

Sharp remains on death row...

Motion to disqualify Judge

by Scotty Moore
James H. Clack, 109th Judicial District Judge of Winkler, Andrews and Crane Counties and presiding judge in the Michael Sharp murder case, was the center of examination by Sharp's attorney, Steven C. James, in a hearing Monday afternoon in Judge Brock Jones' 112th District Court.
The hearing was filed by James on an amended motion for disqualification of Judge Clack from habeas corpus proceedings.

Sharp, who was transferred Monday by DPS plane from death row in Huntsville and accompanied by Crockett County Sheriff Jim Wilson to Ozona, has been scheduled for execution twice, March 24, 1988, and May 10, 1989.
Sharp was convicted and sentenced to death in Judge Clack's court for the June 11, 1982 abduction and stabbing murder of Mrs. Brenda Kay Broadway of Kermit. Sharp had previously been sentenced to life imprisonment in Lubbock County for the death of Mrs. Broadway's 8-year-old daughter, Christie Michelle Elms.

An appeal to the United States Supreme Court was rejected Oct. 3, 1988, clearing the way for Judge Clack to set the most recent execution date for May 10 of this year.
Judge Clack was strongly interrogated by defense attorney Steven C. James of El Paso who accused him of being biased and prejudiced against Sharp and his attorneys during the trial.

Clack was asked such questions as, "have you ever discussed the case with the district attorney or any law enforcement agencies during the trial?"

Commissioners vote to join Concho Council of Governments

Commissioners met in a relaxed atmosphere Monday in their first regularly scheduled evening session. The two-hour meeting ended after the court voted for two items which have been discussed over a period of years.

A unanimous vote to join the Concho Council of Governments (COG) was followed by a vote electing Judge Kathryn Mayfield as the county's official representative to the organization.

Membership in the regional organization will open the way for numerous financial grant possibilities for Crockett County. The grant currently being sought for airport improvements, while not a COG grant, must be approved in part by the organization.

Membership dues are five cents per capita based on census figures for the county. Withdrawing from COG is accomplished by a vote of commissioners.

The court voted to impose the $5.00 County Road and Bridge fee on vehicle registrations. The fee will add approximately $28,000 a year to the Road and Bridge Fund according to Commissioner Chuy Castro.

The fee becomes effective Jan. 1, 1990 in Crockett County.

Membership in the Far West Texas Judges and Commissioners Association was approved. By-laws and constitution of the organization were studied before the vote. Judge Mayfield is secretary/treasurer of the group which will serve a 15 county area.

Commissioners heard from Fire Chief Dorris Haire on the 911 emergency telephone system proposed for the Concho Council of Governments area. A push to institute the system statewide will eventually force all counties to comply according to Haire.

A 50 cent per month charge on all telephone bills over a two-year period would generate funds to convert local equipment to 911 use, Mayfield explained.

Crockett County would be financially responsible for a dispatch location and four to five dispatchers.

No action was taken on the 911 emergency system.

Commissioners voted to participate in the Low Income Energy Assistance Program which will provide $1,195 in grant funds for qualifying applicants over a three-month period. Application information will be available at a later date.

Dr. Gary Vannoy met with the court to discuss the landfill used for disposal of dead animals at his veterinary clinic.

The landfill, a receptacle for animals killed on roads and streets and strays picked up by the dog catcher as well as clinic animals, does not have a permit from the Texas Department of Health. Michael Edmiston of TDH has suggested to Judge Mayfield that a ranch caliche pit be used for this purpose.

A temporary emergency permit for a landfill for disposal of animals would be easy to obtain, Mayfield said.

Development of a solid waste management plan for the county was discussed by the court. Commissioners agreed to further contact University of Texas Lands people about the possibility of a regional landfill.

Information on a trash baler necessary for such an operation indicated that equipment adequate to Ozona's needs would cost approximately $125,000. The equipment could be bought through certificates of obligation according to Sandy Stokes, county auditor.

Other topics covered during the meeting included zoning regulations for the airport, regulation of parking, an Austin seminar on public health and safety, and ratification of an application to install a pipeline.

Iraan Shockers capture chamber softball tournament

The Iraan Shockers won first place in the chamber of commerce sponsored softball tournament here last weekend. Following in second were B. T.'s Bunch of Ozona with Wes-Tex Sky Sports of Midland taking third place and the Dirty Dozen of Big Lake in fourth.

Six other teams participating in the tournament and homerun derby were: Family of San Angelo, Eldorado, McCamey Pumpers, and from Ozona, the Running Rebels, Rudy's Rookies and the Mooseheads.

Ozona's Freddy Garza won the golden glove award, and most valuable player went to an Iraan team member.

Mark Thompson of Ozona won first in the homerun derby followed by Allen Schench of Big Lake in second place.

All tournament team members from Ozona were B. T. Turland, Billy Davis and Ronald Koerth. Rounding out the team were two players from Midland, two from Big Lake and three from Iraan.

Trophies were awarded to first through fourth place teams and first through third place individuals. All tournament team members received trophies, and golden glove and most valuable player trophies were awarded.

First place prize in the derby was $100. The second place winner received $50. Each earned a trophy.

Historical Commission architect visits Ozona

At the request of Crockett County Historical Commission chairman Geniece Childress, Mario Sanchez visited Ozona June 19.

Sanchez, AIA and Texas Historical Commission staff architect, met with several merchants and Steve Williams, president of the chamber of commerce, to discuss renovation and beautification of Ozona.

His praise for the county courthouse was superb, said Mrs. Childress. One tip Sanchez gave was never to sandblast a stone building - wash it only. He went on to say the west and south sides did not even need a wash;

Fourth of July celebration to be held on the square

The Fourth of July celebration planned for Tuesday will begin with a 1 p.m. flag raising ceremony, announces Steve Williams, president of the Ozona Chamber of Commerce.

An afternoon of activities on the town square includes a pet parade at 1:30 p.m. and games such as three legged sack race and egg toss beginning at 3 p.m.

Washer pitching competition also begins at 3 p.m.

Ozona Fire Department will have a 4 p.m. demonstration on the street between Westerman Drug and The Ozona Stockman.

the patina of the stone is beautiful.

Sanchez is helping Fort Stockton in a renovation and beautification project.

The THC's Division of Architecture administers a number of programs that directly relate to the protection and preservation of the state's historic built environment. Buildings that are over 50 years old comply with regulations for historical markers and qualify for aid from THC architects. Since 1981, more than 500 projects representing approximately $465 million in construction have been processed.

A street dance beginning at 6 p.m. will conclude the Ozona Chamber of Commerce sponsored activity.

Suspect arrested in connection with four fires...

Arsonist strikes Ozona Friday morning

Four fires occurring in Ozona during the early morning hours June 23 were found to be arson, Fire Marshal Steve Kenley said Monday.

Volunteer firemen began responding to alarms at 1:41 a.m. June 23 when neighbors called in a house fire at 205 Santa Anna.

Investigation revealed that a window had been broken on the east side of the vacant house and paper set fire inside the room under the window.

Around 4:44 a.m., a call was received at the fire station reporting two grass fires in Johnson Draw, one under the I-10 bridge and one behind Whitley Welding.

Shortly after trucks had responded to these locations, firemen were notified of a fire in the hay barn at Wool Growers.

Two trucks were dispatched from the draw to that location where volunteers found hay burning in the northwest corner of the barn and in the middle of the stack.

A pumper was called to provide a supply line for water, and firemen pulled hay from the building, separating the bales that were burning.

Approximately 650 bales were damaged according to Sheriff Jim Wilson.

A second fire was set at the Santa Anna residence on June 25. Again paper was thrown through the broken window and ignited. Sheriff's deputies in the area put out the fire with a garden hose.

Following an investigation of the June 25 fire, Jose "Chapo" Rodriguez, age 41, of Ozona, was arrested on a charge of arson. The case will be referred to county court for prosecution, Sheriff Wilson said.

Hospital receives x-ray machine from Angelo Community

A ribbon cutting ceremony Friday at Crockett County Hospital marked the official acceptance of the gift of an x-ray machine from Angelo Community Hospital.

Robert Butler, chief executive officer of ACH, local administrator Bill Boswell and Judge Kathryn Mayfield were joined at the ceremony by staff doctors, commissioners and others.

"We were lucky to have had the opportunity to update our diagnostic room," said Boswell of the gift. "We feel the equipment will serve the needs of Ozona very well."

Boswell, who had learned that ACH was replacing one of their x-ray rooms with new equipment, approached ACH about the possibility of donating the equipment that was being taken out. The donated equipment was in good working order and was in daily use at ACH until it was disassembled.

The machine, valued at $100,000, would cost $200,000 to $400,000 new. Ozona's only expense was transportation and installation costs amounting to approximately $16,000.

The radioscopic-fluoroscopic x-ray equipment includes a three-phase generator, spot film device, tomographic capabilities, ceiling tube mount, tilt table and wall-mounted chest film device. Procedures that can be performed on the equipment are routine x-rays, upper G.I. (gastrointestinal) series, barium enemas, myelograms, arthrograms, IVP's (intravenous pyelograms), cholangiography (gall bladder x-rays) and most procedures that require fluoroscopy.

Ozona's x-ray technicians will be invited to work with Angelo Community x-ray technicians for a day, Butler said.

Boswell cited ACH's support as "the type of cooperation that is needed between the larger hospitals and smaller hospitals in rural communities throughout West Texas."

"The hospital welcomed the opportunity to support the physicians and citizens of Ozona," said Butler. "This should save those patients time and money in not having to drive to San Angelo for this service." Butler added that the assistance "will help make a difference in the quality of care available to people in Ozona."

Following the presentation of the equipment, Judge Mayfield read a resolution from commissioners' court thanking ACH for the gift. She also presented Butler with a copy.

Robert Butler (r), president of Angelo Community Hospital, was in Ozona last week to make official presentation of an x-ray machine to Crockett County Hospital. Accepting the donation valued at $100,000, were Bill Boswell, hospital administrator, and County Judge Kathryn Mayfield.

AUSTIN—On the heels of the veto deadline, lawmakers returned to Austin last week hoping to quickly wrap up unfinished business on workers' compensation reform.

But many cynical observers said they might be deadlocked for the full 30 days, the maximum length for a special session.

Gov. Bill Clements promised to call special sessions until the House and Senate agree on an acceptable bill.

Business and labor forces failed to reach a compromise in the regular session and allay fears insurance premiums will keep rising while benefits for workers diminish.

Right to Jury Trial
The critical issue is how to resolve claim disputes, with the House favoring an administrative system while the Senate insists on retaining the right of a jury trial.

On the first day of the special session, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby had some harsh words for business leaders who oppose jury trials.

"Who appeals to the courts most?" he said. "The insurance carriers—they appeal 57 percent of the time, and yet the idiots who represent the business community say we don't want a trial by jury. You know, this is really kind of silly."

Vetoes $11 Million
Shortly before lawmakers convened, Clements signed more than 1,000 bills into law, and vetoed several others.

In all, the governor trimmed the budget with veto power by more than $11 million and eliminated three state agencies.

The biggest zap was $3 million from Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower's agency, a parting shot for the liberal who took more heat than any other public official in recent memory.

It's no secret that budget writers have grumbled for years about the way Hightower spends his appropriations.

Other vetoes wielded by the governor effectively:

- Wiped out the Texas Aeronautics Commission, Texas Conservation Foundation, and Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

- Scrubbed a bill outlawing lie detector tests for sexual assault victims, because it also outlawed the tests for prison system internal investigations.

- Eliminated provisions that set up Attorney General Jim Mattox to transfer money from his child support program to administration.

School Funding Threat

One bill the governor inked was the school finance package, which lawmakers hope will delay court-ordered reforms in the public school funding formula.

Looming on the horizon, and potentially extremely expensive for taxpayers, is the Texas Supreme Court hearing of the appeal of a state district judge's ruling that the present formula is illegal.

Attorneys for poor districts, which are pitted against rich districts in the case, said the Legislature's $ million appropriation doesn't come close to a resolution.

Political Campaigning

Midland Entrepreneur Clayton Williams, better known as the cowboy in the TV ads for a firm he founded, entered the GOP race for governor last week amid a windstorm of party criticism.

Some Texas Republicans, including the party secretary, are making sure everyone knows about his numerous political contributions to liberal Democrats, including Treasurer Ann Richards and Attorney General Jim Mattox. They charge the funds will show up in the 1990 elections.

Williams, a legendary businessman who has founded several companies, said he gave the contributions "as a businessman and job creator," but has been a Republican since the day President Harry S. Truman fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Meanwhile, Fort Worth state Sen. Hugh Palmer said he will not run for the congressional seat expected to be vacated by Jim Wright this summer, but will stay on his course to replace U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm.

Other Highlights

- The son of state Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, got his probation extended after being charged with DWI for the fifth time in almost as many years.

The senator criticized media attention given his son while, the judge explained that a jail sentence for the wealthy senator's son would force the wife and children on welfare.

Snips, Quips & Lifts

by Lottie Lee Baker

Half our troubles come in wanting our way, the other half in getting it.

There's one thing to be said for a diet—it sure improves your appetite.

There are a lot of people who get into trouble trying to keep up with the Joneses— especially the Dow Joneses.

The higher you get in the evening, the lower you feel in the morning.

Drivers are safer when highways are dry, and highways are safer when drivers are dry.

Economy size means large in soap and small in cars.

Keep your ideals high enough to inspire you and low enough to encourage you.

Discretion is the art of forgiving your enemies— especially those you can't whip.

Love looks through a telescope, envy through a microscope.

To err is human, to forget routine.

One of the most difficult mountains for people to climb is the one they make out of a molehill.

Nothing makes a fish bigger than almost being caught.

Gossip is when someone gets wind of something and treats it like a cyclone.

People are great manufacturers. Some make good, others make trouble and some just make excuses.

Every time you think you have graduated from the school of experience, somebody thinks up a new course.

To be extremely popular, one must be more tactful than truthful.

Fact is fact, and feeling is feeling; never does the second change the first.

Men sometimes credit themselves for their successes, and God for their failures.

Valerie Perez celebrates Quinceanera

Valerie Lynn Perez celebrated her fifteenth birthday with a traditional Quinceanera on Saturday, June 10.

The celebration started with a mass at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church at 3 p.m. followed by a reception and supper at the Parish Hall.

The hall was decorated in a country-western theme. The entrance had a horseshoe arch wrapped with burlap sacks tied with rope and horseshoes. Bales of hay had colored clay pots with cactus and extended from the arch to form the entrance.

On one side of the hall, a windmill with more bales of hay displayed a colorful "Happy Birthday, Valerie" banner. Streamers shaped as Texas, cactus, longhorns, horseshoes, boots and cowboy hats decorated the hall.

The bandstand sported different colored bandana bows, rope and burlap sacks. The gift table had a large ceramic saddle and cowboy hat as a centerpiece.

Valerie, along with her brother and escort, led the Grand March at the dance in her honor. She is the daughter of Cipriano Perez, Sr. and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Perez, Sr. and Mr. Rosendo Lara, all of Ozona.

Museum receives two gifts

Dr. Delbert G. Tarter of San Angelo has presented Crockett County Museum with "Some Ozona Birds", slide collection with a descriptive booklet.

Dr. Tarter, a retired Angelo State University professor, spoke to the Women's Forum on area birds last February.

Tarter's accomplishments include compiling a field check list of Concho Valley birds, working on a five-year Texas Breeding Bird Atlas project and currently serving as regional director of the Western Edwards Plateau Region.

Mrs. Ruth Pipkin of San Angelo recently gave a Funk and Wagnall Encyclopedia set to the museum to be placed in the Wanda Watson Memorial Library there.

"The museum is indeed grateful for these generous gifts and invites the public to come by the museum and see the slide show of Crockett County birds," said Mrs. Geniece Childress, director.

Shirley and Dick Kirby returned Saturday from a 6,200 mile vacation trip to the west coast.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Linda,
Enclosed please find my check for the renewal. Want to say we look forward each week for the paper and your HIS & HERS column. Even though I've been gone nearly half a century it will always be "home town" to me.

Sincerely
Jennievee Schwalbe Wallace

Dear Editor:

Beef is back. That's good news to those of us who enjoy eating beef, whether it's a lean, tender steak; a convenient, flavorful roast; or a burger with all the trimmings. It's also good news to those of us who are beef producers.

Beef is big business. The beef industry is the single largest segment of American agriculture with sales of cattle and calves accounting for about 22 percent of total receipts from farm marketing. In Texas, cash receipts from cattle and calves totaled $4.9 billion in 1988. And every dollar of cattle sales directly generates an additional $5 to $6 of business activity in the farm supply and food businesses.

There's an important reason why beef is back. Beef producers became part of a new era in the beef industry on October 1, 1986, when the national beef checkoff program began. Through the checkoff, beef producers invest one dollar per head of cattle sales in a program which funds beef promotion, education and research at both the national and state levels.

June 27, 1989, marks the 1,000th day of the national beef checkoff program—1,000 days of solid progress for us in the beef industry. The result is a better, more nutritious and enjoyable product for consumers and improved profitability for the biggest single sector of the agricultural economy.

Sincerely,
John S. Cargile

Visiting...

Enjoying fishing, skiing and boating at Lake Amistad last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Winkley and Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Morris, Cody and Ryan and Kelli Landon. The trip was a "first and last" for Kelli. She held a fish for her first time and said it would also be her last.

Bessie Barron enjoyed the company of her mother, Mary West, this week. Bessie would have liked for her to visit longer, but Mrs. West remarked, "I don't stay one place very long."

Brandon Marmalajo has returned home after a hospital stay for surgery. Grandmother Linda Rodriguez reported he still was not feeling well due to his throat still being sore. Brandon's parents are Joe and Melissa Marmalajo. Get well soon, Brandon. Attending the fourth annual Richards' reunion last weekend was Margaret Turland. The event took place at Lake Brownwood.

Visiting with Al Cooke from Dallas this week was sister Sybil and grand-nephew Ben. Sybil remarked Al was leery of her bossing him. Age doesn't change that process. Come again soon, Sybil.

Birthday wishes go to Ashley Farris, daughter of Charles and Judy Farris June 30. Happy birthday, Ashley.

Karen and Cody Landon returned home this week after a visit with grandparents Charles and Joyce Landon in Snyder. While in Snyder, Kelli Landon, sister of the two, was fitted for her wedding dress and retrieved wedding gifts from friends and relatives.

Dora Martinez traveled to Eagle Pass last week to visit her mother, Mrs. Antonio Valdez. Mrs. Valdez had her 86th birthday during the week, and Dora was able to care for herself.

Jay and Colleen Everett, daughter and grandchildren traveled to San Antonio last week to visit Sea World. While there, they also enjoyed the sights of the zoo.

Mel Galindo, daughter of Al and Mary Galindo, visited with parents this week. Mel lives in Del Rio now and enjoys coming home to visit family and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Landon and Clint enjoyed a trip to Lake Nasworthy for fishing last weekend.

The Joe Pierce's daughters, Laura and Marie, traveled to Abilene last weekend with their aunt, Lucy Humphrey, and cousin Stephen, to attend the Ringling Brothers Circus. The children fared well by sleeping through the trip.

Returning home Sunday after a week's stay at Pecos River Encampment were Davina Rodgers, Christy Porras and Melanie Tomlinson. Also attending from Ozona were Derek Puckett, Jimmy and Bobbie Hohertz and Terry Taylor. As usual, the week was too short - in fact, some didn't want to come home.

Irene Arredondo and brother Armando recently returned from South Padre Island where they stayed for a week. While there the two visited family and enjoyed the nice weather.

Weldon Nicks of Ozona is in a Taos, New Mexico hospital after suffering a heart attack. Weldon, Cindy and children were on their way to Red River with friends Charles and Judy Farris when the attack occurred. Friends will be glad to know that even though Weldon is in ICU and will be for at least 10 days, he is doing better. Get well soon, Weldon. Many want you to know their prayers are for you and your family.

Johnny and Lynette Rodriguez were at Lake Amistad with their children when Lynette's fun was shortened with a nap. She awoke with a bright red burn.

Sul Ross hosts band camp for 150 junior high students

Ozona Junior high student Jami Dalby attended Sul Ross State University's annual Junior High Band Camp held on campus last week.

More than 150 area junior high students attended the week-long camp. Students registered Sunday and spent Monday through Saturday attending band and sectional rehearsals in preparation for the Saturday concert presented for parents and guests in the Sul Ross Main Auditorium.

Band campers were auditioned during registration and divided into three bands. Jami, who plays trumpet, was selected for the Symphonic Band.

Band camp students lived on campus in Mountainside Hall. Activities were planned each night and included dances in the Student Center Monday and Friday nights. Swimming, a scavenger hunt, Talent Night, a faculty band concert, and Olympic Night with events like the life saver relay, mummy wrap and watermelon roll were offered during the week.

The camp was organized and directed by John Faraone, Sul Ross director of bands, with assistant director Bryant Harris of Sonora High School and camp secretary June Cobb.

Band directors were Harold Floyd, Monahans High School, Honors Band; Jim Rhodes, Grandfalls-Royalty High School, Symphonic Band; and Ray Tietze, El Paso Riverside High School, Concert Band.

Ozona High School band director Kelly Glaze served as percussion instructor for the week while Michael Glaze, Sul Ross music major from Ozona, acted as a camp counselor.

DPS predicts 52 holiday deaths

The Director of the Department of Public Safety has challenged Texas drivers to show that the DPS traffic death estimate for the long July 4th period is far too high.

"The DPS Statistical Services bureau has indicated that as many as 52 persons could be killed on Texas roadways during these hours," Colonel Joe Milner said. "But the number will be lower if more drivers will slow down, avoid drinking alcohol and use a well-known safety precaution—seat belts."

Col. Milner mentioned that the July 4th period will include the weekend before Independence Day.

"The DPS Public Information Office will conduct the traffic fatality count for 102 hours, beginning at 6 p.m. Friday, June 30 and continuing until midnight on Tuesday, July 4th," he said. "As before, we'll be keeping this count with the assistance of local law enforcement agencies along with DPS troopers and communications personnel."

The final count for the 1988 July 4th period, which was 78 hours in length, totaled 32 fatalities.

Col. Milner said as part of his agency's "Operation Holiday," additional troopers will be deployed to help minimize the risk of driving on all roadways in rural areas.

Traffic fatality totals for Texas will be tabulated and released three times daily from the DPS, at 10 a.m., 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. The first report will be made at 10 a.m. on Saturday, July 1.

Are you ready?

by Connie Marroquin
Church of God of Prophecy

You know, death is one thing that most people do not think about. But as sure as you are reading this article, you will die and you will be standing before God. "And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the Judgment." Hebrews 9:27.

In this world we are always making preparation for something, but are we preparing ourselves to die? Nothing in your entire life is more important than to be ready for that day, for it will determine where you will spend eternity.

You may say, "Oh, well, I have lots of time," or "I'm too young". Read James 4:14.

For what is your life? It is even as a vapour that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away." So you see, death may come when you least expect it. It can come while you're driving your car or when you're out partying. Or it can be waiting for you in your own bed.

It is high time that you started making preparation for this one way trip into eternity. Don't put this matter off another minute. Your soul depends on it. Call upon the Lord and receive Jesus as your personal Saviour.

I leave you with one thought. "Are you ready?"
God bless you.

Extension Connection

by Tedra Ulmer, County Extension Agent
"Texas Agricultural Extension Service"

As parents, we all worry about our children when they're away from us for a period of time—whether it's to spend the night at Sally's house or moving away from home to go to college.

Age doesn't seem to matter a whole lot, either. I can remember when I thought my own mother's worries seemed silly and unnecessary—but boy, am I paying for those thoughts now with a teenager of my own!

One of the best ways we have to combat these fears for our children is to teach them coping skills they can use in everyday life. There are some things every young person needs before he or she can successfully meet all the challenges with which they'll be faced.

First, a sense of self-acceptance is vital. They must recognize that each person is unique and special and have a positive attitude about themselves. Parents can help by avoiding name-calling or a belittling attitude when talking to youngsters.

Second, they must be able to accept others in the same way. They must see the value of differences in people and learn to surround themselves with others who are supportive of them and their goals. Parents can help by teaching their young people that we build our own self-concept when we help others build theirs.

Young people must also develop values and be able to take responsibility for their own actions. However, they must also be able to recognize factors in their lives which are beyond their control. Another important part of being able to "live with yourself" is the recognition that for many areas of life, one must put forth effort long before receiving rewards.

Communication is a vital skill in today's world. And in order to stay healthy mentally, being able to communicate personal feelings both verbally and non-verbally and to interpret communication from others is extremely important. Learning good listening skills is something parents can help their children with by reading to the youngsters when they're small.

Youth need to recognize positive and negative peer pressure and learn how to resist negative peer pressure. They also need to develop decision-making skills and learn to solve problems and analyze consequences. Through these skills, they can learn the importance of goal-setting and of competing rather than comparing. By that, we mean they learn to compete fairly and have pride in their own performance.

They must also, in today's fast-paced world, learn to analyze their mistakes and be willing to try again. They must learn to experience failures objectively—"What can I do next time so I won't fail?"

Finally, young persons must learn to recognize and develop their own potential—something most of us are not particularly good at. They must develop critical thinking skills and learn how their attitude affects their performance.

If young people, helped by their parents, can learn to identify their own unique personality traits, accept both compliments and criticisms from others in a positive way, develop their own self-improvement plans and recognize that they must take risks in order to grow and develop, the world may not seem so cold and cruel.

And we parents won't have to worry

so much anymore.

Girl Scouts visit Sea World June 20

The Ozona Cadette Girl Scout Troop 95 has just returned from a trip to San Antonio to attend Sea World June 20th. Money received from calendar, cookies and bake sales made up the bulk of the troop's funds used to help finance the trip.

The girls moved at a fast pace and were able to see all the shows, most of the exhibits and still had time to roam on the Cap'n Kid playground. Highlights varied from person to person. The Shamu show and having their picture taken with the water skiers ranked high on their list of events. The trip proved to be educational as well as exciting and fun.

The tired group concluded their outing with a slumber party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Tucker.

Cadette Scouts attending were Connie Fielder, Kelli Gentry and Jeri-Lynn Tucker. Accompanying the Scouts to Sea World were Rick and Debbi Bachman and son Erik.

Mrs. John Bohannon returned last week from a visit to her sister, Mrs. George Roland of Rockwall. While away she and her sister spent several days doing genealogical research on family history at the Mesquite and Dallas public libraries. They also went to Brownwood and obtained family records from the cemetery association and public library in that city.

A&M researcher says headache relief all in the head

COLLEGE STATION - New research suggests that some relief for your migraine and tension headaches may be in your head because patients can learn skills to change headache-related stresses.

Non-medication treatments such as "Progressive Relaxation Training" combined with thermal-biofeedback and treatments with the standard preventive medication Ergotamine proved equally effective in controlling recurrent vascular headaches, says Texas A&M University psychologist Dr. Karl Hursey.

Relaxation and thermal-biofeed-back treatment involves a combination procedure of relaxing muscle groups in the body and relaxing blood vessels, thereby controlling the activation of tension in the body, Hursey explained. Successful manipulation of the blood vessels is evident by the warming of the hands.

"What I'm promoting is an alternative to treating headaches with pain killers and medications used to prevent headaches," said Hursey. "Some people find that their medication loses its effectiveness over a period of time or that continual use of that medication provides too many side effects."

Wool Growers denounce 'propaganda' in textbook

Idaho Wool Growers Association has struck out against Coronado Publishers, Inc. of Orlando, Florida, for what the association considers "subliminal propaganda" in English text used in Idaho's secondary school system.

"What is bothersome," IWGA President Jeff Siddoway said, "is textbook authors, or contributors, are being allowed to manipulate instructional fundamentals to express a personal bias. The implications of this practice are far reaching and need to be addressed."

In an exercise requesting students to write ten provided sentences and underline the nouns, the text centers around farmers and ranchers having a "misconception about coyotes" preying "on cattle and sheep." The text goes on to state that coyotes "prefer meat that has not been freshly killed and would rather feast on an old carcass."

Examples of sentences provided in the text include:

The most widespread misconception about coyotes is that they prey on cattle and sheep.

The truth is that scientists have never documented a single case of coyotes killing either cattle or sheep.

"Predation to agricultural resources, including the sheep industry, is a very serious problem," Stan Boyd, Executive Director of IWGA, said, further citing that Idaho's sheep industry lost 15,700 head of sheep and lambs in 1988 due to predators, of which, the most damaging was the coyote, killing 11,400.

IWGA has called on Idaho's Superintendent of Public Instruction, Jerry Evans to review, and implement, if necessary, guidelines for the Idaho State Textbook and Improvement of Instruction Committee to follow when approving texts for the school system. Coronado Publishers, Inc. received a similar request.

"I don't remember. It has been a long time, seven years to be exact, since the case. Everything is in the record," Clack replied.

The defense stated, "you have been helping the prosecution every step of the way, while at the same time denying the defense motions and right of application for writ of habeas corpus."

Judge Clack denied the accusations, stating, "the trial was a long time ago, and I don't remember much about it. In fact, I don't know what you're talking about. The record reflects my actions, and I did not, nor do I now have biased feelings toward Mr. Sharp."

Defense attorney James asked Judge Clack why he did not appoint another judge for the trial after it was moved to Crockett County, and Clack strongly rebutted. "I do not think that I have to explain to you or anyone else my actions as a judge."

The defense accused the prosecution's special investigator and District Attorney Mike Fostel of the 109th District of sand-bagging discovery evidence during the trial and said that Judge Clack knew of this. Clack denied the accusations.

Sharp was escorted from the courtroom and transported directly to the airport by Sheriff Wilson and deputies and flown back to death row in Huntsville.

Judge Jones denied the motion for disqualification of Clack from habeas corpus proceedings.

A&M studies effects of alcohol on physical growth

COLLEGE STATION — Health researchers have long suspected that mothers were right when they warned that drinking would stunt your growth. Scientists at Texas A&M University are uncovering intriguing new information that explains how and why it happens.

Research conducted at Texas A&M University's College of Veterinary Medicine for the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism indicates that alcohol consumption at an early age interferes with several hormones that control females' growth into and through puberty and suggest that alcohol abuse by children may have serious consequences for their physical and sexual development.

The researchers say alcohol abuse by children, even young children, is becoming a significant problem. According to the NIH's National Clearinghouse for Alcohol and Drug Abuse Information, more than 185,000 children had used hard liquor at least once a week by the time they were 10. And in 1985, almost 100,000 children aged 10 and 11 were drunk at least once a week.

TOOLS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Seal Your Outdoor Surfaces With Ease

Giving your home a stitch in time can help hold down costly repair bills in the future, experts agree. Making things easier for the do-it-yourselfer are two new tools for sealing wood, concrete and blacktop surfaces.

Roll'r Coater is designed to apply driveway sealant to blacktop surfaces. Independent testing shows that Roll'r Coater spreads sealant 87 percent faster than traditional brush applicators with its 19 1/2" foam roller. It also spreads liquid sealant more smoothly thanks to a special gravel remover and molded squeegee edge that smooths away puddles on uneven blacktop surfaces. New from Empire Brushes, one of America's leading producers of quality cleaning and home maintenance supplies, the Roll'r Coater's foam roller is mounted to a black plastic frame, and attached to a hardwood handle. Refills are available, so Roll'r Coater can be used again and again.

The Seal'r is designed to apply sealants, stains and preservative compounds to wood, masonry and concrete surfaces. The 19 1/2" roller even holds harsh solutions. The special Seal'r Tray is one of the largest on the market. Impervious to petroleum distillates and solvents, it's an excellent complement to The Seal'r. The refill comes complete with endcaps, rounding out the total system. The hardwood handle is attached to the package and sold as a complete unit.

Both items are available at local hardware stores and home maintenance centers.

Marijuana, inhalants harm youth

Growing up is tough enough without the added stress of using drugs or alcohol, says the Texas Medical Association. Yet it is estimated that two-thirds of American youth use an illicit drug before they finish high school, one in five smokes cigarettes daily, and almost half report they have been drunk on at least one occasion.

The United States population is changing in relation to alcohol and drug abuse. If you are 35 years or older, the first drug you tried was probably alcohol. If you are 35 years or younger, you also are likely to have experimented with marijuana. In 1965, the average age of introduction to alcohol or drugs was 13 years old; now youths are trying these substances as early as 9 years or younger. The result is that we now have a more drug-oriented than alcohol-oriented population of people, although for adults, alcohol is still the most commonly abused drug. However, among our youth, marijuana is the most frequent drug of choice.

According to Dr. Lawrence Warton, TMA member and recently retired psychiatrist at the Faulkner Center (for substance abuse treatment) in Austin, there are some big problems with the public's perception of marijuana. First, on the street (or in the schoolyard) advice is that marijuana is not medically harmful, yet, medical advice now says this drug is indeed very harmful. Dr. Warton explained that the myth that marijuana is a harmless drug was perpetuated in the sixties when most of the research was conducted with marijuana that was 1/10 the potency of pot available now.

Studies now show that marijuana causes brain deterioration in rats four times faster than alcohol, said Dr. Warton. In human users, "a motivation syndrome" occurs. This is indicated by loss of motivation or drive to complete a task or achieve a goal. In adolescents, Dr. Warton feels this is a very real loss because young pot users have "a lot of potential, but no outcome; tremendous dreams and nothing to get there." Marijuana also impairs short term memory, and since all learning is dependent on this skill, the lack of short term memory represents a serious handicap for a young person. In addition to harming the brain, marijuana is especially harmful to the developing bodies of young users. THS, the most potent ingredient in marijuana, is stored in the fatty tissues of the body, therefore it targets organs richest in fat, including the brain and the gonads. As a result, physicians are seeing more birth defects as a result of marijuana use, and increased infertility in men and women.

Oops, strike three, you're out. Randy Branch of B.T.'s Bunch came on strong with a double at his next time at bat during the championship game against the Iraan Shockers, Sunday, June 25.

When choosing a drug, cost and availability are major factors, so for some, this rules out a relatively expensive drug like marijuana. When looking for an affordable drug, young people often turn to a category of drugs called "inhalants" and this includes gasoline, paint thinner, correction fluid, ethyl chloride or "poppers", a solvent called "Rush", paint, spray paint, and glue. Like marijuana, inhalants never should be considered harmless. In fact, they are more toxic to the central nervous system than most other illicit drugs. It is extremely easy to overdose on inhalants because if oxygen is cut off from the brain for more than 20 or 30 seconds, the user can die. In addition, heavy sniffing can result in senility and permanent brain damage.

To assist young people in overcoming pressure to use drugs during a very difficult period of their lives, the Texas Medical Association urges you to show interest in your youths' activities, and help cultivate new interests by introducing them to sports, music, books, and other hobbies.

Support their growing independence and encourage responsibility. And finally, show your youth that you love and respect them. In this way, you can help ease the pains of their growing up by pointing them away from substance experimentation and abuse.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization with more than 29,000 physician and medical student members. It is located in Austin and has 116 component county medical societies around the state.

Federal response to drug threat

In the past month, three grisly, drug-related mass murders along the southwest border were brutal reminders that drug cartels are shifting their smuggling operations.

We're seeing more and more drugs smuggled through Texas.

As further proof, the Drug Enforcement Administration reports that in 1988 a ton of cocaine was seized in Texas. By 1988, law enforcement officials seized over six tons -- a 500% increase in less than three years.

It is not that our state has a bigger drug abuse problem than the rest of the nation. It is that Texas, and other states along the border, are increasingly becoming the chosen points of entry for drug smugglers.

According to border law enforcement officials, the situation is reminiscent of South Florida in the late 1970's and early 1980's. The US Border Patrol reports that it has seized more cocaine and marijuana in the first six months of fiscal year 1989 than it did in all of 1988 -- which was a record year for such seizures.

Responding to these shocking numbers, law enforcement agencies along the border have dramatically beefed up their resources to fight these growing drug cartels. Task forces involving federal, state, and local police agencies have tried to coordinate these resources to the most optimum benefit.

Still, these officials are being overwhelmed by drug-related crime. In most places, 50-75% of arrests continue to be drug-related.

Obviously, we must do all we can to stem this tide of poison that is flowing across our southern border. Although we are constantly told that federal enforcement is being strengthened, the problems continue to get worse. We need stronger action. The Administration claims that an additional billion dollars is going to our war on drugs this year. But, when I talk to the Senate Budget Committee, they tell me the figure is closer to only $200 million.

That is why I was recently joined by seven other senators from border states in asking "Drug Czar" William Bennett to declare the 2,000 mile US-Mexico border a "High-Intensity Drug Trafficking Area."

Such a designation would immediately pump more federal enforcement officers and resources into the border area. This would strengthen the manpower and structure of the present drug interdiction forces.

While this would be a good first step, it should by no means be the only one. Powerful and consistent action is vital to beat these drug lords and halt the flow of drugs through Texas.

I will continue to push hard to see that the federal response is adequate to the growing drug threat.

Fort Lancaster...Then.....and.....Now

THEN...

Transportation through frontier Texas in the 1850's was difficult at best and totally unimaginable (even deadly) at worst. An article in the Fort Davis Express, Vol. 1, No. 1 said, "Before the railroad came to West Texas in the early 1880's, the most common method of traveling was by stage coach. The El Paso Stage Line, with its branches, encompassed nearly 900 miles of so-called roads from San Antonio to El Paso. The trip, besides being expensive, was very uncomfortable. In 1855, when Major-General Zenas R. Bliss, then a 2nd Lieutenant, was traveling to Fort Davis, he wrote the following account of his trip:

"On the first of October 1855, I went to the stage office in San Antonio and engaged my passage to Fort Davis. I paid fifty dollars for my fare and sixty dollars for the transportation of my trunk on the stage...the celerity wagon (the one in which he rode) might have been comfortable if it had been properly loaded, but it was filled with mail bags, forage and baggage nearly to the top, so that there was no room for anyone to sit up, and I, the only passenger, had to crawl and lie on top of the load with my face within a few inches of the canvas top."

Not only did the frontier soldiers have to face the discomforts of travel; what about the wives of soldiers? In the book I Married a Soldier by Lydia Spencer Lane, an accurate account of travel is given through the perspective of an army soldier's wife: "Again I saw Camp Lancaster, the worst of all the posts in Texas. The road to it led over a hill, which was even worse than those we crossed going Burgwin, and exceeds my descriptive powers. I had laughed when told of this dreadful hill, and my friend said she knew I would not ride down it; I replied I never got out of the ambulance, no matter how bad the road might be. When I came to the top of it and saw what was before me, I pulled open the door of the ambulance and was on the ground in a second and walked to the bottom of the hill. How ambulances and wagons ever went up and down such a place without being dashed to pieces I cannot imagine, but then nothing ever seemed to happen to army wagons...No one had much inclination to watch his neighbor, nor care about his appearance; he had enough on hand trying to keep alive until the sun went down, when there was relief until next day.

"Those hot prairie winds were very trying to a woman's complexion, and husband often compared the color of mine to a new saddle. I never tried but once to take care of my skin, and that was when I first crossed the Plains, going home. Some one made me a chamois-skin mask, which I put on one day and frightened the baby so badly that it is needless to say the mask was laid aside after that one trial, and I never made an effort again to preserve my complexion.

"During those scorching hot days it was necessary to leave camp very early, that most of the travelling might be done in the cool of the morning. Reveille frequently sounded at 2 a.m., and by three breakfast was over, tents down, wagons packed and nothing else to be done until 'boots and saddles' rang out, when the recruits fell into line, officers mounted their horses and the ladies and children crept sleepily into the ambulances, and we were off for a slow, tiresome march, the brides no doubt thinking it was not much fun after all to marry an army officer. I for one never regretted having done so and loved every thing connected with the army: the officers -- not always the wives, however --, the soldiers, mules horses, wagons, tents, camps, every and anything. So I was in the army and part of it."

NOW...

Lancaster Hill is not quite as treacherous as once described. Our air-conditioned automobiles seem to glide down the paved road with an almost impassionate indifference to the difficult mode of transportation once available. Historical documents and history in general should give us an appreciation for the present as well as a positive expectancy of the future.

I will be leaving Fort Lancaster this week to fill the position of Park Superintendent at the Sebastopol State Historic Structure in Seguin; we should be open by September of this year. I have thoroughly enjoyed my stay in West Texas and hope that ya'll will come visit the Sebastopol House in the near future.

Crockett County Care Center News

by JoAnne Marshall

Chocolate flavored Teddy Grams were tasted during Monday morning's show and tell activity. The tiny treats were delicious.

Movies were shown Monday afternoon. "Jimmy's Kite" demonstrated the art of kite making. It also explained the reasons for different parts of the kite. "Designs of the Wind" was not about wind. It was about animals of the wild. Residents enjoyed seeing the elephants and other animals in their natural habitat. Both films were educational, and we would like to thank Crockett County Library for sharing them with us.

Tuesday morning's bingo winners were: Harry Blatchford, Tomasa Ramos, Frances Davis, Srida Senne, Adelaida Smith, Hazel McDaniel, Theo Burns, Elvira Pena, Bertha Miller and Virginia Hoover. Helpful volunteers were Sophie Kyle and Georgia Kirby. Activities are always more fun when they are shared with friends. Thank you, Sophie and Georgia.

Tuesday afternoon Frances Davis walked away with all the prizes in Wheel of Fortune. She won all three games. Not bad for beginners' luck. Contestants were Theo Burns, Hazel McDaniel, Srida Senne, Lucia Rios, Juana Hernandez, Olive Berry and Juan Hernandez.

Ruthie Doris was the hard working volunteer for Wednesday morning's ceramic workshop. Thank you, Ruthie. We appreciate your help. Residents participating were: Theo Burns, Hazel McDaniel, Moriana Perez, Consuelo Sarabia, Srida Senne, Frances Davis and Juana Hernandez.

Thursday morning's beauty shop volunteers were Joann Williamson, Lola Rios and Audrey Smith. They may have been small in number, but they sure weren't small in talent. Thank you, ladies. You did a splendid job.

David McCarley of First Baptist Church conducted a song service during the Thursday afternoon mid-week Bible study. Maxine Brown kept everyone in tune by playing the piano. Residents expressed their gratitude for Maxine and David's visit during a short visitation that followed the service.

Thursday's activities were ended with the Spanish Hour of Praise under the leadership of Chele Fuanos. Communion was offered, and Spanish speaking residents enjoyed a short visitation afterward. We would like to thank the members of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church for attending. Your weekly visits are looked forward to.

If there had been a grand prize award for the most bingo games won in Friday morning's bingo, Srida Senne would have surely won it. She won three games. Other winners were: Juana Hernandez, Nellie Harp, Adelaida Smith, Lucia Rios, Hazel McDaniel and Minnie Karr.

Residents were thoroughly entertained by Razzle Dazzle the clown Friday afternoon. Razzle Dazzle was accompanied by her lovely daughters, Heather and Julie Tallant. Heather is the international rope skipping champion, and after her performance, we know why. We were amazed at what she could do with a jump rope. Julie impressed the residents with her artistic abilities by drawing several pictures. Residents were delighted to be selected to participate in some of the magic tricks.

The Razzle Dazzle show was full of comedy and magic, and the residents were thrilled by the performance. If you weren't there, you missed a treat. Door prizes were awarded after the performance.

We would like to thank the following businesses for making the fun-filled performance possible: T&T Supermarket, Freddy Funeral Home, Collett and Son Gun Shop, Cervantez Texaco, Crockett County Abstract, Hillcrest Motel, Shot's Convenience Store, Adcock Pumping, Cameras Two Frame Shop, Ozona Floral, Perry Brothers, Village Drug, Baker Jewelry, Westernman Drug, The Foot Note, M&M Cafe, Wheeler Mechanic Service, Hubbard Body Shop, Enriquez Chevron Station, Thornton's Supermarket, Ozona Wool & Mohair Co., Best Western Circle Bar Motel, Crockett Automotive, Jim and Janet Wilson, House Fuel Co., South Texas Lumber, B&C Automotive and Wool Growers Central Storage.

A special thank you goes out to the Templo Bautista Jerusalem Ladies Bible Class for the great job of mending they do. We appreciate their kindness.

Hunger rising among Texans

In modern America, where the abundance of food has created an entire industry aimed at helping overeaters to lose unwanted pounds, it is ironic to think that a growing number of people in Texas are actually going hungry.

But according to a 1988 survey by the Texas Department of Health, increasingly more women and children, even those receiving public assistance, are forced to eat less than they need, or to skip meals altogether.

The survey, compiled from 4,194 voluntary responses by public health clinic clients, confirmed results of similar surveys in 1984 and 1986, that hunger in Texas has risen sharply in this decade.

Nancy Robinett, director of the TDH Public Health Nutrition program, said, "Since the cause of hunger, more often than not, is insufficient income or a lack of other resources, the rise in the number of people going hungry is tied directly to the growing number of people in poverty."

Since 1980, Robinett said, the number of Texans living in poverty has increased by about 50 percent, from two million recorded in the 1980 census to three million estimated in 1987.

"For the purposes of the survey," Robinett explained, "we defined hunger as having to skip meals, or having to eat less because the family did not have enough food."

The survey reveals that:

*In nearly one third (27.9 percent) of the 4,194 reporting families from 83 counties, the mother had skipped one or more meals, or had eaten less, in the previous month because the family lacked food. In 12.3 percent of these families, the children also had gone hungry.

*The incidence of skipping meals and eating less increased as the families' incomes decreased. Some 32.5 percent of mothers and 15.3 percent of children in families with annual incomes less than $5,000 suffered hunger during the previous month.

*While the 1988 federal poverty index was $11,650 a year for a family of four, some 58.8 percent of respondents to the TDH survey had family incomes less than $10,000, including 42.7 percent of respondents with incomes less than $5,000 for the family of four.

*Participation in food assistance programs, such as the federal Food Stamp program or the TDH's Supplement Food Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) did not eliminate the problems of hunger. Families in these programs include those with incomes too low to pay for needed food not provided by the government.

Robinett said, "This survey confirms not only that the less money you have, the more likely you are to have to go hungry--it shows that even with current government assistance, some people still have to go without food."

"Ultimately, these conditions all but guarantee future health problems for some of these low-income families," she added.

Mario Sanchez, architect with the Texas Historical Commission in Austin was in Ozona June 19 at the request of local Historical Commission chairman Geneice Childress to discuss renovation and beautification of Ozona.

MADD organization opposes early parole for drunk drivers

By Cathy English

Last year Troy Dal Richburg decided to drive while intoxicated, and five people lost their lives in Midland County. Two others will spend the rest of their lives living with injuries and memories. The dead included: Derek Sanchez (age 7), Amanda Hiarker (age 16 months), Amanda Ramirez (age 11), Amy Ramirez (age 16) and Acension Ramirez, Sr. (age 38).

For this crime Richburg received a 10-year sentence for each count of involuntary manslaughter. He only has to serve 10 years because Texas does not allow the stacking of sentences. Due to overcrowding and the good behavior system in the Texas Department of Corrections, Richburg will be eligible for parole after serving only six to 10 months.

If you feel that this is wrong and would like to do something about it, our organizing chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving would like to invite you to attend our next meeting Thursday night, June 29, at the Crockett County Public Library at 7 p.m. A petition to oppose the granting of probation or parole to Troy Dal Richburg will be circulated at this meeting. If you are unable to attend the meeting but would still like to sign the petition, contact the chapter organizer Cathy English at 392-3878.

Attending the wedding of Allen Dews and Cindy Morgan in Hartford on Friday were George and Ruth Hester, Rick and Hazel Storms, Rev. Jim and Kay Gray, Jacinda Marley and Alena Faye Hokit.

Sorority runs concession

Xi Sigma Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi manned the concession stand for the Ozona Men's Softball Tournament held Saturday and Sunday. The 1989-90 Ways and Means Committee, Nancy Hale, Billie Morris, Roylan Sullivan and Barbara Burger, planned and organized the concession stand.

Other members working to keep the spectators and players supplied in soft drinks and snacks included: Jeanne Wellman, Debbie Phillips, Susan Womack, Barbie Meyers, Bobbie Fatout, Brenda Newton, Connie Jennings, Marsha Cannon, Arlene Clayton, Donna Sanders and Marcy Williams.

The club would like to thank Sarah Hignight, Jean Taylor, Circle Bar Pit Stop and Lilly Construction Co. for donating supplies.

Funds made from ways and means activities are used for the club's budget, which includes community service projects. The next fund raiser will be the drink booth on the square during Independence Day festivities.

Blood drive scheduled for July 12

The Ozona blood drive with United Blood Services is scheduled from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m. Wednesday, July 12, at the Ozona Chamber of Commerce building.

"The demand for blood is constant, even in the summer months," said Paula Kennemer, Community Relations Representative of United Blood Services. "It is important that people remember to take a few minutes out of their busy schedules to donate regularly during July and August to help maintain a safe and adequate supply of blood and blood products."

United Blood Services is this area's nonprofit community blood provider. The organization collects blood from volunteer donors, then tests, processes and distributes it to 24 area hospitals. To supply the needs of these hospitals it requires 75 units a day.

We encourage each of you to try and donate, said a spokesperson for the organization. "If you do not qualify and would like to help out, talk to a friend or neighbor and get them to donate in your name."

If you need more information, contact Judy Adams at Ozona Chamber of Commerce, 392-3066.

Legislature enables affordable home care

As a result of legislation recently passed, beginning Sept. 1, 1989, elderly Texans with incomes up to $1,104 a month will be eligible for Medicaid supplements to pay for their nursing home care. This is a dramatic improvement over the current income cap in Texas of only $715 a month - one of the lowest in the nation. Many people needing nursing home care but with incomes of only $800 or $900 a month have been unable to get the care they need, or have had to rely on family members for their support.

The Texas Department of Human Services, which administers Medicaid, estimates that some 5,000 elderly needing nursing home care will become eligible under the new income cap of $1,105.

The Legislature also expressed its intent that in subsequent years the income eligibility cap should be increased to stay current with increases in social security benefits. In addition, the Legislature asked that "to the extent permitted by federal law," these same new income criteria be applied to community care for aged and disabled.

Nursing home administrators across the state herald the action as a clear sign that elected representatives in Austin are growing in their awareness of and commitment to the needs of the elderly in Texas and urge families of patients to let them know they are appreciated.

REMEMBER OUR DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Monday

They Fought for Freedom...

Our Freedom.

It took courage. It took a strong belief in personal and national freedom to take the first step toward becoming an independent nation.

It began with a small group of men signing the Declaration of Independence.

To the brave men and women who pledged to each other their lives and their fortunes for a dream... to the men and women who continue today to fight for the freedom that makes us America...

We Salute You.
