FARM NOTES

By County Agent

Proper storage of this year's feed crop is a problem of vital interest to the farmers of West Texas, and the South Plains area. The severe shortage of feed this past year has brought to our minds the necessity of the storage of at least two years supply of feed on the farm.

One of the latest methods of storage, and one that has proven very satisfactory where it has been tried, is that of the trench silo. Trench silos are simple and easily constructed. The only expense involved is the labor of digging. This form of storage not only keeps feed safely and in a nutritious state, but improves the feeding qualities and value of the feed put into the silo. Feed buried in this manner is more palatable, cannot burn up, become filled with sand, and rats and weevils cannot destroy the feed. There are also other advantages in this method of storage.

Information in the County Agents office indicates there are seven trench silos in the county that have been constructed this year. It is hoped to have at least one silo in each community in the county. Those of you contemplating digging a trench silo, dig the trench as soon as possible in order to be ready when the feed is ready to put in.

The trench silo is no longer an experiment, but has been definitely demonstrated that it will more than pay for the trouble and expense of digging and filling. Very often more feed is wasted than fed, and with this year's good feed crop, certainly no farmer can go wrong by putting in a trench silo.

Bulletins and information relative to a Trench Silo will be gladly furnished any farmer at the County Agents office upon request.

A Corn-Hog referendum relative to a Corn-Hog program in 1936 will be held some time soon. The producers who have signed a Corn-Hog reduction contract will be expected to vote on the question, and farmers who did not have a contract will be eligible to vote. More definite information will be furnished relative to this referendum at a later date.

Regulations relative to the transfer of cotton certificates are: Cotton certificates can only be transferred from one cotton producer to another. The seller must sign an affidavit form that the certificates he is offering for sale are surplus and the buyer must sign a like form that he needs them to tag cotton. Both the seller and buyer must come to the county agent's office to sign the transfer forms and there is a fixed price per pound on these certificates of 5c per pound, cash money.

A number of producers who have certificates to sell have listed them at County Agent's office, and producers who need to buy, can find plenty of certificates by inquiring at the office.

None of the second payment rental checks have been received at the County Agent's office to date. When these checks are received each producer will be notified by card.

The certificates from the 1934 pool have not been returned to this office to date. We do not know when these certificates will come in, but as soon as they are available each producer who has these certificates will be notified.

County Teachers Meeting Saturday

County Superintendent H. P. Caviness announces that the Lynn County Teachers meeting will be held in the high school building here next Saturday, beginning at 10 A. M.

All the teachers in the county except those teaching in the Tahoka Independent School District are expected to attend.

VISIT BROWNFIELD

A number of the members of the Marion G. Bradley Post of the American Legion were guests of the post at Brownfield Thursday night. Sam Holland is the new post commander here.

WOMEN'S CLUBS EXHIBIT WARES

Canned Products On Display On West Side Square; Prizes Are Offered

The canned products and other handiwork of the various women's home demonstration clubs of the county are on display Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week in the office of the Texas Utilities Company.

There is not a vacant business house in town, and in the emergency, W. S. Anglin, local manager of the Texas Utilities Company, offered the use of his office for the exhibition.

The exhibits are very fine, and they are being viewed daily by many interested people.

On Tuesday of last week a committee was appointed by J. K. Applewhite, president of the luncheon club, to solicit funds to provide a premium list for the exhibits. Messrs Anglin, W. C. Wells, and Homer St. Clair served on the committee. Fifty business concerns responded to their request for donations. Some of these donations consisted of cash and some merchandise. Altogether quite a creditable premium list was provided.

We may be able to give the awards next week.

Garrard Named County Attorney

At a special session of the commissioners court last Friday, Hon. Tom Garrard was appointed county attorney, to fill the unexpired term of Truett Smith, who had just been appointed by the governor as district attorney of the 106th district.

The appointment of Mr. Garrard came unsolicited, and on Tuesday of this week he was still undecided as to whether he could afford to accept the position.

Mr. Garrard served several years as district attorney of the Midland-Pecos district and later was appointed by Governor Neff as assistant attorney-general to represent the state in criminal cases appealed to the court of criminal appeals at Austin. Later he formed a law partnership with Judge G. E. Lockhart and practiced law in Lubbock a few years. For the past two or three years he has been residing in Tahoka but has an extensive law practice over this section of the state. Acceptance of the office of county attorney would probably mean a financial sacrifice on his part.

Grand Jury Finds Eleven Indictments

The grand jury convened on Monday of last week and was in session most of the week.

When it reported near the close of the week it turned into court eleven indictments. Some of these cases were disposed of this week. Others will possibly be heard next week.

Lamesa Man Hurt In Car Accident

A Lamesa man whose name we did not learn had a car wreck at the southern limits of Tahoka Sunday night when his car struck a culvert. The driver is said to have been blinded by the lights of cars he was meeting.

The man was picked up and taken to a local physician's office for treatment, and at first it was thought that he was very seriously injured, as he was unable to talk. It was soon discovered, however, that he was deaf and dumb, and there was no evidence of serious injuries, though his car was almost utterly demolished.

Boy Scouts Meet With New Leader

The Tahoka Boy Scouts had their regular meeting last Friday night and they report a good time. Mr. Otis Scruggs is the scoutmaster and Clifford Noble assistant.

It is planned to have a school of honor some time soon.

DEDICATE M. E. CHURCH HERE

Bishop Boas Preaches Dedication Sermon Before A Large Congregation

A great concourse of people gathered at the Methodist Church last Sunday morning to witness the dedication of the building to the Lord, the last of the indebtedness thereon having been paid recently.

Bishop H. A. Boas of Fort Worth delivered the dedicatory sermon, and it was a great discourse. It was the first time many members of the congregation had enjoyed the privilege of hearing him, and surely nobody was disappointed. He made no effort at oratory, and yet he is a real orator, for he has the art and power of speaking effectively without any effort to be rhetorical or (Cont'd. on last page)

Luncheon Club Has Musical Program Talks On New School Bond Proposal

Receives News Of Old Bank Account

Pete Hegi of the First National Bank here handed us the following clipping from the Petersburg Journal a few days ago which concerns his father, John Hegi, of that little city. Mr. Hegi is a native of Switzerland but came to this country more than sixty years ago when a mere youth of 18. The Journal says: John Hegi, Sr. received a letter this week from a bank in Worb, Switzerland, stating that he had a balance on deposit in the bank amounting to 250 francs which in American money amounts to about fifty dollars. This amount has been there subject to Mr. Hegi's check for more than sixty years. The unusual feature of this is that Mr. Hegi didn't know it was there and the bank didn't know his address. When the address was secured the bank notified him of the account.

Swan Appointed Justice Of Peace

W. S. Swan, for thirty years a resident of Lynn county, was the successful applicant for the office of justice of the peace here to succeed Uncle Ben Rogers, who resigned on Monday of last week. The appointment was made by the commissioners court last Friday, and "Uncle W" made his bond and took the oath of office the same day. There were several other applicants for the position.

Mr. Swan is a native of Bell county and lived there when that was a pioneer region; when Texas, in fact, was still young as a state. In early manhood he removed to Jones county and resided there for many years. For several terms he served as sheriff and tax collector of that county; and that, too, was when Jones county lay far out on the western frontier. Thirty years ago or more he bought land in the northern portion of this county and moved upon it, later moving to Tahoka. Since residing here, he served several years as special officer for the Texas & Pacific Railway Company at Big Spring but continued to maintain his home here.

CLUB EXHIBITS

That they are living up to their Club Motto "To Make the Best Better" cannot be doubted of Lynn County Club women and girls when one views the quality exhibits that 13 women's home demonstration clubs and 7 Girls' 4-H Clubs have on display at the Texas Utilities office here.

Miss Mattie Phenix, Home Demonstration Agent of Dawson County, judged the products Thursday morning, too late for the list of awards to be given in this issue. But you should not fail to see this fine exhibit, folks. It will be time well spent to look it over.

Tests show that hearing is dulled by heavy noon lunches and it is believed that all other senses are similarly affected.

NEGRO GIVEN PEN SENTENCE

Liquor Cases Draw Convictions With Sentence Suspended; Truett, Smith Prosecutes

The district court was busy Monday and Tuesday of this week disposing of criminal cases. Six cases were tried.

The first and most serious charge was that against Walter Collins, colored, charged with assault with intent to murder, committed upon another negro, Charley Malone, in the negro section of town here on May 11. Collins stabbed Malone with a knife. Truett Smith, the new district attorney, prosecuted, while Price & Moss of Post represented the defendant. The jury found the defendant guilty and assessed his punishment at two years in the (Cont'd. on last page)

Truckers Should Report For Work

All unemployed persons who have trucks are invited to call at the relief office on Friday or Saturday of this week and give the information desired by the office, says Miss Colysta Fitzgerald.

Truck owners are requested to be able to give the model, type and license numbers of their trucks. This information is desired in order that it may be furnished to B. C. Corder, supervisor of the Division of labor management of the WPA. This division desires to know the number of idle trucks in each county. In placing labor, first consideration will be given to persons on the relief rolls. It is to the interest of each truck owner to call at the relief office and give the information desired.

W. M. Lee Attends Big Family Reunion

W. M. Lee and his daughter, Mrs. C. O. Carmack and children, returned early last week from a visit at Stephenville, and the Stephenville Empire reports the visit as follows.

W. M. Lee, better known to his friends in Erath county as "Mack," was here Sunday from Tahoka for a visit with his mother and sister, Mrs. Jasper Lee and Mrs. Frank Poteet, 1103 West Sloan street. He also visited with other relatives in Stephenville while here over the week end. His daughter, Mrs. Gladys Carmack and children of Tahoka who came with him, also visited with the family.

Other relatives in Mrs. Poteet's home Sunday were her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward Lee of Fort Worth, who came to join in the family reunion here. All of the visitors are former residents of Erath county and are well known in this city and surrounding communities.

Miss Singleton Is Secretary To Senator

Miss Ola Belle Singleton received notification last week of her appointment as secretary to O. H. Nelson, the new senator from this district. She did not leave for Austin until Wednesday morning of this week, however. A nice salary is attached to this job and the work is pleasant. Miss Singleton is to be congratulated, therefore, upon her appointment. She acted as Mr. Nelson's stenographer during his campaign for the senate.

Mrs. Nelson and the children, accompanied by Miss Singleton, left early Wednesday morning for Austin, where they will remain during the special session or sessions of the legislature.

Order Election For New Ward School

Bulldogs Play In Post Friday Eve.

A large crowd of fans is expected to follow the Tahoka Bulldogs to Post Friday night, when the local football team will play the Post Antelopes under the lights. The game is scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m.

After winning over Crosbyton and Meadow, the local boys lost last Friday night to Littlefield by a score of 8 to 0, the game being played under the lights in that city. Littlefield made one touchdown by covering a blocked punt behind the goal line, and later made two points on a Tahoka safety. The Tahoka boys claim that the story may have been different but for the fact that Littlefield's lights were very dim and they could not get accustomed to playing football in the dark.

Post's new football field and lighting system is said to be excellent, and the game over there promises to be a battle. James Minor, captain, is recovered from his recent injuries, and will lead the team. The pep squad, in addition to other fans, will attend the game.

811 Bales of Cotton Ginned In Tahoka

Counting round bales as half bales, 811 bales of cotton had been ginned in Tahoka at 9 o'clock Thursday morning. This means that 561 bales had been ginned since our report last week. The weather has been favorable for the opening and gathering of the crop for the most part up till Thursday morning, when a misty norther threatened to retard the harvest. Also, there were showers a few miles north of town Monday and at Wilson and vicinity Wednesday night.

The price of cotton Thursday morning was given as 10.45 cents per pound, a slight increase over the price last week. The price of seed had also advanced to $31.00 per ton as against $29.00 last week.

Sherrods Will Attend Old Settlers Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Sherrod will leave for Brownwood the first of the week to attend an old settlers reunion at Brownwood next Tuesday. They will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Sherrod of Lubbock, the two men being brothers. The first child born in Brown county will be in attendance upon the reunion, it is said.

The Sherrods were reared in Brown county but they came to the plains many years ago. F. M. Sherrod of Tahoka was one of the first residents of this section. In the early days he was a buffalo hunter and Indian fighter and he has a fund of valuable information as to the early history of the plains. Of course he will greatly enjoy the reunion of the old-timers at Brownwood.

Kill Rattlesnake Here In Town

We hate to admit it, folks, but Tahoka is getting snakey. At least that is our conclusion. On Monday afternoon C. Pabst encountered a rattler on the vacant block a few yards north of the West Texas Gas office. With rocks and a stick he soon put the reptile out of commission. His snakeship was a good-sized specimen with six rattlers and a button, indicating that he was six years old, it is said.

Rattlesnakes do not usually go it alone. When one is killed another is usually lurking around somewhere in the neighborhood, we are told. Often they bed up in great numbers in some den to spend the winter. It is about time for rattlers to begin to hibernate, and it may be that this snake's companion, if any, will hibernate in the trash and leaves under some convenient mesquite bush in that part of town and come out next spring, possibly with a bunch of baby rattlers.

It would pay to keep rubbish down on our vacant lots.

WOULD SECURE FEDERAL GRANT

Government Offers Tahoka $32,728 Gift If District Will Vote $40,000 Remainder

A petition for a bond election was acted upon favorably by the school board at a special meeting Tuesday night to determine whether or not bonds in the sum of $40,000 shall be issued for the purpose of building a new grammar school building. The election was set for Thursday, October 31, and notices to that effect have been posted.

Recently a grant of $32,728 out of FWA funds was allowed to the Tahoka Independent School District on the condition that the District itself would provide and additional fund of $40,000 with which to construct a building. In other words, the Government will furnish 45 cents of every dollar required up to the above amount.

The plan of the building submitted with the application and approved by the FWA calls for a structure of imposing dimensions. It would consist of 12 class rooms, boiler room, rest rooms and a combination gymnasium and auditorium. Each of the class rooms would be 28 x 21.4 feet in size while the auditorium would be 86 by 91.5 feet in size, with a stage 18 by 40 feet. The building would have a frontage of 288 feet, while the distance from the front entrance of the building to the rear end of the auditorium would be more than 140 feet. There would also be a garage for school buses at the rear of the auditorium. The gymnasium would be provided with bleachers, and there would be ample lockers throughout the building.

The bonds are to bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent and are to be paid serially as follows:

- $250.00 payable on June 1, 1936,
- and each year thereafter until and including June 1, 1939,
- $500.00 payable on June 1, 1940,
- and each year thereafter until and including June 1, 1950,
- $1,000.00 payable on June 1, 1951,
- and each year thereafter until and including June 1, 1963,
- $1,500.00 payable June 1, 1964,
- and each year thereafter until and including June 1, 1970,
- $2,000.00 payable June 1, 1971,
- and each year thereafter until and including June 1, 1975.

The above are payments on the principal, to which would be added the annual interest payments.

Property tax payers residing in the district who have paid their poll taxes for the year 1934, if subject to a poll tax, will be allowed to vote in this election.

N. C. Rainey has been appointed as judge of the election and Carl Griffing and H. M. Larkin as clerks.

Speeches by President on Western Trip

TRAVELING rapidly to the Pacific coast for some fishing, President Roosevelt delivered several important addresses. The first was at Fremont, Neb., where he spoke to about 15,000 farmers and was enthusiastically received.

President Roosevelt

Mr. Roosevelt set forth the chief accomplishments of his administration to date, and challenged his opponents to do better. He defended the legality of the New Deal doings and made it plain that he would continue to carry on experiments for the welfare of the people.

Defining his idea of constitutional government, he said its true function is to promote the general welfare, not by interfering unduly with individual liberties, but by bringing to the aid of the individual those powers of government which are essential to assure the continuance of the inalienable rights which the Constitution is intended to guarantee.

Coming to the AAA, in which his hearers might be supposed to be most vitally interested, the President asserted that "agricultural adjustment is an expression in concrete form of the human rights those farmer patriots sought to win when they stood at the bridge at Concord when they proclaimed the Declaration of Independence, and when they perpetuated these ideals by the adoption of the Constitution."

No matter what attempts may be made to tear it down, "the principle of farm equality expressed by agricultural adjustment will not die," the President told the crowd. The AAA has made "honorable history," the President declared, and as a result, smoke is pouring from chimneys again and workers without regular jobs are obtaining employment.

He served notice that it is the purpose of his administration to "use every square mile of the United States for the purpose to which it is best adapted." Nature must be harnessed instead of despised, he asserted. At Boulder Dam the President assisted in the dedication of the great project and delivered an address in which he announced that government spending for employment purposes was nearing its end and that now private industry must take up the burden of decreasing the army of the unemployed.

He defended the administration against the charges of "boon-dozing" and said its efforts "meet with the approval of the people of the nation." He touched only lightly on the power question. Secretary Ickes, who also spoke, said Boulder Dam should be re-named Johnson Dam, in honor of Senator Hiram Johnson.

Again at Los Angeles in the Hollywood Bowl and at San Diego the Chief Executive delivered addresses, and then he went to catch some fish.

High Cost of Living Is Subject of Inquiry

OBEDYING the instructions of the President, the federal trade commission has begun a survey to determine why the cost of living is mounting so high. Several members of the commission's staff started the investigation in Detroit, where the housewives staged a most strike some weeks ago. Other members of the staff will take up the work in Chicago, and later the inquiry will be carried on in other centers. The agricultural income especially is to be investigated.

Illinois Republicans for Knox for Presidency

COL. FRANK KNOX, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, is now an accredited candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, for he has received the endorsement of the Republican state central committee of Illinois. Colonel Knox has been in a receptive mood for a long time and has traveled all over the country making speeches. In various unofficial straw votes he has been placed second, only Senator Borah being preferred to him.

Addressing the Illinois central committee, Colonel Knox said: "I have been from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from West Virginia on north, and everywhere I find that the Republicans not only think that they will be victorious but they have a deep sense of responsibility to rescue the country from the hands of socialists."

Budget Summation Shows Reduction in Deficits

IN A "budget summation" given out at Washington by order of the President it is shown that the federal deficits will be reduced by more than a billion and a quarter from the original estimates, because economic conditions have grown "decidedly better" and tax receipts are higher than was expected. The estimated deficit for the current fiscal year will be $3,281,000,000.

"The prevailing rate of recovery," the President said, "points to the speedy decline of federal expenditures for emergency activities."

Unless the AAA's processing taxes are knocked out by the Supreme court, he argued, the government "will not need new taxes or increased rates in existing taxes to meet the expenses of its necessary annual operations."

Van Sweringens Recover Railway Empire

VAN SWERINGEN brothers have regained control over the vast railway and real estate empire they built and lost to New York bankers. At the height of the boom this was valued at $3,000,000,000. It was taken by a banking group when the Van Sweringens defaulted on loans of $48,000,000 and was put up at auction. The brothers regained control for $3,121,000 by bidding in the majority stock of the Alleghany corporation, holding company for all but one of the so-called Van Sweringens roads, including the Chesapeake & Ohio, Pere Marquette, Nickel Plate, Missouri Pacific, and Chicago & Eastern Illinois, and the Van Sweringen corporation through which the brothers ruled their vast real estate possessions.

War in Ethiopia Growing Nearer Day by Day

ITALY having rejected the peace plan proposed by the League of Nations committee of five, and Ethiopia having accepted it, the committee reported to the league council that its efforts to solve the problem were futile.

The council thereupon held a public meeting and adopted unanimously the recommendation of its president, Enrique Ruiz Guinazu of Argentina, that it proceed under article 15 of the covenant, drafting a report and recommendations for settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian imbroglio.

A feature of the council's session was an address by Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league affairs. Conversations in Rome between British Ambassador Sir Eric Drummond and Premier Mussolini had led some to think that Britain was weakening, but Eden announced his government was "steadfastly determined to abide by its policy" as previously declared.

Emperor Haile Selassie wired the league requesting that in view of the "increasing provocative attitude of Italy" neutral observers be dispatched to Ethiopia to establish responsibility in case a clash occurs. The Ethiopian ruler notified the league that he could not delay general mobilization much longer, in view of the "increasing gravity of Italian aggression," but he decided to wait a little longer for action by the league before calling to arms his warriors, whose number he estimates at 2,000,000.

Mussolini, who asserted he expected Ethiopia would soon assault Italy's colonies proceeded to put 250,000 troops in east Africa. Nearly every day vessels left for Eritrea carrying large bodies of soldiers. On one of them went Prince Adalberto of Savoy, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel. In addition to the Italian troops, Mussolini will have half as many native fighters from Eritrea and Somaliland. The duke intimated he would quit the League of Nations if it took any action against Italy, but he also offered to negotiate an accord with Great Britain.

The British asked France to define its attitude should any nation attack the empire, and soon after Sir Samuel Hoare replied to France's questions regarding the British attitude toward possible trouble on the continent. The foreign secretary assured France that Great Britain would always support collective action against any aggressor.

Florida Narrowly Escapes Another Hurricane

A NOTHER fierce hurricane from the Caribbean swept across the middle part of Cuba, causing more than a score of deaths and doing vast property damage, and then seemed to be heading directly for southern Florida. The residents there made all possible preparations for safety, but the storm suddenly veered and roared off to the northeast over the Atlantic.

To Serve Chicken and Fowls So All Get Some of the Best Parts

There are certain foods, meats particularly, that have especially desirable parts or favorite portions, which make them difficult to serve without seeming partiality, whether the dishes are served to the family or to guests. It is true that when there are visitors, they would be given what are considered the nicest parts, but when there are several persons and few best pieces, there still is a difficulty to surmount as best the hostess can.

Chicken and poultry of all kinds present problems but there are ways of preparing the meat, of mixing the choice parts and poorer ones, to equalize portions so that all get approximately the same desirable servings. The meat from the second joint, that best of all dark meat portions, and by many considered the best of the bird, when cut from the bone can be distributed in smaller pieces throughout the preparation. And this is true of the breast, another favorite part, best liked by those who like white meat, not so rich in flavor as the dark. It can be cut and distributed, while the meat from the neck, legs, and wings, those parts of lesser appeal, can also be distributed through the preparation, equally. Chicken dishes that can be served without partiality of portions are chicken pie, chicken croquettes, plain or fancy, chicken en casserole, chicken loaf, chicken chateaufort, chicken souffle, escaloped-chicken, plain or fancy. There are other preparations such as chicken chateaufort and chicken mayonnaise that can be prepared of pieces of birds, but which require a degree of culinary ability to prepare properly. The other preparations are within the scope of the young cook—as they are dishes easy to prepare.

When mention was made of fancy croquettes and escaloped chicken, the difference between them and the plain ones consists in combining mushrooms, or sweet peppers, or pimiento, sweet corn, or macaroni, or celery, or a combination of the above ingredients or others congenial to fowl. Turkey, goose, duck, etc., can be used instead of the chicken or fowl.

Chicken chateaufort is delicious and a dainty dish to serve. Add one teaspoon each of chopped parsley, and chopped sweet pepper, one-half teaspoon of burnt onion juice (or plain), one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, two teaspoons chili sauce and one tablespoon minced boiled celery, to one cup or one and one-half cups of minced cooked chicken. Butter a plain mold and line it one inch thick with boiled rice. Fill center with above mixture and cover with rice. Cover mold and steam for three-fourths hour. Unmold and pour tomato sauce (hot) around the mold but not over it. Put a sprig of parsley on top of mold, and serve.

Are Our Eyes Getting Weaker?

Defects of Vision Increase With Years—Poor Light a Cause.

When born, nearly all babies have normal eyes. With the same kind of care that carries them through infancy and childhood, happy and healthy—their eyes should remain normal.

But it has been found that by the time children finish grade school, 20 per cent of them have defective vision. When they have finished college, 40 per cent have eye difficulties. Forty years of age shows 60 per cent with defective vision, and past sixty, 85 per cent are so affected.

Why should the eyes of so many show such an alarming increase in vision defects? Because these children, these growing girls and boys—young and older men and women, used their eyes with too little light!

In the daytime outdoors there is, of course, plenty of light—the natural daylight nature developed our eyes to see by. The light from an unclouded sky gives us 10,000 foot candles. In the shade of a tree, the light will be upwards of 1,000 foot candles. Close by a window there may be 200 foot candles of light shining on your book page or needle-work.

What is a foot candle? It is the scientist's "yardstick" of light measurement. The amount of light one

White Oriole Obtained for U. S. Collection

Specimens of the "white oriole," one of the world's rarest birds in collections, have been obtained for the Smithsonian Institution.

They were collected by Dr. Hugh M. Smith, formerly fisheries advisor to the Siamese government, from the upper slopes of Mount Kao Sabap, in southeastern Siam. There they live, usually in pairs, in the tops of the highest trees of the dense evergreen forests. Because of their lofty habitat, specimens are hard to obtain.

Practically nothing is known about the habits of the birds. They apparently are migrants, having been reported previously from southern China and French Indo-China. They are remarkable because of the pure white breasts of the males.

This bird is related to the Old world orioles and is in no way related to the common Baltimore Oriole of the United States. This American bird is a form of blackbird which owes its name to its resemblance in form and color pattern to the European oriole familiar to the English colonists. The Old world bird is more closely related to the crow. In this connection, it may be pointed out, there is no relationship, as is often assumed, between the Baltimore Oriole and the robin redbreast. The latter is a species of thrush.—Detroit News.

Australian Aborigines Are Rapidly Dying Out

The aborigines of Australia, probably the most primitive of the surviving races, are rapidly dying out. It is revealed by the report of the commonwealth statistician, notes a Sydney correspondent in the Los Angeles Times. The number fell by 10 per cent last year. The figure of 54,800 is 5,200 below that which was returned in 1933 and is tragically lower than the population before the arrival of the first white settler.

Though this was little more than a century ago, the blacks then numbered more than 250,000. In their native surroundings the aborigines are self-reliant and quick; under white influence they lose stability. White man's diseases have played their part in the decimation of the last century. Whole tribes have been extinguished by smallpox and tuberculosis. European vices appeal readily to them and they fall under the strain more quickly, perhaps, than any other native race.

As far back as 1840 one Australian newspaper foresaw extinction of the aborigines if nothing was done to check contacts between the two races inhabiting the southern continent. Yet the future of the natives receives little attention.

If you feel tired, run-down, nervous and out of sorts

—there is usually a definite reason for this

Now let's reason sensibly. Don't try to get well in a day... this is asking too much of Nature. Remember, she has certain natural processes that just cannot be hurried. But there is a certain scientific way you can assist by starting those digestive juices in the stomach to flowing more freely and at the same time supply a balanced mineral deficiency the body needs. Therefore, if you are pale, tired and run-down... a frequent sign that your blood-cells are weak—then do try in the simple, easy way so many millions approve—by starting a course of S.S.S. Blood Tonic. Much more could be said—a trial will thoroughly convince you that this way, in the absence of any organic trouble, will start you on the road of feeling like yourself again.

S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again. You are invited to listen in every Friday night to a program of old-fashioned music—S.S.S. Music Box Hour—over Mutual Broadcasting Network, 8:30 P. M., S.S.T.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin will Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident sends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, escapes, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that her real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance Belden, Lanny finds her in her apartment asleep. Then she disappears, and McNamara learns that she is living in Paris. He also discovers he is in love with Lanny. Stephen warns Penelope by cable to leave Paris, as her whereabouts are known.

CHAPTER IX—Continued

"Make up your mind now that you will never mention those two names again as long as you live. You promise?" "Yes, Doctor." "Now, what is the name of the girl whose photograph you showed me?" A curious slight spasm of distaste flashed across Flynn's face. He shuddered. "I don't know," he replied. "What is the name of the girl who snatched from San Quentin?" "I don't know." Stephen struck Flynn a smart slap on the top of the head. "Wake up, he commanded. Flynn came awake instantly and looked extremely foolish. "Well, you didn't stand the test," Stephen assured him. "You were falling asleep, so I awakened you." "Am I pretty bad, Doc?" "You're this bad, that if you do not take treatment you will be in a bad way. I'll give you a prescription. Come and see me again." "Thank you, Doc. You're mighty kind. Good Lord, Doc, am I going crazy? I don't remember why I called on you." "You asked me to identify this passport photograph," and Stephen held out the little photo to Flynn, who thrust it away. "That's bad luck, Doc. Never mind. It's a matter of no importance." He picked up his hat, bade Stephen good night and left.

CHAPTER X

When the cablegram sent to Penelope Gatlin had been delivered for at least three days Dan McNamara telephoned Lanny to ask if the girl had answered. Upon being told she had not, he was so cast down that Lanny felt sorry for him. So, like all women who feel sorry for a man, she decided to feed him, and invited him for dinner that night. She said Stephen would be there. "That's no inducement," McNamara rumbled, "but I'll come anyhow. Thanks." McNamara's thoughts kept shutting back to Penelope Gatlin all that busy day. Finally he telephoned Flynn to report to him. "How about that Merton case I sent up to the chief of detectives recently?" he asked, when Flynn appeared. (McNamara hadn't sent the case up at all, but he knew Flynn did not know this.) "Oh, yes," said Flynn, "I did some work on that but didn't get anywhere. I called on the Merton woman and tried to get her to identify the girl's photograph, but she wouldn't or couldn't." "Did you get a line on the girl?" "Sure. Traced her to an address in Paris." "Under what name is she registered with the Paris police?" "Chief, I can't just recall it." "It was Penelope Gatlin, wasn't it?" Flynn flushed a little. "I don't know." "You're as bad as Mrs. Merton. What's the matter with you?" "I don't know, Chief. I think we might as well drop the case." "Very well, then, forget it, Pat. I was mildly curious, that's all. He dismissed Flynn. "By Jupiter, that fellow's getting too deep for me!" he soliloquized. And he telephoned the captain of detectives. "What about that case of the lost Merton heiress?" he demanded. "We've dropped it on Flynn's advice," McNamara grunted and hung up. Lanny, wearing a kitchen apron, ceased cooking dinner long enough to let him in that night. Stephen had not yet arrived, so McNamara went out into the kitchen with Lanny, while he related the news regarding the common nuisance.

Lanny gazed upon him very benignly. "You're a good man, Dan McNamara. How come you've never married?" "If I had, my mother would have lived with us," he declared. "How come you've never been married?" Lanny sighed. "Nobody ever asked me."

McNamara sighed gustily. "My poor mother's very old and in bad health," he said. "A man like you should have sons—fine, big, strapping, manly sons." "How old are you, Lanny?" "Forty-two." "I'm forty-six myself." He sighed again. "You're a fine woman, Lanny—devil a finer. We might manage it." "Manage what?"

"To put up with mother for the little time she has to live. God bless her." "I never could stand a left-handed proposal, Dan." Lanny shook her head and gazed at him solemnly. "Then here's my right hand on it, Lanny," and he laid his great right paw in hers. "If it's sons you'd have, you old darlin', 'tis little time we have to waste."

A faint flush came to Lanny's slightly faded cheeks. "What would Stevie do?" "It's been my observation, Lanny, that a woman without something to occupy her mind is in a poor way. You could continue to look after the doctor's office."

"You're a good theory, Dan, but it lacks one ingredient." "Name the lack and I'll get it." "You're not in love with me." "The h—! I'm not! You're like all the women—forever putting dogs in windows. I'm not used to passing words lightly on such a subject. Give me a yes or no answer."

"You great, lovable idiot!" Lanny yelled. Advancing swiftly upon the chief, she kissed his pompadour. "I'll risk your mother, Dan," she said softly. "All my life I've been looking for a man with a heart in his chest—and the day you first came into the office, with your big, swaggering way and your blarney and your air of owning the world, I—I wondered if you were married. I'm no longer young, Dan. I have peculiar ways and I'm bossy, too."

McNamara drew her face down and kissed it. "What a blessing I'm used to that, Lanny, and have learned to be kind to the aged. Here, quit pulling my hair, woman." The door bell began ringing. "What's wrong with you, Lanny?" Stephen demanded when Lanny admitted him. "I rang half a dozen times."

"Do you go to wait once in a while," she snapped back at him. "Mac," he declared, "you have a proprietary air about you." "And well I may," McNamara replied pertly. "I've just popped the question to Lanny and we've agreed to jump over the broomstick together."

"I've been expecting this, Dan. She hasn't been worth a canceled postage stamp to me since she met you." "But I'm not going to leave you, Stevie darling. Oh, I couldn't leave my boy!" Stephen held out his arms and Lanny ran into them. And then Stephen warned Dan that if he wasn't good to Lanny he would hypnotize him, as he had hypnotized P. Flynn, and sell him the idea he was a pet poodle, so Lanny could kick him around at will.

"You what?" McNamara yelled. "You put the comb over on Flynn?" "Certainly." And Stephen told him the story. "Three hundred years ago, in Salem, Massachusetts," said Dan McNamara, "you would have been burned for a witch."

The door bell rang insistently. "Now, who can that be?" Lanny exploded. Dan rolled out of the kitchen and down the hall. Then Stephen and Lanny heard the door slammed violently; there was a scuffle, and something crashed to the floor.

He came into the kitchen a moment later, leading by her handcuffed wrist nose other than Penelope Gatlin. "She wouldn't kiss me first," he announced, "so I put the cuffs on her—the little vixen."

"Oh, Lanny, you darling! And Stevie, you sweetheart!" Penelope cried, and extended her manacled arms. Lanny dodged in under them and folded the girl to her heart. "You next, Stevie," Penelope ordered, and obediently Stephen lowered his head and the looped arms came around his neck and drew his face down. "And now, Dan," the girl cooed, and turned her face upward.

McNamara laughingly uncurled her. "Why didn't you cable us?" Stephen demanded, a trifle severely. "I adore surprise, that's why." "Why did you come back?" McNamara demanded. "The proper place to hide oneself is in the spot one is supposed to have fled from. Lanny, don't let them stand around staring at me and asking me questions," moaned Penelope. "I'm hungry and so tired. Can I have my same little bed tonight?" "You can have anything and everything you want, my dear." "I want Stephen," came the answer, faintly tired, and the girl went to him and leaned her sleek black head against his breast. "I've missed you so, Stephen." Stephen held her close with his left arm, and his right hand came up and cautiously fingered her poor nose. "God's on our side, Lanny," he told his nurse. "Tomorrow I want you to arrange for a room in St. Dunstan's hospital. We'll get Boyd to operate."

"And you'll be my nurse. I wanted to have it done in Paris, but when you sent me that cablegram I couldn't, of course. Can I have just the nose I want, Stephen?" "Yes, little wanderer. And when that's done you shall have the kind of bone you want. You've been lost in the woods, poor babe, but I'll lend you out into the loveliest sunshiny meadow imaginable."

McNamara had, throughout this scene, felt a lump in his throat. He gazed at Lanny and saw the tears of sympathy in her brave, kindly eyes, so to avert a scene he growled huskily: "When do we eat?"

For the first time since Penelope Gatlin, alias Nance Belden, had come under his notice, Stephen Burt had a reasonable opportunity to examine the girl, when, following dinner at Lanny's house, Penelope, Lanny, Dan McNamara and Stephen retired to the drawing room. Despite the strain of her record-breaking journey from Europe, Penelope was not so tired that she wished to retire early. She joined in the general conversation, and Stephen noticed that she seemed inclined to be argumentative, but her arguments indicated no cogent thought; frequently she employed the points of the underworld; her language was racy and idiomatic. He noticed that her laugh was sudden, loud—the laugh of a vulgarian. She was nervous; her hands twined and intertwined continuously, she moved about the room a great deal, and finally came to rest on Stephen's knees. She looked into his eyes searchingly for a long time and then said accusingly:

"You don't care for me." "Why do you think that, Penelope?" "Because nobody could love a girl with a nose like mine." "Did you bring back the sketches that Parlsian artist made of you?" She bounced off his lap and hurried upstairs, to return presently with a portfolio filled with sketches. There was one crayon drawing of her as she was. A half dozen additional sketches were copies of the first, with the exception of the nose. The artist had fitted into her features a nose of his own design, and viewed in profile some of his creations lent to the girl's face an aspect of singular beauty and sweetness.

"I like this one best," Stephen decided. "The putrician nose does you justice. Going to come over tomorrow and give you the most searching physical examination you've ever had," he decided. He drew her over to him and kissed her on the cheek, paternally. "You're a nice, sweet, lovable girl, Penelope," he assured her as if she were a little girl, "and the shape of your nose isn't taken into consideration by the sort of people whose love and approval you desire. And you can get along very well without the love and approval of any other sort. Dan and Lanny and I all love you and we want you to love us. We're your only real friends and you wouldn't do anything to hurt us, would you?"

"I'd rather die, Stephen." "Fine. You're tired now, so suppose you run upstairs to bed, and tomorrow, when you wake up, you'll be refreshed."

If we can afford five thousand million dollars to prevent the depression killing too many Americans we may well spend sixty million dollars to keep foreigners from shooting at all of us.

The Van Sweringens brothers had railroad properties that financial writers called a "three billion dollar empire."

Perhaps "three billion" referred to bonds, watered stocks and other "securities" of the "empire." In any case, the Van Sweringens borrowed forty-eight million dollars on that "empire," largely from J. P. Morgan & Co. They did not pay the forty-eight million dollars, the whole thing was put up at auction, the Van Sweringens bought back control of the "three-billion-dollar empire" for three million dollars, one-tenth of 1 per cent of the three billions and forty-five million dollars less than the amount borrowed on it.

Ethiopia's king has "about" 2,000,000 men massed on three fronts, all facing Italians, and ready for anything to happen. Under those conditions something probably will happen. What- ever starts must go to the end. It is not likely, with Hitler preparing for revenge, that France will sever her present relations with Italy for the sake of distressed Ethiopia.

If dear old England should sally forth and find herself all alone, she would probably "sally" back again without firing that first deciding shot. Mussolini knows that.

In Nebraska President Roosevelt addressed his first speech of the campaign of 1936 to 15,000 farmers gathered around the rear end of his car and 20,000,000 other farmers by radio. He talked earnestly, with jesting; he understands the silence of farmers who applaud little while expressing no disapproval. The farmer, who lives and thinks by himself, is not a demonstrative being.

With farmers, facts count. There is no 30-cent wheat or 20-cent corn now.

Propaganda To Influence Men Very Cheap Empire Good Airplane News

The learned Doctor Lorge, of Teachers' college, Columbia university, has been studying laws governing propaganda that influences human minds, experimenting on 90 "educated" adults from the list of unemployed, from twenty to sixty-nine years old. These were asked to express their views of "some opinions" uttered by Lincoln, Roosevelt, Hoover, Thomas (the Socialist candidate), Coolidge, He a r s t Karl Marx. Many that reacted favorably to the name of "Lincoln" did not approve Lincoln's statement: "Capital is the fruit of labor, and could never have existed if labor had not existed."

Those that "objected" had sound reason on their side. Capital is not the fruit of labor any more than labor is the fruit of capital. Capital and labor are both the fruit of human intelligence.

The intelligence of Thomas A. Edison supplied labor, jobs employing millions of men and paying billions in wages, and that Edison intelligence alone supplied capital to those that knew how to use Edison's ideas on a big scale.

The great element in "propaganda," "persuasion," in advertising, is repetition. Say a thing often enough and the average man believes it, not asking why. Of all human convictions, none is more firmly fixed, immovable, than those based on superstition, ignorance, falsehood and preposterous credulity.

UNCLE BILL FAILS TO ANSWER

A few weeks ago "Uncle Bill"
Kells of the Sterling City News Record published an editorial in which he advocated the shooting of drunken drivers. "Every one should have the right to shoot them just the same as if they were loba wolves," he said.

Two weeks ago we quoted this editorial and asked "Uncle Bill"
what about the man that deliberately sells the stuff that makes the driver drunk, and what about the man that votes to license other men to sell the stuff that will make the drivers drunk.

Uncle Bill didn't answer, but he propounded us some questions which he evidently thinks are posers.

"If you are going to shoot the man who sells the whiskey that makes the driver drunk (which we do not favor at all but which Uncle Bill says he does); shoot the man who votes to license the man who sells the whiskey to make the driver drunk (which we think is too drastic a remedy) then why not shoot the man who sells the car to the drunken driver; shoot the man who sells the drunken driver the gasoline that makes the car go out on the highways and kill people?" Uncle Bill thunders

Well, Uncle Bill, we'll answer your questions.

In the first place, cars do not make men drunk. Gasoline does not make men drunk. Cars do not incapacitate drivers; neither does gasoline.

In the second place, men rarely
if ever sell cars to drunk men. Men don't get drunk and buy cars; they usually buy cars when sober, and never get drunk on the cars they buy, but only on liquor that somebody sells them. To say that the automobile salesman is equally responsible with the drunken driver or even with the fellow that sells the stuff that makes drivers drunk
is too absurd for a sensible man like you to suggest.

As to gasoline, there are many who would make it an offense to sell gasoline to a drunken driver,
and there might be some reason for such a law. Certainly the man who sells gasoline to a man he knows to be drunk and who he knows intends to proceed to drive
a car out on the streets or highways, has some moral responsibility for

Laxative combination

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup

The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets.
Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky.,
writes: "I have used Theford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness.
Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

any personal injuries or deaths that may result. We do not believe, Uncle Bill, that a man should be permitted to sell gasoline to a drunken driver. Certainly we would not favor licensing men to sell gasoline to drunken drivers for the revenue it might bring into the state treasury,
as you favor the licensing of men to sell the stuff that makes the drivers drunk, in order that we may get the needed revenue.

Is that plain, Uncle Bill?
Come on with another question.

At the luncheon given at the Lubbock Hotel to the newspaper people of this section during the Panhandle-South Plains Fair, Charley Guy of the Lubbock Avalanche Journal publications suggested the organization of a press association for this immediate section of the state. Last week Jack Stricklin of the Terry County Herald expressed approval of the idea and made two excellent suggestions as to who should be elected the first president and the first secretary of the proposed body: Charley Guy of Lubbock and Miss Jeane Suits of the Lockney Beacon, respectively. No better nominations could be made;
but we are not particularly concerned as to the personnel of the official family. We do favor the organization of such a body. We are so far away from the usual meeting places of other press associations that we rarely have opportunity to attend any of them. We could attend one close to home. Besides, the south plains have common interests and the people of this section need to assert their power. A press association for the section would help them to do so. Furthermore, it would give us press boys—and girls—the opportunity to get better acquainted with one another. Name the times and place, boys, and we will try to be there.

We certainly believe in that phase of the New Deal which provides for the construction of public roads and highways, needed public buildings, soil conservation and the conservation of our natural resources
generally, irrigation and drainage projects, and so forth. But we deplore the disposition of so many people to "graft" on the government. Men who are apparently honest in all their dealings with one another seem to feel that there is nothing wrong in crooking the Government. This is all wrong. Men should be just as honest and conscientious in dealing with the Government as they are in dealing with one another. And the Government should be just as careful and economical in the spending of money
as a great private corporation would be. When the Government takes proper steps to guard against waste and extravagance in the construction of public works of all kinds, then will there be less opposition to such activities on the part of many people.

Once there was a poor old mulatto who lived in the negro section of the city and there was a rich white man who lived on Quality Hill. This white man owned a small tract of land adjoining the tract which the old mulatto and his family had owned and occupied ever since the oldest inhabitants could remember.
One day the white man took his gun and went over to the mulatto's house and demanded that the mulatto surrender the title to his humble home to the white man and thereafter forever pay tribute or rentals to him out of his earnings.
When the old mulatto pleaded that the little place was his home and declined to surrender it to the white intruder, the white man called all his family and his servants and they came armed with rifles and machine guns and opened fire on the old negro's home, killed and wounded his children, took his property away from him, and made servants of him and the remainder of his family not killed. The name of this white man was Italy and of the mulatto Ethiopia.

One of the evils that is gnawing
at the very vitals of free government is the dishonesty and corruption of public officials. The time seems to have come when any man who is elected or appointed to any responsible position becomes at once the target of all the evil forces of the country. They immediately set about to flatter him or to bribe him, by direct methods or indirect, to serve their interests. If they can not buy him then they seek to intimidate him; and if they can neither bribe him nor intimidate him they set about to destroy him. Never before in the history of this country was there greater need for ruggedly honest men and sternly courageous men in the public service than there is today. We have many of that type; may their tribe increase.

Our sun is continuously gathering energy from outside itself and will someday explode, says Nikola Tesla.

John Schlogelmeyer was a fine
young man, a product of the modern age. His tooth brush had no rainbow hues, for he brushed his teeth twice a day and saw the dentist twice a year. He also consulted the family physician regularly and was free from all ailments of any description. He stayed in out of the rain and snow in order to avoid colds, flu and housemaid's knee; likewise he avoided the hot sun to prevent sunstroke, baldness and athlete's foot. He parted with his tonsils, discarded his appendix, and traded off sundry glands. He chose his diet carefully and stuck to those foods with most vitamins, X Y and Z. He did not drink, smoke, chew or swear; always got eight hours or more of sleep every night, and was all set to live a hundred years. Then he bought a high powered car, stepped on the gas to see how fast it would go and they gathered up his remains and buried them in the Hopemore cemetery last Sunday—

Speaking to Young Republicans
from eleven Western States at Oakland, California, Saturday night,
ex-President Herbert Hoover made a terrific assault on the New Deal.
He scathingly criticized the alleged waste and extravagance of the Roosevelt administration and asserted that the authorities at Washington were piling up billions of dollars of national indebtedness
without materially reducing unemployment in this country. His address was broadcast over a nationwide radio hook-up, and his audience in Oakland seemed to be wild with enthusiasm. The country is wondering if Hoover is making a bid for the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

First Battle Of Texas Revolution
To Be Refought

Dallas, Sept. 12.—The old brass cannon of Gonzales, which fired the first shot of the Texas Revolution
a hundred years ago, will roar defiance again October 2 to usher in the celebration of the Texas Centennial.

The state-wide observance of the one-hundredth anniversary of Texas independence will consist of a number of celebrations at historic shrines of the state, commencing at Gonzales, and climaxed by the $15,000,000 Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas from June to November, 1936.

Because Texans first took up arms
at Gonzales in defense of their liberty, this charming little South Texas town is known as the "Lexington of the Lone Star State".

When war appeared imminent
between Texas and Mexico in 1835,
the Mexican Government demanded that the citizens of Gonzales surrender a six pounder brass cannon which had been given to them for defense against the Indians. The cannon was—practically worthless
having been spiked and the spike bored out, leaving a touch hole as big as a silver dollar. The demand for the gun was merely an excuse to start hostilities.

Mexican dragoons attempted to capture the gun and the town.
Texans from far and wide rallied in Gonzales and hoisted the first flag of the Texas Revolution, a crude white banner inscribed
"Come and take it". The old cannon was loaded to the muzzle with pot legs and scrap iron and turned loose on the foe. The Texans charged and the Mexicans fled leaving their dead and wounded behind them. Not a single Texan was harmed. Five months later Texas declared her independence.

These stirring scenes will be re-enacted at Gonzales October 2 in a celebration which will last a whole week. The battle will be refought with soldiers of the national guard representing the Texas and Mexican armies.

San Antonio, Houston, Nacog-

to the opening of the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas June 6.

PRESBYTERIAN SERVICES SUNDAY

The Gathering or Fall season is upon us. We are impressed with this spell of zeal and industry with which people go after the waiting and ready harvest at this season of the year. It must be so. There is also a Spiritual harvest on, all the year round. The need is ready and cheerful and zealous workers, out in the fields, where the precious harvest is falling down for the need of more zealous work-men. The harvesting season of life is too soon ended. And the night cometh, when no man can work. The call is, "Son, daughter, go work today." All of our services next Sunday. Let us have a banner attendance. And thank you. Had a fine meeting of The El Paso Presbytery last week at Coahoma. Good reports from the churches, and enthusiasm about the Lord's work among our people. Clovis, N. M., is next place of meeting. Subject Sunday morning: "Handicaps, and how to meet them." A fine message for young and old, unless you are without any life handicaps. Invite others. Subject at night: "The Christian's hope, its grounds and value, in our age. Be in this service. Always glad to have visitors, in our services. Give our Lord and Gospel a chance with you, every Sunday. When you can't attend, send a substitute. And soon every church can order more pews. Glad to be there next Sunday.

W. K. Johnston, Minister

BAPTIST W. M. S.

With 33 women present a Royal Service program, "Youth Lifting the Banner of the Cross", was rendered by the three circles of the Baptist W. M. S. with Mrs. H. P. Caviness as leader, in the regular meeting at the Church Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Caviness, Dale, Walker, Burleson, and Wells rendered the program, which featured the story of Henrietta Hull Shuck.

The Blanche Rose Water Circle, of which Mrs. J. B. Walker is chairman, had 15 in attendance; Sallee Circle had 8; Lucille Reagan Circle had 5; and there were 5 visitors.

In a recent executive Board meeting the W. M. S. membership was divided territorially by streets running East and West as follows: south side of highway 84, Blanche Rose Walker circle; from highway 84 to south side of third street, Sallee Circle; from north side of third street on north, Lucille Reagan Circle.

Mrs. Caviness gave the W. M. S. Calendar in this church as follows: First Monday: Missionary Day. Second Monday: Bible Day. Third Monday: Business Day. Fourth Monday: Circle Day. Fifth Monday: Visitation or special.

The young married women of the church having signified their interest in having a circle of their own the three circles present voted unanimously to assist them. Mrs. Caviness, appointed Mrs. W. T. Bovell, Mrs. Alton Cain and Mrs. Irvin Dunagan, as a nominating committee for officers. When this organization is completed and a name chosen it will draw its membership from the youngest married women of the church from all over the community and will be the fourth circle in the Baptist W. M. S.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

Our meeting came to a close last Sunday night with a large crowd and good interest. The singing lead by brother Caskey was fine and brother Nelson gave us some solid gospel messages.

Now that the meeting is over, what are we going to do, are we going to put into practice the things we learned or are we going to drop back in the old ruts. I have faith in my brethren to believe that we are going forward.

Next Lord's day every member is urged to be present to help and be helped.

Services: Bible study 10 a. m. preaching 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Subjects: "The Lord Christ" a. m. "Why Will You Die?" p. m.

Visit the friendly church.

MINOR BATON MEETS

The president of the Minor Baton, Oia Lee Stevens, was hostess to their regular meeting Monday night in the Counselor's home.

The annual Federation program, required before the District Convention, was given following an interesting business session.

Vance Gildersleeve was named official delegate to the convention, which meets in Pampa, Oct. 18-19, and Miss Eva Douthit will represent the club with a vocal solo on the Junior Fine Art program. The president will take the annual report.

Thirteen members were present and one new member was welcomed. Yellow watermelon was served for refreshments.

The next program, October 21st, will include "Convention Echoes."

TWINS BORN

Dr. Ann West reports the following births.

Twin daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Powell, who reside near New Home, on Monday morning. They bear the names of Lena May and Lora Fay.

On the same morning a little daughter was also born to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bolch of New Home, but the little lady has not yet been named.

On Tuesday morning, a son, Edward Louis, was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Taylor, who live on the Munn Place a few miles north of Tahoka.

TAHOKA H. D. CLUB MEETS

The Tahoka H. D. Club met Wednesday afternoon in regular meeting in the home of Mrs. A. C. Weaver, with the president, Mrs. Mill Finch, in charge.

After a brief business session, the program chairman, Mrs. Rafe Richardson, gave an interesting program that consisted of readings by her first year Expression pupils. Plans were made for the Club's annual banquet.

Refreshments were served to Meses. Mill Finch, K. Stacy, M. O. Canaday, G. W. Small, Rafe Richardson, G. M. Reid, and two visitors, Mrs. Gildersleeve and Mrs. Lawrence, and the hostess, Mrs. Weaver.

Miss Rudelle Prater entertained the Melody Maids Music Club Wednesday afternoon at Ruth Suddarth's. After a short business session during which several new members were voted into the club, refreshments were served. All but two members of the club were present. Program plans for the year were discussed. Misses Eloise Roberts and Mary Margaret Tunnell are to be the delegates for the District Convention at Pampa next week.

WEEK OF PRAYER OBSERVED

The Week of Prayer is being observed this week at the Baptist Church.

Discussions revolving around State Missions are being given each night, three subjects being discussed each night. Most of these are by members of the local church, but Mrs. L. Lumsden had a place on the program Wednesday night and Rev. A. Loper, pastor at O'Donnell, Thursday night.

Rev. J. W. Hawkins, pastor of the Methodist Church at Roscoe while the editor of this paper was a resident of that little city, made an unexpected call at the News office last Friday. He and the editor were warm friends and they had a delightful time recalling experiences in the Nolan county town. Rev. Mr. Hawkins recently held a revival meeting at Grassland. He expected to be assigned pastoral work somewhere in the Northwest Texas conference at its next meeting.

MARGARET WETSEL HONORED Lubbock, Texas, Oct. 10.—Margaret Wetzel, Tahoka, has been named feature writer on the La Ventana staff at Texas Technological college where she is a junior in the arts and sciences division. La Ventana is the college annual.

Dallasite Ends 10-Year Search

"Just try one bottle of Gordon's Compound and you will never try any other remedy"

declared Mrs. W. A. Nitcher, 4113 Elm street, Dallas, after searching for ten long, suffering years for relief from a stomach trouble undoubtedly caused by excess acid. Gas, bloating after meals, heart-burn, heavy, burning feeling in the stomach—she had all these. Gordon's brought relief at once. She used 8 bottles, no longer needs it. Recommend it to others suffering with such troubles.

The modern I.E.S. lamps are ideal for reading, sewing or any other eye tasks which require artificial illumination. Indirect lighting is achieved through the use of a glass reflector which directs the light to the ceiling. Then this same reflector also diffuses the light which is directed downward.

There should be a good general illumination for the whole room as well as a good glareless light for a specific visual task. The I.E.S. Better Sight Lamps eliminate sharp contrasts by throwing light up to the ceiling, where it is redirected to other parts of the room.

I.E.S. Lamps of attractive appearance and certified design may be purchased at our local office.

Former Tahoka Resident Dies

Mrs. B. F. Montgomery, late of Carlsbad, New Mexico, and a former pioneer resident of Tahoka, died at the home of a niece in Lubbock at an early hour Thursday morning, and the remains will be buried in Carlsbad Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery had been visiting in Tahoka the past week or ten days, and they went from Tahoka to Lubbock Wednesday in company with Mr. and Mrs. John Donaldson to visit relatives there. Mrs. Montgomery had two nieces in Lubbock, Mrs. Joe Baldridge and Mrs. Claude Burrus, and she died at the home of one or the other of them. The News is not advised which. Mrs. Montgomery had been visiting her sister here, Mrs. J. C. Clark. H. B. Clark is a nephew.

Death resulted from a heart attack. Mrs. Montgomery was apparently well and was in the finest of spirits Wednesday, Mrs. Donaldson states. She had many friends here, and her husband having been residents of Tahoka many years, and she was highly esteemed as a devoted Christian character.

CHESTER MORRIS AND SALLY EILERS SHARE NEW ROMANCE

Drama moves on wheels in a lilt-ing comedy romance with thrills and gripping drama in "Pursuit," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's fast-moving story of adventure on the highways and byways coming to the English Theatre, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday.

It deals with the adventures of a young couple trying to smuggle a child, subject of a guardianship suit, out of the state. Pursued by private detectives, crooks and all kinds of enemies, they hide out in auto camps and farms and in a clever denouement win the Mexican border. Highways between San Francisco and San Diego figure as locations, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's studio motorcade filming en route.

Chester Morris, who scored an outstanding hit in "Public Hero," and Sally Eilers, recently seen in "Dance Team," play the fugitive couple, with Scotty Beckett, of "Our Gang" comedies, as the child. C. Henry Gordon as the private detective, Henry Travers as the comical paperhanger, Dorothy Peterson as the child's mother, Harold Huber as a pursuing crook, Minor Watson and others are in the cast.

Dramatic highlights include the plane accident; hiding of the fugitive car in a truckload of hay; the ruse by which the couple, handcuffed together, escape in the auto camp; the pursuit of the crooks who seize the child; hair-breadth adventures at the Mexican border; the comedy episode of Eunice the dog, and the hilarious climax in Tia Juana.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lyons of Galveston spent the week end here with their niece, Mrs. Hansford Tunnell. After looking after their farming interests in Lubbock county they left Tuesday morning to visit the Carlsbad Cavern. Mr. and Mrs. Lyons are long-time and prosperous residents of Galveston.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Phillips Jr. arrived Saturday from Ladonia, Fannin county, where they have been residing. They will make their home here, and Mr. Phillips will be associated with his brother-in-law, Loyd Nowlin, in the garage business.

Ethiopia Has A Thrilling History

And so Italy is now at war with Ethiopia.

If you were asked where Ethiopia is you would probably answer readily that it is in Africa.

But you might not be able to describe accurately its location or to make a very intelligent answer as to its size or the character of the country which it embraces.

If you were asked what race of people inhabits Ethiopia, you would probably answer "Negroes," having in mind a people almost identical with the negroes to be found in Texas and other states of the Union. Would that be correct?

If you were to enter the mouth of the Nile River and ascend that stream a distance of fifteen hundred miles to Khartoum, you would find yourself a little less than three hundred miles west of Ethiopia's western boundary. It is about 1100 miles from Alexandria southeastward to the northern tip of Ethiopia as the crow flies. It is about 250 miles from the southern border to the equator. Ethiopia lies in eastern Africa, but it has no sea coast. It is cut off from the Red Sea, the Gulf of Aden, and the Indian Ocean by Italian, French, and British possessions.

In size, Ethiopia is a little larger than Texas and Oklahoma combined. It has an area of about 350,000 square miles. The Blue Nile, a tributary of the Nile proper, is the chief river of Ethiopia. A number of the other tributaries of the Nile have their sources in the mountainous regions of the country. The rainy season, beginning in May and continuing till September, contributes very materially to the floods that inundate the lower valley of the Nile in Egypt each year. Much of Ethiopia is a high plateau, and much of it very mountainous. The low-lying valleys are exceedingly hot.

The Ethiopians are not pure-blood Negroes. They are a mixed race, descendants of Negroes and Arabians. In the fourth century A. D. they adopted a corrupted form of Christianity, but measured by modern standards they are only semi-civilized. By some they might be termed mere barbarians. They still practice polygamy, and slavery has not been entirely abolished. They live in crude houses and have few of the modern conveniences. One railroad extends from the capital, Addis Ababa, a city of 65,000 or 70,000 inhabitants, eastward to the seacoast. While the population of the country is more than ten millions, there are no real cities and only a few towns of more than ten thousand population. Only a few of the larger towns are connected by telephone and there are less than three thousand miles of telegraph lines in the country.

The resources of the country consist of rich iron beds and other minerals as yet undeveloped, rubber trees, and a soil that produces cotton, wheat, barley and tobacco. Oranges, lemons, dates, coffee, and sugar may also be produced in large quantities.

The history of Ethiopia is lost in the mists of antiquity. Soon after the Israelites crossed over the Red Sea out of the land of Egypt into the Wilderness, (Arabia), Aaron and

Western Movie Star With Sadler Circus

JACK HOXIE AND HIS HORSE "SCOUT"

Miriam murmured against their brother Moses for having taken unto himself an Ethiopian wife. Ethiopia was apparently an old country then. More than a century prior to this time, in about 1600 B. C., it had become an Egyptian province. It continued under the domination of Egypt for eight centuries; then it gained the ascendancy and for more than a century Ethiopian kings ruled Egypt. In 524 B. C. it was invaded by the Persians under Cambyses, who captured their capital, but later the Ethiopians regained their independence. The northern portion of ancient Ethiopia however, had fallen a prey to Rome and had become a part of the great Roman Empire.

Ethiopia is mentioned many times in the Bible. It may be found in Numbers, II Kings, II Chronicles, Esther, Job, Psalms, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Zephaniah in the Old Testament, and in Acts in the New Testament.

In II Chronicles 12:3 we are told that the Egyptians and Ethiopians came up against King Rehoboam in Jerusalem, ransacked the king's palace and Solomon's Temple, and carried away the treasures including the gold shields which Solomon had made. But in II Chronicles 16:3 King Asa is reminded by Hanani the seer that the Ethiopians and Lubim, a huge host, had been delivered into his hands because he (King Asa) had relied on the Lord. In Psalms it is predicted that Ethiopia shall haste to stretch out her hands to God.

Jeremiah first asks the question: Can the Ethiopian change his skin or the leopard his spots?

The Queen of Sheba, who visited Solomon and was amazed at the glory of his kingdom, is believed to have been ruler over Ethiopia also; and her son Menelik, whose reputed father was Solomon, is also claimed by the Ethiopians as one of their ancient kings. A number of kings bearing the same name have ruled Ethiopia since that time, the last and greatest of them dying in 1913. The Ethiopian Eunuch who came to Jerusalem soon after the resurrection of Christ seeking religious instruction and who was converted under the preaching of Phillip and baptized by him, was treasurer under Queen Candace of Ethiopia. It was possibly due in part to his influence that Christianity early found a foothold in this great kingdom near the head waters of the Nile.

The name Ethiopia is derived from two Greek words meaning sun-burnt faces, an allusion to the dark color of the Ethiopian's skin. Greeks exercised much influence over the Ethiopians 200 years before Christ and are said to have very materially raised the level of intelligence among the people. The Arabians, one of the races from which the Ethiopians are descended were a people of the keenest intellect, and they are said to be the most nearly perfect physical specimens among all the races of mankind.

Statement Made By Harley Sadler

For seventeen years I have been trying to be of service to the Amusement Loving Public of Texas. I have endeavored to merit the good will of the substantial citizenship in the territory in which we played by presenting a clean, wholesome family entertainment at popular prices.

Recently, I had the opportunity to acquire the entire equipment of the Bailey Brothers' Big Three Ring Circus, which bears an enviable reputation in the circus world and is known to circus fans in Texas as presenting a high class, clean wholesome worth-while circus performance.

Believing there was an opportunity and a need for such an entertainment in this section, I have added many features and will bring to you, I believe, the biggest and best entertainment of its kind ever offered at popular prices.

One of the oldest and most cherished traditions of the circus world was the old-time street parade that every man, woman and child looked forward to seeing, how they would pack the sidewalks anxiously waiting to hear the blare of the trumpets, the martial music of its bands and the highly colored parade wagons, animal cages, beautiful horses, funny clowns, and a thousand and one thrills that the old time circus parade offered.

The first thing I did upon purchasing the Bailey Brothers' Big Three Ring Circus equipment was to augment its rolling stock, buying parade wagons, miniature animal cages, drawn by Shetland ponies and many other features in an earnest endeavor to revive the old-time circus parade.

This beautiful parade will be given on each day at noon, preceding the afternoon performance. Don't miss the old-time circus parade.

Hoping that you will bring your family and enjoy an afternoon or an evening at Bailey Brothers' Big Three Ring Circus, and remember, I promise you we will endeavor to make it the biggest attraction of its kind ever offered at these prices. Thanking you for your past support, and hoping that we may continue to have your good will.

Yours for a good entertainment,
HARLEY SADLER.

YOUR CAR'S COLD TOO... SO MAKE SURE YOUR ENGINE

stays oiled

And please don't think you are going to read this same sort of thing about a "whole raft" of winter oils.

The clean-cut difference in favor of Conoco Germ Processed Oil is this: when the thermometer goes down there is a Hidden Quart of Conoco that doesn't. It can't. It stays and stays—becomes a lasting part of every surface in your engine.

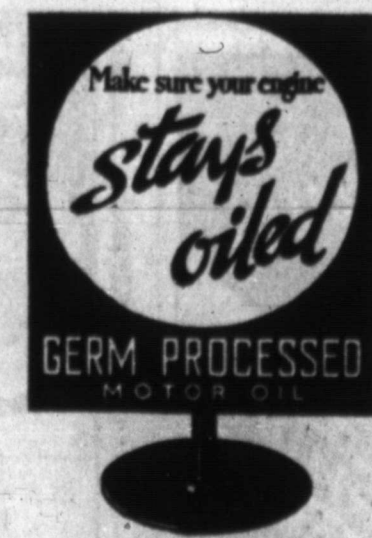

The Germ Process... fully patented... makes this alloyed oil blend with metal remarkably, forming your Hidden Quart. Then no matter how long your car is parked or garaged in the coldest cold, you come out to a well-oiled start... not merely because fine paraffin-base Conoco Germ Processed Oil is free-flowing, but because the Hidden Quart is up on guard before any oil could even begin to flow.

Gone are the warm-ups that chew up your engine. Nor need you fear highest speeds, or hardest winter pulls. That's when Germ Processed Oil puts its high-durability film between you and repair men. It's not only light-bodied enough for winter, but tougher, too.

AND... road tests of cars with conventional babbitt bearings, and with the new copper-lead, high-lead, and cadmium-alloy bearings, prove Germ Processed Oil far better than plain mineral oils for all bearings!

Whether you're driving a '35 model or a "veteran," drive it in today for your Conoco man's winter help. Continental Oil Company, Established 1875.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

THE UBIQUITOUS TUBERCLE AND ITS RELATION TO MAN

According to a report just issued by the National Tuberculosis Association of New York city, the tuberculosis death rate in the United States ranks seventh among the 30 countries listed.

figures are for 1928-1932. The listing for 1934 is not available yet because it takes time to tabulate the enormous amount of data.

Tuberculosis is one of the most prevalent of all contagious diseases. It is rightly called the white plague. It is spread over much of the known world.

And it is different from most of our other contagious diseases, which are what we call acute. If any one has typhoid fever, diphtheria, measles, scarlet fever, mumps or whooping cough, he has a period of a few days to three weeks when he is confined to bed. But recovery takes place promptly after the fever stage is over. Tuberculosis, on the contrary, is a chronic disease. It can extend over a period of years. In the beginning stages patients may hardly be aware that they have it.

It isn't only the human race that has tuberculosis. Animals also can get it. Fish, turtles and frogs have tuberculosis. Birds, chickens and turkeys have tuberculosis. Cows have tuberculosis. The cold-blooded animals are infected with a tubercle bacillus that grows only at a low temperature, and hence cannot grow in man. Birds have a higher temperature than man, consequently it is hard to infect us with their tubercle bacillus. Some human cases have been reported, but avian tuberculosis in man is extremely rare. The tubercle bacilli that cows have, however, can grow in man and cause tuberculosis. But the disease is different from the true human type, as the lungs are seldom involved in bovine or cattle tuberculosis in man. Tuberculosis of the bones, joints and glands in children, however, are often times caused by this particular kind of tubercle bacilli.

Most of us have breathed in or swallowed living tubercle bacilli many times before we reach adolescent age. When the bacilli enter the body, they either are killed off quickly or else they find lodgment in some organ, usually the lungs, and there they grow in a small local spot of tissue. When the growth is very slow, as it is in a healthy person, then the surrounding tissues can wall off the infected area. It is as if a few thousand soldiers of an enemy country had succeeded in entering the center of some state, and then the defense soldiers of that state, who could not drive them out, had sealed them up in a tight-walled enclosure. Now if these invaders were able to live on the water, air and food that percolated through the wall, then you would have the same situation as exists in a walled-in tubercle foci. The invaders are harmless so long as the wall holds them prisoners, but if the wall gives away, we find an invading army right in our midst. Undernourishment and long fevers, such as undulant fever, rabbit fever and parrot fever, and whooping cough, mumps, diabetes and anemia, all tend to lower the body resistance and open up holes in the walls enclosing the germ prisoners. The bacilli swarm out of the opening, and spread rapidly through the adjoining tissues.

The best way to prevent tuberculosis is to prevent the tubercle bacilli from getting into our bodies. But this is almost impossible to do in the present conditions of modern civilization. We have to mix with too many different people. Did you ever count the number of persons you talk with daily, shake hands with, or stand or sit next to in a movie theater, church, restaurant, store, street car or bus? Some of them are certain to have tuberculosis. Children, too, come in contact with persons impregnated with this disease.

One should almost have to live on a desert island, with absolutely no contact with the outside world, to be safe from infection.

Consequently, since we can hardly prevent tuberculosis germs from coming into our bodies, the next best thing to do is to keep our bodily health in such daily good condition that we can destroy the germs that do get in, or, if the dose is beyond our ability to destroy, that we can imprison them in the capsule form just described. Then our chances are very good for going through life without being invaded by this disease.

But medical science is conquering the disease. We are learning that hospitalization or isolation in the home of active cases is the way to protect well people. If we could isolate every single active case, we could in a generation or two have tuberculosis as much of a rarity as small-pox now is. But even with matters as they are, there are fewer and fewer deaths from tuberculosis, every year. Physicians can offer a consumptive patient more help than ever before.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

by REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, & Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for October 13 THE STORY OF JEREMIAH

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 1:6-10; 26:1-15. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt go to all that I send thee, and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak. Jeremiah 1:7. PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of Jeremiah. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of Jeremiah. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Taking a Stand for God. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Attacking Entrenched Evils.

I. Jeremiah's Call (1:1-10). 1. It was pre-natal (vv. 4, 5). Before Jeremiah was born God ordained him a prophet to the nations. 2. His diffidence (v. 6). This seems to have grown out of his youth and inexperience. 3. His hesitancy overcome (vv. 7, 8). God graciously appeared to him and made clear that he should go where sent, speak as commanded, and to be not afraid of the faces of his enemies. This was accompanied by the assurance of the divine presence. It matters little as to the strength of the foe if the presence of God is with the messenger. 4. The divine message given (v. 9). The very words were put into the prophet's mouth, not merely the thoughts but the proper words to express the thoughts. 5. The nature of his ministry (v. 10). It was to be wider than that of prophesying. Six words were given as descriptive thereof. The first four are destructive in their implication: "root out," "pull down," "destroy," and "throw down." The last two are constructive: "build" and "plant." The destructive precedes the constructive. II. Jeremiah's Grief (9:1). The unbelief of the people made him feel that his efforts were fruitless. Seeing so clearly the awful doom which awaited this people, he wept sorely. The true prophet of God takes to heart the seriousness of his ministry and sorely grieves over the wicked unbelief of the people. III. Jeremiah's Prophecy in the Temple Court (26:1-24).

1. Jeremiah's solemn warning to Judah (vv. 1-7). The Lord commanded him to stand in a conspicuous place in the Temple and proclaim the judgment which was about to fall upon them. The object was to provoke them to repentance. If they did not repent, God would make the Temple as Shiloh. Shiloh was once the dwelling place of God; now it had fallen into decay. So will it be with the Temple. Jeremiah was sent to speak the words which his Lord had told him and not to diminish a word. 2. Jeremiah on trial (vv. 9-11). a. Cause of arrest. He was arrested for speaking all that the Lord had commanded. b. The charge (vv. 8, 9). They charged him with a capital crime, which involved pretending to speak for God and speaking against the Temple and the city. This would make him to be guilty of blasphemy and sacrilege, both of which were to be punished by death (Deut. 18:20; Lev. 24:16).

c. The princes sit in judgment (vv. 10, 11). We thus see that matters of state were not entirely in the hands of priests, but in part were controlled by members of the royal family. 3. Jeremiah's defense (vv. 12-15). Threats of death did not deter him from preaching, but only inspired him to repeat his message with clearness and tenderness. a. Reiterated the divine commission. b. He urged them to amend their ways and to obey God and thus avert the divine judgment (v. 13). c. He gave himself up (v. 14). He did not resist the powers of government. Knowing that God had sent him, he was content to trust God for deliverance. d. Warns of fatal consequences. He frankly told them that God had sent him and if they killed him they would be guilty of defying God. 4. Jeremiah saved (vv. 16-24). a. The princes pronounce him not guilty (v. 16). They were convinced that Jeremiah was speaking the truth. b. The elders plead for Jeremiah (vv. 17-23). They cited two cases; Micah (vv. 18, 19) and Urijah (vv. 20-23). They argued that killing God's prophets did not turn aside his judgment but intensified it. The only way to avert the judgment is to turn from their sins. c. Jeremiah rescued by Ahikam (v. 24). He was a man of such influence that he was able to interfere at such a critical time.

Daily Living

WHY BAY TURNS YELLOW
La Jolla Bay, near San Diego, Calif., had this summer a visitation of "yellow water," unique in that region both because of the prominence of yellow in the extremely small size of the causative organism, says the Collecting Net, published in the interests of marine biological laboratories. No satisfactory identification of this organism has been obtained. Individuals had a length of only about six-thousandths of a millimeter. They had four flagella. The case was also remarkable on account of the entire absence of other plankton organisms during the period of its noted abundance, from about July 27 to August 7. Like Gangsters Bad luck comes all in a bunch, which is also true of laziness and dumbness.

Calumet Baking Powder...
in a big, new 10¢ can!
"WHAT'S THE SENSE in taking chances with second-best when you can get a good, big can of Calumet for a dime?" asks Mrs. Tobin. "I've never had a baking failure with Calumet," Mrs. Tobin said. And judging by the expectant faces of Richard and Patricia, Mrs. Tobin is not the only member of her family who knows how delicious Calumet cakes always are! A SIMPLE TWIST... and the Easy-Off Top lifts off. No delay, no spilling, no broken finger-nails! WHY DOES CALUMET give such astonishing "baking luck"? Why is Calumet different from other baking powders? Because Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick one for the rising bowl. A slower one for the oven... and Calumet's double-action is so perfectly balanced and controlled that it produces perfect leavening—every time. All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in history... the regular price of Full-Pound Can is now only 25¢! And be sure to see the new, big 10¢ can—a lot of good baking for a dime, with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder. A product of General Foods.

DISTRICT COURT IN SESSION THIS WEEK

penitentiary.
Pat North was tried by a jury on a charge of driving while intoxicated. The alleged offense was committed in the Draw community and the defendant is said to have driven his car against a man's private residence there. The defendant entered a plea of guilty and asked for a suspension of the sentence. The jury assessed his punishment at two years in the penitentiary but suspended the sentence.

On Tuesday Walter Richter entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging the unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor. The jury assessed his punishment at two years in the penitentiary and suspended sentence.

W. C. Barnes, white, and Tom Belvin and Daniel Anderson, colored, each waived a jury and entered pleas of guilty before the court to indictments charging the unlawful possession of liquor for sale. The court assessed the punishment of each at two years in the penitentiary and suspended the sentence.

No question was raised by any of the defendants in liquor cases as to the validity of the Dean law since the repeal of the dry amendment in the constitution; hence the Dean law seems to be still in operation in Lynn county constitution or no constitution.

The jury was dismissed for the week Tuesday afternoon. The court took up some non-jury civil cases Thursday morning.

LUNCHEON CLUB HAS PROGRAM OF MUSIC

a grammar school building in Tahoka and stated that in order to be in position to accept the grant it would be necessary for the district to furnish $40,000 for the same purpose, and therefore a bond issue would be necessary. He presented a petition for a bond election, which was signed by most of the qualified voters present.

Alvin Hicks, president of the school board, made a snappy speech for the bonds and declared that the proposed new building is a dandy. He said it would have twelve class rooms a combination gymnasium and auditorium all on the ground floor. There will be no second floor and no steps to climb.

Superintendent W. G. Barrett was called upon for an expression and he limited his remarks to the crying need for a new building. He stated that the building at Central Ward was almost past the point of being usable at all. He wished that the patrons of the school would make an inspection of this building and invited them to do so.

R. W. Fenton Jr. reported that 360 feet of bleachers had been constructed on the athletic field and that the committee had about $50 left. Those who have not contributed were invited to do so and those who have contributed were asked if they would not increase their contributions in order that additional bleachers may be built. METHODIST CHURCH DEDICATED SUNDAY dramatic. He used as his text the first two verses of the 84th Psalm: How amiable are thy tabernacles, O-Lord of hosts! My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord; my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God. A most appropriate text, and a most gripping development of the theme.

The program of music was elaborate and beautiful.

The prelude was by Mrs. S. E. Reid, followed by the Invocation Sentence by the choir. "I love Thy Kingdom, Lord" was sung by the choir and congregation, and then all repeated the Apostles Creed. The morning prayer was offered by Dr. W. M. Pearce of Lubbock, presiding elder, and the next hymn was "The Church's One Foundation." The 84th Psalm was read responsively by the pastor, Rev. H. C. Smith, and the congregation, which was followed by The Gloria Patri. The New Testament Lesson, the story of the Ten Virgins, was read by Bishop Boaz, and there was a tenor solo by Mr. Kary Mathis. An anthem by the choir immediately preceded the sermon.

At the close of his discourse Bishop Boaz conducted a brief dedicatory service. At this period, Mr. W. E. Suddarth, representing the board of stewards, presented a family Bible to Mr. A. L. Lockwood, chairman of the board, in appreciation of his services in raising the money each year to pay the installment notes as they came due. Every one of them was paid on time, without a day's delay. Mr. Suddarth stated. The last one was paid a few months ago, leaving not one cent of indebtedness against either the church building or the parsonage.

Mr. A. L. Lockwood, chairman of the board of stewards, presented the building to the Northwest Texas Conference, free of debt, for dedication, and Bishop Boaz accepted the same and offered a dedicatory prayer.

The church building was constructed in 1924 at a cost of about $33,000. When it was completed, there was an indebtedness against it of about $11,000. It is a spacious brick building fronting the east on Sweet Street, with a large auditorium on the second floor and Sunday school rooms in the basement. It should amply serve the needs of the congregation for many years.

In 1933, a new parsonage was constructed with funds raised by the Women's Missionary Society, an attractive and commodious home for the pastor.

How Cardui Helps Women To Build Up

Cardui stimulates the appetite and improves digestion, helping women to get more strength from the food they eat. As nourishment is improved, strength is built up, certain functional pains go away and women praise Cardui for helping them back to good health. . . . Mrs. C. E. Ratliff, of Hinton, W. Va., writes: "After the birth of my last baby, I did not seem to get my strength back. I took Cardui again and was soon sound and well. I have given it to my daughters and recommend it to other ladies." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

$20,000.00 WORTH OF TYPEWRITER

Nearly twenty thousand dollars worth of typewriters alone have been purchased by Draughon's Business Colleges at Dallas, Wichita Falls, Abilene, and Lubbock during 1935—showing the bigness of these institutions brought about by the outstanding success of many of their graduates. Many more thousands are invested in other facilities for giving ambitious young people practical education in the shortest time and in creating a demand for their services when they are ready for positions. Clip and mail, with name and address, to nearest Draughon's College above, for Special money-saving and time-saving plan; or see this paper about a Special Scholarship. 8-2tc
