Ozona's high school football season has drawn to a close and given way to basketball, but several mothers are still suffering from "football player's mother" syndrome. This is especially hard on women when their son has a losing season. Although we won twice as many games as we did last year, it had to be chalked up to a losing season. One win last season and two this season doesn't add up to victory. I suffered from this disease from the time my son was in sixth grade until he finished high school, and I know all its symptons. The symptons are always there, win or lose. But it's a lot harder during a losing streak.

The football player's mother, seeths with rage when grown men yell at her son during a game. Sometimes the usually dignified subdued mother even confronts her son's attacker with a stadium seat. There's more action in the stands than on the field quiet often.

The father takes it in stride, but the kid may be sure the game will be played over and over after the lights are out and the family is at home. they watch their kid.

If the player sustains an injury, it's quite acceptable for the father to go down on the field, but not the mother. She must sit and just hope and pray the injury is not life-threatening. Another sympton is seeing the players on the other side. They are always gigantic monsters who outweigh our Pecos, Crockett and Terrell counties team by at least a hundred pounds a was caused by a rare group of natural

Sunday morning one of the sons saw Jensen leave his stand, get in the pickup and leave the ranch for no reason. The son was some distance away, but saw the pickup turn onto the main road.

Jensen has a history of health problems and memory loss. He also suffers from diabetes. He is described as being 5' 8" tall and weighing 250 pounds. He has gray hair and was not wearing his dentures when last seen. He drove away from the ranch in a tan and bronze 1983 Chevrolet Silverado pickup with Texas tags, WX3841. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of this vehicle or seeing Jensen is asked to contact the Sheriff's Department at 392-2661, or the DPS.

Monday deputies searched the roads on the ranch and the south part of Crockett County. The Pierce ranch provided an airplane to assist in the search and still no clues were found. Relatives and friends have been contacted but as of Tuesday afternoon, Jensen was still missing. Authorities do not believe the pickup is still on the ranch property.

In another nunting related incident, Paul Freitag, deer hunter from Austin, reported the theft of a 60-quart water is from Denver City, still in jail.

Other activities the sheriff's department was involved in through Nov. 12, include eight arrests during the week.

November 4-Douglas Eugene Cobb, 23 year old, arrested for theft of service, paid fine and released Nov.5. Kenneth Owen Cobb, 19 years old, arrested on traffic warrants out of Corpus Christi, Texas, paid fines and released Nov.5.

It's over and she looks ahead to a better season next year. Unless, of course, the son is a senior, then she just breathes a sigh of relief and gets Registration for food on with her life.

Mothers actually hurt for their football player sons, and admire their courage when they have done their best and still come out on the bottom of the pile. It takes half-way through drome.

They really should have some sort of group therapy for football players' mothers. Or, at the very least give them some recognition at the annual banquet. I think a medal would be in order. After all, just think how many pimiento-cheese sandwiches and Frito pies she has made during her son's football career.

I can assure you, mothers, you will live over it and even look back and laugh. In ten or twenty years, that is.

BIG SPENDERS WANT TO AVOID PUBLIC SCRUTINY By Edwin Feulner

President Reagan is taking all sorts of heat these days, some justified and some unjustified, for his supposed intractability on the budget. He refuses to go along with any tax increase, just as he promised during the campaign. And now he says he's keeping a veto pen in his pocket, which the Washington establishment reads as a threat to shut down the government if necessary - which would definitely put the kabosh on a lot of cocktail and caviar plans.

With this in mind, one can only wonder why Senate Democrats orchestrated a filibuster just before Congress left for the summer, that killed legislation that could have enabled the president to make a dent in the deficit without having to veto an entire appropriation. The proposal would have given the president what is called line-item authority.

The way things work in Washington, when Congress puts together a spending bill, it routinely tacks on a variety of special-interest appropriations and pork-barrel projects. When the bill reaches the president, his only options are to sign it into law, pork and fat intact, or veto the entire bill, cutting off the funds for the normal operations of government.

This "take-it or leave-it" choice faced President Reagan last Oc

Another state senator calls it "pork barrel heaven for the water hustlers."

Under its two parts, the State will sell $980 million in bonds to raise money for reservoirs, treatment plants and flood control projects and $250 million to back water bonds sold by local governments.

Lubbock state Sen. John Montford, one of the bill's authors, said several projects now on the drawing boards will qualify for funding and that local governments in need of a water project should get in line as early as possible.

He was rebutted by Corpus Christi state Sen. Carlos Truan, who opposed the plan for its standpoint on protection of bays and estuaries, warned it could lead to open season for developers who make money by pushing major water projects.

A runoff election is scheduled for next month in the District 4 Texas House seat vacat-ed by Doc Arnold.

Democrat Keith Oakley of Terrell led a field of six candi-dates with 2,363 votes, narrowly trailed by Republican Don Washburn of Ennis with 2,351 votes

Oakley is top aide to state Sen. Ted Lyon and Washburn runs a catering business and owns several convenience stores.

Short Takes

· Comptroller Bob Bullock told the Committee on Higher Education that lawmakers probably won't have any surplus funds when the Legislature convenes in 1987, and will likely have to raise $2-3 billion. "The plain fact is that either revenues must be increased or expenditures reduced.' Responding to criticism from Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, the Public Utility Commission announced new travel policies calling for employees to stay at cheaper hotels, document expenses better and limit attendance at seminars. · Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, says he is drafting legislation to ban "under the table" recruiting inducements to college athletes.

for example, when Congress handed him a mammoth $458 billion appropriations bill. The bill included funds for hundreds of federal programs defense, health and welfare, and so forth. But it also included billions of dollars in waste and pork. Because the president couldn't "line-out" individual spending items he was forced to kill the whole package or sign it, approving such things as $400,000 to study the 1932-33 famine in the Ukraine and $2 million to "reconstruct in its original form" a lighthouse in Nantucket, Mass.

Opponents of the line-item veto say it would give the president unprecedented, arbitrary authority on budget matters, upsetting the delicate system of checks-and-balances between the legislative and executive branches of government. What these people need is a lesson in basic civics.

Forty-three of our nation's fifty governors have the authority to strike individual items from state appropriations - and none of these states are embroiled in a constitutional crisis as a result.

Moreover, a line-item veto would do little to lessen the power of Congress, or upset the system of checks-and-balances. The bill under consideration in the Senate would only have applied to appropriations bills and was only to have remained in effect for an experimental two-year period. Also, Congress still would have had the power to override a presidential veto. What Congress can giveth, the president can taketh away, and Congress can puteth back.

The recent Senate slaying, via the filibuster, of the line-item veto reflects an unwillingness in Congress to give up anything to the president, even if it means continued fiscal paralysis.

I'd rather see a year-long battle royal between the president and Congress over individual budget items --- which would certainly focus intense public attention on the expenditures in question — than the mess we have now

Then again, public attention on the way Congress throws our money around is probably just what the Senate minority wanted to avoid.

Anti-Crime Issues

Two anti-crime amendments also passed and two officials who will meet each other on the campaign trail next year agreed one is a positive step to end prison violence.

Now Texas will be able to transfer troublesome inmates to prisons in other states and break up the prison gangs which contribute to inmate violence. Both Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox and his announced opponent, state Sen. Buster Brown, nod their heads on that one.

Brown also sponsored the second proposition which he says will prevent appeals courts from overturning convictions because of minor flaws and typographical errors in indictments.

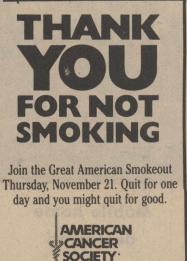

Also last week, Mattox targeted dishonest solar energy device salesmen and issued guidelines for local governments giving rebates to customers who buy such equipment.

Bankruptcy Averted

The state's unemployment trust fund narrowly avoided bankruptcy last week by a small balance, but officials warn the fund may nudge even closer to insolvency by January

They also predict deficits will be incurred the first four months of 1986, which, if not made up by November, will create a need for more than $560 million in employer taxes.

One or two major layoffs could affect the trust fund severely, according to one official.

For the first layer, add remains of annuals, fruit rinds, vegetables, egg shells, leaves and grass clippings. Then a layer of soil to cover above contents and add a light cover of barnyard manure or commercial fertilizer. Press down and water. Repeat layers until container is full. Piles should be turned and mixed well to hasten decomposition. Keep moist if no rain.

If you are expecting holiday blooms on your Christmas cactus and poinsettia plants, special treatment now is essential. Both plants require at least 12 hours of continuous darkness each night for 4 to 6 weeks to initiate the flowering process. During the 12 hours, plants must not be exposed to any artificial lighting, otherwise, it will upset the delicate flowering control mechanism. Cool temperatures (55 degrees to 60) at night are needed for best results. During the day, plants should get as much sunlight as possible. Keep plants away from drafty areas, as sudden excessive changes in the temperature can cause the leaves to drop. Supply sufficient water to keep the soil moist. Regular applications of soluble fertilizer during active growth will be helpful.

Remember all evergreen shrubs entering winter with insufficient moisture are more susceptible to damage from low temperatures and drying winds. Check those that need water if located where they didn't receive rain.

Great American Smokeout

takes aim at women

The Great American Smokeout is aimed at all smokers, but this year, because of a grim "first" expected to occur in 1985, women are a special focus of the event. According to the latest annual estimates announced by the American Cancer Society, lung cancer is expected to overtake breast cancer as the leading cancer killer of women for the first time in U.S. history

The Smokeout is Thursday, November 21, the ninth year as a national event. National Smokeout Chairman Larry Hagman, who is serving his fifth consecutive term as the events leader, urges everyone to make particular effort this year to reach women who smoke--from the very young to the very old. "We've got to put a stop to this unnecessary waste of lives," says Hagman.

People who participate in this year's Great American Smokeout can get help from the American Cancer Society if they really want to quit.

To find out more about the ninth annual Great American Smokeout and its quit smoking programs, contact the Crockett County Unit of the American Cancer Society at 392-2179.

It's November. And in many a local church it's time to think about the budget for another year.

This is cause for being thankful. Really it is!

For aren't there many places in this world where men haven't any opportunity to support their church... or any church to support if they had opportunity?

And aren't there many places where men are compelled to work for causes they do not believe in. . . instead of free to work for a Cause in which they do believe?

Frankly, much of the responsibility for keeping our land and our people what we want them to be rests with our churches.

So let's rejoice in that happy American tradition - the church budget.

And, in keeping with another fine tradition of our people, let's roll up our sleeves and help!

If all of November proves to be as busy as this first week was, we may already be in the busy holidays season and just not know it.

Monday morning Pauline Clinton, Hilda Dysart, Ola Mills, Moriama Perez, Bertha Miller and her sitter Elodia Zapata all met in the Day Room for reading. From the "Good Housekeeping" magazine donated by Ann Mayo we read and discussed "The Reagan's Untold Love Story."

Monday afternoon yours truly had her first chance to drive the van on a field trip to Clayton's Drug Store. Residents Tomasa Ramoz, Pauline Clinton, Jean Beardmore, Edna Wallace, Hilda Dysart, Alice Ross, Inez Biggs, and Doris Robnett all went out on this treat. Volunteers included Marie Pierson and Glenda Henderson.

Tuesday afternoon Janet Wilson came and directed dominoes. Hilda Dysart, Ola Mills, and Pauline Clinton were all present to try their hand at winning. Janet played the piano for the enjoyment of all residents after their game.

And, speaking of winning, Maggie Crawford was our big winner at bingo this week. She won a certificate from Westerman Drug. Moriama Perez was second place winner and Edna Wallace won the El Chato's dinner for two certificate. Volunteers included Bonnie Warth, Mattie Cooper, Dorothy Doll, Elodia Zapata, Lelia Tambunga, Anna Bell Patrick, Gwen Nelson, Elvira Martinez, and Sophia Tijerina.

As promised last week, here are the names of all those nice students who visited on Halloween, brought a program, and Halloween decoration favors. The students included: Shellia Berry, Andy Borrego, Julie Childress, Leigh Ann Coates, Michelle Gonzales, Juanita Guerra, Yvonne Harrison, Jennifer Jones, Connie King, Jacob Lara, Matthew Marshall, Jose Mendoza, Jim Bob Moran, Tony Moreno Connie Perez, Christy Porras, Emily Ramirez, Jesus Ramos, Robbie Rodriquez, Keith Sessom, Tim Wheeler, and Karmen White. now complete for the home town Ozona Lions who finished 2-8 overall and 1-4 in district play. The season came to a close in a disappointing loss to the rival Sonora Broncos last Friday night by the score of 6-34 in Bronco Stadium. Ozona finished fifth in the district race behind Ballinger, Crane, Colorado City and Sonora and finished ahead of Coahoma. Ballinger and Crane will be the two teams representing district seven in the Class AAA playoffs.

It seems like yesterday that the Lions were beginning their two a day workouts with anticipations of a winning season. Reflecting back on the Lions 2-8 record one might find it difficult to find much success, but if one is willing to look beyond the figures and look at the group of young men that made up the team, they see winners of a different sort, and more realistically true winners. These young men refused to give up on themselves although many others did and many others would not have blamed them. These young men approached each game with the intentions of winning, but when faced with defeat and adversity maintained attitudes that were truely those of a winner. Although they were outplayed on several occasions it can never be said they were outclassed. Good sportsmanship, respect, dedication, determination, and teamwork were words that described this '85 football team. There were no stars, no powerhouses, no spotlights either. There was simply a commitment that what must be done could not be done alone, but could only be done together.

This group was led by an exceptional group of young men who led not only on the field but also off the field. Seniors Steve Sanchez, Andy Dews, Abel Lara, Art Gonzales, Marty Moran, Brian Morrow, Brock Jones, Bret Thompson, Brad Thompson, John Tom Stokes and Captains Harvey Fierro, Blas Vargas, David Adams, and Chuy Hernandez set high standards for this team and for the teams that will follow, to live up to. Although these young men's careers seldom rewarded them with the sweet taste of victory they proved that true winners never quit. Looking into their teary eyes last Friday night one saw hurt and pain but looking beyond that one could see young men who had more Ozona's rushing game was held to fifty-five yards led by Harvey Fierro who had sixteen carries for seventyfour yards, but losses and sacks subtracted from the total. The shotgun proved to be successful again as the Lions had ten receptions for 138 yards. Sonora on the other hand did well on the ground picking up 207 yards and caught four passes for sixty-five yards. Turnovers proved to be the difference as Ozona threw four interceptions, two of which were returned for touchdowns. Harvey Fierro picked off a Bronco pass for their only interception of the night. Sonora also lost two fumbles while Ozona had none. It was a relatively penalty free game as both teams were only penalized five times total. Ozona 3-30 and Sonora 2-10.

It was very good to see a good sized crowd representing Ozona in the stands. The support that has been shown by the community throughout the season has been appreciated by the Lions football team. Fans play an important role in any sports program and the Lion fans truly deserve recognition for their efforts.

Attention is now turning towards basketball season for both the boys and giris. A good season is expected for both and play will begin very soon.

Texas Agricultural Extension Serv. to reduce statewide staff

Texas Agricultural Extension Service continuing to pursue top quality programming.

The shortfall resulted from a $3.2 million reduction in general revenue appropriations coupled with unfunded salary increases and estimated increases in such operating expenses as utilities and postage.

"With a budget shortfall of this magnitude, we basically had two choices," said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the state educational agency that is responsible for agriculture, home economics, community development and 4-H programs.

"We could maintain our present level of staffing and drastically reduce programming, or we could reduce our staff and direct funds from these positions into high quality educational rograms for clientele. "We chose the latter because we

To continue top quality programs within the constraints of a drasti- ter pointed out that a number of cally reduced budget, the Extension Service initiated a Reduction in Force effort on Sept. 1.

"A substantial number of specialist and county agent positions will be eliminated in the near term, with some additional positions to be elimina-ted by Sept. 1, 1986," Carpenter said. 'Additionally, a number of administrative and support positions have been eliminated and others are targeted. In total, more than 100 positions will be eliminated over the next two to provide high quality educational years from our staff, about a 10 percent reduction.

'To accomplish this obviously painful task of staff reduction, we began with a careful study of state, region-

Regarding clientele needs, Carpenregional conferences had been completed that involved some 250 key leaders over the state. These conferences were aimed at identifying critical issues facing Texans--issues which are within the scope of the Extension Service's mission.

Based on findings from these conferences and the detailed studies noted above, a statewide staffing plan was developed, Carpenter said.

"Be assured that it is the goal of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service programs to address the needs of the state's citizens," Carpenter said. 'Furthermore, it is our intent to meet this goal within the framework of prudent and wise management of resources made available by federal, state and local governments."

Movie Review

By James Pagan

Jessica Lange as Patsy Cline, Ed and Ann Wedgworth as Hilda Hen- community. sley, Patsy's mother.

is singing in dance halls in and around then presented a beautiful green and her home town of Winchester, Virginia. The story continues with Patsy's gradual rise to stardom in Nashville, and of course, ends with her tragic death in an airplane crash, March 5, 1963.

Everyone, including myself, knows what a beautiful voice Patsy had. Jessica Lange does a magnificent job of re-creating the character behind that voice.

The main part of the movie is built around the stormy marriage of Patsy Cline and Charlie Dick. Ed Harris, as Patsy's husband is a man who is overwhelmed with Patsy's success, and doesn't seem to be able to adjust to it. The scenes between Patsy and her mother are very well done, and it is almost as if you were in the same room with them.

The soundtrack of "Sweet Dreams" features the real voice of Patsy Cline. Jessica Lange lip-syncs all of the songs, but she does it so well, that only a true Patsy Cline fan would. notice. Patsy Cline had a voice that was made to sing love songs. When she sang she reached out and grabbed you right by the heart.

Jessica Lange proved to me that she is one of the best in the business, with her portrayal of Patsy Cline. Patsy loved being a singer. She was fun loving, generous, she cursed too much, she smoked too much, but she was and still is one of the best voices in country music business. Jessica Lange plays Patsy Cline to perfection and for approximately two hours, the incomparable Patsy Cline lives again. I think Patsy would love it.
