Jobs to be available for youths

Approximately six jobs will be available to youth in Crockett County this summer. The jobs will be funded by the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program operated by the Concho Valley Council of Governments. The program presents an opportunity for students to develop good work habits and become responsible workers in future employment. It offers an opportunity for students to earn and manage their own money.

The eight week program begins on June 4 and will conclude on July 31. Youth will be given the opportunity to work up to forty hours per week.

Public agencies and private non-profit organizations serve as worksites for the program. Examples of local worksites that have been utilized in the past summers include: Crockett County Courthouse, Crockett County Hospital and the Ozona Community Center.

To qualify for the program, youth must be at least 14 years old and meet low income guidelines. Applications will be taken Thursday, April 26, 1984, at 2:00 p.m. at Ozona High School.

FFA plant team wins district

The Ozona FFA Plant I.D. team attended the 1984 Range and Pasture Plants State Contest in Lubbock, Saturday. The team, consisting of Jon Moran, Peggy Skains and J. R. Garcia, placed first in district by beating closest competitors Robert Lee and San Angelo Lake View by over 300 points.

With a total point total of 1,169 points, the team challenged for area and state honors finishing fourth place in area and fifth place in state.

Rob Hicks, FFA advisor, stated this is the best the Ozona FFA plant team has done since 1970 in state competition. Congratulations to Ozona FFA.

Keeton services here today

Graveside services for Sadye Elizabeth Keeton, 89, were held this morning at 11:00 a.m. in Cedar Hill Cemetery under the direction of Sizemore Funeral Home.

Mrs. Keeton died Sunday, April 15, in Leesburg, Va. She was born Nov. 21, 1894 in Hubbard, Tx. She was married to Joseph T. Keeton, he died in 1953. They lived in Ozona for many years and she continued to live here after the death of her husband. They operated a dairy here during his lifetime.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Leland Wayt of Herndon, Va.; two sons, Joe Keeton of Dallas and Harold Keeton of Fort Worth; 8 grandchildren, 12 great grandchildren and four great great grandchildren.

Schools to observe Easter

Ozona public schools will be dismissed Wednesday afternoon, today, for the Easter holidays. After a five-day break, schools will re-convene Tuesday morning April 24, at the regular times.

Swearing in County Judge A. O. Fields gives the oath of office to Brock Jones, Jr. who was appointed by Governor Mark White to fill the unexpired term of Judge Troy Williams, who resigned last month. The swearing in ceremony was held Monday morning, April 16, in the district courtroom at the courthouse. Judge Jones will preside over the 112th District.

Screening clinic set for pre-schoolers Apr. 25-26

The Ozona Community Center, in cooperation with the Crockett County Schools and the San Angelo Region XV Educational Service Center will hold a screening clinic on April 25 and 26. The purpose of the clinic is to try to discover possible problems in the areas of vision, hearing, speech and communication, and physical development. This year there will also be a free shot clinic to be held on Wednesday, April 25. This is a good opportunity to find out if your Kindergarten age child is up-to-date on his shots prior to starting school in the fall.

In conjunction with the screening clinic, the Ozona Primary school will also hold pre-registration for Kindergarten for the 1984-85 school year. This involves children who will be five on or before September 1, 1984. Their birthdate should be on or before September 1, 1979.

Parents are required to bring the child's birth certificate and shot records. The child

Students enjoy field trip

Seventy-three kindergarten children enjoyed a field trip to the Wilkins Ranch southeast of Ozona recently.

Teachers, aides and parents accompanied the group on the bus driven by Walter Spiller.

Students watched cow milking, fed dogie lambs, saw calves only a week old, goats, guineas and horses. Other interesting things were an old chuck wagon like the covered wagons of years ago, a deer feeder and a modern day satellite dish.

Flower show set for tomorrow

The annual Ozona Garden Club flower show will be held tomorrow, April 19, at the Civic Center. "Spring Fever" is the theme of the 26th annual standard flower show.

The show is open to the public from 4 until 6 p.m. at no admission.

Entries for flower arrangements using dried material, container plants and dish gardens will be received this afternoon from 2 until 4 p.m. All other entries, both design and horticulture, will be received in the morning from 8 until 10 a.m. Late entries and those not conforming to schedule will be marked "for exhibition only," and will not be judged.

No entry will be eligible for any kind of an award unless it has been properly classified by that committee and properly registered with the entry committee and the entry card properly filled out and checked. Judging will be conducted by nationally accredited flower show judges, beginning at 1 p.m. Thursday afternoon. Awards are determined by the standard system and awarded only if merited in the opinion of the judges.

All members are expected to help with the staging Wednesday, today, beginning at 2 p.m. and with the dismantling of the show at 6 p.m. Thursday. All exhibits must be removed at the close of the show.

Any amateur gardener may enter this show. Each exhibitor may enter as many classes as desired, but may only enter one entry in each class or sub-class. Exhibitors should have all containers marked with their names. All care will be exercised, but the club will not be responsible for loss or damage.

cannot be registered by law without the birth certificate to verify the birthdate.

The schedule for the screening clinic will be as follows:

Wednesday, April 25-Children who will be five on or before September 1, 1984. Those with a last name beginning with the letters A-L will pre-register from

Boosters to sponsor banquet

The Ozona Booster Club will sponsor an all sports banquet on the 30th of April at the Ozona Civic Center. The banquet will honor all Ozona High School athletes who have represented Ozona in the different sport programs throughout this school year.

Speaker will be Jerry Pettibone who brings an outstanding recruiting and coaching record to his position as assistant head coach, administrative aide, recruiting coordinator and wide receivers coach to Jackie Sherrill's Texas A&M coaching staff. Before joining the Aggie staff, he was the recruiting coordinator and split end coach for the University of Nebraska from 1980 to 1982. Prior to that, he was the recruiting coordinator at the University of Oklahoma from 1971 to 1979. He also served as the freshman coach and the recruiting coordinator at Southern Methodist University in 1970.

Pettibone, 44, recruits the North Texas area, plus out-of-state points for the Aggie staff. All tickets are $7.00 which entitles the holder to a delicious meal catered by the Circle Bar Truck Corral. The menu includes two meats, vegetables, hot rolls, mouth watering desserts and tea or coffee.

Tickets may be purchased at the following merchants: Crockett County National Bank, Ozona National Bank, or L & B Motor, Inc.

8:30-11:00. Those with a last name beginning with the letters M-Z will pre-register from 1:00-4:00.

Thursday, April 26-Children who will be four on or before September 1, 1984. Those with a last name beginning with the letters A-L will be screened between 8:30-11:00. Those with last names beginning with M-Z will be screened between 1:00-4:00.

This is a community wide project which will hopefully prove to be beneficial to the school system and the children of Ozona. It will involve between one and one-half to two hours of the parent's time. The clinic will help the child's parents see how well the child is growing and will also help the parents know what they can do to help get their child ready for school.

If there are any questions concerning the Screening Clinic, please feel free to call Darolynn Webster at the Ozona Primary School 392-2712.

Local teams win judging contest

The Annual Crockett County Range and Grass Judging Contest was held in Ozona Thursday, April 12. There were six senior teams and three junior teams competing. The contest is sponsored annually by the Crockett County Soil Conservation District, County Extension Service District, Crockett County Water District, and the Ozona National Bank. The goats for the barbecue were furnished by Billy and Bud Hoover.

Dr. Bob Ragsdale, State Range Specialist from A&M, Dr. Allan McGinty, Range Specialist from Fort Stockton, C. H. Sinclair and Reggie Quiet, Soil Conservation Service; Rob Hicks, V.A. instructor, and Billy Reagor, County Extension Agent, organized and conducted the contest which was held on the J. Cleo Thompson ranch.

Crockett County teams won first place in all contests and had most of the high individuals.

Capp Couch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Couch, was high point individual in the Grass Plant I.D. contest and Ann Hoover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hoover, high point individual in the range judging contest. The Crockett County team also won both contests. Other team members were Peggy Skains, J. R. Garcia, and Jon Moran.

John Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Williams was high individual in both junior contests. Other team members are Treble West, Summer Shacklette and Stacy Skains. Larry Williams is the Junior Coach.

In the senior grass judging (plant I.D.) contest, Ozona FFA placed first; Menard, second; and Kimble County, third. High point individuals were Capp Couch, first; Peggy Skains, second; Ann Hoover, third; Art Runge, fourth; of Menard; and Jon Moran, fifth.

In the junior division, Crockett 4-H placed first; Sutton County, second, and Kimble County, third. John Williams was high individual with Treble West, second; Sean Chambers, third; Summer Shacklette, fourth; and Mary Ross, fifth.

In Sr. Range Judging Contest, Ozona FFA was high point team and won the rotating trophy. Menard placed second and Kimble County, third. High point individuals were Capp Couch, first; Ann Hoover, second; Peggy Skain third; Lee Clark of Menard, fourth and fifth was Jeannie Randolph of Kimble Co.

In the junior division Crockett County 4-H placed first, Kimble County, second; and Sutton County, third. High point individuals were John Williams, first; Sean Chambers of Kimble Co., second; Tracy Love of Sutton Co., third; Summer Shacklette, fourth; Mary Ross of Sutton Co. was fifth.

Other Crockett County youth participating were James Sanchez, George Wall, Brock Jones, Andy Trevino, Jay Weier, Kenneth Sessom, Alex Smith, Jesus Martinez, and Carlos Galindo.

Egg hunt set for Sunday

The South Side Lions Club and the Knights of Columbus will sponsor the annual Catholic Church Easter Egg Hunt. The egg hunt will take place immediately following the Easter Sunday services. There will be different age divisions to ensure a fair hunt for everyone.

The Knights of Columbus has also planned a whole afternoon of festivities with food and music.

Lions president Joe Galvan and Grand Knight Tony Fierro would like to invite the community to come out and participate in their joint efforts.

Baseball registration coming up

Senior League baseball registration and tryouts will be held Monday and Tuesday, April 23-24 at 6:00 p.m. at the Senior League Park. Senior League covers ages 13 thru 15.

All players that were on teams last year and are eligible to play senior league baseball this year should be at this meeting also.

Head football coach resigns

Approval was given to accept the resignation of head football coach Don Abbott at the regular meeting of the Crockett County Board of Trustees last week in the administration building. Abbott recently accepted the head coaching position at Wall High School and he has already reported for duty there.

In other personnel decisions, the board approved the employment of all auxiliary personnel for the 1984-85 school year. Permission was given to add Debbie Forehand, Teri Jackson, Kelly Castro, Rebecca Baggett and Lisa Clayton to the Ozona substitute teacher list.

The board accepted the bid of Indeco Sales, Incorporated for classroom furniture to be used when the Ozona Junior High Renovation project is completed, and they also voted to purchase cafeteria tables from Indeco for Ozona Middle School and Ozona High School.

The board of trustees gave their approval for the purchase of property to be used for school bus parking and maintenance. The property consists of one-half block of land adjacent to Ave. E, which includes the old Ranch Theatre building. Future plans call for converting the building to a maintenance shop for Ozona's fleet of school buses and using the outside area for parking facilities.

Agriplex computers was awarded the bid for school business office computer equipment, and the Region XV Education Service Center received the contract for providing payroll, financial accounting, and fixed assets inventory software.

The meeting was adjourned after reports were given by Superintendent Garland Davis on personnel, maintenance equipment needs, and preliminary recommendations of the Select Committee on Public Education.

Feeding the dogies

Ozona kindergarteners have a blast during a field trip to the Wilkins ranch recently. They enjoy feeding the dogie lambs, but were also much interested in cow milking and watching the antics of new-born calves.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Dallas multi-millionaire H. Ross Perot revealed last week he has spent $500,000 of his own money in formulating his select committee's education reform plan.

And he warned he will spend more—however much it will take—to make sure teachers don't water down his reforms when the Legislature meets this summer to raise their salaries.

Perot is taking on just about the entire state education establishment, including the State Board of Education and several teacher groups, and predicts a battle against that alliance of educators.

"If you water down the system (of proposed reforms) to put through a pay raise, you play a trick on the people. I won't be a part of that," he said.

Governor Mark White has promised to call the Legislature back into special session about June to consider raising taxes to raise teacher salaries and pay for reforms.

But that promise may not be kept, if Perot's committee continues to take its time in revising a teacher pay scale for Texas. Unless Gov. White calls the session before the panel winds up its report, the delays are moving the vote on a tax hike closer and closer to November Election Day. And lawmakers are reportedly balking at deciding on a tax hike just before election time.

White's Tax Plan
Meanwhile, Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis gently but firmly urged Gov. White to begin preparing his tax legislative package to assure ample time for scrutiny by the lawmakers.

White has promised to draft a specific tax bill, but whether it will be a sales tax, a gasoline tax, or a tobacco and alcohol tax is yet unclear.

Lewis' reminder that the time is drawing near for a specific plan was described by some as a politely worded challenge. White tried to rush a hastily prepared tax bill through the Legislature's waning days and found himself stalemated in the House Ways & Means Committee.

What's the Cost?
White has been holding off drafting the tax plan, because he wants to see the final cost recommendation of Perot's panel.

No sense in writing a plan to raise revenues until one knows how much one needs to raise, he argues.

But Lewis asserts the House and Senate members, will need ample time, more than 60 days, to study the tax bill before they can vote on it.

Thus, time drags on and Perot may not have to spend another half-a-million dollars to kill a tax bill. The longer he drags out his committee's tenure, the greater the odds that Gov. White will postpone the matter until the Legislature meets in regular session next January—after Election Day.

Alligator Hunting
Alligator shoes and purses may come back into vogue in the near future if the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department takes the reptile off the endangered species list.

The state agency is holding public hearings to set up rules for alligator hunting, possibly as soon as this fall.

The last alligator harvest was in 1969. Since then, riding in comfort on the endangered species list, the state's alligator population has reached over 100,000.

Prisons Less Crowded
A population that is declining in Texas is the state prison inmate count.

Two years ago the state was buying tents to house more than 4,000 inmates in the overcrowded prison system. Last week the Justice Department reported the Texas prison system is now operating at 91 percent of its population capacity.

The reason for the decline is an early release program which has brought the count down from about 38,000 to 35,000.

Inquiry Sought
A Dallas House member wants the Appropriations Committee to conduct a special investigation into whether some state agency officials have lied in their budget requests and then cheated on spending.

Dallas Democrat Steve Wolens maintains he has seen clear abuse, but the committee chairman turned down his request to order the review, or to vote on the proposal.

Clayton's Papers
Former Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton, who served a record eight years with the gavel, has given the personal papers chronicling his 20-year political career to the library of his alma mater, Texas A&M University.

"I had no choice but to give them to Texas A&M. My wife said she'd kill me if I brought them all home," he cracked.

The documents which fill 280 boxes are being cataloged for research in the Aggie archives. Included are videotapes of legislative action.

DISCRIMINATING AGAINST GOD

By Edwin Feulner

In this land of affirmative action, where even short people and left-handers somehow seem to qualify for laws guaranteeing their absolute right to equal access to all public facilities no matter what the cost, I think I have discovered the last group of truly second-class citizens. Can you guess who they are?

If you guessed people who find comfort in prayer, you're right. Because our federal courts, who bend over backwards at every opportunity to extend the rights of bloodthirsty murderers, rapists, Communists and Nazis, have determined that allowing prayer in public schools threatens our democratic institutions.

And now the U.S. Senate has followed suit by failing to get the required two-thirds majority vote in favor of the proposed school prayer amendment. For all practical purposes, the amendment is dead.

The argument goes, "If we allow prayer in public schools, then the state is forcing religion on those who don't believe." Nonsense; currently we are forcing non-belief on those who wish to pray.

In commenting on the vote, President Reagan said, "This has been an important debate, revealing the extent to which the freedom of religious speech has been abridged in our nation's public schools. The issue of free religious speech is not dead... Our struggle will go on."

Every business day, the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives open their deliberations with a prayer. The courts know better than to take on the Congress over its practices. So why can't public school students who so choose exercise the same rights as a U.S. Senator?

The defeated amendment says that nothing in the Constitution should be interpreted to prohibit individual or group prayer in public schools. At the same time, it declares that no person will be required to participate in any prayer, and that no government official will be allowed to prescribe what prayers are said in public schools.

To me, this seemed pretty fair. It meant that students who wanted to begin their school day with a prayer would have been just as free to express themselves as the students who were allowed to wear black armbands to school in the 1960s in order to protest U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

As it stands now, as far as free expression goes, a public school student can support the Viet Cong, but he can't support God. What does this tell us about ourselves as a nation?

The amendment wouldn't have stepped on the rights of non-believers. They're certainly free to express their views.

The proposed amendment also wouldn't have given state support to any particular religious denomination. The amendment would have broadened the rights of a Hare Krishna in the same way it would have broadened the rights of a Baptist.

The issue isn't whether or not to bring God back into the classroom. For those who believe, He's already there. The issue is eliminating one of the most rigidly enforced legal discriminations this country has seen since the death of Jim Crow.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

After we had such a few light showers all winter and spring, I have been so surprised to see so many beautiful bluebonnet blooming on the hillsides of our city.

If you are interested in planting bluebonnet seed, I found the easiest and most satisfactory way is to watch the seed pods on the plants. Just before the pods are dry enough to pop open, pull up the plants and throw along the hillside or flower bed, and let them pop open and plant themselves. They fall in among the rocks and crevices and stay there until time to come up in the fall.

If you want dahlias this fall begin setting out dahlia tubers late this month. Choose an open, sunny area of rich, well-drained soil and set them 2 inches deep and 2 to 3 feet apart. Be sure the tubers are positioned horizontally and that the sprouts are pointing upward. The tall dahlia selections will need to be staked to support the stems so do this at planting time to avoid disturbing the tubers later on. Water newly planted tubers thoroughly, but water developing plants just enough to keep them growing. Once buds form, fertilize dahlias with 1 cup of 5-10-10 per square yard of bed. Begin watering more frequently at this time, but never let the soil become water logged.

Begonias bloom until frost and do well in our area. They are especially a good choice for adding color to beds and borders. Set transplants 6 to 8 inches apart to provide masses of white, pink, red or salmon blossoms. They grow best if given a sunny to slightly shaded area of well-drained soil.

Impatiens (sultani) is the perfect choice for growing in beds or containers in shaded areas. Most selections are compact and bloom almost constantly from June to October. Flower colors range from white, pink, scarlet, salmon and orange to many shades of purple.

Let the foliage of spring-flowering bulbs die back naturally before removing it.

Annual phlox in brilliant red, pink, purple, white and lavenders do well in full sun and adapt to broken shade.

Arts and crafts fair scheduled

The annual Arts and Crafts Fair, sponsored by the Ozona Womans Forum, will be held Tuesday, April 24, at the Civic Center. The fair will be open to the public from 4 until 6 p.m.

Everyone in the community is welcome to exhibit art work, hard work or any kind of hand craft. Items for exhibit should be brought to the center between 9:30 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. on Tuesday, the day of the fair, or call a member of the forum to pick them up.

GIRL'S SOFTBALL

A meeting for anyone interested in managing or coaching a girl's softball team will be held at the Chamber of Commerce, April 24, at 5 p.m. You must be 18 years of age or older.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED-Mr. and Mrs. Bill Watson announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Janell, to Mark Ramsey, Arlington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Ramsey, Rowlett. The wedding will take place June 9 in Buffalo Gap, Texas. The bride elect is a candidate for April graduation from Abilene Christian University. She is a 1980 graduate of Ozona High School. Her fiancé is a graduate of South Garland High School and Harding University. He is general manager for Baker Sprinkler Systems in Arlington.

Study club views European slides

Slides taken by Hazel Somerville during her visit to the International Horticulture Exhibit in Munich, Germany last May were shown at the Pandale Community Center. Mrs. Somerville was one of a group of Texas Garden Club members who attended the exhibit which is held once every ten years. The tour also included stops at several of the tulip fields around Amsterdam, a visit to Alsemeer and the world's largest flower auction, sight-seeing in Delft, Cologne, Rottenburg and Salzburg with lovely pictures of flowers, gardens, castles, churches and picturesque towns and villages.

Party sandwiches, chocolate petit fours, coffee and tea were served by the hostesses, Lou Deaton and Vivian Grimm. Spring and Easter decorations were used with small baskets of chocolate Easter eggs on each table and a large Easter basket on the serving table.

The business meeting was presided over by the President, Lou Deaton. Members answering roll call were Bill Arledge, Sue Arledge, Lara Sue Baggett and Leana, Lela Bunker, Lou Deaton, Vivian Grimm, Barbara Malone, Myrtle Malone, Josephine Mills, Judy Norsworthy, Ginger Perner, Louise Rowland, Jessie White, Vonnice Womack, and Becky Young. Guests were Hazel Somerville, and Eva Arledge of Del Rio.

LADIES GOLF

Marie White won low gross and low net in ladies golf play last week at the Country Club. Wanda Stuart won low putts.

Winning the team play were Stuart, Jonesy Williams and Katy Jones.

Other golfers were Billie Gene Baggett, Grace LeBarre, Ella Clegg, Monte Sanker and Marilyn Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kost spent the weekend in Wimberly at the summer home of Mrs. Kost's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. George.

Population growing of female veterans

The number of female veterans continues to grow slowly but steadily according to a report published by the Veterans Administration's Office of Reports and Statistics.

Women veterans living in the United States and Puerto Rico as of March 31, 1983, were estimated at 1,150,000 or 4.1 percent of all living veterans. The total was about 39,000 or 3.5 percent, higher than the 1980 Census figure, an increase which represents an upward trend not characteristic of the male veteran population.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs, Harry N. Walters, pointed out that as the number of female veterans grows, and as more and more move into the older age groups, their needs will increase accordingly.

"The special problems confronting these women and the VA's response to their particular needs will be better addressed as detailed demographic data become available," Walters said. "This comprehensive profile of the female veteran population will assist all those involved in the planning for future demands," he added.

Last year Walters appointed an 18-member Advisory Committee on Female Veterans to assist him in addressing their needs.

We wish to thank all of the businesses which helped to make the community Easter Egg Hunt Sunday a huge success. We could not have made it without your generous contributions.

Special thanks to John L. Henderson and Billy Wagoner.

Sincerely,

ing the needs of this group of veterans.

The 1980 Census marked the initial time that detailed information on female veterans had ever been gathered. The data represents an extremely valuable set of baseline statistics from which future projections have been prepared.

Other findings in the study include:

Thirty-six percent of female veterans served during peacetime only.

One of every five female veterans is at least 65 years old. California has the largest female veteran population (149,800), followed by New York (74,100), Florida (73,200), Texas (72,800), and Pennsylvania (55,500). Collectively these five states accounted for 37 percent of all female veterans living in the United States.

The female veteran population is expected to increase slowly but steadily throughout the next several decades.

The elderly female veteran population is projected to grow at a slower pace than that for males.

DUPLICATE BRIDGE

In Duplicate Bridge Club play Saturday afternoon at the Country Club, Mrs. Gene Williams and Evert White won high and Mrs. Bill Baggett and Mrs. Sidney Mills-paugh won second high.

In play Sunday, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. John Childress won high and Mrs. Robert Cox and Mr. White were second.

Happy Easter!

What is Easter, Mommy?

"Is it the time when bunnies get born?" I looked at my little daughter, appalled.

Did she really think of Easter in terms of sugared eggs, fluffy bunnies and pretty candies? Had I given her the impression that for grownups Easter is a time for new clothes, flowered hats and fragrant corsages? Surely, at some time, I must have told her the real story of Easter. Or had I?

I was really flabbergasted at my negligence — it took my little daughter to make me realize it. I dismissed my house chores and sat down right then to tell her what hope this event brought for all of mankind — with its promise of eternal life.

I might add that the next week I enrolled my daughter in church school. And my husband and I started attending church again. We haven't missed a Sunday since.

Continental Singers to perform here May 2

The "Continental Singers and Orchestra," currently on their yearly 75-day spring tour, will present a live concert of contemporary Christian music on May 2, at 7:30 p.m. at the Ozona downtown park.

This year's concert theme is "Come Love The Lord." In addition to featuring medleys from that album, the program will also contain selections from the first Christmas Album (for 1984) and last year's musical, "Dreamer." Songs in this year's program include "Majesty," "Emmanuel," "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Great is the Lord," "He Opens a Window," and the usual children's medley...a variety of Christian songs and hymns for the whole family.

The 25 vocalists and 11-piece orchestra are highly trained and talented musicians selected by audition from thousands of high school and college-age young people from across the nation and in foreign countries. Auditions are held after each local concert for singers, instrumentalists and technical staff. The program has proven so popular among young performers wanting to join the tours that they have grown from one group in 1967 to seventeen groups this year.

Since Cam Floria organized the first group, various editions of the "Continental Singers and Orchestra" have made over 8,000 live domestic appearances and over 2,400 foreign appearances before more than 4.5 million people. The philosophy of Floria is that "regardless of the country or religion, music is the common language."

Traveling from 100 to 500 miles seven days a week by bus, boat, and plane, they will perform nightly during the spring tour. Concerts are held in churches, auditoriums, outdoor pavilions, military bases and hospitals. They are completely self-contained with their own sound and lighting equip-

In addition to performing in all fifty states, they have toured Canada, Great Britain and Ireland, Eastern and Western Europe, plus Russia, Poland, Yugoslavia, the Middle East, South America, Australia, New Zealand, the South Pacific, the Far East and the Caribbean Islands.

This year the Continental Singers and Orchestra will perform throughout all fifty states and Australia, Austria, Bahamas, Barbados, Bolivia, Bulgaria, Chile, Colombia, Denmark, England, Ecuador, Fiji, Finland, France, Greece, Haiti, Holland, Hungary, Israel, Japan, Korea, Martinique, New Zealand, Norway, Peru, Philippines, Poland, Romania, Russia, Scotland, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Trinidad, Germany, and Yugoslavia.

Floria, President of Continental Ministries headquartered in Thousand Oaks, California, has perfected techniques to turn 340 singers and 220 instrumentalists into 17 professional-sounding performing groups in a short 10-day training period. Sound and lighting technicians and bus drivers also receive specialized training. While each member of the group has been rehearsing independently at home prior to coming together, the tour begins with an intensive rehearsal camp in the Los Angeles area, where they meet as a group for the first time.

Financing for this non-profit group is unique. Each member raises part of his or her expenses on his own, with the remainder being supplied by local churches and organizations.

They have recorded 12 record albums on the Word and Light labels, plus nine albums on Christian Artists Records. Their newest albums are "Dreamer," a musical based on the life of Joseph, and "Come Love the Lord," on Christian Artists Records (distributed by Sparrow Records).

Ramie is linen look-alike

Don't be surprised if your new spring dress looks like linen, but lists ramie on the fabric content label.

Since ramie resembles linen, but is less expensive, it's being used in many spring and summer fashions, says Becky Saunders, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service clothing and textiles specialist.

Consumers have questions about ramie, says the specialist, often because they think it's a new fiber requiring special care.

Ramie, a natural plant fiber obtained from nettle plants, has been used for years, says Saunders. It is now gaining popularity because linen is fashionable again.

Like linen, ramie is brittle and has a tendency to wrinkle. But it's also stronger and softer than linen as well as mildew resistant.

Ramie fabrics may have some problems, such as forming balls on the surface, possible color loss and breaking in places where it is repeatedly folded. However, it is now commonly blended with other natural and synthetic fibers to combine the best qualities of each, she notes.

Fabric containing ramie can be laundered or dry-cleaned. Carefully follow the care label directions to assure that the colors and overall appearance are retained, advises the specialist.

Although ramie costs less than linen, it is found in clothes in a wide variety of price ranges. To judge the quality of clothing containing the fiber, consider the cost of the item, the manufacturer and the store rather than the fiber alone, advises Saunders.

Sheep producers to receive wool payments

Sheep producers will receive about $100 million in federal incentive payments on wool and lambs they sold in 1983, while mohair producers will receive about $6 million, said Everett Rank.

The 1983 national average market price for shorn wool was 61.3 cents a pound, 91.7 cents less than the $1.53 per pound support price, Rank said. Dividing the difference (91.7 cents) by the average market price (61.3 cents) results in a 1983 payment rate of 149.6 percent, compared with a payment rate of 100.3 percent in 1982, he said.

The payment rate is the amount required to bring the average price received by all producers up to the support price.

For mohair, the 1983 average market price was $4.05 and support price $4.627, making the payment rate 14.2 percent, Rank said.

The wool and mohair programs encourage the production of higher quality fibers because the more producers receive from sales, the more they receive in government incentive payments. Producers' payment are determined by multiplying the payment rates (149.6 and 14.2 percent) times the net dollar return received by producers from wool and mohair sales.

Producers will receive $3.67 per hundredweight in federal payments for unshorn lambs they sold or slaughtered in 1983. This payment is to compensate growers for wool on live lambs they marketed.

The payment is based on the shown wool payment rate, the average weight of wool per hundredweight of lambs and the price of lamb's wool relative to the national average price for shorn wool, Rank said.

When wool and lamb payments are computed, the USDA withholds 4 cents a pound from wool payments and 20 cents per hundredweight from lamb payments.

USDA forwards the money to the American Sheep Producers Council to finance advertising, sales promotion and related market development activities. USDA withholds 4.5 cents per pound from mohair payments and forwards it to the Mohair Council of America.

The wool and lamb deductions were approved by 72.6 percent of the sheep producers voting in a referendum in August 1982. Mohair deductions were approved by 78.4 percent of the producers voting in a December 1982 referendum.

Payments have been mailed through the county offices of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Rank said.

Mayfield commended for service

At the recent spring meeting of the District 6 4-H Adult Leaders Association held in Fort Stockton, Bobby Mayfield, out-going chairman, was commended for a job well done.

He did an excellent job of leading the district organization and his leadership was greatly appreciated. He also did a good job representing the local leaders association and in turn keeping local leaders informed of district and state activities.

Congratulations go to Debra Mayfield for being elected vice-chairman of the district association for 1984-85.

Thanks to Debra and Bobby for their good presentation and leadership to Crockett County and District 6.

New school calendar for upcoming session

Public schools across the state have been drawing criticism from H. Ross Perot, Chairman of the Select Committee on Public Education, but the 1984-85 Ozona School Calendar should put a smile on his face. The new calendar is designed to minimize the number of class periods that students will need to miss for participation in athletic, University Interscholastic League, and 4-H activities.

The most significant departure from previous calendars will be found during the second semester of school. Since many Ozona students attend the State 4-H Livestock Show in Houston each year, school officials decided to schedule spring break to coincide with that event. Holidays for school activities have also been scheduled during March and April, the two heaviest months for athletic and U.I.L. contests.

Although school will end approximately a week later than this year, the new calendar will not only meet the needs of Ozona students but also regain valuable class time.

Principals will report on July 31, 1984 and secretaries will report on August 6. August 13-17 will be in-service (5 days). August 13 will be Ozona Orientation Day, August 14, 15 will be cooperative in-service in Sonora, August 16, 17 will be in-service workdays.

The first day of classes will be August 20. September 3 will be Labor Day holiday. The first six week will end September 28. Second six weeks will end November 9.

Thanksgiving holidays will be observed November 22-23

December 20 will be the end of the third six weeks and the end of first semester. December 21 thru January 1 will be the Christmas-New Year's holidays.

January 2 is the beginning of the second semester with the fourth six weeks ending February 8.

Spring break will be February 25 thru March 1, 1985. March 8 is an in-service day (Region XV), eligible for approved compensatory credit.

March 15, 22, 29 will be holidays for school activities. The end of the fifth six weeks will be April 3. April 4 will be another in-service day for teachers (Ozona), eligible for approved compensatory credit.

April 5-8, 1985 will be the school's Easter holidays. April 19 will be another holiday for school activities.

Baccalaureate for the seniors of 1984-85 will be held May 19. May 23 is the end of the sixth six weeks. May 24 is an in-service workday and also graduation.

The school year will have 175 days of instruction with 8 days of in-service.

April 5-8, 1985 will be the school's Easter holidays. April 19 will be another holiday for school activities.

RRC adopts changes in water rules

According to the rule, the generator of oilfield waste may not knowingly use the services of a carrier or receiver who does not have all the necessary pollution control permits required by the Commission. The generator may be held responsible for improper waste disposal by a carrier or receiver if the generator knew or should have known that the improper disposal would occur and failed to take steps to prevent it.

The Railroad Commission has increased pollution safeguards in a rule that provides for the protection of fresh water from wastes produced by oil and gas operations.

The amendments to the Oil and Gas Division's Rule 8 require that all oilfield waste disposal be authorized by Commission rule or permit. The changes authorize several disposal practices and the use of several types of pits in oilfield operations. They also require the re-permitting of existing salt water storage or disposal pits so that they comply with recent state legislation.

Another change requires that the producer of salt water from an oil well keep records on the amount and origin of water produced, where the water is disposed of, and who transports the water from the production site to the disposal site.

According to the rule, the generator of oilfield waste may not knowingly use the services of a carrier or receiver who does not have all the necessary pollution control permits required by the Commission. The generator may be held responsible for improper waste disposal by a carrier or receiver if the generator knew or should have known that the improper disposal would occur and failed to take steps to prevent it.

The changes will be effective May 1.

Separate payment best for tax bills

If you need to send payments on two different types of tax to the Internal Revenue Service at the same time, the IRS advises that you send separate checks or money orders for each.

The tax agency explains that an error is easily made if two payments are combined, especially if different tax forms are involved.

Also, taxpayers are advised to write their social security numbers (employer identification number for business taxes), form number, and year involved on every check or money order sent to the IRS. If your check becomes separated from your tax form, we can still credit the money to your account, the IRS says.

- Since taking office only 20 months ago, Johnson has reduced his predecessor's case load from 318 'old' cases to 60.
- Since taking office only 20 months ago 477 new cases have come through his office and Johnson has worked that load down to 112 and is still working hard, and has sent 52 people to county jail.
- $47,300 has been returned to the county in fines--That's more than his opponent accounted for in 5 counties over four years.

You can see what Johnson will do if you elect him as your district attorney!

A total of 68 walkers participated in the Walk Across America for Missions Walk-a-thon Sunday afternoon on Taylor Box Road, sponsored by First Baptist Church.

The walkers had a goal of five miles and all but three made it the entire distance. The first two to reach the destination were Carol Sessom and Rita Rios.

If all sponsors contribute as pledged, there will be well over $800 added to the Easter offering for home missions.

The youngest walkers were Courtney Frazier, 4, and Stormy Sessom. Oldest walkers were Louise Johnson and Nazie Baker. Walkers with the most sponsors were Mae Lay and Sandy Stokes. Walkers with the most generous sponsors were Nell Mayfield and Martha Mayfield.

Complete families who walked were the Ted Dews, Clayton Robinsons, Rick Storms, Don Sessoms, Steve Sessoms and Lonnie Dorries.

Carl Thurman drove the bus and dispersed water for thirsty, dusty walkers. Mrs. Ivy Smith provided cupcake and the Richard Storms family provided the lemonade, popcorn and place for rest and recreation.

The bus returned to town at 4:30 p.m. with everyone aboard.

Sixty-eight participants collected $800 for the Baptist home missions during a walkathon Sunday afternoon, sponsored by the First Baptist Church. All but three finished the 5-mile trek. They gathered at the church to take the bus to Taylor Box Road where the event was held.

Smokeless tobacco linked to muscle, nerve problems

Snuff dipping and tobacco chewing can cause high nicotine levels in the blood and can lead to nicotine poisoning, a Houston neurologist warns in the journal Texas Medicine.

Dr. Bernard M. Patten notes that within five minutes a single pinch of snuff results in a nicotine blood level that is 28 percent greater than the level reached from cigar smoking for 65 minutes.

"The nicotine peak with snuff matches that achieved with those old Havana type cigars and exceeds that found in heavy cigarette smokers," he writes in the April issue of the Texas Medical Association's journal.

A continually high level of nicotine from constant use of snuff "could pave the way for chronic nicotine toxicity," says Patten, an associate professor of neurology at Baylor College of Medicine. Nicotine poisoning from snuff dipping and tobacco chewing can lead to nerve damage, severe muscle weakness, fatigue and weight loss, he says.

The physician cites the case of a 20-year-old man who led a vigorous life of working cattle, riding bulls, and jogging. He became ill about the time he began using snuff and chewing tobacco, and his condition worsened over a six-month period.

His snuff dipping became continuous as his consumption reached two tins a day. He lost about 35 pounds without change in appetite or diet.

"His muscles became thin and weak and ached especially after exercise," the doctor writes. "Despite attempts at weight lifting and other exercise, the muscle wasting continued and especially involved muscles around shoulders and hips."

The patient had difficulty climbing stairs and getting out of a chair, Patten says, "and bull riding became impossible...he complained that he felt unsteady and tended to drift to the right when he walked." Other problems included slight muscle twitches and cold feet.

Patten notes that after the patient stopped using all tobacco products, he felt better. The aches disappeared within a week, and the patient was back to normal body weight and activity within three months.

"As an experiment, the patient decided to restart dipping the snuff to see if the condition would return," Patten writes.

It did. But the patient again returned to normal after he stopped dipping.

"The return of similar symptoms after the patient resumed use of snuff and remission of symptoms when he again quit using snuff speak for a definite role for tobacco in causing his weakness," Patten concludes.

He says adverse effects of nicotine on nerves and muscles depend on several factors: the individual's susceptibility, state of nutrition, liver function, type of tobacco, where it was grown, and the nicotine content.

Wind erosion causes damage to crop lands

Wind erosion has damaged more than a million acres of Texas cropland and rangeland the past few months, and it is still early in the "blow season." Conditions undoubtedly will become worse this spring.

"Current cropping systems in many areas just do not provide the needed protection to prevent soil erosion by wind," says Dr. B.L. Harris, soils specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Wind erosion is a problem primarily in western, central and southwestern sections of Texas and does its worst damage to croplands, Harris says.

"The most serious lasting damage from erosion is the separation and removal of silt, clay and organic matter from the surface, leaving only infertile and blowing sand," Harris explains.

"The blowing sand piles up in dunes, causing loss of productive land, covering fences, equipment and buildings, and damaging crops."

To control wind erosion, a combination of practices is most effective, with conservation tillage systems offering good potential for many erosion-prone soils, says the specialist.

A rough surface—the ridges and depressions formed by tillage—goes a long way in battling wind erosion, notes Harris. Roughness, at an optimum height of 2 to 5 inches, reduces wind surface velocity and traps sand particles.

"Cloddiness," the relative abundance of firm and stable aggregates of soil material resistant to erosion, also serves as a barrier to wind erosion. More than half the soil surface should be protected by large clods.

"Both cloddiness and surface roughness can be affected by the type of tillage equipment used," Harris says. "Equipment which in-

Party line emergency provisions

Party line telephone customers should be aware of a special provision by Texas law for emergency situations according to E.O. Cambren, General Telephone General Manager.

"It is especially important that a party line customer relinquish the line if told by someone who shares the line that an emergency exists," said Cambren. "Likewise, a person who requests immediate use of the party line should have a bona fide emergency."

Emergency calls are identified as those to the fire department, police department, or for medical aid or ambulance service. Those who use false statements to secure the use of a party line or those who refuse to get off the line in an emergency are guilty of a misdemeanor according to the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas.

Conviction of either charge means a person could face a $25 to $500 fine and a possible jail term of up to one month.

verts the soil covers surface residue. Disk-type plows cover more residue and destroy soil clods more than sweep-type plows. Disks also create greater compaction pans than sweep plows.

"Vegetative cover is the best and most effective technique to control wind erosion," contends Harris. "The protection afforded by cover, either living or dead, depends on the size and quantity of residue. For example, wheat stubble is more effective than sorghum or corn stubble."

Erosion increases as field length increases, so the length should be reduced along the prevailing wind direction with barriers or windbreaks, or by planting perpendicular to the prevailing wind. A windbreak will protect an area equal to 10 times the height of the barrier, the specialist points out.

Research is being conducted on the use of terbars to reduce wind erosion. Terbars are small terrace barriers planted with a perennial plant—such as lovegrass, kleingrass and Alamo switchgrass—on the top ridge. This technique has proven to be very effective in reducing erosion and maintaining yields, and its use is expected to expand.

"Other factors affecting erosion include wind speed and soil moisture," Harris says. "Erosion increases rapidly as winds exceed 20 mph, and erosion decreases as soil moisture increases. Therefore, irrigation practices and benching or leveling land on slopes can provide effective temporary controls of wind erosion."

Information is available from several agencies to assist farmers and ranchers in dealing with wind erosion problems. Among those agencies are the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Soil and Water Conservation Board and Districts, Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, and Agricultural Research Service. SCS is the agency with primary responsibility for providing information and technical assistance for erosion control.

Crockett County Care Center News

BY ANN McCARTNEY
DIRECTOR OF ACTIVITIES & SOCIAL CARE

What is happening to April? It is scooting by much too fast!

We recently had a very fine program call "Down Memory Lane." The subject matter was music and it was led by our own Minnie Karr. We were truly surprised to see how many people in our Center used to play the piano. It was truly a fine program! Thanks, Minnie.

This was birthday party week. Our only April birthday was Mauricio Hernandez. He shared his nice cake, baked and donated by Polly Mayes, with everyone. Maxine's Flowers sent him a boutonniere, punch was furnished by the kitchen, and Anna Bell Patrick furnished napkins and cups. She and Dorothy Doll were servers.

Our arts and craft group made baby shower favors for our "grandmother's shower" the residents are hostess for. More details next week.

Ruth Hester led ceramics last week. Several Easter decorations have been made and sold.

The beauty shop was manned on Thursday by Lola Rios. She brought a new volunteer with her, Diane Martinez and Jo Janes Richardson also dropped by and gave some assistance. All help is always welcomed!

First place winner of Tuesday's and Friday's bingo games was Moriana Perez. She won a gift certificate from the Teacher Store. Second place winner of Anna Bell's gift Avon was Tomasa Ramos. Hilda Dysart won the El Chato's dinner for two certificate. Volunteers included Patrick, Doll, Lelia Tambunga, Sophie Tijerina, Virginia Bishop, residents Alice Ross and Maude Pettit, and sitters Sammy Patino, Carmen Flores, Amalida Lumbreras, and Elodia Zapata.

Friday afternoon we had a fun time with our rhythm band instruments. Sunday's church service was conducted by the First Baptist Church. Ted Turnley brought Mr. and Mrs. Terry Racher and they gave an entertaining musical program. Billie Whately and Nina Mayfield caught the Baptist bus to Sunday School.

Dominoes were played this week by Maude Pettit, Paul Cavin, Johnny Henderson, and Ola Mills. Thanks this week goes to Violen Stanton for bringing us popcorn and Ann Mayo for sharing her roses.

Ted Turnley brought our Bible study this past week and Maude Pettit played the piano. Paul Cavin and Maggie Crawford each took turns leading a song.

Spanish Hour of Praise was brought by Maria Vitela and assisted by Maria Torres, Felipa Munoz, and Mariana Hernandez. Residents Tomasa Ramos, Juana Hernandez, and Moriana Perez attended.

We need volunteers for four o'clock Thursday to push or walk residents to the flower show. Ladies Hospital and Care Center Auxiliary members and Garden Club members have been contacted but all available help will be welcomed. So, if any of you readers want to help, we will be glad to have you. We also will welcome any help on Wednesday afternoon to decorate Easter hats! Do not sit at home and wish for something to do, join in our fun as a volunteer. You will be happier for doing it.

An unexpected death can devastate a family, but there is a way to turn this tragedy into a life-saving act. The Texas Medical Association encourages people to consider donating organs or bodies for transplantation or for medical research.

An individual can make arrangements that prevent unnecessary delays in the donation process. In addition, surviving family members can donate organs or the entire body of the deceased if the person has not instructed otherwise.

One way to accomplish this is through the Living Bank, a nationwide, non-profit organization. Whether the donor is a member or not, staff members contact appropriate organ banks, transplant teams, and medical schools closest to where the donor died.

The organization's 24-hour number for Texas is 713-528-2971. The Living Bank will provide information and a registration form that is kept on file. The potential donor is given a card to carry that has the phone number.

In addition, the Southeast Organ Procurement Foundation of Richmond, Va., has a computer list of persons waiting for kidneys. The phone number is 804-353-7333. The Lions Club operates eye banks across the state, and information is available by calling 512-454-3937.

Under the state's Uniform Anatomical Gift Act, a person also may leave a gift of all or part of his body in a will. The gift becomes effective upon the death of the person making the will without having to wait for probate to occur. Under this act, the wishes of the deceased take legal precedence over those of the next of kin.

A Texan also can legally donate his or her body or parts by filling out the form on the back of the driver's license. Two witnesses must also sign it for the donation to be legal.

Since time is critical, the key to donating successfully is carrying a visible card with a number to call and, when possible, informing the organ bank if death is imminent.

Fatal dog disease on increase

Texas veterinarians are reporting an increasing number of cases of Canine Ehrlichiosis (pronounced early-ki-o'-sis), a potentially fatal dog disease.

Originally introduced to the U.S. from Vietnam, the disease is transmitted by ticks and aggravated by stress, according to an article published recently in the Texas Veterinary Medical Journal.

Veterinary internal medicine specialists say early symptoms may include listlessness, fever, poor appetite and weight loss, followed by depletion of red and/or white blood cells and decreased blood platelets. If not properly diagnosed and treated during the early phase, some dogs may be subject to a severe chronic phase of the disease 50-100 days after infection. This stage of the disease is frequently fatal, with treatment often unrewarding and animals living only a few days.

The disease is characterized as rickettsia, which is smaller than a bacteria but larger than a virus. Dogs possibly infected with the disease should be tested for Ehrlichiosis (blood test) by a veterinarian.

When a test is shown to be positive, the dog is then treated by a veterinarian with tetracycline antibiotics. Other control methods include the elimination of ticks, both on the animal and premises.

Employers deadline approaches

April 30 is the deadline for employers who must report on Social Security and withheld federal income taxes for the first quarter of 1984. If the quarterly tax due (less any deposit made during the quarter) is $500 or more, the unpaid tax must be deposited.

This deadline does not apply to employers who make timely deposits of the full amount of tax due in Federal Reserve or approved commercial banks. They are allowed until May 10 to file Form 941, Employer Quarterly Federal Tax Return.

If employers have not received Form 941 by mail, they can order one through the Tax Form or Information number listed in the phone book under U.S. Government. IRS Publication 15, Circular E-Employer's Tax Guide, is also available through this number.

Where is my egg

Little Ty Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Porter, seems a little perplexed at the Beta Sigma Phi Easter egg hunt Sunday. He seems to be asking for a little help in finding some prize eggs. With donations from the various businesses in town, the sorority managed to put on a top notch egg hunt with different divisions for ages. Many prizes were given during the hunt, dollar bills, toys, and nice prizes were given to those who found the "prize eggs."

SS tax a must for household help

People who employ help around the house on a regular basis--gardeners, butlers, babysitters, cooks, and other types of household workers--should be sure to become familiar with the rules governing when and how wages paid should be reported for Social Security purposes. Failure to do so can mean problems for all concerned, ranging from a fine for the employer to a gap in the Social Security protection for the employee.

Many people do not realize the responsibilities they have once they decide to have someone work for them. They automatically acquire a pivotal role in the nation's social insurance system, which is based primarily on payroll taxes from employees and employers. The employer is responsible for deducting the taxes from the employee's pay adding the employer's share of the tax, and sending the taxes and a report of wages paid, to the Internal Revenue Service.

pay 7 cents on each dollar of wages paid and employees pay 6.7 cents up to the maximum, $37,800.

Reporting wages of household workers has traditionally been a troublesome problem. In addition to widespread lack of awareness to their reporting responsibilities on the part of many employers, many employees prefer not to have their wages reported since income taxes may also be payable. Employees may discourage reporting and refuse to work for a person who insists on reporting. Many employers find it necessary to pay both the employer and the employee Social Security tax in order to get competent household help.

The Social Security trust funds are credited based on wages and self-employment income. Records of each person's earnings are held at the Social Security Administration in Baltimore, Maryland. This record is the basis for the payment of benefits when a person retires, becomes disabled, or to the family when a person dies.

Household workers' wages are covered by Social Security only if they amount to $50 in cash from one employer during a calendar quarter--a 3-month period beginning January, April, July, or October. If the wages paid a household worker are less than $50, no reporting is necessary. The IRS office has forms that can be used for reporting wages and paying Social Security taxes. In 1984, employers

Social Security officials note that the responsibility--and the liability--for reporting rests with the employer. Failure to report may result in a fine for unpaid taxes. And, many employees change their mind about the informal agreement not to report when they apply for benefits. This may mean a visit from the IRS to collect back taxes.

Employers or employees who wish more information on reporting of household workers' wages should call the Social Security at 949-4608.

Writer insists Social Security system is fraud

By Earl B. Dunkel

It has been clear for some time now that our Social Security system--lumpy and misshapen with politically motivated welfare and transfer schemes--cannot survive in its present form.

Now comes Irwin Schiff to tell us that the system always has been a gigantic fraud, should not exist in any form, and that Americans should stop paying into it.

You can drop out with impunity, he insists. No legal obligation exists to pay this form of flat-rate income tax, he says, maintaining that he stopped making Social Security payments for himself and his employees many years ago.

"The federal government hasn't even tried to prosecute me. It would lose the case and the resulting publicity would cause a mass exodus from the system," Schiff asserts.

Schiff doesn't expect to cause a mass exodus with his new book, The Social Security Swindle: How Anyone Can Drop Out. But he clearly hopes to sell many copies of his book and to convince many Americans to "drop out now." He offers step-by-step procedures for accomplishing this without, he believes, risk.

The Social Security system always has been a gigantic fraud, he maintains, a huge and malevolent Ponzi swindle and the "biggest chain letter of them all." As with any pyramid system in which incoming money is used to make the necessary payouts, a total crash is inevitable. There never has been a Social Security "trust fund" despite the existence of fund "trustees" and the Treasury Department's insistence on that terminology in all discussions of the system, Schiff explains.

Social Security money always was mingled with general funds. Until recently when the system began showing a deficit, its "credit" balance was used to conceal the real extent of the national deficit.

This writer confesses to being receptive to the concept of Social Security as a huge, vote-buying fraud. The myth that those who paid into the system earned a stake in it was destroyed for me almost forty years ago.

Newspapers of the day discussed testimony before the Supreme Court by the attorney general, who declared flatly that no American had any legal or moral claim to any part of Social Security. Any payment from the system, he said, merely represented "a boon from a benevolent government." Schiff agrees. The term "Social Security" is never used in the body of the law, he points out. "Social Security is a flat-rate income tax deducted as a percentage of wages. This is what the law says. Its effect is to subject most U.S. wage earners to two income taxes." He expects that "millions" may drop out of the system after reading or hearing about his book.

Schiff loses me there. There are now so many millions of people who believe there is a trust fund and that they own a share of it that it has become a political reality. It would take a rash and reckless administration and a Congress imbued with a death-wish to destroy those beliefs. So long as the beliefs exist, so long will most Americans stay with the system.

The Scientists Tell Me...

General Public Values Agriculture And Is Aware of Continuing Problems

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer
Does the public really blame agricultural producers for present day food prices, as some contend? To find out how the nonfarm public views today's agriculture, the Survey Research Center in the Department of Rural Sociology of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A&M recently completed a telephone survey of a cross section of Texas residents.

Results of the survey indicate a realization of agriculture's importance to the State and sympathy for its many problems, according to Drs. Howard Ladewig and John Thomas who coordinated the study. For example, it was found that 91% of the residents in Texas believe that agriculture plays a vital role in the Texas economy. The vast majority (76%) also believe farming to be a stressful occupation.

Contrary to the tradition of independent, self-reliant farms, most believe that many of the problems faced by today's farmers cannot be solved by the farmers themselves. In fact, nearly 88% believe that good farmland should be protected from other land uses.

In addition, 73% believe farm problems to be among the top problems of the Nation that Congress should address.

Over 63% believe farmers should organize to bargain for the prices they pay for farm production items.

These findings generally support the view of some policymakers who believe that agriculture must be placed in the mainstream of American society and not treated as a unique entity.

That today's farm problems are perceived as perceived as requiring cooperative efforts does not detract from the public's image of farmers and do not blame farmers for high food prices (86%) or environmental pollution (78%).

The respondents also reflect a strong awareness of current trends in agriculture—a factor that could affect one's image of today's agriculture. Over 85% believe the family farm rapidly is going out of business.

In addition, three-fourths agree that most small farmers have to work off the farm to make ends meet and two-thirds perceive large corporations, and not farmers, as being in control of agriculture.

"To put these views in perspective," Ladewig said, "we have to remember that the family farm system of agriculture has long been viewed as a vital component of American society."

"As such, agricultural development policies and programs formulated by the U.S. Congress have placed a high priority on research, education and economic assistance to help farmers to increase productivity and lower costs per unit of farm output.

"There are several reasons why agriculture has been held in such high esteem by American society. One reason relates to the role of farmers in the development of this Nation.

"The first U.S. census,

Computer needs insurance

If you're the proud owner of a new home computer, you may need to check your current homeowner's insurance coverage, says home economist Nancy L. Granovsky.

Under a typical homeowner's policy, a computer is insured against the same perils as any other appliance in the home, says Granovsky, a specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. That means general protection against fire, theft and lightning, with any loss subject to the deductible included in the policy.

But if your computer is used for business purposes, such as farm or ranch management, running a home business or just doing work you bring home from your place of employment, the homeowner's policy may not cover the machine at all, she says.

Also, the typical policy will not cover computer equipment damaged by an electrical surge, extremes in temperature or other perils that can damage sensitive data processing equipment, cautions the specialist.

Power surges can damage the system's hardware and even destroy the programs stored on the tapes or disks. Although you can buy a device for your electrical outlet which offers some protection against minor electrical surges, it cannot avert a major electrical problem.

Insurance companies have developed policies to provide consumers with comprehensive coverage against most computer perils and even offer protection if you use your machine for business, says Granovsky.

According to industry reports, some companies now provide all-risk coverage for all of the system's hardware and software, including compensation to a policyholder for the time and energy needed to re-enter lost data.

"As home computers become more common, consumers can look forward to more insurance products to meet this specialized need," says Granovsky.

taken in 1790, reported that at least 96% of the people were rural and that most of that number actually lived on the farm. In essence, the new nation was a country of farmers and planters who accounted for most of the nation's income.

"A second reason is a belief in the agrarian tradition. Many believe that farming is unique and that farmers reflect an independent, self-reliant spirit which contributes to the development of American society, both as an industry and as a way of life.

"A third reason for the esteem given to farmers is that a dependable and productive food sector is critical to the economic and total well-being of any society.

"Over the years, the family farm system of agriculture has been viewed as a trustworthy provider of this Nation's supply of food and fiber. In summary, public support for the family farm had its roots in an agrarian tradition derived at a time when the Nation's economy was agriculturally oriented.

"As agriculture has developed, however, the family farm has undergone dramatic changes, both as an industry and as a way of life. Traditional farming patterns have been altered, in that the production of agricultural commodities has become increasingly complex and concentrated on fewer and fewer farms.

"Today, less than 3% of the Nation's population live on farms. In addition, farming has become highly integrated into a system of corporations and regulatory agencies.

"As a consequence, agriculture today is not only supplied and marketed through corporations, but it also is increasingly a corporate activity.

"Because of the many changes in farming, some believe that agriculture is now caught between its agrarian roots and its industrial superstructure.

"On the one hand, some contend that the qualities associated with the agrarian tradition, (independence, soil stewardship, self-reliance), are being sacrificed by the industrialization of agriculture in favor of material comforts, increased standards of living, specialization and progress.

"Conversely, others argue that in an urban-industrial society, we must recognize the need for large, efficient, vertically integrated food production, even at the expense of the amenities, traditions, and emotional attachments of the agrarian ideology.

"Although support for agriculture has continued into today's urban industrial society, a growing number of nonfarm people, representative of a largely urban America, are now questioning the impact of a changing agriculture on consumer issues, environmental programs and rural development.

"In addition, because of the declining political power of farm people some believe that future support for agricultural policies and programs may well depend on the American public's image of today's agriculture and its interchange with American society.

"Based on the findings of this study, it would appear that while most Texans have a positive image of agriculture, they do not perceive the independent, self-reliant farm of the agrarian tradition as being viable in today's urbanized-industrialized society.

"Nor do they trust the market place to solely produce the derived results for America's food system.

"This view is in line with many policymakers who believe that because serious disruption of the food production and distribution system could threaten the total fabric of society, governments cannot depend solely on the marketplace to produce the desired results for their food system.

"Rather the public appears to support its vested interest in agriculture through public policies aimed at achieving desired goals through market intervention," Ladewig concluded.

VA issues record insurance dividend

Administrator of Veterans Affairs, Harry N. Walters, has announced a record insurance dividend of $721.8 million for some 3.6 million veterans who have kept their GI life insurance policies in force.

The amount to be paid to policyholders during 1984 is $48.6 million above the 1983 figure of $673.2 million. The increase comes from higher interest rates earned by the insurance fund.

"No application for the annual dividend is needed," Walters stressed. "Each policyholder will receive the dividend in the month of the anniversary date of the individual policy, and payments will be made in the manner selected previously by the policyholder" according to the VA chief. Choices range from cash to the purchase of paid up insurance.

Policyholders will receive varying amounts depending on the type of policy, the amount of insurance in force, the insured's age at issue or renewal, and the time the policy has been in force.

Government life insurance has been issued through various periods from January, 1919, through May 1966, to veterans of World Wars I, II, and the Korean Conflict.

The 67,166 holders of United States Government Life Insurance (USGLI with serial numbers prefixed by "K") will receive, on the average, a dividend of $244 out of a total distribution of $16.4 million. These policies were issued mainly during World War I.

The nearly three million veterans who kept their World War II National Service Life Insurance in force (NSLI prefixed with a "V") will share $619.6 million dividends. Average dividend on Modified Life Plan policies will be $130 and on the permanent plan an average dividend of $279 and $123 on term policies.

The Veterans Special Life Insurance (VSLI prefixed with "RS" and "W") will pay out a total of $56.9 million to 458,964 policyholders. The average payment to "W" term policyholders will be $49, the "RS" term will receive $92, and the "W" permanent plan, $180.

The Veterans Reopened Insurance (VRI) program will pay $28.9 million to 150,191 holders of "J", "JR", and "JS" policies with "J" policyholders receiving about $184, "JR" $243, and "JS" $467.

John Stokes' named to be Hance coordinators

Kent Hance, one of the major Democratic candidates for the United States Senate, today announced that Mr. and Mrs. John D. Stokes will be his coordinators in Crockett County.

In making the announcement Hance said, "John and Vicki will bring the kind of vigorous effort and grass roots organizational skills that will be an important part of our campaign."

Crockett County is one of the more than 230 counties that the Hance campaign has organized throughout the State of Texas. "I'm proud of our county organizations, and the role they are playing in my race for the Senate," Hance said. "These county organizations prove the strength of our campaign statewide."

John and Vicki who live in Ozona, said "The Crockett County campaign committee for Kent Hance will be second to none in this state. We'll work hard to turn out the vote for Kent Hance, because we believe he will provide the kind of independent leadership in the United States Senate that will best serve the needs of Texans."

Extension Office News

By Rachel Hall

The first Easter trail Peter Cottontail hopped down was in Pennsylvania, and that first trip took place in 1728, long before commercial egg dyes became popular.

Back then many Pennsylvania Dutch children used natural dyes from herbs and foods to dye the eggs that were then exchanged as tokens of good times to come.

This Easter your children might enjoy making their own dye (with your help) as well as coloring the eggs. They might even learn something about the many uses of foodstuffs along the way.

For softer, lighter shades, prepare the dye and strain it to remove the herbs, roots on foodstuff used to obtain the color. Then, dip and turn pre-cooked eggs in the dye until you get a pretty shade. To create a deeper shade, simply make the dye and cook the eggs at the same time, allowing the eggs to simmer for as long as 20 minutes to reach the deepest hues.

Another method of dyeing eggs is to wrap raw eggs in bits of the dye-making plant or tie them in cheesecloth. When the eggs are boiled the dye is transferred directly to the eggshell, leaving a unique mottled effect.

Adding vinegar or alum to the dyeing mixture will increase the strength of the dye.

Here are some "recipes" for various colors:

For yellow dye use chamomile tea or dandelion blossoms, pour boiling water over the tea blossoms, cover and let stand for half an hour. Strain the liquid and add a teaspoon of vinegar and the dye is ready.

Make gold dye by simmering two tablespoons of tumeric for 20 minutes. Add a teaspoon of vinegar before dyeing eggs. Since tumeric does not dissolve, the coloring will be slightly marbled.

A brass-brown shade results from onion skins, even red onion skins. Place the skins in a pan of water and simmer until the desired shade is obtained. Strain the liquid and add a teaspoon of vinegar and the dye is ready.

Lavender-blue eggs can be made with blueberries or grapes. Crush the berries or grapes by hand or in a blender. Add water and simmer for a few minutes. Strain the mixture and add a teaspoon of vinegar to complete the dye. Use a similar method to make robins-egg blue from cabbage.

Mint leaves will make pale green Easter eggs. Pour boiling water over mint leaves, cover and let simmer for half an hour. Strain the mixture and add a teaspoon of vinegar to complete the dye. Any of the dye-stuffs can be wrapped around or folded against a raw egg and enclosed in cheesecloth and then boiled to obtain unusual patterns of color on the egg.

Sunshine Egg Custard
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup heavy cream
1 cup orange juice
1 1/2 tsps. finely grated orange rind
1/4 cup sugar
1/8 tsp. salt
Preheat oven to 325°. Combine all ingredients and blend well. Pour mixture into custard cups and place in pan of hot water. Bake for about 40 minutes. Serves 4-6.

Super Fudge Cake
5 eggs
2 1/2 cups granulated sugar
4 1/2 ounces unsweetened chocolate
1 1/4 cups milk
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup vegetable shortening
1 1/2 tsps. vanilla extract
1 1/2 tsps. soda
1/2 tsp. salt
3 cups sifted cake flour
Preheat oven to 350°. Beat one of the eggs and combine in a saucepan with one cup sugar, chocolate and 1/4 cup milk. Cook, stirring over low heat until chocolate melts and mixture thickens. Let cool. Mix butter, shortening. Add remaining sugar. Cream until fluffy. Add vanilla, and remaining eggs, one at a time, beating well. Sift dry ingredients together and add to the butter mixture alternately with remaining milk, beating well. Beat until smooth. Blend in chocolate mixture. Pour into three 9-inch greased layer pans, lined with waxed paper. Bake 25-30 minutes. Cool for 1 hour.

Frosting: 4 oz. unsweetened chocolate
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 tsp. salt
3 cups sifted powdered sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
6-8 tbsps. milk
Melt butter and chocolate. Add to salt, sugar, and vanilla. Beat in enough milk to spreading consistency.

Snail fever studied by biologist

Conquering snail fever, one of the few major tropical diseases currently on the increase, is the goal of a Texas A&M University biologist studying how the parasitic infection evades man's immune response.

Under a grant from the National Institutes of Health and the Edna McConnell Clark Foundation, Dr. Michael Kemp is investigating how blood flukes called schistosomes live in the bloodstream of humans for decades without being destroyed by the body's natural defenses.

Household products can cause chemical stains

The next time a mysterious carpet stain appears, don't rush to blame the kids or the dog. It may be from some seemingly harmless product—like your face cream spilled months ago.

Most people know that poor handling of foods, liquids and household bleach will damage household furnishings, says Dr. Peggy Owens, a housing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program.

But few people realize that many common products containing chemicals can cause irreparable damage to valuable carpets, rugs, upholstery fabrics and other furnishings.

For example, acne medications, face or age creams, some foot care products and some pet shampoos contain benzoyl peroxide as an active ingredient. Benzoyl peroxide is a strong bleaching agent which can destroy most dyes used in carpet and upholstery fabrics, as well as pillowcases, sheets, towels and clothing, says the specialist.

Spills of some liquid plant foods or leakage from house plants can also cause color changes in carpet. Spots of this kind typically develop near the backing and surface as a dull yellow stain days or weeks later.

Some pesticides and insecticides can cause discoloration of carpet. If the spray is directed to the carpet instead of the baseboard, fading around baseboards may be evident.

Livestock reports are due

The Texas Crop and Livestock reporting service will begin contacting farmers and ranchers across the state in mid-May for 1984 crop information and mid-year livestock inventories.

State Statistician Dennis Findley emphasized that information from these surveys is very important to the entire agricultural industry. "A good response on these surveys is essential so accurate figures will be available for each county and the state."

Results of the confidential interviews, conducted by mail or in person by field enumerators, will be published late in June.

"These estimates will help farmers and ranchers adjust their operations and plan their future marketings," Findley added.

To reduce survey costs, Findley is urging farmers and ranchers to return the mailed questionnaires as soon as possible. The reported information will be combined for state and county estimates.

Annual county estimates are published for livestock, dairy, poultry, cotton, field crops, small grains, fruits and pecans, vegetables, and cash receipts from the sale of farm and ranch products.
