Tornado kills two near Iraan June 1

Two persons were killed by a tornado and 24 others injured June 1 during a thunderstorm which threatened much of Crockett County. The tornado touched down about 5:30 p.m. Friday between McCamey and Iraan, destroying property, livestock and human lives.

Robert Musick of Canyon Lake and Pat Dingler of Del Rio were killed when the tornado struck their pickups on FM Road 305 approximately five miles north of Hwy. 190. Dingler's wife and two sons were seriously hurt.

Iraan DPS Troopers David Martinez and Jess Malone, who is the son of Sonny and Barbara Malone, received minor cuts when the tornado lifted their DPS vehicle, turned it around and blew out the windows.

A total of 20 homes were damaged or destroyed according to a report issued Saturday by the DPS. The pump building and electrical lines at the McCamey Water Pump Station were damaged, necessitating conservation measures in the community until the system could be repaired.

Approximately 100 electrical poles were damaged along a 10 mile stretch, also cutting the power to Iraan's water supply. Almost 100 percent of the electrical power was out to oil fields in two counties. Marathon Oil Company reported 57 pump jacks had been knocked over. An H2S gas leak resulted when a wellhead was knocked over near the interstate west of Iraan.

A DPS report listed 10 automobile accidents as a result of the storm. The co-op building on FM 1901 was totally destroyed. Hundreds of livestock were killed by hail and flying debris.

At approximately 7:25 p.m. residents in Sheffield were advised to seek shelter when a U. S. weather bureau report indicated a tornado between there and Bakersfield. Central Crockett County was put under a tornado warning at the same time.

The weather bureau out of San Angelo issued a warning at 7:38 indicating a possible tornado 22 miles northwest of Ozona.

The Crockett County Sheriff's Department began telephone notification of ranchers in the northern part of the county shortly after news was received of the tornado near McCamey. Also notified of the severe weather conditions were parents and children who were gathered at the Volunteer firemen battle mobile home fire Sunday

Firemen answered two calls to a fire at an unoccupied mobile home Saturday night. Three trucks used 2,600 gallons of water in responding to the 11:56 p.m. blaze.

The fire rekindled at 4:26 a.m., and the two trucks responding used 1,500 gallons of water. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

A May 27 fire in a chicken coop on Ave. M required 50 gallons of water. The 6:38 p.m. fire is believed to have been caused by children playing with matches.

Firemen responded on May 19 to an 8:48 p.m. report of smoke at a storage building belonging to Bill Black. The fire was out on arrival at the location behind House Fuel Company.

Sparks from a truck tire rim set three small grass fires near mile marker 335 on I-10 May 22. Firemen used 75 gallons of water during the 12:57 p.m. call.

A May 26 fire in a trash trailer at mile marker 354 required 1,050 gallons of water and two trucks. The report was received at 5:32 p.m.

Firemen were called to standby at an accident near mile marker 360 at 3:03 p.m. May 19.

On May 29, firemen responded to a 1:12 p.m. report of a truck fire on I-10. No vehicle was found.

Firemen used the jaws of life to remove three victims from a wrecked car May 24. The accident occurred two miles north of Ozona on Hwy. 163.

Do you know what to do in case of a tornado?

Two phrases that should be part of every Texan's vocabulary are "Tornado watch" and "tornado warning".

A watch - usually posted for broad areas spanning hundreds of miles - is issued anytime a squall line develops which has the potential of spawning tornadoes. It is not uncommon for a city or town to be included in a watch dozens of times without ever experiencing a tornado.

No matter how often a watch is posted for a community, residents should monitor broadcasts and be generally aware of the potentially threatening weather.

Should a twister be spotted, a tornado warning is signaled. Warnings are issued for much smaller areas and may mean that residents have only a few minutes to take shelter.

In Ozona, a five minute blast on the fire siren would indicate that a tornado has been sighted approaching the town.

If a siren warning is issued, persons should immediately take cover.

The key word in taking cover is "low". The lowest floor in any building is safest. Small rooms - such as the bathroom - or a closet in the central part of the structure, offer the best protection. If this hideout isn't available, taking cover under heavy furniture such as a tipped-over upholstered couch is advised.

Neither a mobile home nor buildings with wide, free-span roofs - such as auditoriums - are desirable shelters.

In public buildings, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor, or to a designated shelter area.

If there is no time to find suitable shelter, lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or ravine.

Move at right angles to the tornado's path. Tornadoes usually move ahead at about 25 to 40 miles per hour.

Most deaths associated with tornadoes are caused by flying debris. Serious injuries result from being struck in the head or chest. To protect these sensitive areas, curl up so that your head and chest are protected.

Immediately after a storm has passed, stay put for a few minutes. Make sure there is no leaking gas in the area before striking matches. Remember, too, downed telephone and power lines are a hazard.

Four illegal aliens given ten year probated sentences for attempted theft at ranch home

Four residents of Mexico were sentenced in District Court here June 1 in connection with the April 4 break-in at the Will M. Black ranch home. The men were charged with entering a habitation without the consent of the owner with the intent to commit theft.

Juan Antonio Hernandez, Miguel

Romero Hernandez, Sabas Garcia Garcia and Tomas Tamayo Garcia were each sentenced to 10 years in the Texas Department of Corrections probated, assessed $5,000 fines and court costs.

The case was dismissed against a fifth individual who was a juvenile at the time of the break-in.

4-H program receives $1,500 gift from GTE Volunteer Initiative Program

GTE donated $1,500 to the Crockett County 4-H program in the names of their employees, Jimmy Arrott and Bob Harris.

General Telephone has a program, "GTE Volunteer Initiative Program" which encourages its employees to volunteer in non-profit organizations such as 4-H.

Arrott and Harris are both 4-H adult leaders and more than meet the requirements of the company under the volunteer program.

Jimmy Arrott is an active 4-H Club manager and livestock leader. This is the second time the 4-H club has received a check in his name. Arrott was also recognized at Texas A&M during 4-H Roundup as an outstanding 4-H adult leader. The $750 will be used in the agricultural program to buy equipment.

Bob Harris is actively involved in the 4-H Field and Stream Program where he serves as a track coordinator in fishing and as a 4-H adult leader. The $750 in Harris' name will be used in the 4-H Field and Stream Program.

According to Billy Reagor, county agent, "Both these leaders do a tremendous job and are a real asset to the Crockett County 4-H program."

Chamber planning new projects to promote tourism

Ozona offers many services to travelers, and Ozona Chamber of Commerce is working to develop more for visitors to do once they arrive. Several projects still in the planning stages will focus on the county's rich western history, said Nancy Moore, chamber secretary.

A walking tour of the downtown area to view the historical markers and monuments on or around the square gives tourists an additional reason to stop and stretch their legs, chamber officers believe. To add interest, merchants will be encouraged to prepare window displays built around the history of their locations, Mrs. Moore said.

Addition of signs on the interstate directing travelers to Ozona's David Crockett monument has already increased the flow of tourist traffic into town. Families and groups are making frequent use of the four picnic tables and benches installed on the town square early this spring.

The square was the location of a highly successful week-long May Music Festival featuring performances by local talent during the noon hour. The event drew local spectators and enticed travelers to stop. Leaflets advertising the event were sent to tourist information sites at points of entry into the state, and to other distribution areas.

New color brochures are being developed to promote Ozona and Crockett County. Funds from the motel/hotel occupancy tax passed by commissioners court in 1989 are making increased chamber activity possible. The state regulates use of this tax, and one of the permitted uses is for promotion of tourism.

The chamber sponsors a December Deerfest, fall turkey shoot and Halloween carnival and assists civic organizations in publicizing other events.

Providing information for hunters is a major activity of the chamber. The office receives mail and telephone inquiries annually from hundreds of people who are interested in coming to Crockett County to hunt.

Ozona Chamber of Commerce was organized Jan. 24, 1963. Elected as officers at a Feb. 14, 1963, meeting were: Oscar Kost, president; Troy Williams, first vice-president; John Held Jr., second vice-president; W. W. Mason, third vice-president; J. B. Miller, fourth vice-president; Jack Baggett, secretary; Lowell Littleton, treasurer.

Other directors were: John Childress, Doyle Elmore, Gene Lilly, Dick Henderson and Joe Williams.

1990 Ozona Chamber of Commerce officers are: Diane Myers, president; John L. Henderson, vice-president; Betty Perry, vice-president; Mike Preddy, vice-president; Randy Branch, secretary.

The chamber welcomes new members, both business and individual. For more information on chamber activities or membership, contact Ozona Chamber of Commerce at 392-3066 or stop by the office at 1110 Ave. E.

since I was able to inform them on the various issues involved regarding dedication of county roads. As you know, the outcome is that all roads currently maintained by Crockett County are now public roads by way of implied dedication. I recommended a 60 to 90 day period in which public hearings could be held concerning the issues involved in expressly dedicating the roads in question and during this time accepting an expressed dedication from the landowners who were ready to dedicate those roads that would serve a public purpose.

In the final analysis, if need be, I will continue to have "discussions" with other officials in the contest that no one is above the law. Even though I did not invite such discussions in the first place, I would hope that such discussions can be avoided. I would prefer to talk about other things such as the fine youth baseball program here in Ozona.

Certainly, I believe that some negative publicity and criticism from a few uninformed individuals is a

Letter to the Editor

Dear Scotty & Linda:

During the past few weeks, information concerning the maintenance of county roads has appeared in The Ozona Stockman and I would like to add my own personal comments.

From my initial letter to the Commissioners, my overriding concern has been as I stated in that letter was "to assure the citizens of Crockett county that taxpayer money is being properly expended." At every opportunity, I would repeat this point about the legal use of taxpayer money. In fact, during my term in office, I have expressed this same concern on five different occasions. Each time, including this occasion, the way "things used to be done" has changed in order to assure that taxpayer money is being legally spent.

Further, I was pleased to address the Commissioners and the audience

since I was able to inform them on the various issues involved regarding dedication of county roads. As you know, the outcome is that all roads currently maintained by Crockett County are now public roads by way of implied dedication. I recommended a 60 to 90 day period in which public hearings could be held concerning the issues involved in expressly dedicating the roads in question and during this time accepting an expressed dedication from the landowners who were ready to dedicate those roads that would serve a public purpose.

Respectfully submitted,
Orlando F. DeHoyos
Crockett County Attorney

Dear Editor:

On Monday, Memorial Day, I drove around the town to look at the flags flying to honor our war dead. I am quick to admit I did not drive on every street, nor did I look at every house. I did, however, drive North and South and East and West. What I saw was disappointing at best and an embarrassment at worst.

I counted a total of 17 flags flying (excluding Public and Government buildings), 14 of which were on the West side of Johnson Draw. Really now folks, just because the "boom has bust" we shouldn't forget our Community pride. Let's remember why we have these Holidays and show our respect to those that made them possible.

school auditorium for a dance recital rehearsal.

County Judge Kathryn Mayfield opened the courthouse to persons wishing to shelter there. The Heritage Building and basement of the Musicland building on 11th Street were also opened for public shelter. A number of people took refuge at these locations according to Bob Falkner, fire chief.

The DPS office received constant calls from persons asking what to do in case of a tornado Friday, said Falkner, who is also a DPS dispatcher.

A five minute blast on the fire siren would be used to warn residents if a tornado were sighted approaching the community, he said.

Basic tornado safety procedures are outlined elsewhere in this issue.

Garlitz-Bolger vows spoken

MIDLAND--Christa Adams Garlitz and John Barr Bolger were married at noon June second at Archbishop Lamy's Chapel in Santa Fe, New Mexico.

The Reverend Doctor Joseph Hastings Schley Jr., former rector of Saint Nicholas Episcopal Church, officiated at the Nuptial Eucharist.

Special music was provided by harpist Dr. Ariana Celine of Santa Fe.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gary Garlitz, the granddaughter of Mrs. Clay Addison Adams of Ozona, and the granddaughter of Charles Francis Garlitz of Fort Worth. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Perry Bolger. He is the grandson of John Fernando O'Donohoe of Wichita Falls.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of coin-dot silk jacquard. The wrapped bodice was accented by a large bow. Her Brussels lace veil was gathered into a head-dress with a matching bow and fell to the hem of the ankle-length slim skirt. The veil was first worn by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Adams, at her wedding June 6, 1928. For something old, borrowed and blue, the bride wore an antique sapphire and diamond ring belonging to her mother. She carried a mother-of-pearl New Testament used by the bridegroom's mother and grandmother in their weddings and a bouquet of Casablanca lilies.

Maid of honor was Jane Ann-Caroline Garlitz, sister of the bride. She wore a Monet print tulle afternoon dress and carried an arm bouquet of delphinium.

Mr. Bolger was best man for his son, Charles Clay Garlitz, brother of the bride, and Edward Perry Bolger Jr. of Arlington, Virginia, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Lectors were Caroline Elizabeth Bolger and Catherine Bolger Graham of Memphis, Tennessee, sisters of the bridegroom, and William Wade Garlitz of San Antonio, brother of the bride.

The chapel doorway was outlined by a garland of smilax and spring flowers. Vases of spring flowers were on the altar. Archbishop Lamy's Chapel, on the grounds of The Bishop's Lodge, is designated a National Historic place by the National Register of Historic Places.

A wedding breakfast followed in the Fiesta Room at The Bishop's Lodge. The tables were covered with floral cloths and had centerpieces of spring flowers in leaf baskets. The wedding cake was decorated with fresh flowers.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Bolger, was in La Sala del Sol at Rancho Encantado.

The bride attended Pine Manor College in Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts, and is employed at Julian Gold Inc. in San Antonio. She was a 1984 Minuet Club Debutante and is a member of the Junior League of San Antonio. The bridegroom attended Southwest Texas State University and is employed at Duncan Smith Co., San Antonio. Following a wedding trip to Jamaica, the couple will live in San Antonio.

Counting the county

By Enumerator X

We all know how to get a count. You gather your stock, pen it, and let it out through a gate counting pairs or threes while people push it from behind yelling, "hilo, hilo, hilo".

And we all know you can't count people that way — at least not here. Imagine penning all the Hoovers. At one time. In one pen.

The Constitution, solemnly enacted March 4, 1789, provides that "Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states.... The actual enumeration shall be made ... every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct."

The ten years fell on census day, April 1, 1990; the "such manner" involved hiring, training, and fielding a crew of enumerators — counters. By now you have heard many of the stories about trials of the census takers ferreting out the homeless in the Bronx, crawling through the cane-breaks of southern swamplands, counting dogs as family members and grandma who lives in the garage, confronting reluctant citizens who every ten years suddenly become constitutional lawyers ready to question the right of the government to any information about themselves.

What the constitution did not anticipate was the willing helpfulness of people who assist in the enumeration of the country, because, well, because they are friendly, helpful people. Their identities are not protected by the 72-year secrecy that shields most of the data accumulated in the census. So, we can name names and in doing so express our gratitude for all the help we got in counting the county.

The Free State of Crockett County has its quirks. The quirkiest thing about the count is what "everybody knows." When Tony Allen tells you how to get to his Montgomery lease — you turn left at the two red rocks past the cattle-guard — you have to be just a bit surprised to find two red rocks right where he said they would be. Directions to anywhere in the county, and in Ozona itself, tend to follow this pattern: reference to common (or not so common) landmarks accompanied by vague gestures of the hand to indicate which branch of the trail to take. "Just keep turning left," Jeffrey Sutton says, "and when you get to the top, turn right. You can't miss it." Listen: sometimes it's possible to miss the full New York Philharmonic in dress rehearsal in the middle of one of those "pastures" out in the west part of the county. If the pasture is five sections large and even larger temporarily with the water gaps down since the rain. So, when Louis Bunger leans over a census map spread out on the hood of his truck, puts his hand on a large portion and sweeps it north to the Interstate, and tells you, "There's nothing through there," you have to be grateful.

(Those census maps were the magic and mystery of the census for the territory outside of town. Mystery, because there were no common landmarks on them other than roads and powerlines and streams, what we know as draws. Magic because they were so dadblamed accurate. Earl Acton expressed wonder as he traced a road around "and right up top to that mill." The maps were made from aerial surveys. They were a problem in that they did not distinguish between location roads on oil leases and roads that actually led some place.)

A more common quirkiness of the county is in its kinship patterns that "everybody knows". Some of those patterns would test the skills of an anthropologist, or a Mormon genealogist. "Crystelle Childress is a Carson" is the sort of thing you learn, but it doesn't necessarily help much in the census. "James Theodore Hunt's sister married Jimmy Powell, Marolyn Bean's brother." OK, now where do I go from here? None of this really makes sense until you've tried to catch the Actons, who weren't at their ranch several days running — at 24 cents a mile, trips down to the bottom of the county begin to make the job profitable. "Pam Acton is Katy and Demp Jones' daughter" is the first information you need to pen the Actons. A stop at the feed store, and you learn from Buster Augustine that he saw Earl's red GMC crewcab in town that morning; a quick stop at the Jones' house finds no one home, but the Acton's truck is there — betrayed by its bumpersticker. A phone call to the Jones' ranch; a radio message relayed to Pam by Katy Jones; and finally a pre-arranged call at noon catches the Actons at lunch — and gets the enumerator an invitation to join them.

That's how the government of the United States works. Doesn't that reassure you?

Sheila Goldsmith from Big Lake was the enumerator assigned to the county west of Howard Draw and south of I-10. She was undaunted by advice that she should carry emergency rations and a snakebite kit, something to read if she got locked inside a gate or broke down, and a flaregun in case she got lost at night. She took her maps, her record book, and a grim dedication with her as she went off to stalk the elusive Hoover in his many manifestations in the west part of the county. And she found Armond Hoover, Jr., who opened the territory to her — telling her where the ranches were, who occupied them, and when it was best to catch people at home. (Some ranchers come to roost only after dark.) What Armond didn't tell her, Bud Cox did. So Sheila got her census job done, and met a few of the county's more colorful citizens.

Firemen assist with hose as Doug Meador battles the blaze inside the mobile home which was gutted Saturday night.

Lorelei McMullan relied on Bill Black to show her on her maps which of the ranch roads were in the northern part of the county. Taking the census in April means catching ranchers like Bill at their busy time — marking or shearing or marrying off sons or fiddling with their income tax. They all found the time to help, and acted as though you were doing them a favor to ask. Ed Hale and Nat Read were Lorelei's prime sources for her second assignment east of town.

Neal Ulmer and Catherine Carson, helped by Viola Perez early on, did the majority of the work in town, where there are streets and street signs (sometimes) and numbers on houses (sometimes), and a lot of help from Tom Stokes' tax office and Rhonda Shaw, and at the water office from Elena Faye Hokit and Laurie English. If they pay taxes or drink water, they can be found and counted. Johnny Childress knew more than he wanted to about vacant houses — and was an invaluable source. Thus endeth Phase I.

Crewleader Rebecca West, from Crane, was especially grateful to Ken Harrison at the Methodist Church, for the space donated to the cause (it got the enumerators off the streets), and to Bonnie Warth, church secretary who took calls for the crew. Rebecca was also grateful to whoever provided the abundant spring rains in most of the county; ranchers as a group are easier to approach with questions about what they made last year if there is moisture in the soil and they expect to do better this year.

Doing the census is one way to learn the county — regrettably 30 years too late. It's more than 3,000 square miles of livestock territory. It is folks — Penn Baggett's wife is an Arledge, Pie Pierce and Tom Cameron are in-laws, Dr. William Robertson on the Pandale Road and Opal Forehand are related (how?) — and history and change. Travelling a long road through the south part of the county you come to almost the last house, occupied by one of the county's newest brides. Quite domestic, she is running the dishwasher or washing machine, being friendly and polite, settling into her new life. That's all

Smith honored for defense, family votes

Congressman Lamar Smith has been recognized for his consistent votes favoring defense and family issues.

Smith received the National Security Leadership Award May 16 from the National Security Caucus, a bi-partisan group that represents more than 10 national organizations.

The congressman was praised for his outstanding voting record and many leadership activities on behalf of national security. The group commended Smith for his 100 percent voting record in 1989.

Earlier this month, Christian Voice which is the nation's largest religious lobby, recognized Smith for his votes on key moral issues such as drug testing, child care, abortion and SDI.

"We salute his commitment to traditional family values and com-right, Mrs. Black. I remember when Tony Allen was teaching you how to tie goats for the rodeo one summer, not so many years ago. I only wish I could be around to enumerate your household in the 22nd Decennial Census.

Enumerators come and go, too. Ave atque vale, Crockett County.

mend Rep. Smith for being one of the outstanding members of Congress," said Robert G. Grant, chairman of Christian Voice.

Light-hearted music filled the halls as Jim Wilson, George Hester, Marsha Tomlinson, Jamie Knox, Bob Hartman and Jerry Reed shared their multitudes of talents with us. We would like to thank the band members for an enjoyable evening.

There were three residents lucky enough to win two games each during Tuesday morning's bingo. They were Alice Ross, Hazel McDaniel and Moriana Perez. Prizes were also won by Theo Burns, Manuela Perez, Elvira Pena, Bertha Miller and Santos Martinez. Sophie Kyle was our helpful volunteer. Thank you, Sophie.

Tuesday afternoon residents gathered into the dining room for a laugh or two during our "brighter side" activity. Amusing stories were read from "Laughter is the Best Medicine" in the Reader's Digest.

Ceramics workshop was held Wednesday morning under the direction of volunteer Ruthie Dorris. The bulk of the items worked on were Western art pieces. Residents attending the class were Theo Burns, Hazel McDaniel, Moriana Perez, Chata Tambunga, Florence Porras and Juana Hernandez. We would like to thank Ruthie for taking time out of her busy day to be with us.

A shoe-in party was held Wednesday afternoon. Shown were a variety of shoe styles ranging from casual wear to dressy. As a party favor, residents received a small glass slipper filled with candies. We would like to thank Perry Brothers for their assistance with this activity. They supplied the shoes.

Thursday morning's beauty shop volunteers were Vivian Hughes, Jerri Pesson and Jo Davidson. These are to be commended for the fine job they did styling hair to each resident's satisfaction.

We welcomed a new resident this week, Jim Luckie of Sonora. Jim has many stories to tell and has made himself fit right in. If you have time, stop in for a visit and let Jim tell you some of his adventures.

Enjoying a fun-filled vacation to Six Flags and Austin to tour the Capitol were Paul Sanchez, Sandra, Ryan and Lacey. Ryan and Paul enjoyed a quick spin around Malibu Racetrack.

Mark Thompson and his bride-to-be, Kris Jackson, write that they wish all their Ozona friends could be with them at their June 17 wedding in Elkton, Ohio. Vows will be solemnized at the Elkton Canal Days Festival followed by an outdoor reception.

4-H'ers compete in state roundup at A & M

Sixteen Crockett County 4-H members, parents and leaders, and County Extension Agents Tedra Ulmer and Billy Reager are competing today, June 6, at State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University - along with about 2,200 other 4-H members, leaders and agents.

The Crockett County delegation is the largest attending this year from the Far West Texas District VI area.

In addition to 4-H Roundup contestants, Crockett County rancher

Pleas Childress III will be honored as a State 4-H Alumni Award winner at a Tuesday night banquet and at the opening assembly at Roundup.

Senior 4-H member John Williams is one of only 97 4-H members out of almost 400 who applied for scholarships to be selected for an interview.

He will be interviewing for one of 93 scholarships to be given by the Texas 4-H Foundation this year. The scholarships will total more than a half million dollars.

Whitney Vannoy will face stiff competition at the State 4-H Food Show on Monday and Tuesday, as she competes against winners from 13 other Extension Districts for a $750 scholarship from Morrison Milling Company. This is her first time in state competition.

Three 4-H illustrated talks will be competing for top honors in their respective categories this year. Tamie Reager will discuss "Mohair...Setting the Standard for Fashion" in the clothing category; Hollie Williams and Katharine Durham will give their talk on teen involvement in cults, "Demons or Dabblers" in the family life category; and "The New Look of Lamb" is the title of Jennifer Davidson and Julie Childress' talk on the lean lamb certification program.

Crockett County is always active with judging teams, and this year is no exception. Seniors Andy Stokes and Martin Childress head up the wool judging team. Teammates are Terry House and Chad Upham. Another graduating senior, John Williams, will make his last trip to state Roundup on the range evaluation team with teammates Martha Mayfield, Matthew Marshall and Fleet Worthington.

The range and pasture identification team consists of C'Jay McKinney, Angie Marshall, Justin Southern and Mike Kension.

Agents Ulmer and Reager noted this is the largest group Crockett County has sent to State in several years. They also mentioned their appreciation for the help and support of all the 4-H members' parents and of the adult leaders accompanying the group to roundup.

Adults making the trip to A&M will be JoNel Stokes, Larry Williams, Vaden Aldridge, Pleas Childress III, Sandra Childress, Nancy Vannoy and Elaine Williams. Pleas Childress II and Geniece Childress will be attending the honor banquet.

The agents asked all 4-H members to begin thinking about next year's Roundup, especially senior 4-H members who will be 14 or older as of Jan. 1. They reminded younger 4-H members that it's never too early to start doing method demonstrations or becoming members of judging teams.

For more information about these and other 4-H activities, contact the Crockett County Extension Office at 392-2721. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap.

Mulching reduces home landscape and gardening problems this summer

By Dr. Sammy G. Helmers, Extension Horticulturist

Most problems in West Texas gardens and landscapes are caused by physiological stress. Stress can be avoided by maintaining near optimum soil moisture, soil temperature, soil fertility and reducing competition from weeds. A good mulch can do all of these things for your plants.

Both organic and inorganic mulches can be useful. Some of the more readily available ones include:

Hay or Straw: A 3 to 4 inch layer of hay provides good annual weed control, conserves moisture and adds organic matter to the soil as the underside of the layer decomposes. Hay decomposes quickly and additional layers need to be added to maintain weed control.

Sawdust: Is available from stables where it is used for sanitation in stalls and pens. Fresh sawdust is available at cabinet shops and lumber yards. A 2-inch layer of sawdust promotes good weed control. If applied around growing plants in the summer, one-half pound of actual nitrogen should be added per each 10 cubic feet of sawdust to prevent nutrient deficiencies. Fresh sawdust will crust causing impermeability to rainfall or sprinklers.

Grass Clippings: A 2-inch layer of grass clippings will conserve soil moisture and provide good weed control. Build up the layer gradually using dry grass to prevent the formation of a solid mat. Clippings will decompose rapidly and provide nitrogen to growing plants, as well as making a fine humus in the surface layer of the planting bed or garden. Don't use grass clippings that are full of grass or weed seeds. Avoid clippings from lawns that have been treated during the current season with a herbicide or a weed and feed fertilizer. Grass clippings can be used directly to the growing area or put in the compost pile in place of manure.

Plastic Mulches: Either black, black on white or clear plastic can be used to conserve soil moisture and control weeds. Black or black on white plastic is the best for weed control while clear plastic creates greenhouse growing conditions for weeds. Black plastic raises the soil temperature by 8 to 10 F while clear plastic may raise temperatures 12 to 15 F. This temperature is good for starting plants in the spring but may be detrimental to plants in the summer. Plastic mulches should be used in combination with other organic or rock mulches that don't do a good job of controlling weeds and/or conserving moisture when used alone, such as cotton seed hulls, pecan shells, ground corn cobs, gravel or stone and leaves.

Paper: Using 2 to 4 layers of newspaper provides a good mulch. It decomposes in one season and is readily available and cheap. Printers no longer use ink containing lead compounds for black and white newsprint; however, colored inks may contain lead. Newspaper is best used in combination with other organic mulches. Other materials that might be used for mulches but may be expensive or readily available include bark, pine needles, peat moss and compost.

Card of Thanks

The family of Dale Taylor wishes to express their heartfelt thanks to the wonderful people of Ozona, who during the time of loss and grief came in untold numbers to express their love and sympathy for Dale and the Taylor family. Mere words are not enough to express the feelings of comfort and strength the people of Ozona gave to Pam, Lori and myself enabling us to make it through this traumatic time in our lives. We will never forget the ones who called, came by, brought food, sent cards or flowers or just remembered us in their prayers. A special thanks to the ladies and men who helped to prepare the meal for the family and visitors at the First Baptist Church, to the Ozona Church of Christ for allowing us to use their beautiful facilities during the services. To Preddy Funeral Home for their genuine concern and help. Last but not least, The Texas Department of Public Safety Family. You are all remembered in our prayers each night.

Thanks to all once again for all that has been done.

Teen sexuality - the need for education

For two weeks I've been writing about our recent teen sexuality survey results and the implications for all of us in Crockett County.

One of the most important things we see from the study is that young people need education - as well as their parents - on ways to deal with their sexuality, make decisions that will affect the rest of their lives, and develop a set of values that will help them meet challenges from their peers and from society.

The problems regarding teen sexuality are so great, and seem so overwhelming, that it's tempting to throw up our hands and say, "There isn't any solution." Not only would we be wrong - we'd be letting our children down. And when we give up on our children, we're giving up on our future.

There are some things we can do as a community. There are programs that are working in other places - other towns and other states, and we can have access to these programs.

Right now we have the opportunity to participate in a pilot program funded by Charter Hospital. The program is an eight-to-ten week course for parents and youth in grade six. It deals with not only the "mechanics" of sex, but also with decision-making, self-esteem and communications.

Communication - between parent and child, child and parent, and between parents - has been found to be one of the prime factors in creating strong families and in causing problems in families where there are poor communications skills.

If you can't talk to your kids about sex, you can't communicate your own values. You can't ask them what you can do to help, nor can you really explain to them why you think it's important that they not be sexually active.

You can't be a consistent, steadfast parent, nor can you be sure you're giving your child the love and attention he or she needs to be a secure, happy person...one who isn't finding it necessary to turn to sex for a feeling of closeness with another person.

The program will be for approximately two hours one night a week. We would like to conduct it during the summer, to be able to fully evaluate its effectiveness.

Are your kids worth less than 20 hours? Are you willing to spend less time on them than the average household watches television in a week? Cost for the course will be around $5-just enough to purchase refreshments. Materials and instruction will be provided free of charge.

We need six to 10 youths and their parents. Will you be the ones to start doing something positive about teen sexuality in our community? If you're interested and would like more information, contact the Crockett County Extension Office at 392-2721.

Educational programs and information provided by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap.

Fleas in abundance this spring

The state's unusually wet spring is causing rapid increases in flea populations, which were already larger than usual because so many survived the winter.

Fleas tend to be more of an itching nuisance than a threat to human health, primarily because the worst diseases they carried have been eradicated.

The chief sources of flea infestation in the home are family pets, but once indoors fleas thrive in floor cracks, carpets, upholstered furniture and pet bedding. Fleas, of course, are also abundant outside; larvae burrow into the top surface of the soil.

If flea problems are occurring in the house, the yard, and on the pets, all three must be treated at the same time.

Use only approved products for treating animals. Dusts are preferred because they are generally effective longer. The newer products containing an insect growth regulator can reduce subsequent egg and larval production and can be applied directly to the animal.

Outdoors, treat areas that pets frequent. Use only approved products to thoroughly cover and saturate soil and grass areas. Make sure that application equipment is carefully calibrated to measure dosages exactly.

In the house, thoroughly vacuum or sweep carpets, rugs, furniture, cracks and crevices. Be sure to reach under furniture and along baseboards. Discard the vacuum bag afterwards.

Use a coarse spray (large droplets) in treating likely infested areas. It is always more effective to treat all carpets, furniture and baseboards at one time. After spraying, use total-release aerosol applications to reduce adult fleas.

Additional applications may be needed about three weeks later when populations build from eggs that hatched since the first spraying. Insect growth regulators used with other sprays will inhibit flea growth in early stages and extend control measures.

Extension Service publication L-1738 carries a listing of approved insecticides for flea control.

Mixed drink tax revenues reported

State Comptroller Bob Bullock in May sent checks totaling $11.5 million to 218 counties and cities that tax mixed drink sales.

The checks represent the counties' and cities' share of the state's 12 percent mixed drink tax collected during January, February and March of 1990.

Under state law allowing the sale of mixed drinks, Texas cities and counties each receive a 12.5 percent share of the state tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries.

Bullock said that the state collected $47.6 million in mixed drink taxes during the first three months of 1990, compared to $44.9 million collected during the same months of 1989.

Of the $47.6 million in state collections, counties received more than $5.9 million compared to the $5.6 million received during the same three-month period of 1989. Cities received $5.5 million, up from the $5.2 million received last year during those months. The state's general revenue fund received the balance.

Bullock said $36 million was deposited into the state's general revenue fund from collections during January, February and March, compared to $34 million for the first quarter of 1989.

The mixed drink tax is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission. City and county tax rebates are sent out quarterly by Bullock's office.

The total mixed drink tax remittance to the state from Crockett County for the first quarter of 1990 was $6,758.06. The 12.5% remitted to the county was $844.76.

DID YOU KNOW...

TEXAS-SIZE OIL... The East Texas Oil Field, considered the greatest oil field in the world, was discovered when C.M. "Dad" Joiner's Wildcat No. 3 Daisy Bradford blew in on Oct. 6, 1930. The field lies in Upshur, Gregg, Rusk, Smith, and Cherokee counties. In its heyday, between 1930 and 1944, the field produced twice as much oil as any other field in the United States.
