Visitor Center goes to contract

By SHANON BIGGERSTAFF
 Chamber Executive Director

The Ozona Visitor Center was bid for the second time on May 12. Although there were nine different contractors interested in the project, only three actually bid. It was unanimous. The Ozona Visitor Center Committee and Chamber of Commerce board voted to accept the low bid received from Templeton Construction of San Angelo at $1,133,000.

The decision was then communicated to the Texas Department of Transportation in Austin who officially awarded the contract to Templeton Construction on May 27. The project is due to break ground mid to the latter part of July.

"We are very excited to finally get started on this project," said Shanon Biggerstaff, Chamber Executive Director. The chamber submitted a nomination to the TxDOT State-wide Enhancement 2001 Program Call in June of that year. Recipients were notified that funding was to be awarded for the project in January 2002. In 2002, for a number of reasons, the chamber elected to raise funds to hire an architect. In 2003 the chamber and the hired architect finalized the design of the Visitor Center. The project was bid the first time in January 2004. Funding available

Unique ranching ideas and a look at the West Texas countryside were part of an all-day experience this weekend.

People from all around the country visited the David West Station for Holistic Management Saturday for the West Ranch Field Day. The ranch is part of The Savory Center and Holistic Resource Management of Texas Inc.

During the day, participants enjoyed bird watching, exploring the terrain and learning about different projects and decisions being made on the ranch.

One of the morning activities featured the ranch's intern from Mexico, Janice Ramirez-Castro, demonstrating the new Skid Steer Loader being used to clear brush in order to build new fence lines.

"It's faster to cut it this way," said Joe Maddox who is in charge of ranch operations.

Electric fences are being put up in order to section off the livestock at the ranch for grazing. The animals on the ranch consist of 120 head of cattle and 600 head of hair sheep.

Commissioners discuss bump gate on county road

By MELISSA PERNER
 Editor and Publisher

For nine years, there has been a bump gate on County Road 108.

After the Crockett County Commissioners voted to classify that road a Class 2 in February, the bump gate had to come down and a cattle guard had to go up.

Sally Oglesby said she was surprised to see this happen. Oglesby's property is along the part of the road where the bump gate was.

"As a property owner, I would really like an explanation of what happened," she said during Monday's commissioners' court meeting. "When I talked to my commissioner I didn't know this was going to happen."

The legislature passed a bill during the last full session that stated all county roads have to be classified.

Crockett County Judge Johnny Jones said that when the roads were classified in February, the road was classified a Class 2 which does not allow bump gates.

Commissioner Frank Tambunga apologized for not returning Oglesby phone call about the situation.

County Attorney Bill Mason said the roads had to be defined for everybody as a matter of equality.

"You can't just give one person one treatment and the next person a different treatment," Mason said. "It's going to work a hardship and everyone knows that."

"We're putting a lot of hardship on her and its probably unjustified," said Eddie Moore, county road supervisor. "I know it's going to cost the county, but it was a mandate for us to classify the roads."

Jones said the county would look at including the cost to provide fencing and lanes for the road for next year's budget.

Commissioners approved the reorganization of the trapping program.

County Extension Agent Miles Dabovich said that the trapping board wants to reorganize by cutting back from four to three trappers, keep the same amount in the budget and use extra funding the supplement trappers more.

The supplement would be about $500 per trapper a month, raising the salaries to around $1,500 to $1,600 a month, Dabovich said.

Also, the board wanted to have more accountability with the trappers on a local basis, he said.

The commissioners approved using the south field at the north baseball complex for the new high school girls' softball program next year.

Ray Don Myers, maintenance supervisor for Crockett County Consolidated Common School District, said that some im-

What's on My Mind

By Melissa Perner

The perfect drive ending a not-so perfect week

Heading home Saturday night, I believe I experienced the "perfect" West Texas drive. On my left there was a perfectly, beautiful rainbow. This was not just half a rainbow, but a completely, round, whole rainbow. The colors were so bright I could easily see the red, orange, yellow, green, blue and indigo glowing immensely. Since moving to Ozona, I have seen several rainbows, but never in my life have I seen a perfect, semi-circle rainbow like this one. It really made me think of God's promise and why the rainbow is there to begin with. What a calming affect. In front of me, rain is pouring down on my windshield. Not only was the rain gently falling, there was also that "rain smell" in the air. Those of us in West Texas know this smell. To me it's the best smell in the world. Then, on my left, is another gorgeous sunset, painting the entire scenery with red, gold and orange hues. Only in West Texas can you have these three beautiful scenes of Mother Nature at one time. To me this was the perfect ending to a not quite so perfect week. It started off Monday when I walked into my office, reached for a cold Diet Coke out of the small refrigerator in the back and discovered it wasn't cold. That's right, the frig had died. All coldness was gone. No problem, I thought. I have to go to San Angelo on Friday; I will just pick up a new one. The week then climaxed on Wednesday when I received the scariest phone call of my life. Paul had called me to tell me he had been in a car wreck. Luckily, everyone was okay, but it was the longest drive of my life heading back to town to pick him up. Here's the short version: a man ran a stop sign, Paul's pickup ran into his trailer, the man's trailer flipped and Paul's pickup is severely damaged. Like I said, he's lucky to be okay. He was depressed over the pickup, but I reminded him it can be replaced and he head can't. Friday finally came. All of my errands went well in San Angelo, until it came time to look for a new refrigerator. Four different stores, until I finally found one. I didn't realize that this was the hot season for small refrigerators. Needless to say, I was ready for something relaxing. That's how I felt this Saturday night drive was. As I turn west to head home, the rainbow has disappeared and I'm beginning to experience another one of nature's exciting rituals. Lighting is streaking across the dark sky in multiple patterns. Normally, I would be scared of this, but I find this evening's event fascinating and exciting. As Paul said, "it was those great spider web ones, instead of just one big bolt. It was the nice ones that break apart and spread across the entire sky." Yes, it was cool. When I pull up to the house, I open the door, pet my cat and then I see a stack of ugly, dirty laundry just waiting for me. Oh well, at least I had a perfect drive.

Great memories made at the movies

I had heard something around town about this outdoor movie deal. Wasn't to sure about it, but had to see it to believe. So I took my best gal with me to see this new fangled thing. It was something else! We paid for our tickets, drove in and took a spot right up front. We saw this red and white thing that looked like a tarp lying on the ground. Then all of a sudden, this thing started to grow! We started to hear music from the speakers, then we were told to tune in our radio to 101.1 FM so we could listen to it all in our truck. It was just like a drive in! Brought back fond memories of the good old days. Just like when I used to take my gal to the picture show. We sat back in our truck, tuned in the radio and watched the screen come to life. We saw others sitting on the grass in their chairs and on blankets. We saw kids playing and having fun while the movie was going on and it didn't seem to bother anyone. I turned to my wife and said, "This is wonderful. You can do your own thing, enjoy the movie, the park and the warm night air." She smiled and said, "Yes this is so very nice. This is such a great idea." So if you haven't been out to the movies in a long time or just want to take your best gal out for an enjoyable evening, you should try this new outdoor drive — in movie! I think you'll enjoy it just as much as we did and make great memories too. See ya at the movies, J. B. Tron

Students cash in with new Texas quarter

AUSTIN - The Legislature wasn't even in session, but Gov. Rick Perry was giving away money in Austin last week - a thousand school kids each got a commemorative Texas quarter at the Bob Bullock Texas State History Museum. Designed by Arlington artist Daniel Miller, the new coin features an outline of Texas partially overlaid by a raised five-point star, better known as the Lone Star. The Texas quarter is part of the U.S. Mint's 50-state series, each state being honored in the order of its admission to the Union. (Texas was No. 28.) Right now, the new quarters are worth only 25 cents, but just try to find one. Officially, the government will sell the coins for 10 weeks, but given the collectable nature of almost anything connected to Texas, they already seem scarce. A teller at one downtown Austin bank said they got only one bag of the new coins, and they were gone very soon after the bank opened that day. The free money Perry handed out didn't really come from the state. A bank donated the coins for the children. Speaking of the Leg... No word yet from Perry on when the next special session on the school finance issue will be, but the buzz is some time in mid-July. No Texas brag... No other state has more people in prison than Texas. Chamber to create new maps

During the March Chamber board meeting a map committee was formed to review proposals to produce a new city/county map. Board members Louise Ledoux, Sally Oglesby, Mack Richie and Debbie Long served on the committee.

The committee met and reviewed six different proposals and map styles. It was the goal of the committee to develop a map that is cost efficient, user friendly, effective, informative and a professional product in which the community can be proud.

The committee selected a small rack brochure style map that will include an updated city and county map, a street index, legend of points of interest, and information about the community. The company the committee chose to produce the new map is Liberty Marketing Company out of Arlington. The map will be a 11 x 22 folder brochure style map in red, white and blue.

The Chamber of Commerce has contracted with Liberty Marketing to produce a new city/county map. Liberty Marketing will contact local businesses and professionals to advertise around the bordering sides of the map. Those advertisers make the production of the map possible. The ads will range from $199.50 for a business card size, on up, depending on the ad size. Each business that advertises will receive 50 complimentary maps. The chamber and the county will receive 2,500 free maps. The chamber will provide the company with updated maps received from our local 911 office, points of interest, annual calendar of events, editorial information and pictures of the community for the map.

"We know there have been some problems in the past with map companies who have come to Ozona," said Shanon Biggerstaff, Chamber Executive Director. "We wanted to notify the community and local businesses that if they receive a phone call, this is a legitimate company working with the Chamber."

For information, call the Chamber of Commerce at 392-3737.

HAPPY FATHERS DAY

Ozona Senior Happenings

By LYNN ENGLISH
Senior Center Director

All attending enjoyed our pot luck last Wednesday. We especially enjoyed our program speaker Brigitte Rogers. She presented us with info about the new prescription cards that are being accepted by Medicare. Our next pot luck will be June 23. Our guest speaker will be Paula Miller who is a representative from the Concho Valley Area on Aging.

I just checked on our decorations and they should arrive Monday. I am anxious to get them put in place for all to enjoy. Surprise they just arrived.

There are at least two seniors with birthdays this week. Both on June 16 are Brigitte Rogers and Geniece Childress. Our best wishes go out to both of these ladies.

Jan St. Clair was here Wednesday. We were all glad to see her up and about, but she said that she still wasn't feeling very well. Jan, please keep getting better.

We learned today that Myra Nester was in San Angelo Community Hospital. We know that Myra hasn't felt well in quite some time. Get better soon and come back to be with us.

Saturday will be our Father's Day Social at the Crockett County Senior Center. We will serve free hamburgers. There will be games including washer pitching, horseshoe pitching, pool, dominoes and the Red Bandana Band will be playing music for those who would like to dance or just listen to the songs.

Coming soon to the Crockett County Senior Center will be an art exhibit by Jonny Johnson. Watch this column as to when and time the exhibit will be held.

The pool table is here waiting for some of you to come out and test your skills. We would like to have enough interested parties to work up a tournament.

Every Monday we play games from 1-4:30 p.m. and invite you and a friend to come out and play with us. Games that are available are bridge, dominoes and cards. You can also bring your own games. At 8:30 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, we have our "Walk A Mile" exercise class. One of our members said she has lost seven pounds since she began!

Our program is fun and easy, come walk with us.

Our activities are for those 50 years of age and above (we are flexible). Our building and happenings are alcohol and smoke free.

Please feel free to swing by the Senior Center or call if you have any new ideas. Our phone is 392-9094 or fax is 392-9095.

Do not gather and heap up and store up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust and worms consume and destroy and where thieves break through and steal.

But gather and heap up and store for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust nor worms consume and destroy, and where thieves do not break through and steal.

For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

16 Miles

They had just parked their mountain bikes (bicycles) and as I watched the two of them walking toward the shade I noticed that his father was limping. I spoke to them and they said they had been on a 16 mile bicycle run one way and were exhausted.

As I walked away I began to think about the sacrifices dad's make for their children. I think they are unnoticed and unsung heroes just like our past president that was laid to rest last week. I personally know the young father that took his son (I am not for sure who took who) on a bicycle run.

He takes his family to Church on Sunday and his family is involved there. To my knowledge he doesn't drink alcohol and doesn't smoke. I have never heard him curse (use profanity). No he isn't a CEO of a large company but he is faithful, honest, a hard worker and I never hear him complain. He is a dad!

This Sunday will be Father's day. Let's try to remember them. Maybe a cup of coffee or a breakfast or just a hug or a simple little thanks. Just as our father's loved us very much God loves us very much (John 3:16, Romans 5:8,9, and 1 John 3:1). Why not offer up a little prayer of thanksgiving?

See you in Church next Sunday.

Brother J

JANET PULLEN shows off her box turtle to a group of 3-5 year old children participating in the Crockett County Library's 2004 Texas Reading Club, "Color Your World...Read!" program Thursday outside the library. Pullen also showed off her tortoise Faith, who enjoyed munching on lettuce.

STATE OF TEXAS OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

Reading fosters a love of learning and establishes a foundation of academic and personal achievement, by stimulating the imagination, building verbal skills and encouraging analytical thinking.

Since 1959, the Texas Reading Club, sponsored by the Texas State Library and Archives Commission, has encouraged young Texans to participate in reading for pleasure, helped children maintain and improve reading skills, and encouraged them to be lifelong readers and library users, particularly during the summer months when school is out. The Texas Reading Club's 2004 theme — "Color Your World...Read!" — invites all children to explore multiculturalism, art, the environment and world folktales.

Reading is a treasured gift, which must be continuously emphasized if we are to set our children firmly on the path to lifelong success. To ensure a foundation of achievement, reading should be a focal point in homes, classrooms and communities across the Lone Star State.

At this time, therefore, I ask all Texans to join me in encouraging young Texans to participate in the Texas Reading Club program. Our children are making tremendous strides. Encouraging their love of reading will serve them well in tomorrow's Texas.

Therefore, I, Rick Perry, Governor of Texas, do hereby proclaim June 12, 2004, Texas Reading Club Day in Texas, and urge the appropriate recognition whereof. In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this the 1st day of June, 2004.

Ozona FFA members participate in Area II Convention at San Angelo

Five members of the Ozona FFA Chapter participated in the Area II FFA Convention held May 21 in San Angelo.

Members served as delegates and voted for state and area officers, as well as talent team performers.

Participation in such a convention allows students to witness and experience democratic processes in action. They are able to hear campaign speeches, competitions and listen to current state

FFA officers speak. All of this helps students live out the FFA Mission: to develop their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education and the FFA.

The Ozona FFA advisers, Terry Crawford and Patina Crowder, also participated in the convention by serving as judges for the Area II speaking event finals as well as selecting award and degree recipients.

Williams wins Buck Weirus Spirit Award

COLLEGE STATION - Tom Ben Williams of Ozona, a senior agribusiness major at Texas A&M University, was honored with a framed certificate and a watch for receiving the 2004 Buck Weirus Spirit Award.

The Buck Weirus Spirit Award honors 52 students who demonstrate high involvement, create positive experiences throughout the Aggie community, impact student life at Texas A&M and enhance the Aggie Spirit. Unlike other awards, the Buck Weirus Spirit Award recognizes those students who make contributions to the university by participation in student organizations, Aggie traditions and university events.

Middle school students take a bite out of the 'Big Apple'

OZONA MIDDLE SCHOOL STUDENTS and their sponsors pose in Times Square at New York City, after attending a performance of "Hairspray."

Twenty-two Ozona Middle School students and sponsors recently returned from a four-day, three-night trip to New York City.

The group's accommodations overlooked "Ground Zero" and the Hudson River in the Financial District. Members were sobered at the sight of the Twin Towers.

They also viewed the plans for the memorial that will be built at the sight.

The trip included a ferry ride to Liberty Island to view the Statue of Liberty. Another stop was Ellis Island, through which 12 million immigrants passed from 1892-1954. Many students located family names on the "Wall of Honor."

Members attended the "Today Show's" Reba McEntire concert at Rockefeller Center and their "Ozona" posters were seen on television.

This was followed by a tour of the NBC Studios and Radio City Music Hall where the group met a "Rockette" and posed for pictures with her.

A local guide offered a firsthand look at various areas including the Wall Street Financial District, SoHo, Greenwich Village, Chinatown and Little Italy. A shopping excursion included the stores along Fifth Avenue.

Members enjoyed a stroll through Central Park on the way to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Works by artists such as Van Gogh and Monet and the "Tiffany Glass" collection were enjoyed by the group.

Evening activities involved viewing the city from the 86th floor observatory of the Empire State Building.

They experienced a performance by the unusual artists known as the "Blue Man Group."

During this show, members took cover in the "poncho" section where they were splashed with paint, pelted with mashed banana, and buried in crepe paper streamers.

The group also attended the Broadway musical, "Hairspray," starring Michael McKean of "Lenny" fame on the "Laverne and Shirley" show.

Group leader for the trip was Katrece Hale. Additional sponsors included Jeannine Henderson, Jennifer Holmsley, Beth Childress, Marisa Najjar, Tracey Preddy, Leticia and Eloy Ruiz and Linda Kay Vasquez.

Students traveling with the group were Dylan Castillo, Kelsey Childress, Julia Henderson, Lauren Holmsley, Tara Johnson, Nathan Knox, Alex Macias, Lauren Najjar, Jotissa Payne, Park Preddy, Jaron Vasquez, Abel Villarreal and Lori Villarreal.

The combined traffic between I-10 and State Highway 163 is 24,300 vehicles per day that pass Ozona. These travelers will have an opportunity to directly access the new Visitor Center.

"We realize that Ozona is not a destination point. However, it is a great place to stop in route to your destination, and we see a lot of coast-to-coast travelers. Tourism is not just about the attractions that you have to offer. It is about the tank of gas, the overnight stay in a local motel, the meal eaten in your local diner, that's tourism," Biggerstaff said.

The 56-mile stretch of interstate in Crockett County is the deadliest segment of interstate in Texas, and the fifth in the nation, according to the U.S. Department of Transportation.

"This project is a win-win for both the traveler and the community. There are 110 miles of wide-open highway between Ozona and Fort Stockton and virtually little in-between. People tend to drive speeds in excess of 100 mph out here and they're tired. This center will give them a perfect excuse to stop, get out and stretch their legs and will give our community an opportunity to showcase our charming town," Biggerstaff said.

The Visitor Center will be built on a 2.728-acre property located at the southeast corner of I-10 and Hwy. 163. The Texas Department of Public Safety is located just 225 feet to the south of the center. The 3,950 square-foot center will include benches around the exterior of the facility where travelers can stretch or rest under a shaded area. There will be a nearby walking and interpretive trail featuring native plants and descriptive signage. Visitors will enter the building from the east side of the building that will provide 35 on-site spaces able to accommodate vehicles of all sizes.

There will be on-site 24-hour restroom facilities that have been designed so that visitors may enter from the parking lot or from the interior of the building. Visitors will have direct access to the Chamber of Commerce staff, who will provide tourism, tour coordination, economic development, community development and chamber member service information. The center will provide travelers with an indicator map identifying sites to see and services available throughout Ozona.

Ozona was also awarded $154,000 through the TxDOT Landscape Construction Funds to beautify the main intersections of I-10 and Hwy. 163 by using a Landscape/Streetscape theme. Farmer's Daughter of San Angelo was awarded this contract.

To date, a six-inch water line has been installed running underneath the interstate to accommodate the irrigation system for the trees that are to be planted. Once the irrigation system has been completely installed, tested and online, the trees will be planted.

There will be close to 120 trees planted, 60 running along the north and 60 running along the south side of I-10. They are Cedar Elm trees that when planted are roughly six-foot high, and will grow up to 14-feet. There will be a new sidewalk running along the north side of the interstate and along the tree line. There will be two brand new planters placed on the north corners of the interstate that will showcase more trees and lantana flowers.

Deputy filed an assault family violence report arrest warrant issued on subject.

• Deputy filed interference with emergency call report, arrest warrant issued on subject.
6-09-04

• Deputy filed a telephone harassment report case remains under investigation.
• Deputy filed criminal mischief report case remains under investigation.
6-10-04

• Deputy filed report of an assault which occurred at local business on Hwy 163 north. Case referred to Justice of the Peace court.
6-11-04

• Deputy filed report reference assault. Victim reported being assaulted while at place of employment on Ave H, a warrant shall be issued.

6-12-04
• Deputy filed criminal mischief report arrest. A known person entered a former residence and caused damage to property. A warrant will be issued.

• Deputy filed a theft report suspect intentionally drove off without paying for gasoline at service station on West County line. Subject was apprehended in Ft. Stockton and will be transferred to Crockett County.

Round-Up for Rehab is seeking donations

Now's the time to help Rehab! And it's easy!

If you're a Crockett County rancher who's about to sell sheep, goats or cattle, you have an opportunity to add your name to the list of local folks helping West Texas Rehabilitation Center-Ozona make a difference in the lives of your family and friends. All you have to do is cut out one or more head of livestock and ask your auction house to sell them and make the check payable to West Texas Rehab Center.

"We're all extremely fortunate to have this great facility in our community and I hope everyone will support it," said Donnie Laughlin, one of four Ozona volunteers helping with Round-Up for Rehab, the agriculture industry's year-round fund-raising program for WTRC.

"Every day, Rehab therapists help local children and adults who have disabling illnesses, injuries or birth traumas — regardless of their financial status," Laughlin said. "Without these highly-skilled therapists and their fine equipment, Ozona residents would either receive no therapy—or have to drive 90 miles to get it."

Other local Round-Up chairmen Bill Black, Arlene Clayton and Ray Hill echo Laughlin's praise of Rehab—and say they're willing to help local ranchers arrange for Rehab to receive proceeds from the sale of livestock...now or any time during the year that fits individual ranchers' marketing programs.

"All anybody has to do is let Susie or me know they want Rehab to benefit from the sale of animals we handle for them, and we'll take care of it," Black said.

Likewise, Clayton said she and Hill will be glad to make arrangements to get donated animals hauled to auction houses in Junction or San Angelo.

For information, call any of the four local chairmen or Ellen Brown at WTRC-San Angelo, 223-6300.

FIELD DAY: Hair sheep bring added benefits to ranching

"The livestock helps us improve the land around here," Ramirez-Castro said. "They help us in cutting the grass and moving the soil around here."

Peggy Maddox, director of public relations and education for the ranch, spoke about the basics of holistic management.

Holistic management is a decision-making process that involves managing three resources—people, land and money—in a way that is socially, economically and ecologically, Maddox said.

Through the Savory Center, four "puzzle pieces" of how brittle the land is, the predator-prey factor, time and holism come together to form holistic management.

In forming a holistic goal, a person must think of decisions as "wholes," Maddox said.

"When dealing with a complex system like the ecosystem, which is constantly changing, people, wildlife, community, plants and economics are all part of the system," she said.

When the couple came to the West Ranch, they had to find a way to manage the 11,000 acres and to get the ranch to become as profitable as soon as they could.

Through the multi-species grazing of cattle, and the decision to use hair sheep instead of wool sheep and goats, one part of the goal was met, Maddox said.

The couple then started looking at cedar as a plant that provides shade, holds some water and grows grasses underneath instead of a negative piece of vegetation, she said.

When you spend money on things that are taking you to that quality of life that you want, then that's a holistic goal, Maddox said.

Hair sheep were chosen for the ranch due to the developing market for the animals, their resistance to the weather and no need to shear wool, Ramirez-Castro said.

The sheep are also good mothers, prolific and their skins are the second highest quality of leather next to buckskin, said Dr. Bob Steger, director of the Texas Hair Sheep Association.

Steger presented a program on hair sheep and the advantages of multi-species grazing.

"They are almost trouble free," Steger said of hair sheep.

In multi-species grazing, Steger said that ranching production and vegetation increases 25 percent with more animals grazing than just one alone.

"To me it's like common sense. You select the animals to utilize all the species of plants that we have," he said. "My goal has always been in ranching and making it work."
