By

After watching the news this week, I've decided I never want to be President of the United States. It's in the utmost bad taste to graphically describe a minor ailment in the intestinal tract. I haven't been subjected to such bad taste on the national networks since President Johnson had his gall bladder removed and that was years ago.

I usually watch ABC when the 6 o'clock news previews each night. I've found them to be the least radically liberal of the three networks. However, Monday night they spent at least ten to 15 minutes describing the President's physical and the results. They seemed almost disappointed to find the President's blood pressure listed as good. After announcing it was 130 over 70 (can't remember the exact reading) they put up a slide with the numbers drawn thereon. Kinda like the general public was too stupid to understand what the newscaster was relating previously. It reminded me of those highways signs with a cow and then Xing underneath, same with a jumping deer. I was so startled when they first went up I almost had a wreck trying to figure out what used to be said in plain English. It took me forever to realize that was not a spot for the execution of cattle or deer, but a crossing. They are really rather silly, since most people in this country know deer cross wherever they darn well please.

Well, anyway, back to the earth shattering news of the President's physical exam. They announced in serious tones, the doctors had found and removed a polyp from the intestinal area, certainly a very private part of the body. Instead of just saying the little growth was benign, they came up with another slide of the human intestines with a red light flashing at the point the polyp was discovered along with large letters BENIGN! on the screen. The newscaster went on to describe the exact location along with all the gory details before saying the condition was not at all uncommon and was seldom malignant.

The only thing newsworthy in the entire broadcast was the fact that the President got a good report on his physical, and that could have been said in ten words or less.

I wouldn't want to be president because I couldn't perform my duties for weeks before the annual physical examination. Can you imagine what they could do with a lump in the breast or hemorrhoids? Good grief! Doesn't the President deserve some degree of privacy and dignity? How they do all this with a straight face is just completely beyond my comprehension.

Another thing I'm tired of hearing about is the abortion issue. This should not be a political issue. This is a private thing between a woman and her doctor, or better yet, a woman and her own feelings and situation. I'm just aghast that people would take it upon themselves to act as judge and jury in this matter. A fetus is a parasite and it certainly should be up to the woman to make any decision regarding the continuation of a pregnancy. I have never been faced with this problem, but I do know the ordeal of being nine months with child and it's no picnic even when anxiously awaiting the blessed event.

Why don't these avid anti-abortionists turn their energy toward feeding the starving in Africa or taking care of the abused and uncared for children who are already on this earth? Something they could really do good and not harm with. I don't care how well-meaning, they are just a group of mis-guided souls who don't know where their priorities lie. This is not meant to take a stand "for" nor "against." It's just a case of denying freedom and truth to unfortunate women in the United States. Have you ever noticed that most of the leaders of this cause are men?

Annual balloon countdown

Ozona Intermediate School students released 300 balloons Thursday at the school. This is the third year students have participated and in prior years, they have gotten response from Arkansas, Canada, Missouri and through out Texas. However, this year, 25 balloon cards have been returned by Ozonans, indicating the weather failed to give the balloons the lift they needed to carry them aloft. This event is used in conjunction with a study of the wind currents by the fifth grade students.

Set called meeting for roads Mon.----

Commissioners hold regular monthly meeting Monday

Crockett County Commissioners met Monday in regular session and attended to various county business, including scheduling a called meeting Monday, March 18 devoted entirely to discussion on county roads, paving materials and other problems.

Henry Elledge gave the county road department report, during which time the called meeting was set. The court did agree to increase pavement in Precinct 3, from three to four miles and complete it during the paving period.

Onecimo Ortiz reported on the cemetery and asked for summer help.

B.W. Stuart made a motion that all summer help hiring be decided by Commissioner Sostenes DeHoyos, in whose precinct the cemetery is located, and Ortiz. The motion was seconded by Commissioner Castro, and all approved. The summer help will give six persons jobs from April 15 to August 15, and will pay $3.35 per hour.

Stanley Najar received an increase in salary to $7 per hour and was made responsible for opening and closing the cemetery and attending to turning water on and off. DeHoyos made the motion and Castro seconded. All approved.

Garland Young gave the monthly report on the civic center and youth center, and Don Hopkins gave the hospital and care center report. The hospital and care center auxiliary want a van equipped for wheel chair patients at a cost of around $20,000. They asked for help from the county to make the purchase and will also ask for donations. The court took the matter up in the Monday meeting, but decided not to participate, since funds had not been provided in the 1985 budget.

Heating and cooling units for the civic center were discussed. Work will be done on specifications and action will be taken at the next meeting.

Delinquent taxes were discussed and the court voted to place a 15% penalty on delinquent taxes.

Judge A.O. Fields read a letter from West Texas Utilities, stating they would work with each commissioner in their precinct as to where lights and guard lights were needed. Each commissioner agreed to sign a letter of request on this matter.

The expansion of the county clerk's office was discussed. Judge Fields was appointed to discuss the expansion with an architect and report to the court during next month's meeting.

Board gets good news on renovation

The Ozona School Board of Trustees meeting in regular session Monday, March 11, received some welcome news from Ron Barbutti, school architect, regarding the completion of the Ozona Junior High Renovation Project.

Barbutti stated he was happy to report significant improvements have occurred since his last visit to the site, and he was now in the process of preparing a checklist of items that need to be corrected by the contractor before the building improvement program can be eligible for acceptance.

While stressing the fact that all architects employ this checklist technique, Barbutti remarked he felt the building could be completed in time for student use during the current school year. After Barbutti's report, Rip Sewell, Ozona athletic director, appeared before the Board for the purpose of discussing evaluations of coaching personnel.

Principals Walter Spiller, Bob Wallace, Charles Womack, and Jim Payne then met with the members to discuss teaching personnel evaluations. Following these meetings the Ozona Board of Trustees voted to renew all teacher contracts.

Superintendent Garland Davis presented recently enacted State Board of Education rules for extracurricular activities, and the Board approved new guidelines for school housing.

Other school business pending before the Board will be considered during a special meeting on Monday, March 18.

Ozona Lion golfers win first tournament outing

The Ozona Lions, '85 boys golf team, opened its season with a victory in the Iraan Invitational Tournament.

Two lettermen returned from the '84 team, which qualified for the Regional meet, and with the addition of three new members, the Lions scrambled to the win with Freshman Bret Hood leading the way. Bret was able to shoot a 39-40 (79) and win the medalist trophy in his first varsity meet. Juniors Ty McKinney and Diron Holt followed with 83, and Freshman Will Seahorn recorded a 90, which gave the team a 335 total for the victory. Wink trailed with a 338, and Alpine and Rankin tied for third with a 348. Iraan, Crane, and Sanderson finished behind the leaders.

J.B. Green, the fifth member of the team, shot a 93 in his first tourney as an Ozona Lion.

Saturday the Lions host their own tourney. They will have a tough time claiming the trophy, as two of its varsity squad, Hood and Seahorn, will be in Coleman representing the Lions in a U.I.L. Band Contest.

The Lions have three tournaments prior to the district meet in Sonora April 19-20. Coach Sewell stated, "if we can just keep our heads together and improve slightly, the Lions can win the district." Time will tell.

Search ends for missing woman

The search for a Sonora woman, missing since Feb. 20, ended Saturday morning when a 40-member search party found the woman's partially decomposed body about 30 miles west of Ozona.

The body of Nancy Nester Pohl, a 41-year-old school teacher, was found at 10:30 a.m. in rugged country near Live Oak Draw off I-10.

The remains were found by a search party of Sonora residents and Sutton and Crockett County officers, including game warden Rod Chalmers. The body was taken to Sizemore Funeral Home.

Mrs. Pohl was declared missing when her pickup was found wrecked and abandoned the afternoon of Feb. 20, after she called in sick that morning to her school. Her husband, Phillip, also a school teacher in the Sonora district, said when he left to go to work that morning his wife was at home, wearing a housecoat and sitting in a chair. He also said she had been depressed.

A .357 magnum pistol was found next to the body, which was found about 1 1/2 miles south of where the vehicle was discovered lodged against a tree. Two shots had been fired from the gun and it was reported the woman had a single gunshot wound to the chest.

Crockett County Peace Justice Raymond Davee declared the woman dead at 11:15 a.m. Saturday. He ordered the body sent to the Bexar County Medical Examiner's Office in San Antonio for an autopsy. The cause of death will be determined following the evidence of the autopsy.

GTE serves over 1700 in Ozona

General Telephone was serving a little over 1700 customers in Ozona as 1985 began, according to E. O. Cambern, GTE General Manager.

"Of these, about 1,300 are residential telephone numbers," noted Cambern. The company also provides 26 public telephones and some 3,100 telephone instruments.

"We were pleased to continue to offer the services of a GTE local service agency in Ozona," said Cambern. Customers may initiate, expand or discontinue telephone service, as well as pay telephone bills at the Flower Basket, 1004 Sheffield.

"General Telephone is aware of growth areas in Ozona and will be expanding our facilities as necessary during 1985," said Cambern. Providing prompt, dependable service is our top priority and we look forward to a continued good working relationship with the people of Ozona."

The search Saturday was the fourth since the pickup was found. Sutton and Crockett officials conducted a ground search in the immediate area the afternoon of Feb. 20. The search was intensified the following day with a DPS helicopter was called in.

The terrain in the area is rugged and mountainous with a good deal of brush and hard country to work in. The search party Saturday began at 10 a.m. by forming a straight line and spacing searchers about 15 yards apart from each other. A man in the upper part of the line discovered the body about 30 minutes after the search began.

Tom Loeffler Congressman 21st District-Texas Reports from Washington

An obscure provision included in last year's tax bill, requiring "adequate contemporaneous records" in order to claim business deductions for cars and other personal property, has resulted in a massive and justified taxpayer revolt.

On January 30, I introduced legislation to repeal this onerous statutory provision and my bill was referred to the House Ways and Means Committee, which has jurisdiction over all tax matters.

As I told my colleagues: "This provision is clearly an example of how changing a few words in the tax code can spawn a regulatory nightmare. As a result, public faith in the Congress is eroded, respect for and compliance with the law is undermined, and businesses and individuals across the country have been forced to spend countless unproductive hours trying to understand, interpret, and comply with these new requirements."

The I.R.S. regulations, even with modifications, will still impose a major new paperwork burden on taxpayers who are trying to make an honest living. The costs of this ludicrous paperwork exercise - estimated at between $2 and $3 billion per year - far exceed the additional revenues of $150 million which are expected from this provision in 1985.

We have thrown law-abiding, hard-working taxpayers into a turmoil by this heavy-handed approach and it simply is not worth the effort.

Another provision in last year's tax bill, which I discussed in my testimony, involves the taxation of certain so-called fringe benefits, including employer-provided vehicles. This provision will have a serious adverse impact on public safety and on law enforcement officials who are required to take vehicles home and remain "on call."

You can't make a silk purse from a sow's ear and the I.R.S. is not going to produce good regulations based on faulty law. The only solution is to repeal the provision requiring contemporaneous record keeping and do it quickly.

AUSTIN—Like a firecracker exploding in their faces, last week's surprising rout of the parimutuel betting issue left pro-gambling forces shocked, wounded and wondering what went wrong.

What was expected to be a close vote, resembling the two-vote difference in '83, turned into a lopsided 96-52 massacre as the Texas House of Representatives voted against passing the horse-betting bill to third reading.

And in the shocked aftermath, opponents quickly sealed the bill's fate by winning a motion "to reconsider and table" it, a little used parliamentary procedure that makes a two-thirds vote necessary before the bill can be brought up again for consideration.

Although the bill's House sponsor and Speaker Gib Lewis pronounced the bill "dead" for the remainder of the session, other members think the bill may yet be revived in the Senate, where Ike Harris, R-Dallas, has pledged to push forward.

Harris chairs the powerful Economic Development Committee, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby also favors the issue. Speaker Lewis went so far to publicly advise Hobby to drop the issue as "dead," but speculation has it that Hobby might also try to revitalize the bill.

Crumbled Coalition

Even if the Senate approves, as it did last session, the two-thirds barrier still remains in the House, a quota higher than the strongest coalition tally that pro-gambling forces have put together.

And that coalition crumbled into pieces last week following a dismantling of the bill's welfare provisions in committee. Bowing to the wishes of the horse racing industry, panelists deleted the section directing part of every racetrack's proceeds to child welfare.

Blacks, Republicans

Even though the gambling lobbyists tried to appease them by guaranteeing a percentage of racetrack stock to minority investors, the Black lawmakers in particular weren't buying in. And the substitute was similar enough to affirmative action to repel most of the Republican legislators.

Many legislators will support parimutuel betting only if they know it will pass. They don't want to face the folks back home after voting aye on a controversial issue that failed. When the Blacks and Republicans kept the bill from the 76 votes needed for a majority, several sunshine supporters quickly defected and changed their votes before the official count.

Senate Action

Last week in the Senate: —Lawmakers approved a bill allowing criminal background checks on the estimated 100,000 child-care employees in Texas.

—The State Affairs Committee heard mixed testimony on the open container bill.

—The Education Committee considered several bills to abolish or amend the new no-pass-no-play rule which was part of last year's controversial reform package.

Mauro, Hightower

Two state officials were in Washington, D.C. last week for different reasons.

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro lobbied the Congress to protect the Veterans Land Program in Texas by repealing a provision which wipes out the program for some vets in 1990.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower spoke to a Jefferson Memorial rally of farmers lobbying for higher farm supports. Hightower continued his attacks on President Reagan, calling him "stupid" and accusing him of committing "economic genocide" against farmers.

Prosecution Rests

Meanwhile, in the felony commercial bribery trial of Attorney General Jim Mattox, the prosecution rested after their prime witness testified Mattox tried to get him to call off the trial.

Then Mattox's defense lawyer began his tact of portraying the attorney general as a man just doing his job before heated exchanges between him and a Houston law firm led to this trial.

Mattox is accused of threatening to harm the firm's bond business to make them back off from deposing his sister. Mattox says he didn't make the threat, and his defense tried to show his actions never resembled backing up such a threat.

Troubled Governor

Even some of Gov. Mark White's supporters now regard him as "in trouble" politically, and he wasn't helped much last week when the public learned he paid a former water commissioner almost $10,000 for a 23-page report containing information readily available at state agencies.

Former commissioner John Stover of Lufkin, an appointee of White's predecessor Bill Clements, said he received the contract after White promised to help when he resigned to let White appoint a successor.

White denied he gave Stover the contract as reward for his resignation, to fulfill any promise, or to ease his transition into private life.

Mrs. Bunger presents program to Forum on Texas Heritage

The Ozona Woman's Forum met for its regular meeting March 5, in the Emerald Room of the Ozona National Bank, with Mrs. Dempster Jones and Mrs. Bob Wallace as hostesses.

Following the social hour, the meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Huey Ingram. Roll call was answered by the twenty-four members present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The club agreed to change the April 16th regular meeting date to April 23rd, in order that members may attend Guest Day of the Woman's League.

Mrs. Mike Clayton reported on the approximate schedule of the trip to Wimberley on March 22.

Following the business meeting a program on Texas Heritage was presented. Mrs. George Bunker gave a brief review of our Texas flags and then led the members in a "Salute to the Texas Flag." Mrs. Marshall Montgomery presented an interesting report on the Texas Sesquicentennial. Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Though we are having spring-type weather we can still have a freeze, so be prepared to cover up, or better still wait until after the middle of March to plant anything that will not take a freeze.

Perhaps a few ideas on how to make ornamental plants more useful will be helpful in your selection of shrubs.

You can put your garden's best-looking plants to work in the most practical ways. They can fill jobs like bug control, be bird havens, replace fences, and produce food and support for other plants.

Choose some plants that encourage birds to linger in your area. Our winged friends make rapid work of bugs and at the same time will cheer you with their color, song and action.

A few plants which encourage birds are honeysuckle, chokeberry, dogwood, elderberry, Russian olive, hawthorne, holly and sun flowers. Many of these provide fruit and cover for the birds.

The apple blossoms, a cheerful sign of spring, come attached to plants that decorate gardens and help feed the gardener. Make your selection for eye-appeal as well as for food value. The fast growing elderberry has a profusion of early spring blossoms then produces loads of sweet berries, rich in Vitamin C and flavor. Companion planting should assist a gardener with insect control. The marigold, for instance, discourages the Mexican bean beetle from vegetable rows, may clear an area of wire worms, and discourage nematodes which attack potatoes, bulb plants and strawberries. Other flowers that help are cosmos, asters, mums, daisies, nasturtiums, all of which have strong aromas.

Feed the pansies you planted last fall. Sprinkle 5-10-10 between the plants at the rate of 1/2 lb. per 25 square feet of planting bed. Keep plants well-watered, especially during cold snaps. Pick the blooms regularly to encourage continued production.

Mrs. Bailey Post has her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryan, of Houston, as houseguests this week.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED-Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Moran announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Jackie, to Mr. Cruz Garza, son of Mrs. Carmela T. Garza and the late Simon S. Garza.

Miss Moran will graduate from Ozona High School in May. Her fiancé is also a graduate of Ozona High School. Vows will be read April 21, in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church.

Wild turkey hens begin nesting during this month

Wild turkey hens begin nesting in March. The nesting season peaks in April and extends through May. Deferring pastures from grazing that have good nesting habitat during March, April and May greatly benefits turkey reproduction.

Tall and medium height bunch grasses close to an available source of drinking water provide excellent nesting habitats. The vegetation provides nesting material and concealment from predators. Hens need drinking water daily, as will their poulters soon after hatching.

Nesting hens can be disturbed by domestic livestock and humans. Grazing may reduce the height and density of nesting cover. Disturbances by livestock, people, dogs, and vehicles may cause hens to abandon their nests. Total pasture deferments during nesting season will increase the number and success of nests, so you will have more poulters in June, which in turn will be more turkeys available for hunters later in the year.

Better nesting and hatching success of wild turkeys is just one more reason why pasture deferments and good range management practices pay off.

Make up day set for school students here

If You Have Something Worth Selling

THIS IS WORTH THINKING ABOUT
Ozona Stockman's
THRIFTY CLASSIFIED ADS
DO A BETTER JOB OF BRINGING BUYER AND SELLER TOGETHER THAN ANY OTHER MEDIUM.

WHY?

The Ozona Stockman classified ad readers are, on the average, better potential prospects for what you have to sell because they've bought and paid for their newspaper for a purpose.

They value the paper's news content and they know from experience that the ads the paper carries are truthful presentations by other local readers.

It's as simple as that; the virtues of quality news and truthfulness in advertising are something worth paying for.

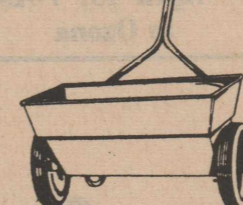

And That's Worth Thinking About When You Have Something To Sell.

CARD OF THANKS

Whether flowers, food, visits, prayers or a call. Our heartfelt "thank you" goes out to all.

In every way possible you've helped in our sorrow.

Your support is so needed to get us through tomorrow.

Now that Gary's gone, our memories are a treasure.

And we can only hope, to his friends, that their times together were a pleasure.

In our hearts we must find love and understanding.

May we never judge or be too demanding.

For one day too soon we'll all leave this earth.

And One greater than us will establish our worth.

God Bless Each and Everyone of You.

The Family of Gary Davee

wives, mothers and sometime workers. All trends indicate the reality will be different. They will be workers, mothers and wives, in that order.

Later marriage, smaller families, rising divorce and remarriage rates, longer life spans, and changing economic conditions have all driven women out of the home and into the paid work force. Today, the average 20-year-old woman can expect to spend close to 30 years in the paid labor force. The woman of the future will be self-supporting much of her life, contribute to the financial support of her children, and be responsible for her retirement and old age.

In 1900, a 20-year-old white woman could expect to spend 18 years in childbearing, be widowed at 52, live to age 64, and die before her last child left home. At that time, 20% of all American women held jobs outside the home.

By 1980, a 22-year-old married white woman could expect to have at least one child before she is 40, live to age 79, and run a 47% change of being divorced. (Twenty-two was the average age of marriage for women in 1980. In 1981, 2 out of 3 wives worked outside the home at least part of the year, and 60% of the full-time homemakers were over 45 years old.

In March, 62% of women aged 16-64 were in the work force. 44% of labor force participants were women, and 53% of all women were in the labor force.

Today, almost 55% of U.S. children have "working" mothers-59% of Black children; 53% of white. One out of every five children lives with a single parent-usually a mother.

In addition to housework and child care, employment outside the home has increased dramatically for women. In 1950, 87% of U.S. men were in the paid labor force, 35% of the women. Between 1947 and 1980, the number of women in the paid labor force increased by 173%, the number of men by 43%.

From 1961-81, women accounted for 61% of entrants into the labor force and are expected to constitute an even larger share in the future. Some experts predict that women will constitute two-thirds of the growth in the labor force during this decade, and that they will spend close to 50% of their adult life in the work force.

Women earn about 59% for every $1 men earn nationwide. Earnings are directly correlated to education, but women must be much more highly educated than men to earn comparable salaries. In 1981, husbands who had not finished high school earned more than wives who had more than five years of college, $15,100 compared to $14,810.

What good are the golden years if you're broke?

Most people look forward to their retirement but find it difficult to plan for.

Something as simple as an IRA or KEOGH plan can help out a lot.

Just ask your Agent about setting up an IRA or a KEOGH Plan for you.

It's easy.
