Hers

New telephone directories arrived in Ozona late last week, and immediately set teeth on edge for some recipients. The cover bears a handsome illustration of three covered wagons done by Nancy L. Haggard of Plano. It also carries the names of the towns this particular directory serves, Barnhart, Big Lake, Eldorado, Ozona and Sonora. And that's where the rub comes in. Sonora is printed twice the size and in bold type above all the rest.

Ozona reaction was negative, to put it mildly, and citizens of Barnhart, Big Lake and Eldorado very likely felt the same way when their directories came from the post offices.

GTE revenues from long distance calls must have gone up temporarily, because Melissa Horinek of GTE's public relations department was on the phone to The Ozona Stockman Monday.

According to Horinek, the decision to highlight one community above the others was made without the knowledge of the San Angelo office. "I think it may have been someone in the directory company," Ms. Horinek said.

The directories are published by GTE Directories Corporation.

Before the 1988 directories are printed, each community will be given the option of having its name emphasized on the cover, she said. "Next time around it is to be decided at a local level."

"We do want to encourage growth and community pride," she said stressing that GTE wants to continue to build on its good relationship with Ozona.

Detention center makes TV news

Crockett County has been making the news on area TV stations, the most recent highlighting the Crockett Detention Center, Inc.'s efforts to build a facility in Brady.

San Angelo's KLST 6 p.m. newscast Monday included a segment showing Brady and portions of interviews with Brady officials and a representative of the detention center group. The Crockett Detention Center has proposed building a 500-bed facility at Brady.

"Nobody is against this thing," Brady Mayor Bud Gober said.

Brady's enthusiasm is an apparent turn-about from the stance the city took two years ago when it was the proposed site of a federal detention center. Opposition against the center forced its proponents to build in Eden instead.

Frank Corder, representing the McCulloch County Ind. Foundation, said a detention center would be good for Brady.

"It would be a long term thing," he said. "It would be real steady. It wouldn't have the normal ups and downs of most industries."

Recent state legislation permits the state to contract with private individuals or groups for the building, operating and maintaining of state approved prison facilities.

Privately owned detention centers would help alleviate the overcrowded conditions of the state prisons, according to Crockett Detention representative John Neville.

"For investors it means more money in the bank," he said. "For Brady it means more money to go around. It will be the best of all worlds."

Correct address important

Using the correct mailing address is important, stresses Postmaster Floyd Hokit. Postal customers who have changed box numbers are asked to inform their correspondants as soon as possible.

When ordering by mail, give your post office box address, not your street address, says Hokit. "Street addresses (for mail delivery) are no good in Ozona," Hokit reminds customers.

TV cameras cover July 4th celebration

While a Saturday Fourth of July cut the attendance and booths at the annual Extravaganza, those who attended seemed pleased with the event. A variety of foods, beverages and sweets erased the hunger pangs for all and added to the coffers of church, civic and youth groups.

Art Guild members displayed items ranging from food to crafts to framed prints.

A few game booths and the perennial favorite, the dunking tank, claimed the attention of young visitors as did the face painting booth.

Before things could slow down, local musicians began tuning up to entertain. Old favorites and current hits appealed to all ages and added to the festive atmosphere.

Television camera crews from stations in Odessa and Midland were here to film the activities as part of their area coverage of Fourth of July celebrations.

The Fourth ended without the customary fireworks display by the Ozona Chamber of Commerce. The expense of the display has outpaced the income of the chamber at this point.

Rex Parker of Princeton and Curtis Phillips of San Angelo took first and second places, respectively, in the singles washer pitching contest Saturday.

Also competing were Kim Jones, Red Arledge, Larry Harris, George

Parker and David Ledbetter. Phillips and Jones won the top spot in the doubles with second place going to the team of Varlyn Aldridge of Big Lake and Larry Harris of Ozona.

Rex Parker and George Parker also competed.

Only one accident was investigated in Crockett County during the holiday weekend, and no fatalities were reported in the five county sector headed by the Ozona Department of Public Safety.

Allan Bosworth makes donation to museum

The highest ranking military man to ever come out of Crockett County has donated several items to the Crockett County Museum, according to museum board chairman Geniece Childress.

"We'll display these things when we recognize distinguished citizens and servicemen of the county," Mrs. Childress said. "We're very grateful to the Bosworth family for the gift."

Allan R. Bosworth, retired Navy captain and renowned author, left instructions prior to his death last year that several of his military uniforms and other memorabilia be given to the Ozona museum.

Bosworth was the youngest of 10 children, having been born in a tent near San Angelo in 1903. He and his family lived at various places along the border until his mother decided to make a permanent home in Ozona in 1908. Allie, as he came to be known, was five. The town of Ozona was only 16 years old at the time.

Bosworth joined the Navy as an apprentice seaman in 1922, and writing soon after. Magazines such as the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal and This Week published more than 500 of his articles. He left the Navy for a time but returned to it in 1940, finally retiring with the rank of captain in 1960.

Ozonians will especially remember one of his several books entitled Ozona Country, an autobiographical account of Bosworth's early years in Ozona.

Another book, New Country, won second place in the state for its category for the year it was published in a University of Texas Competition.

Roy Alvin Harrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Harrell, brought the items to Ozona from Bosworth's home in Roanoke, Virginia, when he came for a recent visit. Roy Alvin kept in touch with him during the last years of Bosworth's life.

Besides the uniforms, a diploma from Ozona High School which was presented to Bosworth during an Ozona visit in 1962 was donated to the museum.

"Allan Bosworth's wife said that of his many awards and honors, he placed that diploma above all the others," Mrs. Childress said. "He didn't finish high school when he was young."

The 1962 diploma was signed by B. W. Stuart, president of the school board; James Childress, secretary; L.B.T. Sikes, superintendent; and J. A. Pelt, principal.

The Crockett County Museum has copies of most of Bosworth's books. Many of these have been donated by Roy Alvin Harrell who brought three more during his most recent visit.

Bosworth's books, besides Ozona Country and New Country, include My Love Affair with the Navy, The Lovely World of Richi-San, and The Crowns of Edwina Hill.

"He always considered Ozona his home," Mrs. R. A. Harrell said. "We ought to have an Alan Bosworth exhibit one of these days."

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The Texas House, on a collision course with veto-minded Gov. Bill Clements, last week advanced a $5.7 billion tax package that may increase insurance costs.

But despite the sword-rattling, his veto may never come.

House Democrats, displaying trickiness on par with throwing the bomb from their five-yard-line, connected on an amendment which probably forces Clements to accept the tax bill.

Only the insiders saw what was coming last week.

Taxes, Rates: Up

While the insurance lobbyists watched aghast, House tax bill writers sent up for floor debate a proposal to increase the sales tax to six cents and apply it to insurance premiums.

Even as lawmakers acted, two blocks away the State Board of Insurance prepared to consider the industry's request for a $226 million increase in property insurance rates. The board's staff previously recommended a $53 million decrease.

When the board makes a decision before Oct. 1, rates may go up for some and drop for others, but the new tax, if passed, will be applied to all policies.

The House plan was kept under wraps until the last moment, and the Capitol crowd, along with the insurance lobby, was caught flatfooted. For awhile, some were wondering what the industry had done to get singled out in the tax bill.

Quick Cash Needed

Lawmakers insisted it was not a move to punish the insurance industry. Instead, with time running out, quick cash is needed to balance the budget. Insurance was the leadership's consensus vehicle.

As Ways and Means Committee chairman Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, put it, "Texas needs an amount of quick cash it can depend on now."

Passage of this bill makes it almost a certainty the sales tax base will be expanded to other services in 1989. In fact, it's conceivable that events could force another special session for that purpose before the next regular session.

For the time being, insurance companies get to go first.

Emergency Budgeting

Watching the House, Clements was not vocal about his veto. He will get his half-loaf under another measure which the House advanced: interim budget execution authority.

If approved, this bill allows the governor and 10 top lawmakers, known as the Legislative Budget Board, to handle a fiscal crisis by changing the state budget without calling legislators into special session. The governor proposes changes in state spending, and the LBB would amend.

Recall the Compromise?

So far, the House's action is basically a scaled-down version of the controversial compromise forged two months ago between Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis.

As explained when the three met the press, the compromise proposed an increased state budget with no cuts for education, an expansion of the sales tax base, and budget authority for the governor. And no veto.

The plan was publicly scrapped when Texas Republican Party leaders kicked up a ruckus about Clements caving in to new taxes. So he raked the press and backed out of the compromise.

Basically, the House is arranging to give Clements his budget powers and the Senate its tax hike and spending levels.

What does the House get? Its members get to go home, knowing, as one observer put it, "it pulled the state's potato out of the campfire," and await the public's reaction to the insurance tax.

Built-in Cuts

The governor has said he would veto any new tax bill, but now he's snookered, and snookered so handily that he probably is quite pleased.

Some House Republicans don't think they can muster the 51 votes from their own ranks to block a Democratic override. That would be embarrassing for Clements and the GOP.

The tricky House tacked on an amendment which states if the tax bill is not approved, then funding for 45 state agencies and 15 colleges is automatically wiped out to balance the budget.

Move to Taos

Not even Bill Clements can take that much heat. He who has fended off the jackals over Ponygate, the "secret plan," and the compromise flipflops, would probably consider a move to Taos if he causes the death of so many agencies.

The damage would be statewide: Sul Ross University at Alpine, Texas A&M at Galveston, Laredo State University, Pan American University, branch universities at Victoria, Clear Lake, Orange, Port Arthur, Odessa, Tyler and Texarkana.

Add some millions of state funds for aid to health and educational programs, and the list goes on and on.

It's a Texas-sized excuse for raising taxes, one that should make Hollywood proud.

Rachel's Reviews

by Rachel O. Hall

"Dry Clean Only." Do you dare disobey this order and hand wash your silk?

The Silk Institute not only dares, it recommends hand washing for the following silks: China, India, raw and spun silks, crepe de chine, pongee, shantung, tussah, dupioni and jacquard.

Hand washing will not only save money, it will refresh silk. Every time silk is washed in warm water, the seracin is rejuvenated. Seracin is a gum-like coating put into the fibers by the silk worm.

Before following the Silk Institute's recommendations to wash, make sure all the components of the garment -- buttons, interfacing, lining and shoulder pads -- are hand washable. Test a small sample of the fabric for possible changes. Silk is not always colorfast, so the excess dye may run off and the silk will lose some of its color. Watch for darker colors running into lighter ones in print fabrics. Check to see if the colors bleed by wetting an area of the garment, putting it between paper towels, applying pressure and checking for the presence of color on the towels.

The texture of silk often changes after washing. It may become stiffer, softer or crepier. It may also lose some of its sheen and become dull. Some shrinkage may occur, but it should be minimal.

If satisfied with the results after testing, go ahead and wash the garment.

Hand wash silk in warm water with a mild liquid soap. Swish the suds through the fabric, but never rub, because this will damage the fabric. Prolonged soaking will cause the dyes in the fabric to run, so dry the garment immediately. Squeeze out the excess water, without wringing, smooth the garment and air dry, but not in direct sunlight. Silk dries quickly and should be pressed while still damp.

If there are any problems while testing the garment, or uncertainty as to what type of silk it is, have the garment dry cleaned. Hand washing is a great alternative once you're sure it will not damage the garment.

County free of AIDS--so far

By Cynthia Harrell Hodges

A 34-year-old mother of two, an infant who will never see his first birthday, a young 17-year-old teen who tried intravenous drugs at a party two years ago, a 55-year-old gay rights activist, and a 25-year-old Haitian refugee are all linked together by the terrifying fatal disease called AIDS.

Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome - AIDS - the very word strikes a note of fear to all who hear it. The virus, which is swift and sinister in its pursuit of victims, attacks the body's immune systems and lessens the body's ability to fight any infectious disease. People do not die of AIDS; they die from diseases the body can no longer fight.

AIDS is caused by a virus, Human Immunodeficiency Virus of HIV. However, not all persons infected with the virus develop AIDS. It is estimated that 10-15 percent of persons infected with this virus will develop AIDS and an additional 10-15 percent develop less severe illness with symptoms such as chronic and unexplained fever, weight loss and marked fatigue.

The majority of infected people have no symptoms. The virus may persist in the blood and body fluids for many years, perhaps for life.

Thus far, Crockett County and its neighbors, Sutton, Val Verde, and Reagan, have escaped the deadly claws of the disease, according to a spokesperson at the Texas Department of Health in Austin. There have been no confirmed cases of AIDS reported to the State Department of Health from this area.

Bill Boswell, administrator at Crockett County Hospital, reported that no persons had even requested the blood tests required to detect the AIDS virus. Boswell also said there were no cases reported here "to the best of my knowledge".

The hospital can send the blood test for AIDS results to an El Paso lab. "The results would not be sent to us, but would be sent back to the local examining physician," Boswell said.

Boswell did say one specimen had been sent off for AIDS testing due to the requirements by an insurance company. "We would not know of the confirmation of the AIDS test unless the case was diagnosed here," Boswell said.

Karen Huffman, county health nurse, also said that her office had not seen any confirmed cases of AIDS here. "Most cases are diagnosed at larger medical centers, where there are more sophisticated blood analysis machines."

Confirmed cases of AIDS are attributed to the originating county - that means that a case diagnosed in Harris County when the individual lives in Bexar County - that case would be attributed to Bexar County.

Dr. R. M. Owensby, county health officer, said he does not know that the state would notify him if a case were attributed to Crockett County. He is not notified of other communicable diseases, the doctor said.

Through February of 1987, Texas had 2,067 confirmed cases of the AIDS virus. In the last three years, the virus has spread from 17 counties in the state to 81 counties. Should the disease continue to spread at the current rate, Texas could have a total of 16,200 cases by the end of 1991. Projections by the Texas Department of Health also mean that nearly 240,000 persons could be infected with the virus by 1996.

In Texas, when the rate of HIV infection reaches 0.83 percent of the population, an automatic statewide program will go into effect for mandatory premarital AIDS antibody testing.

AIDS, though spreading to the general population rapidly with little hope for a cure, does strike certain groups of people with alarming frequency. Those most at risk include: gay or bisexual men; IV drug abusers who share needles; recipients of blood or blood products and hemophiliacs; and anyone who has sexual contact with members of these groups; heterosexuals who have sex with numerous partners.

The rapidly changing forms of the virus have made the search for a vaccine to combat the disease a frustration for scientific researchers throughout the world. Three vaccines are being tested, one in France and two in the United States. Researchers do not expect a vaccine to be available until the year 2000 at the earliest.

Blood centers, starting in late 1985, have begun testing for the AIDS virus in blood donor banks. The danger that some tainted blood could slip through the testing mechanisms has become more and more remote with each passing year.

Many inner city blood banks do business with persons of questionable character - those desperate enough to lie about their use of drugs, who will do anything to obtain the money given for each blood donation.

Crockett County Department of Public Safety Sergeant Glen Redmon said that personnel at his office have taken no additional safety precautions when examining and helping injured traffic victims. "We do have surgical gloves, but they are used to examine cars of suspected drug dealers. The PCP or angel dust is extremely hazardous to the DPS officers' health. DPS officers plan to attend school later this month and next month, and new statewide precautions may be advised then."

Symptoms of the disease include: rapid weight loss for no apparent reason; recurrent fever, including night sweats; swollen lymph glands in the neck, underarm or groin areas; constant fatigue; diarrhea and diminished appetite; white spots or unusual blemishes in the mouth; skin lesions; and shortness of breath.

Precautions can be taken by all members of society to decrease the risk of contracting this deadly disease. To avoid contracting the AIDS virus, the Texas Department of Health leaflet "What Everyone Should Know About AIDS and HIV" says: avoid unsafe sexual contact with persons in high risk groups; use condoms during sex; reduce the number of sexual partners; know your sexual partner and his history well (the AIDS virus can remain dormant for a period of 10 years); do not use or abuse drugs; don't share toothbrushes or razors; clean surfaces contaminated with body fluids and excretions with a household bleach and water solution (one part bleach to nine parts water).

The AIDS virus can be kept away from Crockett County and its citizens if persons can and will observe the above common sense rules of behavior.

The disease cannot be spread by casual contact with a person suffering from AIDS. You cannot contract AIDS, according to the surgeon general, from swimming in a pool, bathing in hot tubs, eating in restaurants, even if a worker in the restaurant has AIDS, or from sharing bed sheets.

You can't get AIDS from a toilet seat, furniture or a telephone.

Mosquitoes, other insects or pets do not spread AIDS.

Casual kissing does not spread AIDS. The virus is present in saliva and tears, but there have been no confirmed cases indicating anyone got AIDS by contact with those fluids.

An AIDS victim will be more at risk from infectious disease and a body that can no longer fight the common cold than those who surround him with love and concern.

Obscene calls can result in fines, jail

Investigation of obscene phone calls appears regularly as an item under investigation in the weekly report from Sheriff Billy Mills. Once the report is received and investigated, the Sheriff's Department notifies GTE.

Section 42.07 of the Penal code of the State of Texas makes it unlawful for any person (1) to use vulgar, profane, obscene or indecent language in a communication by telephone, (2) by telephone, to threaten to take unlawful action against anyone, or (3) to place telephone calls anonymously at unreasonable hours, in an offensive or repetitious manner, if in doing any of these acts the person intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly annoys or alarms, or intends to annoy or alarm, the recipient.

Violation of this law is punishable by a fine up to $1,000, or confinement to 180 days in jail, or both.

The telephone book suggests the following:

If you receive a threatening call, report it immediately to the police.

If you receive obscene or crank calls, follow these suggestions:

- 1 Hang up
  - at the first obscene word
  - if the caller doesn't say anything the second time you say hello
2. Give no information
  - such as name, address or telephone number
  - such as the fact that you are alone until the caller has been identified
- 3 Advise children
  - to give no information to strangers

RAISE YOUR THERMOSTAT SETTING TO LOWER YOUR COOLING BILLS

You can lower your cooling bill up to 50% by raising the temperature in your home from 72° to 78°. West Texas Utilities recommends that you set your thermostat at 78° or higher for efficient summer cooling. Portable fans or ceiling fans can help the higher thermostat settings feel more comfortable.

Also, check the filter in your air conditioning system regularly. A dirty filter could keep your system from operating as efficiently as possible. Clean permanent filters according to manufacturer's instructions, and replace non-permanent filters.

Crockett County Public Library

by Louise Ledoux

The 4th of July was a big day for the library. The library board sponsored a book sale in the park. Excess library books, donated books, and lots of paperback books filled two flat-bed trailers. The sale was a big success making almost $200.00 for the library. Since we are facing budget cuts in '88, this money will be very important in the coming year.

Mrs. Katharine Russell was the winner in the drawing for a set of encyclopedias and Mrs. T. K. O'Bryant won a 2-volume dictionary. Congratulations to our winners!

I want to thank all my hard-working board members. Each one spent many hours preparing the books for the sale. We also had a hand from some wonderful husbands of board members! A special thank you goes out to Mrs. Thelma Janes and her scouts Angie Marshall, Edna Olivera, Naomi Arthur, and Jessica Skains for their help loading the books on the trailers. We appreciate Scouts Joe Ross and Jason and Jon Montgomery who worked very hard loading books. Mrs. Elizabeth Clark and her son, Cade, and Mrs. Cathy Carson from the Friends of the Library were a big help. I am so proud we have such a wonderful Friends group to support the Library.

I want to thank Mr. Lane Scott and Wool Growers Central Storage for the loan of the trailers. It sure made our sale a lot easier to manage. Mrs. Judy Adams took all the paperbacks that were left from the sale and will have them for sale or swap at her new "Judy's Book Swap Shop" at 608 Ave. H. The phone number is 392-2231. Mrs. Adams will pick-up donated books. Give her a call and go by and see what she has available.

And, of course, a special thanks to all the book lovers in Ozona and the surrounding area for making our booksale such a success. I hope you all enjoy your new books!

Mesquite spray time arrives

By George Peacock
USDA-SCS

Many ranchers are planning or considering some aerial spraying for mesquite control in the next few weeks. The excellent moisture conditions we have recently experienced have provided good growing conditions for mesquite which usually increases the effectiveness of herbicide control.

For chemical control to do the best job in increasing forage production and improving rangeland, plan to rest herbicide treated pasture from grazing.

A no-grazing period of about 90 days following spring application of herbicide for brush control allows desirable forage plants to regain vigor, replenish food reserves, produce seed and encourage seedling establishment, thus improving rangeland. On the other hand, a continuous yearlong grazing program does not readily allow for a rest from grazing after a brush control practice.

Good grazing management is necessary to obtain the greatest return from a brush management program. Therefore, a rancher should first develop a sound grazing management program before attempting brush control practices. This should include a planned grazing system to allow no-grazing

First Baptist plans kid fun day

Kids, do you know what you've been missing? A group of kids (first to sixth grades) have been meeting at First Baptist Church this summer, and they've been having a blast!

If you've not been going, you have already missed four meetings, but there are still five left.

In fact, Friday, July 10, "Just For Kids" will be going to Water Wonderland. Most of the meetings are absolutely free, but there is a cost of $15.00 for this trip, which will cover admission at Water Wonderland, drinks and pizza for supper in Midland on the way home.

For more information, call Bro. Jim Gray at 392-5555 or 392-3986 at home. There is a permission form that must be filled out.

The meetings for the rest of the summer are July 17, August 8, 20 and 28. Meetings on each of these days will be at 10 a.m. in the activities building at First Baptist Church.

Ozona women to tell stories

A group of Ozona women will recount tales of Texas pioneer women July 18 at The Covered Wagon Dinner Theater in Sutton County. Dinner theater performances are being given each Friday and Saturday during the summer at Sonora Caverns under the auspices of the Outdoor Drama Group.

Genece Childress, Jewell Bailey, Velma Marley, Bonnie Warth, Lu Ingram, Jane Black, Norma Carson, Marolyn Bean and coordinator Lucille Littleton will be in pioneer costume to relate stories of the old and not so old west. Mrs. Kathryn Russell will provide background music for the performance and Huey Ingram will be sound co-ordinator.

Some of the ladies presented a program on Texas pioneer women for the Woman's Forum in 1986. A repeat performance was given for League members last year. They will be joined in their Sonora portrayal of early day Texans by a Sonora resident.

Different groups or individuals are featured at each performance. Also entertaining during the summer will be Western bands, Mexican ballet, Square dancers, rag-time piano players and Mexican bands.

The sit-down dinner catered by Sutton County Steakhouse begins at 6:30 and the show at 7:30. A sing along is held at 6 p.m.

Tickets for the dinner theater are $9.95 for adults and $7.95 for children under 12. Special prices of $4 for adults and $3 for children are given for cavern tours for those holding dinner theater tickets.

Dinner theater tickets are available from the Sutton County Chamber of Commerce, the Sutton County

Quilting, churning, washing on the rub board and ironing with a "sad" iron were skills common to frontier women. Telling stories of those days and more recent ones in the lives of Texas women at Sonora Caverns July 18 will be: Jewell Bailey, Kathryn Russell, Jane Black, Bonnie Warth, Lu Ingram, Velma Marley, Genece Childress and Lucille Littleton. Participating but not pictured will be Norma Carson and Marolyn Bean.

Carmen Sutton's photo of a wildflower against a fence wire was selected for first place honors in the Perry Photography spring contest. The six week contest ran from mid-April until the end of May and was strictly for wildflowers said owner Betty Perry.

Two second place recognitions were given. Recipients were Lockie Sue Bissett with her photo of pink poppies and Mary Jo Mason's photo of white daisies.

The three third places were given to Pat Gunn, cactus; Alice Sawyer, blue bonnets; and Ginger Perner, wildflower.

There were 37 entries in the competition this year. This is the third year for the event with wildflowers the subject twice. The 1986 contest featured photos of animals.

American lamb-a world apart

This is the theme of the American Lamb Council's on-going retail trade promotion. And it's all part of ALC's import defense plan to increase awareness of the many profit opportunities offered by sales of fresh American lamb over imported.

The campaign includes a hard-hitting direct mail promotion to retailers and distributors and delivery of fresh American boneless lamb legs to 100 key retail executives, and a coupon for $10 off the purchase price of American lamb to market managers. The promotion was backed by advertising in major trade publications with the fresh American lamb message.

In the recent mailing to 4,000 key supermarket officials, ALC explained that "American Lamb Is A World Apart" in consumer acceptance and sales because of the following key points:

- Consumers prefer fresh American lamb over imports by a 7 to 1 margin
- It's fresher
- It has preferred taste
- A good selection of American lamb cuts can increase sales by an average of 65 percent

- Fresh American lamb product stickers are important to display on lamb packages in the meat case.
- Lamb and mutton imports for 1986 were 35.4 million pounds, the highest level since 1979 when 43 million pounds were imported. As compared with 1985, lamb and mutton imports were up 1.8 percent, after increasing 77 percent in 1985.

By Sandra Hancock Stark

I shall be free to come and go.
I shall be free for God made it so.
I shall be free. This I know ---
I shall be free.

I shall have love I'll know is real.
I shall have love for it is nature's will.
I shall have love to abide in me still ---
I shall have love.

I shall know God for it was meant.
I shall know God through his consent.
I shall know God and each place He went.
I shall know God.

Nature is now within my hands.
I am to know, yet, may not comprehend.
He will abide in my heart and the sod.
I shall be free, have love and --- Know God!

He cares for His own
By Sandra Hancock Stark

My life may be filled with sorrow and pain.
My heart may overflow with tears.
I may not feel I can survive the strain
Throughout the long, long years.

My grief may loose the once chained words
Of hatred since loved ones parted.
Indeed there may not be a song
Within my heart now started.

But I will take the hand He offers.
I'll lean upon His waiting arm.
He will help and gently lead me.
Wash away my tears: keep away harm.

There is no other who is quite so true.
God loves and takes care of me and you.

The Class of 1937 — Ozona High School

THE LIFE OF A SENIOR
by Mary Clayton

We were the Seniors of 1936-37, remarkably like the Seniors of previous years, caught up in a celebration of youth on the threshold of adulthood. We were idealistic and never again were we to be as smart as we felt as Seniors.

We had arrived at the Senior year after completing ten years of advancing studies. Texas schools at that time had only eleven grades. Fifteen of us had walked the paths of learning together from the early primary grades. Most aspired to higher education. In the spring of 1937, representatives from many colleges and universities would come to speak and entice students. No entrance exams were necessary, just the diploma representing the completion of 16 solid credits with passable grades.

The most publicized people in America in the fall of 1936 also captured our interest. The Canadian born Dionne quintuplets, now beautiful two year old girls, were still fascinating a world audience. Each new antic of the only surviving quints provided endless copy.

An American divorcee, Wallis Warfield Simpson, was heralded as the possible next Queen of England but the British Parliament forced King Edward VIII to choose between the throne and Wally. His abdication in December, stunned the world. New coronation ceremonies for the Duke of York, who became King George VI, dominated styles and fashions.

In 1936, everyone was caught up in a great fiesta of celebration as Texas had its one hundredth birthday. James V. Allred was serving his second term as Governor. Dallas, population 331,000, had been designated the site for the Centennial Exposition. In the fall, students were granted excused absences to attend. Across the lovely acres of the Exposition grounds, a magic city arose and the exhibit palaces housed the wonders of today and tomorrow...Art, Science, Commerce, Culture, Industry, Agriculture, Amusements. All phases of life were merged to make a brilliant chapter of pageantry. The Hall of Science held an exhibit which was beyond dreams in 1936 but within twenty years would begin to make dramatic changes in life-styles. Many viewed for the first time a television exhibit—a shadowy picture shown from one room to another.

As we returned from Dallas, the Frontier Centennial in Fort Worth drew us to another type of celebration. Billy Rose's Casa Manana exemplified all of his Hollywood talents of production. Dancing water screens, soft colored lights and swimming routines under water held us enthralled. The climax was the dazzling and daring Sally Rand.

As students, we knew that Spain was being torn apart with civil war and Gen. Franco had been declared head of the nationalist government. We were aware that Adolph Hitler was the fuchrer in Germany and in 1935 he had rejected the Versailles Treaty and ordered conscription. We knew that Premier Mussolini of Italy had annexed Ethiopia and ousted Haile Selassie. We knew that China and Japan were at war. All of these rumblings were far away and we felt secure in the knowledge taught by our history books. World War I was the great war to end all wars and Uncle Sam wanted the world to know that his chief desire was to be a good neighbor to all.

We were more concerned with things with which we could identify. Every adventurous spirit soared with Amelia Earhart as she flew her way into a man's world. The exploits of adventurer and writer Richard Halliburton captured the imagination in the "Royal Road to Romance", "The Flying Carpet" and "Seven League Boots".

We read with enthusiasm Margaret Mitchell's "Gone with the Wind" and were pleased when it received the Pulitzer Prize in 1937.

The radio was the most popular medium of communication. There was usually one radio to a home and every young person aspired to owning his own personal one. President Franklin Delano Roosevelt was the first President to communicate directly with the people by regular broadcasts of "fireside chats". Roosevelt was finishing his first term of office and was slowly bringing the nation out of depression with his New Deal. He and the Democratic Party had repealed Prohibition but Crockett County was "dry".

Radio did not seem the same after the death of Will Rogers, killed in the Alaskan plane crash with Wiley Post in 1935. This rope-twirling cowboy had won the hearts of the world from children to kings and queens. His homespun philosophy, wit and humor brought harmony in political circles as well as providing entertainment.

"Pappy" W. Lee O'Daniel and his Lightcrust Doughboys filled the airways with music and his popularity took him to the Governor's office in 1938. Lowell Thomas and Walter Winchell were household names as well as Amos & Andy, Jack Benny, Fibber McGee and Molly, George and Gracie Allen and many others.

The Seniors were carrying new driver's licenses required by the State after April 1, 1936. If they planned to enter the work force after graduation, they were obtaining a Social Security card mandated by Congress, Aug. 14, 1935. They could expect wages for inexperienced workers to be from $1.00 to $1.50 per day.

We all dreamed of owning a car—a new Chevrolet cost from $590 for a sport coupe to $665 for a sport sedan. A million dollars was the most money that one could imagine and many popular songs and books were on the subject of how to acquire a million or marry a millionaire.

Trips to San Angelo or other towns were common. Roads were paved and cars were about as fast as today. Gas was cheap.

The height of entertainment was the movie theater because this was the heyday of Hollywood. Many of the stars are still known today through re-runs on TV.

Sheet music for the piano and voice was very popular and we could hardly wait to get to the music stores in San Angelo to get the latest releases. Hollywood's extravagant musicals produced many songs which are still favorites today.

The Senior year progressed much as it would today. The football season with an active pep-squad, drum corps and band dominated the first few months. Joe Haddon was the capable musician who taught band and orchestra and under his direction in 1936 the school song was originated. Mr. Haddon was also a big influence in Boy Scouting while in Ozona. Under his guidance several Ozona Scouts gained Eagle rank.

"The Ozona Stockman, Nov. 1936.....H.E. Dept. Entertain Grid Squad.

"Wednesday night at 6:30 the Home Economics Department under the attractive Miss Ada Moss, will honor the 1936 football squad, faculty members and a few honorary guests at its annual banquet.

Each year, the Home Economics Department of the High School entertains the football squad. The football squad was composed of some twenty-five alert players this season. The starting squad was a quite a bit larger, but the Department extends invitations only to those that finished the season".

Crockett County Care Center News

by JoAnne Marshall

Large paper cylinders of red, white and blue were made in Monday morning's craft class. The cylinders with long streamers attached made perfect tree decorations. Residents working together on this project were: Doris Robnett, Ethel Youngblood, Moriana Perez, Tomasa Ramos, and Edna Wallace. Lilly Fierro was the helpful volunteer.

The residents were treated to a surprise visit from evangelist Jimmy Flynn Monday morning. Mr. Flynn was a professional wrestler using the name of Mickey Finn and won the title of World's Junior Heavy Weight Champion.

Monday afternoon, residents toned muscles and increased circulation with a short wheelchair exercise routine and basketball. Residents attending were: Lucy May Meinecke, Ethel Youngblood and Rebekah West. Volunteers were: Sophie Kyle, Georgia Kirby, Mattie Cooper and Melinda Hokit.

Tuesday afternoon, residents and the hospital and care center staff were treated to an old fashioned ice cream party sponsored by the Crockett County Hospital and Care Center Auxiliary. Homemade ice cream was made and served by Glenda Henderson, Jo Davidson, Mary Lee Jones, Nancy Forehand, Evelyn Keith and her two daughters, Chrissy and Miranda. Volunteers Dorothy Doll and Mattie Cooper were also on hand to help serve. The ice cream was delicious, and we would like to say thank you to these ladies.

Wednesday morning's ceramic workshop was attended by Moriana Perez, Juana Hernandez, Doris Robnett, Hazel McDaniel, Theo Burns, Ethel Youngblood, and volunteers Ruth Hester and Beth Stallings.

Charles Huffman of the Faith Lutheran Church conducted this week's Bible study Wednesday afternoon. Ruby Olson played the piano.

Residents came out of the beauty shop not only looking better, but feeling better thanks to volunteers Clara Byrd, Vivian Hughes, Melinda Hokit, Bobbie Light and Audrey Smith Thursday morning. Clara added to the good feelings by playing lively piano music.

Thursday afternoon Fr. Albert conducted Mass during the Spanish Hour of Praise. We would like to thank the large group of visitors for sharing this time with us.

Friday morning's bingo prize winners were: Moriana Perez, Edna Wallace, Doris Robnett, Nellie Harp, Juana Hernandez, Theo Burns, Tomasa Ramos and Virginia Hoover. Mattie Cooper was the volunteer.

Residents celebrated the Fourth of July with a backyard picnic. A beautiful watermelon fruit basket was prepared by the facility's kitchen staff to temp the taste buds, and a delicious meal consisting of barbecue brisket, potato salad and beans was served. We would like to thank Clara Byrd for her assistance during the picnic.

Sunday worship service was presented by Ozona United Methodist Church. Communion was offered and hymns were sung. A short visitation followed.

Public Notices

In October 1987, the School Land Board will hold an oil and gas lease sale covering state owned lands. At that time, Commissioner Mauro will offer the surface owners of mineral classified land [i.e., land subject to the Relinquishment Act] the opportunity to lease their tracts through a sealed bid procedure. If you are unsure if your land qualifies, call the Classification Clerk at [512]463-5153.

This procedure will not negate a surface owner's agency rights. As the State's agent, the surface owner will execute the lease on terms which he previously has indicated will be acceptable. The surface owner will be subject to all duties and obligations imposed by law.

This service is free of cost to surface owners. Bidders are required to pay a fee to defray administrative costs. For further information, contact the GLO at [512]463-5022 or at 1700 N. Congress, Room 642, Austin, Texas 78701. 4c17
