His and Hers
by Scotty and Linda Moore

Hers

Homecoming football games are always a big deal to me, no matter whose homecoming. I love watching the recent grads shaking hands or hugging down along the fence line as they catch up on the latest news.

The pageantry of the pre-game ceremony is a thrill as all the pretty queen candidates are presented along with their escorts.

Listening to the Star Spangled Banner and the school song fill me with pride. This year I even sang, but softly, since I can't carry a tune in a bucket. (I'll never forget the time one of my sons whispered to me in church, "Mother, I think you need to sing a little softer".)

Then the big game starts. Although I know little about football, I love the action and excitement. I can locate the center. The same son with an ear for music played center. I was sure for several years that this was the most important position on the team even though he kept assuring me that "no one remembers old centers but their mothers and other old centers".

But this year I didn't stay for the entire game. The Lions were winning handily long before I left at the beginning of the fourth quarter, and I hadn't been able to see much of the game anyway.

My choice of seating, on the aisle and more than halfway up the stands, seemed to be the only aisle youngsters could use to get to their desired gathering place alongside the rail at the south end of the bleachers. And I say gathering place because I don't think some of them sat down the entire evening.

Granted, each time they passed, almost every child said "Excuse me". One even said "I'm sorry". Still, I was stepped on, spilled on (twice), and had my view of the field obscured much of the time either by someone directly in front of me or in the aisle.

My first reaction was that we need a children's section in Lion Stadium, but then I thought, that would be discrimination. How about an aisle down each side of the seating sections? No, that would be too costly and would eliminate seats that are needed, needed, especially at homecoming.

Reserve seating, you say? But some of us are unable to attend all the games. Maybe a separate section for those of us with arthritic feet and a desire to watch the game in order. Would that be discrimination or favoritism? Stay home? No way.

Kids are wonderful - big kids, little kids, young kids, old kids, your kids, my kids and especially the perennial kid who married me for better or worse, but sometimes you just want to see the game.

Pig-skin Pick-em

Elaine Castro had 12 correct picks including the Eastern N.M. and Angelo State tie to capture the $20 Stockman prize. Rudy Martinez came in second with eleven correct picks. Sorry Rudy, but Rice beat Texas. Wall upset Iraan and everybody knows not to pick the Cowboys as a winner. Better luck next time!

County to get 911 service

County commissioners voted Monday to become a part of the 911 emergency service plan. Most communities across the state are going to the service, Judge Kathryn Mayfield told the court. The service is expected to eventually become mandatory across the state.

Implementation of the emergency service number will not begin for 1-2 years, she explained. A monthly charge of 50 cents will be assessed of all telephone subscribers beginning Feb. 1, 1990 to help pay for necessary equipment. The 1-2 year period is the length of time estimated as necessary to generate the funds. State funds will also be used.

Communities whose jails house 48 or fewer prisoners may use jailers to answer the 911 number, Mayfield said.

The court voted in favor of a resolution requesting that Hwy. 163 north and south of Ozona be included in the Texas Highway Trunk System. Roads in the system receive higher priority with regard to state funds, and Hwy.

163 north to Barnhart and south to Del Rio has not been included in a long-range proposal by the state.

A resolution opposing the establishment of a proposed hazardous waste dump in Terrell County was approved by the court. Members of a Terrell County group opposing the dump requested the resolution at a Sept. 25 court meeting.

A proclamation declaring Oct. 8-14 as National Fire Prevention Week in Ozona was signed by court members and presented to Dorris Haire, fire chief.

Haire told the court that Ozona Fire Department made 27 runs during the second quarter of 1989.

The department is 4-5 members short at present, Haire said.

After reviewing a contract for a new consulting R.N. at the care center, Judge Mayfield questioned differences in this contract and the previous one.

Bill Boswell, hospital administrator, was asked to have the contract re-typed to indicate that the contract was for four hours per week. The revised contract was returned later in the day.

Trees and shrubs obscuring stop signs and extending into roadways are creating traffic hazards, said Eddie Moore, road supervisor. Moore suggested a 15 foot minimum height for tree limbs over roadways in residential sections.

Sheriff Wilson mention that he has observed several obstructions. A sheriff's department member and Moore will identify the hazards and present a list to County Attorney

Lions win Homecoming game 21-6

by Michael Vasquez

Ozona Lions defeated the Coahoma Bulldogs 21-6 Oct. 6 for a homecoming victory. The Lions played an exciting game, keeping fans on the edge of their seats.

The Lions got the ball early in the game. Quarterback Chris Denman soon ran the ball in for the touchdown after a quick fake. Ruben Borrego kicked the extra point.

Ozona battled on with Coahoma in the first and second quarters. The Lion defense kept the Bulldogs from scoring.

Ozona came out in the third quarter ready to play. Danny De Hoyos received the ball for the Lions and took it 40 yards where he fumbled. Teammate Ruben Borrego picked up the ball and ran it in for six points. Borrego again kicked the extra point for the Lions.

Coahoma's offense moved the ball to score with 4:44 remaining in the third quarter. Ozona's defense shut down the Bulldogs' extra point attempt, making the score Ozona 14, Coahoma 6.

With 8:08 remaining in the fourth quarter, Denman dropped back and threw a short pass to Lonnie Martinez who ran the ball in for a score. Borrego again made the extra point, ending the night three for three.

Coahoma's attempts to score failed against the mighty Lion defense, and the game ended Ozona 21, Coahoma 6.

The Lions will play Forsan at home in the first district game, defending a 4-1 record. Forsan stands at 1-4 for the season.

Around the district, Eldorado is also at 1-4 while Winters stands 3-2. Reagan County has only played four pre-district games and is 3-1. Wall is 4-1 at the beginning of district play.

Judge Kathryn Mayfield presented the Gold Star boy and girl awards to Tamie Reagor and Andy Stokes at the annual Crockett County 4-H Achievement Banquet.

Little Jess McMullan was an enthusiastic volunteer during the Fire Prevention Week program at the Ozona Primary School Monday. Dee Kellers explains the purpose of each piece of protective equipment that the volunteer firemen wear when they put out a fire. Firemen Felix Trujillo and Doug Meador were on hand to help with the presentation.

Terry Vargas selected Homecoming queen

by Sarah Pullen

Friday night, Oct. 6, was an exciting night for Ozona High School students and exes as it was homecoming, and the Lions won the game against Coahoma 21-6. However, for high school senior Terry Vargas, the night meant much more when she was crowned Homecoming Queen for 1989-90.

During the pre-game show at Lion Stadium, the Ozona High School Band furnished the music. "Here's That Rainy Day" was played as background music while the Homecoming Queen nominees and their escorts were being introduced. Following the crowning of the queen, the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and the school song.

"I was shocked, but I feel honored," 17-year-old Terry said.

Terry is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vargas and the daughter of Mrs. Armandina Ramos. Family means a lot to Terry. She has four brothers, Derold, Adriane, Eric and Jamie, and one sister, Annie. She also has aunts, uncles and cousins that play a big role in her life.

"I'm so proud of her!" said her little sister Annie.

Other than family gatherings, Terry enjoys her job, being with her friends and riding around.

"I felt excited about escorting the Homecoming Queen," said Pete Ramirez. "I was happy to be part of the memory that will always be with Terry."

According to several of the varsity football players, the main criteria for the girls who are nominated and elected to be Homecoming Queen include personality, school spirit, friendship and attitude toward others.

"I'd like to thank the football team, and I wish them the best of luck throughout the year," says Terry. "I'm behind them all the way!"

Upon graduation in May, Terry plans to attend St. Edward's University in Austin. Although she isn't sure as of now, her major will more than likely be in the field of bilingual education. After her collegiate days are over, Terry hopes to find a job and live in the Austin area.

1989 Homecoming Queen Terry Vargas smiles radiantly as she holds her bouquet of flowers. Her escort Pete Ramirez stands proudly by, anxious to begin the game.

County Judge Kathryn Mayfield presents firechief, Dorris Haire, with the official proclamation proclaiming October 8 - 14 National Fire Prevention Week in Crockett County.

Volunteers emphasize fire safety

Although any fire can cause considerable tragedy, nothing is more tragic than the death of a child. And the death of a child by his or her own hands - a death which could so easily have been prevented - is even more heart wrenching. This year's National Fire Prevention Week theme is "Big Fires Start Small: Keep matches and lighters in the right hands".

During this special week, Oct. 8-14, members of Ozona Volunteer Fire Department have conducted special fire safety training programs in the local schools.

"Fireplay is the leading cause of fire deaths among preschoolers," said Dorris Haire, fire chief. "It kills three out of every 10 who die in residential structure fires in the United States."

Many children are faced with the temptation to play with fire every day. Very young children do not have the capacity to understand the consequences of striking a match or lighter, and many older children who do understand, have no idea how quickly a fire can grow out of control.

About 75 percent of all residential fires in the United States are started with match or lighter, and matches and lighters are what children most frequently use when playing with fire.

"Keeping matches, lighters and other heat sources where children can't obtain them is a good way to start making your home more firesafe," said Dee Keilers, coordinator of fire prevention week activities in Ozona schools.

Teach your children - as well as their babysitters - that matches and lighters are tools for adults only, and reward them for bringing matches or lighters they find to an adult.

Fire Prevention Week was first proclaimed by President Warren G. Harding in 1922 to commemorate the Great Chicago Fire of 1871. The Chicago Fire killed 250 people, left 100,000 homeless and destroyed more than 17,400 buildings.

The National Fire Protection Association sponsors Fire Prevention Week with the support of the fire service, schools and civic organizations across the United States, drawing public attention to the need for fire prevention education.

Kids and fires

More than 300 people die in residential fires each year as a result of child fireplay.

Child fireplay is the leading cause of death in residential fires for preschool children.

Fires started by playing (mostly with matches or lighters) represent three out of 10 preschool child fire deaths.

Three-quarters of all fatal victims of child-playing fires are 5-years-old or younger.

Each year more than 28,000 residential fires are caused by child fireplay with direct property damage of more than $150 million.

37 percent of preschool fatalities occur between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

A study done several years ago indicated the most frequent cause of fires involving unattended children in multiple-death fires was child fireplay, usually with matches or lighters.

Smoke detectors are not present in 84 percent of the homes where preschool fatalities occur.

Curiosity is the most common reason children play with fire.

40 percent of all those arrested for arson are juveniles.

38 percent of all children in grades 1-8 have played with matches or lighters.

Crockett County Public Library News

by Louise Ledoux

Crockett County Public Library will observe National Disability Employment Awareness Month with a series of displays during October. The theme of the week is "Employment: A National Priority".

"The goal of this special month is to ensure that American citizens with disabilities are able to live with 'dignity, equality, and independence through employment throughout our nation,'" said Harold Russell, chairman of the President's Committee on Employment of People with Disabilities.

National Disability Employment Awareness Month (formerly National Employ the Handicapped Week) was changed by Congress in 1988 to allow more time to evaluate the disability field and to recognize important accomplishments of employers and people with disabilities.

Come check it out at your public library.

Rev. William Du Buisson, O.M.I., recently attended Golden Jubilee celebrations in the Philippines marking the 50th anniversary of his order's work there. The celebrations took place in Manila on the island of Luzon, in Jolo on the island of Sulu, and Kidapawan and Cotabato City on the island of Mindanao.

While he was there, Fr. Bill renewed old friendships with many of the people with whom he worked during the years 1964-68. He noticed many changes in the Philippines, some for the better, some for the worse.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I'm writing you once again. This last Thursday at the 7th and 8th grade game the younger kids were much better than before.

But at the varsity game, Mr. Hooper, principal from the Jr. High, had to leave his wife and children to go and sit and control other kids.

Is this fair to him? NO! Where are the parents of these kids? I don't think it's the responsibility of others. I don't depend on others to take care of my child.

What must we do to control this problem? Please help us the fans and others like Mr. Hooper who puts out 100 percent. Let us let him see a football game without interference.

Thanks,
A fan and a Son's Mother

Extension Connection

By Tedra Ulmer, County Extension Agent
"Texas Agricultural Extension Service."

Being willing to be a leader in your community, church and school is one thing - being able to handle the load in an active town like Ozona is another. That's why the topic of the Progressive Extension Homemakers Club meeting tomorrow, Thursday, Oct. 12, is "Can You Lead - Willing and Able".

The meeting, which starts at noon and lasts until 1 p.m., examines how each person can determine their "leadership load limits".

According to County Extension Agent-Home Economics, Tedra Ulmer, knowing limits is important. "By knowing how much you can take on beforehand, you can prioritize your commitments and probably be more able to do things you really want to do," Ulmer noted.

She also noted that this week is Texas Extension Homemakers Association Week. "The Texas Extension Homemakers Association, founded in 1926, is a part of one of the world's largest informal educational programs," Ulmer stated.

Extension Homemakers Clubs in counties across Texas sponsor educational programs that provide subject-matter and leadership training to interested persons of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap. The group meets at the Crockett County Civic and Youth Center.

The Progressive Club invites all interested persons to join them for an hour of education and fellowship, and to "bring a sack lunch and a friend," said Ulmer.

The current chairman of the organization is Beth Boyd. Gussie Schneider is TEHA representative. The group meets monthly on the second Thursday of each month, from September through May.

"We try to be through promptly at 1 p.m. so working folks can join us on their lunch hour," said Ulmer.

Programs for the 1989-90 club year

Beth Boyd was in Abilene Sunday as a member of the house party honoring her uncle, Earl Davis, as he celebrated his 100th birthday. The party was hosted by Davis' son David, daughter Joyce Seals and his grandson.

Approximately 125 people were served cake and punch.

include the annual West Texas Utilities Christmas program on Monday, Oct. 30, at noon and 5:30 p.m., "Managing Conflict Creatively" in November, a salad luncheon and program in December, and "Consumer Ripoffs" by John Schmidt of the Better Business Bureau in March.

For more information on the club or upcoming programs, contact the Crockett County Extension Office at 392-2721, or come by the office, located on the second floor of the Courthouse Annex.

Leadership on homemaker's agenda

People from all walks of life here in Crockett County will meet on Monday, Oct. 16, to discuss the most critical issues facing youth today in our county and to begin to jointly find solutions.

The meeting is being sponsored by the 4-H and Youth Committee of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and by the Executive Board of the Extension Program Council.

A task force meeting on Sept. 12 brought together interested persons from local schools, law enforcement and the judicial system, and other organizations which work with youth. The task force broke into groups to study the local situation in regard to six major problems facing American youth today.

Those problems are substance abuse, teen pregnancy, functional illiteracy, school dropouts, juvenile crimes and youth unemployment.

The meeting on Oct. 16 at the Civic Center will address these issues using data collected by the task forces since the original meeting. Interested persons who would like to attend the October meeting and have some input into proposed solutions and ideas can call the Crockett County Office at 392-2721.

The original idea for this process came from the National Collaboration for Youth and the Roosevelt Center for American Policy Studies, and was designed to raise awareness and stimulate action on behalf of youth at local, state and national levels.

"Making the Grade" evolved from a need to educate the public about these critical issues and others affecting America's youth, and to provide opportunities for citizens to come together at the community level to find local solutions to these problems.

At least 22 other counties in Texas are participating in the project, which includes developing a community report card.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service 4-H program is one of the lead agencies helping to coordinate these combined efforts from all areas of the community and state. The project works well with Extension's long-range planning since youth-at-risk is one of its national initiatives.

While some similar efforts have been undertaken in the past, this is the first time a coalition of different organizations and interest groups has begun to work jointly on addressing problems of youth in our community, from the first step of finding out how serious the problems are to the process of finding solutions that will work locally.

Members of the original task forces are: Orlando DeHoyos, John Aiguier, Janet Wilson, Garland Davis, Stephanie Chapman, Diane Martinez, Armando Arredondo, Jimmy Arrott, Beth Boyd, Jim Payne, Gary Vannoy, Debbie Arrott, Frances Curry, Pete Maldonado, Jill House, JoNel Stokes, Elizabeth Upham, Louise Ledoux and Steve Wilkins.

Especially valuable members of the task force were Ozona High School Student Council representatives Amy Graham, Andy Stokes, Chris Denman, Bryan Beasley, Lalo Rodriguez and Tina Tambunga.

If you are interested in attending the Oct. 16 meeting, contact the Crockett County Extension Office immediately at 392-2721.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap.

IT'S TIME FOR YOUR ANNUAL CHECKUP

Your natural gas furnace has been sitting quietly all summer, waiting for the time that it's really needed. And like anything that's been idle awhile, your furnace needs a checkup before it starts to work.

For another winter of worry-free, low-cost heat for your home, be sure the entire checklist below has been followed. Although you can perform some of the checkup yourself, we recommend you have your furnace inspected by a qualified professional heating contractor. Do it now, before heating season gets here.

Here is the checklist that any qualified heating professional will follow:

- ✓ Check the exhaust vent for rust and corrosion.
- ✓ Clean and replace the air filter.
- ✓ If your furnace has a blower belt, replace it if it is cracked or frayed.
- ✓ Lubricate the furnace motor. Newer models have sealed motors and do not require lubricating.
- ✓ Light the pilot light.
- ✓ Perform a carbon monoxide test.
- ✓ Conduct a complete safety inspection.
- ✓ Be certain there are no materials of any kind stored in the furnace closet.

When properly cared for, your natural gas furnace will continue to provide years and years of low maintenance cost-efficient comfort for you and your family. Get your checkup done early and avoid the crunch when that first Northern storm blows in!

A safety message from your friends at Energas Company.

SPECIAL SAFETY TIPS FOR FLOOR FURNACES

1. The grate of a floor furnace can get very hot. Don't touch it, and particularly don't walk on it barefooted.
2. Keep young children from playing on the floor furnace.
3. During heating season, keep open any door between the floor furnace and the room where the thermostat is located.
4. Do not put a rug, carpet, or piece of furniture over a floor furnace. Keep it uncovered at all times during the heating season.

4-H Banquet honors leaders, members

It was "Hats Off to Leaders" at the 1989 Crockett County 4-H Achievement Banquet Oct. 3 as leaders were recognized for their hard work and accomplishments in the past year.

It was also a big night for several senior 4-H members who received major awards.

John Williams received the prestigious Mother Davidson Award. This award, given annually since 1952, goes to the outstanding senior 4-H member in Crockett County.

Williams won state competition with his record book in 1988 and attended the National 4-H Congress this past year. He has shown outstanding leadership in the range management project and has also been active in a number of other projects, including lambs, steers, field and stream, goats, foods and clothing. He was an officer in the district 4-H council and has served as an officer of his 4-H club. He is the son of Larry and Elaine Williams.

Tammy Arrott was the recipient of the Dan Bean Memorial 4-H Scholarship. The $1,000 scholarship goes to the outstanding senior 4-H member in the Crockett County 4-H agricultural program each year.

Arrott has excelled in her 4-H lamb program, garnering several showmanship awards and exhibiting in both local and major shows. She has been a member of the 4-H wool judging team that competed on the state level, and has also been active in the ewe lambs and steer project. Arrott was one of last year's gold star winners.

Winners of this year's Gold Star awards were Andy Stokes, the 18-year-old son of Tom and JoNel Stokes, and Tamie Reagor, the 16-year-old daughter of Billy and Judy Reagor.

Stokes is a 9-year veteran of 4-H and has been active in both beef cattle and sheep projects and in wool judging where he has competed for three years on the successful Crockett County team. He was last year's recipient of the Danforth "I Dare You" award, and is a senior club officer.

Reagor has been active in a number of projects and activities during her eight years in 4-H. This past year she exhibited champion lambs at the local stock show and at San Angelo, and had the champion steer at the county show and the champion Brangus steer at San Antonio. She also presented the first-place state-winning method demonstration in the sheep and goat category at 4-H Roundup this past year. Tamie currently serves as district council delegate in the senior 4-H Club.

Danforth "I Dare You" winners this year were Tammy Arrott and Margaret Jones. The Danforth award challenges young people to lead a purposeful and challenging life.

John Williams presented his slide version of "Travels with 4-H" about his opportunities of a lifetime - visiting Washington, D.C. with the Washington Citizenship Focus tour, the Danforth leadership camp on the shores of Lake Michigan, and his expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

Remember safety first when installing antennas.

- Stay clear of all electric lines, assume all wires are uninsulated.
- Be sure there's enough distance in every direction so that if your antenna should fall, it won't hit a power line.
- If an antenna does start to fall, let it go and stay clear. Never touch it until you're sure it's not in contact with any wires.
- Work only in dry weather and never on a windy day. Most antennas are top-heavy and difficult to control in the wind.
- Guy wires should be secured so they won't whip around and come in contact with power lines.
- Make sure antennas are grounded properly.

The home of Jack and Terry Adams was chosen Garden of the month by the Ozona Garden Club. The large Weeping Willow tree is lovely but also hides the flower bed. Orderly rows of assorted plants including Geraniums, Caladiums and Silverberry fill the bed which is neatly covered with wood chips. Two Crepe Myrtle adorn each side of the bed which is neatly rimmed with bricks placed at an angle.

Good deeds recognized

Editor's Note:

A special service was held recently at Ozona Church of Christ to recognize several people for their kindness to little Amanda Williams. Many of those mentioned in the following story didn't know how appreciated their good deeds were, or in fact that they had done any, until they were invited to the service and presented with a flower.

Written by Amanda's mother, Rose Williams, home economics teacher at OHS, the story is printed with her permission and her thanks to others who have assisted and were not mentioned.

I overheard my sister, Hollie, talking to my Mom the other day about President Bush's speech to the youth of America. Hollie realized that there is a problem with the youth and adults drinking and using drugs, but she was discouraged because nobody wants to recognize the good being done today. Therefore, I decided to give recognition to those I know who have done good deeds and were never thanked publicly.

First of all it would be very conceited of me to assume that the readers know who I am. My name is Amanda Williams. I am five years old, have blonde hair, and big blue eyes. I do not crawl nor walk. I cannot talk except to say "no", "don't", or "Mama" when I am desperately in trouble. I have very little vision and most of that is on the side. Therefore, I do not face you when you talk to me, but I try to find you from the side. My eyes move constantly and this I cannot control. I have high tension in my right side which means I can't move my hand and leg without effort. I am chronically ill with a condition the doctors call diabetes insipidus. Therefore, I am sick quite often. I have seizures in the temple part of my brain that makes me jerk or sometimes I just get real sleepy.

I do not drink out of a cup and sometimes I won't drink out of my bottle, therefore, I have to be fed by hand so I won't dehydrate. My sleeping and waking habits are never the same two days in a row.

Things are not hopeless because I can hear and laugh. My favorite game is "Patty Cake" and although I love all music "Jesus Loves Me" is my favorite. I pat you on the back when you hold me, because those around me have taught me that this means "I Love You".

I'm not sure you realize how much difficulty my family has with me there. I am physically, mentally, and emotionally exhausting to those who live with me.

Now that I have given you a small inkling about me, I will begin to tell you about the people in my life.

Besides my Mom and Dad, I have a brother, Jimmy, who is 16. Hollie, Camelia, and Helena are my sisters whom are 14, 9, and 7 respectively. Unfortunately, my parents cannot do everything to keep our family going, therefore, my siblings are called upon daily to help with different duties. Not only do they make their beds, help fold and put away their clothes, wash dishes and all of those "normal" chores that parents have deemed important for all children to learn; they are called upon to help feed me, brush my teeth, fix my bottle, dress me, lift me from room to room or to the van, help load the diaper bag and the list goes on for all those necessary daily things that must be done. Everyday is different and, therefore, they all have to "pitch in" and help in doing different things. You would think that this was enough, but not for my siblings! They have taken it upon themselves to go beyond these limits of sibling duty. They tell me stories, pick me up when I cry, dance around the room with me in their arms (I love the waltz) or just sit next to me so I won't be alone. They are ecstatic when they sing to me and I struggle to clap my hands. They state their happiness when I do the simplest things. They act as if I've done something heroic when everyone knows this is what all people do naturally. They "put up" with my Mom when she is tired or worried because of me and becomes a real GROUCH!

I've seen my siblings swallow their disappointment when they couldn't go somewhere or do something because I was too ill or my parents were too tired to go one more step. They have been understanding when my parents couldn't go see them participate in school or church activities. I have heard them take the time, however, to tell my Mom about these activities so she wouldn't feel left out. They bravely invited their friends to our home even though they weren't sure of their friends reactions to me, because I am different.

My Mom says my siblings are not perfect. They make mistakes as all of us do. Though it has been tough on them to help as much as they do, to let me have the lion's share of attention, and for them to feel concern for the day to day changes in my health, they still fiercely declare they will take care of me when my parents are no longer able to do so. I ask you, how could I ever find better siblings than this?

I know what is meant when it was said "some feelings cannot be expressed by mere words". It is in the smile when we play or the pat on the back when you hold me. I am proud to say these four people are my siblings. They who have given me much and received, it seems, so little in return.

I can't very well praise my immediate family without saying something about my Auntie "VV" and Uncle Stan and my cousins, Lindsay, Chad, and Sheila. When things get too hectic at our house, Auntie "VV" and Uncle Stan are always there to help. No matter what time, day or night, when my parents need help they can be depended on to be there. Whether it is keeping my siblings overnight, picking something up at the grocery store, or keeping me so my parents can go to my siblings' activities, or simply get away from me for awhile. My cousins have shared their home and parents with me time and time again. They, too, play and talk to me every day.

My grandparents, Hannah and Pa, are very wonderful people. They treat me just like I was like all the rest of their grandchildren. Hannah keeps me overnight, gives me hugs, buys me gifts when all the rest get gifts—even though I wouldn't know the difference if she didn't, and gives me little pokes so I'll get all stirred up until I am forced to say "don't" and she thinks that is terrific! Pa bounces me on his knee, gives me kisses, and shakes my tummy so I will laugh—if I don't laugh and say "eeeh" at him in a screechy voice, he laughs instead of getting his feelings hurt. They, also, are there when my parents need them even if they are 50 miles away.

They taught my Mom through their example about hard work. They taught her to take the good with the bad and making the most of what you have. They taught my Mom about faith and trust in God.

To my great-grandmother, Mamaw Ouida, who is old enough that I should be taking care of her, but who is always doing things for me and remembers me in her daily prayers.

To my other relatives who include me in their prayers and their thoughts, I thank you, also.

Recognition of my siblings and family would not seem complete unless I would mention my friends.

To Esthne Barrera, my teacher at school, who is with me every morning during the week, a big thank you for having patience with me. You see I have to be shown things over and over in order to get them right. Much of the time I waste my energy believing that if I fuss at her enough she will stop making me do whatever it is I need to learn. But, oh no, not Es, she's right there coaxing me, pushing me, and fusses right back at me to help me accomplish my task. She is thrilled with even my smallest accomplishment.

My thanks go to Kay Neil, Beverly Evans, and Frankie Swift for their efforts in helping me to learn. They still have faith in me even though I only show a small amount of progress.

To the children who come and sing and dance around my chair at recess—it is fun being included in your games.

There are friends of my siblings who have made me their friend, too. Cody Morris, Jay Haire, Julie Childress, Jennifer Davidson, Lisa Herring, Jennifer Payne, Jenny Jones, Amber McWilliams, Autumn McWilliams, Chrissy Keith, and Ryan Morris who have visited our home or I have seen in town and have taken the time to say "hello" and visited with me even though I look and act like I'm not paying attention. To the numerous people at church who don't seem to mind if I try to sing—even when we're supposed to be listening—and come up to say "hello" and squeeze my hand, you are remembered also.

To those men of Southwest Texas Electric Co-op who heard from my grandfather that I needed a swing for my therapy and took time to build one, you are super!

My appreciation to Dr. Peaslee who has put forth the extra effort to figure out what my physical body is doing and what can be done to help. To Dr. Sims who has worked with us whenever he was asked.

When my electrolytes went crazy last year and Mom had to juggle her classes, Juanita Gutierrez, Barbara Burger and Jim Payne were very supportive.

Then there are those other Moms, Nancy Vannoy, Sandra Childress, Sadie Davidson, to only mention a few. You have given my brother and sisters rides to and from church and school activities. In doing this, they have been able to do those things that most kids take for granted.

Sometimes my Mom gets discouraged and things get a little overwhelming, but Glenda Winkley, Peggy McWilliams, Judy Probst, Corie Lane and Dolly Rutledge and others like them have always been there to talk to and to boost her faith once more.

I say to you, family and friends, though the news will go on describing the "ills of the world" and you will never receive the public recognition for all the effort you have put forth on my behalf...God knows what has been done and He is the most important.

I made you feel compassion, practice your patience and perseverance as I struggled to be the best that I could be. I asked you to endure when the total picture was grim. I made you share Good Works, Help, Faith, Joy and Love. When you felt sorrow that my life may be cut short, I made you remember to trust in God to take care of me.

Therefore, I say to you who have given me much, perhaps God in His infinite Wisdom and Grace, has given me the ability to give you something in return...and I never had to say a word. Just a smile, a laugh and a small pat on the back which means...

I love you,
Amanda

Crockett County Care Center News

by JoAnne Marshall

Residents made a fun and fancy Ring Around the Holly wreath in Monday morning's craft class. The wreath was made of pinecones, acorns, ribbon, chenille, artificial holly and wicker plates. This project and many others will be on display at the upcoming arts and crafts guild annual craft show Nov. 4 at the 4-H barn. Hope to see you there. Residents putting their creative abilities to work were: Juana Hernandez, Frances Davis, Consuelo Sarabia and Moriama Perez.

Consuelo Sarabia remained champion ring tosser in a contest held Monday afternoon. Juana Hernandez came in second. Residents competing were: Virginia Hoover, Monnie Boyd, Olive Berry, Lucia Rios, Nellie Harp, Moriama Perez and Eva Dean. Who says exercise can't be fun?

There was a tie for the El Chato's gift certificate during Tuesday morning's bingo games. Virginia Hoover and Mattie Cooper binged out at the same time. Since the gift certificate was a dinner for two, it was divided. It seems that two was the magic number for Tuesday's games. Tomasa Ramos, Manuela Perez and Santos Martinez won two games each. Two other ladies, Alice Ross and Olive Berry, won bingo prizes. Helpful volunteers were Sophie Kyle and Georgia Kirby. Thank you, ladies.

Tuesday afternoon was set aside for mending and crocheting.

With the craft show just around the corner, residents worked hard to finish ceramic pieces in Wednesday morning's ceramic workshop. Volunteers Ruthie Doris and Ruth Hester kept everyone working at a steady pace. Residents attending the class were: Hazel McDaniel, Frances Davis, Srida Senne, Moriama Perez, Juana Hernandez and Consuelo Sarabia. We would like to thank Ruth and Ruthie for their assistance.

Wednesday afternoon, Charles Huffman of Faith Lutheran Church presented a short Bible study. Ruby Olson played the piano. It's always nice to have friends share an afternoon with us.

Residents were ready and waiting for beauty shop volunteers Vivian Hughes, Joann Williamson, Lola Rios, Audrey Smith, Yolanda Avila, and Martha Tijerina Thursday morning. They not only got their hair styled, they got their spirits uplifted by the volunteers humor.

David McCarley of the First Baptist Church conducted a Bible study Thursday afternoon. He also led residents and visitors in the singing of hymns. Thank you, David. We appreciate your visits.

Father Bill Du Buisson of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church conducted Mass Thursday afternoon for our Spanish speaking residents. A short visitation followed. Several visitors attended. We would like to thank all of them for sharing this time with us.

A performance by the Bob Bell Band ended the day's activities. Band members present were: Jim Wilson, Marsha Tomlinson, Jerry Reed, George Hester and Bob Hartman. Several new songs were sung, and residents thoroughly enjoyed their performance.

Friday was our Purple and Gold Day, and with keeping up with the homecoming spirit, a beautiful mum was among the prizes awarded to Friday morning's bingo winners. Santos Martinez won the mum and wore it proudly. Other prize winners were: Tomasa Ramos, Frances Davis, Alice Ross, Lucia Rios, Monnie Boyd, Lucy Mae Meinecke and Consuelo Sarabia. We would like to thank Doris Hull for the donation of the mum and Doris Karr for her assistance during the games.

Friday afternoon the name of the Employee of the Month contest winner was revealed. Stella Munoz was the winner, and she was presented with a lovely mum in honor of her achievement. Employee of the Month is selected by the residents and their families. Congratulations, Stella.

Sunday's worship service was conducted by members of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church. We would like to thank them for their fellowship.

Senator Lloyd Bentson calls for education reform

Sen. Lloyd Bentson has released an analysis showing that American students finish behind Japanese students in study after study, and said education reform is critical if we are to compete successfully in world trade.

"Japanese students go to school more days a year, study harder, miss school less and score higher on achievement tests than American students. Time after time we see that American students are finishing second best - and sometimes not that well - in comparison to other countries. Particularly that's true when it comes to achievement tests," Bentson said.

The analysis of several recent studies cited one study that measured student achievements in science which found U.S. fifth graders ranked eighth, lagging behind Japan, Italy, Hungary, Finland and Korea. By the ninth grade, U.S. student performance on science was last among those countries and nine others.

According to the analysis, "The average daily time spent on homework during high school in Japan is two hours. In the U.S. it is 30 minutes. Only one quarter of American high school seniors spend at least five hours per week on homework, whereas in Japan, two out of three students spend this amount of time."

"In addition, subject requirements are more rigorous in Japan than in the U. S. In Japan, three years of high school mathematics are required for graduation while only one is required for the average American high school graduate. Six years of a foreign language is required for Japanese students, while the average American high school requires no foreign language for graduation," the analysis continued.

"And our students drop out of school more often than those in Japan. Above 90 percent of Japanese students finish 12th grade, compared with 71 percent in the U.S.," the analysis reported.

"Over and over again time the figures speak loud and clear. We aren't doing a good enough job of educating our children, and we aren't adequately preparing them for today's increasingly technological and highly competitive world," Bentson said.

"I've urged that we set a national goal of eliminating our trade deficit over the next five years. To do that we're going to have to take several steps including setting a tough, effective trade policy for this country and cutting the federal deficit. But none of these steps is more important than education reform.

"If we are going to successfully compete with our trading partners, we've got to be able to produce an educated, highly-skilled work force. I think that means we are going to have to pay our teachers more, but I also think it means we are going to demand more of them," Sen. Bentson said.

Lonnie Martinez, #33, caught this pass from quarterback Chris Denman for good yardage late in the fourth quarter against the Coahoma Bulldogs Friday night in Lion Stadium. A packed homecoming crowd watched the Lions defeat the Bulldogs 26-6 in non-district play. The Lions' victory leaves them with a 4-1 record going into district play beginning Friday night against Forsan.

Cubs soar over Warriors

by J. L. Tucker

The seventh and eighth grade football teams combined to make one team this past week against Iraan. The eighth grade played the first half while the seventh grade played the second half.

In the first quarter with 1:43 remaining, the Cub's Mike Fay carried the ball up the middle over right tackle to put the first six points on the board. Sammy Hinostrza kicked for the extra point, but the attempt failed.

With 4:07 left in the second quarter, Keith Miller passed the ball to Juan DeLuna who ran in for the touchdown. "The play was designed for a three step drop and hit Fay, but I saw Juan DeLuna open," said Miller. Hinostrza kicked the extra point.

The score stayed at 13-0 until late in the second quarter when Fay returned a punt 46 yards for a touchdown. Hinostrza kicked the extra point, making the score 20-0.

Gabriel Perez commented, "It was a fun game, sort of like practice."

Bart Grimes led the eighth grade Cubs with eight tackles while Daniel Caldera claimed six. DeLuna and Victor Villa had five each.

"The seventh grade got more out of the game," said an excited Coach Craig Cooke. "They showed they could play against an eighth grade team. This game will help them down the road."

Anthony Sanchez scampered 19 yards over right tackle late in the third quarter for the seventh grade Cubs' first points of the second half. The attempt for the extra point failed.

With 35 seconds left in the third quarter, Travis Davidson connected with J. J. Lazano for a 55 yard touchdown pass. Hinostrza's kick made the score 33-0.

Doug Meador led the seventh grade Cubs with four tackles while Luis Longoria and J.J. Lazano each had three stops.

The two Cub teams combined for 239 total yards, 151 rushing and 87 passing. Defensively they held the helpless Iraan squad to 25 total yards.

"They were big, but slow," added Cub wingback Anthony Sanchez. "It was a no sweat game."

The unbeaten Ozona Cubs will host McCamey next week at Lion Stadium in a two game match-up.

Ozona schools ranked on TEAMS test scores

Some 827 school campuses across the state ranked as low performing on the most recent basic skills test.

The Texas Education Agency considers problem campuses to be those where fewer than 60 percent of the students tested pass the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills test.

The local system's average was 66.3 percent.

Hill completes process seminar

Captain Harvey Hill of the Crockett County Sheriff's Department attended a civil process school on Oct. 5 and 6 in Kerrville.

The school, sponsored by the Sheriff's Association of Texas and the Kerr County Sheriff's Office, trains officers in the laws and proper procedures involved in the service of civil process. Cpt. Hill is in charge of civil process for the Crockett County Sheriff's Office.

Tuition for this school was paid for by the Sheriff's Association of Texas.

The test was given to students in grades three, five, seven, nine and 11 to measure basic knowledge of math, reading and writing.

The 11th grade version of the test must be passed before a student can receive a high school diploma.

Districtwide averages for some of the area schools include: Crane, 73.8 percent; Mertzon, 73.7 percent; Junction, 71.9 percent; Big Lake, 76.3 percent; Eldorado, 87.3 percent; Sonora, 86.9 percent; McCamey, 70 percent; and Rankin, 74.3 percent.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Top lawmakers disagreed on whether a tax increase will be needed to equalize public school financing in the wake of last week's historic Texas Supreme Court decision.

The High Court sent the Capitol world spinning with its unanimous decision that struck down the present finance system as unconstitutional and sent the issue back to the Legislature for remedy.

The justices gave legislators no recipe, but set May 1, 1990 as the deadline for a solution.

New Taxes Predicted

Key Democrats immediately predicted a state tax hike as much as $2 billion coupled with some local school district tax increases.

New taxes would most likely come in the form of an expanded sales tax base to include new service industries such as real estate and others.

The so-called "sin taxes" on alcohol and tobacco could also be increased and certain tax exemptions cancelled.

But Gov. Bill Clements cautioned that money itself was not the solution and promised to call a special session this spring following task force hearings across the state.

The High Court, composed of six Democrats and three Republicans, said the present system cheats students in poor school districts out of an equal education.

Bloated School Budgets

Clements said the first step to a solution was to attack bloated school budgets and consolidate some of the 1,100 school districts.

While some local school districts feared a loss of state revenues, Clements also warned other districts not to expect large amounts of new state funds to be infused into local spending.

Prisons, Drug Stance

Unused military bases and under-used state buildings should be temporary housing for prisoners and drug addicts, said former

Secretary of State Jack Rains, now a candidate for governor.

"If these barracks, dorms and hospital beds were good enough for our nation's soldiers, they should be good enough for our state's prisoners," he said.

Rains also promised he and his staff would set examples for others in state government by voluntarily submitting to drug tests.

He also vowed to push for a new law requiring prison inmates to improve their literacy skills and be drug-free before parole.

Burial Plots for Sale

Texas General Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said the state would auction 17 burial plots in a cemetery where three former governors, two U.S. cabinet members, and the first woman elected to statewide office are buried.

The lots are in historic Shady Oakwood Cemetery, which is owned by the Texas School for the Blind.

Governors Elisha Pease, Jim Hogg, and O.B. Colquitt are buried there. The sale will be held Oct. 25, with a minimum bid of $16,000.

Brady Races Start

Texas' fledgling parimutuel racing industry was off and running, for the first time in 52 years, at G. Rollie White Downs in Brady.

Gambling proponents predicted the new industry would boost local economies in Brady and other racetrack towns around the state, while opponents warned of organized crime.

Brady officials said motel rooms were booked solid in a 60-mile radius, while a new fast food franchise rushed to open its doors before the weekend.

TDC Moves on Job Program

The Texas Department of Commerce sent a five-man team to take financial control of the Dallas job-training program after it failed for months to send the state proper budget reports.

Last year the $12 million Dallas program was reported having one of the worst records for training welfare recipients and the poor.

Other Highlights

Former state Rep. Cliff Johnson, who until recently served as Gov. Bill Clements' legislative director, was appointed by Clements to the Texas Water Commission.

The State Preservation Board awarded emergency contracts of up to $192,860 to remove cancer-causing asbestos particles released into the basement of the state Capitol during a recent fire.

Six people, including two Killen attorneys, have announced their candidacy to fill the seat vacated by the resignation of long-time state Rep. Stan Schlueter.

Eleven Texas counties repeated their demand for the Texas Department of Corrections to take about 6,000 felons out of their jails, while their attorneys asked for permission to seek compensation for keeping them.

Chuck Nash, chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, was named to the National Park System Advisory Board by Secretary of the Interior Michael Lujan.

Oct. 10 is the deadline for registering to vote in the Nov. 7 election, reminds Secretary of State George Bayoud.

J.V. Lions defeat Iraan Braves

by Michael Vasquez
 "I thought we played a real tough game, and that's what won it for us," said Lion J.V. quarterback Adam Alba after a 21 to 12 victory over the Iraan J.V. Braves last week. The Lions had played Iraan earlier in the season and defeated them, but this game was different because it was in Iraan.

Ozona started an 83 yard drive which ended with a touchdown by Anthony Vasquez. Helping the score was Matt Mecke who made the two extra points for the J.V. Lions.

With 5:07 remaining, the Lions made the score 8 to 0.

"We executed our offense real well, and our running game was one of the best all year," replied Adam Alba after being asked about their offensive charge.

The offense soon got the ball again, driving it down to the Iraan 14 where quarterback Alba pitched it to the left for Marcus Quiroz' touchdown.

The halftime score was Ozona 15, Iraan 0.

Iraan came out strong in the second half, scoring a touchdown with 7:59 remaining in the third quarter. Still the Lions shut down the extra point attempt.

The J.V. Lions didn't stay down; soon they came back and scored to the right side on a handoff to Vasquez. The score was now Ozona 21, Iraan 6.

Ozona shut down Iraan's offense for the remainder of the quarter.

Iraan came out to score for their final time in the fourth quarter with 7:35 remaining. The Lions held them in their extra point attempt.

Ozona's defense was headed by Oscar Gutierrez in unassisted tackles. Gutierrez was aided by Randel Wilson, Anthony Vasquez and Alonzo Hernandez in overall good defense.

The J.V. Lions go up against McCamey to defend their 4-1 record Thursday night.

Homecoming activities spark spirit

by Sarah Pullen

During the week of Oct. 2-6, Ozona High School cheerleaders and football players put on three pep rallies as well as the traditional bonfire in order to celebrate the 1989 homecoming football game.

On Wednesday morning, Oct. 4, the cheerleaders and several of the senior football players put on a pep rally at the Ozona Primary School Gym. Football players attending the pep rally were: Lalo Rodriguez, Ricky Burger, Randy Judd, Pete Ramirez, Andy Stokes, Jason Tumlinson, Roger Martinez, Mark Fierro, Robert Dominguez and Daniel Vasquez.

During the course of the pep rally, the football players really got a boost of spirit from the younger kids.

"I was thinking that when they get into high school they will realize how much their showing spirit means to us," said Lalo Rodriguez.

Awards were given at the end of the pep rally to a student in each grade who showed the most spirit. Also, the primary school presented Pete Ramirez with a backpack for being the football player who showed the most spirit.

"I felt like I was doing a good thing for the younger kids by showing all that spirit," said Pete.

At the end of the pep rally, the football players, cheerleaders and mascot walked around and shook hands with as many of the kids as possible in order to thank them for their support.

On Thursday morning it was time for the pep rally at the intermediate school. Again the cheerleaders and the remaining senior football players conducted the rally. Football players attending were: Gus Garza, Gabriel Flores, Isaac Leal, George Ybarra, Luis De La Garza, Bruce Beasley, Chris Denman, George Quiroz and Sotero Fuentes.

During this pep rally, the cheerleaders had their work cut out for them, as the intermediate school children didn't seem to want to do anything but watch and listen, instead of yell. After things got going, it was time for the pep rally to be over. Before they left, cheerleaders and football players alike got their chance to sign autographs. By the time they finished, the kids were literally autographed from head to toe.

"I didn't know we were this famous," said Luis De La Garza in a rather joking manner. "It felt strange for them to be asking us for autographs."

Ricky Burger tended to agree with Luis. "It felt funny when they asked for our signatures!" Ricky said.

Thursday night was the bonfire at the baseball complex. There were quite a few people out to support the Lions and cheer them on to a homecoming victory.

At the bonfire, the cheerleaders led several cheers, and the band played two tunes, "Fun, Fun, Fun" and "Mustang" which featured the Front Line.

Coach Don Payne was introduced, and he made a speech in which he pointed out that Ozona is a great town with a great school and great people. After his speech, he introduced all of the varsity football players.

OHS cheerleaders appreciate Wade Cypert and Martin Childress for lighting the fire and everyone around town who donated boxes in order for the bonfire to be the success that it was.

The final pep rally before the homecoming game was held Friday after school at Davidson Memorial Gym. The gym had been decorated with streamers and helium filled balloons.

The band played a tune, "Socorro", as a Front Line feature at the pep rally as well as the school song and fight song.

Speeches were made by Coach Glenn Graham and seniors Andy Stokes and Bruce Beasley. The cheerleaders, with the help of Martin Childress and Mr. Ralph Moore, held a funeral for the Coahoma Bulldogs.

The cheerleaders presented the spirit awards for dress-up days and the best decorated classrooms. Receiving the award for best dressed on Indian Day was senior Jodi Richman.

An exchange student, Hiroko Yamaguchi, received an award for best dressed on Roman Day. Leticia Dominguez, dressed as the Scarecrow, received the award for best dressed on Story Book Character Day. The "Three Amigos", better known as Martin Childress, Mark Fierro and Andy Stokes, were the best dressed guys at OHS on South of the Border Day. These guys showed their school spirit by wearing authentic ponchos and sombreros throughout the day. On Friday, which was Spirit Day, Tess Worthington received the best dressed award.

The awards for most spirit throughout the week went to seniors Margaret Jones and Jodi Richman. A special award was given for the activity classroom that was decorated throughout the week and that the students worked the hardest. This award was given to Steven Leal and Bryan Branch.

Several of the gentlemen in Coach Pete Maldonado's auto mechanics classes decorated the shop giving them the award for the best decorated activity period classroom. For decorations, the boys used streamers, shop tools and even a car to display their desire to beat the Coahoma Bulldogs.

The boys who helped with the decorating were: Gabriel Flores, Roger Martinez, Isaac "Chappo" Leal, Gus Garza and Cody Morris as well as Coach Maldonado.

Cheerleaders for 1989-90 are Kim Coy, Melissa Moore, Tamel West, Tamie Reagor, Stacy Lay and Claudia Avila. Wade Cypert is the Lion mascot.

10-6 Adam Salazar Alba of Ozona was arrested by sheriff's deputies on charges of assault. He was released 10-9 after posting bond.

10-7 17-year-old Richard Borrego of Ozona was arrested by sheriff's deputies on charges of driving while intoxicated. He was released the next day after posting bond.

10-9 Sheriff's deputies traveled to Fort Stockton to take in custody 27-year-old Brian Karpich of Arizona. Karpich was arrested by THP while driving a vehicle stolen from Crockett County. Karpich is also wanted on felony warrants out of Oklahoma, and is a suspect in a recent murder in Waco.

INCIDENTS;

10-4 Eddie Moore, Crockett County road manager, reported the theft of several barricades and traffic cones from a location on Santa Rosa Street. Sheriff's deputies are investigating this theft.

10-4 Sheriff's deputies and Texas Ranger Danny Rhea investigated the burglary of a hunting cabin located on the Pleas Childress Howard Draw Ranch. Two locks were broken and a small quantity of food was taken. This is believed to be the work of illegal aliens.

10-5 Rose Vargas Martinez of Santa Rosa Street reported to sheriff's deputies that she had been beaten up by her boy friend, Robert Ybarra. Ms. Ybarra signed a complaint and Ybarra was arrested by sheriff's deputies.

10-6 Sheriff's deputies recovered a stolen vehicle at the Circle Bar Truck Stop. The 1972 Chevrolet was found abandoned at the truck stop and reported stolen out of Louisiana.

10-6 Sheriff's deputies arrested Adam Alba at a residence on Willow Street following the report of a disturbance at that residence. Lola Alba reported to officers that Mr. Alba had assaulted her during a family argument. Alba was placed in county jail.

10-8 Harold Heitzman of Beaumont reported the theft of a 1982 Chevrolet pickup by a suspect that had just been hired by their construction company. THP stopped the vehicle in Pecos County and arrested Brian Karpich. He has since been returned to the Crockett County Jail.

10-9 Crockett County officers were returning to Ozona from Fort Stockton with Brian Karpich when a THP began to call for assistance at the 313 mile marker on I-10 in Pecos County. The trooper had stopped a stolen vehicle and arrested three suspects. The fourth suspect, who was driving the car, had fled into a nearby pasture. Crockett County officers joined the search which lasted from about 3 p.m. until nearly midnight. At this time, a Crockett County deputy and THP arrested the suspect at the rest area west of the 313 mile marker. The suspect is being held in the Pecos County Jail.

Hospital board members accepted the bid of Woodrow Howell Ice Machine Company of San Angelo to replace the vent hood in the kitchen a when they met Oct. 5. The contract is for a turn-key job and must be approved by the Texas Department of Health's architectural section before final payment is made.

Replacement of the air conditioning/heating unit in the kitchen was tabled pending evaluation of the effects of replacing the vent hood.

Purchase of an ice machine and a small copier for the care center was also approved.

A third flu shot clinic was approved at a cost of $5 subject to availability of the vaccine. During the first two flu clinics, 179 persons received the vaccine. The board agreed to provide flu shots for care center residents at no charge.

Date for the next clinic is Oct. 12 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Six wheelchairs ordered for the care center and three for the hospital have arrived are in service. The new FAX machine has arrived and is in use according to Bill Boswell, hospital administrator.

During his report, Boswell informed the board that County Attorney Orlando De Hoyos has answered the U. S. Justice Department's inquiry concerning the hospital district amendment. The Justice Department now has another 60 days in which to request more information, object to the amendment or approve the legislation.

Board members were asked to consider names to be submitted to commissioners' court as replacement for the three whose terms are expiring.

Both the hospital and care center are under their cash budgets at this time, Boswell said. The care center is under by $75,121 and the hospital by $4,663.

Following an executive session, the board voted to adjust the compensation of two care center employees to the rate being received by other care center employees performing like duties.

Lyndon English, new jailer for the Crockett County Sheriff's Department has been on duty since September 25. He is a graduate of Fort Stockton High School and ASU. Lyndon has moved to Ozona from San Angelo with his wife Laurie, and two sons, Logan, 5, and Layne, 3.

Also brought to a vote and approved was the hiring of Mary Lee Robertson as R.N. consultant for the care center for four hours per week. Mrs. Robertson has recently moved to Ozona from Sonora. She had worked here in the past as an L.V.N. Attending the meeting were board members Armando Arredondo, Fred Deaton, Cynthia Flores and Beth Smith, as well as Boswell, Zoe Green, Peggy McWilliams, Mary Lee Robertson and Judge Kathryn Mayfield.

Orlando De Hoyos for use in notifying property owners.

Two new Teen Council members selected to fill vacancies are Myra Wilson and Bryan Dunn, reported Garland Young, civic and youth center director.

A Halloween dance has been scheduled at the youth center Oct. 28.

Improper parking at the north end of the football field was discussed for the second time by court members and Sheriff Jim Wilson. Supt. Garland Davis agreed to discuss the problem with the school board, Judge Mayfield said.

Wilson offered specifications for two department squad cars and suggested the possibility of selling the old cars by action rather than trade-in.

Officers placed 27 persons in county jail, served three civil papers and received 235 calls for assistance during September.

Three crepe myrtles will be planted at the public library in memory of Bonnie Cameron said Louise Ledoux. The memorial gift is being made by the Woman's League.

A parttime drug and alcohol counselor will soon be available in Crockett County said Kathryn Mayfield. A grant has been applied for to fund the service. Her comments were in reply to a request by County Attorney Orlando De Hoyos for the service here.

De Hoyos reported on his efforts to prepare a response to a Justice Department inquiry regarding hospital district legislation, discussed developing a coordinating system with Fire Marshal Steve Kenley to identify fire hazards, and reported that easements have been filed on property involved in the street drainage correction project.

De Hoyos told the court he is looking into private financing and investigating operational costs and estimated revenue for a public golf course which could possibly be county run.

"I think this is a good way to send a message to people of this county that we are taking measures to correct past injustices," De Hoyos said.

In other business, commissioners approved bond for new jailer Lyndon English and a contract for the R.N. consultant.
