Fifty-Four Years Of Pioneering On The Plains Of Texas

As Told By Jack Alley To Frank P. Hill
Copyright, 1932, by Frank Hill

EARLY DAY CATTLE BUSINESS AND THE FIRST RANCH ON THE PLAINS
During the Civil War beef cattle had brought as low as $1.00 and $2.00 per head. There were two classes of cattle in Texas—the "longhorns" of Southwest Texas, introduced by the Spanish and Mexicans; and the scrub cattle of East Texas, brought in by the pioneer American Texans. The longhorn was so called because of his extremely long horns, which sometimes measured seven or eight feet from tip to tip. He was very hardy, large and lanky. Large herds were running practically wild through the breaks and along the waterways.

For several years following the War, Texas' cattle business did not consist of cattle raising but simply of cattle DRIVING. Each year the pioneer cattlemen would round up a bunch of these cattle, brand them, cut back the old cows and other undesirable, and drive the best of these longhorns to market. For a long time there were no adequate railroad outlets from Texas, and the cattle had to be shipped by water to the northern cities, or driven overland—the greater portion went by the latter route—to Kansas railroad points, where they were sold for cash.

Through this cattle driving was started from Texas in 1849 or '50, it was not until about 1866 that the movement attained gigantic proportions, averaging 280,000 head annually from 1866 to 1885, according to reliable estimates. Most of these cattle were driven over the Chisholm and other trails leading from Texas to Kansas railroad points. First, this trail from Texas to Kansas went up through the Fort Worth section; but as that country settled up the trail swung into the west by Fort Griffin, and finally as far west as the breaks at the foot of the Plains. The height of the trail driving activities through Fort Griffin was in the '70's, and during the spring and summer there was scarcely an hour of the day that a herd was not in sight along the trail. These herds were started in the Spring as soon as the grass started getting green in South Texas, and by the time they arrived in Abilene or Dodge City, Kansas, they were usually fat from grazing along the route. The trail by Fort Griffin was worn out 200 or 300 feet wide. Though I never rode trail to Kansas myself, I have heard C. C. Slaughter and others tell of bringing as much as $10,000 in gold back from Dodge City in a saddle bag. Sometimes some of these trail drivers would get drunk, though, and didn't bring back anything but experience. And, there were robbers, cattle thieves, and other desperadoes of every description to contend with.

BILIOUS

"I have used Black-Draught... and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. #### BRADSHAW IS IDENTIFIED AS OKLAHOMA OUTLAW

Tidwell for twenty-five years. He has quite a criminal record in Oklahoma, according to these officers. Somewhere in the neighborhood of eighteen or twenty years ago he was convicted of murder committed in the perpetration of a bank robbery in that state and was sentenced to the penitentiary for thirty years. He spent sixteen years in the Oklahoma penitentiary, at the end of which time he was released, his length of service having been shortened by good behavior. Part of the time he had been a trusty. Before going to the penitentiary he had been a tailor, and so that was his job inside the walls. They say he is a good one too—that he can make any garment that can be made by use of a sewing machine of by human fingers. At some period during this sixteen years, however, Tidwell escaped from the penitentiary. When they found him two years later, he had married a widow, becoming the stepfather of several children, and had been elected to a place on the local school board. That all happened in a little village in the mountains only two or three counties removed from the county in which the murder and bank robbery had been committed. The woman whom he had married had been the wife of a man who was himself serving time in the penitentiary when he was released from prison a short time before Tidwell was apprehended and it is said that upon returning home he made Tidwell hike out. Tidwell's married life had been happy, however, and the stepchildren were very devoted to him, it is said. After being captured Tidwell was taken back to the pen and served out his term, being released about a year ago. Since his release Tidwell has been involved in two bank robberies in that state, the Oklahoma officers say, one at Broken Bow down in the Southeast corner of the state and one at Haileyville near their home town, McAlester, and he is said to have been a member of the notorious Henry Starr gang. When he robbed the bank at Haileyville, the sheriff and other officers gave chase and they were so close in behind him that he was compelled to abandon his car and flee through the roughs on foot. They then put the bloodhounds on his trail but blood hounds had little terror for him. He laughingly told sheriff Lackey and deputy Sherrill Monday how he managed the hounds over the hill, he said, burr-flir they came up on him "just over the hill", he said, but he played with them awhile and sent them back. The car in which he and associates escaped after the O'Donnell robbery was an Oklahoma car, the officers say. He had stolen it in Oklahoma and had put a Texas number on it. Tidwell made no effort whatever to conceal his identity when confronted by the Oklahoma officers. They had known him too intimately for him to even undertake to dissimulate. But he keeps his own counsel. While he talked freely of his Oklahoma experiences, he has had little to say concerning the O'Donnell job, and nothing at all that would throw any light on the identity of his associates.

LARGE GARDENS SHOULD BE PLANTED THIS YEAR

feasible to be planted and the length of the row:
3 ft.—Shallots 50 ft., Radishes 50 ft., Lettuce 50 ft.
6 ft.—Asparagus 100 ft., Rhubarb 50 ft.
3 ft.—Mustard 50 ft., Swiss Chard 50 ft., New Zealand Spinach 50 ft.
3 ft.—Onions (sets or plants).
3 ft.—Garlick 50 ft., Dill 50 ft., Chili Pepper 50 ft.
3 ft.—English Peas (2 plantings on same bed 2 weeks apart).

3 ft.—Bush Beans, two rows 150 ft. to row.
3 ft.—Field Peas (cream or black eye) two rows 150 ft. to row.

Rows should run north and south to insure maximum amount of sunshine.
In planting the garden you can roughly estimate that one pound of vegetables can be harvested from one foot of row. With this in mind the quantity of seeds and plants needed to plant your garden can easily be figured from the following:
Seed required to plant 100 feet of row: Bush beans 1 qt; butter beans, 1 qt.; beets, 2 ozs.; carrots, 2 ozs.; sweet corn, 1/2 pint; cucumbers, 1 oz.; cantaloupes, 1 oz.; lettuce, 1 oz.; mustard, 1 oz.; squash, 1 oz.; okra, 1oz.; onion seed, 1/2 oz.; onion sets, 2 qts.; Irish potatoes, 1 1/2 gallon; English peas, 1 pint; cream peas, 1/2 pint; radish, 1 oz.; spinach, 1 oz.; New Zealand spinach, 1 1/2 oz.; turnip, 1 oz.; broccoli, 1 oz.
Approximate quantity of seed required for a given number of plants:

Asparagus, 1 oz. for 500 to 800 plants; cabbage, 1 oz. for 1500 plants; cauliflower, 1 oz. for 1500 to 1800 plants; egg plant, 1 oz. for 800 to 1000 plants; lettuce, 1 oz. for 2500 plants; peppers (green), 1 oz. for 1000 to 1200 plants; tomatoes, 1 oz., for 1500 to 1600 plants.
