Letty Dominguez, also a senior, received the girls' basketball Fighting Heart from Coach Frank Hughey.

Chris Denman was again recognized when Coach Curry announced him as recipient of the boys' basketball Fighting Heart.

The girls' cross country award for the Fighting Heart went to Claudia Avila. In making the presentation, Coach Pete Maldonado praised her for ranking in the top three at the state meet.

"There is opportunity in our country for young men and women who want it," George said to his young audience and their families.

Keep your mind going, set goals, don't get off the beaten path, use your God given talents, George urged his audience.

How bank accounts affect SSI eligibility

How bank accounts affect Supplemental Security Income (SSI) eligibility is an area that consistently confuses people who are receiving or applying for SSI. This column should help clear up some of that confusion.

To be eligible for SSI, a person must have resources of less than $2,000 ($3,000 for a couple). Bank accounts are usually considered resources; therefore, they count toward this limit.

What's so confusing about that, you wonder. Well, Social Security considers a bank account yours if your name is on it as owner or co-owner and there are no legal restrictions that keep you from taking money out and using it for your own benefit. This is true even if you don't use the account or don't consider the account yours. That means it's important that bank accounts are precisely titled to reflect ownership and access.

Let's suppose Mary Jones applies for SSI. Her daughter, Jane, has a $3,000 savings account. Jane listed Mary as a joint owner, primarily so

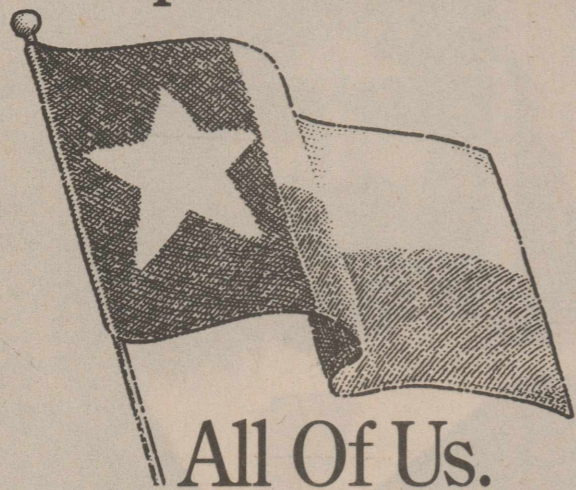

Mary would have access to the money in case something happened to Jane. Although Mary doesn't consider the account to be hers, Social Security does, and she could be found ineligible for SSI because she is over the $2,000 resource limit. Of course, if Jane's account is titled to restrict Mary's access, the account would not be considered Mary's and would not affect Mary's eligibility.

Proper titling is also critical when community, civic, or social groups collect money for a special reason such as to help pay an SSI recipient's medical expenses. Although the donors gave money to the person, they also placed restrictions on its use, and the account must be titled to show the restrictions. As long as the account title shows the money cannot be used for food, clothing, or shelter, the account is not considered a resource.

How Many Texans Does It Take To Complete A Census?

All Of Us.

For every Texan not counted, the state loses $150 in Federal Funds. In 1980, an estimated 300,000 Texans were missing. That cost Texas $45 million a year and a congressional seat. Now that you know the facts, come to your census!

Giant red, green and white paper roses were made in Monday morning's craft class. The roses are part of the Cinco de Mayo decorations. Juana Hernandez, Moriana Perez, Florence Porras, Frances Davis and Chata Tambunga were the residents working on the flowers. A big thank you goes out to these ladies for helping to make our surroundings a little brighter.

Lucia Rios was the high scorer in Monday afternoon's basketball. Residents in competition were Moriana Perez, Tomasa Ramos, Virginia Hoover, Monnie Boyd and Norma Hine. A short exercise routine preceded the games.

A performance by the Bob Bell Band delighted residents Monday evening. Band members performing were: Bob Hartman, Jim Wilson, Jamie Knox, George Hester, Jerry Reed and Marsha Tomlinson. Some new songs were introduced and residents loved them. Thank you for your time and talents.

Florence Porras and Myrtle Post headed the winners in Tuesday morning's bingo with two wins each. Prizes were also won by Tomasa Ramos, Alice Ross, Lucia Rios, Hazel McDaniel, Theo Burns and Elvira Pena. Volunteers Sophie Kyle and Georgia Kirby were on hand to assist residents with their cards. Thank you, ladies. We always enjoy your company.

A song service was held Tuesday afternoon with David McCarley leading the singing. Vickie Stokes was there on other business and graciously volunteered to play the piano for us. Thank you, David and Vickie.

Helpful volunteers assisting during Wednesday morning's ceramic workshop were Ruth Hester, Ruthie Dorris and Alma Bednar. Thank you, ladies. Residents attending the class were: Theo Burns, Frances Davis, Hazel McDaniel, Moriana Perez, Juana Hernandez and Florence Porras.

The breezy weather put a damper on Wednesday afternoon's scheduled Sunshine Hour so residents relaxed in front of the television instead.

Residents were anxious to attend Thursday morning's beauty shop and visitation activity. Volunteers Vivian Hughes, Joann Williamson, Lola Rios, Melinda Hokit and Audrey Smith were our volunteer hair stylists. The ladies did a splendid job. Thank you, ladies.

Charles Huffman of Faith Lutheran Church presented a short Bible lesson Thursday afternoon. Ruby Olson played the piano. Delicious homemade cookies compliments of Louise Taliaferro were passed out after the Bible study. Thank you Charles, Ruby and Louise for brightening our afternoon.

Mass was conducted by Fr. Bill Du Buisson Thursday afternoon during the scheduled Spanish Hour of Praise. Members of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church attending were: Germana Onofre, Alicia Perez, Anita Fierro, Paulita Leal and Alegos Tambunga. We would like to thank Fr. Bill and our other visitors for sharing this spiritual hour with us.

Alice Ross was the big winner in Friday morning's bingo. She won three games. A lovely locket was one of the prizes awarded. Others winning one game each were: Frances Davis, Lucia Rios, Monnie Boyd, Hazel McDaniel, Theo Burns and Myrtle Post.

Dominos was the scheduled activity for Friday afternoon.

Otis Nester put a little pep into Saturday's routine by playing the accordion. Residents really enjoyed his performance. Thank you, Otis, for making Saturday special.

Sunday afternoon's worship service was conducted by Ken Harrison of Ozona United Methodist Church. We would like to thank Ken for taking a part out of his busy day to spend some time with us.

Flag bearers lead a group of riders as the Cinco de Mayo parade begins.

The Work of Faith

By Rev. Norvell Allen, Mt. Zion Baptist Church

This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent.

Faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone. Faith worketh by love. He that soweth to his flesh, shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting. We are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them.

Who have himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people zealous of good works.

We are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all toward each other aboundeth. Wherefore also we pray always for you, that our God would count you worthy of this calling, and fulfill all the good pleasure of his goodness, and the work of faith with power. It is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure.

Wildflowers along the roadsides in Crockett County are more bountiful this spring than those in Central Texas says Winston Koerth. The State Highway Department supervisor said the rains fell just right to produce an impressive wildflower display along the interstate and south of Ozona down Hwy. 163 and along the Pandale Road. Ranchwomen who travel county roads are enjoying the floral display on those thoroughfares, too. Several have expressed the hope that the county road department will delay mowing until the flowers are gone.

U.S. National security threatened by dependency of foreign oil

by Senator Lloyd Bentsen

The last time an oil embargo affected the United States a new word was coined to describe the consequences: stagflation — when prices and unemployment are rising simultaneously.

During the 1973 oil embargo we learned the painful lesson of what happens when America is too dependent on foreign oil and those sources decide to cut back or halt production. We all remember the long lines at the gas pump and skyrocketing fuel prices. Excessive dependence on foreign oil also threatens our national security.

Unfortunately we seem to have forgotten the experience of the 70s, and our reliance on imported oil is once again on the rise.

Last year 44 percent of the oil we used in this country was supplied by foreign sources — the second highest level in history, exceeded only in 1977 when that figure was 46 percent. And in January of this year, our dependence on foreign oil soared to an all time high — 54 percent. Arab OPEC producers are supplying eight of ten new barrels of imported U.S. oil, and have regained control of world oil markets.

Meanwhile, oil production here at home has plunged to the lowest level in 25 years. Production has declined steadily since prices tumbled by one-half in 1986, and the decline is now accelerating. For the past 15 years, rising Alaskan output offset dwindling activity in the rest of the states, but that production peaked in 1988 and declined last year.

Compounding this problem is the fact that exploration for new oil sources has dropped by three-quarters in the last five years. Fewer seismic exploration crews were at work last year than in any year since World War II. There were more exploratory rotary rigs operating just in Texas during 1949 than in the entire United States last year.

That can't continue. We've got to boost our energy self-reliance. We need an aggressive national energy policy that provides incentives for both domestic energy production and conservation.

A few years ago I introduced legislation to limit our dependence on foreign oil. The Bentsen proposal would require the President to take whatever steps necessary to ensure that the United States is not forced to depend on foreign sources for more than half the oil we use.

The proposal got 41 votes in the Senate in 1987 and would have gotten more, but three of my supporters were out of town and the Administration twisted the arms of a dozen other Senators to vote no. A similar bill had gotten only 15 votes the year before, so the trend is in the right direction.

I'm taking a look at pushing my proposal again this year. We have a new administration, and I hope it will be more supportive. This administration has discussed the importance of national energy policy and has promised to produce one. The Department of Energy has finished collecting comments on this policy, and I'm anxious to see what they will be proposing.

Excessive dependence on foreign oil brought us stagflation in the 1970s. And if we continue on our current path, the U.S. may import more than half of our oil by 1991, again jeopardizing our economy and our national security. It's going to take leadership and a strong, coherent national energy policy to turn that around.

Scientist has Ozona roots

The recent launching of the Hubble Space Telescope from the Space Shuttle Discovery captured the world's attention, but for one Ozona man, the telescope has a more personal significance. Al Boggess, senior scientist for the telescope project at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Maryland, is the nephew of Marshall Montgomery.

Boggess, who as a lad often stargazed at Crockett County skies with his mother Mina while on summer vacation, now will view the heavens through the costliest scientific instrument ever built.

Signals sent from Goddard direct the movement of the 43'x14' telescope. The instrument orbits the earth every 95 minutes 380 miles up. Primary duties of the telescope deal with the origin of the universe, but it will also seek to solve the mysteries of "dark matter", material in space which emits little or no light.

The telescope, named for American astronomer Edwin Powell Hubble who discovered that the universe is expanding, may be able to give clues as to how fast the universe is slowing down. Expected to be fully operational after nine months of fine-tuning, the scope should be good for at least 15 years with occasional maintenance.

Boggess, who holds a doctorate in astronomy from the University of Michigan, joined NASA in 1959 after four-years with the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C. He began working on designs for a space telescope in 1968.

Although he owns part of the Montgomery Ranch in Crockett County, Boggess doesn't get out this way often any more, Marshall Montgomery said. Al and his wife Nancy, who is an astrophysicist at the Goddard center, were last here about two years ago.

Visiting

Spending the day in Ozona Saturday were Doris, Allen and Jana Sepelada of Big Lake. Top on 5-year-old Allen's list was a "card for my mom". Allen needed a special card "cause my mom is special; she loves me too much, and I like her a lot, too."

May 14 is Jeff Owens' birthday, and all his friends and loved ones are very glad to say, "Happy Birthday, Jeff!"

Video movies are great these days, and proved to be so when one arrived at the home of Tommie and Marsha Tomlinson. The video was from son Shane and family who live in Nuremberg, Germany. Taking a tour of the country, local zoo, and their home was as if they were next door. Sure makes their absence lighter.

Birthday wishes go to Angelo Glasscock as she turns a year older May 14. Angela is the daughter of Bill and Debbie Glasscock. Happy birthday, Angela.

Family and friends, some 90 in number, gathered at the Coleman Church of Christ Sunday, May 6, to celebrate the birthday of Nettie Tomlinson who was 90 years young. Those arriving came from Llano, Brownwood, Arlington and Canada. Nettie described her day as "wonderful". Mrs. Tomlinson is the aunt of Tommie Tomlinson of Ozona.

Visiting with Joe and Rose Menchaca and sons Joey and Jamie were Bill and Vicki Tonor and children Micha and Miriam. The Tonors are from San Antonio. Mrs. Tonor is a sister to Mrs. Menchaca.

Anniversary wishes go out to Charles and Gussie Schneider who celebrated another year of marriage on May 2. Best wishes.

Birthday wishes go to Barbara Crowder whose day falls on Mother's Day this year. Family and friends all wish her a great day.

Sara Harrison (left) and Mindy Coates will dance in two segments of the San Angelo Civic Ballet's spring production of Portraits of Texas.

Lockett service in Junction

John Arvel Lockett of Junction died Thursday, May 3, 1990, at his home after a lengthy illness. He was 68.

Service was held Sunday in Junction with Rev. Sam Coffey, pastor of First Baptist Church of Junction, officiating. Burial followed in Junction Cemetery.

Mr. Lockett was born July 18, 1921, in Runnels County. He had been a resident of Junction since 1959. He was a retired rancher and had served as a Texas game warden in Crockett County for nine years and as sheriff of Kimble County for 12 years.

He was a member of the Baptist Church, a past master of the Ozona Masonic Lodge No. 747, and a veteran of World War II.

John Lockett and Lucretia England were married June 23, 1949, in Albany. He was preceded in death by two daughters, Laura Lee Lockett and Wanda Gean Lockett on July 30, 1971, and one brother.

He is survived by his wife; three daughters, Le Jean Reed of Ackerly, Allison Ragland Boone of Junction and Christy Murr of Denton; one sister, Cleo Keller of Kerrville; one sister-in-law, Neta Lockett of Turlock, CA; and two grandchildren.

Pallbearers were: Sheriff Ernest Haynes of San Angelo, retired sheriffs Billy Joe Haney of Menard, Orval Edmiston of Eldorado and Billy Mills of Ozona, Texas Highway Patrolman Delbert Roberts of Junction and longtime friend Boyce Hunger of Junction.

Old tires bouncing back in new roads

Imagine a wall, 25 feet tall, encircling the entire state. That's a big wall, even in Texas. But the 280 million tires that are discarded in the United States every year could build a wall that big.

Instead, engineers have found a better way to use some of the old tires piling up in landfills in every community in America. They're making asphalt-rubber, a paving material composed of asphalt cement and up to 25 percent crumb rubber, which is derived primarily from grinding up old tires.

Texas is a pioneer in the use of asphalt-rubber. Since 1983, more than 3.6 million tires have been put to work on Texas highways. In all, 85,000 tons of asphalt-rubber have been used on more than 3,700 lane miles, using 800 to 1,000 tires per mile, in 20 of the state's 24 highway districts. In February alone, construction contracts were awarded that will use more than half a million tires.

In 1975, the Arizona Department of Transportation placed several test sections of asphalt-rubber. The successful experiments have resulted in the use of the material in at least 35 states, Canada, Europe, and Australia.

Texas began using asphalt-rubber in 1976. A survey by the Asphalt Rubber Producers Group (ARPG), has found that the installation of an interlayer of asphalt-rubber between the old road surface and a seal coat of new asphalt pavement has eliminated reflective cracking on Interstate, primary, and secondary routes for the last 14 years.

Asphalt-rubber serves as a moisture barrier, protecting the road base and surface from excess water. Because it is stickier—more cohesive—than conventional asphalt, mixtures can be formulated that allow for a more porous surface.

"The surface has little valleys that allow the moisture to trickle off to the side of the road rather than accumulating in puddles," Templeton said.

Governor proclaims Texas Hospital Week

Gov. William P. Clements Jr. has designated May 6-12 as Texas Hospital Week. In his proclamation, Gov. Clements said, "The Texas Hospital Association and hospitals throughout Texas are committed to helping Texans feel their very best. Their primary concern is improving the lives of each person in our state."

"This year's theme, 'Texas Hospitals—In Sickness and In Health' emphasizes the dual role hospitals perform for their communities," said Terry Townsend, CAE, THA president. "Hospitals are committed to meeting patients' needs in times of illness. And through education and preventive care, hospitals strive to help maintain the good health of people within the community," he explained.

In his proclamation, Gov. Clements recognized that it takes a special person to dedicate his or her life to the health and well-being of others. "Hospitals throughout Texas are staffed by many highly skilled and dedicated health care professionals. These professionals make a most significant contribution as they offer their commitment, talent and training to ensure the best possible care in every community in the state," he said. "It is fitting that we salute Texas hospitals and their specialized contributions to the public welfare, high standards of care, state-of-the-art equipped facilities and educational research programs," Clements said.

Townsend said, "Hospital Week is a time to recognize people who are special to hospitals: patients and their families, doctors, hospital employees, volunteers, board members and benefactors. The hospital's mission can be accomplished only by a team approach. All team members play a vital role in achieving the overall goal of providing the patient with quality health care services."

Texas Hospital Week is celebrated in conjunction with National Hospital Week, which originated in 1921. Matthew A. Foley, a hospital magazine editor, selected May 12, the birthday of Florence Nightingale, as a special day for hospitals so that the community may know its hospital. In 1924 the American Hospital Association assumed sponsorship of National Hospital Day and expanded the celebration to National Hospital Week in 1953.

New Law requires elected and appointed officials to file written statement

An amendment to the State Constitution now requires all elected and appointed officials in Texas to file a written statement before taking the oath of office, secretary of State George Bayoud said.

Last November, Texas voters approved the constitutional amendment that removed the bribery provision in the official oath of office required of all elected and appointed officers. The amendment placed the bribery provision in a written oath that office-holders must sign and file with the secretary of state's office before they take the oral oath of office.

"What needs to be emphasized is that as a result of this change in state law, elected and appointed officers must file a statement with my office before taking the oath," Bayoud said.

State and local officers who were appointed or reappointed, elected or re-elected, after Dec. 5, 1989 must comply with the new law.

"This constitutional amendment affects thousands of elected and appointed officers across the state," Bayoud said.

On May 5, hundreds of Texas cities, school boards, utility districts and other political subdivisions will be conducting elections.

The constitutional amendment, in effect, has divided the swearing-in procedure required of all elected and appointed officers in Texas into two parts-the written statement of the officer to be filed with the secretary of state's office, and the oral oath of office, Bayoud said.

Foreign students end year in Ozona

Students at Ozona High School had opportunity to learn first-hand about the culture of Japan and Turkey this year as they became acquainted with three students from those countries.

Yukiko Hata and Hiroko Yamagiwa arrived in the United States from Japan last August as part of the ASPECT exchange program.

Tolga Savasan came to the States through The Experiment in International Living, which brought a number of international visitors to Ozona for short home stays last summer.

The three expressed surprise at the size of Ozona. "I didn't think there would be any small towns here," said Tolga. "I thought they would all be like New York."

In Turkey most cities are large in population. Only rural historic sites have small communities around them, he explained. His home of Izmir, the third largest city in the nation and second largest port after Istanbul, is a city of five million people.

Both girls are also from large population centers. Yukiko lives with her family in Kanagawa, Japan. Hiroko's home is in Nara.

During an orientation in Seattle, Hiroko was told that in Texas students went to school on horseback. This information led to several inquiries about transportation when Hiroko arrived in Ozona, said Marsha Tomlinson. Hiroko is presently a guest in the home of Marsha and Tommie Tomlinson.

In Japan, no one is allowed to study for a driver's license until age 18. "I need a car," said Yukiko who is anxious to learn to drive. She was surprised to locate in a community with "no taxi, no city bus, no train".

Yukiko, a senior at OHS, attends an all-girl school in Japan. She will have to repeat the year of schooling in order to graduate in Japan. She will be awarded an honorary diploma when she participates in graduation exercises here May 25 with members of the Class of 1990.

All-night grad party May 25

The Crockett County Civic and Youth Board and Teen Council will again host an all-night party to honor the Senior Class.

The annual event includes the entire high school and offers an alcohol and chemical free alternative celebration following graduation.

The May 25 celebration at Crockett County Civic Center will include movies, dance contests, music by Dr. Tunes, ping-pong, pool tournaments, darts, games and drawings for door prizes.

As an inducement for 100 percent senior participation, the party sponsors will have a $500 drawing exclusively for seniors in addition to the usual drawings.

Doors at the center are closed after midnight and no one will be allowed to leave the building. Breakfast will be served at 6 a.m.

Parents are urged to encourage their teens to attend the all-night party. Adult chaperones will be present at the center all night, and a check list will be available so you may call to make sure your teen is present.

Individuals, businesses or organizations interested in donating money, gift certificates or merchandise for prizes, food for snacks or breakfast are asked to contact Garland or Joyce Young at 392-3266, Frances Denman at 392-3675, JoNel Stokes at 392-2145 or Janie Chandler at 392-2456.

Yukiko Hata and Hiroko Yamagiwa

Following graduation from high school in Japan, Yukiko plans to attend college and continue to study English.

She played tennis in junior high and has continued that pursuit in Ozona. Yukiko has attended her first dance since coming to Ozona.

Trips to San Angelo have provided entertainment for the girls. At home, shopping and the movies are an almost every weekend activity for Yukiko.

Visits to Tokyo Disneyland are top entertainment for both.

Yukiko, presently the Ozona guest of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Sessom, has developed a taste for bacon and egg burritos.

Becoming an English teacher is the career goal of junior student Hiroko. She attends a large co-ed school in Nara, but boys and girls attend classes in separate buildings. Since coming to Ozona, Hiroko's love of classical music has expanded to include a liking for rock music. She played cornet in the school band in Japan for 1 1/2 years and continued her musical training with the Ozona Lion Band. Playing at football games, seeing the cheerleaders and making band trips were exciting for Hiroko.

"My band (in Japan) is very strict; we have to practice every Sunday," Hiroko said.

She has adapted well to the Ozona teen pastime of riding around with friends. Because of the no driving until 18 rule in Japan, teens there have little opportunity to "cruise the drag" as American teens do.

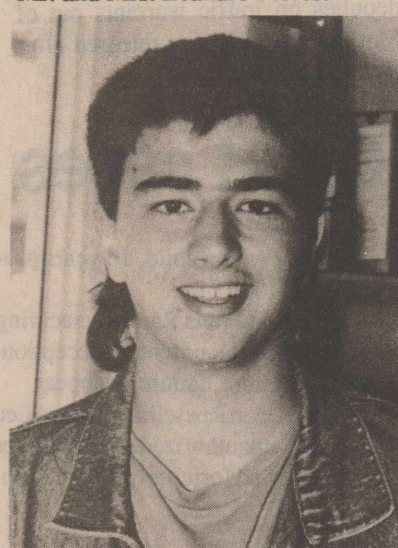

A love of cheeseburgers developed from eating at MacDonalds in Japan came with Hiroko to the States. DQ Blizzards are also among her favorites.

Topping her list of things to do is shopping. "Shopping is good for my health," quipped Hiroko.

Becoming accustomed to American people was the most difficult thing for Tolga Savasan this year. American television programs and movies shown in Turkey give the impression that Americans don't worry about anything, Tolga said.

He has learned much about American and Mexican cultures during his stay in Ozona as a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leandro Flores.

Tolga Savasan

Tolga, who is classified as a sophomore here, has a background in English developed through three years of study where five of his classes are conducted in English each day. At his school, which has an enrollment of approximately 6,000, boys are required to wear coats and ties to class.

Classrooms are self-contained in Turkey, and Tolga has enjoyed the experience of attending classes with different students during the day. The Turkish school day of eight hours is longer than that of American students.

Tolga participated in track this year, running the 800 and 400 for the Ozona Lions. He has played two years of basketball and two years of soccer in Turkey.

The rich history of Tolga's country and home city have developed his interest in history. He also enjoys movies and dancing. His future plans include becoming a doctor.

These three students leave for their homelands this summer carrying with them a lasting impression of America and Americans based on their experiences and treatment while guests in Ozona.

Girl Scouts report on spring activities

Editor's Note: Members of Girl Scout Troop #95 wrote the following report of their spring activities, each girl contributed a paragraph.

Girl Scout members of Troop #95 have been busy with spring activities.

Members of Troop #95 attended the archaeological program presented by the Historical Society. The girls were able to visit with archaeologist Mr. Jacquier.

A flashlight Easter egg hunt was held at the Scout hut. Members of Troop #24 joined Troop #95 in the activities. Refreshments were served following the egg hunt. Leslie Vestal was guest speaker. She gave an interesting and informative talk on being a pumper.

An Earth Day poster was made to help inform the public on recycling and conservation issues. The poster was taken to the Ozona Chamber of Commerce to be displayed.

Nancy Moore spoke to the Scouts on manners and etiquette. Mrs. Moore discussed with the girls how to properly hostess a coffee. The girls were given time to practice serving.

The Scouts helped hostess a morning coffee for a group of visitors on a tour presented by the chamber of commerce. The event was held at the Hillcrest Motel Breakfast Room. The girls provided cookies that they made.

Members of Troop #95 and Troop #24 met at the Ozona Public Library to hear librarian Louise Ledoux speak to the group. Mrs. Ledoux spoke on the duties of a librarian and service the library provides to the public.

Invitations for an upcoming Mother's Day Nature Mystery Dinner were made. Plans for the May 12 garage sale were discussed at the last Scout meeting.

Junior high band earns first division

The Ozona Junior High Band travelled to Sonora on Saturday, May 5, to participate in the first Sonora Band Contest. Elementary and junior high bands from this area were invited to perform concert selections before an independent judge and received comments and a rating.

The junior high band performed "Greenbrier March" by John Edmondson and "Trumpet Voluntary" arranged by Pearson for the concert contest and earned a Division I rating for their performance. "It is believed that this is the first time in many years that the Ozona Junior High Band has participated in a concert contest, and we were very pleased to start a Division I tradition with this group," said Skip Carroll, assistant director of Ozona bands.

Judging the contest was James Mallow, retired director of bands from Brady. Mr. Mallow commented that the Ozona band performed "nicely with good balance and tone quality"... "Good teaching and good student response. Congratulations."

Hosting the contest were Bryant Harris and Mark Nelson, director of bands at Sonora.

4-H'ers take honors at judging, rifle contests

Crockett County 4-H'ers did a super job of representing their county in various contests this weekend and in contests on April 28.

On Saturday, April 28, 4-H Rifle and Livestock Judging Teams competed in District contests. The Crockett 4-H Rifle teams traveled to Monahans, where the junior team placed fourth and the senior team placed fifth.

Junior team members are Cody Landon, John Usener and Gary Thompson. Usener was 10th high individual. Coaches for the junior team are Steve Bueno and Penn Baggett.

Senior team members were coached by Ben English and Ronnie Jones. Members are Devin Rhea, Fleet Worthington, Clint Landon and Dwayne Davee.

The junior livestock judging team also did well in district competition at Big Springs. Team members are Lynn Haire, Tara Wilkins, Casey Upham and Travis Davidson, and their coach is Steve Wilkins.

The group placed sixth overall, third in sheep, fifth in reasons and sixth in cattle. Lynn Haire was sixth high individual in sheep and Tara Wilkins was fifth high individual in cattle, sixth in reasons, eighth in sheep and tenth overall high individual.

While the rifle and livestock teams were busy with district contests, the county range judging and wool judging teams were occupied with an invitational contest at Kerrville. The senior teams are preparing for state contests in June at Texas A&M University.

The senior team placed third at Kerrville, with Matthew Marshall garnering honors as high individual. Other team members were John Williams, Martha Mayfield and Justin Southern. The novice team of Sara Mayfield, T. J. Young, Melissa Emery and Cody Emery placed second. The teams are coached by Larry Williams and Vaden Aldridge.

Crockett County wool judges competing at Kerrville included Terry

House, Anthony Sanchez, Stefny Sutton and Lauren Wilkins. Belinda Wilkins and Jennifer Evans accompanied the group.

On Saturday, May 5, the teams competed at Llano in range judging and at the Angelo State University wool and mohair judging in San Angelo.

The senior range team copped first place honors with John Williams second high individual and Matthew Marshall third high individual. Martha Mayfield and Justin Southern completed the team.

The junior range judges, entered as individuals, were T. J. Young and Jason Hignight, who was third high individual in the junior contest. Accompanying the group were John, Sarah and Amanda Hightight.

Leaders Larry Williams and Vaden Aldridge got a chance to show the youngsters what they could do in a special range contest for leaders. Williams walked away with first place and Aldridge with second spot.

Wool judging at San Angelo were Tara Wilkins, Casey Upham, Adrienne Dickerson and Anthony Sanchez as Crockett County's junior team. They placed fifth. Terry House and Chad Upham judged as senior individuals, and Lauren Wilkins judged as a pre-junior individual.

In judging contests, 4-H members learn evaluation and decision-making skills, poise and communication skills. For more information about how your child can participate in 4-H judging events, contact the Crockett County Extension Office at 392-2721.

participating in other activities such as hiking, swimming, stargazing, stream-stopping and arts and crafts.

Maxine Tolleson of Camp Wood will be the Camp Director. Maxine, a Field Director and Camp Administrator with El Camino Council for the past four years, attended the National Girl Scout Camp Directors Training in New York this past February. Maxine is married and the mother of three children.

The public is invited to an open house at Camp Jo Jan Van on Sunday, May 20, 1990, from 2-4 p.m.

Senior 4-H'ers sweep District Roundup

All three Crockett County senior entries in Saturday's District VI 4-H Roundup contests will advance to State Roundup at College Station in June.

The three illustrated talks will be vying with contestants age 14 and older from the other 13 extension districts across the state for top honors in meat science, clothing, and family life educational activity.

Winners Saturday were Tamie Reagor, with "Mohair: Setting the Standard for Fashion", Julie Childress and Jennifer Davidson with "The New Look of Lamb", and the team of Hollie Williams and Katharine Durham with their presentation on teen cult involvement. "Your Friends: Demons or Dabblers?"

Sara Mayfield competed in the junior division, placing second with her natural resources talk, "Animal Tales." This was Sara's first time to prepare a talk or compete in district competition, and according to County extension Agents Billy Reagor and Tedra Ulmer, she did an outstanding job preparing for her contest.

Thanks to the large number of entries in both judging contests and demonstration/talk contests, Crockett county received a plaque for having the most entries—41 individuals—in district contest this year out of the 22 counties in the district.

Accompanying the roundup contestants to Alpine, site of Saturday's contest, were Agents Billy Reagor and Tedra Ulmer, and adult leaders Kathryn Mayfield, Sandra Childress and Sadie Davidson.

Tamie Reagor was inducted as District 4-H Council secretary at the awards ceremony which followed the actual contest.

"We salute each of these fine young people and their leaders and parents for their many hours of hard work and effort put into preparation for Saturday's contest," said Reagor and Ulmer.

The agents noted that the 4-H members are available to present their programs to civic organizations, church groups or school classes, and that anyone interested should contact Tedra Ulmer at the county Extension office by calling 392-2721, or go by the office, located on the second floor of the county courthouse annex.

"We welcome opportunities for our seniors to practice their presentations before state competition," said Ulmer.

For more information on ways your child can use involvement in demonstrations and talks to increase communications skills, poise, self-confidence, decision-making and other life skills, contact the county Extension office.

Health Fair is for everyone

Elsewhere in the paper you'll see mention of the health fair—but let me encourage you now to take advantage of the free testing and educational information available for the whole family.

Each year, we sponsor the health fair for all the citizens of Crockett County. Sometimes it seems like just another headache—but when the event's over, we tend to lean back and say, "Wow! That was really worth it!" You see, good health is something we all need—and something that we're all responsible for. The theme of our health fair this year is "Feelin' Good," and we all know that by taking responsibility for keeping track of our diet, exercising and having tests done when needed, we will all be much better off.

That's why the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and our county home economics committee sponsors this event each year—because we're concerned about each of our friends and family members and we want you to be concerned about your own health.

We make changes each year in an effort to make the health fair better for all concerned. This year, we're trying to have some duplication of the more popular tests, to eliminate some of the waiting. We're also happy to have the hospital and care center participating again this year, and that will also help with overcrowding in our civic center.

But to keep the health fair going strong, with participation from agencies in San Angelo and the surrounding area who provide much of our testing, we mostly need you and your friends and family to come by and participate.

So take time out tomorrow (Thursday, May 10) to come by the civic center from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Save some money and learn a bit more about your health status. Remember, it's all absolutely free—no strings attached!

See you at the health fair!

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap.

4-H UPDATE

CLUB MEETINGS, OFFICER ELECTIONS ON MAY AGENDA
4-H clubs will be meeting in May to elect officers for the 1990-1991 year. If you are interested in running for an office, make plans now to attend the meeting. Anyone may run for an office, although there are certain age requirements for certain offices. In order to run for an office, candidates will be allowed to nominate themselves and will have to stand up and tell why they think they would make a good officer, and what their qualifications are for the office.

The junior high meeting has already been set for Monday, May 14, at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Other meetings will be announced as they are scheduled.

A record book workshop for leaders and parents is set for this coming Saturday, May 12, in Midland. Agent Tedra Ulmer will be going, and anyone interested in hearing more about record books is urged to attend. Mrs. Judith Powell of Upton County will be teaching the workshop, and it promises to be very helpful.

The Crockett County group will be leaving the courthouse at 7:30 a.m., and will probably return about 5:30 p.m. Please let the Extension Office know by Friday, May 11, if you plan to go with the county group.

Any senior 4-H members interested in attending state 4-H Congress in Austin this summer must submit their registration by Monday, May 14, at 4 p.m. to the County Extension Office. They must complete a registration form and send in their check for the registration fee (which includes registration, lodging and meals) of $135.

News flash! The Senior Club will meet Monday, May 14 at 6 p.m. at the Stokes house, 612 Ave. I (across from Calvary Baptist Church). All senior 4-H members are urged to attend and run for office. We'd like to remind seniors that we elect two district council delegates each year, and they are responsible for attending both the spring and fall district meetings.

Don't forget to send in your camp registrations and deposits—you don't want to miss the date of your choice. Call 392-2721 for more information.

If you're a leader and would like something about your project in this column, please call us by the Friday before. We'll be happy to include any meeting notices and due dates! Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap.

My Little Silver Spoon

EDITORS NOTE: The following tribute to his mother was written by Ted White in 1975.

by Theodore Mark White

It is not daylight yet, as I sit stirring my coffee with my little silver spoon. My mind is half out of gear and half in. Memories of fleeting dreams of the night linger in my mind to haunt me. Reluctantly, I come to grips with reality and the impending dawn.

For me, this silver spoon has been a constant in a changing world. It has always been in the drawer, ready to stir my coffee every morning. Sometimes things are fine and rosy, sometimes not. Sometimes the grass is green and wool prices are good. At times ranching this rough country on the lower Pecos River is bleak and unyielding. And there are times when people are simply wonderful, and there are times when they are a little less than the angels. Through all the vicissitudes and trials and rimrocks and thorns, my little baby spoon never lets me down. It carries reminders and memories that date back to the very beginning of this century. With my spoon and a little time waking up, I can always get motivated and locomated and down to the saddle house and a new day.

Back in 1925, for a special reason of her own, Mama had me take my little spoon, along with a few other belongings, to college. Mama's constant interest in my welfare, and her understanding, loom up before me every morning as I stir my coffee.

As I sit with cup in one hand and spoon in the other, my whole childhood parades before me. Mama was front and center in my entire activities and thoughts. To me she was heroine in all that happened up in the dry Pecos River Valley at Grandfalls, Texas, where she and Papa decided to live and rear a family, Mama wrapped my cuts and doctored my bruises. She admired my horses, and she always knew what field I was plowing. When I took long rides down into the big open country along the river to look after the horses and the cattle, she would put a special plate of food in the oven, to make sure enough was left. What, with a big family of hungry kids, the dishes and bowls seldom needed much emptying or washing when the meal was ended.

When I was a shy little fellow, Mama knew that a bit of rubbing would settle me down and put me to sleep. She sat on my bed a lot of nights while I got settled into a comfortable spot. She always seemed to know when I needed some special attention. I was never too aggressive or militant, and only Mama really understood. Mama knew from the start that I wasn't going to be the scholarly type like the others. She figured maybe I could make up the difference in other ways.

In the lean years when there was no rain and no irrigation water in the ditches, the crops were mighty meager. Mama always was able to manage the meals and the clothes with miraculous dexterity, and with ample dignity. In those hard times, not even the rich people had any money. No one ever told us, but we never doubted but what we were fine folks. Our little community was blessed with a lot of good people who were refined and happy. We never fully appreciated them till in later years. Mama could hold her own in any company. Once at a ladies' meeting down at lovely Cedar Hurst each member was asked to perform. Some said poems, while others played lively tunes. Mama rang the bell with "Froggie went a courtin". When froggie went swimming across the lake, and got swallowed by a big black snake, all the fine ladies properly cried in their dainty silk handkerchiefs.

When I was real small, Mama made a trip out to a tree by the front gate with me to help get my shoes. Even though it was pitch dark I was not actually afraid, but Mama recognized that it was a job that two could do better than one. We had a nice friendly chat all the way out there and back to the house.

Even though Mama was a school teacher when she was young, she was more inclined to livestock and the big out-of-doors. She loved the horses and the cows, and even the pigs. At the first crack of dawn she went out to turn the chickens out of the house, and to see what was going on. She enjoyed that time outside, before she started a fire in the old wood cook stove. She knew when every calf was born. She knew when the wood pile was low, and when the water barrels were about empty. A thousand times she told me to hook up to the wagon and drive the two miles for a couple of barrels of water. We would empty what water that was left into buckets, the two wash tubs, and even into the old black wash pot.

One day in 1912 the house caught on fire. It was wash day, and someone, in carrying a shovel of live coals from the cook stove out to the wash pot, dropped some coals down between the cistern and the back porch. It was quite a while before the fire got going enough to be noticed. I heard the first roaring noise, and ran around front to see if a car was coming up the lane. By the time I got back, Mama was really directing traffic. We dashed the two tubs of wash water (one soapy and the other clear) on the fire. We even dipped the water from the wash pot, and we kept a bucket under the cistern faucet till the fire was out. Mama had me crawl under the house with a bucket to slosh water on the smoking timbers. She knew how to put a fire out, but she sure was short on water. That is one reason she always wanted those barrels full of water. And too, she wanted plenty of water for Saturday night bathing. Sunday was a big day at our house.

When on occasions Papa was gone, Mama milked the cows, or saw to it that the big boys properly did the job. She made us keep the strippings in a separate little bucket. One time back before I was big enough to be of much help, a cow hooked Mama down, and continued to try to hook her while she was on the ground. She crawled far enough to get a good stick. She whacked that cow right sharply on the nose, then got up and drove her into the pen.

Mama was a good horse rider, but she rode side-saddle. She never objected when she saw me coming up the lane on a bronc—not even when I was thirteen. Mama and I were on the same wave length. But to be honest, she had enough room in her heart to share with all her children, and Papa. I was so far down the line, and without even the distinction of being the last, that Mama had to help me over a lot of rough spots.

Mama made a lot of sacrifices like eating the back and the neck of the chickens she killed for Sunday dinner. One of her happiest experiences was to ride to church in the new buggy, with Joe and Charlie pulling it in a fast trot, and her oldest son holding the lines. She would have Emory to make a swing through town to pick up some of the other ladies. At times he would haul two loads of corseted women to the very door of the church. It wasn't far, but they didn't like to get their shoes dusty. Mama taught a Sunday School class for many years. All the young folks like to grow up big enough to go into her class. Mama had a merry laugh and a wonderful personality. She was all heart and pride.

Mama and Papa agreed that we all were to have a college education. A run over to Ft. Stockton in 1918 for better public school ended with the flu epidemic. A couple of years later she started hauling the older ones to Brownwood to attend Daniel Baker College. On their first trip in the model T they came in from the south. Daniel Baker was at the intersection of Coggin and Austin Ave. And too, Mama and Daniel Baker were devout Presbyterians. I've often wondered what would have happened if they had come into Brownwood on Center Ave. Where Howard Payne is located. None of us has ever been used to that much water.

With the coming of oil to Ward County, Papa and Mama had some very relaxed years after all the children were gone. In the Spring of 1931 Mama slid from her chair one morning, and out of the lives of those who loved her dearly.

Every morning as I stir my coffee with my little spoon I think of two constants in my life—God in Heaven and Mama. I've always known where they stood, and where I could turn when I needed a little lift. These rimrocks are not too forbidding. They are about right—so long as I have my little spoon.

Hotlines offer pesticide info

Editor's note: This article originally appeared in Entomology Update, a newsletter circulated in Extension District 4. The author is extension entomologist Dr. Mike Merchant, (214) 231-5362

Two little-known but potentially valuable sources of pesticide information are as near as your telephone.

The National Pesticide Telecommunications Network (NPTN) and the Chemical Transportation Emergency Center (CHEMTREC) both provide toll-free numbers for people seeking information about health and safety aspects of pesticides.

The Texas Tech University Science Center operates the NPTN with support from the Environmental Protection Agency. The hotline, whose number is (800) 858-7378, is available around the clock and is run by graduate students and full-time professionals trained in such fields as environmental science, agriculture, public health and entomology.

The NPATN maintains a current library of technical materials and a computerized data base containing information about specific pesticide products.

The library includes texts, periodicals, EPA position documents and newsletters. NPTN also has access to Medline, Toxline, the National Pesticide Information Retrieval System and other computerized data bases. Emergency calls dealing with human pesticide poisoning are referred to the New Mexico Poison Control Center, (505) 277-4261. The number for the Texas State Poison center in Galveston is (409) 765-1420 or (713) 654-1701.

CHEMTREC, the 24-hour poison hotline based in Washington, D.C., specializes in toxic chemical spills, fires and other chemical emergencies. Operators have immediate access to relevant Material Safety Data Sheets and will assist by alerting the chemical's manufacturer of the emergency.

Unlike the NPTN hotline, CHEMTREC discourages calls seeking general information about pesticides, preferring to deal with true emergencies. The CHEMTREC hotline number is (800) 424-9300.

Diz Reeves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dub Reeves of Ozona and a 1959 Ozona High School graduate, has been named head football coach and athletic coordinator at Brackenridge High School in San Antonio.

Diz leaves his seven year successful baseball coaching position with the Highlands Owls in San Antonio who have been ranked third in The San Antonio Light's Top 10 poll.

"This is one of the most difficult things I've ever had to do in my life to leave the boys at Highlands that I love very dearly," Reeves said after accepting the football job at Brackenridge. "But when you get a chance to move up in the world, it's hard to pass up." Reeves spent several years coaching in the Boerne School system before accepting the coaching position with the Highlands Owls.

Diz married the former Tommye Spurgers, daughter of Shorty Spurgers of Ozona who also was a 1959 graduate of Ozona High School. Tommye teaches special education in the Boerne School system. The Reeves have three children and reside in Boerne.

Avoid nutrition worries by following simple rules

According to Dr. Robert Bernstein, Texas Commissioner of Health, it is little wonder that the public is confused about how to prevent heart disease and cancer through proper nutrition.

The fact that more people than ever before seem to be trying to avoid heart disease and cancer by eating the right foods is very good news," he said. "But given the volume of claims that are being made about different foods, it has become increasingly harder for people to make intelligent choices."

He added, for example, that recent controversies about the benefits of oat bran compared to other sources of dietary fiber may have stretched a concerned public's patience almost to the breaking point. "The last thing we want to have happen is for the public to become disinterested in the whole subject of sound nutrition, just because they can't separate scientific evidence from advertising hype," he said.

The commissioner stressed that proper nutrition for most people does not have to be complicated. "Most people who know their own health conditions, take care to read nutrition information on products, and understand some basic rules can avoid the pitfalls of believing all TV commercials, and other half-truths meant to sell products."

He recommended seven, basic principles, all of which are agreed upon by the National Institutes of Health. Those guidelines are:

- * Maintain a desirable weight.
- * Avoid too much fat, saturated fat and cholesterol.
- * Eat foods with adequate starch and fiber.

- * Avoid too much sugar.
- * Avoid too much sodium.
- * If you drink alcoholic beverages, do so in moderation.

"Of course each of these rules needs more detail," Dr. Bernstein said. "But local health departments, county extension agents, hospitals—even school systems—either have nutritionists on their staffs or have free literature meant to clarify these nutrition basics."

He added that some people, such as diabetics, people with hypertension, alcoholics, and others with special health needs should adhere to modified diets prescribed by their physicians.
