Seniors who fail state exams may have chance at diploma

BY MORGAN SMITH
TEXAS TRIBUNE

Thousands of high school seniors who haven't passed the required state exams are close to getting a chance at a diploma anyway under a measure advancing in the Texas Legislature.

Last week, the House overwhelmingly approved Senate Bill 149, which would exempt high school seniors who meet certain requirements from having to pass all five state exams to graduate. The measure from state Sen. Kel Seliger, R-Amarillo, has already passed the Senate. It will now proceed to a conference committee where legislators will iron out minor differences between the two chambers.

Under the bill, panels made up of educators, counselors and parents will weigh factors like grades, college entrance exam scores and attendance to decide whether a student should earn a diploma despite poor performance on state standardized exams.

Those who support the measure say that it is not intended to give an easy pass to students who did not do the work to get a diploma — but to provide an option for those who otherwise would be graduating except for the fact that they've failed a state exam.

But when the bill was heard in committee, some expressed concern over the objectivity of a panel made up of educators who might be docked in school ratings if their students did not graduate. The plan has also received criticism from the Texas Association of Business and the Austin Chamber of Commerce, which argue that it could lead to even greater numbers of students graduating who are not adequately prepared for careers or higher education.

"I feel that our representatives are seeing the negative effect that the EOCs and STAAR exams are having on the students of Texas. Educators all across the state have stated that too much emphasis has been placed on the STAAR Exams and End-of-Course Exams. The focus of education has to come back to the basics of teaching and learning which allow for young minds to grow intellectually. We need to move away from creating a generation of test taking 'robots,' to one that allows for creativity and exploration," said Raul Chavarria, CCCCSD Superintendent.

About 28,000 students in the class of 2015 still must pass one or more of the five state exams in U.S. history, biology, algebra I, English I and English II required to graduate. Of those in the class of 2015 who need to retake exams, about half must retake more than one.

"If this bill becomes law then we will have to go back and revisit our local policies to abide by this law. It will affect students not only here in Ozona, but all across the state," Chavarria said. "Accountability is extremely important for everyone involved in our school district. This law would take into consideration the coursework and material learned throughout the school year, along with the End-of-Course exam. I am bothered by the timing of this bill since we are heading into the final few weeks of school and the decisions will affect our students and teachers."

First Baptist Church welcomes new youth minister

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

When he was just a teen, Jonathan Martin received a call from God to serve in ministry.

Now 26, Martin is the new Youth Minister at the First Baptist Church of Ozona.

While God gave him a call to ministry in seventh grade, Martin had a different plan when he graduated from Stephenville High School in 2008.

"I wanted to be a high school football coach and play college football," he said.

An injury led Martin onto a different path.

Martin's first job was Youth and Recreation Minister at the First Baptist Church in Kenedy, Texas. The church

Strategic business planning helps in uncertainty

A famous and humorous quote from the baseball legend, Yogi Berra, is "When you come to a fork in the road, take it." When a business encounters uncertainty in the market, which fork to take is the question. It's an indication of time to regroup, scan the horizon to uncover what's happening in your environment, and look inward at your business in order to move in the right direction. We call this process strategic business planning.

The first thing to do in strategic planning is to gather those in the organization who can provide information and insight. They include owners and managers as well as those closest to the customer. Revisit your mission and vision as a business. If you do not have a mission and vision, consider developing one. Next look outward from your business and review the industry and market in which you do business. What are the changes in the industry that are affecting you? Who are the competitors in the industry? What changes in your customers buying habits have occurred? What opportunities for new products and new markets do you see from this review? Now continue to look outward and see what threats are affecting your business. It could be regulative threats, competitive threats or other factors that could negatively affect your business. Now have the group look inward to your business and examine your strengths. They could be quality products, quality service, patents, relationships, location, etc. The key here is to be very honest about what they are. The same goes for weaknesses. Be bluntly honest about what your internal weaknesses are as a business. Since you have completed your external and internal scan, the fork(s) in the road to take should become clearer. Now you will develop objectives based on the opportunities you have uncovered which are consistent with your strengths. Develop action plans to reach those objectives. Actions plans are who, what, when and where that need to be written down in order to make your plan a "doable" plan. All plans should be fluid so remember to adjust and tweak along the way as you discover and learn. This way the plan stays relevant and current. When your business encounters the fork in the road consider taking time to step back and work on the business to develop or revisit a strategic plan. What you will learn should benefit the business for years to come.

BUSINESS TIPS

Mort's theory of everything

My Uncle Mort's screeching to a stop on his golf cart isn't a rarity; seldom, however, does he leave the motor running.

IDLE AMERICAN

DON NEWBURY

"I'm the luckiest guy in the thicket," my 102-year-old kin bragged, "The two-hours-only shoe sale coincides with Maude's kick-off of spring cleaning. So I ducked out of work, volunteering to fetch her some new sandals in town. The sales guy asked me her shoe size; I told him Maude says she wears a size 9, but a 10 feels so good, she usually buys 11's."

Good fortune followed my uncle to the thrift store, where he found a like-new pair of brogans for $3. And they gave him a buck for the ones he's been wearing for 20 years.

Mort had "a brief, two-pronged" agenda—analysis of our country's defense system and discussion of a recent dream.

He began thusly, "Can you believe a man could land a gyrocopter on the White House lawn unchallenged, even after announcing he was coming?"

Of course I'd read and heard plenty on the subject. I'm still eye-rolling after the 61-year-old Floridian flew the contraption at an altitude of 150 feet at a speed of 45 miles per hour. My uncle said this postal employee has taken special delivery to a new level. Further, with the scheme working so smoothly, Mort predicts airlines will clamor to offer scheduled passenger service to the White House lawn....

"My historical perspective helps to understand how such a thing could happen," my uncle said. "More than 50 years ago—during the Cuban missile crisis—our military leaders assured us we had missiles capable of striking major world targets with great accuracy."

I asked him why we didn't flex our muscles more against Cuba.

"That's precisely the point," Mort responded. "Cuba is less than 100 miles from Miami, and we didn't have missiles that would shoot that close...."

What, pray tell, does the Cuban missile crisis have to do with a guy who builds a gyrocopter, announces it to the media and then flies to Washington?

Mort makes no fortune teller claims, but he has strong opinions about why the illegal landing was unchallenged. "Kinda like Cuba was too close, now we don't have any radar that detects aircraft flying that low and that slow."

Whatever, officials of 32 different agencies are squirming. That's the number of groups which have varying degrees of White House safety jurisdiction. No doubt, they're "going postal."...

I'm not suggesting Mort was on a high, but clearly, he was on a roll.

Wink-quick, he changed the subject, switching from our country's defensive flaws to Jordan Spieth's offensive assault on golf courses.

What's not to admire about this young man who appears to be "hound's tooth" clean from every angle, with a great chance to become the hero to a nation? Mort admitted his golf game is way south of miserable. "If my own game was a prize fight, they'd stop it," he lamented....

"You won't believe the dream I had about Jordan," Mort said. "Before reaching the first tee at a PGA Tournament, his opponents surrounded him to sing what I've always considered to be a Christian hymn—I Don't Have to Cross Jordan Alone."

Mort assumed he'd hear the same lyrics sung at church across the years. But they were radically different. "In essence," Mort said, "the lyrics warned that if Jordan is crossed, they'd best gang up on him and bring along their biggest guns."

Before he puttered off toward the thicket, I asked his secret to a happy marriage, acknowledging his 81-years in tandem with 101-year-old Maude.

"An easy answer," Mort said. "I wrote the Constitution for our marriage, but I accept all of her amendments." I smiled at the recollection of Maude's Christmas gift to Mort last year—shaving lotion called "Old Spouse."

It's surprising he didn't end our visit by waxing poetic, a la Ogden Nash: "To keep your marriage brimming—with love in the loving cup—whenever you're wrong, admit it—whenever you're right, shut up."

Rolling In The Chips

IT'S THE PITTS

LEE PITTS

I have been indicted in a paternity suit, or I should say, my horse Gentleman has.

My noble steed and I were doing our thing at a neighbor's branding and I must admit it wasn't one of Gentleman's better days. One of the weekend cowboys in attendance was a practicing lawyer. I think he's a criminal lawyer, but he hasn't gone to jail for it yet. The lawyer's young mare, like Gentleman, was always in the wrong spot at the wrong time, tripped over her own feet, and kept throwing her head up and down like a Texas oil well.

"I never thought there was a horse as bad as mine until I saw yours," said the lawyer. "They are so alike they could be related."

After observing Gentleman in action all day the lawyer accused my horse of fathering his worthless mare. I had to admit there was a striking resemblance, and I tried to settle out of court but I normally don't carry that kind of cash on me. The lawyer sued Gentleman for rape, non-support and leaving the scene of an accident.

The case was tried by a jury of my peers, the folks that were there that day for the branding. The lawyer represented himself. I didn't have a lawyer but I thought I had some good friends on the jury. Just to make sure of the outcome I offered the jury foreman, who happened to be my wife, a plea bargain. The deal I suggested was that if I didn't win she didn't get any reparation and even if I did win she didn't get anything either. That is how lawsuits usually work, I am told.

The lawyer had the audacity to question Gentleman's parentage. "The defendant is nothing more than a mongrel," accused the lawyer.

"I object. Gentleman was accidentally sired by a real famous stud you never heard of, and was out of Oklahoma at midnight. Besides, I have an alibi for Gentleman. He couldn't have sired the plaintiff because he's not that old."

"Can you prove it?" countered the lawyer. "Do you have registration papers that document his age?"

I had to admit that I did not as his registration papers had been pulled years ago by the AQHA. About this time the decorum in the outdoor courtroom had deteriorated badly. The jurors were drinking beer and trying to cross examine both the defendant and the plaintiff, but nobody could get close enough to the mouth of either horse to prove anything.

When I took the stand and was sworn to tell the whole truth the lawyer gave me the third degree. "Will Gentleman load in a trailer?"

I had to admit that he would not. "I had to ride him to the branding."

"Can you tie him up?"

"Only if you want a shorter set of reins," I replied.

"Can you fire a gun while mounted on Gentleman?"

"Only once," I answered truthfully.

"Ladies and gentleman of the jury," said the lawyer eloquently, "both horses have similar traits, the same color pattern and the same apparent limited equine IQ. It's readily apparent to even the biggest dummy that there could not be two horses in the world this bad, and therefore they must be father and daughter. I rest my case."

Then it was my turn. I threw myself on the mercy of the court... but I missed badly. I begged for leniency. As I talked, Gentleman was engaged in his unique habit of rolling in cow manure. It's his way of freshening up. I think the exact moment I lost my case was when the lawyer's mare joined Gentleman in rolling in the chips. It was damaging evidence. Like father like daughter.

The jury returned a guilty verdict but I was really the big winner. The lawyer sued me for everything I owned so when I went to hand him the reins to Gentleman the lawyer realized what a devious trap I had set and he withdrew all charges. He was able, however, to get a restraining order to keep Gentleman away from his mare, and I must admit that it was a good idea and may have prevented a very ugly situation.

House, Senate state budget conferees roll up sleeves

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Ed Sterling | Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — With barely more than a month left in the regular session of the Texas Legislature, it's time for the House and Senate to do whatever can be done to reach an all-points agreement on House Bill 1, the state budget for fiscal years 2016 and 2017.

A widely reported sticky area in the estimated $211 billion budget is over which taxes to cut and how much to cut. House and Senate conferees will meet this week.

From both ends of the Capitol, the budget has a ways-and-means inertia to it, with House leaders pushing for cuts in the state sales tax rate and the state franchise tax. Senate leaders favor more emphasis on cutting homeowners' property tax rates, a job traditionally in line with the normal functions of local governmental bodies.

School districts, for example, get most of their revenue from local property taxes, and under the Senate plan, the state would have to make up for revenue lost to property tax cuts. The House plan, touted to provide some $5 billion in tax relief through other means, includes the first-ever reduction in state sales tax, with a 0.30-cent reduction in rate from the current 6.25 percent to 5.95 percent. Wherever such matters settle, the state's checkbook must balance. Tax cuts will have to be "paid for" by corresponding cuts to budget items, such as health care, education, transportation and public safety.

Last week, House Speaker Joe Straus and Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick picked five members each for the conference committee on HB 1: House Appropriations Chair John Otto, R-Dayton; Rep. Trent Ashby, R-Lufkin; Rep. Sarah Davis,

ABBOTT CHALLENGES HAZE RULE

Gov. Greg Abbott on April 22 submitted comments to the federal Environmental Protection Agency's Air Planning Section over the agency's proposed regional-haze rule.

Abbott said the EPA's proposed action "is unlawful on multiple fronts, and perhaps most egregiously it would impose a $2 billion burden in compliance costs and threaten the reliability of Texas' energy grid — without any discernible benefits."

The governor is arguing that the EPA: (1) does not have the authority to regulate "invisible" haze; (2) oversteps its statutory authority by imposing a compliance cost on Texas; (3) discriminates against Texas by imposing a

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NEWS

Business of the Month: Encino RV Park

BY SHANON BIGGERSTAFF
OZONA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Chamber of Commerce would like to recognize Encino RV Park as our Business of the Month.

Encino RV Park opened to the public in June of 2012. It is owned by Bill and Susie Black, and managed by Joe D. Friend.

"A friend of ours needed a place for his men to live while working on a pipeline project. According to him, building an RV park was easy enough. Just pick a good spot in the pasture and get busy! There was actually more to it than that, because the "good" spot we selected was on solid rock," said Susie Black.

"We have met lots of good people during our short time in business," says Susie Black. "The first couple to move in with us came before the park was completed. They lived beside our loading chute, next to the pens of sheep for a month. The day the park was ready, Bill hooked onto the trailer and moved the wife into the park."

ENCINO RV PARK OWNERS Susie and Bill Black.

The RV Park has 19 pads featuring 30 and 50 Amp services with full hook-ups including electricity, water, sewage and Wi-Fi. All spaces have room for a personal vehicle and are landscaped. Pets are allowed.

"During this last little oil boom, we were completely full for over a year," said Bill Black. "We have had people from California, Arizona, and a number from Canada. We see a lot of east bound traffic. Most are going to the Texas coast or Florida to fish!" "We also see them on their way back home," said Susie.

The Chamber of Commerce would like to recognize Encino RV Park for providing a business of quality that is an asset to the local business community.

The Encino RV Park is conveniently located at 1308 Sheffield Road, and guests can easily access Interstate 10 West. For more information, call the Encino RV Park at (325) 392-2142 or (325) 226-2709.

Here we are at the end of another month. This next month is going to be wild and crazy. There will be parties and services and happy people and teary people. All kinds of mixed emotions will be displayed. My wish is that it will be a safe and enjoyable month for all the graduates.

For the next 10 weeks, I will be posting the top 10 things that you can do for arthritis. 1. Get a proper diagnosis. Many causes of joint pain are not related to arthritis. These include fractures, nerve damage (sciatica from back problems), a torn meniscus (knee), bursitis, synovitis, tendonitis, myositis and even cancer. Always get a proper diagnosis first. See next week for #2.

This week's movie will be "The Rookie" starring Dennis Quaid. This movie is based on a true story. "A smart, engaging, family film. A rarity to be cheered," is what The Washington Post said about this film. This is a Walt Disney presentation that proves it is never too late to believe in your dreams. Come on out and enjoy yourself with popcorn puffs and drinks at 2 p.m. Thursday.

The ladies quilting club, "Hands in Service," that meet here on Thursday mornings, has received a warm thank you from the Shriners Children's Hospital in Galveston for the very useful and attractive quilt they made and sent with love to the children in the burn unit.

This group also has received letters from South Texas Children's Home in Beeville where the children have received three of the warm quilts made by these ladies. I, for one, am very proud of these ladies. They have fun and do great things for others. It makes them happy when they can be working on something to give to a good cause.

Remember that is building is for all the citizens of Ozona that are 50 and over. Also, remember that you can come to the center at night if you let me know when you want to.

SECOND STEP

In thinking back about my grandchildren I was amazed at what they could learn at a very early age. At that time the youngest was being taught that food is for the mouth not all over the face or in the hair. The older was being taught not to throw temper tantrums, to say thank you and please. They were also learning not go off or run off on their own and when the children went someplace with their parents they had to hold onto their parents hand. Once when I was keeping one of them he broke loose from my hand and took off on his own and ran around the car. Luckily, there wasn't any traffic at that time or he could have been severely injured or killed. I realized that after we accept Christ (step one) it very important that we learn to let God lead us (Psalms 23:1-4, Revelations 7:17). We must learn to listen (step two) to God (Proverbs 4:11, 12) and not do anything on our own or against His will. The toughest battle we will have is to say no to our own desires and the flesh and say yes to what God wants, (1 Peter 2:11, Romans 8:4,7-9). When we break away from God and go on our own we are in great danger (Deuteronomy 11:26-28, Hebrews 8:8&9). Make sure your hand is in God's hand. See you in Church next Sunday. Brother J

I, Audrey Marie Gandar, along with my parents Matias & Minnie, would like to thank everyone who attended my Quinceañera. A special thank you to all those who helped. Also, thank you for all the gifts. I am beyond blessed to have many friends and family. Thank you again, The Gandar Family

ULTIMA ORACION

FRANK TAMBUNGA talks to Ozona Middle School students about savings on April 24. Ozona Bank employees also spoke with elementary students that day as part of "Teach Children to Save Day."

Ozona Bank joins 'Teach Children to Save' Campaign

Ozona Bank partnered with the Ozona Elementary and Middle School to celebrate Teach Children To Save Day with savings education on April 24.

More than 700 local youths learned some places are safer to keep money than others. Students learned a story about twin brothers; one is a spender and the other is a saver. Some learned about saving for unexpected problems or opportunities.

Established by the American Bankers Association in 1997, Teach Children to Save has reached 7.2 million young people through the commitment of 210,000 banker volunteers.

"Financial capability is the combination of attitude, knowledge, skills, and self-efficacy needed to make and exercise money management decisions," said Frank Tambunga, assistant vice president and branch manager. "Through this program we can motivate students and instill positive habits at a young age, creating a community of lifelong savers."

Ozona Bank also provides workbooks to our Senior Class each year on "How to do your banking".

Ozona Bank offers the following tips for money-savvy parents raising money-smart kids:

- Set the example of a responsible money manager by paying bills on time, being a conscientious spender and an active saver. Children tend to emulate their parents' personal finance habits. Share this road map to financial responsibility with your kids.

- Talk openly about money with your kids. Communicate your values and experiences with money. Encourage them to ask you questions, and be prepared to answer them - even the tough ones. See this list of eight ways to talk openly with your kids about saving money

- Explain the difference between needs and wants, the value of saving and budgeting and the consequences of not doing so.

- Open a savings account for your children and take them with you to make deposits, so they can learn how to be hands-on in their money management.

- Let friends and family know about your child's savings goal. They'll be more likely to give cash for special occasions, which means more trips to the bank.

- Engage your community. Many schools, banks and community organizations share your commitment to creating a money-savvy generation. Engage a coalition of support to provide youth with the education they need to succeed.

The American Bankers Association provides financial education initiatives and resources that help bankers make their communities better.

The association's signature initiatives, Teach Children to Save and Get Smart About Credit, bring bankers and students together to increase financial education.

Long honored as 50-Year Banker

BY JOCELYN CARBY
TEXAS BANKERS FOUNDATION

AUSTIN - The Texas Bankers Foundation, the philanthropic arm of the Texas Bankers Association, honored Don Long of Ozona with the 50-Year Banker Award during TBA's 131st Annual Convention on April 17 in Austin. This prestigious award honors bankers with a half century or more of service and dedication to the banking industry.

Upon graduating from Texas Tech University in 1963, Long became an agricultural representative and office trainee for First National Bank in Tucumcari, N.M. In 1971, he took a position as Trust and Loan officer at the First National Bank of Rio Arriba, N.M.

Returning to his home state of Texas in 1973, Long accepted a position as vice president at the First National Bank in Memphis; two years later, he became president of First State Bank in Memphis.

In 1979, Long joined a small group of Seminole citizens to form a new bank, The First National Bank of Seminole, which subsequently became a holding company.

He joined Ozona National Bank in 1985 as president and CEO; in 2000, Long retired from active duties. However, he has remained on the bank's board of directors having served for 30 years.

Serving Texas banks since 1885, the Texas Bankers Association is the largest and oldest state bankers association in the nation.

"It's not an easy decision," Gallego said. "It was made much easier by the fact that my wife and son are going to make this a team effort."

"We're all in."

ASU-SBDC financial statements class Tuesday

The ASU-SBDC (Angelo State University Small Business Development Center) is excited to host the training event "Understanding Financial Statements" Tuesday, May 5, at 6 p.m. for $15.

What are your financial statements saying about your business's health?

Learn how to understand your financial statements and how to use them to determine how you can make changes to increase profits and overall success.

Attendees will learn how to read basic financial statement formats such as balance sheets, income statements, and cash flow statements, in addition to analysis tools such as breakeven points and ratio analysis to learn more about their business.

Seating for participants is limited so you must register in advance.

To find out more about this program, or to register, call the ASU-SBDC at (325) 942-2098 or register online at www.sbdc.angelo.edu

What is a stroke?

Stroke is a disease that affects the arteries leading to and within the brain. It is the No. 4 cause of death and a leading cause of disability in the United States.

A stroke occurs when a blood vessel that carries oxygen and nutrients to the brain is either blocked by a clot or bursts (or ruptures). When that happens, part of the brain cannot get the blood (and oxygen) it needs, so it and brain cells die.

Stroke can be caused either by a clot obstructing the flow of blood to the brain (called an ischemic stroke) or by a blood vessel rupturing and preventing blood flow to the brain (called a hemorrhagic stroke).

A TIA (transient ischemic attack), or "mini stroke", is caused by a temporary clot.

The brain is an extremely complex organ that controls various body functions. If a stroke occurs and blood flow can't reach the region that controls a particular body function, that part of the body won't work as it should.

Think you are having a stroke? Call 9-1-1 immediately.

F.A.S.T. is an easy way to remember the sudden signs of stroke. When you can spot the signs, you'll know that you need to call 9-1-1 for help right away. F.A.S.T. is:

- Face Drooping - Does one side of the face droop or is it numb? Ask the person to smile. Is the person's smile uneven?

- Arm Weakness - Is one arm weak or numb? Ask the person to raise both arms. Does one arm drift downward?

- Speech Difficulty - Is speech slurred? Is the person unable to speak or hard to understand? Ask the person to repeat a simple sentence, like "The sky is blue." Is the sentence repeated correctly?

- Time to call 9-1-1 - If someone shows any of these symptoms, even if the symptoms go away, call 9-1-1 and get the person to the hospital immediately. Check the time so you'll know when the first symptoms appeared.

Gerald Creel, director of the rehab, ER, stroke unit at Shannon Medical Center is available to speak about stroke symptoms, treatments and prevention to any group. For more information, call Creel at (325) 481-8581.

lost its pastor, so Martin said he had to "learn through experience."

"It was very difficult. I learned a lot in how to do things the hard way," he said.

Martin, who studied music and theology at Baptist University of the Americas in San Antonio, has also worked with at risk youth at Boysville, led Disciple Now events at several churches and served on the summer staff at Heart of Texas Baptist Encampment in Brownwood for four years and Alto Frio Baptist Encampment in Leakey for two years.

In fact, it was at a summer camp where Martin met his wife Janie. The couple have been married for almost five years and have three children, Darius, 3, Cyrus 1 and newborn daughter Karsyn Marie.

When Martin got the call to come to Ozona, he had to look it up on a map.

"It wasn't near the coast. It wasn't near anywhere. Ozona chose me," Martin said. "We prayed about it and God opened the door, and we have felt at home since the first day we arrived."

Since his arrival, Martin has been getting to know the youth of Ozona. He has been seen at lunch on the middle and high school campuses visiting with students, along with Lions and Lady Lions sporting events.

"I want to talk to the students and let them know who I am and that I am here," he said.

First Baptist Youth meet every Wednesday at 6 p.m. and Sundays at 9:45 a.m.

He also has activities planned for the summer.

From June 3-6, students will travel to Alto Frio Baptist Encampment for a mission trip, where they will work in the camp.

Martin said the students will return July 20-24 to attend the camp.

"I want them to help and give back to the camp they will be attending later," Martin said.

Also planned is Youth Evangelism Conference June 19-20 in Burleson, Texas and Rock the Desert Aug. 5-8 in Midland.

"I'm excited to be here and everyone is welcome," Martin said.

For more information, call First Baptist Church of Ozona at 392-5555.

Game Warden Field Notes

COMPILED FROM TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE DEPARTMENT LAW ENFORCEMENT REPORTS.

INTO THE WOODS

A Jasper County game warden received a call from a deer lease member who reported several people trespassing on his lease. When the warden arrived he immediately saw about 50 trespassers on ATVs; most fled when they saw the warden. Other wardens were called in and on ATVs tracked the trespassers across the 18,000-acre deer lease, eventually apprehending 15 individuals.

WILL GET FOOLED AGAIN

Two game wardens were patrolling Pecan Bayou for fishing and water safety violations when they noticed a car parked down by the water.

The car appeared unoccupied, though its passenger door was open. As the two wardens approached the car, they saw a male in the passenger seat throw what looked like a meth pipe out the door and onto the ground. One warden called out to the male, as well as the female in the driver seat, while the other warden picked up the pipe, which was still warm to the touch.

The wardens arrested both individuals for possession of a controlled substance.

The male had a small plastic bag containing meth in his wallet, which the female said she and her partner had just bought and smoked. The male had only been out of state jail for three months for related charges.

SENATE OKS BODY CAMERA BILL

The Texas Senate on April 23 passed SB 158, legislation authored by Sen. Royce West, D-Dallas, that creates a framework for the use of body cameras by police officers.

The cameras, to be worn by officers to record interactions between them and members of the public, may help "restore credibility and trust in our law enforcement agencies," West said.

While West's bill does not mandate that police departments adopt the use of body cameras, it does create a grant program at the Office of the Governor that local law enforcement agencies can apply for to help offset the cost of purchasing equipment.

During floor debate, West said that documenting encounters between police officers and citizens reduces complaints against police, incidents of lethal force and lawsuits against law enforcement. "People act different on camera," he said.

INJECTION WELL HEARINGS PLANNED

Southern Methodist University on April 21 announced an SMU-led seismology team has found that "high volumes of wastewater injection combined with brine extraction from natural gas wells is the most likely cause of earthquakes occurring near Azle, Texas, from late 2013 through spring 2014."

On April 24, the oil and gas industry-regulating Texas Railroad Commission directed the agency's hearings division to initiate proceedings requiring the operators of two disposal wells in the area of Azle, 17 miles northwest of Fort Worth, to "show cause" why the injection permits for the wells should not be cancelled and the wells ordered shut-in, due to an alleged connection raised by new seismic research between ongoing operation of the wells and seismic activity in the vicinity.

Public Notice

Q&A

Are internet-only public notices sufficient?

No. The internet is a valuable resource, but it's not a viable stand-alone source for public notices.

Newspapers have been printing public notices in Texas since 1836. Generations of Texans have come to expect their notices in print. And now Texas papers provide this crucial service in print AND online...at no extra charge.

With newspapers, more people NOTICE their public notices.

And that, after all, is what notice is about in the first place.
