A TONIC Laxative

CONSTIPATION, with the annoying symptoms that usually come with it, cuts down organic force and disturbs normal health and well-being. A thorough cleansing of the digestive tract is of great assistance in the removal of sickening constipation symptoms. When excessive accumulated waste matter disturbs and strains the muscles of the large intestines, rendering them temporarily unable to perform their wave-like evacuating movements, Thedford's Black-Draught is useful in stimulating them to activity, which, again started, should continue regularly until some future disturbance interferes. In this way, Thedford's Black-Draught is one of the TONIC laxatives, tending, as it does, to establish a regular habit of evacuation.

Flemings Was As Old As His State

The following story on the life of Uncle Jimmy Fleming was written two weeks before his death by Chris L. Adair.—The Editors.

James Polk Fleming first saw the light in Montgomery county, Arkansas, March 11, 1845, and moved to Williamson county, three miles above Georgetown, Texas, in 1846 and to Nolan creek in Bell county three years later.

In the first place, Uncle Jim says he never did kill an Indian but 300 rode up to his home one morning to the consternation of the whole family, but his father went out and shook hands all round, and soon after the Comanches rode off without doing any harm. It seems that the elder Fleming was greatly liked by the Redskins, who tried to influence him to go away with them, but failing to find his pony he was afraid to let them find him any more.

Before the Civil War, the E. M. Pease administration lost a good chance to pacify the Comanches by putting them under guard and refusing to give them some old clothes they requested while on a visit to Austin. Soon after this diplomatic blunder, the Riggs family were killed on Cowhouse Creek and their killers were trailed to Wet Tobacco Creek in present-day Dawson county and a number of them slain after the two small Riggs girls had made their escape.

Many people, Uncle Jim thinks, lost their lives by fleeing from their homes in panic or by excited women screaming from fright. Altho he says the Indians literally ruined the Fleming livestock business in San Saba county, he thinks the white thieves there were much worse and that there never would have been any Indian troubles but for the cruelty and avarice of the white people themselves. Sam Houston, he seems to think, was an ideal Indian manager, to coin a new phrase, and had been given a free hand there might have been but very little Indian trouble. A Mr. Hall in San Saba county was killed by Indians, but since he was bald-headed they did not scalp him.

Once money was so scarce in Eastland county that Uncle Jim hauled about 60 bushels of fifteen cent corn about 80 miles to Fort Griffin hoping to get two dollars a bushel but a dollar topped the market, and since horse thieves swarmed around the old fort he had to drive a long way back to his previous night's camp ground so as to have a team to start with the following morning.

The best equipment then, thinks Mr. Fleming, was a swift horse and a long-barreled Colt cap and ball six-shooter. Holding with both hands and taking rest, he once killed a prowling dog with one of these famous arms nearly 100 yards away and did nearly as well on an antelope but these were exceptional shots, for he says the Indians seldom failed to kill a man that far away with bow and arrow. Game was plentiful then and while he never killed a buffalo, his brother John killed a number and deer were often seen in the settlements 50 and 100 in a bunch. Venison was killed as needed and often only the hide and a ham were taken from the largest kind of a deer. Criminals "on the scout" were thus enabled to dodge the officials indefinitely. He helped gather many cattle, but never drove the trail. Bears, he thinks, were harmless if not molested, but all the big cats were rated dangerous and treacherous by hunters who never had seen repeating rifles. Once he killed a panther his dog had driven from its den but its mate succumbed to smoke suffocation before he would come out. Panther meat was then known to be good as Teddy Roosevelt many years later found it to be. Mexican wild hogs or "havelinas" were regarded as very dangerous but Uncle Jim managed to catch but two. In San Saba county 1000 wild turkeys were often found in one drove and a morning turkey, duck or goose hunt was merely a "meat in the pot" affair. "Well, them times are gone for good, and I guess I'll never get out among wild game any more," was Uncle Jim's final remark.

A neighbor boy friend was at the Fort Concho battle between civilians and negro soldiers and brought home a souvenir—a bullet in the leg. Confederate army deserters usually degenerated into thieves and murderers. Once 75 horsemen rode by the Fleming ranch and young Jim saw they had an unnamed man who had killed and robbed another man. Uncle Jim said he felt "too tired" to go along but knowing that they had borrowed a pick and shovel from a neighbor, he rode over next day to a large live oak and there he saw a rope-scarred limb and below it was the unmarked coffinless grave. Rumor had it that the murder was instigated by the victim's wife who was said to have paid the killer $1400 for the "job". Then there was another such hanging in the Bell-Williamson vicinity of Brooksville but the lynchings were common place and folks found it safer to forget them quickly.

CARD OF THANKS

The saddest time of our lives came in the Home-Going of our husband and father. This, the deepest of all sadnesses, has been much relieved by the multitude of kindnesses which have been shown.

We feel more keenly the value of loved ones and friends now than ever before. Our hearts are full of gratitude for the floral offerings, the many kind words of sympathy together with the many letters of condolence as well as other deeds of sympathy and love which were shown.

We especially wish to express appreciation for the mark of respect shown at Wilson on the closing of all places of business.

May God's choicest blessings be yours.

Mrs. R. C. Forrester, O'Berger Forrester.

WARNER CLUB VISITS MEETING OF POST CLUB

Last week the Phebe K. Warner Club was invited to attend a seated tea given by the Woman's Culture Club of Post, honoring pioneer women of Garza county, Tuesday, Feb. 28, from 3:30 to 5:30 at the home of Mrs. T. L. Mason.

On Tuesday afternoon fourteen members of the Phebe K. Warner Clubs attended this tea. A very interesting program depicting pioneer life of Garza county, in respect to home life, the distance to the nearest neighbor, closest railroad, camp meetings, cowboys, cowboy songs, and all night dances—all of which made up the life of the earlier settlers. Some of these experiences might make the depression a bit tame if we had to endure them now.

Some very unique features of the entertainment were programs with the rear end of a covered wagon hand painted on the back, a very old accordion which helped to furnish the music, a sand table scene showing the home, its usual surroundings, covered wagons for favors, and cartwheel sandwiches in the refreshments.

Those who enjoyed the charming courtesy of the Post Women's Culture Club were: Mesdames L. C. Haney, L. E. Turrentine, R. W. Fenton Jr., H. C. Smith, X. R. Banks, K. F. Knight, W. B. Slaton, E. E. Callaway, G. M. Stewart, M. C. Finch, J. W. Elliott, A. B. Swan, J. H. Powell, and L. E. Weathers.

Side Quit Hurting, Got Stronger, Well; CARDUI Helped Her

WOMEN! Get rid of the handicaps of a weak, debilitated condition with the assistance of Cardui.

Mrs. R. L. West, of Huntsville, Ala., writes: "I was weak and run-down. I had a pain in my side, and I kept losing weight. I grew nervous over my condition—this was unusual for me, for I am very cheerful when I am well and don't easily get nervous. I knew I ought to take something. My aunt told me I ought to try Cardui, which I did. I began to feel better. I kept it up until I had taken three or four bottles. My side quit hurting and I was soon feeling strong and well."

Cardui is sold at drug stores here.

WOITON RESIGNS AT BIG SPRING TO HEAD SILICA FIRM

Resignation of J. B. Woiton, city engineer here since December 1929, was accepted Thursday by City Manager E. V. Spence, who said Mr. Woiton would not be replaced.

Woiton said he had resigned to go into business with J. C. Blackburn and Company of Tahoka to mine and sell volcanic ash, also known as pumice or silica. The material was discovered in a deposit four miles from Tahoka in 1929 and only lately have arrangements been perfected to handle it commercially, he said.

The material is used as cleaner, in mechanics' soap, tooth pastes, furniture polish, woodwork finisher, insulating material, as a mixture to render concrete more workable and waterproof, as pigment for paints, for the manufacture of floor sweep and for various other things, said Woiton.

J. C. Blackburn and Company in the near future will open offices in Big Spring and Tahoka, Woiton announced. The deposit of silica is located on a 160-acre tract owned by V. S. Cassel of Victoria. It was reported to J. C. Blackburn shortly after discovery in 1929. Blackburn at that time was engaged in mining similar material in Kansas. In May 1932 the deposit which he worked in that state was exhausted and he made preparations to begin operating at Tahoka. Financial and land title difficulties prevented progress on the project. Mr. Woiton was interested in it early this month and since then has been working to finish legal and financial arrangements that the proper organization might be effected and marketing arrangements provided. He said Thursday he would leave immediately for Tahoka to finish preliminary plans.

Mr. Woiton, a 1925 graduate of Texas A. & M. College, is a past-Chancellor Commander of the local Knights of Pythias lodge. He has been engaged in municipal engineering since his graduation, having been with the city of Galveston from June 1925 until he went to Beaumont as concrete inspector. He then went to Lufkin as assistant to City Manager V. R. Smitham, who called him here in 1929 after Smitham became local city manager.—Big Spring Herald.
