County League Meet Is Next Week

BIGGEST MAN-HUNT IN PLAINS HISTORY FOLLOWS UP SLAYING

EXPECT CROWD FOR CONTESTS

Annual Meeting Opens Thursday of Next Week; Many Contests Are Scheduled

All roads will lead to Tahoka on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of next week. The county interscholastic league meet will be in session. The school kids will all be here. Their daddies and mamas will be here. The teachers will be here. There will be contests, and contests, and contests. There will be contests in physical strength and endurance. Contest in intellectual strength and alertness.

The athletic contests will have the far greater appeal to the public, but they will be far less important than the mental contests.

While less exciting than physical feats, nothing is more interesting to many of us than the matching of wits by boys and girls, in debate, in declamation, in story telling, and other mental activities.

Yes, scholastic enthusiasm will run high here next week, and thousands of people from the various communities of Lynn county will be here to enjoy the occasion.

We hope that they all have a good time. We wish that all the contestants might win. They will, if they have learned how to take defeat.

So, come on in, folks, and enjoy the sports and the mental gymnastics.

The program will open Thursday night with a series of declamation contests.

Friday morning, beginning at 9 o'clock, there will be contests in spelling, declamation, extemporaneous speech, the three R's, music, memory, tennis, and playground ball.

The afternoon program will be similar to that of the morning but will include debate, choral singing, story telling, picture memory, etc.

A one-act play contest will be given in the high school auditorium Friday night.

All the track and field events will be staged Saturday, and the largest crowds of the Meet are expected on that day.

Laying Caliche On Highway 84

The laying of the first course of caliche on highway No. 84 was begun in Tahoka on Monday of this week. The work started at the Keltner Hotel and is proceeding west. Rather slow progress has been made thus far but the number of trucks hauling caliche has been increased and the work will probably proceed much more rapidly hereafter.

This is a WPA project. It is contemplated that the highway will be hard-surfaced to the Terry county line and eventually to the New Mexico state line. In the course of time, also, the highway will be hard-surfaced eastward to Post.

Boy Scouts Attend Lubbock Honor Court

The Boy Scouts of Tahoka were visitors at the Court of Honor held at Lubbock last Friday night. There were many people present at the meeting, with visitors from towns. After the presentation of badges to the Scouts, Mr. W. C. McMillan entertained with pictures taken by himself in Alaska.

Tahoka Scouts present at the Court of Honor were: C. W. Conway, David Weathers, Carina Reese, Turner Rogers, Max Minor, J. W. Tippit, Finis and Keith Connolly and Herbert Womack. They were accompanied by Messrs. Story, Barrett, Noble and Scoutmaster Kirkwood-Scribe.

School Building Work Progressing

Rapid progress is being made this week on the foundation for the new Tahoka grade school building. Much of the materials are on the ground, excavation work is about complete, and pouring of cement has already started.

Bids are now being advertised for, and contract for the second project of construction—the building itself—will be let at an early date.

Tech Band Will Be Here Monday

The Texas Tech Matador band will appear for a concert in the Tahoka High School auditorium at 10 a. m. Monday, according to a notice received from D. O. Wiley, director, today.

The band is on a tour of West Texas, playing two concerts daily during the six-day trip. The sixty-piece delegation will cover 850 miles, appearing in fourteen West Texas cities and towns.

This is the second annual spring tour of the Matador organization has made. Last year the tour included cities to the north of Lubbock. The band played during the Mother-in-Law Day celebration in Amarillo last spring, when Gov. James V. Alred requested a special number.

For the past two years, the band has accompanied the Red Raider teams to Los Angeles for the Tech-Loyola games. They drew comment from Hollywood and Los Angeles crowds because of their colorful red-and-black corduroy uniforms.

Wiley has worked up a program of marches, overtures, and novelty numbers that promises to make an interesting appearance here. The band is coming under sponsorship of the Tahoka High Band, and a small admission fee of 10 and 25 cents will be charged.

Rev. Sam Morris Will Speak Here

Rev. Sam Morris, for the past four years pastor of the First Baptist Church of Stamford, Texas, known to thousands of radio listeners as "The Voice of Temperance" on radio station XEPN of Eagle Pass, Texas, and who for two years made his home at Tahoka, will visit Tahoka in person next Saturday, March 14th. He will speak here at 4:00 p. m. He has his car equipped with amplifiers.

Rev. Morris will also speak in Brownfield, at the noon hour, at Lamesa at 2 p. m., and will go from here to Slaton, where he will speak at 5:30. He will be in an all day service in the Tabernacle Baptist Church of Lubbock next Sunday.

J. T. Williams Hurt In Fall From Ladder

Mr. J. T. Williams, pioneer merchant at Wilson, fell from a ladder in his store one day last week and broke his hip. He was immediately taken to a Lubbock hospital for treatment, where it was found that the fracture was a bad one. For a time it was feared that Mr. Williams could not survive the injury, however, it is now believed that he will be able to leave the hospital and return to his home within a few days.

On account of his grave condition, his two sons, John Williams of New York City and Webb Williams of Sierra Blanca, came to be at his bedside, and they will remain until his condition is much improved.

Mr. Williams has been prominent merchant of Wilson almost ever since the town was established. He has many friends here who deplore the unfortunate accident and hope for his continued improvement.

CALL ELECTION FOR TRUSTEES

Two Will Be Elected Here; Districts Over County Will Also Have Election April 4

School trustees will be elected in every school district in Lynn county—in fact in practically every school district in Texas—on Saturday, April 4.

There will probably be some heated contests in this county. In many districts, however, the interest will doubtless be negligible.

These are important elections, whether they are attended with excitement or not, and every legal voter should go to his voting box and express his choice on April 4. That choice should be determined, however, not by prejudice nor by merely selfish interest, but by the general welfare of the schools of the various communities.

In the Tahoka Independent school district, two trustees are to be elected, to serve a term of three years.

The terms of Dr. L. E. Turrentine and W. L. Burleson expire in April. It is presumed that their names will be placed on the ballot for re-election, though we have no information on this subject.

Other members of the board are Alvin Hicks, president, H. B. Howland, secretary, and J. W. Howland, treasurer. (Cont'd. on last page)

Calf Show Held Here Saturday

First prize in the second annual 4-H Club and Vocational Agriculture Boys Fat Calf Show here Saturday was won by Floyd Heck of Wilson. Many people viewed with interest the result of these boys' feeding projects.

Eight calves were entered in the show. All the entries will be taken to the Plains Quality Meat Show at Lubbock March 30, 31, and April 1. County Agent V. F. Jones, who sponsored the show, announced.

Other prize winners were: Willard Bennett, New Home, whose calf took second money; James Bennett, New Home, third; T. J. Poindexter, New Home, fourth; Clyde Allen, Lakeview, fifth; and Henry Ahrens, Wilson, sixth.

A purse of $23.00 was made up among the Tahoka business men as premiums for the boys.

R. N. McClain, county agent of Terry county, judged the show.

Burleson's Garage Burned Tuesday

The fire department made a run Tuesday to the home of Bill Burleson, where his garage had caught fire. The blaze was hot extinguished until it had done considerable damage to the building, a frame structure.

PLAYS MONDAY NIGHT

Two one-act plays, "Pink and Patches" and "Dust of the Road", sponsored by Mrs. J. H. Tunnell and Mrs. Anna Ray Edwards, one of which will be entered in the county contest, will be presented at the High School auditorium Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Spruiell, who live two miles north of town, are happy over the birth of a 10-pound boy Monday afternoon. They have named the youngster Franklin D. in honor of the President. Mr. Spruiell says that Roosevelt saved the day for him, and he wants to show his appreciation in every way possible. Here's hoping the youngster grows into a great American.

Mrs. W. H. Thornhill, who has been suffering from high blood pressure, is reported to be much improved, though still confined to her room.

Re-elect Barrett Head Of Schools

At the regular meeting of the school board Tuesday night, Superintendent W. G. Barrett was unanimously reelected to his position for the ensuing year.

He is now serving his first year in this position, and thus far his work has been most satisfactory. The work of the school has proceeded with little friction, and students and patrons alike seem pleased with results.

Mr. Barrett is supported in his work by an excellent faculty.

Name Luncheon Club Directors

The Luncheon Club program Tuesday was given by members of the high school. Principal W. T. Carter being in charge.

The program consisted of a number of patriotic and popular songs and was sponsored by Mrs. Lenore Tunnell. The girls constituting the double quartet who did the singing are: Misses Ola Lee Stevens, Lottie Jo Townes, Dottie Turrentine, Mavis Brasfield, Erma Payne Edwards, Eva Douthit, Mary Margaret Tunnell, and Baby Tot Wetsel. Miss Marjorie Wells was the piano accompanist. The program brought much applause.

In accordance with a committee report, the following gentlemen were named by the club as a board of directors: Rev. Geo. A. Dale, R. W. Fenton Jr., Homer St. Clair, Bill Sewell, Dr. K. R. Durham, L. P. Craft, and Rev. C. A. Armstrong.

J. K. Applewhite, W. S. Anglin and Happy Smith, members of the committee to raise funds to cover the expenses of the Interscholastic Meet to be held here next week, announced that they would get on the job the next day, and on Wednesday they raised $86.00 for this purpose.

W. M. Harris, member of the committee appointed to welcome the visitors at the Meet, also stated that they would function properly. Other members of the committee are Kary Mathis and C. A. Thomas.

Bill Stubbs Resigns As V. Ag. Teacher

Due to bad health, Bill Stubbs, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Tahoka High School, resigned his position on Thursday of last week to accept a position with the Government rehabilitation administration at Amarillo, which involves lighter work.

His resignation was accepted, and the work of this department in the school is being done temporarily by supplies from the Texas Tech.

Mr. Stubbs received a serious injury while playing football several years ago, we are told. Seemingly he had recovered from the injury but recently an affection of some of the vital organs developed and several weeks ago Mr. Stubbs was advised by his physician that it would be necessary for him to avoid all strenuous exercise. It transpired, however, that he was physically unable to undergo the strain involved in teaching. The position to which he goes permits him to sit continuously while doing his work and he believes that he will be able to hold down the job.

16-POUND TWINS BORN

Twin sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hodges residing a few miles east of town on Wednesday night of last week. Each weighed ten pounds, which the attending physician declares is almost a record for twins. The mother and babes are doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Curry are parents of a son born early Tuesday morning at Clark-Key clinic in Lubbock.

JURY COMPLETED THURSDAY FOR TRIAL OF ELMO BANKS; BIG CROWD THROGS CITY THURSDAY; TAKING OF EVIDENCE WILL BE STARTED FRIDAY MORNING AT 9:00 O'CLOCK

Elmo Banks, 43, charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff F. E. Redwine on Friday night of last week, went to trial in district court shortly after 10 o'clock Thursday morning, a little less than six days after the alleged crime was committed. The entire day was spent in the selection of a jury. A venire of 100 men had been summoned and more than half of these were questioned before a jury was procured.

The jury consists of the following named gentlemen: G. G. Aycox of Tahoka, Ed Cook of Wells, Otis Harris of O'Donnell, Douglas Finley of near Wayside Station, Robert Hagler of Southland, Geo. Ingram residing west of Tahoka, Jim Burleson of Tahoka, L. F. Craft of Tahoka, Lee Short of Dixie, Anton Ahrens of Wilson, Brooks Smith of Petty, and T. I. Hammonds of Edith.

Judge J. E. Garland of Lamesa is presiding in the absence of District Judge Gordon B. McGuire, who is sick. The State is represented in the trial by District Attorney Truett Smith and County Attorney C. H. Cain. The Court appointed Hon. Tom Garrard and Hon. B. P. Maddox to represent the defendant.

The taking of evidence will begin at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Crowds jammed the court room all day Thursday, while scores of others, unable to gain entrance, milled around the corridors and up and down the stairways, eager to gain every iota of information as to the progress of the proceedings. Many officers were present to guard against any possible demonstration.

When arraigned in court the big burly negro accused of the crime pleaded not guilty, and he has sat stolidly in his place all day listening to the proceedings, after which he was carried back to Lubbock, under heavy guard for safe-keeping during the night.

Banks' crime was the most heinous and dastardly ever committed in Lynn county.

When Mr. Redwine went up to the jail, which is on the fourth floor of the courthouse, to transfer the negro and two other prisoners from the "run-around" to the cells, the black fiend watched his chances, caught the officer off his guard for a moment, wrested the pistol from Redwine's pocket or his hand, and began firing into his body.

No Eye-Witnesses
Mr. Redwine had just locked two white men in their cells when the assault was made. The cell walls cut off their view and no eye saw the murderous attack except the eyes of the murderer and his victim, but the other prisoners heard the struggle and then the several pistol shots as they rang out in rapid succession. They heard, too, Mr. Redwine beg the negro not to shoot, even while the firing continued.

Possibly taking some shells from Redwine's pocket, the negro turned and fled. Nobody saw him as he ran down two flights of stairs to the first floor above the basement and made his exit into the gathering darkness. Somebody saw his form, however, as he fled across the public square into the open country southward, but it was not known at that time just what had happened.

Jones First To Redwine
Clyde Jones, the janitor, was the only person in the court house when the tragedy occurred. Hearing the shots while down in the basement, Jones ran up the stairs, evidently about the time the negro came down another flight of stairs, and (Cont'd. on last page)

PARKER GIVES THANKS
"Never was there any better cooperation in any undertaking than that given officers in the recent search for the fiend that killed Mr. Redwine," Sheriff B. L. Parker stated to The News.

"I certainly appreciate the spirit of cooperation and willingness of everyone to lend assistance in the search, which made possible catching this criminal. Such a spirit makes law enforcement easier. I want to thank everybody for their wonderful help in the matter."

Candidates File For Aldermen

City Secretary Miss Rosemary Nelms informs us that the following names have been filed as candidates for members of the city council since our report last week: N. C. Rainey, Frank P. Hill, and Borden Davis. Names previously filed were: C. E. Woodworth, Homer St. Clair, and J. L. Heare.

Messrs. Woodworth and Hill declare that they will not permit their names to appear on the ballot, however.

F. E. Redwine, 58, Buried Sunday

Fatally wounded Friday night by bullets fired from his own pistol by a negro prisoner who had wrested the gun from him, an account of which appears in an adjoining column, Deputy Sheriff Ed Redwine died in the Lubbock Sanitarium soon after 3 o'clock Saturday morning.

Funeral services were conducted at the family home here soon after 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. H. C. Smith of Amarillo, former pastor of the Methodist Church here, officiating, assisted by Rev. C. C. Armstrong, the present pastor. Burial was under the auspices of the A. F. & A. M. Tahoka Lodge No. 1041. A number of visiting Masons also participated in the ceremony. Funeral directors, Harris & Applewhite, had charge of the burial arrangements.

The funeral and burial services were attended by undoubtedly the largest crowd that ever attended a funeral in Tahoka. Friends were present from all over the county and many fellow officers from other counties also were present. State highway patrolmen led the funeral procession. The floral offerings were lavish and beautiful indeed.

Born in Clark county, Arkansas, on June 10, 1877, Mr. Redwine was nearly 59 years of age. Thirty-five years of this time was spent in Lynn county. He came to this county in 1901, when there were very few residents in the county, which at that time was still unorganized, being attached to Lubbock county for judicial purposes. Prior to his removal to Lynn county he had worked several years on the Spur Ranch, and for a few years he continued his vocation as a real cowboy in this county.

In 1903 he assisted in the organization of Lynn county. Five years later he was elected tax assessor of the county and served three successive terms. Then he was elected to the office of sheriff and tax collector, 1914, and served two terms, retiring in 1918. He then engaged in the real estate business and prospered. For the past few years he had been serving as deputy in the office of Sheriff B. L. Parker. Fair and accommodating, Mr. Redwine was an efficient and popular official and few men in Lynn county had as many friends as he.

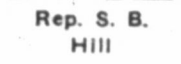

The year 1908 not only marked his first election to a county office, but it was also the year in which he married, the young bride being Miss Louvesta Gray. The happy event occurred on September 13, 1908. To this union were born five children, three sons and two daughters, as follows: Jewell, Norvell, F. E. Jr., Winston, and Elwaine, the latter now being Mrs. Gaussoin, all residing here except Mrs. Gaussoin. (Cont'd. on last page)

New Tax Program Stirs Hot Debate—Black's Seizure of Telegrams—Norris Dam Is Completed—Italo-Ethiopian Peace Draws Nearer.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union

CONGRESSMAN SAM B. HILL of Washington and his subcommittee of the house ways and means committee took up the heavy task of determining how the new revenue of $1,137,000,000 called for by President Roosevelt should be raised. Treasury officials recommended that an average tax of 33 1/2 per cent should be levied on undivided corporation profits and a tax of 90 per cent on all refunded or unpaid AAA processing taxes. In this the fiscal experts followed the suggestions of Mr. Roosevelt. They told the subcommittee that the proposed corporation surplus tax would yield the government $620,000,000 annually. The President has estimated that this amount will be needed to finance the new farm program and the soldier bonus.

Rep. S. B. Hill

The so-called "windfall" tax on processors who successfully challenged the AAA in the courts, it was believed, would yield another $200,000,000. This will be used to reimburse the treasury for losses suffered as a result of the Supreme court's invalidation of AAA. There remains an additional $317,000,000 which it is proposed to raise through excise taxes on a wide range of farm processors.

Chairman Hill said the experts and the members of the subcommittee were agreed that the tax on undivided surplus should not apply to banks and life insurance companies. There was wide divergence of opinion concerning this tax among leaders in congress. Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, Democrat, for instance, declared himself against it as an unnecessary additional burden on business, and indicated he would support, instead, a plan to tax the income from federal securities now exempt. Senator Borah, Republican, said that in principle he endorsed the plan of taxing undistributed earnings, while Senator Hastings of Delaware, also Republican, denounced it as "confiscatory." Senator King of Utah, Democrat, and Representative Knutson of Minnesota, Republican, were moved by the program to demand immediate cutting down of federal expenditures, and in this Mr. Borah concurred. Speaker Joseph W. Byrns and Majority Leader W. R. Bankhead professed to see no difficulties in the way of the proposed measure.

One thing that boosted the chances of the President's tax program was a report from Secretary of Commerce Roger that corporation income in 1935 was 300 per cent higher than in 1932. IN THE course of his probe into the affairs of enemies of the New Deal, Senator Black of Alabama, chairman of the lobby committee, assumed the right to seize and examine their private telegrams, and thus his investigation was carried into the courts. Silas Strawn, Chicago attorney learned the committee was about to subpoena his telegrams and he obtained a temporary injunction blocking such action. He has asked the District of Columbia Supreme court to make this injunction permanent. The wholesale examination of telegrams was attacked by Representative Wadsworth of New York, and defended by Senator Black. "It strikes me," Wadsworth said, "that we have reached a strange stage in the development of democracy when private correspondence can be seized without court procedure or search warrant."

Black said: "Happarently it has been held that the senate can call for what it pleases. There appears to have been a concerted effort by those who seek to influence legislation behind the scenes, through subterranean channels, to prevent us from getting evidence."

GOVERNOR LANDON'S boom for the Republican Presidential nomination is progressing in a way that must be pleasing to his supporters. Kansas Republicans in a state convention pledged him the state's 18 delegates to the Cleveland convention, declaring him to be "the best-fitted candidate." That Kansas should support its governor is natural and expected, but he also is garnering a good many delegates elsewhere, and Indorsement in some states where the delegates are uninstructed. Sentiment favorable to Landon appeared in New Jersey, and Hervey S. Moore of Trenton, a Republican leader, was contemplating starting an active campaign for him in that state.

ON THE third anniversary of his inauguration President Roosevelt pushed an electric key in the White House which set in motion machinery that closed the sluice gates of the Norris dam in the Tennessee Valley project. This signalized the completion of that part of the vast work on the Clinch river. "I hope as many people as can will go to see the Norris dam in eastern Tennessee," the President said in a formal statement. "It exemplifies great engineering skill, high construction efficiency, and, above all, it is the key to the carefully worked out control of a great river and its water spread over parts of seven states."

"The Norris dam is a practical symbol of better life and greater opportunity for millions of citizens of our country. The nation has come to realize that national resources must not be wasted and the Norris dam is evidence that our program for conservation of these resources is going forward."

SENATOR BORAH and Senator Vann of Indiana, the latter a Democrat, introduced a bill directed against certain practices of the chain stores. The measure would make it unlawful for any person engaged in commerce to grant any discount, rebate, allowance or advertising service charge to a purchaser over that available to the purchasers' competitors. It also would prohibit sales "at prices lower than those exacted by said person elsewhere in the United States for the purpose of destroying competition or eliminating a competitor."

Co-operative associations would be exempted from provisions of the measure. Violators would be subject to a $5,000 fine and a one-year jail sentence. The so-called Robinson-Patman anti-monopoly bill, also aimed at chain stores, will be passed by the senate before very long, according to a promise made by Senator Robinson to a mass meeting of 1,500 independent merchants who went to Washington to lobby for the measure. This bill legislates against special prices, rebates, advertising allowances and brokerage fees giving sales advantage to chain stores.

THROUGH its committee of thirteen the League of Nations appealed to Benito Mussolini and Emperor Haile Selassie to consent to immediate negotiations for an end to hostilities and a definite re-establishment of Italo-Ethiopian peace. Though consideration of the proposal by his cabinet council was delayed a few days, Mussolini, according to advices from Rome, was disposed to acquiesce provided territory in Ethiopia already occupied by Italy is considered hers and left out of the negotiations.

Haile Selassie accepted the proposal without reservation. In recent days his armies in the northern sector have been routed in big battles and have lost many thousands of men, and the Italians have penetrated far toward the interior of the country; and in the South the invaders were preparing for a rapid advance. Back of the league's appeal was the standing threat of extension of sanctions to include an embargo on oil. This suddenly brought about a situation rather disconcerting for the league. Dr. Giuseppe Motta, Swiss foreign minister, gave a warning that if the oil embargo was applied his country might feel it necessary to leave the league in order to preserve its neutrality if the consequent threatened war in Europe resulted. Motta pointed out that if Italy quit the league and hostilities ensued, Switzerland, through her membership in the league, would appear in Italian eyes as a party to a hostile coalition, and would be subject to invasion, by Italy on one side and perhaps by Germany on the other.

BRITAIN'S government evidently believes another war is coming, and intends to be well prepared. It made public a gigantic program for increases in the army, navy and air forces and for swift mobilization of man power and industry. No official cost estimate was given out but authorities said the total over a three-year period would be not less than one and a half billion dollars. The program includes these features: Army—Four new battalions of infantry are planned. All units are to be modernized, mechanized, and re-equipped. Special attention will be paid coastal and anti-aircraft defenses. Navy—Two new battleships next year and an increase in cruiser strength from 50 to 70, with five new ones to be laid down this year. Naval personnel also will be increased by 6,000, a new aircraft carrier will be constructed, and the air arm of the navy will be strengthened.

Air Force—About 250 new war planes will be added to the home defense squadrons, bringing the total to 1,750. Twelve new air squadrons for imperial defense—that is, air forces available for transfer to danger areas—will be added, and more pilots will be recruited. Following this announcement the annual naval estimates were submitted to parliament. They call for $349,050,000, an increase of $40,400,000 over the previous year.

Pretending Costs Money
A Japanese Widow
The Five Babies Are Well
Democratic Edward VIII
Even imitation war is costly. England's battleships, submarines and airplanes in the Mediterranean, intended to intimidate Italy and keep down discontent in Egypt, represent no real war.

Arthur Brisbane

England occasionally discharges light "depth bombs" in the Mediterranean, "bringing it all in a submarine popping like corks to the surface." Yet the government tells the house of commons this imitation war costs British taxpayers five hundred thousand pounds a month.

The twenty-four-year-old widow of a Japanese officer who committed suicide after the recent rebellion sends a letter of apology to "Your august majesty," the Japanese emperor, saying: "I believe the spirit of my husband, whose body lies in a coffin before me, also sorrows for those who fell."

A most serious people, the Japanese, particularly where their emperor is concerned. Doctor Dufoe, modest man from Canada, who understands quintuplets, dropped in to say the five little girls are doing well, fighting frequently, sign of a normal condition. They like sleeping outdoors with the weather 30 below zero, but in daytime only. It would delight you to see their red cheeks.

Three hundred and seventy-five thousand visitors, nearly all from the United States, came to look through a fence at the quintuplets last year; 500,000 are expected this year. The baby girls are a wonderful advertisement for Canada. Many that go to see them will buy farms and stay.

A democratic young person is Edward the Eighth, new king of England and emperor of India. Broadcasting to 200,000,000 that live under the British flag and occupy one-quarter of the earth's surface, he does not refer to them as "my subjects" or "my people," as his predecessors did, but calls them "fellow men."

And Edward VIII does not refer to himself as "we," which is customary with other rulers. His father spoke of "my empire" and "my dear people" and called himself "we."

President Roosevelt submits to congress a plan to increase heavily income taxes of corporations suspected of holding many billions of profits not distributed. The taxes might run to over 33 per cent.

You never can tell what Wall Street will think. President Roosevelt's tax-ation program sends stocks up. Perhaps Wall Street has no "undistributed reserves." Great industries will not be forbidden reasonable cash surpluses, presumably. Such a rule would make expansion and increased employment impossible.

A joint resolution in the house and senate suggests a congressional medal of honor for the late Gen. William Mitchell, head of the American air forces in the big war. Few congressmen would vote against a tribute to a man who fought so well for his country, and the medal would please his widow and children.

If congress wants to honor the memory of General Mitchell as he would wish, it will build more airplanes and lead the world in aviation instead of trailing.

Uncle Sam paying rent to Panama for the canal, offering the usual $250,000 rent installment, was told: "No, we do not take 50-cent dollars."

Washington admits that while it may try interesting experiments with its own money, and tell its own citizens "Gold is too good for you," it has no right to make the outside world suffer. Panama will get an amount of money equal to 250,000 of our dollars before we sell off the gold basis and into the "inflation bond" era.

Sometimes government ownership gets things done. Germany's postal ministry opens the first, long-distance television-telephone in the world, between Berlin and Leipzig—the charge for three minutes only $1.40. When you call up, a "strong, bluish light" illuminates your face, which is seen by the person at the other end of the line. That would have been, improbable when telephones were installed in the big Paris exposition, not so long ago.

Four years ago the Lindbergh child was kidnapped. Bruno Hauptmann, convicted of the kidnaping and murder, caught spending the marked gold certificates that Lindbergh paid in a vain effort to get back his child, is still alive. It is said that he will have another reprieve. Our system of justice is not hasty.

Speaking of Gov. Landon

True Facts About Kansas Situation; Make Hagood Case Political Issue

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON.—The strongest Republican in the field today, according to polls which attract attention here, is Alfred Landon, governor of Kansas. Next in line is Senator Borah, and after that the field struggles out, with Teddy Roosevelt, the son of a former President, so far in the rear that one cannot see him even with a spy glass. This is no prediction that Landon will be nominated because the Republican party rarely nominates its strongest man. His position in the field is based upon the reputation he has been given for balancing the Kansas budget; and undoubtedly he will be put forward for several weeks to come as the man who will save the country from bankruptcy. His endorser will point with pride to stalwart Kansas and its balanced accounts, no debts and what-nots. This plain, soft-spoken Kansan, who shrinks from public speech, will pretty soon be riding on the sort of ballyhoo which will make him a Napoleon of public finance, so we might as well learn now what the situation is in Kansas.

Landon is no slouch of a governor; but it is the state constitution which prohibits Kansas from running into debt without specific public authority. Then, there is a state budget law which was no work of Mr. Landon's, but rather the work of his Democratic predecessor, Harry Woodring, now the assistant secretary of war in Washington. Then, there has been that thing which could well be paralleled in every other state—a general co-operative movement for economies on the part of local and state officials from mayors on to the governorship. This was not a political move—just a common sense idea on the part of Americans of both parties.

In general, the facts are that Governor Landon has no copyright on Kansas economy. He did not do all these wonders by himself, but has been borne along on the general idea of "pay as you go," which is the character of the policy of the people of Kansas at this time. Of course, it must be remembered that Landon managed to pay the relief bills of Kansas by money he got from the federal government at Washington. This included many millions of dollars of federal money which paid for public works and fed many hungry Kansans without being a burden on the state. It is not difficult to be economical with other people's money.

FARLEY CONFIDENT

I do not know what readers of this column thought about my recent analysis of the political situation and President Roosevelt's chances for reelection, but "Jim" Farley does not think so much of it. He says I am too conservative, and "Jim," as you know, will run the campaign for Roosevelt's reelection. Farley predicts that Roosevelt will have as great a victory as he did when first elected. He claims that Roosevelt will carry New York and Pennsylvania, basing his New York claim on the regularity of the Democratic machine, and basing his Pennsylvania claim on the strong pro-Roosevelt move among the coal miners and other union workers. He says: "Roosevelt will beat Landon in the state of Kansas and seems to believe, as I do, that Landon is now the leading Republican candidate. Pennsylvania die-hard Republicans in business, in the legislature and on the bench are doing everything possible to irritate the working classes; and there seems to be some justification for Farley's aspirations toward the old Republican Keystone state."

THE CASE OF HAGOOD

There is always an explanation when the army or navy cracks down on some talkative officer and tells him to let the President run the government. Now and then some brave officer goes before the public with a recommendation for the betterment of the service, and if he is in opposition to the policy of the general staff he is likely to be hauled over the coals, court-martialed, and sometimes taken off the job. Many times this seems like censorship, or gagging, or like some form of Fascism; yet this country sticks to the idea that the army and navy should stay out of politics and public affairs. Otherwise we might have a situation where the armed forces take too much interest in politics—as in Japan.

Now comes Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, commanding an area in Texas, who went before the appropriations committee of the house of representatives, and delivered himself of several rather second-grade, smart-aleck remarks about the administration's relief policy. Result: The opposition press played them up, and in a few days Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staff of the army, recalled General Hagood from Texas, relieved him of all duty, and sent him home to South Carolina. (At $8,000 a year for doing nothing.)

This sort of thing has happened previously, and always the opposition press seizes on the episode and magnifies it as a case of persecution of a brave and outspoken officer. The case of General Hagood is no exception, but from reading the public prints one would imagine that all previous martyrdom had been outdone. The routine army order removing General Hagood followed army regulations adopted when William Howard Taft was secretary of war. It is now exhibited as a gag fashioned by this administration, which is charged with pursuing "a reign of terror against all critics."

POLITICAL ISSUE

The Republican party intends to make a political issue out of this army order, which places a talkative army officer in the corner, but Hagood has been talking out of turn for years, according to General Craig. The Republicans lead off with a bombastic speech from the leader of their congressional campaign committee, Senator Hastings of Delaware, a man of no great or special talent, but a DuPont product. If Hastings had good sense he never would have started this attack upon the administration over the Hagood affair, because it was none other than Senator Hastings himself who was the chief persecutor of the late Gen. William Mitchell, the man driven out of the army under Republican auspices for criticizing the army's air policy. When Coolidge was President, General Mitchell spoke out in public and was court-martialed, degraded, and forced to resign his commission. He had done no more than to try to arouse public opinion behind a move to better the army's air force—something which is now being done. He wore more distinguished service medals than any other man in the army, and it is now agreed that he knew whereof he spoke.

At that time the Republicans hounded him out of office, while the Democrats made him a martyr. When Democrats tried to bring up a bill in the senate to wipe out the heavy disgrace which had fallen upon General Mitchell, it was this same Senator Hastings who blocked the move. And how Senator Hastings was jibed about that matter in the senate, when he tried to paint Hagood as a much abused man.

MAKE THEM PAY

I told you about the "legalized steal" by which several industries feathered their nests by grabbing the processing taxes restored by the courts, and then not returning them to the public. Well, Roosevelt played a neat trick on those fellows when he suggested a heavy "windfall tax" to penalize industries which are making excess profits with this public money. The government budget would balance, (and did balance on January 6) had not congress enacted the "Pay-It-Now" bonus law, and had not the Supreme court overturned AAA, restoring the processing taxes. Therefore, to balance the budget money must be raised by taxes to meet those circumstances; and it must be remembered that congress alone has the responsibility for the bonus.

As to who should pay the extra taxes, there is no doubt in President Roosevelt's mind. He thinks that the concerns which profited by this "legalized steal" which Roosevelt calls a windfall, should pay an extra tax. He figures they should be charged about $150,000,000 all told—and this would be about one half the money of the $300,000,000 returned to them. It seems like retroactive, swift justice, and we are wondering in Washington whether the administration can get away with it. The packers' and millers' lobbies will swarm on congress, and scare that body to death. Those politicians are already shaking with fright over the idea of raising taxes in a campaign year, and yet it was congress itself which ordered the bonus to be paid now. Roosevelt, you will remember, vetoed the bonus because he knew there was no money to pay it. The packers' and millers' lobbies will take advantage of this panicky feeling on the part of these congressional politicians, and say cut down the tax bill to about one-half the size needed.

"SOAK-THE-RICH" TAX

Before the issue of taxes is beclouded with misstatements, it may be worth while to examine the one tax on which the higher income people are protesting. This is called the "soak-the-rich" tax.

Now the rich are not soaked very much in the new income tax law. For instance, there is no increase on any incomes under $50,000 a year. On net incomes of $50,000, the tax is only $90 more than last year—certainly not enough to cry over. On incomes of $80,000 there is an added tax of $775, and on an income of $100,000 a year, this year's tax will be $1,875 more than last year. The rate of taxation increases slightly and equably until the income of $5,000,000 a year is reached, and beyond that there is no further gradation.

The man who has to worry along on half a million dollars a year will pay about $40,000 more than he paid last year. The men with these tremendous incomes of a million dollars a year or more will have to pay a little more than ever before; but there will still be left to them enough hundreds of thousands to keep the wolves from the door.

Now the real test of tax burden is found in the population figures. The people in the income classes I have outlined above divide up into about 36,000 families which had an aggregate income of ten billion dollars last year; which is exactly the same as the total income of eleven million other families in the United States with less than $1,500 a year. The New Deal will never be completely a New Deal until the American people establish a security program which will give a few more benefits to that huge class which now have so little money to go around.

"Yep. I wouldn't let myself resent it, feel that I was out of luck falling in love with a man I couldn't have. If you hadn't done that you'd have married one of those fellows in the office. Did you ever think of that?"

"She was in the deep leather chair, watching him seriously."

"I suppose that's so."

"It's so of every woman like you; it has to be so. You were young in lots of ways, old in lots of ways, eager and impulsive and mad to live. You just had to run your head into something."

"I wonder," Tony said, frowning faintly, looking away.

"You changed for Larry; you grew up. You were well, like those pictures in Bendy's book, when you first met him. You grew older and wiser and lovelier."

"And better and more beautiful?" Tony suggested in the pause.

"You know it's true. You're one of the successful women of San Francisco now. You're certainly one of the loveliest."

"Joe," Tony began, after a pause. He flung down an armful of logs. "Shoot."

"Do you suppose a person ever could come to be glad of—of anything like that—like what hurt me and humiliated me and made me hate myself and every one else?"

"I think," Joe said, standing panting on the hearth, looking down at her. "I think that just one of the things one might be glad of."

"A la Browning," Tony suggested. "Then welcome each rebuff that turns earth's smoothness rough?"

"Exactly—a la Browning. And a la every one who ever really grew up. Larry's never really grown up, you know, and neither has Caroline."

Tony was not listening. Her eyes, fixed in reluctance and apprehension, were looking straight through the eastern windows toward the stretch of farm road that curved to the highway a mile away.

"Company!" she exclaimed disgustfully.

"Oh, hell," Joe said simply.

"And I don't know that car, and I don't recognize that man who's driving—"

"It's a chauffeur—there's a man and woman in the back—damn!" Joe said, looking over her shoulder. They turned toward the terrace door and together went out to meet the visitors in the car.

"It's Larry," Tony said then. "Larry and Caroline." She dropped a suddenly cold hand to meet Joe's, warm and hard and waiting. "I'm in for it now!"

The newcomers descended; there was a little laughing confusion of hand-clapping and kissing on the terrace. Larry was heavier than he had been, Tony thought, but as handsome and brown, as shrewd of gray eyes as ever; Caroline was at the peak of her exotic and startling beauty. In dashing black and white, with a great scarf tied under her chin, gauntlets with flaring cuffs, a great silver fox skin linked about her shoulders, and a hat about six weeks in advance of the mode on her satin black hair, she instantly made Tony, in her brown pumps and pleated skirt and sweater, feel like a little girl.

"Tony, look to find you here!" Larry said. "I was going to ring you up tomorrow."

Did he mean it? Or was he just a little confused? Tony could not tell. She was only overwhelmingly conscious that the dreaded moment had come; she was speaking to Lawrence Bellamy again.

"You didn't let us know!" she stammered.

"You must both lunch with us tomorrow," said Caroline.

"When'd you get in, Larry?" This was Joe.

"Just this morning. We hadn't been in an hour before we thought of coming down here. I tried to telephone, but they said you couldn't be reached by telephone."

"I have one, though. But it's not in the book."

"Joe, what's this about Rio?" demanded his sister.

"Oh, they want me to go down there for three years for the Foundation. It's a plop of a chance."

"And are you going? Let's not let him, Tony!"

"It's a wonderful chance," Tony said. "But let's stop freezing out here and get warm!"

They all went in to the fire; Larry sent the driver away with careful instructions.

"Get your dinner at the hotel, and come back—at nine. Joe, you can give us dinner?"

"Can we, Tony?"

"Joe, we're buried in food. We've ham, we've enchiladas, we've alligator pears."

"Oh, fine!" Larry said. He gripped their hands in a hearty, happy manner. "He can't always have been like this!" Tony thought. "Tony, Joe," he said. "It seems good to get back and hear your voices again and have Tony planning for meals! Meals seem to be your fate, Tony."

"Don't they?"

"And how are you all—your aunt, and Cliff and Brenda?"

"All flourishing. My brother Bruce has a political job in Sacramento now, and he stays up there. Cliff's married, you know, and they have a baby girl. Bendy has two boys, and feels that she ought to write a book to tell other mothers how babies should be raised."

"And when'd you come down, Tony?" asked Caroline.

"Joe picked me up at Bendy's this morning. There was a big Red Cross thing yesterday, and I had to do it."

"And how's the old city office?"

"Just the same. The same old story. Typewriters clicking, and the boys washing themselves and dripping all over their collars, and Betsy Ross mooning about some murderer's little gray wistful-eyed mother."

"You doing signed stuff?"

"Three or four times a week. And I run a woman's page; we have two new girls in the office now, both Stanford graduates."

"I'm going round there tomorrow."

"Are you going to have your office again upstairs?"

"It all depends. Caroline hates San Francisco."

"Yes, but Caroline doesn't necessarily have to stay there. I think Joe and I could have a very nice time in Rio," Caroline said for herself. "You can see us off?"

"You've only been married five months!" Joe observed innocently.

"Five months or five minutes," Caroline said. "Larry can't expect me to sit up there alone in the Fairmont while he runs his old newspaper?"

"She likes to pretend she's jealous," Larry said, with a little laugh that was not quite easy.

"I don't like to pretend anything of the kind," Caroline retorted warmly. Tony perceived, with a sense of shock, that there was more in this than met the eyes. Some earlier quarrel was lending depth to this one. "I say seriously that I'd like to go to South America with Joe, if he'll take me," Caroline said, adding with a coquettish laugh, "Phil Polhemus is down there!"

"Well, we'll discuss it later," Larry put in, temporizing, as she paused, looking evenly at her brother. And Tony saw the dark angry red come up under his skin.

She went out into the kitchen, when Caroline went upstairs, and began the familiar inspection of icebox and cupboards. Wood crackled in the stove, and Tony, dodging the green thick smoke as she put back the iron plate, found Larry beside her.

"This is a lot of fuss, our staying."

"Oh, no, it's not, truly! We thought Cliff and Mary Rose might come. All I'm doing—" Tony said, bringing forth a half-consumed ham, and hunting in a a table drawer for her longest knife. "All I'm doing is to reheat the enchiladas and cut the ham, and—let's see, heat up biscuits, and open plum jam, and make a salad."

Larry was not listening, and she knew he was not. He said in a low tone, "Tony, how are you?"

"Perfect!" she told him, smiling.

"No, but I mean—how are you?"

"The little intimate significance did not escape her, but there was no hint of fluctuation in her steady wide-open blue eyes."

"Happy!" she told him, with a nervous shroud of laughter.

"I'm glad," he said in a low tone, with his narrowed gaze keenly fixed on her. "Do you realize that it is more than two years since we have seen each other?"

"Two and a half, almost," Tony agreed. "It was spring."

"You know I was very ill!"

"Joe told me. Caroline wrote him, you know. And when I would come down week-ends, he'd tell me."

"You and he have become great friends, haven't you?"

"Joe and I? There's nobody like him," Tony said, smiling. Her brown hands went on steadily slicing the firm plunk ham; she lifted each slice on her knife and laid it evenly on the blue dolphin platter.

"How well do you like him, Tony?"

"Oh, tremendously!"

"And are you going to marry him?" Larry asked.

Her eyes clouded, and she gave him a dubious look, slowly shaking her head. "No," she said.

"Then may I say something to you, Tony?—because I have an opportunity now and may not have another. May I say that I'm terribly—terribly sorry?"

"I know what you mean," Tony said, her bright eyes fixed steadily on his, the color coming up quickly under her clear brown skin.

"Of course you know what I mean. Of course you know, and I know, what we meant to each other. I and been ill, I was badly shaken by Ruth's death, Caroline was right there—"

Larry said. And as her eyes narrowed uncomfortably and she made a gesture of restraint he went on. "My dear Tony, this is no disloyalty. Caroline and I hadn't been married six weeks, hadn't been married six days before we both knew that it was a mistake. We'd been drawn into it—lulled into it; you know what the circumstances were. There in that little place, with Ruth's mother dying, nurses there, the doctor coming every day, we lived as much alone as if we'd been on an island. I thought—she'd told me that she cared for Phil Polhemus; we'd seen him out in China. I never thought of myself at all—"

"And then only a few days after Ruth's death she told me—told me that I had been the one always—even in the early days of Ruth's first knowing me, when Caroline was a child. She said we would go to Paris, enter the said, that that was why she had refused Phil."

"I rather thought that it was something like that," Tony said, in the pause.

The man followed her, a little awkwardly, to the table, and sat down facing her across it. Tony had a soup plate before her; she began the concoction of a salad dressing, pouring oil, measuring vinegar, occasionally tasting the mixture on the tip of her finger.

"Tony," Larry said, "if I had come straight back, after Ruth's death, would you have been waiting for me?"

"You know I would," Tony answered, with a full, steady look.

"I failed you," Larry muttered, looking away. "Caroline's interest in clothes—men—" he said. There was a pause.

"Oh, yes! Did Caroline get her chinchilla coat?" Tony asked cheerfully, ending it. The man looked up in surprise.

"How do you mean?"

"Caroline used to say that if ever she married again the first thing she'd make her husband buy her would be a chinchilla coat."

"Our marriage was a mistake—we both see it now," Larry said, paying no attention. It's all like a dream—a bad dream."

"But you don't mean, Larry, that you and Caroline—already are thinking of a break?"

"I've come back here to work," he said doggedly. "She says she despises San Francisco society and hates the West. Her heart is set now on going to Rio with Joe—you heard her just now. I can't go; I don't want to go. I want to stay here and dig into my job." He looked up, and his dark face brightened with the smile she remembered so well, Larry's masterful, slow smile. "And now and then take you to lunch," he said.

Instead of smiling in return she slowly shook her head, her face very sober.

"No, no more of that! That's what I paid for so dearly, Larry, knowing that you belonged to her—to Ruth, and pretending that I had any right."

"Isn't caring for each other a right?"

"I thought so then. I'm older now. I see things differently now."

"You're changed," he said. "In all the lovely ways lovelier, and in so many other ways changed. You're—definite, now. You're—outstanding, Tony. I don't ask you to forgive me. I was confused with the suddenness of everything—I was changed, too—from my illness. Everything at home seemed far away and dreamy; and the only realities were the villa, and the hot sun, and Caroline all in white being tremendously helpful and kind—the one lovely living thing in all our lives! Can't you understand?"

"I do understand," Tony said. "And I think," she added almost timidly, "I think you admire Caroline more than you think you do, Larry. It seems to me, now, since you are married—since you did marry so—so soon—"

"So soon after Ruth's death. Yes, we both feel that; we both feel that for that very reason we have no right to separate," he conceded, as she hesitated. "But it was one of those things that could only have taken place in exactly that way. If we had waited three or four months after Ruth's death, it never would have happened."

Tony dipped her little fingertip into the salad dressing, tasted it, narrowed her eyes.

"But you are not always unhappy, Larry?"

"Not always. At base there's something that holds us together. Only she's quarrelsome, Tony, and jealous."

"I see the jealousy."

"She's intensely jealous of you," the man said.

"Of me? It seems to me the shoe ought to be on the other foot."

"But she knows, of course, how I felt—how I feel for you."

"I wonder how Caroline would have felt if all Ruth's money hadn't been involved?" Tony asked idly.

"It wasn't all Ruth's money," Larry reminded her quickly. "She wrote Joe of the legacies."

"And Joe got a splendid slice, and Joe's the one that ought to have it, too," Tony said. "He helps so many people. There's no end to Joe's goodness!"

"And yet you can't love him? Tony, Tony, Tony, how blind I've been! It's sickening," Larry said, with a rueful smile, "to have had—to have had all the difficulties in one's life that I had to meet, and to have felt, as I did feel, that if I ever were free I could make my own destiny so wonderful, so happy, and then to have had my chance and instantly thrown it away."

"And Yet You Can't Love Him."

"Were you terribly young when you married Ruth, Larry?"

"Twenty-one."

"A boy."

"That was all."

"And did you love her?"

"I admired her tremendously. She was a great horse-woman, you know, and she had a splendid stable. I remember thinking her glorious, galloping along those lanes in autumn, and telling her men in the stables what to do with this fine horse and that. Yes," he said, with the thoughtful expression she liked best of all on his handsome face, "I always loved Ruth. Not—but then there are different ways of loving. I think she never had any misgivings. I think she was never anxious, until you came along, and everything got out of hand."

"That's the thing I find it hard to forgive myself."

"One can't always help those things, Tony. We didn't—after all, we didn't—what shall I say?—betray her."

"Not in actual fact, no, I didn't," Tony said in a lighter tone, as she rose to carry her salad dressing to the table. "I didn't surrender. There were times—" She smiled at him over her shoulder.

"But we didn't," she said. "I remember praying about it, hanging on to my code until my fingernails were hurt torn out. But I'm glad now—every woman is glad afterward when she remembers."

Coming back, she sat down at the table with idle hands, looking at him frankly.

"For that part—fire and flame and breathlessness and not eating your dinner and lying awake all night—that part isn't the important part, is it? It never has lasted, it never will."

"Couldn't it?" the man asked, a dark flush on his face, his voice low.

"No, for it isn't the right, the wise and true part," Tony answered. "And for the rest, Larry, seriously, seriously, haven't you and Caroline a great deal in common? Haven't you two more in common than you and I ever could have had? You like dinners—chinchilla coats—"

"I despise dinners. I despise chinchilla coats!"

"If you two had a handsome apartment in San Francisco, entertained a good deal, were in on opera nights and polo meets—"

"What are you talking about?" the man asked almost roughly. "You're not—you're surely not trying to—trying to persuade me that Caroline and I are rightly married? I tell you it was one of those impulsive, stupid things that men and women only do when they've lost their bearings, when they've been under a heavy strain. A week later—we were in Paris then—we both accused suddenly to wake up, to come back to our old point of view. We said then, 'We must make a go of this, we've drawn the attention of all our world to our marriage, we can't confess failure!' But from that moment to this we've never thought alike, we have nothing in common, we are only making each other miserable!"

Tony looked at him speculatively.

"I noticed the gray hair, Larry."

"That began when I was ill. Oh, Tony, if I could only go back the last eight months and have it all to live over again! It was so simple—so easy, just to bring Ruth's mother home and to come out here to you! But it seemed to be a time when I had to plunge madly ahead—dizzy with freedom, perhaps, feeling that now I could do anything, travel, buy a country place, have horses, do all the things that of late years hadn't interested her—"

"And within a few weeks Caroline and I were somehow engaged, and even then I wasn't taking it all seriously; even then I didn't realize that she was in earnest. We had said at first that of course we would wait the whole year—then she began to—well, and I did, too—I'm not blaming anyone but myself. We were there at the villa, with everything to settle, discuss, decide, and since we were going to be married some day, why not at once, and quietly, and not tell anyone for six or eight months?"

"Larry," Tony said seriously, "you don't have to tell me. Nobody knows better than I how easily one can do a thing in one mood and wonder about it in another."

It was the first touch of anything like sympathy, like tenderness she had shown him, and he grasped at it eagerly.

"Tony, only promise me this: if whatever the complications of the next year are, whatever Caroline and I decide to do, you'll be my friend. I may have your friendship, mayn't I, Tony? You and I may see each other, and talk things over, and go back to the old days when we used to go to lunch at one and talk until half-past three?"

"I don't like to remember those days," Tony said, smiling. And in the silence Joe put his head in at the door and asked: "Do we eat in here?" and her talk with Larry was over. The door between the living room and the kitchen was opened, and Caroline and Joe began to set a table in by the fire. Larry took the big leather chair and sat there staring at the flames, and occasionally putting a word into the desultory talk.

"What'll you do with this piece, Joe, if you go to Rio?" he asked.

"Leave it just as it is. Turn the key in the door."

"What about the dog?"

"Oh, he goes!" Tony said quickly.

"Any more talk of your going to New York, Tony?" Caroline asked.

"Not now, no."

"I got my coat there," Caroline said. "The divinest chinchilla you ever saw, I'll show it to you tomorrow."

Tony did not look at Larry.

"I remember you wanted one."

"Ready, Joe," Tony said. The salad was green and crisp in its bowl; the enchiladas smoking hot. Joe brought a great stack of brown toast to the table.

"Does anyone want coffee now? Nobody wants coffee until later, Joe," Tony said.

"Are you going to town tonight, Tony?"

"No. Not tonight."

"Staying with Brenda?"

"No," Tony, her face suddenly paling, but her eyes like sparkling blue stars, burst into joyous laughter and caught Joe around the neck as she passed his chair at the table. "Oh, Joe, darling, we'll have to tell them!" she said.

Larry shoved his chair back a little, facing them with a faintly knitted brow. Caroline's face was a study in hurt incredulity.

"You two are engaged," she said quickly, as one not to be surprised.

FRANKLIN'S FATHER AND MOTHER DIED OF FIRST ILLNESS

Benjamin Franklin used to say of his parents, "I never knew either my father or mother to have any sickness but that of which they died, he at eighty-nine and she at eighty-five years of age." He had inherited an excellent physical foundation for the making of a great man.

In a printing shop in London, whether he went at the age of eighteen, he astonished his fellow workers by abstaining from beer and yet being able to carry a large form of type in each hand where the others carried but one in both hands. Franklin kept a score card of virtues to be practiced. The first of the rules of conduct reads: "Temperance.—Eat not to dullness; drink not to elevation."

Franklin's philosophic mind came to the conclusion that the quantity of each kind of exercise is to be judged not by the time spent or distance covered, "but by the degree of warmth it produces in the body."

Considering the customs of his day, he was a remarkable specimen of health, strength and endurance, concedes Dr. James F. Rogers in Hygeia.

THE FERRY-MORSE SEED BREEDING INSTITUTE knows its business from the ground up.

You can depend on Ferry's seeds to produce true to type and quality wherever you live—in any climate. How can we say this? Because we conduct over 50,000 tests annually, to make sure they will grow. Over 9,000 tests to make sure of their quality. And that's just part of the continuous activity at our Rochester, Mich., and Salinas, Cal., stations. For 80 years this work has progressed—improving and maintaining the established quality of vegetable and flower seeds.

We develop our foundation stock at the stations. It is then used for seed production on our farms or under our supervision. The resulting seed is sold only after tests have shown that it is of proper quality and germination. You can buy Ferry seeds today in your own neighborhood, many for as little as 5c a packet.

Write for a free copy of our Home Garden Catalog to help you plan your purchases from the Ferry display in your local stores. Check the radio programs for our helpful garden talks over Station W.F.A.A., Ferry-Morse Seed Co., Detroit and San Francisco.

An Enchanting Land

Lugano, in southern Switzerland, is one of the enchanting spots in the land of the Alps. Here the vegetation, coloring and atmosphere of Italy combine with the grandeur which is characteristic of the mountains. The town itself curves in a semicircle around the lapis lazuli colored Lake Ceresio, known as the name of "Lake of Lugano."

A BOUQUET FOR OUR COURTS

Last week a Mexican was tried in the district court here on an indictment charging felony theft. He employed no lawyer to represent him but he desired to interpose a plea for suspension of sentence in the event he should be convicted. Since he did not know just what evidence is necessary in order for him to show himself eligible to a suspension of the sentence, the court appointed a lawyer to represent him in making this proof. The lawyer served, of course, free of charge. Defendant desired to use his mother as a witness, but she was unable to speak or to understand the English language. The court called for an interpreter, and a white man present immediately volunteered his services, which were also given, of course, free of charge.

We relate the above facts not because they are surprising or unusual but because they are not so. Similar incidents occur frequently in our courts. We mention them in order to call attention to the fairness of our courts. In what other country do the courts take such pains to see that the rights of persons accused of crime are protected?

Our courts are criticised, sometimes bitterly, by our own citizens for their slowness in meting out justice. But their slowness is due in large measure to the precautions that they must take under our laws and our constitution not to violate the rights of the citizen. Courts in other countries act more swiftly but they also act with more harshness and less regard for the rights of citizens. In other words, they are more cold-blooded and more given to persecution.

We believe that our laws governing court procedure could be greatly improved without doing any violence to the rights of defendants, but a thousand times rather would we live in a country where courts protect the rights of defendants than in countries where the courts do not afford such protection. Yes, brother, we are strong for America and constitutional government.

When a negro prisoner caught deputy sheriff Ed Redwine off his guard for a moment at the jail here Friday night, grabbed the deputy's gun, fatally shot the officer, and then made his escape, a search for the murderer was quickly organized and all the negro cabins in the town were searched. Naturally the negroes were greatly frightened but no harm was done to a single one of them. There was no desire on the part of the Whites to harm or to frighten any of the negroes.
Their only purpose was to locate and capture the big burly negro who had shot down an officer in cold blood. Be it said to the credit of the negroes of Tahoka, none of them showed a friendly disposition toward the criminal and some of them actively assisted in the hunt for the fugitive. The negroes of Ta-hoka will have no occasion to fear harm at the hands of the Whites as long as they properly behave themselves. Most of the negroes here are good negroes and have the good will of the Whites.

Many a Friend Recommends BLACK-DRAUGHT

People who have taken Black-Draught naturally are enthusiastic about it because of the refreshing relief it has brought them. No wonder they urge others to try it! . . .
Mrs. Joe G. Roberts, of Portersville,
Ala., writes: "A friend recommended
Black-Draught to me a long time ago, and it has proved its worth to me. Black-Draught is good for constipation. I find that taking Black-Draught prevents the bilious headaches which I used to have."

CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS

Some of our brethren of the press have taken up the cry of "Home markets for our home products." It is a strange cry to come from a section of the country that depends chiefly on cotton for a livelihood.
How in the world can the destruction of our foreign markets for cotton increase its price? If we limit the market for cotton to America, how in the world can we ever expect to prosper, or even to live, by raising cotton? Until recent years, foreign countries have annually taken more than half our cotton crop.
They still take almost half of it.
We use only about 6 million bales at home. If we had no market but the home market, what in the world would we do with the excess over six millions? What chance would there be for us ever to get more than four or five cents per pound for our cotton? And what could we raise, pray, instead of cotton—if, forsooth, we are to export nothing and import nothing?
There are four hundred million people in Europe that wear clothes.
There are five or six hundred millions in Asia. There is a much greater potential Old World demand for our cotton than the present demand. It seems to us the height of folly not to cultivate these foreign markets. What we cotton farmers and wheat farmers need is an expanding market for our cotton and wheat, not a contracting market.

WET AS THE ATLANTIC

After being dry for many years, except as to the sale of beer the past two years, Howard county voted for the legalization of all liquors a few days ago. All the country boxes but one went dry but Big Spring rolled up a wet majority of more than 500. The Big Spring Weekly News last week made the following comment:

Looks like Big Spring is destined to become as wet as the ocean the way they are applying for permission to operate package liquor places here. Over twelve have made application to date. One application was filed for a 12 per cent beer and wine permit. About 36 beer parlors permits are now in existence.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardium for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs.
Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just

Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . If Cardui does not

BAPTISTS VISIT WILSON

As a feature of the March Week of Prayer for Home Missions, twenty or more Tahoka Baptists were in Wilson Thursday of last week to hear Donato Ruiz, Home Board Missionary to the Mexicans, address the Workers' Conference of the Brownfield Baptist Association. The Conference closed with an address by Rev. Geo. A. Dale of Tahoka on "The Inspiration of Unified Effort." Rev. Dale is Association Moderator.

Those in attendance from Tahoka included Rev. and Mrs. George A. Dale, Rev. S. K. McCulloch, Misses Mary and Margaret Preston, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cooper and Messdames Billman, Cain, Dunagan, Fortenberry, Hill, Howell, King, Nowlin, Reese, Rogers, St. Clair, Stroud, Stuart, and Walker.

HE IS JUST AWAY

I cannot say, and I will not say That he is dead,—He is just away! With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land.

And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be, since he lingers there,
And you—Oh you, who the wildest yearn For the old-time step and the glad return,—

Think of him faring on, as dear In the love of There as the love of Here;
Think of him still as the same, I say: He is not dead—he is just away!
—James Whitcomb Riley.

We take this means to express our deepest appreciation to all for many acts of love and kindness expressed during the saddest and darkest hours of life. May God's richest blessings ever rest on each and all.

Women from the 'teen age to the change of life have found Cardui genuinely helpful for the relief of functional monthly pains due to lack of just the right strength from the food they eat. Mrs. Crit Haynes, of Essex, Mo., writes: "I used Cardui when a girl for cramps and found it very beneficial. I have recently taken Cardui during the change of life. I was very nervous, had head and back pains and was in a generally run-down condition. Cardui has helped me greatly."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

ate conditions dangerous to firemen, or occupants of such buildings, structure or premises other than the maintainer thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars ($10.00) nor more than fifty dollars ($50.00).

Sec. 12. The penalties provided for herein shall be recovered by the city in the same manner as provided by law for the enforcement of fines, forfeitures, and punishments for offenses against the city.

Sec. 13. Every day's maintenance of any of the conditions prohibited in any of the foregoing sections shall be a distinct and separate offense.

Sec. 14. All misdemeanors herein provided for shall be prosecuted, and all fines and forfeitures herein provided for shall be recovered and enforced in the same manner as provided by law for the enforcement of fines, forfeitures, penalties and punishments for offenses generally against the city.

Sec. 15. All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 16. Whereas, public safety demands the immediate passage of this ordinance, creating the office of Fire Marshal and empowering the said official to discharge the duties herein set out, therefore an emergency exists demanding a suspension of the rules requiring ordinances to be read on three several days, said rule is hereby suspended and this ordinance is placed on its first reading and final passage and shall be effective and in full force from and after its passage and approval.

DIXIE H. D. CLUB

"Home consists not only of a man and wife partnership, but if there are children they should have an interest also," said Mrs. Guion Cobb to the Dixie H. D. club members at the home of Mrs. Buel Draper March 4th.

To make a success of home, the parents on whom depends the responsibility of success must consider the viewpoint of each other. It is a partnership and each should consider the feelings and wishes of the other.

Let the child have some personal property or other that would be of great interest to him and he could call his own. Make him feel like he is a help and need in the home. Also try to be a friend or pal to your child. Be interested in some of the things they are interested in. Don't always be too quick to criticize their every little faults.

A poem, "Home," by Edgar A. Guest, which was so very appropriate for the occasion, was read by Mrs. Buel Draper.

Means of raising funds for the treasury were discussed, also preparations of foods for the meat show.

Members: Mmes. V. H. Macha, A. L. Dunagan, H. A. Macha, R. F. Janak, P. R. Johnson, Buel Draper, A. A. Burdett, Guion Cobb, A. C. Aycox, and Chester Short. Visitors were: Mmes. I. B. Hill and P. H. Hancock and Miss Irma Macha.

WILSON H. D. CLUB

"A parent must solve his own problems before he can solve the problems of his child," said Mrs. B. W. Baker to the Wilson Home Demonstration Club at the home of Mrs. E. Herber March 3rd.

"The emotional attitudes of the parent are reflected in the attitudes of the children. A pessimistic parent must overcome this state of mind to develop a happy attitude in the child. Each child is an individual with his own personality and must be treated as such."

Mrs. W. J. Hancock, Mrs. W. H. May, Mrs. L. D. Mueller, Mrs. W. C. Huffaker, and Mrs. J. R. Hamilton were new members present.

Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. McGraw and Mrs. Anthony were appointed to order and select the cast for a play to be given by the club members.

Members present were: Miss Clara May, Mmes. W. H. May, M. J. Scaer, J. W. Wilson, Howard Cook, W. J. Hancock, E. Herber, L. D. Mueller, R. A. Kahlich, B. W. Baker, W. E. McGraw, H. B. Crosby, M. C. Brandon, J. R. Hamilton, L. B. Thornton, J. E. Richardson, P. D. Server, W. I. Lemon, W. C. Huffaker, S. G. Anthony.

NEW LYNN H. D. CLUB

Miss Sylvia Robb gave a talk on gardening in a cold frame. She demonstrated the making of the cold frame. Several ladies seemed much interested and were talking of making cold frames. New members were Mesdames Odie Spears and C. C. Coffee.

Members present: Mmes. J. A. Jaynes, A. B. Short, Winnie Bartley, Roy Kelly, R. W. Barton, E. B. Terry, Dan Carpenter, H. A. Winkler, and Susie Bartley; and one visitor, Mrs. Otis Jaynes.

MUSIC CLUB OBSERVES FEDERATION DAY

The most enjoyable meeting of the year thus far was held by the Tahoka Music Club last Friday in the home of Mrs. G. M. Reid, hostess. The occasion was the annual Federation and Club Day which has its standard program requirements, but, in addition to these, the club was honored by some Lubbock guests who generously contributed an address and a program of American music.

Seventh District treasurer-elect, Mrs. A. W. Evans, spoke on the history of the music federation and the beginnings of Texas music—a most interesting and informative talk, as well as very pertinent in relation to the Centennial observance.

Mrs. V. L. Doughtie, in splendid voice, sang Cadman's "Song of the Robin Woman" from "Shanewis," and two compositions of Pearl Curran, "Rain" and "Contentment", to which Mrs. David B. Martin played delightful accompaniments.

The selections of Mrs. R. H. Hester, pianist, were David Guion's "Turkey in the Straw," Sinding's "Rustle of Spring" and "The Witches' Dance" by Edgar MacDowell, all rendered with artistic excellence.

Mrs. H. C. Story gave the local club history and read personal greetings for the occasion from state president, Mrs. I. D. Cole, and Miss Mattie Mae Swisher, president of Seventh District.

Tables were laid for a delicious dinner of sandwiches, chicken salad, individual cherry pies topped with whipped cream, and coffee, following which two charming request solos were played by Mrs. W. H. Dallas of Brownfield, another guest, and by Mrs. Martin.

Program booklets and place cards were hand decorated and lettered to carry out a musical theme.

Mrs. Rubie D. Suddarth, vice-president of Seventh District, is local president and arranged their special program.—Reporter.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

Services last Lord's Day were up to par. The morning lesson on the "Threefold Salvation" was listened to with rapt attention. The evening attendance is still not what it ought to be.

Some more things that seem strange to me: Why church members can find money for tobacco, picture shows, jewelry, gasoline (for joy rides), etc., but have none for the care of widows, orphans, and preaching the gospel at home and abroad? How some will burn their lives out for a home here and make no provision for their souls' eternal abode? How preachers can preach on sacrificing and give less than one tenth of their income? How a Sunday School teacher can stand before a class and not know the lesson thoroughly? How church members who are filled with jealousy, hatred, malice, and envy can think of going to heaven without a change? If there aren't any bootleggers in Heaven, some of our professing Christians are going to be disappointed. How those who are always late to church can expect to be on time at the Judgment? How deacons can vote the wet ticket?

HAVE JOINT BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mrs. Harry Woods of the Edith community reports that her husband and county commissioner Jim Izard of New Home had a joint birthday celebration in her home on Sunday, March 1, Mr. and Mrs. Izard and daughters being the guests on that day. Mrs. Woods says that both the honorees were so old, however, that she and Mrs. Izard decided not to embarrass them by placing candles on their cakes.

Misses Lora Williams, Celia Overton, and Helen Jackson of Albany were the week-end guests of their friend, Mrs. E. I. Hill. Miss Williams is in the abstract business and Miss Overton and Miss Jackson are teachers. This was their first visit to Tahoka.

Rev. George A. Dale attended a district Baptist Training Union meeting in Plainview Monday.

Lesson for March 15 JESUS TEACHES HIS DISCIPLES TO PRAY

LESSON TEXT—Luke 11:1-13. GOLDEN TEXT—If we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us.—1 John 5:14. PRIMARY TOPIC—When We Pray. JUNIOR TOPIC—Teach Us to Pray. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Says About Prayer. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Why Should We Pray?

Prayer is a matter which ought to be of great concern to every believer, for, "The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth. He will fulfill the desire of them that fear him; he also will hear their cry, and will save them." (Ps. 145:18, 19). There was something about the praying of Jesus that so impressed the disciples that they requested him to teach them to pray (Luke 11:1). May everyone of us enroll at once in the school of prayer with Christ as our Teacher. In response to the disciples' request, Jesus set forth the following principles of prayer.

I. The Right Relationship of the One Praying (v. 2). 1. Filial—"Father." The suppliant in prayer must be a child of God. God's gifts and blessings are for his children. This relationship can only be entered into through regeneration. Not all men have a right to say, "Our Father," when addressing God. Only those who are children of God by faith in Jesus Christ can so address him. 2. Fraternal—"Our Father." God has many children. His children are bound up together in nature and interests. Even in our secret prayer we should address him as "Our Father," which is a recognition of the interest of others alongside of ours.

II. The Right Attitude in Prayer (v. 2). 1. Reverent adoration—"Hallowed be thy name." As children we have certain rights and privileges, yet holy reverence becomes us. 2. Loyalty—"Thy kingdom come." When praying to God we should come with a spirit of loyalty which cries out, "Thy kingdom come." We should not only receive him as the Lord of our lives, but should loyally labor with him in inducing others to submit to him. 3. Submission—"Thy will be done." We should have no will of our own regarding the rule of God. We should let him direct us in all things.

III. The Right Spirit in Prayer (vv. 3-8). 1. Dependent faith—"Give us this day our daily bread" (v. 3). We should realize that not only bread, but life itself is ours to enjoy because of him and he is able to do for us "exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think." 2. Penitence and love—"Forgive us our debts" (v. 4). We should come to him realizing that we have sinned, and cry out to him for forgiveness. Our heart should be so filled with love for others that we will forgive those who sin against us, as God has so willingly forgiven us.

3. Holiness and caution—"Lead us not into temptation" (v. 4). Because we are God's children, and realizing the depravity of our natures and the consequent tendency to practice that which displeases him, we should shrink from that which, if indulged in, would dishonor him, and earnestly cry unto him to lead us not into the place where we would likely fall. 4. Intercessory (vv. 5, 6). The man who asked for bread did not ask for himself, but for a friend. Prayer which pleases God is unselfish in its requests.

5. Perseverance (vv. 7, 8). Though the friend refused at first and offered excuses, because the one making the request would not take "No" for an answer, he arose from his bed and gave him as many as he needed. Prayer pleases God and gets results. IV. Encouragement to Pray (vv. 9-12).

1. God's promise (vv. 9, 10). True prayer cannot fail of an answer, because God definitely promises that, "Every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened." 2. Example of an earthly father (vv. 11-13). No father will give a stone to his son who asked for bread, nor a serpent instead of a fish. God is infinitely more willing to answer the prayers of his children than earthly parents are to give good gifts to their children.

V. The True Goal of All Prayer (v. 13). God's best gift is himself in the person of his Holy Spirit. All those who practice the principles which Jesus taught in this model prayer shall experience the blessing of the Holy Spirit.

Black-Draught, taken about two nights, clears up this trouble and I get all right." Men and women like Black-Draught so well because of the refreshing relief it brings in constipation troubles.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Cleanse Internally and feel the difference! Why let constipation hold you back? Feel your best, look your best—cleanse internally the easy tea-cup way. GARFIELD TEA is not a miracle worker, but a week of this "internal beauty treatment" will astonish you. Begin tonight.

Watch Your Kidneys! Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood. YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any drugist.

BEFORE BABY COMES Elimination of Body Waste Is Doubly Important

In the crucial months before baby arrives it is vitally important that the body be rid of waste matter. Your intestines must function—regularly, completely without griping.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort.

Aga Khan Leads 100,000,000 Moslems

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY
HE IS the political leader of 100,000,000 persons in India alone, and the spiritual leader of 70,000,000 persons in Central Asia, Africa, Arabia and the Orient—yet he has not a kingdom of a single acre.

To his followers he is as holy as the Pope is to his—yet he is one of the most notorious sportsmen of the world. His income is more than $3,000,000 a year, his houses are valuable palaces, he is able to shower gifts of fine silks, fabulous jewels and exquisite furs upon whomever he pleases—and he is happily married to the daughter of a small-town hotel manager in France.

He is the direct descendant of a major prophet—yet he won't bet on a race horse, even one from his own $5,000,000 string.

Such enigmatic sidelights on this phenomenal personality might be recorded for column after column. He is the Aga Khan, Sultan, Sir Mohammed Shah, the religious potentate over the followers of the Ismaili branch of the Mohammedan faith, and as the descend-

Sunni, chiefly in the recognition of certain apostles of Mohammed.

His direct descent from the "last of the prophets" was responsible for the most colorful part of the present semi-centennial celebration of the Aga Khan's reign. This was the recent bath ceremony. A gold coach, drawn by the Aga's magnificent horses, and climaxing a great parade several miles long, set out from his place to the pearl mosque, the believers prostrating themselves by the thousands along the line of march. The coach contained that holy of holies, the Aga Khan, in his ceremonial bath. The water was scented with priceless aloe found in the bath of Mumtaz, the Mogul queen whose memory is perpetuated in the wonderful monument that is the Taj Mahal. It had been acquired by the Khojas, the fabulously wealthy cotton princes of Bombay.

Millions for Bath Water. As the coach bearing the Aga Khan passed solemnly down the processional avenue, he sprinkled water from his Inoculated and the plague was beaten.

What was probably the crisis in the establishment of his true power came a few years later in another racial conflict. Certain of his followers deserted the Ismaili sect to join the Sunnis, and three of them were murdered in religious indignation of their fellows. At a word all India could have been thrown into mortal internal combat. The Aga Khan excommunicated the killers from the church, cursed them with denial of the burial rite and announced that if any more fighting broke out he would resign as leader of Ismaili on the spot. Peace reigned from that moment.

Test of Power Comes. When he was not keeping the peace among his people, the Aga was establishing schools, educational and medical centers, hospitals, libraries and other institutions of learning and culture, often with money out of his own pocket. He personally collected $1,000,000 to raise the college at Aligarh to university status. He has tried in every way to abolish the depressed classes, to raise the Indian to a higher standard of living, and to secure for his country equal freedom with other British dominions.

Repeatedly this leader has appealed to the League of Nations for recognition of his people, Ismailis and others. The Aga Khan is in East Africa when the World War broke out. He directed his followers to support the British, and was successful even when Turkey entered the war on the side of the Central powers. The Ismailis were aroused and showed tendencies toward sympathizing with their fellow Moslems, but lent their support once more to the British when the Aga, in a general order, assured them that the Allies had no quarrel with Islam (the Mohammedan religion) itself.

Aga Khan's Three Wives. The Moslem religion permits a man to have three wives, but he must produce an heir. The Aga Khan is now living with his third Begum, or wife. His first was his cousin, the Shahzade Begum, who never bore him a child, and with whom he was unhappy. They separated early, and two years ago she died.

Theresa, an Italian princess whose fine sculpture had been exhibited many places in Europe, was his second wife. She had one son which died at birth, but later bore another, who is the Aly Khan and the rightful heir to his father. Theresa died in 1936 and was buried in the family vaults at Monaco.

The Aga Khan's present wife he married in romantic fashion for a man of such nearly limitless means. Their wedding was like a small town elopement—which indeed it really was, for it happened quietly and secretly in the little town hall of Aix-les-Bains, in the French Alps. The Cinderella story of this simple country girl called Andre Carron marrying an oriental potentate gave rise to many fanciful tales about their relationships, but it is a fact of the family. She proved to be beautiful, cultured, a charming conversationalist and everything that could be desired in the way of a consort for the leader of 100,000,000 people. Not long ago she bore him a child.

Since his services in the World War, the Aga Khan has become something ant of the prophet himself, forty-eight times removed, is to them the representative of God on earth.

Fiftieth Year of Leadership.

The year 1936, the fiftieth of such divine ambassadorship by the Aga Khan, is being made the occasion for elaborate and ceremonious celebration wherever there are believers in the Ismaili faith. From the far-flung corners of the world are pouring in voluntary tributes of even greater value and more magnificent splendor than the regular annual tributes which the Koran says must amount to 2 1/2 per cent of the income of every Ismaili. They are being stored in the Aga Khan in Bombay, there to await redistribution to charity, educational and social institutions or the Aga's racing stables and palatial villas.

Most of his enormous power the Aga Khan owes to his paternal grandfather, Hasan Ali Shah, Aga Khan I, who was born in Persia in 1800 and died in India in 1881. Aga Khan I traced his ancestry back into prehistoric Persia and back to the Beni-Fatimite caliphs who founded Cairo in Egypt and were the sons of Fatima, the daughter of Mohammed.

Hasan Ali ruled over a province of Persia perhaps too wisely and well, for when he defended his people against cruel and oppressive taxes imposed by Fateh Ali Shah, he incurred the mortal wrath of that ruler of all Persia. Because he had been the Shah's friend, however, he was allowed to escape during the civil war which followed.

Hasan Ali, by this time an old man, fled through Afghanistan to Bombay, where he settled. He offered himself in service to the British army in Afghanistan and among the frontier tribes. His offers were accepted, but held as of little importance, until it became known that this first of the Aga Khans was receiving voluntary tribute year after year from all points over India. And when it was discovered that regular contributions were also pouring in from many other oriental countries and from Africa, John Bull's colonial representatives began to realize that the holy leader of Ismaili was a rippling good man to have on their side. He did them a lot of good before his death, too.

Second Aga Dies Early.

The first Aga Khan's good work was carried on by his son, Aga Khan II, who lived only four years after his father's death. Aga Khan III was only eight years old when he succeeded to power.

Ever since he was a very young man, the present Aga has ruled his followers in their religious and political affairs wisely and kindly. To them he is a fit descendant of the prophet.

The Mohammedan religion recognizes many prophets, beginning with Adam. There are three, however, which are of outstanding importance, for the three "books" which they are credited with having handed down. Moses introduced the laws, Jesus the gospel, and Mohammed the Koran, or the scriptures as revealed to him by Allah (God). The Ismailis differ from the other branch of Mohammedanism, the bath upon the prostrate subjects. In their gratitude they gave him several million dollars in tribute that night.

This important fellow, who has the portly men and general appearance of a Wall Street broker and yet joins the most humble of his followers in beating his chest until the blood comes in extremely emotional religious rites, is a walking rejection of the theory that never the twain shall meet. His is a tempered combination of oriental and occidental culture and education.

He was reared by a strict mother who had been a member of the Persian royal family. His stern tutoring, his natural aptitude and his real understanding of and interest in his people stamped him as a true leader when he was only sixteen. Riots broke out between the Hindus and Mohammedans in Bombay. So fired with emotional hatred were the masses, a first-class race war was in prospect. The young Aga Khan issued a command to his people that they were not to engage in such racial fighting. They "bent over backwards" to obey his wish, even to the extent that Moslems were inviting Hindus home to dine with them.

In this instance the Aga's command was something the Ismaili could understand, but four years later, when he was still not a grown man, he issued another that was far more a test of his power. A plague ravaged India in 1897. Thousands upon thousands were dying because they refused to be inoculated with protective serum. They revolted at the thought. The young Aga went about among them, explaining the absolute necessity for inoculation. To their amazement he bared his own body time after time and accepted the prick of the needle to show them he wouldn't do himself. Their superstitions were broken down, they were of a lion in British society, and the presentation of the present Begum at the Court of St. James was one of the most picturesque social affairs of recent years.

Aga Himself Plays Now.

Unusual ceremonies are occurring every day during the celebration for the Aga Khan. One day 12,000 women, clad in silk pajamas, honored him at tea. Every day in his palace grounds he serves food and drink to tens of thousands of visitors.

Annually his cabinet presents the Aga Khan with his weight in gold, determined at a public weighing. He usually tips the beam at about 225 pounds, so the "take" is a considerable one. This year, perhaps because of the significance of the occasion, he broke all records, weighing in at 237 1/2, and collected more than $100,000. Most of it will go to charity to relieve distress among indigent Moslems.

Preparing Souffles Is Not as Difficult a Task as It Seems Trick Is to Make a Base Like One Used for Cream-Puffs.

"Will you please at some convenient time, tell us would-be cooks something about souffles? Mine are either too dry or they fall." So writes a reader. Fortunately I can answer this question satisfactorily, says a well-known food expert.

Souffles used to puzzle me. I tried to duplicate that perfect souffle to be found in an old French hotel in lower New York. I was never able to get one crusty on the outside and soft in the center, until I asked the chef to make one for me. Now a souffle is no problem. It can be made even for the quick meal, because you may use a hot oven.

The trick is to make a base like the one that is used for cream-puffs. The base is the same for all with the exception that for cheese, meat or vegetable souffles you make it thinner. The flour and water are cooked together until thick. Then the egg yolks are beaten in one by one; the cheese, the chocolate, the finely chopped vegetable or other flavoring are added. Last of all the beaten egg-whites are folded in.

When I make a sweet souffle, I fold half of the sugar into the egg-whites while the rest is stirred into the hot foundation. The baking dish, which may be of silver, oven proof glass or pottery, should be greased with soft, not melted butter. For sweet souffle, this should be sprinkled liberally with granulated sugar, to make a "chenise" as the chef says. A 400-degree oven for twenty minutes is the proper temperature for a souffle.

Menu for Quick Meal. Cream of Pea Soup, Cheese Souffle, Baked Potatoes, Baked Tomatoes, Pumpkin Tarts, Coffee.

Order of Preparation. Light oven. Scrub potatoes and bake. Prepare souffle and bake. Open can of soup, ditto and heat. Make coffee.

Chocolate Souffle. 1/2 cup flour, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 pound grated cheese, 1/2 teaspoon paprika, 4 eggs.

Mix flour and salt with one-half cup of cold milk and stir this mixture into one-half cup of hot milk. Stir over fire until mixture thickens.

All Around the House

Glue used to keep furniture parts together cracks and dries out in heated rooms. If a good grade of fish glue is used furniture should stay glued for a long time.

Fill the coffee pot with cold water to which a tablespoon of baking soda has been added and boil for one-half hour each week. This will remove the brown stain on inside of pot.

The glass which covers the indicator on your gas oven may be cleaned by wetting a stiff brush with water, sprinkling liberally with a scouring powder and rubbing over glass.

For luncheon try serving frankfurters in this way: Wrap a slice of bacon around each frankfurter and fasten with a toothpick. Place under broiler until bacon is crisp.

If fruit juice from pies runs out into the oven, throw salt on it. There will then be no odor and where burned crisp the juice may be easily removed.

When the lining of your hat becomes soiled take it out, wash with soap and water and iron. Steam hat. If felt, to renew the color, and sew in cleaned lining.

and boils. Remove from fire, beat in cheese and paprika. Beat in egg yolks one at a time. Fold in beaten egg-whites. Fill greased baking dish three-quarters full and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit).

Chocolate Souffle. 1 cup milk, 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 4 eggs, 2 squares of chocolate.

Mix flour and salt with one-half cup cold milk and stir this mixture into one-half cup hot milk. Add one-half of the sugar. Stir over the fire until mixture thickens and boils. Remove from fire, beat in egg yolks one at a time. Add remaining sugar and melted chocolate. Fold in beaten egg-whites. Fill baking dish, greased with soft butter and sprinkled with sugar, three-quarters full, and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit).

Crocheting an Afghan, Tomorrow's Heirloom

PATTERN 5254

What more conducive to "forty winks" than this fluffy, lacy afghan! Its crocheted warmth will ward off the most treacherous draughts, its color brightens and gladdens any room it adorns. A very simple pattern to follow, too. The stripes look like tiny daisies strung together, and are in a crochet stitch which busy hands and needle soon learn to do by heart. Lovely in three shades of one color, it is also effective with each stripe a different color.

In pattern 5254 you will find directions for making the afghan; an illustration of it and of the stitches used; material requirements, and color suggestions.

NOT long ago I was like some friends I have... low in spirits... run-down... out of sorts... tired easily and looked terrible. I knew I had no serious organic trouble so I reasoned sensibly... as my experience has since proven... that work, worry, colds and whatnot had just worn me down.

The confidence mother has always had in S.S.S. Tonic... which is still her stand-by when she feels run-down... convinced me I ought to try this treatment... I started a course. The color began to come back to my skin... I felt better... I did not get the easily and soon I felt that those red-blood-cells were back to so-called fighting strength... it is great to feel strong again and like my old self.

REDWINE MURDERER IS CAPTURED. TRIAL STARTS

Cont'd. from first page) approached Redwine just as he was in the act of falling at the foot of the stairs that lead from the jail down to the hallway adjacent to the district courtroom. While Jones was rendering such assistance as he could, others who had heard the shots, began to arrive and the news spread rapidly.

Accompanied by Brown Bishop and C. R. Riley, Borden Davis took the wounded man to the Lubbock Sanitarium in the Harris & Applewhite ambulance.

There the many wounds were treated and dressed and everything possible was done to save his life, but he died soon after 3 o'clock Saturday morning. He was conscious almost to the very end and made brief statements to several respecting the negro's murderous attack.

Posse Formed Early

As soon as the news of the negro's assault and escape spread over town, excited crowds gathered and soon an organized hunt for the criminal was begun. Peace officers all over this section of West Texas were notified, news of the crime and description of the killer was broadcast over long-wave and police short-wave radio, and in a few hours the town was full of officers. Sheriff Parker himself was on the way to Huntsville to deliver four prisoners to the penitentiary. He was intercepted at Fort Worth and notified of the crime by telephone, and he hurried back to Tahoka. Sheriff W. F. Cato of Garza county and Jack Reeves of the State Highway Patrol directed search for the fugitive until Parker's arrival.

Search Is Thorough

All night long, and all day Saturday, and far into the night again, grim-faced men hunted for the fugitive. The man-hunters got on his track Friday night just south of town, but a light rain greatly hampered them in the search. Saturday, fresher tracks were found down at Guthrie Lake, and in the afternoon bloodhounds were put on the trail, which led westward, but another shower and hail storm obliterated the tracks to a great extent. Hundreds of men continued the search, however, but progress was slow and clues as to the fugitive's course were of doubtful value. Center of the late afternoon and night search was the Three Lakes community.

Thinking that the negro might be headed for the Welch section in northwestern Dawson county, and Hobbs, New Mexico, every negro shack to the south and west, including Lamesa and Hobbs, was searched, and highways and side-roads patrolled. New Mexico highway patrolmen guarded the state border.

peared at the home of W. B. Cook at Wells' about fifteen miles southwest of Tahoka and called for matches and cigars. Mr. Cook accompanied the negro to the store, which was only a short distance away, and procured for him the desired articles, whereupon the negro left. Cook then telephoned to Deputy Sheriff John Johnson at O'Donnell and Johnson with two companions hastened to the Wells store. There they were joined by Cook, and the four men located the negro beside the road a mile east and a quarter mile south of the store. As the party approached, the negro threw up his hands and surrendered without offering any violence or resistance. In his possession was Redwine's pistol, containing three shells. Johnson notified the sheriff's office here of the capture, and the prisoner was hastily taken to a jail in another county for safe-keeping.

to approaching the home of W. B. Cook, the negro had gone into the home of H. L. Cook near by, the family being away from home, and had fried some eggs. At about dark he had appeared at the home of W. E. Sikes at Three Lakes, a few miles north of Wells, and asked for matches. Mr. Sikes recognized him as the fugitive negro but it was several hours before he could make his way to a telephone three miles away and notify the officers. It was only a short time after they received this notice that the negro was captured.

Banks had resided in or near Tahoka for two or three years. He bore the reputation of being a bad negro and had been in jail a number of times. Redwine had treated him kindly, however, and had often accommodated him. In fact, he had worked for Redwine occasionally and the officer seemed to have considerable confidence in him. Following the shooting he expressed great surprise that the negro had murderously assaulted him.
