Commissioners show support for Texas tourism, libraries

BY MELISSA PERNER EDITOR AND PUBLISHER

Issues being discussed in the 82nd Texas Legislature were looked at locally by the Crockett County Commissioners' Court.

During Monday's regular meeting, Ozona Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Shanon Biggerstaff and County Librarian Louise Ledoux each spoke to the commissioners about supporting Texas tourism and libraries.

During his State of the State address, Gov. Rick Perry announced last week that he is proposing cutting funding for the Texas Historical Commission and the Texas Commission on the Arts.

The Crockett County Commissioners approved a resolution stating they support the Texas Heritage Program, which includes the Texas Pecos Trail. Biggerstaff included information for the commissioners about the Texas Pecos Trail, which is a 22-county heritage trail funded through the Texas Historical Commission. The Texas Heritage Trails program promotes heritage and historical tourism in Texas.

"Tourism is the third largest industry for Texas. Statewide serge to Austin to try to support any industry involved in tourism," Biggerstaff said. The historical commisTexas, including Fort Lancaster in Crockett County.

"That's a major attraction to our county. Tourism touches every facet of the state. This is one of our most stable industries throughout the state," Biggerstaff said.

Along with tourism, the commissioners each individually committed to sending letters to state and federal representatives supporting funding for Texas Libraries.

State libraries are also facing cutting of funding through the legislature, as well as federal funds.

Some of these programs include the TexShare Database, which is the online database featuring newspapers, magazines and journals used by library visitors and schools for research.

Also up for possible cuts is the Loan Star Libraries grants that Crockett County Library receives for upgrading books, equipment and computers.

If the proposed state funding passes, Crockett County Library could be around $60,000 short of funds.

"We have worked so hard to get these services and programs going," Ledoux said.

County Judge Fred Deaton said local libraries, including Crockett County's, not only fill a need of education but also a need of entertainment and ne-sion also funds the forts in cessity to the community.

"We have no intentions of closing the library doors, but we may have to make some adjustments due to funding," said Commissioner Frank Tambunga.

"We will try to keep all the services we can keep. As times get harder, the library is more important," Deaton added.

PECOS RIVER LEGISLATION SUPPORTED

The commissioners' court also approved a letter of support to State Sen. Carlos Uresti, D-San Antonio, and State Rep. Pete Gallego, D-Alpine, to reduce mineral concentration in the Pecos River.

The Pecos River Water Quality Coalition has applied for an $801,00 federal grant through the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board for what should be the final comprehensive assessment of salinity sources in the Texas portion of the river, according to a letter from Uresti.

People working with the coalition have approached U.S. Rep. Ralph Hall, who is prepared to see resources in the federal budget to help tackle this program, Uresti said.

Uresti and Gallego are sponsoring state resolutions to address the Pecos River salinity problem. In his letter, Uresti ask for the letter of support from the county.

COUNTY ROAD SUPERVISIOR POSITION

The commissioners discussed the hiring of a county road supervisor.

Deaton said no decision was made Monday, and that the commissioners may call a meeting later this week for this item.

Along the lines of hiring a county road supervisor, County Attorney Jody Upham presented the commissioners an opinion concerning nepotism between Commissioner Eligio Martinez and Acting County Road Supervisor Ruben Mendez. Martinez's mother is Mendez's sister.

Upham said after seeking several attorney opinions, including the Texas Attorney General's Office and Texas Association of Counties, the commissioners' court can make any decision they want in regards for considering Mendez for the job as long as Martinez doesn't participate in any deliberations or vote.

If Mendez is ultimately chosen for the job, it would be considered a promotion due to him having already been employed with the county for more than a year, Upham said.

"For your protection, and the commissioners' court as a whole, that you don't participate," Upham said to Martinez.

Hilderbran named House Ways and Means Committee Chair

AUSTIN - Rep. Harvey Hilderbran, R-Kerrville, has been named chairman of the influential Ways and Means Committee in the Texas House of Representatives. The committee deals will all legislation relating to the state's tax code.

"The actions of the Ways and Means Committee have an impact on every single Texan. The tax code has the power to attract businesses to Texas, multiply our economic growth, and amplify our overall competitiveness as a state," Hilderbran said. "I am honored that the speaker chose me as chairman of the committee, and that he has entrusted me to lead our state in this capacity."

Speaker Joe Straus, R-San Antonio, said that there were few representatives in the House with the knowledge and experience necessary to lead the Ways and Means Committee.

"Rep. Hilderbran has an extensive knowledge of state finance and how it impacts citizens and businesses, and that is exactly what we need this session," Straus said.

In addition to serving as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, the chairman sits on the Legislative Budget Board and Legislative Audit Committee.

The board prepares the draft appropriations bill along with budget estimates for each state agency.

"I will work diligently to pass fiscally responsible legislation that protects the taxpayers working and living here," Hilderbran said. "I will actively play a leadership role in solving the state's economic and budget challenges."

Hilderbran was also named as a member of the State Affairs and Redistricting committees. The Ways and Means and State Affairs committees have historically been considered two of the top four most powerful committees in the legislature, along with Appropriations and Calendars.

"State Affairs is going to face some major issues this session related to utilities, telecommunications, abortion, and immigration," Hilderbran said. "This is another important committee where we will be passing laws that impact the everyday lives of Texans."

Hilderbran had served as a member of the Ways & Means, State Affairs, and Redistricting committees during the 2009 legislative session.

January Job Report not a clear indicator of the reality in America

Last week the Department of and across the Labor reported that in January the national unemployment rate dropped from 9.4 percent to 9.0 percent, with 36,000 new jobs being added. On its face these numbers sound great. The current administration would like you and I to believe that this report is proof positive that the intrusive and burdensome policies of the last two years have started to help turn our economy around. Unfortunately these numbers do not tell the real story about jobs in Texas, country.

While I am glad to see that we have stopped losing jobs, this is not the recovery needed to turn our economy around. According to the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, more than 100,000 jobs need to be created per month to keep up with population growth alone. Maybe in Washington this unemployment figure can be touted as recovery, but to the people in the 23rd District of Texas who are still struggling to find a job and pay their bills, the recession still continues.

Unfortunately this news isn't surprising. Over the last two years Washington's answer to our economic woes has been to spend more of your tax dollars and grow government. This approach has halted job creation, leading to 2.45 Million lost jobs as reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and 21 months of unemployment at 9 percent or higher, the longest streak since the Great Depression.

Despite the failures of the past 24 months the White House continues to pursue job-destroying policies like the failed stimulus, government take-over of health care and the over burdensome Dodd-Frank financial regulation bill. The threats of more failed policies like these keeps job-creating capital on the sidelines instead of being reinvested into the private sector so that it can grow the economy and create jobs.

As bad as these problems may be, we are presented with a tremendous opportunity in front of us to turn our economy around. In the 112th Congress we will promote free market, private sector solutions to job creation by getting government out of the way. As President Reagan once said, "Government isn't the solution, government is the problem." I couldn't say it any better today.

To truly lower the unemployment rate and get America back to work we need to rein in the out-of-control spending in Washington, lower the national debt, simplify the tax code and put an end to new burdensome Washington policies that stifle jobcreation. Simply put, it is time to bring common-sense Texas values back to Congress.

At Super Bowl, God doesn't make the cut n the perennial postbuzz about Super Bowl ads, the buff body of the new GoDaddy girl (aka Joan Rivers) was a big hit this year. So was the pugnacious pug dog flattening his owner to grab the Doritos. And, of course, who can forget the woman who got smacked in the head with a soft-drink can? But the most intriguing ad may be the one Super CHARLES C. HAYNES Bowl viewers didn't see: A 30-second piece about "John 3:16" — a Bible verse much-quoted by Christians and often spotted on signs in football stadiums. ("For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life.")

Fox Sports, like other Super Bowl broadcasters before them, doesn't do religion. Trailers for violent movies, beer commercials, and scantilv clad women selling stuff all make the cut. But God, it seems, is out of bounds. According to company policy, Fox doesn't accept advertising from religious groups "for the purpose of advancing particular beliefs or practices.

The refusal to air the John 3:16 ad, produced by an evangelical group called Fixed Point Foundation, isn't a First Amendment issue. As a private business (as opposed to the government), Fox is free to pick and choose which commercials to broadcast.

But Fox's religion-free Super Bowl does raise intriguing questions about the "market" in the marketplace of ideas that the First Amendment is intended to create and protect. What does it mean for freedom of expression if religious ideas and beliefs are excluded from ads at the Big Event with an audience of more than 100 million?

And it's not just at the Super Bowl. Writing in The New York Times about the rejection of the John 3:16 ad, Mark Oppenheimer points to other examples of religionad bans on radio stations in Portland, Ore., and buses in Fort Worth, Texas.

Some of the past lines drawn by the major networks about what's in and what's out have been somewhat blurry. During last year's Super Bowl, CBS famously allowed a pro-life ad from the conservative Christian group Focus on the Family (featuring quarterback Tim Tebow and his mother). This decision appeared to contradict a CBS policy barring "advocacy"

commercials

is not surprising given the emotions and

divisions surrounding the role of religion in public life. According to a new Gallup poll, 29 percent of Americans think religion should have more influence in the nation, 29 percent want it to have less influence, and 39 percent believe the current level of influence in about right. Commercial broadcasters are understandably loath to stir the religion pot by airing messages that provoke controversy or offend. If John 3:16 is broadcast, it will inevitably be followed by ads proclaiming "millions of people are good without God" (one of the bus ads that got pulled in Fort Worth).

What is surprising is the lack of indignation — or even mild criticism — generated by Fox's refusal to accept the John 3:16 advertisement. Conservative Christian groups are usually quick to anger — and quick to file suit — at any perceived exclusion of (their) religion from public life, from the removal of Ten Commandments monuments in courthouses to the banning of city-sponsored crèches in front of city halls.

Ironically, Fox News is the main media outlet for the outrage (think "war on Christmas"). But the Fox ban on God during the Super Bowl has been met with silence from religious conservatives. Does Fox get a pass?

Of course, it could be risky for business - and somewhat messy — to allow dueling ads about God during the Super Bowl. But then again, robust freedom of expression always has been and always will be a messy business.

I say let God compete. After all, what kind of "marketplace" do we really have on Super Bowl Sunday when selling sex, alcohol and violence are OK, but messages about faith are taboo?

Communities of Strangers

Newspapers tell us the news, they aren't supposed to be in the news. Sadly, that's the case as I read more and more pundits predicting the end of newsprint. Many newspapers, it seems, won't even be around to carry their own obituaries.

Supposedly we're going to do all our reading on our cell phones and electronic tablets and companies like Google and Nokia are already dancing on the graves of the newsprint dinosaurs. I can easily do without television but I can't even begin to imagine breakfast without a newspaper. It pains me to see once big city great daily newspapers, the grand dames of publishing, shrinking in size and status. But before we relegate all newspapers to the scrap heap of history I'd suggest we consider the many things that newspapers can do that the Internet can't, and I'm not talking about swatting flies, lighting kindling or lining the bird cage. (When you're face has been pooped on by a parakeet you know you've arrived as a syndicated columnist.)

There was never a lot of extra cash laying around our house but my mom always found the money to subscribe to the local paper. My mother was a smart woman and she knew that newspapers kept her children and her country better educated and free. She also knew that our community newspaper was what gave us a sense of community. Today we hear about Facebook and other Internet "communities," but bly be? My grandmother disseminated that clipping far and wide. The best writing I've ever read was in newspapers. Don't forget, Mark Twain got his start writing for the Territorial Enterprise newspaper. I grew up reading a sportswriter named Jim Murray and I believe he's the reason I'm a writer today. When you write for a newspaper you'd better get your facts straight or you'll hear about it. That's not so with the Internet. I learned real quick not to trust it as a source. Writers for newspapers pay their dues and must prove they can write, whereas all a person has to do on the Internet to become a writer is start "blogging." Most of it isn't worth the paper it's NOT written on. A newspaper makes money by hiring competent reporters with a nose for news and then selling that news to folks with a need to know. Are we really going to trade that for gangs of Internet bloggers?

My favorite parts of any newspaper are the letters to the editor and the obituaries. I love it that anyone with a bone to pick or an ax to grind can get their name in the paper by writing a letter to the editor. Be advised though, "It's never smart to get into a feud with someone who buys ink by the barrel." That old bromide reminds me of the fellow who, years ago, wrote to a small town editor that the only use for his newspaper was as a replacement for the corn cobs in his outhouse. To which the editor replied, "Keep doing that and your behind will know more than your head ever will."

That's exactly the way I feel about Inter-

I'll admit I'm partial to newspapers because I voraciously read them and delivered them on a bicycle as a child growing up. They kept me fiscally and physically fit. Sure, I admit that newspapers do occasionally get all wet in the rain, leave ink on your fingers and that I-Pad news might save trees. But life without newspapers? I hope I'm not around when the only news you can read is on some tiny cell phone screen, for I believe that if community newspapers do die, so too will the real communities they

Perry primes lawmakers on budget-writing task ahead

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Ed Sterling | Texas Press Association

AUSTIN --- Texans have it pretty good compared to people who live in other states, to summarize Gov. Rick Perry's 44-minute State of the State speech, delivered Feb. 8 to a joint session of the state House and Senate. And although the steady march of people leaving their home states to settle in Texas is evidence of the state's overall health, things could be better, he admitted in so many words.

"Have the doomsayers forgotten that Texas added more jobs in 2010 than any other state? Last year, the growth rate of Texas jobs was nearly double that of any other top 10 state," Perry told the assembly of lawmakers and the heads of state agencies and courts.

Without directly mentioning the ($27 billion) dollar amount of the projected revenue shortfall for the 2012-2013 biennium, Perry called for lawmakers to write a balanced state budget without raising taxes, without placing new unfunded mandates of local government and without touching the state's ($9.5 billion) rainy day fund.

One of the more-noticed passages in the governor's address was his challenge to colleges and universities to make higher education more affordable. He suggested the development of four-year degree programs that would cost $10,000 or less, including textbooks. To cut spending, Perry suggested curtailing the functions of certain "non-critical agencies" and making other agencies take on more. He also called for lawsuit reform to "improve the legal climate in our state, and impart even more energy, stability and security to our economy." And he mentioned his desire to push back on a Washington, D.C. that "encroaches upon the rights of states" but called for the federal government to assign 1,000 soldiers to Texas to beef up border security. Perry asked the Legislature to continue to set aside part of the budget for his Texas Enterprise Fund, a discretionary fund his office has used since 2003 to attract and keep new businesses such as manufacturers and technological innovators. The fund, he said, has helped bring tens of thousands of jobs to Texas and "nearly $15 billion in capital investment." After the speech, lawmakers returned to their duties, the most pressing of which is to gather input from constituents before crafting the state budget. And, so, with Texas' rapidly growing population and less revenue on the horizon, the passage of a balanced budget promises tough votes on funding for all areas and possibly some historically considered uncuttable: pre-kindergarten, elementary, secondary and higher education, and

OZONA SENIOR HAPPENINGS

BY LYNN ENGLISH SENIOR CENTER DIRECTOR

Here we are with February 2011 half gone. The weather man tells us that we have warm days at least this week. I am ready for warmer weather and I imagine the rest of you are too.

Yesterday, I went to San Angelo to visit Helen Owensby who had a stroke and a broken hip. Helen has been a volunteer here at the Senior Center every since I have been here. Please remember Helen in your thoughts and prayers. Her son Michael Owensby and daughter Sue Owensby are by her side. I also visited with Eddie Moore who was also stricken with a stroke a little over a week ago. He is doing wonderfully well. He looks good and is walking with a walker and is talking about his mishap. His wife Penny is at his side. Both are grateful for your thoughts and prayers. Eddie is due to return back this week.

Dee Keilers is recovering from hip surgery and plans to be back home soon. We have missed him and will be happy to see him.

On Feb. 14, the Crockett County Senior Center Board had their Valentine Board Appreciation Dinner at the Senior Center. Special guests were County Judge Fred Deaton and the commissioners along with their wives or guests.

Our next Senior Bingo Social has been moved up to Thursday, Feb. 24. We had to move it up because of a date conflict. Lasagna, salad, garlic bread, ice cream sandwiches, tea, water or coffee, ice cream sandwiches will be served. Please plan to come for a fun night.

The people that meet to play domino games will be meeting on Tuesday every week after lunch. If you would like to join them in playing dominoes come on in about 1 p.m.

The bridge game will be played on Mondays at 1:30 p.m. Those who attend have the best time playing bridge and they appreciate using our Senior Center.

On Wednesday, a group meets to play Mexican Train. These players get down and have a fun time playing this exciting game.

We have our regular activities: bridge, bingo, home health, pool, canasta, domino games and puzzles. We also have a collection of books, magazines, a Wii game and two computers that are on the Internet for seniors to use.

We also have a projector with stand and a screen and have added a wonderful keyboard.

Activities sponsored by the Crockett County Senior Center Board are for adults

HELPING HANDS HIGHLIGHTS

BY MELINDA KAY MALONE

DIRECTOR

We hope everyone is staying warm and healthy which is a challenge at this time of the year.

On Thursday, Feb. 17, at 8:30 AM listen to KYXX FM 94.3 FM as Helping Hands will be the guest topic. We thank Eligio and Eddy for their support.

Thank you to the Women's Forum for the donation of canned goods they collected at their February meeting. We appreciate their generosity and support.

The Volunteeer Appreciation Luncheon, is noon Thursday, Feb. 17, at the Senior Center. We are looking forward to a great event. We would like to invite all who assisted in making 2010 a successful year for Helping Hands. You as volunteers are a vital ingredient in the recipe that makes up this program.

Helping Hands is a proprovided through funding by private donations by individuals in the programs in Ozona, supporters of Helping Hands, Crockett County, the Area Agency on Aging (AAA) of the Concho Valley, and the Texas Department of Aging and Disability Services (DADS).

It is designed for individuals age 60 or older and/ or their family members who contribute donations according to their individual abilities.

Our goal is to assist older individuals in leading independent, meaningful and dignified lives in their own homes and the community. If you are interested in more information on the program, call Melinda.

Volunteers are needed and always appreciated. If you are an individual, a business group, community organization or church group, consider volunteering on the Helping Hands' team in Ozona. I would welcome visiting with your group to explain the volunteer team responsibilities.

For more information, call Melinda at 392-5026, e-mail hhozona163@yahoo. com or come by to see us.

THE BIG GREEN BOX

Years ago I went to the local grocery store to pick up some supplies for the ranch and some for myself. The owner asked me if I wanted credit and I said," ok" and brought some extra things home. All I had to do was sign my name to a little piece of paper. He put that paper in a big green metal locked box. We started buying all kinds of stuff. Several month went by and one day the grocer said, "I need to talk to you. What are you going to do about these bills?" I was shocked to see all of those little pieces of paper my wife and I had signed. I looked at the total and told him I was sorry that I could not pay all of it at once. That event reminds me of something in the Bible. There is no nothing in this life that does not go unnoticed by God. It is recorded whether it is good or bad, (Revelation 20:12-15& 22:12). Disobedience is sin and someone has to pay for it, (Romans 3:23) The price is death or eternal separation form God, (Romans 6:23). But God loves us a and He provided for all of our debts,(sins) to be cancelled or paid for, (Romans 5:8). It was paid for by His own Son Jesus Christ of the cross, (Colossians 2:14). See you in Church next Sunday.

Administrative contracts, staffing on school board agenda BY MELISSA PERNER

Wednesday, Feb. 16, 2011

Administrative contracts and staffing for the 2011-2012 will be discussed at tonight's (Feb. 16) regular school board meeting.

EDITOR AND PUBLISHER

The Crockett County CCSD will meet at 6:30 p.m. at the Administration Building.

On the agenda is for the board to meet in executive/ closed session to consider administrative contracts for 2011-2012. Also in executive/closed session, the board will have a consultation with district counsel regarding staffing and related policy issues and consider staffing for 2011-2012.

With the Texas Legislature facing a $27 billion shortfall, school districts across the state are facing the possibility of state funding cuts.

Any action or vote the board takes is required to be done in open session.

Superintendent Chris duBois plans on addressing the board about the legislature in his superintendent report during the

Basically it is just an opportunity for them to express any concern to the commissioner about charter operations within their attendance boundaries.'

The work that is "cool" not only includes creating podcasts, learning basic computer skills and updating part of the district's website, it also includes making their own comic strips and animating them, creating videos and making movies.

"It's all exploratory right now," Thompson said. "Not only do we have to hit on a little bit of everything, I want them to see how this can work toward a career."

The skills students are learning in Thompson's classes are all part of the state curriculum that aligns with TAKS testing.

An advantage to receiving the new Mac computers also means students will learn how to use a Mac and compare that to a regular Personal Computer, or PC. The computers allow students to move back and forth between the Mac world and the PC world, both of which have differences.

Mac computers, made by Apple, are known to be great for handling graphics and design.

"Mac is backwards. You almost have to think out of your right mind and in with your left," Thompson said.

Directly across Thompson's classroom is another arm of OHS technology. In Cathy English's room, robots line the floor in front of the first row of computers.

These robots, even though their parts are made by Lego, are not toys to play with. English's students are learning engineering and challenging their brains in getting their machines to perform certain tasks.

The challenge is to not only build a robot, but to allow it to change gears and show its strength and speed," English said.

In the hallway, students run their tests. In the back of the room, an arena is set up to practice for robotics competitions. Each student has to create a robot that will perform certain tasks, such as push a can of soda or pick up a small can of tuna. These everyday objects have to be placed by the robot in precise, specific areas marked on the arena floor.

'There are a lot of problemsolving skills," English said. "It's not just about how to program, puter science and engineering. Her area also received software and large monitors through the technology plan.

Lately, English said the students have been learning lots of software through The CAD Academy (Computer Aided Design).

lish, it's not just a matter of exposing the students to different technologies, but also to show them how these skills can lead to careers.

'Computer programming is mainly outsourced, but companies need people to oversee the programmers. They need people together," English said.

Looking at her iPad, Thompson said she sees schools and students possibly looking to this and other handheld devices in the future.

"At first, I didn't like it. There wasn't enough keyboard," she said of her iPad. "Now, I can see it for books, charts, gathering information. I keep mine with me and it makes it easier for me to keep up. In the hands of our kids, I can see research, reading, the

I feel like we are right on the knife-edge and starting to roll. We just want to expose our kids to a little bit in a lot of areas, give them something they could be interested in and have them take it on to the next level."

Martinez left the meeting Monday afternoon when the commissioners discussed the hiring of a county road super-

"This opinion just gives added protection to the commissioners' court," Deaton said.

POST-JUDGMENT RELIEF APPROVED IN COURT CASE

The commissioners approved authorization of Upham to pursue a writ of execution in the court case of Crockett County vs. Nikki Hobson.

A writ of execution is a 90day court order granted in an attempt to satisfy a monetary judgment. A court typically orders a sheriff or deputy to take possession of property owned by the person who owes money. The property will often then be sold in a sheriff's sale for $.10 on the dollar the proceeds placed toward what the person owes.

In this case, Hobson owes more than $8,000 due to not completing her contract with the Crockett County Care Center in completing her education and working for the center.

Upham said Hobson did not show up for court or ever appeared in court and that the judge issued a default judgment in the case for the amount owed.

"I've sent her several letters, she has not responded,"

Upham said not all assets are subject to the writ.

"I think we should pursue this. I don't want to train a bunch of people for free and then we don't do anything about it," Commissioner Randy Branch said.

"She knew the consequences when she started," added Commissioner Pleas Childress III.

The Ozona Lions lost to Grape Creek 60-41 on Feb. 11.

Score by quarters: Ozona - 6 12 8 15 - 41; Grape Creek - 15 11 15 19 - 60.

Scoring: Abey Lara 2; Austin Suddreth 6; Alex Borrego 5; Saul Vargas 2; Jerrod duBois 15; Ryan Mayfield 9 and Eric Talamantez 2. Also playing: Jose Aguilar, Luis Soto and Richard Borrego.

"This was not one of our better efforts," said Coach Ted Rohan. "Grape Creek responded in the first quarter after we scored the first four points of the game. The lack of defensive intensity and cold shooting resulted in the loss." The Lions lost 68-27 to state-ranked Wall on Feb. 8.

Score by quarters: Ozona - 10 4 6 7 - 27; Wall -15 20 23 19 - 68.

Scoring: Aguilar 11; Lara 1; Suddreth 4; A. Borrego 6; duBois 3 and R. Borrego 2. Also playing: Vargas, Soto and Mayfield.

"We had a very good first quarter both offensively and defensively. We competed hard and probably could have put up a few more points in the first quarter," Rohan said. "Wall came out in the second quarter and punched us in the mouth. We did not respond as they outscored us 20-4. It was pretty much the same in the third quarter when they outscored us 23-6. I'm not convinced that they are totally responsible for our melt down on the offensive end. They have all the components necessary to win a state championship this year. Size, speed, defense and the ability to shoot the ball. They are a senior-dominated team and should do well in the postseason."

The Lions are 2-7 in district play and 9-18 overall.

OHS Art student advances to state, others place at regional event

The Texas Art Education Association (TAEA) has sponsored the Visual Art Scholastic Event (VASE) since 1994.

VASE is the only art event of its kind in the nation. Students are provided the opportunity to bring artworks created in their art classes to their regional event where they are interviewed by a certified juror who evaluates their work based on a standard based rubric and their understanding of the art processes involved in the development of their artwork.

Only academically eligible high school students in grades 9-12 from throughout Texas can participate in VASE.

This year was the first year for Ozona High School Art students to participate in VASE; and it is only the third year for Region 15 to compete in VASE at all.

"All the students worked very hard these last couple of months to create an entry work. Not only do the students have to create an artwork, they must be able to articulate in an interview with a juror the purpose of the artwork, adequately use vocabulary terms, analyze their work critically, and described the way their work exhibits their own personal style," said OHS Art Teacher Ariel Chadwick. "I am extremely proud of our students for their hard work and devotion to compete."

Out of more than 220 entries this year (which is up more than 70 last year at Regional), OHS had five students in Division 1 (1 year experience) receive a medal for placing with a score of 4. These students are: Tevin Cordova, Cynthia Garcia, Nicole Higgins, Nichole Munoz and Sierra Stokes.

OHS also had another Division 1 student do just as excellent who placed a score of 3, Deya Hernandez.

Once students were scored, all the 4's were judged again and only a handful are select to compete at State. Nicole Higgins artwork has been chosen to compete at the State VASE Event which will be held April in Houston.

This year, 246 students attended VASE Regional and out of Division 1 which is what OHS entered under, there were 80 registrations.

Out of 46 students who scored a 4 in Division 1, only 4 students progressed to State.

ORDER RESTRICTING OUTDOOR BURNING

The Commissioners' Court finds that circumstances present in all or part of the unincorporated area of the county create a public safety hazard that would be exacerbated by outdoor burning; and NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED by the Commissioners' Court of Crockett County, Texas, that outdoor burning is restricted in Crockett County for 30 days from the date of adoption of this Order, unless the restrictions are terminated earlier based on a determination made by the Texas Forest Service or this Court. This Order is adopted pursuant to Local Government Code 352.081, and other applicable statues. This Order does NOT prohibit outdoor burning activities related to public health and safety that are authorized by the Texas Natural Resources Commission for: (1) firefighter training; (2) public utility, natural gas pipeline or mining operations; (3) planting or harvesting or agricultural crops; or (4) burns that are conducted by an approved Prescribed Burning Association, Natural Resource Conservation Service, the and/or Texas A&M Agricultural Experiment Station, or prescribed burn manager certified under Section 153.048, Natural Resources Code, and meet the standards of Section 153.047, Natural Resources Code.

All burns shall be reported to the Crockett County Sheriff's Office (325) 392-2661 and the Fire Chief (325) 392-2626 prior to commencing, together with the name of the landowner, location involved and expert to be on hand.

This Order does NOT prohibit outdoor cooking in a properly contained area which is attended at all times.

In accordance with the Local Government Code 352.081 (h), a violation of this Order is a Class C misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not to exceed $500.

ADOPTED this the 14th day of February, 2011.
