Kitty's Korner

By
Kitty Montgomery

In the "Stranger than Fiction" column we find Dilly Dockery this week. At a recent family reunion, a cousin she had not seen in 30 years, hugged her so hard he separated her ribs and tore some ligaments. As the days wore on the pain became so intense she was forced to make one of her rare trips to the doctor, who told her a broken rib would have been less painful. She is still moving slowly.

Since I developed arthritis in my hands, I avoid a handshake at all costs. I always suggest a hug instead. Guess I need to think of something else.

When rodeo time rolls around I always think back to the rodeos of old. The parades were really something back then. The high school band donned hats and boots led the parade with sprightly marching music. The women's clubs and civic organizations worked on floats for weeks on end, and some of the locals were only too happy to play the clown. There were always a dozen or more queen contestants, some of whom had never been horseback before.

The annual rodeo was the main event in the small town where I grew up. A week before the rodeo, we made booster trips to the surrounding communities, band and all.

The county sheriff led the line of cars with lights and sirens, and the reigning queen and her court always got to ride in the sheriff's car. I will never forget the booster trip during the year of my reign, with Billy Mills' father, Frank. Frank Mills was the sheriff for as long as I could remember, and we all thought he was just the greatest.

He seemed to get a kick out of us, no matter how outrageous, and a group of teen-age girls could be pretty outrageous in the tricks we played on him.

He always had cigars, and on one trip we decided to smoke one. He just smiled and seemed agreeable. Well, Sheriff Mills drove along with a smile on his face, as we passed the cigar around. The car was blue with cigar smoke when we got to the first stop. I can't remember the town, I just remember the bridge going across a little creek. That's where five of the head boosters were being sick. As we drug ourselves back to the car, all quite green, and completely without spirit, things were mighty quiet.

The sheriff unwrapped a cigar, lit it, and offered each of us a puff, knowing full well there would be no takers. He just drove along with that knowing smile on his face and commented "you girls are mighty quiet for a change, anything wrong?"

Here, forty years later and a lot wiser, I still cannot stand the smell of a cigar.

Top billy goat

Alton Everett purchased the top billy at the Cream of the Crop Billy Sale Saturday at Roosevelt at a purchase price of $850. Standing is Archie Lennon and his grandson, Brock. Lennon was breeder of the champion goat.

Voting underway for bond election

As of noon Tuesday, only six voters had cast ballots in the absentee box at the Water District office for the $950,000 bond election for the new water treatment plant which will be held August 10, at the courthouse. Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 in the evening.

Circle Bar racer places in Michigan

Chet Phillip, racing in the Michigan 500, at Brooklyn, Mich., Sunday, came in 17th in a field of 30 racers in the Circle Bar Racing car, netting $5,047 in prize money.

The Circle Bar car, a Lola T-900-Cosworth, qualified in the 22nd position. However, Phillip was in the top ten and running with the winner at speeds of over 200 miles per hour, when something broke in the front of the car. Phillip had made 145 of the 250 laps before the break-down, which threw the car against the wall putting it out of commission. Phillip walked away with only a sore shoulder, knee and ankle.

Nine cars were still on the track at the end of the race, during which there were 13 yellow caution periods and eight crashes.

Proceeds from the sale of the bonds, if the issue passes, will be used to finance the construction of a new wastewater treatment plant, a main from Ozona to the plant and a lift station to pump the waste water across Johnson Draw to the plant site, located 2 miles from the plant which is now being used.

Estimated cost of the project is $700,000 for construction and the remainder to be used to prepare and sell the bonds at an estimated rate of 11.5% interest.

The old plant is outdated and too close to town. The Water Development Board has directed the District to construct a plant that will meet permit standards.

The new plant is designed to accommodate a community of 5040 persons. Treatment will be a natural process rather than chemical. The primary treatment will take place in a Facultative Lagoon of 6.8 acres of water surface and then a wastewater stabilization pond of 24.4 acres. After a detention time of 63 days the water will be discharged into Johnson Draw.

The new plant will meet or exceed all State Department of Health requirements.

Absentee voting will continue until August 6, at the Water District office. Eligible voters who live in the district may cast ballots August 10, in person at the courthouse.

29th Annual Junior Rodeo on tap for the weekend here

The 29th Annual Junior Rodeo, sponsored by the Ozona Lions Club, will get underway Friday with the downtown parade at 5 p.m. The 160 contestants should pick up numbers between 1 and 5 p.m. on that day at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Parade participants should assemble at the vacant lot near South Texas Lumber Co. prior to 5 p.m. Leading the parade will be reigning rodeo queen Julie Reagor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reagor.

The four contestants for the title this year include Jena Allen, Donna Jo Patrick, Jennifer Probst and Sharon McCrohan.

Paula Bailey, a former Miss Texas Rodeo Queen, will be in charge of the queen contestants. Activities include a brunch at Crockett County National Bank tomorrow. This will be followed by the horsemanship contest and the nominees will be guests of the Lions

Take care in giving credit card number

Sheriff Billy Mills' office had a call from a local businessman Tuesday morning who said he had been contacted by a Las Vegas firm informing him he had won one of a variety of large prizes. All he need do, according to the caller, was give his credit card number and authorize the purchase of $600 worth of Christmas cards.

The Sheriff's Department has issued a warning about these calls and advise residents not to give their credit card number over the telephone. From now until the holidays, these calls will increase in number, and the general public should be aware that most of these hinge on fraud.

Physicals set for sports participants

Annual physicals for boys and girls who plan to participate in athletics in junior high school or in high school are scheduled for next month.

Boys physicals will be held August 6, at 3 p.m. at the boys field house. Girls are scheduled for August 13, also at the boy's field house.

This will be the only free examination for athletes in seventh through twelfth grades, so those planning to participate need to be on hand during the above dates.

Ozona coaches are attending coaching school in Dallas this week. They plan to return late Thursday.

Club at the noon luncheon. A hamburger supper at the Reagor home will close activities Thursday evening. Highlight of the Saturday evening show will be the crowning of the new rodeo queen.

Jena Allen, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Allen, is a queen contestant this year. She won the horsemanship award in last year's competition. Jena will be a junior at Ozona High School in the fall. She has been involved in 4-H activities for several years, with concentration in lamb show events. She has been very successful with her lambs in the major Texas stock shows, with a number of ribbons and buckles to her credit.

Jena's other activities include tennis. She was a member of the high school tennis team last season, also she was manager of the girls basketball team.

She enjoys horseback riding and assists her father with various ranch chores.

Also vying for rodeo queen is Jennifer Probst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Probst. Jennifer is a junior at Ozona High School and head twirler for the Lion Band. She is also a member of the OHS girls golf team. She recently returned from participating in the 59th Western Women's Junior Golf Championship in Austin. She is a medalist in district competition.

She attended Prude Ranch at Fort Davis for the past eight years, where she received congeniality and leadership awards for eleven sessions. She is the recipient of two belt buckles for rodeo achievements.

Another contestant is Donna Jo Patrick, 15-year-old daughter of Mary Jo Skinner and Don Patrick of Del Rio. Donna Jo has been active in 4-H horse and sheep judging programs for several years. She has earned awards in Showmanship, Western Pleasure, Halter and All-around. She is the recipient of High Individual in district horse judging. With her mare, Boston Blizzard, she has won the Grand Champion award for the past two years at the District 4-H horse show in Fort Stockton.

Sharon McCrohan, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim McCrohan, rounds out the field of contestants. Sharon is a sophomore at Ozona High School, where she is active in tennis and basketball. She was awarded the sportsmanship trophy at the annual basketball tournament last year.

Sharon is a longtime 4-H member and is active in horse judging and sheep showing. Her hobbies include swimming, tennis and horseback riding.

Winner of the queen contest will be announced during the second night of the rodeo.

Shows will get underway each night with the grand entry at 7:30. Slack will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday.

There will be events in three age divisions for both boys and girls. Girls may enter events for boys, but boys may not enter the girls' events. Age limits include 12 and under, 13 through 15, and 16 through 19. Silver buckles will be awarded average winners in all events and silver trophy buckles will be awarded best all-around winners in each age division.

The ticket sales gate will open each night at 6 o'clock. Adults will be charged $2 and children under the age of 12, $1.

The concession stand will be open nightly, featuring hamburgers and all the trimmings.

There will be a dance on the slab each night, featuring the western music of the Jesse Hooker Band out of Rankin. Tickets will be $5 per couple of $3, stag.

Jim's Foodway joins independent group

Jim's Foodway, located at 916 Eleventh Street has joined the IGA independent supermarket group, according to Jim Marks, owner of the store. The new name will be Jim's Foodway IGA.

The new Jim's Foodway IGA is now a part of more than 3,400 independent supermarkets in 47 states that are under the IGA banner.

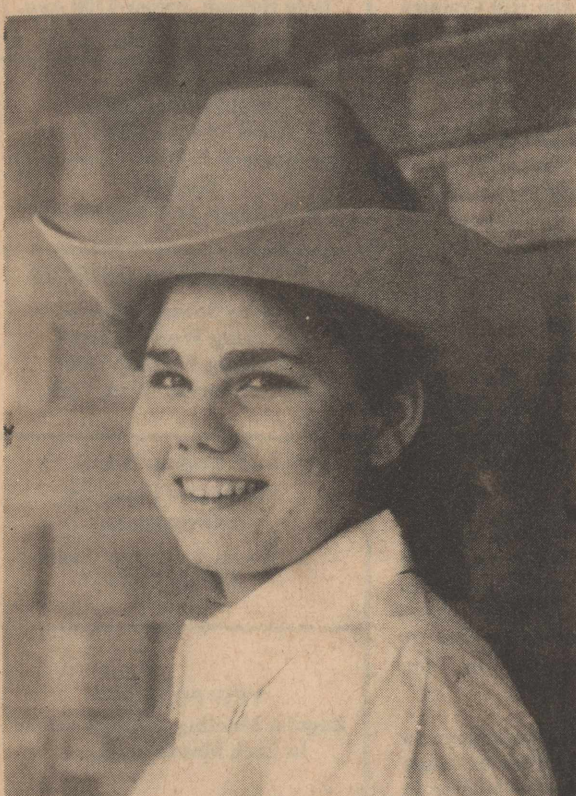

IGA stands for Independent Grocer's Alliance. "The reason we've joined the IGA alliance is to bring our customers more savings and service," according to Marks. "Each IGA store is independently owned and operated which means that the customer gets friendly hometown service and real savings each time they shop at our IGA store", Marks said. "You might say we've just added a new last name", Marks continued. "Independence and free enterprise have made this country great. Our IGA store is Home-Owned and Home-Operated which enables us to better know and serve the needs of our customers. We are their friends and neighbors. We work harder to please them because we value their business," Marks said.

The supplier for Jim's Foodway IGA is the Fleming Companies, Inc. San Antonio Division. Fleming is a nationwide leader in the wholesale food distribution industry serving 4,500 affiliated retail food stores in 31 states. The San Antonio Division is nearing completion of the first of a two phase expansion program. Phase I is adding 70,735 square feet of refrigerated warehouse space while re-modeling the original space for greater efficiency. Phase II will add 170,500 square feet of dry grocery warehouse space.

TERRORISM: FIGHT BACK NOW

By Edwin Feulner

The time has come for the U.S. to take action against international terrorism. Failure to do so puts Americans everywhere, at home and abroad, at great risk.

While the Reagan administration has talked a tough game since the October 1983 Beirut bombing which killed 241 Marines, the recent TWA hijacking and string of airport and airline bombings, one of which apparently destroyed an Air India flight over the Atlantic, killing 329, shows that the disease is raging unchecked.

Though the ever-diplomatic State Department — which has been pushing hard (and successfully) for a U.S.-Soviet summit meeting — refuses to discuss such matters, world terrorism is a creature of the Soviet Union and other Marxist states which support terrorists as a matter of state policy, as part of the "armed struggle" against capitalism. Their fingerprints are everywhere. In Latin America. In Africa. And in the Middle East. It should come as no surprise that the Shiite Moslems who hijacked the TWA jetliner were using weapons which were identified as Soviet AK-47 automatic rifles.

Terrorism, as any student of Leninism can tell you, is an integral part of the Soviet Union's world strategy. The purpose — the key to the Soviet strategy of terror — is to destroy the economic base of U.S. capitalism and ultimately the U.S. as a world power.

It is no coincidence that Soviet airlines are not held hostage, and Soviet airports and markets are not bombed. Of 109 different terrorist incidents during the last six months of 1984, for example, not a single one took place in an Eastern Bloc country or the Soviet Union itself.

The Kremlin, of course, tries to keep its own hands clean in this business — using a variety of Third-World stooges who have a grudge against the U.S. Traditionally, in the Middle East, the most useful surrogates for the Soviet Union have been the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) and Libya, under its erratic strongman, Col. Muammar Qadhafi. The PLO, in particular, and groups associated with it, have played an important role for the Soviets in training and supporting other terrorist and revolutionary groups, both in the Middle East/Persian Gulf area and Central America.

Carefully organized terrorism must be dealt with by more than just strong rhetoric. The time is now.

Although it's impossible to know when the next terrorist strike will occur, we can reasonably predict that it will come — whether it's next month, or next year.

For starters, the U.S. should provide more assistance to friendly governments that have been targeted by terrorist organizations, and which have the resolve to fight it: Israel, El Salvador, and other friendly countries which find themselves under siege.

The FAA's proposal to tighten security at U.S. airports is yet another step in the right direction. It's time that we come to grips with the fact that the United States is not only not immune to the crazies of the world, but that we're one of their prime targets.

The bottom line is that until we start doing something about these ruthless acts of terrorism, we will remain prey to the whims of the Shiites and other barbaric fanatics. Which is precisely what the Soviet Union

Dear Mrs. Montgomery:
It gives me pleasure to announce that Roy Glenn Sutton has been selected as Assistant District Director for Investigations for the Harlingen, Texas district. He will be responsible for the entire Investigations program in our seven county jurisdiction.
Mr. Sutton was selected competitively from a strong list of candidates. His experience as a Border Patrol Agent and Investigator in a number of locations in the United States as well as his superior performance, were the reasons he was chosen. He will be innovative in combatting fraud and criminal activities of illegal aliens.
Our records show that Mr. Sutton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sutton, are residents of Ozona.

Mr. Sutton also served as a Border Patrol Agent in Ozona for several years, therefore, I wanted to advise you of his selection for this responsi-

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The South African confrontations are touching sympathetic hearts in the legislature, stirring some lawmakers to explore how Texas can accelerate freedom's course on the Dark Continent.

Some state agencies, those with pension funds to nurture, have invested state dollars in South African businesses for years.

Last week, Black Caucus chairman Paul Ragsdale, D-Dallas, called for state leaders to consider whether those investments are safe in the situation of strife.

Should the white-rout government fall and revolt, these investments might not be recoverable, much less profitable, Ragsdale contends.

Texas Dollars Safe?

Ragsdale's maneuver is obvious: only a few days earlier, House Speaker Gib Lewis nixed the idea of divestiture of South African investments and so Ragsdale is going over Lewis' head to the governor.

With an election year approaching fast, the governor cannot afford to alienate blacks and a good many white voters, too. But Ragsdale is smarter than the obvious political ploy would suggest. In the often cold-minded world of politics, the bottom line in many conservative minds is the security of the Texas tax dollars.

Skillfully, Ragsdale is appealing to conservatives on the pocketbook issue. And, playing the game by their rules, he has raised a real issue. It's his way of also appealing to pragmatists who are unmoved by the more obvious issue of man's inhumanity to man.

Black lawmakers urge the governor to call a special meeting of public funds' managers to evaluate the safety of their portfolios.

Delicate Budget

Nor is it a false cry of wolf: a national report released last week indicates that falling oil prices and a weakening national economy threaten the delicate budget.

In plain English, further economic setbacks leave Texas with little budget maneuverability unless taxes are raised, or services severely cut.

If the average price of oil falls more than $2 a barrel in the next two years, a special session to raise taxes will likely be called, according to Lt. Governor Bill Hobby.

Hobby, by the way, drew his first official '86 challenger last week. David Young, twice a candidate for statewide office, announced that he will run against Hobby as a democrat next year.

Like other states, Texas has budgeted cautiously because the uncertainty of federal spending cuts, aide to the states, tax cuts and fears of a new recession.

Appointments

Two former state representatives are being appointed to government positions.

The president nominated Bob Maloney of Dallas, now a Texas Appeals Court judge, to a federal district court judgeship.

The governor has named Lynn Nabers to head the Texas Sesquicentennial Commission for $1 a year.

The governor also picked Odessa attorney Ray Stoker to serve on the Texas Highway Commission.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club
by Mrs. Bailey Post

The recent good showers have given us a respite from daily watering, and we hope they will continue through August and bring moisture to all.

August doldrums, summer listlessness, vacations, and recent rains may tempt us to lessen gardening activities, but this is a critical period for shrubs, trees, and other plants. A lack of soil moisture now will weaken these plants, making them less resistant to winter, only a few months away.

Peonies should be moved as seldom as possible, but if your plants seem to be crowded and flowering has diminished each season, now and on through October is the time to move them to a new location. Dig and separate each clump into several divisions, each new one should have at least three, preferably five, growth buds or "eyes" on the root crown. Give them rich soil in a sunny spot and plant so that eyes on roots are one and one-half inches deep. Check your old clumps to see if they have been covered too deeply, for this causes a flowering failure.

Another perennial that needs to be divided about every four years is the daylily. This will allow plants to become established before winter, and assures bloom for next spring if cared for properly.

If you plan a fall garden, prepare the space now by spading, add new soil or soil builder if needed.

Watering in the summer involves more than simply keeping all plants wet. A gardener has to learn to treat each plant as the individual that it is, with its own special moisture requirements. Most plants need to dry out a bit between waterings, for this allows the air to get to the soil, but watering should never be delayed to the point that plants wilt. Also, since more water is required during the hot time of the year, this means that additional nutrients may have to be applied to replenish those leached away. Now is the time to check your plants and make a note of the ones that take the least care and still stay attractive.

Magnificent tapestries, sometimes taking years to complete, decorated the walls of many homes and churches in the Middle Ages. Woven with richly colored strands of silk and wool, they often pictured scenes from the Bible. To create a beautiful tapestry required patience... skill... devotion.

Today each of us weaves a tapestry — the fabric of our lives. We sit at a loom, wondering whether the pattern of our lives will be of bright rose, green or golden threads, or whether the events will show as somber, dark colors.

A weaver in the Middle Ages worked on the reverse side of his tapestry. By looking up at a mirror, he could see how the entire design looked on the right side.

When we look up to God in worship, we can see with clarity the pattern of our lives. Attend the church or synagogue of your choice for perspective on your life's tapestry.

EXTENSION OFFICE NEWS

By Rachel Hall

One of the most common concerns among parents and caretakers of children is whether or not children are receiving adequate nutrition in their diets. Children thrive on regularity and routine in their daily activities. Mealtime for children requires routine and should be at the same time each day.

Eating is a new experience for children. Don't be surprised if at first a child is cautious and curious, plays with food, is reluctant to try new foods and rebels when forced to eat. Try to be patient and relax as children go through this difficult period.

Snacks are not always bad for children. Nutritious snack foods can help children obtain required nutrients. Since children have smaller stomachs than adults, serving three small meals with nourishing snack in between each meal may be more appropriate for children than serving three large meals.

Frequent snacking may contribute to tooth decay. Clean children's teeth each day and check with a dentist about the need for fluoride.

An obese child is more likely than a child of normal weight to become an obese adult. Since medical and perhaps psychological problems have been linked to obesity, it is important to prevent it. Encourage children to eat moderate amounts of a variety of foods which are high in nutrients. Try to promote physical activity in children.

If you are worried about nutritional deficiencies in a child's diet, examine the child's food intake over a period of time. Children eat more food some days than others. By recording the food eaten over several days, you will see that deficiencies in the diet on one day are usually made up on another day.

Children often want to eat a certain food every chance they get. This is called a food jag and typically occurs among toddlers. As long as the preferred food is nutritious and the jag does not last long, there is nothing to worry about. It will take children anywhere from a few weeks to a few months to learn to feed themselves. At one and a half years old, most children should be feeding themselves and will be quite messy until they master feeding skills.

Children's appetites may suddenly decrease around the age of two due to a delay in their growth. As growth slows down, energy requirements are also reduced.

Serving sizes for children vary greatly from that of adults. An easy guide to minimum serving sizes for children is: one measuring tablespoon of cooked food for each year of a child's age. Examples of serving amounts for children ages 2-3 may include the following: 1/2-3/4 cup milk, 3/8-1 oz. cheese, 1 1/2 oz. meat, 1/4 cup fruit, 3/4 slice of bread, and 1/2 cup cooked cereal. A small child's recommended daily servings include:

- 4 servings milk and dairy products
- 2 servings meat and meat alternatives
- 4 servings fruit and vegetables (1 vitamin C and 1 vitamin A)
- 4 breads and cereals

The First Baptist Royal Ambassadors left Monday for a week of camp. Youth director Ted Turnley accompanied the group of over 30 boys. They will return to Ozona this weekend.

All about women; his favorites

By Evert White

This is a piece about women--my very favorite people.

It's about women in history, women in Texas, women in Crockett County and women in Ozona. Of course, you can't refer to women in history without referring to Cleopatra, Florence Nightingale, Indira Gandhi, Madame Curie...even Annie Oakley and Calamity Jane. The story of women in Crockett County's early history is the story of women in general in the developing ranch industry and the taming of a new country--women who matched their menfolk in endurance and industry, rode with them stirrup to stirrup in making success in raw ranch operations. And many of these women cashed in on their experience when at their husbands' demise they were swept into operating a ranch or business without the help of their spouses.

Of the oft repeated quote "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world", and "Behind every successful man is a woman" one darling claims puts women down--presumably by quoting their secondary roles. But, no, honey, that's not putting you down. It's just a man's feeble way of trying to elevate you among men.

Ozona has had an abundance of competent women, charming, too, in business and politics and in community service. Outstandingly memorable in Crockett County politics and women is the very able service as Crockett County Judge by diminutive Bernice Jones, who took over the judge's post after the death of her husband, County Judge Brock Jones. Lucile Harrell once said in introducing Mrs. Jones-- "It does me a lot of good to introduce this little thing as our County Judge."

Farther back in the county's growth was another woman who stepped into county government at the death of her husband. She was Mrs. Frankie Ingham, who was appointed county commissioner from precinct 1 at the death of her husband, Ben B. Ingham. Her appointment was not just routine, she served very creditably in the office but declined to stand for re-election. Crockett County has had not only a woman county judge, a woman county commissioner but also a woman county sheriff. When the burly and well-liked Sheriff Sandy Willis died in office his widow was appointed to succeed him for the balance of the term. She did a good enough job.

Ozona has been richly endowed with talented women willing to perform public service in the interest of city, county, church, school, youth and the community in general. Club women have done a tremendous job over the years in bringing culture, entertainment and leadership to the community. Don't hold me to listing all of them--the publisher would not allow me that much space. But a few, just to show you what we mean. There's Mrs. Arthur Hoover, Mrs. Bill West, Mrs. Ira Carson, Mrs. Joe Pierce, Mrs. Vic Pierce, Mrs. George Montgomery, Mrs. Frank Friend, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. N. W. Graham, Mrs. Blake Mauldin--the list could go on and on. But this is a sample of long-ago-citizens and some 'now' ones, some few of us remember, some still well known and remembered by today's readers. But each of them and all of them contributed handsomely to the better life for those who made their home in Ozona anytime through its history.

It is a very good guess that the entire community would join in giving a great big hand to Geniece Childress as the outstanding woman contributor of time and talent toward community betterment in Ozona and Crockett County. It was through Mrs. Childress' dedicated and untiring effort and leadership that the magnificent Crockett County History book was written, assembled, printed and distributed. That job alone should assure Mrs. Childress the undying gratitude of every citizen of Crockett County, and certainly a unique place in the county's history.

An outstanding piece of work, but that's not all Mrs. Childress has done for this community. Practically single handedly she has led and directed the Crockett County Museum until it has become, even in its cramped quarters, one of the outstanding museums in Texas. The museum has been, not a collection of pieces of history and relics of early days, it has been, under this woman's direction and leadership, a viable succession of illustrated periods of county history, painstakingly assembled and masterfully displayed in the museum's limited quarters. An example, the recently assembled tribute to the county's war heroes, men and women who served in the country's armed forces from the Civil War through World War II, and Vietnam, their pictures collected and mounted on display panels, samples of uniforms of the various services, and other mementoes from the war days.

After all this unselfish service to her community, Geniece might well hang up her spurs and wave us an adios. But, no, she not only is continuing her museum work but she has taken on another community service job, the chairmanship of the Crockett County Historical Commission, stepping into the shoes of another equally dedicated community servant, Lucile Harrell, under whose leadership that Commission has won statewide acclaim from the leadership of the state commission. Mrs. Harrell is stepping down after more than 25 years of service in preserving the history of the county through historical markings and such preservation projects as the Emerald House, Ozona's oldest residential dwelling house, now restored; and serving as a meeting place for various public functions and as an example of early day western architecture. What a tremendous debt Ozona owes these two charming women for their many years of dedicated community service.

Ozona has been blessed by so many women in leadership posts in the town, it is natural that one of the most important in community development, the home town newspaper, should be piloted by an outstanding newspaper woman, Kitty Montgomery, now with more than 30 years of experience in the news field. Although published in a town smaller than some, The Ozona Stockman, published continuously in Ozona for 72 years, of which Mrs. Montgomery is now the owner and publisher, stands tall among weekly newspapers of all West Texas. Her weekly front page column, "Kitty's Korner" is a jewel among newspaper columns and is eagerly sought each week by anxious readers from one end of the state to the other.

And helping Mrs. Montgomery with her weekly publishing job are four more dedicated and charming women, Willa Perry, "second" in command; Betty Perry as staff photographer; Corie Lane and Betty Flores, in the composing room. That many accomplished women capably produce an outstanding and widely circulated newspaper of first rank each week. And Ozona is proud.

A woman has served capably as Crockett County Clerk for the past many years, in fact for the last thirty years or more. A veteran in that office,

Miss Leta Powell, took over as clerk at the death in 1954 of George Russell, under whom she had served as chief deputy for many years previously. At present, the office is being capably administered by another woman, Debbie Puckett.

Ozona's head town booster post, secretary of the chamber of commerce is--you guessed it--a woman. And a more gung-ho booster you'll never find than Beth Boyd--welcoming newcomers and assisting them in finding housing, getting acquainted, etc. Women in business are to be found in almost any door you open in the business section. There's Becky Childress and Jodie Sessom at the Teacher Store; Lib Applewhite, the steady influence at the Water Works District office; there's Alicia Lopez at one of the city's newest business establishments, The Footnote, Village shoe store; Patti Jones and the Cottage Collection; Elizabeth Upham in the insurance field; Ozona's beloved twins, Ruth Seahorn and Margaret Miller, still twinsies as joint proprietors of Happy Hollow, gift and toy shop; Betty Perry photo shop; Dilly Meinecke Dockery, like mother, Coralie Meinecke, capably managing the Crockett County Abstract Co. in unbroken succession; Norma and her Country Kitchen; Jonesy Williams, Ozona's own Florence Nightingale, who, as head nurse, launched Ozona's new hospital and still serves as emergency health consultant among her friends; Sandra Childress and her camera and photo service shop; Juanita, Sue and Mary Helen, at the postoffice; Leota Cox who runs the Circle Bar Truck Corral for Tom Mitchell; Barbara Walker in charge at the Country Club; Pearlita Morris and her exercise salon; and--gosh, the list is endless.

In addition to all that, there's still a town full of the finest secretaries to be found; seven school buildings filled with as competent a bunch of school teachers as you'll find, most of them female; and all the women who have carried on ranch operations, businesses and estates in competent fashion after their husbands were gone.

So, no wonder Ozona is the "biggest little town in the world". With such a tremendous "Women's Corps" how could it be otherwise?

(If I've left anybody out, please forgive--you know I love you anyway.)

Crockett County Care Center News

By Ann McCartney
Director of Activities & Social Care

Another week has passed and we're in the last days of another month as well. Summer seems to be slipping by too fast.

We had movies last week, played a bit of dominoes, and had our other regular activities.

Our special events included the Knox Band performance on Tuesday night with Jamie Knox, J.D. Kilgore, and Don Kilgore sharing their talents and a performance by Gary Davis and his ventriloquist, Leroy, on Wednesday afternoon. Many thanks goes to each of you.

Jo Davidson brought peaches from her garden to all residents on Saturday afternoon. That was a special event too!

Tuesday and Friday bingo winners included Tomasa Ramoz, winner of the El Chato dinner for two; Pauline Clinton, first place winner of a gift certificate from Westerman Drug; and Sam Martinez, second place winner. Volunteers included Lida Moore, sister of Ola Mills, visiting from Nashville, Tennessee, our own Alice Ross and Minnie Karr, as well as Sophia Tijerina, Elvira Martinez, Dorothy Doll, Juanita Martinez, Teresa Sanchez, Sister Elena Sanchez, Mattie Cooper, Virginia Bishop, Courtney Nelson, and Anna Bell Patrick.

We are always glad to see our residents get progressively better, health-wise, but we surely do miss them when they are well enough to go home as is the case of Sam Martinez. We will miss him, his wife Juanita, and his granddaughter, Juanita Quevedo, who visited often. Maybe they will come back as volunteers.

On Wednesday we had Doris Karr, Janet Wilson, and Marie Pierson, helping the ceramics. Residents Juana Hernandez, Tomasa Ramoz, Pauline Clinton, Hilda Dysart, Nina Mayfield, Ola Mills, Moriana Perez, and Sam Martinez all participated. Alice Ross worked as a volunteer also.

Thursday morning's beauty shop was manned by Vivian Hughes, Clara Byrd, and Alena Faye Hokit. We really appreciate these girls and all the time and effort this service entails.

Bible study was led on Thursday by Charles Huffman and five fellow members of the Faith Lutheran Church.

Friday afternoon Clayton's Village Drug treated all our residents to a milkshake. Residents able to go to the drug store after their treat included: Tomasa Ramoz, Pauline Clinton, Jean Beardmore, Hilda Dysart, Nina Mayfield, Alice Ross, Inez Biggs, Doris Robnett, and Sam Martinez. Thanks to drugstore employees Katie Manie and Joann Marshall for all their assistance with this activity!

We had a nice surprise this Monday morning when Edith Owens from Barnhart came by and played the piano for us. Such pretty music she does make!

Once again, a big thank you to all our volunteers this past week including Jo Davidson, Marie Pierson, and Juanita Martinez who furnished cars for our field trip to Clayton's and to the family of Jeanette Bailey who donated fingernail supplies.

Think volunteer!

Graveside services held for J. Murphy

James T. Murphy, 65, of Brady, died Saturday, July 20, at 3:40 p.m. in the Heart of Texas Memorial Hospital in Brady. Graveside services were held Thursday, July 25. Burial was in Westhaven Cemetery.

Murphy was born January 10, 1920 in Welch, Oklahoma. He lived in McCulloch County for 3 1/2 years, since moving from Ozona.

He was a member of the Army Air Corps during World War II and a retired outboard motor mechanic and oilfield worker. He was a Baptist.

Survivors include his wife of Brady, three stepsons, James Harris of Brownwood, David Harris of Eldorado, Joe Harris of Brady; two stepdaughters, Gloria Patton, of Austin, Linda Anthony of Oklahoma, one brother, Jack Murphy of Midland, 9 step-grandchildren and 1-great grandchild.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank all of you who comforted us in our time of sorrow.

Words cannot express the feeling of love that we felt from his many friends and family that came from here as well as out of town.

Your cards, flowers, food, love and support helped us all ease the pain of our deep loss.

Thank you all again.

Channel 13 to have special on Hiroshima

For the people of Hiroshima, Japan, August 6, 1945 marked a day in history when their city was virtually destroyed by an atomic bomb-one of two ever dropped on a human population.

Airing Tuesday, August 6, at 7 p.m. on KERA/Channel 13, "Hiroshima Remembered" is a three-hour special commemorating the tragic events which occurred 40 years ago. The program includes same-day satellite footage of the ceremonies at Hiroshima; Jon Else's award-winning documentary film "The Day After Trinity: J. Robert Oppenheimer and the Atomic Bomb"; and other outstanding documentary films, both Japanese and American. Gail Harris, from WGBH, Boston, will host.

"The Day After Trinity," which first aired on public television in April, 1981, is a documentary feature about the people who built the first nuclear weapons. It is also the story of J. Robert Oppenheimer and the role he played in developing the first atomic bomb. The 90-minute film weaves together declassified government footage with the recollections of the major surviving participants in the Oppenheimer story, revealing a powerful drama of personal, political and moral forces which marked the world's passage into a nuclear age.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank James returned last week in their motor home from a West-Tex Motor Home club meeting in Durango, Colo. They traveled from Chama by Wolf Creek pass which is about 11,000 feet. After sightseeing and a barbecue at the Bar D Ranch, they returned home. Most of the group continued the trip to Washington.

The delicious alternative to a conventional checking account.

Before NOW, there was no blending of savings and checking accounts. Both were completely separate from each other, resulting in separate account numbers, separate passbooks and checkbooks, and no interest on checking.

That has changed. A NOW account "sandwiches together" the traditional checking account and savings account to bring you the best of both... free checking (with a minimum balance) plus interest!

See us for more details on NOW, the ultimate checking/savings "sandwich"!
