LUBBOCK MAN IS MURDERED

"Leather Hat" Brown Was Shot By Three Unknown Men At Woodrow Monday

F. V. "Leather Hat" Brown, 49, pioneer Lubbock county stock-farmer living at Woodrow, between Tahoka and Lubbock, was shot to death Monday night at 9:15 by three unknown men. With only meager descriptions of the men, who were driving a late model Chevrolet coach, officers are working on the case.

The shooting occurred at the home to T. B. Hilton, filling station operator. Hilton and Brown were seated in a car at the rear of the house when a car stopped in front. A masked man approached, pulled a pistol, ordered Hilton and other members of the Hilton family standing nearby into the house, and shot Brown. It is thought possible that Brown tried to grapple with the gunman.

Officers advanced two theories on the shooting—Brown was either an innocent victim of an attempted robbery of the Hilton residence and filling station, or he was murdered by enemies. Friends and relatives said they knew of no misunderstandings that would have led anyone to have murdered him. On the other hand, Mrs. Hilton and others who saw the man kill Brown declare nothing was ever said by the killer that would indicate robbery was the motive.

Funeral services were held at the Brown home in Lubbock Wednesday morning conducted by Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

PHEBE K. WARNER JUNIOR CLUB HOLDS LAST MEETING

The last meeting of the year of the Phebe K. Warner Junior Club before its adjournment until next September was held Wednesday afternoon at the Woosley home with Mrs. Daniel Davis as hostess. Discussion began at 3:30 and lasted until four. The rose was selected as the club flower.

Several visitors came in at four o'clock. Miss Charlene Maddox sang beautifully, accompanied at the piano by Miss Evelyn Wells, after which Miss Wells pleasingly rendered a piano solo. Two new members were welcomed into the club.

The club expressed thanks to the senior club, the Phebe K. Warner Club, for the interest it has taken in the junior club.

Dainty refreshments were served to the following: Meses. Harley Wells, Ray Shaver, W. T. Bovell, Bascomb McCord, Frank Edwards, and the hostess, Mrs. Davis; Meses Charlene Maddox, Evelyn Wells and Elsie Woosley, the visitors.—Reporter.

O'DONNELL LUMBER YARD SOLD TO C. W. BARTLETT

Sorrels Lumber Company, O'Donnell, has been sold to C. W. Bartlett of Dallas, member of the firm of Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co., according to announcement of the O'Donnell Index last week. A portion of the stock will be moved to Lamesa, while the remainder will be moved to the O'Donnell Higginbotham-Bartlett yard and the Sorrels yard discontinued.

E. L. Sorrels, who formerly owned the yard, has announced no plans for the future other than that he and his family will continue to reside in O'Donnell.

JOHN KERSHNER, MISS RAY MURPHREY, LUBBOCK, WED

John Kershner and Miss Ray Murphrey, both of Lubbock, were married in Lovington, N. M., Monday.

Mr. Kershner is well known by many Tahoka people having formerly resided here with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. L. Verne Kershner. He is in the nursery business with his father.

Hiram Smith took a load of Jerseys to Fort Worth to sell this week.

Voters Defeated Schools' Union

The proposal to consolidate the New Lynn and Magnolia school districts was defeated at the election held last Saturday, according to unofficial reports received by the News.

Considerable interest was manifested at Magnolia, the vote there being 9 for and 27 against consolidation. At New Lynn very little interest was taken, seemingly, only eight votes being polled, all of them in favor of consolidation. The total votes in the two boxes, therefore, was only 44, of which number 17 were for and 27 against the proposition.

J. T. Balch Gets His Leg Broken

J. T. Balch of New Home received a broken leg and painful cuts on the nose and forehead Monday morning when his truck was wrecked on State highway No. 7 about eight miles north of Snyder. He was taken to Snyder, where the leg was set by a doctor, and was brought home Tuesday by Jim Izard and others.

Mr. Balch had been to Fort Worth with a load of hogs and was returning with a load of cedar posts. He had been driving all night and Monday morning picked up two young men. He let one of the men drive the truck so that he could go to sleep. The man had not been driving long when the steering gear became locked, and the truck which was going at a fast rate headed out into the ditch hitting a high embankment. The sudden stop of the heavy truck threw the 160 posts forward, knocking the cab and front end off the truck and taking the three men with them. Balch's leg was broken below the knee, his nose scratched, and a gash cut over the eye. The two hitch-hikers were unhurt.

Gin Man Invents Rug Frame Work

When J. A. Smith, local gin man and carpenter, saw the frame work the extension service of Texas A. & M. sent out to weave hooked rugs with, he remarked "I can make one simpler than that".

Miss El Fieda Harrison, county home demonstration agent, heard of the remark and "called his hand". He answered by making a rug frame that is very simple to operate. Miss Harrison used the frame in her work in the county.

Several weeks later she showed it to one of the state specialists in a rug-making training school in Lubbock. The machine made a hit and the maker has been called on for more.

This was not his first machine. Years ago he made a boll weevil trap that was patented and widely sold in South Texas. The trap, made like a boat, was used to garner weevils. Brushes from gin machines knocked the weevils into the boat, which contained an insecticide that killed them. The bolls were not hurt by the brushes. Mr. Smith made the machine to help farmers of his territory get rid of Weevils.—Journal.

Paper Printed Early

This week's issue of The News was printed earlier than usual in order that the linotype operator might take a short vacation. Due to this fact and also due to the larger than usual amount of advertising some community correspondence and several news items have been left out this week.

X. R. Banks Principal

In last week's issue of the News we erroneously stated the X. R. Sanders had been elected principal of Central Ward school. The new principal is X. R. Banks, while the high school coach is Bill Sanders.

Frank Fenton returned last Friday morning from a trip to California, Nevada, and other western states.

HOT BASEBALL GAME SUNDAY

Contest Goes 14 Innings Before Tahoka Is Able To Win Over Meadow 1 to 0

There will probably be many days before the baseball fans of Tahoka have another opportunity to witness such a game as was played here last Sunday afternoon between this city and Meadow.

After fourteen innings, the game ended 1 to 0 in the home boys favor. The hits were 4 and 4; the errors, 2 and 2. The only score came when E. S. Evans doubled down the third base line, Jack Wells sacrificed to third and got on first on an error, and then A. P. Edwards sacrificed down third base line scoring Evans.

Another remarkable feature of the game was the 12 assisted put-outs by pitcher Bill Ellis for Tahoka in 12 innings.

Batteries were: Simpson, Bruce and Liles for Meadow; Ellis, Larkin and K. Wells for Tahoka.

Young People Go To Assembly

A number of the members of the Epworth League of the Methodist Church, accompanied by their pastor, Rev. H. C. Smith, are attending the Methodist Young People's Assembly being held at McMurry College this week.

Those in attendance from here in addition to the pastor are: J. D. Smith, Kenneth Reid, Corbin Douthit, Miss Eloise Clark, and Miss Sybil Draper. Miss Edwards of Grassland is also one of the party.

ORGANIZE LITERARY SOCIETY AT MIDWAY

The Midway Literary Society was organized last Sunday night, May 29, electing the following officers: R. L. Littlepage, president. Buell Draper, vice-president. Miss Claudia Draper, secretary-treasurer.

A play was chosen and the cast has been carefully selected. The play will be presented some time in the near future.

OIL TESTS MAY BE DRILLED IN THE LAMESA TERRITORY

An oil test looms in the extreme eastern part of Gaines county, about 20 miles west of Lamesa. A major company, the name of which was withheld, is rumored as the power behind the move. Tools, cables, and such-like were hauled through Lamesa last week to the site.

The daily press is responsible for the statement that location has been made in Borden county, 22 miles southeast of Lamesa, by the Westside Oil Company, Shell and Tidal Oil Co.

Several tests have been made in that vicinity, but either without success or abandoned. However, strong showings of both gas and oil have been encountered at around four to five thousand feet.

M. C. Lindsey Saturday corroborated the news that drilling would soon start on the old Looney place in the edge of Borden county, about a mile and one-half or two miles from the Dawson county line. This is about 22 miles from Lamesa.

Mr. Lindsey also told of a well spudded in this week southwest of Seminole in Gaines county with another scheduled to spud in there soon. He indicated this was a spreading eastward of the Hobbs field.

Leasing is more active, Mr. Lindsey added, with the entire oil picture in these parts looking brighter.—Lamesa Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Hardee of Memphis, Tenn., are here visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chris Adair. They are traveling over the country for Mrs. Hardee's health. Chris says that Mr. Hardee helped him procure his marriage license when he went back to Memphis for his wife a few years ago.

RAIN IS AID TO COUNTY CROPS

Slow .44-Inch Shower Last Saturday Night; Farmers Are Busy With Planting

The rain last Saturday night in Tahoka totaled .44 of an inch. Falling slowly and covering the entire county, the rain will benefit crops considerably. Practically all farmers have been busy planting, most of them having to replant because of the heavy rain two weeks ago. No damage to crops resulted from Saturday's shower, however, and prospects were never better for both cotton and feed at this season of the year.

TAHOKA GOLF TEAM DEFEATS SNYDER CREW

The Tahoka golf team is feeling a bit cheery this week. They defeated Snyder here Sunday afternoon, the score being 29 to 15.

Candidates Going To Joe Stokes

County candidates and several precinct candidates attended the previously arranged speaking engagement at Redwine last Friday night, and were scheduled to appear at West Point Tuesday night.

Friday night the candidates will speak at Joe Stokes. No engagement has been announced for next Tuesday night, but most of the candidates will probably make their announcements from the platform here on Dollar Day—next Monday.

MORGAN H. D. CLUB MEETS IN MRS. T. E. MILLER'S HOME

Morgan H. D. Club met in the home of Mrs. T. E. Miller. The following members were present: Mesdames P. A. Cato, H. M. Cade, T. E. McGehee, F. M. Davidson, and J. N. Townsend. Mr. Horace Smith of Slaton was a visitor.

The following subjects were discussed: "Effect of grooming on personality," Mrs. J. N. Townsend; "Effect of Clothing on Personality," Mrs. F. M. Davidson; "Effect of Personal Appearance on My Family," Mrs. R. M. Cade; "Habits that Improve Personalities," P. A. Cato; "Need of Individual Towels, Soap, and Wash brushes," Mrs. T. E. McGehee.—Reporter.

ORDER IN THE COURT!

"The word jangles out of tune with the times," said Justice Norman S. Dike of the New York supreme court in denying incorporation papers to "The Long Island Vagabonds", a club. "Something more patriotic like 'Loyalty League' would be more appropriate", added the jurist.

A Nashville court holds that a gust of wind that blew $240,000 worth of horses in a freight car off the track was an "act of God" and absolved the express company of liability.

EXPLORING FUN

One of the oldest school houses in America stands at Round Pond, near Bristol, Me. It is 105 years old. The Prentice place near Yarmouth, Mass., has a barn on it that was built before the boy George Washington started chopping cherry trees. It is constructed of timber from local woodlands.

Carveth Wells, well known explorer, says there is a fish native to the Malay jungle which can wink its eye. We've often been fishing when we suspected the fish were not only winking but nudging each other while passing our bait by.

Charles S. Hall of Rockland Maine reported to police that some one had been stealing a cottage of his peice-meal.

The Lynn County News can still be had for $1.50 per year—52 issues.

Tahoka Merchants Sponsors Of Event

Floydada won first honors for the largest delegation with 18, Tahoka taking second place. Local people appearing on the program were: Mrs. W. E. Suddarth, who gave a reading, W. E. Suddarth, and J. C. Eubanks.

Oilers Will Play Bankers Today

The grease hounds are to play the bankers on the local baseball diamond this afternoon (Thursday), according to information given the News by one of the hounds. This gentleman evidently expects his side to be defeated, for he is already strongly hinting at a "sell-out" of his side by one of the team. He avers that he saw one of the grease hounds in private conversation with one of the bankers and actually saw the banker hand the hound some money. Therefore he concludes that there is something rotten in Tahoka as well as Denmark.

Go out and see the big game this afternoon and then draw your own conclusions.

THE COWBOY'S LIFE AND AMUSEMENTS

Cowboys in the West in the late '70's and early '80's didn't get to go to town but once a year as a usual thing, but everybody in town knew it when they did arrive.

Will and John Slaughter, as did other ranchmen of this section, made it a practice of letting one bunch of cowboys go to town in the spring and the remainder in the fall or winter.

The first bunch drove herd to Kansas, leaving in the spring as soon as the grass began to get green. I never made a trip up the trail to Kansas, but always succeeded in getting the trip to Fort Worth, or to Colorado City, after the railroad was extended there. The trips to the latter cities were made in the fall, when we drove in the left-over and undesirable cattle and brought back supplies for the next six months on the ranch. We did not sell calves then as cattlemen do now; it was all three and four year old stuff.

Supplies were hauled back to the ranch on huge freight wagons drawn by oxen. These wagons were capable of carrying from 5,000 to 8,000-pound loads, most of which was flour, sugar, coffee, syrup, and enough other groceries to start a good-sized grocery store.

Ranchmen usually paid off their hands once a year, and that was after they had gotten to town and sold their cattle. With a year's pay in his pockets and this the only likely chance he would have to spend it for the next twelve months, the cowboy put on one gay time. No question was asked about the price of the object of his desires. He outfitted himself with new boots, clothes, and guns, and the remainder—sometimes the total salary—was spent "whoopin' it up". He danced, drank, and gambled until his money played out and usually stayed in town until it did.

Then, merchants would carry their good customers as long as credit was wanted. Sometimes we would run out of money while in town and the boss would also be out of money. He would give us an order addressed to his merchant, and we would present it to the latter and get $10, $25 and maybe $50 cash from the business man, who would charge it up on the boss' account, and the boss would, in turn, charge it off our next year's wages. And the fun would continue a while longer.

Early day cowboys have been censured frequently for such rowdiness when they hit town. But, taking into consideration the fact that they had been on the ranch for weeks or months, saw few people but their every-day associates, and had no shows to take in, it was not out of reason that when they did come to town the cowboys were going to "see the bright lights."

The cowboy has been pictured by most writers as a tough, wild, reckless, uneducated sort of fellow. Such was not entirely the case. The original cowboy, as a usual thing, was from a home of refinement back east, out in the West seeking adventure. Of course, there were a few desperadoes, or fugitives from justice, who had sought the West to cover up a past. But, their number was comparatively small. They were not the steady cowboys, the men who built the West.

The real cowboy came from all walks of life. Many were sons of prominent men and from wealthy families in the east and north. Some were from the old Southern aristocracy broken by the Civil War. Some were city bred and raised. Others were raised on the frontier. But, whatever may be said of them, the cowboy was of strong character in spite of his fits of frivolity on coming in close proximity to town and saloons. He had to have a strong backbone to go through with a life of danger and hard work. He was usually physically fit—made so by living in the open, breathing fresh air and eating wholesome, nourishing food. He was able to ride behind a herd of cattle for eighteen hours a day and then sing to them the remaining six hours. He spared not his health or even his life in order that the cows might be looked after. Cows were his boss' all and loss of them meant all.

The early-day cowboy was rarely a criminal. He did not look for trouble; but, since there was no law, he always went prepared with a good gun on his person for those few desperadoes, who sometimes called themselves cowboys, for thieves, and for protection against the constant possibility of an Indian raid.

When a man ran across a cow that belonged to his boss on another man's range, he was expected to find out why the cow was there and to get it regardless of all. If the man on whose range it was found happened to be contrary or a thief, there was likely to be serious trouble. Col. Slaughter used to tell his men: "If there is any doubt in the world as to the ownership of a stray cow, let it go; but if it is mine, every dollar I have in the world is behind you in getting the cow."

Thus loyalty to his boss was one of the requirements of the early-day cowboy. Another was honesty. Frequently, the owner would go off and leave his ranch house unlocked for days and possibly months at a time. Other cowmen would come by the place, go in and cook their meals and sleep in his beds but would never think of taking anything not belonging to them except the needed food for a meal.

It was considered a sort of joke among cow outfits to kill the other man's beef for food. When meat was needed and a fat calf from some other range was found, there was no harm in killing it. All outfits did this and nothing was thought of the incident either by the owner or the man needing food unless, of course, some crook over-stepped the bounds of reason and killed the other man's beef needlessly or for profit.

The original cowboy was educated; many of them were college graduates. It was impossible to get current newspapers regularly on the ranches, and the men spent much of their time reading books and magazines. It was more the rule than the exception for the cowboy to read high class literature. I have many times seen the boys reading Shakespeare and other such literature.

Also, contrary to the picture painted of him by many writers, the cowboy was very respectful to women. Though he usually used pretty strong phrases mixed in with his conversation, he did not use as many cuss-words in the presence of women as many men do today.

The early day cowboy cannot be compared with the average cowboy of today from standpoint of character, education or refinement.

On the ranch life was worth living. We had good food, well cooked. When we wanted meat—beef or wild meat—all we had to do was to go out and make a kill. We didn't work very hard some of the time, and it was then that we had our fun.

At the Cattle Association round-ups, especially, when the boys from many ranches would gather to claim their stray cattle, we had big times. Not all the boys would be needed all the time, and the idle ones would engage in horse racing, bronc riding, steer riding, would sing and dance, play poker and monte.

The only money we had on the ranch was just a few dollars each to play poker with. We didn't have anything else to do a lot of the time and we made this the principal form of amusement. When a cowboy lost all his money he would borrow a few dollars from a winner.

There was nearly always a musician in camp and we had "stag" dances. Dan Kyle had a house further down on Catfish Creek that had folding partitions between the rooms built especially for dances. We had both square and round dances, and when one was held people came in for twenty-five or thirty miles around.

We had one big dance at Bill Slaughter's house that lasted three days. I went to Snyder to get a girl and it was a week from the time I left to go after her until I took her home and got back to the ranch. A chaperon went with us. Not all the couples could dance at one time, so certain couples would be called out when their turn to dance came.

At night there was not enough bedding for all of us to sleep. We went down in the dugout and spent the night playing poker. I won $30 one night and turned around and gave every penny of it to Wes Allen, a fiddle player, who came up to furnish music for the dance. Allen lived down about Snyder or Colorado, and is now living in Fort Worth, I understand.

"I have used Black-Draught . . . and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—E. C. Hendrix, Honorville, Ga.

BARGAINS IN TAHOKA

Tahoka merchants are this week starting a more intensive campaign to get Tahoka and Lynn county people to keep their money at home.
In addition to specials offered by the grocery stores each Saturday and those offered by occasional sales put on by the dry goods merchants, next Monday most of our business men are cooperating in staging a Dollar Day. In fact, they intend to stage a Dollar Day each first Monday. They propose to show the people that they can and do sell first class merchandise as cheap as anybody. It is a fact that most of the merchants are hard hit by the depression and the growing tendency of our citizens is to go to the larger towns to buy much of their merchandise when they could buy it at home.
Many Tahoka people think they have to go to Lubbock to buy their clothes, hardware, and even groceries, when it is a fact that prices as a whole about as low in Tahoka as they are anywhere. We admit you will find certain articles in Lubbock at lower prices; but, on the other hand, you will find many in Tahoka at lower prices than you will in our neighboring cities.

But, it is not merely a matter of a few cents, as we see it. The small towns are doomed as business centers if their merchants are not given the support they deserve.
Tahoka business men pay taxes for the operation of our county and city governments and for the operation of our schools. What does Lubbock do or care about our town or county as long as they get our business?
Tahoka business men contribute to the churches, the Red Cross, and a dozen or more worthy enterprises?
What does Montgomery Ward, or Sears & Roebuck, or any Lubbock merchant do for our churches, or our schools, or our unfortunates?
A modern town, schools and churches enhance the value of your home or your farm. What does a town thirty miles away add to their value?
Folks, if our town is to go forward, if our business institutions are to survive these hard times, we must help our neighbors—the fellows who are helping us—our home merchants.

And, we include in this the merchants nearest you—the merchants of O'Donnell, Wilson, New Home, Draw, Grassland, Wells, and the country stores, as well as the Taho-ka business houses.

A few candidates for office in Lynn county who expect to get elected to public offices and to draw their salaries from the home taxpayers are finding it necessary (?) to have their candidate cards printed out of Lynn county. Another thing: We can't see why it is that the officials of Lynn county, paid by the home people, have to take the home people's tax money and send it off to Austin, or San Antonio, or Houston, or Dallas, never to return, to get so much of their stationery, office forms, etc. Maybe they haven't thought much about this trading at home business, but we are just passing this along for what it might be worth.

THE INDIVIDUAL AND HIS BANK

By ROME C. STEPHENSON

President American Bankers Association

BANKERS recognize that their business carries especially heavy public responsibilities and welcome all sound measures to aid them meet the duties this imposes. Unceasing efforts to bring about continually improving methods to safeguard depositors in banks of all kinds have long been uppermost in the plans of bankers' organizations throughout the nation. They are not the outgrowth merely of the past year of business adversity, but have been carried on actively for many years and have resulted in great progress along lines of better, safer banking methods. Although banking along with all business has suffered reverse, conditions in this field have been far less severe than they would have been had not bankers been widely successful in their endeavors to develop the high standards of banking that now generally prevail.

R. C. STEPHENSON

The American Bankers Association and bankers' organizations in every state actively support the principle of government supervision of banking.
The national banks, which receive their charters to do business from the federal government, are under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington. Through his efficient staffs of expert bank examiners in every section he has the duty and powers to keep watch of the way every national bank is being conducted, to suggest desirable changes in its policies or methods and even to step in and take control for the protection of the depositors if such action is warranted. The state banks, also, which are chartered by the various state governments, are subject to similar supervision and control by state bank officials. In addition banks in many places have long maintained voluntary clearing house associations which enforce even closer supervision over their members.

Bankers Favor Public Supervision Present laws adequately enforced contain ample provisions for government supervision. Bankers universally believe in strong, capable banking departments manned by officials with the discretion and courage to enforce these laws and act under them as the common welfare demands. They believe that these public officials should be paid sufficient salaries to command the services of men of character, ability and a resolute spirit of public service.
They believe also that the banking departments should be kept free from all political or other special influence in order to be able to act at all times with single-minded independence solely for the benefit of the public interest.

Although banks in the United States operating under state or national charters are thus subject to supervision of public authority, they are strictly private business enterprises. They are owned by their stockholders and administered by officials chosen through the boards of directors which their stockholders elect. No bank is owned or operated by the United States Government, nor, with one small exception in a western state, by any state government. The function of government in banking is to promote and enforce careful banking administration through the system of examination and supervision which I have described. This, however, does not relieve the individual depositor from the necessity of judging and choosing carefully as to his banking relations, just as in his other business or professional relations. He must inquire for himself into the character and type of institution and men he shall do business with, satisfying himself as to their reputation, reliability and capability. These qualities are essential to complete the element of safety and dependability in any human institution.

An Illusory Law

The bank deposit guaranty law in any form is a snare and a delusion, declares a banker in a state where it has been tried, adding: "It is a license and encouragement to irresponsible banks and banking and penalizes capital solvency and prudent banking. It creates a sense of security in the minds of the unthinking and uninformed that is false and impossible to be realized on ultimately. To compare it to legitimate insurance is without reason and absurd. It jeopardizes the solvency of all banks and the safety of all depositors for the theoretical safety of a few.
Guaranty schemes always have been, are and always will be impotent, futile and disastrous. It is not new. Has been tried, failed and discarded at intervals for more than 100 years in this country. No well-informed, honest and intelligent mind can accept it in principle or practice. Competent bank supervision and restriction of banks to territory that will warrant sufficient capital investment and accounts is the only sane and honest course and will afford all the guaranty the depositing public is entitled to as compared with all other human affairs."

TELLS HOW TO CONTROL GRAPE VINE HOPPERS

Lubbock, June 1—How to combat the grape leaf-hopper, pest to grape culture in West Texas, is given below by Prof. C. E. Russell, head of the horticulture department in Texas Technological College:

"The grawing of grapes in this section is made more difficult by the attacks of an insect called the grape leaf-hopper. This insect is present on the vines every year. The injury is most noticeable in August, and at that time of the year most of the injury is done. The adult insects are present then and are easily seen, but cannot be controlled.

"A few adults have been on the leaves during the past few weeks.
These have been laying large numbers of eggs just below the surface on the underside of the leaves. Recent observations in the vineyard at the Texas Technological College show that these eggs are hatching. The young nymphs are present in large numbers on the undersides of the leaves particularly those leaves that are older. This pest cannot be completely controlled; however, many of these nymphs can be killed at this time and much of the injury that is noticed later in the season can be prevented. This is the time to spray because the nymphs are easily killed as compared with the killing of the adults.

"Two sprays should be put on at this time; the first one immediately, the second in about a week or ten days. The same materials are used for both. To make these sprays it is recommended that one pint of nicotine sulphate be mixed with 100 gallons of water in which two pounds of soap have been dissolved. For those who have only a few vines and need less material the amount would be one teaspoonful of nicotine sulphate in one gallon of water, in which a cubic inch of soap has been dissolved. Nicotine sulphate is sold under various trade names, any one of which is satisfactory, and can be purchased at most drug stores.

"Thoroughness of spraying is very important. The spraying should be done during the middle of a warm day. Care should be taken to direct the spray upward so as to hit the insects that are on the undersides of the leaves. The insect must be hit in order to kill it. All of the leaves should be sprayed and particularly those leaves that are older and nearer the ground."

the first and only relief I ever got for stomach

Banking Grows More Complicated

DENVER, Colo.—The increase in the technicalities of the banking business in the past dozen years was shown by a speaker before the American Institute of Banking which held its annual convention here recently when he pointed out that in 1912, when the institute last met in this city, it gave only three courses, while today it gives 16, with more subjects in preparation.
 At the earlier date, he said, the curriculum of the institute consisted of elementary banking, commercial and banking law, and money and banking, whereas today it consists of banking fundamentals, commercial law, negotiable instruments, standard economics, standard banking, credits, investments, trust functions, analyzing financial statements, and public speaking, while the two new subjects of bank operation and organization, and bank management are to be added.

The New Pace of Business Change Business evolution used to move slowly—it measured off its gradual changes almost invisibly, like the hour hand on the clock. But today its tempo is that of the second hand. The movement of evolution that is quickening business with rapid changes is alarmingly visible and makes it difficult to keep up with them.—B. S. Hecht.

Aid for War Veterans

More than 430,000 ex-service men and their families were aided through $2,000 Red Cross Chapters and the national organization during the year ending June 30, 1931. Dependent families were cared for, veterans' claims were filed, hospitalization obtained and many other services given.
 Part of each contribution during the American Red Cross annual roll call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, goes toward supporting this vital work for veterans of the World War and other wars in which the United States has engaged.

Books for the Blind

Through American Red Cross Chapters, 2,327 volumes of novels, class books and others, transcribed into Braille for blind readers, have been added to libraries, in the past year.
 These books are to be obtained through the Library of Congress and city libraries. This activity, carried on by a great number of devoted women volunteers in Red Cross Chapters, had its inception in preparing books for war blinded.
