Lions scrimmage McCamey, season opens Friday night

by Gary Davis

The Ozona Lions completed their pre-season football schedule on Thursday, August 30 in McCamey. The Lions failed to cross the goal line while the Badgers made three scores.

Four first team members and two second team members were out of commission this week due to injury.

"We had to piece-meal all night," said head coach Jim Green. "We saw some good playing by individuals, but because of our piece-mealing we did not have good team play," added Green.

The Badgers led the Lions in statistics. McCamey stacked up 270 total rushing and passing yards, while Ozona only accumulated a mere 132.

Ozona freshman, Derold Vargas led his team in rushing with 46 yards on 6 carries, therefore making for a 7.6 yard average gain per carry. Senior David Delgado ran for 42 yards on 6 carries for a 7 yard average. Other leading rushers included: Junior quarterback, Steve Sanchez with 16 yards. Sanchez threw for 15 yards and his only completed pass to Sophomore, Butch Gonzalez.

Coach Green stated that he saw some of his younger players do some things that he was not aware they could do. "I am not disappointed in the team," said Green. "I'm very proud of the boys. They came through when we needed them to and that makes me feel good."

Barbecue to benefit senior citizen center

A barbecue dinner to benefit Helping Hands for the Elderly will be held at the Civic Center Friday evening with serving to begin at 5:30; prior to the football game.

Proceeds will be used for a senior citizens center which is still in the planning stage.

Rain comes to drought stricken Ozona

Ozona finally got rain from the heavy clouds which had been hanging over the city throughout the weekend. A total of .38 of an inch fell during a blowing thunderstorm Sunday afternoon and another .36 of an inch fell early Monday morning in a slow, steady shower.

From all reports the much needed rain fell in most parts of the county.

Following the scrimmage, the coaching staff named the outstanding offensive and defensive players. Those players who performed well on defense were: Junior, Harvey Fierro, who intercepted 1 McCamey pass; Chuy Hernandez; Ed Borrego; and defensive end Butch Gonzalez. Offensive standouts were: Mark Marshall, David Delgado, and Ed Borrego.

"We have the makings of a good ball club," commented Green, "and we are really proud of our younger kidson both offense and defense."

The Lion J.V. scored 1 touchdown and the McCamey team scored 2 times. Ozona had 70 yards rushing divided between Derold Vargas with 27, Oscar Payne with 15, Valdo Galindo with 12, Sub Fierro with 9, and Arturo Gonzalez with 7.

Sam Hightower, Sophomore quarterback passed for 43 yards. Receiver, Jaime Castellanos, caught 17 yards worth of passes and Sub Fierro led the receivers with 26 yards.

The Lions will begin the regular season this Friday, the 7th against the Greenwood Rangers. The game will take place in Lion's Stadium beginning at 8:00 p.m.

Truck tractor wreck claims fatality here

An Odessa woman was killed and two local persons were injured in three separate vehicle accidents here over the weekend.

Mary Rodriguez, 28, was killed when a truck-tractor and trailer overturned fifteen miles north of Ozona on Hwy 137 Saturday morning at 12:43. The driver of the truck swerved to miss a deer, losing control of the rig and over-turning.

Friday afternoon, shortly after 1 o'clock, Lucio Fierro was eastbound on the I-10 access road when he reached for a cigarette lighter on the floorboard of his car. The car veered to the right and tumbled 15 feet to the west bound lane of I-10, exploding upon impact. Fierro was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist, reportedly with burns on his back.

A one-vehicle accident at 12:35 Tuesday morning near the Pool salt water dump at the intersection of Howard Draw and Hwy. 290 sent Polly Nettleton to Shannon Hospital in San Angelo with undetermined injuries.

Senior campers to make reservations

Reservations are now being taken at the Texas 4-H Center at Lake Brownwood for the Octoberfest, an extension camp for persons over 55 years of age.

The facility is located on the shores of beautiful Lake Brownwood 11 miles north of Brownwood on Texas Highway 279 and one mile east of FM Road 3021.

The facility has a main complex and ten lodges. Each lodge has two large bedrooms with private baths and dressing facilities. Each bedroom accommodates five to eight people. Husbands and wives cannot be housed in the same bedroom, however, they may be housed in the same lodge. The bedrooms are separated by a living area.

Programs abound. Each camp session is different, such as oil painting, needlecrafts, basketweaving, nature hikes, boat rides, outdoor recreation and sports, as well as dancing, bingo and social activities. Shuffleboard, dominoes, '42', bridge and other card games will also be offered.

A dietician, along with a professional staff, will provide dining at its best.

Cost for the entire event is $72. This includes room, board, all meals, refreshments, linens and limited accident insurance. Your $10 deposit will be deducted from your total fee when you arrive at camp.

Deadline for receiving reservations at the Center is one week before the camp you plan to attend. Sessions are held Oct. 2-5; Oct. 9-12; Oct. 16-19; Oct. 23-26; and Oct. 30-Nov. 2.

Reservations may be picked up at the extension office in the courthouse annex.

Court reviews budget at called meeting Mon.

In a called meeting of the Crockett County Commissioners Court Friday morning, the court reviewed the 1985 budget, discussed eighteen applications for the position of building and maintenance supervisor, and called an executive session to discuss personnel.

County Judge A.O. Fields reported on a meeting with the new 112th District Attorney J.W. Johnson, who will take office January 1, 1985. County Auditor Dick Kirby was also present. Johnson has plans to hire assistant district attorneys among other items which will push the county over budget. However, he had no firm figures and said he would return with an itemized budget for Crockett County's part in the operation.

After much discussion, the court agreed to allocate $6,000 a year, plus office and equipment. Only $2,000 had been budgeted.

In going through the proposed budget, it was learned an across-the-board salary increase of 5 percent would take place for all county employees and elected officials. Kirby pointed out a large increase in the Sheriff's Department budget due to the state-mandated increase in the number of jailers. A tremendous increase in employee benefits was noted due to the increase in insurance rates.

The hospital and care center budget was up due to rising cost and non-utilization of the hospital facility. Total budget for the hospital comes in at $1,207,000. Of this amount, the county will subsidize $828,450 from the general fund.

Total revenue amounts to $5,756,210 and total expenditures are expected to be $5,744,995. The property tax rate will be .556 for county expenses and .695 for school, giving a total rate of $1.251 per $100 valuation for property tax owners to pay. Most property valuations went up due to the recent re-appraisal, so Crockett County taxpayers can expect a hefty increase in their tax bills which are expected in October.

The budget will be approved and the tax rate set in the regular meeting of the Commissioners Court Sept. 10.

Court members whittled the 18 applicants for maintenance supervisor down to two men. Jack Williams made a motion to hire one of the men and B.W. Stuart made the second. Jesus Castro made the motion for the second man and Sostenes DeHoyos seconded the motion. No vote was taken.

The court recessed to go into executive session to hear some commissioners' complaints about some county personnel.

Guild to promote arts and crafts in Crockett County

Crockett County Arts & Crafts Guild is a non-profit organization founded to promote arts and crafts within Crockett County. The Guild is not affiliated with the County of Crockett in any way, nor is it part of any branch of government office. A portion of all dues and fees collected will be put back into the community by way of donations.

Anyone interested in arts and crafts who lives or works within Crockett County is eligible for membership. Crockett County Arts and Crafts Guild does not discriminate against any member-applicant regardless of age, sex, race or creed.

There are three types of membership: active, honorary or associate. Active members participate in at least two business meetings a year and have full voting rights and are eligible to hold office. Honorary members are those who can not attend business meetings and therefore, can not hold office or vote. Associate members are any individual, group, organization or business firm that offers financial support, gifts or donations or promotes the development of cultural appreciation in Crockett County through the Guild.

Crockett County Arts and Crafts Guild was designed to assist the community in the promotion of cultural activities. It recognizes the need and desire to work with the community leaders in a spirit of full cooperation. In order to facilitate this, Crockett County Arts and Crafts Guild will have an Advisory Board consisting of three members: one County government official, one business person belonging to the Chamber of Commerce and one member-at-large. The Executive Board of Crockett County Arts and Crafts Guild will work closely with the Advisory Board to provide the community an arts and crafts guild the citizens of Crockett County can be proud of.

The Guild will also participate in community affairs by way of membership in the Ozona Chamber of Commerce.

Crockett County Arts and Crafts Guild is currently planning two arts and crafts fairs a year. In addition, they hope to sponsor lectures, demonstrations, exhibits and project meetings designed to help artists and craftspersons share ideas and knowledge.

The Guild intends to be an asset to Crockett County and Ozona and will work diligently towards that goal.

Hearing on sewer plant is completed

A hearing before the State Water Control Board took place in Austin last week on the proposed new waste disposal plant for the city of Ozona.

Representing the Crockett County Water District were: Dee Keilers, water superintendent; Dan Davidson, board member and Tom Cameron, attorney.

The holdup on getting a permit to build the plant stemmed from a protest filed by landowners south of the plant site.

The hearing was completed and the protest taken under consideration. Attorneys for both parties were given three weeks to file briefs and the matter will go before the State Water Commission. Keilers said he felt the permit would be forthcoming within a month.

Charred remains is all left of this late model car after it rolled 15 feet off the I-10 access road and burst into flames three miles east of Ozona Friday afternoon. The driver walked away from the spectacular wreck and was not seriously injured.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—An era in Texas public education ended this week when State Board of Education Chairman Joe Kelly Butler announced he would resign from that post effective Friday.

Butler, a Houston businessman who had chaired the board for nearly a decade, said in his resignation letter that he was stepping down now so the newly created Legislative Education Board could have a free hand to implement the education reforms passed this summer by a special session of the Legislature.

"I am convinced that the responsibility for the policy and planning functions of the Texas Education Agency should lie with the Legislative Education Board until such time as the appointed board is installed," Butler said in the letter.

Butler was a very controversial figure during the debate on the education reforms.

He and the board, rightly or wrongly, took much of the heat for the crisis that many people believed existed in Texas schools.

Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot, who headed the Select Committee on Public Education, made abolishing the elected board a personal vendetta, and the Legislature went along, voting to replace the existing 27-member elected board with a 15-member appointed panel.

Reaction to Butler's resignation was mixed, with his supporters saying Butler had been made the "scapegoat" for the Legislature's own failings to adequately fund public education.

Butler's detractors, however, said his resignation did not come soon enough.

A gruff, imposing man, Butler was perceived by many as an iron-fisted ruler of the board.

His resignation followed criticisms that the current board was attempting to hamper implementation of the reforms and that the Texas Education Agency was encouraging local school districts to circumvent the changes where possible.

Butler will be replaced by the current vice chairman, Paul Mathews of Greenville.

Senate Campaign

While educators were pre-occupied with Butler's resignation, U.S. Senate hopefuls Lloyd Doggett and Phil Gramm were exchanging barbs over which one was more steadfast in his support of right-to-work laws.

POLITICS, SCIENCE & CANCER

By Edwin Feulner

It's commonly believed that man-made chemicals are among society's deadliest killers.

Promoting this notion is an army of anti-technology flacks, hucksters, self-styled experts, and even a few sincere scientists caught up in the politics of it all.

In her new book, The Apocalyptic Politics, Science, and the Big Cancer Lie (Simon and Schuster, 1984), Edith Efron, author of The News Twisters and TV Guide media critic, says the pseudo-scientific huckstering is enough to "leave even the most educated layman incapable of differentiating between serious science and ideology in a white smock." She's right.

The merchants of fear have attempted to play on our understandable fear of cancer, probably the most dread of all diseases, by overloading our circuits with claims of imminent doom, packaged neatly between the covers of scientific-sounding research papers whose conclusions are written even before the first test-tube is filled.

Yet, on an age-adjusted basis, cancer is declining in the United States, even as the use of industrial chemicals has risen sharply.

That's what the evidence says — not that we're committing mass suicide by using spray paint on our patio furniture and eating food grown with pesticides.

How about workplace cancer? During the Carter-Mondale administration, then-Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph Califano went before the tv cameras with an undocumented claim that 40 percent or more of all cancer deaths may be attributable to exposure to workplace chemicals. The serious scientific community rejected his foolish claim immediately, but not before another seed of fear had been planted. Numerous studies over many years, both in the United States and other industrialized nations, indicate that exposure to industrial chemicals probably accounts for no more than 5 percent of all cancers.

In fact, the data show that working in the chemical industry is safer than working in most other industries, according to the National Safety Council.

A long-term study of 8,181 people who were on Dow Chemical Company's Michigan payroll on March 1, 1954, for example, showed that during the next thirty years the group had 20-percent fewer deaths and 5-percent fewer cancer deaths than the general population. Some of this, company officials agree, is probably due to the "healthy worker effect," where some people are screened out in the hiring process.

"But it must also be true," says Dr. Perry Gehring, director of health and environmental science for Dow Chemical U.S.A., "that if the Chicken Littles of the world are to be believed and if working with these so-called toxic time bombs is as hazardous as they say, then Dow employees should be dropping like flies and our mortality rate should be sky high."

Efron's new book, panned in The Washington Post for being too strident (though the reviewer acknowledged the scientific validity of everything she said), sets the record straight. I can't imagine it being on Ralph Nader's Christmas giving list, but anyone who really wants to know how the merchants of doom have tried to snooker us into believing death is just a molecule away should read it cover-to-cover.

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Perhaps that faint tinge of autumn you feel early mornings and after sunset is a gentle reminder that our days are growing shorter.

We still have two months of good frost-free growing time for annual flowers and vegetables to mature and be enjoyed. To me fall is the most enjoyable time of the year, but often overlooked by many.

If you have not planted or divided your iris, this can still be done this month. Select a site that receives full sunshine and good circulation. Bearded types need alkaline soil with good drainage; beardless types like acid soil that stays relatively moist. Few of the latter do well in our area. Do not cut back iris leaves until after frost unless you are replanting old and new iris rhizomes. Keep only dead leaves removed. This helps prevent insects and disease. Be sure to keep the iris names correctly, as this is a flower show requirement to receive an award. Prepare the soil well by forking and breaking up clods to make the planting easier.

Divide overcrowded clumps of oxalis, iris, daylilies, daisies and cannas. Retain only healthy, outer portions of the clumps. Replant in well-prepared soil. Keep watered until roots are established if there is no rain.

September is the month to start your compost heap. If you haven't provided a space for one, use a method that would be easiest and with little expense. Dig the space 3 feet deep or any size you may want. Save the good top soil for the mixture as you fill the space. The structure could be made above ground of boards or corrugated metal sheets. There are many things suitable for compost, such as leaves free of disease or insects, grass, tender hedge clippings, fruit peels, vegetable waste, cleanings from barnyards, hay and other material you may have available.

Let the green material wilt for several hours before putting it in the heap. Begin by adding 4 to 6 inches of above material, the 2 inches of top soil and barnyard manure or cottonseed meal as organic forms to decompose chemical forms of nitrogen may be used to decompose which include general garden fertilizer, (5-10-5) or pure nitrogen as nitrate of soda. Water down mixture well, but do not pack down at anytime. After 3 or 4 weeks, turn over from the bottom with a fork. Repeat layers until the heap is almost full. Keep damp if there is no rain. This should be ready for next spring.

Ranchers facing effects of severe drought

Many Texas ranchers have experienced extreme drought during the past several years, and most are still facing its devastating effects. Spotty, yet sometimes good rains have come to only a few scattered areas of the state.

As a result, one of the most critical decisions facing ranchers is how to best manage the rangelands to benefit both livestock and wildlife during the drought.

Several speakers at the 4th Annual International Ranchers Roundup in San Angelo July 30-Aug. 3 addressed many of these concerns.

"There are many different alternatives to consider that will assist in improving rangelands, yet each of these is important only when it benefits the entire ranch operation. The concept of holistic ranch management should be considered in determining the best alternatives for the present and future of a ranch," said Dr. Larry White, range specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. White, one of three IRR coordinators and a moderator for the range session, related the discussions to the conference theme of "Holistic Ranch Management - Putting It All Together."

Among critical considerations are those concerning the number of animal units a ranch can support, particularly during an extended drought.

There is probably no one best range management system that can apply to all ranches, since no two ranches are exactly alike, explained Wayne T. Hamilton, formerly a manager of a large Southwest Texas ranch and conservationist, and now a member of the Department of Range Science at Texas A&M University.

"Natural, economic and human resources are highly variable between enterprises, yet there are several fundamental considerations that should be common to good management on any ranch," Hamilton explained.

"The bottom line is to meet your realistic objectives for the business enterprise in an economic framework with which you can survive," Hamilton told the ranchers.

This means use of a management system that is founded on a thorough assessment of range resources, Hamilton said. In addition, the system should identify technically feasible alternatives for removing inhibitory factors of production, provide a quantitative basis for decision-making based on economic comparison of available alternatives and fit the individual rancher's management capability to accomplish the desired end result, he said.

Hamilton suggested assessment of these fundamental components in designing a management plan:

Soil stability and water retention capability of the rangeland. Types of range vegetation and potential vegetation covers.

Range potential-plants and animals must be in balance-for management goals.

Grazing management, as essential ingredient in range management.

Match management requirements with management capability.

Build in flexibility and contingency plans for fluctuations in markets and weather.

Make range management part of a holistic planning continuum.

Hamilton told the ranchers that the "best range management plan for each particular ranch should also be something you enjoy and believe in. This is perhaps the biggest ingredient to assure success."

Besides the concurrent session on range, others also addressed concerns of livestock, wildlife and the ranch family. The educational program arranged by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service featured almost 80 major speakers from many states of the U.S. as well as South Africa, New Zealand and Mexico.

IRR coordinators also announced that the 1985 Ranchers Roundup will be held in Laredo next July 29-Aug. 2. Besides White, coordinators included Dr. LeRoy Hoermann, district Extension director for Southwest Texas, based in Uvalde; and Robert Kensing, Extension farm management specialist for West Central Texas, headquartered in San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Self of Lubbock have been here visiting her brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kost.

Nace Bissett of Rocksprings is here visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bissett, while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bissett get adjusted to his infant sister who was born last week in San Angelo.

FRESHMAN FACES QUAD
 At one of our universities the freshman dormitories completely surround a grassy plot reached through a shadowy stone portal. Originally called the "QUADRANGLE" because of its four imposing sides, it has long since become simply the Quad.
 Perhaps this Fall a freshman from your family will begin a new life away from home. For him, or her there will be opportunities and obstacles, triumphs and temptations.
 How well we meet life's challenges when we are on our own depends on our character, our convictions.
 Hopefully, years before a freshman faces the Quad, a church back home has been helping to mold that freshman's character and deepening that freshman's convictions.

Amanda dolls are on sale at museum

Amanda is authentic. Amanda is unique. Amanda is a plaything and a collector's item.

The wild, wild western frontier was inhabited by cowboys and Indians, by trappers and settlers. And among the settlers there were women pioneers. Amanda is a pioneer girl, with a museum quality wardrobe to interest little girls who like paper dolls, collectors, historians, fashion experts and teachers who want children to know the truth of the American West.

Back when the sewing machine was a hand-held needle and thread keeping up with fashion required skill, imagination and determination. Mostly women did the sewing, but men could make a buckskin suit or a pair of boots from scratch.

The pioneer fashions and the story behind them come to life in a new full-color historical paper doll book, "Amanda Goes West."

The book is inspired by one of the nation's best collections of historical everyday clothing in The Museum of Texas Tech University. It is the work of Betty Mills and Lynette C. Ross.

Mills, the Museum's curator of costumes and textiles, researched Amanda's period fashions and real-life accounts of pioneer women before writing the text. Ross, a professional fashion illustrator and museum volunteer, provided the detailed costumes and accessories—the bonnet basket, sewing bird, trunk and even a cast iron kettle.

The book, published by Texas Tech University Press, is the first book of a paper doll trilogy charting the parallel stories of 19th century fashion and frontier settlement. The series will carry heroine Amanda from Tennessee to Texas, from teen-ager to grandmother.

"Oh, Texas," Amanda writes in her journal the day her family leaves Murfreesboro, Tenn., "you must be a wonderful country for us to leave all this."

After stops in Natchez, Miss., Natchitoches, La., and Nacogdoches, Texas, Amanda settles with her family near Columbus, Texas, in a long cabin "20 miles away from anybody."

In Book I of the series, Amanda meets Matthew, a transplanted German Pennsylvanian she will eventually marry, and men's clothing enters her frontier journal. In future books, Amanda and Matthew will witness statehood for Texas, the Mexican-American War, the Civil War, birth of the western cattle industry and the development of West Texas.

The historically accurate journey brings Amanda and her family in contact with the itinerant daguerrotypist, the circuit preacher, wagon trains, cattle drives, cross-country rail travel, Godey's Lady's Book—a style-setter of a bygone era, and "McGuffey's Reader."

Amanda's journal carries the story and puts in the context of the times the illustrated household goods and clothing. Several of Amanda's fashions in Book I are based on The Museum's collection.

A homespun linsey-woolsey dress for Amanda illustrates a garment in that collection. The dress dates from the late 1830s but other museums likely would have bypassed it for their collections because of its condition at the time of acquisition, Mills said. The Texas Tech Museum, however, searches for everyday wear, and this one is a "miracle of restoration" in Mills' view.

Before The Museum acquired it, it had been stashed in a box in a barn, was torn and mouse-and-moth-ravaged.

Dr. M. Gene Shelden, professor of clothing and textiles emeritus, worked painstakingly as a volunteer to restore the 150-year-old garment. It has been matched and patched so well that its flaws are now imperceptible to the viewer.

A chambray wrapper, skirts, short gowns and dresses and numerous accessories in the cutout book are based on The Museum's collections.

Appropriately, "Amanda Goes West", was published March 2, Texas Independence Day. Book II, "Amanda's New Life," has been published and Book III, "Amanda's Home on the Range," is also available.

Dr. Dillard C. Carter, director of Texas Tech University Press, said the paper doll trilogy may be the first of its type for an academic press.

"The book was accepted for publication because it is based on painstaking research and because of its educational and historical value and its quality artwork," Carter said. "On top of that, it's just a fun book that we think people will want to buy in pairs—one to save and one to cup up." Carter said the paper used in the publication should make it durable for children's use or bookshelf life.

Locally "Amanda Goes West" and subsequent volumes may be purchased at the Crockett County Museum.

PBPA Energy Report

According to a survey by Opinion Research Corporation, the Princeton based survey and market research arm of Arthur D. Little, Inc., the public still expects the federal government to protect it from another energy crisis.

The ORC report, terming public attitudes toward energy conservation "a political and economic time bomb" notes that 58 percent of the American public believes that the federal government should lead the way, and that energy companies have a public trust to increase domestic supplies of crude oil and natural gas regardless of the cost.

The main problem, found in the survey, was the public's strong objection to any price increases in energy to either spur conservation or exploration. For example, "almost 60 percent of those surveyed favored natural gas de-control, but only if it doesn't mean higher prices at the burner tip." We believe it will actually lead to lower prices, just as de-control of crude oil led to lower gasoline pump prices.

In addition, "almost two-thirds wanted the environment protected without increasing the cost to them, through changing the tax laws on oil and gas." This again is what we have been preaching for lo these many moons. Seems funny that a research group out of Massachusetts comes up with the same findings. Certainly no one can call this a put job. And, it is backed up by a similar report from young Joe Kennedy II, calling for natural gas de-control and no additional taxes on the domestic petroleum industry.

We are seeing a slow, but steady growth in drilling and exploration in the Permian Basin. There are still some very rough edges to be smoothed out—some well servicing and drilling contractors are still being strapped by demands for price cutting, as are service and supply companies, but we are seeing a new attitude.

Extension Office News By-Rachel Hall

Today is the deadline for indicating your time preference for the upcoming Furniture Refinishing Workshops. Workshops will be held September 11, 8:00-11:00 A.M. and 6:00-9:00 P.M. at the 4-H Barn. On Monday evening, September 10, 7:30 P.M. 4-H Barn, there will be an introductory refinishing program concentrating on cleaning, removing finishes, repairing and selecting new finishes. Please indicate your workshop time preference by contacting the county extension office (392-2721).

Furniture refinishing workshop supplies recommended include: Screwdriver, wood scraper or knife, old toothbrush, good toothbrush, 3/0 steel wool, soft rags, masking tape, newspapers, rubber gloves, paper towels, string or cording, paint/varnish remover, sandpaper (fine, medium), household bleach, household ammonia, turpentine, linseed oil and brush cleaner. Optional supplies include: denatured alcohol, protective finish, wood filler, wood marker or shellac stick, stain, wood glue and polishing wax. Novices of refinishing projects should consider small items with few decorative features (stool, chair, end tables, etc.)

When selecting a piece of furniture for refinishing, consider the following questions. Will it be useful? Will it fit the space in my home? Is it well designed with pleasing lines and proportions? Is it made from one or several woods? Are any parts missing? Will they be costly to replace? Is the piece sturdy and are joints tight? Will the refinished piece cost less than a new piece of furniture? Will the restored piece blend with what is already in your home? Does the piece of furniture just need a good cleaning?

Gourmet dinners not much different than ordinary

With their gourmet names and fancy packaging, today's "upscale" frozen dinners seem quite different from the ordinary TV dinner on an aluminum tray. But that difference is mostly a matter of cost and type of ingredients rather than nutrition, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

The premium frozen food category has enjoyed meteoric growth, gaining about 35 percent in sales volume last year, says Dr. Alice Hunt. Sales are expected to triple in the next several years, she adds.

To find out whether the premium products are really different from their competitors, Extension researchers at Cornell University compared several poultry dinners and entrees for differences in calories, sodium content, ingredients and cost, reports Hunt.

They found variation in food combinations, with the more expensive premium dinners offering rice and wild rice pilafs and unusual combinations of vegetables instead of mashed potatoes, peas and carrots.

The dinners also vary on the quality of the main ingredient, she notes. The least expensive products are made from turkey rolls, for example, rather than whole turkey. Some products are labeled "gravy with turkey" indicating more gravy than turkey. Some of the least expensive products list broth first in their ingredient statement, showing that it is the most predominant ingredient by weight.

However, buying a premium dinner is no guarantee that you'll get more food, says Hunt. According to the Cornell study, calorie counts are relatively uniform among both premium and TV dinners. Most contain 28 to 32 calories per ounce. The weight loss promised on many of the low-calorie meals is mostly a matter of portion control rather than low-calorie cooking, since the calorie count per ounce is about the same as other products, says the nutritionist.

In addition, neither type of prepared dinner could be recommended for low-sodium diets, she observes. Some premium products are lower in sodium than TV dinners, but they still contain more than one gram of sodium. Not all frozen products are labeled with nutrition information or sodium content, so people on low-sodium diets would need to be cautious, adds Hunt.

Except for sodium, frozen meals, whether premium or the TV variety, are about the same nutritionally as home prepared food, says Hunt, and many of them represent a well-balanced meal.

Rise in interest rates puts financial pressure on ranchers

The recent rise in interest rates is putting further financial pressure on already hard-pressed Texas farmers and ranchers.

"Both producers and agricultural lenders are concerned about this added burden," says Dr. Carl Anderson, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"High real interest rates not only increase costs, but they also strengthen the dollar against foreign currencies," Anderson points out. "And, a strong dollar discourages exports, encourages imports and stimulates foreign production."

During the 1970s when interest rates adjusted for inflation ranged from 0 to 3 percent, farmers relied heavily on borrowed capital to expand operations. However, when interest rates skyrocketed in the late '70s, export markets began to disappear and stockpiles of surplus grain, cotton and dairy products started to appear, the economist notes.

"Last year interest rates eased down slightly to average around 13 percent, but now they're back up to more than 14 percent," says Anderson. "and that spells bad news for Texas farmers and ranchers."

Outstanding agricultural debt in Texas exceeds $13 billion, according to the economist. And, with most of this debt subject to changes in interest rates, a 1 percent rise in rates can easily add $100 million to expenses. Then, with income after expenses running at $1 billion or less, a 1 percent increase in interest rates reduces net farm income by 10 percent or more.

"The glimmer of hope that Texas farmers have of improved income in 1984 may be lost to higher interest rates," Anderson says. "Those producers with heavy debt whose production outlook this year has been adversely affected by freeze damage last winter or by dry, hot weather this spring and summer are in serious financial trouble. As a result, these producers likely will have a greater need for emergency and guaranteed farm loans this fall and winter."

Social Security for self-employed should be paid

Social Security taxes for self-employed people are paid with their Federal income tax. However, a self-employed person may owe Social Security taxes even though he or she does not owe income tax.

Self-employment includes work in a trade, business, or profession, either as a sole owner or as a partner. Net earnings are figured by deducting allowable business expenses from the gross earnings of the trade or business. A person engaged in more than one business must combine the profit or loss from all of them when figuring net earnings and his or her tax.

A husband and wife who operate a business as a partnership must report their respective shares of their business earnings on separate schedules, even though they file a joint income tax return. The amount reported by each depends on the partnership agreement.

Not all husbands and wives who take part in a business are actually partners. If they are not, the net earnings are credited to the one who manages and controls the business.

Therefore, the net earnings should be reported for that person even if the couple files a joint income tax return.

A parent and child may also be partners. In such cases, both are considered to be self-employed, and each is required to report his or her share of the business profits as net earnings.

Additional information about Social Security coverage for self-employed people may be obtained from the San Angelo Social Security Office located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608

DON'T SHOOT AT POWER LINES!

Never shoot at power lines or the insulators that hold them. A severed line could cause a dangerous power outage, and the downed line itself could also be a very serious safety hazard.

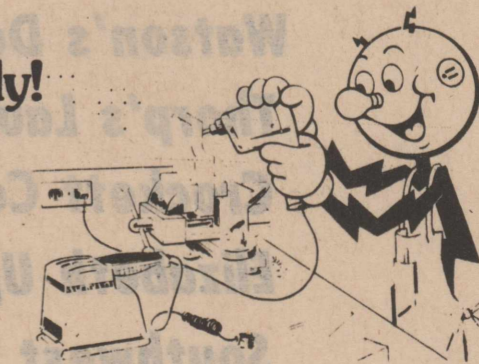

Here are a few other tips on how to live more safely — electrically:

Keep Children Away from Outlets!

Don't let small children play near electrical outlets. A child could easily put a finger or some object in an outlet when you're looking away. A wise safety precaution would be to put safety caps in all wall outlets.

Use Power Tools Wisely!

Be extra careful when using power tools. Always be sure the wiring is adequate for the job. See to it that there are enough circuits of the right size, and that all circuits are grounded. Also, never use electric tools in the rain or on wet surfaces.

Coast Guard accepting apps.

The United States Coast Guard Academy has announced that it is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U.S. Coast Guard, Class of 1989. Applications are being accepted for both men and women. Appointments as Coast Guard Cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional appointments or geographical quotas. Applications for appointment must be submitted to the Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, prior to December 15, 1984. Candidates must arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to or including the December 8, 1984 administration for the ACT and the December 1, 1984 administration for the SAT. The competition for appointment as Cadet is based on the candidate's high school rank, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school extracurricular activities, community affairs and/or part-time employment. Most successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and demonstrate proficiency in both the mathemat-tical and applied science fields. To qualify for the competition, an applicant must be unmarried at the time of appointment, have no legal obligations resulting from a prior marriage, and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by July 1, 1985. All applicants must be assured of high school graduation by June 20, 1985. Regulations stipulate that all applicants must have completed three units in English, and three in mathematics to include algebra and plane or coordinate geometry or their equivalents, and must fulfill basic physical requirements. Coast Guard cadets obtain an excellent undergraduate education at no personal expense. In addition, they receive pay and allowances fully adequate to fulfill their ordinary living expenses. The constantly updated Academy curriculum leads to a Bachelor of Science degree with a strong academic emphasis on engineering and science. The selected major studies, when combined with varied elective courses, establish a solid foundation for a challenging career. Graduates of the Academy are awarded a Bachelor of Science degree and are commissioned as Ensigns in the United States Coast Guard. Selected officers may pursue further postgraduate education and specialized training at many leading civilian and military graduate or professional schools, in such fields as aviation, business administration, electronics, engineering, law and oceanography. The young Academy graduate can look forward to a varied, exciting, and demanding career as a regular Coast Guard Officer. The Coast Guard performs essential humanitarian missions vital to the safety and saving of lives at sea. Under the Department of Transportation, the Coast Guard establishes and coordinates search and rescue operations by ship and plane, maintains advanced electronic and other aids to navigation scattered around the globe, operates the icebreakers which clear the way for all polar expeditions, and enforces marine law and all aspects of merchant marine safety. In addition, the Coast Guard has responsibility for boating safety and marine environmental protection.

Medicare pays billions for home health care in nation

Medicare paid more than $1 billion nationwide for home health services in 1983, according to an article in Texas Medicine.

Of that total, $59 million went to Texas home health agencies, wrote Jeanette Emmons and Austin Brightman of the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) regional office in Dallas.

Home health agencies are private businesses authorized to receive Medicare reimbursement for providing such services as home nursing care. HCFA is the arm of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services that administers Medicare, the federal health aid program for the elderly and the disabled.

The idea behind home health agencies is to provide "home-bound" people with good care that is more economical than institutional care.

From 1980 to 1983 the number of home health visits in Texas nearly tripled, Emmons and Brightman noted in the August issue of Texas Medicine, the journal of the Texas Medical Association.

They said that home health services must be "medically necessary" to be covered by Medicare and that the doctor is responsible for deciding this according to guidelines.

A typical example of a home health service that Medicare will pay for is a nurse checking the vital signs of a patient just released from the hospital after treatment for hypertension. However, checking a healthy Medicare recipient's vital signs at home would not be covered because it is not considered medically necessary.

For Medicare to cover home health services, the article said the patient must be "home-bound," meaning the person has an illness or injury that restricts the ability to leave home. The difficulty involved in leaving home makes it impractical for the patient to meet all of his health care needs outside of the home, they explained.

"For Medicare purposes, the important point is that the patient's limited mobility must be related to an illness or an injury, not simply the result of the feebleness and insecurity that may accompany advanced age," Emmons and Brightman wrote.

They said another requirement for Medicare coverage of home health services is that the patient have a medical condition that requires skilled nursing care at least once every 60 days, physical therapy, or speech therapy.

Physicians do not always prescribe home health care in the same sense they prescribe drugs or order services in a hospital, the article noted. Frequently, a physician, who accepts or rejects it. The physician's signature is required for Medicare to cover the plan.

Emmons and Brightman stressed that providing one month's home health care for one patient may cost taxpayers "as much as $1,000 or even more."

According to TMA, the number of home health agencies in Texas increased from 80 in 1979 to 301 in 1983.

Chamber endorses Phil Gramm

The United States Chamber of Commerce has endorsed U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm for the Senate, saying that his election "will help bring about the improvements our country so desperately needs so that our nation may continue to realize the economic recovery that will benefit all Americans."

The endorsement represents the support of 14,772 member organizations in Texas and 200,000 nationwide, said Richard Leshner, president of the U.S. Chamber.

Chamber members, who were polled prior to the endorsement, believe the congressman's candidacy represents "an opportunity to increase support in Congress for curbing the growth of government and slowing the rate of federal spending."

"As a pro-free enterprise candidate, you have shown your understanding of and respect for American business and efficient government," Leshner told Gramm.

"I urge businessmen and women to support your candidacy. You are well deserving of the support, commitment and involvement of the business community," the Chamber president concluded.

Letters to the Editor

August 28, 1984

Dear Editor,

I wish to express my appreciation to the city of Ozona and certain of its citizens for making our unexpected visit a most pleasant one. While traveling on I-10, I had some serious car trouble and so was waylaid in Ozona for several days. With the unselfishness and kindness of several people, my traveling companions and I were able to make appropriate decisions and feel confident that we were being treated fairly.

I wish to thank Ed Caldwell of Sonora for aiding us along the highway, the management of the Silver Spur Motel for their flexibility concerning check-out time, the curator of the museum for a lovely tour and above all, Wheeler Mechanic Service for their hard work and honesty.

Sincerely,

Crockett County Care Center News

BY ANN McCARTNEY
DIRECTOR OF ACTIVITIES & SOCIAL CARE

Volunteers are the key to a successful activities program. There is always a need for people to help in the beauty shop on Thursday mornings, to help with bingo on Friday and Tuesday mornings, to play dominoes on Monday mornings, to help with ceramics on Wednesday mornings, or to share a special talent at 3:30 some afternoon.

This past Thursday night we said our special thank you to some 316 individuals, groups and businesses. A special thank you goes to Barbara Isler, Regional Volunteer Consultant from Abilene, Texas, who assisted with the awards ceremony and to the Knox Band for a fine performance! Many thanks Jamie Knox, J.D. and Don Kilgore, Larry Petron, Lonnie Longoria and Santiago Ybarra. We had a nice crowd but we still have some certificates. Please pick yours up at the Care Center. Resident volunteers receiving certificates included: Moriama Perez, Nina Mayfield, Hilda Dysart, Ola Mills, Maude Pettit, Alice Ross, Billie Whatley, Paul Cavin, Tomasa Ramos, Minnie Karr and Johnny Henderson. These special people not only live here but still do volunteer work.

Dominoes were played several times this week. Those playing included: Paul Cavin, Maude Pettit, Ola Mills, Johnny Henderson, with volunteer Tina Holmsley.

The sewing ladies met and worked on their dolls. We have a special project going for September. More about that later.

Tuesday afternoon we had our monthly trip to Clayton's. Residents going included Paul Cavin, Hilda Dysart, Nina Mayfield, Nila Turnell, Maude Pettit, Inez Biggs, Billie Whatley, Minnie Karr and Johnny Henderson. Volunteers furnishing cars and assisting included Belinda Martinez, Sammy Patino, Earlene Jones and Dorothy Doll.

Dorothy and Doris Karr led ceramics on Wednesday. Ann Shaw cleaned some additional pieces for us. Some friend donated two pieces they decided they didn't want. Sure pleased to have all these assistants. Residents participating included: Juana Hernandez, Tomasa Ramos, Alice Ross, Hilda Dysart, Nina Mayfield, Maude Pettit, Ola Mills, Moriama Perez and Billie Whatley.

Sunshine Hour volunteers Bernice and Margaret Jones along with Dorothy Montgomery served some twenty-six residents out on the front porch. It is still plenty warm.

Thursday morning beauty shop volunteers were Lola Rios and Belinda Martinez. We welcome Belinda but still appeal for more help.

Bible study on Thursday was led by Ted Turnley. Maude Pettit played the piano and Paul Cavin helped with the singing.

Spanish Hour of Praise volunteers included Maria Vitela, Paulita Leal, Carmen Vargas, and Felipa Munoz. They were pleased to have Jesus Hernandez out of the hospital and back with the group. Others in attendance included Juana Hernandez, Tomasa Ramos and Moriama Perez.

Friday bingo winners include Billie Whatley, a $5 bill donated by Perry Brothers, Nila Turnell, second place and Avon donated by Monnie Boyd, Nina Mayfield, the Baker Jewelry certificate, and a tie for El Chato's dinner for two by Hilda Dysart and Ola Mills. Twenty-one residents played on Tuesday and twenty-two played on Friday. Volunteers included Elodia Zapata, Angelita Pena, Sammy Patino, Dorothy Doll, Mattie Cooper, Inez Gutierrez, Amaldia Lumberas, Andra Ross, Maude Pettit and Alice Ross. Special welcome goes to newcomer Andra Ross and special thanks to Amaldia Lumberas for serving everyone donuts on Tuesday.

Thanks also goes to Toots Walker, Mary Jo and Donna Jo Patrick for a memorial in memory of the brother of Mary Huckabee, to a mystery friend who donated some fish, and to Lois Smith who sent some good cookies for the volunteer night celebration.

Friday afternoon our residents went over the September calendar during their Council Meeting. Another month has arrived.

IRS interest rates change

The interest rate for the last 6 months of 1984 is 11 percent, compounded daily, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The interest rate on tax overpayments or tax underpayments is set twice a year and is based on the average adjusted prime rate during the preceding 6-month periods ending September 30 and March 31.

The rate based on the period ending March 31 went into effect July 1.

Tree damage prevalent in this area for past few weeks

During the past weeks a tremendous number of "sick" trees have been noted in the area. Mulberry leaf discoloration is extremely prevalent this season. Single branches, certain areas and whole tree damage has been observed.

Typical leaf symptoms include yellowing in a mottled or irregular pattern, veins that are clear to translucent, some brown leaf margins and early defoliation of affected leaves. These leaf symptoms may have been present earlier in the year but only in a relatively few undetected areas of the tree. As limb and root growth have progressed this season the problems have dramatically increased to the point of being downright obvious.

It is human nature to seek causes beyond the bounds of mortal control when it comes to these types of tree problems. Exotic fungi and "new diseases" often get undeserved blame. Unfortunately, the majority of the tree problems seen each year are caused by incorrect use of herbicides. Many people are unaware that herbicides are weed killers and vice versa. Users mistakenly feel that weed killers remove only unwanted plants from yards and surrounding areas.

Tree root growth is poorly understood by some. We often hear that the feeder roots of the tree may extend to the dripline. This is not entirely correct. The roots of a healthy tree will extend beyond the dripline.

The leaf problems originate when weed killers are used within the root zone of the tree. This year's root zone has the potential of extending 1 to 4 feet next year and encountering almost anything in the soil. This is why herbicides with soil residue action can cause trouble years after being applied. Herbicidal action may make little or no distinction between broad leaved weeds and trees. In other words, many classes of herbicides are unintelligent about the plants they control. These non-discriminatory weed killers are often called soil sterilants. The term soil sterilant is loosely and in the strictest sense incorrectly applied, to the following products: Borocil, ComPleet, Triox, Pramitol, Hyvar, Velpar, Spike, Fenovar and Krovar. It should be noted that these herbicides and similar ones not named are excellent products. That is, they are excellent products when used as intended and with a healthy mixture of common sense.

The herbicides listed above all have non-cropland labels. They may or may not be labelled for other uses. Now comes the tricky part. The labels of these products may clearly state that the product may be used on driveways, brick walks, along fences, curbs and gutters and under gravel where no plant growth is desired. The same label may further state a need to avoid application over the root system of desirable vegetation. This can be extremely difficult to do especially when future root growth is considered.

Soil "Sterilants" used at high rates have long soil residuals in west Texas. Simply put, this means the weed killer will be around for many years.

Tree and shrub problems have been associated with herbicides used in alleys, in asphalt paving, on asphalt paving and streets, along curbs, along fences, along right of ways, in medians, near tanks and ponds, along highways, on gravel and on storage yards. There are hundreds of weed killers and weed killing compounds currently on the market. It is virtually impossible to keep up with each product, its application rate(s) and labelled crop without an annually updated manual of herbicides. This means that weed killer applicators (homeowner, commercial or city, county, state) must read the product label, understand potential problems and make applications at the correct rate.

A misunderstood or incompletely read label is a problem in the making. The extent of the problem may depend on circumstances beyond the bounds of mortal control after all.
