thursday morning brought a nice group of ladies who answer our S.O.S. for help in the beauty shop. Thanks goes to Lola Rios, Eglantine Estrado, Carolyn Patten, Cindy Mathis, Mary Wilton and Hazel Storms.

Thursday afternoon was a very busy time. First we had Bible study conducted by Rev. Dennis McKain followed by a field trip to the flower show, followed by Spanish Hour of Praise. It was a very busy afternoon. There were twelve residents who went to the flower show. These included Carol Reed, Frances Borrego, Tomasa Ramos, Maggie Crawford, Virginia Russell, Bertha Miller, Nila Turnell, Maude Pettit, Ola Mills, Inez Biggs, Moriana Perez and John Henderson III. Volunteers helping these residents enjoy the Art of Flowers include Joyce Young, Jose R. Rodriguez, Juanita Delgado and Doris Karr.

Friday morning was the time for the second bingo session for the week. Carol Reed won the first place gift certificate from Western Drug. Moriana Perez won Avon donated by Anna Bell Patrick. She also made popcorn, as usual, for everyone.

Friday afternoon Clayton's Village Drug treated all residents who would go to a milkshake and sent back to the Care Center one to all who could not go. Those making the trip included Virginia Russell, Paul Cavin, John Henderson III, Nila Turnell and Tomasa Ramos whose daughter Lela Tambunga graciously went along and furnished a car.

Sunday afternoon church services were furnished by members of the Church of Christ. Ten members were present.

Monday morning dominoes were played by Maude Pettit, Ola Mills, Paul Cavin and John Henderson III. Monday afternoon interested residents participated in a residents council meeting. The plans for May were discussed, ideas for programs were shared and information about program changes this week were given.

Other volunteers this week included Dorothy Doll, Sherry Scott, Knox Band members Jamie Knox, Don and J. D. Kilgore, Larry Petron and Dennis Eads; Maria Vitela, Paulita Leal, Felipa Munoz, Alicia Perez, Ofelia Enriquez, Juanita Rebelez, Juanita Delgado, Arturo Torres, Jr., Jose R. Rodriguez, Gloria Moran and Alice Ross.

Postoffice promotes collecting

"Get Carried Away with Philately" is the theme of a new United States Postal Service Spring Promotion, to run from April 18 through May 14, 1983, Postmaster Floyd Hokit, of Ozona, said today.

"The Spring Promotion will feature a much wider range of 'packaged' philatelic products," Postmaster Hokit continued, "including ten new, inexpensive beginning collector, and several new mint sets. Two additional products as of April 1 are the 1983 U.S. Collecting Kit and the 1982 Definitive Mint Set. All make ideal starter kits for new collectors."

"The Spring Promotion will also include unusual post office lobby displays especially designed to attract new comers to the hobby of stamp collecting," said Postmaster Hokit.

"There are currently 22 million Americans involved in stamp collecting--it's a hobby that usually begins in childhood and continues its fascination throughout a person's lifetime. It encompasses every sphere of geography, biography, history and science. No wonder people 'Get Carried Away with Philately' so easily, and obtain such lifelong satisfaction from the hobby."

Teen-age girls suffer iron deficiency

National surveys show that 11 to 27 percent of all teenage girls are iron deficient or anemic.

Three to 24 percent of infants are anemic and 29 to 68 percent are iron deficient. Among women of childbearing age, five to ten percent are iron deficient.

"Iron deficiency is also a serious nutritional problem in Texas," states Dr. Dymple Cooksey, foods and nutrition specialist. Cooksey is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A computerized analysis of the diets of 2,500 citizens conducted by the Extension Service produced results similar to the national statistics. In Texas, iron deficiency is most prevalent among low-income ethnic groups, teenage girls, infants, and pregnant and nursing women.

Iron is necessary for the body to manufacture hemoglobin. Hemoglobin carries oxygen to all organs, tissues, and cells.

Iron deficiency means less hemoglobin is synthesized in the body, and a "tired feeling" may result. Severe iron deficiency creates anemia, which may lead to serious health problems.

Infants, adolescents and pregnant or nursing women have high iron requirements. Most are deficient, Cooksey explains, because they don't eat enough iron-rich foods. Also, other foods they eat may interfere with their body's absorption of iron.

To improve iron deficient diets, Cooksey recommends eating more meat, fish and poultry in meals, and including cereals, fruits and vegetables in the diet.

Eating vitamin C-rich foods, like citrus fruit, with meals will help the body absorb iron from foods, she adds.

One aim of Extension nutrition programs is to direct Texans toward acquiring knowledge about iron requirements and eating practices. "Food habits that build good health are not acquired naturally but must be learned," says Cooksey.

Range management practices announced

By-Reggie Qulett, SCS
There are many range management practices that can be applied to a well managed ranch. Three of the more important and least expensive management practices are proper grazing use, deferred grazing and planned grazing systems. Each of these are closely related and are defined and discussed briefly in the following paragraphs.

Proper grazing use is defined as grazing at an intensity which will maintain enough cover to protect the soil and maintain or improve the quantity and quality of desirable vegetation. This practice applies to all native grazing land grazed by domestic livestock or by game animals. As a general rule of thumb, take half and leave half of the annual production by weight at the end of the grazing season.

Deferred grazing is defined as postponing or resting grazing land for a prescribed period. Deferred grazing is a companion practice to proper grazing use and is used when proper grazing alone will not achieve vegetation management objectives in a reasonable length of time. Deferred grazing helps to hasten natural revegetation by improving vigor and permitting desirable species to produce seed. This practice also provides a forage reserve for off-season or emergency use and will improve plant cover and hydrologic cover conditions and reduce soil loss.

A planned grazing system is defined as a system in which two or more grazing units are alternately rested from grazing in a planned sequence over a period of years and the rest period can be throughout the year or during the growing season of the key plants. Planned grazing systems are to be designed to fit the individual operating unit and to meet the operators objectives.

One of the main objectives of any ranch manager should be to leave the ranch in better condition than when he got it, and with these range management practices and others, this can be done. For more information or assistance, contact the local Soil Conservation Service.

Trophy bass all in the eyes of the fisherman

The first bass caught by most people, whether one-half pound or 10 pounds, is a trophy. "It's all in the eyes of the fisherman," says Don Steinbach, fisheries specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. As in all sports, someone must be tops and anglers continually strive to be the one who catches the most fish or the biggest fish. Several factors, including age, breeding genetics and available food affect the size of largemouth bass, Steinbach says. The concept of "put the small ones back" and they grow to be big ones does not always work. Neither does throwing the big ones back. The answer seems to be a slot limit where all the fish 12 to 18 inches in length are returned when caught. This allows these fish to grow older and larger in size. Part of the anglers quota should be taken from fish less than 12 inches. This provides more food for the potential trophy fish. Care should be taken with fish being returned to the water. Grasp the fish by the lower lip, remove the hook and immediately release.

Bass genetics has received much attention during the past few years. With the right food and age, bass easily grow to 8-10 pounds. If bigger bass are desired, Steinbach says the answer is probably the Northern and Florida cross - "super bass".

Geneology workshop set

The San Angelo Genealogical and Historical Society will hold an all day workshop 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Saturday, April 30 in the fellowship hall of the former Western Hills Church of Christ building, 1902 Childress Street, San Angelo. A special attendant will be available to aid beginning genealogists or those with questions.

The Society will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 3, in the same location when Mrs. Billy Scattergood, editor of Stalkin' Kin will speak on "How to Read Old Handwriting"--essential to obtaining information from deeds, tax and census records. The public is cordially invited to both meetings.

VA statistics on living veterans

Out of the 39 million men and women who have served during wartime in the U.S. armed forces throughout our 206-year history, three out of five--or 24.3 million--are living today.

Those living veterans include 1,667,000 in Texas, 442,000 in Louisiana and 237,000 in Mississippi.

One out of eight of those survivors receives monthly Veterans Administration checks in the form of compensation or pension.

There are no veteran survivors of the Civil War, the War of 1812 or the Revolutionary War, but 53 veterans of the 392,000 who originally served in the Spanish-American War were living as of last December 31. All but 12 are more than 100 years old. Each receives a monthly VA check.

World War I's 4.7 million participants are represented today by some 368,000 surviving veterans (one of 13 who served) and nearly two out of five living veterans of World War I are on the VA's compensation or pension rolls.

Sixty-nine percent of the 16.5 million men and women who served in World War II are living today. They constitute nearly two out of five veteran survivors of all wars as of last September 30. About one out of seven living World War II veterans is receiving VA compensation or pension payments.

The bride-elect graduated from Ozona High School, Braniff Educational School and attends South Plains College in Levelland.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Odessa High School. He is employed by Warehouse Service in Lubbock.

Four out of five of the 6.8 million men and women who served during the Korean conflict are living; only one of 17 living veterans of that conflict is receiving VA compensation or pension payments.

The Vietnam era involved 9.8 million participants in its eleven-year duration. Nearly nine out of 10 are living today. Fewer than one of each 15 in civilian life are receiving VA compensation or pension.

Soil temperature key to spring planting

The calendar may indicate that spring planting time is here, but the soil temperature may not agree.

To get your crops off to a good start, it's best to base spring planting on soil temperature readings rather than on the calendar date, emphasizes Billy Reager, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

So get a soil thermometer. It's inexpensive and easy to use and can be bought at most farm supply stores. It's a good investment and can help you get your 1982 crops off to a good start, says Reager.

Take soil temperature readings for several days at the same time of day--the early morning is usually best for more reliable readings.

The Agricultural Weather Service Center at Texas A&M University also monitors soil temperature readings over the state and reports these as a part of their daily radio agricultural advisories. However, these are regional readings and may differ from readings at specific locations, so keeping track of soil temperatures on your farm is still a good idea. He offers these guidelines regarding soil temperatures and spring planting: Make sure soil temperatures at the 4-inch depth are above 60 degrees F. for about a week before planting. It's best to wait until the 65-degree mark for cotton and for about 70 degrees for peanuts and soybeans.

Check the three-to-five-day weather forecast and don't plant if cold weather is on the way.

Plant on a firm, settled seedbed. A raised bed warms up faster than flat ground and offers better drainage from excess moisture.

Plant only deep enough to get to moisture and avoid disturbing the seedbed any more than necessary.

Plant high quality seed with a germination of 85 percent or higher. Don't exceed normal seeding rates by more than about 15 percent since too many plants can delay crop maturity.

Hero awards to sub-teen pair for saving father

Eleven-year-old Chris Wilhite and his ten-year-old sister Amy of Saltillo (Hopkins County) received the 1983 Rural Heroism Award for their role in saving the life of their father who severely mangled his right arm in a farm accident last June.

The presentation was made by Millard Shivers, awards chairman of the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, during the annual meeting of the Texas/Southwestern Safety Conference and Exposition. Ben Bullard, assistant director of the Texas Farm Bureau Safety Department, is the council president.

Two other nominees, Mrs. Paul Fox of Desdemona (Eastland County) and John Henshall of Beeville (Bee County), received honorable mention.

Mrs. Fox probably saved the life of her husband when she jumped on a runaway tractor and stopped it, after the man had been knocked unconscious by a tree he was pulling down with the tractor.

Shooting program of 4-H Clubs expanded

Billy Reagor, County Extension Agent, has announced a greatly expanded 4-H shooting sports program. Texas State 4-H program sponsors shooting activities in skeet/trap, small bore metallic silhouette (rifle and pistol), high power rifle, and archery as well as conventional three position gallery.

To safely train and monitor these events, parents and interested adults are needed to conduct training. With this in mind a meeting of all interested parties is being held at 7:30, May 3, in the high school library. Senior membership (20 years and older) requires $10.00 annual dues as well as National Rifle Association membership. Juniors (9-19) are entered in the program free of charge. Junior NRA membership is encouraged.

The cost of equipment, ammunition, and targets will rest with the individual. This may be small as in the case of silhouette to a considerable sum in the case of the shotgun sports. The free gallery shooting will continue as it currently exist. Present adult co-ordinators are: Lane Scott, archery; Ronnie Jones, pistol; Frank White, shotgun; Dan Pullen, rifle.

Several assistants are needed to help fill out the staff. If sufficient interest is exhibited by the senior group, the Director of Civilian Marksmanship will furnish M1 Rifle and Ball ammunition free for the cost of shipment. Here is a good time to expand a sport the entire family can enjoy. Come to the meeting pre-

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Martinez would like to express their appreciation for those who attended their daughter's 15th birthday and for the gifts she received.

Henshall used a front-end loader to lift a tractor which had overturned on a co-worker, Leroy Robbins, as the two were excavating dirt to build some terraces.

Last June 23, Steve Wilhite, 30, was working with a hay baler on his 160-acre dairy farm near Saltillo in northeast Texas when he slipped, pinning his right arm in the rollers of the baler.

Responding to Wilhite's cry for help, Chris and Amy came running from a nearby lake. Chris shut off the tractor's power takeoff and then lifted the tailgate of the baler, allowing the elder Wilhite to remove his severely mangled arm.

Accustomed to pasture driving but never highway traffic, Chris started the family pickup and Amy kept their ailing father awake so he could shift gears as Chris sped 75 miles per hour the eight-mile distance from their farm to Franklin County Hospital at Mount Vernon.

Emergency treatment was given to Wilhite, but hospital officials determined that the only chance Wilhite had of keeping his right arm would be to take him to a Dallas hospital.

J. W. McKay, who lives near Mount Vernon, has an agreement with the hospital there to use his helicopter to fly patients in need of more specialized care.

McKay flew Wilhite with his injured arm packed in ice to Parkland Hospital in 38 minutes. However, surgeons at Parkland could not save the badly mangled arm, because they said the bone had been twisted beyond repair. Nevertheless, the quick action of the Wilhite youths has been attributed to possibly saving his life.

Playing hero was not the main concern of the two children at the time of the accident. Chris said his primary concern was "getting daddy to the hospital." Amy said her main interest was "keeping daddy alive."

Chris and Amy attend school at Mount Vernon, Chris being in the fifth grade and Amy in the fourth grade.

Both children help their parents with the farm chores. Chris helps with cleaning the milking parlor and raking the hay for baling. Amy helps feed the baby calves.

Jack Skiles honored for park services

Jack Skiles, supervisor of the highway department's Visitor Center at Langtry, has been named as recipient of the 1983 Roadrunner Award at the Texas Travel Counselors Conference which concludes today.

The award, which recognizes the state's highest achievement in service to the traveling public, was presented by Tom H. Taylor, director of the highway department's Travel and Information Division.

The Langtry facility is one of 12 operated by the highway department. In 1982, nearly three million travelers were provided with information and assistance at the tourist bureaus that are at key highway entrances to the state, at the state Capitol, and in Langtry.

Skiles was named supervisor of the Roy Bean Visitor Center on July 1, 1968, several months before the facility was opened to the public. To his new position he brought a background of a degree in botany from Sul Ross University plus graduate studies in biology, geology, archaeology and muscology. He is a former superintendent of schools at Paint Rock and Balmorhea, and curator of the Sandhills Museum, now a part of Monahans Sandhills State Park.

The Roy Bean Visitor Center preserves the historic "Law West of the Pecos" saloon/courtroom of the crusty frontier judge. It, and the modern visitor center and garden of desert plants, are open daily. Some 95,000 tourists were visitors at the center in 1982.

The remote location makes added demands on the personnel at Langtry. Maintenance and technical problems are routinely handled by the staff; such as installation and maintenance of the sound system in the center's dioramas, or service of the antique windmill that was added to the facility last year.

The award won by Skiles bears the tongue-in-cheek Latin inscription that translates as "Getting paid for telling people where to go." And although it is also based on the inherently comical roadrunner, Taylor pointed out that it is, in fact, a serious recognition of superiority in service to travelers in Texas.

One inch of rain over one acre of surface would weigh more than 113 tons.

4-H Rifle Club shoot-off

The Crockett County 4-H smallbore squad met Thursday, April 21 and fired an elimination match to see who would represent the county for the district match in Monahans on Saturday, April 23. The winner was Carl Vandiver, firing as a junior. Second place went to Randi Thompson, also a junior. Third place went to Jody Searcy and fourth to Jesse Fierro.

At the district contest in Monahans, the senior team consisting of Cindy Reavis, Jody Searcy, and Jesse Fierro placed fourth. High individual on the team was Cindy Reavis. The junior team consisting of Randi Thompson, Carl Vandiver, Scott Denman and John Williams, also placed fourth overall in their division. The high shooter was Carl Vandiver. This was good shooting for the team that has lacked practice due to range improvements.

Frank White, instructor and Billy Reager, County Agent accompanied the teams.

Problems plague schools

"The crisis is affecting quality," Dr. Robert Page, dean of the nation's largest engineering school at Texas A&M University and an early leader in calling the crisis to the attention of government, industry and academia, said recently.

A critical shortage of engineering faculty, obsolete laboratory equipment and inadequate operating funds are beginning to be reflected in accreditation problems for many engineering programs, according to the Accreditation Board for Engineers and Technology (ABET).

A report by ABET, the nationally recognized body for accredited engineering programs, states that from 1980 to 1981, 31 percent fewer engineering programs were given full-term, six-year accreditation. Increasing student/faculty ratios, low faculty salaries, faculty shortage, inadequate operating funds and serious laboratory equipment obsolescence were all cited as accreditation problems in many engineering schools, said the ABET study.

The longest national anthem is that of Greece. It contains 158 verses.

Use outside air for home cooling

Using outside air wisely can reduce energy use for residential air conditioning.

During spring and fall periods when average outside air temperatures are comfortable (82 degrees F. or below), whole house or attic fans can be used to pull outside air into the home and remove heat, points out Dr. Bill R. Stewart, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. However, this practice may not be desirable for those with allergy problems.

A whole house fan is usually installed in a hallway ceiling or other convenient location so that it can pull air through any or all the rooms, notes Stewart. Air flow will depend on having windows or doors that will open in each room to admit air. Then openings must be adjusted to equalize the air flow or to control the velocity of air through the room.

Whole house fans should be rated to provide an air flow of 10 cubic feet per minute (cfm) for each square foot of house area. Thus, a 1,000-square-foot home would need a whole house fan rated at 10,000 cfm, explains Stewart. Where fans are installed in the ceiling to exhaust air out through the attic, be sure there is enough attic ventilator outlet. Attic screened vents should have 1.75 square feet of area per 1000 cfm of fan capacity, says the engineer. These may be gable vents, under eave vents or roof vents.

When whole house fans are installed in ceilings they should be covered when central air conditioners are used to prevent excess attic heat from entering the home through the fan openings.

Another method of reducing air conditioning bills during the summer, particularly for those homes with low levels of ceiling insulation, is to provide attic ventilation, says Stewart, since air will try to rise as it is heated.

Attics can be ventilated by providing adequate outlet vents near the peak of the roof along with the same amount of inlet vents at the eave. Both inlets and outlets should be uniformly distributed to provide uniform replacement of attic air.

Research with attic ventilation has shown that attic

Social Security rep. sets visit

Garland Gregg, Social Security Representative for the San Angelo Social Security office, has scheduled his May visit to Ozona. He will be at the County Courthouse on Wednesday, May 18, from 2:00-3:30.

Anyone who wants to file a claim for benefits, get information, or transact other business with the Social Security Administration may contact him at this time.

January oil, gas production down 10%

Railroad Commission Chairman Mack Wallace has announced that Texas oil and gas wells produced 497,496,426 Mcf of gas in January, down 10.24 percent from field runs a year earlier.

The greater the difference in height between inlets and outlets, the greater will be the ventilation rate. High peaked roofs are easier to ventilate than low sloped roofs.

Some roofs are not easy to ventilate by gravity systems, so power vents can be used. However, research in the Houston area has indicated no significant saving in energy use when a home had a ceiling insulation level of R-19 (6.5 to 8 inches of insulation).

Attic ventilation is most effective when the ceiling insulation level is below R-11 (less than 4 inches). However, if investing in energy-saving material or equipment, the wisest choice would be to increase the ceiling insulation level, says Stewart.

production in December totaled 410,770,836 Mcf. December exports of Texas-produced gas totaled 190,502,009 Mcf.

PBPA report

Texas Lieutenant-Governor Bill Hobby says that a bill to raise gasoline taxes can originate in the Senate if the money is dedicated. However, the director of the legislative division of the Legislative Council says the constitution forbids tax laws starting in the Senate. Hobby said an increase in gasoline taxes could raise 856 million dollars for highway construction and maintenance.

The Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee said if the Senate passes a tax increase, "we'll have to go to court or at least get an attorney general's opinion."

In other news, Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock reports that the petroleum industry provides about 30 percent of the state's sales tax revenue. He said that the net impact of each one dollar drop in oil prices is 30 million dollars and in the last seven months, sales tax collections are 5.5 percent behind last year.

In 1982, the petroleum industry paid 372 million dollars or 11 percent of the states' total sales tax revenues. Indirectly, the industry paid 282 million, or 19 percent, of the sales tax revenues.
