Absentee voting delayed

Absentee voting for the June 2 Democratic Primary was to get underway today. However, ballots have been delayed due to lack of information from the state, according to Democratic Chairman Steve Kenley.

Voters will chose Kent Hance or Lloyd Doggett for the U.S. Senator nominee for the democrats, and there are probably some run-offs in the judicial electorates.

Memorial Day tribute. "Never have so few done so much for so many" to quote Winston Churchill at the end of World War II. The WW II soldier smiling through the stars and stripes is a symbol of the patriotism of that time. Crockett County veterans of all wars will be honored at the exhibit "Salute to Veterans" which opens tomorrow at the Crockett County Museum. [Staff photo]

Veterans exhibit opens at museum

In observance of Memorial Day, the Crockett County Museum will present "A Salute to Crockett County Veterans," Thursday evening, May 24. The Memorial Day holiday will be observed Monday.

The exhibit will open at 4 p.m. tomorrow, followed by a ceremony in the park at 6:15. A group of Ozona singers will present patriotic music and songs from every war, directed by Terry Racher.

Judge Brock Jones will make a brief speech to officially open the exhibit, honoring Crockett County veterans.

Museum workers, under the supervision of Mrs. Pleas Childress, have worked for months in order to open the exhibit near Memorial Day.

Over 250 photos of Crockett County veterans have been reproduced and printed in size 5x7, courtesy of Steve Kenley. Pleas Childress, III, is matting each picture. Pictures from each war will have different colored mats.

Several rather unusual bits of memorabilia are shown in the exhibit. Perhaps one of the most unusual is a radio set made by Boyd Baker when he was a prisoner of the Germans in Europe during WW II. The U.S. prisoners actually were able to get news of the war over the set.

Goodfellow AFB and Fort Concho have made significant donations for the exhibit.

Monetary contributions from some local citizens have made it possible for the museum staff to do some extra things for this exhibit they were not able to do for those in the past. Donating money were Sammy Pierce, June Henderson and Mrs. W. E. Friend.

Businesses will observe Memorial Day Monday. Most retail stores will be closed with the exception of Perry's, Foodway and Thornton's. All public offices will be closed Monday. Most service stations and convenience stores will be open. Traditional Memorial Day is May 30.

Last week's rainfall fails to dent drought

The rains came during the latter part of last week, but unless there is more to follow, the rainfall will be only the proverbial "drop in the bucket," as far as drought relief for this area of the country is concerned.

Slow, steady rains began falling Thursday morning and fell throughout the day and most of the night. The rain continued intermittently through Friday, with a trace recorded Friday night. The total amount recorded in the official gauge at the Water District office was exactly 1 inch. Some areas of town reported more than an inch, but at least an inch of slow-falling rain covered Ozona.

Rangelands around reported from .25 to an inch up to and over 2 inches, so the rains were not general by any means and if they are to make a dent in the drought follow up showers must come soon. However, residents were happy with the rainfall that did come their way.

After an unusually hot, dry spring with gale force winds, the showers cooled things off for the weekend and pleasant temperatures were on tap, until Monday afternoon when the mercury soared to 98 degrees.

The year got off to a good start with 2.21 inches of rainfall in January. No rain fell at all in February, but March reported in at .81 of an inch. April showers brought only .14 of an inch of the wet stuff, and with 3.16 inches of rainfall during the first four months the future looked bleak indeed. However, with an inch of rain in May and more predicted for the end of the week, things seem to be looking up. As one local rancher put it, "I've been waiting for the next rain all my life."

Local SWC to observe Soil Stewardship Week

The Crockett Soil and Water Conservation District has announced it will join the national observance of Soil Stewardship Week to take place on May 27-June 3 according to an announcement by W. R. Baggett, chairman of the district.

The theme of this year's observance is "Conservation: A Common Commitment." This focus is especially appropriate as each one of us is dependent on water and related resources. Together we must work for the good of all to utilize, conserve and properly manage those resources in our care.

Participation in Soil Stewardship Week activities offers an opportunity to reflect on the nation's natural renewable resource problems and consider actions to resolve them or reduce their impact.

The Crockett SWCD was organized in 1950 for the purpose of offering farmers, ranchers and the local community a voluntary conservation technical assistance program through which individuals could seek and request conservation assistance to meet their individual land's capabilities and needs.

The National Association of Conservation Districts has sponsored Soil Stewardship Week in the United States since 1955, in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts. Informative material on the Soil Stewardship Week theme each year is distributed through local conservation districts to clergymen, lay leaders, civic and educational organizations and to individuals interested in participating in the celebration.

Information and materials for the 1984 observance of Soil Stewardship Week can be obtained in this area from Rev. Ralph Anderson.

Foreign mohair producers were honored recently at the Bob Childress ranch with a typical West Texas barbecue with all the trimmings, following the International Mohair Association meeting in West Texas. Ozonans Sonny Malone, Bob Childress and Gene Perry visit with Australian guests.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The State Democratic Executive Committee met this week to certify the results of the May 5 Democratic primary, but left town with the outcome of the U.S. Senate race still as confusing as ever.

If you remember, that campaign ended up in virtually a deadlock between the three major candidates—State Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin, former Congressman Bob Krueger of New Braunfels and current U.S. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock.

Hance surprised most political observers by edging out Doggett as the frontrunner. Most Capitol politicians had considered Krueger the favorite right up to election time.

However, the result of the SDEC's canvass of the vote changed things slightly.

After discovering a foul up in Willacy County tabulations, the SDEC put Doggett ahead of Hance with 456,018 votes to Hance's 455,621, and Krueger's 454,578.

That still means Hance and Doggett will face off in the June 2 runoff, but it does upset Hance's frontrunner apple cart.

Not to worry, however, because SDEC members say that those "new" figures are liable to change again.

The committee expects updated figures to be received from Dallam County in the Texas Panhandle to flip-flop the order again.

Which means Hance probably will regain the lead.

But that's not the end of the story.

While Hance and Doggett are fretting over who's going to get to call himself the frontrunner, Krueger is expected to ask for a full recount.

Krueger, who came so close to unseating Republican U.S. Sen. John Tower in 1978, said he would seek only a verification of the vote in only those counties that used voting machines, punch-card ballots and tabulated votes by computer.

Apparently, with all the uncertainty over the totals—and trailing by only a thousand votes—Krueger may feel he cannot afford not to seek a recount.

Illegal Aliens

Meanwhile, the campaign between the two "apparent" runoff contestants continues to degenerate into a one issue race—that issue being illegal immigration.

Most political observers credit Hance's late April media blitz, which zeroed in on that issue, for getting the Lubbock Democrat into the runoff.

Hance pounded, and pounded hard, on the issue of amnesty for those illegal aliens who have been in the U.S. several years.

Now, Doggett has begun to take Hance to task on the very same issue.

Doggett called a press conference to point out that—even though Hance has made his opposition to amnesty the major campaign issue—Hance has not attempted to proffer his own solution to the problem.

Hance countered by releasing a list of amendments he has offered to the immigration reform bill to be debated in Congress this June.

Doggett was not long in counter-attacking again by pointing out that those amendments were not filed until three days after the primary.

Whether we will hear again of any other issues in this campaign—such as inflation, unemployment, foreign policy or any of the dozens of other pressing problems facing the country—seems doubtful at this point.

Direct Primary

As for the other major election squabble, the issue of Texas Democrats holding a direct presidential primary for selecting delegates to their national convention apparently has been put to rest, at least until November.

The party's executive committee voted down a resolution supporting such primaries and, instead, authorized state party chairman Bob Slagle to appoint a special commission to study the issue after this year's elections are history.

That commission's study, which will be turned over to the Legislature in 1985, may or may not result in the controversial party caucus system being scrapped in favor of a binding primary.

With Slagle apparently dead set against any change that is not accompanied by a requirement that voters register according to party affiliation—thereby keeping Republicans from crossing over and influencing Democratic primaries—it seems doubtful that the idea will get much support.

But the main backer of the primary idea, Democratic County Chairmen's Association president Mel Phillips, says primary supporters will succeed eventually.

POLITICS IN OLYMPIAN GARB

By Edwin Feulner

Virtually everything today becomes embroiled in politics. Take the Olympic Games. The international athletic events have become more a battleground for competing ideologies than for competing athletes.

The 1984 summer games in Los Angeles will be no exception. Already throwing a pall on the upcoming games is the May 8 Soviet announcement that Soviet athletes will not compete because of alleged U.S. violations of the Olympic Charter. The Soviets charge that "extremist" groups are planning to create "unbearable conditions" for the Soviet delegation and that the U.S. would "not insure the security ... and create normal conditions for holding the games." The U.S. State Department dismissed the charges as "totally without merit." What the Soviets are really worried about is that American human rights activists will make it too easy for Soviet-bloc athletes to seek political asylum in the U.S. by setting up "safe-houses" in the Los Angeles area for potential political defectors.

But the politicking doesn't stop here. The Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), which claims "credit" for the massacre of eleven Israeli athletes and three others at the 1972 Munich Olympic Games, is petitioning the International Olympic Committee for participation.

Although there is virtually no chance the PLO can clear the political obstacles necessary for participation in this year's games, the fact that PLO participation is considered worthy of discussion is a sign that "world opinion" has forgotten the Munich slaughter.

Moreover, a 17-year-old, who may be the fastest female 5,000-meter runner on earth, has her own Olympic problems. Zola Budd, a South African, has run the distance in 15 minutes, 1.83 seconds—more than six seconds faster than the official world record of U.S. Olympian Mary Decker. Zola recently was granted British citizenship after Home Secretary Leon Brittan personally waived the normal three-year waiting period. South Africa currently is banned from participating in the Olympics. But why shouldn't Budd, if she's the best in the world in her class, be allowed to participate, even if the policies of her country are objectionable? Is the Soviet Union's slaughter of Afghans less objectionable?

And then there's Taiwan. The Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan is by no means among the bloodiest on the globe. Compared to most of the world—including the People's Republic of China (PRC)—the country is a model of enlightenment. Yet Taiwanese athletes aren't allowed to represent the Republic of China. Only the government of the PRC is officially recognized by the Olympic Committee. So at the 1984 winter games, Taiwanese athletes appeared in the opening parade carrying the Olympic flag, rather than the flag of their homeland.

More than just the Republic of China's flag was absent from the winter games in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia. The International Olympic Committee also decided that correspondents for Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty should not be allowed to cover the games. Because these networks, funded by the United States, broadcast news behind the Iron Curtain, the Olympic Committee ruled they are propaganda outlets, rather than news organizations. Of course, Radio Moscow, which broadcasts Soviet propaganda globally, and other state-run Communist propaganda operations was welcome and awarded the same credentials as CBS and NBC.

These are by no means isolated cases. The Olympic Games today are no longer just a showcase for athletic talent. Despite their Olympic garb, many of the world's premier athletes have become political punching bags.

The Olympic Games are supposed to transcend politics. So why should South Africa athletes be banned for crimes over which they have no control? Why should the Soviet Union even think of demanding concessions in return for participation? Why should a terrorist organization claiming "credit" for the slaughter of fourteen innocent people at an Olympic event only twelve years ago be welcome like the prodigal son at subsequent Olympics?

The outcome of these tests will demonstrate the true spirit of the modern Olympic Games.

you and the LAW
PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: My husband left a Will in which I inherited the entire estate. I have Letters Testamentary. Would it be wise to change the ownership to my name now or wait until I am ready to sell the house and car? I have three children all past the age of 21.

A: The ownership of the house was automatically changed to your name when the Will was admitted to probate, if the house is in the same county. If the house is not in the county where the Will was probated, certified copies of the Will and of the Order admitting it to probate need to be filed in the deed records of the county where the house is. It may be just as easy for you to keep the car in your husband's name until you get ready to sell it. Do not close the estate though, while the title is still in your husband's name. If anything should happen to you before you change the ownership of the car, the children may have to get a new executor appointed for your husband's estate solely for the purpose of transferring the car title.

Q: What advantages are there in keeping my maiden name after marriage?

A: In Texas, the debts incurred by a spouse are generally the responsibility of both people in the marriage. Therefore, when a woman with a good credit rating marries a man with a bad credit rating, she may want to keep her original surname because a credit bureau generally reports bad ratings under the name of the person holding the account. However, by merely retaining her original surname, a woman does not avoid the legal obligation for the debts incurred by the husband during the marriage.

If the woman has established a reputation professionally or in the business community under her maiden name, however, there may be a certain amount of good will that would be lost in changing her name after marriage.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Finally the showers did come our way last week and I'm sure everyone is most grateful to even have the dust settled and we hope our country greens again.

Beginning gardeners hate to think plants because it seems wasteful, but if you let every sprouting seed grow, none will develop properly. Select strongest plants to save and determine the proper space required.

If you have had problems grouping your day lilies in desired color combinations, dig, divide and replant now while they are in bloom. The job can be done now if you provide sufficient water to the plants while their roots are re-establishing. To discourage growth of weeds and helps maintain soil moisture, a good mulch around the plants will help.

With warmer weather approaching, you house plants will need to be fed every other week with a water soluble fertilizer like 18-18-18 or 20-20-20. Read the label before you buy to be sure the fertilizer contains all the nutrients your plants need that contain iron, manganese, copper and zinc.

If you grow aucubas you may have the problem of blackened leaves. The most common cause of dead leaves is sunburn. Unless your property is heavily shaded, your plants will be in the sun at sometime during the day, especially in the winter when there are no leaves on the trees. This exposure may cause some leaves to blacken on the tips and margins. Also recently transplanted aucubas may have suffered drought or similar signs of injury will appear after late spring freezes. If the damage is mild, pinch off blackened leaves and transplant your shrubs to a more shaded location and water them weekly during periods of drought. If you may want a shady spot to come to life, try a combination of low, shade-loving plants in a delicate texture, especially interesting beneath an ivy-covered garden wall. These are fragrant plantain lily, sweet woodruff, high fat cream plantain lily, cardinal flower, oakleaf acanthus and the English ivy.

Ms. Bailey is bridge hostess

Mrs. Jim Bob Bailey was hostess for bridge at the country club Thursday. High score went to Mrs. J. B. Parker and second high to Mrs. Jake Short. Mrs. Byron Williams won the bingo. Others playing were Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Clay Adams, Mrs. Jack Williams, Mrs. J. J. Marley, Mrs. Charlie Black, Mrs. Gene Lilly, Mrs. Gene Williams, Mrs. Hugh Childress, Mrs. Evert White, Mrs. Sherman Taylor and Mrs. Joe Bean.

Retirement party honors Jimmie Jacoby. Superintendent Garland Davis presents Mrs. Jacoby with a gift of appreciation from the Ozona School System upon her retirement. Mrs. Jacoby retires after teaching third grade for 27 years.

Mrs. Williams hostess for MP Garden Club

The Myrtle Post Garden Club held its regular meeting May 21, in the Civic Center with Mrs. Grace Williams serving as hostess.

Mrs. Joycelyn Graves assisted by presenting a right angle flower arrangement. Mrs. Graves gave members tips on how to make these with ease.

Members answered roll call with "Something I am growing for the first time." Mrs. Grace Williams, president, called the meeting to order. When asked for special reports Mrs. Jack Brewer reported on the recent flower show in Sunset Mall by the San Angelo Garden Clubs. Several of the members had attended and were also pleased with the displays.

Mrs. Brewer then read a letter from Rachel Hall thanking the club for its participation in the Health Fair Clinic.

Members were eager to report on their survival gardening. Many have started and now have blooms on their plants.

Mrs. Graves gave a report on the State Convention and how the Myrtle Post Garden Club rated. Members were pleased to hear the club was given first in state for the green club division.

Mrs. Williams then reminded members the plant sale is Thursday, May 24, and all members need to help.

Mrs. Philip Smith introduced Mrs. Scottie Houston who presented a program on "Growing in Organic Gardening". Mrs. Houston talked on humus and how it works with the soil. Composting was also demonstrated in a miniature compost bin Mrs. Houston had made.

The meeting was closed with a plant auction.

They have not died in vain — those who paid with their lives the last full measure. Today, Memorial Day, is the day to remember Lexington, Gettysburg, Coral Sea, Okinawa, Normandy, Viet Nam and Korea.

We need only to look at the cemeteries of the world to realize the supreme sacrifice that was called for that we might be secure. As they bravely died, so we must bravely live.

Let us nobly remember those who laid themselves between our country and her foes. This is Memorial Day.

Intermediate students reach 100-mile goal

Several Ozona intermediate students reached their goal of 100 miles for the year. The students have been jogging and walking during lunch and physical education classes to try to improve their physical fitness. The classes were also competing to see which one could run the most miles. Mrs. Margaret Spiller's class had the most miles for the third grade with a total of 2,849. Mrs. Leticia Macias's class led all fourth graders with 3,553. Mrs. Dolly Abbott's class had the most for the fifth grade with 2,400 miles.

Coach Carol Sessom feels the students have really benefited from their running program this year. Overall the majority of the students have improved their cardiovascular system and are in much better condition than the beginning of the fall.

Those completing the most miles in Mrs. Spiller's third class were Marcos Quiroz, 341 (the greatest distance of all third grade boys); Timothy Wheeler, 244; and Paul Vargas, 243. In Mrs. Jacoby's class, Eric Sanchez, 287; Jim Bob Moran, 272; and Cipriano Perez finished with 263 miles. The longest distance was 264 miles, in Mrs. Kirby's class, followed by Jimmy Longoria with 258 and Joe Jurado at 234. In Mrs. Probst's class, Jesus Ramos led with 309; Travis Gunnels, 300; and Michael Flores, 279. Myra Sanchez finished with 264 miles to lead all the third grade girls. Mrs. Pullen's group was led by Juan Flores, 307; Joe Mendoza, 288; and Andy Borrego at 282. In Mrs. Womack's class, Luis Guadarrama had 289 while Mark Perez finished with 272 and Matthew Marshall with 253.

Mrs. Macias's class was led by Rojelio Cisneros, 371; Adam Alba, 341; and Ricardo Onofre, 328. Mark Ramirez had 344 to lead Mrs. Worthington's fourth graders with 344 miles. He was followed by Janet McDaniel with 337 who led all fourth grade girls and Bryon Dunn had 224 miles. In Mrs. Jones' class, Pablo Talamantez had 345, Michael Vasquez finished 221 and Valerie Perez completed 214. Manuel Diego led all fourth grade boys with 378 miles followed by James Tambunga with 376 and Adrian Vargas with 371.

The school record was broken by Martin Urbina who completed 408 miles. Also in Mrs. Glasscock's class were Angel Hernandez with 205 miles and Sandra Fuentes with 104. Mrs. Abbott's fifth graders were led by Ruben Borrego with 372, Armando Trevino had 361 and Victor Trujillo, 200. Leticia Dominguez had the greatest distance of all fifth grade girls with 176 miles. Fleet Worthington had 181 followed by Emily Cervantez with 103 and Gilbert Rico at 102. In Mrs. Dixon's class, Oscar Gutierrez finished with 123, Valerie Flores had 104 and John Payne, Ofilia Rios and Michael Ybarra tied with 100 miles each.

These were the top finishers in each class of the 177 students who walked or jogged over 100 miles during the year.

Couple from India now call Ozona home

by Jana Harris

Journeying from Kapura, Gujarat, India, to this small West Texas town comes Jag-dip R. Bhakta and his wife, Naina. The couple has operated the Silver Spur Motel since November of 1982.

Bhakta came to the United States as a student in 1975. He attended Merced College in California, with an original intent to major in chemical technology to become a pharmacist. The open field of computer science gained his interests, however, and after six years he obtained a Bachelor of Business Administration and Information Systems from California State Polytechnic University in Los Angeles.

He has visited his homeland twice since he left, one time immediately after graduation in 1981. During this time he and his wife were married. They returned to the U.S. after nine months. "A lot of my friends were in this business and I was looking for a hotel. I did not have any territorial boundaries," Bhakta said explaining their settlement in Ozona.

"I really like it here because I am from a small town in India. It kind of feels at home," he said. Kapura is a rural area with 72 households located approximately 195 miles north of Bombay. "Now that I'm here I look back and think it was a good move from Los Angeles."

The lack of contact with increasing computer knowledge is one drawback he finds in Ozona as opposed to "San Antonio or Austin maybe."

Bhakta's progressive nature prompts his plans to develop a software system for small hotels. As a senior in college he specialized in small business computer systems. There isn't a present system available for such operations. This would not only benefit hotel managers but also "satisfy my needs to keep in touch with computers." Plans are to market the system on his own or through the Texas Hotel Association or magazines.

On the side, he also installs and services telephone systems for all locations in this region of Texas.

Opportunities for his career interests were hindered in his native land. "In India you can't get a job on your own qualification, you must know someone." There are a lot of people in the ministry that one must get to know. Having lived in the U.S., he was put behind in the business world in India. He was accustomed to the U.S. ways. The field of computers isn't developed very extensively there either. They are currently reserving a certain part of one city for electronic industry development. Bhakta reports that they are attempting to model the Silicon Valley in California. The industry is there, but the complete manufacturing isn't. Lack of a computer field led to his return to this country.

After flunking three or four English classes in college, he eventually mastered the language. During high school, English was a part of the curriculum like Spanish is in our schools. He didn't speak any English when he arrived. Now he is trilingual, speaking English, Hindi and Gujarati. Seventeen languages are spoken in India.

Each summer as a college student found him traveling throughout the U.S. "I would go and visit places of interest," he said. Several times during our conversation he mentioned historical sites and events on an international basis. The Statue of Liberty, Sears Tower, NASA, Empire State Building and Yellowstone National Park are those he hopes to one day see. He has covered the nation with the exception of the northern border between Oregon and Washington, D.C.

Bhakta is a vegetarian unswept by our fast-food franchises. In California, Burger Kings have a special key entitled "Vege Burger" on their cash registers. He laughed and said he went to McDonald's for french fries. He's used to people giving a double take when he asks for a burger minus the meat.

His sister arrived in the U.S. in 1967. She periodically wrote letters to the younger Bhakta filling him in on life in America. When he was in high school, she would send him clippings from magazines that she had translated for him. She sent a toy man on the moon once which clinched his desire to know more about this country.

"I was just a curious person to begin with," Bhakta said. The greatest privilege for him living in the States is the incentive of progress combined with the opportunities. It is this nature that lures him to stay.

Supper honors Masons

The Ozona Eastern Star Chapter honored members of the Ozona Masonic Lodge with a backyard supper of hamburgers, beans, homemade ice-cream and cake, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Kerby Saturday.

Packing for Travel
With vacation time just around the corner, careful suitcase packing can help insure a safe trip for clothing and a happy journey for the vacationer. Safeguard clothing by always locking the luggage, especially when traveling by air. Luggage can receive very rough treatment. Put some other means of identification other than names on the side to make it easy to spot in a luggage claim check, such as colorful tape.

When packing for travel, follow these guidelines to minimize wrinkling:

1. Pack in 3-sections--sports-wear, nightwear and dress clothes.

2. Layer items singly to cushion folds by overlapping garments over each other.

3. Fasten all closings.

4. London roll jacket sleeves by wrapping with tissue paper or plastic bag and loosely roll toward jacket. Place jacket face down.

5. Fold jackets and dresses in thirds.

Should wrinkling occur in clothes, remove them in one of these ways: Place the garment on a hanger in a shower steam; rub the wrinkle with a hot light bulb; slightly dampen the wrinkle and dry with a hair dryer on highest setting; with the garment lying flat, rub wrinkles with a damp cloth and hang to dry.

To maximize space usage, follow these suggestions: Pack the heaviest items, such as shoes and hair dryer, nearest the hinges; place shoes heel to toe for compactness; keep a balanced suitcase by evenly distributing heavy items; roll underwear, socks and nightwear to fill in gaps.

Other tips in packing to insure a happy trip include the following:

1. Carry a plastic bag and rubber band for dirty clothing; pack cosmetics and toiletries in plastic bottles and place in a plastic bag or carrying case; carry a small sewing kit for fast mending; pack small items in shoes and purses for compactness. Happy vacationing!

Things to remember....

By-Evart White

Nostalgia is the order of the day nowadays. Forty-six years as editor and publisher of The Ozona Stockman has enriched my life and left me with many pleasant and some unpleasant memories. With your indulgence, I shall attempt to share some of them with you, promising to keep them short wherever possible.

Let's remember, then... The Fourth of July celebration when Lee Wilson, high-flying Ozona auto dealer, volunteered to put on an aerial fireworks display over Ozona. Flying his single-engine plane, Lee took on a load of fireworks, including aerial bombs, roman candles, loud fire crackers and such. Dressed in his snow-white linen suit and white shoes to be ready for the platform dance when his show was completed, Lee took off and put on a magnificent show for the time. His landing field was the flat land area of southwest Ozona, west of 163 and south of now I-10. Townsfolk parked their cars with lights on to outline the landing strip. No trouble there. But while Lee was in the air a watermelon peddler had parked his truck in the plane's approach lane and Lee couldn't see it. He dragged his wheels on the truck, slowed to a damaging landing, then stepped out, still immaculate and was off to the dance with scarcely a backward glance. Once on the ground he told of an even more harrowing experience while lighting and pitching out the fireworks. He had lighted one of the powerful bombs and as he started to heave it out, dropped it in the cockpit. A wild scramble followed. The errant bomb, spewing ominously, was retrieved in the nick of time and tossed out.

And while we're on it, another "Lee Wilson and his airplane" story. While operating his auto agency in Ozona, Lee bought another in Big Lake, commuting between the two cities in his plane. He took off late one afternoon from Big Lake in a threatening West Texas thunderstorm. Clouds hung low but Lee opined that his goal was just 40 miles away and the low ceiling could not bother too much. But, climbing from the Big Lake take-off, he found himself flying in a complete blackout of dense, seemingly topless, clouds. His plane, by modern standards, was primitive. Instruments consisted of a more or less sensitive compass. Though he might be flying in the direction of Ozona, in such a pea-soup he might end up in Mexico if he couldn't see the ground. Fearful to try getting under the ceiling for fear of slamming into the ground, he figured his only chance was to get above the clouds and hunt for an opening.

He started to climb, but suddenly hit a hole in the clouds and looked out at his wing and realized he was circling at a tight angle. Unable to see whether he was flying upside down, sideways or straight, he was pilot enough to know that he had to climb. He couldn't be sure he was climbing, so he turned his control for a steep climb and held it until the engine stalled. He'd level off and then climb to another stall etc. until he finally emerged from the storm clouds into the sunshine.

"If I hadn't been so scared, it would have been the prettiest sight I ever saw," he said later of the sunshine on the cloud layer. Came the problem then of finding his way down through the solid overcast.

There were small holes in the clouds and as he flew over them he could see the ground, but always there were barbed wire fences, cattle or trees. Finally he saw a road and turned his plane into a nosedive. The opening was narrow and in circling he'd fly back into the clouds. But he learned how to swivel his head much like the owl in keeping his eye on the shaft of sunlight that was the opening in the clouds. Finally, emerging from the clouds, he found himself directly over the Ozona-Sonora road just a few miles east of Ozona, and a good 500-foot ceiling.

The time Armand Hoover, Jr. in a basketball game wherein Ozona was in contention for the championship of its own tournament, took a long, desperation shot from midcourt, as the gong sounded, for a possible Ozona win. As Armand went into the air for the shot, an opposition player, a bruiser type, hit him headon. Armand got the shot off, but landed flat on his back, his head popping hard on the boards. He was out like a light. After they'd massaged and poured water on him, he came to. Jumping up wildeyed he shouted, "Did I make it?" Yes, he did.

Then, there's the time my newspaper career almost came to a screeching halt because of a grievous typographical error that crept into the paper. Burglars had broken into a girls' dormitory at one of the state's universities. An Ozona girl, a resident of the dorm, had lost some of her possessions to the burglar and that was news here, especially since the girl was the daughter of the veteran county Judge Chas. E. Davidson. News in those days was set on a linotype machine, each line of type being cast in metal. That being the case, when an error was detected by the proof reader, the correction took the form of a new linotype line containing several words in most cases. The story in this case, after recounting the facts of the burglary, should have read "Among the students suffering loss at the hands of the thieves was Miss Beth Davidson of Ozona." But that's not the way it came out. An error had been corrected but the correction line had not been dropped in. Consequently the story read, "Among the students thieves was Miss Beth Davidson." The Judge's office was next door and it wasn't long after the paper came out that he came storming in with his legal feathers all fluffed up. It took some tedious explaining, illustrated with a new linotype slug set to show how the error occurred. Convinced of our innocent mistake, the Judge was forgiving and sympathetic.

DIRECTOR OF ACTIVITIES & SOCIAL CARE

Open House Saturday afternoon featured guest speaker State Senator Bill Sims, a slide presentation, including one of our residents, and refreshments furnished by our Ladies Hospital and Care Center Auxiliary. 4-H servers were Ann Hoover and Jerri Lynn Martinez. They were assisted by Rachel Hall and Marie Pierson. Twenty-two guests registered. Alice Ross presented Senator Sims a ceramic piece made by our residents in appreciation for his visit.

Earlier in the day Saturday, our residents had a sale in the mall area beside Perry's. There were cakes, ceramics, and crafts all for sale. Proceeds were about $450. Not enough for our curtains, but a start. Many thanks goes to radio station KRCT for free ad's and for helping us sell some of our cakes. Thanks goes to the following for furnishing cakes: Anna Smith, Jo Davidson, Sadie Davidson, Maxine Henderson, Jean North, Jodie Sessom, Elvira Caldwell, Ann McCartney, Care Center residents, Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander, Betty Gonzales, Maria Vitela, Becky Childress, Mary Leigh Jones, and Monnie Boyd. Thanks also goes to Joyce Terry for sending another clay pot for the sale, to our residents for donating crafts, and to the following people who helped "shuttle" the residents back and forth, to and from the Care Center to the sale, who helped set up or helped put away: Marie Pierson, Jo Davidson, Clara Byrd, and Mary Leigh Jones. Residents who attended the sale included: Inez Biggs, Billie Whatley, Ola Mills, Maude Pettit, Nina Mayfield, Hilda Dysart, Alice Ross and Tomasa Ramos. We also want to thank Michelle Couch, James Pagan, Lloyd Winkley, and Jean Connors for getting our cake sale off to a good start.

This was the week for our monthly birthday party. Polly Mayes Eppler baked the cake, Maxine's Flowers sent corsages to our honorees, and hostesses Mary Leigh Jones and Bonnie Warth from the Ladies Hospital and Care Center Auxiliary served all residents. Honorees were Hilda Dysart and Jesus Hernandez. Tuesday and Friday bingo winners included: Moriama Perez, winner of the El Chato dinner for two, Virginia Russell, winner of the first place certificate from Watson's Department Store, Maude Pettit, second place winner of Anna Bell's Avon. Volunteers included Patrick, Mattie Cooper, and Virginia Bishop along with our regular sitters and resident volunteers.

Doris Karr supervised the Wednesday morning ceramic class. That afternoon we saw two movies furnished by the school. We were treated to a noon picnic during this special Nursing Home Week. Jo Davidson treated all residents who would go to fried chicken and all the trimmings in city park. Maxine Henderson, along with her sister Bernice Smallwood, Dominoes were played on Monday by Maude Pettit, Nila Turnell, Paul Cavin and Johnny Henderson. In the afternoon, residents were treated to music by Clara Byrd. Thanks for sharing your talent, Clara!

ACS solicits memorial gifts

Sooner or later, cancer will touch the lives of two out of every three American families. In response to the great need for cancer research, the American Cancer Society has established a memorial fund to give families and friends of cancer victims a way to help in the fight against the dreaded disease.

Memorial Day is a special time of year when many people want to pay tribute to a friend or relative but are not sure how to go about it. Jane Black, Memorial Chairman for the Crockett Unit of the ACS, said the program is a "gift of life program—a living memorial," because contributions made to fight cancer today may spare others tomorrow. Although memorials are given all year long, Mrs. Black said, "This is an excellent opportunity for people to give in memory of a loved one."

Memorial gifts are used in the Cancer Society's three-fold attack on cancer through research, education and service, explained Mrs. Black. "Research is always an on-going process concerned with the causes of cancer and how to prevent cancer. Education is giving information—to anyone who has cancer or a member of the family, or to people who don't have cancer but wish to know how to prevent it or their chance of getting cancer," Mrs. Black said. The Society's service program provides free medical equipment and services to cancer patients.

Although the major source of funds for these programs is the Society's Spring Crusade, memorial contributions received throughout the year are becoming increasingly important to the Society, Mrs. Black added. Memorial gifts can be made by individuals or groups, and should include the name of the person honored and the name and address of the person to whom acknowledgement should be sent. The ACS acknowledges all contributions by sending a card to the family stating the name of the contributor. The memorial card does not state the amount of the gift. Special memorial envelopes are available at Ozona National Bank, Crockett County

National Bank and the Teacher Store, or by contacting Jane Black or Becky Childress.
