

News of Baird PEOPLE & THINGS By E. M.

WE ARE TRYING to write this column as people from everywhere and from every walk of life are getting ready to pay their final respects to President John F. Kennedy who was slain Friday by one of the world's little people, and words do not come as readily as they usually do. The numbness which gripped the nation and the world when they realized the President was dead, refuses to leave.

WHEN WE LET OUR mind dwell on the incidents of the past few days we are led to wonder who is responsible for such a thing. In a way none of us is completely free from blame. We are living in an age when hatred replaces love for fellow man — an age where self come before others. If the death of President Kennedy makes us stop to think of the dangers which face us because of our own lack of love for country, for mankind and for God, he did not die in vain.

YES ALL OF US must share some of the blame for that which has befallen us. But, despite the enormity of our loss, the world will move on. It is our opinion that we will have an outstanding president in Lyndon Baines Johnson, and our country will profit greatly from his tenure in office. If any man is qualified to fill the vacancy created by the tragedy of last week, it is Lyndon Johnson. We pray that we have learned a lesson from the events of the past and that we shall all work more closely for a better America and a better world — one which will be free from malice and hatred.

SINCE THE WORLD will move on, there are one or two things we would mention here that you will want to attend. The American Legion post here is planning another chili supper and Judge B. H. Freeland has been prevailed upon to cook the chili for the occasion. The supper will be held December 12, from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the legion hall. The Hi-Lo quartet of Abilene will be on hand to present a program following the chili eating. Tickets will be on sale before the supper, and at the door, for $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for children. . . . Another thing you will be looking forward to is the Christmas Bazaar of the Wednesday Club to be held December 7, in the building just south of Boydston Hardware. A lot of pretty things and tasty items will be on sale.

THERE ARE SIX pretty puppies at the Bobby Stanley home that are looking for someone to give them a new home. Debbie and Paul Stanley, the younger members of the Stanley family, have reluctantly agreed to part with the pups. They will want a home with lots of love and care, because they are certainly accustomed to that.

THERE WILL BE plenty of football in the area which fans may want to attend this week. Thursday afternoon Graham and Snyder meet in a game in Abilene to decide the bi-district championship of the two districts. Also Thursday afternoon, the annual Turkey Day game between Texas and A&M will be telecast. Then Friday night Albany and Henrietta meet in Abilene in a 1-A quarter finals contest. Just take your choice.

HER MANY FRIENDS are congratulating Mrs. Iris Dennis of Baird for being selected as Abilene's "salesman of the week" last week. Mrs. Dennis works in the Infant's and Children's Wear department of Murphy's. Mrs. Dennis drives to her work in Abilene each day and has worked at the store since it was opened in Showcase Square. The Abilene Chamber of Commerce is sponsor of the contest.

Baird Girls Remain Unbeaten In Cage Play; Defeat Eula Tuesday

A couple of high scoring girls basketball teams got together at the Baird school gym Friday night and after four full quarters and one overtime period Baird's entry outscored Trent by a narrow 82-81 margin.

Baird was led in scoring by Paula Corn who tossed in 11 field goals and 12 free throws for 34 points. Barbara McAninch scored 28 points to lead the visitors and to take runner-up honors in the contest. McAninch was followed closely by Elaine Hass of Baird who had a good night at the free throw line, she made 16 of 21 attempts. Karen Bearden made 22 points for Baird.

Baird was ahead 26-23 at the end of the first quarter but was trailing at the half 49-41. Trent still led 68-62 at the beginning of the fourth and final quarter. Baird came back strong in the final quarter to tie the game at 78 points each. Baird outscored Trent 4-3 in the overtime period to take the contest.

It marked the second time the two teams had met during the week. Baird downed Trent at Trent Tuesday night 60-59, and chances are good that the two teams will meet two more times before the season is out in tournaments in the area.

In the "B" game which preceded the main event, Baird downed Trent 40-37. Peggy Gordon led Baird in scoring with 13 points but trailed Nelda Henegar of Trent who made 19. Joyce Howard scored 11 of Bairds points and Shirley Simmons scored 12. Marjie Westbrook finished out the scoring with four. Guards seeing action were Nadine Shelnett, Ann Barry, Judy Deason and Cathy Townsend.

In the game Friday night Baird made a good 72 per cent of their charity shots but scored less than 50 per cent of their tosses from the floor. Trent made 63 per cent of their free throw attempts, but scored a little better than 50 per cent from the floor.

Tuesday night at the Baird gym the Baird girls downed a good Eula team 71-59 with Paula Corn taking scoring honors with 37 points. Patty Jones was close on her heels with 36.

Baird led all the way, but did not enjoy a comfortable lead until the fourth quarter.

Eula put up a stout defense under the basket and forced Baird to shoot mainly from outside. It was not until the final period that Baird was able to penetrate. The locals made 24 of their points in that quarter.

Jones from Eula sank an amazing 22 free throws in 28 attempts. For Baird, Elaine Hass and Karen Bearden made 17 points each.

The next home game for Baird is December 10 when Wylie comes for games with both the boys and the girls.

Playing for the Baird team were Corn, Hass, Bearden, Vickey Jones, Sally Green, Yvonne Shelnett, Sue Howard, Betty Corn, Peggy Payne, Sharon Jeter and Dana Corn.

Bears Win Two Cage Contests

The Baird Bears downed the Putnam Panthers, 68-43, here Thursday night in a basketball game which gave the Bears a record of 1-1.

Tommy Barton was high for Baird with 15 points, while Scotter Esenhower also scored 15 points for Putnam.

In a girls' battle, Putnam scored a 39-36 victory over the Baird B team. Sharon Petty ripped through 20 points for Putnam while Vickie Jones scored 34 of Baird's 36 points.

Tuesday night at the Baird gym Eula downed the fighting Bears 78-75. Max Gordon was high for Baird with 28 points. Tommy Barton was close behind with 26. Don Steel led Eula in scoring and took game honors with 31 points.

Baird was playing without the services of two of its starters, Bobby Black and Tally Windham were still on the injured list and will probably not be ready for action for several games yet.

Monday night the Bears go to Putnam for games with Putnam's "A" and "B" teams.

Lone Star Gas Co. Laying Large Pipeline Through Callahan Co.

Deer hunters in the West Texas area aren't the only ones shooting these days. Lone Star Gas Company is also doing a lot of "shooting" — not with deer rifles but with 1500 to 1800 pounds of dynamite a day.

Pipeliner working north of Ranger are having to blast through solid rock to lay the 12 1/2 - mile, 16 - inch pipeline stretching through Gordon to Sweetwater. Total cost of the line is more than $5 million.

The line is slowly snaking, at a rate of about one-half a mile a day, through the rocky hills to a half-way point by the end of the year. The line started from Gordon on October 15 and by November 15, it had stretched 20 miles. It is scheduled to connect with a tap line at Hill Lake Storage Project north of Cisco by mid-December.

"We will soon be out of the solid rock with only scattered rock to worry about the rest of the way," according to J. W. Carpenter, superintendent of Lone Star's Pipe Line Department. "We will be hitting 35 to 40 per cent of rock until we get to Hill Lake and then about 10 per cent the rest of the way to Sweetwater.

"We are only making 3000 feet a day now but soon we will be able to make from 6000 to 8000 a day," he said.

The line, which will strengthen natural gas service to and from the Dallas-Fort Worth area, will connect with a tap line at Hill Lake so that natural gas can be put into storage from the line or withdrawn from the project and put into the line. The line also will connect with a 12-inch line north of Abilene which will strengthen the Abilene area and north to the Texas-Oklahoma border.

The line is under the supervision of G. M. Hargus, superintendent of the Ranger Pipe Line District, and D. O. Welch, superintendent of Abilene Pipe Line District.

All construction is in charge of J. T. Belknap of Irving, superintendent of Pipe Line Construction.

The line is due to be completed and ready for service by April 1, 1964.

Band Presented In Fall Concert At High School On Monday Night

Max Harper, director of the Baird High School Band, presented the band in concert at the high school auditorium Monday night before a large and appreciative audience.

The concert honored the Baird football team, the coaches and the pep squad with its leaders and sponsors. Comments from those in attendance gave the program a rating of "tops".

The program began with the playing of "Everything's Coming Up Roses" by John Warrington.

Following the opening number, The Star Spangled Banner was played in memory of President John F. Kennedy, who was slain by an assassin Friday.

The Grandiosa March followed and then a medley of novelty numbers, including Dance With Me Henry, Bleacher Boogie and Promotion was presented.

Billy Bollinger was featured in a drum solo arrangement. Following the solo, the band played Front and Center by Pat Lee and Bells Across the Gridiron by Harold Walters. Carol Lynn McGowan, student director, led the number.

Honored guests were recognized and praised for their work during the past football season, and Director Harper presented awards to the band officers, the drum major and the majorettes. Shout, Shout, by Meresca-Bodany was played by the band. Other numbers by the band included: Seventy-Six Trombones by Meredith Wilson, Pigskin

John Fitzgerald Kennedy . . .

A part of every American died at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, November 22nd, when John Fitzgerald Kennedy was pronounced dead by doctors in Dallas' Parkland Hospital of wounds received at the hands of an assassin, a hate filled man who had no love for America, no love for his fellow man or no love even for himself.

His cowardly attack removed, in a split second, the world's best loved and most highly respected individual. John Fitzgerald Kennedy is dead and in his place is a void which can never be filled. His deep concern for his fellow man, his great humanitarian spirit, his humble approach to the problems of people of all walks of life, made him a symbol to a world which is groping for light.

He brought dignity to his high office, and through him and his wise leadership, America gained in stature. Great leaders from the countries of the world gathered in Washington to pay homage to this great man. It was a fitting climax to a life of service to mankind, a climax that came all too soon.

The name of John Fitzgerald Kennedy will go down in history along with George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Franklin Delano Roosevelt as one of the truly great leaders of America. Washington fought for the freedom of his country; Jefferson fought for democracy and freedom from bigotry; Lincoln fought for freedom from slavery; Roosevelt fought for freedom from want. John Fitzgerald Kennedy fought for the dignity of mankind, regardless of race, color, nationality or status in life. He fought for freedom of country, freedom from bigotry, freedom from servitude and freedom from want, not only for Americans, but the peoples of all the world.

He was truly a great American and a devoted husband and father, and we express our deepest sympathy, and that of our community, to those who will miss him most: his wife, Jacqueline, his children, Caroline and John and others of his immediate family. May God imbue them with the courage of their slain loved one that they may withstand the years ahead. They and America have a great heritage from this good man who gave his life that others might have a better life. That heritage will help them and America through troubled times ahead.

John F. Kennedy is dead. Time alone can heal the broken hearts of the world and America will move on. As one great leader falls, another will forge ahead to take his place. And so it is in this hour of darkness. Lyndon Baines Johnson, a Texan who stands tall among men, has stepped forward to lead the people of America and the world to even greater heights, following in the footsteps of that good man who was sacrificed at the altar of hatred.

The forward steps of America need not falter. It behooves us to make certain that John F. Kennedy has not died in vain. Let us all put aside malice, hatred, bigotry and self esteem and follow the leadership of President Lyndon Johnson as he gives himself to the task. With the help of God, we will advance, and all peoples of the world will be free from bigotry, malice, hatred, servitude and want.

The Belle Plaine Story

By Jean Williams

CHAPTER III

"Be it remembered that on the 30th day of July A. D. 1877, and in the town of Callahan (City) and the state of Texas was begun and held in and for said county according to law, in a small wooden building belonging to Messrs Merchant McCoy & Co., and heretofore known as the voting place of precinct No. 1, of said county . . . a term of the county commissioners court of said county was held," wrote Isaac Shaw the Clerk of Callahan County as he recorded the minutes of the first meeting which was held after the organization and election of the county on July 3, 1877.

John Merchant, David McDonald, John Trent, B. L. Patterson were installed as commissioners for the four precincts of the county with J. R. Brown presiding as County Judge. J. L. Porter was sworn in as County Attorney while T. J. Norrell put on his sheriff's badge. John McDonald and W. N. Blair were sworn in as treasurer and assessor respectively. H. B. (Ky) Eubank became inspector of animals and hides and S. R. Dunigan as surveyor, completed the slate of officers elected by one hundred and seventy-five voters of the county.

When Judge J. H. Calhoun of Eastland county had granted the petition sent by the residents of Callahan the previous June, "paying for an order for an election for the organization and election of officers of Callahan county," he made it possible for these people who lived in central west Texas on the Divide between the Brazos and Colorado Rivers to make their land more than a name on a map in the land office at Austin.

The second meeting of the Commissioner's Court was held at Belle Plaine across the trail in August where Isaac Shaw made mention in the minutes that "J. R. Brown and B. L. Patterson were designated to make settlement with Eastland county concerning tax payment". The Tax Assessor at Eastland had partially completed the assessment of Callahan's taxes before the organization of the county, in order to secure the release of the tax rolls, the representatives agreed to pay the Assessor at Eastland his pro rata rate for making the assessment out of the first five hundred dollars collected in the county.

Mention was also made that a letter was sent to Governor Hubbard recommending that Jasper McCoy, John Gilliland and James Tucker were nominated by the Court to appraise the alternate section of Railroad Land in the county for the common school. The Court also recommended that Sam McCoy, Benjamin Heath and Erasmus Paine, as disinterested parties, be allowed to appraise the value of the Deaf, Dumb and Lunatic Asylum Lands situated in the county.

Nelson Warren and R. M. Black were appointed as justices of the peace while John Hart, J. O. Oglesby and James Windham were deputized as constables.

Though not stated in the minutes, a rivalry between the towns of Callahan City and Belle Plaine had developed, both factions wanted the county seat.

Callahan City at this time, had only the stores of Tucker, Terry, Merchant and McCoy, with the post office as the main attraction, while the Rice Brothers Hotel, the aroma of pork chops and hot biscuits that wafted from Hog Jackson's recently established boarding house and the whiskey keard at Cheatham's and McCarty's Double O Saloon were more inviting to the male contingent of the county than just stopping for mail and supplies at Callahan City.

John Merchant built a log house in the western part of the settlement where Professor W. J. Westmoreland and his wife would soon open the first school for the children of the community. Reverend Austin's Sunday School was drawing more families of the county when they came to join him in worship outside his shop.

This time Clabe Merchant was not "pointing on a star", his mind was set on having an honest to goodness town arise from this little settlement and become the county seat.

Nelson Smith had "filed" on land that comprised the settlement and was persuaded to give option for its purchase as a town site to the Merchants and William Parvin, now the postmaster at Callahan City, who also shared their views, as agents for the county if the settlement were chosen as the county seat.

Parvin then set out to mark the boundaries of the town. Out of the southwest quarter section of the land Nelson Smith had given option on, he surveyed and plotted the land into sixty-four city blocks, three of these set aside for a public school, a square and a seminary.

The main street Callahan Avenue running east and west as well as Texas Avenue running north and south were to be one hundred feet wide, while Apple, Cherry, Tank and Sankle Streets which formed the city limits were to be a width of fifty feet.

Church, Olive, Oak, Professor, College and Brier running north and south as well as Belle, Hackberry, Buffalo, Mesquite, Rosebud and Antelope going east and west at sixty foot widths completed the thoroughfares.

The school block, public square and seminary blocks were located in the east part of town starting at Hackberry Street on the north, going east and west, with business blocks between the school and square were platted in a line to Rosebud on the south and bordered by Professor and College Streets on the east and west. Texas Avenue was placed one block west of Professor Street and Callahan Avenue intersected it and divided the town.

Copies of the proposed town plat were made to be used as a persuading factor in swinging the selection of the county seat.

The Merchants, the Flores, Cutbirths, Campbell, Hill, McFarlans, Strattons, as well as John Trent and the Andersons of Eagle Cove, all the Windham family at Tecumseh as well as their relatives the Gillillands, J. P. Brightwell and E. L. Huffman favored Belle Plaine. The people living in the settlement, Reverend Austin, his son-in-law John Blakley, Hog Jackson, McCarty, the Rice Brothers and Nelson Smith were also in accord with the plan.

No fools, these backers of Belle Plaine, they knew once copies of the town plat were passed out in the eastern part of the county where opposition was strong, they would make Callahan City look like a bleached buffalo bone in comparison to Belle Plaine.

Until an election could be held to settle the issue, once and for all there was little the Commissioner's could do about carrying on business for the county, they had to have a building to put the records in and books for the records couldn't be delivered until there was a court house to put them in.

The short-sighted backers of Callahan City didn't have anything to offer voters except the Post Office and a couple of mercantile stores, while the opposing faction, though still on paper had a well planned town to offer. The post office couldn't compete with the proposed city blocks and well planned streets.

They hemmed and hawed and didn't even realize that they could have scheduled a celebration for election day at Callahan City until after word filtered in that Belle Plaine was so certain of the vote that everybody in the county was invited to a barbeque and all night dance to celebrate the occasion on election day.

Even the wives of the opposition were against them, they might have their conviction about where the county seat would be, and how they would vote, but they knew their wives would never tolerate missing the first big social event that was to take place in the county.

These usually quiet and docile women had been in this lonely land long enough to yearn for a bit of frivolity. A chance to put on visiting clothes and socialize was not to be forgone no matter what decision their men might make on election day.

QUICKIE LESSONS IN GRAMMAR By Lloyd D. Huff

Prepositional Phrases

All prepositional phrases are used as either adjectival modifiers of substantives (nouns or pronouns) or adverbial modifiers of verbs, adjectives, or other adverbs.

She said in the desk, not on the desk. (direct object) and After class will be satisfactory. (subject) These usages are idiomatic and probably elliptical for something like "She said, 'Put it in the desk, not on the desk.'"

The box on the desk contains some stamps. (The phrase "on the desk" distinguishes or describes "box"; hence, as a modifier of a noun, it acts as an adjectival phrase.)

ifier of a noun, it acts as an adjectival phrase.)

This is a picture of me on horseback. (The phrase "on horseback" describes the pronoun (objective case) "me" and therefore acts as an adjective.)

Sometimes the prepositional phrase appears with a linking verb to describe the subject in what may be an idiomatic usage but which is certainly common enough and good form:

He is under the weather. The train was on time.

The parents were in favor of the rule.

I must be about my Father's business.

Adverbially, the phrases appear as follows:

He worked during the morning on his car. (Here "during the morning" and "on his car" both tell something about work- (verb) and hence are adverbial.)

This tapestry looks dark around the edges. (Here "dark" a predicate adjective acting with the linking verb "looks" to describe "tapestry," is modified in turn by the prepositional phrase "around the edges"; and anything modifying an adjective has to be an adverb.)

What would life be without solid, dependable, glorious prepositional phrases?

If you have questions to ask or information to add, please write Lloyd D. Huff at McMurry College or in care of this newspaper.

Tecumseh Topics By Mrs. Lillian Crawford

(Held over from last week.) Well it's good to hear the showers of rain falling this Tuesday morning, Nov. 19. Hope the clouds stay around for a while and we have rain enough to fill the tanks and creeks once again.

Thinking of rain I just happen to think of what our four year old grandson (Jimmie) ask me one day if I know how we got rain. Naturally I said no, for I was already suspecting he had the answer. This was his answer, "when Jesus gets ready for it to rain, he just turns his hand over and it starts raining."

Mrs. Kate Crawford and Irene are feeling some better after a few weeks of flu. They visited Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harris Sunday also among the visitors were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sherrod.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Gordon, Peggy, Max and Howard visited relatives in Abilene Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Cox have returned home following a trip to Hot Springs and other points of interest in Arkansas.

Bonds Sales Below Goal In County

October Savings Bond sales in Callahan County totaled $9,412. This announcement was made recently by Mr. Howard Farmer, Chairman of the County Savings Bonds Committee.

Total sales in this county during the first 10 months of 1963 were $83,855 which represented 44.1% of the 1963 sales goal.

Texas Bond sales to date amounted to $122,667,337 or 81.4% of the yearly sales goal.

"According to information received from the Treasury Department, 1963 Bond sales are hitting new peacetime highs. During the first 10 months of the year Bond sales nationally have increased 11% over the same period in 1962. While sales have shown a fine increase, it is also noted that Bond redemptions have decreased 2.7% during the same period," Chairman Farmer reported.

Union Usuals And Unusuals By Veda Yarbrough
Hi neighbor. Did you get some more rain? We did, about 2 1/2 inches, which was just what we needed it seems. Weldon Isenhowers have their part of the R. D. Williams house moved out and joined onto their house. It is going to look real nice when it is all finished. Mrs. Clint McIntyre of Clyde visited with John and Roma McIntyre Sunday and until Monday afternoon. She, John and I went around this morning to see all the cows and grain. We enjoyed it very much, at least she and I did. We stopped by to see the Isenhowers a few minutes. We were so sorry to hear of Mr. Bert Brooks death Saturday which resulted from burns from an explosion in his home Saturday morning. Our deepest sympathy to the family. It seems the past week end has been a very sad one for everyone at the passing of our United States President which touched the lives of everyone and the other tragic thing that happened in Dallas Sunday. Burette and Johnny May Ramsey attended a luncheon and meeting in Abilene Saturday, of the Dairy Association. Clayton Burnam and wife of Stanton visited a while Sunday afternoon with me and Mark and Ollie Burnam. They had spent the week end at Lake Leon was good to see them. Mrs. Prindle visited with me Sunday afternoon, was good to have her. I visited with the Mobley girls Friday afternoon and Friday night. I always enjoy visiting with them. We are glad to say Mr. and Mrs. Reese are able to be back home. Mr. Reese has been real sick in Graham hospital in Cisco.
