LUNCHEON CLUB HEARS NELSON

Club Pays Tribute To Departing Methodist Pastor And Hears Senator

With Roy Leslie acting as toastmaster, a program of music was rendered by a trio of girls, Misses Ruth Suddarth, Ola Stephens, and Bobbie Milliken, with Mrs. Rubie D. Suddarth giving the piano accompaniment, at the luncheon served to the Business Men's Luncheon Club last Tuesday. The program consisted of a number of vocal selections, and was most pleasing.

Bill Sewell was named as toastmaster for the next meeting. Mr. Sewell was also named as group captain to succeed Rev. H. C. Smith in the attendance contest now being conducted, the place being made vacant by Brother Smith's removal from the city.

Mr. Leslie called upon Mayor Jim Dye for an expression concerning the clean-up to be staged Friday. Mr. Dye indicated that the City would clean the weeds from the streets and suggested that the citizens likewise clean up their premises. He stated that it was hoped that a truck could be provided to haul off the tin cans and other rubbish.

J. K. Applewhite responded to a call for a speech on the beautification of the city park. He expressed himself as being in favor of the proposal and believed it could be done at a cost which would not be too great. Mayor Jim Dye stated that park improvement is included in a WPA project that is now pending. If granted, the park will really be improved and beautified.

W. G. Barrett announced that the last football game of the season will be played here Friday afternoon between Tahoka and Ralls.

Rev. George A. Dale strongly emphasized the need for a real clean-up and insisted that the people and the city officials should make a good job of it. Then he expressed the regrets of the club and of the people of the town that Rev. H. C. Smith, the Methodist pastor, is being called to another field of labor, paying a high compliment to Brother Smith as a member of the club, as a citizen, and as a pastor, and the club members by a standing vote expressed their appreciation of him and his work.

Brother Smith responded most fittingly expressing his appreciation of the people of Tahoka and inviting them to call upon him when in Amarillo.

W. S. Anglin called attention to the fact that the entire board of stewards had requested Brother Smith's return to the Methodist Church here.

In response to a call, Senator G. H. Nelson started in to make a few remarks concerning his experiences in Austin but as he warmed up to his subject he grew earnest and forceful and gave a really very effective though brief discussion of some of the matters that demanded the attention of the Legislature in the two recent special sessions. He expressed the intention of visiting different sections of his district at an early date and further discussing these matters.

Clean-Up Drive Being Conducted

Tahoka begins her clean-up campaign today.

Every resident is expected to clean up his premises, burn the weeds and trash, collect the non-inflammable rubbish and place it in alleys or other places accessible to the trucks. The City will furnish a truck to haul off the refuse.

The City is also cleaning up the streets and alleys. It is hoped that the campaign will not cease until the whole town is thoroughly cleaned.

Tahoka Must Clean Up!

Deer Hunters Back With The Evidence

A deer hunting party consisting of Chester Connolly, Aubra and Melvin Cade, Russell Vernon, E. S. Tippit, Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Tippit, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Holland returned Wednesday night from the Davis Mountains, where they killed four deer.

5,326 Bales Cotton Ginned In Tahoka

One thousand bales of cotton have been ginned in Tahoka since our report last week. At a little after noon Thursday a total of 5,329 bales had been ginned here this season, against 4,326 up to Thursday morning of last week.

Our estimate is that 20,000 to 22,000 bales have been ginned this season in the county.

Up till this week the weather has been very unfavorable for gathering. It has been a little cool this week, but otherwise the weather has been ideal since Monday.

The price is about 11.35 to 11.85. Seed are still selling at $36 per ton.

Aged O'Donnell Lady Is Dead

Elder R. P. Drennon was called to O'Donnell Monday afternoon to conduct the funeral services of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Barton, who died at an early hour that morning.

Mrs. Barton was almost ninety years of age, having been born December 11, 1845. Her maiden name was Davis. She was married to Isaac M. Barton on November 7, 1872. To this union were born three daughters and two sons, Isaac Jr. and Wayne the two sons, are dead. One daughter, Mrs. Miriam Childress, who lives in the state of Colorado, was not able to be present. The other two daughters, Mrs. Albanie Wilson and Mrs. Ida Burk, reside in O'Donnell. The husband and father, Isaac M. Barton, died May 2, 1892, forty-three years ago.

Mrs. Barton had lived at O'Donnell a number of years. She was baptized and united with the Church of Christ in 1874 and had been a faithful member of that church for 61 years.

Ask Bids For School Building

The school board and architects are working as fast as possible on the new grammar school building project.

An advertisement for bids for the foundation work is being carried in this paper this week. Bids are to be opened and contract let on December 11.

There is no way of determining just when work on the project will begin, as that may depend on several factors, but it is hoped that it may begin immediately after the Christmas holidays.

Lubbock Pioneer Visits In Tahoka

Judge W. D. Crump, 90, his son Bob and his daughter, Miss Mamie, all of Shallowater, visited Mrs. Jack Alley here Sunday and dropped by the editor's home to pay a short visit to Mrs. Hill.

Judge Crump is one of the pioneer citizens of Lubbock county. In fact, he helped to organize the county away back in 1890 something or another and was one of the early county judges of the county. He was a warm friend of the late Jack Alley and the surviving widow and also of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Petty. He and family also became fast friends of Mrs. Hill while she, as Miss Milla Halsey, was serving as Lubbock county's first home demonstration agent back in about 1917.

Judge Crump knows much of the history of all this western country just like a school boy knows his abc's.

Missionary Will Speak At Baptist

Rev. Rex Ray, a returned missionary from China now touring the plains, will speak in the First Baptist Church here at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, according to an announcement of the pastor, Rev. Geo. A. Dale.

Rev. Mr. Ray will be remembered by many as one of the missionaries who was kidnapped by Chinese bandits and held for about a year.

He will doubtless have an interesting message, and the public is cordially invited to hear him.

NELSON BACK FROM CAPITOL

State Senator Tells Of Work Of Legislature During The Past Session

Senator and Mrs. G. H. Nelson and children, Wilella and Bert, returned Monday from Austin, where the Senator has been attending the two recent special sessions of the Legislature.

Senator Nelson says that he has enjoyed the work very much, though many things did not go just his way. He declares that this idea that some people have that legislators make good money on the $10 per day they are allowed is all a myth. Living expenses, he says, are extraordinarily high. For instance, he and family were compelled to pay $65-rent per month for two little rooms, and other expenses are high accordingly.

Senator Nelson gained much publicity by reason of his proposal for a unicameral legislature and he is much elated at the favorable response that has been given the proposal. He has received hundreds of letters, he says, from men in all walks of life and from all parts of the state, endorsing the idea. Likewise the newspapers and magazines (Cont'd on last page)

Ralls Will Play Football Here

Tahoka's Bulldogs will try their ability at chasing the Ralls Jack-rabbits this afternoon on the local football field as the final game of the current season.

Ralls, like Tahoka, has lost several games this season, and according to "dope" should be of about the same strength. Each team will be attempting to close the season with victory, and the game should be a good one.

No matter how badly outclassed, the Tahoka team this year has always presented a flashy and sensational game. In fact, Tahoka has failed to score in only one game this year, and in that one game at least two touchdowns were called back by officials.

Mrs. G. M. Stewart On School Faculty

On account of severe and continued illness, Mrs. Clay Bennett was compelled recently to resign as a teacher in the high school. Mrs. G. M. Stewart is now teaching in her place and it is practically certain that she will be elected to the position when the board meets. The position is for half time, teaching being done afternoons, and the subjects taught are History and English.

Mrs. Stewart holds a degree from S. M. U. and is an experienced teacher. She taught most successfully several years at Roscoe prior to her marriage.

Messrs. I. A. and C. A. Thomas are spending the week down near Fredericksburg hunting deer.

HIGHWAY WORK GOES FORWARD

Topping Nearly Complete On North Sector; Will Start South Sector Soon

The topping of highway No. 9 from the Lubbock county line southward toward Tahoka is proceeding now most satisfactorily. About half of the job has been done, and is open to traffic.

The highway department is experimenting with this road. They are placing one kind of rock and gravel on one half of it and another kind on the other half.

Contractors are expected any day now to begin work on the south end of No. 9 in this county. This sector includes about seven miles from the Dawson county line northward, including a loop through O'Donnell. Bids were received two or three weeks ago on the remainder of this gap from Tahoka south but the local engineer has not yet received notice that the contract has been let.

No. 84 west from Tahoka has also been approved as a National Recovery Work Relief project, and as soon as sufficient labor is available and right-of-way procured, work will begin, though it is not known just how soon that will be.

Brownfield Wins Over Bulldogs

Brownfield upset the dope bucket last Friday and poured it on Tahoka's football team 39 to 6, the visitors scoring in each quarter of the game, one touchdown coming from a 90-yard run.

A pass, Minor to Brower, gave Tahoka her only score. Minor and Hoover made occasional sensational runs, but the Cub line sitting through the Tahoka line kept these boys pretty well bottled up most of the game.

Brownfield was at its best Friday, several men having been out most of the season with mumps, however about a month earlier she had managed to tie the Slaton district champions. Slaton downed Lamesa 21 to 0 Armistice day.

Dixie Farm House Destroyed By Fire

A tenant house on the J. M. Murrah farm in the Dixie community was completely destroyed by fire two weeks ago. The house was occupied by Ben W. Bailey and family, and most of their household goods and some of their clothing was also destroyed.

The fire spread from a very old oil stove which had gotten in bad repair. A sixteen-year-old daughter who had just come from school was preparing to cook supper when the oil began to run out on the floor, ignited, and soon got beyond her control. The other members of the family were in the cotton field at the time.

Kind neighbors have purchased beds, mattresses, clothing, and made quilts, and donated to the unfortunate family.

Alton Cains Buy Co-Ed Beauty Shop

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cain have purchased the Co-Ed Beauty Shop from Miss Myrtle Cooper and have engaged Mrs. Cubana Wells to operate it. Mrs. Wells has been connected with the shop for some time. Miss Cooper is working with a beauty shop in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Seth are happy over the arrival Tuesday of their first-born, a boy weighing eight pounds. Mother and babe as well as the dad are doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay McCoy of Austin were visitors here over the week end with the former's mother, Mrs. J. H. McCoy, and other relatives.

Local Youth On Judging Team

Cleveland Littlepage, Tahoka, student in Texas Tech at Lubbock, is a member of the Stock Judging Team of that institution which left Thursday for Chicago to compete in the International Livestock Exposition. Cleveland is a graduate of Tahoka High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Littlepage of the Midway community.

The Tech team is holder of the Spoor trophy, the most-prized award available to college livestock judging teams, won at the Exposition last year, and will be seeking to win this honor again. Only twice in the 34 years the Exposition has been in operation has a team won first twice in succession.

The team is coached by Prof. Ray C. Mowrey and is composed of six students.

Miss Singleton On Gov. Allred's Staff

Following the adjournment of the special session of the Legislature last week, Miss Ola Belle Singleton, secretary to Senator G. H. Nelson, was appointed assistant secretary to Governor James V. Allred to serve until January, when it is expected that another special will be called and Miss Singleton will resume her duties as Senator Nelson's secretary.

Miss Singleton assumed her duties in the governor's office last Monday morning.

Aged Twins Have Pleasant Reunion

Mesdames B. B. Brewster and Ida Lettich and their mother Mrs. E. Fleming, all of Moran, Shackelford county, and Mesdames W. E. Lowrey and W. C. Lowrey of Lubbock, also daughters of Mrs. Fleming, stopped here Friday for a short visit with their friend, Mrs. E. I. Hill.

They had been visiting Mrs. Lucy Wood at O'Donnell, Mrs. Fleming and Mrs. Wood are twin sisters, 84 years of age, and as always the two aged ladies had a most pleasant day.

Mrs. Wood, however, is still suffering considerably from a broken shoulder, an injury which she sustained several weeks ago when she accidentally fell.

Mrs. Fleming and Mrs. Wood usually visit each other once or twice a year, and invariably they spend their birthday together.

Farm Agents Will Meet In Lubbock

Interesting programs will be given each day and a number of noted specialists will address the body.

REV. SMITH TO AMARILLO JOB

Methodist Pastor Moved To Larger Field; Rev. C. C. Armstrong Comes Here

Rev. H. C. Smith, pastor of the Methodist Church here the past four years, was assigned to the San Jacinto Church in Amarillo Sunday night at the close of the Northwest Texas Conference meeting in Plainview.

Rev. C. C. Armstrong, who has been pastor at Panhandle the past two years, was assigned to Tahoka. Brother Smith has been very popular here and his parishioners deeply regretted his assignment to another charge, as did the people of the town generally. However, the Bishop was apparently very kind to the Tahoka church in his selection of its pastor for the coming year. Brother Armstrong comes from a church of 1,008 members, it is said, with 500 or 600 in Sunday School. He is reputed to be a very capable man and will doubtless do a great work here. He and family have moved here this week, and of course he will appear in the pulpit Sunday morning. His family consists of a wife and three sons, two of whom are high school students.

Dr. W. M. Pearce remains as the presiding elder of the Lubbock district, and Dr. L. N. Lipscomb is returned as pastor of the First Methodist Church in Lubbock.

O'Donnell and Wilson each have new pastors. Rev. M. R. Pikes comes from Levelland to O'Donnell, and Rev. M. D. King is the new pastor at Wilson. Rev. George Montgomery, pastor at O'Donnell the past year, was sent to Morton. Rev. C. R. Matthews of Wilson was appointed Educational Director of the First Church in Lubbock.

Rev. C. F. Carmack comes from the Lamesa circuit to the Draw-Grassland charge, and Rev. J. A. Wheeler goes from Draw-Grassland to the Lamesa circuit.

Rev. C. W. Foote remains at Slaton and Rev. J. N. Heater at Southland. Rev. Ed A. Tharpe, who has been pastor at Brownfield four years, was sent to Levelland, and Rev. C. E. Fike is the new Brownfield pastor. Rev. M. M. Bravers, who has served as presiding elder and who has held several important pastorates, was assigned to the First Church at Lamesa. Rev. J. E. Stephens remains at Post.

Rev. Tony R. Q. Dyess goes to Spade as supply. Mrs. Dyess is the daughter of Joe Thompson and was reared in this county. Rev. C. R. Lemond, son of J. N. Lemond of Draw, who was reared in this county, was sent to Acme in the Vernon district. Rev. Hamilton Wright, a former pastor of the Draw-Grassland charge, was sent from Coahoma to Loraine.

Rev. J. W. Shepherd, a former pastor at Tahoka, was returned to Albany, where he has been pastor the past year.

Rev. R. T. Breedlove, who was pastor here four years, preceding Rev. J. W. Shepherd, was assigned to Straiford on the North Plains.

Rev. John E. Eldridge, also a former Tahoka pastor, was again appointed presiding elder of the Vernon district.

Rev. Atticus Webb, who for many years was superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, was assigned as pastor of the Aspermont church.

Mahon's Secretary Visits In City

Lloyd Croslin, secretary to Congressman George Mahon, was a visitor in Tahoka Tuesday, spending the night here in the home of Senator and Mrs. G. H. Nelson.

He came down from Washington a couple of weeks ago to attend to some official business for Mr. Mahon, who is now on a trip with others to the Philippines. Mr. Croslin also visited his parents at Lubbock.

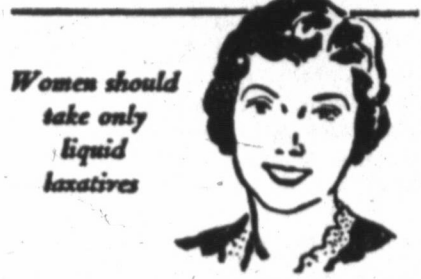

SPROLES SELLING OUT

O. O. Sproles, prominent Lynn county farmer, resident of the Dixie community, is this week advertising a farm sale for next Tuesday. Lynn will lose a good family if the Sproles decide to move away. Mr. Sproles lives two miles west and two miles south of Dixie.

Women should take only liquid laxatives
MORE people could feel fine, be fit and regular, if they would only follow the rule of doctors and hospitals in relieving constipation. Never take any laxative that is harsh in action. Or one, the dose of which can't be exactly measured. Doctors know the danger if this rule is violated. They use liquid laxatives, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Quezon Inaugurated First President of Philippines—Co-ordinator Berry Has Troubles—Reassurances for Business Men—Armistice Day Celebrations.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

SELF-GOVERNMENT became a reality for the Philippines on November 15, according to schedule, and it is now up to the islanders to utilize their independence wisely and safely, with only general supervision by the United States. In the presence of a great throng of distinguished persons in the magnificent legislature building at Manila, Manuel Quezon, veteran advocate of independence, was inaugurated as the first president of the commonwealth. Representing the United States were Vice President Garner, Speaker Byrns and a large party of senators and representatives with their wives. Many foreign governments sent unofficial observers, and the leading statesmen of the islands were present.

Manuel Quezon

After Quezon had taken the oath of office, Sergio Osmeña, vice president, and the members of the new unicameral legislature were sworn in. President Roosevelt was personally represented by Secretary of War Dern, who made a pleasant speech and read the proclamation, simultaneously issued in Washington, terminating the old government of the islands and establishing the commonwealth government which is to lead to complete independence of the archipelago in ten years. A cablegram of congratulation also was received from Mr. Roosevelt.

Because of the danger of outbreaks by the extremist followers of Emilio Aguinaldo who have opposed Quezon, the constabulary was out in full force, thousands of its members being brought in from all over the archipelago.

The day before the inauguration the legislature held its final session and Frank Murphy, the last of the governors general, appeared before it to review the accomplishments of the American regime that lasted 36 years. "Having found democracy good for itself, America believes it will be good for the Philippines," he said. Mr. Murphy was then sworn in as high commissioner of the new government.

The entire American delegation attended a grand reception and ball given by Mr. Quezon in honor of Mr. Murphy.

MAJ. GEORGE L. BERRY, industrial co-ordinator of the New Deal, is having a hard time co-ordinating industries. An industry-labor conference has been arranged for December 9 in Washington, but it is evident that some very considerable industries will not be represented. First, the Ford Motor company refused curiously to send a representative; then the Automobile Manufacturers' association objected to the affair, announcing its opposition to any revival of the NRA, though most of its members signed the old NRA code; and next came a sharp letter from the National Hardware Lumber association, one of the country's oldest and largest trade associations, flatly refusing to attend the conference. The letter, written by J. W. McClure of Chicago, secretary of the association's board of directors, labeled any attempt to impose a new NRA on industry as "impractical, unworkable, unenforceable, a menace to respect for all laws and therefore opposed to public interest."

Nevertheless, the conference will be held, and representatives of labor are expected to advocate a plan for licensing industry, a proposal that all government contractors comply with code provisions and the 30-hour week.

IF SECRETARY ROPER in addressing the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America in New York was speaking with authoritative knowledge of the intentions of the administration, business men feel considerably reassured. He said "the breathing spell which we are now enjoying is to be the end of governmental regimentation." He declared business was the "scapegoat" of the depression and he upheld the profit system. Of Mr. Roosevelt's announcement of a "breathing spell," the secretary said:

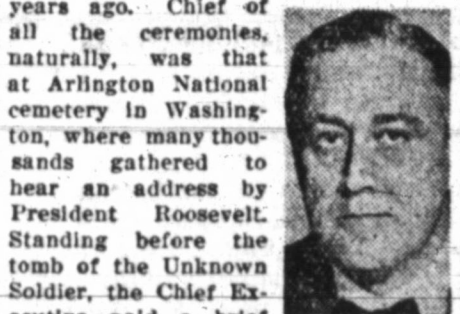

"This declaration of the President is clear-cut and concrete. It means specifically that the basic program of reform has been completed. It means that business no longer needs to feel any uncertainty as to what may come in the future with respect to governmental measures."

According to a Washington dispatch in the New York Times, informal orders have been issued by President Roosevelt to administrative officials to cut federal expenditures under the 1937 budget to $500,000,000 less than the newly estimated total for 1936. As a result, the dispatch says, the lives of many federal bureaus and agencies were reported to be hanging in the balance. The economy wave is heightened by signs of better business, the Times says.

THAT story, originating with the Deseret News of Salt Lake City, that George Norris had said he would not seek re-election to the senate from Nebraska, seems to have been at least premature. The veteran senator says he will make his decision at election time next year, and not earlier. "A campaign would be a small disturbance, compared to the trouble may not being a candidate has cost me," he said in Los Angeles. "I have received hundreds of letters from all parts of the United States urging me to run next year."

ARMISTICE day was celebrated in the United States more generally and elaborately than it had been since the first of those occasions seventeen years ago. Chief of all the ceremonies, naturally, was that at Arlington National cemetery in Washington, where many thousands gathered to hear an address by President Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt

Standing before the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the Chief Executive paid a brief but eloquent tribute to the gallantry of America's fighting men in the World War, set forth America's hopes and intentions for world peace, and announced the imminent signing of a trade treaty with Canada which Prime Minister King had been negotiating in Washington.

At exactly 11 o'clock the President bared his head and stood silent for a minute, as did millions of his fellow citizens all over the land. The President next placed a wreath on the Unknown Soldier's tomb. For six hours, afterward, uniformed organizations marched up the hill in Arlington and laid their wreaths at the tomb.

The celebration in the national capital was culminated by a ball arranged by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Congressional Medal of Honor men headed the list of guests, others being cabinet officers, diplomats and high officials of the army, navy and marine corps.

GOV. CYLDE L. HERRING of Iowa and Gov. Floyd Olson of Minnesota made a bet of one hog on the football game between the universities of their states. Herring lost, and paid by delivering a fat porker to Olson. That seemed all right, but Virgil Case, a vice crusader and editor of a Des Moines monthly paper, immediately swore out a state warrant for the arrest of Herring on charges of gambling, and said he would file federal charges against Olson.

Under Iowa statutes, gambling is a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum fine of $500 and a year in prison. The federal charge is a felony, Case said, punishable by a $5,000 fine and a prison sentence.

Neither governor appeared to be perturbed by the charges. Herring named Olson as his counsel, along with Senator Dan Steck of Iowa, who accompanied him to St. Paul to deliver the pig.

BRITISHERS went to the polls in the seventh general election since the World War, to elect a new parliament. Counting and publishing the vote over there is a deliberate process, so at this writing the results are not known.

But there was no doubt of the victory of the government forces, though probably they would lose a number of seats. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin was unopposed. "But the Laborites made a hot fight to defeat Ramsay MacDonald and several other members of the Baldwin cabinet."

The government, in its campaign, urged support of its League of Nations activities and its program of unemployment relief and stimulation of national trade.

Liberals and Laborites took issue with the Conservative candidates on national defense questions, with Labor candidates particularly insistent on disarmament and international control of war materials.

PROMOTED by the powerful nationalistic party WAFD, riotous demonstrations against British domination in Egypt broke out in Cairo and other places. Several rioters were killed and many wounded by the police commanded by an Englishman. The WAFD party insists that Prime Minister Nevill Chamberlain must resign. There is a large Italian community in Egypt, and for a long time it has been understood that Mussolini's emissaries have been stirring up discontent against Britain there.

A Cheerful Briton That German Steel We Go Up to 14 Miles Danger to Their Souls

Maj. L. B. Angus, British financier, addressing the American Bankers' association, says:

Arthur Brisbane

"Confidence has returned to the United States, fear has declined, monetary velocity will increase. There will be an immediate boom—first, in consumer goods; second, in plant and machinery; third, in housing industries."

The British major—may all he says be verified and multiplied by ten—says truly there is any amount of money in America, but it "revolves" too slowly. It will soon speed up and "revolve," or change hands thirty-five times a year.

If Lloyds would insure the accuracy of the major's prediction, a good many would buy policies.

The particularly offensive plan to buy in Germany steel to build the Triborough bridge in New York will probably not go through. It is explained by those concerned that they can buy 1,000,000 pounds of German steel piling for less than half the American price; as a further "reason" it is said "American firms submitted identical bids."

The government's blue eagle was invented to prevent price cutting; but that is not the question, nor is the difference in price or the fact that work is taken from American workers to give it to German workers the most important fact. Buying steel in Germany, helping to finance the German steel industry and Mr. Hitler's program, with American dollars, would seem to endorse Hitler's program of persecution. That is the important fact.

Officers of the American air corps, Capt. A. W. Stevens and Orvil Anderson, rose above the earth into the stratosphere to a height greater than any human being had ever reached, with the possible exception, of course, of Elijah going up in his chariot of fire. The American officers radioed: "We are at 74,187 feet, trying for 80,000 feet." They did not go higher, but broke all records.

Seventy-four thousand one hundred and eighty-seven feet is more than 14 miles, 2,000 feet higher than the unofficial Russian record of 72,200 feet.

A movie news reel photographer in Ethiopia, Edward Genock, was assaulted when he tried to make moving pictures of warriors at Harar. The Ethiopians beat the camera man, explaining afterward, "We shall lose our souls if we are photographed." That will surprise Hollywood, where the belief is the other way around. Once, it was generally believed, even by real Christians, that if you made a wax miniature figure of a man and stuck pins in it at intervals you would kill the original. Man is a superstitious biped.

Not long ago, when foreign countries were starving, America sent over American corn, and the foreign countries would not eat it. Even Russia refused.

Now, thanks to various devices for persuading our farmers to produce as little as possible, the United States imports more than 20,000,000 bushels of corn in one year.

Shortage of corn means shortage of food for hogs, and that meant expensive "hog meat," pork chops and bacon. Somebody always has to pay the bill and now it appears to be those that eat, a decided majority.

At Maryland's Pimlico race track a horse named Axlecan, winning the $1,000 relay steeplechase, paid $340.40 for a $2 betting ticket, 170 times the amount paid. That news will cause many unfortunate gamblers to lose several times $340. Nobody ever won at race track gambling in the long run. If that were possible, who would support bookmakers and tracks?

Speaking in Arlington national cemetery, the President warned the country that there is danger of war, urging "adequate defense on land, on sea, and in air."

He knows, as does everybody, that defense, first in the air, and second under the water, is most important.

President Roosevelt announced the early "consummation of a commercial agreement between Canada and the United States," referring to "our two peoples, each independent in themselves, closely knit by ties of blood and common heritage, with standards of life substantially the same."

While eleven lawyers and clients discussed the sale of a window-cleaning business in New York's Brownsville, four young gunmen entered, "said, pleasantly, 'Reach for the moon, gentlemen,' meaning 'Stick 'em up.' The hands went up; the gunmen walked out with $2,261 in cash. That was not playing the game. It is customary for lawyers to get money from gunmen, although, doubtless, these were not that type of lawyer. © King Features Syndicate, Inc. WNU Service.

OCEANS AND HILLS SLOW DOWN EARTH; DAYS LENGTHENING

French astro-physicists are completing a series of calculations which prove this world of ours is slowing down, like a wobbly top, as it spins around its polar axis.

The loss of speed is estimated by scientists at the Meudon observatory, near Paris, at one-tenth thousandth of a second a month at the present time, which means that in 1,000,000 years our 24-hour day will be lengthened to a 41-hour day.

This phenomenon is caused partly by the fact that the earth is losing the perfect streamlined curves of its early days and is becoming wrinkled with mountains and volcanoes which impede its whirling.

The main factor, however, is stated to be found in tidal movements. Working under the combined influence of sun and moon, oceans bulge out and act as brakes on the rotation of the earth. Another important cause is found in geological disturbances brought about by the shifting of internal masses. This flinging about of the world's contents, like so much loose baggage in a freight car, tends to detract from the constancy of the earth's spinning.

Calculations to date show this loss of speed increases progressively so that 100 years hence the earth's rotation will have suffered a loss of 18 seconds, and within two centuries, one minute and 12 seconds. In 2,000 years it will be one hour and 50 minutes behind its merry-go-round schedule. This lengthening of the day is explained by the longer time it would take for the earth to complete one single turn on its polar axis.

The majority of these calculations are based on the studies of tidal actions on planets and their satellites carried out by the astro-physicist, M. Antoniadi, and his collaborators at the Meudon observatory.

This clocking of the speed of the globe's rotation is entirely apart from computations regarding the changes in time that it takes the earth to revolve around the sun every year.—Detroit News.

An elegant young woman strolled down the main street of Skopje, Yugoslavia, attracting a admiring glance from all she passed. Suddenly a man dashed out of a shop, lifted her off her feet, took off her shoes and set her down again to walk home in her stocking feet. The assailant, a shoemaker, explained that the shoes had not been paid for, and he was tired of seeing his clients going about in comfort while he was on the verge of bankruptcy.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

SYNOPSIS

Antoinette Taft, twenty-three, attractive and ambitious but unable to hold a job, lives in a drab San Francisco flat with her sister Brenda and brother Cliff, who are older, her seventeen-year-old brother Bruce, and their Aunt Meggy. In her job hunting rounds she interviews Lawrence Bellamy, editor of the Journal of Commerce, but finds he has no place for a woman writer. She likes him very much, as she tells Brenda later. "He's a stunning young thing, as tall as Cliff, not much more than thirty, I think, and very much the gentleman." As the sisters talk, distant Barney Kerr drops in, asking where Cliff is. Barney has his eye on Tony, but she despises him. Tony gets a telephone call from Mr. Greenwood, city editor of the Call, offering her a job as society reporter. It being late at night, she has promised to see him in the morning. Cliff, returning just then, says: "Why not clinch it tonight?" and accompanies Tony to the newspaper office.

"Is there a man named Burke working here?" Clifford now found a lull in which to ask.

"Sure, Spike, where's Burke? He's usually in the sports," said MacGrath. "Here he is!"

He smote the shirted back of a stalwart young man who was washing not only his face, but his whole head and his arms up to the elbow at one of the basins. This person, dripping and sudsy, turned about with a loud "Quit!"

"Oh, hello, Cliff." Joe Burke said, then added, beaming over the filthy roller towel in a froth of white. "Hello, Miss Taft—say, what a break! Who's doing?"

While he quite without embarrassment dried his face and hands, rolled down his sleeves, put on a collar and combed his thick red hair, they told him what was doing, and Tony beamed hopefully into his pleasant red-brown eyes.

"Sure, you can work that society racket like a shot!" Joe Burke told her hearteningly. "It's soft."

"Oh, I hope it is!" Tony said, with a smile, with a lift of thick lashes, with a great rise of her heart.

"Listen, let's eat," Mr. Burke said abruptly.

They went up Market street to Lozano's, where Tony and Cliff had had delicious "half-and-halves" and toast, and Joe had a limp pink veal cutlet that had been seized from a long damp pan of cutlets displayed in Lorenzo's window, rolled in egg and crumbs, blackened in a pan of hot grease, smothered in gory catsup and served smoking hot with fried potatoes within the space of six minutes. With this Joe had coffee that had been simmering all day in a black pot, spongy bread, and coconut custard pie.

The little restaurant with the window grill was bright and warm on the rainy night; the clock stood at twelve, and Tony felt excited and happy. This was living! There were several men having veal chops and oyster stews in Lorenzo's, and presently her brother was surprised to see her flush and smile a little self-consciously and bow to one of them.

"Who's that?"

"It's Mr. Bellamy of the Journal." "That's right, too," said Joe. "I don't know him, but I've seen him in here before. He's pretty thick with old Arnoldson on our paper. Arnoldson told Fitch—Fitch is the managing editor—that he thought Bellamy was the smartest man on the coast, except maybe Anders down in Fresno."

Tony knew that the man who was watching her at the counter was watching her; she looked absently at Joe.

"Is Mr. Greenwood smart, Mr. Burke?"

"He is and he isn't," said Joe. "He's a terrible soue. Here's Moore. Sit down, Buck. This is the new society editor, Miss Taft. Miss Taft, Buck Moore, of the Sunday edition. You'll have to see a lot of old Buck!"

Tony hardly heard him. She was thrilled; she was happy. The romantic, dark, brilliant Mr. Bellamy had seen her alone and forlorn and supplicatory this morning in the dreary rain; he saw her tonight with three good-looking men having oysters at Lorenzo's. And Mr. Moore she had been introduced as the Call's society editor.

CHAPTER IV

Oh, it was good to have a job again, and to have it spring, and morning, and to be twenty-three! Tony awakened eagerly, dressed with enthusiasm, finished her breakfast, and piled her coffee cup and berry saucer in the sink. Then came a blank.

"How do you suppose I can get those photographs for Sunday, Betsy?" "I've been wondering," Brenda said. "Would any of the photographers help out, do you think?"

"I don't think they'd be allowed to give out pictures for the papers. Just the same, they're my best bet!" Tony decided uneasily. She left the house at nine o'clock and went to six photographers. It was always the same. It was not permitted; they said they were sorry.

At five minutes to one she went into the newspaper office, all the first enthusiasm of the new job clouded by a sense of fear and failure. She hung up her hat and coat in the office and confided her problem to Joe Burke.

"Oh, shucks," Joe said, "I'll tell you what you can do. Look over the other Sunday papers for the last few weeks, and telephone the studios for what you want."

"But I've just been to the studios, and they were awfully mean!"

"They won't be, if you want pictures that have been used. Or telephone the girls, if you like," Joe suggested easily, "and say that you are going to use an old picture and would like permission to have a new one."

"Yes, but have we old pictures?"

"Lord, haven't you seen the gallery?"

He took her in there, and she began to feel excited and happy and confident again. When she came back to her desk she telephoned a downtown studio firmly, authoritatively. This was the society editor of the Call speaking.

"I can have the prints there for you in an hour," the voice promised. Tony felt, almost giddy with relief, and laughed aloud.

She sat working in a sea of clippings and notes; she was conscious of the increasing stir about her. Men were lounging in, gossiping and smoking; they all looked curiously at her, and she knew it, although she did not look up. The city editor came in and chatted with her, sitting edgewise on her desk, picking his teeth; every moment that passed made her feel more and more that she belonged here, that she was holding her own, and yet the fluttered sensation of uncertainty and novelty persisted, too.

Tony worked away industriously. She clipped, pasted, counted words her face grew hot and her hair tumbled; it seemed to her that a tide of paper was rising steadily about her.

Mr. Florence, acting for the absent editor, asked her for her "stuff" for tomorrow. Tony produced it anxiously. He took it without comment; presently came back to ask: "Oughtn't we have the Harriman bridesmaids?"

"Oh, should we?" Tony asked slyly, her heart hammering and her mouth dry. "How do I—shall I go out there?"

"No, I'll get 'em for you," a nice boy named Slosser volunteered lazily, from the adjoining desk. He whirled the leaves of a telephone book that was stuffed up to three times its size. "That's the Paul Harrimans," he muttered. Presently he was penciling hurriedly; he tossed a scribbled sheet to Tony's desk. "Here they are!" he told her carelessly. "You fix 'em up."

Her telephone rang; she answered it apprehensively. But it was the apathetic Henrietta on the switchboard; Miss Taft's sister was there, and should she send her in?

Tony went eagerly to the door to meet Brenda, not quite sure that Brenda had any right here, but all the more welcome for that.

"Darling, do you come home to dinner?"

"I don't know. I could ask Mr. Florence."

They went together to Mr. Florence's desk, and he assured Tony heartily that of course she could go home to dinner; she was tired, she'd been working like a Turk—couldn't one of the boys finish up the Sunday page?

Oh, no, no, no, Miss Taft would be back in about an hour, she had it all in line, there wasn't very much more to do. Tony and Brenda were lugging each other's arms with excitement and pleasure as they got into the elevator, and at the dinner table Tony was voluble about the delights of the new job.

She went back to the office through the black night with a singing heart, and the hot city room, when she reached it, with the boys lounging about, and the typewriters going, telephone bells tinkling and shouts and racket on every side seemed to her the most satisfying spot she had ever known in her life.

CHAPTER V

The nervous excitement persisted for days—for weeks. There were bad hours as well as good. Tony learned that a newspaper office, like an army camp, is a fertile place for rumors, and most of them were alarming. Almost every week there was dark talk of a complete change in management, and no reporter felt sure of himself even from day to day. And especially glib, strange, young men, or well-dressed, unknown young women, observed to be deep in talk with Greenwood, spread general apprehension.

"What's he after?" the boys would ask the city editor casually when he was gone. Tony would find some excuse to drift up to his desk as soon as the woman caller disappeared. "Who is your pretty friend, Mr. Greenwood?"

She had accepted Barney's humiliating suggestions in serious earnest; she would take no chances on this job. Tony was always the first to reach the office, the most punctual with her work. She brushed her hair back sleekly and saw to it that her cuffs and collar were in trim. Over such mistakes as she made she showed so horrified a contrition that Greenwood's reproofs often turned into good-natured laughter.

"Well, listen here—no harm done. Old Mrs. Rufus Walte got mad because she hasn't ever forgiven George for marrying as he did, and you put the Georges at her big ball. Don't do it again, that's all."

Tony would go back to her desk to take out the indispensable old leather book and turn to the page-tab marked "W." Under "Waite's" she would carefully write "old Mrs. R. hates Georges—his wife Carolyn Petty, light opera."

She was often late at the office as autumn came on with affairs for the debutantes and the reopening of city houses, and she loved every minute of it. Aunt Meggy, assisted more often by colored Asterbel now, insisted that Tony sleep late; there was something very agreeable about awakening at nine instead of seven o'clock, and coming out to the sitting room for late coffee and blackberries and the newspaper and Aunt Meggy's contented chat. It was not only one's natural liking for ease, Tony thought; it went deeper. There was something in this changed routine that flattered her pride, that pride that had been so cruelly hurt and lowered in the long humiliating months when Tony had been the member of the family who lost jobs—was fired—couldn't help with the family's financial problem.

Now they saw, all of them, that she wasn't lazy, that she did like work! She was a professional woman now, absorbed and busy, well paid and content, and her hours deserved respect.

Tony held her head higher; presently she had a new office dress of dark blue belted childishly in red, and a dark blue hat with a red band; Brenda told her she had never been so pretty, and she suspected that it was true.

The darkness of haunting offices, going about weary and discouraged seeking jobs, going home filled with hurt and resentful thoughts, was forgotten.

At ten o'clock every morning she began her rounds; perhaps a call at one of the fashionable women's clubs, perhaps a visit to some kindly society woman who had offered to help her out with news. Always she went in, on her way to the office, to see Brenda in the bookstore, busy and sweet and helpful among the books, and usually with some items gleaned from her morning's work.

From Brenda she would go to the office, where much of her copy was secured by telephone. Tony came to know that the society folk always felt it necessary to pretend that they disliked any newspaper notoriety. But if she could get it from friends, or by any clever little maneuvering of her own, they were pleased to be called prominent, influential, leaders, exclusive; she had only to convince them thoroughly that she knew they detested publicity to get anything she wanted.

Gathered about the supper table that was spread in daylight now, loitering over the figs and grapes, Cliff and Brenda, Aunt Meggy and Tony agreed that this was the happiest, the most serene time they had ever known.

"We had six hellish years," said Tony. "They're over!"

"Oh, they weren't hellish, darling," Brenda protested. "It was only that after Dad died we floundered for a while, getting our bearings, and that of course, being in mourning for him and Mother. We couldn't have much fun."

"Gosh, what a pull! Clifford muttered, smiling reminiscently over his pipe.

"They were simply rotten for me," Tony persisted darkly. "I am don-the word 'hellish' because I saw Aunt Meggy shudder, but hellish is what they were, and as hellish I shall continue to remember them!"

"Do they all make love to you down at the office?" Brenda once asked her. Tony laughed.

"That's just what they don't. They borrow quarters, and they tell me their whole histories, and they telephone other girls, right at my desk, but somehow the atmosphere of the city room is anything but romantic," she explained. "There's so much rush and confusion, we're always under such a strain—no, Joe and Van and Spike Hlyan—they're darlings. But they don't make passes at me!"

"Aunt Sally is always casting out Jack suspicions of these evening at the office."

"Aunt Sally? She thinks President Harrison is still in office!" Tony could afford to laugh at Aunt Sally. "As for her dear influential friend Augusta Terry," she told the appreciative dinner table one night, "she is a stuffed shirt!"

"Antoinette," said Miss Bruce mildly. "You remember, she was going to help me with social notes and ask all her friends to send me in stuff? Well," Tony said, "I've telephoned her when I got into a tight place two or three times, and nothing doing! So yesterday I went up to see her and said how kind it would be of her—all that, you know. And she stiffened up like an old macaw and said she personally had the greatest abhorrence of newspaper notoriety, and thought it most extraordinary that any girl of a nice family would ever have her name in the paper. She implied that if I were a gentleman I'd give up my job! To Hannibal with her!"

"And then, on the other hand," Tony presently resumed, when Aunt Sally's influential friend had received due comment from the group, "on the other hand, Greeny told me to call up Linda Flood—that's Mrs. Paulding Flood—the other day. I was stuck, and he wanted me to go out on this milk investigation story, and of course I wanted to, because it's wonderful for him to give me any of the straight stories—and he said, 'Call up Linda Flood, she'll give you a lot of dope.'"

"And you don't know her?"

"I've never seen her; she's been at Tahoe all summer. So I sort of half-heartedly telephoned her, and said who I was, and I heard this darling voice. 'Why, girl dear, I don't know much, but I'll give you what I have! Got a pencil?' And she began to just pour it out, what everyone was doing, and tips on two engagements, and everything. And she said, 'Now you just call me up whenever you get short—I used to do that, social column myself!'"

"Oh, people are lovely when they're kind," Brenda said, her eyes shining. "I'd love her!"

"Old stiff-necked parakeet of an Augusta Terry!" Tony muttered. "Afraid of herself, that's what she is. And this Mrs. Flood isn't, and that's the difference."

"I'll tell you, Tony, send Mrs. Flood some flowers at Christmas."

"I will! I love being able to do things like that," Tony said. "How a little money does help your self-respect!"

"How a little money does help your everything!" Bruce expanded it, with fervor.

"My old smart Tony, I always knew she'd make us proud of her!" Miss Bruce murmured contentedly, reaching for her solitaire cards. Tony and Brenda began to gather up the dessert dishes. They were presently talking with their own unflagging animation over the sink.

"I'd never mind this, you know, Tony. I mean our having to do the dishes—I mean, just as things are now seems richness to me," Brenda said.

"Money doesn't matter terribly," Tony conceded. "Work is the wonderful thing. To be hard working at something you simply love, and to wake up in the morning and think that here's another day's work—that's heaven."

"For a while," Brenda conceded. "But after all," she presently added thoughtfully, "no matter how successful a woman is, it seems to me she's a little lopsided if she doesn't marry."

"You say so, Brenda?"

"But you—you—why, you're always said that as far as you were concerned you didn't need anything more than friendship, such as you have with Margaret and Alison and Gay."

"Yes, but that's me."

"You mean I'm different?"

"I mean," Brenda insisted, "that there are different sorts of women. I like men tremendously—I think I'm easier with them than you are. But when it comes to getting quite close to one, going in for all the murmuring and intimacy and—the loving part—all that, it simply doesn't register. It makes me feel uncomfortable. I have heavenly times, going down to Carmel with Alison and the Bestys; we're completely happy. We cook, and talk books, and go uptown and get things for supper in the back garden; I don't miss anything."

"I don't miss anything, now," Tony said. "I'm completely happy."

Brenda, even while she smiled and shook her head, knew that it was true; in finding her work Tony had found herself, and quite innocently liked what she discovered. She seemed to grow taller and slimmer as the months went by; all the qualities that had made Brenda and Aunt Meggy uneasy about her disappeared as if by magic; she was groomed, energetic, purposeful.

Every night she came home to them with tales of her adventures. When Tony told of the scene that restored the little lost Jensen boy to his mother and father, Aunt Meggy had to wipe her eyes; she sketched every separate entry on the big Call staff for their benefit, and they felt that they knew good-natured common little Greeny, and stern handsome Mr. Fitch, and all the boys of the city room, as she did.

Lazy, unwashed, yawning little Arch Slosser continued to occupy the desk next to Tony's, and helped her generously even when he would not do his own work. Spike Hlyan came in from the sports department to ask her about the clothes the women had worn to the tennis tournament, Joe Burke assumed the affectionate attitude of an old friend, promising to take her to a fight some night. And Van Florence told her about his wife's tuberculosis. All of them liked her, and she liked them all, and regretted that they were so often a little hazy from their too convivial dinners, and in so constant a state of being fired and re-employed, warned and scolded by Greeny, who was himself a heavy drinker.

Patty Perkins she did not like, but there was a friendly, rangy big woman who "covered Oakland," and who was confidential and friendly with Tony, and there was kindly old Mrs. Magius, who tottered in to do a weekly editorial headed "A Kiss for Evergreen's Mother on Mother's Day" or "Baby Annie's Little Hands Keep Daddy Safe and Sane." If there were any event, local or national, with a mother, baby, an old soldier, an old song anywhere involved, Mrs. Magius, who signed "Hetsy Ross," pounced hungrily upon it; she often wept when she told Tony what she was writing, sentimentally describing herself as the most beloved, and useful newspaper woman in the world.

The only other woman on the staff was a blonde named Iona Cutler, who was paid a hundred dollars a week for a column called "Bessie Saw It." No one in the city office was supposed to know why Gavin Franklin Fitch, general manager, felt justified in paying Miss Cutler so generously for the queer tangled notes she occasionally brought in and that, if indeed they were usable at all, someone in the office always had to put into shape for her, but everyone did know that she had an apartment on Pine street, where Mr. Fitch dined almost every night; and that Mrs. Fitch often had to be told, when she telephoned in weekly to ask where he was, that he had to go to Fresno or Sacramento.

Tony and Bessie got on well together, and after a while it became the custom for Tony to do a great part of Bessie's work. The older woman—she was well into the thirties—would tumble all sorts of little notes upon Tony's desk and look with pathetic confidence at Tony while they were discussed.

That Mr. Fitch, who was all-powerful and much feared, was aware of her kindly assistance to the inefficient Bessie she knew when he was stuck, on an autumn day, and put a new thick book on her desk.

"Read that?"

She flipped pages. "No, I haven't, and I've heard a lot about it."

"I thought you might enjoy it." He hesitated, his face rather red. It was a quiet morning hour in the city room, and nobody was within sound of their voices. "Everything comfortable for you in here, Miss Taft?"

"Oh, wonderful!"

"We want you to feel at home, that anything you don't like can be changed," he said stiffly, but with what for him was rare graciousness. Tony sat fingering the book, staring after him, when he went away. This was gratifying, reassuring, as far as the precious job was concerned; there was no one in the office, Greeny included, who would not have given a week's pay for so much from Mr. Fitch. But she saw breakers ahead. Her face flushed, her eyes shining, she sat lost in uncomfortable thought for a long time.

Lee's Invasion of Pennsylvania

The Dictionary of American Biography states that General Lee's invasion of Pennsylvania, which resulted in the Battle of Gettysburg, July 1, 2 and 3, 1863, was undertaken for three reasons: (1) to supply his army; (2) to strengthen peace sentiment in the North by showing the futility of the effort to force the South into submission; (3) in hopes that he could compel Lincoln to detach troops from the far South and thereby relieve the pressure on Vicksburg. This hard-fought battle is often regarded by historians as the turning point of the Civil war.

More Systematic Use of Library
A magazine rack was recently installed in the study hall and magazines are placed upon it by various instructors for the recreational reading of the students. However there are a few students whom the teachers agree upon as being able to spend more time in studying. To prevent such students from using the magazines and also the library when they should be studying a system of using library permits has been installed. Permits must be shown to the study-hall teacher before a student can use the library. Permits were only given to those people who are passing at least three courses.

According to report from the editor, A. J. Thompson is improving and plans to return to school in about three weeks. The Senior class will be glad when he is able to come back.

Refreshing Relief

When You Need a Laxative
Because of the refreshing relief it has brought them, thousands of men and women, who could afford much more expensive laxatives, use Black-Draught when needed. It is very economical, purely vegetable, highly effective. . . . Mr. J. Lester Roberson, well known hardware dealer at Martinsville, Va., writes: "I certainly can recommend Black-Draught as a splendid medicine. I have taken it for constipation and the dull feelings that follow, and have found it very satisfactory."

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theoford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. G. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theoford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

2,150 Pounds Amount of Food You Eat Per Year

You will eat a ton of food this year—2,150 pounds, the statisticians say. Milk, fluid and canned, and other dairy products, will account for half of this. (Milk is heavy.) You will eat about 150 pounds of meat, and about the same amount of fresh fruit; 150 pounds of fresh vegetables, not counting 150 pounds of potatoes.

In bread and cakes and breakfast foods and macaroni, you will consume 230 pounds of flour and cereals. Sugar, 102 pounds of it, is the next most important item. Of canned fruits and vegetables, you will eat 33 pounds, states Today.

If you are suffering from constipation, sleeplessness, sour stomach, and gas bloating, there is quick relief for you in Adierka. Many report action in 30 minutes after taking just one dose. Adierka gives complete action, cleaning your bowel tract where ordinary laxatives do not even reach.

Give your stomach and bowels a real cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

MILNESIA WAFERS

Roasting the Thanksgiving Turkey

FIRST, select a plump, well-fattened turkey. Either a young or an old turkey can be made excellent eating, but you must know which you have, for it makes a difference in the way you cook it. Allow from one-half to three-quarters of a pound in the weight of the turkey as you buy it for each person to be served—remembering that in the larger kinds you will get more meat in that proportion to bone. With a 15-pound turkey, for instance, you can get 20 very generous servings.

The dealer will usually draw the turkey for you, but certain things have to be looked out for at home. Cut off the oil sac, take out the windpipe and lungs, pull out any pin feathers and singe off hairs. Do this quickly so as not to darken or scorch the skin. Wipe the body cavity with a soft cloth wrung out of cold water. Scrub the outside with a wet cloth and soda or corn meal. Rinse off quickly and wipe the bird dry inside and outside. Never let a turkey or any other poultry soak in water. You lose flavor and food value.

Rub the inside with salt before putting in the stuffing. Slip a crusty end slice of a loaf of bread into the opening near the tail to hold in the stuffing, tuck the legs under the band of skin left for that purpose, and saw up the slit with soft white twine. After stuffing and trussing the turkey, rub the outside all over with butter, salt and pepper and pat on flour. Lay a piece of turkey fat over the breast. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not put any water into the pan. Water in a roasting pan makes steam, and steam around a roasting turkey or any tender meat draws out the juices.

Have the oven hot (about 450° F.) when you put the turkey in. Brown it lightly for half an hour in this hot oven and after the first 15 minutes turn the bird with the breast down so it will brown all over. Then reduce the oven heat to very moderate (325° F.) To cool the oven down quickly leave the door open a few minutes. Turn the bird from time to time, basting it with turkey fat and butter.

If the turkey is young, continue the roasting at this moderate temperature with no lid on the pan until the bird is done. Baste with pan drippings about every half hour. In turning, be careful not to break the skin. A young 10-12 pound turkey will need about three hours in the oven.

For a turkey a year or more old, after browning in the hot oven, put the cover on the roaster, and continue the cooking in the moderate oven (about 325° F.). You will probably need to allow 4 1/2 hours for a 15-pound bird a year or more old.

To test the "doneness" run a steel skewer or a cooking fork into the thigh next to the breast. If the juice does not show a red tinge, the turkey is done. Make gravy with the giblets and drippings.

The bureau of home economics, United States Department of Agriculture, which gives the foregoing suggestions, also supplies this recipe for a savory stuffing, and one for giblet gravy. For stuffing:

- 2 quarts dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup fat, butter
2 tsp. salt
and turkey fat
1 to 2 tsp. savory seasoning
Pepper to taste
1 pint chopped celery

In the melted fat cook the onion, parsley and celery for a few minutes. Add the bread crumbs and seasonings and stir all together until the mixture is thoroughly heated. Pile the hot stuffing lightly into the turkey, but do not pack.

Giblet gravy: Simmer the giblets (liver, gizzard and heart) and the neck in one quart of water for about an hour. Drain the giblets and chop them fine, saving the broth. If there is too much fat on the drippings in the roaster, skim off some of the excess fat and leave about one-half cup. Into these pan drippings stir six level tablespoons of flour. Then gradually add the cool broth from the giblets and enough more cold water to make a thin smooth gravy. Cook for 5 minutes, add the chopped giblets and season to taste with salt and pepper.

THE MESSAGE OF HAGGAI AND ZECHARIAH

LESSON TEXT—Haggai 1:2-8; 2:3, 9; Zechariah 4:8-10. GOLDEN TEXT—I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord. Psalm 132:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A New House for God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Building a House of Worship.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why We Build Churches.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Building Adequate Churches.

After the returned captives had settled down in the towns surrounding Jerusalem, the people were called together for the purpose of establishing the worship of the Lord God. This movement was led by Joshua the priest and Zerubbabel the governor. In view of the fact that the clearing away of the debris of the old city and temple and the erection of the new temple would take a long time, an altar was erected where sacrifices might be offered at once to God.

1. The Laying of the Foundation of the New Temple (Ezra 3:8-13).

This was an auspicious occasion and was celebrated with impressive ceremonies.

1. The priests in their official apparel (v. 10). These garments symbolized their consecration to the Lord's service.

2. The priests with trumpets (v. 10) Trumpets were used in calling the people together.

3. The Levites with cymbals (v. 10). This was according to the arrangements made by David (1 Chron. 15).

4. They sang together by course (v. 11). This means that they sang to one another responsively.

5. Mingled weeping and singing (vv. 12, 13). Some of the older men who had seen the magnificent temple of Solomon wept when they saw how far short the present foundation came of the former temple. Others were glad because of the favor of God which had brought them back.

11. The Building of the Temple Hindered (Ezra 4).

The leading adversaries were the Samaritans, a mongrel people, the offspring of the poor Jews who were left in Palestine and the foreign people who were sent into Palestine after the Jews were taken captive. The three perils which delayed the building of the temple for about fourteen years reveal the persistent methods which the enemies of God use to hinder the building program of God's people in every age.

1. An unintelligent pessimism (3: 12). Because things were not as promising as they should be, some were not disposed to go forward with a constructive program and even hindered those who possessed a hopeful outlook. Under the circumstances, a glorious beginning had been made which had promise of great things in the future.

2. Worldly compromise (4:2, 3). The adversaries said, "Let us build with you; for we seek your God." This is Satan's most common and effective method. The help of the unregenerate in forwarding the Lord's work should not be accepted by the Lord's people.

3. Open opposition by the world (4:4-24). When refused a part in the work, open opposition was resorted to.

111. Assurance of the Completion of the Second Temple (Zech. 4:3-10).

By means of the golden candlestick is represented the restoration of the Jewish nation and the fulfillment of its divine purpose. It was to be a light in the world. There were insuperable difficulties in the way of accomplishing their restoration, represented by the great mountain, but assurance was given that God by his Holy Spirit could easily accomplish their restoration. The mountain would be displaced by a plain. The two olive trees represent Zerubbabel and Joshua. The Holy Spirit was to accomplish this work through them.

IV. The Temple Finished (Ezra 6: 3-15).

Through the ministry of the prophets, Haggai and Zechariah (Ezra 5:1; Hag. 1, 2), the people were encouraged to resume the work of the building of the temple. When the temple was finished, they solemnly dedicated it to God (Ezra 6:16-22).

V. The Blessedness of Dwelling in God's House (Ps. 84:1-4).

1. The longing of the soul for God's house (vv. 1, 2).

2. The sparrow and swallow and protection in the sacred precincts of God's house (v. 3).

3. At home in God's house (v. 4). Those who have a heart for God and their chief delight in dwelling in his house.

The Future

Don't estimate your future by the little troubles that comfort you now. The black clouds which shut out your sun today will be gone tomorrow. Learn to look at life at long range and put the right value on things in general.

Religion

Some men want to have religion like a dark lantern, and carry it in their pocket, where nobody but themselves can get any good from it.—Henry Ward Beecher.

IRON DOG GROWLS

The use to which the photophone, popularly known as the electric eye, is put are literally numberless. One of the most peculiar is used by a practical joker to give a rattle to an iron dog on his lawn. When a visitor approaches he is startled by growls for on his approach he interrupts a beam of light focused on an electric eye and that sets off the vocal mechanism—a big, raucous buzzer.—Oll Power.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Big New 10¢ Can!"

SAYS MRS. W. W. HICKEY, OF CHICAGO, ILL.

"THERE'S a lot of good baking in that 10c can of Calumet," observes Mrs. Hickey. "It's worth more than a dime any day!"

"Of course, with my big family I get the full-pound can—and it's only 25c now. As long as I bake, Calumet will be in my pantry!"

Grandfather Rommel, who was a baker for 40 years, says: "Calumet takes the guesswork out of the job nowadays."

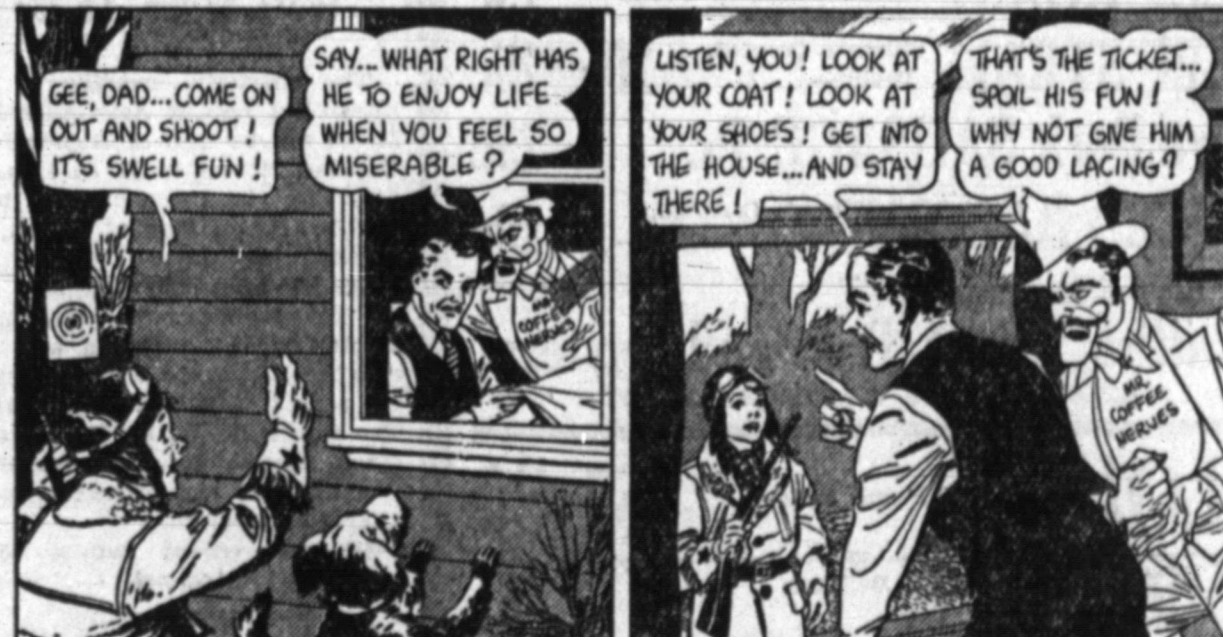

LOOK AT THE NEW CALUMET CAN! A simple twist... and the Easy-Opening Top lifts off. No delay, no spilling, no broken fingernails!

WHAT makes Calumet so dependable? Why is it different from other baking powders? Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick action for the mixing bowl—set free by liquid. A slower action for the oven—set free by heat. This Double-Action produces perfect leavening.

All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in its history... The regular price of the Full-Pound Can is now only 25c! And ask to see the new 10c can—a lot of good baking for a dime—with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder. A product of General Foods.

A BULL'S EYE FOR DAD

WHY was coffee bad for you, Dad? ... I thought it was bad just for us kids! "Oh, no! Many grown-ups, too, find that the caffeine in coffee upsets their nerves, causes indigestion or keeps them awake nights!"

If you are bothered by headaches, or indigestion, or can't sleep soundly... try Postum for 30 days. It contains no caffeine. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It's easy to make... costs less than half a cent a cup. It's delicious, too... and may prove a real help. A product of General Foods.

Thanksgiving

by A. B. Griffith
 We are disposed to pine for "The good old days" and ignore the good things of the present. We never recognize good times until they are gone, it seems. We are inclined to live in the past or in the future rather than in the present. The disposition of man is to "cuss" and pray rather than to give thanks. The Thanksgiving Season approaches again, and granting there are plenty of troubles of which we might complain, just think:—

A few years ago our boys were being killed in foreign lands during the World War.

More recently, banks were breaking in this country daily. Cotton was selling for three cents per pound.

Our country was on the verge of a destructive revolution.

Chain stores were putting home merchants out of business.

Schools could not pay their teachers because citizens could not pay their taxes.

Last year we made no crops in this section. Last spring the dust storms dealt us misery.

Only recently dozens of outlaw bands were operating throughout the nation apparently unafraid of the law.

Today this country is at peace; our boys are at home in school; banks are safer and deposits are guaranteed by the government; cotton is three or four times as high; our nation stands; chain stores are taxed and home merchants are prospering; schools are running and teachers are drawing small salaries; crops are several times better than last year; the dust storms have ceased and moisture is abundant; Dillinger, Scar-face, Pretty Boy, Clyde Barrow, and dozens of other public enemies are disposed of, and the public's respect for law is rapidly increasing.

Today we have better buildings, better automobiles, better roads, better clothes, more conveniences, better shows, better radio programs, longer life, and more and better schools than we have ever known before. These do not bring happiness; happiness comes from within; but to be thankful for them will bring happiness, for thankfulness, gratitude, appreciation, are inner seeds that inevitably produce happiness.

Our national Thanksgiving Day is the last Thursday in November. Our thanksgiving day should be EVERY Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin James, Mr. and Mrs. Sheep Flutt of Gragland, Mrs. James and children visited Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gandy and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tunnell of Redwine, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bastick and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Walker and baby and Mr. O'Dell Liston visited Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Inman Sunday afternoon.

Every body come out for Sunday school next Sunday morning.

HEPBURN'S BIG ROLE IN "ALICE ADAMS," TARKINGTON'S STORY

Coming to The English Theatre 3 days starting Sunday.

Striking characterizations highlight "Alice Adams," the Booth Tarkington story that won the Pulitzer Prize in 1922, now brought to the screen by RKO Radio.

The drama concerns a girl's gallant struggle to rise from the mire of poverty and social oblivion in a small Midwestern town, where wealth is the yardstick of success. The heroine of the story is an appealing combination of fineness, presence, romance and courage. Katharine Hepburn is starred in this brilliant role, which parallels the appeal of her characterization in "Morning Glory."

Contrasting pictures of the homes of the wealthy and the "middle class," which flourish side by side in Alice Adams' home town, are vividly drawn in the film. Fred Stone, noted stage star, plays the prodding, unambitious father. A nagging, disillusioned, but still ambitious mother is portrayed by Ann Shoemaker. The shiftless, cynical young brother is capably handled by Frank Albertson. The handsome lover, who is the epitome of all Alice's dreams of an ideal man, is played by Fred MacMurray. Evelyn Venable plays Miss Hepburn's society girl rival.

NELSON IS BACK FROM THE CAPITOL

 generally have favored it. While his resolution received only six favorable votes in the senate he says that it was defeated by only one vote in the lower house, and he thinks sentiment in its favor is growing in both branches of the legislature.

Senator Nelson is just as deeply interested, however, in other matters that demanded the attention of the legislature as he is in the unicameral-legislature proposal. He has given much thought to the matter of old-age pensions, taxation, the liquor problem, and other matters, and he discusses them with much intelligence and forcefulness.

It must have become very obvious to all who heard Senator Nelson at the Business Men's luncheon Tuesday that he is capable of giving a convincing reason for every position he has taken, and that this district has an unusually strong man in the state senate. Better keep your eye on Nelson; he is going places.

BAPTIST W. M. S.

Conference meetings of every standing committee followed by definite recommendations to the entire Society, featured the monthly business meeting of the Baptist W. M. S. at the church Monday afternoon.

With Mrs. H. P. Caveness presiding reports were heard from: Mission Study Chairman, Mrs. Jim Burleson, who reported that each circle is now studying a helpful book and suggesting an all day mission study at the church preceding the week of Prayer. Plans were made for a covered dish luncheon; Circle meetings in the church at the regular hour; and the study of "The Conquering Christ" to be from 10 a. m. to 4 o'clock p. m., November 25.

Mrs. E. I. Hill, Stewardship chairman, outlined methods for giving every woman and man on the church roll an opportunity to contribute to missions during the coming week-of-prayer.

Mrs. E. J. Cooper, Periodical chairman reported the number of Baptist papers and magazines being read by members and urged the need of more.

Mrs. W. F. Humphries, personal service chairman, pro-tem, urged more personal work with full and definite reports to be handed in at the next business meeting.

Mrs. F. M. Billman, Benevolence chairman, urged that a cash offering—suggesting a "Hen Drive"—be given Sunday, November 24 to accompany the box of clothing to be sent Buckners Orphans' Home, this month.

Mrs. H. F. St. Clair, Mission chairman, outlined programs for the December week-of-prayer. This begins December 2, with a Royal Service Program. Each organization of the W. M. S. is urged to take part in these programs at the

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

Another Lord's day has come and gone. How fast time flits by. Dear brother and sister, did you meet for worship last Lord's day? If not why not?

I had a great experience this week at Grandma Barton's funeral. She had lived almost ninety years, just twenty three days short of it. Sixty years of that time she had lived a christian life.

As I looked on her face cold in death I do not remember of ever having seen a more beautiful face. It was so calm with the smile of heaven upon it. How it inspired me to want to live a righteous life, that I might die as she died.

Thanksgiving day will soon be here and I am wondering if we will have a union Thanksgiving service. How thankful we ought to be for the many blessings that are ours this year.

Another preacher gone. I guess that leaves me the oldest one on the field at present. We will miss our friend Smith from our midst.

PUTTING ON DOG

It may be the bountiful crops we have been blessed with this fall—maybe it's the tax money that has been coming in the past few weeks—our commissioners are "putting on the dog" and putting it on in a big way.

This week the commissioners purchased from an out-of-town stationery house—which pays its taxes in central Texas—fifty bucks worth of lithographed letter-heads. The stationery will really be something—and no doubt will be in keeping with the "coming good times"—but the order didn't help a single Garza county citizen who has county taxes to pay here.

For thirty-four dollars and seventy-five cents—and not making a special price at that, just figuring the job from old man Franklin's cost schedule, which gives printers a fair profit on their investments, the Dispatch Publishing Company could have furnished a like amount of stationery—and the thirty-four seventy-five would have helped us greatly now that tax-paying time is here. Of course the letter heads we could have furnished would not have been lithographed, but with a quality of printing on a sheet of paper any business or professional man might use to write a tax-payer, governor or even the President without embarrassment. The Dispatch Publishing Company is not equipped to do lithograph work—too few business men of Post care to use such high-priced stationery—and besides it takes plenty of money to install equipment for lithograph work and we have about all the equipment now that we can pay taxes on.

Garza county voters need not be surprised should they receive handsomely engraved candidate cards this spring from our present set of commissioners and county judge, should they run for reelection, instead of the printed cards used last campaign year that helped to put them in office.—Post Dispatch.

And, Eddie, we'll wager that your commissioners had to pay cash on delivery for their mail-order printing (or lithographing), while you would have to wait several months to get a voucher cashed.

Walker Tells Of Visit To Austin

J. B. Walker returned Friday from Austin, where he spent a couple of weeks visiting his daughter, Mrs. Spurgeon O'Neal, and watching the proceedings of the legislature.

Mr. Walker sat in the galleries of the House and Senate for ten days as a spectator, and he came back with a word of praise for our legislative body. He says that this idea that the legislators fritter away the time is all a mistake. They work, and they work hard, in his conclusion. Except on Saturdays, they open at 8 or 9 in the morning and do not adjourn till 5 in the afternoon, and most of them do a lot of night work. Our own G. H. Nelson was working just as hard as he ever did in the district court here, Mr. Walker says.

Mr. Walker also says that the idea that the legislature is made up of weaklings is also "bloody." Most of the senators are able men and at least fifty members of the House are just as able as the senators. Of course there are a good many members of the House who have only mediocre ability, he says, but the general average is not bad. One of the brainiest and brightest men in either House, Mr. Walker thinks, is Representative Bryan Bradbury of Abilene, who is only 22 years of age.

Naturally Mr. Walker doesn't think the Legislature deserves all the "cussing" it gets.

Miss Faye Brown Weds O. O. Pierce

Miss Faye Brown, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Brown, of Tahoka and O. O. Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pierce of Plainview, were married Sunday at Clovis, N. M. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Toughy La Fon.

Mrs. Pierce is a graduate of Tahoka High School, and a popular member of the young set. She has attended Texas Technological three years, and at present is a member of the Joe Bailey school faculty.

Mr. Pierce is an employee of Field Bros., road contractors. He is employed at this time at Floydada, where they will reside.

Geo. Mahon Enjoys Trip To Far East

According to word received in his Washington office, Congressman George Mahon feels that he is having an unusually profitable trip to the Far East. He arrived in Manila on November 8th with the official United States Delegation attending the celebration of the opening of Independence for the Philippine Islands. Mr. Mahon is making the trip at the request of President Roosevelt because of his membership on the Insular Affairs Committee of the House.

The trip is giving him a first hand picture of industrial conditions in the Orient. He is particularly interested in studying and observing conditions in the cotton and textile industries and the relationship of these industries to trade between the United States and the countries of the Far East. He feels that the future of the cotton industry, and correspondingly the economic welfare of West Texas and the entire South, depends to a large extent upon world trade and foreign markets, and that developments in the Far East will be focal points of interest in this problem in the next decade. The trade relations and tariff agreements between the United States and the Philippine Islands will have a different aspect after their independence actually begins and this alone constitutes an important problem that must be worked out by Congress.

The trip has afforded Mr. Mahon an opportunity to become more intimately acquainted with such outstanding leaders of Congress as Vice-President Garner and Senator Connally of Texas and Representative Joseph R. Byrns of Tennessee who is Speaker of the House.

The Congressman will return to his home in Colorado on December 20. He will spend the time before Congress convenes again on January 3 making contacts throughout the District. His office in Washington is being kept open by Lloyd Croslin, his Secretary, who invites the people of the District to contact him when they feel there is any opportunity for the office to co-operate with them.

Funds Raised For Trees On Highway

"We shall begin preparing the soil and making ready to put out your trees some time in December" said W. B. Holden, Jr. when told that Mrs. L. C. Haney and her committee had the money in hand to purchase trees for the paved part of No. 9.

Mr. Holden, who is chief planting foreman of this division of Highway improvement, stated that he is looking after highway planting in 19 counties, and plants out the trees as rapidly as possible during the season.

More Than One Variety To Be Used

To give a more interesting and pleasing effect three kinds of trees will be planted here on highway No. 9, Chinese Elm, Desert Willow, and Russian Olive, and these trees will be planted in groups.

"We want to make the best showing possible with the more than fifty dollars contributed by the business men and women of Tahoka. Their generous response to the good work of the efficient committee from the Luncheon Club inspired all of us to work harder to beautify our Lynn County highways" said Mrs. L. C. Haney, as she turned in the following list of donors and the amount given by each:

Smith Addresses Letter To Friends

To the people of Tahoka and all Lynn County,
Dear Friends:

I am saying just a word before leaving for my new field of work. I greatly appreciate everything you have done for my family and me. You have cooperated with us wonderfully during the past four years. This has made our stay in your midst very pleasant. We appreciate the members of the church which we have served, and we also appreciate the members of the other churches. More than this we appreciate those people who are not members of any church but have befriended us in a great many ways. May the blessings of the Heavenly Father be upon you all.

Rev. C. C. Armstrong, formerly of Panhandle, Texas, will take my place here. Brother Armstrong is a splendid gentleman and an able preacher. You will like him and his fine family. He is my personal friend and I am asking you to give him the same co-operation you have given me. I am getting a promotion and am happy that a strong man is taking my place here. May the new year be one of great progress along every line.

Sincerely,
H. C. SMITH

OUR AAA PROGRAM MUST BE AMENDED

Our AAA program has thus far operated to the general benefit of the farmers of this country as a class. But it has operated to the hurt of many farmers, and especially to the tenant farmers. If the AAA is to be continued it should be amended so as to eliminate its most glaring defects. While there is no doubt but that it has decreased the annual cotton crop and has therefore caused an advance in the price of cotton, yet, on the other hand, it has operated to drive many tenants from the farms and to force them onto the relief rolls.

Any one who doubts this needs but to look around a bit. For instance, in this county, many landlords have discharged their tenants and are operating their farms with tractors and a little hired labor. This is due in large measure to the increased and increasing use of tractors but it is also due in part to the fact that landlords do not find it profitable to rent out their lands for raising broad acres of feed. One man in this county cultivates 8,000 acres of land with tractors and hired labor. Another cultivates 1,600 acres, another 2,560 acres, another 1,280 acres, another 1,920 acres, another 1,280 acres, another about 2,500 acres, and many others smaller amounts. Practically all the tenants have been evicted from all these lands. Most of them have sought employment in our cities and towns and have found none. The inevitable consequence was that they went on relief rolls, many of them.

Most of the landlords have doubtless profited by reason of the Triple A program but many of the tenants have suffered. Not only have they suffered but their eviction from the farms has increased the burdens of the people in caring for the unemployed. This is a situation cause no soreness and leaves no that should be remedied. It is high time that our Government should amend a policy which is driving people from the farms and adding to the horde of the unemployed.

WHY NOT FIFTY-FIFTY?

A few newspapers on the South Plains have been urging the organization of a press Association. It seems that those from that territory who started the West Texas Press Association several years ago are now desirous of another organization of more exclusive territory. The Panhandle Press Association is the oldest regional association in Texas. The annual meeting place of this organization is only an hour or two drive from any town which might be selected for the South Plains meeting. The newspapers on the South Plains are urged to meet with the Panhandle Press next spring, look this organization over, and perhaps the Panhandle folks could be induced to meet at some South Plains town occasionally. It would make a very fine arrangement.—Canyon News.

Possibly this is a good suggestion. If the Panhandle folks would agree to go fifty-fifty with us South Plains folks and meet half the time in our territory, that would suit this editor.

The News believes that it is reasonably patriotic. It is willing and even anxious to help the Government in every good enterprise. But if it published all the facts, information, arguments, appeals, and propaganda sent to it each week by the various departments of our state and federal governments, it would fill all its pages with this matter, and it would be read by possibly one subscriber out of fifty. All these government departments seem to expect the newspapers to publish a lot of this stuff, much of which is pure propaganda, absolutely free of charge, and they never offer any advertising matter whatever to the newspapers. We have been publishing a limited amount of this free stuff and expect to continue to do so, when we feel like it, but we do wish the folks who run the various departments of our state and federal governments would exercise a little common sense in preparing their free copy. Our advice to them would be to boil it down.

Billy Sunday, America's greatest evangelist, died in Chicago the other day. As a lad of 15, The Panhandle heard him speak several times in Joplin, Mo. The only statement that is remembered after a long lapse of years is: "The place for liquor is not in my belly nor in your belly, but in hell."—Panhandle Herald.

WEEKLY PRESS FAVORS ONE-HOUSE PLAN

A number of our weekly exchanges commented last week on the plan proposed by Senator G. H. Nelson for a one-house legislature. Below are a few editorial clippings which will show which way the wind is blowing.

Our new State Senator, Hon. G. H. Nelson is pushing a resolution in the senate to do away with our dual and ponderous legislature, and to have one house with about 42 members. While the Herald has for years advocated some dozen Senators, and perhaps some 24 lower House members, with a salary advised by Mr. Nelson of some $5,000 per annum, and keep them in Austin all the time, we have never considered the one house plan, but really believe it would be best and keep down a lot of conference wrangling. We hope the people will be given a chance to vote on this resolution some time, and if adopted, we will have a better class of representatives at Austin.—Brownfield Herald.

Senator G. H. Nelson of Tahoka introduced a resolution in the legislature last week approving a unicameral legislature. The resolution was promptly killed. Legislators could hardly be expected to legislate themselves out of office. Senator Nelson is thinking ahead of his time. Nebraska is the first state to adopt the unicameral legislature. The experiment will be watched with great interest. If it is a success, the people of other states will demand the change.—Canyon News.

One-House Legislature—Senator G. H. Nelson, of Tahoka, has announced himself in favor of a one-house legislature with a membership restricted to forty-two, and has introduced a resolution in the senate in which he pointed out the advantages of such a change in the state law making body's composition.

When the people of Texas realize how inefficient the present system is, they will readily adopt the unicameral legislature, Senator Nelson believes.

Briefly, some of his arguments for the change to the plan, very similar to that in Nebraska, are as follows:

In England, where the bicameral system was originated, the dual system has been practically abandoned, the House of Lords having been shorn of its authority;

The reason for the dual legislative system no longer exists in Texas, all its members being elected by a direct vote of the people, and there being no privileged persons who by reason of birth are free of taxation, such as was once tolerated prior to the birth of democratic government;

It has been impossible in 100 years in Texas to perfect the bicameral system to preclude the passage of crude and ill-digested laws;

By reason of our legislative system the major part of the laws of the state, especially in matters of major import, are written by free conference committees, which result many times in the passage of, or defeat of laws contrary to the expressed will of the people;

Ill-advised and faulty legislation results from hurried passage of bills in the closing hours of sessions.

There are other arguments presented in the resolution, too, among them being two of more than ordinary import. The present system, Mr. Nelson says, permits shifting and dodging of responsibility to the people which he says will be impossible under a single house legislative arrangement. Further, under the present pay received by a legislator he must seek other means than his office to maintain himself, thereby becoming the prey of private interests which "will and do" conflict with the best interests of the people.

Nelson would set the salary of a legislator at $5,000 per year and require that he give all his time to the job, subject to a call for sessions at any and all times, under proper restrictions.—Floydada Hesperian.

Unicameral Legislature—Senator G. H. Nelson has come out in favor of a Unicameral Legislature. In other words, instead of two bodies as it now exists, he advocates a representative body of 42 members, two elected from each congressional district.

We have always contended that a committee of five well selected men could transact business with greater dispatch and with a more thorough consideration for the task in hand than could a committee of ten. In the five you would have the same proportion of representative sentiment and ideas expressed as there would be in a committee of ten, and with a minimum opportunity for friction.

The same principle can be applied to our legislature. Although unpopular as it will be with the present legislative body, Senator Nelson is advocating a sound movement, and we believe that the people will say so.—Crosbyton Review.

G. H. Nelson, our new Senator elected from this district at a recent called election, to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Arthur P. Duggan, introduced a resolution in the Senate on Wednesday of last week with reference to "Unicameral Legislature." Senator Nelson asked the Senate and House of Representatives to go on record favoring a submission of a constitutional amendment to the people in 1937 for the adoption of a "unicameral legislature." Senator Nelson hit the nail square on the head in this resolution and the people of Texas are rotten ripe for such an amendment. 181 men that make up the membership of the Senate and House is entirely too many men to ever agree on any kind of legislation, whereas 42 men could perhaps come to some kind of an agreement in a much shorter length of time. The expense on the state would be less, a whole lot less. These two present called sessions of the Legislature is going to cost the tax payers at least three hundred thousand dollars, whereas under the Nelson resolution of one house or one legislative body of 42 men it would have cost the tax payers only $210,000 for the entire year and they could meet as often as they wished. We will have more to say about this resolution from time to time.—Lockney Beacon.

Frequently when a lost article is reported, especially if it is a purse containing money, we hear the remark, "Well, that fellow will never hear of that again." If this is really true, it certainly is a sad commentary on the common honesty of our people. Will the ordinary person who finds money deliberately conceal or fail to report the fact and appropriate the money to his own use and benefit? Is the ordinary average person a thief? Many people possibly do not know that the concealment and appropriation to one's own use of money or other personal property that he finds is punishable as theft. And it should be. Any honest person finding money or other personal property will report the same and make some effort at least to find the real owner.

Indians May Have Lived In Northwest Texas Fully Two Thousand Years Ago

The remains of an Indian civilization which existed 2,000 years ago lie buried in North and West Texas, according to Paul H. Billman of Fort Worth, who has spent 30 years excavating Indian relics. Billman bases this belief on the pottery and various stones which he has found in caves, mounds and graves. He says the characteristics of these ancient implements indicate that a race of much higher civilization than that of the Comanches existed. This race, according to Billman, was one of agriculturists and lived in North Texas. They tilled the bottom lands of the Brazos and Trinity rivers. Corn, melons and vegetables were their principal foods, he thinks.

"These people disappeared about 1700 A. D. when the Comanches came South," Billman explained. "Nobody knows what became of them. They were derived from the Aztecs or the Incas of Peru and were not nomadic. The Red River bounded their 'world' on the north. Their dead were buried in a similar fashion to that used by the South American Indians. One of the astounding ancient sites is a mound with a ledge of rocks around it on which are chiseled hieroglyphics of many designs. The old settlers who live near this mound in Stephens county explain it with 'that's where the Indians used to sharpen their arrows.' Near this mound is the altar stone and what was once an amphitheater."

Billman has seen two different parties from Mexico dig for gold at that spot, but they were unsuccessful as far as he knows. The collector expects some day to unearth a skeleton which may be classified and thus learn more of these ancients, who he says had no connection with the Comanches. Billman believes that the Comanches did not know how to make arrowheads and weapons from flint. According to his theory, the Comanches got their arrow-heads just like we get them today—by finding them on the ground. Most of their weapons were made from steel for which they traded with the white man, he says.

"These ancients lived in small villages for the most part, but there is evidence of a large city, which was within a wall of 4 miles square and 30 feet high. This buried city is near Stonewall. In Hood county there are many ancient villages and camp sites and thousands of tons of building stone are scattered around where once stood stone houses. Old residents remember an old arch, which was torn down many years ago by some youngsters. Last year a grave was found near one of these places and it contained the bones of a prehistoric man. The grave was round and about five feet in diameter, and was walled up with flat sandstones. The man had been buried upright with his feet drawn up under his chin. He sat on 147 old and rare arrowheads, a spear head and knife, all made from flint."

Billman's collection was begun when he was 10 years old. He found relics by digging into the mounds on his grandfather's farm near Breckenridge. He now has hundreds of arrowheads, spearheads, fish singeds, plows, war clubs, skinning knives, pestle stones, medicine stones, sewing needles and other pioneer pieces.—Graham Leader.

A new vacuum method of extracting excess water from newly poured concrete is said to increase the strength of the material from 30 to 100 per cent and cause it to harden in about 20 minutes.

Any person or dealer who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be fined in any sum not less than Fifty Dollars nor more than One Hundred Dollars; and each and every day that such ordinance may be violated shall be considered as a separate offense and punishable as such.

The fact that many Transient persons are engaged in the sale of goods, wares and merchandise sold without the payment of a license tax for such privilege, and the further fact that there is no adequate ordinance with said city providing for the levying of such license tax upon transient persons or dealers for the privilege of pursuing such business within said city, creates an imperative public necessity that this ordinance be passed as an emergency measure and said ordinance is therefore passed in open council as an emergency measure by unanimous consent of all members of the City Council and it is ordered that same shall take effect from and after its passage and publication as required by law.

Passed and approved this 13 day of November, A. D., 1935.

Warning Made On Diphtheria

Austin, Texas Oct. 29—The State Health Officer, Dr. John W. Brown, urges all parents of children from 6 months to 10 years of age who have not been immunized against diphtheria, to take them to the family physician and have this done at once. Last month there were 285 cases of diphtheria in Tex. reported to the State Department of Health. This is an increase over the month of August and shows the need of stressing immunization of the children in this age group.

It was not so long ago that parents dreaded diphtheria because of the inability to prevent or cure this scourge. Now that we not only know the cause but also the remedy there is no reason why this disease cannot be completely eliminated.

As diphtheria is most dangerous to the very young children, it is of the highest importance that immunization be given early. What is more, in young children there is practically no reaction to the injection. Immunization has been proven to give absolute protection. It is in the power of the parents of this state, cooperating with their physicians and the health department, to eliminate the disease.

Most children can be protected against diphtheria by a single treatment—with what is known as Toxoid. However, in about six months the child should be given a Schick test to determine if a second treatment is necessary. Early immunization is a routine procedure adopted by modern and up-to-date physicians. Cooperate with your family physician and your community and make early immunization a regular practice in this State.

Another Public Enemy

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

The "Public Enemy No. 1" of our criminal records is growing short-lived. The stern hand of justice, backed by an aroused indignation, makes both brief and inglorious his flash across the front page. As with all transgressors, his way is hard.

But there is another Public Enemy, enjoying a softer, more pampered life. It is Public Debt—national, state and local. Fed and pampered by politicians, it has expanded in girth as the rest of the country pulled in its belt.

In discussing it one must talk big money.

Today, for example, the Public Debt of the United States government exceeds $29,000,000,000. Count in the gross debt of all divisions of government in the country, and the total mounts to many billions more. Among the enemies of the American people it probably ranks No. 1. Why?

Because the public debt, along with its twin—current expenses of government—constitutes a claim on the earnings and the property of every American citizen. Both must be paid. How? By whom?

The answer is simple. By taxes—whether hidden or open—clipped from the earnings of every man or woman who labors, of every family that contributes its strength, its courage and its spirit to the building and preservation of a free, productive America.

This public enemy is an insidious one. He leaves his calling card—the tax bill—with comparatively few of his victims. From the great majority of workers he pliers unsuspected—by increasing the cost of the bread they eat, of the rent bill they pay, of the insurance premium they meet, of the tools and equipment they buy, and of virtually every other necessity in normal, active American life.

For protection against the public enemy who robs us with a gun, we can turn to the police. For relief against the enemy who uses the tax levy, we must turn to the polls, and there elect public servants pledged to the same reasonable economy that the farmer, the business man or the housewife exercises.

America needs the G-man type in public office, as well as in crime prevention.

The German Treasury confiscating $1,000 belonging to the three acquitted defendants in the Reichstag fire trial solely because they are Communists.

Mrs. Larkin Weathers went down to Dallas last week and took the state examination in Accountancy. Mr. Weathers went down Sunday and brought her home. There were many taking the examination, Mrs. Weathers says, but she was the only woman.

Hard to Smile on Milk Diet—Salesman Happy Able to Eat Food Again

"A salesman can't smile on a milk diet, and no smile, no sale!" said C. J. Sutherland, 2410 W. 27th St., North Fort Worth. "For 3 years I had been on a diet of milk and liquids. Indigestion, pain in stomach, heartburn, bloating, made my days miserable and my nights sleepless. My druggist recommended Gordon's Compound. In just two days I saw the first relief in three years. I'm smiling again, for I eat anything I want now, and not a sign of distress. Have gained 10 pounds."
