School board receives new insurance rates

The regular monthly meeting of the Crockett County Consolidated Common School District Board of Trustees was held Thursday, July 12, in the administration building of Ozona Public Schools.

Rain falls on hot, dry Ozona

Over one-half inch of rain fell here Thursday afternoon in two hard showers which flooded streets in the downtown and village areas, making for unsafe driving conditions.

Most home gauges recorded .75 of an inch from the two thundershowers. The weather channel, a sophisticated device used by the cable system to beam local weather over channel 14, gave a reading of .64. This seems to be the most accurate way of gauging rainfall in Ozona. The recently installed equipment beams all the local weather, highs and lows for the day, wind velocity, and rainfall, over the national weather channel which is received here on channel 14. The official gauge at the water district office gave a reading of .56 of an inch of rainfall for the day.

The rain came so hard and fast there was a great deal of run-off, but it was some help to parched lawns and shrubs.

Another quarter of an inch of rain fell Tuesday at noon on the heels of a windy front which blew in shortly before. The front and the rainfall cooled the weather and it was 68 degrees at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon.

Weekly sheriff's report

The Crockett County Sheriff's Department made ten arrests for the week ending July 23. They included two males apprehended for possession of marijuana, one theft, one probation violation and possession of controlled substance, two disorderly conducts, one public intoxication, one public intoxication and disorderly conduct, one driving while license suspended and speeding and one probation violation.

On July 17, a motorcycle accident was investigated two miles east on the old 290 Highway. A theft of service occurred at Shot's Convenience Store around 9:20 Friday morning. The subjects were never located. Also on this day, the department investigated a report of a stolen tool box from a truck. A theft of a tire was reported at the Truck Stop, but the man returned to pay for the tire.

An ambulance was sent to the John Childress Ranch eight miles north of town on Highway 163 Monday. An alien fell off his horse and broke his leg. Six disturbance calls were answered for the week.

OZONA LITTLE LEAGUE

The Ozona Little League All-Stars were eliminated from the play-off tournament when they lost to San Angelo Saturday night in San Angelo.

Armando Villarreal, representative for Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Texas, appeared before the board to present members with information on employee health insurance rates for 1984-1985.

Curtis Keith, school maintenance supervisor, gave the members a progress report on the bus maintenance facility and summer work projects.

The Board of Trustees accepted the resignation of Peri Fenton and LaVaughn Payne from the junior high school faculty and approved the hiring of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Graham for teaching positions in Ozona Junior High and Ozona Intermediate School. Graham will teach eighth grade math and coach seventh grade girls' athletics. His wife, Janis, will teach fifth grade.

The board also approved the hiring of Jerry Tucker to teach junior high history and

OHS band practice to begin

Summer band practice begins Monday, August 6, at 6 p.m. in the Ozona High School band hall.

Students will need to bring their instruments at this time. A full summer schedule will be handed out at this first practice session.

coach tennis. Tucker will take the place of Ruben Pena-Alfaro who will teach social studies in high school this year.

Board approval was also given for the addition of Mary Hufstelder and Terry Racher to the 1984-1985 substitute teacher list, and the members voted their approval for the employment of Nikki Sewell as a secretary to Charles Womack, principal of Ozona Junior High School.

The Board of Trustees approved the bid of Echo Pump Service for the purchase and installation of gasoline pumps and tanks at the bus maintenance facility. They also accepted the bid of Agriplex Computers for classroom computer equipment in Ozona High School. The board members also authorized the purchase of media services for 1984-1985 from the Region XV Education Service Center in an Angelo.

The meeting was adjourned after reports were given by Superintendent Garland Davis on June cash receipts, the current status of the Crockett County Adult Library, personnel, and the effects of the recently passed education reform bill.

Stokes named for Gramm

U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm has announced the names of over 50 state, regional and county coordinators and finance chairmen from the Kent Hance campaign, including Ozona accountant John D. Stokes, who has assumed leadership positions in the Gramm for Senate campaign.

"I am very honored by this groundswell of support," Gramm said. "Clearly, it is based not on partisanship, but on principle, on a commitment to traditional Texas values, and I am deeply gratified to have the support of such community leaders such as John Stokes."

Across West Texas, Lubbock oilman Rex Fuller, who headed Congressman Hance's West Texas fundraising efforts, has joined with Amarillo banker Gene Edwards, Midland oil and gas operator Cy Wagner and key Hance campaign leaders from Odessa, Plainview, Hereford, Lamesa, Wichita Falls, San Angelo and Abilene in moving to the Phil Gramm campaign.

Also on the list released by Gramm were East Texas Chamber of Commerce President C.E. Teague of Sherman, Mayor Scott Parker of Liberty, Jacksonville banker Jeff Austin, automobile dealer Ted Connell of Killeen, Brenham banker Tien "Skipper" Dippel and Texarkana attorney Steve Oden.

Elsewhere, Houston banker Walter Mischer, Dallas conservative Democratic leader Orr Orr, Dallas attorney Cloyce Box, Fort Worth attorney Dee Kelly, who serves as chairman of House Majority Leader Jim Wright's political action committee, and banker Sam Young Jr. of El Paso have shifted from the Hance campaign to support Gramm.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Childress recently moved and restored this old wooden windmill on the Childress ranch south of town. It is a true antique and now stands near their ranch home.

MEMBER 1984 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin-Capitol complex halls fell quiet last week while Texas government officials, all of them Democrats, attended their party's national convention in San Francisco.

In the lull, reporters examined the six months financial reports listing officer-holder contributions and expenditures.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby spent the most, using $2.3 million of his own money to retire his 1982 campaign debts.

Governor Mark White reported spending almost $375,000 on travel, dinners and gifts. His file showed he accepted $240,000, mostly from 18 businessmen and two political committees, and he borrowed another $200,000.

Other officeholders spending over $100,000 were Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, House Speaker Gib Lewis and Attorney General Jim Mattox.

Among those officials, Lewis caught press flak for not reporting the direct source of some of his contributions, and Mattox drew criticism for using political contributions to pay income taxes and his legal defense of a commercial bribery charge.

Lewis' report listed a Dallas law firm as the contributor following a fundraiser, when actually the law firm organized the bash and gathered money from several individuals.

Mattox spent $99,700 on legal fees, and $14,140 to pay income taxes.

State Vs. Feds State officials and the U.S. Department of Interior are still locked in a dispute over whether the feds can carry out mass leasing of submerged oil lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

A federal judge last week ruled the oil lease sale could take place in Houston, but reserved the right to void the sale in the future.

Texas is arguing that such mass sales have shortchanged the federal and coastal state governments by as much as $20 billion.

Rate Cut Offered In what is a good sign for homeowners among rising mortgage interest rates, the staff of the State Board of Insurance last week recommended a $64 million statewide reduction in property insurance rates.

If enacted by commissioners, the proposed cut could lower homeowner's insurance by about 11 percent. The insurance industry still has to study the proposal and comment.

Land Office The General Land Office last week drilled a second well on controversial Duval County state oil lands.

The first well drilled three months ago is producing a monthly income of about $160,000.

The state must drill those wells as part of the legal solution to taking back the lands from Mobil Oil Corp.

Woman Appointee The governor last week appointed what some believe is the first Texas woman to chair a major state board or commission.

San Antonio attorney Margaret Meyer Maisell will chair the Industrial Accident Board. Maisell, a woman familiar with being "first," was reportedly the first woman to be admitted to St. Mary's Law School, where she graduated first in her class.

Utility Chief Quits Meanwhile, the chairman of the Public Utility Commission, Al Erwin of Austin, resigned to go into public relations.

Erwin, a former journalist, was appointed in 1983 and said then he didn't expect to serve a full six-year term. He was one of the commission's initial members when it was created in 1975.

AG Computer The Texas Department of Agriculture plans to use about 100 microcomputers installed in offices around the state to put farmers and ranchers in touch with buyers.

The database is called AgNet, a federal program which contains up-to-the-minute information on buyers worldwide searching for particular products.

The initial cost is $500,000, which might be supplemented by federal grant money.

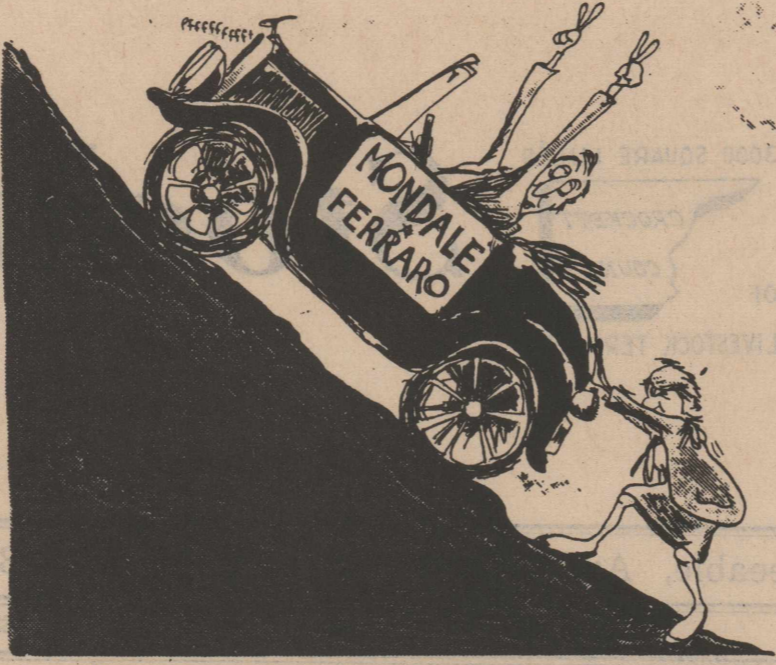

Political Drop-Out On the campaign scene, a state Senate hopeful from Austin announced he is dropping out of the race because he can't get any cooperation or support from his party.

Pat McNamara, Republican candidate for the seat being vacated by Lloyd Doggett, said his race is being passed over by GOP officials because it's a predominantly Democratic district.

By state law, McNamara cannot be replaced on the ballot under such conditions. His resignation thereby gives the victory to his Democratic opponent, Gonzalo Barrientos.

SLAVE-MADE GOODS

By Edwin Feulner

Evidence from official and unofficial sources clearly indicates that the Soviet Union is exporting goods to the U.S. produced in whole or part by forced labor. But so far, nothing has been done to stop the flow of such goods into the U.S.

In fact, action on this matter was recently suspended for no apparent reason. U.S. law prohibits the importation of goods made by forced or slave labor, but a finding that the Soviet merchandise is in violation of the law ultimately requires the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

And yet, according to evidence provided by the State Department and CIA, some four-million Russians now work in forced labor camps, churning out cheaply made goods for export. These goods include wood products, glass, various electronic and automotive parts, tea, clothing and raw and processed ores. Unfortunately, the list includes mostly raw materials and component parts, not things one could identify on the shelf and boycott.

In a rare move, 78 Members of Congress, representing a cross-section of liberals and conservatives, recently filed a formal complaint with the U.S. Customs Service. They want Customs to inform its district directors of the issue and detain suspect Soviet goods pending the Treasury Secretary's ruling.

This type of action could help stop the flow of "slave-made" goods into the U.S. at least temporarily. Only once before, when the Soviet Union was accused of exporting crabmeat canned by Japanese prisoners of war, was a similar complaint filed with U.S. Customs. A ban was placed on the crabmeat from 1950 to 1961.

Certainly the U.S. public can live without the Soviet goods. Plenty of U.S. businesses are producing similar goods, so banning these products wouldn't create any shortages. But it would stop the Soviets from taking advantage of bureaucratic delays in the enforcement of U.S. law.

More important, it would send the Soviets another signal that we mean business. It is totally out of character for the United States to knowingly blink at this wholesale violation of human rights. The fact that the Soviet Union consistently violates basic human rights is nothing new. But forcing millions of its citizens to work in gulags and other prison camps under atrocious conditions should not be ignored by the U.S. or indirectly accepted.

Unfortunately, pursuing a policy of wishful thinking won't discourage the Soviets from continuing these practices. And verbal disapproval isn't enough either. In this case, an immediate ban on the entry of all goods known to be produced by forced labor is the only answer. After all, what good is hard-line rhetoric without action to back it up?

Q: Is there any way I can locate my natural parents who put me up for adoption when I was a baby?

A: Under a new law effective January 1, 1984, voluntary registration may be accomplished through a Central Registry at the Department of Human Resources.

An adopted child, birth parents, and adopted siblings may voluntarily register after they have reached age 21. Also, agencies which place children for adoption may set up their own registries. Once enough information is obtained, the central registry will attempt to match the inquiries.

The Department of Human Resources Special Services Division is located in Austin, DHR, Building B.

Q: I want to marry my live-in boyfriend since we have a three year old daughter, but my boyfriend was married by common law to his niece. Does he have to get a formal divorce before he can marry me?

A: Any marriage entered into with a son or daughter of a brother or sister is void. Therefore, this man does not have to have a formal divorce. The marriage to the niece will be treated as if it never happened. You may even have him file a lawsuit to Declare the Marriage Void, which would put on public record the fact that under law no marriage existed.

Q: I was arrested over the weekend for possession of drugs. Can my employer fire me because of this? If he does, do I have any recourse?

A: Yes, an employer generally has the right to terminate an employee because of an arrest. However, if your employer has a grievance procedure, you may be able to have the termination reviewed.

State agencies typically have grievance committees and procedures for review. Many private industries and firms also describe these procedures in office manuals or personnel policies. Unless review is available, you probably have no recourse against your employer.

Q: Is it necessary to prepare an inventory of an estate when a will is filed as an affidavit of heirship? A tax statement was filed and the estate was less than $225,000.

A: The only provision in the law for filing the inventory of an estate is that the executor, administrator or guardian must file within 90 days after appointment. In the situation you described, there will not be an executor, administrator or guardian, so there will be no necessity for an inventory.

If there is real estate in the estate, however, you will be causing problems later on by not filing an inventory. Although Affidavit of Heirship is a fast and convenient method for settling an estate, if the property is not described in the probate records, the heirs will have difficulty selling the land.

Q: How much social security and pension can I expect to get from my husband of 33 years? He has filed for divorce and is intending to marry another woman.

A: Many factors bear on the division of pension benefits upon divorce. For example: 1) fault in the break-up of the marriage; 2) how many years you were married while he worked with the company; 3) how much other community property there is to divide; 4) how much separate property there is, if any.

I therefore recommend you consult an attorney who practices family law to value the pension and to help you negotiate its division. On the other hand, the Social Security Administration will be able to discuss your benefits after divorce based on your husband's employment history. If they will not talk to you, your lawyer can require your husband to get that information for you.

Rep. Gramm to hold area press conference

U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm, candidate for the U.S. Senate, will attend a press conference at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, July 31 at the Joe Berger Field in Sonora to discuss his candidacy for the U.S. Senate. Gramm is best known for co-authoring the Reagan economic recovery program and for resigning from Congress and winning re-election as a Republican after Tip O'Neill stripped him of his Budget Committee seat in reprisal for his successful efforts to control spending. The congressman, who won the Republican nomination with an extraordinary 73 percent of the vote against three opponents who spent a total of $4 million, said Texans deserved an issue-oriented campaign in the general election race for the U.S. Senate this year. "The people of Texas face a clear choice between two dedicated advocates of distinctly different philosophies of government," Gramm said. "I have spent six years in Congress working for a balanced budget, lower taxes, greater economic opportunity for the working people of this country and a strong defense. My opponent has consistently demanded higher taxes, more spending and less defense."

Where Congressman Gramm introduced a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution on his first day in Congress--Jan. 3, 1979--Lloyd Doggett voted against the resolution adopted by the Texas Legislature which urged approval of the balanced budget amendment. Doggett also has opposed the balanced budget amendment in his primary and runoff campaigns. Congressman Gramm's stop in Sonora is part of a 75-city swing "aimed at continuing to build on our grassroots base of support for the November general election."

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Our extended days with no moisture and very hot afternoons, watering has been the number one chore to keep gardens looking their best. Here in Ozona we should be thankful for the plentiful water we can use. If your soil contains plenty of humus, so much water will not be required. Since our soil is mostly alkaline there is one advantage, for there is a much wider variety of alkaline plants than acid loving ones.

Perhaps you have a doorway or entrance, or want to make a dense sunscreen on a trellis or arbor and want a rapid growing, pest free vine to use. One of the few durable evergreen vines available is the hardy, native throughout the south, green-brier smilax (smilax lanceolata). A plus for it is that it does not damage the structure it climbs on. Some support is needed at planting, but once established, it will layer over itself to create a dense screen that is surprisingly light and airy in appearance. It will do best in full or partial sun-needs moderate amount of water, well drained soil and will climb 20 feet in single season. Its dark-green foliage has a softening effect on the architecture.

August and September are the months to plant oriented poppies if you have a good place or room for them. Also bluebonnets should be planted or thrown out on a hillside so they will be there when we have rain. It would be wonderful to have another beautiful display of them next spring.

Remove all spent annuals from planting beds to make room for fall flowers. Sow the seeds a bit thicker than needed so the seedlings can penetrate the crusty soil that we have. Some heat tolerant choices that do well here are marigolds, zinnias, periwinkle and portulaca.

MRS. CHARLES CALVERT
nee Miss Teresa Shaw

Shaw, Calvert unite in wedding ceremony Sat.

Miss Teresa Ann Shaw became the bride of Mr. Charles Douglas Calvert in a 7 o'clock in the evening ceremony Saturday, July 21, at Park Cities Baptist Church in Dallas. Dr. Max Brown officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Shaw and Colonel and Mrs. Jack F. Calvert of Fort Hood.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory satin gown featuring a high neckline and Genevieve sleeves with lace-edged button cuffs. The bodice was covered with cotton chantilly lace accented with bridal pearls. The skirt fell from a long torso waistline and was accented with scalloped Alencon lace on the hemline which flowed into a cathedral-length train. For her hair, she chose a capulet with matching lace with a flurry of illusion, silk flowers and pearls adorning the side of the cap, flowing to a long illusion with a sea of pearls. Maid of honor was Miss Cathy Stanland of Houston. Best man was Dale Thompson of Abilene.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Hensley, Mrs. Ross Massengill, Ms. Kim Turner, Miss Caren Weaver, Mrs. Michael Massingill and Miss Karen Powers.

Groomsmen were Ron Shaw, brother of the bride, David Asbell, Tance Jackson, Robert Smith, Bennett Cook and Brett Howard. Dean Shaw, another brother of the bride, was an usher.

Following a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe the couple will reside in Dallas, where the bridegroom is an attorney and the bride is a secretary.

The bride is a graduate of Ozona High School and Texas Tech University. Her husband graduated from Texas Tech and also Texas Tech School of Law.

Medicare insurance available for kidneys

People in the San Angelo area suffering from permanent kidney failure should be aware that Medicare health insurance is available for those who need regular kidney dialysis or a kidney transplant, Franklin H. Upp, Social Security manager in San Angelo, said recently.

A person who has permanent kidney failure can get Medicare if he or she:

Worked long enough to be insured under Social Security, or already gets Social Security benefits, or is the husband, wife, or dependant child of someone who has worked long enough under Social Security.

Medicare coverage generally begins with the third month after the month the person starts getting dialysis treatments.

Coverage can also begin in the first month of a course of dialysis if the person takes part in an approved self-dialyze after the course.

Coverage can also begin the month the person is admitted to an approved hospital for a kidney transplant if the transplant takes place within 3 months.

Medicare generally ends 12 months after the month a person no longer needs maintenance dialysis or 36 months following a kidney transplant. For more information about Medicare coverage for people with permanent failure, get in touch with the San Angelo Social Security Office by calling 949-4608.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. George and children, Melonie and Emily, of Midland spent the weekend here with her mother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kost.

GOD MUST SMILE

There was never a more serious moment in Barbara's life. Nor any more remarkable in Raggedy Ann's. Barbara's parents smiled and thought of tomorrow. So must have God.

For God rejoices in a child's faith. Knowing that gradually it will grow wiser— Though it cannot ever be more sincere. And He smiles lovingly at what we are today. Knowing, all the while, what we can become tomorrow!

Is your child—are you—growing in the faith of your church?

Ranchers should consider income tax aspects of losses

Ranchers who are being forced to sell livestock because of decimated pastures and reduced water supplies should begin considering the income tax aspects of their losses, says Joe Pena of Uvalde, economist-manager with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Income from drought sales may be treated two ways for tax purpose, depending on whether the livestock is considered inventory or breeding stock," Pena said. Both types of sales are outlined in the Farmer's Tax Guide.

Income from the sale of inventory stock may be deferred for up to one year, he said.

"Producers can elect to defer the revenue from sales of certain, such as steers, heifers and calves, for one year if the sale was due to drought conditions," Pena said. However, this particular election does not apply to livestock used for breeding, draft, dairy or sporting purposes.

If, because of drought, a taxpayer, whose principal activity is farming or ranching, sells livestock in excess of the number that would be sold in a normal business year, he may elect to include the proceeds in the next year's income provided that: the cash method of accounting is used; it can be established under usual business circumstances the number sold would not have occurred; and, the drought has resulted in the area being designated as eligible for federal assistance.

Purchased livestock, such as stocker steers or heifers, as well as "raised livestock" will qualify, he said. In addition, sales made prior to an area being declared eligible for federal assistance may qualify, the economist said.

To determine the amount of income to be deferred, a producer must first calculate the average amount received per head sold due to drought, he said.

When livestock kept for breeding, draft or dairy purposes are sold or exchanged solely because of drought, the sale or exchange is considered an involuntary conversion, Pena said.

A taxpayer may elect to postpone the tax on the gain from sales of breeding livestock if replaced with livestock of like kind within two years from the close of the year in which the gain was realized.

The taxpayer's principal business does not have to be farming or ranching and the area does not have to be officially declared eligible for assistance by the federal government.

Tax on the gain may be postponed on the number sold in excess of the usual practice. A loss resulting from the sale is deductible in the year that it is sustained.

In either situation, direct losses may be reported either in the IRS Form 4797, Supplemental Schedule of Gains and Losses, or on Schedule F, Farm Income and Expenses, if the livestock were purchased and died or were sold at a loss.

However, basic information covering tax deferral should be reported in IRS Form 4797, Supplemental Schedule of Gains and Losses. The tax return for the year of sale should include: evidence of drought; amount of gain realized; number and kind sold or replaced; and number and kind replaced.

Tax returns for the placement year, should include: replacement purchase price; number and kind of replacements; and cost of replacement.

The cost of replacement livestock must equal or exceed the proceeds of livestock sold due to drought.

Drought losses will be felt over a long period by poor livestock performance, such as lower calving rates, weaker calves and lower weaning weights.

Summer seems to be flying right on by. The last week in July is already here.

We had a good Ladies Hospital and Care Center Auxiliary meeting last week led by President Doris Karr. Several future projects were discussed.

Summer librarian Veronica McClanahan obtained a film for our residents to view. We really appreciate the extra efforts of Veronica and of Sheri York in supplying us with movies.

Last Tuesday night the Knox band gave their monthly performance. Jamie Knox and J.D. and Don Kilgore came and gave their usual fine performance.

Ceramic class was led on Wednesday by Doris Karr. Residents participating included Juana Hernandez, Tomasa Ramos, Hilda Dy-sart, Maude Pettit, Ola Mills, Billie Whatley and Moriana Perez.

Sunshine Hour volunteers Lou Deaton and Dorothy Montgomery served residents peaches and ice cream on Wednesday afternoon. What a nice treat!

Clara Byrd treated our residents to some of her good piano music several times last week. It is nice to have a volunteer who will drop by and give us a "change of pace" from time to time.

Clara was one of our helpers in the beauty shop Thursday. Lola Rios was back from vacation and set up the shop nice and early like she always does. (And we really appreciate this too.) Inez Gutierrez and Angelita Pena lended a helping hand as did Lillie Fierro. Tomasa Ramos' daughter from Los Angeles, Calif. We really appreciate all these workers.

Ted Turnley led Bible study on Thursday. Maude Pettit played the piano and Paul Cavin assisted with the singing.

Tuesday and Friday bingo winners included Hilda Dy-sart, winner of the Watson's Dept. Store certificate; John Henderson, second place, winner of Avon donated by Anna Bell Patrick, and Moriana Perez, winner of the El Chato dinner for two certificate. Volunteers included Patrick, Dorothy Doll, Virginia Bishop and several of our sitters.

Dominoes were played over the weekend and again on Monday by Maude Pettit, Paul Cavin, Ola Mills, Johnny Henderson and Nila Turnnell.

Sunday afternoon church services were given by seven members of the Church of Christ. Our resident report-ers said it was a very fine service.

Another program of down memory lane and reading was held last Friday. Maude Pettit shared the following entitled "Aging". "Aging is

Teleservice saves Soc. Sec. visit

Residents outside the San Angelo area have been encouraged to call before visiting the San Angelo office since "Teleservice" allows people to handle most Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, and Medicare matters by phone.

Since January 1st, this phone call before a visit to Social Security is more important than ever before because the San Angelo office now conducts business on an appointment basis. When a person phones in to discuss filing for monthly benefits, an appointment, either in-person or by telephone, will be arranged. This enables the people at Social Security to prepare the caller for the interview by telling the caller what documents and information to have available at the time of the interview. People who come to file for benefits at the Social Security office without an appointment have the option of waiting for an available interviewer or scheduling an appointment.

So, do yourself a favor. Call Social Security before visiting the office. If your appointment may be arranged. In San Angelo, call 949-4608.

Barbecued chicken is all time favorite among Texans

Texans enjoy backyard barbecuing and eating as much as anybody in the U.S., and chicken barbecue is an all-time favorite.

A few simple steps will enable you to enjoy mouth-watering chicken barbecue to your heart's content, says Dr. James Denton, poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Chicken barbecuing involves four basic steps: First, split the birds in half and sprinkle each half generously with salt and black pepper before placing on the pit. To shorten barbecuing time cut halves into parts.

Second, make sure coals are white hot before putting the chicken on the grill. Any type of cooker can be used, but keep the coals 8 to 12 inches from the cooking rack for best results.

Another basic step for top-notch chicken barbecue is to use a basting sauce during the cooking process which contains no tomato product or sugar because such sauces burn easily. A basting sauce will keep meat moist and juicy and add a desired flavor. Apply basting sauce and turn chicken halves frequently.

Denton suggests these ingredients for a basting sauce: 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1 stick butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce and a few drops of hot sauce or red pepper. Heat the mix over a low flame until the butter or oleo melts; then add the juice of one lemon (vinegar may be substituted). Next fill the pan with water and heat but do not boil. Spices such as garlic salt or lemon pepper can be added to suit personal preference.

To top off the barbecuing process, apply a finishing sauce to the chicken about the last 20 to 30 minutes before cooking is complete. This is the most critical time during the entire cooking process. Check the meat carefully and turn it frequently to avoid burning the finishing sauce.

Several types of finishing sauce are available and vary from mild to hot. To prepare your own sauce (for 10 chicken halves), use the following: 1 cup cooking oil, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup catsup, 1/4 cup sugar and 1/2 cup water. Add salt, Worcestershire Sauce, hot sauce, garlic and other seasonings to taste.

Chicken barbecue should be complete in about 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Cooking longer with less heat usually results in the most flavorful, juicy and tender barbecue. Placing the cooking rack closer than 8 inches to the coals will reduce barbecuing time, but the meat will be drier and less tender.

A test for doneness is to twist the drumstick which is connected to the thigh. If the joint between the thigh and drumstick is loose, the chicken is ready to eat. Another test is to cut into the meat at this joint. The moisture in the joint will run clear if the meat is done.

The fun part of chicken barbecuing is to develop your own secret recipe and cooking style. The four basic steps outlined can be varied to suit your style and taste.

One variation is to debone the breast and thigh meat and marinate it overnight in the refrigerator in a mixture of 16 oz. herb-seasoned Italian dressing and 8 oz. picante sauce. Cook in the same manner as before while basting with the marinating sauce.

For another type of marinated chicken barbecue, Denton suggests using a soy-teriyaki (or Worcestershire) sauce marination for two-to-four hours before cooking.

Most of all, let your imagination be your guide and have fun, says the specialist. Who knows? The world's greatest barbecue chef may be in your own backyard.

Time for fall gardening

Although summer officially arrived June 21 and spring gardens are still going strong it's already time for Texans to start thinking about their fall gardens.

It's true that having a fall garden means planting during the summer heat, but more and more gardeners are finding the benefits of having fresh produce in the fall and winter months are well worth the effort.

And with proper planning fall gardening can be relatively easy and very productive. To help gardeners with this task Texas Gardener magazine, in its July/August edition, has outlined a comprehensive checklist for fall gardening success.

According to the article, fall is the time to plant vegetables that don't do well in the spring such as broccoli, cabbage and cauliflower. But you can also replant or carry over many of your favorite spring crops— even tomatoes and squash.

In addition to providing a list of vegetable varieties particularly suited to Texas fall gardens, the magazine tells you how to get the jump on summer afflictions such as heat and drought. Simple step-by-step instructions on how to shade, water and mulch fall gardens are provided.

Spinach lovers will be particularly happy to learn that this leafy, green vegetable "grows better in a fall Texas garden than any other place in the world." In a separate, detailed article, experts outline all you need to know about growing spinach— from choosing the right variety to preparing the soil to harvesting.

For flower enthusiasts "Growing Louisiana Irises" tells you how to plant this little known, but extremely beautiful flower that is adaptable to all parts of Texas.

Finally, if there was any doubt that computers have a place everywhere in today's world, read "The Personal Computer: A Useful Gardening Tool," which outlines how you can use your home computer to increase gardening efficiency and productivity.

The Scientists Tell Me... Recent Migrants Can Aid State's Continued Growth

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Since 1970, Texas has had nearly 2.25 million people move here from other parts of the nation, according to U.S. Census Bureau estimates. That's more people than the 13 colonies had at the time of the Revolution.

What are these new Texans like? How do they feel about their new home and do they feel they have benefited by moving here?

These and similar questions were part of a recent state-wide survey conducted by the Department of Rural Sociology in the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A&M University.

"The results of the survey indicate that persons who have migrated to the State in the past 7 years are likely to make major contributions to the State's continued growth," according to Dr. Steve H. Murdock, head of the Department of Rural Sociology.

"Over 89 percent of these migrants were in the most productive ages of 19 to 54, nearly 40 percent were managers, or in other technical occupations, over 20 percent had come to the state to work in the energy or manufacturing industries, over 32 percent were college graduates and nearly 25 percent had incomes over $40,000 per year."

These migrants not only had very positive characteristics but they also are generally happy with their new homes. They rated local governments, schools, health services, job opportunities, shopping opportunities, housing and recreation more positively than did long-term residents of the state, according to Murdock.

In addition, over 64 percent rated their new communities as above average in terms of overall amenities. Finally, over 57 percent of the migrants, (compared to 36 percent of long-term residents), felt that they were financially better off in 1983 than in 1982.

Overall, then, the results of the survey indicate that recent migrants to the State have characteristics that will contribute positively to the State's future development and have found the State to be a desirable place to live and work. It appears that most migrants have found that their positive expectations about Texas have been fulfilled, Murdock concluded.

check was not returned, a stop order will be put on it and the matter will be transferred to Washington, D.C. to see if the check has been cashed.

Delay reporting if SS check is not on time

A person whose Social Security check does not arrive on the day it is expected should wait for two more mail deliveries before contacting the San Angelo Social Security Office, Franklin H. Upp, District manager, said recently.

This will take care of a good share of delayed checks. If the checks has not arrived after 2 days, the people at the San Angelo office can begin action.

The most common cause of failure to receive a check is failure to report a change of address. Many people fail to notify Social Security when they move, even though they rely on their Social Security checks as their primary source of income.

Some people think it is enough to report their change of address to the Post Office. The Post Office however, will forward mail to the person's new address for a limited time. After that, they will send the check back to the U.S. treasury.

If the person's check is returned and the new address is provided, it usually takes about 4 or 5 days for a new check to be sent. If the

Varmits cause millions in damages

[Mice and Rats: Better to keep them out than trap them in]

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article is one of a series produced in observance of Pest Control Month during July. Along with being disagreeable inhabitants of house and home, pests, from ants to mice cause untold millions of dollars of damage each year.

Build a better mousetrap, so the saying goes, and the world will beat a path to your door.

So far, though, the simple spring-loaded device baited with cheese that most people use will still do the job, as millions can attest.

But a mousetrap, no matter how ingenious, will take care of only the pests that are already in the home.

Mice, and especially rats, are persistent and ingenious creatures. They can gnaw through aluminum, lead and even cinder blocks. They can crawl through openings as small as a quarter-inch. They can leap 18 inches into the air and 36 inches from the point to another. Some species can swim a half mile through water.

The Texas Pest Control Association says the most effective way to make sure you don't need a trap is to make sure that mice and other rodents cannot get in the house at all. If they do, you can make it difficult for them to live by not leaving food scraps and water around where they can get them. If they can't eat or drink, they won't stay. Mice, and especially rats, are far more than a simple nuisance, however. Their gnawing can do great damage in a home and can even cause fires from electrical short circuits. They also are carriers of disease, both through their own bodies as well as through fleas they can bring into a home. In extreme situations, rat bites can produce serious medical consequences.

Unwanted pests attack food and other stored products; in developing countries without post-harvest pest control, harvest losses range from 40 percent to 50 percent; in the United States it is close to 9 percent.

There are an estimated 100 million rats in the United States (approximately one for every two citizens), and rats bite more than 45,000 people each year. Each rat damages food and materials worth up to $10 per year and contaminates 5 to 10 times more. Rats can cause fires and transmit diseases, such as rat-bite fever, salmonellosis, trichinosis, murine typhus, the plague and leptospirosis.

But what if rodents are already in your home and you want to get them out and keep them out, without putting traps all over the place?

TPCA says that there are three general methods that trained pest control operators use, depending on the severity of the problem.

In the first place, a trained professional knows where to look for entrances through which the mice get into a home. They will find those entrances and tell you how to seal them.

Once that's done, there are three basic methods of rodent control. Baiting is probably the most commonly used technique. This is a process whereby the rodents are first attracted to non-poisoned bait. Then various toxic substances are substituted once the mice have become accustomed to the more attractive substance.

Naturally, the toxic bait must be carefully placed out of reach of children or pets.

Another technique is the use of tracking powders which are placed where the mice travel. The diluted toxics are picked up on the rodents' feet and ingested through grooming.

In severe cases of rodent infestation, fumigants can be used. But this is rarely-used technique in homes and can be accomplished only by trained technicians following strict procedures and guidelines established by chemical companies and federal agencies.

Mice and other rodents have a place in the environment. But it isn't in your kitchen. Professional treatment and control can make sure they stay where they're supposed to. And you can stop worrying about catching your finger in a mousetrap, too.

For more information on controlling pests in your home or apartment, write the Texas Pest Control Association, 4302 Airport Blvd., Austin Texas 78722-1099.

Hearing impairment ranges from muffled conversation to total deafness

It is easy to take good hearing for granted, but in the world of the hearing impaired, words in a conversation may be misunderstood, musical notes might be missed and a ringing doorbell may go unanswered. Hearing impairment ranges from difficulty understanding words or hearing certain sounds, to total deafness.

Because of fear, misinformation, or vanity, some people will not admit to themselves or anyone else that they have a hearing problem. It has been estimated, however, that approximately 30 percent of adults age 65 through 74 and about 50 percent of those age 75 through 79 suffer some degree of hearing loss. In the United States alone, more than 10 million older people are hearing impaired.

If ignored and untreated, hearing problems can grow worse, hindering communication with others, limiting social activities and reducing constructive use of leisure time. People with hearing impairments often withdraw socially to avoid the frustration and embarrassment of not being able to understand what is being said. In addition, hearing-impaired people may become suspicious of relatives and friends who "mumble" or "don't speak up".

Hearing loss may cause an older hearing-impaired person to be wrongly labeled as "confused," "unresponsive," or "uncooperative." At times, the feelings of powerlessness and frustration experienced by elderly individuals trying to communicate with others result in depression and withdrawal.

While older people today are, in general, demanding greater satisfaction from life, those with hearing impairments often find the quality of their lives diminished. Fortunately, help is available, in the form of surgery, treatment with medicines, special training, a hearing aid, or an alternate listening device.

Some of the common signs of hearing impairment include: words are difficult to understand; such sounds as the dripping of a faucet or the high notes of a violin cannot be heard; a hissing or ringing background noise is heard continually; another person's speech sounds slurred or mumbled; and television programs, concerts and social gatherings are less enjoyable because so much goes unheard.

If you are having trouble hearing, see your doctor for treatment or referral to a hearing specialist. By ignoring the problem, you may be overlooking a serious medical condition. Hearing impairments may be caused by:

exposure to excessively loud noises over a long period of time, viral infections, vascular incidents (such as heart conditions or stroke), head injuries, certain drugs, tumors, excessive ear wax, heredity, or age-related changes in the ear mechanisms. In view of the importance of good hearing, seeking medical help is certainly worthwhile. Unfortunately, the high cost of hearing health care contributes to this neglect. Medicare will pay for the diagnosis and evaluation of hearing loss if requested by a physician, but it will often not pay for the means to correct it. In some states, Medicaid covers some costs of a hearing aid.

TMA notes gout stems from uric acid surplus multiple attacks may be prevented

One medical book describes the pain of gout as "throbbing, crushing, or excruciating." Anyone who has had the joint disorder probably would agree.

The Texas Medical Association says the problem stems from uric acid, one of the body's waste products. It normally passes out of the body through the urine after a trip through the kidneys.

If there is more uric acid than the kidneys can handle, the acid gathers and forms crystals that can get stuck in joints where the blood supply is too little or slow to carry them away.

Uric-acid crystals that get caught in the spaces between a joint inflame the tissue around it. This irritates the joint's nerve endings, which causes the intense pain.

The pain usually comes without warning. It can strike an elbow or knee but more often a wrist or foot. In the foot, the pain often centers on the base of the big toe.

Within a few hours, the joint is so swollen and tender that even the weight of a bedsheet produces pain. Fever can hit 101 degrees, and the inflamed skin over the joint often becomes red, shiny and dry.

A first attack may involve only a single joint, but later ones may affect several joints. The first few attacks usually last only a few days, but later untreated attacks can continue for weeks. Untreated gout can strike several times a year. Sometimes it will hit only once and never again, but a second attack can come months or years later.

Untreated gout can lead to joint deformity and deterioration of skin over the joint. Sometimes the uric-acid crystals accumulate in the kidneys, which can cause kidney failure and death. Gout also can lead to high blood pressure, heart disease, and stroke.

Fortunately, a physician can prescribe drugs to prevent future attacks. The doctor also may recommend cutting back on rich foods such as red meat, sardines, and anchovies, and drinking less alcohol. Aspirin should be avoided because it, like alcohol, can slow down the elimination of uric acid from the body.

Gout usually strikes men. Only 5 percent of the cases involve women, most of them past menopause.

Glycogen provides race umph

Texas A&M University animal scientists may have found a way to rev up race horses by depleting their muscle energy supply and then dramatically increasing it 7-10 days before a race.

Human physiologists know that higher concentrations of a carbohydrate compound called glycogen in the liver and muscles of athletes improves performance. Glycogen is a source of extra energy at the end of a race. But no one knew if the same was true for horses, said Dr. Gary Potter, an equine nutritionist and horse program leader in Texas A&M's College of Agriculture.

Potter and Dr. Dr. Don Topliff, formerly Potter's graduate student at Texas A&M and now leader of the equine research program at Oklahoma State University, found that a horse's glycogen levels can be significantly increased through training and diet manipulation, which is important because it could help sustain a horse's pace longer by giving it more available energy.

Does it pay to scratch convenience foods from your shopping list and prepare them at home?

Not always. Studies by the U.S. Department of Agriculture reveal that 60% of 228 selected convenience products cost more per serving than the homemade version. But one-fourth cost less, and the rest cost about the same.

The studies compared the cost of convenience foods to their homemade counterparts including the cost for fuel to cook them and preparation time, figured at minimum wage.

To save money, the average consumer will have to shop carefully for convenience foods. Generally, the more ingredients involved and the more preparation necessary, the slimmer are the chances that one of these items will be cheaper than one prepared at home.

Some samplings of the comparative costs cited in the studies show the following:

Among the vegetables, most canned and frozen bulk packaged items are lower in cost than their fresh counterparts. However, vegetables with added sauces and in cooking pouches increase dramatically in cost.

Frozen french fried potatoes are less expensive than fresh homemade ones. Convenience au gratin potatoes, however, cost three times more than making them from scratch.

Pancakes and waffles made from mixing requiring only water are better buys than those made from scratch. And the frozen, ready-for-the-toaster variety costs three to five times more than those made from a mix.

Frozen orange juice is a bargain at only a third the cost of the same size serving squeezed from the orange.

70% of baked ready-to-eat products are more expensive than home baked ones. However, white enriched bread and devil's food cake mix are among the bargains.

Most commercially prepared entrees with pork, beef and poultry are more expensive than home prepared. Frozen pizza and lasagna cost more than twice as much as the home-made version.

When comparing convenience foods versus home-made ones, remember that most home prepared entrees contain a higher proportion of meat, poultry, fish and cheese. The convenience counterpart usually has more starchy ingredients such as sauces, pasta, bread coating and topping.

While it's difficult to define quality, the product label is your best guide to what's in the convenience package. The ingredients are listed in order of quantity.

For example, if gravy is listed first, your money buys more gravy than meat. Labeling can also help in defining nutrients and ingredients but if you're concerned with controlling fats, sugar and salt, you will not always be able to determine the amount from the label.

For consumers whose time is more important than cost or quality, it can often pay to let the manufacturer handle most of the food preparation.
