County 4-H'ers have top record books

Four Crockett County 4-H members won top honors in district record book judging competition at Fort Stockton on July 10th.

Eight record books and one application for National 4-H Conference in Washington were submitted for competition from Crockett County, the largest number in recent years. All were senior books, and all first place senior books now advance to state competition.

In the Sheep and Goat category, Tamie Reagor placed first for the second year in a row. Martha Mayfield also scored her second win with her Conservation of Natural Resources record, and Terry House won his category of Agriculture for the first time.

Following state judging, winners may be eligible for trips to National 4-H Congress in Chicago, and their books are submitted for national judging. National winners may receive scholarships.

In judging for the National 4-H Conference trip to Washington in April, Katherine Durham placed first, and her application will now advance to state judging. This is the only opportunity for 4-H members to participate in national 4-H policy and curriculum development, and only 104-H members from Texas may attend each year. Last year, there were 64 state applicants.

Two county 4-H members picked up second place awards in their categories—Chad Upham in Beef Cattle and Stefny Sutton in Fashion Revue. Adrienne Dickerson garnered fifth place in Sheep and Goats, and Whitney Vannoy and Jennifer Davidson placed fourth and fifth, respectively, in the Foods and Nutrition category.

"We are very pleased with these results," said the County Extension Agents Tedra Ulmer and Billy Reagor, "because this was the first time for several of these books to be entered in competition, and several of these record books were started this year."

The agents noted that record books are a cumulative record of member's 4-H career and are judged on growth in project work, leadership, and citizenship. "It is very difficult to start a record after several active years without losing a great deal of information—and we encourage 4-H members and their parents to begin as early as possible so not to miss out on trips and scholarships," said Tedra Ulmer.

Money collected for 911 service non-refundable

Representatives of the Advisory Commission on State Emergency Communications were in Ozona last week for a meeting with local officials regarding 911 service.

Crockett County, which had originally voted to become part of the 911 system through an agreement with the Concho Valley Council of Governments and later voted to withdraw, would have gone on line in July.

Mary A. Boyd, executive director of the ACSEC, and board members John Schneider and Jim Ray said that Crockett County is the first in the state to withdraw from the program. Others here endeavoring to persuade Crockett County to implement the service were board chairman Ron Harris who is county judge of Collins County, staff member Glenn Roach and Joe Trowbridge, a representative of the Department of Public Safety. County officials voted to withdraw from the program when no location for the system could be found that would not involve hiring additional personnel.

The Advisory Commission approved collection of a 50 cent service fee on residents' monthly phone bills approximately 15 months ago. The service fees and funding assistance from the state were to finance the equipment.

According to Mrs. Boyd, the service fee will not be refunded to customers because of debt already incurred by the commission to GTE on behalf of Crockett County. Should the county decide later to become a part of the 911 system, the 50 cent per month fee would have to be collected again, she said.

An estimated 20 emergency calls of all types are received in Crockett County each month.

911 went on line in Schleicher and Sutton Counties last weekend.

Lane dies in accidental shooting

Tom Lane died Saturday morning, July 13, after accidentally being shot while at the rifle range. Lane and two grandsons, ages 6 and 8, were alone at the range at the time of the accident according to Sheriff Jim Wilson.

Accounts from the children and physical evidence at the scene indicate that the younger boy had been allowed to fire a Colt automatic pistol. The child then either flinched or was frightened and dropped the gun, Wilson said. The pistol discharged, striking Lane.

The boys made a heroic effort to aid their grandfather, using a first aid kit from Lane's vehicle and attempting to summon aid on a car radio.

Game Warden Rod Chalmers discovered the accident when he arrived at the range about an hour later.

Services will be held Thursday in Lubbock.

Dare to Care program begins July 30

Plans continue for the Dare to Care Youth Work Camp, July 30 through Aug. 2. Possible work sites are still being considered, and donations of money and materials are still needed.

The work camp is to begin with an ice cream social in Granny Miller Hall at The Church of Christ on Monday, July 29, at 7:30 p.m. A swimming party hosted by the First Baptist Church will conclude the camp on Saturday, Aug. 3, from 6:00 until 10:00 p.m. at the north pool. All youth and adults who plan to help with the camp are invited to these events.

Each morning of the camp will begin with a breakfast at 7:00 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the United Methodist Church. From here work crews will go to the various work sites.

A final planning meeting for adult leaders will be held Wednesday evening, July 24, at 8:15 in the Parlor of the First Baptist Church.

Open house held for new seniors apartments

Ozona Seniors Apartments were opened Friday with a ribbon cutting and tours following remarks by owner Tommy Calhoun and others. Calhoun, of Mansfield, LA, also owns the company which manages the property.

"We want to be a member of your community," said Calhoun. The new apartments are a "place we are proud to add to your community." Calhoun's original apartment venture in Ozona is Crockett Apartments located on Hwy. 163 South.

The new facility west of Ozona is constructed to serve senior citizens and the handicapped. Six of the one bedroom apartments had already been rented at the time of the grand opening. The first tenant, Mrs. Thelma Kirksey, was presented with a corsage during the ceremony, Mrs. Kirksey, mother of Deputy Tommy Wooten, moved here from Corpus Christi.

Commissioner Jim House welcomed the business to Ozona as the "first new industry in the second hundred years of Crockett County."

Don Mathis of Junction, district director of Farmers' Home Administration, also participated in the ceremony. FHA, the lending agency for the project, is interested in rural development and keeping people here, Mathis said.

Pastor Charles Huffman gave the invocation dedicating the facility to those in their golden years before a group of approximately 20 guests.

The apartment complex has four two bedroom units and 20 one bedroom units. A centrally located community building is available for use by the residents.

County Judge Kathryn Mayfield swears in Bob Rodriguez as a new Crockett County deputy. Also pictured is Sheriff Jim Wilson (l.).

Rodriguez is new deputy sheriff

Former jailer Bob Rodriguez was sworn in as a Crockett County deputy Monday by Judge Kathryn Mayfield. He was certified as a deputy upon completion of an 11-week police training school at the Tom Flowers Police Academy in San Angelo.

Rodriguez has been employed by the Crockett County Sheriff's Department as a jailer for seven years. He received his G.E.D. in 1973.

The Ozona native and his wife, Linda, have five children.

The Crockett County Sheriff's Department is one of the best in the country, says Rodriguez.

Ozona EMTs complete course

Five Ozona residents, Dana Caddell, Pat Griffin, Billy Nowell, Paula Westmoreland and Phyllis Tucker completed a 120 hour Emergency Medical Technician-Basic course, provided by Angelo Community Hospital March 5 through June 6, 1991. Phyllis Tucker was attending the course for renewal of her EMT-B. After completion of the course the students took the state test in San Angelo June 11. Along with class time, the students completed 20 hours of hospital time in San Angelo.

Fred Barnett, ACH-Emergency Training Coordinator, coordinated the course. Local instructors were Sandra Gonzales, Doug Meador, Della Moore, and Tasha Nowell. Skills testing was performed by Doug and Della.

Local 4-H'ers dominate district fashion show

Four of the eight senior contestants representing the 22 counties of District VI at the 1991 Texas 4-H Fashion Show will be from Crockett County.

Julie Childress, Katharine Durham, Stefny Sutton and Whitney Vannoy won their senior categories at the District VI competition on Friday, July 12, in Crane. They will join four other district representatives from Glasscock, Reeves, and El Paso counties, as well as competitors from thirteen other Extension districts in the state contest at Nacogdoches August 22-24.

Ten senior contestants, who are in the only age group eligible to advance to state, were not the only first place winners from Ozona—Jo Lynn Vannoy and Ashley Farris also won the Intermediate Non-Tailored and Evening Wear buying divisions.

Crockett County's six first-place wins were the most of any county in the district contest, and had the second-highest percentage of entrants from one county placing at the show, 73 percent.

Two other 4-H members also placed in Friday's competition. They were Martha Mayfield, who garnered second place in the senior Active Sportswear Buying category, and Robin Conner, who brought home third place in the junior Evening/Party Wear Construction category. Receiving participation ribbons were Adrienne Dickerson, Maria Quiroz and Sara Mayfield.

"All of our 4-H members did an outstanding job. Several were entered for the first time against seasoned competitors, and we're proud of the poise and knowledge they displayed," said Tedra Ulmer, County Extension Agent-Home Economics.

Ulmer noted that, in addition to the first-place win in the Nontailored Daywear Construction category, Julie Childress also won first place in the senior cotton fiber category.

Each senior 4-H member received a $100 savings bond for the category win, and Childress also received a bond for her cotton award. Each person who placed received a plaque, and all contestants received either a blue, red, or white ribbon provided by West Texas Utilities.

The 4-H Fashion Show is an optional activity in the clothing project, designed to help 4-H members build self-confidence and poise by enhancing personal appearance, develop skills in wardrobe planning and clothing purchasing or construction, and to participate in leadership and citizenship activities.

This will be the first trip to the state competition for Childress, Vannoy and Sutton. They will be accompanied by Nacogdoches by their mothers and by County Extension Agent Tedra Ulmer. Katharine Durham will be participating for the second time in the state contest. Last year she placed sixth in the Active Sports/Specialty Wear category in the buying division.

At the state fashion show, the youth will compete for scholarships and prizes, participate in educational activities and, of course, represent Crockett County and the county 4-H organization.

Accompanying the 4-H members to district competition in Crane were Sandra Childress, Carmen Sutton, Nancy Vannoy, Romelia Fierro, Jean Conner, T. C. and Shelley Conner,

Letters to the editor

First: I'm disappointed at the Hospital Board and the County Commissioners.

On the later part of 1955 or early 1956 some citizens of Ozona approached me and asked me to move to Ozona. In the talk I was promised a small rental fee for from 5 to 10 years or whenever the building was paid for and then I would have a rent free office. I paid rent for 30 years until the county commissioners voted for me to have a rent free office. Now they have changed their minds and voted to have a fee of $300 and the hospital will pay the utilities and maintenance or I would pay the utilities and maintenance for $100 a month.

As far as the maintenance, the county has not done much. On two occasions I was turned down when I needed some cabinets put in. First occasion the county commissioners told me to have these made and send the bill to the commissioners court and they turned it down and I had to pay the bill. On another occasion the administrator at that time told me go ahead and add some cabinets and again I was turned down. The third time OSHA said you wouldn't have carpet in operator. I was turned down for this also. It cost me $3000 to put it down in a county maintained building. All the lights and the paneling was paid for by me. All the painting was paid by me. All the maintenance done in my office for 37 years was paid for by me.

Under these conditions I can not continue practice at 101 N. Ave. H. I hear by give notice to my patients that the office will be closed on August 15th, 1991, and I will return the keys to the hospital administrator.

I've enjoyed being some of you's dentist and Ozona has been a good place to live. I hope to live a number of years yet in Ozona.

Joe B. Logan DDS

To the Editor, Ozona, and Crockett Co.

I want to try to convey part of my feelings upon being the lucky recipient of the beautiful Bluebonnet Quilt. I could not believe my name was the one drawn out of the thousands in the pot!

It will be a treasure to me always. The more I look at it and see the beautiful work so willingly done by so many people it makes me all the prouder to have it to enjoy. And I want to enjoy it for the next twenty-five years or 'til my demise, (whichever comes first,) and then return it to the historical society to do with as they wish. In the meantime I promise to take the very best of care of it, as there is so much of Ozona in it.

The Centennial week was outstanding! Nothing but praise has been heard for all the time, planning, coordinating and coming together to carry out all the activities set forth. Every one was so excited to be a part of the celebration of our centennial!

I do believe Ozona, Crockett County, Texas, had the very best birthday ever! I am glad to be a part!

Marge Smith

Dear Scotty and Linda,
My family really enjoyed the Crockett County Centennial Celebration and appreciated the roles that were given to us in being made a part of it.

Every activity was well planned and well done, and everyone had a good time. It was nice just being there taking it all in, to visit with friends and family, some of whom hadn't been seen in many years, and to remember our forebears who set the example for us.

Becky Childress and Geniece Childress, along with the considerable number of other folks who contributed to this huge success, are to be congratulated, and I thank each of them for all of their hard work and dedication.

Yours very truly,

Joe Warren Friend, Jr.

Dear Sir,

I am sorry I couldn't make your centennial celebration!

My grandfather Professor John William Merchant was principle or superintendent of the Ozona school in 1898, 1899 and 1900. He died with the flu the 26th of June, 1900, and is buried there. His picture and name are in the Crockett County History Book, with a group of students. In your paper celebrating the 50 years of Ozona, his name-spelled Marchant-is in it. I have a copy of a cancelled check found in a box in the back room of your museum.

Now, to what I want.

Please send me a copy, or copies, of your newspaper on the centennial celebration. I am enclosing a check.

Thank you,

Angie Merchant Clark

Dear Scotty:

You probably will have received several hundred notes from the people regarding the celebrations. Perhaps if you could find space for one more...

When the man said that a person could never go home again, he never knew Ozona. From an Ozona folk from miles away-thank you. Thank you for the time that you gave in planning, clean-up, sharing your homes, letting us look and poke and pry about the town, thank you for the park and its decorations, celebrations, food and companionship. Thank you for the tours and the pageant. Thank you for the murals and Civic Center. Thank you for the energy and enthusiasm which you so obviously gave. Thank you for giving us a chance to renew ties and bonds which had been stretched by time and miles. Thank you for opportunities to renew those ties and bonds that had been broken. Thank you for being the people that you are and doing all the things that you did. Thank you for being there for us.

Even though it may have been but for a short time, I was home again. In the future, we will remember and mark our life around 1991. It was a time for sharing, renewing, learning, remembering and growing.

Thank you Ozona—for being Ozona.

OZONA, TEXAS

Autierrez-Miller united in marriage July 7

Vanessa Ozment Miller became the bride of Matias (Matt) Gutierrez, III during a ceremony Sunday afternoon, July 7, in Ozona Church of Christ. Bill Brown of Lubbock officiated.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Van Roy Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Matias V. Gutierrez, Jr.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a semi-cathedral length pale pink satin gown with a portrait neckline and princess seamed bodice. The gown was embellished with Alencon lace covered with sparkling sequins and seed pearls. Lace and pearls were repeated on the cap sleeves and encircled the hem. A large bow and white satin buttons adorned the back of the gown. Pink silk roses and pearls covered a headband attached to a shoulder-length veil of white tulle. She carried a bouquet of white bridal roses, star-of-Bethlehem, stephanotis, and statice.

For something old the bride wore her great-grandmother Johnson's gold wedding band on her right hand. Gold heart-shaped pearl earrings and her wedding gown represented something new. Something borrowed and something blue was the blue garter worn by the bride's mother at her wedding. The tradition was completed with a penny worn in her shoe.

Matron of honor was Jana Wilson, and Lacy Miller, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bride's cousins, Whitney Hooper and Joli Hooper of Odessa, and Kasey Miller served as flower girls. The bridesmaid's dresses were made of shocking pink satin with matching lace overlay on the bodice and a large bow in the back. They carried bouquets of pink roses, freesia, and baby's breath. Pink satin and lace dresses were worn by the flower girls. Their bouquets were smaller versions of the bridesmaid's.

Gary Davis of Wall served as best man. Also attending the bridegroom was Monty Means of San Angelo. Ring bearer was Timothy Maldonado, cousin of the bridegroom. Ushers were Dan Gutierrez and Donald Gutierrez, brothers of the bridegroom. The bride's brother, Keith Miller, was candlelighter and also served as usher.

Denise Tuley of Dallas sang Sunrise, Sunset, The Wedding Song, and Looking Through The Eyes Of Love, and was accompanied by pianist Betty Steven of Sonora.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Granny Miller Hall. Precia Miller of Sonora, cousin of the bride, registered guests. Serving the bride's cake were her aunts, Lynda Robinson of Gaylord, Michigan, and Bobbie Smith of Sonora. Linda Hooper of Odessa and Laura Miller of San Antonio, cousins of the bride, served punch. Serving the bridegroom's cake and coffee were the bridegroom's aunt, Marina Vallejo, and Blanca Martinez.

Also assisting in the houseparty were Janet Hill, Janie Chandler, Susie Childress, Totsy Hagelstein, Mary Joan Hearne, Patti Jones, Amy Newton, Beverly Preddy, Elizabeth Upham, Nancy Vannoy and Jerrilyn Miller.

Parties held for the couple included a couples' dinner and wedding shower June 7 at the home of Mel and Hector De Hoyos, Jr. Other hosts were Grace and Pete Maldonado, Lupe and Tony Sanchez, Elena and Armando Ybarra, Marina and Mike Vallejo, Arjelia and Natio Tambunga, Jr., Maria Hernandez, Armendia Maldonado, Aurora Gutierrez, Susana Machado, and Blanca Martinez.

On June 15 a gift coffee was held in the Crockett Room. Hostesses were Janie Chandler, Susie Childress, Barbara Crowder, Frances Denman, Nancy Forehand, Debbie Glasscock, Totsy Hagelstein, Mary Joan Hearne, Syd Hoover, Camille Jones, Patti Jones, Evelyn Keith, Karen Morris, Amy Newton, Beverly Preddy, JoNel Stokes, Elizabeth Upham, Nancy Vannoy, Barbara Wallace, and Glenda Winkley.

A lingerie party was held July 3 at the home of Mary Lou Lilly. Other hostesses were Jana Wilson, Jacinda Marley, and Lori Williams.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio and Dallas the couple will live in Snyder where both are employed to teach school this fall.

Tookes celebrate 50 years of marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Tooke will add another milestone to their years together Aug. 9 as they observe their 50th wedding anniversary.

Willie and Marcus were married on that date in 1941. "We went to Del Rio and were married by the justice of the peace," said Willie. Both were San Angelo residents at the time of their marriage. Ten years later the Tookes moved to Big Lake, then on to Ozona in 1960.

Marcus, who considers himself semi-retired, is well-known for his carpentry skills. He started here as a carpenter with Pete North.

In addition to regular carpentry work, he has built several special benches to hold Willie's many pot plants. Marcus also gardens (ask him about his tomatoes) and maintains an attractive yard.

Keeping the house clean and tending her plants are Willie's main occupations since her retirement from T&T several years ago. She was employed by Evans Foodway in Big Lake and joined the staff of the Ozona store upon moving here. Daily walks and occasional latch hook projects are also among her activities.

Fifty years of marriage have gone by fast says Willie who wouldn't trade those years for anything.

The Tookes will be honored by family and friends with a reception Aug. 10 at the civic center from two until five o'clock.

"In the day of prosperity be joyful, but in the day of adversity consider: God also hath set the one over against the other, to the end that man should find nothing after him.

Think About It!

By Ralph O. Moore

Boiled Okra

Recently the Food and Drug Administration, after a great deal of thought, I assume, and at tax-payers' expense, of course, published a list of the most popular fruits, vegetables, and fish in America. The FDA polled numerous associations before producing this list in the Federal Register. All of this was done in the name of nutrition, and because Congress has passed legislation regarding it.

The vegetable list interested me. Potatoes are the most popular, and I expected that. Tomatoes, carrots, corn, and beans all received good marks. I like all the vegetables that are on the list. I was really surprised that okra didn't place.

But there is a good reason that this mallow family plant was omitted - boiled okra! Fried okra is good, but boiled okra is repulsive. The only place that I know where boiled okra belongs is in Louisiana in gumbo. That state is so hot and steamy, the humidity so high, and it's probably due to the fact that they like boiled okra.

Boiled okra sounds slimy. The mucilaginous (that even sounds slick) pods should be sliced, breaded, and fried - never boiled. There should be legislation passed that would mandate the preparation of okra and limiting it to being fried. Then it would have made the top twenty vegetables, I'm sure of it.

To tell the truth, I've never tasted boiled okra. Oh, I've tried. A few people like it, and they always try to get you to taste it. I can't keep it in my mouth long enough. It is difficult to keep it on a fork, or even in a spoon, much less in your mouth. One fellow said, and I agree, that you better be sitting down when you eat it.

Boiled okra should be banned.

No grocery store should be allowed to have gumbo or okra and tomatoes in a can on its shelves. No restaurant should serve it, at least not those in civilized places. People who sneak around and cook it at home should be fined.

In the garden of Eden, the good vegetables were there before the Fall. Okra, in its boiled state, came with the weeds. The serpent was a crafty, slick, and slimy creature who brought about hardship to man. Boiled okra is slimy and slick so it must be satanic.

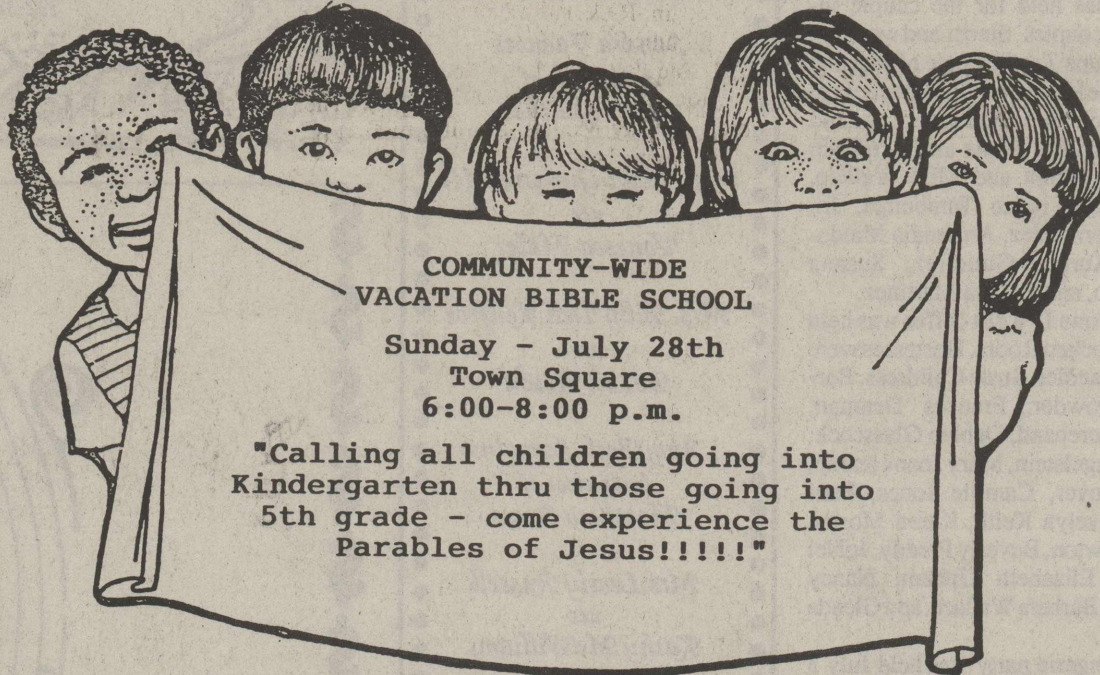

Now I know there are a few of you that say that you like boiled okra, but do you really? Most that I've talked to can't describe the taste, they just say it is a taste that escapes description. Yes, it does because it doesn't linger in the mouth, long enough.

Boiled okra must be eradicated. If we don't stop it now, we may never do it.

Think about it.

Visiting

Birthday greetings go to Shelley Cornett who became a year older on July 12. Shelley is the daughter of Dale and Vicki Cornett of Ozona. Hope your day was super, Shelley.

Visiting with an unexpected twist this week were Darrell and Shirley Johnson of Lake Proctor. The Johnsons were en route to Amistad to meet with brother Glenn and family of Brackettville. Glenn's arrival this week from Saudi Arabia had the families in a state of excitement. Lo and behold, to quote Darrell, "My car is as sick as a mule," so brother Glenn and family joined the Johnsons in Ozona for a weekend visit. The group stated they couldn't have picked a better place to unite.

Birthday greetings go to special lady Joyce Keilers July 13. Hope your day was the best every, Joyce.

Visiting with Ramon and Raquel Maldonado and family this week were Raquel's cousins, Marina Vasquez, and children Kristen and Tony from Arlington.

Jimmy Nowell, son of Billy and Tasha Nowell, turned a year older on July 14. Hope you had a great day, Jimmy.

Enjoying a visit with granddaughter Chodya were Lloyd and Mary Layman. Chodya, a lively 18-month-old, kept the Laymans busy the days she was here. Mary and Chodya traveled to San Angelo where they were met by mom Chris Corley. Chris and Chodya reside in Abilene.

Birthday greetings go to Agnes Payne on July 13, Agnes, hope your day was great.

Miller Henry turned a year wiser and happier July 10. He received a call from son Ned and daughter-in-law Julie that he was a new grandfather. Miller jokingly stated he wanted a granddaughter for his birthday. Ballie Elizabeth was no disappointment. Ballie has an older sister, Kasi, who is five. Congratulations, Miller and Faye.

Birthday wishes go to Jim Baker whose special day was July 16. Hope you had the best of days, Jim.

Visiting Ozona Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Cody Chancellor and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Kirmon of Comanche. The four met with friends Don and Jasmine Carmichael of El Paso. They enjoyed a stay at the Circle Bar and plan on making their reunion an annual event.

CALLING ALL HOME MAKERS

Brought To You By J.D. Brown

DO YOU WANT TO JUST "BROWSE?"

I'm sure everybody has had guilt feelings at times when you go in a store just to look around and a clerk says, "May I help you" and you say, "no you're just looking. Some clerks look askance at that, and make you feel uncomfortable.

But we want to make a special point to you to let you know that you can browse here without any feelings of high pressure or obligation. Perhaps you don't know what you really want, and you desire time to look around, or you just want to get some ideas, or you want to examine fabrics or compare colors. We want you to know you're welcome to do so.

On the other hand, nobody should be neglected --and if you do want some help, you can get that from us.

The point is that you should be able to shop at YOUR speed, so you have the best of both worlds -- freedom to browse and take your time, but when you do want assistance, maximum attention should be paid to you; all your questions answered, etc.

We welcome browsers, and we also stand ready to aid you in every way we can. We want you to enjoy shopping for furniture--the way you want to shop for it.

Montgomery clan gathering

The 1991 reunion of Montgomery family members was held in Ozona at the Circle Bar Motel July 12, 13 and 14.

W. H. and Susan Campbell Montgomery came to Crockett County in 1896 from Comanche County. He bought land at that time and Marshall Montgomery and his family still own and operate a part of it.

Activities began Friday with registration, followed by supper at the Loading Chute. Saturday was spent touring Ozona, shopping, golf, and much swimming and conversation.

The dinner Saturday night at the Circle Bar Restaurant was followed with entertainment by Charles Schauer, former resident and his son Ed from Arvada, Colorado, and then the domino tournament. Larry Melton and Shannon Hunnicutt took home the trophy this year.

Sunday morning brunch and business meeting was emceed by Bill (Sonny) Meinecke of Houston and Dilly Dockery. We paid tribute to those we lost since our gathering in 1989 who were James Dockery, Jo Ann Montgomery Moore, Lois Nolan Jones, Helen Montgomery Studt, and Judge Campbell Montgomery who had been the last living child of W. H. and Susan. Sue Montgomery Walker extended an invitation to Fort Stockton for the next Clan Gathering in 1993 and it was quickly accepted unanimously.

The morning was spent buying copies of the centennial editions of The Ozona Stockman, reminiscing and saying reluctant goodbyes, but all agreed that Ozona was the perfect place to establish a permanent home for future Montgomery Clan Gatherings.

All members of Coralie Kittle Meinecke's family were present except one. These decided to meet one last time at El Chato's for Sunday lunch and included Bud Meinecke, Daphne Meinecke Dockery, Stacy Dockery and fiancé, Gary Mefford, of Austin, Rick and Shannon Dockery Hunnicutt, Cody and Lacey, Bill and Sue Meinecke Melton, Larry Melton, Coralie Melton, and the children of Clay Melton, Stormy, Reid and Rianne of San Angelo, Bill (Sonny) Meinecke and Alleen, Robert and Susan Meinecke Lanzini, Ross, Lauren and Neal of Houston, Gerald Meinecke, Melanie and Mitchell of New Orleans, La., and Jeff Meinecke and Nicole of Dallas.

Others attending the reunion were: Marshall and Pauline Montgomery, Gene and Renee Montgomery of Atlantic City, N.J., Brennan and Cathy Montgomery McFarland, Ariel, Ian and Brennan Jr. of New York City, Larry Montgomery and friend, Barbara Ryan of California, Charlotte Montgomery, Lea Montgomery and fiancée, Mike Ducote, of San Angelo, Judd Montgomery of Ft. Worth, Jim and Pearl Moore Cotter, Tres and

Kathleen of San Angelo, Sue Montgomery Walker of Ft. Stockton, Mike and Charlotte Walker Furman of Odessa, Scott Furman and Kendra, Monty and Nancy Brooks and David of Ft. Scientists study relapsing fever

Researchers at The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio hope to determine how some infectious organisms play a game of cat and mouse with the immune system.

The focus of study is relapsing fever, a tick-borne cousin of Lyme disease. The project is led by Alan Barbour, MD, professor of medicine and microbiology at the university.

"Relapsing fever patients have a series of fevers spaced about a week apart," says Barbour, who has received a five-year, $1.2 million grant from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases [NIAID] to continue studying the disorder.

"The fever usually lasts a few days, then abates and comes back a week later," he says. "This cycle may occur several times."

Doctors treat the illness with tetracycline, penicillin and other antibiotics.

"The bacterium responsible," Barbour notes, "causes relapses because it changes its outer appearance—the part of itself that the immune system sees. Relapsing fever is a very good model of how an infectious organism can do this to escape the body's defenses."

In June, Barbour accompanied state health department officials to Ozona. The state officials previously had conducted interviews here with five people who contracted relapsing fever in a November outbreak.

"Eleven people were looking for arrowheads on sheep ranch," Barbour explains. "Each had been inside a small cave on the ranch. The people who spent the most time in the cave were the ones who got infected."

Members of the group reported noticing ticks inside the cave.

In the United States, relapsing fever is carried by "soft" ticks that feed off rodents and other animals. These ticks may be found in caves, squirrel nests and log or stone cabins. In other countries, relapsing fever can be spread by body lice.

Lyme disease is transmitted by "hard" ticks that feed off deer as well as rodents.

"At first, physicians in the area thought the people who were ill had Lyme disease," Barbour says. "Initial blood tests came up positive for it. However, the bacteria that cause relapsing fever and Lyme disease are very similar and may cross-react in tests."

Just the facts that the five were tested for Lyme disease shows that "people are much more aware of this disease now," the researcher says.

Lyme disease can be a chronic and progressive disease marked by arthritis, neurologic disturbances and other symptoms. About 8,000 cases were reported in 44 states in 1990.

Relapsing fever, in comparison, is not on the reportable disease list kept by the Texas Department of Health. But the Ozona outbreak illustrates the point that people can get it in Texas, Barbour says, particularly in caves in West and Central Texas.

Barbour, former chief of the arthropod-borne diseases section of NIAID, has been studying the two diseases for a decade. He says the relapsing fever project will "help" us understand what it takes for the immune system to eradicate one of these organisms that changes its appearance all the time.

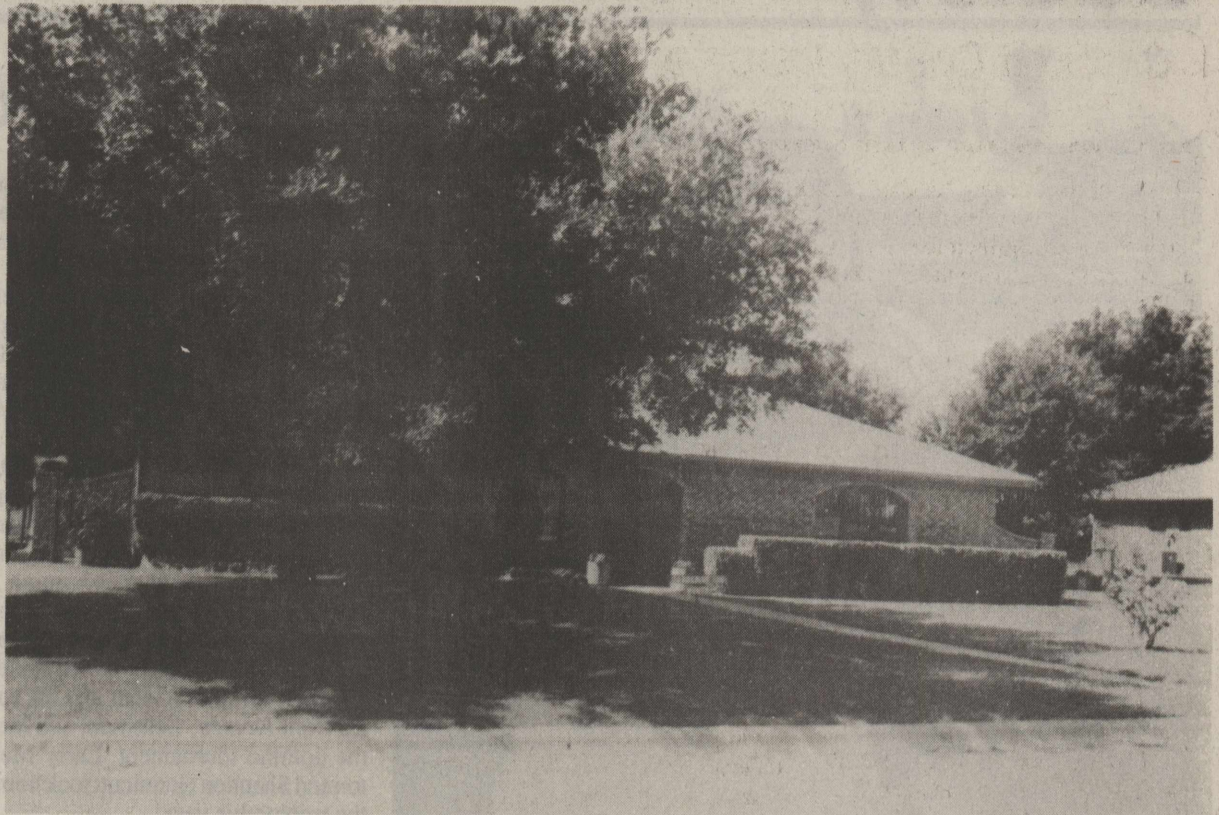

His hypothesis? That the organism has different genes for each of its outer appearances.

"These genes are switched from time to time, just as a person would switch a tape in a cassette player," Barbour says. "If you switch one cassette with another, you have different music. In this case, the 'cassette' represents the gene and the 'music' represents the bacterium's outer appearance."

The Ozona outbreak provided additional information for the research project, but the scientists' goal is broader than merely studying relapsing fever.

"We weren't awarded the NIAID grant just because there are a few cases of relapsing fever in Texas," Barbour explains. "We received it so we could study how these types of organisms escape the immune response."

Like a mouse escapes a cat.

Congressional leaders laud ASCS awardees

COLLEGE STATION — Jerry D. Harris, Chairman of the Texas State ASC Committee, proudly announced that over 150 Texas employees of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) were in Washington receiving awards from the administrator of ASCS for outstanding and meritorious service to ASCS and the farmers and ranchers of Texas.

The group met with members of Congress including Senator Phil Gramm and House Agriculture Committee Chairman Kika de la Garza. Other congressmen addressing the group; were Jim Chapman, Larry Combes, Chet Edwards, Greg Laughlin, Bill Sarpalius, and Charles Stenholm.

Senator Gramm said, "Each year, ASCS employees find their work made more difficult by the increasing complexity of our farm programs. It really says something that 150 of our Texas ASCS employees overcame every hurdle and served the public so efficiently that they received the highest honor ASCS can bestow for excellence in service."

Kika de la Garza, Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, also gave high praise to the award recipients. Chairman de la Garza stated "We here in Washington have just honored one group of American heroes returning from the Persian Gulf. Now we honor a group of people who serve in agriculture, America's first line of defense. They have demonstrated superior qualities and as such are held in high esteem for their service to agriculture and their country."

In closing, Senator Gramm commented, "With the continued dedication and diligent effort of these employees, ASCS will continue to administer farm programs that all citizens can be very proud of."

Harris explained that the awards are presented annually by the Administrator of ASCS to recognize those employees whose exemplary performance of duties provided outstanding service to ASCS and American agriculture. The Administrator's Award for Service to Agriculture is the highest recognition that ASCS can give any individual or group of individuals.

In addition to other employees, the Texas State ASC Committee is being recognized for its management effectiveness and improvements. Chairman Jerry D. Harris is a cotton and grain sorghum producer from Lamesa. Other members that make up the committee are Mrs. Hope Huffman of McGregor, Dale Hunt of Garwood, D. V. Guerra Jr. of Edinburg, and Keith Spears of Vernon. The panel oversees activities of the ASCS organization throughout Texas.

Harris noted that ASCS provides service to all Americans by administering farm programs that ensure an adequate supply of food and fiber at a reasonable cost.

"Texas ASCS employees are among the best in the Nation. In 1990 over 100 Texas ASCS employees were recognized by the administrator and here again in 1991, over 150 ASCS employees are being recognized for their outstanding service to the country," he said.

Harris added that "the Texas State ASC Committee is proud to be a part of such a dedicated and professional group and hopes that all Texans will share in the recognition of these employees."

Save your skin and your life!

Incidence of malignant melanoma, a serious form of skin cancer, is increasing faster than any other form of cancer. This means one out of every seven people will be affected by melanoma.

"Malignant melanoma is an epidemic in the U.S.," said William M. Ramsdell, M.D., an American Cancer Society volunteer spokesperson. "Individuals can easily decrease their risk of ever developing skin cancer by using sunscreen and avoiding over exposure to the sun."

According to the American Cancer Society, the increasing incidence of cancer can be altered if individuals follow a few simple guidelines for reducing their risk of skin cancer.

* Use a sunscreen with a Sun Protection Factor [SPF] of at least 15 during all outdoor activities, and avoid sunburn altogether.

* Avoid direct exposure to the sun between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. If you must go outdoors, wear a hat and protective clothing.

* Avoid tanning salons—they expose your skin to harmful ultraviolet rays.

"We hope that increasing public awareness about skin cancer prevention and motivating individuals to change their behaviors, we can prevent these needless deaths," said Ramsdell.

Angora goat sale set for July 25

About 65 yearling bucks will sell at the annual Angora Goat Performance Test Field Day and Sale July 25 at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station between Rocksprings and Sonora.

Almost 250 goats were on the 112-day test at the station, located on Hwy. 55 about 5 miles east of Hwy. 277.

Lunch will be served at noon and a program explaining the results of the test begins at 1 p.m.

During the program, Dr. Butch Taylor, resident director of the station, will give a presentation on "The Insidious Invasion of Cedar: How Can We Survive?"

Dr. Brian May, executive director of the Mohair Council of America in San Angelo, will update the mohair market.

The fine-haired goat project and the use of inbreeding in animal production will be summarized by Dr. Maurice Shelton, professor-sheep and goats, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, San Angelo.

The British Mohair Spinners award will be given during the program.

Additionally, awards for certified bucks will be presented. The top 30 percent of the bucks are eligible for certification based on indexing requirements. Indexing measures weight gain, hair yield, staple length and fineness. A sifting committee also will judge the animals on structural qualities.

The sale begins at 2 p.m. with auctioneer Lem Jones of Harper.

Trough Talk

For the past several weeks, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has been conducting turkey production and survival surveys. With an estimated 10,250 Rio Grande Turkeys in Crockett County, there's an ample number of productive adults. Our recent surveys show poul production and survival fairly good to very good, depending on the area and, to the belief of this writer, the abundance of varmints since the reduction of pelt prices. Survival capabilities of the young poults depends on several factors, one of the more important being the availability of water.

As we move into the typically hottest and driest months of the summer some consideration might be reserved for the wild young of the year and their need for accessible watering sites. So far this spring and summer we have been blessed with occasional showers, though none in excess. With temperatures ranging into the high 90's and wind speeds exceeding 10 M.P.H., there's a good probability of losing 3-4 inches of ground moisture each day. Rain puddles that may have retained moisture until now will dry up quickly under these conditions.

Although the suggestion could lead to a sloppy situation, ranchers might consider letting their water trough(s) overflow to create a 'riparian effect' or the effect of a mini-oasis in the desert'. The watering scheme could be anything from a simple overflow puddle to an elaborate wild-life watering site where a tank can be dozed out and possibly fenced to keep out livestock. If the ranch is on a rotational grazing system, the simple act of letting the trough run over could be coordinated with the absence of livestock from a particular pasture. This is not to suggest that the landowner go broke on watering, but to emphasize the daily need of water by young turkeys. It's much easier for the young birds to walk up to the edge of a puddle or tank than to hop up on the edge of a water trough. Plus, the puddle or tank effect would probably be conducive to growing grasses and weeds which would attract insects and snails which would in turn attract turkeys.

Rio Grande turkeys are distinctive to this part of the country, and they hold a certain nostalgia for most folks. It would be a good endeavor to help them through the roughest part of the summer that lies ahead. For more information, please call your local Wildlife Technician, Mary H. Humphrey, in Sonora.

Representative Hilderbran's proposal included in comptroller's "breaking the mold" recommendations

AUSTIN—Provisions from House Bill 2366, co-authored by Representative Harvey Hilderbran, R-District 67, a board member of the Texas Conservative Coalition, during the recent legislative session, have been included in Comptroller John Sharp's performance audit recommendations. These provisions would force elected officials to comply with Article VIII, Sec. 22 of the Texas Constitution.

Article VIII, Section 22, limits the state budget from growing faster than the state's economy. In other words, it limits state spending to a level that taxpayers can afford to pay. Although required by the constitution, this provision within Article VIII has been consistently ignored in the budget process.

The purpose of HB2366 was to force elected officials to adopt budgetary spending limits as the law requires. "I thought our bill was going to be ignored just like our constitution has been, so it's good to see it turn up in Sharp's report," said Hilderbran.

During the past session co-authors of HB2366, who share a deep concern over the rampant spending by the state, held a press conference to expose this violation of constitutional law. On the day the bill was considered in a hearing before the House Appropriations Committee, co-authors wore buttons asking, "Whatever happened to Article VIII, Sec. 22?" "Hopefully, this question will finally be answered," Hilderbran said.

Becky and Pete Montgomery of Spring were here to attend centennial and visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cullins and Mrs. Carl Montgomery.

Sheriff's Report

WEEK ENDING 7-16-91

ARRESTS:

7-11 THP arrested three suspects in a Ford pickup that was reported stolen from Florida. Arrested were Lori Taylor (25), Matthew McNally (27) and John Stone (20), all from Florida. Suspects were released from custody when Florida failed to respond to Crockett County's request for a warrant.

7-11 51-year-old Bertha Stockman of Midland was arrested by THP on warrants out of Midland County charging her with theft and bond forfeiture. She was turned over to Midland County officers on July 12.

7-13 Sheriff's deputies arrested 19-year-old Gustavo R. Garza of Ozona on charges of public intoxication following a disturbance. He was released from custody on 7-14 after paying his fine.

7-14 57-year-old Samuel G. Vargas of Ozona was arrested on charges of public intoxication along with 35-year-old Luis Victorion on the same charge. The arrests followed a disturbance that was reported to the Sheriff's Office. Both men were released later in the day after pleading guilty in JP Court.

7-14 THP arrested 31-year-old Clyde Alexander of Fort Worth on a warrant charging him with probation violation. Tarrant County officers will take custody of Mr. Alexander on July 18.

7-15 28-year-old John A. Fierro of Ozona was arrested by Sheriff's Deputies on warrants out of Irion County charging him with probation violation. He was released to Irion County deputies later in the day.

7-15 Game Warden traveled to Reagan County to take custody of 24-year-old Ruben Castillo of Big Lake on a warrant charging him with hunting deer at night in Crockett County. Castillo is in county jail awaiting action of the JP Court.

INCIDENTS:

7-9 Lou Whitley reported the theft of her 1980 Oldsmobile from the parking lot of Ozona National Bank. The theft was discovered at noon; however, a witness was found who saw the car leave the lot about 9 a.m. Law enforcement agencies along I-10 were notified and the vehicle was placed in the NCIC national computer. The investigation is continuing.

7-11 Two Ozona teenage girls reported that they had been assaulted by an 18-year-old male in separate incidents. Both victims reported that the suspect hit them with his fists. Both cases were filed in JP Court and warrants were issued July 16. It is expected that the suspect will be arrested later today.

7-11 John Michael Fay reported that on two separate occasions he was assaulted by Jesse Rodriguez. One incident occurred on Monterrey Street and the other on Antonio Street. The cases have been filed in county court.

THE "NO EXCUSES" TIRE GUARANTEE

Nobody else has anything like it.

Only Goodyear Certified Auto Service locations can offer you guaranteed satisfaction on quality Goodyear tires, or your money back.

This proves the confidence my outlet has in the quality of the tires we sell. You like them, or we'll buy them back.

With no excuses.

Customer Satisfaction "No Excuses" Tire Guarantee.

If you are not satisfied with your new Goodyear brand tires, return them within 30 days of the original sale date, or 500 miles of use, whichever comes first. The tires must be returned, along with the sales receipt, to the same Goodyear Certified Auto Service location where they were purchased. The tires will be replaced with comparable* new Goodyear brand tires, and installed free of charge. Or you may request your money to be refunded.

* A "comparable" new Goodyear tire may be either the same line of tire, or the same basic construction and quality which may feature a different sidewall or tread configuration. If a higher priced tire is accepted as a replacement, the difference in price plus applicable sales tax will be an additional charge to the customer.

 If you keep your old tires, Goodyear will remount and refit your vehicle with the old tires (provided they are road-worthy). If the old tires were disposed of by the Store (see the waiver release), other tires will have to be purchased by the customer. However, they will be installed at no charge.

Area residents experience life in Third World country in Fort Stockton

Carrying the Word of God to Haiti was the primary goal of nine area residents this summer. And on their two-week journey, the two adults and five teenagers experienced many unforgettable happenings.

Ron Fant, pastor of the Sheffield Church of Christ, Mrs. Reid (Tot) Holmsley, Randy Fant and Susan Hayre of Sheffield, Sandra Sconiers, Jason Holifield, Kevin Grigsby, Keve Turk and Andrea Crimm of Iraan arrived in Cape Haitian May 27, ending a journey that was a year in the planning.

The group lived at Cape Haitian Orphanage, spending their first week working in any way possible to help the staff and children of the facility. The orphanage, which is overseen by elders of the Church of Christ in Ada, OK, began five years ago in the home of then 64-year-old retired nurse Evelyn Boyd. Mrs. Boyd, who calls herself the resident baby sitter, saw the plight of the Haitian children when she went to the country as a member of a visiting medical team. She returned to Haiti, rented a house and began caring for 12 homeless children.

Now Mrs. Boyd heads an orphanage which is home to 42 children. Ages of the children range from 5-month-old twins to 16. In addition to Mrs. Boyd, the staff consists of a fulltime cook, baby tender, four teachers, a washerwoman (clothes and bedding are washed in a pan, then spread on the grass to dry), a body guard and a female Haitian assistant to Mrs. Boyd. Some staff members live within the walled compound of the orphanage.

The West Texans spent much of their first week painting buildings, tilling and planting gardens, helping with the babies and teaching conversational English to the children and to adult men.

"The people want so much to do better," said Mrs. Holmsley. Haiti, the poorest nation in the Western Hemisphere, is beset by problems stemming from illiteracy, said Mrs. Holmsley. Forty percent of all children are dead before two years of age, and an adult who lives to 50 is considered very old.

In Cape Haitian, a metropolis of 100,000 people and the country's second largest city, electricity is on 24-hours a day only in the downtown area. In the section of the city where the orphanage is, power was on from 3 until 10 p.m. During a recent 16 week span, Mrs. Boyd said electricity was available a total of five hours.

The country has no method of sanitation. Garbage is dumped at random and is also used to make foundations for buildings.

"We look at everything from our perspective. We think they are bound to have bathrooms," Mrs. Holmsley said. There are no bathrooms in the homes. Trenches carrying raw sewage line both sides of the streets.

Hand pumps are located throughout the city. At the pump nearest the orphanage, people could be seen or heard at all hours drinking, washing themselves, their clothing and dishes.

Purified water, Culligan water, is available to those who can afford to buy it. While visiting in one home, the missionaries were given Culligan water. Their host had spent $5 of his monthly income of $100 for their comfort. Mrs. Holmsley explained that although they were apprehensive about drinking from the glasses, they put themselves "in the Lord's hands", and no one became ill.

At the orphanage there is no hot water for dishwashing, but there is a purification system for the water. Dishes are washed, then placed on tables while the sinks are filled with bleach water. The dishes are then soaked for 25 minutes before being considered sanitary enough for use.

Early in their stay in Cape Haitian, the group visited a large open air market about the size of Ozona's town square where one of the girls became ill from heat and humidity. She was quickly carried to a chair where a woman vendor poured water on the girl to revive her.

Word that someone was in trouble rippled through the crowd, bringing activity in the market to a standstill, Mrs. Holmsley said. She later learned that the woman who poured water on the suffering girl had used her day's ration of purchased water.

Fresh fruit, vegetables, meat and canned goods were found in the market. Cornmeal and cocoa powder were sold from piles on the floor with the meal tossed into the air to remove the chaff. Cooking oil was pumped into the buyer's container from a 55-gallon drum.

Because there is no refrigeration, before dining out, you must first call ahead and order. The restaurant then sends someone to the market to purchase ingredients for the meal. The travelers ate once at Hotel Christophe, a converted 17th century palace. This was one of the few signs of luxury seen in the city.

Starved before reaching the shelter of the orphanage, the children are grateful to have food, clothing and medical attention. One 13-month-old baby arrived weighing 10 pounds, ill with measles, and able only to hold up its head.

Obtaining food for the orphanage is no small chore. When Mrs. Boyd's pickup is running, and it was not during the Texans' stay, shopping is less difficult.

In the absence of the pickup, Mrs. Boyd and her body guard had to travel on the tap-tap for several miles before reaching the market. Tap-taps are pickups with wooden covers over the bed. The covers are painted in strong colors and most have a religious logo.

When food is taken home on the tap-tap, you consider carefully the weight of the purchase, because there is still a mile to walk to the orphanage. Fare is 20 cents anywhere in the city, but to persuade the tap-tap driver to go the extra mile from his stop to the orphanage takes a precious $5.

The diet at the orphanage consists of plantains, rice, beans, macaroni and cheese, fruit, milk and Kool-Aid.

The greatest needs which can be sent from the states are baby formula with iron, baby food and cereal, powdered milk, macaroni and cheese, disposable diapers, Kool-Aid, toothpaste, tooth brushes and any type body soap except Ivory, said Mrs. Holmsley. A four-pound box of powdered milk, when it can be had, costs $32.88 in Cape Haitian.

The two grocery stores the travelers visited were smaller than Ozona's largest Shot's.

People are on the move 24-hours a day in Cape Haitian, many because they have no homes. The constant noise, stench, press of people, heat and humidity are sensations which will never be forgotten, Mrs.

Holmsley said.

Many boys up to about 12 years of age roam the city and rural areas wearing no clothing. The girls wear at least a skirt, Mrs. Holmsley said. Clothes are available, usually piled on the ground to be pawed through, but there is no money to buy them. There are shops which custom make clothing for the more affluent.

Schools are taught by rote. There are no books, paper or pencils. The teachers have some high school education. Even the 2-year-olds attend school at the orphanage six hours a day. "Children know how to sit (attentively) when they are thankful for what they have," said Mrs. Holmsley of the little ones.

Only the 16-year-old boy (who does all the ironing) attends school outside the orphanage.

A building is under construction at the orphanage to house a vocational tech school to teach skills to both girls and boys. A preacher training school is also planned for the orphanage.

Mrs. Boyd teaches the children responsibility through their daily chores. "If you're part of this family, you work to make this family work," is the philosophy there said Mrs. Holmsley.

Mrs. Boyd takes no salary and has no office equipment. She exists on what Social Security and retirement money she might have. She provides for the children, pays salaries, buys medicine and does the new construction on $1,700 a month. Congregations send different things.

The Texans went door-to-door in the city to take the Word of God to the people with the aid of an interpreter. There would be 60 to 70 people following them from house to house, Mrs. Holmsley explained. At worship services, people stayed several hours asking questions of the pastor.

The voodoo drums beat every night in the city. The country is 90% Catholic and 100% voodoo, Mrs. Holmsley said. The people trust God but their tremendous fear leads them to appease the devil. The Texans saw two voodoo funerals, and some of the teens saw a zombie. They were told that witchdoctors give a poison which destroys the brain, then the person is buried alive three days before coming back to life.

"We put ourselves in God's hands and we don't know what He protected us from," said Mrs. Holmsley. "He is real and very much alive in Haiti. We don't see Him (here) like we did in Haiti."

During their second week, the group traveled daily with nine nurses and doctors from North Carolina who go to Haiti annually as a mobile clinic. Two days were spent on 65 mile trips which took approximately 4 1/2 hours over bad roads. Transportation in a converted dump truck or in unreliable cars got the medical team and missionaries on their way. Some locations were inaccessible by car, and a 30-minute walk carrying provisions was part of the trip.

The missionaries spent their time in the villages acting as crowd control for the 300-400 people who came for care. They helped keep people at a distance from the treatment area, assisted the worst cases in reaching help and talked and sang to the people through interpreters.

Patients included those with AIDS, scabies, massive hernias, running sores, V.D., cancer, abscesses, mastitis and heart disease. The people arrived before daylight and stood all day, hoping to be treated. Only so many could be seen and the remainder had to be turned away, Mrs. Holmsley said.

"The Lord must have picked them," said Mrs. Holmsley of the teens participating in the mission. They were hot, frustrated, hungry all the time, everything was difficult, but they never complained.

"People would be amazed at the maturity that teens can demonstrate when they are asked to serve. I feel there is probably not a teen in this town (Ozona) that would not rise to the occasion," she said.

"I can tell you (about Haiti), but until you experience it... I'm ready to go back."

Fort Stockton Water Carnival is a unique celebration of the joy of water in the desert. It is not a traditional carnival with rides and game booths. It is a show, centered around the historic Comanche Springs swimming pool, that features synchronized swimming and dances at pool-side. A cast of over 300 uses swim and dance numbers to tell a story.

The water carnival, now in its 55th year, touts an all local cast and crew. It is an all volunteer community project, with participants from age four up.

This year's show, "No Bad News", will be presented July 18, 19, and 20. The water carnival production is preceded each night by a review of local bathing beauties. It begins at 8:00 p.m., with tickets at $5.00 per person. Make plans now to join the fun!

For ticket information or reservations, contact the Ft. Stockton Chamber of Commerce at [915] 336-2264.

Crockett County Library News

HISTORICAL PROGRAM
Crockett County Public Library is proud to announce a historical program presented by Park Superintendent Ron Alton on "Old Fort Lancaster". Ron has been superintendent at the Fort for many years and is the recognized authority on Fort Lancaster history and the Indians and wildlife that inhabited this part of West Texas.

The program will be held in the public library, Wednesday morning, July 17, at 11:00 a.m. Ranger Ron especially likes to present his program to children, but everyone is welcome. This is a wonderful program that will include stories of Old Fort Lancaster, slides and a question and answer period. There is no charge for the program and everyone is urged to come and learn about Fort Lancaster!

OUT-OF-TOWN?

They are missed sadly when you spend them away from home. A dollar that leaves town will never support our schools and churches or provide jobs and opportunities for our young people. all benefits are gone for good.

Your dollars are the very life blood of our community You can help keep it a good place in which to live and do business when you buy and bank . . . at home.
