A Lot Of Fire And Not Much Rain

A lot of fire and not much rain resulted from passage of a cold front through the county Saturday evening. The Cameron Ranch was the hardest hit with three lightning created fires burning at one time.

The first call of the evening came at 6:07 when Ozona was asked to send two trucks to a fire six miles south of Big Lake. At the time, Big Lake firemen were busy with a blaze in Powell Field.

Ozona had one truck in for repairs, so could only send one north. On the way, the two men on the truck saw smoke south toward I-10. A truck was dispatched to what proved to be a grassfire 14 miles west. Three minutes later the department received a report of a fire on Lancaster Hill. About the same time, a fire was reported on the Cameron Ranch.

"We had Sheffield and Big Lake helping and later on we called Sonora and Eldorado who sent two trucks each," said Bob Falkner, fire chief.

By two a.m. the Ozona trucks were back at the station; one had broken down, but a fireman was able to make repairs at the scene.

Sunday afternoon at 12:30 fire broke out again on the Cameron place, and firemen were kept busy until night, returning to the station at 7:24 p.m.

On Sunday at 10:30 p.m. a re-ignite on the Herbert Holmes place at the bottom of Lancaster Hill in Pecos County required Ozona firefighters. "Sheffield was completely out of trucks from breakdowns," Falkner said. Ozona was back at the station by 1 a.m. Monday.

Saturday was the first time the department had used its new 5,000 gallon tanker truck, and "it worked flawlessly," said Steve Kenley, fire marshal. Pumper trucks run out of water about the time a fire is under control according to Kenley. "When we have to hunt a stock tank to refill, by the time we get back to the fire we've lost everything we've gained," Kenley said. The tanker will eliminate that problem. Trucks can be refilled from the tanker in 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 minutes.

Kenley quoted John L. Henderson as saying "it will fill the bed of a pickup with the tailgate open."

"Dee Keilers figured out all the plumbing and got it where it would work. He drove it to the fire," Kenley said. The tanker, provided for Ozona by the National Forestry Service, was formerly used to haul fuel at Dyess Air Force Base.

Fire station attendant Mrs. L. A. McCaleb came back to Ozona just in time for the weekend's activity. Mr. McCaleb was transferred Thursday to Crockett County Hospital from San Angelo where he had been hospitalized following a stroke.

"We haven't had this kind of stuff while she's been gone," Kenley said. "We waited for her to get back to have to wait up to one or two o'clock."

Mrs. McCaleb, well-loved by fire department members, is renowned for remaining up until every truck and fireman return to the station.

Warehouseman Part Of Trade Mission To Asia

A recent nine-day trade mission took Ozona Wool and Mohair manager Terry Criner to Taiwan, Hong Kong, China and Japan as part of a wool marketing group. Made possible by the Foreign Agriculture Service, American Sheep Industry and the U. S. Wool Marketing Association, the trip afforded Criner and representatives Rick Wertheimer of ASI and Bob Naylor of Roswell Wool and Mohair an opportunity to explore the potential of American wools in Asia and tour manufacturing plants there.

In Taipei, Taiwan, the Reward Wool Industries Corporation introduced the Americans to a chemical "dry cleaning" process of scouring wool. Criner said he was very impressed by the method which seems to be less damaging to wool fibers and takes less time than traditional water and detergent scouring. Charles J. Y. Ing and Sam Chen, president and vice-president of the corporation are confident of the process and intend to continue, Criner said.

Reward is currently building a new plant in China through a joint

Fashions In The Park April 13

"Showers of Fashion" is the theme for the annual Crockett County 4-H Fashion Show slated for Tuesday, April 13, at 7:30 p.m. The fashion show will be held at the gazebo in the downtown park and will feature the efforts of 4-H members who have completed their clothing projects. The public is invited to attend this free event and enjoy watching some of the best of Crockett County's youth as they exhibit their poise, skills and knowledge. Refreshments will be served, and the audience is asked to bring lawn chairs for seating.

Members can choose to participate in either the buying division or construction division. All are judged on their poise, knowledge and quality of garments. Three age divisions are featured, with 3rd-5th graders in the Junior Division, 6th-8th graders under age 14 in the Intermediate Division, and members over age 14 in the Senior Division.

The fashion show is both an achievement event to recognize the 4-Hers accomplishments and an elimination contest for district competition on May 1 in Fort Stockton. Senior 4-H members can further advance past district to state, where they will have the opportunity to compete for $500 scholarships. At the county level, participants will be recognized by rosettes, ribbons, savings bonds and special gifts.

Several different garment categories encourage 4-H members to make or buy the garment best suited

TV Crew Films Spring Turkey Hunters

by Scotty Moore

Hunter and former star NFL quarterback Burt Jones with companion Tom Gattle of Trammel Crow Co. of Dallas, has been hunting for several years in south east Crockett County on the Buddy and Maggie Moore Ranch. This year's spring turkey hunt on the ranch was no different with the exception of several T.V. cameras and crew who were invited by the pair to film a documentary involving children on a West Texas turkey hunt.

"I wanted to get my children involved in this thing, because I feel it is very important that children learn about firearms and their safety," said Jones. "Airing of this film may help other youngsters become part of the hunting thrill of watching an old gobbler strut around."

Filming was done by Ray Pearson Productions who films documentaries for ESPN and Outdoor Trail Magazine of Syndicated Cable.

Also, along on the hunt was Jim Crumley of Roanoke, VA, who furnished camouflage wear for the hunters and camera crew. Jim who started Bowling Enterprises several years ago, has just come out with a new hunter's apparel line called Trebark Camouflage, which was the first camouflage wear to hit the market with a different pattern from the old style military camouflage clothing that West Texans have seen on hunters for years.

"Even though spring has not fully hit this part of the country, our hunt was very successful. We saw a lot of turkeys and were able to get enough film footage to put together at least a 1/2 hour show," said Jim Crumley.

"This show, which features young children on a turkey hunt, will appear on Syndicated Cable for 52 weeks and then on ESPN for another 26 weeks between July and December of next year," Crumley said.

Superintendent Speaks Out On School Finance

On Saturday, May 1, you have the opportunity to help solve the problems plaguing Texas public schools by voting on three proposed state constitutional amendments. As a school superintendent, I am particularly concerned about the passage of Proposition 2, which prohibits future unfunded state mandates.

As your local school superintendent, I have experienced firsthand the financial effect of unfunded state mandates on our school district and property tax rates. For years, the Legislature has handed down rules and regulations to Texas schools without providing the necessary level of funding to pay for them. As a result, superintendents, like me, have been forced to turn to you, the local taxpayer, to foot the public education bill by continually increasing your property taxes.

Last school year alone, Texas districts spent at least $1.5 billion on only eight of the hundreds of state requirements handed down by lawmakers, many of which were paid for by increases in your property tax. It's time to put a stop to this buck-passing. Texans cannot allow state lawmakers to continue passing mandates they believe are important enough to require but not important enough to fund.

Proposition 2 puts the burden of funding back where it belongs, on the Legislature in Austin. It will help ease the local tax burden by making the state pick up its fair share of the bill for public education.

Proposition 2 is also a step toward future education equalization and only affects mandates enacted after December 31, 1993. It is not retroactive, and mandates such as class size limits and the teacher salary schedule will not be affected.

Proposition 2 will help ensure that the basic needs of all Texas school children are adequately funded. School districts will still be required to comply with federal health and safety requirements, such as those concerning special education and environmental hazards.

Proposition 2 is your opportunity to stop the Legislature from passing the tax buck back to the local property taxpayers and to send lawmakers a message: Texans will not perpetuate inadequate school funding and increasing property taxes. We will not allow the state Legislature to continue adopting rules without bearing the responsibility of finding funds to help pay for them.

Don't misunderstand me. I encourage our lawmakers to continue exploring ways to enhance the quality of Texas public education. And I believe that many legislative mandates are important. All I am asking is that the Legislature give us a way to pay for them.

Adult Sewing Classes Set For April

Free basic sewing classes for adults will be offered beginning Wednesday, April 14, at the Crockett County Civic Center. A series of nine classes, "Sewing a New Life", will be offered from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. beginning on that date and continuing through the month.

The classes will cover basic clothing construction for women and their families, beginning with caring for and operating a sewing machine all the way through sewing zippers and making simple alterations.

During the classes, participants will make a simple vest, blouse and skirt for themselves, as well as a pair of children's shorts. In addition to sewing skills, the class members will learn about business opportunities related to sewing and enjoy a special awards luncheon to end the sessions.

Classes will be taught by Master Clothing Volunteer Tina Moran and County Extension Agent Tedra Ulmer. The classes will be taught in English and Spanish, depending on the needs of the participants. Class size will be limited to 10; others will be put on a waiting list.

It is not necessary to own one's own sewing machine to attend the classes; machines may be borrowed from friends or relatives, and a few are available from the County Extension Office on loan. However, it is recommended that participants use their own machine or use the one they will be sewing on at home. Participants will assemble their own sewing supplies during the class, so there is some cost, but the classes themselves are free.

Anyone who would be interested in donating a machine or sewing equipment, patterns, notions or fabric should contact the Crockett County Extension Office at 392-2721. To register, call that number or come by the Extension Office between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday-Friday. The office is located on the second floor of the Courthouse Annex, 411 Ave. D.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap.

Clinton Energy Tax Plan Will Hurt Texas Economy

WASHINGTON, D.C. - President Clinton's so-called "broad-based" energy tax will hurt the recovering oil industry in Texas and other "Energy-Belt" states, place high-wage manufacturing jobs in peril, doom thousands of stripper wells, and boost costly oil imports, Railroad Commissioner Barry Williamson told a Congressional committee March 23.

In testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee, Williamson said the tax is a poor idea for three reasons. "Its impact will not be fair and equitable, but will single out one region of the country with a resulting loss of jobs. Depending on the point of collection, the tax will not be 'broad-based', but will be borne instead by producers - mostly independents, and smaller production companies which are just now emerging from severe depression. Thirdly, it runs counter to the national security and environmental goals touted by its supporters," Williamson said.

Texas would be a loser on both the production and consumption ends, Williamson told the committee. Since Texas is the largest energy consuming state (9.8 quadrillion BTUs a year), Texas would bear 12.5 percent of the tax burden while having only 6.8 percent of the nation's population, he said.

"This tax would have a tremendous negative economic impact on those energy-intensive, job-rich industries that thrive in Texas: manufacturing ($29.7 billion in total 1990 wages), petrochemical ($16.2 billion), mining ($8.4 billion), construction ($8.6 billion), and agriculture ($1.3 billion)," Williamson said. "We should be bending over backward to save the good jobs we have in this country, not eliminating them or placing them in jeopardy."

The Railroad Commissioner told committee members that where the tax is collected makes a critical difference, noting that if the point of collection is anywhere but at the point of sale, most of the tax will be borne by producers, not consumers. If crude oil is taxed where it comes into the refinery, and not on the final product, it would favor imports and possibly close more domestic refineries, Williamson said.

"We've already lost 27 refineries in Texas in the past decade," he said. "In Texas, as elsewhere in the country, those closures cost jobs and make us more, not less, dependent on foreign sources of energy."

Regardless of the point of collection, Williamson said he fears the proposed tax will shut in a significant amount of domestic oil and gas production. "The additional pressure of a tax, seen in the context of a fiercely competitive international market for oil and gas, will inevitably lead to shutting in many marginal wells," Williamson told the congressmen. That would have an enormous impact on Texas, since 77 percent of the state's oil wells (134,276 wells) and 41 percent of its natural gas wells (20,646 wells) are stripper wells producing less than 10 barrels per day of oil and 60 thousand cubic feet per day of natural gas.

Finally, the proposed energy tax doesn't make good environmental sense according to Williamson. Although natural gas is supposed to be the "fuel choice for the 90s," the energy tax would raise the price of a standard unit of gas 15 percent. Propane and methanol, two other clean-burning fuels, would be taxed at the higher rate for crude oil. These fuels need to be encouraged, not discouraged, he said.

Williamson said he supports alternative plans which call for deeper reductions in spending in lieu of tax increases. "I believe strongly that the search for federal deficit reduction must begin with federal government spending reductions," Williamson said. "Balance the budget here in Washington, and not on the backs of hardworking men and women."

Firemen Cut Convention Short

Ozona firemen managed to capture two trophies at the Hill Country Fireman's Association Spring Convention in Sonora Saturday before rushing home to respond to reports of multiple fires. The 12 from Ozona received a round of applause when they were paged to return to Ozona according to fire chief Bob Falkner.

This was the first time in 10 years that Ozona had attended a convention, and members practiced for several days in preparation for the competitions.

The six-man pumper team of Larry and Melissa Glosson, Felix Trujillo, David Tijerina, Keith Olive and Chico Hernandez placed second with a time of 19.82, just behind Ballinger's 19.43.

Ozona also took second place and Ballinger first in the men's water polo competition. Pat Solansky and Raymond Borrego entered for Ozona. Borrego was also in the three-man race along with Keith Olive and Della Bishop.

Dee Keilers was recognized at the convention as a past president of the association and was a race judge. He and Keith Olive accepted the trophies for the department.

Urbina honored in "Who's Who In American Junior Colleges"

Martin Urbina of Ozona has been honored in the spring 1993 edition of "Who's Who in American Junior Colleges." Urbina, an art major at Western Texas College in Snyder, was one of 24 WTC sophomores nominated by their instructors who had maintained a grade point average of at least 3.2 and had completed at least 30 academic hours.

Other considerations were leadership, involvement in WTC student organizations and involvement in off-campus groups such as service clubs, churches or charities.

Nature Hint:

The hummingbirds are back and feeding in full force; they are also building their nests.

Try taking a small plastic basket—the ones that strawberries are sold in—and fill it with lint from your clothes dryer, cotton from prescription bottles and fur combs. Tie string to two sides and hang it on a branch visible from your window, about 5' from the ground and watch the hummingbirds come and get it by the beakful. They love it; in fact, all the birds in your backyard will delight in it.

It's a Girl!

Jadyn Brooke Poindexter, daughter of Chad and Tonya Poindexter of Ozona, arrived at Angelo Community Hospital on Friday, March 19, 1993. Jadyn weighed eight pounds, four ounces and measured 20 3/4 inches.

She was welcomed by sister Amenda and brother Mack along with grandparents Steve and Hazel Poindexter of Jal, NM, and John and Peggy Nelson of Fort Stockton.

³¹And he began to teach them, that the Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected of the elders, and of the chief priests, and scribes, and be killed, and after three days rise again.

³⁴And when he had called the people unto him with his disciples also, he said unto them, whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.

³⁵For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it.

³⁶For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?

Card of Thanks

Thank you, dear friends, for your help and concern over the last few weeks since my accident. All the phone calls, cards, visits, flowers, food, and prayers have meant a great deal to me! I'd like to say a special thanks to Dena Porter for coordinating all the meals that were brought over each night and to the cooks who prepared all the food. When you've spent half your life taking care of other people, it's hard to swallow your pride and ego and let others take care of you, but you've done a great job!

A special 'thanks' to Pam Tarr and Ronda Stuart for keeping my kids while I was in the hospital and to Roylan Sullivan for getting me out of 'captivity' for a few hours! It's great to have friends like all of you - Thanks, Ozona!

Like Judas, How Often Have We Been Shifty Of Betraying Jesus?

By Rev. Fernando Charles Iglesia Bautista Nueva Vida

During the Lenten season now being observed by many believers, when we think of Judas our minds usually center on how he betrayed Jesus—putting Him into the hands of the Roman soldiers.

From the Gospel of John, chapter 18, concerning the betrayal we read: Judas, one of the Twelve, who was betraying Him, also knew the place because Jesus and His disciples often gathered there (in Gethsemane on the Mount of Olives). So Judas took the troop of soldiers and Temple guards from the ruling priests, the scribes, and the elders of people. Just then, while Jesus was still talking, they came there, a large crowd, with lanterns and torches, swords and clubs. The traitor had given them a signal. He said, "The one I kiss is the man. Grab Him, take Him away, and don't let Him escape."

It would be very easy for us who read these scriptures concerning the betraying of our Lord and Saviour to condemn Judas' actions as horrible and cowardly. But how often are we not also guilty of betraying our Lord Jesus Christ in the things we do and say?

How many times have we failed to stand up for our religious beliefs or not been willing to be a witness for our faith just because it might be embarassing or difficult?

What about the instances when someone needed help but we were too busy with our own problems so we just ignored those needing help?

How about the times when we demonstrated acts of jealousy, hatred and deceit instead of showing love, mercy and kindness?

All of us are often guilty of betraying our Lord. But through God's forgiveness we can, like Peter, become a fervent and powerful servant of God, following the example of Jesus, doing things to help others wherever we go and spreading the good news that Christ died for our sins.

by BOB TURNER
State Representative - District 65

As unreal as it might seem to those of us in the 73rd district of Texas, the DFW Airport situated between Dallas and Fort Worth and its right to expand are occupying tremendous amounts of time and energy in the Texas Legislature. The smaller, surrounding cities contend that if the airport expands or has the authority to zone itself, that it infringes on the rights of these smaller cities. On the other hand, the very life blood, jobs, tax base, tourism, etc., all depend on the existence of the DFW Airport in their area. It appears that another local issue has become a concern of the Legislature simply because of the unwillingness, or inability of the local leadership to work out their differences.

I laid out two bills before the House Agriculture Committee this past week that I feel will have a favorable impact on industry in our part of Texas. Both of these bills were passed by the committee, and referred to the full House for consideration. House Bill 1672 designates that one of the present public members of the Animal Health Commission will be a position occupied by a representative of the "exotic wildlife industry". Since this fast rising and expanding industry is having a very favorable economic impact on the agricultural industry, I feel that this is a very proper change. House bill 2494 provides a means of recourse in cases where the media or a celebrity make unfounded, emotional claims concerning food safety. The legislation will mandate that persons who make these allegations must have scientific proof of their claims, or they are liable for reimbursement to the agricultural industry for the losses suffered when the industry's product sales are harmed. You might remember the apple and "alar" scare a few years ago that devastated the Washington state apple producers, not to mention a similar scare concerning cranberries and the hormone issue in beef. Consumer activist groups and extreme environmentalists opposed House bill 2494 very vigorously in the Committee hearing and I expect the same opposition during the floor debate in both the House and Senate. Consumer activist groups feel that they or the media should be entitled to make any sort of allegation against the agriculture industry, with no scientific proof and without fear of having to pay for the harm they cause the ag industry. They want all the freedoms without accepting the responsibility for their actions. This seems to be a very common attitude among many today, and I believe it is a problem that needs correction.

Legislation that will remove the Texas Youth Commission (TYC) from the oversight of the Texas Department of Human Services is being reviewed and considered. This combination of agencies was made during the last legislative session and was hastily done, without much thought being given to whether the two agencies fit well together or not. Actually the Department of Human Services deals primarily with the poor - elderly - needy children - single parents with dependent children with low level incomes, etc., while the Texas Youth Commission is primarily a correction agency for juveniles who have already run afoul of the law, created problems - and need confinement as well as rehabilitation and training. I feel that this is an especially desirable move and I will work to see that it actually happens.

Representative Nancy McDonald of El Paso has introduced legislation that will provide for childhood immunizations for all children in Texas. The bill has a fiscal note, or cost to the state of over $25 million per year, and in view of the pledge of no new tax bills during this legislative session, the McDonald bill appears to be in deep trouble. There are a number of concerns with the legislation beside the sheer cost. One of these questions is, how do you go about forcing people to take advantage of this free immunization service. We already have worlds of troubles trying to get all our school children through their free public health service pre-school required immunizations. Parents must sign the release papers required to obtain these immunizations and be sure that their children actually are present at the site, at the prescribed date and time for their immunization. We are having enormous problems in getting this done. A number of people question the ability of such a statewide program having any degree of success.

venture plan with the Chinese government. Mr. Ing told the Americans this new facility will be the largest wool processing plant in the world. The company is one of the top purchasers of wool in the Australian markets.

At the GTM Corporation in Taipei Kenneth Gu and C. W. Chiou, managers of the spinning and weaving plant, gave the Americans a tour of their facility. GTM purchases a large quantity of wool top from Reward. The company does quite a volume of blending and is currently using new machinery which reduces the number of steps from top to yarn by eliminating the roving process.

In Hong Kong the three met with Jane Singer, publisher of Inside Fashion a local trade magazine. The future of trading through Hong Kong markets with the political changes coming in the near future were discussed with Ms. Singer. American wool is promoted through Inside Fashion with advertising from the American Wool Council.

Scott Zhang of China Textile Resources Corp. of Beijing, China, discussed with the men the great potential usage of wool that exists in China. Zhang has traveled extensively and seen wools throughout the world and feels that American wools have great potential in the China market, Criner said.

At Chinatex Raw Materials Import & Export Corporation, Liu Zu Ping and Fhang Jian Mei discussed purchases and pricing of American wools. Almost 100% of the raw wool and mohair imported into China goes through Chinatex. Currently there is a 35% import duty on raw materials going into China.

While the Americans were explaining their product, Mr. Zhang joined the group. He, Ping and Mei agreed that if Chinatex would purchase the product, China textile Resources Corporation would guarantee usage. Wools need to range from 24.1-26.8 and 28.8-31.0 microns, and they requested samples fitting these ranges, Criner said.

In Osaka, Japan, the men met with wool processors and attended the World Fashion Trade Show. The American Wool Council shared a booth with the Daitobo company promoting the usage of American wool in futon (bedding materials) manufacturing. Daitobo is also a spinner and weaver, using wool and mohair.

A trip to the Daitobo mill at Suzuka, Japan, revealed wool samples from all over the world. The company seems to be searching for a type of wool that is lofty and resilient with low grease levels after scouring. "These traits are very important because the wool is slept on each night and tends to smell if grease remains in the wool," Criner said.

The outlook for wool usage by Stan Kishimoto and Tery Kodama of Itochu Corporation was less than optimistic for the Japanese market, Criner said. These Osaka businessmen said they are currently reducing their operations.

Although no more than two days were spent in any one city, time was allowed for sightseeing after business meetings. Hong Kong is "an amazing place", Criner said, a 24-hour city where you can trade any and everything.

A trip to the Great Wall of China was inspiring, but co-o-o-ld. The tour took them past the site of the 1990 Asia Games which will be used if China is selected as the location for the summer olympics in the year 2000.

China is a country of contrasts ranging from horsedrawn conveyances to World War II type cars to high rise buildings, Criner explained.

In Japan, the Americans saw a two-mile long mall, one shop after another, in an area where a street had been covered over. It was also in Japan that they discovered a Hardrock

Cafe and hamburgers. While the food was good everywhere, "I had a hard time with chopsticks and was glad to see a spoon and fork every now and then," Criner said with a laugh.

"I feel that these trade missions are very important to the future of the U. S. wool industry if we plan to compete with the world. I also feel strongly that representative growers and/or warehousemen should attend each of these trips," Criner concluded.

America Counts On Complete Agriculture Census Data

If all farmers and ranchers are not counted in the Census of Agriculture, decisions on farm programs, agriculture trade, extension programs and others will suffer. In the long run every farmer and rancher will be affected. The data from the Census of Agriculture are essential in allocating billions in agriculture funds every year. -The distribution of extension program funds depends on the census. -The number of acres of cropland that can be put into the conservation reserve program in your county is based on the census. -Funds for farm disaster relief are mean? Those states and counties with the greatest undercount may not receive their share of the agriculture programs, funding, trade considerations, educational funds, and consideration in Congress.

Mr. Pierce said, "What we also think has happened is that a lot of people who are no longer actively farming pitched their forms in the trash. That's human nature. But we need to know who's not farming by sending the form back indicating their situation. Meanwhile, the slow returns from non-farmers combined with farmers and ranchers who haven't mailed back their forms keeps the returns below the level we need to publish complete and accurate data."

If someone needs help on questions or who should report or needs another form, call toll free at 1-800-233-6132. By completing and returning their 1992 Census of Agriculture forms they help "Make it Known...America Counts on Agriculture."

According to George Pierce, Assistant Chief of the Census Bureau's Agriculture Division, "More than 75 percent of America's farmers and ranchers have completed and returned their Census of Agriculture report. Others have requested time extensions until they complete their tax returns. But there are still quite a few that we haven't heard from. Response in some states and counties is better than others." What does this

AUSTIN - The Texas Big Game Awards program received more than 1,300 entries this year, including more than two dozen animals that had Boone & Crockett qualifying scores, completing what has been the finest deer hunting season in Texas in history.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, which is sponsoring the program with the Texas Wildlife Association, received 1,317 entries - 1,031 scored entries and 286 entries from hunters who killed their first deer or antelope. The scored entries included 896 white-tailed deer, 71 mule deer and 64 antelope.

Last year's initial contest drew 833 entries, including 550 white-tailed deer, 93 mule deer and 25 pronghorn antelope in the scored entry categories and another 165 entries in the first animal category.

Even more impressive were the number of Boone & Crockett quality bucks taken - 14 typical whitetails, six non-typical whitetails and six pronghorn antelope. South Texas (Region 8) produced 13 of the typical whitetails and three of six non-typicals. The Panhandle (Region 2) produced the other typical whitetail, one of the non-typical whitetails and two of the pronghorns, including the top antelope in the state this year.

Trophy Deer, Antelope Highlight Texas Big Game Awards

AUSTIN - The Texas Big Game Awards program received more than 1,300 entries this year, including more than two dozen animals that had Boone & Crockett qualifying scores, completing what has been the finest deer hunting season in Texas in history.

Even more impressive were the number of Boone & Crockett quality bucks taken - 14 typical whitetails, six non-typical whitetails and six pronghorn antelope. The Panhandle (Region 2) produced the other typical whitetail, one of the non-typical whitetails and two of the pronghorns, including the top antelope in the state this year.

Conservative Deer Regulations Adopted by Wildlife Commission

AUSTIN - The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission on March 25 adopted white-tailed deer regulations that are more conservative than originally proposed for the Pineywoods and Post Oak regions, allowing TPWD staff to continue work on a new antlerless permit system based on available habitat.

Commissioners also approved regulations increasing the bag limit and hunting season in some South Texas counties as well as other wildlife-related regulations.

One change of interest to area hunters is that the portion of Val Verde County south of Highway 90 (south and east of Del Rio) has been added to the South Texas season for deer and turkeys.

The commission also discussed the issue of when to begin the general deer season for white-tailed deer. White-tailed deer season for all of Texas except South Texas will remain at the first Saturday in November through the first Sunday in January.

Fort Stockton Wine Whips California

AUSTIN - A Texas chenin blanc outscored 23 California wine finalists in a jug wine competition in Dallas, earning the highest number of contest points and taking first in its class.

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said the white jug wine from Ste. Genevieve Wines near Fort Stockton scored an 83-point average, beating nationally recognized California labels such as Mondavi, Sebastiani, Blossom Hill and Glen Ellen.

The entry also came in first in the white and light red varietals category ahead of two August Sebastiani wines.

Perry said the term "jug wine" does not imply inferior quality. "Consumers actually get the same quality for less money when they buy jugs," he said.

The "taste-off" was sponsored by Dallas Life Magazine in conjunction with the Dallas Morning News National Wine Competition. Only American-made varietals sold in 1.5-liter jugs were eligible to compete. Wines had to be priced $10 or less.
