County Employee Injured In Dump Truck Accident

Jessie De La Garza was treated for minor leg injuries and released from the local hospital after being involved in a wreck Monday while on the job. De La Garza was driving a 1980 GMC dump truck belonging to Crockett County at a jobsite on County Road 405 according to investigating officer Keith Olive of the DPS.

De La Garza was working with a crew approximately 1.5 miles north of Pandale Road when the accident happened, Olive said.

Pat Aiguier of the road department said De La Garza was hauling caliche and didn't see a pile of caliche in the road in time to stop after coming around a curve and up over a point.

The truck went up on the side of the caliche, and when the driver overcorrected, the truck turned on its side and fell into the bar ditch.

Several severe accidents have occurred in Crockett County in the past week, two which necessitated air lifting patients to San Angelo.

A 1995 Dodge van driven by Kimberly Lawson of Kirtland AFB, New Mexico, rolled seven times March 27 seven miles west of Ozona on I-10.

Trooper Olive said Mrs. Lawson told officers she looked away from the road for a moment, ran off the shoulder and went into a roadside skid after overcorrecting.

Her husband Joseph and son Jonathon were ejected from the van. A baby daughter was strapped in a car seat and received no injuries.

Jonathon was airlifted to Shannon Hospital, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawson were transported to the hospital by EMS ambulance. Mr. Lawson was later transferred to a San Antonio hospital with two broken ankles, three broken vertebrae, three broken ribs and a punctured lung.

Trooper Ben English investigated an accident with four injuries March 30 at 8:55 a.m. Arno Schraeder of Corpus Christi was the driver of a 1991 Dodge 4-door sedan which struck a rock embankment 21 miles west of Ozona on I-10.

Schraeder reportedly went to sleep and the car veered into the median where he overcorrected and caused the car to hit the embankment.

One of the two women passengers was airlifted to San Angelo for treatment of serious cuts to the neck.

A wind gust caused the turnover of a 1991 GMC suburban which was pulling a travel trailer six miles west of Ozona April 1. Driver Marilyn Noland of Carlsbad, NM, said she ran off the road after the vehicle and trailer were caught by a wind gust. The unit overturned three-fourths of the way.

Mrs. Noland was treated at the scene, and her husband, Frank Noland, received no injuries.

Elisa Tobar was the driver of a 1995 Dodge van involved in an accident April 1 at the entrance to Crockett Apartments on Hwy. 163 South. Mrs. Tobar was making a wide right turn into the apartments when her van was hit from behind by a 1985 Chevrolet pickup driven by William True-lock of Campbell, Trooper Olive said.

A passenger in the van, Natalie Martinez, was treated at Crockett County Hospital and transferred to Shannon Hospital in San Angelo.

to help start the brainstorming process before they got to the meeting. The day started by discussing the long range dreams for the chamber, said manager Sharon Farmer.

They then voiced their greatest concerns for the chamber. Directors were also asked to state the things that impress them most about the chamber. After this discussion, they were asked to assess the strengths and weaknesses of the personnel resources, programs and services, public image and relations, financial resources and the facilities.

"The business plan that would be written before the day was over would focus on maximizing our strengths and overcoming our weakeners," Mrs. Farmer said. The business plan will maximize the opportunities and minimize the threats.

The board was asked to look at the present and future of the chamber and recognize the external forces that will make the difference in whether the organization succeeds or fails.

Topics discussed were: changing demographics, cultural trends, changes in community leadership and or support, changes in funding patterns and economic trends and new developments in the changes of the people served by the chamber.

The afternoon was spent writing the business plan based on decisions made earlier in the day. Directors summarized the dreams, strengths, and opportunities and addressed the weakness and threats to write the plan.

Under the plan, specific committees are set up to accomplish the purpose of the chamber. The committees will establish measurable goals that will move them toward the comple-

Head Start Renewed At Catholic Church

The lease has been extended for one year for the Head Start program at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church following a meeting with parents last week.

A large group of parents attended the meeting Thursday night to support the program and protest the possible closing due to lack of a location. The program, which is operated under Tom Green Community Action Council in space leased at the parish hall from OLPH, uses space needed for CCD classes at the church.

The San Angelo office had been notified a year ago that they should look for another location according to church officials. However, no one in San Angelo seemed to have knowledge of this when possible non-renewal of the lease came up recently.

Raffle Winner

The Friends of the Library want to congratulate the 1995 winner of the fat meat goat, Mr. Jim Hearne. The raffle was held in conjunction with our annual membership drive to benefit the library expansion fundraising campaign. The drive was very successful this year according to Friends' treasurer Audrey Glynn. The Friends had set a goal to sign up 50 new members in 1995 and over 60 new members have already joined. This great response to the drive and the wonderful $10,000 grant from the Union Pacific Foundation have given a tremendous boost to the expansion campaign.

The Friends are now working on plans for the barbecue and book sale coming up the end of April. Barbecue chairman Lou Deaton says this year's Book Feast Saturday, April 22, will be better than ever with Mr. Robert Bryson and his crew cooking, live music to entertain the diners, and with a fabulous Desserts Feast to finish off the meal.

Friends president Jeanne Wellman is gearing up for the book sale that will start off this year on Sunday afternoon, April 23, with a book-signing by former Ozona resident D. G. McWilliams. Mr. McWilliams has written an exciting World War II novel that tells the story of six young Marines. The book sale will begin with a preview sale, and a $5 admission will be charged to get first chance at the best books. This year's sale will be bigger than ever. The Friends have had numerous large donations of books, including several from Wade Garlitz and Half-Price Books in San Antonio.

New Life Members

The Friends want to welcome their latest life members, Ernie Jones and all the employees of the post office.

The Friends appreciate the support of all their business members and especially life business members like the post office. A special thank you is provided for all business Friends. Special business bookmarks are designed for each member and given to everyone using the library. They mark readers' places in their books and they are great advertisement. A different business is featured each month. Other new life members for 1995 are Joe Will Ross, Town & Country Village Market and Mr. and Mrs. Frank White. Thanks, Friends.

Ozona Hand Bell Choir In Concert

Members of Ozona Woman's Forum met at Ozona United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall Sunday, April 2, at 2:30 p.m. featuring the Ozona Community Handbell Choir.

Helen White, program coordinator, told of the history of the bell choir. The choir was the dream of the late Maridel Dudley and Katharine Russell, the present director. Mrs. Russell and Gail Spence were both honored by members of the choirs.

There are two groups, the evening group of Virginia Cotton, Mary Hillman, Lu Ingram, Willa Perry, Betty Allen, Brenda Newton, Marge Smith, Bobbie Fatout, Rosalind Williams, Betty Perry and Gail Spence which is directed by Mrs. Russell, and the morning group which includes: Mary Hufstetler, Willa Perry, Betty Perry, Glenda Henderson, Marilyn Cox, Shirley Kirby, Katharine Russell, Marilyn Bean, Sandy Bebee and Betty Allen.

The program featured both groups. They presented a variety of both sacred and secular music to an audience of more than 100.

Marilyn Bean, president of Ozona Woman's Forum, expressed gratitude to the people and organizations of Ozona for their generosity in helping the Forum purchase the handbells and equipment.

Hostesses for the program were: Marcell Long, Crystelle Childress, Benny Gail Hunnicutt, Dorothy Montgomery and Geniece Childress.

Jesus Lives And So Shall I

By Dennis J. Prutow

Christianity is not just a set of moral and ethical values taught by Jesus Christ long ago. Christianity exists because Jesus Christ now lives. That's right. Jesus Christ did not remain in the grave. He rose again. He lives. The central celebration of Christianity is the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

This means people who follow Jesus do not just follow His teachings. The disciples of Christ have the hope of following Christ by also being raised from the dead. you see, "If Christ has not been raised, your faith is worthless; you are still in your sins" (1 Corinthians 15:17). "But now Christ has been raised from the dead, the first fruits of those who are asleep" (1 Corinthians 15:20). This means Jesus Christ was the "first fruit" of a great resurrection harvest. At that resurrection harvest, "the dead will be raised imperishable." Listen, this is the hope of every person who trusts in Christ. "Behold, I tell you a mystery" we shall not all sleep, but we shall be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet; for the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we shall be changed" (1 Corinthians 15:51-52).

Do you have this "living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead" (1 Peter 1:3)?

Neal Ulmer, Stockman SportsWriter

The Ozona Lady Lions scored 26 points and participated with 12 teams in the Uvalde Relays held March 25. The Ladies did well considering some teammates were participating in a district UIL meet in Van Horn.

Dana Bishop placed fifth in the long jump with a leap of 14 feet, ten and one half inches. She also helped her team by running in three races.

Terren Marshall placed third in the 3,200 meter run with a time of 13:41.27 minutes. She placed fourth in the 1,600 meter run with a time of 6:09.69 minutes.

The Ladies placed fifth in the 400 meter relay with a time of 54.97 seconds. The team is composed of Melanie Lozano, Patty Dominguez, Abbey Maldonado, and Dana Bishop. The same team placed fourth in the 800 meter relay with a time of 1:56.46 minutes. Ozona placed sixth in the 1,600 meter relay with a time of 4:40.79 minutes. The team is composed of Maria Trujillo, Patty Dominguez, Terren Marshall, and Dana Bishop.

Ozona got a national plug on television March 28 courtesy of actor Bill Murray. Roy Miller called his brother, Rod, from New York to tell him to tune in to the Bulls game being broadcast from Madison Square Garden and to call The Stockman.

Murray was one of the celebrities in the audience being panned by the camera, and he was wearing an Ozona World Champion Goat Roping cap.

The cap was sent to Murray by Ozona friends Pon and Jill Seahorn. Numerous Ozonans have since commented that they saw Murray and identified the cap.

Patricia and Carlos Borrego, with their children Erica and Steve, have moved back to Ozona from Rapid City, SD. The two have completed 11 years in the military, she in office management and he in accounting and finance. They will continue to be in the Air Force reserve.

TEXAS SENATE WEEK IN REVIEW

AUSTIN - The Texas Senate suffered a loss with the death of Senate Parliamentarian Bob Johnson. Johnson, known throughout the state Capitol as "Big Daddy", had served as a Senate officer since Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock took office in 1991. He served as a member of the Texas House from 1957 to 1965, when he became House Parliamentarian to then Speaker Byron Tunnell, a position he held until 1980. Bob Johnson's death is a great loss to the people of Texas. He is missed.

The Senate convened at 10 a.m. Monday, March 27, to begin work on Committee Substitute Senate Bill 1, sponsored by Sen. Bill Ratliff of Mt. Pleasant, the education reform act. Over 70 amendments were considered, and the Senate adopted the legislation on final passage at midnight. The bill is the biggest rewrite of the education code since the 1940s and is over 1000 pages in length. Some of the highlights of the bill include the reduction of the no-pass no-play provision from six weeks to three weeks for the first offense with the students being allowed to continue to practice, and approval of a pilot project that would allow disadvantaged students in 20 of the state's 1,058 school districts to use public dollars to pay for tuition in private schools. The bill allows school districts to adopt a charter specifying whether it is a general-law, home-rule, or special purpose district. General-law districts would follow all the provisions of the new education code; home-rule and special-purpose districts would have more flexibility to regulate their classes and be exempted from some state laws. Textbook selection was left to the State Board of Education, but local districts can obtain a waiver from the state to pick their own, with the local district paying for half the cost of the new books. Textbooks must remain free of racial slurs and factual errors. Also included in the legislation are provisions enabling teachers to remove disruptive students from class and prevent them from returning. These students would be placed in an alternative setting. Assault, substance abuse, selling drugs, or public lewdness would be reason for placement. Students would be expelled for crimes such as murder or sexual assault. In addition, school districts would get money to build classrooms. This part of the bill will cost 286 million dollars over the next two years and would allow school districts to use that money to finance two billion dollars in new construction debt and one billion dollars in existing debt. The bill now goes to the House.

On Tuesday, March 28, the Senate passed SB 38 sponsored by Sen. Buster Brown of Lake Jackson which permits victims of a crime or their families to attend the execution of the capital felon responsible for committing the crime against them. Other than persons observing in their professional capacity, only the condemned person's family is allowed to watch the execution.

Also on March 28 the Senate passed SB 40 sponsored by Sen. Teel Bivins of Amarillo relating to the treatment of repeat sex offenders. The bill will allow a repeat sex offender to voluntarily choose castration as a rehabilitative measure. Currently in the United States, where incarceration, therapy and counseling are used, about 50 percent of all sex offenders are rearrested. In European countries, voluntary castration has been used as a method of treatment, and some studies say recidivism rates for sex offenders have been measured between 2 and 11 percent.

On Wednesday, March 29, the Senate passed CSSB 121 sponsored by Sen. Chris Harris of Arlington which establishes a program to increase voluntary paternity acknowledgement at a hospital birth. A biological father is often not identified in birth or hospital records. Identifying biological fathers early will assist in establishing child support orders. Also on Wednesday, the Senate passed SB 540 sponsored by Sen. Judith Zaffirini of Laredo which would require counties or municipalities to make reasonable efforts to accommodate the employment needs of pregnant employees. Currently, public employees who are pregnant can take leave from work under several state and federal provisions when they can no longer perform their jobs; however, there is no provision for law enforcement officers who are only partially disabled due to pregnancy. These employees may be disqualified by their physician from continuing on their regular job, but could work in another, less strenuous, work assignment as a dispatch operator or an office assignment. There have been incidents in which these temporary assignments were available but the employer refused to allow the employee to keep working.

Sen. Jerry Patterson of Pasadena attempted to bring up for debate SB 473 which would repeal the motorcycle helmet law for riders over the age of 18. Without the votes for consideration, the bill will not be debated this session.

The Senate convened Thursday at 10 a.m. and adopted Senate Concurrent Resolution 108 in memory of Senate Parliamentarian Bob Johnson. The family was in attendance as Gov. George Bush read the resolution. Former House Speaker Bryon Tunnell and Speaker Pete Lancy accompanied Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock on the rostrum. Johnson will be interred at the Texas State Cemetery

Spending: More per prisoner than pupil

State expenditures for a prisoner in Texas averages almost 10 times more than for a school child. In 1994, expenditures by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice's prison division averaged $30,732 per prisoner, while spending by the Texas Education Agency averaged $3,129 per student.* Texas has the largest prison system of any state in the U.S. and ranks 35th among the states in spending per school child.

Miss Sedeno Receives Scholarship

Mary Angela Sedeno, 17-year-old granddaughter of Elvira Martinez of Ozona and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Sedeno of San Angelo, was recently awarded a $2,500 college scholarship from the Texas Talent Musician's Association Committee. The award was presented at the 15th annual Tejano Music Awards in the Alamodome in San Antonio in front of an estimated crowd of 30,000. She was the only young lady out of five recipients who were selected.

Twenty-one seniors were first screened out after submitting their applications to continue into the audition level. Miss Sedeno performed a concerto on the harp and had an intensive interview in front of four judges. She was asked extensively about her knowledge of the harp, her Spanish dance training, singing and community and school activities.

Mary Angela will attend the University of North Texas, majoring in music performance.

Combat Juvenile Crime With Adult Solutions

It's truly upsetting to see the way juvenile crime is soaring out of control throughout our country. Every day, we hear about or are directly affected by serious violent crimes committed by young people. An enormous number of children are committing adult crimes such as robbery, rape and murder, yet they do not receive adult punishment for their crimes. However, we all know that when a 13-year-old kid carjacks or kills someone, the damage to the victims is the same as it would be if an adult had committed the crime.

We must start down the path of reform and help states and communities crack down on young troublemakers. For far too long, Congress has passed broad crime bills with only minimum provisions to deal with juvenile criminals. A generation ago, detaining juvenile criminals in youth centers for a couple of years or issuing sharp warnings from law enforcement officials might have worked to set young criminals straight. Today, though, these solutions aren't doing much to stop juvenile crime.

replace early release and probation for young criminals. If states adopt these guidelines, they should be offered federal assistance to build detention facilities and fund juvenile law enforcement programs.

I've written a bipartisan letter to the chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Henry Hyde, urging him to push a "state-friendly" juvenile crime bill. So far, more than 50 other representative have joined me in this effort to combat juvenile crime.

As a parent, I constantly worry about the safety of my children. They shouldn't have to be scared to walk down the street, ride their bikes or play out in the yard because a gang of young thugs is terrorizing the neighborhood. We must take back on juvenile crime, we'll restore the law and order that has been lost in communities across America.

One reason is that juvenile crime itself has changed. Not too many years ago, common juvenile crime problems involved breaking car windows and stealing candy or cigarettes. While these crimes are certainly not excusable, they pale in comparison to the shocking, violent crimes young people are committing today. Much of those crimes involve gangs. Despite their pervasiveness and characteristically violent nature, however, gangs have received very little attention from federal crime prevention and control agencies. Gangs are often involved in sophisticated drug-trafficking operations and should be treated as adult crime organizations like the mafia. We should use federal Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations (RICO) laws, which were originally designed to combat organized crime and to crack down on juvenile gangs. RICO laws have been used effectively in New York City to put teenage gang members behind bars and dramatically cut local crime rates.

The federal government should also encourage states to reform their sentencing laws so that juveniles do real time for their crimes. Boot camps and alternative sentencing should

From The Library

Have you ever thought about what it takes to be a librarian? That depends on the kind of library the person will work in. There are a variety of types of librarians including those who work in schools, in public libraries, in colleges and universities, in companies and corporations, in churches, and even in prisons. Large libraries may employ a number of librarians, each with a specific field of specialization such as acquisitions, cataloging, reference, children's, young adult, adult, etc.

In Ozona we have three certified librarians, Louise Ledoux, Donnie York, and Sherry York. Louise is a certified county librarian in the State

Indigestion Can Be Prevented

HOUSTON - For people who suffer from indigestion, relief can be spelled m-o-d-e-r-a-t-i-o-n. Acid indigestion, or heartburn, is often caused by a backflow of stomach acid into the esophagus, a long tube connecting the throat and the stomach.

Indigestion can usually be avoided by skipping late-night meals, eating at a casual pace and cutting back on certain foods, said Dr. Alan Buchman of Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"If you eat late at night, the esophagus cannot clear out the acid before you go to sleep," Buchman said. "When you lie down flat, there is no gravity to help the esophagus force out the acid."

Antacids usually relieve heartburn symptoms, but, if they are taken regularly, they can cause constipation or diarrhea.

of Texas. She earned her certification by attending college, receiving a college degree, working in the public library, and completing a required number of hours of training in the public library field.

The Yorks are both certified school librarians. In order to earn their certification, they attended college, received degrees, received certification as teachers in the State of Texas, taught in the public schools, took additional hours in library science, and were then certified as school librarians.

To be certified as a school librarian in Texas, one must have teaching experience and then take additional courses in order to be certified. This certification process ensures that all school librarians have had experience as teachers in classrooms.

While experience is a worth-while attribute in most professions, it is a requirement in school librarianship. The unfortunate aspect of this process is that, after spending the required years teaching, assuming the expense and inconvenience of going back to college for additional training, and finally being certified as a school librarian, there is no monetary reward.

In the State of Texas school librarians are paid on the same scale as teachers. There is no additional compensation for the extra certification. To add insult to injury, school librarians were excluded from participation in the career ladder program which offered financial rewards for outstanding teachers who met specific criteria.

The career ladder program has now been eliminated, but teachers who earned those rewards are still receiving them. School librarians, on the other hand, did not receive the additional compensation and are still not.

In spite of these inequities in the pay scale, school librarians across the state continue to work with students day after day, week after week, year after year, not for the money but because they feel they are contributing to the future through their influence on the children and youth of today.

It is sad, however, that not many of the younger generation are interested in the field of library science in general. The most frequent reason for this lack of interest in the pay which is much less than for jobs requiring comparable education and training. Careers in business and technology offer more monetary rewards both immediately and in the long term.

In the past years Ozona High School students in English IV have traditionally done a career paper which involved researching a chosen career to find out requirements, benefits, work situations, and job opportunities. In the past ten years no student has ever chosen library science as a career.

In spite of the fact that some of these students would make excellent librarians, they are choosing other more lucrative fields. One cannot fault their choices, but where will the next generation of librarians come from?

Special Olympians Compete In Area 14 Games

It was April Fool's Day in Gordon Wood Stadium in Brownwood Saturday, and it started off that way for Luyita Fierro in the 50 meter dash. Luyita ended up competing in three dashes, the last against himself, before he won the gold medal with a time of 8.00 seconds.

This was the result of the Special Olympic's "rabbit rule" which states that an athlete can not score more than 10 percent above the standard turned in by that athlete's coach for that event. It was also the result of the heat officials running Luyita in the wrong heat the first time that he ran. He ran the first heat for athletes in his age bracket in 8.3 and rabbited.

He was then placed in the heat that he was designated for originally, based on the time turned in by his coach, James Cox. He was competing against athletes 30 years old or older and rabbited in that heat, also. With the rabbit rule he was moved to another heat with his 8 second time.

Since no one else in the track meet ran a time better than 8 seconds, Luyita won the gold medal in that heat. This was a personal best time. He also won a gold medal in the softball throw with a personal best of 26.73 meters.

Johnny Rodriguez also achieved two personal bests, placing fourth in the 50 meter dash with a time of 12.47 seconds and second in the softball throw with a distance of 6.35 meters.

The next meet will be April 22 in Odessa's Ratliff Stadium in the Area 18 spring games.

Age Contributes To Balance Problems

As they age, people expect a slight loss of hearing or sight, but few foresee problems with balance.

"It's known as disequilibrium of aging," said Dr. Helen Cohen, an assistant professor of otorhinolaryngology at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "As they get older, people become less active, which can sometimes affect balance. They tend to walk unsteadily as if they've had too much to drink."

Disequilibrium of aging (DEA) is seen mostly in people older than 60. It may account for why some elderly people fall, which often leads to more serious complications.

As people age, Cohen said, "their hearing goes a little, their sight goes a little - so why should their sense of balance be any different?"

"DEA occurs because the central nervous system begins losing cells. Things just don't work as efficiently," she said. "Sight, hearing and memory may also diminish."

About 20 percent of the population may have some type of disorder of the vestibular labyrinth, the system that monitors the positions and movement of the head before relaying the information to the brain.

Cohen works on "retraining" her patients' balance.

"It's difficult for them to find their center of balance, so we encourage walking. In therapy, we play games and do exercises, such as catching a ball, that retrain the vestibular system and the brain," she said. "We teach them new ways to balance."

Cohen advises her patients, when walking for exercise, to:

- *Move the head side to side to learn to maintain balance.
- *Walk with a friend for company and safety.
- *Walk in a well-lighted area.
- *Wear comfortable walking shoes.

She recommends consulting a physician before starting an exercise program, especially if there are previous medical problems.

Since DEA can cause falls, Cohen suggests patients:

- *Get rid of throw rugs.
- *Wear flat rubber-soled shoes and bedroom slippers.
- *Plug in night-lights where needed.
- *Use sturdy handholds such as heavy furniture.
- *Install grab bars in the bathtub or shower.

*Put a rubber mat or strips in the bathtub or shower.

*Use a bathmat with a non-skid backing on slippery floors.

"Just because you age doesn't mean you have to be off balance," Cohen said. "A combination of exercise, therapy and safety can greatly improve equilibrium."

Fewer USDA-Donated Commodities To Be Available For Household Use

If your household is one of the millions which has been receiving U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) commodities on a monthly, bi-monthly, or quarterly basis, you can expect to get fewer commodities over the next 12 months than you have received in past years.

The reduction in this program - called The Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP) - will be due to fewer surplus commodities as well as non-surplus commodities. During 1994, there was surplus cornmeal and butter in USDA storage which was available for TEFAP; however, there is no longer surplus cornmeal in storage. In 1994, Congress appropriated $80 million for USDA to purchase additional (non-surplus) food for TEFAP, but in 1995, Congress appropriated only $25 million for additional TEFAP food.

However, it is important to note that TEFAP was never intended to serve as a household's sole or even primary food source. TEFAP was designed as an outlet for surplus commodities in order to reduce the huge surplus inventories of food being stored in warehouses at taxpayer's expense. As such, it effectively achieved that goal. It is among the smallest of USDA's numerous food assistance programs, accounting for less than one-half of one percent of the $39 billion spent on the programs.

From 1989 to 1993, at a time when funding for TEFAP decreased by $40 million, total USDA funding for all of its food assistance programs actually increased by $13 billion. The Agriculture Department feels it can better use its food dollars by targeting its funding on the programs that are designed to be the mainstay of Federal food assistance - the Food Stamp Program, WIC (the Supplemental Food Assistance Program for Women, Infants and Children), and the Child Nutrition Programs (nutrition programs for schools and child care facilities).

The history of TEFAP explains why funding is being decreased. During the 1950s and 1960s, needy households that required food assistance were given U.S. Department of Agriculture commodities. In the 1970s, however, the Food Stamp Program - which gave recipients more flexibility in meeting their nutritional needs - replaced the distribution of USDA commodities to needy households. Since that time the Food Stamp Program has remained the government's primary food assistance program for needy households.

In the late 1970s and early 1980s, there was a large build-up of surplus price-support commodities which the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) held in storage throughout the country. In 1981, the President responded to public concern over the costs to taxpayers of storing vast quantities of food by allowing USDA to distribute surplus commodities to needy households. In 1983, Congress formally authorized The Temporary Emergency Food Assistance Program (the word "Temporary" was dropped in the late 1980s).

The amount of commodities which Congress authorizes USDA to distribute through TEFAP is restricted to that amount which is in excess of the quantity needed to carry out USDA's other programs. At first, there were massive surpluses of cheese, rice, honey, nonfat dry milk, cornmeal, flour and butter available for distribution. However, by 1988, more than five billion pounds of those surplus USDA commodities had been distributed to needy households through TEFAP. Because of this massive distribution, as well as legislative changes in agricultural price-support programs, the volume of surpluses was vastly diminished. In fact, by 1989, there was not enough surplus cheese, rice, honey and nonfat dry milk for USD to donate for TEFAP distribution. The only large surpluses commodities remaining in 1989 were butter, cornmeal and flour.

Although funding for TEFAP has been decreased, it is important to look at the "big picture", and that is the reduction in TEFAP funding has been more than made up by the funding increases for the main food assistance programs. By focusing more of its funding on the primary food assistance programs, USDA feels it can maximize the effectiveness of its funds in meeting the nutritional needs of the households which are at the greatest nutritional risk.

TPWD Collecting Hummingbird Information

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials are collecting reports from the 1994 Texas Hummingbird Roundup for data analysis. All participants are encouraged to return the survey forms for inclusion in the data analysis and to sign up for the 1995 roundup.

To date, only about 17 percent of the participants have returned their surveys. The deadline for returning surveys was Jan. 10, but department officials will continue to take survey forms.

The Texas Hummingbird Roundup, conducted by the department's nongame and urban program, is designed to collect information from Texans on their backyard observations, said Kari Sutton, TPWD outreach and promotions intern in the nongame and urban branch. The survey is being used to learn more about hummingbirds, such as range and distribution, favored sites, feeding plants and other habits. This is the second year of the five year survey.

These tiny birds can be found anywhere - apartment balconies, gardens, homes and patios. They easily can be attracted by hanging a feeder filled with nectar solution, native plants or even compost piles with insects.

Of the 1,200 participants in the 1994 survey, many were from major urban cities, including Austin, San Antonio, Houston and Dallas/Fort Worth. Participants were lacking in rural areas such as the Trans-Pecos, the Panhandle, the lower Rio Grande Valley and towns along the coast.

The department has received several interesting reports. Many people report feeding up to 100 hummingbirds at one time. A participant from Redford reported that he believes the birds may be attracted to flowers with the most nectar regardless of color. The man has roses growing on his property and reports that the birds preferred the Texas yellow rose over the red roses.

There also have been reports of over-wintering birds and late stragglers in Central and East Texas in December and January. These reports will be compiled in a newsletter to be sent to 1994 participants and guide further research and study on hummingbirds.

About 925 participants have signed up for the 1995 Texas Hummingbird Roundup. The department is aiming for 2,000 participants this year. Officials are especially interested in getting more participation in West Texas.

"We need all of your hummingbird watchers out there to help us learn more about Texas' hummingbirds," Sutton said. "This information will help determine conservation needs to focus on for hummingbirds."

Anyone interested in the 1995 Hummingbird Roundup can sign up by mailing their name, address and county (and an optional $6 donation) to: Texas Hummingbird Roundup, Nongame and Urban Program, TPWD, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744. The participation packet includes a garden seed packet, local survey form and newsletter with survey results. The voluntary donation will help cover costs of running the survey.

Tobacco Used To Snuff Out Pepper Plant Fungus

EL PASO - Chilics and tobacco are teaming up to snuff out a fungus that causes pepper plants to wilt and die.

Scientists at the Texas A&M Agricultural Research Center here expect to insert the gene for the osmotic protein from tobacco into chile plants and begin greenhouse screening against the fungus within the year.

"Even if we can just slow down the process of chile wilt disease, that will have great economic advantage," said Dr. Marla Binzel, plant physiologist at the center.

Chile wilt crops up annually in serious levels, according to Dr. Ben Villalon of Westlaco, a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station plant pathologist and breeder known as "Dr. Pepper" for his development of the mild jalapeno that boosted national acceptance of the salsa industry.

Wilt disease typically begins if rain falls soon after peppers are irrigated because the fungus, phytophthora, which lives in the soil, is a "water-loving mold," Villalon said. Once wilt is present, there is little a farmer can do but "cry a lot".

EPA Advises Checking Well Water Pumps

COLLEGE STATION- The Environmental Protection Agency is advising homeowners with submersible brass pumps to have their well water tested for excess lead levels.

Laboratory studies have found that significant levels of lead can leach from some types of brass, said Dr. B. L. Harris, a soils specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension service at Texas A&M University.

"While many homes have brass plumbing or fixtures," he explained, "more emphasis is being placed on lead leached from submersible pumps, since these pumps are in constant contact with water."

Some submersible well pumps are made of stainless steel and plastic components, but the majority of these pumps are constructed with brass fittings contained in a cast brass housing, Harris said. These pumps have the potential to leach high levels of lead into drinking water, especially if the water is soft and corrosive.

Homeowners should consult the pump manufacturer to determine if their pumps contain brass components. Otherwise people should have their water tested by a certified laboratory. The EPA advises those affected to drink bottled water until their water can be tested and the quality assured.

An Important Message for WTU Customers

Recently you may have read or heard about a plan proposing "competition and choice in the generation of electricity" with the implication that everyone's electric bill would go down if that happens. If you think that sounds too good to be true, you're right.

A handful of unregulated power producers is promoting a scheme that would allow them to sell power at retail directly to consumers. They want you to believe that's competition and that it would lower everyone's electric bill. In reality, their goal is to sell power to large industrial customers at low rates which will be eventually subsidized by smaller consumers. They are not interested in assuming an obligation to serve anybody.

At West Texas Utilities Company, we achieve success with a tradition of low rates, reliability, community involvement and dedication to superior customer service. The electric industry is changing. Deregulation, expanding customer expectation, new technologies and other dynamic forces are having a profound effect on our business, but the strong commitment to our customers and communities remains.

Contrary to the self-serving efforts of a few special interest groups, the state's electric utilities have proposed legislation to increase competition in a way that will benefit all consumers. The proposal would open the wholesale generation market to all who want to participate, thus allowing every consumer to benefit from the least costly sources of power. Unlike the unregulated power producers' scheme, no consumers or group of consumers would face higher rates so a few could pay less.

WTU has been a provider of electrical service for some 80 years. Our involvement with and commitment to the communities we serve are stronger than ever. Our lower-than-average rates in Texas have been stable for years. We take our obligation to provide the best possible service to each and every one of our customers very seriously. Always have, always will! If you would like more information on this very important issue, please call or come by any WTU office.

Bluebonnets Tempt Photographers

Each Texas springtime brings flowers to fields and roadsides and a question to the minds of nature lovers - is it really illegal to pick bluebonnets?

The answer from the Texas Department of Public Safety is no - there is no law against picking the State Flower. However, there are laws against criminal trespass - so make sure you're not on private property when you stop to take your annual kids-in-the-bluebonnets photo.

There are laws against damaging or destroying rights-of-way and government property - so pick a few flowers, but don't dig up clumps of them, and don't drive your vehicle into the midst of them. Remember, Mother Nature and in many cases, your fellow Texans, scattered wildflower seeds along medians and roadways to that everyone could enjoy spring flowers.

For the safety of yourself and others, as well to limit your ticketability:

There are laws against impeding traffic - so be careful about slowing down to enjoy the view. Pick areas with light traffic conditions for stopping.

Signal before leaving or entering the roadway.

Park off the roadway (off of improved shoulders), parallel to the road in the direction of traffic, on the same side of the roadway that the flowers are on. Don't walk or run across lanes of traffic to get to the flowers.

Obey signs that prohibit parking on a particular stretch of roadway.

And remember that in addition to a ticket, snakes and fire ants could also put more blue in your day than you bargained for.

to bar further prosecution granted.

Joe Dan Dockery was sentenced on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He was given five years in the Texas Department of Corrections, probated, deferred and ordered to perform 250 hours of community service and pay a $750 fine.

Postal Job Scams Don't Hire On To A Con Game

"The U. S. Postal Service is hiring for full time and part time employment. Hourly salaries start at $25 an hour. For employment information, call 800-555-555."

Have you seen advertisements like this one? Postal inspector Linda Kirksey warns that if you should call these promoters for "employment information", you are probably going to get clipped. In most instances, you find out that you are going to have to pay about $30 to receive information of dubious value. They may lead you to think you are talking to someone from the U. S. Postal Service, but no postal jobs will be offered.

Frequently, the con artists promoting this service offer to provide you with training which is supposed to help you pass a required entrance examination. Further, graduates are often promised placement in postal service jobs upon successful completion of the training. Naturally, this training will cost you money for tuition and books.

Postal inspectors say that other promoters offer job opportunities that guarantee that you will be placed on a register with the U. S. Postal Service from which new hires will be selected. Inspectors say beware of any "opportunity" to get postal job information which is going to cost you money.

Inspector Kirksey also warns the public to beware of the enticement of fantastic salaries and benefits which seem too good to be true. For accurate information about application procedures for jobs with the U. S. Postal Service, call your local postmaster. It won't cost you a dime.

Childresses Host TCU Ranch Management Group

Neal Ulmer, Stockman Reporter

Ostriches in West Texas! That's what 35 students and their instructor, Dr. John Merrill of the TCU Ranch Management Program found out while visiting the Bob Childress Ranch. The students toured both the south and west ranches learning about cattle, sheep, goats and ostriches.

An Ozona welcoming committee headed by Ozona Chamber of Commerce president Jack Baggett, Jr. along with Oscar Kost and Al Fields officially welcomed the group to Ozona and Crockett County. Also greeting the group were their hosts, Bob, Jodie, and Ira Childress.

"TCU has been coming out here for six or seven years. I've enjoyed them, and they enjoy coming by. It was nice to have Jack, Oscar, and Al come by from the chamber of commerce and greet that bunch," said Childress.

Bob Childress told the group about their office operation. This included how several ranches and other entities are under one company. Also information was given on bookkeeping and the use of computers and their software.

Next the group was taken to the headquarters ranch where Childress went into great detail about the sheep and goat industry. This included information on the ranch, its carry capacity, method of operation, range conditions, animals, predators, economics, and the marketing of wool and mohair.

While inside the Childress house, the students were shown products made from mohair such as a jacket worn by Jodie, a throw and a rug.

Childress then gave the particulars of his ostrich operation. He told them of the need to diversify, about the birds themselves, the economics, marketing, and the by products.

Later, the group was shown goats, looking at their hair in particular. They got a big thrill from seeing the ostriches in their pens and the curiosity the birds showed. The students were shown the new hatchery with three eggs inside.

Another treat the group saw was the use of sheep dogs working goats at the Sweetwater Ranch, located west of Ozona. Ira Childress showed his dog, Mirk, and Randy Herring worked his dog, Dan, both border collies.

As the ranch was then busy shearing goats, Childress showed how the portable mohair grading table was used. Hair was separated into seven bags.

Surely, the TCU students left with a greater knowledge of West Texas ranching and that ostriches can survive and thrive while living with sheep, goats, and cattle.

The typewriter was invented in 1867.

If we had one lifetime wish
One dream that could come true
We'd pray to God so hard
For yesterday and you.
The things we feel so deeply
Are the hardest things to say
But we, your friends, loved you

They say memories are golden.
Well, maybe that is true
But we never wanted memories
We only wanted you.

We'd walk a path to heaven
And bring you back again.

Legal Matters

By Texas Attorney General Dan Morales

WAGE WITHHOLDING BOOSTS CHILDSUPPORT COLLECTIONS

It's very important that parents who do not live with their children help support them financially with regular child support payments. The law requires it.

In Texas, the courts establish the amount an absent parent must contribute for child support. While the person's ability to pay is taken into account, the obligation to pay child support supersedes all other debts except income tax and social security.

In 1984, the Office of the Attorney General became the child support enforcement agency for the state. As such, we are responsible for collecting money from absent parents who fail to pay court-ordered child support. It's a big job: we currently handle more than 750,000 cases.

In my three years as Attorney General, we have collected more than $1 billion.

DEDUCTING CHILD SUPPORT FROM PAYCHECKS

When you receive your paycheck, your children's needs should come first. That's why parents who are delinquent in their child support payments may be subject to wage withholding. It means that court-ordered child support can be automatically deducted from an absent parent's paycheck every month.

Since 1986, wage-withholding provisions have been written into all child support court orders. However, orders established before 1986 still can be modified by the court to include withholding. If a child-support payment is delinquent after 30 days, withholding is automatically instituted.

Unfortunately, the paycheck withholding program does not work as easily with absent parents who are self-employed or whose income is irregular. Overall, however, it is a highly effective way to collect child support. In fact, wage withholding is our most effective collection tool. It accounted for about 60 percent of all child-support collections last year.

INTERCEPTING TAX REFUNDS

If a parent is behind on child support payments, we also can ask the IRS to deduct the money owed from any income tax refund the parent may have coming. The tax refund "intercept" is not automatic. We must notify the IRS whenever we need to deduct child support payments from a parent's tax refund. And, obviously, if the IRS does not owe the parent a refund, we will not be able to collect any money.

Still, Texas is one of the nation's leading states in collecting child support from income tax refunds. In 1993, we collected $35 million through this enforcement tool.

A PARENT'S RESPONSIBILITY

Parents have a responsibility to provide their children with such basic needs as food, clothing, housing, and health care. We recognize that many non custodial parents have a hard time meeting their obligations. But we are even more deeply concerned about children who must grow up knowing the pain and humiliation of poverty because their absent parents have neglected to provide them support.

For more information on wage withholding or tax refund interception, please call our Child Support Enforcement Division at 1-800-252-3515. Deaf parents may call the Deaf Outreach Program at 1-800-572-2686.

AN EARLY MORNING FIRE MONDAY gutted the office space area and overhead storage and John's Garage north of Ozona. Cleanup was underway later that day so the shop could return to business as usual.

Fire Wipes Out Office At John's Garage

The office space area and overhead storage at John's Garage were gutted by fire early Sunday morning. Major damage was confined to this area, but the shop portion of the building at the industrial park north of town suffered smoke damage.

Preliminary investigation showed that the fire started in the northwest portion of the office where a television was located. Fire Marshal Steve Kenley said the worst damage was in that corner.

"Firemen were able to knock it (the fire) down pretty quick," Kenley said.

The call was received at 5:47 a.m.

Monday and firefighters were on the scene at John Tebbetts' business eight minutes later. The blaze was under control by 6:17 a.m. with trucks back at the station by 8 a.m.

The two trucks and 15 firefighters used 650 gallons of water on the building.
