Senate hopeful visits

U.S. Congressman Phil Gramm, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Senator John Tower, made a stop at the airport and spoke to a gathering here

Phil Gramm brings his campaign to Ozona

A small but enthusiastic crowd was on hand Monday afternoon to greet U.S. Congressman Phil Gramm at the local airport. Few Ozonans were aware of Gramm's visit due to the fact his press release announcing his visit here arrived too late to appear in last week's edition of the Stockman. Congressman Gramm is running against Lloyd Doggett for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Senator John Tower.

In bringing his grassroots campaign to Ozona, Congressman Gramm said the 1984 Senate election offers Texans a clear choice between a conservative who shares traditional Texas values and a liberal who is closer to Ted Kennedy than he is to Texas.

Gramm, who co-authored President Reagan's economic recovery program, is probably best known as the congressman who resigned his seat in Congress and sought reelection as a Republican after Tip O'Neill and the liberal National Democratic Party denied him his seat on the Budget Committee in retaliation for Gramm's successful efforts to control government spending.

"The differences between my opponent and me on the key issues are stark," Gramm said.

"I have worked six years to control spending so the working people of Texas can keep more of what they earn. Lloyd Doggett is committed to raising taxes so the government can go on spending as usual."

Congressman Gramm also noted that on his first day in Congress, he introduced the balanced budget amendment to the Constitution while, by contrast, Doggett "voted against the Texas Legislature's resolution urging Congress to adopt the balanced budget amendment. He opposes the balanced budget amendment for the same reason Tip O'Neill and Ted Kennedy oppose it—they want more spending, nor more restraint."

Touching on defense, Gramm pointed out that the two budgets he co-authored in the House provided for both a strong defense and for audits "to assure we get our money's worth."

"But Lloyd Doggett opposes virtually every element of our effort to strengthen national defense, including the MX missile, the B-1 bomber and the Pershing II missile," Gramm noted. "He even called it 'gunboat diplomacy' when our troops rescued the Americans trapped on Grenada last year."

Congressman Gramm also discussed several other issues, including these:

Right to Work. "I'm for it; he is against it."

Voluntary prayer in school. "Again, I'm for it; he is against it."

Gay Rights Bill, legislation that would mandate affirmative action in the hiring of homosexuals. "I'm against it, but Lloyd Doggett is for it."

"On these issues and on many others, there is a clear choice," Gramm said. "It is a distinction between the traditional values of Texans and the liberal philosophy of Lloyd Doggett and the National Democratic Party."

Congressman Gramm vowed that he would "always put the interests of the people I represent before any partisan or political interests."

"If you elect me as your senator, I will always put your interests and the citizens of Texas first," he said.

The congressman said the message he was carrying to Texans is clear: "We are putting together a coalition of Democrats, Republicans and Independents—people who work hard for what they earn—and I want you to be a part of it."

Commissioners have called meeting Monday

In a called meeting of the Crockett County Commissioners Court Monday, four applications for building maintenance supervisor were opened and discussed. One applicant appeared before the court but it was decided that bids for the position, recently vacated by Dudley McCary, must be submitted for the position through an advertisement in the Ozona Stockman.

Judge A. O. Fields and County Auditor Dick Kirby attended a seminar on federal revenue sharing funds held last week in San Angelo. Judge Fields asked Kirby to explain the particulars.

Kirby informed the court, in order for the county to be in compliance for the $116,550 in federal funds, they must adopt an affirmative action plan which is mostly aimed at the handicapped. In the past when department heads needed help, they were able to hire on their own. Now, each department head must have job applications on hand and advertise any opening they might have in the Stockman or by public notice.

In the future all public buildings must meet requirements for the handicapped. This is required for the blind, speechless, crippled and wheel-chair bound. A committee must be appointed and a counselor hired to evaluate the buildings and facilities, and an attempt must be made to hire the handicapped. All counties must follow this guideline.

Every member of the court expressed sympathy for the handicapped, but seemed at a loss for words over this most recent federal requirement. One member of the court expressed an opinion that the counsellor who will be hired for "Helping Hands for the Elderly," might take on the job, since both will be part-time. No action was taken.

Chona Vela, who is foreman for the cemetery crew, met with the court to ask for more help at the cemetery. She said the summer help is to be retired in August and she sees no way she can continue to get the job done without keeping the summer help. She explained further that the cemetery is twice the size and with only half the help she felt it almost impossible. She asked the court to consider hiring the two summer employees on a full time basis. She added that with the present crew and with help once a week from the parks department crew, she felt continued improvement would be seen. She assured the court she knew her job and how to direct her crew, and that continued directives and supervision was entirely unnecessary.

The court was informed it would be necessary to appropriate around $200,000 for the State Highway Department to pave and maintain 15 miles of the south road. This road, presently a farm to market road, veers off Hwy. 163 and continues fifteen miles to the county line. The county would be responsible for acquiring around 90 acres of land, fencing and relocation of lines.

In continuing with the budget discussion, the new dumpground was mentioned, the court decided to help with maintenance on the Girl Scout House, but not get into camping equipment etc. The Water District had asked for $40,000 to pay one-half of a new trash truck, but the court re-affirmed the $20,000 they had allotted and suggested the district might get by with a less expensive truck. Judge Fields said the light plant for the jail had been ordered and would be installed. However, he said the light plant would not handle needs at the fire station, according to the firm who sold the equipment.

The auditor reported the hospital budget would be difficult in view of the present situation. When asked about taking the four rooms from the hospital for the care center, the court inferred that was entirely up to the hospital board, as approval had already been given by the court.

In other business a county surveyor was discussed and it was decided not to hire a county surveyor as such. Before adjourning, the judge appointed Jack Williams to work with the library board.

Jay Miller killed in crash of plane, services here today

Jay Miller, 40, was killed in a plane crash at 1:30 Monday morning. Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 11 a.m. in Ozona United Methodist Church with burial following in Cedar Hill Cemetery under the direction of Sizemore Funeral Home.

When Miller failed to return to Ozona from Del Rio on schedule, an air search was initiated. Miller was the pilot and the only passenger in the private Cessna airplane. The crash site was located 13 miles north of Comstock and three miles east of Highway 163 on the T.J. Jarrett ranch in Val Verde county at 6:49 Monday evening. The plane, spotted from the air by an Ozona pilot, was near the top of a hill and was partially burned.

Mr. Miller was born February 21, 1944 in San Angelo. He graduated from Ozona High School and from Texas Christian University in Fort Worth in 1968. He was in the ranching business and was the owner-operator of Jay Miller Construction Co.

Survivors include his wife, Betty, of Ozona; four sons, Roy, Rod, Kevin and Walt all of the home; two daughters, Shelley and Sheri, both of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Miller; a brother, Pierce Miller of San Angelo; one sister, Robilen Miller; his grandparents, V. I. Pierce and Mrs. Rob Miller, a niece and two nephews. One son, Terry, preceded him in death.

28th Annual youth rodeo gets underway here Friday

The 28th Annual Youth Rodeo will get underway this weekend as 135 contestants are registered to compete.

The parade will kick-off the rodeo activities at 5 p.m. Friday. All parade participants need to assemble in the vacant lot next to South Texas Lumber Co. The march will go north, circle the square and move west to the Red Apple.

The reigning queen, Miss Christy Parks, will lead the paraders followed by the 1984 queen contestants.

Jena Allen is the 15 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Allen. She is a sophomore at Ozona

High School. She has been a familiar figure in 4-H competition in Crockett County for several years and has gained a reputation as a tough competitor in market lamb shows across the state. The contestant enjoys the pleasure and showmanship aspects of horse showing.

THE FERRARO FACTOR

By Edwin Feulner

While it's obvious the choice of Geraldine Ferraro as Walter Mondale's running mate is an attempt to attract more women voters, it's not as much of a sure bet as some believe.

On all the key issues on NOW's (National Organization for Women) agenda, candidate Mondale and President Reagan already are poles apart. Someone who is going to vote for or against President Reagan on the basis of his stand on abortion, the ERA, and similar "women's issues" will do so regardless of Rep. Ferraro's presence on the Democratic ticket.

What one should look at, therefore, in trying to determine how the Ferraro factor will affect the election are those matters not generally regarded as women's issues: foreign policy, defense, perhaps crime.

The notion that Geraldine Ferraro will attract many more women voters to the Mondale ticket has a good, visceral feel to it. In my gut, if I were a Democrat, I'd believe that too. But a recent survey by Woman's Day magazine tells a different story — that having a woman vice-presidential candidate on the ticket won't influence the votes of 69 percent of all voting-age women and, in fact, will likely cause others (7 percent according to the survey) to vote against the ticket.

The extensive 83-question survey was conducted by Woman's Day and the Wellesley College Center for Research on Women a couple of months before the Democratic convention. Some 115,000 women responded.

While there's no doubt more women than men voted in the 1980 election and will likely do so again this year, the Woman's Day survey showed, according to Laura Lein and Lydia O'Donnell of the Wellesley research center, that though the "mainstream" woman "takes a liberal stance on many issues, she's a hard-liner on others." And that could be bad news to the NOW-Mondale coalition, which apparently believes most women vote with their hearts, not with their heads.

The Wellesley researchers said their typical "mainstream" respondent was a wife (79 percent) and a mother (82 percent), a job holder (62 percent), and lives on a family income of $25,000 to $30,000 a year. Only one-third identified themselves as Democrats, and an equal number identified themselves as Republicans. When asked what impact the women's movement had on their lives, a remarkable 65 percent said it hadn't affected them one way or another. Of the married respondents, 70 percent said they usually support the same candidates their husbands support. And 91 percent said they voted in the last presidential election.

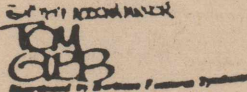

On the major issues on the NOW agenda — such as abortion and the ERA — the women supported the feminist position by wide margins. But it's not at all clear from the 1980 elections or any previous or subsequent contests that these issues alone are the ones that cause mainstream women to vote as they do — in fact, as their husbands do.

If not these issues, what?

- On the economy, only 32 percent said they hadn't experienced signs of the country's general economic recovery. The other 68 percent could feel the effects of the improving economy. Will the Ferraro factor convince them, as New York Gov. Mario Cuomo urged in his convention keynote speech, to throw Ronald Reagan out so the Democrats can "turn things around"? Turning things around today means trashing a healthy economy.
- On crime and punishment, 83 percent expressed support for the death penalty. More than 85 percent felt the law "tends to treat criminals better than victims." A plurality (45 percent vs. 40 percent) even opposed banning handguns. Ronald Reagan is strong on these issues, not Geraldine Ferraro or Walter Mondale.
- On foreign policy, 75 percent said they think the United States' position as a world power has slipped in the last ten years, and most of them said they were worried about it. Fifty-five percent of the respondents said they want the U.S. to do more to guard against the spread of communism.

The bottom line is that Ronald Reagan already has lost the radical feminists' vote. If the Ferraro factor is going to alter the 1984 presidential election, it is going to be with mainstream women. Based on Woman's Day survey data, it would appear that the choice of another liberal for the number two spot on the Democratic ticket will only help focus attention on how out-of-step Democratic policy-makers are with mainstream everyone.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—As late as two or three weeks ago, West Texans, particularly conservative Democrats, were seething over the lack of consideration being given to them in the state's electoral process.

But two or three weeks from now, they may well find themselves the objects of a lot of political attention, especially behind-the-scenes vote-winning.

President Ronald Reagan and his Texas Vice President George Bush spoke to an estimated crowd of 28,000-30,000 in Austin last week. They pointedly and repeatedly invited disgruntled conservative Democrats to cross party lines and find a permanent GOP welcome mat.

By coming to Austin, the politically liberal oasis of Texas, to hand-deliver his Republican invitation, Reagan puzzled the incumbent Democratic leadership... but he sure got the attention of a few of them.

Leaders of today's Democratic coalition, including labor, blacks, Hispanics and urban liberals, almost ignored West Texas during the primary process. The majority of votes are located east of Interstate 35 and in the Rio Grande Valley. Liberal Democrats have, in recent years, regarded West Texas conservative Democrats as something akin to a red-headed stepchild who really has nowhere else to go.

Gramm's Effect

But with Democrat-turned-Republican Phil Gramm as the GOP nominee for U.S. Senate, the rules of the game are changed... now they do have a place to go.

Moreover, many conservative Democrats who voted in their U.S. Senate primary for either Congressman Kent Hance of Lubbock or former Ambassador Bob Krueger, who also represented a large portion of West Texas in Congress, do not have any inclination to vote for the eventual winner, liberal Lloyd Doggett of Austin.

Besides a lack of philosophical agreement, Doggett's low-road attacks on both Krueger and Hance have not been followed up by even sheepish apologies, leaving many conservatives still fuming. The presence of two northern liberals on top of the ticket doesn't help soothe them, either.

But if Gramm symbolizes the concept that a Democrat can change parties in Texas and still prosper, the leaders of his former party are aware of his effect and are very anxious to defeat him in November. A few weeks ago, some West Texans were seriously talking about seceding from the state. Now, they find themselves as much or more a key to victory for either party as any other group.

Bullock Halts

The good news for Gov. Mark White last week was that Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock told reporters he would not challenge White for the Governor's Mansion in 1986. Saying he had found no "groundswell of support", Bullock surmised a continued candidacy would be detrimental to good government.

The bad news for White came when he, Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox and former Attorney General John Hill were subpoenaed to appear in federal court where atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair challenged religion in Texas politics. O'Hair was successful in overturning a section in the Texas Constitution mandating Texas officials to "acknowledge the existence of a supreme being".

O'Hair had a few choice words to direct at the presiding judge: "He saw me in court, and the first thing he did was open court with a prayer."

Bullock Forecast

Last week Bullock told Texans they can expect a stronger state economy than the national economy for the next year.

After polling 222 Texas companies, Bullock said they are producing more and planning to hire more employees in the next six months. Less than one-tenth planned personnel cuts.

Trial Delayed

The trial of Attorney General Mattox on a commercial bribery charge, scheduled Sept. 17, will be delayed until February.

Mattox's defense counsel has conflicting trial dates throughout the fall.

Candidate Back In

A Republican candidate for the Austin state Senate seat being vacated by Doggett was back in the race again last week after resigning for lack of GOP support.

The withdrawal of Pat McNamara would have left his party with no nominee against Democrat Gonzalo Barrientos. But Austin GOP leaders, perhaps embarrassed by McNamara's departure on the eve of Reagan's visit to their town, pledged to provide him with both staff and funds if he would get back in the race, an offer he accepted.

Texas Tackles

Two Texas legislators visiting Boston last week during the National Conference for State Legislators found themselves witnessing a store robbery... while they were inside the store.

They tackled the robber, recovering the $270 taken from the cash register of an elderly woman store manager and returning it to her.

The bipartisan "crimebusters," Rodney Tow, a Conroe Democrat, and Terral Smith, an Austin Republican, were with their wives in a bookstore, when the incident, which spilled out onto the sidewalk in downtown Boston, occurred.

Do you know...how much money you have in savings? Your credit rating and if you have one? Whether you could get a loan if you applied? How much money you can expect to have when you retire? Whether you have enough life insurance to protect your dependents? Your net worth? How much money you spend each month? Whether your investments are appropriate in today's economy?

If you can answer the above questions, even with 'guesstimates', you're one step ahead of many other people. Many women, in particular, have grown up uninformed about money management, secure in the belief that someone will take care of them. While that belief may have been true at some time for some women, it is not true today. Judging by the statistics, you may well be a single parent, solely responsible for your children's well-being. You may be widowed and alone, after many years of marriage. You may be single, well into your twenties or thirties, or beyond, as you build your own career. You may be happily married but a breadwinner in your own right.

Married or single, most women today hold paying jobs. Nearly 52 percent of all married women were in the work force in 1982, up from 41 percent in 1971. Working wives, overall, contribute 27 percent of their family's total income; wives who work full-time contribute an essential 38 percent. Women today need to be informed about financial matters and need to go beyond the tasks they have always performed--shopping wisely, stretching the household budget--to undertake the full spectrum of saving, investing, and preparing for the future.

Managing money doesn't have to be complicated. If you take it one step at a time, and seek expert advice when necessary you'll be able to take charge of your own affairs. It's particularly important that you take the time to manage your money well because you, as a woman, have special needs.

Facts to consider? Women generally manage less money than men counterparts, in every occupational field.

Women live an average of eight years longer than men.

Pension and social security benefits vary based on working years.

Pension benefits may not cover spouse in the event of spouse death before age 55 (especially individual annuities).

Separation of spouses requires special finance attention.

Whether you are married, single, in your twenties or fifties, you need to know how to manage money in the complex financial world. Before any kinds of plans are made you must know what you want and what you already have.

BUDDING ARCHITECT

Genius on the way up! Maybe—and maybe not. Millions of us build our castles only in the sand.

The talents and skills which become evident as we grow up are gifts from God. What we are able to do with them depends on many human factors such as education, opportunity, attitude, aim and perseverance.

God is very much involved in the development of our talents. The Christian training, the spiritual environment of our "budding architect" can influence the way he develops and uses his God-given gifts.

Look around you each time you go to church. You'll see tomorrow's leaders learning from today's leaders to commit their talents to the service of God and man.

Annual 4-H congress held in Brownsville

The 1984 Texas 4-H Congress, held July 17-19 in Brownsville, was entitled "4-H-Fiesta International."

More than 500 4-H delegates, their agent advisors and members of the Texas 4-H Council which assists with the operation of 4-H Congress, took part in the activity, headquartered at the Fort Brown Motor Hotel.

Representing Crockett County in the 4-H educational activities were Brock Jones, Susan Scott and Ira Childress.

While seminar sessions were scheduled at Jacob Brown Auditorium, adjacent to the host motel, other features of the program included a study of the interrelationship of the U.S. and Mexico in regard to trade, an educational tour to study the shrimp industry and a boat manufacturing company near Brownsville, and the Gladys Porter Zoo in Brownsville, a source zoo for restocking other zoos around the country.

Feature speaker for the 4-H Congress was Michael Broome of Charlotte, N.C. a humorist and futurist, who discussed "Tomorrow's America."

Other special attractions of 4-H Congress included a chartered bus tour into Mexico to study agricultural facilities near Matamoros; a simulated air-sea rescue program coordinated by the U.S. Coast Guard just off South Padre Island and a tour of historic homes in that area.

Texas 4-H Congress is an annual highlight of 4-H careers of many 15-to-18-year-old club members, point out the agents. It is held in different Texas cities each year to enable use of various unique educational aspects of programming.

O.H.S. staffers attend ASU-Newsfoto workshop

Three Ozona High School publications staffers, and their publications advisor attended seminars at Angelo State University during the past week.

O.H.S. yearbook editors Deena Phillips and Catressa Zak, and advisor Jacquelyn Shacklette attended the 13th Annual ASU-Newsfoto Yearbook Workshop. They were a part of over 250 area high school students who heard advice and received training throughout the week from publishing professionals.

While there, they learned the latest trends in yearbook style, including layout, captions, copy, and headlines. They were required to complete 16 yearbook layouts by the end of the week so that they could be critiqued. Many favorable comments were made about their layouts.

Michael Glaze, staff writer for the Lion's Roar, was among students from 11 area high schools who attended the ASU Summer Newspaper and Broadcast Workshop.

They were taught how to write different types of newspaper, television, and radio stories by 16 area professional journalists. ASU Journalism Department Head, and Workshop Director Jim Batts said, "these students came here to learn. I have never seen a group of high school students so eager to learn the basics."

The group was taken on tours of the KGKL radio station, and the KLST television station. They also interviewed people such as Houston Oiler Head Coach Hugh Campbell.

After a week of learning about picas, grid sheets, headlines, layouts, and stories, the students felt that they knew much more than they had before. Shacklette said, "These workshops should make our publications the best yet!"

PHONE NEWS TO THE STOCKMAN.

Rattlesnake found dead in local driveway

A large rattlesnake, measuring at least 4-feet, according to Mrs. O. D. West who discovered it, was found in a driveway in the 1200 block of Eleventh St. atop the hill.

The residents of the house were away on vacation and did not discover the reptile. When Mrs. West called to report it, she said it had been there at least two days and she felt a picture would not be appropriate. She said she saw the snake early Thursday morning. It had a bashed head, but the rattlers were still attached. This is unusual in West Texas, as most who kill a snake take the rattlers for their collection.

We had a theory, perhaps someone ran over the snake and he crawled into the driveway before dying. However, anyone having any information may call the Stockman and we will give a full report. There was a lot of buck-passing on who would dispatch the body to its final resting place, according to the scanner. We were informed at an earlier date the animal control officer was in charge of these things and passed the information on to Mrs. West. She, in turn, did the best she could, but it seemed nobody was available for the pick-up. However, someone did come to pick it up, Mrs. West said.

The first bicycle trip around the world was made by Thomas Stevens, who started from San Francisco, Calif., on April, 22, 1884

Malted milk was invented in the 1880s in Racine, Wisconsin, and was originally called "Diastoid."

Crockett County Care Center News

BY ANN McCARTNEY
DIRECTOR OF ACTIVITIES & SOCIAL CARE

We continue to have the warm days of summer but we don't let that keep us from our two or more activities a day. One needs to keep busy and to have friends all ones life. The following was recently published in the Quana newspaper:

Nursing Home

If ever the need arises
To place me in a home,
Please don't go and forget me
To finish my life alone.
But rather keep me in your heart
And on your mind each day.
Come and see me when you can,
and think of me when you pray.
Sit and talk with me awhile
Or read me the daily news.
Keep me informed of the outside world.

Of events and worldly views.
Call me on the telephone,
It doesn't cost that much.
Let me know that you still care,
And that you will keep in touch.
Send me letters, gifts or flowers,
It will brighten up my day.
Don't let me feel rejected,
or feel that I am in the way.
Let me live these last and final years.

Knowing that I've done my best,
And I've been a loving parent
And my goals have met the test.

To me, there's some real good thoughts for us all in that writing.

Tuesday and Friday's bingo winners included: Ola Mills, first place certificate from Western Drug, Hilda Dysart, second place winner of Avon donated by Anna Bell Patrick, Minnie Karr, winner of the El Chato dinner for two certificate. Volunteers included: Maude Pettit, Alice Ross, Elodia Zapata, Amalia Lumberas, Sammy Patino, Inez Gutierrez, Jo Richardson, Dorothy Doll, Virginia Bishop, Mattie Cooper, and Anna Bell Patrick.

We had another watermelon party this week. Massie West, assisted by Amalia Lumberas, treated everyone in celebration of his wife's, Rebekah's, birthday.

Reba Houston came this week with a craft program on making dolls out of baby socks. We always appreciate programs that are a little different.

The rains came and we weren't able to go out for our field trip to Clayton's Village Drug, but they were nice enough to send drinks for everyone to the Care Center. This was truly appreciated.

No outside volunteer came on Wednesday for ceramics but Juana Hernandez, Hilda Dysart, Maude Pettit, Ola Mills, Billie Whatley and Moriana Perez all enjoyed working anyway. Alice Ross came by and helped Moriana and then helped clean up. This was truly appreciated.

Another place where more volunteers were needed was the beauty shop on Thursday. Lola Rios and members of the staff did all the ladies hair. But, we truly need more volunteers.

Wednesday afternoon Sunshine Hour volunteers were Velma Marley and June Reeves who brought sherbert floats. Both these ladies have served before and we really appreciate their coming again.

Thursday afternoon Charles and Betty Huffman came for Bible study. They were assisted by Ruby Olson who played the piano.

Friday afternoon Sara Hignight came for a sing-along. We got the rhythm instruments out and made lots of good music.

Special thanks goes to Judy Baker for bringing us five lap robes, to the family of Peggy Holden for floral arrangements, to Lola Rios for beauty supplies, to Lottie Davis for four bottles of men's aftershave and to Ida Fowler for bringing clothes. Speaking of special, our Care Center had a special treat Saturday morning, when five Suez clowns and greeter Herb Kerby came and gave a fine performance. Thanks, group, for remembering us!

Twelve members of the Calvary Baptist, led by Ken Eppler, gave a nice church service Sunday afternoon.

Recent memorials were received in memory of C. O. Spencer and Peggy Holden.

Think volunteer!

Rearing second family is tough position

Rearing children is tough, but rearing someone else's children is even tougher.

Today, a parent who divorces or becomes widowed is likely to remarry. And the new spouse may have children by a previous marriage, too, says home economist Dr. Dolores Stegelin.

Combining two families in a new marriage may be extra complicated because old and new relationships, attitudes and beliefs are involved, says Stegelin, a specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"Members have not shared past experiences and the new family may have to redefine rights and responsibilities to fit their individual and combined needs," she continues.

In noting that time and understanding are the key allies in making a successful transition to a new family, Stegelin offers some suggestions for the new spouse with a child or stepchild.

Expect to deal with confusing feelings, including your own, your spouse's and each child's. Anticipate that loyalties will be questioned.

Allow the relationship with a stepchild to develop gradually. Don't expect too much from the child or yourself.

Give each child in the new marriage time to mourn and think about the parent who is lost, whether through divorce or death.

Allow the child time to adjust, accept and belong to the new family. Don't try to replace a lost parent; be an additional one.

Recognize that you may be compared with the absent parent. Be prepared to be tested, manipulated and challenged in your new role. Decide with your mate what is best for the child and then stand by your decisions.

Try to help the child understand your love and need for him or her is different—but no less—because you love and need your spouse, too.

Stegelin stresses the importance of keeping lines of communication open between marriage partners and the children in a new family. She says parents should not pretend everything is fine if it is not.

"If problems occur, deal with them openly," she recommends, "and remind yourself that nearly everyone needs help in one way or another."

Professional counseling, step-family organizations, or support groups can be of help to step parents in this situation, says the home economist.

IN MEMORIUM

MY AUNT PEGGY

July 24th, 1984

My Aunt Peggy was somebody special. She was so sweet and caring. If there was anyone who needed help, she was always right there, ready to help them.

Peggy had so many friends. Everyone loved her. It was hard not to love Peggy. Her cheerful little voice just seemed to light up a room.

I wish everyone knew Peggy the way I did. I loved hearing her stories of how my dad Rick teased her. Half of the fun in Ozona was being with Peggy. She tried so hard to please us. If we wanted to go swimming or horseback riding, we always did it. She was everything that a girl wanted in an aunt.

She was always so beautiful. She was named Miss Beautiful in Ozona High School. She was always dressed so nice. Her hair looked cute anyway she wore it. She was so good to my grandmother after her wreck. She was always there to take her to the doctor or help her in anyway. Peggy still kept up her sweet little attitude. She was a wonderful daughter.

She was also a wonderful wife and mother. She loved Deene so much, and I know he loved her too. She and Haley had a special relationship. They were both so attached to each other. Peggy was a wonderful Christian example for them to follow. She had grown so close to her church friends.

I have heard Peggy talk about all her friends. I could tell she loved them dearly. Ozona will never be the same without sweet Peggy. Neither will our family. We are all going to miss her so much. No matter what, I will always remember and love my Aunt Peggy. I will always remember her smiling.

Freemans and group make 5,000 mile tour of the U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Freeman returned home last Friday from a 5,000 mile, nine state tour traveling in a large motor home with other family members.

The eight member group, which included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Freeman, Karen and Robbie; Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Huddleston all of Odessa, traveled to Grand Forks AFB, North Dakota, by way of Mt. Rushmore South Dakota where they viewed the four Presidents carved in the stone mountain. They also visited "Crazy Horse Mountain" and drove through the "Badlands" of South Dakota. Reaching Grand Forks Air Force Base, they were joined by Lt. Col. and Mrs. James D. Freeman. The now ten member group then traveled to Winnipeg, Canada. They spent several days there shopping and sight-seeing. Returning to Grand Forks AFB where Col. and Mrs. Jim Freeman are currently assigned, the families spent several days visiting. Mr. and Mrs. Huddleston are the parents of Mrs. Robert and Mrs. Jim Freeman. The group returned through Minnesota where they saw Lake Superior, coming on down through Iowa and the Missouri Ozark Mountains, Eureka Springs, Arkansas, where they attended "The Great Passion Play." The trip lasted three weeks.

Have made bridal selections in housewares at South Texas Lumber Co.

"The key is to select replacement heifers based on weight and frame size," says Dr. L.R. Sprott, beef cattle specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"This should be done when heifers are 15 months old so that they can be bred to calve at two years of age," Sprott points out.

Studies have shown that heavier, large framed heifers will have a higher pregnancy rate, particularly during the second breeding season.

In a study last year on the Four G Ranch in Waller County, heifers were divided into three weight groups at about 15 months of age and placed with bulls. Similar comparisons were made regarding frame size.

The heaviest heifers had more than an 84 percent pregnancy rate in the first breeding season, from 5 to 8 percent higher than the two lighter weight groups, notes Sprott. However, the big difference came in the second breeding season when the heaviest heifers boasted a 90 percent pregnancy rate compared to 74 to 79 percent for the two lighter weight groups of heifers.

Sprott also notes that the larger framed heifers had higher pregnancy rates throughout the test period.

"This study clearly shows that selecting heavier, large framed replacement heifers can lead to an increased calf crop," points out Sprott, "both during the first and second breeding seasons."

Watch work habits during hot weather

Hot, humid weather which typifies Texas summers can be dangerous to your health, particularly if you work outdoors.

Outdoor workers often suffer from such physical disorders as heat stroke, heat exhaustion, heat cramps and fainting, says Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Such disorders occur most often when workers do not take time to adjust to the heat, notes Nelson. Summer hot spells, the first few days of work for new workers, and the first day back on the job after a vacation or illness are likely to be times when workers suffer the most from heat-related problems.

The combination of high temperatures and high relative humidity can be especially dangerous, says Nelson. Now the National Weather Service has come up with a "heat index" or "apparent temperature" to warn outdoors people to take it easy.

For example, a temperature of 100 degrees F. and a relative humidity of 50 percent have the same effect as if the temperature hit 120 degrees.

Canned foods compare well to frozen

When it comes to nutritional value, fresh and frozen vegetables are good—but not necessarily better than canned vegetables, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

A study by the National Food Processors Association and the U.S. Department of Agriculture shows that the levels of nutrients in fresh, frozen or canned vegetables are nearly comparable, reports Mary K. Sweeten.

Researchers compared prepared fresh, frozen and canned lima beans, peas, spinach, sweet potatoes, carrots and squash for levels of thirteen minerals, eight vitamins and fiber, she explains.

The study shows very little difference in the vitamin A content of any of the products. In the case of peas and spinach, the canned product was even a little higher in vitamin A than the fresh produce.

Analysis also showed very little difference in minerals and fiber content between fresh, frozen and canned samples, says the nutritionist.

Sweeten attributes the comparable vitamin and mineral levels to the fact that vegetables are preserved in cans within hours of harvest. "Vitamin A is very light sensitive, and can be destroyed by artificial light or sunlight, and vitamin C can be lost by heat and exposure to air," she notes.

Cans also protect against nutrient loss that occurs in shipping and handling produce between field and home. Few nutrients are lost if fruits and vegetables are eaten directly from the garden, says Sweeten, but the nutritional quality of fresh produce in the supermarket depends on the care it receives during harvesting and shipping, as well as shipping time.

Earlier studies compared canned vegetables with uncooked vegetables. Since canned vegetables are "cooked in the can" during the canning process, it's more appropriate to compare them with cooked produce, she observes.

This research considered the most important nutrient loss due to home cooking of fresh vegetables, says the nutritionist. The comparisons were made between canned foods cooked in their canning liquid and drained, and unpeeled fresh and frozen foods cooked in as little water as possible to avoid the necessity of draining. The fresh vegetables were prepared within two days of harvest, so they had not been commercially handled and shipped as the produce in most retail outlets and homes.

The human body cools itself by perspiring, but problems can develop when high relative humidity prevents the evaporation of perspiration from the skin, Nelson explains. The "apparent temperature" takes into account the reduced cooling ability caused by humidity.

To avoid potential health problems during the hot summer weather, he offers these suggestions for farmers and ranchers and others who work outdoors:

Rest periodically in a cool place, rest is most beneficial when breaks are short but frequent.

Drink fluids every 15 to 20 minutes. Water intake must equal perspiration loss, so drink more than enough to satisfy thirst. Rely on meals to replace salt.

Wear loose garments of thin cotton fabric to enhance air circulation near the skin and to allow body heat to escape.

Slow down work speed or distribute the workload evenly over the course of the day.

If possible, postpone nonessential work for cooler periods.

Transfer workers to help from other jobs or obtain extra helpers. Younger and more physically fit workers might take over.

Where possible, shield workers from equipment heat sources, use exhaust fans near heat sources, and provide open windows and cooling fans for maximum air flow around individuals.

Provide maximum opportunities for outside workers to work in well ventilated, shaded areas.

Heeding these suggestions and keeping tabs on the daily temperature and relative humidity can go a long way to preventing heat related disorders during summer weather, says Nelson.

Three local musicians get V.I.P. honors

Three local people from Ozona recently received "V.I.P." citations from the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior in appreciation of their performances at the Fourth of July celebration at the Fort Davis National Historic site in Fort Davis.

Kelly Glaze, Ozona High School band director, Dewey Lawhon, assistant band director and Michael Glaze, a sophomore in the Lion Band, were joined by other musicians from throughout the state to play in the first annual Fort Davis Fourth of July Band. The band participated in the flag-raising ceremonies at the site, marched in the town's parade and performed an outdoor concert at the park.

Backyard pools inviting, but can be a fatal enticement for young children

Backyard pools are very inviting on hot, summer days, but the cool water can be a fatal enticement for small children or young, inexperienced swimmers. Even adults perish because of carelessness or bad decisions.

Small children should never be left unattended or unsupervised by a responsible adult when near a swimming pool, advises the Texas Department of Health. Toddlers and small children may be unaware of the dangerous aspects of swimming pools, and a drowning can occur in a matter of minutes—even in very shallow water. A person who leaves a child alone in or near a pool for just a brief moment, even while answering the telephone or checking food on a cookstove, may return to find that a drowning has occurred.

One of the best things a parent can do for a child is to give the child swimming lessons at an early age.

Pool owners can help prevent accidents and keep the summer safe and enjoyable by putting these tips into practice:

1. Secure your pool with an adequate enclosure at least four feet high.
2. Provide responsible supervision for children at all times.
3. Enforce pool rules that prohibit roughhousing.
4. Mark the depth of the water on the pool deck and walls to show swimmers where they can dive and jump safely. Above-ground pools generally are too shallow to allow diving.
5. Keep rescue equipment—reaching (poles) and throwing aids—on both sides of the pool. Instruct swimmers in their use.

6. Make sure floating toys and mattresses are treated as toys—not lifejackets.

7. Empty all water from wading pools and turn them upside down when you are finished with them.

8. Never allow anyone to swim alone.

Following these tips can produce a safe atmosphere in which to enjoy your pool during the hot summer ahead.
