Early voting on school bond continues through Friday, Election Day Tuesday

BY MELISSA PERNER
 THE OZONA STOCKMAN

Early voting for the Crockett County CCSD $5 million Bond Election and the State Constitutional Amendment Election runs through Friday, Nov. 3.

Crockett County Voters can cast their ballots from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday, including the noon hour, at the courthouse annex.

Election Day voting will be 7 a.m.-7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 7. Polling places are: Precinct 1 - Crockett County Courthouse Annex; Precinct 2 - Crockett County Senior Center; Precinct 3 - Crockett County Civic Center; Precinct 4 - Ozona Chamber of Commerce Visitor Center.

A town hall meeting about the school bond was held Oct. 26 at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Local citizens asked Superintendent Raul Chavarria numerous questions, including "what will the bond money be used for?"

Chavarria said he believes that question is asked by many thinking that the school district has plans to buy more buses or build something that has not been disclosed.

"The simple answer is that the bond money will be used to make up the difference that has been lost in ASATR State Funding. By replacing the money that we have budgeted for maintenance and transportation with bond funds, we can make up the difference that we have been shorted by the state," Chavarria said.

Chavarria said the district has lost $2 million in Additional State Aid for Tax Reduction funding. He told the small crowd at the town hall that is the equivalent to 20-25 teaching positions in the district.

"We wouldn't have come to our voters if we didn't need to. The CCCSD School Board is committed to spend money wisely and frugally. The proposed bond is there to allow us to keep our district on good financial footing and to cover any unforeseen expenses that

Lions take down Eagles

BY MELISSA PERNER
 THE OZONA STOCKMAN

The Ozona Lions picked up their first district win in a 34-6 rout of the Eldorado Eagles Friday night.

"It feels pretty good. We didn't do as good as we could have done, but we came out with the win," said Quarterback Alec Lara.

Lara was 7-12 for 87 yards on passing, including two touchdowns. He also carried the ball 16 times for 70 yards.

While the score reflected a victory, Athletic Director and Head Coach Kyle Freeman said Ozona still has mistakes to fix

Proposed Constitutional Amendments on the ballot

On Nov. 7, 2017, Texans have the ability to shape the Texas Constitution by voting on seven proposed amendments.

Early voting is already underway, and runs from Oct. 23, 2017 through Nov. 3, 2017.

Below is a summary of the topic of each proposed measure.

I encourage you to spend time beforehand reviewing any additional details to these amendments so that you can make educated, informed decisions at the polls.

PROPOSITION 1

Provides certain disabled veterans or their surviving spouses with property tax exemptions. Proposition 1 would allow a disabled veteran or their surviving spouse to receive a property tax exemption if their house was donated or sold to them at less than market value by a charity.

PROPOSITION 2

Authorizes several changes to current standards surrounding home equity. Proposition 2 would establish a lower amount for expenses that can be charged to a borrower and remove certain financing expense limitations for a home equity loan, establish certain authorized lenders to make a home equity loan, change certain options for the refinancing of home equity loans, change the threshold for an advance of a home equity line of credit, and allow home equity loans on agricultural homesteads.

PROPOSITION 3

Limits the service of certain appointed officeholders after the expiration of the person's term of office. Proposition 3 would limit political appointees to only serve beyond their term in office until the ending of the legislative session that follows the expiration date of their term.

PROPOSITION 4

Requires a court to provide notice to the attorney general of a challenge to a state statute. Proposition 4 authorizes the legislature to require a court to provide notice to the attorney general of a challenge to the constitutionality of a state statute and allows the legislature to prescribe a waiting period before the court may enter a judgment holding the statute unconstitutional.

PROPOSITION 5

Permits professional sports team charitable foundations to conduct charitable raffles. Proposition 5 would permit the foundations of sports teams to conduct charitable raffles at games hosted at their home venue.

PROPOSITION 6

Provides a property tax exemption to the surviving spouse of a first responder who is either killed or fatally injured in the line of duty. Proposition 6 would provide relief to the families of fallen first responders by exempting the surviving spouse of a fallen first responder from all or part of the market value of their home.

PROPOSITION 7

Permits credit unions and other financial institutions to award prizes to promote savings. Proposition 7 would allow qualifying banks, credit unions, and other financial institutions to conduct promotional activities, including raffles, if it encourages money savings.

Deliver us from evil

Did you see where Amazon, the fourth most valuable company in the world, bought Whole Foods? This has the trillion dollar grocery industry all atwitter and even has Wal Mart shakin' in its shorts. So much so that it came up with the idea of delivering the groceries you order online right to your refrigerator. This is the kind of idea that gets hatched in long meetings around big tables by dudes in low shoes whose phones are smarter than they are.

Wal Mart says the groceries will be delivered by a company called Deliv but I'd worry about any company that can't even spell Deliver. Supposedly the drivers will have a one-time access code into your home to stock your shelves and you can watch the delivery on your phone from anywhere on the globe. I assume that would include watching your housepest take a bio break.

Personally, I don't like the concept because going grocery shopping is the only time I take my wife anywhere and it would mean I'd never get to read the checkout literature. I don't think Wal Mart has thought this idea through or how it might work out in the great spaces in between places. For example...

A ranch woman places her order on WalMart.com because she had to bale hay all day and didn't have time to shop. Later that day out where the hard road ends, there are no numbered streets, and the voice on the GPS goes silent, the male Deliv driver gets lost and being male, he refuses to stop to ask directions. It didn't really and the HoHos, chocolate chip ice cream, and Twinkies had congealed into big blobs of sugar. It took the driver 30 minutes to unlock the secret to opening the first of several tight barbed wire gates and his grocery apron hardly provided adequate protection.

IT'S THE PITTS

With dripping blood oozing from pricks all over his arms he looked like he'd been attacked by a paper shredder. Then the Deliv driver was chased back into his van by what he later described to his boss as, "a grotesque monster that must have weighed ten tons." Actually, she was just a pet mare looking for a carrot or an apple.

When he finally arrived at the house he was greeted by an assortment of curs who attacked the van with rigor. The driver sacrificed a package of hamburger and threw small chunks out the window to matter because there was no sign of anyone anyway. You can't really blame the driver for getting lost because all the screen on his phone said to do was, "turn left at the mail box that looks like it went three rounds with a baseball bat."

He finally turned down a dirt corduroy road that looked promising but after a half mile all the groceries were covered in dust, the milk had jiggled into butter detract them. Then he grabbed two of the six bags and made a run for the door and quickly gained access to the house through a screen porch door with the dogs nipping at his heels. The yard was littered with groceries that had fallen from a broken grocery bag.

He hadn't even made it out of the mud room before stepping into a mouse trap, and as he was trying to find room in a refrigerator filled with colostrum and antibiotics he heard the distinct click of a firearm. He looked up into the barrel of a Purdy double barrel shotgun.

"Start talking mister," said the little old lady holding the valuable gun, "and this had better be good!"

"Uh, are you Nora?"

"Wrong bucko, there's no Nora here." To make a long story short, it had taken two hours to deliver $100 worth of groceries to the wrong el rancho. The van now needed shocks, a paint job, a new windshield and a new driver because the old one quit immediately after the nearly fatal ordeal.

Two days later you could hear a man in the farmhouse that never got their groceries yell, "Where's the ketchup? And we're out of toilet paper too!"

About the same time the family who mistakenly got the delivery came home to find their valuable gun collection had been stolen, probably by a guy matching the description of one ex grocery delivery man.

Paxton asks high court to approve court-drawn House maps

AUSTIN — Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton on Oct. 27 filed a brief urging the U.S. Supreme Court to reverse a lower court ruling that required nine of the state's 150 House districts to be redrawn.

In September, the U.S. Supreme Court temporarily stayed the federal district court's ruling. That allowed Texas to continue to use the existing maps while the redistricting case remains pending.

Candidate filings for the 2018 elections begin next month. Early primary voting begins in February.

"We're eager for the Supreme Court to review all the facts in this case, which are clearly on our side," Paxton said. "The portion of the House redistricting map invalidated by the lower court is the map the same court drew and approved in 2012 before the Legislature adopted it in 2013. It's been used in the last three election cycles in Texas, and there is no sound reason for that to change."

In a separate ruling, the Supreme Court also temporarily blocked a lower court ruling that invalidated two of Texas' 36 congressional seats. Paxton filed a brief on Oct. 17 asking the high court to reverse the district court's ruling in that case.

SPEAKER WON'T RUN AGAIN

House Speaker Joe Straus, R-San Antonio, on Oct. 25 announced his decision not to seek re-election in November 2018.

Straus is almost halfway through his record fifth consecutive two-year term as speaker.

The chamber will elect a new leader in the next regular legislative session, which begins in January 2019. State Reps. John Zerwas, R-Richmond, and Phil King, R-Weatherford, are the first two members to declare their intentions to run for the leadership post. Zerwas is chair of the state budget-writing House Committee on Appropriations. King chairs the House Committee on Homeland Security and Public Safety.

Straus has been noted as a consensus builder, able to bring Democrats and Republicans together in decision-making processes. His "big tent" style has overwhelmed challenges to his leadership and to his parliamentary abilities in moving certain bills through the process while slowing others, such as the "bathroom bill," last spring.

Gov. Greg Abbott released a statement following Straus's announcement, saying: "Joe Straus has served with distinction for both the people in his district and for the Texas House of Representatives.

I thank Speaker Straus for his service and for his commitment to the State of Texas."

INTERIM CHARGES POSTED

Speaker Straus on Oct. 23 released the full list of 230 House interim charges, assigning almost every committee at least one charge related to the state's recovery

OZONA GARDEN CLUB NEWS

Auction held benefitting scholarship fund

BY CHARLOTTE HARRELL
OZONA GARDEN CLUB

Fourteen members of the Ozona Garden Club met at the Senior Center Oct. 9. President Belinda Wilkins conducted the business meeting, and two beautiful table settings were presented by hostesses Colbey Bunger and Sheri Hill. Their beautiful refreshments were enjoyed by all present.

Blanca Martinez had agreed to hold a wreath making program but had to decline at the last minute. Instead, an auction was held using various items that Charlotte Harrell donated. $130 was added to the scholarship fund.

President Belinda Wilkins presented two lovely gifts to Charlotte Harrell for her service to NGC, TGC, TGC District VIII and Ozona Garden Club for the past 20 years: a James Avery charm for her bracelet and an engraved crystal jewelry box. Charlotte expressed her thanks and gratitude for all the meaningful associations and friendships made while working in garden club activities. She hopes to maintain contact with everyone from Ozona and also invites anyone coming to Virginia to pay her a visit in her new home.

The Nov. 13 meeting will be held at the Civic Center in order to make floral arrangements for residents of the Care Center. The club will provide fresh flowers, with members bringing clippers, floral foam, and bud vases.

Members present were Sandra Bebee, Colbey Bunger, Arlene Clayton, Charlotte Harrell, Sheri Hill, Virginia Howell, Pamela Maresch, Jean Odom, Jean Reardon, Sandra Schneider, Vicki Stokes, Belinda Wilkins, Esther Williams and Rosalind Williams.

Moving Forward By Giving Back

James B. & Lois R. Archer Charitable Foundation and Sonora Bank

James and Lois Archer will be the first to tell you that they consider themselves to be among the very fortunate. And, in typical West Texan style, you will never hear them talk about the hard work or the sacrifices it took to get there. They understand that in order for individuals and communities to move forward, we must all give back.

Sonora Bank has also harnessed that same culture of giving back by promoting and supporting volunteerism across West Texas. The bank and our employees are there helping non-profit organizations through donations and time. It's a big part of the foundation we were built on.

Electrolytes are key to normal body functions

Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia defines an electrolyte as, "a substance that produces an electrically conducting solution when dissolved in a polar solvent, such as water... This includes most soluble salts, acids, and bases... Sodium, potassium, chloride, calcium, magnesium, and phosphate are examples of electrolytes, informally known as 'lytes.'"

Inside the body's physiology, electrolytes serve to complete electrical exchanges both inside and outside the cell, and water is the medium with which electrical interactions take place. Elemental sodium (found in salt) is the main electrolyte found in fluid outside the cell and potassium is the main electrolyte inside the cell; both help to balance fluids and blood pressure.

Electrolyte replacement may be warranted and is especially indicated when someone has prolonged vomiting or diarrhea, and as maintenance after strenuous, athletic-type activity; and even when situations are less than extreme. Urination caused by extreme water consumption can flush elemental potassium from the body as well. There are commercial electrolyte solutions for sick children and for athletes (sports drinks) but beware, these commercial products often include only trace amounts of electrolytes.

"The primary ions of electrolytes are sodium (Na+), potassium (K+), calcium (Ca2+), magnesium (Mg2+), chloride (Cl-), hydrogen phosphate (HPO42-), and hydrogen carbonate (HCO3-). The electric charge symbols of plus (+) and minus (-) indicate that the substance is ionic in nature and has an imbalanced distribution of electrons, the result of chemical dissociation."

"All known higher life-forms require a subtle and complex electrolyte balance between the intracellular and extracellular environments... Such gradients affect and regulate the hydration of the body as well as blood pH, and are critical for nerve and muscle function. Various mechanisms exist in living species that keep the concentrations of different electrolytes under tight control." - Wikipedia.

Electrolytes play some very significant roles in the body that include:

Calcium - helps muscle to contract, nerve signaling, blood clotting, cell division, and bone and tooth formation and maintenance;

Potassium - helps keep blood pressure levels stable, regulates heart contractions, helps with muscle functions. Wikipedia advises, "Potassium ions are very important to organisms... The ions send messages from cells to other cells. It helps biological membranes depolarize. This means go from a negative to a positive electrical charge. This is needed for muscles to contract (get shorter and move things). It is needed for the heart to beat (push blood through blood vessels)."

Magnesium - is needed for muscle contractions, heart rhythms, nerve functioning, bone-building and strength, the reduction of anxiety, in digestion, and keeping a stable protein-to-fluid balance;

Sodium - helps regulate fluid balance and nerve signaling, and is used in muscle contractions;

Chloride - regulates fluid balance.

With so many varying roles in the body, even minor disparities can cause changes that will be clear. The type of electrolyte deficiency and its level of presence in any given combination of other electrolyte deficiencies can cause numerous symptoms to occur - muscle aches, spasms, twitches and weakness; restlessness; anxiety; frequent headaches; feely very thirsty; insomnia; fever; heart palpitations or irregular heartbeats; digestive issues like cramps, constipation or diarrhea; confusion and trouble concentrating; bone disorders; joint pain; blood pressure changes; changes in appetite or body weight; fatigue (including chronic fatigue syndrome); numbness and pain in joints; and dizziness, especially when standing up suddenly.

Potassium is the most commonly deficient electrolyte. The Recommended Daily Amount (RDA) of potassium for adults is around 4,700 mg. One shouldn't have to worry about eating too much of potassium because there is no upper limit for healthy adults, unless taken in supplement form. Be advised, some potassium compounds can be dangerous, some salt substitutes can be very high in potassium and others can be lacking. Be cognizant of what works well for you.

Another electrolyte/mineral commonly deficient in modern diets is magnesium. The RDA for healthy adults is 450 mg a day. You should consult your doctor or health care provider if you have kidney disease or taking diuretics.

Sodium has always suffered a bad rap. But the truth is, your body needs adequate sodium because insulin levels effect sodium levels, too. The recommended intake amount is 3,000-5,000 mg (3 - 5 grams) of elemental sodium occurring naturally in food and in supplemental form. Some people require even more sodium. Don't be afraid to use salt, and even if you feel you need more, drink 1-2 cups of bouillon or broth a day, or what works for you.

Electrolytes are significant elements in the maintenance of health and in the quality of life. Seek out your optimum levels as they will differ from person to person.

Here's to your health.

WHY I LOVE THIS TIME OF YEAR

The leaves have started to turn and even fall to the ground. It is a beautiful time of year because the hot summer is gone and the refreshing cool air of fall is here. Most farmers and ranchers have their work done and crops laid by. It is the time of year that the early settlers in 1621 took to celebrate the good harvests. Even though the previous winter had been very severe, provisions very short and over half of their group died, they still found a way to give thanks for what God had provided. Families, friends and local Indians gathered together to enjoy a time of celebration and thanksgiving. The women prepared different dishes from the harvested crops and from the berries they had picked. The men had gone hunting so turkey and venison were on the menu. Years later President Abraham Lincoln on October 3, 1863 made a proclamation. He said, "The year that is drawing toward its close has been filled with the blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies. To these bounties, which are so constantly enjoyed that we are prone to forget the source from which they come-"It is the Thanksgiving Season and we are planning and looking forward to spending time with our family and friends. Let's not forget where all the wonderful blessings come from, "Matthew 6:33, Psalm 105:1&2 and 107:1-9".

OZONA SENIOR HAPPENINGS

Next Bingo Social Nov. 20

BY BRENDA NEWTON
SENIOR CENTER DIRECTOR

How did you do with the spooks? We were gone for the weekend, so I don't know how that went. I am beginning to think everyone is too busy to work too hard on carnivals at the park. That use to be a huge celebration.

I have a really big secret to tell you about your headlights on your cars. Buy a can of mosquito spray (the personal spray) and save a couple of dryer sheets from your laundry. Spray your headlights with the spray and wipe with the dryer sheet. Bright and shiny just like new. I know because I tried it myself.

I have had a few puzzles brought to the center. Thanks for that. Please do not throw your puzzles away. Let us have them. Thanks.

I still have copies of the Senior Sourcebook for 2017 that lists all the services available for us older folks.

Niki should be here next week. If you have forgotten the time, it is 10:30 a.m. Tuesday. We are looking forward to having her back on a regular basis.

We still have Bingo on Thursday afternoons at 2 p.m. Bring your nickels and play as many cards as you can handle at a nickel a card per game. We serve Cokes and popcorn and laugh and hope we get a bingo. We have a sweet person that gives us prizes for the blackout bingo. She has made our bingo a lot more fun. Thanks.

The next Bingo Social will be 6:30 p.m. Nov. 20. We will be serving Hobo Stew with cornbread made by JoAnn Babbitt, Linda Rodriguez and Belinda Wilkins. For dessert we will have peach cobbler.

The center will open at 8:30 a.m. and close at 4:30 p.m.

Monday - 9:30 a.m. Balance Exercise

Tuesday - 10:30 a.m. Exercise with Niki Bishop (skip next week)

Game Warden Field Notes

COMPILED FROM TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE DEPARTMENT LAW ENFORCEMENT REPORTS.

I'M HEADED TO JAIL

A Smith County game warden was on patrol when he drove up on a van parked in the middle of a county road with its emergency flashers on. When he approached the van, he realized the driver was standing in the door urinating in the middle of the road. When asked what he was doing, the driver stated he was headed to jail because he was intoxicated. He also admitted to being arrested just five days prior by state park police for DWI. The driver was subsequently arrested for driving while intoxicated. The charges are pending.

RAPID RECOVERY

On Oct. 5, a Johnson County game warden was patrolling when a call came over the radio of an inmate escaping. He responded to the area and quickly spotted the escapee. As soon as the convict spotted the game warden truck, he turned and ran into the bushes. The warden advised dispatch of his position and gave chase. After about 10 minutes searching the field, the warden discovered the escaped inmate lying in brush under a tree and was able to take him into custody.

come up, without dipping into our fund balance," Chavarria said.

The bond ballot reads: "The issuance of $5,000,000 of school building bonds to construct, acquire and equip school buildings and purchase school buses for the Crockett County Consolidated Common School District Number 1, and levying the tax in payment thereof."

"The reason that the bond wording lists buses and buildings on it is because we left that open in case we had an emergency need to purchase a bus, or if we needed to do extensive maintenance work on one of our buildings," Chavarria said.

Chavarria said the biggest expenses the district has is in maintenance and transportation. Last year, the district had an unexpected expense of about $50,000 to replace the air conditioning and heating units in the OHS Davidson Gym.

"If not for the wording of the bond, as listed above, we would have had to dip into our fund balance to pay for those new units," Chavarria said. "This year we had to replace an engine in one of our buses that had over 200,000 miles on it. Again, we were able to use bond funds to pay for this repair."

In previous articles published in the Stockman, Chavarria has said the district does plan to purchase a truck for the agriculture department, maintain computer labs, purchase new computers and support for all campuses, purchasing teaching equipment and supplies for student use for all campuses, update the career and technology classes as nursing, food science and agriculture, address maintenance repairs throughout the district and continue with the updating of existing teaching housing.

Chavarria also said CCC-SD has one of the lowest tax rates in the area, but that the current tax rate of $1.06 is not enough to maintain the budget. He also said the district has cut $1 million from the district's budget, and plans on continue to cut more.

Chavarria also reminded the crowd that many school districts operate on rolling bonds, continually asking voters to pass bonds. Bond money is not subject to state recapture.

"The question is do we raise it on the maintenance and operation side and send over half back through Robin Hood, or do we raise it through a bond and keep 100 percent her in Crockett County?" Chavarria said.

For more information about the bond, call Chavarria at (325) 392-5501.

Joe Moody, D-El Paso, will serve as vice chair.

UPDATE: HURRICANE RECOVERY

Since Hurricane Harvey hit Texas in late August, federal and state agencies, local governmental bodies, volunteers and private property owners have been hard at work to return to normal the many stricken areas of the Lone Star State.

As of Oct. 26, according to information posted by the state-run Commission to Rebuild Texas, $5.83 billion in federal funds had been provided directly to Texans. That amount includes FEMA grants to households, National Flood Insurance Program claims payments and SBA disaster loans.

Also, some 882,935 individual assistance applications were received. FEMA's deadline to register for individual disaster assistance is Nov. 24 for the residents of 41 designated counties.

And, as of Oct. 27, some 51,416 individuals were taking advantage of FEMA's Transitional Sheltering Assistance. Some 145,737 individuals were counted as having visited Disaster Recovery Centers for assistance as of Oct. 26.

YOUTH VOTE IS ENCOURAGED

Texas Secretary of State Rolando Pablos on Oct. 25 issued a proclamation designating the first Friday of the early voting period as Student Voting Day.

More than 800 Texas high schools committed to assisting their eligible students in registering to vote, an effort supported by secretary of state's 2017 High School Voter Registration Initiative.

Early voting ends Nov. 3 for the Nov. 7 Uniform Election. More information can be found at www.votetexas.gov/
