Lions look good in scrimmage against the Sanderson Eagles

By Tammy Davee

The Ozona Lion J.V. and varsity football teams scrimmaged Sonora and Sanderson Friday in Ozona giving fans a preview of the 1989 season.

The JV game got off to a rough start, but Ozona took the ball and made a clean pass. The touchdown was never made as the linebacker was sacked 30 yards from the goal.

On second down, Sonora was penalized five yards to put them 25 yards from the goal. The Broncos took control and swept Ozona to the other side of the field.

Ozona tried to hold on, but Sonora made a touchdown. By the end of the game, Sonora had two touchdowns and Ozona zero.

Players for the JV team were tentative and thus are not necessarily permanent JV players.

Ozona's varsity team made a showing that same afternoon with a lot of good team effort. Early on in the game, Ozona took the ball from Sanderson. The quarterback threw a winning pass to his lineman who in turn ran for the goal line, giving Ozona a touchdown.

Ozona and Sanderson battled the ball, and in the crossfire more than once managed to sack the referee.

Toward the end of the scrimmage, the Ozona varsity boys took the ball from Sanderson and headed for the goal. For a time it looked as if Sanderson was going to take the runner down, but the lineman's fancy footwork paid off as he danced past the goal line to make the second score for Ozona.

"The Lions have a good chance to do well this year," Coach Don Payne said last week during a team photo session. "There are more kids out than usual - 63 - and a lot of seniors."

Ozona will scrimmage Van Horn Sept. 2 at 5 p.m. in Fort Stockton.

Mix 'em up boys!

The Ozona Lion junior varsity had their work cut out for them during the Friday scrimmage against Sonora. The varsity squad scored two touchdowns against Sanderson and will scrimmage Van Horn Saturday, Sept. 2 in Van Horn.

Grass fires keep firemen busy

A grassfire on the John Childress ranch burned approximately 100 acres Monday afternoon in a fire that started when a heater was being repaired at a J. Cleo Thompson location.

The first call at 2:50 p.m. occupied volunteers manning three trucks and the van until 4 p.m.

Volunteers were called to the area again at 4:24 p.m. when the fire rekindled. A county water truck and blade truck also responded. The 11 volunteers used 5,100 gallons of water before returning to the station at 8 p.m.

The earlier call required 1,500 gallons of water.

A small grass fire in the yard of a home at Piedras and Ramos Streets was attended by two trucks at 4:02 p.m. Monday. Firemen were back at the station at 4:12 p.m.

Roadside fires which spread into pastures called out volunteers Aug. 22 and 25. On Aug. 22 an 11:28 a.m. fire 30 miles south of Ozona on Hwy. 163 spread to the Adams Ranch, burning 15 acres.

Firemen used 1,500 gallons of water and returned to the station at 1:13 p.m.

The fire rekindled at 4:22 p.m., and volunteers used 3,000 gallons of water before returning to the station at 7:02 p.m.

Four acres burned on the Pancho McMullan Ranch Friday afternoon. Volunteers were called out at 2:11 p.m. and returned to the station at 3:14 after using 300 gallons of water.

Commissioners accept motel tax committee recommendations

A 6 p.m. hearing conducted by Crockett County commissioners Monday night drew no comment from taxpayers. After 15 minutes, court members adjourned and talked informally until the 6:30 regular meeting.

Commissioners voted to accept the recommendations of the motel occupancy tax committee following a presentation by Steve Williams.

The recommendations formulated by a five-member committee provide for Ozona Chamber of Commerce to receive 75 percent and Crockett County Museum 25 percent of taxes collected.

Williams commented that this recommendation was made after several committee meetings, reviews of state and area surveys, the hearing of budget proposals, and a consideration of the law regarding usage of the tax.

Other recommendations from the committee include an annual review of disbursements and required submission of new budgets by the two organizations receiving funds.

Motel occupancy tax income figures based on 1988 occupancy from local motels indicate a possible $27,961 in income for the chamber and $9,350 for the museum.

The court ratified a written contract between the hospital/care center board and R.N. Nancy Whitehead. Mrs. Whitehead serves as care center nursing consultant four hours a week in compliance with a federal requirement.

4-H livestock feed program underway

The Crockett County 4-H Lamb Feeding program will get underway next week. 4-H members will receive their lambs at the 4-H feeding barn on Tuesday, September 5 at 5:00 p.m.

At the present time, there are 61 boys and girls signed up to feed lambs this year and this is a slight increase over last year. According to Billy Reager, County Extension Agent, it is not too late to sign up for the 4-H feeding program. Any youth who will be in the 3rd. through 12th. grades are eligible to be in 4-H and participate in the feeding program.

The deadline to tag lambs for the county 4-H feeding program will be Saturday, September 16, 1989. The commercial ewe lambs will also be tagged and weighed into the feeding program on Saturday, September 16, at the 4-H feeding barn between 9 and 12 a.m.

For more information on the feeding program call the county Extension office at 392-2721.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

Appointment of Janie Chandler to the Crockett County Civic Center board to replace Lillie Lujan was approved.

During a discussion of non-agenda items, commissioners considered solutions to a landfill problem which has been compounded by the no-burning law going into effect Sept. 1.

Possibility of a regional landfill to include Schleicher, Sutton, Irion and Crockett counties will be investigated further.

Consideration was given to the need for a trash baler and housing for the equipment whether a landfill is found locally or elsewhere. Requirements for a trailer to transport baled trash to a distant location were also discussed.

The September court agenda will possibly include an item concerning personnel to operate equipment to cover trash daily since no burning will be allowed.

Commissioners agreed to begin discussing personnel policy at their next regular meeting.

Monument information incorrect

A Texas Highway Department monument placed on the southeast corner of the town square relates basic information about Crockett County, not Emerald townsite. The incorrect information accompanied a photograph of the monument in the Aug. 23 issue of The Stockman.

The marker, formerly located at a roadside park east of Ozona, tells of the formation of Crockett County from Bexar Territory Jan. 22, 1875, and its organization July 7, 1891.

Other information explains that the county was named in honor of David Crockett, a member of the U.S. Congress from Tennessee who was killed at The Alamo. This information ties in with the Crockett monument centered at the end of the square and explains to visitors to the community the reason for the Crockett statue.

Dove season opens Sept. 1

Dove season for the North and Central zones of Texas begins Friday one-half hour before sunrise. In the South Zone, the season opens Sept. 20 through Nov. 18, then opens again Jan. 6-15.

Mourning dove season in the Central Zone, which includes Crockett County, will be split. The first portion of the season ends Oct. 30 and opens again Jan. 6 through 15. The season in the North Zone ends Nov. 9.

The Central Zone covers an area from below Interstates 10, 20 and 30 from Fort Hancock to Texarkana to north of a line along U. S. 90 and IH 10 from Del Rio to Orange.

Shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. A total bag limit of 12 doves (mourning, white-winged and white-tipped) may not include more than two white-wings and two white-tips. Possession limit is twice the daily bag limit.

Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 2 and 3, will be the first of two weekends of white-winged dove hunting in a special area along the Rio Grande from Fort Hancock to Port Mansfield. The second white-wing weekend will be Sept. 9-10. During this special period, shooting hours are noon to sunset. In the special strip reserved for the two weekends of whitewing hunting, mourning dove season ends Nov. 14.

Bag limit of a total of 10 white-wings, mourning and white-tipped doves may not include more than five mourning doves and two white-tips. Possession is twice the daily bag limit.

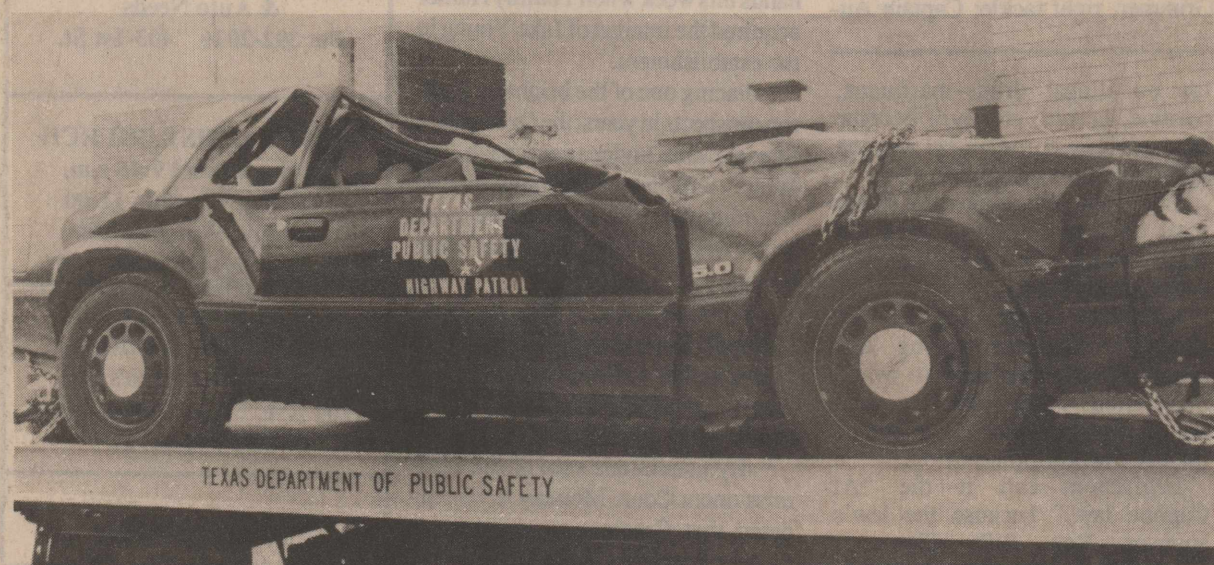

Anyone taking white-wings must have a valid $6 white-winged dove stamp in possession in addition to a valid 1989-90 hunting license. Current Texas hunting and fishing licenses expire at midnight Aug. 31.

Just passing through Ozona

AFTERMATH-A fortunate DPS trooper, Shawn Melson, and another Fort Stockton man, Cory Elmore, managed to escape serious injuries Friday night, Aug. 18 by ducking down in the front seat just before a tractor-trailer sheared off the roof of this patrol car. Trooper Melson, accompanied by the passenger officials said was cleared to ride with him, was on his way to a livestock-vehicle accident in the Coyanosa area, crested an overpass and saw the tractor-trailer turning onto U.S. Hwy. 285 and blocking both the north and southbound lanes. Guardrails prevented the trooper from leaving the highway.

The car slid beneath the trailer, which sheared off everything above the dashboard. Fort Stockton rescuers used the Jaws of Life to free the trooper and his passenger. The truck was driven by Benny Raymond Allen.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN-Gov. Bill Clements told lawmakers to convene on Nov. 14 for a second special session on workers' compensation insurance which may well set the tone for the 1990 political campaigns.

In other Capitol events last week:

The head of Public Finance Authority said Texas is deeper in debt because state agencies are borrowing money they don't need and can't use.

Attorney General Jim Mattox warned former Govs. Mark White and Dolph Briscoe not to enter the Democrat gubernatorial primary.

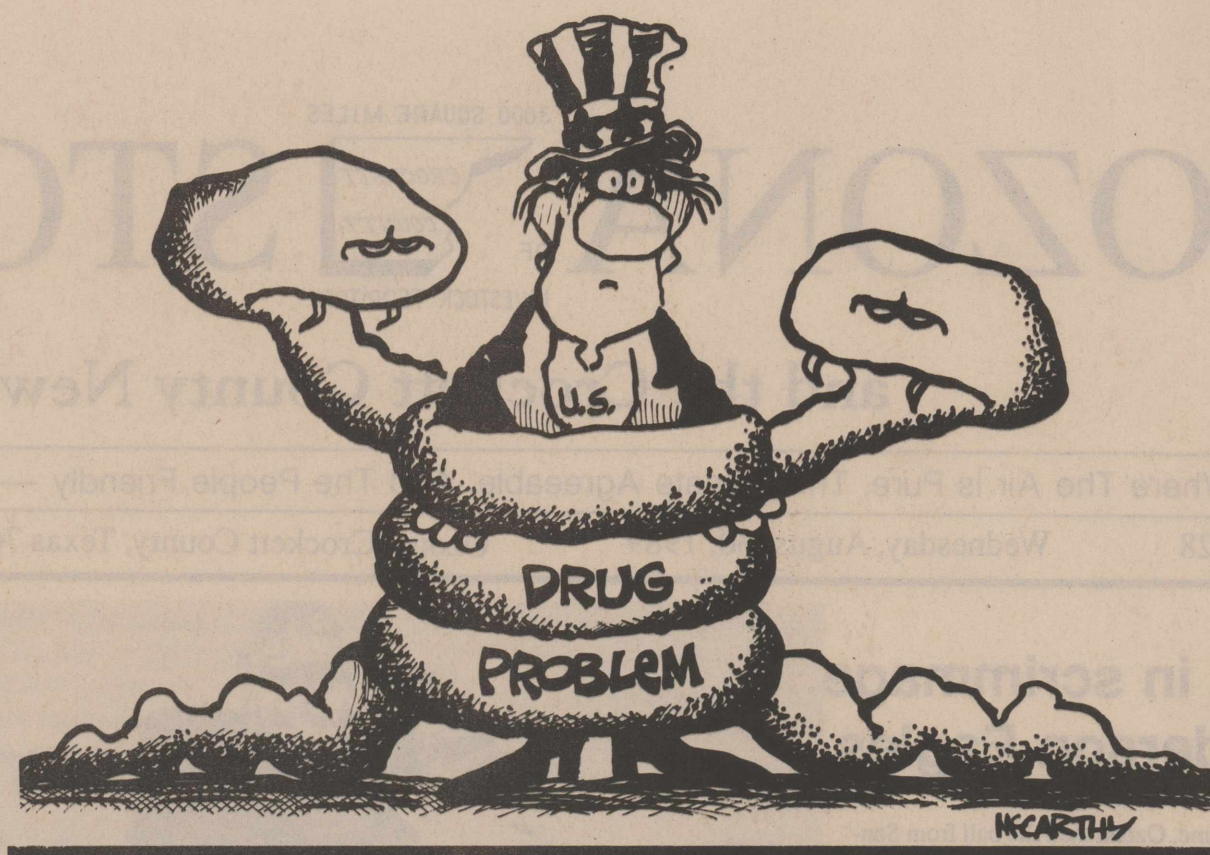

Several current and former state legislators signaled they may enter the Nov. 7 special election of a successor to the late Congressman Mickey Leland.

Session Showdown
 The special session may well produce a showdown between the state's two most powerful officials, Clements and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Or maybe a compromise hammered out in the interim will sail through quickly, allowing lawmakers to return home before Thanksgiving.

Up to now, the workers' compensation issue has been largely an issue pitting pro-business forces against trial lawyers and labor unions.

But if the confrontation scenario prevails, the issue could well be Republican vs. Democrat come November.

Although both Clements and Hobby are "lame ducks," the results of the session, which concludes just weeks before spring primary elections, will doubtless signal momentum for those campaigns.

Clements staunchly defends the pro-business position, and will probably veto any bill he thinks a shortfall.

In previous considerations, Hobby, a Democrat, championed keeping jury trials, favored by trial lawyers and unions.

Last week, Hobby wrapped his arms tightly around the ball, promising to introduce legislation he called his solution to the workers' comp issue.

It could be the compromise or the confrontation, but if Hobby is carrying the ball, no power short of a veto can stop him in the Texas Legislature.

The occupational disease of politicians is SPENDICITIS.

Now that we have Medicare we can enjoy diseases that once we couldn't afford.

After all, the high cost of living seems unimportant when we consider all of life's fringe benefits.

The only time when ends meet these days is on the football field.

Nothing is as dead as yesterday's news - except yesterday's prices.

Crime's story would be shorter if the sentences were longer.

Blowing out the other fellow's candle won't make yours burn any brighter.

It's easier to point the finger than to offer a helping hand.

The critical tongue gets its wrapping orders from an untrained eye, an ungrateful heart and an unthoughtful mind.

If you can pat a guy on the head when you feel like bashing it in, you are a diplomat.

Nations could safely lose their arms if statesmen wouldn't lose their heads.

Successful dieting requires that you do the opposite of baseball players - stay away from the plate.

Why is it that someone that has the willpower to give up smoking doesn't have the will power to stop bragging about it?

It's especially hard to work for money you've already spent for something you didn't need.

Most of us can live peacefully with our own faults, but the faults of others get on our nerves.

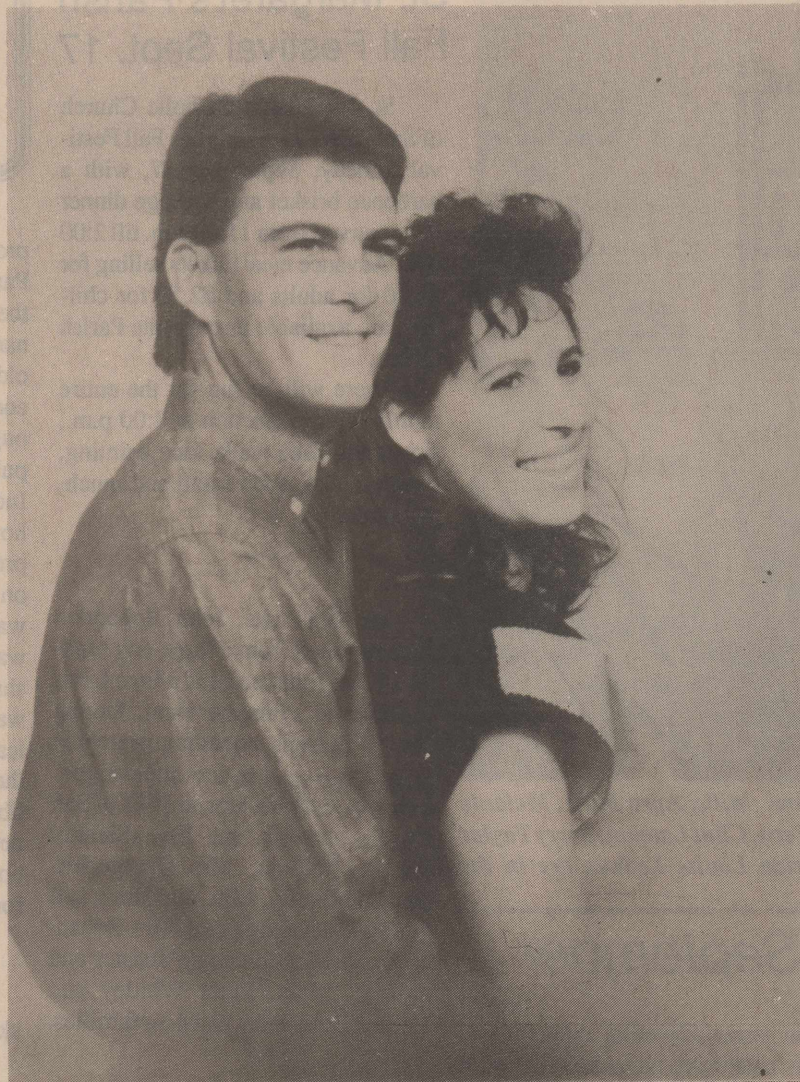

Isn't it true that we judge ourselves by our best intentions and others by their worst faults?

Crockett County Public Library News

CCPL wound up the summer programs with a great presentation by Park Superintendent Ron Alton on the Story of Ft. Lancaster. Mr. Alton narrated a wonderful slide show of the old fort, he highlighted the history and purpose of the fort and also the ongoing activities available to the public now. He outlined the different Indians that inhabited the area and how the military met the challenge of protecting settlers and wagon trains on this important route to the West. It was a wonderful presentation and I want to thank Mr. Alton for coming to share the fort with us. I especially want to thank all the kids who came to learn and enjoy the program. This is the last of our summer programs at the library, but we're all ready to start a new school year with lots of new books and materials for reports or just for pleasure. Come check it out!

National Lamb Month changed to September

Once celebrated in April, the American Sheep Industry Association has changed National Lamb Month to September, so that it better coincides with the time of year when lamb is more plentiful and available to consumers at the best value.

Although for the last few decades Americans have consumed considerably less lamb than beef or pork, the picture is changing, with lamb becoming the fastest growing meat for its per capita consumption. Spurred on by the popularity of ethnic foods, which incorporate lots of lamb, and the low calorie, nutritious alternative lamb offers to any diet, this meat is taking on new prominence in a healthy way. A three-ounce serving contains only 176 calories and 78 milligrams of cholesterol (comparable to other meats). It provides 75 percent of the Recommended Dietary Allowance for B-12, nearly 20 percent of the RDA for iron, 30 percent for zinc and 43 percent for protein.

For food lovers everywhere, National Lamb Month proves a great excuse to discover firsthand the value, versatility and ease of preparation of lamb, which is consumed by more people worldwide than any other red meat.

Because it is raised naturally and unaffected by the hormone and antibiotic issues affecting other meats, today's lamb has never been better. If you haven't checked your grocery case lately, you may be surprised to find that fresh American lamb now comes in more than just a leg.

The Scientists Tell Me...

Shelf Life of Corn Tortilla Extended by Preservatives

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Tortillas are a staple food throughout Mexico and Central America. In the United States, they are used in a variety of ethnic foods such as tacos, enchiladas, tostadas and tortilla chips.

Growing demand for fresh table tortillas and preservation and marketing problems prompted a recent study by scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES).

Most tortillas sold in the U.S. in the past were distributed or marketed under refrigerated conditions to extend shelf life. However, because of consumer marketing trends and expanded volume, tortillas were moved from refrigerated areas to dry storage shelves of supermarkets.

This forced tortilla manufacturers to find alternative methods to control the staling rate and bacterial activity to extend the product's shelf life. But there was very little practical information available for tortilla manufacturers on the use of preservatives, according to Dr. Gary Acuff, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station food microbiologist at Texas A&M University.

"The most popular method to extend shelf-life of corn tortillas is to produce a product highly alkaline (pH 9 or above) by addition of hydrated lime (calcium hydroxide). However, addition of lime affects the appearance of the tortillas, producing a yellow product," Acuff said.

"Little information is available on the effect of lime content on the microbiological shelf life of corn tortillas. Addition of antimicrobial agents, waxy products and gums to prevent staling and extend shelf life of tortillas also is a common practice in industry," he said.

"Our study presents information on the use of common antimicrobial agents to extend shelf life," Acuff said.

Tortillas were collected fresh, on the day of production, from three tortilla factories by the TAES researchers (Acuff, Alfredo Tellez-Giron, Drs. Lloyd Rooney and Ralph Waniska). Each factory used different amounts of various preservatives in preparing of the tortillas.

The commercial tortilla manufacturers who supplied the product conducted cleaning operations after each production shift. But the plants lacked adequate sanitation and proper ventilation of the facilities, Acuff said. During production hours, windows and the service back doors leading to the loading docks and alleys were left open to cool the production areas.

The shelf life of most of the commercially-produced corn tortillas was under eight days. However, mold and yeast counts for one of the products did not increase during the storage period, and this product did not spoil throughout the duration of the study (14 days).

This particular product was kept under visual observation for 45 additional days without visual spoilage. The extended shelf life of this product was probably obtained by the addition of an extra 1.0 percent of a commercial antimicrobial mix to the corn flour, which already contained an undisclosed amount of other antimicrobials," Acuff said.

Analysis of these tortillas in the laboratory showed they contained four times more propionic acid and twice the amount of fumaric acid than recommended by commercial antimicrobial suppliers.

At Texas A&M's food laboratories, tortillas containing different amounts of preservatives were manufactured, Acuff said. Six different preservative treatments were tested in the manufacture of non-acidified tortillas and eight different preservative treatments, each acidified with 0.45 percent fumaric acid, were also studied.

The tortillas were packaged and stored at 77° F and 39° F for a maximum of 60 days. Visual checks for mold growth were made daily and storage was discontinued if visible spoilage (mold) was present.

"Results of this study indicated that refrigerated storage extends the shelf life of corn tortillas substantially and could be an alternative to addition of preservatives," Acuff said.

"However, this option would have to be justified by high consumer demand since the high cost of refrigeration, the low profit margin of corn tortillas, and the reduced availability of refrigerated display space for tortilla products in supermarkets may make this option impractical," he said.

"Alternatively, addition of antimicrobials can increase shelf life substantially, particularly when used in acidified tortillas. Manufacturing and preservative standards need to be established and observed in producing this important food," Acuff said.

Many tortilla manufacturers lack information and knowledge regarding the correct use of antimicrobial agents and may not follow "good manufacturing practices."

Importance of adequate storage practices, proper sanitation and ventilation of the facilities should be stressed and strongly recommended to manufacturers to reduce the high initial microbial counts and amount of preservatives presently used with corn tortillas, Acuff said.

State wins royalty lawsuit

AUSTIN — A settlement in a landmark lawsuit involving the Permanent School Fund's right to oil royalties will bring in $2.7 million to the fund immediately and eventually add $35 million more, Land Commissioner Garry Mauro announced Thursday.

"This settlement sets the stage for the state to recover millions of dollars lost to the Permanent School Fund," Mauro said. "It is a watershed case for the schoolchildren of Texas."

The state was an intervenor in the suit, Summit Energy vs. Texas Commerce Bank, which involves royalties due the Permanent School Fund (PSF) since 1934 from a 24-acre lease in the oil-rich Yates Field in Pecos County. The Yates Field, one of the richest and most famous oil fields in the world, produces 2.4 million barrels of oil a month. The one well on the Summit tract is credited with producing 24,000 barrels a month.

The PSF retains the minerals under the land subject to the Relinquishment Act of 1919. This act provides that the surface owner is responsible for negotiating oil and gas leases and sharing equally with the state all royalties, rental income and bonuses paid for leases by oil companies. Mauro and the Land Office maintained that this had not been the case in the Summit suit.

"This settlement shows conclusively that surface owners must share lease benefits equally with the Permanent School Fund. We are back to where we should have been to begin with. The Permanent School Fund will share in the income from this lease for the rest of the life of the Yates Field—about 50 years," Mauro said.

More than 60 current interest holders, representing 94 percent of the interest in the lease held originally by Pecos Producers, Inc., have signed a settlement agreement. The settlement has been approved by the School Land Board, Commissioner Mauro, the Attorney General and the Governor. Other interest holders, representing less than 6 percent of lease ownership, have not settled.

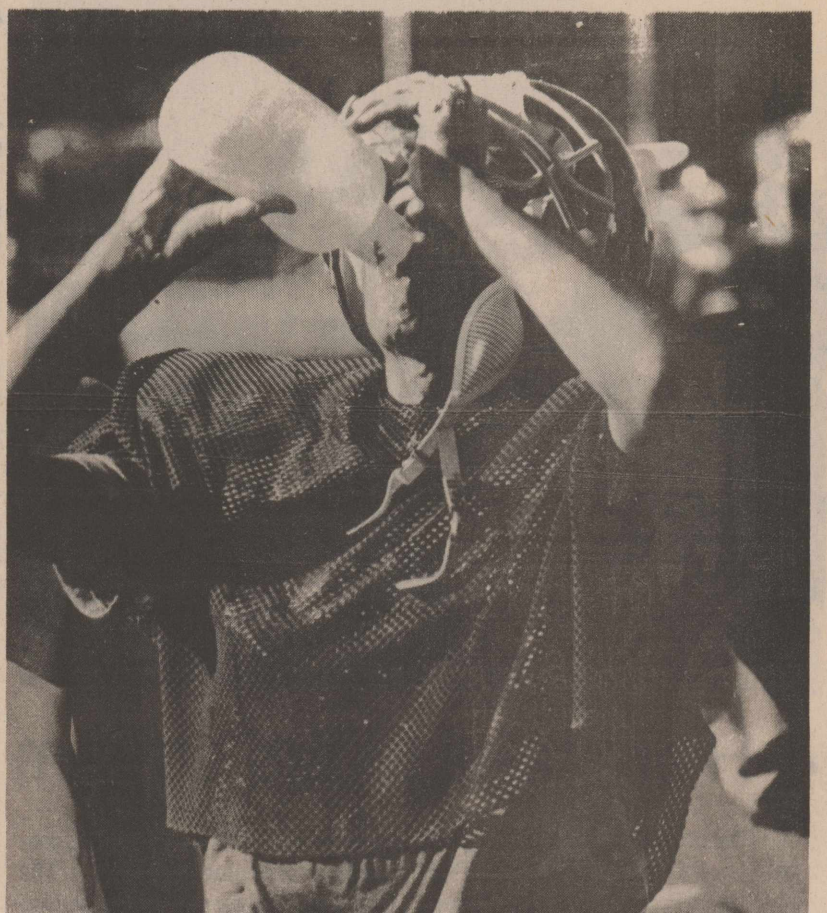

"The Land Office's Relinquishment Act Lease Compliance Section still has numerous other cases to pursue whose issues are similar to the Summit case. This settlement should serve as a signal to these other individuals that our cases are solid. Now, we can put our full efforts into these to see to it that the school children of Texas get what is their due," Mauro said.

Through a series of private transactions, the original surface owners in the Summit case succeeded in keeping not only their legal share, a 1/16 royalty interest, but also in arranging to retain a majority of revenue from the lease.

This was done by setting up a "strawman" transaction. The surface owners leased the oil and gas to a second person who acted as a "strawman". Three months later, this "strawman" assigned the lease to a shell company, Pecos Producers, (wholly owned by the surface owners) for little or no compensation, despite the tract being in one of the world's richest oil fields.

Instead of retaining their fair share, a 1/16 interest, the surface owners, their families and associates acquired the remaining 7/8ths interest in the lease without sharing the additional revenue with the Permanent School Fund.

The suit was filed in the District Court of Pecos County, 83rd Judicial District.

4-H'ers take to the stream

The combined 8th and 9th grade groups of Crockett County's Field and Stream Program went on a fishing trip Aug. 18-20. The group was hosted by Steve and Johnnie Rae Kenley on their fishing lease on the Devil's River at Baker's Crossing.

The 4-H'ers arrived at the river Friday afternoon, set up camp, and rigged up for fishing and swimming (extra emphasis on the swimming). After a supper of hamburgers, provided by John and Chris Beckham, the campers received a lantern-lighted lecture on different types of fishing tackle and lures and their various applications. The youngsters showed lots of interest in the topic, almost as much as the adults in attendance. The program is fortunate to have the opportunity to tap the resources of the likes of Bob Harris and James Montgomery, fishing specialists for the county.

Saturday was devoted to bass and perch fishing, boating, swimming in the spring-fed waters, and loafing in the shade of the huge pecan trees that canopied the camp. The fishermen didn't hurt the fish population any, but they did manage to drown a passel of worms.

On Saturday evening 4-H'ers got a chance to show off some of the camp skills they learned in a preceding part of their F&S training. Youngsters were paired-up into cooking teams to build their own campfires, then prepared and cooked their own suppers with no interference from leaders. The campers prepared nutritious meals of meat and vegetables, probably quicker and more efficiently than their adult counterparts! The final activity of the evening was setting out and baiting a trotline with hopes of sampling some Devil's River catfish.

Cooking teams prepared their own breakfasts Sunday morning, then manned the boats to run their trotline one more time. Trotlining proved more productive than rod-and-reeling, producing five keeping sized catfish. The young anglers got some good instruction and practice in cleaning fish, and several willingly volunteered for the "hands-on" experience.

After lunch the group broke camp, leaving the area the same or better than they found it when they arrived. Crockett County Field & Stream has adopted the slogan of "take nothing but pictures...leave nothing but tracks" in their use of the outdoors.

Participants in the fishing trip were: Martha Mayfield, Cassie Montgomery, Adrienne Dickerson, Crista Chalmers, Heather Hill, Gary Thompson, Golden Meek and Justin Southern. Leaders were: James Montgomery, Bob Harris, Rod Chalmers, Dorris and Georgia Haire, and hosts Steve and Johnnie Rae Kenley. The success of the F&S program depends greatly on the generosity of folks like the Kenleys who volunteer places for the group to take outings to try out their newly-acquired outdoor skills.

Back to school safety

With the beginning of school, motorists are reminded to:

Always slow down in school zones
Drive with extra caution and be prepared to stop when you see children ahead

Remember to slow down in residential districts, even away from school zones, during the hours when children are on their way to and from school

Expect the unexpected and regard every child near the curb as a human caution sign

Form the habit of walking around your car each time before you back out of a driveway, and then back only when you are certain that no children are behind

Allow plenty of room for bicycles
Remember to stop for all school buses loading or unloading children. Drivers overtaking a bus from the rear or approaching the bus from the front are required to stop and wait until the school bus moves on.

Annual Field Day September 7

SAN ANGELO—The Texas Agricultural Research and Extension Center here will play host September 7 during the complex annual Sheep and Goat Field Day. Registration begins at 9:00 a.m.

This year's field day is being specially dedicated to Dr. Charles W. Livingston Jr., long-time Center veterinarian. Livingston has been with the Texas A&M University System for 34 years.

Another of the day's activities will be a trade show held on the grounds. The show will feature the latest in commercial ranch related goods available to West Texans.

The day's formal activities will begin with a morning tour of some of the work being conducted at the center. The various stops include Cashmere goat and Australian Merino research, new mesquite control developments, and new measurement techniques for wool and mohair. Also included will be a look at controlling external livestock parasites and the status of lean lamb in the sheep industry.

Following a catered lunch, the afternoon will begin under the direction of Ralph Mayer, newly elected president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association. The session will open with Livingston's special recognition ceremony highlighting his many contributions to the sheep and goat industry. Following Mayer will be an American Sheep Industry Association update will be given by Big Lake rancher, Bill Schneemann, president of the organization.

Dr. John Edwards, Associate Professor, at Texas A&M will give a brief overview of the University's teaching and research flock.

The remainder of the program will feature talks given by Research and Extension personnel including cotton gossypol problems in early weaned lambs, new wildlife management developments and a survey of Angora goat freeze losses.

The day will conclude at 3:00 p.m. with optional tours of a forage shrub grazing study and wildlife food plots.

Hunting directory available

AUSTIN - "When the fall hunting season rolls around, the smart hunters will be those with a new copy of the 1989 Texas Hunter's Clearinghouse Directory," Deputy State Agriculture Commissioner Mike Moeller said. "A 90-page Directory Update is now available from the Texas Department of Agriculture for interested Texas hunters and landowners."

The June edition of the directory lists nearly 900 available leases covering a total of 5.3 million acres in every region of Texas. The June edition contains approximately 33,000 acres not listed in previous editions. Directory listings cover all types of game including white tail deer, turkey, javelina, pheasant and quail.

"The Texas Hunter's Clearinghouse provides a steadily growing harvest of extra dollars for rural Texans. During its first year of operation in 1986, the Clearinghouse listed 3.2 million acres in available leases and the program helped generate $1.3 million in new economic activity for the state. Last year, the Clearinghouse assisted rural Texans in capturing an extra $5.3 million in new business. Every indication is that 1989 will be an even better year than last year," Moeller said.

The Clearinghouse and its directory are provided to both hunters and to farmers and ranchers as both a conservation program and as a rural economic development program. The directory is a joint project of TDA, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and the Texas Farm Crisis Hotline. The service is free to both landowners and hunters, although a $2 donation is requested to allow the Farm Crisis

Hotline to continue its work.

For more information on the Texas Hunter's Clearinghouse, write: Office of Farmer Assistance Programs, Texas Department of Agriculture, P. O. Box 12847, Austin, TX 78711.

Back-to-school dance signals end of summer

By Tammy Davey

The Ozona Teen Council held a back-to-school dance Saturday, Aug. 26, to mark the beginning of another school year.

Members of the council are Scotty Burks, Amy Graham, Bryan Hensley, Katie Sellers, Cody Pearson, Clint Landon, Shane Pridemore and Cullen Curry. These individuals hosted the dance with the help of Mrs. John Denman, Mrs. Tommy Stokes, Mrs. Michael Williams, Mrs. Garland Young and Raymond Sanchez.

"The turn-out was great," said

Garland Young, manager of Ozona's youth center. "It was a record attendance at 225 people present."

Dr. Toons, a well-known DJ, played music and videos at the dance featuring mean strobe lights and lasers.

Serving of refreshments was limited to the kitchen for the first time ever to keep down messes and ease clean up. Many people welcomed the change allowing them to dance on slick, clean floors with no hazards and to drink and visit in the kitchen where it was cooler.

Bentson says scientist shortage

Senator Lloyd Bentson warned Monday that the U.S. faces a massive shortage of scientists and engineers in the next century and proposed a new national competition to spur interest in math and science.

Bentson joined with Senator Nancy Kassebaum (R-KS) to introduce legislation establishing the Congressional Council on Education and Space. Patterned after the President's Council on Physical Fitness, the congressional council would promote programs to improve the quality of mathematics and science education, and develop awards to encourage student interest in those areas of study.

"In the 1960's there was a direct link between U.S. space activities and our educational attainments. Our schools encouraged science and technical training as we strove to put an American on the moon. By 1970, the number of science and engineering degrees awarded by U.S. colleges had more than doubled over the level in 1960," Bentson said in Senate remarks accompanying his legislation.

"In the years since the Apollo program, however, U.S. students have lost interest in these subjects, and our graduate engineering schools have been filled 40 percent by foreign students."

"Our society is falling short of the technically trained people needed to keep us ahead of foreign competition. We already have 1,500 vacancies in U.S. engineering faculties and it has been estimated that we will face a shortage of 500,000 scientists and engineers in the next century," Bentson said.

"An international assessment of math and science by the Educational Testing Service last year found U.S. 13 year olds at the bottom in almost all types of math. For example, 78 percent of Korean students could solve two-step problems, nearly double to 40 percent figure for American students."

The 16-member Congressional Council on Education and Space proposed by Bentson and Kassebaum would develop programs to increase the use of the civil space program as a tool to foster stronger programs in science, math and engineering. It would offer awards to elementary and secondary students for notable achievements in these study areas as well as for students who show personal progress.

Bentson said the proposal also envisions competition for state champion awards that would be presented by each state's congressional delegation.

"To paraphrase Neil Armstrong, creation of this council would be a small step for the Congress which could lead to a giant leap forward for our young people," Senator Bentson said.

Eldorado to sponsor rabbit show

The Eldorado Rabbit Club will sponsor an American Rabbit Breeders Association nationally sanctioned rabbit exhibition Sept. 30 at the 4-H Barn at Hwy. 277 in Eldorado.

Competition will begin at 8:30 a.m. and continue throughout most of the day with an expected entry of approximately 200-250 animals. Visitors are welcome, and there is no admission charge. There will be many rabbits of different breeds and ages for sale along with rabbit related equipment.

The A.R.B.A. recognizes over forty breeds of rabbits and eight breeds of caviae. Rabbits and caviae are exhibited in various sizes, shapes, colors, ear lengths, ear carriage, fur and wool structures. The size of some of the various recognized breeds of rabbits range from two and one half to 16 pounds mature weights, and ear lengths will vary from two inches to 24 inches.

For more information concerning the Eldorado show, contact Debbie Clark, Box 293, Eldorado, TX 76936, 915-853-3116.

New law prohibits possessing milk cases

Those colorful milk cases used by dairies to deliver milk to stores and restaurants are handy containers. They are great to store things in the garage or truck. College students love them for shelving in dormitories or apartments.

But using them or even possessing them is now illegal and can mean a big fine when convicted.

Governor Bill Clements signed legislation on June 14, which becomes effective on September 1, stating that any person who is illegally in possession of a milk case or cases shall, upon conviction, be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding $300 for each case. This fine also applies to removing the name of the dairy from the case.

However, there is a "grace period" of 60 days...that runs to November 1...to permit those who have cases in their possession to return them WITHOUT PENALTY. That means cases may be returned to stores that sell the milk from the dairy named on the case, or to the dairy plant itself, without any fine. After November 1, legal action will be taken.

Why was this law passed? "The case loss in Texas and across the nation is "tremendous", according to Glenn Brown, President of the Dairy Products Institute of Texas. The State of Texas had a loss last year amounting to over 7 million dollars. This not only affects the dairies but ultimately raises the price of milk to consumers. The industry regrets that this action had to be taken," said the dairy spokesman, "but the costs are prohibitive and keep increasing year after year."

This same legislation also provides an identical penalty for the illegal use of grocery shopping carts, bread trays, laundry carts and egg baskets. These industries also lose large numbers of this expensive equipment which is also reflected in prices to the consumer. The 60 day grace period also applies to the return of these items.

"College students are big violators," the dairy spokesman added, "as they use them for shelves and supports in their dormitories and apartments. People who drive trucks for business or pleasure keep supplies in these cases. They are also seen at marinas, open air markets and in countless other locations. In the past, cases have not only been used but also sold at flea markets. These will be checked after the grace period and punitive action will be taken."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

CROCKETT COUNTY CONSOLIDATED COMMON

The (SCHOOL DISTRICT #1) will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in (1988) by (5.7) percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on (September 8, 1989) at (the Adm. Bldg.).

FOR the proposal: Jeffrey Sutton, Gary Buck Mitchell, Elliot Barrera, Gary Vannoy, David Bean, and Dan Pullen.

AGAINST the proposal: none

PRESENT and not voting: none

ABSENT: George Ybarra

(Names of all members of the governing body, showing how each voted on the proposal to consider the tax increase and, if one or more were absent, indicating the absences.)

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the (effective) tax rate that the unit published on (August 9, 1989). The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

| | Last Year | This Year |
|---|-----------|-----------|
| Average home value | $ 18,710 | $ 18,710 |
| General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions) | $ 8,740 | $ 8,740 |
| Average taxable value | $ 9,970 | $ 9,970 |
| Tax rate | $.98 | $.96 |
| Tax | $ 97.71 | $ 95.71 |

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would (decrease) by $ (2.00) or (2) percent compared with last year's taxes.

Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would (decrease) by $ (.02) per $100 of taxable value or (2) percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Extention Connection

By Tetra Ulmer, County Extension Agent
"Texas Agricultural Extension Service"

Did you see a group of young ladies walking around town last week looking at furniture and historical homes? That was the first-ever Home Environment Project group taking part in workshop activities designed to teach them more about housing and home environment.

This group of 4-H'ers ranged in aged from nine to 17 and had a wide spectrum of interests. During the workshop we learned about furniture styles and historical home designs, how to draw a room to scale and choose decor to fit, how to buy furniture and carpet, and lots more.

4-H members expressed their creativity by preparing a poster representation of a room design, including a floor plan, carpet, fabric and paint of wallpaper samples, and pictures of the furnishings they would use in the home.

Activities included field trips to Brown Furniture, South Texas Lumber and the Crockett County Courthouse and 11th Street where we walked along and tried to determine what style each home was and about what period it was built.

We'd like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Brown, South Texas Lumber, Mr. Knox, Geniece Childress and Joyce Young for helping last week. We also appreciate the parents who provided sack lunches and lots of supplies for the three-day workshop. Without them we couldn't have started this new project - with all 16 of our eager 4-H members.

The 16 involved were: C'Jay McKinney, Camellia Williams, Lindsay Flanagan, Helena Williams, Erika Kenison, Dawn McKinney, Carri Chandler, Ruby Tambunga, Nancy Arrott, Michelle Marshall, Terren Marshall, Sheila Yates, Tammy Arrott, Katharine Durham, Ashley Farris and visitor (that we really welcomed back to Ozona) Gina Snyder.

Further thanks have to go to the older 4-H'ers who were invaluable in helping with the younger ones, and to Tammy Arrott for use of her auto in transporting us where we needed to go.

For more information about the 4-H Home Environment project or other 4-H events, contact the Crockett County Extension Office at 392-2721.

Back to school safety tips for parents and children

When driving with your child in the car, point out and tell them about the dangerous practices observed of bicycle riders and pedestrians.

When taking your child to school, or in parking in school zones, stop or park properly for the safety of other children.

Always set a good example yourself in both driving and walking. A good example is the best form of teaching.

Teach children that when leaving a school bus to cross the street or highway, cross around the front of the bus, stop in front of the bus, and wait until the driver signals that you may cross. Teach children to obey school safety patrol or traffic officers, to walk, not run, when crossing the street or highway and not to run from behind parked cars.

McCarley represents Ozona

Nikki McCarley, 15-year-old daughter of David and Jerry McCarley, represented Crockett County 4-H in the State 4-H Fashion Show at Tyler Aug. 19.

McCarley competed in the active sportswear construction division against participants from 13 other Extension districts in Texas. This was her first time to compete at the state level.

According to County Extension Agent-Home Economics, Tetra Ulmer, who accompanied McCarley to the show, "Nikki represented us very well, and I'm really proud of her for her achievements."

Only first-place winners in each of the garment categories in the buying and construction divisions are eligible to attend the State Fashion Show. Nikki placed first in her category at the July 6 District VI 4-H Fashion Show in Ozona.

South Texas rabies outbreak underscores need for vaccinations

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) regularly reminds the Texas public about the importance that pet owners make sure their animals receive annual vaccinations against rabies, as required by law.

This year, especially in South Texas, dog owners should heed the advice. An unusually large outbreak of canine rabies, found mostly in dogs and in wild coyotes, has totaled about 40 rabies cases in the Hidalgo-Starr County area since September of last year.

Although no human cases have been reported, "domestic dogs have been the most frequent carriers in this outbreak. The potential of a person being infected by the family pet has always been there," according to Dr. Foy V. McCasland, Chief of the TDH Bureau of Veterinary Public Health in Austin.

McCasland explained that, of the three basic strains of rabies most common in Texas, the canine strain is potentially the most dangerous to humans, since people are more likely to be exposed by a dog than by most other animals.

Although another strain of rabies occurs more frequently in Texas, it is usually found among skunks in the wild. "Any strain of rabies is dangerous to humans and other animals, but some animals are more susceptible to particular strains," Dr. McCasland said.

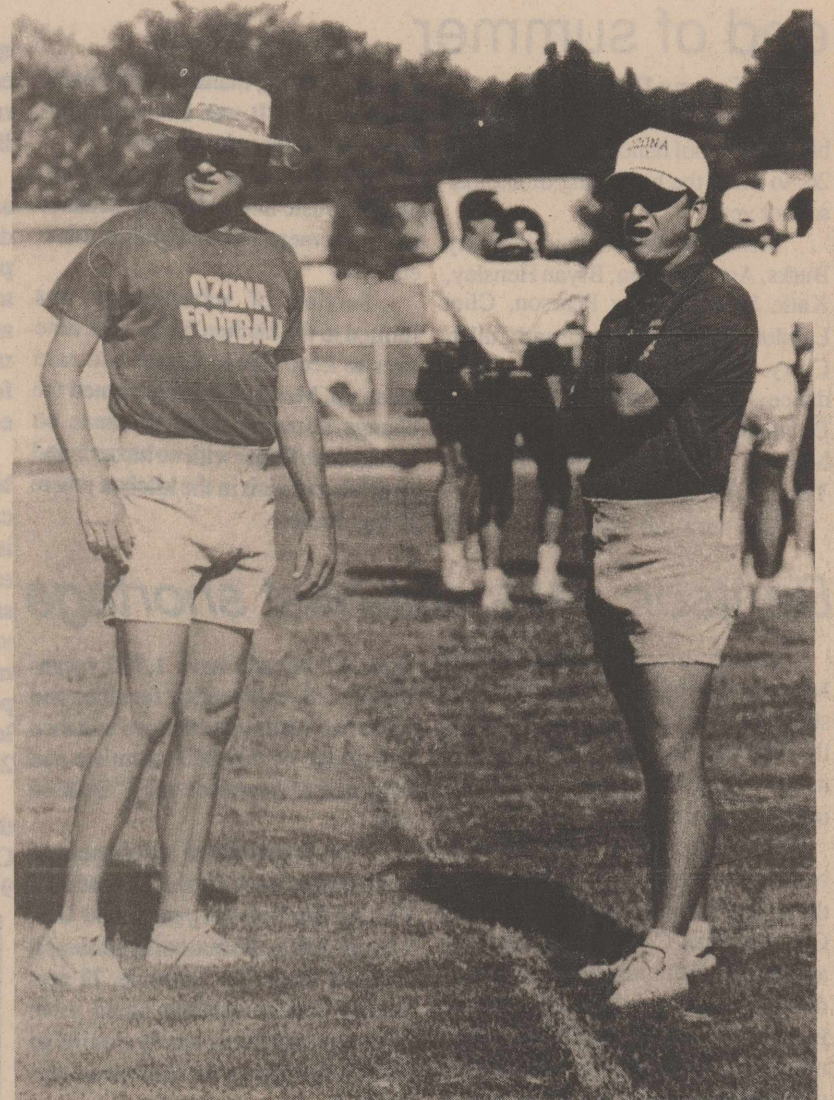

McCasland said that an unusual feature of the canine rabies outbreak in South Texas is that the link between many of the infected dogs appears to be the infected coyotes.

Attending the show with McCarley and Ulmer was Katharine Durham, 14-year-old daughter of Tetra and Neal Ulmer, who is the District VI representative on the State 4-H Teen Fashion Board. The board met Sunday, Aug. 20, in Tyler following the State Fashion Show.

In addition to her competition, Nikki toured the famed Tyler Rose Garden and a historical home in Tyler, and enjoyed shopping for bargains in local stores.

Texas ranks high in crime rate

Texas cities rank high in the nation's list of leading crime locations, taking six of the top 15 spots according to a report released this week by the F.B.I.

Fort Worth trailed #1 Atlanta with 172.4 crimes per 1,000 population compared to 176.2 per 1,000 for the southern city. Dallas came in third with 168.8 crimes per 1,000.

Rounding out the Texas roster were: #7 San Antonio, 125.8; #12 Austin, 109.4; #13 Houston, 104.1; #14 El Paso, 102.3.

Washington, D.C. led the nation in non-negligent homicides and murders with 59.5 per 100,000 people, but rated 15th on the overall crime list. Cities with populations exceeding 400,000 come under consideration in the murder calculations. Nationally, violent crime escalated 5.5 percent in 1988. Murders rose 2.9 percent to 20,675, while rapes increased 1.5 percent to 92,486. Robberies totaled 542,968, up 4.9 percent, and aggravated assaults numbered 910,092, up 6.4 percent.

Property crimes such as burglary, larceny, theft and motor vehicle theft increased 2.8 percent over 1987.

After allowing for population increase, the 1988 rate of crimes per 100,000 increased 2.1 percent. Property crimes were up 1.8 percent and violent crimes were up 4.5 percent.

Of the 35 major cities rated, San Jose, CA and Honolulu, HA were lowest with 52.9 and 59.4 crimes per 1,000 respectively.

Christian Humility

by Charles Huffman, Pastor Faith Lutheran Church, Ozona Hope Lutheran Church, Sonora

Years ago, when Nikita Khrushchev was Russia's top man, he toured the U.S. One of the places he visited was a material factory, where he especially admired a bolt of fine woolen cloth. The factory executive gave him enough of the material to make himself a three piece suit, but when he returned to Moscow his tailor said there wasn't enough for a suit. Khrushchev wanted to know how that could be, since he'd been measured at the U.S. factory. And his tailor said: "You must remember, Comrade, that you're not as big a man in America as you are in Russia!" That little story, designed to make fun of feelings of self-importance, made the rounds in Russia when Khrushchev was at the height of power.

In our reading, Jesus gives us His insight on the subject of self-importance, which He summarizes in verse II: "If you honor yourself, you'll be humbled; but if you humble yourself, you'll be honored". We all desire to feel important, but we must distinguish between the sense of self-esteem we were created with - "made in the image of God" (Genesis 1:27) and "crowned with glory and honor" (Psalm 8:5); and the sinful pride that Jesus speaks of. A great many of our problems today - in the world, in our homes, in the Church, and in ourselves - stem from this imitation pride.

It's like the lady who lost a very beautiful and very expensive diamond out of her dinner ring. She bought a cheap imitation, thinking no one would notice the difference. That's what happened when our first parents sinned, and what sin's all about today. Having lost most of our God-like qualities, we pitifully try to bluff our way through with cheap imitations of the real quality of life He gave us in the beginning. Expecting compliments, offended at not being thanked, hurt when someone forgets an anniversary or birthday, crushed at not being elected to an office, broken-hearted at not making the team, angry at not being remembered by name, insulted at not being noticed. That's what Jesus describes at "trying to get the places of honor". What a horrible imitation of the real pride God gave us in the Creation.

And the same goes for trying to build our ego by associating with all the 'right' people. False pride brings the grasping for recognition - helping only those who can help us in return, scratching the backs of only those who can scratch back. It makes being accepted in the 'Best' circles and invited by the 'Right' crowd more important than life itself. It's what causes even Church people to gather in their own special cliques, and ignore those who don't belong'. It's also what makes students risk almost anything in order to be part of the 'In Group' at school. It may be important according to social standards, but it's just a hollow imitation of the real thing. It's what Jesus describes as "inviting friends, brothers, relatives, and rich neighbors". And He warns us about that kind of pride, that it just can't last: "If you honor yourself, you'll be humbled".

Only those with the right kind of pride can do what Jesus suggests: "go and take the lowest place". That takes real self-confidence. Of course, it doesn't mean we should boast of our humility - for that would also be false pride. Once, as I was having breakfast with a fellow Christian, I made the statement that Martin Luther had once said that pride was the root of all sin. He replied: "Well, I've never had that problem. I've always been a very humble man!" And he was PROUD of it! Bishop Fulton Sheen often said: "Humility for the Christian is like underwear. You should always wear it, but you should never let it show". Genuine pride doesn't care whether it gets recognition or not. Of course, it takes a bit of self-examination to reach that point. Until I realize that I've lost the real diamond and that the imitation just doesn't look the same, I can go on fooling myself.

Someone has said that false pride is like starching a shirt before it is washed. Starch just makes a dirty shirt look even worse. When we've lost the God-like qualities with which we were created, then just 'starching-up' the old self won't get the job done. And there's only one way to get rid of the dirt. It's what the Apostle John means when he wrote in chapter I of his first letter: "The blood of Jesus, His Son, washes us clean from every sin", Christ came into the world to clean up our lives and make them as they were when God created them. God thought you to be so important that He gave His only-begotten Son to die on the Cross for you and to rise again, that you might be cleansed from all guilt and shame. When we believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, there can be real pride again - in what God has done for us and with us - as the Holy Spirit declares in 2 Corinthians 5: "If anyone is IN CHRIST, he is a NEW CREATION". We can start over again as men and women made in God's image, crowned with glory and honor, and set apart as His very important people in the world.

Nothing can give us that sense of personal worth except the presence of Jesus Christ. The more we learn to know Him, through the Word and Spirit of God, the more we can be proud of what He's done with us. And when we really feel important down deep inside, then we couldn't care less if we get recognition. And then as Jesus suggests, we can hobnob with "the poor, the crippled, the lame, and the blind" - without worrying about not being seen with the 'Right' people. And best of all, we can give our lives to the Lord in eager service, because we're sure of His promise: "you'll be paid back when the righteous rise from the dead".

Mary Layman traveled to Abilene last week to visit with daughter Chris Corley and mother Nellie Hartley. Chris will be attending American Commercial College this year where she will be studying to be a legal secretary. The trio went shopping and played bingo.

Bridget Sewell was the birthday person at her home Aug. 27. Happy birthday, Bridget.

Tommie Tomlinson turned a year older Aug. 25, but the day was no lament as he had the idea in mind he was already 45. Happy birthday, Tommie.

Rodney Beasley returned to College Station last weekend. Rodney has been visiting with parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beasley along with working for the past two weeks. He will be a junior this year at Texas A&M where he is studying mechanical engineering.

Charlotte and Ann Trull spent a long weekend visiting with Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Janes, Charlotte's parents. The Janes live at Sundown which is about 40 miles southeast of Lubbock. Charlotte and Ann ventured into Lubbock to do some shopping which added to the enjoyment of the trip.

Espie Castillo of Big Lake and family visited with her mother, Mrs. Fermin Garza, and sister, Olivia Martinez and family, over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wheeler joined Doris and Jack Bradford for an outing at Baker's Crossing last Sunday. Joining them were the Bradford's daughter, Collie, and son-in-law, Gerald. The relaxing day by the water was enjoyed by all.

Visiting with family and friends during the week were Tony, Dian and Zane Tomlinson of San Angelo.

Melissa Marmelajo, daughter of Robert and Linda Rodriguez, celebrated her 25th birthday Aug. 27. The day was great for Melissa, because after church, friends and family gathered around her and started singing the Birthday Song, which surprised Melissa. Cake and punch were served at the church, and Mel remarked that was the best birthday she'd had since her early childhood. Belated wishes, Mel.

Hiroko Yumigawa from Nara, Japan, is currently residing in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clair McDaniel. Hiroko is an exchange student and will be a junior this year at Ozona High School. Hiroko, Hero as dubbed by her friends, likes Ozona, and although nervous over new surroundings, looks forward to attending school and making new friends. The annual back to school dance this past Friday was her first dance, and she was very excited about it. We hope you make many friends and thoroughly enjoy your time spent here, Hiroko.

Terry Racher was in town last week visiting the Hesters and all his friends in Ozona. He said it sure was great to get to see everyone again. Terry's brother was killed in Richardson two weeks ago and he came over to be with his family. He then came down to San Angelo and Ozona for a visit before going back home in Taiwan.

While Terry was making the unexpected trip back to the states Patti was having to move to their new home at Hsinchu Bible College where they will be teaching Bible. Their new address is Patti and Terry Racher, Hsinchu Bible College, Box 7, Hsinchu, Taiwan R.O.C.

Lillie Lujan opens new beauty shop

Lillie's Beauty Shop opens Friday, Sept. 1, according to owner Lillie Lujan. Located at 1108 Beall Street, the new establishment provides hair care for men, women and children. Hours will be 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

The Ozona native received her cosmetology training at Jean's of College Beauty School in San Angelo. "I have enjoyed working for Billy Tom at Better Trims for the past three years," she said. The latest in styles and cuts will be available at Lillie's along with perms, coloring and sunglitz. Attending two to three hair shows annually keeps the hairdresser up on the most recent in fashion and technique.

Lillie and her husband, Ismael, a native of Marfa, are the parents of two daughters, Valerie, 16, and Vicky, age 10.

Generic substitutions demand closer look

Pharmacists often tell consumers they can save money with generic substitutions of prescribed drugs. Although this is often true, not all generic substitutions are therapeutically equivalent to prescribed brand-name drugs, says the Texas Medical Association.

As a patient, you have the right to receive the medication best suited to your individual needs. The key to success is being an informed consumer.

When a physician prescribes a drug for you, more is involved than the designation of a drug most likely to prove effective for you condition. Your physician has an ethical duty to ensure high quality drugs will be dispensed to you. The benefits of his/her knowledge are lessened if you receive drugs of lower quality.

A generic drug, identified by its chemical name, usually costs less than a brand-name drug, which often has development and advertising costs associated with it. The law provides that prescriptions specify whether the drug be "dispensed as written," in which case a brand-name drug will be dispensed, or if selection of a generic substitution is permitted. Some drugs cannot be generically dispensed.

If you have a question about the drugs prescribed to you or their cost, discuss the matter with your physician. No generic drug may be available for a brand name prescribed, or the law may prohibit generic dispensing of that particular medication. Your physician may also believe the generic equivalent of the drug is not as effective as the name brand. In this case, your physician is fulfilling his duty to ensure the highest quality medical care for you.

Remember, the Texas Medical Association says you have the right to receive the medication best suited to your individual needs.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization of more than 29,000 physician and medical student members. It is based in Austin and has 116 component county medical societies around the state. The association represents 80 percent of the state's physicians, and its goal is to improve the health of Texans through the professional and personal development of members.
