Kitty's Korner

By
Kitty Montgomery

I don't like to be rude to telephone solicitors, but there comes a time when enough is enough. Anybody who makes a living selling something over the telephone has a tough job and if they have been at it long enough, they, no doubt, have a tough hide.

Over the years, I could have bought everything from a race horse to a cemetery plot, just over the telephone. I feel like it's a violation of privacy, but don't have any idea what can be done about it.

I had gotten sort of paranoid about it, but have found that it happens to almost everyone, so I'm sure you will know what I am talking about.

These things usually happen to me when I am in the midst of something crucial, such as taking a bath, washing my hair, changing the baby, or what have you.

They always start out with telling you their first name, like "Mrs. Montgomery, this is Jane." This always throws you off guard and while you are trying to think of all the "Janes" you know and decide which one this is, you are listening to their sales pitch. This usually begins with "We are not selling anything, but would like to send you, etc."

I was keeping my granddaughter in San Angelo one night not long ago, when the telephone rang during a diaper change. This is no easy chore for me when nothing disrupts. However, after about five rings, I heard a loud noise in the kitchen and decided I had better investigate. The wall phone had jumped off the hook, but the caller was still on the line. When I answered, she started out with the usual, only this time her name was Kathryn. She had gotten to "located near a lovely waterfall," before I realized she was selling cemetery plots. She seemed genuinely disappointed when I told her I already had a place. Of course, it's not near a waterfall, but that surely can't be a serious selling point.

A salesman kept me on the phone for thirty minutes one night telling me about a book he was sending to me. He was going to get it in the mail the next morning. When he finally got to the point, "keep it for ten days and if not satisfied $24.95 would be returned." I told him to send the book if he must, but I had no intention of sending him $24.95. Never did get that book.

My late husband, Tom, was a great one for ordering things from telephone calls, especially if they sent prizes. One Olympic year he got a real "medal" for ordering ten drums of press cleaner. He fell for it and received the medal. I was not aware of this when the truck pulled up to deliver the cleaner, I refused to accept the order. We had gone off set at the time and had no use for the cleaning fluid.

Some time later, we got a call from the salesman, from somewhere in New Jersey. Tom wasn't around, so I took the call. He was really irate and threatened to sue. I explained the situation to him and offered to send the cheap imitation of a medal back. He was so furious he hung up in my ear.

Tom ordered a book once "History of the Montgomery Family." Every Montgomery in the world was listed in the book, except Tom. That's when he learned to say "no" to telephone solicitors.

Just today, we could have bought a warehouse full of office supplies, sent our bad accounts to a collection agency, and bought into a diamond mine in South Africa. Amazing isn't it?

Hot weather continues in Ozona

Hot days and hot nights have continued to plague Ozona throughout the week. The edge of a front brought some clouds over the weekend, but failed to bring rain or relief from the heat.

The storm clouds which threatened Saturday, brought up to two inches of rain north of Midway Lane. A few drops of rain fell Sunday afternoon, but failed to settle the dust.

SENATOR AWARDED-Senator Bill Sims, San Angelo, received the Distinguished State Legislator award of the Vocational Agriculture Teachers

Association from the organization's president, Terry Phillips, of Seagraves. The award was presented at the annual awards program for the Association in recognition of his leadership and support of the Vocational Agriculture Education Program in Texas.

Lions look good in first scrimmage of season

Last Friday night the Ozona Lions traveled to Wall to face their first opposition of the year by scrimmaging the Wall Hawks. Head Coach Jim Green and his staff made the trip with the purpose of seeing how the Lions were progressing as the end of their two-a-day workouts were coming to a close.

Until Friday the Lions had only scrimmaged against themselves and were looking forward to some outside opposition. The scrimmage was designed as a learning opportunity for both ball clubs and when it was over the Ozona coaching staff knew more about the '85 Lion's strengths and weaknesses as the season approached.

The Lions are a relatively small ballclub in size but just as predicted stood tall in hustle and determination using their quickness as an effective weapon. The Hawks had the only score of the game on a thirty-nine yard pass that accounted for over one fourth of their total offense. Ozona threatened by moving the ball down the Wall four yard line before their drive was stalled when a fourth down and three yard to go play failed.

The Lions looked very good on offense for their first test of the season as they failed to commit a single turnover and moved the ball for 105 yards in thirty-eight plays. The team was led by Senior QB Steve Sanchez who did a fine job on his first outing of the season. He got good blocking from his offensive linemen who used their quickness to keep their counterparts out of the Lion backfield, thus enabling the Lions to move the ball. Donald Gutierrez and Able Lara both had good games in the trenches as did others on the offensive line. Running backs Valdo Galindo, Harvey Fierro, David Adams and Chuy Hernandez all had very productive afternoons carrying the ball as they combined for eighty-five total yards. Galindo rushed nine times for fifty yards, Fierro two carries for eleven yards, Adams seven carries for twenty yards, and Hernandez ran three times for four yards. Butch Gonzalez had an excellent day, blocking the way for his teammates in the backfield. On the receiving end of things Fierro and junior Roger Flores had success catching the ball.

The Lion defense also matched the test holding the Hawks to only three big plays that accounted for the largest majority of their total offense and one touchdown. Harvey Fierro spoiled the Hawks with two back to back interceptions that accounted for the only two turnovers of the contest, and put the Hawks passing attack to rest. The linebackers were a bright spot for Ozona as Seniors Bret Thompson, J.T. Stokes, and Chuy Hernandez, along with Junior Donald Gutierrez played good solid defense. Butch Gonzales and Brian Morrow the outside duo of the "Stinging Bees" (Butch, Bret Thompson, Blas Vargas, and Brian) also looked good at their seven techniques and containing the outside threat of the Hawks. Ozona gave up 146 yards of total offense to Wall on thirty-four plays but ninety-seven of those yards came on three plays.

All in all the Lions were very impressive in their first scrimmage of the season and the coaches were very pleased with the young men's efforts. Green was very pleased with his teams progress and was very optimistic about the scrimmage and the '85 season that awaits the Lions. Had this been a real game Green feels the Lions would have come out victorious because of the Lions consistency both offensively and defensively. The Lions next test will come this Thursday night at 6:30 when McCamey comes to Lion Stadium for the second and final scrimmage before the '85 season opens at Greenwood.

Historical society members attend Ft. Concho seminar

A group of Crockett County Historical Society members were in San Angelo last Tuesday to attend a seminar on museum departments and activities, and to tour the Fort Concho Museum and collections, along with the art museum, also located on the grounds of Fort Concho.

Attending were Geniece Childress, Violene Stanton, Camille Jones, Carla B. Freeman, Roberta Cooper, Louisa Pearson, Ann Childress and Nora Lou Spencer.

Mrs. Childress was most impressed with the art museum, which is having a children's art exhibit at present. She suggested Ozona parents should take their children for a tour while the exhibit is being shown.

Mrs. Childress and Mrs. Stanton returned to Fort Concho Saturday for a seminar on resources for museums, sponsored by the Permian Basin Museum Institute.

Speakers for the occasion were Ricardo Hernandez of Austin, who is director for visual/communications arts; Cindy Sherrell-Leo, director of field and museum services; Kit Neumann, Administrative Assistant, and Amanda Stover, Executive director of Texas Association of Museums, all with the Texas Historical Commission.

Successful fund raising ideas, how to design low-cost museum exhibits and a workshop on grants highlighted the seminar.

Lion Booster Club to sell hamburgers at scrimmage

The Ozona Lions Booster Club is sponsoring a Hamburger Supper Thursday afternoon, August 29th, on the southwest end of the football stadium at 7:00 p.m., during the Ozona and McCamey scrimmage.

All of Ozona is invited to watch the scrimmage and eat hamburgers or come by and take out orders. Hamburger, chips and drinks (tea or Koolaid) will be served for just $1.50 per plate.

For an inexpensive afternoon, drop by the football stadium and watch the "new" Lions performing and take advantage of a real treat for an afternoon meal at a very low price. Members of the Ozona Lions Booster Club will be serving the meals for those watching football or those who choose to take home orders.

We of the Booster Club, invite all of Ozona to join the Booster Club and help support all athletic activities throughout the year. The hamburger supper will kick off many of the worthwhile projects sponsored by the Ozona Lions Booster Club.

Join the team, Be a Ozona Lions Booster.

Jim's Foodway, IGA, to close month with drawing

Jim's Foodway, IGA, located in the Village Shopping Center, is winding down an entire month's activities for its Grand Opening under the new name. The grand finale is coming up Saturday, Aug. 31, when the drawing for a trip to Hawaii for two will be held.

Drawings for grocery baskets valued at over $100 have been held each Wednesday this month. Today will be the final drawing. First week's winner was Rosa Hernandez, and for the second week, Jeanne Wilson. Harvey Hill was last week's winner.

The round trip for a holiday in Hawaii for two, includes airfare, 8 days and 7 nights Waikiki Beach hotel accommodations, round trip transfers, and baggage tips among other luxury specials.

Jim's Foodway joined the IGA, an independent supermarket group, August 1. IGA stands for Independent Grocer's Alliance. Owner Jim Marks said the change was made in order to give Ozona customers more savings and service from their home-owned, home-operated grocery store. "We are their friends and neighbors and we work harder to please them because we value their business," Marks said.

Joe Galvan is store manager and Joe DeLaRosa is assistant manager. Matt Gutierrez is manager of the meat market, assisted by Arnold Vargas.

Frank Esperza heads up the produce department.

Cleo Thompson, Dallas, No. 1 University 29-8, 26 miles west of Ozona, to pump 198.8 barrels of 31 gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 201-1.

Production was through perforations at 1,666-97 1/2 feet, which had been acidized with 1,150 gallons and fractured with 40,000 gallons and 77,000 pounds of sand.

Originally scheduled as a 2,500 foot wildcat, it was drilled to 1,801 feet, where 4 1/2-inch casing was set.

Location is 725 feet from the south and 643 feet from the east lines of 8-29-ULS.

STOP TAXING THE POOR

By Edwin Feulner

Many opponents of President Reagan's proposed tax-reform plan have condemned it as just another big payoff to the rich—the old class-warfare baloney.

Just 5.8 percent of the country's households had incomes above $50,000 in 1982. Yet, these people collectively paid 35.6 percent of all personal income taxes collected that year, some $98.97 billion.

Because the 1981 tax cuts stimulated an explosive burst of entrepreneurial investment, the wealthy have actually been paying more than before the tax rates were cut.

What we really should be asking is not how the proposed tax-reform plan will affect those who already have made it, but how it will affect the less fortunate, especially the working poor. And in this respect, the administration has earned bragging rights.

Careful analysis of the plan shows that without exception those living at or below the edge of poverty will receive an important boost from the new tax regime. A single pensioner without any dependents, for example, will be able to earn 37 percent more under the plan—$4,900, rather than the current $3,560—before having to pay taxes.

What does this mean to a young person right out of high school, earning the $3.25-per-hour minimum wage on his or her first job? It means he or she probably will earn $3,900 or so that first year, assuming a 40-hour work week from June through December.

Under the current law Uncle Sam would claim a share. Under the proposed plan, however, Uncle Sam wouldn't be entitled to anything that first year. While not a lot of money would be involved, every cent counts for a young person just starting out.

Married couples also would be able to earn 37 percent more, with the tax-free ceiling increasing from $5,830 to $8,000. If opponents of the president's tax plan can find something wrong with that, I'd like to know what it is.

How about "real" families? Current law has a married couple with two dependents paying taxes as soon as combined family income reaches $9,575, though the government's poverty threshold for such a family is $11,400. So we have the spectacle of the federal government taxing a poor family into continued poverty, which is about as illogical and inefficient as anything I can think of. The tax reform plan would end this obscenity.

The really big winners from the tax reform plan—despite the class warfare talk from AFL-CIO headquarters and elsewhere—are families. The very real increases in the "zero-bracket" amount that people can earn before the tax meter starts running and the doubling of the personal and dependent exemptions would redress some of the inequities now faced by single heads-of-household and large families. This marks a significant and laudable shift in tax policy.

Research shows that the majority of families would see their taxes fall under the plan, with the poorest families benefiting the most. This is a major plus.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—New laws passed by the Legislature last spring will go into effect next week on Sept. 1, including the controversial mandatory seat belt law.

The new law requires the driver and front-seat passengers to wear a seat belt. Although the law goes into effect next week, the fines for violators, which range from $25 to $50, won't be slapped on until after Dec. 1.

All in all, the new seat belt law is minimal and meant to be that way by legislators hesitant of offending the independent Texas driver. No doubt the measure will save innumerable lives, but many legislators did not want to crowd.

Texas passed the seat belt law last spring because of the threat of a federal order to make airbags mandatory in vehicles. The Secretary of Transportation gave the order but provided an out: if enough states voluntarily passed a mandatory seat belt act, no costly airbags would be necessary.

Bubba's Own Good
Right away, some legislators were wary of arousing the anger of "Bubba", their mythical stereotype of Texas parochialism, and so attempts were made to water down the proposed law, including an exemption for pickup trucks which didn't stick.

Still the bill passed. Then the governor actually signed it into law at a press conference, and some speculated it was his biggest political mistake yet, bigger than when he raised taxes.

But the next thing you know, there's the governor on TV with a public service announcement telling Bubba he's got to wear his seat belt for his own safety. Bubba got prepared and the governor got some free press.

Next week, Bubba can strap his seat belt on and tell Texas how he likes it, but he'll probably be too busy dodging traffic to think about it.

Anti-Child Abuse
A package of anti-child abuse laws will include:
• An exception to non-admission of hearsay evidence to allow a statement that a child made to the first person 18 or older. Advocates say it will keep a child from testifying in open court and reliving the trauma.
• Tougher penalties for possession of child pornography.
• The availability of criminal conviction records of persons who want to work in child-care facilities or other child-related businesses.

Abortion Law
The new abortion law will require abortion clinics to file annual reports to the Health Department and to submit to periodic inspections by the agency.

The new reporting rules will require clinics to record personal statistics on each patient, the type of abortion and other related information.

The annual fee for an abortion clinic can legally be set as high as $1,000 by the Health Department. Because the Legislature provided no start-up money for the Health Department, it must first collect the fees in order to finance the on-site inspections.

Short Takes
• A federal report on loss of farms shows Texas lost 3,000 farms in 1984. The amount of land in farming dropped by a half-million acres here.
• A recent poll indicated half of all Texans think illegal aliens from Mexico take only jobs that American citizens don't want.

Letters to the Editor

August 21, 1985

Dear Kitty:
Thank you for the very kind words expressed in today's "Stockman". We too, are already beginning to feel a great loss "inside" as we begin to make preparations to move. Our feelings of emptiness are the result of three wonderful and memorable years of living and working in Ozona. We have met and grown to love and appreciate so many people here. We want to say "thank you" from the bottom of our hearts to so many who helped us and were there when we needed them most.

The "marks" that you referred to, Kitty, are left only because so many kind people were willing to work and support our various endeavors. Without them, nothing could have been accomplished. The good Lord has richly blessed us with many friends and many good memories of Ozona, Texas.

Appreciatively,
Stan Lambert

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Even though we haven't had a good rain to better condition our soil, you may want to begin planning to have a good fall vegetable garden and many late blooming flowers.

From now until blooming time give special attention to your Chrysanthemums. For large exhibition mums, leave only four well developed canes that form at the axle of each leaf. Pinch others out leaving only two if extra large blossoms are wanted. Plants should be staked as they grow, in order to have straight stems. Go over plants regularly and pinch off all laterals as they form and while tender. When buds begin to form, which should be soon, give them a feeding of a balanced fertilizer or liquid manure water. Water well after each feeding every ten days or until color shows in the bud, then stop the feeding. As soon as buds form in clusters pinch or rub off carefully all except one bud to each cane, always leaving the center or terminal bud if well formed. This method gives you large beautiful blooms.

Healthy vigorous plants need plenty of water but not overly wet soil. During very hot weather, the foliage of mums should be sprayed daily to increase atmospheric moisture and check for red spider.

The small flowering types or cushion mums, should have tops pinched out when 6 inches tall to encourage branching and a well formed mound. Do not pinch out tops any later, as they should be ready to set buds. These buds should not be pinched or rubbed out as the large mums, but left to form a mass of blooms.

The dream books from seed houses and nurseries are arriving to help you choose bulbs, seed, roses, trees and shrubs. Look them over carefully make a list of those that grow well in our area. Most will be available in nearby nurseries.

The variety of clematis blooming now is the hybrid clematis paniculata.

No Regrets

Frank and Blanche find the "senior citizen" scene a mighty happy one. Not just because of discounts and other thoughtful breaks. Rather it's that with children grown-up and grandchildren brightening every visit they can look back over the years with no regrets.

Maybe that's an exaggeration. Things didn't always work out right. Dreams had to confront reality. But in the deepest relationships of life Frank and Blanche truly have no regrets.

They're convinced the key has been Faith. Family life was built on a religious foundation. Children had the vital blessings of spiritual training at Church. Now the grandchildren are growing up with deep-rooted convictions.

Accept the Lord's help in raising your family!

The Last Child At Home

When school bells ring again this fall, many families will send all their children to school except one. This pre-schooler can get lonely or bored and demand parents' constant attention.

One way around this problem is to make "lesson plans" for the child at home. Simple activities will entertain the child, teach basic learning skills and should not demand blocks of your time.

In the kitchen, let the child make gelatin, prepare a cake mix or make play dough from equal parts of salt and flour with just enough water and food coloring to make a stiff dough. The child can work while you supervise—and do your own work at the same time. In the family room, watch a children's program with the child, then read a story similar to the show. After that, the child can be his own for a while. On other days, offer blunt scissors, newspaper and crayons for an art lesson about the television show. Let the child do his "own thing" while you admire, talk about or display the artistic effort.

In the bedroom tie a string to a bed post and hold the other end so the string is just a few inches off the floor and let the child do "high jumps." Other physical activities that require little or no equipment are aerobic exercises or children's games such as "London Bridge", or "Ring Around the Rosey."

The bathroom offers unlimited water play. Put the child in the tub and give him a dishpan of liquid soap and water with a straw to have a bubble hey-day. Food coloring and water can teach a child colors, color formation and how to pour from one container to another.

You can find many things for the young child to do at home, but it's important that he doesn't stay inside all day. A child can play alone outside if the yard is safe, if he has something to play with, if he has someone to check on him often, or if he can be easily seen while you work inside the home.

The last child at home doesn't need an over-abundance of toys, time or attention. In fact, you can help children mature by teaching them to entertain themselves and enjoy their own company.

Local border patrol boasts 62 total years experience

Robert A. Bollier, Border Patrol Agent in Charge for the Crockett County area, was transferred here from Big Spring in February, 1985. He has 15 years of service with the Border Patrol, beginning in El Paso, in 1970, transferring to Bracketville, in 1976, and to Big Spring, in 1981.

Bollier and his wife Betty have two sons, Brad who is 13 and a seventh grader at Ozona Junior High School, and Clint, 18, of Big Spring. Bollier graduated from Junction High School.

Also fairly new to the area is John R. Crockford, Border Patrol Agent, who transferred to our area last December from Del Rio where he had been stationed since he started his career with the Border Patrol eight years ago.

Crockford and his wife, Chela, have a four and one-half year old daughter Petrina, and a one and one-half year old son Jason. Crockford is a graduate of a high school in New York City, and attended City University of New York.

James M. Hearne, Border Patrol Agent has been stationed here since 1968, 17 years ago. He has 20 years of service in the Border Patrol and has two sons who are also Border Patrol Agents. His sons are James, who is stationed in Chula Vista, California and Robert, who is stationed in Bracketville.

Roger E. Spencer has been a Border Patrol Agent in this area for the past seven years. He has 19 years with the Border Patrol.

The Border Patrol is only one phase of the United States Department of Justice, Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Local agents perform routine farm and ranch checks and are starting to work on all smuggling activities that go through this area.

Agent Bollier has extended a thank-you to all of the law enforcement agencies in Crockett, Reagan, Sterling, Irion, and Glasscock Counties including the sheriff's departments, Texas Department of Public Safety troopers, U.S. Parks and Wildlife Game Wardens, and city police departments for their cooperation with the Border Patrol in this area.

The Border Patrol is currently accepting applications for men and women who would be interested in becoming Border Patrol Agents. Applications may be picked up at the local office located at 704 Eleventh Street and will be taken until October 4 with testing to be done in November.

According to Agent Hearne, the first year of service is probationary and includes attending the Border Patrol Academy in Glyco, Georgia for four months and doing Post Academy Training. This training for six months includes on the job training and the agent on probation must pass legal and Spanish tests at the end of six and one-half months and at the end of 10½ months.

"After the year of probation, career advancement to journeyman grade usually comes in two years," Hearne concluded.

Secondary cigarette smoke increases risk of disease

Exposure to second-hand cigarette smoke adversely affects not only persons with existing heart or lung disease but also healthy people, according to an article in the journal Texas Medicine.

The spouse of a smoker and children whose parents smoke are among those at increased risk of developing various lung problems, three Houston researchers wrote.

The cover article in the May issue of the Texas Medical Association's journal is by Dr. Linda D. Taylor and Dr. S. Donald Greenberg, both pathologists with the Baylor College of Medicine, and epidemiologist Patricia A. Buffler, PhD, with the University of Texas School of Public Health.

They noted that smoke from the burning end of a cigarette contains greater concentrations of harmful nicotine and carbon monoxide than does the smoke directly inhaled by the smoker.

Two recent studies have linked lung cancer in non-smoking women to the smoking habits of their husbands, the three researchers said. One study reports that a non-smoking woman whose husband is a regular smoker has twice the risk of developing lung cancer as a non-smoking woman married to a non-smoker.

Several studies also show that infants of smoking mothers have significantly more cases of bronchitis and pneumonia in both winter and summer than infants of non-smoking mothers, the Houston researchers noted. They said children inhale more airborne pollutants than adults do because of a faster breathing rate.

The Houston doctors also said pregnant women who smoke are at greater risk for low-birth-weight infants, cesarean sections, fetal problems, miscarriages, child deformities, and "possibly children with some degree of physical and mental retardation."

Persons constantly exposed to a high concentration of second-hand cigarette smoke may be at increased risk of developing hardened arteries, they said. Finally, people with existing heart or lung diseases are at increased risk for complications if exposed to secondary cigarette smoke.

THEN: In the past, toxic chemicals such as DDT were used to destroy fleas, but fleas in many areas have become resistant, making these chemicals no longer effective. Fleas are more than just a nuisance. Their bites could turn into infected sores from a tormented pet's scratching and biting. If ingested, fleas can transmit tapeworm. When an adult female flea takes up residence on a host pet, she lays hundreds of eggs.

NOW: A new, natural insecticide is available only through veterinarians. Called Sectrol® Insecticide, this 3M product has an active ingredient that occurs naturally in plants. It is extremely low in toxicity to people and pets, yet powerful against fleas. It comes in spray or foam and is virtually odorless, non-oily, and won't stain your pet's coat or irritate the skin.

Remembering some stories heard over the years in Ozona

BY EVART WHITE

WHEN WE SNOOKERED THE SNIPER

Summertime is baseball time--anytime, anywhere.

Of course, it's fun to sit in the cool living room and watch 'America's Team' (The Atlanta Braves) and the Chicago Cubs, and occasionally the Astros, the Yankees, The San Francisco Giants, etc. play baseball.

But that's not like getting out in the sun, going to the stadium or park and watching your favorite team match it with some hated rival. Sure, you come home with a sunburn, a hoarse voice, and a never to be matched thrill if your team won. If they didn't it still was fun--and "we'll get those bums next time, watch and see."

Baseball once was BIG in Ozona; back in the thirties and later when we had a semi-pro club and matched games every weekend with similar teams both here and there in Sonora, Eldorado, San Angelo, Texon, Fort Stockton and others. The Ozona Giants, we were, and sometimes we felt just that big. We had some mighty fine ball players among our home town recruits and we added to that strength by recruiting some ex-big leaguers, class D players and amateurs that were goodies.

We had little trouble holding our own with teams from Sonora, Eldorado, San Angelo, etc. but the Texon Oilers--they were a different kind of headache. The Big Lake Oil Co., which operated the prolific Texon oil field following its Santa Rita discovery in about 1925, fielded a semi-pro baseball team to make life more bearable for the oil field workers it recruited for the rapidly expanding field.

The management was very much baseball minded and until the team attained maximum strength a prospective employee's resume had better mention a pretty fancy baseball playing ability or no job. Result was the little oil town had a baseball team that would have fared well with today's Atlanta Braves or Chicago Cubs. Managing the Texon Oilers was a wily old ex-Texas League pitcher and manager named Snipe Conley. Now Snipe was not just an ordinary small town team manager. He knew all the tricks, knew the weaknesses of all the opposition players, and if he had a weak spot in his team he quickly plugged it up.

Snipe knew his most potent opponent was the Ozona Giants and he fired his best barrel when playing us. We strengthened the team at every opportunity, hiring available semi-pro players and scratching up the money to pay them and hunting a job for them in town. But still the Texon Oilers proved our nemesis, week after week.

Then, one day, a local angel called a certain top sergeant in the military at San Antonio who had a rep as a good pitcher. We hired him for a Sunday afternoon game here against the Oilers. He was Sergeant Crostwaite, a tall, lanky long armed veteran who threw a wicked ball from way over there. That long arm seemed to sweep out from the third base line and let go a wiggly, smoking pellet that ducked and darted over the plate.

Crostwaite took the Oilers completely by surprise--their CIA was not working. Result, we clobbered 'em. We didn't have Crostwaite every week--after all, the Army had first claim--but every time he was available we threw him at the Oilers until we had them pretty well tamed.

3rd national meeting held for Hispanic pastoral ministry

Hispanic Catholic participants of all the United States were united in Washington D.C. in the Catholic University of America, from August 15th-18th to adopt a Pastoral Plan of the Hispanic Ministry.

It was estimated around 1,500 persons participated in the Tercer Encuentro Nacional Hispano de Pastoral, which 1,200 of these persons were delegates which included 60 Bishops, 3 Archbishops, 110 priests and numerous Religious Sisters. Also present were 2 Cardinals and a video tape message from His Holiness, Pope John Paul II, giving his support toward this Encuentro Nacional of Hispanics.

The opening of the Encuentro started with a procession to the national shrine of the Immaculate Conception. The shrine is the seventh largest Church in the world. It opened with the Liturgy in commemoration of the feast of Mary's glorious assumption. The welcome address was by Bishop James Malone and President of the Assembly, Archbishop Robert Sanchez. Closing remarks were made on August 18th, by Msgr. Daniel Hoye, National Conference Catholic Bishop, General Secretary.

There have been two Encuentros in Washington D.C. before; one in 1972 and the other in 1977. A Pastoral letter on Hispanic Ministry was drafted by the Bishops of the United States in 1973. It was the first official step taken towards the Encuentro process. The letter was calling to the Hispanic Presence to its challenge and commitment to a Pastoral Plan.

This year's Encuentro is the accumulation of a process that started over two years ago in May of 1983. Pastoral groups visited hispanic communities to determine their needs. In April of 1984, several Diocesan meetings took place in 8 region assemblies, as to select the themes and places of workshops. In this gathering the five themes for the Encuentro were selected. The five themes were: Youth, Evangelization, Integral Education, Social Justice and Formation of Leaders.

Parish reflection groups in the Diocesan Encuentro took part in January 1985 to April 1985. The Regional Encuentro took place on Saturday, April 28, 1985 in San Antonio. To have been able to participate as a delegate, the participant need to have participated in the reflection process of the Parishes and then selected to go the Regional Encuentro. After participating in the Regional Encuentro, the delegates were then selected to go to the National Encuentro.

Each Diocese was to have sent 7 representatives, 3 of which should have been the Bishop, the Diocesan Director and a youth. The Catholic Diocese of San Angelo sent 5 representatives. They were Deacon Manny Maldonado of San Angelo, Gilbert and Delfina Delgado of Sheffield and Nina Martinez and Margaret Porras of Ozona. A working Document for the III Encuentro Nacional Hispano de Pastoral was sent to the representatives containing the Voice of our People across the Country. The Document was divided into 3 parts: recommendations gathered from the 8 Regional Encuentros; the reality which serves as a basis for them; and the theological reflection and documentations. They were asked to study and discuss this material with each other so as to come up with the prophetic guidelines to them.

Before leaving the Encuentro, the Hispanic Pastoral Plan was presented to the Bishops. The delegates were presented with a plan of commitments and a follow up of the process so that it would not end but be carried out according to the needs of the Diocese and Parishes. The delegates committed themselves to work with the Bishop, Priests, Deacons, Religious and Pastoral agents and lay persons, to let them know the conclusion of the III Encuentro and insure their cooperation in implementing their commitments.

The representatives of Ozona stated that this event was for them a very happy loving experience which created and deepened a consciousness of the Church. It was a study and reflection upon their reality and Catholic teaching and they were very glad to have been a part of this process.

North and south pools report successful summer

Swimmers in Ozona have only a few days left to enjoy the public pools. North Pool, located across from the football field will close Monday, September 2 and South Pool will close Sunday, September 8. South Pool is located across from the Texas Department of Public Safety office on Hwy. 163.

South Pool manager, Jose Borrego, stated that this year's turnout was better than last year with an average of 50 people swimming each weekday and 75-100 each day of the weekend. He said that this included many out-of-town patrons who "just wanted to cool off for 15 or 20 minutes". Borrego who has managed the South Pool for the past 12 years also reported no accidents and that he is looking forward to next year.

Lifeguards for the South Pool were Jesse Castro and Edward Borrego.

North Pool manager, Sara Hignight, stated that the average attendance at that pool was 75-100 on weekdays and 225-250 on weekends with 10 to 20 being from surrounding towns.

She reported only two minor accidents that she was aware of and deemed the season as a great success.

Lifeguards for the North Pool included Kenneth Sessom, Marsha Cannon, Tony Tomlinson, and Peter Shacklette. Bruce Beasley manned the concession stand. He is working on certification as a lifeguard but has yet to complete it.

Mrs. Hignight said she was thankful to the Crockett County Commissioners for "seeing fit" to leave both pools in Ozona open to the public. This was her first year to manage the pool.

Swimming party to end summer days

An end of season swimming party has been planned for Saturday night from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m. at the North Pool.

Anyone 13 years of age or older is invited and admission has been set at $1 per swimsuit. The concession stand will be open and lifeguards will be on duty.

Frank Mills-- West Texas Lawman

[Ed. note: Final part of a series written by Sue Bradley Burroughs for a Texas History course at Angelo State University in 1969.]

One other event which occurred during Sheriff Mills' tenure in office was a brief indirect encounter with Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow. Although Mills missed them, their car was found in Coleman with 350 bullet holes in it. It was only because the sheriff was in court in Coleman that he missed out on the capture of the two gangsters in Sherman, Texas. The man who was responsible for their capture, Capt. Frank Hamer, called for Mills' help, but as was previously stated, the sheriff was unable to go.

With the solutions of such cases as mentioned in this paper there came a period of peace and quiet to Coleman County. In 1930 a complaint was registered with authorities which had become routine by 1937. This complaint as registered in the Commissioners' Court Minutes stated:

To Frank Mills, Sheriff of Coleman County, Texas

Whereas, the Commissioner's Court of Coleman County has made investigation and has determined that John Dillingham of Shield, Coleman, Texas, has failed to kill the prairie dogs on his lands and premises as required by law; and whereas, the laws of this State requires that the Commissioners' Court of the several counties notify the sheriffs of their county where prairie dogs are not killed, as required by law; Now therefore, you are hereby notified that said John Killingham of Shield, Coleman County, Texas has failed to kill the prairie dogs on his lands and premises as the law required.

It was because of this peace and quiet and the type of duty as described above that led Frank Mills to resign as sheriff of Coleman County and re-join the Texas Rangers.

With the following statement Mills ended an illustrious career as sheriff of Coleman County:

I am herewith tendering to you my resignation as sheriff of Coleman County, Texas, effective September 1, 1937. I have accepted a position with the State Ranger force.

As you know I have served this county as its sheriff for eight years and eight months, and I wish to assure you that I appreciate the splendid cooperation that the Commissioners' Court has given me...

Thus Sheriff Mills became Ranger Mills in which capacity he served just as faithfully and effectively.

Frank Mills was not only a fair and just sheriff, but he was very popular and well known. He won the elections of 1928, 1930, 1932, 1934, and 1936 by a total vote of 15,610 compared to his opponents' 6,016. He was able to improve the conditions under which he and his men worked. From a salary of $83.33 per month plus fees he was able to get the pay scale raised to $3,000 per year plus fees by the time he left office. He was even successful in getting the Commissioners' Court to purchase part interest in the cars he used during his tenure. His chief deputy was receiving $100 per month by the end of 1937. He was able, too, to secure a 75c food allowance per day along with a 15c lodging grant per prisoner. Added to this was an allocation of $50 per month for guard hire. Not only was Mills able to improve salaries, etc., but people gained a greater respect for the sheriff's office and law and order.

Frank Mills made a pledge to the voters in his first public statement as a candidate for sheriff. That statement read in part, "The only promise I care to make is, if elected, I will do my best to see that the law is enforced without fear or favor, and all violators are brought to justice...Indeed these promises were faithfully, kept as there were eight murders and sixteen robberies with firearms committed during his tenure. All of these were solved.

Thus, Mr. Mills gained the reputation for never having failed to get his man in a murder case or bank robbery.

To vouch for his reputation Sheriff and Police said of Mills: "He is a fearless, dignified man, claiming no personal honors...one of the outstanding law enforcement officers of Texas, a man with an enviable record and a highly esteemed officer." The periodical went on to say, "He is a real sheriff..." Indeed he was!

Even though this story dealt only with the highlights of Frank Mills' life as sheriff of Coleman County, he continued his same good work as a Texas Ranger and special investigator for many more years. He showed the same relentlessness, faithfulness and loyalty in this service as he did as sheriff. Those who are familiar with law enforcement history in Texas will long remember Frank Mills--West Texas Lawman.

Texas DPS celebrates 50th anniversary throughout state

The Texas Department of Public Safety celebrated its 50 years of service (1935-1985) to the public with activities appropriate to publicize this important event in 1985. Various activities were held throughout the state and culminated with formal anniversary activities held at the DPS headquarters facility in Austin.

The August program consisted of a historical, pictorial review of DPS operations; exhibits of past and present uniforms, equipment, and processes; recognition of significant individual and organizational achievements; and ceremonies to honor DPS officers who have given their lives in the line of duty. Numerous demonstrations and guided building tours highlighted the observance which was attended by dignitaries, officials and citizens from throughout the United States.

Among the activities conducted was a special demonstration given by the DPS Swat Team. Several types of repelling were demonstrated from the top of a building, down the sides. Also included was a repelling exercise from a hovering helicopter to the ground. Trooper Mark Sassman of Austin (formerly of Sonora Highway Patrol) is a member of the SWAT team and participated in the demonstration.

Attending the Austin celebration from this area were: Trooper Dale Burger, Vehicle Inspection Service (and family), Ozona; PCO Robbie McDaniel, Communications Service, Ozona; and Trooper John Ferguson, Highway Patrol Service, Sonora.

Department of Public Safety officers working out of the Ozona office include Highway Patrolmen Sgt. Ken Hailey, Trooper Dale Taylor, Trooper Neil Lovorn, Trooper Cliff Babbitt and Trooper Richard Barton; Drivers License, Trooper Diego Cienega; Motor Vehicle Inspection-Trooper Dale Burger; License and Weight-Trooper Royce Hightower; and Communications-Supervisor R. B. Babbitt, and Operators Bob Falkner, Paula Westmoreland, Robbie McDaniel, Randy Hall and Nancy Gillit.

Motorists asked to follow rules regarding school buses

It is nearly back-to-school time, and those big yellow school buses will be taking to the streets and highways once again.

"With the increase in the number of vehicles on our highways, it is more important than ever that motorists be alert for the return of the school buses," said Highway Department District Engineer D. R. Watson here today. "Motorists have had a summer vacation of sorts, too, and are not accustomed to seeing the school buses pulling onto the highways or stopping to let schoolchildren on and off."

State law requires drivers to stop when meeting or overtaking a school bus from either direction, on highways not separated by a median, when the school bus has stopped and is displaying a visual signal. The driver shall not proceed until the school bus resumes motion or the bus driver signals to proceed. This does not apply when the driver and the school bus are on separate roadways and where pedestrians are not permitted to cross the roadways.

There are some 32 school districts operating buses in the 17-county San Angelo district, many of which travel rural highways as well as city streets.

In an effort to increase school bus safety, the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation sponsors special schools for bus drivers and even for student riders. A typical
