Childress wins 2nd dog trial championship

Bob Childress wrapped up his second sheep dog trial championship in two weeks as one of his dogs won the 1984 Supreme Championship Sheep Dog Trial in Uvalde Sunday.

Childress, who ranches south of Ozona, won the national finals last week at Waco with his dog Sly, and then placed both of his dogs in the qualifying round for the finals held at the Uvalde Fairgrounds.

Childress placed first in the qualifying round with Sly with a score of 90. His other dog, Laff, scored a 72 in the qualifying round.

Laff scored a 93 in the final to win the trophy for her master. Sly had a little difficulty with his sheep and came away with a score of 81 to place fourth.

Childress said he was "excited" about winning the Uvalde trials.

"This is the next best thing that's happened to me after winning the national finals," he said.

Youngsters share with the elderly

Mrs. Probst's third grade class has completed its "Christmas Care and Share" project begun the week after Thanksgiving holidays and have presented the local Helping Hands for the Elderly with $62.20 toward their building fund.

The students were encouraged to do small jobs for others in order to receive the money they donated to the fund. Most of the children made dimes for good grades in class and willingly brought their pennies and dimes earned elsewhere every day, not missing one day after the project began. Paul Vargas brought the largest sum all in pennies, almost half the final total.

Louis Hall met with the children early in the endeavor to explain how Helping Hands work in Ozona. Every child donated more than once. They are Walter Babb, Mendi Coates, Heather Criswell, Jami Dalby, Juan DeLuna, Luis Flores, Shelly Flores, Mackenzie Hopkins, Nathan Hubbard, Randa Lykins, Frankie Moran, Shawn Morrow, Coleman Nelson, Diane Ramirez, Alberto Ramos, Petra Rios, Gerald Ortiz, Paul Vargas, and Joana Villareal.

Commissioners Court meeting is routine

The Crockett County Commissioners Court met Monday in regular monthly session to attend to routine monthly matters and let the bid for insurance for the coming year.

Henry Elledge gave the road department report and Onecimo Ortiz reported the 2-inch water line at the cemetery needed to be replaced. The court authorized Ortiz to talk with water superintendent Dee Keilers about replacing the pipe and report to the court next month.

Don Hopkins gave the hospital and care center report. He was authorized by the court to purchase a system to help facilitate Medicare and Medicaid bills. It along with an Apple 2 computer was authorized for a $3,300 purchase. The court approved a transfer of $98,994 from the general fund to the hospital and $79,109 to the care center.

The court approved a raise for deputy clerk Pat Willmon to $1060 per month effective immediately. They also approved a raise for the District Judge's administrator. The other counties in the district will pay a like amount. The increase for Crockett

County will amount to $45 per month.

Members of the school board asked the court to close Avenue F and Eighth St. in last month's meeting, in order the school may have room for the fleet of buses. The school purchased the old theatre building and adjacent lot for a bus facility, but found that it lacked room for the buses. The court took the matter up in the Monday meeting and voted to leave the street open to traffic.

The Baggett Agency was the lower bidder on insurance for county vehicles. He submitted a bid of $21,659 to Farmers' bid of $22,942. The court voted to accept the low bid.

Sherry Scott, member of the library board, submitted specifications for construction work on the old Perner home for the new public library. Bids will be taken and all specifications are on file in the County Judge's office. The court specified a time limit of 60 working days to complete the remodeling for the library, to begin with the signing of the contract.

In other business County Judge A.O. Fields read a letter from Jesse Marley asking for redress on the discrepancy in the balloting in the general election. Marley has since filed a contest of election suit in district court. A hearing on the suit had not been set Tuesday.

Letters to the Editor

December 5, 1984

Dear Kitty:

Your "Tribute to Mr. Vic" was, indeed, a piece of work of which you can be very proud. Needless to say, it brought a tear to my eye but also brought joy to my heart, for I feel that your recollections of him accurately portray this unique individual. Not only did he live a long life, but he was blessed with good physical and mental health. This allowed him to adapt to the many changes in life that one has to undergo when living for such a long time.

Pop was a great storyteller and always maintained a sense of humor. I am appreciative to you for encouraging him to undertake writing his book "YesterYear". Capturing many of these stories in printed form will certainly add to the memory of my grandfather and those early day settlers of Crockett County.

Again, I thank you for acknowledging that this man lived and did something worthwhile during that life and that he had friends such as you to share them with.

Sincerely,
Pierce Miller

December 8, 1984

Dear Kitty:

On Monday, December 17, on CBS from 7-9 p.m. a new movie will be shown, Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" (1984) starring George C. Scott as Scrooge.

You and others of my friends may be interested in knowing that this film was shot in my home town of Shrewsbury, Shropshire, England earlier this year. It is my understanding that scenes were filmed in several locations.

In the old market square they did use some sets in addition to the old market hall, and it is my guess that these were put up to hide the modern shops flanking the old market that have recently been built in the place of the old Shirehall, former seat of county government now superseded by a huge building on the outskirts of the town. However, there are supposed to be other old streets involved unless they ended up on the cutting room floor! We shall see.

Sincerely,
Joan Nicholas

December 8, 1984

Ms. Montgomery,

After reading your article in the Dec. 5, 1984 Ozona Stockman, I just had to write a note about the Christmas decorations for the town of Ozona.

I have been coming to see my grandparents in Ozona about 15 years. I usually come around the holiday season. The decorations are such a disgrace to a town like Ozona. I can't believe year after year Ozona has them put up. I am a visitor to this town and every year it makes a bad impression to see those decorations. You were right, at night they will pass, but during the day-shabby isn't the word.

I thought you would like to know what visitors to the town of Ozona think when they see those decorations.

Thank you for taking the time to read my letter.

Margaret Crocker Broekhoven
Dayton, Ohio

December 3, 1984

Dear Kitty:

I hope you will print this letter. I would like to say thank you to all the members of the Ozona Community Chorus for a delightful time I had Sunday, Dec. 2. I don't think I ever enjoyed anything that much in a long time. I would also tell everyone in Ozona that did not go, they missed a wonderful program. There was a lady sitting behind me, that said she did not know there was so much talent in Ozona. I surely agree with her.

I would like to say that I was very proud of all the band members, not because my son was in it, but because they were all very very good. Mr. Glaze and Mr. Lawhon did a very good job teaching them. All of Ozona should be very proud of every member of that chorus. I know I am.

Again I say thank you for a delightful Sunday afternoon.

Linda Sessom

SAFELY HOME
I am home in heaven, dear ones;
All's so happy, all's so bright!
There's perfect joy and beauty
In this everlasting light.

All the pain and grief are over,
Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
Safely home in heaven at last.

Did you wonder I so calmly
Trode the Valley of the Shade?
Oh, but Jesus' love illumined
Every dark and fearful glade!

And He came Himself to meet me
On the way so hard to tread;
And with Jesus' arm to lean on,
Could I have one doubt or dread?

Then you must not grieve so sorely,
For I love you dearly still;
Try to look beyond earth's shadows,
Pray to trust our Father's will.

There is work still waiting for you,
So you must not idle stand;
Do your work while life remaineth-
Your shall rest in Jesus' land.

When that work is all completed,
He will gently call you home;
Oh, the rapture of the meeting!
Oh, the joy to see you come!

On behalf of the JESSE SANCHEZ family, we would like to extend our warmest gratitude for the thoughtfulness and kindness expressed during our time of grief.

A special thank you to Dr. Don L. Carlisle and the nurses at Crockett County Hospital in Ozona, Texas; to the pallbearers; to Mr. Charles Sizemore, funeral director at Sizemore Funeral Home and to all those who sent food, flowers and shared kind words and condolences.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

"Autumn to winter, winter into spring, spring into summer, summer into fall, so rolls the changing year, and so we change. Motion so swift, we know not that we move."

Dinah Mulock Craik-Gardeners can now take things easier than during most any month of the year. Once the outdoor garden is tucked away for winter, there is comparatively little to do, though planting should continue until very cold weather. It seems we are having it earlier than usual. Unless the ground is frozen in our area, fertilize hardy cyclamen, oxalis, and gladiolus now. Use 10-10-10 at the rate of one pound per 100 square feet. This will provide adequate fertilizer during the cold months, without stimulating too much growth.

Holiday plants such as azaleas, begonia, cyclamin Jerusalem cherry, and poinsettia, will last longer if given proper care. Avoid drafty locations like doorways and heating vents. Water the plants regularly to keep soil from drying out. Remove foil from around the pot to permit excess water to drain away or punch a hole in the foil at each drainage hole. When possible, display the plants in bright but not direct sunlight.

Plants need regular watering even in winter months. Dry winds draw moisture from plants, (especially evergreens) more rapidly than normal during this time. Regular watering helps prevent freeze damage-the water around the plant will freeze before the plant does.

Be sure to check the freshness of a Christmas tree before you buy it. Look for needles, that spring back when bent and stay on when the tree is shaken. When you get the tree home saw 2 inches off the trunk to reopen clogged water channels. If you plan to wait a day or more to decorate the tree, put it in a bucket of water, and leave it out doors in a shaded location. Once indoors, the tree will last longer if you keep a fresh supply of water in the tree stand.

Take notice of the many beautiful firethorns (pyracantha) plants with their red or orange-red fruit as you drive around our city.

MRS. GARY GROLL
...nee Miss Pamela Young

Miss Young and Mr. Groll married in Sat. ceremony

Miss Pamela Lynn Young became the bride of Gary Wayne Groll Saturday, December 8 in the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Hillery Phillips, Jr. with Rev. David Griffin, Pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Sonora officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Garland Young and Mr. A.M. Groll of Victoria.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an heirloom-styled, tea-length bridal gown fashioned of ecru re-embroidered ribbon lace. The high Victorian collar and sheer sweetheart neckline featured Schiffli embroidery and an appliqued satin rosette. Re-embroidered ribbon lace formed the fitted bodice and long sleeves which tapered to a deep cuff trimmed with mother of pearl buttons. A slim tea-length skirt ended with ribbon re-embroidery in a wedding ring design and a dainty lace ruffle. The fitted waistline was enhanced by a wide taffeta sash tied into a bow at the back.

To compliment her dress, Pam wore a narrow-brimmed picture hat covered with ecru Chantilly lace sprinkled with faux pearls. A dainty crystal pleated ruffle edged the brim. The romantic finger-tip veil was made from silk illusion. The bride carried a crescent bouquet of white symbidium orchids accented with burgundy sweetheart roses, carnations, stephanotis and grape ivy over a hand embroidered handkerchief which belonged to her great-grandmother.

Matron of honor was Ms. Kathy Spain of Sonora. She wore a rose chiffon dress with antique lace around the collar, a tapestry with roses down the front, and a flowing skirt. A satin belt tied in the front accented the fitted waistline: Kathy carried a bouquet of silk rose poinsettias fashioned with a burgundy bow.

The best man was father of the groom, A.M. Groll of Victoria.

The house was decorated for Christmas in shades of rose and burgundy. The bride's three-tiered white cake created by Mrs. Ed Shepperson carried out the colors with burgundy roses, iridescent columns and clusters of grapes topped with tulle puffs and silk burgundy roses. Mrs. Clara James of Sonora sang a song dedicated to Pam from Gary entitled "Security".

An informal dinner was served guests following the ceremony.

Pre-nuptial parties included a personal shower at the Commercial Cafe in Sonora, a kitchen shower in the home of Mrs. Chester Wilson, a lingerie shower in the Emerald house, and a gift coffee in the home of Mrs. H.O. Hoover.

After a wedding trip to Ruidoso, New Mexico, the couple will be at home in Victoria.

Music is one of life's best examples of teamwork. Whether you're playing accompaniments, duets, or performing in an orchestra, it's the united effort that counts. Even soloists have acquired years of "teamwork" with their teachers.

Whether a performance is being given by a girl and her kid brother or by a symphony society, music demonstrates to us, that no one can go it alone. Music, then, is very much like life. And your church, today, stands directly in the harmonic mainstream of life itself.

Sam and family

Sandra Martinez, Delma Sosa, Torres, Yvonne Duran, and Sammy Martinez. Sam expressed his appreciation to all who celebrated with his family. He recalled his 79 years in Ozona, held no regrets. He said Ozona residents are all nice and friendly. He recalled some offers of help when he had two children in high school and three in college. Sam owned and operated the El Sombrero for many years before his retirement several years ago and was famous all over West Texas for his Mexican cuisine.

Crockett County Emergency Medical Service holds meeting

Crockett County EMS met for their regular monthly meeting on Monday, December 10, at 7:00 p.m. in the dining room of Crockett County Care Center.

Those present were co-ordinator Dub O'Bryant, EMTs; Joe and Tina Moran, Doug Meador, and Paula Westmoreland. Also present were the following students presently taking the EMT class: Gary and Shawn Mitchell, Lorelei McMullan, Elliot Barrera, Dawn Burns, Dorothy Lane, Raymond Borrego, and Carol Hunnicutt. Also present was Sybil Hedrik.

Ambulance runs for the month of November were discussed and the monthly schedule was made out. Those people whose names are on the schedule will make runs when an ambulance is summoned unless otherwise planned or if some problem arises with the paging system or other jobs. If a person needs to be off, it is his or her responsibility to find another to cover if needed. At the present time those students taking the class will be given an opportunity to go on runs when possible because to complete their training they are required to make three emergency ambulance runs. It is their hope that this community support and understand them when they are a member of a crew responding to an emergency. They are very new at this, but with our loyal support behind them within a short time Crockett County EMS will have another very fine group of certified EMTs.

After a short break in which everyone enjoyed coffee and cookies class resumed and application of the Hare traction splint was demonstrated. Those present were shown the techniques used to immobilize the leg and apply the splint.

The next regular meeting will be held on January 14, 1985. Everyone who can is urged to attend these meetings as there is a lot to be learned during these group discussions.

Beta Sigma Phi meets for Pledge Ritual

Members of the Alpha Alpha Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Monday, November 26, at the Crockett County National Bank for the Pledge Ritual.

New chapter members are Tina Bean, Kim Hager, Laurie Hale, Susan McMullan, Barbie Myers and Renee Pearl.

Following the candlelight ceremony members exchanged secret sister gifts and enjoyed fresh salads.

Other members present were Marilyn Armentrout, Tammy Bunger, Becky Dillard, Debbie Glasscock, Karen Huffman, Jeannine Henderson, Ellen Lipsey, Philda Morrison, Lori Parker, Dena Porter, Leslie Reeves, Billie Renfro, Roylan Sullivan, Lisa Wagoner, Chris Weant, Marcy Williams and Leslie Wilson.

Increasing cattle production

Controlled breeding allows a cattleman to pull a lot of loose ends together so as to increase overall herd production.

"Having a controlled breeding season can make a big difference in the total operation of a cattle business and can result in more pounds of beef going to the market—the ultimate objective," says Dr. L.R. Sprott, beef cattle specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Controlled breeding makes overall calf management much easier," Sprott points out. "It makes for more uniform weaning and working of calves—exposing immature heifers to bulls."

Just how effective a controlled breeding season can be has been demonstrated on the B.J. Armstrong farm in Milam County.

Sprott has worked with Armstrong to change his year-round breeding and calving seasons to about three months. At the same time, late-calving cows were replaced with early-calving heifers.

Before the change, Armstrong's cow herd had about a 62 percent calf crop and calf weaning weights were averaging 476 pounds. Now Armstrong boasts a 90 percent calf crop and is weaning 600-pound calves.

Not only does Armstrong have more and heavier calves to take to the market but they are more uniform—an added plus that can reap a premium price, Sprott points out. And he has reduced labor costs with once-a-year calving.

"This study as well as others in Texas and across the nation have shown that a controlled breeding season can help a cattleman 'get his business in order' for greater profits," says Sprott.

Questa Oil closes $1.5 million program

Questa Oil & Gas Co. of Denver has announced the closing of a $1.5 million drilling program which plans to drill nine wells in a three-county area of southwest Texas.

The Questa 1984 Program, Ltd., raised a total of $1,515,000 through sale of limited partnership units. The Program will have working interests in the nine wells of between 12.5 and 50 percent.

The prospects in the Program are on leases covering 3,360 acres in Crockett, Irion and Schleicher counties. All of the wells are being drilled for natural gas to depths of between 6,400 and 7,200 feet. Drilling of the first well began last month, with drilling of all the wells expected by the end of 1984.

This is the fourth drilling program formed by Questa since it was organized in 1981. The success of its previous programs is the primary reason the Company reported $137,863 in earnings for the nine-month period ended September 30, 1984, compared to $55,076 a year ago. Oil and gas sales totaled $403,391, compared to $144,609 in the first nine months of 1983.

Questa is a privately-held oil and gas company based in Denver, with an exploration office in Tulsa, Oklahoma. All of its producing properties are located in Texas and Oklahoma. The Company has interests in 30 producing wells and is the operator on 18 of them.

To The Subscribers of Ozona Television System

In order to bring our charges in line with other systems of similar size, and to meet the demands being forced on us by the economic changes of the time, we are forced to make a slight increase in the monthly basic rate for cable television service in Ozona.

Effective January 1, 1985, the base rate for Cable TV service will advance $1 per month, from $11 to $12 per month. There will be no change in rates for special services such as HBO, Galavision and the Disney channel. All will remain at $10 per month.

Most of you realize, especially if you have visited many small or large cities of the state, that Ozona TV System offers a superior brand of TV service—more channels, more uninterrupted service and a better quality of reception than most other cities. We have no hesitancy in bragging on our system because we work hard to make it always better and we have plans to continue to improve through the coming years.

As to rates for service, we feel that if you compare you will find other systems as high or higher and that, in addition, most of the other systems levy an additional charge for each additional TV outlet in the home. Here the basic charge brings the service to your home and you can have as many outlets as you desire at no extra monthly charge.

ARE YOU GUILTY OF ERODING YOUR COMMUNITY'S ECONOMIC FOUNDATION?

You are if you spend your hard-earned dollars out of town. Every time you or your neighbor shops somewhere else you wash away part of the community's economic base and help support someone else.

As the economic base erodes, so will the number of quality businesses, services and factories. If the erosion isn't corrected we will be without some of the great things in our own community that we often take for granted.

Texas Historical Commission grants available

History museums interested in securing assistance with the preservation, conservation, and interpretation of their collections have until Jan. 4, 1985, to apply for grants administered by the Texas Historical Commission (THC).

The appropriated monies, approved by the state legislature for the 1984-85 biennium, total $24,500. Of that amount, $14,999 was distributed in 1984 and $9,501 remains for fiscal year 1985. Grants to individual institutions will not exceed $1,000.

This is the first time state grants have been made available through the THC to support museums in the preservation of important historic collections. Funding may be applied to special projects including, but not limited to, the following: developing conservation methods, obtaining technical assistance, training staff, developing educational programs.

Applications may be submitted for up to 50 percent of a project's cost, providing the request does not exceed $1,000. Also, museums must provide the remaining 50 percent of the cost of the project, either in matching funds or a combination of funds and in-kind services. In-kind services may not exceed one-half of a museum's contribution. The THC will favor applicants that indicate strong community support by raising funds at the local level.

Deadline for 1985 grant requests is 5 p.m. Jan. 4, 1985. For application or further information, contact the Museum and Field Services Dept., Texas Historical Commission, P.O. Box 12276, Austin, Tx. 78711, 512/475-3092.

Lions battle for third place in annual tournament over the weekend

Low oil prices lower State's revenue estimates, Bullock

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Tuesday he would be forced to lower his estimate of state revenues by more than $250 million unless world oil prices improve.

"We've just finished our latest look at the state's revenue picture," Bullock said. "If I had to tell the Legislature today what they can expect, I would say their revenue shortfall is $900 million, not $640 million as expected."

Bullock emphasized his revenue cut is not yet official but will be official in January unless conditions change for the better.

"I'll wait until the Legislature gets here in January to add up all the totals. But I'm telling them today, as early as I possibly can, what they'll be facing if the price of oil on the world spot market doesn't pick up between now and then.

"I know this is bad news. I know it is going to be hard for the agencies and the Legislators to live with. I know the members have heard from their constituents why this program or that program needs more money. But all I can tell them is we're scraping the bottom of a $25 barrel of oil and it might even get worse before it gets better."

Pecan Food Show winners

Katherine Russell, center, was winner of the grand champion pecan food entry, at the annual Crockett County Pecan Show held here last week. She won the plaque with her pecan pralines. The other winners placed in various categories. [For places, see story]

Texas pecans in short supply all over the state this year

Pecans, those tasty morsels that are so much a part of the holiday season, are in short supply this year, at least in Texas.

The 1984 Texas pecan crop is only a fraction of what it was a year ago, points out Dr. George Ray McEachern, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. About a third of the crop has been harvested to date.

"We are estimating a crop of less than 20 million pounds this year," says McEachern. "That compares to last year's crop of more than 80 million pounds."

Why the sharp drop? According to McEachern, the state's pecan crop was hard hit from several fronts. The first and foremost reason was the large 1983 crop. Pecans generally produce good crops on alternate years, so that accounts for much of the decline of this year's crop. Other factors that kept pecan production down in 1984 were severe freeze last December which damaged some trees, the extensive drought this past summer, and a heavy infestation of pecan nut casebearers, the most serious pecan pest.

"Because of the short crop, pecan growers are getting a good price," notes McEachern. "In-shell pecans currently are bringing a dollar or more per pound, and that price may increase as harvesting progresses and demand increases."

Although Texas produced a large pecan crop last year, use was heavy so carryover stocks were not that great, notes the horticulturist.

Texans can expect to see some pecans coming in from other states although the crop is also short in other major pecan growing areas, adds McEachern.

Liberal holiday credit can cause consumers to overspend

Beautiful merchandise and liberal credit arrangements can encourage consumers to spend—and overspend—for Christmas.

Many department stores now invite their customers to charge merchandise without having to pay the bills until January or February.

These "no payment" plans can work to your advantage if you are already a good credit manager, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist Nancy L. Granovsky.

If you do not have to pay a finance charge, extended credit amounts to a free loan, she points out. Then during the time you postpone payments, you can save up the cash to pay the bill.

"But if you are already overextended, postponing payments may only add to your money woes," advises Granovsky. "Delayed spending can give consumers a false sense of security or encourage them to spend more than they would have spent when paying cash."

One way to avoid the need for extended credit at Christmas is to purchase gifts year-round and take advantage of sales and other specials, she says.

Xmas trees crop up on 22 Texas farms

(AUSTIN)—Over 22 farms across Texas are producing a very special crop—Christmas trees. Texas-grown trees were specially developed for the state's soil and climate.

"Because these trees are grown right here in Texas, close to the people who buy them, they're truly fresh, and they keep looking great right through Christmas," says Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower. "Now Texans don't have to buy trees shipped in from Oregon, Vermont or some other far-flung state, and wonder how long ago they were cut." There are a number of farms where you can take the family, choose your tree while it's still growing and cut it yourself. A guide to these "choose and cut" operations is available from the Department of Agriculture.

Once you buy your Texas tree, following these simple directions will help keep it looking its best for the holidays.

If you aren't setting the tree up right away, keep it outdoors or in a cool place, out of the wind and sun. Make a straight cut across the bottom of the trunk and stand the tree in a container of water.

When you bring the tree in to decorate it, make another straight cut an inch up—this helps the tree take up water. Keep your Christmas tree in a stand that holds water and add water daily. A tree may drink between 2 pints and a gallon a day, and if you let the water drop below the trunk, a new cut will have to be made so it can still take up water. A fresh tree with adequate water stays flame-resistant. For further safety, place the tree away from heat outlets, avoid combustible decorations, and check your Christmas lights. Don't use lights with frayed or warm cords or cracked sockets. Turn off the lights when you're away from home and when you go to bed at night.

Texas growers offer primarily Virginia pines and in the southern part of the state, Eldarica pines. Christmas trees take from 5 to 16 years to grow to market size, and over 30 million are sold nationwide.

The use of evergreen as part of our Christmas began in Germany 400 years ago, based on the Egyptian and Roman traditions of using evergreens in seasonal celebrations. The first retail Christmas tree lot opened in 1851, and the first tree in the White House was set up by Franklin Pierce.

After the holidays, your tree can still be put to many uses. Stand the tree in your yard and hang fruit slices in it for the birds. Cut-up trees make excellent mulch for your garden, and stacked trees make good erosion barriers.

This helpful tree information comes from the National Christmas Tree Association, the Texas Christmas Tree Growers Association and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Rev. Ken Harrison will play the part of John Wesley in the "Christmas Madrigal at the Home of Charles Wesley," to be held Sunday at the Ozona United Methodist Church at 7:00 p.m. in the fellowship hall. The public is cordially invited to attend the Christmas musical.

Physician's role in treating drug dependence examined by ACP Engagement announced

Chemical dependence needs greater recognition by physicians and by the public as a medical illness that can be treated, stated the American College of Physicians in a recent position paper.

Developed by the national medical specialty society's Department of Health and Public Policy, the statement addresses the role of the physicians in recognizing, treating and preventing the illness.

"Chemical dependence has become a serious health problem in this country," said John R. Ball, MD, JD, ACP and executive vice president for health and public policy. "It is costly for patients' families and friends—who must pay medical bills and bear the social brunt of the illness—and it affects innocent victims as well."

The College statement notes that alcohol is responsible for more deaths among people aged 15-45 than any other single agent; the drug is involved in at least half of all automobile fatalities, 67% of drownings, 70% to 80% of deaths in fires, 67% of murders, 35% of suicides, and 85% of 11,000 annual liver disease deaths.

Physicians often are called upon to treat people suffering the effects of drug dependence, said Dr. Ball. "It thus is imperative that they know the symptoms and behavior associates with excessive drug use," he continued. "Physicians must be able to recognize and treat the problem and to give appropriate counsel about the correct use of drugs, and they must avoid prescribing practices that could lead to chemical dependence in their patients."

Dependence usually is found in relation to three types of substances, the ACP notes. "Social drugs"—alcohol, caffeine and nicotine—account for the majority of drug problems in the United States, with 10 million people dependent of alcohol alone. Licit drugs, both over-the-counter and prescription, are frequently abused and the General Accounting Office estimates they may be responsible for more injuries and deaths than are all illegal drugs together. Illicit drug use is increasing and although many users suffer from complications or addiction, little has been documented of the use, abuse and effects of illegal drugs.

The College addresses the various aspects of chemical dependence that a physician must be familiar with and educated about: behavioral and physical indications of the illness, certain lab findings and indications in the patient history, and the many treatment options available. The use of community resources, with appropriate support and patient counseling and education, the ACP considers to be an important part of the treatment process. Physicians may elect to refer a patient for treatment or follow-up elsewhere, but whether or not physicians assume the primary treatment role, the ACP notes, their influence on the patient's progress can be considerable.

The ACP recognizes that physicians can—intentionally or otherwise—be a party to chemical dependence by prescribing medications in such a way that a patient becomes dependent on them. The College warns that physicians have a responsibility to keep their prescribing practices consistent with the best interests of their patients. "Poorly informed and careless physicians need to be better educated," the College says, and "physicians who are convicted of abusing their right to prescribe drugs and of pandering to the illicit market should have their licenses to practice medicine revoked and should be punished to the fullest extent of the law."

In addition to being well informed themselves, the ACP recommends that physicians take part in patient and public education: "the hallmark of all diseases prevention efforts." In particular, the College stresses the physician's responsibility to teach patients about the proper use of licit and the hazards of illicit drugs, and the need for medicine to participate in public education programs that emphasize the vital importance of following instructions when taking prescribed and over-the-counter medications.

The ACP—which represents 60,000 doctors of internal medicine, related nonsurgical specialists, and physicians-in-training nationwide—recognizes the responsibility of internal medicine, along with psychiatry and other medical specialties, to diagnose and treat chemical dependence. The College encourages the discipline as a whole to take a greater role in educating medical students and house staff about chemical dependence.

For its own part, the ACP helps to educate physicians through statements such as this and through continuing medical education programs like those held at its annual scientific meeting and at regional meetings throughout the year.

Complete copies of the ACP position paper on chemical dependence are available from the College.

The American College of Physicians was founded in 1915 as a communications link among medical scientists, clinical researchers and practicing physicians. Through rigorous requirements continuing medical education programs, and contact with health care officials in government and the private sector, the ACP works to upgrade the quality of medical care, educations and research in the United States.

Set guidelines on spending when planning budget

Family budgeting might be easier if there were some simple guidelines for spending money.

Actually, it's very difficult to tell any family how much they should spend on food, clothing, shelter, transportation and other items, because all families are different, says family finance expert Nancy L. Granovsky.

But financial counselors at some of the non-profit consumer credit counseling services have developed a simple, easy to understand system called the 25 percent budget, says Granovsky, a home economist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

While using this set of budget guidelines may not be helpful to every family, it does provide a benchmark, especially for those who are not budgeting at all and may be experiencing some financial difficulty, she notes.

To make this budget work, you divide your monthly take home pay into four equal parts. Assign 25 percent for housing, 25 percent for food, 25 percent for monthly loan payments and 25 percent for everything else, explains Granovsky.

Allowing 25 percent for housing, including taxes and if possible, utilities, means you won't exceed one week's take home pay for housing costs.

Allow 25 percent for food, including groceries, children's lunches, and other meals away from home.

Allow 25 percent for monthly payments on everything you are buying on time, such as a car, furniture, television, appliances, home improvements or credit card charges.

The final percent should cover everything else like savings, insurance, education, recreation, contributions, child care, personal expenses and emergencies.

The percentage in each budget category are flexible, she points out. For example, some families may spend 30-35 percent on housing. This means that each of the other parts on the budget will have to be reduced.

But no matter how you divide up your take-home income, says the home economist, your expenses will have to add up to 100 percent. If they don't you'll have a personal case of deficit spending on your hands.

4-H Horse Club meets December 8

The Crockett County 4-H Horse Program held its monthly meeting Saturday, Dec. 8. The group toured the Ozona Veterinary Clinic.

Dr. Gary Vannoy instructed the members in a very informative horse health care clinic. The remainder of the day was spent at the Ozona Community Center where the group worked on their 4-H Record Books, view a film on the history of horses and made Christmas ornaments for the residents of the Care Center.

All the members enjoyed a Christmas party of games, singing and refreshments. At the conclusion of the meeting the group delivered their presents to the Care Center and sang Christmas Carols to the residents.

The next meeting will be on January 12. A total of 17 members were present at this month's meeting.

Third largest portion of food dollar is packaging

After labor costs and farm costs, the third largest portion of our food dollar—eight percent—goes to packaging, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service food and nutrition specialist.

That includes not only the package on the shelf, but the shipping carton, other distribution materials and the packaging equipment, explains Mary K. Sweeten.

While the cost of packaging as part of our food dollar is small, some foods cost more to package than others.

According to the USDA, food packaging and container costs average nearly one-third of the cost of ingredients. But in about a fourth of the foods and beverages sold, packaging costs are greater than the cost of ingredients, reports the specialist. In general, the more processed or complicated a food product is, the higher the packaging costs, Sweeten says.

For example, foods such as beer, soft drinks, cereals, baby food, frozen dinners and canned fruits and vegetables all have packaging costs greater than 100 percent of the cost of the ingredients.

Packaging costs for cake mixes, bread and cookies are between 50 percent and 100 percent of the ingredient costs, she reports. Packaging costs for frozen fruits and vegetables are only 42 percent of the cost of ingredients; and packaging costs for dried fruits and vegetables are 39 percent of the cost of the ingredients.

On the low end of the scale, frozen seafood, flour products and coffee have packaging costs that are less than 15 percent of the cost of ingredients. And "basic" foods like poultry, cheese, butter, sugar and red meats have packaging costs of less than 10 percent of the value of the food.

New methods and material for processing and packaging food have developed to meet consumer demands growing out of changing family patterns and lifestyles, notes Sweeten.

The Scientists Tell Me...

Glandless Cottonseed Flour Batter Helps Preserve Meat Freshness

By Robert L. Haney

Batter-fried or breaded fish, poultry and red-meat products are widely marketed through fast-food service facilities and retail outlets. Quality control to prevent the development of a rancid off-flavor is a serious problem for some of these products as currently marketed, according to a foods scientist, Dr. K.S. Rhee, with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The development of rancid off-flavors in these products is partly from lipid oxidation (fat spoilage) and is the foremost quality deterioration problem in precooked or cooked meat products, Rhee says.

Control of rancidity development in these products has become more critical with the increased use of precooked meat items by the food service industry.

Defatted-glandless-cottonseed flour incorporated in the batter/breading system can provide an antioxidant effect to meat fried with batter/breading according to research done by Rhee.

Although Rhee and other scientists in the Animal Science Department of Texas A&M University had previously demonstrated that glandless cottonseed ingredients can be mixed with, or added to, meat in order to protect the meat from lipid oxidation, these findings on the use of oilseed products in batter/breading are unusual in that the composition of the meat does not have to be altered to gain the preservative action of the natural antioxidant food ingredient. Glandless cottonseed flour, valued here-to-fore primarily as a good potential source of relatively low-cost protein in the human diet, may have additional merits as a "natural" replacement for the two widely used meat preservatives BHA and BHT.

Both these chemicals are currently used by the meat industry as additives to ground processed meat to prevent rancidity and preserve flavor. However, both may be removed by the government from the approved list because there is some question as to their safety in food.

Many scientists have been seeking low-cost alternatives to these chemicals because of the increased use of precooked meat items by the food service industry, Rhee says.

Batter-fried or breaded fish sticks and patties and chicken nuggets are popular precooked or fast food service entree items that have been widely marketed in recent years.

Following the success of these products in the market, some meat companies have developed breaded, precooked chicken patties and breaded, batter-fried beef patties (often called "chicken-fried" beef patties or steak).

Many of these products, as marketed at present, contain soy ingredients and phosphates in the meat. Rancid and other flavors are serious problem in some of these precooked meat products as currently marketed, Rhee says.

In her experiment, Rhee compared a batter of wheat flour to another made of a 50-50 mix of wheat flour and glandless cottonseed flour.

Meat patties from the same batch of freshly ground meat were coated with these flours, cooked in the same ways and stored at 39.2 degrees F for five days.

Tests run on the stored cooked meat patties after five days indicated that those cooked in the glandless cottonseed flour batter had greatly reduced thiobarbituric values of the meat, Rhee says.

In other words, the meat cooked in the improved batter was still tasty with no off-flavors and was appreciably better than meat cooked in conventional batter, Rhee concluded.

RCC overrules examiner, will decide UPS case on merits

Acting on a motion by Chairman Mack Wallace, the Railroad Commission voted 2-1 to overrule the recommendation of its hearings examiner in the United Parcel Service case and directed the examiner to prepare a new proposal for Commission consideration based on the question of need for the proposed service in Texas.

Chairman Wallace and Commissioner Buddy Temple voted for the motion. Commissioner James E. (Jim) Nugent voted against the motion and reserved the right to file a dissenting opinion when the case comes back before the Commission for decision.

The Transportation Division examiner conducted a lengthy hearing in 1982 and 1983 on UPS' application for authority to transport packages from point to point within Texas. She recommended in June of this year that the commissioners deny the application, saying the Commission doesn't have the power to issue such authority to operate under state law. The Commission overruled that recommendation with its action today.

Noting a December, 1981, opinion by the Texas Supreme Court on the jurisdiction question of the UPS case, Wallace's motion directs the examiner to prepare a recommendation for Commission action based on the case's "merits." The term refers to statutory requirements UPS must meet, including whether the proposed service is needed in the state.

After the examiner writes a new proposal for decision, it will be circulated to the parties involved in the case for comment and then the examiner will bring her recommendation to the commissioners for action.

J.V. Girl's Social Security work basketball team credit is needed plays Big Lake

Tuesday night in the Ozona High School Gym, the Ozona J.V. "Lady Lions" battled it out with the Big Lake J.V. team. The Lady Lions gave them a good fight but couldn't quite pull it off. The score was Ozona 33, Big Lake 47. The Ozona girls did a good job of holding Big Lake's leading shooter to one basket.

Leading the Lady Lions in scoring was Lydia Pena with 13 points. Other scorers were Raedene Flores with 8, Olga Borrego with 6, Esme Borrego with 6, Regina Cervantez with 2, and Janet Diaz with 1. Leading rebounder was Olga Borrego with 10. Other high rebounders were Lydia Pena with 9, Raedene Flores and Roni Navarette with 5 each and Janet Diaz and Esme Borrego with 2 each. The outstanding players for the Lions were Olga Borrego and Lydia Pena.

Before any Social Security benefits can be paid, a worker must have enough credit for work covered by Social Security to be insured, Franklin H. Upp, Social Security manager in San Angelo, said recently.

Social Security credits are measured in units called "quarters of coverage". Both wage earners and self-employed people earn these credits based on their total annual earnings.

A wage earner's earnings are generally covered from the first dollar earned during the year up to the maximum that counts for Social Security, $37,800 for 1984. A self-employed person's earnings are covered, however, only if net earnings amount to $400 or more. If net earnings are at least $400, then total earnings are covered up to the Social Security maximum.

In 1984, a person earns one quarter of coverage for each $390 of covered annual earnings. If total 1984 annual earnings amount to $1,560 or more, the person earns four quarters. No more than four quarters of coverage can be earned in any year. The amount of covered earnings needed for a quarter of coverage will increase automatically each year to keep pace with increases in average wage levels.

The general rule is that a person needs one quarter of coverage for each year after 1950, or after the year a person reaches 21, if later, up to the year he or she reaches 62, becomes disabled, or dies before reaching 62.

For example, a person reaching 62 in 1984 needs 33 quarters of coverage to be insured for retirement benefits. No one ever needs more than 40 quarters to be insured and a person cannot be insured for fewer than 6 quarters.

More information about Social Security credits can be obtained at the San Angelo Social Security Office located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608. A free leaflet, How You Earn Social Security Credits, is available there.

ESLIC FIVE STAR LENDER

Extension Office News

By Rachel Hall

The following 4-Hers are competing this Saturday, in Big Spring during the District 4-H Food Show: Staci Sessom, Jennifer Davidson, Jennifer

Jones, Whitney Vannoy, Susan Scott, Randi Thompson and Trebie West. Here are the winning senior recipes:

MANICOTTI

Trebie West
Pasta Machine Pasta
4 cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt

5 eggs
2 teaspoons salad oil

Mix flour and salt in a large mixing bowl and make a well in the center. Break eggs and pour oil into the well. With a fork lightly mix the eggs and gradually incorporate the flour. Mix until all of the flour is moistened. Place the dough on a floured dough board or pastry cloth and knead until smooth. The mixture will be very dry. Wrap the dough in a clean cloth which has been wrung out in warm water and let it rest at least 20 minutes. Divide dough into 8 equal portions and flatten each portion. Pass it between the rollers of a pasta machine several times, using the widest setting (this kneads the dough). Then begin decreasing the width of the space between the rollers, each time passing the dough through a narrower setting (to #5). Leave pasta at full width and cut into 3x3" squares. Cook in a large quantity of rapidly boiling water to which salt and oil or butter has been added. Slide noodles into the boiling water and stir with a long handled fork or spaghetti grabber. Cook 4 to 6 minutes, until just tender. Drain well.

Meat Sauce

1 6-oz. can tomato paste
1 1/2 cup water
1/2 cup red cooking wine
1 lb. ground beef
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon basil

1/2 teaspoon rosemary
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon onion powder
1/2 teaspoon marjoram
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1 teaspoon parsley, chopped

In skillet or microwave dish, cook ground beef (crumbled) just until done. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Simmer for 30 minutes.

Cheese Filling

8-oz. shredded mozzarella cheese
2 12-oz. cartons cottage cheese
2 eggs
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese

2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 quart meat sauce
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese

Heat oven to 350°. In large bowl combine all cheese filling ingredients, except meat sauce and 1/2 cup parmesan cheese. Place about 1/3 cup filling on each manicotti square. Spread 2 cups meat sauce on bottom of 13x9" pan. Roll up each filled manicotti shell and place seam side down in single layer over sauce. Pour remaining sauce over top. Cover and bake at 350° for 40 to 45 minutes. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes before serving. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup parmesan cheese. (May garnish with 1/2 cup mozzarella cheese before baking, if desired.)

BREADS AND CEREALS CATEGORY

Randi Thompson

Sift flour before measuring. Add soda and sift again into mixing bowl. Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy; beat egg yolks well and add to sugar and shortening. Add mashed bananas and buttermilk, then flour. Fold in pecans and stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into greased loaf pan and bake at 350° for 1 hour.

1 tablespoon salt

1/2 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
1/4 teaspoon pepper
6 cups diced tomatoes
2/3 cups rice, uncooked
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons wine or cider vinegar
1/2 cup water
1 cup coarsely grated Monterey Jack or Muester cheese

Preheat oven to 350°F. Lightly grease a large shallow 4-quart casserole. In a large bowl, combine potatoes, eggplant, bell pepper, zucchini, onions, carrots, peas, and parsley. Mix 1/3 cup olive oil, salt, Tabasco and pepper. Toss well with above vegetables. Layer half of the tomatoes in the bottom of the casserole; cover with half of the vegetable mixture. Sprinkle rice over the vegetables; add remaining tomatoes and top with remaining vegetables. Combine 3 tablespoons olive oil, vinegar, and water. Pour over all. Bake covered for 1-3/4 to 2 hours or until vegetables are tender. Uncover casserole and top with cheese. Place under the broiler for 2 minutes or until surface is lightly browned.

Stress and cancer could be connected

Does stress play any part in causing cancer?

"That's an increasingly important question, especially with our fast-paced worlds getting more hectic every day, but we're just at the beginning of having some answers," replies Dr. Guy R. Newell, director of cancer prevention programs at The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

Some scientists say there may be at least an indirect link between excessive emotional, physical and/or chemical stresses and cancer mediated through the immune system. In simple terms, this means individuals involved in sustained stressful situations—loss of a loved one, divorce, being fired, drug abuse or serious illnesses, for example—are more vulnerable to certain cancers because their immunological defenses are below par.

So-called helplessness-prone women had a higher incidence of cervical cancers in one study while another investigation found a higher lung cancer rate among people unable to express their emotions.

Dr. Newell says stress is a general, non-specific term for a complex physiological phenomenon which may cause the adrenaline level to soar and interrupt the normal immune mechanism so vital to fighting off diseases.

"Anyone who has undergone prolonged periods of stress should pay close attention to warning signs for cancer. Moreover, these people should seek help for coping with their stresses in much the same way they get advice on how to manage their financial affairs," Dr. Newell says.

PBPA energy report

We're still wondering about the outcome of the October 29, Austin TRC hearing on Rules 28, 30, 31 and 34. The most serious of those being Rule 34, which, by changing the priority status of Casinghead gas, can also change the production future of many millions of barrels of crude oil.

This, like the cut-off of a major company of West Texas Intermediate Crude Oil (the first such occurrence, so far as we know) could lead to a complete change in operations of the domestic petroleum industry, particularly for the independent segment. The question was put to this company as to why they would stop purchases of U.S. crude production while continuing to import crude oil and finished products. The answer was, "I just follow the orders from Houston."

We trust that, our having called this action to the attention of the Texas Railroad Commission, will get some re-action as to ratable take and protection of correlative rights. Of course, in this instance the Permian Corporation took up the slack but, if more such cut-offs take place, they can only take up so much slack. If one refinery can no longer handle West Texas Intermediate Crude economically—their main explanation of the cut-off—could it be possible that other refineries will be in a like condition?
