Kitty's Korner

By Kitty Montgomery

We welcome letters for our Letters to the Editor column, but we don't print unsigned letters or letters signed with fictitious names. We do, however, print letters with the name withheld upon request. We are very careful to know the identity of the writer of each letter we do print.

We have a whole pile of letters which are unsigned, or signed with fictitious names. Sometimes we get a laugh out of these letters, sometimes they are so good we are tempted to run them unsigned, often to print them would constitute libel on the part of this newspaper and quite often they are just an unfair attack on the newspaper. We thought you might be interested in the context of some of them.

One, obviously signed with a fictitious name, was an attack on the editor. It said in effect "Mrs. Montgomery, you have no right to express your opinion in Kitty's Korner. You need to stick to the job of telling the people what news they should hear. If you have an opinion, you should put it in the letters to the editor column."

The letter was signed, but when we tried to verify the name at the post office, the water district office and other public offices, we were unable to come up with even the last name of the writer. Too bad, it was a doozy. Most every newspaper reader knows the only way an editor has to express an opinion is in his or her own column.

Back in the fall of last year when we were running our "Shop Ozona" series, we received a letter to this effect, "Where do you get off making people feel guilty when they shop out-of-town where they can save money? Don't you know that money is hard to come by these days? If the local merchants would be fair in their prices it would still be hard to shop at home. Most working people only have the weekend to shop and nearly all these people close at noon on Saturday. You are very wrong when you say you don't save money shopping out of town. I work and so does my family and we can't afford to shop where the best prices are at. You may be able to afford to shop Ozona, but a lot of us are not."

One of the funniest began like this "Your paper last week was just a big Lion's Roar. Have you ever stopped to think there are a lot of us who have no interest in high school sports? We need to know the important things that are going on in town." This one struck us funny because just the week before we left an athlete's name out of a roster and were roundly chewed out by his mother.

And last week came this one: "If you drive a car and have a kid who spends ten hours a week driving up and down, you might be interested to know that gasoline prices are 15 to 20 cents a gallon less everywhere but Ozona. Why? Don't you think you need to look into this?" We did a survey on gasoline prices and found the letter writer was essentially correct. Our face is red, but we have no control over gas prices in Ozona, or any other prices for that matter.

Anyway, maybe the foregoing will give you an idea of what happens almost weekly at your newspaper office. We intend to continue to take stands on issues of interest to the general public. We will continue to report on what your public officials are doing, where your tax monies are going and other matters of public trust. We don't want anyone to feel guilty about where they shop. We intend to publish the news as we get it, hopefully without bias. In other words, we are going to keep on doing what we have been doing for the past 70-odd years.

I thought when Melvin Belli took his yacht down to San Diego last year and sued the tobacco company on behalf of a widow of a man who had smoked 30 years and died of cancer, the height of stupidity. However, when watching

Absentee voting to begin for May 3, Democratic primary

Absentee voting in the May 3 Democratic Primary begins in the county clerk's office April 14. There will be no Republican Primary in Crockett County, due to inability to secure a Republican County Chairman.

Names will appear on the ballot as follows. The first race will be that of U.S. Representative, 21st District, the seat presently held by Tom Loeffler, Republican. Vying for the Democratic nomination will be David Hunsicker, Pete Snelson, Terry M. Lowry and Joe Sullivan. The winner of this primary will face the winner of the Republican Primary in the general election in November. Unofficially there are six Republicans running for their party's nomination.

Hunsicker is a San Antonio businessman. Snelson served this district in the state senate for several terms. He is from Midland where he is involved in several business ventures including a travel agency. Terry M. Lowry is an unknown. Joe Sullivan has run for the position every time it has come up for many years. Sullivan teaches at a San Antonio college and operates some kind of marriage counseling service. He has won the Democratic nomination at least one time, but failed to overcome his Republican counterpart in the general election.

Incumbent governor Mark White has drawn five opponents in his own party and at least three Republicans are vying for the nomination. Names will appear on the ballot as follows: Don Crowder, Andrew C. Briscoe III, Sheila Bilyeu, Ron Slover, White and Bobby Locke. Space does not permit a rundown on each candidate. The winner of the primary will face the winner of the Republican primary in November. Vying for the Republican nomination are former governor Bill Clements, Tom Loeffler and Kent Hance. Polls show Clements far ahead of his two opponents at this time.

If Clements does go on to win the nomination and White is victorious, voters will see a rerun of the last election when White squeaked by incumbent Clements by a narrow margin. Credit was given to the state's teachers for the White victory and to those who expected White to make good on lower utility bills. Currently, none of the teacher's organizations have endorsed White and utility bills have risen during his tenure in office.

For Lieutenant Governor, David Young will face incumbent Bill Hobby, and they will be listed in that order on the ballot.

Drawing no opposition in their own primary are Attorney General Jim Mattox, Comptroller of Public Accounts Bob Bullock, State Treasurer Ann W. Richards and Commissioner of General Land Office Garry Mauro.

Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Hightower drew the top spot on the ballot. He will be opposed for the nomination by Noel S. Cowling.

Several aspirants filed for Railroad Commissioner. Their names will appear on the ballot as follows: John Sharp, W. A. MacNaughton, John S. Poulard, P. S. Sam Ervin.

For Justice, Supreme Court, Place 1, Oscar H. Mauzy and Shirley Butts face off against incumbent Sears McGee and in that order. In the other race for Place 1, Hugo Touchy is unopposed.

Place 2, has four contenders, Robert M. Campbell, Colin Kelly Kaufman, Jim Brady and Ted Akin. Jim Wallace is unopposed for Place 3.

The three Justice posts for place four have four candidates, Jay Gibson, Raul A. Gonzalez, John E. Humphreys and David M. Ivy.

For Judge, court of criminal appeals, place 1, the candidates are Rusty Duncan, Preston Dial, George "Jorge" Martinez, and Paul R. Reagan. Place 2 and place 3 have Mike McCormick and Marvin O. Teague respectively, unopposed.

State Senator, District 25, Bill Sims is running unopposed for the Democratic nomination. Running for state representative, District 67, is Lester Dahlberg of Eldorado. Dahlberg is running unopposed and will face Republican incumbent Gerald Giesweil in the general election.

District Judge, 112th Judicial District, Brock Jones will be on the ticket without opposition. So far there is no Republican opposition.

Locally County Judge A. O. Fields is running without opposition in the primary or general election, as are County-District Clerk Debbi Puckett and County Treasurer Jim Dudley.

Incumbents in the two commissioners' races and Justice of the Peace have drawn opposition. In precinct 2,

Halley's comet visible in Ozona

Observing Halley's comet has been difficult if not impossible in Ozona the past week when the comet was supposed to be most visible. A thin cloud cover which persisted until after sunrise obscured the comet and even some of the brightest stars.

Bright moonlight last week put a damper on comet viewing, but it was visible with strong binoculars. Most comet sightings here, were reported the latter part of mid-March, when it was visible with the naked eye and very detailed with binoculars. The comet was visible in the southeast and appeared as a fuzzy round ball with a filmy tail about eight times the size of the nucleus. Several groups left the city limits to view the comet, but it was clearly visible atop the hills surrounding Ozona between the hours of 3 and 5 a.m.

Although several reports of the comet sighting came in early March, this writer's first view of the comet was March 19, at 4:30 a.m., under a dark sky with very bright stars. Sweeping the horizon with the binoculars, there was nothing but disappointment. However, while scanning the overhead universe, the comet was discovered directly southeast and considerably above the horizon. Without bright moonlight, the comet was visible with the naked eye. Binoculars brought out good detail.

Halley's first close approach to earth this viewing was Nov. 27, 1985, when it was about 58 million miles away. A few reported seeing it in the southwest at that time, and several made trips to the McDonald Observatory in Fort Davis for a close-up view. According to experts, the comet reached perihelion on Feb. 9. It's second close approach to earth is calculated for April 11, 60 days after perihelion, when the comet will be only 39 million miles distant.

After April, the comet will become dimmer as it gets further from the earth and will fade from sight. It will not make its appearance again for 76 years.

At least three Ozonans viewed the comet when it appeared seventy-six years ago and was much more spectacular. These include Lucille Littleton, Evert White and Ted White. There are others, of course, but these are the three we have discussed the comet with.

According to University of Texas astronomers at McDonald Observatory, the comet is racing toward the Earth at a speed of 19 miles per second. By June 1, Halley will no longer be visible to the naked eye. According to these same astronomers, the comet will soon be visible shortly after midnight in the south. This will occur around April 17, and make viewing more convenient. For the best viewing, it is recommended binoculars be used, a dark night is best with no cloud cover. It is also recommended a trip away from city lights on a dark hill in the countryside for the best view.

Funeral services Monday for Mr. Allie Scott Lock

Funeral services for Allie Scott Lock, 74, were held Monday at 9:30 a.m. in Ozona United Methodist Church with Rev. Ken Harrison officiating. Graveside services were held at 4 p.m. Monday at Post Oak Cemetery in Coryell County. Mr. Lock died Saturday at 10:45 a.m. in Crockett County Hospital.

Mr. Lock was born Feb. 11, 1912, in Hays County. He married Lois Draper May 3, 1930, in San Marcos. They moved to Ozona in 1951, from San Antonio. He was a member of Ozona United Methodist Church. He was self-employed for years before his retirement; in the liquor business in Sutton County and in the sales of golf carts here in Ozona.

Survivors include his wife, Lois, of Ozona; one son, Jack A. Lock of San Antonio; a half-sister, Mrs. Leona Senter of El Paso; two half-brothers, N. S. Ward of Mountain Home, and John S. Ward of Sonora; three grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

ENTERED IN THE FASHION PARADE sponsored by the high school Cosmetology Department will be Landon Duncan and Varonica Navarrette. The show will be held April 10, and anyone wishing to enter may contact Mrs. Sims, head of the cosmetology department.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

BUDGET BOOK BURNING

By Edwin Feulner

With Congress now sweating out the arduous task of meeting the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit targets, the "Washington Monument Ploy" (WMP) is making its annual appearance. WMP is shorthand for a tired old budgeting argument that goes something like this: if spending is cut for, say, the U.S. Park Service, then the Washington Monument will have to be closed to visitors to save money.

This year's run of WMP (pronounced wimp) has a slightly new twist. Several weeks ago, Daniel Boorstin, the Librarian of Congress and an eminent U.S. scholar, trooped across the street from the Library building to the Capitol to sound an alarm against cutting the Library's budget. Proposed cuts would, he said in his testimony, require a reduction of more than $600,000 in book purchases and about the same kind of cut in book preservation work. Then he added a kicker, just to make sure everyone got his point — he announced a reduction in Library reading room hours, saying that he would no longer be able to keep the Library open late at night and on weekends. The Library, under the Boorstin WMP plan, now closes at 5:30 (except on Wednesday) and Sunday hours have been eliminated.

This was bound to raise howls of protest on and off Capitol Hill, since many Washingtonians use the library as part of their work in the public policy process.

"The greatest of republics has been served by the greatest of the world's libraries," Boorstin said. "But this will not continue to be possible unless the Congress takes measures to repair the damage to be done by the vast and unprecedented cuts in the library's budget."

According to Boorstin, cutting the budget is another example of Washington's misplaced priorities. "Historians will not fail to note that the people who could spend $300 billion on their defense would not spend $18 million on their knowledge," he said, "and could not even keep their libraries open in the evening."

"They will recall the last epoch of the Roman Empire when Romans were so fearful of the barbarians that they imitated the barbarians. These are not the priorities of civilization and freedom."

Boorstin is trying to WMP his way through Gramm-Rudman like every other special-interest pleader — instead of seriously examining the Library of Congress budget and coming up with the necessary savings.

As anybody who has ever managed any business or program knows, one can always find a way to trim 5 percent from the budget without having to resort to extreme measures. But that's not the way of U.S. budget politics.

The political Left has now seized upon the unfortunate circumstances of the Library to get a little free television coverage, staging demonstrations at which such catchy slogans as "Books, not bombs!" are chanted. This, of course, is not the choice the President and Congress made — budgeting, especially at the federal level, is not a binary proposition, there are many priorities to weigh.

All of which leads to a final point. Boorstin may lack the fortitude to make tough budget choices, but he has dramatized the great defect in the much-touted Gramm-Rudman-Hollings budget law, which is that in the absence of political resolve, the budget axe will fall automatically.

The Library of Congress case shows exactly what is wrong with the federal budget process. Nobody wants to make tough choices. Everybody thinks their work is special. We have whining, and pleading, and demonstrations — and budgetary gridlock results.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas' top officials disagreed last week on how to spend a desparately needed $415 million windfall, providing a rare glimpse into the differences of their economic philosophies.

The money is due to arrive here on April 15, the state's share of oil and gas revenues from the long-disputed offshore leases on the Outer Continental Shelf.

How to spend it is a question that has brought four different answers from top state officials.

Gov. Mark White wants to put it in a trust fund dedicated to research and development for education.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby would deposit it in the state general revenue fund and let the Legislature use it to ease the $1.3 billion deficit and build the 1988-89 budget.

House Speaker Gib Lewis proposes a permanent fund for commercial research and development to diversify the state's economy.

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro says state law directs most of the money into the Permanent School Fund, where it can only be invested to benefit local school districts.

Comptroller Bob Bullock, who can put the money in state accounts no matter the wishes of other state officials, says he agrees with Mauro and "the school kids."

AG's Opinion Sought

A few months ago, Bullock asked Attorney General Jim Mattox for a legal opinion on where to legally deposit the money. But last week he surprised everyone by withdrawing the request after listening to Mauro's explanation.

"Garry made a convincing argument to us. It's clearcut that it belongs to the schoolchildren. Me and the schoolkids are going to stand firm," Bullock said.

Mattox wasn't out of the action for long. Speaker Lewis quickly renewed the request for a legal opinion.

Law, Not Politics

Hobby and Lewis are basing their points of view supported by a memorandum by the Texas Legislative Council, the legal arm of the Legislature.

That memo argues that since the state had no valid claim to the OCS oil, the money was not dedicated to any particular fund and should go into general revenue.

But Mauro says the oil was drained from offshore land once claimed by Texas for the Permanent School Fund. That claim meant dedication of revenue to the fund for all time.

Mauro believes in his position strong enough to go to the courthouse and defend it, if necessary.

"I consider this a legal, not a political, issue," Mauro said.

Republican Hopefuls

In the governor's race, two polls showed former Gov. Bill Clements leading his two GOP opponents for that party's nomination.

The Associated Republicans of Texas poll had Clements leading 48 percent, Congressman Tom Loeffler with 31 percent and party-switcher Kent Hance with 21 percent.

A Houston Chronicle-KTRK-TV poll resulted in the same order, with Clements leading 53 percent to Loeffler's 19 percent and Hance's 16 percent. The poll predicted little cross-over voting.

Democrats Closing

Several private polls are floating rumors around Democratic circles, but they're still awaiting the publication of an objective poll.

White was slated to attend a governor's meeting in Panhandle on the oil patch price crunch.

His primary challenger, A. Don Crowder, moved to establish momentum by releasing the names of 31 teachers, coaches, and educators representing local professional groups statewide.

Crowder, in a surprising coup, was endorsed by former State Rep. Dan Kubiak, now a political consultant, who will coordinate some 60 East Texas counties for Crowder.

Special Session?

Texas House Republicans, all 51 of them, banded together last week to pressure Gov. White to call a special session this summer to cut the state budget and vowed they will recognize "no sacred cows" in wielding the knife.

White said there was no need yet for a special session and Hobby accused the Republicans of playing partisan politics with the state's budget problems. Lewis also opposed a special session at this time.

CONSUMER ALERT-Homesewer's should always read the labels on fabric marking pens. Most fabric pen marks are removable by applying a damp cloth to the marked area. However, it is always best to test the markers on a scrap piece of fabric. Some red dyed fabrics permanently absorb fabric markings. Ironing or machine laundering may also permanently set fabric marks.
 It doesn't matter whether you're buying a new dress, an upholstered sofa, some linens or material to sew at home-the quality of the fabric will determine the quality of the finished product.
 To be sure you get the best quality for your money, read the product labels for fiber content and care instructions. Then do these simple tests on the fabric to determine its quality.
 To test for wrinkle resistance, crush the fabric in your hand for several seconds. Release it and look for wrinkles.

 Colorfastness can be tested by wrapping a small square of white fabric over the end of a pencil eraser and then rubbing it on the fabric in question. Then check to see if any color has rubbed off on the white fabric.
 Check on stretch recovery by measuring a small section of fabric. Stretch it firmly and release. Then remeasure the section and compare it to the original dimensions.
 Look at both sides of the fabric for an even distribution of color. Check the side seams for color differences.
 Also look for fabric flaws. Open up the garment or fabric and hold it to the light so you can see any imperfections.
 To determine if fabric crispness is due to sizing, rub the fabric together briskly. Look for flaking which indicates the presence of sizing. Once the sizing has washed out, the fabric may be more limp or have less shape than needed to look good.
 "Pilling" is the formation of balls of fiber on the surface of a fabric. Rub fabric against itself or rub lightly with a nail file or emery board, then look for breakage or rough surfaces.
 Check to see whether designs are woven into the fabric or simply printed on the face side where they may wear off with repeated launderings or use.
 Insert your thumbs into the fabric and apply pressure in opposite directions. Look at how closely yarns are woven or knitted together. The number of threads per inch can indicate the strength of the fabric.
 After testing the fabric, ask yourself if it's suitable for the intended use. Combine your information about fabric quality with other product information such as care instructions and price to get the best buy for your money.

MR. AND MRS. BEN INGHAM

Althizer - Ingham wedding vows said in Del Rio rites

Sherry Lee Althizer of Del Rio and Ben Baxter Ingham, IV of Sonora, exchanged wedding vows Saturday, March 29th, at 2:00 P.M. in the Whitehead Memorial Museum Chapel in Del Rio. The Honorable Judge Neville G. Smart, Jr., uncle of the groom, officiated.
 The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bob Althizer and granddaughter of Mrs. Hazel Whitehead Coe and the late Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Althizer.
 The groom is the son of Mrs. Gerry Ingham and the late Mr. B. B. Ingham, III. He is the grandson of Mrs. Elizabeth Mayfield and Mr. Stanley B. Mayfield of Sonora, and Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Ingham, Jr., of Ozona.
 The maid of honor was Miss Johni Jack Robbins of El Paso. Mr. Olin Smith of Del Rio was the best man. Both are cousins of the bride.
 Sherry graduated from Del Rio High School, attended Howard County Junior College in Big Spring, and graduated from Sul Ross State University in Alpine with a Bachelor of Science degree in Range Animal Science.
 Ben is a graduate of Sonora High School, and attended Sul Ross State University.

 The bride wore a waltz length gown fashioned of embroidered white Sata Peau. A puffed sleeve, bolero-styled jacket topped the basque bodice and flared skirt. Butterfly embroidery enhanced the sleeves, neckline and hemline. Enhancing the gown was a picture hat caught fashionably at the side with a bouquet of white silk roses, pearls, and a fresh red rose. A puffed fingertip silk illusion veil completed the look. She carried a bouquet of red roses. The maid of honor wore a waltz length dress of ice blue lace with a handkerchief hem accented with pink roses in her hair, and carried a pink rose bouquet.
 The reception, held in the San Felipe Country Club was hosted by the parents of the bride. The Club was decorated with red roses and the antique silver owned by the late Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Whitehead.
 Following a honeymoon in the Poconos Mountains in Pennsylvania, the couple will be at home on the bridegroom's family ranch south of Sonora off Highway 55.

Extension service calls meet

Crockett County leaders, as well as others throughout Texas, are concerned about rapid changes occurring in the state economy and population-changes that are placing challenging demands on resources of all state residents and their communities.
 "These changes point to the need for identifying the most critical issues facing Texans today, and determining new directions the Texas Agricultural Extension Service should take as the state moves toward the 1990's," explains Billy Reagor and Rachel Hall, county Extension agents.
 This spring, a process for mapping a new plan of action for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be launched. Several Crockett County leaders will be among more than 10,000 Texans, representing all 254 counties, who will conduct an Extension-sponsored study to identify key local issues, the agents say.
 "Local citizen input is crucial if Extension is to fully address educational needs that reflect the major concerns of all Texans."

 The kickoff meeting for the Crockett County study group has been planned for April 10, 1986, 7:00, at the High School Library by the Central Planning Committee.
 At the local meeting, leaders will form four task forces for identifying the most critical issues in the broad fields of agriculture and natural resources, home economics, youth and community development, the county agents say.
 A second meeting is planned for May 20, when the county study group will present its findings and finalize priority concerns.
 As county groups complete their studies, issues identified across the state will form the foundation for a major new statewide Extension educational planning effort for the remainder of the decade.
 "Task force members are serving a vital role in assisting with planning future educational programs in the county," the agents said.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club
by Mrs. Bailey Post

You will know that April is one of the busiest gardening months of the year. It's time to sow grass seeds, or shape up the established lawn; select and plant annuals and perennial flowers for summer color; plant container grown ornamental shrubs and trees; divide and replant bulbs as foliage matures; tend roses and the vegetable garden; feed nearly all plants, and counter-attack harmful insects and diseases.

If you are impatient for color, purchase seedlings already in flower. Most nurseries and garden supply shops have petunias, marigolds, ageratum, alyssum and many others for sale in bloom. They can be planted directly into beds for distant viewing, or they may be grouped in containers for cheerful close-up color.

This month is a good time to set out geranium plants. Massed in the flower bed or border, they have a colorful impact. They are easily grown and will tolerate a wide range of conditions. Any good, well-drained soil with several inches of compost or peat moss spaded into the top 6 inches will produce good plants. A half cup of 8-8-8 fertilizer for 50 square feet should also be added to the soil. Allow ample space--15 inches for the plants to grow and develop. Water and fertilize the plants regularly, and they will provide a solid blanket of green foliage topped with attractive flowers.

If you have limited space, you have an opportunity to grow succulents outdoors in plastic or clay pots or half-pots that will fit on patio walls. A wide variety of succulents can be planted in coarse sandy soil which allows good drainage. Hang them where there is plenty of sunlight. Succulents have the capacity to hold large amounts of water within their leaves or modified stems. Since little watering is required, they make an easy to maintain wall garden.

Get a head start at the library during national library week

Chrysler chairman Lee Iacocca is driving home a new message. Star quarterback Dan Marino of the Miami Dolphins is calling a new play. World-class boxer Sugar Ray Leonard and his sons are championing a new cause.

An awesome team is spreading the word: Get a Head Start at The Library. From boardroom, to grid, to the ring, the winning spirit starts at the library.

Research shows that children who have been exposed to reading and other cultural experiences before they begin school have a better chance at success in formal learning. Moreover, 50 percent of intellectual development occurs between birth and four years of age.

Libraries have long been concerned with promoting reading to children, and today they are placing even greater emphasis on family reading activities to help fight America's growing illiteracy problem. Story hours, crafts, puppet shows, songs and games are among the children's programs libraries offer.

"Here at the Crockett County Public Library we plan to offer families a wide range of summer children's activities such as, a Sesquicentennial reading program, story hours, and special programs sponsored by the Friends of the Library," says Louise Ledoux, Librarian.

The Crockett County Public Library is filled with information and ideas on researching papers, selecting a college, finding a job, making a career change, planning retirement. You can find out how to prepare your taxes, buy a house or plant a garden.

The library's literacy program helps functionally illiterate adults learn to read, so they can give their children a head start. You can volunteer to be a tutor by calling Joan Nicholas at 392-3265.

National Library Week is April 6-12, the perfect time to catch the winning spirit. Get a head start at your library.

Lofty Thinking

"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." (Prov. 23:7) Thoughts control actions; they are an extension of ourselves. When wrong thinking happens, wrong expressions often follow.

Negative ideas, birthed in the womb of frustration, destroy whatever they touch. Nothing positive is ever built on negative thinking.

People who make our world better are those whose thoughts elevate actions to noble levels. They believe "God can," and they also know that without God they cannot, and without them God will not.

But positive thinking creates positive actions. Jesus constantly moved people with, "Thou shalt," mostly eliminating the "Thou shalt not's" of faith.

Faith believes God's direction for His world is upward; that He places our feet on lofty places, and by His grace will take our positive thoughts and create beauty of life and in life.

"Whatsoever things are true, honest, just, pure, lovely, of good report... think on these things." (Phil. 4:8)

What If You Had To Pay For Your Electricity WHEN You Used It?

You'd Realize All That Goes Into Your Monthly Bill.

What if you had to pay for the electricity it takes to run a television set every time you wanted to watch T.V.? Or if you had to pay before you could flip on a light switch? Or before you could use a coffee maker or electric can opener?

Because you pay for your electricity MONTHLY, it's easy to forget all that goes into your electric bill. That is, easy to forget UNTIL a bill comes around to remind you. Even then, if you will divide the amount billed for electricity by the number of days in that billing period, you will see how little it costs to supply your home with electric energy for one day.

The amount you pay per day for electricity enables you to heat and cool your home, cook meals, run stereos, clocks, door bells, hair dryers, mixers, toasters, ceiling fans, and much more! All without having to pay WHEN you flip a switch.

When you consider all the things that go into your monthly electric bill, you'll see what a good bargain your electricity really is!

Remember REDDY Supplies the energy—but only YOU can use it wisely!

Everywhere we look today we see changes! Time is changing as we move from hours to days, to weeks, to months, to years. Our weather is constantly changing. We're experiencing changes in our economy and our school system. Our health is unpredictable from day to day. We may be experiencing relationship changes because of divorce or the loss of loved ones. Even the Church changes as it seeks to meet the needs and challenges of a new society. The ancient Greek philosopher proclaimed to the people of his day: 'Everything is in a state of change!'

But change is not always good nor is it always welcome. Change can bring with it a sense of insecurity, a loss of identity, and a longing for 'the good old days'. As you face the changes that affect your life, how will you meet them? What does God's Word tell us? In the 40th chapter of Isaiah it is written: "All people are grass, and all their beauty like a flower in the field. Grass dies up and a flower withers, but what our God says will stand forever." People are changeable but the Word that spoke this universe into existence stands firm, forever.

There are those today who want to change everything, including the Word of God. They say that the Bible was OK for the people of the past but that it's not relevant for today's changing society. The apostle John tells us in the first chapter of his gospel: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was in the beginning with God...And the Word became flesh and lived among us for a time and we saw His glory, the glory of the only-begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth" (vi-2, 14). Jesus of Nazareth, the long-promised Messiah, the Christ, the Savior of the world also affirms that steadfastness when He says in Matthew 24:35, "Heaven and earth will pass away, but what I say will not pass away."

There are also those, on the other hand, who resist any change at all. The apostle Paul was a good example, as he tells us in Galatians 1 that before he met the risen Christ on the road to Damascus, he used to violently persecute God's church because he was so extremely zealous for the traditions of his ancestors. Perhaps a good present-day example might be the Omish, who refuse to use any mechanized objects-such as automobiles, appliances, tractors, etc.

What is the answer? Should we try to change everything-or cling to how it's always been in the past? In the midst of fears and uncertainties of our fast changing society there is comfort and good news to hear of the One who does not change. In Hebrews 13 Scripture declares: "Jesus Christ is the same, yesterday, today, and forever". From before the creation of the world, God had determined it would be necessary to send His eternal Son to become the God-Man, Jesus Christ, to save us from the destruction we had earned by our rebellion and sin. From the cradle He was bound for the Cross, where He would suffer God's eternal justice for the sins of the world, even unto death. There Jesus defeated the power of sin and the devil. On the third day He came forth victorious from the grave over the power of death and hell itself, to live forever and reign the universe.

Jesus Christ alone is changeless. He does not act in kindness toward us one day, and turn around against us the next. Instead, we can count on His love, His care and concern, and His forgiveness every day. What an encouragement to know that the same Lord who healed many during His earthly stay has the same power to heal us today. What a relief to have confidence that He who has forgiven so many and released them from their sin can and will do the same for us.

Life can be so much more beautiful after we meet the changeless Christ. We need not suffer under the burden of guilt; we don't have to worry by carrying our sorrows alone. There is no reason for us to feel weakened in the face of sickness or accident; He can make us strong. In short, the changeless Christ can make anyone a changed person. Have you encountered the changeless One and allowed Him to change your life? Read Revelation 1:9-18
