Property owners concerned about salvage yard

Floyd Sheppard and Johnny yard. Allen, landowners on either side of Mingo's Salvage on the Big Lake sioners' court entered into a agree-Highway, talked to commissioners Monday about their concerns with the salvage operation and the county's part in it.

"You've created quite a health hazard near our homes," Sheppard said. He commented that he believes it is a misuse of county money to clean up the town and put the items next to their homes. "You're creating a nuisance and an eyesore; that should be enough to get you to move it somewhere else," Sheppard said.

"This decreases our property value out there. If some county official's homes were out there, this wouldn't be there," he said.

Allen talked about land contamination from Freon, gas and oil which might be spilled at the site and warned commissioners "that you're ultimately responsible for any contamination". Sale of parts off the cars and whether or not Mingo Perez has salvage rights to all the vehicles was questioned by Allen.

Allen did comment that "He (Perez) owns that piece of property. It's his right to do what he wants to there.'

In a letter to the court, Eddie Moore, Crockett County Road Superintendent, outlined the history of the county's association with the salvage

In December 1994 the commisment with Domingo Perez for the purpose of removing and storing junk vehicles that were removed from streets and roadways in Ozona. The agreement was to pay Perez $50.00 per unit. This was to cover cost of equipment and labor. Perez would store the units on his property and he could proceed with all salvage rights.

During the four and one-half year period of the agreement, Perez has removed 204 units from the streets of Ozona at a cost of $10,200.00.

Five years ago the cost to remove units to a location east of town that was in conjunction with the landfill was $100.00 per unit. This was done by county employees and county equipment. The county also fenced in the 25 acre area with labor and material costs and agreed to maintain the landowner's road to the ranch living quarters. This agreement was quite costly due to equipment and labor, Moore said. In 1994 after reconstruction of the road, the county was asked to remove all vehicles and clean the area at the request of the landowner. For two years after removal of all units, the county continued to spray the area and pick bitterweed.

When the county opened the collection center on 14th Street, Mingo Perez agreed to take the white metal

"I think this savings alone justifies the cost of the fence material that Mingo requested in order that he rials for an eight foot fence across the might stay in business with the county front of the property and 125 feet providing a licensed salvage facility," said Moore. "This would keep costs the same as has been the last four and mainder of the area. one-half years."

Commissioners directed Moore Angelo to help alleviate the problem. Cost of crushing the metal is $20.00 per ton now and the metal only brings $5.00 per ton, down from a previous $42.00, giving no incentive for crushing the already stacked material.

Notification by Mary Joan Hearne, fixed base operator at Ozona Municipal Airport, that she will not be renewing her contract at the end of March was the basis for one agenda item at commissioner's court March 8. Mrs. Hearne is retiring after more than 25 years at the airport, and Charles McCleary is buying the Hearne fuel business.

The agreement between the county and Mrs. Hearne is basically the contract drawn in 1973, commissioners learned. Then they began to discuss possible modifications of this lease agreement and the time frame necessary for making changes. County Attorney Bill Mason, who was asked by the court to work on an agreement, said there is no way the contract can be ready by the end of March.

After some spirited haranguing, commissioners voted to enter a basic contract with McCleary for one year or less than one year if a new contract becomes available. This will allow time to work out various scenarios for the Ozona airport operation and enable Judge Sutton to obtain copies of contracts between airport operators in other places where the facility is owned by a governmental body.

The contract is to be placed on the May agenda.

11th and 14th

McCleary has resigned from the airport board. John L. Henderson will be interim president of the board.

At the beginning of the discussion, Rob Whitesides, who is chamber chairman, discussed with the court the chamber's vision for the airport. Whitesides, who has talked with several people involved with the airport, said the chamber plans a letter writing campaign to inform different companies around the country of the advantages of establishing businesses at Ozona's airport.

He and other chamber directors believe Ozona Municipal Airport can become an economic enterprise and is an asset well-worth promoting.

Ozona Municipal Airport can handle up to a 40,000 pound limit. "There are only 17 non-military airports in the state that can handle what we can," said Judge Sutton.

Representative Turner joint authors bill to prevent frivolous lawsuits

Rep. Bob Turner, D-Voss, moved forward last week the most significant piece of private property rights legislation since the Private Property Rights Act of 1995, and threw his support behind a bill to prevent frivolous lawsuits against firearm and ammunition manufacturers.

H.B. 430 gives private property owners the right to be involved with the planning of any regional plan to protect an endangered species, and ensures private property owners have certain assurances they will be justly compensated for their property under any such plan. No legislation since the passage of S.B. 14 in 1995 gives private property owners guaranteed rights to protect themselves from a government action.

This bill was the first piece of legislation reported from a committee of the Texas House of Representatives this legislative session. "I think it is terrific that the Land and Resource Management Committee felt the protections H.B. 430 provides private property owners were so significant that this bill is the first bill they voted out of the committee," Turner continued, "Now we have to get to work on getting the bill to the floor of the House for a vote.'

On Tuesday, Feb. 23, Rep. Turner filed legislation along with Rep. Susanna Hupp, R-Lampasas, to prevent governmental entities, such as cities, from filing certain types of lawmanufacturers. "To date the cities of Chicago, Atlanta, New Orleans, and Bridgeport, Connecticut have filed what I consider to be frivolous lawsuits. They argue that gun and ammupeople shooting one another. I don't know how you could file a lawsuit more frivolous," Turner stated.

H.B. 1716 provides that a governmental unit in Texas cannot file a lawsuit against gun or ammunition manufacturers unless they have the consent of the Texas Legislature. However, a governmental unit, such as a police department, may file suit for a breach of contract or if the weapon or ammunition was defective. The legislation also doesn't prevent individuals from filing a lawsuit. "It is the intent of Rep. Hupp and me to prevent a "tobacco industry-style lawsuit" against gun manufacturers. I can't understand holding the manufacturer liable for an individual's choice to harm another individual with a fire- Pinewood Derby. He was not. arm," mused Rep. Turner.

The Continuing War on Drugs

This country is at war. For years we have been waging a war against the arrogant drug traffickers crossing our southwest border. The fight to halt drugs and stop drug runners from crossing our borders never seems to end. As federal, state and local governments continue to come up with ways to put a stop to drug smugglers, these criminals seems to find other ways to get illegal drugs across our border.

The Texans in my congressional district are on the front lines of this battle. Ranchers all along the southwest border from Presidio to Eagle Pass to Laredo, know the effects of this war all too well. Drug lords brazenly cut down farmers' and ranchsuits against firearm and ammunition ers' fences even while neighbors are chatting in backyards and children are playing. Their lives and property are at stake in this showdown.

We must understand that drug runners are a direct and violent attack nition manufacturers are liable for on our nation and our youth. Many in Washington are reluctant to realize this war is not just about handing out flyers and making speeches. It is about protecting our borders and our people and putting away drug traffickers.

> Dennis Hastert, the Speaker of the House, understands the unique problems we face in Texas in curbing the flow of illegal drugs across our border. Hastert, the former chairman of last year's anti-drug task force, led a congressional delegation Correction please...

It was incorrectly stated in the Feb. 3 issue of The Stockman that Preston Tebbetts was a part of the

to the Texas/Mexico border. Their mission was to identify the drug trafficking problems border towns face.

Hastert, and other members of the task force, met with border residents who have been terrorized by drug smugglers. With those first-hand accounts, we helped give the task force a good, hard look at the serious challenges law enforcement officials face in stopping illegal drug trafficking along the border. As the Speaker of the House. Hastert continues to be dedicated to waging a serious war against illicit drugs and drug smuggling.

Hastert has announced that he is forming a Drug-Free American Working Group for this Congress. This working group will pick up where we left off last Congress and continue our commitment to deter the insatiable appetite Americans have for drugs and stop the supply.

Clearly, keeping an eye on every inch of the border is an uphill battle. But we can and must win the war against drugs in this country. We cannot continue to allow our children's lives to be threatened. This country has never backed down from a challenge, and we cannot start now. It's just too important.

Mike Ledoux - Cook of the Week

Cook of the Week Mike Ledoux shares several recipes from his native Louisiana. Born in Opelousas, Mike learned to cook at a very young age. "Mama made sure all us kids knew how to cook," said Mike.

He remembers standing in a chair to cook and cooking for his father and sister once while his mother was in the hospital.

"It's fun, it takes time, and you've got to put the TLC in it along with all the other stuff," says Mike of cooking. "You've got to stand at the stove to do it right."

Mike is married to Ozonan Louise Perner Ledoux. "I'm so glad we made our home in Ozona," said Mike. "I love living here in Ozona; I just wish there was more work here instead of having to work out of Houston."

Mike owns a truck and flatbed trailer and does hauling out of Houston into Louisiana and the Rio Grande Valley. He has seen a great deal of the world while working on his brother's seagoing tug. "I was engineer and cook," says Mike with a laugh. "We'd go all over: Venezuela, Brazil, Costa Rica, Jamaica, Aruba, and all up and down the east coast of the United States." A A Value Lata VAL

The Unity of the Bible read this in the very first book of the

By Dennis J. Prutow

The Bible is one book with one major message written over a period of 1600 years. The unity of the Bible is one of its marvels. The patriarch Abraham is a prime example. God gave Abraham a tremendous promise. "In you all the families of the earth will be blessed" (Genesis 12:3). The Bible says, "Then he believed in the Lord; and He reckoned it to him as righteousness" (Genesis 15:6). We

Old Testament of the Bible. Abraham becomes a model for New Testament believers. The apostle Paul teaches, "The Scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the Gentiles by faith, preached the gospel beforehand to Abraham, saying 'All the nations will be blessed in you" (Galatians 3:8). The ancient promise God gave Abraham is the gospel. God fulfilled this gospel promise by sending Christ into the world.

Those who believe the promise of God regarding Christ follow the example of Abraham. As Paul again says, "So then those who are of faith are blessed with Abraham, the believer" (Galatians 3:9). Not only so, "If you belong to Christ, then you are Abraham's descendants, heirs according to promise" (Galatians 3:29).

The gospel of Christ binds the Bible together. If you catch this theme, you see the Bible's unity. The Bible steps out of history into your heart

Crockett County Public Library has received a library technology advancement grant in the amount of $19,672.00 from the Telecommunications Infrastructure Fund Board, a state agency in Austin.

The grant will allow the library to purchase the necessary equipment to upgrade and extend its existing Internet resources. Grant funds will be used to purchase workstations, networking hardware, ISP costs and other related telecommunications costs to assist the library in incorporating high-speed Internet access as a research, communications and information delivery tool.

"78" - This is not someone's age, but it is the number on the ticket that Leroy Adcock won with at the Permian Basin Square and Round Dance Festival on Saturday, Feb. 27. He won 100 raffle tickets for the June raffle in Corpus Christi. When asked how he felt about winning, Leroy said, "I was excited ..., speechless..., surprised ...!"

Carol Adcock and Raul and Maria De La Rosa also attended this dance, and they all had a great time. The callers were Ken Burks and Marshall Flippo.

Saturday, March 13, will be the "graduation" dance for the Levis and Lace square dance students. The student dancers will receive their certificate of accomplishment and their name tags

There will be an officers' meeting before the 8:00 p.m. dance. The Levis and Lace will be hosting their "anniversary" dance on April 9 and 10 at the civic center. The callers will be Bill Prichard from Eagle Pass and

Roy Lombard from Del Rio.

On Friday, the dancing will begin at 8:00 p.m., and there will be soup served. On Saturday, there will be a workshop from 2:00 to 4:30 p.m., barbecue will be served at 5:30 p.m., and the "Grand March" will begin at 7:45 p.m.

A "honey pot" will be raffled off each night, and door prizes will be raffled on Saturday.

Tickets for the June raffle are still being sold, but not for long. They're only $1.00 a piece, and the prizes are great ones. And just like Leroy, this could be your big chance to win your first prize ever.

The Levis and Lace square dance members would like to invite the community to come and enjoy the fun, food and festivities.

If you can sing, dance, play music, read poetry, do tricks, have a trained animal or act, then you could . be a star.

If you would like to enter in the talent show you can contact the library at 392-3565 or any Friends officer. However, the deadline to register is Wednesday, March 17.

Crockett County Librarian Louise Ledoux said, "We hope to showcase as many kids and young adults as possible. We have so many alented people in Ozona, and we want to encourage everyone to participate and come out and see the show." Mrs. Ledoux further stated, "Although the Ozona track meet will be during the show, we encourage people to attend both events since the civic center is across the street from the track."

This year's talent show is sure to be a show stopper. The Library Sisters will make their grand debut since last year. They found stardom in the 1998 Friends of the Library Variety Talent Show and have become a very

As part of the care center report 03/08/99 Parkhurst, Michael from Jim Bob Roddie, administrator, commissioners learned that there are currently 46 residents and one respite care patient at the center. The health clinic reported 881 visits in February, which is higher than the plus or minus 700 average. There were 900 patient visits in January.

An agenda item to approve/deny right-of-way fencing on County Road 204 was tabled pending determination of funds remaining after another right-of-way project is completed.

Judge Sutton updated the court on 911 enhancement. Money set aside for Crockett County for the equipment remains at Concho Valley Council of Governments and will for 18 to 24 months, Sutton said. The equipment indicates the calling number, address, location and existing health problems, Sutton said, but the county would have to be mapped in order to get the equipment.

The enhancement system would require an added three people on the county payroll, which amounts to an estimated $93,000.00 including salary and benefits, Sutton said. The county would be responsible for 25% of the mapping costs, also.

Judge Sutton suggested that the court look at the subject again in about a year.

The court was also updated on plans for the courthouse grounds and informed of Ozona Garden Club's request to be allowed to place potted plants outside at West Texas Rehab Center.

Written reports were received from Sheriff Shane Fenton, Fire Chief Bob Falkner, Civic and Youth Center Director Garland Young and Helping Hands coordinator Janet McDaniel.

The fire department report included a list of non-department members who had been approved to assist as needed. This formal approval will permit the specified individuals to be covered by the insurance when they help on runs.

Wildflower hotline available

Motorists searching for the best wildflower locations along Texas highways will soon have help at their fingertips.

"The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) will operate a wildflower hotline beginning Feb. 25," according to Patsy Maddux, the San Angelo District's Public Information Officer. The toll-free hotline, 800-452-9292, will provide callers with automated information on the best locations for wildflowers along the 77,000-mile Texas highway system.

The hotline information comes from TxDOT's maintenance employees around the state and includes wildflower information from cities, chambers of commerce and parks officials.

While finding the best wildflowers is as easy as picking up the phone, it is too early to predict the overall quality of the year's wildflowers, according to one wildflower expert.

"Wildflower plants are developing roots now," said Herb Neimann, TxDOT's director of landscape design. "We really need some rain soon across much of the state, or the flowers we get will be smaller than usual. We still have time, but the sooner the better

"We want the wildflowers to grow and be enjoyed," Neimann said. "Taking a drive to view spring wildflowers is pretty much a Texas tradition. Hopefully, it will be a good show year, but we need some rain."

Life At Tech

We E-mailed Amber Tarr some questions on life at Texas Tech and how her team there compared to the team she was on

When asked about life at Tech.

Tarr said," life at Texas Tech or any other college is what you make of it. If you want to have fun and go dancing then there are plenty of minor dance clubs that seem to be the happening place.

There are also many organizations you can join to keep you busy. As for me I have basketball which consumes my time but hey it pays for my schooling and it's also what I love." Tarr say's that she likes the fact that Tech is a major college, but that it's in Lubbock, which is not as big as Dallas, unbelievable how big the classes are, for instance one of my classes has 300 people in it,"

Tarr implied. When asked about basketball Tarr said," as far as my new team, I really like my teammates and coaching staff, of course it could never match up to my fellow Lady Lions and Coach

Faught, but it's a close second place. As far as my role on the team. I would definitely like to see more playing time, but I understand that I need this year to learn the system. I just work hard in practice everyday with a goal to get better with every practice. I also respect the other players on the team and feel like

I have some of the best models to learn form." We would like to

I WAS EATING PIZZA WITH MY FRIENDS. I GOT UP TO GO GET SOMETHING TO DRINK. WELL, WHEN I GOT BACK I SAT DOWN ON A PIZZA MY FRIEND LEFT ON MY CHAIR. THEY WERE ALL LAUGHING, AND I HAD A BIG GREASE STAIN ON MY BUTT, SO I HAD TO GO HOME TO CHANGE.

TOILET PAPER I HAD BEEN WALKING

DOWN THE HALLS AROUND ALL DAY, AND I NOTICED PEOPLE LAUGHING AT ME. FINALLY AT THE END OF THE DAY A FRIEND WALKED UP AND TOLD ME" YOU HAVE A PIECE OF TOILET PAPER ON YOUR JEANS" IT TURNED OUT ONE OF MY CLASSMATES TAPED A PIECE OF TOILET PAPER TO MY JEANS. IT WAS KIND OF LATE, BUT I'M GLAD MY FRIEND TOLD ME. IT WAS EMBARRASING SINCE I WALKED AROUND SCHOOL ALL DAY LIKE THAT.

SPLASHED IT HAD RAINED ALL DAY

SO IT THERE WERE PUDDLES EVERYWHERE. I WAS WALKING TO THE STORE WITH MY FRIEND AND SOME CAR WENT BY RUNNING OVER THIS PUDDLE. WE GOT SPLASHED BIG TIME. IT WAS SOME GUYS AND THEY STOPPED AND YELLED "SORRY" AND DROVE OF. WE FELT REAL STUPID STANDING THERE ALL SPLASHED, AND THE FREAKS JUST DROVE OF.

THE RIDE

I WAS AT THE CARNAVAL WITH MY COUSINS. I HAD GOTTEN ON ALL THESE RIDES AND I WAS FEELING PRETTY DIZZY. I STILL WANTED TO GET ON SOME RIDES SO'I GOT ON THE NEXT RIDE. WELL HALF WAY THROUGH THE RIDE I WASN'T FEELING GOOD, AND I THREW UP AL! OVER THIS GIRL SITTING BESIDE ME. SHE WAS DISGUSTED, AND I JUST WANTED TO GET OUT OF THERE AND GO HOME. IT CALLER WAS REAL EMBARRASSING.

ons Koar It can happen to anybody

> I met this guy once. I didn't think that he would mean this much to me. At first I thought it was just a guy to like. My best friend introduced us to each other. We started calling each other and then eventually we stared going out and stuff. This relationship was a long distance one so we could only see each other on weekends. We went out for eight months and we broke up for some stupid reason, I don't even remember why we broke up, it was something about being jealous all the time. Well, anyway I had gotten so attached to this guy from the eight months that we went out so when we broke up I felt like part of me was gone. I cried endless nights, I had always put him first for the eight months we were together, and when he left there was nothing to do but think about the way things "used to be". Yes, I know that you are supposed to try to move on but I just couldn't find another guy just like him. He was it for me. Well after a month and a half of crying and feeling down, we got together on a summer day and we hooked back up again. I was the happiest girl in the world. I got what I wanted and I was happy. This time I wasn't going to let him go! Anyways one night we were just kicking back at his house, there were no parents no brothers or sisters, so I guess you can tell what was one his mind. (Of course he is a guy so yes he was thinking about it.) I felt like I wasn't ready to go that far into a relationship, I was only 16 and I was scared. In my mind I thought that if I didn't do what he wanted to do I would lose him again, so of course I went along with him. That was my biggest mistake ever. We were both young and had no idea what we were getting into, we weren't in love or anything, we were only a guy and a girl who thought that doing that one thing made us a couple, you know like the almost married couple but of course we were very far from that. Well guess what happened to me, of course I ended up pregnant. I didn't find out until my third month. My sister took me to a clinic and when the test came out positive, all I could do was crv because I didn't know what I was going to do. How could I be a mother to another child when I could barely take care of myself? How could I raise a kid, how would I tell my mom and dad, how would my boyfriend react? All these questions were going around in my head. Well I decided to tell my boyfriend first since this was "ours", but when I told him I could not believe the answer he gave me! He had told me that the baby wasn't his! Yeah right, of course it was his I told him. He said he didn't believe me and that he thought that we needed time apart from each other so he decided for us to break up. That was the worst thing that he could have done to me, leave me alone when I needed him the most. What was I going to do know? I was left alone. I didn't know how I was going to break this down to my mom, she always told me not to ever get into this situation, but stupid me always going out and doing just the opposite of what mom says just to be "cool". Well, I told my mom and of course she went nuts. She yelled for a long time telling me I was stupid and immature and telling me that I was going to have to do this all on my own because I was the only one who got myself into this mess. When my mom told my dad and the rest of my family my dad cried and so did the rest of my family. I guess they just saw me and felt real sorry for me I guess. Everyone was disappointed in me, I was supposed to be the "smart" one in the family and her I go and pull this stunt. I know this is going to sound stupid but I still loved my boyfriend after he just left me alone. I know it sounds crazy to feel that way but that's the way I felt. I didn't have anyone to turn to now, my parents and family told me I had to do this on my own since I had gotten myself into this mess. The only person that I could turn to was my best friend that introduced me to him. Thank god that my best friend was there for me. She let me stay with her in her house and her parents told me that I could stay there as long as I needed. Well it ended up that I did have to stay with my friend for about two months, then one day after school my parents picked me up and they said that we needed to talk. We talked things over, they told me that I was welcome back to my home and that they would help me out. They were still upset but I guess they loved me enough to let be be a part of them again. I was so happy I had my family back to help me out. I moved out of my best friends' house, I will always be thankful to my friend. Well anyways I ended up staying with my parents and I had my baby, I named her Julie, after about two weeks that she was born, her daddy came to visit her and it was very obvious that the baby was his cause she looked just like him. Whenever he saw her his eyes were so gleamy and I guess he finally realized what a jerk he had been to me, and he just started crying and telling me that he loved me so much and he was so sorry for what he had done to me. He told me that he thought that we should try to work things out again, I didn't know what to say. I mean this guy left me when I needed him the most and I went through everything by myself. Where was he when I was going through all this pain? Why does he care now? But all I could see was my baby girl and all I could think about was her future. She needed a mommy and a daddy; it wouldn't be fair to only have one. I told my boyfriend that he caused me a lot of pain when he just left me but that I still had feelings for him. He said that we should start working things out before we made any major decision. Well we took things slowly and things worked out great. We ended up getting together again and we were a family and as for my family they loved Julie to death. At first this situation was rough but we all made it through. If I had to do this over again I wouldn't have gotten myself in this situation, yes it turned out good, but if I could have waited to do this all over again I would have waited a little bit longer to have a child. Debbi Pucket - Alright, but parents also need some involvement.

Maria Ortiz - It is cool, I don't have any problems with it.

Steven Martinez - I think everyone should learn the consequences and responsibilities. From personal experiences.

Kim Miller - I would prefer to teach my children myself.

Anthony Oritz – Pretty Good

Doris Hood - I think that the reproductive process should be taught as a science and other matters or sex should be taught at home.

Ricky Dominguez - I think it benefits the kinds because all the pregnant teens.

Kink (Albert) - I think it is important to learn about Ernie. Sex the right way. It was too late for some of us. I think it is cool.

Marcus and Zeke - If they want to do it let them do it.

The school year is almost over and the new one will soon be here. Have you registered yet? The sooner, the better. Remember choosing your classes depends on what diploma you want to receive. Make your choices wisely. If you seem to be confused or have questions ask a teacher or Coach McWilliams.

We are back to school once again after our Spring Break. Seemingly so short time seems to fly by but just think school will soon be over.

If you have any wild or exciting stories or adventures that happened to you during Spring Break, don't be shy write them down and give them to Stephanie Maskill. Some people don't have a life and have to read others.

OHS WANNABES BY LUIS AND ANTHONY

What is alcoholism? Alcoholism is a disease developed over time. Many people take this as a joke. Including many people we know. This is a subject that hits close to home. How do you know when you are taking it too far? Well here are some hints: when you drink by yourself, when you drink on your school lunch break, when you drink all week and weekend long, when you care less and less about your health, when you just put off your family and school work. What leads to alcoholism: depression, boredom, weak self esteem, peer pressure, and just trying to be a part of certain group. There is a difference between being an alcoholic and just partying. When you start to mess up in public and could careless about it, you are probably on the way to an alcoholic problem. We have seen many of these cases and have experienced them first hand. Now days at school we hear more and more about how people go out and have a good time. This may seem like it is something fun to do, but when you sober up and look deeper into the subject to see how stupid the whole thing really is. There is plenty of time to do this after school, and there are plenty of other things to do. One of the dumbest things that people do is when they claim to be alcoholics. No one at this school is an alcoholic they are just wannabes who know nothing about having a real good time. What we are trying to say in this article is that drinking is bad and it only leads to problems. So next time you think about going out partying and bragging about it, remember this article. Then come ask us how stupid you really are. If you're going to go out and have a good time that's fine, but keep it to yourself. People may say that we are contradicting ourselves, but remember this article is from experience.

Career of the Week

You know, the first time that I saw my sister with braces, I totally freaked. I started asking all sorts of questions ranging from how did the dentist put the braces on to how did he get the rubber bands in her mouth. These are very interesting questions to me and probably are to some people who are seeking a career in dentistry. There are many opportunities in this field for you and for many others as well. Most dentists have to have an ADA certification. Candidates must have graduated from an ADA accredited school and pass a written and practical examinations after completing four years of dental school. Although, Dentists must have certain requirements for their educational purposes, they must have a sense of humor to put their patients at ease and to deflect the poor morale that can stem from patients' uneasiness. All 50 states and the District of Columbia require dentist to be licensed. Their education requires four years of dental school, the last two years of which are spent treating patient, usually in clinics under the supervision of licensed dentists. The average starting pay of a dentist is 55,000, after five years 100,000 and after 10 years 200,000. A dentist must work at 40 hours a week. Most dentists have a D.D.S or D.M.D degree (American Dental Association Accreditation). The following Undergrad Majors are available, Anatomy, Biology, Chemistry, and Physics. Most dentists have great personalities that include being compassionate, patient and comforting. Baylor College of Dentistry, University of Texas Dental Branch At Houston, and University of Texas at San Antonio are a dental schools in Texas that are available to close to you.

Burndowns Get Cotton Growers Off to a Clean Start

When the time comes to plant cotton, weeds may have established a strong hold in your fields. Not only can it be weeds, but their presence also has an adverse effect on the growth of a new cotton crop. The competition created by weeds results in reduced stands and vields that don't meet potential profit.

To maintain clean cotton fields. you should eliminate those early growing weeds well in advance of planting. Then eliminating weeds at planting time will get your cotton off to a quick, clean start.

TOUCHDOWN[®] and GRAMOXONE® EXTRA herbicides give cotton growers a powerful 1-2 burndown punch. With its powerful systemic action. Touchdown delivers better early preplant performance than ever on tough annual and perennial grasses and broadleaf weeds. Meanwhile Gramoxone Extra gives a fast, effective kill of grasses and broadleaves at planting time.

Use Touchdown on actively growing weeds at least 35 days prior to planting of rotational crops like cotton. Sulfosate, the active ingredient in Touchdown, will begin to turn leaves yellow in just four to seven days, much faster than herbicides with the active ingredient glyphosate. Touchdown herbicide translocates through plants from leaves and stems all the way down to the roots for a faster burndown.

For an effective burndown at planting, apply Gramoxone Extra to emerged weeds that are 1 to 6 inches tall. With the addition of a nonionic surfactant or crop oil concentrate, Gramoxone Extra desiccates weeds in just 24 to 48 hours

To keep cotton fields clean of weeds, improve your crop's potential and enhance your bottom line, use Touchdown and Gramoxone Extra for a powerful burndown program. For more information, contact your local ag chem dealer.

U.S. sheep industry asks ITC for four years of market stability

U.S. Sheep industry leaders told the U.S. International Trade Commission (ITC) that four years of market stability - through the placement of a temporary tariff-rate quota - will give the industry the necessary capital and confidence to combat the surge of cheap imported lamb meat.

The domestic industry proposed imposing a 30 percent tariff on imports of low-priced lamb meat up to 40 million pounds per year. Above that level, industry leaders strongly recommended placing a 50 percent tariff on imported lamb meat. The 40million-pound threshold is roughly equal to 1995 import levels, before the current surge in cheap imported lamb meat.

This remedy will provide the lamb meat industry with the revenues needed to improve the efficiency of its operations and the confidence in the market to invest in the industry. Yet, at the same time, it permits imports to serve the U.S. at price levels that do not injure the domestic industry," said Peter Orwick, executive director of the American Sheep Industry Association.

Import companies and representatives of the New Zealand and Australian sheep industries proposed an alternative remedy - "trade adjustment assistance" - that generated more questions than answers as the commissioners tried to pin down specifics of the proposal.

The all-day hearing in Washington, D.C. Feb. 25 focused on what kind of trade relief the commission should recommend to the White House, which will make the final decision on the Section 201 trade action against lamb meat imports. The case was filed in September 1998 by an industry coalition, led by the American Sheep Industry Association, of feeders, lamb packing and processing companies and associations

The commission ruled unanimously, 6-0, on Feb. 9 that the deluge of imported lamb meat seriously threatens the domestic market. The commission is scheduled to vote March 29 on the recommended trade relief to send to the White House. After receiving the recommendation, the President has 60 days to approve, modify or deny it.

Representatives of all segments of the U.S. lamb industry told the commissioners about efforts begun years ago in the name of competitiveness - efforts that will be wasted if the surge of imported lamb meat drives the industry out of business.

Imports now make up nearly one-third of the domestic market and comparisons of imported and domestic lamb meat have found that imports undercut domestic products nearly 80 percent of the time by margins of 20 percent to 40 percent, but sometimes as high as 70 percent. Between 1993 and 1997, the quantity of lamb meat imported to the U.S. - nearly all from Australia and New Zealand - increased 47 percent, from 40.1 million pounds to 60.4 million pounds, according to an investigation by the ITC. Imports during the first 11 months of 1998 soared 26 percent over the same time period in 1997 and the ITC reported that Australian and New Zealand producers are poised to boost lamb exports by another 20 percent to 30 percent in 1999.

As the level of imports skyrocketed, prices for lambs plunged 40 percent between spring 1997 and December 1998. In some parts of the U.S. last fall, growers with lambs to sell couldn't get a single quote.

That crippling financial crash must be corrected and the market stabilized for the industry to regain its feet and become competitive, industry leaders told the commissioners.

They outlined many plans contained in the adjustment plan the in- ter Orwick, executive director, Coke dustry filed with the commission as part of the 201 case. Included in the tion; Paul Rodger, ASI's director of plan - and in the testimony - were Animal Health, Product Safety and efforts in genetic improvements to sheep, increasing carcass weight and yield, increasing lambing ratios, the move to "easy-care" sheep breeds, new technologies and production processes and industry alliances. "There are a number of sheep breeding stock producers that have the seedstock genetically qualified to greatly enhance the quantity and quality of U.S. lamb production. The genetics are available; we only need a sheep industry that has the financial ability to take advantage of these offerings," said John Etchepare, of Warren Livestock Company, a sheep breeder with lands in Wyoming and Colorado.

Pierce Miller, chairman of the National Sheep Industry Improvement Center, told the commissioners that the center can be a useful tool to the industry, but that it isn't an alternative to trade relief. Created by Congress in 1996, the center will offer grants and loans to improve the industry. The commissioners also heard about the Business Development Council, a creation of the new, industry-wide organization that will deal with promotion and marketing efforts.

Witnesses representing the domestic industry were: Pierce Miller, Crockett County sheep producer and chairman of the National Sheep Industry Improvement Center; Charles Parker, executive director, U. S. Sheep Seedstock Alliance; Cindy Siddoway, Idaho sheep producer and ASI vice-president; John Etchepare, Wyoming and Colorado sheep producer; Bill Salina, National Lamb Feeders Association vice president and owner of Salina Traders Inc.; Brian May, secretary-treasurer of Ranchers' Lamb of Texas Inc.; Paul Rosenthal, counsel, Collier, Shannon, Rill & Scott; Brad Hudgens, Georgetown Economic Services; Pe- DIST American Sheep Industry Associa-

EQIP ranking deadlines set

The Natural Resources Conservation Service has set the ranking deadlines for the 1999 Environmental Quality Incentive Program (EQIP). The first ranking deadline for the 1999 program year is March 31, 1999, and a second ranking deadline is set for July 1, 1999. Applications from individual landowners interested in participating in the EQIP during the 1999 program year received before March 31 will be ranked after the July 1, 1999, deadline. Producers who did not qualify for the EQIP program during the March 31 ranking period may request a deferment from their local Farm Services Agency (FSA) office and be eligible to be re-ranked during the July 1 ranking period. It should be noted that applications received after the July 1 deadline, as part of the EOIP continuous program sign-up provisions, will be held until the 2000 program year ranking period.

Private landowners should be aware that EQIP provides technical, to eligible farmers and ranchers to address soil, water and related natural resource concerns on their lands in an environmentally beneficial and cost-effective manner. EQIP is a voluntary program and is designed to assist farmers and ranchers with placing natural resource conservation practices on their property. Cost share is provided to program participants to achieve the goals of a conservation plan designed with the assistance of local NRCS staff.

Eligible practices will depend on the location of the farm or ranch on which the practice is to be installed and the major resource concern to be addressed in that particular area. Information on eligible cost shares practices and major resource concerns of an area can be secured from your local NRCS field office. Contracts for eligible producers are made for a period of five to ten years. It should be noted that program funds target natural resource concerns of farmers, as well as, livestock producers.

To learn more about EQIP or to submit an EQIP contract application, educational and financial assistance contract the NRCS office in Ozona at 392-2301.
