Senator Long Assassinated by Political Opponent

HUEY P. LONG, United States senator and political dictator of Louisiana, is dead, the victim of an assassin's bullet. As he passed through nents. The assassin Huey P. Long was immediately shot to death by the senator's ever present bodyguards.

Long was hurriedly taken to a hospital and eminent surgeons were summoned. They found the bullet had gone through the base of the right lung and passed out of the back, puncturing the colon and causing internal hemorrhage. After the wound had been cleansed, two blood transfusions were given, the blood being supplied by Lieut. Gov. James A. Noe. Mrs. Long and her daughter Rose were brought from New Orleans and sat at the senator's bedside.

The surgeons and physicians worked unceasingly to save Long, but his strength steadily waned and shortly after 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, about thirty hours after the shooting, he passed away.

The motive of Doctor Weiss, an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, apparently grew out of the high-handed political methods of Senator Long in Louisiana. The position of his fatherin-law, District Judge B. H. Pavy of Opelonsas parish, an anti-Long leader. is jeopardized by a law introduced in the present special session to gerrymander his district. The law would put the home of Judge Pavy in Landry. parish.

In August, Senator Long told the senate that at a conference in the Hotel De Soto in New Orleans last July 21 his foes had discussed a plot kill him. He presented excerpts from what claimed was a record of a sound recording device revealing the plot. Long's opponents laughed at this story, just as they always have ridiculed his practice of having an armed guard accompany him everywhere. Political leaders of all parties expressed their deep regret for the assassination of Senator Long. His devoted fellowers in Louisiana and elsewhere mourned his death. He had been one of the picturesque figures in America's political life, creating innumerable enemies but persistent in advocating his ideas which appeared fantastic to most citizens. A Democrat, he had broken with the administration and often bitterly attacked President Roosevelt-and the New Dealers. It was the belief of many that he intended to become, the Presidential nominee of a third party comprising his own "share the wealth" crowd and various other groups dissatisfied with the policies of the old parties.

Aloisi Presents Italy's Case Against Ethiopia

BARON POMPEI ALOISI, cold and sardonic, stood up before the League of Nations council in Geneva and presented Italy's case against Ethiopia, denouncing that empire as utterly unworthy to be classed with civilized countries. In addition to his speech, he laid before the council a long memorandum detailing the alleged conditions of slavery that still prevail in Ethiopia and the participation of its government in the slave trade. This memorandum was elab orately documented.

Addressing the council, Aloisi said in part :

"The Ethiopian government does nothing to make itself worthy of belonging to the community of civilized nations. Even today that country has to be represented by European advisers in order to make its voice heard in the League of Nations.

"The Italian government considers, in these circumstances, that a state such as Ethlopia cannot have either equality of right or equality of duties as compared with civilized states. To claim that members of the league are required to observe rules of the covenant in their relations with members who have always and constantly been outside those rules is contrary to all the principles of right and justice." To the press correspondents the baron was even more explicit. "You have heard the Italian thesis," he said. "That is final, Italy has asked nothing, not even the withdrawal of Ethlopia from the league. From now on Italy will play a passive role here. We are not going to discuss anything with Ethiopia, but we will discuss Ethiopia with the league. "It is up to the members of the league council to decide whether they want to expel Ethiopia or expel Italy."

Germany Protests Language of a New York Judge

G ERMAN Ambassador Hans Luther called on Secretary of State Hull and entered formal protest against the language used by Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky of New York in dismissing charges against five persons arrested for tearing the Nazi flag from the liner Bremen in July. The magistrate justified the action of the rioters on the ground that the disp.ay of the flag carried, in their minds, "the same sinister implications of a pirate ship, sailing defiantly into the harbor of a nation, one of whose ships it had just scottled, with the black flag of piracy proudly flying aloft."

Judge Brodsky also characterized the Nazl state as "an atavistic throwback to pre-medieval, if not barbaric, social and political conditions."

Ambassador Luther, who was acting on instructions from Berlin, must have known that Secretary Hull couldn't do much about it, having no control over & city magistrate. However, Mr. Hull tried to mollify an angered Germany by intimating to Governor Lehman of New York that an apology from Brodsky was in order.

Hundreds Die in Hurricane That Sweeps Florida

FLORIDA was the victim of another terrific hurricane that swept up from the Caribbean across the keys and the southern end of the state, then along the west coast and into Georgia. The total of fatalities was uncertain but at this writing the number of dead is estimated at more than 500. Of these perhaps 300 were war veterans in labor camps on the keys where they were employed in construction work. All buildings on many of the keys were demolished and a relief train that had been sent to take the veterans away from the danger zone was smashed to pleces. The survivors on the islands were without shelter, food and medical supplies, but relief expeditions were quickly sent by the Red Cross and other agencies.

Responding to assertions that the great loss of life in the veterans' labor. camps was due to lack of preparation against such a disaster. President Roosevelt ordered a thorough, investigation by Brig, Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs. Harry Hopkins, head of the FERA which set up the camps, also started an inquiry, and so did the American Legion. The affair' promised to attain the bad eminence of a national scandal.

Caught in the fury of the storm, the Morgan liner Dixle, from New Orleans for New York, was driven aground on French reef, about 60 miles south of Miami, Her passengers and crew, numring 372, were in great peril for three days, but various steamers and coast guard cutters rushed to the rescue in response to her SOS call and as soon as wind and seas abated enough all were taken off the stranded vessel and conveyed to land, most of them to Miami. Passengers on the Dixle warmly praised the gallant work of the ship's officers and crew.

The Soviet took advantage of an opportunity. It is true that the Communist Internationale is a political party but the Communist Internationale in Russia is not comparable to the Democratic or Republican political party in the United States. It is the only political party and it decides what the government shall do and is responsible to no higher authority. Thus, when the Communist Internationale took the firebrands of revolution into the United States, it is hard to understand why the Russian government did not have some finger in the pudding.

The American government has warned Russia of "serious consequence" if the communistic propaganda does not cease. Such an expression between nations, can mean only the breaking up of diplomatic relations. Whether Mr. Roosevelt will go that far is still undetermined.

As we look back over the Russian affair, one can bardly fail to characterize it as a misadventure. Mr. Roosevelt said he wanted to recognize Russia because great economic advantages would flow from that act. There would be much more trade, much new business developed. Department of Commerce figures reveal, bowever, that sales to Russia were about $114,000,000 in 1930 but that they have dropped down in the last year to about $30,000,-000

He But undoubtedly the outstanding victory recorded by the Russians in persuading America to recognize the Moscow government lies not in the Ameri-Maxim Litvinoff, a Soviet official can field at all. Their greates was in their relations with Japan. The last several years have witnessed continued friction along the frontier between Japan and Russia. There was a constant threat of war. Strange as it may seem, as soon as negotiations were opened between the United States and Russia, the international relations between Russia and Japan began to improve. There has been almost no trouble on that border since. The reason is that before recognition the Japanese appeared to feel they would have the moral support, at least, of the United States in any controversy developing between them and Moscow. So the books will record another victory for foreign diplomats, another defeat for the hit and miss diplomatic system of the United States. (And the debt contracted by the Czar's government and disregarded by the Soviet is as much unsettled as the day that the Czar was murdered.) . . .

Josef Beck of Poland, The assembly of the league began its sessions in Geneva, bringing to that city many of Europe's foremost statesmen, and it was a certainty that the assembly would be definitely hostile to Italy and ready to consider the imposing of penalties on Italy the moment any overt act occurs. The Italians hoped to prolong the inquiry by the committee of five until after the adjournment of the assembly, and their opponents were building up a solid front, preparing for the application of sanctions against an aggressor as provided for in article 16 of the league covenant. Baron Aloisi told Captain Eden that the African campaign would not begin while the assembly was in session.

In two speeches in Rome Mussolini gave indication that he would not be diverted from his purpose to conquer Ethiopia. Though in one he said "the Italian people want peace provided it is accompanied by justice," in the other he declared "we shall march straight on." Reactions to President's Letter Are Various

R EACTION of American business and financial men to President Roosevelt's latest public statement that his basic program has reached substantial completion and industry will have a breathing spell ran the gamut between mild hope and downright unbellef. Those who permitted themselves to be quoted were generally extremely cautious in their expresslons, but there was usually a vein of skepticism in their remarks. Wall Street brokers were gladdened by a spurt of trading at higher prices, but bankers were more than doubtful, an ! economists insisted that a balance. budget, which wasn't mentioned in the President's letter to Koy Howard, publisher, was a prime regulate Silas Strawn, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, said: "Business men generally will say that the improvement in some lines of business has been in spite of, rather than because of, the activities of the administration.'

Politicians regarded the letter as Mr. Roosevelt's opening of his campaign for re-election, and praised or decried it according to their party affiliations. Frank Knox of the Chicago Daily News, a potential candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, called it "just another promise" and set forth the many campaign promises which Mr. Roosevelt has failed to keep. Senator Black of Alabama sald the statement was "a wonderfully clear explanation of his program, its origin l aims and its execution. It should be a call to those engaged in business to co-operate in further national progress."

Howard had written the President that many business men had become convinced that there could be no real recovery "until the fears of business have been allaged through the granting of a breathing spell to industry and a recess from further experimentation until the country can recover its losses."

In a long letter the President replied that the legislative program of his administration had reached substantial completion and "the breathing spell of which you speak is heredecid edly so."

WHILE the European statesmen were struggling with the Italo-Ethlopian question, Secretary of State Cordell Hull quietly took a hand in > the game. He did not in any way involve the United States in the wrangle, but he put an end to the deal whereby Haille Selassie was giving a great development concession to Americans, Officials of the Standard-Vacuum Oil company went to Mr. Hull's office and

The secretary admonished them that the concession had been "the cause of great embarrassment not only to this government but to other governments who are making strenuous and sincere efforts for the preservation of peace." Numerous of communications exchanged between Hitches Mr. Roosevelt and M.

Litvinoff, the various pledges and promises usual between nations were made. Included in these pledges was one which since has become the bugbear of a controversy and which, if American recognition is withdrawn, will be the crux of the incident.

Almost constantly since the Soviet system overthrew the Czar and destroyed all vestiges of the monarchial government in Russia, the communist party of Russia has been engaged in world propaganda. World revolution, new political ideas. Hence, just at is its aim. It proposes and constantly fights for everthrow of the system which enables individuals to make a profit; which enables individuals to earn money of their own and to save and invest or spend that money as they choose. Common ownership of everything is the objective and government by the proletariat-everyone-is demanded.

M. Litvinoff pledged his government to curb such activities in the United States. But that pledge was a year ago. It seems to have been forgotten. Communistic propaganda has gone on and continues to go on in this country on a broad scale. The efforts were so bold that eventually our Department of State could not overlook it. Mr.

Hull's recommendation lay in a White House pigeon-hole for some weeks and it was not until the Communist Internationale met in Russia and fiery speeches criticizing the United States and advising revolution were made, This was the straw that broke the camel's back. Mr. Roosevelt gave his approval to Mr. Hull's proposal for a protest. It was made and promptly rejected, as I have mentioned above.

. . . The Soviet foreign office rejected. the protest on the ground that the Communist Internationale Trick Not was not a part of the Red government; Foreseen that it was a political party over which the Russian Soviet government had no control and that Mr. Roosevelt in 1936.

ways with that return there comes swift and burning, activity in politics. Usually, also, the passing of Labor day sees the return to Washington of other types of vacationists-Washington being what it is in August-and they, teo, bring back this writing Washington is deluged with all kinds of political fireworks.

As far as I have been able to analyze the situation, there are three distinct classes. The first embraces those who go out on vacations to see whether they can find as much or more support for the administration in power at the time than in the previous vacations: a second group includes those who go out with a determination to find that the administration is in a tallspin and losing ground rapidly, and the third is made up of vacationists who do not concern themselves directly about politics but who cannot avoid political discussions because of their residence in-Washington. So, just now, we are surfeited with political declarations that Mr. Roosevelt is stronger than ever before; that he has lost so much ground that his election is improbable and the unbiased assertions that he has gained in some communities and has lost immeasurably in others.

Coupled with this boiling stage of the political pot insofar as individual action is concerned are two developments of importance: the Republican National committee has been called to meet here and rather well authenticated rumors are extant that "Big Jim" Farley is ready to resign as Postmaster General and devote his time to his other job-the chairmanship of the Democratic National committee. These two incidents can be construed only as meaning that the Republicans are getting ready to fight after a long sleep and that "Big Jim," after a transcontinental tour, sees some reason for an early start in the campaign to re-elect

I. James Presiding at a Church Council (Acts 15:1-21).

1. The controversy in the church at Antioch (vv. 1-5). A most difficult problem confronted the church, threatening its disruption into a Jewish and Gentile division. It was not a question of the admission of the Gentlies into the church. That had been settled some years before when Peter received Cornelius and his household. The question now was, on what ground could they be received? Should Gen-'the believers be required to keep the Mosaic law as a condition of salvation? In order to settle the matter, Paul and Barnabas were sent to Jerusalem for the decision of the mother church.

II. The Deliberation of the Council (VV. 6-21).

1. Peter speaks (vv. 6-11), He argued that God had borne witness to the acceptance of the Gentiles by giving the Holy Spirit to them as unto the Jews. Since God had not put a difference, it would be folly for them to do 80.

2. Paul and Barnabas rehearsed their experience (v. 12). They told how that God had set his seal of approval on the preaching of salvation by grace through faith.

3. The argument of James (vv. 14-21). He took the fact declared by Peter and showed how it harmonized

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Pe

melepe." In an effort to solve his matri-menial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Peselope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits

the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible.

McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent

"Well, you shadowed my house and entered it unlawfully." "Well, I found a lipstick-"

"Belonged to the nurse I had looking after a sick friend of mine," the chief lied glibly.

But Flynn only grinned feroclously. "I found stained bandages, too." "Well, the pot can't get nowhere by calling the kettle black." McNamara decided, "Clear out!" "Give me the money and I'll lay off."

But Dan McNamara shook his head, "I know your kind, Pat. There's no sense wasting good money on you because you won't stay bought. Clear out, 1 tell you."

So Flynn cleared out, carrying with him infinitely more respect for his chief than he had heretofore entertained. Well, some day he'd collect heavy interest on that two hundred and fifty dollars.

. The last patient had left Stephen Burt's office for the day and the ever watchful Lanny had locked the office

"Tired, Stevie?" she queried anxiously, as he loaded his pipe. "No, of course not," he replied abruptly. "What have I done to be tired?"

They've cost her ten dollans a day each and they haven't discovered anything to Merton's discredit." "It's about time for Mrs. Merton to cotamence hearing voices of sorts," Lanny commented dryly. "Highball, Stevie?"

"Yes, thank you, Lanny," he said, and deluged Lanny with his sunny smile. "Yes, Mrs. Merton is hearing voices. Her first husband who is dead keeps whispering through space to her. He's trying to tell her how sorry he is. I understand he made a dirty will." "He would-if he had any common sense. What a poor, beaten devil Merton is! He hasn't the courage of a

"Does it beat your news, Lanu, "Beats it by a mile, although while she was at my house she told me as much about herself as she could remember."

"This morning," McNamara continued, "the president of the Security Trust company telephoned me that the girl's mother had called him up to ask if Pebelope had been cashing any checks lately. The banker gathered that the mother has a notion her daughter's dead. "Did you find out the name of her mother?" Stephen asked.

"Oh, yes. She's married again, you understand. Naturally she didn't get any information out of the banker. He's on to her, and it was none of her business whether Penelope has been cashing checks or not."

"Get the girl's case record, Lanny," Stephen commanded. "What is her mother's name. Chief?" "Mrs. Rudolph Merton."

"She's a patient of Stevie's!" Lanny velled. "She's such a nut the squirrels chase her."

Stephen finished writing and laid down his pen. "I told you, Lanny, that Mrs. Merton wasn't insake enough to be confined." "Goess I've got Lanuy's news beaten,

Take a bankroll with you, Lanny, and when you get there take charge of her funds." "And have her nose done over while

Jess Mitchell candidate for State Senator

Jess Mitchell, editor at Muleshoe, in Bailey county, announces his candidacy as State Senator for this 30th Senatorial district, to succeed the late Hon. Arthur P. Duggan, whose recent death left that office to be filled by an election called by Gov. Allred for September 28.

Mr. Mitchell, in making his announcement, says he is entirely mindful of the opportunity for service and of the grave responsibility this office entails. He considers holding of public office a sacred trust. "I verily believe," he said, "that aside from the duties of the Church, there is nothing more serious and more sacred than duties of State.

chamber, dealt solely with the question of the liquor traffic. Tuesday, the Governor said, he will submit the subject of substituting salaries for fees to compensate local offices. Later this week a message on old age pensions will be delivered. The Governor refrained from committing himself to any system of liquor control, pointing out that the Legislature was empowered to enact laws either for private sales or a state monopoly.

He outlined seven problems which were before the Legislature in regard to liquor, as follows: 1. To define the term "open saloon" and bar it from Texas. 'Frankly," he said, "I do not know just what those who framed this amendment had in mind; I only know that the vast majority of the people, irrespective of how they voted on the amendment, are agreed that they do not want, indeed

Stal-naker explains how a group of nurwrites Don Chalmers Lyons in Hygeia in "An Analysis of the Significance of School Report Cards."

Good or bad grades are not so important as is an evaluation of what those grades actually represent as iudicators of social adjustment. The grades which appear on the report card are more than mere indicatorsof scholastic ability; they are key letters to character and, for the parent who is willing to take the time and trouble to analyze them or to have them analyzed by the child's instructors, they may reveal hitherto unguessed phases in the child's mental, physical and emotional make-up.

Harder work and more study are not panaceas in every case of scholastic failure. Some students have only a limited mental capacity; beyond a certain point, increased study is of no value because of actual inability to assimilate and correlate knowledge. While such students can obtain fair or even good grades if they are carrying a light load of work they are almost certain to fail if they are forced to carry a heavy schedule. SCOUT MEETING

Twenty-four boys attended the Boy Scout meeting in the Methodist Church basement last Friday n'ght Present also were the retiring scout master, J. D. Donaldson, Judge W. E. (Happy) Smith, Superintendent W. G. Barrett, and Messrs. Otis Scruggs and Clifton Noble.

After a few games enjoyed by both men and boys, a business meeting was held, and Mr. Barrett made a short talk. A new Scoutmaster was not elected, but one is expected to be elected soon.

COUNTY BUYS MAINTAINER L. M. Nordyke, commissioner of precinct No. 2, has purchased a new Maintainer for use on the roads in his precinct. It is being used now.

John Hudman of Post has accepted a position with Deen Nowlin here. He and wife and baby have an apartment at the Keltner Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Welch went to Hobbs Monday to spend a few days visiting Mrs. Welch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Crouch.
