This column has been canceled this week due to a myriad of problems we do not have space to write

We do want to send congratulations to Jan Henderson, who has accepted a position as editor of the Santa Anna News, a weekly newspaper in Santa Anna. Jan writes she is happy about her job, and it is keeping her busy. She is the only staff member, so she does it all and she says we wouldn't believe what the job requires.

Her letter took me back to the days after I first purchased the Stockman. I can remember waking up at 3 a.m. and going to the office. We were still doing job printing at that time, plus selling office supplies. There was only Bekie Diaz, the printer, and me. I was the editor, publisher, bookkeeper, ad layout person and general flunkey. It wasn't so hard then, because we had strike-on composition and all stories, columns etc. could be written for layout at one time. I can remember using a lot of liquid paper.

Bekie and I worked well together. He was a fine printer, using the linotype and the Hiedelberg press, he turned out tons of old-fashioned hot-type printing jobs, and still managed to help me with the newspaper. We put out on the average an 8-page paper weekly, and one of us took it to Del Rio every Thursday morning before daylight to have it printed.

Finally we decided to hire a typesetter. As well as I remember we hired Pat Willmon on a part-time basis which grew into full-time. She was conscientious and made a good hand. When she decided to quit and start her family, we were back as a two-man operation. The next type-setter we hired was a good typist, but not so good at spelling and proof-reading. Bekie and I worked late at night putting the paper to bed, due to the large number of mistakes which had to be corrected. One night was particularly hectic. I had told the typesetter write out 4th (fourth) when she encountered it. There had been a track meet that week, and practically every kid in school came in fourth. When Bekie brought the strip back to me at the front, I had to reset the story. Everytime there was a fourth place, it was spelled forth. I was pretty aggravated and told him to just get busy laying out the pages and ignore any further mistakes. I was trying to get my column written.

Here he came again, apologetically he said he had found a mistake he felt I would not like to see in the paper the next day. It was the report of a club meeting. At the end of the story, where all the members were listed it said "and one beast, Mrs. so and so." It should have been one guest. I don't know how that got transposed.

Anyway, in the years since we have been lucky to have competent help and the paper has grown from the eight-page average to 12 or 14 pages each week. Bekie quit some years ago to become an insurance executive. It scared me to death at the time, but I began sending the job work out, sold the press and linotype, remodeled the back of the shop where the printing had been done. It proved successful

"BADMOUTHING" SOVIETS ILLEGAL IN D.C.

By Edwin Feulner

In Moscow, on October 1, a uniformed Soviet colonel led thousands of marchers past the gates of the American Embassy. Fifteen such anti-U.S. rallies — officially organized by the Soviet government and designed to publicly condemn the United States as a so-called 'warmonger' for deploying Pershing II missiles in Europe - were held in Moscow that day. No Soviet citizens were arrested for these demonstrations; no Soviet laws were Back in the good old U.S.A., forty days later, two Americans were arrested for similar actions. The charge: attempting to bring the Soviet Union "into public odium" within 500 feet of the Soviet chancery in Washington, D.C.

The pair were arrested because of a D.C. law which prohibits the display of "any flag, banner, placard, or device designed or adapted to intimidate, coerce, or bring into public odium any foreign government"... or bring any foreign official into disrepute within the District of Columbia.

The law bars only demonstrations against a foreign government but permits demonstrations in favor. Because of this, some think the law is unconstitutional.

That is exactly what Floyd G. Brown has set out to prove. Brown, 22, national vice chairman of a group called Young Americans for Freedom, and Will Farron, 21, a Florida college student, were the two Americans arrested in front of the Soviet chancery in Washington. They were originally part of a crowd of forty college students who were rallying to protest against the atrocities of the Soviet regime in Afghanistan and elsewhere. Brown and Farron separated from the rest of the crowd and attempted to show their disgust for the Soviets by burning a Soviet flag in front of the Russian compound.

Brown and Farron claim the case shows that the D.C. law is not "content-neutral," a requirement for constitutionality. In other words, if demonstrations are allowed near the White House permitting signs that say "Rah Rah Reagan" the law must also permit demonstrators to carry "BOO REAGAN" signs if they wish. If not, the law unreasonably limits freedom of speech.

In 1938 the intent of Congress in passing the controversial law which still affects the District appears to have been the safety and well-being of foreign diplomats. The effect of the law, however, is to insulate foreign diplomats from American public opinion.

Raymond D. Battochhi, attorney for Brown and Farrow, wrote in his brief to the court that "under the present law, Iranians supporting Ayatollah Khomeini or Libyans supporting Muammar Quadaffi can express their views on the public sidewalks in front of the White House or on the steps of the Capitol. Russian citizens can picket the Supreme Court on the sidewalks in front of the building. But law-abiding Americans are subject to criminal prosecution if they peacefully attempt to bring public attention to Soviet crimes around the world on the public street and sidewalks in our Nation's Capital within 500 feet of the Russian Embassy."

The Brown-Farron case is an interesting one that raises some very important free-speech issues. While the U.S. government certainly has an obligation to protect foreign diplomats assigned to this country, it doesn't have an obligation to provide them with blinders and to gag legitimate U.S. protest. (Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

YOURS? OF COURSE IT'S YOURS! WHY, JUST LOOK AT THE HAIR!"

AUSTIN-Texas Democrats last week paused briefly from their primary election sparrings to defend U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as the vice presidential choice.

In other events at the Capitol last week:

-Railroad Commission-Buddy Temple and Land Commissioner Garry Mauro exchanged media shots over the Mobil Oil lawsuit settlement. -Comptroller Bob Bullock, candidate for governor, proposed his public school funding plan to even the gap between rich and poor school districts. -Gov. Mark White,

Attorney General Jim Mattox and other state officials filed their quarterly financial statements as required by law. The rally-around-Bentsen program began after a Washington, D.C. syndicated column reported the national labor union leadership was opposing Bentsen for the running mate slot this year.

Bentsen was not acceptable to organized labor, particularly AFL-CIO national president Lane Kirkaccording to the Evans and Novak column.

The stir was over almost after it began. Kirkland's aide phoned Bentsen the next day to deny the story, but in follow-up news interviews the group has not supported the Senator.

Bentsen Clout

The whirlwind misstep illustrates Bentsen's growing national clout, and his importance to Texas Democrats.

As chairman of his party's committee which raises money for U.S. Senate candidates across the nation, Bentsen has filled coffers and earned widespread respect. Only two years ago, he spearheaded the Democratic sweep in Texas, and they are ready to demand that Bentsen get second place on the ticket.

Texas Republicans

Although Texas Republicans have been relatively quiet since the '82 shellacking, they came out with a new strategy last week based on some lessons learned from Bentsen.

Texas GOP chairman George Strake said his party was openly discouraging potential Republican candidates from challenging in Democratic strong-

Actually, until Bill Clements won in '78, Texas Republicans carefully picked their targets, and that's what they'll do in as public school districts. program.

Temple, Mauro Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple and Land Commissioner Garry Mauro exchanged media potshots last week over how much revenue the state will receive from its lawsuit settlement with Mobil Oil.

Mauro, who lead negotiations which resulted in the state's taking back about 15,000 acres in oil lands, predicted state coffers would eventually be richer by about $100 million. Mauro is in the process of leasing those lands in order to realize the $100 million or however much it turns out to be.

Temple told reporters Mauro's figures were wrong and the leases weren't worth the $100 million. He based his figures on '83 production, while Mauro based his on reserves.

Bad Publicity

Temple's statement was not all that friendly, as he implied Mauro must be either "dumb or naive", and perhaps shouldn't be in public office.

Mauro, angered that Temple's remarks and resulting controversy might ruin the deal he is working to lease the land, responded, "I thought Temple and I worked for the same people (Texas citizens)."

Despite the bad publicity, Mauro is going ahead with his efforts to lease to a Florida-based group for $100 million. In the meantime, political watchers are trying to figure out what prompted Temple's attack.

Bullock Unveils Plan

Comptroller Bob Bullock last week told the select committe studying the state's public educational system about his plan to

Q: Am I responsible for debts incurred by my wife with credit cards held in her name only? Am I allowed to cancel her credit cards? Also, what is the of the other.

Bullock suggested the Legislature prescribe funding according to average daily attendence, then adjust state aid according to the local tax base.

As a result, poor districts would get 100 per cent funding, while rich districts would receive less state aid. Cities like Dallas and Houston would lose assistance, while rural districts would gain.

Other suggestions proposed to the blue-ribbon panel included one which would increase the school day to nine hours, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Financial Reports

Among expenses listed in political finance reports disclosed last week were about $50,000 for mansion accessories by Gov. Mark White, and $50,000 by Mattox for his legal defense on a commercial bribery charge.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower spent the least. Hobby spent about $200,000 of the $630,000 raised while Hightower spent $47,000 of $81,000 in contributions.

Short Takes

The Public Utility Commission approved a seven per cent rate increase for Dallas Power & Light Co.

District Judge Harley Clark refused to issue an order for an emergency rate hike sought by American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The Association of Texas Professional Educators called on the State Board of Education to reject recommendations by the Committee on Standards for the Teaching Profession on teacher preparation standards. A spokesman said the recommendations are inadequate and ignore the real needs of college students training to become teachers.

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Since our severe weather has lasted so long maybe you can enjoy springtime blooms. This winter-spring can come earlier this year with bulbs you grow especially for indoor blooms. Before they put up a single flower outdoors. you can be enjoying their burst of color if you plan ahead. With the right timing you could have a pot of daffodils in full bloom for Valentine's or a little later.

Not every springtime bulb is suitable for forcing crocuses, daffodils, hyacinths, and paper white daffodils (Narcisses) are among the best, but you can also grow tulips, anemones and amaryllis as well. Early blooming types tend to be more desirable than those that flower later in the season. Doubleflowered selections make a better show than singleflowered types.

Nurseries are offering prepackaged forcing kits complete with bulbs, a potting medium and even the container. It isn't difficult to put together your own bulb-forcavailable and you will be able you pick the bulbs your- Mrs. Sterling Baker won the self. Glads are not heat-loving plants, so the early blooming selections like Coral Seas and white lilac generally perform best in south and central Texas. There are two new gladiolus selections you may want to try. Flash is an early with maroon-red flowers edged in silver. Golden Years unfolds its golden-yellow blossoms in mid-

Cake mixes vary in cost and in calories

Not all cake mixes are created equal either in cost calories, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Service foods and nutrition specialist.

Some packaged mixes can be economical and actually cost less than similar cakes baked from scratch, says Mary K. Sweeten. But 'better quality' cake mixes can cost three times as much as simpler mixes and still require the addition of costly ingredients at home.

For example, a "butter' cake mix requires the addition of one-quarter pound of butter and three eggs, which would add about 75 cents to the cost of the cake. The shortening used in the cake mix is usually soy oil, so the only butter in the butter cake is added by the cook. Yet the butter cake may cost up to 50 percent more than a competitive yellow cake mix, notes the specialist.

Research conducted by Cornell University Extension home economists compared 'pudding mix' cakes with their plainer counterparts in the same product line and found that the richer texture these cakes was due primarily to the cook's additions, says Sweeten.

They also found that nutritive value of the dry mixes are identical for protein, calories and fat, with the pudding mixes providing two extra grams of carbohydrate. But the finished pudding cake has twice as much fat, and 25 percent more calories than the plain layer cake.

The addition of extra eggs and oil to the pudding mix increases the calories as well as the cost of the cake, she

Sweeten suggests that consumers make it a habit to read the labels on mixes, since nutritional differences among cakes are surprising-

The fat content of various cake mixes ranges from four to fourteen grams for one twelfth of the cake: the calories from 180 to 300 per slice; and the sodium from 270 to 375 milligrams per

In general, angel food cake and white cake mixes, made without egg yolks, are low in fat and calories, and cake mixes that require additional oil or shortening are high, says Sweeten.

The good news for chocolate lovers is that chocolate cake mixes are not significantly higher in fat or calories than other flavors, adds the specialist.

A PLAYFUL KITTEN

The little ball of fluff that is a kitten amuses us as he chases a piece of string when it is pulled across the floor. Perhaps he stalks it warily or wiggles in anticipation maybe he tumbles over himself as he makes a mad dash when it moves crratically out of his reach. We can't help but laugh.

Sometimes it can be easy to get caught up in chasing a bit of string. It may be fun. It may be good excreise but that isn't enough. We sense there are larger values we need in our lives. The church can help us focus on what is really important as we strive for maturity. Life is more than a ball of fluff, no matter how charming

Ms. Stark receives honor

Sandy Stark received a letter Thursday along with an "Honorable Mention" award of merit certificate from the World of Poetry Association in Sacramento, California after entering their Christmas Poetry Contest.

Much to her surprise she also received verification that same week from John Frost, Chief Editor of the American Poetry Association that her poem "Words" will be published in the American Poetry Athology later this

Mrs. Stark, who is a secretary, has written poetry many years as a hobby. She has only recently sought to find the right markets and to break into them. And if you are writing poetry for money, then you may as well forget it. It was on impulse that I entered my work never hoping to even hear from them. I may try harder now with this bit of encouragement. But most of all my writing serves just as a way of getting things out of my system," Mrs. Stark said.
