Fifty-Four Years Of Pioneering
On The Plains Of Texas

As Told By Jack Alley
To
Frank P. Hill

Copyright, 1932, by Frank Hill

THE FAMOUS LONG-S RANCH

While the events I have related were transpiring, Col. C. C. Slaughter of Dallas, an elder brother of Will and John Slaughter, was building up one of the biggest and most famous of all Texas ranches, and was blazing the way to better methods of stock raising that was to revolutionize the industry.

Col. Slaughter, like his brothers, got his start in Palo Pinto county, where they were all practically raised. After making a remarkable financial success from driving South Texas longhorns to Kansas railroad points, he started in Palo Pinto in the middle '70's, and soon moved to Dallas, where he became interested in a banking business.

He formed a partnership in 1877 with John Hullem, a cowman from Stephens county, and Col. W. E. Hughes, a fellow banker, to buy cattle. They went to South Texas that spring and bought 5,000 two year old steers and heifers and drove them to Randerbrook Springs on the Colorado River north of where San Angelo now is. In the spring of '78, they moved on up to the rock corals built by John and Will Slaughter on Bill Creek, northwest of Colorado City's present site, and branded "HS".

Slaughter was a practical cowman, knew cattle and how to handle them. On the other hand, Hughes was a banker and knew very little of cattle; though Hullem was a cowman he knew little, almost nothing, in fact, of the practical side of the business. After a year, Slaughter and Hughes decided Hullem was not the man for a partner and bought his interest. Then, Slaughter sold out to Hughes; and, after a short time, bought Hughes out entirely.

A short time after Slaughter and Hughes had moved their cattle to Bull Creek, the two, accompanied by a negro cook, drove out to visit the ranch in a big, fine hack, drawn by a span of mules. There were practically no settlements west of Palo Pinto except Fort Griffin at this time. While at the ranch, a bunch of Indians made a raid on the camp, stealing their team of mules and all the saddle horses on the ranch. The two ranch owners hitched a yoke of oxen to their hack and headed for Fort Griffin. Making only ten or twelve miles a day, the trip of fully 150 miles was a long slow one. The hack seat was pretty hard, and the constant exposure thereto finally wore the seat of Hughes' trousers out. Hughes was a fastidious dresser, and when they got in a few miles of Fort Griffin he "hid in the brush" while Col Slaughter went into town for a new pair of trousers.

Slaughter had many cattle under different brands leased out to Palo Pinto and Jack county ranchmen. As the time expired on these leases he moved these cattle from that section to his new West Texas ranch and branded "Long S" (a long "S" lying on its sides) on each side of the animals and under-bit each ear. The "Long S" brand was soon to become famous, known the nation over where cattle were known.

The Colonel had begun to realize the value of improving the quality of cattle soon after he established his big ranch. He saw the growing demand for beef of better quality than the lank lornhorns he and other Texans had been taking to market in enormous herds. He began to import from Missouri, Illinois, and other middle-western states the best of Durham and Hereford bulls that money would buy. Col. Slaughter and Col. Charles Goodnight were among the first in the Southwest to start building up the herds of this section. Their pioneering in this respect on a large scale has completely revolutionized the cattle industry.

C. C. Slaughter was a very shrewd far-seeing man, thoroughly realized the value of advertising and improving his herd, and he never missed an opportunity to buy the best of bulls with which to build up the quality of his stock. Every year he went to the Kansas City Fat Stock Show and bought the champion bulls of the show, which were the best of the nation. Among the leading animals he bought were Ancient Britton and Sir Bredwell, the former for $5,000 and the latter for $7,500. Down in the Colorado country, John Scharbauer, now of Midland and Fort Worth, built up one of the largest herds of pure-bred Herefords in the world. In 1894, Slaughter bought that herd of 2,500 animals to use as a basis for raising bulls from which to improve his other herds.

"Long S" cattle became so well known for their general quality that they were in great demand. Montana buyers would come down to Texas, buy Slaughter cattle, and ship them to that state for two year's growth before putting them on the market. Cattle mature slower in the North than in Texas, and for that reason a year or two's growth on the Montana ranges made them larger animals and brought neat profits to the cowmen of that state.

Not only was Slaughter a good business man and well versed in the art of cattle raising, but he wanted to build up a reputation for his stuff. Because of this desire, and possibly because of his love for the cattle he raised, he would not sell to any Montana man who did not have a first class place to put them. He was well acquainted with the Montana country and said he didn't want anybody to have his steers that would injure their condition before potting them on the market.

One spring a Montana Frenchman, Pierre Wibaux, came down to Texas and Slaughter showed him 5,000 head of nice two year old steers. He asked $50 a head for them, I think it was. Wibaux said he didn't like the price or quality and would look around for something better. Slaughter went back to Dallas.

Two weeks later Wibaux came in to the Colonel's office and said he would take the cattle.

Slaughter looked at him a few minutes and then replied: "Mr. Wibaux, I took you out to my ranch, lost a lot of valuable time, boarded you for several days, showed you all the courtesies I could, and you didn't do a thing but run my cattle down and tell me the price was too high for the quality. Since then my cattle have gone up $5 a head to you."

"What!" was Wibaux's dumb-founded reply.

But, Col. Slaughter turned his back on the Montana cowman and resumed his correspondence, making no response.

However, on a few moments' reflection Wibaux said, "Well, I guess I'll take 'em".

Joe McKenzie was the first foreman on Slaughter's West Texas ranch. He drove the first cattle out from South Texas. But his stay was short. One day a bunch of Indians came through; Joe got scared and left for parts unknown.

The next boss was Charles Augustus O'Keefe, better known as Gus, who came in about 1880. Gus stayed with Col. Slaughter for several years and then started the Fish ranch just to the northwest of Slaughter. He made quite a success in the ranching business and sold out to some big company, Swift and Company, I think, and moved to Colorado City and then to Fort Worth. He built the Blackstone Hotel in that city a short time before his death, paying $1,000,000 cash for its construction.

Next week: Cattle and their Characteristics.

RAIL TRANSPORTATION IS EFFICIENT AND ECONOMICAL

● THE RAILROAD is the most efficient and the most economical transportation agency the human mind has ever devised.

The ability of commercial trucks to operate with various charges for their services has been because they are not required to carry all kinds and classes of freight. The truck can choose its freight and is privileged to reject that which it cannot handle, either because it is not equipped for such heavy service or the rates are too low to be profitable. The railroad CANNOT DISCRIMINATE but must accept all freight offered it.

In 1930 the shippers of Texas paid the railroads $225,223,142 in freight charges. If the same volume and character of traffic had been carried by trucks it would have cost the shippers, according to the best available data on trucking costs, $900,000,000, or four times as much.

What will be the effect on the shippers of Texas if only the traffic which the trucks cannot handle is left to the railroads? If traffic paying the higher rate is taken from the railroads by the trucks, it will be necessary for the rail carriers to increase their rates on the low grade traffic or go out of business. The total transportation bill will be greatly increased.

The railroad rate structure is a composite designed for the purpose of enabling the free movement of ALL ARTICLES OF COMMERCE, making it possible to bring even the cheapest commodities into general use and distribution. Were it not for the low rates made available by the railroads on many low grade commodities and raw materials, their distribution and use would be impossible and all commerce and industry would be seriously affected.

● THE RAILROADS CANNOT SUBSIST ON LOW GRADE TRAFFIC ALONE.

New Home

Our church and Sunday School services were not so well attended Sunday because of the heavy rain we had Saturday night. Bro. Richardburg preached for us. Our Sunday School is growing. We have organized a new class recently. W. I. Lemon is our Superintendent. Mrs. J. B. Scott and children visited relatives at Petty last week. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Waldrip are visiting Mrs. Waldrip's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lemon. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Farris are the proud parents of a baby girl born Saturday, June 25. Mrs. Cy Hamilton and baby Joy visited relatives in Wilson last week end. Mr. and Mrs. Bone of Clovis, N. M., visited Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Izard last week. Mrs. Bone is better known here as Miss Curtis Beaty. They were married a few days prior to their visit here. New Home is planning a big picnic here on July 4th. We will have free barbecue and candidate speaking. There is also a baseball tournament planned in the program that will probably last 2 or 3 days. We are expecting a large crowd. Miss Marile Lowe is visiting relatives in Alabama for several weeks, having gone last week. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Harrison and children are visiting relatives in Idealou. R. L. Smith and son Voyd and wife left Sunday for Arkansas to attend the funeral of Mr. Smith's mother. Bob Colvard left Sunday for Fort Worth. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Turner and family removed here from the Rio Grande Valley this week. They moved there several months ago, but have decided that the Plains is the place to live. We are glad to have them in our community again. If she keeps too far ahead he might not catch her and if she slows down too much he may pass her.

Morgan

We have been having a big rain nearly every day or night for over a week but not much hail. We had a very small crowd at Sunday School Sunday. Bro. Raybourne failed to come Sunday afternoon. John Lockie of Brownfield is visiting his uncle, E. H. McAnally. Bill and Earl Lancaster and families spent Saturday night and Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lancaster of Wilson. Mr. and Mrs. Rush of Levelland and Mrs. Hufstetler of Lubbock spent last Tuesday night with Mrs. Miller and family. Bro. Wright of Southland will begin a meeting here next Friday night, July 1st. Messrs. and Mesdames J. H. Powell and D. W. Gaignat were hosts and hostesses to twelve tables of friends for a very delightful patriotic party Thursday evening at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Gaignat. Patriotic colors, summer flowers, balloons, colored lights, and clever party accessories added to the attractiveness of the party. Table favors were firecrackers. Mr. and Mrs. Summer Knight made high score and were presented hand-painted silhouettes of Mariba and George Washington. Miss Frankie Wells and Jack Fenton scored low and were awarded Roman candles. The hostesses served lovely refreshments of drinks and ice cream, carrying out the patriotic colors during the games.

The Club had as a guest Mrs. E. S. Davis. The Club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Nelson on Thursday, July 7. (Delayed) The All-Sew Club met with Mrs. Geo. Knight as hostess on Thursday, June 9. Two hours were spent in sewing and chatting. Delicious refreshments of cake and ice cream were passed to the following members: Mesdames Bucy Keltner, Story, A. I. Thomas, C. A. Thomas, Lockwood, and Nelson. The trouble with this "new frankness" is that under its coat of varnish it is nothing but old-fashioned plain coarseness. The landing of an airplane in a field at Wrexham, England, so frightened a horse that the animal's mane turned from black to white within four days.

BILIOUS
"I have used Black-Draught... and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—G. O. Hendrix, Homerville, Ga.
