Why is it that working together to keep a community economically stable seems to be the thing to do in some towns while it is scoffed at in others? Why do some communities opt for progress and prosperity while others are content to die on the vine with an attitude of "I like things just the way they are", or "oh, that can't be done here".

According to Fred Lowe, president of the Texas Press Association, a report by Washington, D.C. real estate consultant Donovan Rypkema shows the costs of a small building sitting vacant in a small community as follows:

1. $125,000 in sales at the location
2. $15,000 in salaries
3. $6,000 in rent
4. $5,600 in business profits
5. $875 in property taxes
6. $13,400 in non-real estate loan demand
7. $58,500 in property values
8. $3,400 in utilities
9. $2,000 in advertising revenues.

"Ah, ha," you say. That No. 9 is what caught her eye. Well, you're right, it did. Sale of advertising is what keeps a newspaper in business.

But something else caught my eye, and my mind. Multiply some of those figures, even if they don't exactly fit our small town situation, by just a few of the empty business locations we have, and the figures will astound you.

Any chamber of commerce person worth his salt will tell you that dollars spent at home circulate seven times. Even if that should be stretching a bit, loss of one business in our town has a ripple effect on the community. Think about it.

Hats off this week to the Ozona Lion Band and cross country teams who did themselves proud in district competition.

Last quarter field goal costs Lions victory

by T. C. Tucker
STOCKMAN SPORTS

Ozona's game-winning drive ended with nothing to show for itself as the Winters Blizzards held out 3-0, handing the Lions their first district loss of the season.

"The last drive was one of those things," Coach Don Payne said. "It just didn't make it."

The game leading up to the final four minutes proved scoreless as both defenses contained well, allowing only 375 total offensive yards combined between Ozona and Winters.

"It was our best defensive game all year," Coach Payne said. "Offensively, turnovers and technical mistakes killed key drives."

The Blizzards made the first offensive threat at the opening of the second quarter when a 31-yard pass plunged them to Ozona's 23. Three plays and three yards later, Winters attempted a 26-yard field goal, going wide with the kick.

However, three plays later, the Lions coughed the ball up to be recovered by Winters only 33 yards out. They moved as close as the 18 before an interception returned the ball to Ozona.

With 18 seconds remaining in the half, the Lions finally stepped into Blizzard territory with an 18-yard pass from Chris Denman to Oscar Galindo. But the following, final play of the half ended with Winters' taking their turn at intercepting passes.

Throughout the third quarter, both teams lingered around midfield. Winters opened the fourth quarter with a continuing drive that ended on the Lions' 27.

Eight minutes left in the game saw Winters' beginning their scoring drive from their own 43. Three successive running plays totaling 26 yards put the Blizzards only 31 yards away from the end zone. Eight plays later, they had worked themselves to the five-yard line.

Facing a fourth-and-five, Winters opted for the field goal, nailing it this

CCPL receives Massie Memorial grant

The Crockett County Public Library is pleased to announce the reception of a grant from the Massie Memorial Foundation of San Angelo. This foundation has been very generous to the Ozona library system in the past. The Adult Reading Room of the Ozona High School Library was furnished in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Massie by Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Puckett and Mr. and Mrs. Dow Puckett. The Massie Memorial Foundation gave the money for the purchase of books in this section of the library for five years. Now that the county has a separate library, the foundation has elected to help again.

This acquisition will allow the library to purchase a microfiche machine and copies of 14 magazines on microfiche cards. One of the most useful gifts of modern technology has been the invention of microfiche and microfilm. These have the ability to place many pages of material on a very small surface. Convenient retrieval then displays these images in an enlarged form for quick reading. These small cards require less storage space and thus will increase the numbers of books and periodicals available on the shelves.

The Massie Memorial Foundation is vitally interested in the youth of this area. One of the ways they show this interest is in their scholarships given to students at ASU. This gift will help the youth of Ozona as they study their daily lessons and as they prepare for their future. The addition of the microfilm pages will expand the resources of the library as it strives to serve the youth and people of all ages in the community.

Thanks to this foundation, the Crockett County Library is better able to fulfill its mission, to serve as a repository for the cultural and recorded history of mankind as a place where people can go freely in search of information, self-education and pleasure.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Countering speculation they have given up on winning Texas for Dukakis-Bentsen, Democrats captured the prison furlough issue that was one of Bush's top campaign cannons and turned it on Texas Gov. Bill Clements.

Clements was forced to state he had no direct control over a Texas furlough program every bit as "liberal" as the one overseen by Massachusetts Gov. Mike Dukakis, but Clements vowed to stop it and change it.

The Texas furloughs stem from overcrowded prisons as the state rushes to build more prisons according to the court-ordered reforms. Republicans blame those reforms on a liberal federal judge appointed by a liberal Democratic president.

About 5,000 felons, including 517 convicted murderers, were furloughed in Texas since 1957.

But the campaign coup is the Democrats' first in Texas and signals independent action by a home-grown party machine tired of complaints about Dukakis' out-of-state advisors botching the campaign war.

Cisneros Teetering?

The Republican effort here has been helped by the political wounding of one of the Democrats' brightest stars, San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros.

Although he isn't a state official, the well-liked Cisneros has for a long time been treated as one soon-to-be.

Last week, Capitol observers were pursing their lips and shaking their heads at the revelation that his marital problems are now political problems compounded by his admission of a long-standing love affair with a married campaign worker.

The rumors surfaced when Cisneros announced last year he would not run for governor, but he only publicly admitted the affair last week.

Until then, Cisneros was probably the only genuine political darling of the Texas media, an odds-on choice to become the first Hispanic elected to major statewide office.

Last week Cisneros cancelled an appearance with Dukakis and his emcee duties at a Houston women's group rally while he sought to steady his own ship. Supporters said he would return to the campaign trail.

Hispanic Heir Apparent

San Antonio state Rep. Dan Morales, second in command on the tax writing committee, vowed last week to propose a constitutional amendment requiring the state to provide funding when it mandates new programs for local governments.

Morales said property tax rates in Texas are too high and that local property taxpayers already pay enough taxes.

Morales deserves to be watched for two reasons. Last year, Cisneros turned over his political campaign operation to him and Morales is viewed as a possible candidate for attorney general in 1990.

He also has advocated considering a state income tax, and skeptics of his announcement last week feel he might some day couple new mandated costs with a new state

Icebergs turn into ice cubes

Tim Diamond may not be able to sell ice to Eskimos, but he is selling it to the Japanese. The Juneau, Alaska entrepreneur is in the business of turning icebergs into ice cubes.

Already selling 25 tons of glacier ice a week to Japan through a Seattle-based exporter, Diamond Ice Company anticipates selling 100 tons a week to Japan by the spring of 1989. Diamond is one of five glacial ice exporters in Alaska where there are some 100,000 glaciers.

The enterprising Diamond uses a 200-foot-bergs to pull alongside a likely 100-ton iceberg, breaks the ice into three or four chunks with a jackhammer device, then uses a 70-ton crane to haul the chunks aboard.

The ice is taken to Juneau where it is broken into 4,000 pound blocks for shipment to Seattle. There it is made into ice cubes, bagged and shipped in refrigerated containers to Japan.

The ice is made from water which fell as snow thousands of years ago, and then was slowly compacted into glacial ice. Formed when there was no pollution, the ice has been tested 24 ways and is outstanding in its purity according to the reports.

Density of the ice - it is 1.7 to 2.2 times harder than normal ice - causes it to melt more slowly. Because of its purity, the ice imparts no taste to beverages as it melts.

Mike Fielding of Austin is lining up investors to bring the product to Texas where he expects it to sell for about $2.50 for a three pound bag. The ice sells for $3.30 a 2.2 pound bag in Japan.

The novelty of the glacial ice, plus the fact that it adds no taste to a beverage are selling points for the aged product.

Junior high wins, one, loses one

STOCKMAN SPORTS
by Clint Landon

Ozona's 8th Grade Cubs won their first game of the season Thursday night, Oct. 20, in Eldorado against the Eldorado Eagles; however, the 7th Grade Cubs lost their game to the Eagles.

Although the 8th Grade Cubs were unable to score against Eldorado in the first quarter, the defense, led by Larry Sanchez and Manny Munoz, played hard and tough against the Eagles.

The Cubs' first six points came in the second quarter of play when Leroy Martinez took the ball into the end zone for the touchdown. Also during the second quarter, Joe Mendoza, aided by Sanchez again, and the rest of the Cub defense worked over the Eagle offense.

The Cubs were able to put another score on the board during the third quarter when Jason Yeager ran the ball around the right side of the Eagle defense and went in for a Cub touchdown. Shortly afterward, Andy Borrego ran the ball into the end zone for the two point conversion. Ozona's 8th Grade Cubs now led 14 to 6.

The Cubs' final touchdown came in the fourth quarter. Chad Upham ran the ball seven yards and added another 6 points to the Cubs' side of the scoreboard. Borrego again ran the ball for a successful two point conversion.

By the time the final seconds had ticked off the clock, the Ozona 8th Grade Cubs had ended their season-long losing streak by defeating the Eldorado Eagles by a score of 22 to 6.

Even with the encouragement of Michael Fay's 61 yard run for a touchdown in the first quarter to start the game off right, Ozona's 7th Grade Cubs couldn't quite overcome

Eldorado Eagles claw Ozona Lion J.V.s, 26-14

STOCKMAN SPORTS
by Copie Davis

Although volatile split end Adam Alba exploded for two touchdowns and 170 yards on five receptions, and quarterback Danny DeHoyos racked up 254 all-purpose yards by himself, the Ozona J.V. Lions turned the ball over seven times and virtually gave the Eldorado Eagles a 26-14 victory.

On the opening kickoff, DeHoyos grabbed the ball and raced 59 yards to the Eldorado 21-yard line. Then, only three plays later, he dropped back and lobbed a picture perfect 21 yard scoring strike to Alba who snagged the ball in the end zone. Right back Marcos Quiroz added the 2-point conversion, and the Lions took a quick 8-0 lead.

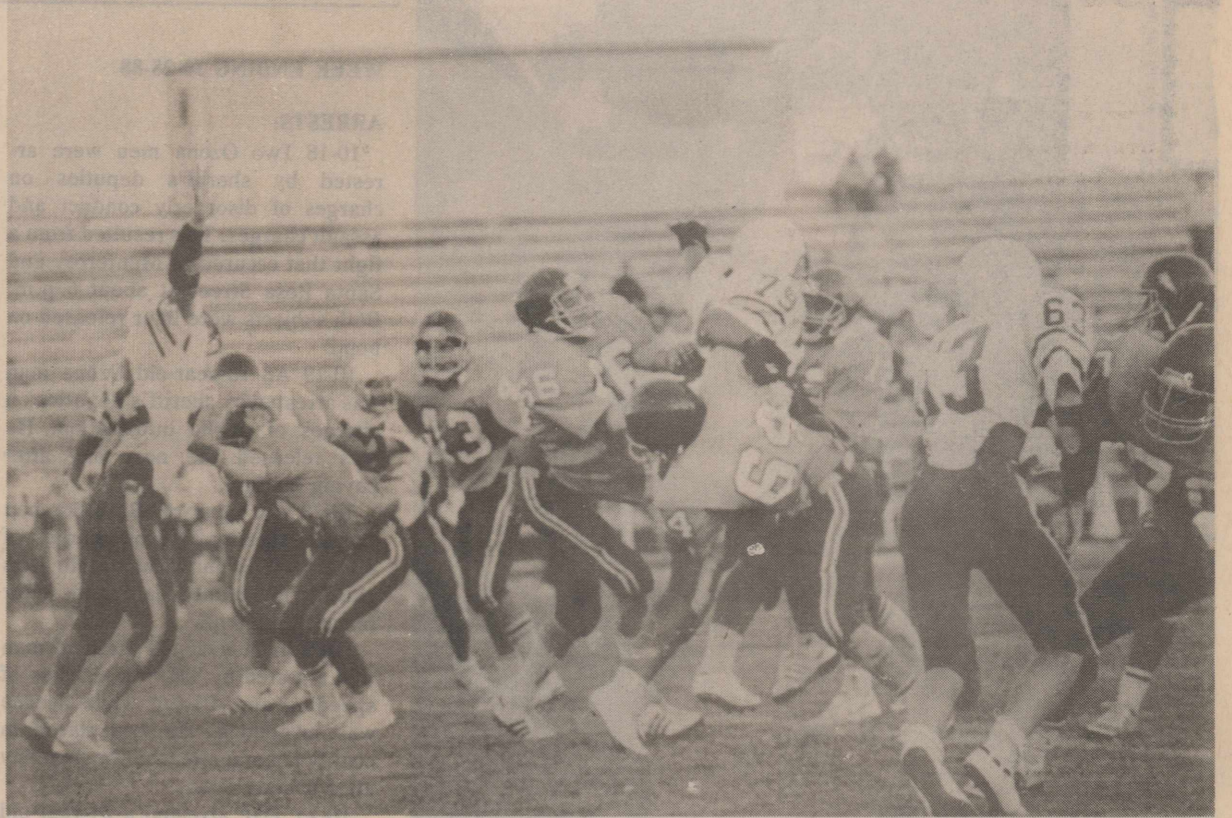

After Alba put the Lions on the board, his heads-up play gave Ozona the ball back. On the ensuing kickoff, hard hitting DB Jimmy "Hit Man" Williams jarred the ball loose and Alba alertly pounced on it. However, the Lions lost the ball two plays later on a fumble.

Another fumble occurred on the very next series which was recovered this time by Robert Dominguez. Three plays later, DeHoyos hit Dominguez streaking across the end zone for a TD, but it was called back on a penalty. Then, Eldorado's defense rose to the occasion, sacking DeHoyos and causing a fumble.

In the second quarter, Ozona's only two drives ended in the same way...by interception.

The Eagles picked off their second pass of the night with less than a minute remaining in the half, then marched 34 yards on nine plays. The drive culminated on a 10-yard touchdown pass with :33 left on the clock. The PAT was no good, and the Lions took an 8-6 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

On Ozona's first possession of the second half, the Lions traveled 83 yards in seven plays, largely due to the Alba-DeHoyos Express. The two teamed up for two completions on two attempts for 80 yards with the climax of the drive coming on a 51 yard aerial strike that came with 1:23 left in the third quarter. The PAT was unsuccessful, and Ozona now led 14-6.

At the very end of the third quarter, Eldorado began a drive that started on their own 39-yard line, and, due in large part to some hard running by the Eagle backs, turned out to be a game tying possession. With 7:58 left in the game, Eldorado hit pay dirt on a 20-yard touchdown pass. The 2-point conversion was good, and the game was knotted at 14-14.

The Lions got the ball back and drove deep into Eldorado territory before an Eagle defender stepped in front of a DeHoyos pass and rambled 70 yards for a TD. With 4:54 left, Ozona trailed 20-14.

The Lions regained the ball, but an aggressive pass rush that sacked DeHoyos seven times in the game forced him to unload an errant pass which was picked off. Two plays later, Eldorado scored their third touchdown of the quarter on a 6-yard run with 2:24 left to put the game on ice.

After a desperation pass by DeHoyos was intercepted on the last play of the game, the clock ran out with Eldorado on top 26-14.

Statistically, the Lions blew Eldorado out of the game. Ozona gained 268 total yards to Eldorado's 120.

Ozona rushed the ball 27 times for 105 yards, and DeHoyos was 7-23-163-2-4 on the night through the air, while Eldorado rushed 32 times for 65 yards and was 5-13-55-1-0 passing.

The Lions' leading rushers were Daun Williams and Marcos Quiroz who each rushed nine times for 36 yards. DeHoyos also rushed the ball six times for 21 yards.

The Lions' offensive sparkplug was Alba who snagged five passes for 170 yards and scored two TD's. Defensively, Alba recovered a fumble and had three tackles.

Also recovering a fumble was Robert Dominguez.

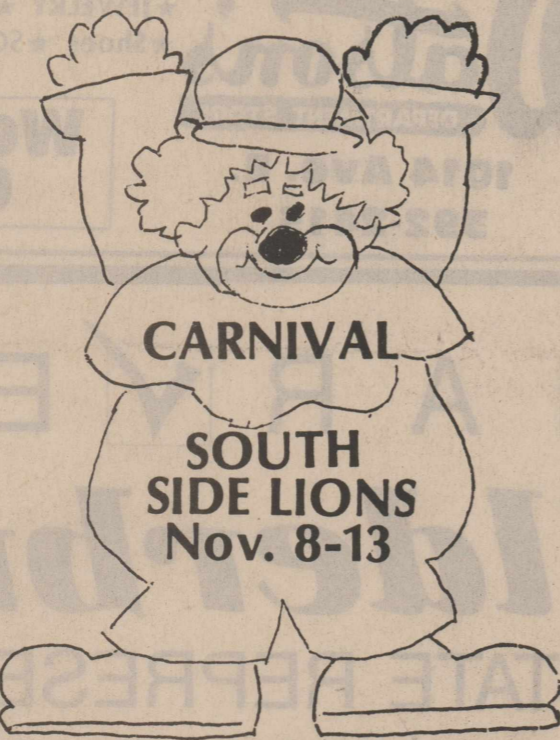

Leading the Lions in tackles were Jimmy Williams, Daun Williams, and DeHoyos. Jimmy Williams had six tackles and caused two fumbles, while Daun Williams had five tackles and DeHoyos had eight.

the powerful playing of the Eldorado 7th Grade Eagles.

The strong defensive playing of Daniel Caldera, Bart Grimes and Fay, along with the rest of the Cub defense, couldn't keep the Eagles from scoring again and again. In spite of the overpowering play of the Eagles, Sammy Hinostrroza totaled 32 yards rushing and Fay totaled 109 yards in 14 carries.

Even though they played a strong defensive game, when the final whistle blew, Ozona's 7th Grade Cubs had succumbed to the Eldorado Eagles 6 to 22.

David Currie for State Representative

A WEST TEXAS DEMOCRAT WHO CARES ABOUT CROCKETT COUNTY

The Only Candidate with the Combination of Experience, Maturity and Ability to get the Job Done Right

I've known David Currie a number of years and I know he will be effective in Austin. He will wear well and not sell out. He's not going to be a $100 vote or a $1,000 vote or a $10,000 vote. He's got deep roots. Family roots, traditions and values and roots in agriculture and oil and gas. He knows how state government works and he can do this job."

Bob Krueger Former 21st District Congressman

"The Sims and Currie families have been friends since 1879, ranching in Concho County. David Currie is respected and talented. He's the man we need to work with my Dad, Senator Bill Sims. They'll make a good team - for the benefit of the people of this district."

Teacher harassment yields win for no pass/no play

The state's no pass/no play rule scored a major victory in Waco where a federal court jury awarded $77,000 in damages to a high school teacher who was herself disciplined for refusing to illegally change the grades of an academically failing football player.

A four-man, two-woman jury handed down its verdict against the Waco Independent School District, superintendent James Hensley, and principal Wilbur Luce on Friday evening, Oct. 14, Waco High School's homecoming night.

The 95,000-member Texas State Teachers Association backed teacher Sue Collins in the case, which sends a clear message that academic performance must be the top priority of all Texas schools.

Citing violations of Collins' constitutional First Amendment rights and the Texas "Whistle Blower Act," the jury for the trial presided over by federal Judge Walter Smith directed the Waco ISD to pay Collins $25,000 and Hensley and Luce to pay her $1,000 each for "stress and mental anguish." In addition, Hensley and Luce were ordered to personally pay Collins $25,000 each in punitive damages, sums not covered by district liability or other insurance and for which the two men are personally liable. The school district and two administrators also were ordered to pay $1 each for the First Amendment violations.

TSTA President Charles N. Beard, Jr. hailed the verdict and said, "It tells the teachers of Texas that they can't be forced to violate the rules, the law, or their conscience and that TSTA is going to stand by them wherever they are. Administrators and school boards are not above the law."

Ozona kin receives 4-H honor

Collin Coy Worley of Midland County was chosen outstanding junior boy for District VI when 4-H'ers competed Oct. 22 in Fort Stockton. Worley is the 13-year-old son of Mike and Cyndie Worley of Midland County. He is in the 8th grade at Greenwood Junior High School and is a member of the Midland County 4-H Horse Club. Coy is an honor student, member of the Boy Scouts of America, Little League baseball team and attends Greenwood United Methodist Church.

The active 4-H'er is a junior leader in the foods and nutrition, clothing, sheep and horse projects. He has served his club as reporter, sergeant-at-arms and as a member of numerous committees. In addition, he has served on several county and district committees.

A four-year member of 4-H, he has participated in citizenship and community service projects, method demonstrations and recordbooks. He has carried projects in breads, foods and nutrition, clothing, fashion revue, sheep, horse, consumer education and gardening.

Coy has been honored for his achievements in these project areas at the county, district and state levels. Some of these awards are: plaque for outstanding leadership, Midland County, first place county fashion show, first place three years in the county food show and first place three years in the district food show. He earned first place for three years in method demonstrations at the district contest, and was recipient of the grand champion youth award in the food division of the Howard County Fair.

Attending the Oct. 22 award ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Al Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Whitehead.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
As I was walking down one of O.H.S.'s many halls today, Dan McClung (physical science teacher) pulled me aside and handed me a slip of paper. It read like this:

'Dear Band Members,
Congratulations on your Division I award on Saturday. Of 14 double A bands performing, you were one of six who received such recognition. The pride, skill, talent and sportsmanship that you all displayed on Saturday made me very proud to be a part of O.H.S. The recognition which you have brought to O.H.S. creates a pride in the entire student body and faculty. Thank you for a job well done. I hope for your continued good luck through the 1988-89 school year. I am so proud of you all!
Mr. McClung'

I would also like to thank you, band. Never in my life have I experienced such a feeling as I did on Saturday. As I walked down the steps of the stands at Bulldog Stadium in Brady to accept the Division I marching trophy I heard my family, friends and fellow band members cheering for me - for themselves. Pride swelled up inside me. So thank you parents, fans, fellow band members, Daddy Glaze, Mr. Carrol, Mr. McClung, and everyone else who supports us. You have helped make us the best we can be. Mr. Glaze said it was a 'phenomenal performance' and it was. No - we didn't make it to regionals this year, but that should make us hungrier for it next year. So - I expect, when Mr. Glaze and Mr. Carrol walk onto the track at Memorial Stadium in Austin to accept the trophy for state champs next year, to look around the stands, with the same tears in my eyes as last Saturday, and see every parent, fan, and supporter up there yelling for us. We can do it! I hope to see you there!

Thanks again,
Jennifer Colin
P.S.
I would like to send out my congratulations to Amy Graham and Misty Fowler on a job well done in their solo twirling contests. Amy received a division II and Misty, who will be advancing to state competition, received a division I. I am so proud of both of you!

[Editor's note: As a standing rule of The Ozona Stockman, we do not print letters to the editor that are not signed, but we take exception to the rule for the following letter.]

To Ozona,
I never thought that a letter like this should be written, but I ask you, the editor, if you would kindly print this in your paper.
I am in my early 20's. I have been active in my church and at one time taught the religion.
Although this letter is not directed to anyone in particular, I know I speak for many people who have been criticized! I'm still active, at times, in my church, but not as much as I used to be, and I'll tell you why.
I always thought that everyone went to church to listen to the word of God, but then something threw me off. I had to stop, regroup then I asked myself these questions, 'Who are these people who sit in a church and criticize how the others are dressed? Who are they that see someone that goes to church, who hasn't been there for a long time, and say, 'My God, the roof is going to cave in!' Who are they that shake your hand as you come out of church, but then later in the day judge you by who you are with and what they do?' To these people I offer these scriptures, Luke 6:32-36. And if that is not enough, Luke 6:37-38 and Luke 12.

These people know who they are and I pray for them. Imagine this, (Luke 15:7) there are drunks, drug addicts, and prostitutes across the street from your church. You are in the church with Christ and praising him, but then you criticize those people who are across the street. Tell me that Christ wouldn't get up and leave you in your church with your criticism, and walk across the street and sit and talk with those people. Now stop, re-group and tell me, 'who are you?' Only you know and sometimes you show it so clearly that even you don't realize it!

Now I write to those who don't go to church because of these people who appear to be 'holy' and find out later that they are the same ones who take the role of God and judge. Go to your church, listen to the word of God because that's why we go, at least I used to think. Next time you hear the snickering, the whispering, look their way, smile and pray for them and always remember, on judgement day, they will be judged also, but by God, not man!!

Signed,
The one who is least among you all!! Mathew 18:3, Luke 12, Luke 15:7, Mathew 10:24, Peter 4:19, John 8:7.

To the editor,
I'm sorry I am not signing my name. I didn't because I don't want people giving me special treatment. There are a lot of us out there, and everyone should deserve that treatment! When I see things change for the better, then I will reveal myself. Please print this because I really believe that God wants this message to be read. If not, the urge wouldn't have been as strong!

Thank you

Student council joins drug fight

Ozona High School's Student Council has joined a program to fight drugs in Texas.

'Texas War on Drugs' has clubs throughout Texas trying to get teenagers to believe in themselves instead of turning to drugs.

Tuesday, Student Council members went to the intermediate and primary schools giving speeches about the program and drugs.

'If everyone works together, there is a possibility it will help the schools,' said T. C. Tucker, president of the Senior Class.

The program is giving students a choice between drugs and being drug free.

Lion Booster Club extends deadline

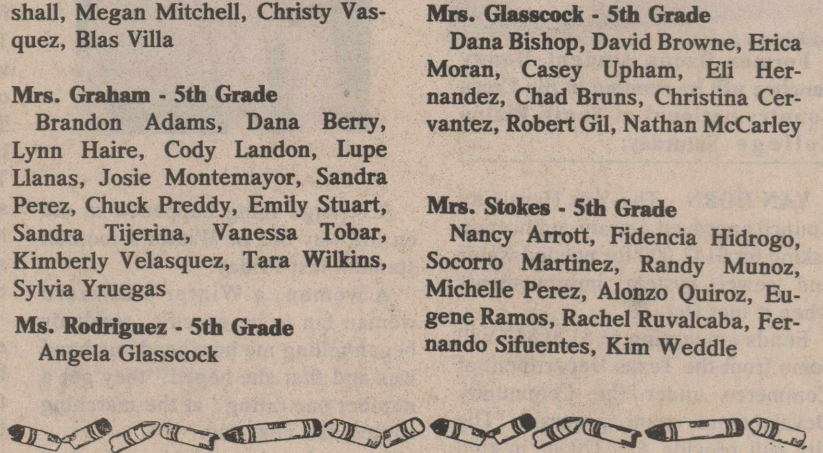

Lion Booster Club is extending ordering time through this week for T-shirts, shorts, totebags and sweat-suits.

'We have a bunch of cardboard sunscreens for windshields,' Tina Moran said. 'Any Booster Club member can sell you a sunsreen for $5.00.'

The sunscreens have a lion and 'Ozona Lions' on one side in purple and gold. The reverse side has a call for help message to be used in case of breakdown.

Lion Booster Club meets every Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. during football season in the high school auditorium.

Insecticide ear tag removal essential

Cattlemen who use insecticide ear tags for horn fly and ear tick control should remove the old tags during fall roundup.

"Tags that have been attached to an animal for four to five months will not emit sufficient insecticide to adequately control the total fly populations," said Billy Reager, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

During the past three fly seasons, use of pyrethroid impregnated ear tags has created a statewide problem with insecticide resistance to all currently labeled pyrethroids for the horn fly. Cattlemen with a fall calving season will usually work their cattle during the period from October through Christmas.

"This is an excellent time to get the old tags removed since cattle will be in the pen for other veterinary practices"

The ear tag system for fly control exerts a constant selection pressure on the pest population and results in killing the weakest and most susceptible pests. Other pests which have the genetic ability to survive a sub-lethal dose of insecticide become parents for the next pest generations. Within a two-year period, this selection process can develop a pest population highly resistant to all labeled chemicals of the pyrethroid type, according to the agent.

Cattlemen who used ear tags in 1988 with a phosphate insecticide containing diazinon have been pleased with the level of animal protection from flies and the extended residual control achieved. Information from commercial tag manufacturers indicate phosphate resistant horn flies also may develop if proper management techniques are not used by the rancher, said the agent.

Cattlemen may get a false impression that the old ear tags are still killing flies. Populations naturally decrease in the fall as flies go into their overwintering quarters. The old tag is not helping with control but is silently adding to selection pressure, thus making the surviving population more resistant to the target insecticide.

Decrease in the fall daylight (less hours of daylight) and cooler weather conditions are environmental factors that include pest diapause. Horn flies spend the winter months in the soil as a diapaused pupa. Fall fly tag removal is just a good management practice to reduce additional resistance development to the valuable list of insecticides.

"Once insect pests become highly resistant to a class of insecticides, the economic incentive for future use of that compound is greatly reduced," said Reager.

Brucellosis-free herds increase

Brucellosis free herds in Texas have increased from 46 to 1,969 since 1980, said Billy Reager, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"The 185, 124 animals certified as brucellosis-free in July of 1988 is a far cry from the 46 herds certified eight years ago," the agent said.

Producers with certified herds have advantages and fewer restrictions when shipping or selling cattle.

"Animals from certified herds do not have to be tested at market, and cows sold from these herds for breeding stock may command a higher price," he said.

The agent said that producers interested in herd certification must enter into an agreement with the Texas Animal Health Commission and have the herd's blood tested to ensure none of the animals are infected with brucellosis.

Follow-up tests will be taken 10 to 14 months later and if no sign of the disease is evident, the herd receives joint certification from the TAHC and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The herd must be tested yearly and remain free of the disease in order to remain certified.

"The largest certified-free herd in Texas has more than 7,000 head and is part of the Granada Land & Cattle Company in Wheelock."

Fayette County has the largest number of certified herds, with 43 at present. Next comes Washington, Van Zandt and Navarro counties, each with 38 certified herds. Other counties with at least 35 certified herds include Chambers, Henderson and Bosque.

Mauro unveils pistachio farm

Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro on Wednesday introduced a demonstration pistachio farm that was established to show the economic potential of millions of acres of arid West Texas land.

Mauro developed the farm in Reeves County using water-conservation principles perfected by the Israelis, who are known for their success in dryland farming.

Mauro said the farm had 20 acres planted with pistachios and Afghan Pine Christmas trees. The farm uses an innovative underground drip irrigation system that uses the brackish (saline) well water on the site rather than fresh water.

"When I went to Israel in 1984, I saw how the Israelis had made the desert bloom. The type of soil and water they had to deal with was similar to what we have here in West Texas, yet our arid lands are underutilized and relatively unproductive," Mauro said.

The farm is phase three of Mauro's plan for the economic development of the area.

Phases one and two of the project involved the hiring of an Israeli consulting firm to study the possibility of applying water-conserving irrigation technologies in West Texas, and to develop a detailed proposal for an experimental farm using these technologies.

The Texas General Land Office, with the support of the University of Texas, Texas Tech, Sul Ross and Texas A&M Universities, contracted with TAHAL Consulting Engineers, Ltd., of Tel Aviv.

"The original proposal called for an initial investment of $2 million, but we scaled it down by modifying the Israelis' costly above-ground irrigation system, adopting a domestic underground system," explained Mauro. "By using the method of irrigation the initial cost of the project for two years was reduced to $150,000."

"We did implement their recommendation to grow pistachio trees because they are highly tolerant of saline water, and the only water source on the farm is a brackish well."

The Land Office manages 800,000 acres of Permanent School Fund (PSF) land in the arid Trans-Pecos region, 200,000 of which produce little or no income for the PSF.

"We want to prove to the farming and business communities that this land can be commercially viable," Mauro said.

The partnership which leases and manages the Reeves County farm plans to expand their 20 acres of pistachio trees to 150 acres and to add other non-traditional crops, such as peppers and sugar beets within the next three years.

More funding is needed to bring the project to its full size. To become a profitable, large scale agro-industrial enterprise, the undertaking requires several thousand acres of fruit-bearing pistachio trees and a processing and packaging plant.

"The goal is to return some of these thousands of acres to productivity so that they can make a significant contribution to the funding of our children's education," said Mauro.

Sixth-graders learn self-improvement skills

Parents of sixth-graders, give yourselves a pat on the back! Your kids may act at times like they grew up in the jungle, may make you tear your hair out in frustration, and may make you wonder why you ever wanted to be a parent—but what you're teaching them is paying off.

Ozona sixth-graders are currently involved in two lessons each month through their entrepreneurship class which relate to self-esteem and coping skills such as stress management, dealing with peer pressure, accepting others and communicating effectively. I come to the school for two days every month to present the lessons and work with the young people as part of our Extension Home Economics program in parenting and family relations.

The lesson in October was on "Improving Yourself." During the first class session, we discussed how we currently are and ways we can improve ourselves. The group then used a list of ways to improve, marking those they thought applied to them, and then came up with their own list—37 good ideas for ways to become better students, friends, family members and individuals.

The thing that came through loud and clear in the items they listed was that most parents are probably working hard to get values across to their pre-teens and that some of their teaching at home and at school is sinking in!

Probably the most common answer to the question, "How can you improve yourself and have a more positive attitude?" was to be nice to others, especially parents, brothers and sisters, and teachers. The second most common answer was to stop fighting with others—particularly family members.

Some of the more creative answers were to show friends that they care about them, be loyal, don't be a quitter, give compliments, don't be nervous in class, do things that keep them healthy, and to tell themselves they can do whatever they strive for.

When teacher Renee Schulz asked the group why they think they don't do all of these positive things all of the time, one answer stood out from the rest—"We think before we speak."

As a follow-up to this activity, the second day was devoted to learning to give compliments, since both the person who gives a compliment and the person who is complimented are enriched by the action.

Students were divided into two groups, with two "captains." Two large pieces of paper were taped to the floor, representing "lifeboats."

To get into the lifeboat from the "ocean," each person had to receive a compliment from the last person to get in the boat. During the activity, each compliment had to be something specific—the students couldn't just say, for example, "You're pretty," or "You're nice."

Compliments ranged from comments on T-shirts to glasses to shoes to sports ability to scholastic ability. Through the activity, each person had to give and receive one compliment—something it's very hard for many adults to do.

Through the nine-month school year, the students will learn a variety of things about themselves and the people around them through other such activities. In addition to the lessons given to the students, their parents will soon start receiving a monthly letter which explains the activities their children have been involved in and how they can reinforce the lessons at home.

We want to thank Mr. Hooper and the staff of Ozona Junior High School for their cooperation in this effort, particularly teacher Renee Schulz and Craig Cooke.

Other family-related programs coming up in the next year include programs on managing depression and raising self-esteem for the Progressive Extension Homemakers group, a parenting newsletter for parents of children in day-care, and special programs for various community organizations.

If your community group or club is interested in a presentation related to parenting or coping skills, contact the Crockett County Extension Office at 392-2721. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin, or handicap.

Food show draws 42 Forum studies voting process

The annual Crockett County 4-H Food Show has drawn 42 contestants this year, according to County Extension Agent-Home Economics, Tedra Ulmer.

The show, slated for Saturday, Oct. 29 at the Ozona Civic Center, is an opportunity for 4-H'ers enrolled in the 4-H Foods and Nutrition project to demonstrate their skills in menu planning, cooking and nutrition knowledge.

Each participant must choose a recipe, plan a day's menu around the dish which includes four basic food groups, and then learn about the nutrients contained in the contest dish. During the food show, trained leaders and home economists from surrounding counties will quiz the contestants on what they've learned through their projects.

Leaders for this year's project include both group leaders and individual parents. "We are trying to help parents fit the food project into their schedules and into their children's schedules so that each 4-H'er has the opportunity to learn these important life skills," said Ulmer.

Fifty-seven local donors are joining together to provide this year's awards and help finance the food show. Included are Brock and Camille Jones, Ozona National Bank, West Texas Utilities, South Texas Lumber, Mason Myers and Stokes, Thornton's Supermarket, Crockett County National Bank, Ozona Wool and Mohair, Small Fashions, Village Drug, T and T Grocery, Brown Furniture, Happy Hollow Toy Store, The Teacher Store, OTASCO, Leo Cervantez Texaco, Western Auto, Upham Insurance Agency, Monica's Hair and Nails, Willconstruct, Wool Growers Central Storage, I-10 Hamburger Hut, Flying W Ranch, Johnny Childress Real Estate, Cynthia's Beauty Shop, Energas, Alfred Enriquez Exxon, Franco's, House Fuel, Kathryn Mayfield, Troy Williams, Moran Welding and Construction, My Answering Service, The Ozona Stockman, Beth Boyd, Ozona Veterinary Clinic, J. Additional awards are provided by the Adams Extract Company, which supplies a spice or extract set to each winner, and Southwest Texas Electric Co-op, which provides rosettes for first, second and third place in each division. First-place winners receive $50 savings bonds.

Twelve winners from the county will advance to district competition. Competitors are divided into three age groups: Senior (ages 14 and older), Junior II (ages 12 and 13) and Junior I (age eight through 11). Four food categories are used in each age group. They are main dish, fruits and vegetables, nutritious snacks and desserts, breads and cereals.

Lacy Christmas tree ornaments were made in Monday morning's craft class by Ethel Youngblood, Tomasa Ramos, Juana Hernandez, Consuelo Sarabia and Moriana Perez. Materials used for the project were glue, pipe cleaners, lace, glitter, bits of ribbon and miniature animals. The finished ornaments can be seen and purchased at the upcoming Arts and Crafts Guild Fair Nov. 5 at the 4-H Barn. The ornaments are just gorgeous.

Monday afternoon was spent exercising and playing ring toss. Juana Hernandez and Consuelo Sarabia tied for the lead in ringers. On the final go around, both ladies made ten out of ten. Other residents trying their luck were: Lucy May Meinecke, Moriana Perez, Lucia Rios, Edna Wallace, Elzy Bishop and Nellie Harp.

Tuesday morning's bingo volunteers were Martha Tijerina and Yolanda Avila. Thank you, ladies. We appreciate you dropping by. Prize winners were: Harry Blatchford, Srida Senne, Elvira Pena, Moriana Perez, Minnie Karr, Virginia Hoover, Bertha Miller and Lucy May Meinecke.

Excellent films, selected by the Crockett County Library for our viewing pleasure, were shown Tuesday afternoon. They were titled "Where a Squirrel Should Live" and "Where Clouds Wait for Rain". We would like to thank the library for an entertaining afternoon.

Dry brushing was one of the techniques used in Wednesday morning's ceramic workshop. Residents attending were: Theo Burns, Hazel McDaniel, Moriana Perez, Consuelo Sarabia and Juana Hernandez.

Charles Huffman of Faith Lutheran Church conducted a short Bible study Wednesday afternoon. Much to the residents' delight, homemade brownies, made by Betty Huffman, were passed out after the lesson. We enjoyed both. Ruby Olson played the piano.

Thursday morning's beauty shop volunteers were: Vivian Hughes, Joann Williamson, Bobbie Light, Lola Rios and Audrey Smith. Vivian didn't disappoint us; she brought plenty of pictures of her new granddaughter.

Mid-week Bible study was presented by Jim Gray of First Baptist Church. David McCarley led singing. We would like to thank Jim and David for sharing their time with us. We look forward to their visits.

A large number of visitors attended the Spanish Hour of Praise Thursday afternoon, and the hymns sung in Spanish were lovely. We hope to see each and every one of them again next week. Thank you for coming.

A performance by the Knox Band ended the day's activities in a lively manner. Some of the residents danced with enthusiasm. We would like to thank Don and J. D. Kilgore and Jamie Knox for sharing their talents with us. We appreciate their thoughtfulness.

Bingo winners for Friday's games were: Juana Hernandez, Elvira Pena, Lucy May Meinecke, Consuelo Sarabia and Srida Senne. Srida won two games. Betty Moak was the helpful volunteer serving popcorn and assisting residents with their cards. Thank you, Betty.

Naughty but Nice was the theme for Friday afternoon's fashion show. Sleep wear and accessories were shown with several sheer nighties pinned up as displays. Residents and guests certainly left this activity with a comment or two.

Models were Glenda Henderson, Betty Moak, Ruth Hester, Vicky White and Mary Lee Jones. We would like to thank the ladies, The Teacher Store and Watson's Department Store for making this activity a success.

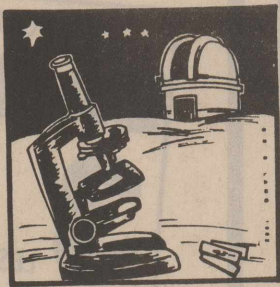

Sunday's worship service was presented by the Church of Christ. A short visitation followed.

Arnie and Marie Gerlach, parents of Mary Hillman, have arrived in Ozona for the winter. They reside in Michigan.

Martin Childress is recovering from surgery to repair a bone broken on the inside of his elbow in the J.V. game last week.

Billy Graham part of revival

You thought you knew Billy Graham...but not this one! Like his well-known counterpart, this Billy Graham is very special.

Diagnosed as having Muscular Dystrophy at birth, Billy was destined to a life of virtual blindness, in which he would be confined to a wheelchair, with a life expectancy of only eight years. But the absence of eyes that see and legs that walk were not enough to keep Billy Graham from becoming what he believes a Sovereign God had designed for him. Someone recently said, "he's blind, in a wheelchair, but he personally knows no limits to his life". Billy graduated high school and later, college, participating along the way in a variety of activities that included such things as Scouting, scuba diving, public speaking and musical achievements that includes playing the piano and drums.

Billy Graham is part of the revival team which will be at First Baptist Church, Ozona beginning Sunday, Nov. 6, through Thursday, Nov. 10. Billy will be teaching on spiritual growth each day, Monday through Thursday, from 12 noon to 1 p.m. in the church's activity center. A light lunch will be provided. Evening meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m. A free nursery will be provided.

Facts Every Family Should Know

By CROCKETT FUNERAL HOME

When a family member dies, time is often so confused that we tend to forget about the children involved. The easiest thing to think is that we want to protect them from the sorrow and pain associated with the funeral. It's easy to assume that they don't understand what is going on and so it isn't necessary to explain the things that we don't really understand ourselves. If the subject were brought up, they might ask questions that would make us uncomfortable or we couldn't truthfully answer.

When answering a child's questions about death, be honest and straightforward in your answer, even if you have to confess that you don't understand yourself. Don't make up stories that you think will make them feel better. Your answers will form their future feelings about death. Children are often more able to handle the truth than are adults.

QUESTION:
Why do people die?

Dying is a natural part of life. All living things -- plants, animals, even people -- are special parts of God's natural world. Nature almost always gives us long, healthy lives. Like all other living things, though, people grow old and reach the end of life. This is called death, or dying.

QUESTION:
Is death like sleeping?

Dying is nothing at all like sleep. People -- animals, too -- sleep to rest and stay healthy. Sleep gives hard-working parts of our bodies time to store up strength. Think of how good you feel after sleeping. You feel good because your body is rested and ready for another day.

When someone dies, their body stops working. It is not resting. Its job is over.

QUESTION:
Where do dead people go?

Most of us believe that when someone dies, part of that person lives on and goes to heaven. This part of us is not like a heart or brain or any other part of us that doctors have to take care of. It is the part of us that lets us feel love and happiness. It never gets sick. It never wears out. This part is called the spirit, or the soul. Some day, a long, long time from now, you may be with that person in heaven.

QUESTION:
What are funerals for?

One of the nicest things about being a person is that we are able to feel love for another person. This does not end when that person dies.

Funerals are for sharing loving feelings about someone who has died. They give us a chance to remember with others the goodness and joy that person brought to our lives. This takes away some of the sadness that we all feel. It also helps us understand how much others care, too.

If you are having trouble answering a child's questions about death, or you have questions of your own, please feel free to drop by Crockett Funeral Home, at 701 9th St., or write to us at Box 1901, Ozona, Texas 76943, or call us, 392-3202.

Chandler service held

Randolph Clark Chandler, 83, of San Angelo died Monday, Oct. 24, 1988, in Shannon Medical Center.

Services for the San Angelo area rancher and businessman will be at 2 p.m. Oct. 26 at First Christian Church with Rev. Jeff Robinett officiating. Burial will follow in Lawnhaven Memorial Gardens.

Chandler began ranching in 1930. He served nine years as chairman of the board for the Texas Production Credit Association, a lending institution composed of area ranchers and farmers.

He was born Dec. 27, 1904, in Stephenville to Fred H. Chandler and Annie Jade Chandler.

He was a graduate of Vanderbilt University and also attended Tarleton College in Stephenville.

He returned to the area after graduation in 1930 and began ranching 30 sections of land north of San Angelo. By the time he retired, he had bred Rambouillet sheep for 56 years. Chandler married Wilma McFarlen in 1931. He was a deacon at First Christian Church and had served nine years as director of Juliet Fowler Home, a Dallas nursing home.

He is survived by his wife, Wilma, of San Angelo; two daughters and sons-in-law, Joan and Ben H. Smith of Amarillo and Martha Ann and William K. Romoser of Oakton, VA; five grandchildren, Joan Randy Perez of Dallas, Ben H. Smith Jr. of El Paso, Teresa Schaub Smith of Dallas, Marcy Romoser of Atlanta and Scott Romoser of Oakton, VA; one sister, Mrs. Carl Colwick of Stephenville; two brothers, Joseph Chandler of Stephenville and Earl Harrison Chandler of Ozona; and three great-grandchildren.

Mr. Chandler was preceded in death by three brothers, Fred H. Chandler, Wayne Chandler and John Chandler.

Guild fair nears

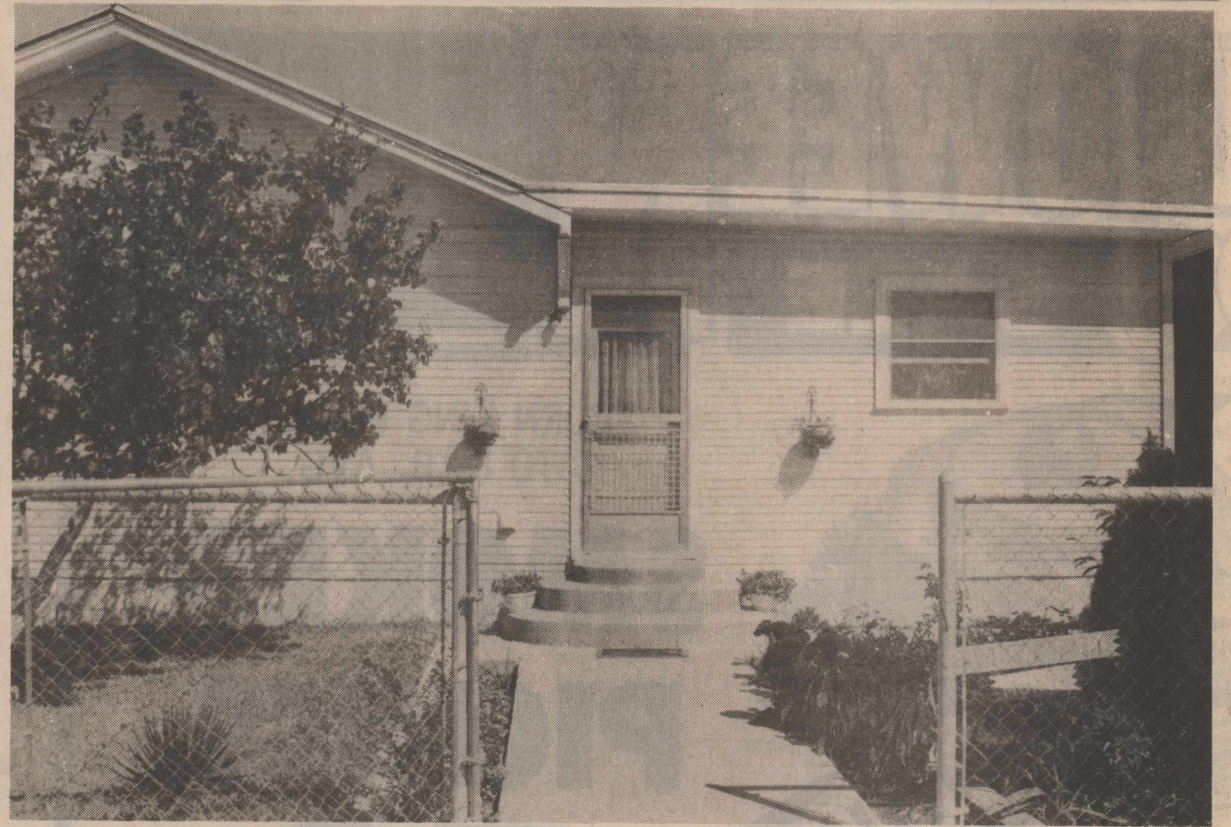

Most of the booths for the annual Crockett County Arts and Crafts Fair Guild show and sale have been reserved. A number of favorite exhibitors as well as several newcomers are expected for the Nov. 5 event, said T. K. O'Bryant, guild president.

Guild members are asked to assemble at the 4-H Barn on Wednesday morning, Nov. 2, at 8:30 a.m. to begin cleaning the area.

Court upholds Adolescent Act

The United States Supreme Court has upheld government funding to help deal with teenage pregnancy. Sexual abstinence, adoption and other alternatives to abortion can now be taught in community programs receiving government grants.

The Court reversed a lower ruling which held that the Adolescent Family Life Act was unconstitutional because it gave government funds to religious organizations without safeguards to keep the funds from being used to promote religious doctrine.

Mrs. Aurora Gutierrez' beautifully kept yard was chosen Garden of the Month by Ozona Garden Club. A wide variety of plants fill the yard which is accented by cedar trees and yucca plants. The focal point of the yard is a dazzling array of cock's combs that line the front walk.

Area Scouts to collect food

Ozona Scouts will be part of the Scouting For Food Good Turn project during November. Roy Don Scott, vice president of Standard Sales Company, will direct a massive food appeal being undertaken by the Boy Scouts of America Council and Girl Scouts of U.S.A. Council based in San Angelo during November.

As chairman of the Concho Valley Council's and El Camino Girl Scouts Council's Scouting for Food Good Turn, Scott will direct efforts of an estimated 2,000 Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts from up to 150 Scouting units Nov. 12 and 19 as they distribute and then retrieve collection bags in a 23 1/2 county area of West and Southwest Texas. A goal of collecting 50,000 bags of food has been set by the two organizations who are working jointly on this large project.

Canned goods collected Nov. 19 will be taken by the Scouts to the local charities throughout the area. These agencies will then distribute the food to the needy at no cost.

Because of the condition of the economy, many families, who never asked for help before, now find it difficult to meet even their most basic needs.

"Hunger is no longer someone else's problem," said Scott. "Scouting for Food is an opportunity for the entire area to take part in one of the finest demonstrations of community spirit in our history. The Scouts will seek canned goods with an emphasis on food most needed for good nutrition," Scott said.

Bullriders to come to Fort Stockton

Top bullriders from all over the nation will converge at the Fort Stockton Championship Bull-Riding and Bull-Fights Oct. 28, 29 and 30. About 50 riders a night will compete. Many of them have been in the national finals.

A guaranteed purse of $2,000 will go to the overall winner of the bull-riding competition, with $1,500 for second place and $1,000 for third. Cash prizes range from $6,000 for fourth place to $100 for eighth.

In addition, three pro rodeo clowns, Jeff Walden, J. J. Wilson and Chip Jordan will be on hand nightly to help the bullriders out of some tough spots. They will also give a nightly demonstration of their bull-fighting skills, taking on one of the profession's toughest 1,800-pound bulls.

Walden, who is also the advance man for the bullriders circuit says that Fort Stockton could very well be in the running for the national finals next year.

A calf scramble for cash will be a nightly event, as will wild cow milking contests.

The show will be held at the Pecos County Coliseum in Fort Stockton Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at 8 p.m.

JUST SAY NO!

CCPL will be joining the Ozona Public Schools in saying NO to drugs during Red Ribbon Week. Librarians will be passing out red ribbons to all patrons wishing to take a stand against drugs in our community. An exhibit in the library will feature books and materials on drugs and information on prevention of drug abuse from Texan's War On Drugs. Come by the library and JUST SAY NO!

LIBRARY SERVICES

This is the second in a series on library services. CCPL offers various services to the citizens of Crockett County. Many of these services are provided through our membership in the Big Country Library System of Texas. One such service is the interlibrary loan program.

Does this sound familiar? "I always wanted to read that book, but I can not find a copy at the library." Or, "I need this article for my research paper, but the library does not have it."

If it does, we can help! Ask about an interlibrary loan. We can send a request to other libraries in the state and around the United States for materials for you to use. Through the BCLS, our small library is connected by a computer data base to all the major resource centers in the United States. All you have to have is a library card. This is a FREE program funded by the state. We only request materials from other libraries who do not charge for their services. You will need to have the correct author and title of the book you need and the title, date and page number for magazines. Then you just sit back and relax. We do the rest. It usually takes about a week to receive the materials you want.

Some things we can not get: records, tapes and videos, reference or rare books, genealogy materials, books published within the last 12 months, in-print paperbacks.

Can't find what you're looking for? Ask about an interlibrary loan!

Hightowers tour New Orleans

Two hundred and ten employees of Energas, and affiliates, Western Kentucky and Trans-Louisiana Companies, converged on New Orleans last weekend for three days of sightseeing and good food, and Energas employee, Donna Hightower, accompanied by husband, Royce, were among them.

Donna won the trip as the result of a gas grill sales campaign by Energas last summer. After selling a number of grills, Donna became eligible for the drawing and won the New Orleans trip.

"About 45 of us flew from Midland last Friday afternoon and met the rest of the group at the Hotel Monteleon on Royale Street in the French Quarter," Donna said. "We began with supper at Arnaud's Friday night."

Saturday and Sunday were packed with various activities including a cruise down the Mississippi River for a couple of miles on board a river boat called the "Creole Queen".

"It wasn't a paddlewheel," Donna said. "It was just a cruise boat."

The weekend also included a second cruise on the "Cajun Queen" to the site of the Battle of New Orleans.

The Hightowers saw Loyola and Trinity Universities from a trolley car as they took in the sights.

The famed French Quarter impressed the Hightowers as well.

"We walked up and down Bourbon Street," Donna said. "That was fantastic. We just messed around there in New Orleans."

Donna was especially impressed with the enormous selection of good food offered in the Court of Two Sisters Restaurant.

"There was every kind of salad you can think of along two walls," Donna said. "The meats were along a third wall, and the desserts along the fourth. There was lots of food, good food."

"We didn't have any bad food," Donna said. "But, I didn't eat any oysters. No way."

The weather was beautiful and the entire trip a success.

"It was a fun thing for those who got to go," she said. "It was very nice."
