Skeleton Is Found Northeast Of Town

BODY BELIEVED TO BE MEXICAN

Decomposed Body Found By R. L. Hagler In Field; Officers Are Making Investigation

The skeleton and a part of the flesh of a decomposed dead body was found in the field on the R. L. Hagler farm a mile west and a little more than a mile north of the Gordon school house Thursday morning.

Tahoka officers were notified and District Attorney Truett Smith, County Attorney C. H. Cain, Deputy Sheriff Norvell Redwine, City Marshal Milt Finch, Dr. L. E. Turrentine, and a number of citizens immediately left for the scene of the discovery.

Investigation failed to reveal the identity of the dead man but the officials and Dr. Turrentine believed him to have been a Mexican, judging chiefly from the hair. Practically all the flesh had rotted away.

District Attorney Truett Smith took some statements and he believes the body to be that of a Mexican who picked cotton for W. C. Oates in that community during the fall and winter. He and a negro man had been occupying the same shack on the Oates farm. It is not known whether there is any connection between this fact and the dead body or not.

The remains were found between two ridges in the field inside a duck

Ball Team Got Revenge Sunday

In a hard fought game here Sunday afternoon, the Tahoka Bulldogs, managed by Skip Taylor, defeated the Wilson baseball team by a score of 14 to 11. This was the second game the Bulldogs had played this year, having lost the first game to Wilson on the preceding Sunday.

The Bulldogs will play the Lorenzo team on the Lorenzo diamond next Sunday afternoon.

Ed Cook Sells Out Business At Wells

Ed Cook of Wells informed us Monday that he had disposed of all his mercantile interests in this county and will hereafter devote his time exclusively to his farming interests.

He has sold his stock of goods at Wells to George Lee, late of Dawson county, and leased to Mr. Lee the building, fixtures, and residence. Mr. Lee has already taken charge.

Mr. Cook owned a half interest in a store at New Home, and he recently sold his half interest to his partner, Roy Askew.

Mr. Cook owns extensive farm lands at Wells. He has been engaged in business and in farming for many years and has been successful at both. But he wants more time to devote to his farms, and hence his retirement from the mercantile business.

Mrs. H. H. Hale and daughter, Mrs. Claude Carmichael, and the latter's three children left for their home at Higgins Thursday, after having spent a week here and in this vicinity visiting Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sanford, Lawrence and Virginia, Jim Weatherford, and other relatives. Mr. Weatherford accompanied them to Gall and Snyder one day last week. They report that it had been raining each day for nine days when they left home, and the "dust bowl" was getting a little damp.

Mrs. R. P. Cook of Lorenzo and her friend, Miss Mamie Frazier of Lubbock, visited Ed Cook and other members of the family at Wells last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Nevill returned Tuesday from Hobbs, New Mexico, where they spent the past few weeks.

BANKS DOOMED TO DIE IN CHAIR

Negro's Sentence In Killing Of F. E. Redwine Upheld By Court Of Criminal Appeals

The death penalty assessed by a Lynn county jury on March 13 against Elmo Banks, 43 year old negro, for the murder of Deputy Sheriff F. E. Redwine in a jail break here just one week before that date was affirmed by the court of criminal appeals in Austin Wednesday.

Banks, who is confined in the Lubbock jail, will be brought here to receive sentence at an early date and will then be taken to the penitentiary at Huntsville and placed in the death cell to await the date of his electrocution, which will be fixed by the court here.

Banks, who was a prisoner in the jail here, snatched Redwine's gun from its holster when the latter had gone up to the jail to lock the prisoners in their cells for the night Friday night, March 6. Then he deliberately fired into Redwine's body several times while the officer begged for his life. Then he took Redwine's keys, unlocked the outer jail doors, and rushed down the stairs to freedom. A thrilling man hunt followed which resulted in the capture of the fugitive negro at the Wells store 15 miles southwest of Tahoka on the following Saturday night. He was brought to trial on the next Thursday.

Attorneys for the negro were appointed by the court. One whole day was consumed in procuring a jury and the next day was consumed in the trial of the case, the jury bringing in a death verdict that night sixteen minutes after the case was given to them.

Aggie Teacher Is Here For Work

Cecil Ayers of Chillicothe, who was recently elected by the school board as vocational agriculture teacher in the Tahoka high school for the ensuing year, received his B. S. degree at the Texas Technological College Monday and came to Tahoka Tuesday to make his abode here. He has a room at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Donaldson.

Mr. Ayers expects to make much use of the columns of the News in dispensing useful information and inspiring interest in vocational agriculture.

GONE TO OREGON

Mrs. J. B. Stokes will leave Saturday to spend a couple of months with her only sister, Mrs. H. J. De-Clark, in far-away Portland, Oregon. She will be accompanied on the trip by her cousin, Mrs. Joe Penny of Lubbock, and by another Lubbock couple who have relatives in Seattle, Washington.

Mrs. Stokes is a pioneer of Tahoka but she has spent much of the past two years with her aged mother at Bangs in Brown county. She came to Lubbock from Bangs Sunday to make preparation for the trip and was in Tahoka Monday.

WOMAN SEVERELY BURNED

Mrs. O. W. Green suffered painful burns on the lower limbs from above the knees down last Friday afternoon when the lid blew off a cooker in which she was preparing peaches for canning. Though the burns were rather severe they were not as serious as was first thought.

NEW-BORN INFANT DIES

Alice Pate, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stone of New Lynn, was buried in the Tahoka cemetery on Thursday of last week. Funeral services were held at the home by Rev. W. P. Bussell of that community.

The bereaved parents have the sympathy of many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Matthews of Levelland were the week end guests of G. R. Milliken and family.

Methodist Church Beautifying Lawn

Several weeks ago the Methodists began improving their church premises, setting out shrubs and plants. This week, under the supervision of John Donaldson, they have set out Bermuda grass, and in a few weeks time they will have a most beautiful lawn.

Cain Is Out For County Attorney

Judge C. H. Cain makes announcement this week of his candidacy for election to the office of county attorney, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July.

He is serving as county attorney now by appointment. This is an important office now, and Judge Cain's long experience in the practice of law and his intimate knowledge of the law gained from many years of study and practice are well known to the voters of Lynn county. He has been here much longer than the editor and needs no introduction or commendation at our hands.

His announcement is as follows: After mature deliberation and in consideration of the earnest solicitation of a goodly number of substantial citizens of Lynn County, I have decided to submit my candidacy for the office of County Attorney to the Democratic voters of Lynn County in the coming primary election, and by way of introduction to those with whom I am not acquainted, will say briefly that I am a native Texan and have resided in Lynn County continuously for more than twenty-four years during which time I have practiced law and had the pleasure of serving the people of this county as their County Judge from November 18th, 1916, to December 1st, 1920, and from January 1st, 1925, to January 1st, 1929. A vacancy occurred in the office of County Attorney when the Honorable Truett Smith resigned that office to become District Attorney, and I was appointed County Attorney in November, 1935, in which office I am now serving. This appointment came to me without any application or solicitation therefor on my part.

I am deeply appreciative to the people of Lynn County for every public trust they have reposed in me at any time, and while I realize that I have made mistakes, for none of us are perfect, I have endeavored to discharge all my duties to every such trust with honesty of purpose and invite your investigation as to how well I may have succeeded. Recently, what is known as the Dean Liquor Law has been repealed, and a new liquor law has gone into effect. The now repealed Dean Liquor law was productive of a large portion of the prosecutions in our District Courts, but under the new law the County Court has jurisdiction of all violations against it and it becomes the duty of the County Attorney to prosecute all such cases, which fact will make the County Attorney's office very different to what it has been since the early days of local option.

I do not believe the County Attorney's duties cease with the prosecution of those who may be so unfortunate as to be charged with

REVIVAL WILL OPEN SUNDAY

Rev. J. Frank Weedon Will Preach During Two Weeks' Revival At Baptist Church

An evangelistic campaign will begin at the Baptist Church next Sunday morning to continue two weeks, including three Sundays.

Rev. J. Frank Weedon, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Jacksonville over in East Texas for the past eight years, will do the preaching. The local pastor, Rev. George A. Dale, commends him very highly as a preacher of the gospel and as a Christian gentleman.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Huber have been engaged to lead the song services and to otherwise assist in the meeting. Both are said to be fine musicians, and the music therefore promises to be most excellent.

In preparation for the campaign, a study course is being given at the church this week by the pastor on "How to Win for Christ" and a season of prayer is being held each night.

Services on week days will begin at 10:30 in the morning and at 8:30 in the evening.

The preacher and the music directors are expected to be here for the opening service Sunday morning.

Many Going To Texas Centennial

Quite a number of Tahoka people are down at Dallas or have been to Dallas this week attending the Texas Centennial.

We are sure that numbers have gone whose names we have failed to get, but among those attending we have made note of the following: Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fenton and children, Mrs. J. K. Applewhite and children, Mr. and Mrs. Al Lehman and children, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burleson and children, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Henderson, Mrs. Oscar Roberts and children, Bill Sewell and David and Mary Jane Weathers, James Applewhite and Joy Edwin Brown.

A number of the children named and some others were to take part in the Southwestern musical fete being staged there this week.

Al Lehman and family expected to visit relatives in Houston and at other points in South Texas before returning to Tahoka and will probably be away another week or longer yet.

Heares Leaving For Camp In Mountains

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Heare will leave today for their summer home near Eagle Nest, New Mexico. They expect to remain there until the last of August.

Their cottage is high up in the mountains of northern New Mexico, west of Eagle Nest Lake, and is surrounded with magnificent scenery. It is an ideal place for a summer home, and Mr. and Mrs. Heare always greatly enjoy their stay there. A copy of the News will visit them each week.

L. H. Christenson, San Angelo, will substitute for Mr. Heare as Santa Fe agent during his absence.

PIE SUPPER AND CANDIDATE SPEAKING AT NEW LYNN

New Lynn will be the scene of a big pie supper and candidate speaking Saturday night, June 27. All county and district candidates are specially invited to be present. The girls and married women are requested to bring pies, not only those in the New Lynn district, but those in the surrounding districts as well. Everybody is welcome.

Tom Cloe came in Thursday from the West. He has been working for the Continental Oil Company the past few months, painting the company cars, and his job took him to various points in New Mexico and Arizona.

Mrs. G. A. Brasfield and little daughter Francette went over to Seminole to visit Mr. Brasfield this week. He is temporarily working for the Forrester Lumber Company there.

Soldier 'Bonus' Will Arrive Next Week

HAIL DAMAGE NORTH OF CITY

Rain North Of Town Brings Relief To Scorched Area; Prospects For Crop Are Good

A heavy rain visited a larger portion of the north half of Lynn county Tuesday afternoon. In some localities as much as an inch and even one and a half inches have been reported.

Little damage was done to crops by the rain but in the Dixie community a heavy hail accompanied the rain and did much damage, and it will be necessary for many farmers to plant their crops over.

In many localities the rain was not so heavy and will possibly be of distinct benefit to the young crops.

This rain was preceded by several days of unusually hot weather. On Monday and Tuesday the mercury rose to a maximum of 102 each day. On Sunday it reached 101, while Saturday was almost as warm, registering 99. The hot sunshine and dry winds that prevailed during this period were beginning to have a deleterious effect on the young tender cotton that had just come up, but the rain in some places and the cooler weather everywhere following the rain have afforded a welcome relief. Many farmers say that the young cotton looks thrifty and fine.

Ideal weather for the planting of cotton and feed prevailed last week, and many farmers finished planting before the week was half gone. Much that was planted later is just now coming up, however.

While the crop is slightly late, yet as a whole prospects at this time are excellent.

Tahoka Scouts At Post Camp

Four Tahoka Boy Scouts left Sunday afternoon for Camp Post, a scout camp at the old Currycomb Ranch headquarters near the city of Post, where they will spend the week with other scouts of this district.

The scouts who made the trip are: Wade Howell, Carra Reese, James Foster, and Gloyd Cloe.

These scouts were enabled to make the trip by the sale of Centennial tickets. Twenty-six tickets were sold, Scout Carra Reese leading in the sale by selling twelve tickets.—Scribe.

REV. RICHARDSON HERE

Rev. J. J. Richardson of Kent, Culberson county, is here this week visiting his daughter, Mrs. R. W. Fenton Sr.

Rev. Mr. Richardson filled the pulpit at the Methodist Church last Sunday evening, preaching to an appreciative congregation. He is a veteran Presbyterian minister and has been very useful in the ministry. The world needs more men of this fine type.

PIE SUPPER AT MORGAN

The people of Morgan community are extending an invitation to all the candidates to a pie supper to be at the Morgan school house Friday night, June 19. Every one is cordially invited.—Mrs. Jack Cook, publicity chairman.

Rev. R. K. McCullough took his daughter, Miss Gussie, back to Howard Payne College, Brownwood, Monday, where she expects to receive her degree at the end of the summer term. She had been visiting her parents here the past two weeks.

Mrs. G. W. Simmons Jr. and daughter Jerry Jean returned Wednesday from Abilene, where they had spent a few days visiting relatives and friends.

Duane, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Howell underwent an operation Monday whereby his tonsils and adenoids were removed. He is recovering nicely.

EXPECT BONDS BY NEXT WEEK

Postmaster Gives Instructions To Ex-Service Men On Handling Papers Properly

The ex-service men of the World War are to receive their bonds representing the "Bonus" which was recently granted them by Congress some time next week.

Postmaster W. C. Wells is this week giving out some valuable information as to how these bonds are to be handled. He says that many ex-service men seem to be under the impression that they can bring these bonds to the local post office as soon as received and immediately receive payment. Such is not the case. The local post office will have no funds with which to pay these bonds. They must be certified by the local postmaster, or some other authorized person, however, and then sent to the post office at Dallas. In a few days thereafter the ex-service men will receive their checks through the mail.

It is believed that most bonds sent to Lynn county ex-service men will be cashed promptly. This will bring to their pockets quite a neat sum of money and it is believed that most of them will use it judiciously. Many will pay debts against

Luncheon Club Hears Armstrong

Due to the fact that a number of the members were out of town, the attendance at the luncheon club Tuesday was smaller than usual, but those present thoroughly enjoyed the hour.

Following the good meal, Rev. C. C. Armstrong related something of the "Experiences of a Sky Pilot." This being the only number on the program, he used the full thirty minutes in relating these experiences, some of them humorous, some serious, and some really pathetic.

G. H. Nelson acted as chairman in the absence of Rev. Geo. A. Dale, and he expressed the sentiment of all present when he said that if he knew more about the other fellow's problems and his difficulties, we would have much more sympathy for one another.

In the absence of the chairman, vice chairman, and secretary, no committee reports were made.

Another good program will doubtless be arranged for next week.

Nelson Gives Address At West Texas State

Senator G. H. Nelson addressed the students of the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon Wednesday morning on his proposal for a Unicameral Legislature. Beginning at 10:30 he was given an hour and a half for the discussion. While there he was conducted through the entire plant of the College and says that he enjoyed his visit very much. He was accompanied on the trip by Mr. Kary Mathis of this city. He came back by Ceta Canyon and picked up Wilella, who was attending the Baptist encampment there.

On Tuesday night, Senator Nelson spoke at a banquet in Littlefield of the Chamber of Commerce on the subject of Good Roads.

On Thursday morning the Nelson family left for Dallas to attend the Centennial, where the Senator is to act as a member of the reception committee to welcome President Roosevelt and Vice-President John Garner.

HIGH SCHOOL GRAD MARRIES

Miss Joy Jones, daughter of Mr. J. W. Jones of the Dixie community, and Marvin Berry were married on Sunday, May 24, in Plainview, Rev. Pat Horton of the First Baptist Church officiating.

Mrs. Berry is a 1936 graduate of Tahoka High School. The couple is at home six miles north of Tahoka.

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

160,000 Horses A New Democracy Thin Men Live Longer Must We Have War?

The well advertised Queen Mary, looking very big moving up to her New York dock, represented in reality the quintessence of compressed power.

That number of horses hitched in pairs, one ahead of the other, would make a "team" more than two hundred and fifty miles long.

Such an investment is much simpler than running the risk of a business enterprise with pay rolls and jobs attached.

To tax heavily the man who uses his money and brains to give work to others, and free from taxation those that buy bonds and take their ease, is a brand-new kind of democracy.

Men of middle age and older may learn from Civil war veterans in the Memorial Day parade, some ninety and some ninety-three, one, who led New York city's G. A. R. procession, past ninety-six years of age.

All the old soldiers are very thin men, averaging in weight less than 140 pounds. Had they been fat they would be in the grave, not in any parade.

General Pershing cut a big birthday cake with a general's sword, Mrs. Roosevelt looking on, and on Memorial Day he warned America against another war.

To believe that this country can be dragged into a war without a repetition of our big war folly is not complimentary to those in charge. No foreign nation would force war on the United States, and thus put United States resources, and any fighting qualities that Americans may possess, on the side of that foreign nation's enemies.

The unfortunate congressman, Zioncheck, from the Northwest, is locked up in Washington, his sanity to be investigated, after he visited the White House with a present of empty beer bottles for the President.

The unfortunate congressman's antics are not important in themselves, but you wonder what qualities were seen in him by the voters.

The United States Supreme court declared unconstitutional a New York state law that would permit New York to fix a minimum wage for women and children.

Chief Justice Hughes, who did not agree with the majority opinion, wrote: "I find nothing in the federal Constitution which denies to the state the power to protect women from being exploited by over-reaching employers."

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., who ought to know about American industry, says enormous building operations are needed in the United States to replace out-of-date equipment, and that the door is wide open for plenty of jobs and then some jobs.

American cotton growers fighting the boll weevil will sympathize with Argentine growers, attacked by vast swarms of devouring locusts, far worse than any weevil. The Argentine ministry of agriculture announces 10,000 tons of cotton devoured, 60,000 acres invaded.

Farmers fight the locusts by erecting walls of sheet iron or digging ditches, into which the locusts swarm, to be sprayed with gasoline and burned. Tons of the pests are thus destroyed.

Mayors of Arab cities in Palestine warn the British that they must stop Jewish immigration and the sale of land to Jews in Palestine. The British answer to the warning will probably not be satisfactory to the Arabs. It is reported also that the central committee for Palestine of the "Communist party" is distributing literature urging British soldiers in Palestine to mutiny.

The national Socialist convention in Cleveland, formulating "immediate demands," denounces the New Deal, demands a revision of the Constitution and an end of what is called the "usurped power" of the Supreme court. In all these matters, others were ahead of the Socialists.

President Lewis, of Lafayette college, thinks wars would end if monarchs who voted for it were put in front line trenches. That might prevent some wars, not all.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Sudden Death of Speaker Byrns—Rome Hails Badoglio While London Cheers Haile Selassie—Rural Housewives of World Convene.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

DEATH, sudden and unexpected, came to Joseph Wellington Byrns, speaker of the house of representatives, and put an end to a notable career.

The veteran Tennessee congressman suffered a heart attack, followed by a cerebral hemorrhage, and passed away within a few hours in his apartment in the Mayflower hotel, Washington. For 27 years Mr. Byrns had represented the "Hermitage district" of Tennessee in the house, and he was elected speaker when the Seventy-fourth congress convened in January, 1935.

He was a master of parliamentary strategy and so fair-minded a presiding officer that all, even his political opponents, praised and admired him. Before becoming speaker he served long years on the appropriations committee, as member and chairman, and he also was leader of the Democratic majority and chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee.

Grief for Mr. Byrns' death was general and sincere in Washington officialdom. "I am shocked beyond all imagination," said Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, the minority leader. "It is a terrible thing. It is an almost irreparable loss."

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, after expressing his own sense of loss, added: "His work during the session has been very difficult and trying. He was a great speaker."

President Roosevelt in a statement from the White House expressed well the high esteem in which Mr. Byrns was held. Said he:

"Fearless, incorruptible, unselfish with a high sense of justice, wise in counsel, broad of vision, calm in adversity, and modest in victory, he served his state and the nation with fidelity, honor, and great usefulness. I personally mourn the passing of a steadfast friend of many years."

Impressive funeral services were held in the chamber of the house, the President, members of the cabinet and numerous diplomats being present in addition to all members of congress. The body was then taken to Nashville, Tenn., for burial, and Mr. Roosevelt accompanied the special congressional committee there.

The house elected William B. Bankhead of Alabama speaker for the remainder of the session.

The death of Speaker Byrns followed closely that of another well-known congressman, A. Platt Andrew of Massachusetts, a Republican. He died of influenza at his home in Gloucester at the age of sixty-three. Mr. Andrew, who taught economics at Harvard more than thirty years ago, was director of the mint for a few months under President Taft and then was assistant secretary of the treasury. He was elected to congress in 1921, and supported much of President Roosevelt's early legislation.

MISS CLARA DUTTON NOYES, sixty-six, director of the American Red Cross nursing service, died in Washington a few minutes after she was stricken while driving to work in her car. Miss Noyes was assistant director of the American Red Cross nursing service during the World War. She also had been superintendent of nurses at the Bellevue and allied hospitals in New York.

Cyrus Hall McCormick, whose father developed the farm reaper and who himself helped organize the International Harvester company and was its president for 33 years, died at his home in Lake Forest, Ill., at the age of seventy-seven years. He was noted as a progressive business man, liberal with his employees and always interested actively in public welfare movements. He was rated as one of the wealthiest men in America and gave millions of dollars to educational and charitable organizations.

MARSHAL PIETRO BADOGLIO, conqueror of Ethiopia and now viceroy of that part of the reconstituted "Roman empire," returned to the Eternal City in triumph and was vociferously welcomed as a hero. Sixty thousand Romans welcomed him as he stepped from his train, and Premier Mussolini modestly waited in the background until they had shouted their greetings to the veteran warrior. Then Il Duce came forward and kissed the viceroy on both cheeks, and the high ranking Fascist military leaders paid homage. With the premier and the picked troops forming the escort of honor were the entire cabinet. Several days later a great military review was held.

The other side of the picture was seen in London, where Haile Selassie, the deposed emperor of Ethiopia, arrived in tears and sadness, though he was given an ovation by the cheering thousands that had seldom been accorded to visitors to England. Many of the Londoners carried Ethiopian flags or scarlet banners reading "Welcome to the Emperor." With the white sympathizers were many African chiefs in native robes, Somalis, negroes, Hindus, Chinese, and colored people from all parts of the world.

There was an outburst of wild cheering when Selassie, bareheaded and wearing a long black cape, stepped from his private sleeping car and was greeted by many notables, including O. C. Harvey, private secretary of Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary. Harvey was the lone representative of the British government.

JUST as the "popular front" in France was taking over the government the country was distracted by strikes that spread rapidly to almost all industrial centers and involved all manner of trades. The workers demanded higher wages, a 40-hour week and a closed shop, and they went out by the hundred thousand though they knew they were causing great embarrassment to their own leaders. In many cases the strikers took possession of the closed plants.

In Spain the syndicalists tied up various industries by strikes that involved about 250,000 workers and that were marked by several murders and other outrages. Augusto Barcia, minister of state, said the government planned to outlaw the syndicalists if they persisted in disobeying orders from the ministries of labor and the interior.

J. H. THOMAS, until recently British colonial secretary, was found responsible by a special government tribunal for the leak in budget secrets which enabled some of his friends to profit largely through insurance against tax raises. Final disposition of the case was left to the house of commons. Thomas, once an engine wiper and later a powerful figure in organized labor and politics, termed the tribunal's verdict "cruel." He said: "My own conscience is clear. I repeat what I previously stated upon oath: that I made no disclosures of budget secrets to anybody."

RURAL housewives from many countries began their third triennial conference in Washington with Mrs. Alfred Watt of Canada presiding. Their first meeting was held in 1930 in Vienna, and the second in Stockholm three years later. Secretaries Hull and Wallace and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, extended greetings to the visitors, but beyond that there were no set speeches and little formality. Instead, the farm wives held "exchange of experience" sessions, viewed elaborate exhibits of rural need, work and crafts of organized countrywomen of the participating nations, and attended "open houses" held by all branches of the federal government in which countrywomen are particularly interested.

In exchanging experiences the women learned, among other things, that: English groups have stimulated a remunerative revival of quilting to supplement the family income. Australian countrywomen maintain seaside homes for convalescents. Canada's Federated Women's institute promotes clubs for rural youth and combats maternal and infant mortality.

By conducting evening classes for young girls Danish countrywomen have helped to check their migration to town to seek factory work.

IN A report just made public the business advisory council proposes a simplified basis for industrial self-regulation through the medium of voluntary joint agreements on unfair trade practices enforceable by the federal trade commission. The report was prepared by the council's committee on unfair trade practices of which Lincoln Filene of Boston is chairman.

Outstanding among the committee's proposals were suggestions that each branch of an industry, such as wholesale, retail, and manufacturing, police the activities of each other through confidential reports to the federal trade commission and that no attempt be made to include trade practice and labor provisions in the same agreements.

THE so-called industrial mobilization plan of the War department, providing for a military dictatorship over labor, capital and industry, as well as censorship of the press in wartime, was severely condemned in a report to the senate by the munitions committee.

People Demand Real Security

Active Interest of Religious Bodies Seen as Solution of Our Troubles

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON.—Beneath the uproar of a political campaign the great thing that people want is security. This craving is the reason for the growing support for old age pensions, farm loan betterments and well-managed relief. It is the reason for the appearance of a deeply religious feeling on the part of millions of devoted American church folks that it is high time to let a little of the kingdom of heaven into the affairs of state.

Security in old age is so greatly to be desired that four million people are still supporting the Townsend old age plan, despite exposures of its unworkable premises. The Townsend people gain the first prize, but as my friend Congressman Maury Maverick of Texas says, "You can't eat the front page." National security can come only by well laid foundations, such as that now guaranteed in the social security law which starts off slowly providing now at least $30 monthly for 600,000 old folks in 32 states. More people in more states will get aboard in time; more money is surely to be provided in time; but it will be real money, not the inflated and useless money of the Townsend plan.

These things run through the mass mind of America along with the rumblings of discontent over relief; and no one is more discontented over relief than Roosevelt, whose all embracing plan includes a nation of people working in an economic plan where federal relief is unnecessary. Meaning I am going to be bold enough to say that the real solution of our troubles begins to appear in the active interest of many religious bodies. Man-made economies, based on too great a love of business and not enough love of the individual, may never work again. At the same time the simple and strong tenets of the sermon on the mount and the Golden Rule are coming more and more to the front. These precepts contain the depths of wisdom and are at the bottom of the liberal and progressive policies. They were founded with creation at a time when corporations were yet to be devised.

Significant, therefore, is the decision of the Church of Latter Day Saints to take care of its own 80,000 people on relief, going back to the Old Testament practice of tithing on the part of the more fortunate members. This is a good example of taking care of the unfortunate on the basis of genuine love for one's neighbor. It takes away the professional charity worker, than whom there is no greater blight. Those who deal in the depths of religious philosophy are convinced that a return to first principles is the one way out of chaos. I think Roosevelt is basing his statecraft on these principles.

FACTS ABOUT NRA

The Dupont boys and the Liberty league had a grand celebration the other day on the anniversary of the death of NRA, which went down under a court opinion. To harmonize with their views the Wall Street Journal's first page carried a pontifical announcement by some mawkish of industry proclaiming that industry had kept the faith and that without NRA everything was lovely in industry; that wages are high and hours short and everybody satisfied. The impression the Big Business boys would like to generate is that NRA was a crazy socialist bit of bunk; that nothing but ill came of it; and that the only reason we are progressing at all is because NRA and the Blue Eagle are no more.

The facts are that working hours have increased while in many instances wage cutting has been acute, particularly among industries with rates at so much per hour. One thing that NRA fostered was the five-day week in industry which put many more men to work. That has practically disappeared. Child labor has increased whereas NRA was certainly keeping the kids out of factories and giving the jobs to men, the family budget of industrial employees had more money for food and clothes; and that boosted the farmers' income. Now the Big Boys of industry point to increased production and better profits and all that—but they apparently are taking it out of the hides of their employees.

I know department stores where the girls are working longer for less money. . . . And purchasing power is lagging behind. NRA helped smooth out labor troubles; and on the day Liberty leaguers were celebrating the death of NRA there were 50,000 men on strike in this country, whereas their disputes could have been settled under the NRA codes.

STOPS RELIEF FOR CITIES Not only individuals went broke in the post war depression; our chief mendicants were cities and other minor governmental units, about two thousand of them. Tattered and ragged in a financial sense was the proud city of Detroit; and it was because of Detroit's plight that Senator Couzens of that city helped put through the law giving these busted communities a chance to recoup themselves by a sort of bankruptcy process. It was a practical scheme to let the busted towns scale down their bonded debts, borrow some money from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and thus keep the creditors from taking the municipal shirts right off the cities' backs. Congress was doing for large aggregations of individuals in cities just what it was doing for the single individual who was in trouble with the mortgage holder.

But in the case of one district down in Texas a small group of bondholders kicked; they wanted all or nothing and went to court and eventually the Supreme court knocked out this law in a highly legalistic and extremely unrealistic opinion. It is an opinion that stops about 2,000 cities from getting the financial relief they should get (although in some instances their financial condition has improved). It was a decision in which five judges voted the law was unconstitutional and four believed it was O. K.; and strange to say, Chief Justice Hughes voted with the minority.

The majority of conservatives based their opinion on something that Chief Justice Chase said nearly a hundred years ago. The old dead hand of pre civil war states' rights dictated this opinion through the legalistic minds of the five conservatives on a court of nine. Yet the states themselves wanted this law for the benefit of their poverty stricken cities; just as the states want to waive any and all state rights if rich old Uncle Sam will take care of the poor and jobless men and women where the states can't. But states' rights are greater than the solution of any national problem in the eyes of the courts' majority. And so we are once again tied to what some one said a hundred years ago. . . . It is much like China.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Mention of child labor reminds me there is considerable talk about a drive to put over the constitutional amendment against child labor. Twenty-four states have ratified the amendment; twenty-two have rejected it. Those which have rejected it are permitted to change their action to ratification—but those ratifying must stick to their decision. There is a strong tide against a child labor amendment or any such legislation on the part of the rural districts, cities and industrial centers, where child labor abuses are bad, strongly support child labor prohibitions and they are the spots whence come the present demand for an end to the abuses.

Farmers' representatives here say that farmers look to their children for help at planting and harvest times; and they feel that while the government is seeking to wipe out real abuses that such legislation might also prohibit a farm boy and girl from doing the necessary chores.

This child labor amendment may become a political issue. The younger Americans who have been suffering under the depression and who are taking an interest in government are all for this limitation on youngsters going into industry while the old folks are thrown out of jobs. If the matter comes to a vote you would find about 70 per cent of Democrats for it; about half the Republicans, most all of labor and only a small section of the votes in the farm belt.

THEY DO NOT PAY

Now is the time of year when the European governments should pay this government an installment on their war debt; but they will let it go without even an apology. They owe all told $13,670,087,391; and they are now over a billion dollars behind in their half-yearly installments to pay off this huge debt. Finland, which owes a small amount, pays regularly at the rate of $167,000 every six months; and that's the only money Uncle Sam is getting back for the billions loaned for war purposes. If Europe would pay, our taxes would be much lower.

Officials here keep a straight face about these debts and refuse to discuss them; but privately they admit they never expect to see Europe pay a nickel—outside of Finland, France, Germany, England and Italy are now using money they owe us—and they are using it to build up new war machines; more armies, more navies and new devices to wipe each other out by the cityful in the next European war.

Of course Europe needs more money; needs it from us and can't get more credit while she owes us anything. That is fixed by the Johnson law. So Europe now then makes guarded suggestions hinting a full payment to us—but that would merely be like paying off a debt of five dollars in order to be able to borrow about twenty.

However, I don't look to any further financial dealings with Europe in any event; our national spirit now is against monkeying with a European war in any way—and certainly with our present neutral feeling we are not going to countenance the financing of another war over there.

Lesson for June 14

JESUS CRUCIFIED

LESSON TEXT—Luke 23:33-44. GOLDEN TEXT—But God commended his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.—Romans 5:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Died for Us. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Savior—Christ the Lord. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Died for Me. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Meaning of the Cross.

It is highly important that every teacher have the personal experience of Christ's death for himself and then get his pupils to see that Christ's death was instead of their own death. We escape judgment because judgment fell upon Christ. He was made to be sin for us that we might be made the righteousness of God in him (II Cor. 5:21). No one lacking this experience can truly teach this lesson.

I. The Place of Crucifixion (v. 33). They led him away to Calvary, a hill north of Jerusalem resembling a skull. Calvary is the Latin word, and Golgotha is the Hebrew. This is a most significant name for the place where man's redemption was accomplished. The skull is an apt symbol of man's condition as a result of sin. Life and intelligence are gone, leaving only the dark empty cavern which once contained them.

II. His Companions on the Cross (v. 33). Two malefactors were crucified with him. This is in fulfillment of the Scriptures: "He was numbered with the transgressors" (Isa. 53:12). Personally, he was sinless, but he became sin for us.

III. His Forgiving Love (v. 34). He cried, "Father forgive them." He doubtless had in mind not only the soldiers who acted for the government, but the Jews who in their blindness were ignorant of the enormity of their crime. He was absolutely destitute of hatred, even for his betrayer and murderers.

IV. The Revelation of the World (vv. 34-43). Take a cross section of the world at any time since Christ was crucified, and representatives of the various classes therein were found around Jesus on the cross. The cross is the judgment of this world. (John 12:31).

1. The covetous (v. 34). They gambled for his seamless robe where he was dying. This represents those whose primary interest in Christ is a means to get gain. If they had had eyes to see they could have beheld a robe of righteousness being provided in his death.

2. The indifferent (v. 35). "The people stood beholding." They gazed upon him with indifference. The great mass of the world today gazes upon the crucified Christ with stolid indifference.

3. The scoffers (vv. 35-39). The rulers reviled him for his claim to be the Savior. They wanted a Savior but not a crucified one. Many today are religious but have only contempt for a salvation which centers in an atonement made by blood. They uttered a great truth when they said: "He saved others." But he could not save himself and others because God's plan was to save others by giving himself.

b. The soldiers reviled him for claiming to be a king. The title "King of the Jews" had been placed over him in irony. But it was pre-eminently true, for by right of the Davidic covenant, he shall one day be king over Israel (II Sam. 7:8-16). Through his death, he came into the place of Lordship over all who acknowledge him.

c. The impatient malefactor (v. 39). This brutal man joined in reviling the Savior, even though he himself was under condemnation.

4. The penitent malefactor (vv. 40-43). The conscious sinner who discerned the heart of the Savior prayed for mercy. The salvation of this penitent man is a remarkable picture of the saving power of Christ. The man confessed his sin as against God and cried to Jesus for salvation. He saw that the dying man was the forgiving God. His salvation was immediate. Christ said: "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

V. The Death of Christ (vv. 44-46). So shocking was this crime that nature herself threw around the Son of God a shroud to hide him from the godless crowd. Darkness was upon the land at noonday. When the price of sin was paid he cried with a loud voice, showing that he still had vitality, that his death was not through exhaustion but by his sovereign will. He died like no other one in all history. He gave up the ghost, that is, dismissed his spirit.

The Soul I am fully convinced that the soul is indestructible, and that its activity will continue through eternity. It is like the sun, which, to our eyes, seems to set in night; but it has in reality only gone to diffuse its light elsewhere.—Goethe.

Active in Good Works Beautiful is the activity that works for good, and the stillness that waits for good; blessed the self-sacrifice of the one, and the self-forgetfulness of the other.

THE LONE STAR EMPIRE
Holds a Birthday Party

The Esplanade of the Texas Centennial exposition at night. The buildings in the background are the Travel, Transportation and Petroleum group.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
SATURDAY morning, June 6.
Parry avenue in Dallas, Texas, is jammed with people—hundreds of them, thousands of them! Men, women and children—Texans and residents of dozens of other states in the Union. They have been here for hours—waiting, waiting!

Some of them have been traveling by train for days to reach this city. Others have come in automobiles—driving all night to be here on time. Still others swooped down from the skies to the airport outside the city only this morning and hastily taxied out here.

But they are all here for the same purpose—to be on hand at the big birthday party which the state of Texas is giving.

The crowd is growing larger every minute. It begins to stir, to move forward. The moment for which they have been waiting is almost at hand.

At last—the signal! The gates of the main entrance are thrown open and the milling crowds stream through into the grounds of the Texas Centennial exposition, the $25,000,000 world's fair of the Southwest.

The Lone Star empire which thus begins the celebration of its one hundredth birthday has had a career unique among those of the other states of the Union. The flags of six nations have flown over its broad expanse of more than 265,000 square miles and all of them—Spain, France, Mexico, the Republic of Texas, the Confederate States of America and the United States of America—have contributed thrilling chapters to its history.

For that reason one of the principal elements of the Centennial exposition is historical—the Texans of today honoring the memory of Texans of the past. The visitor becomes aware of that fact the moment he enters the grounds.

As he passes through the main entrance, the first building he sees on the left is the administration building which houses the offices of the extensive organization necessary to operate successfully a modern world's fair. Set in the gleaming white face of the building, above the entrance doors, is a brilliantly-colored mural painting on a theme symbolic of the history of the state.

The Administration Building, the first structure which the visitor to the Texas Centennial sees when he enters the grounds. Above its doorways is a huge mural painting symbolic of the history of Texas. On the left hangs the historic Lone Star banner of the Republic of Texas. And on the right the Stars and Stripes of the United States of America.

Swaying in the breeze at the left is a banner composed of two broad stripes, one red and one white, and a blue field upon which shines a single huge white star. It is the flag of the Republic of Texas, born just a hundred years ago and an independent nation for nine years. Then it became the state of Texas and that huge white star became a star in the blue field of the American flag which hangs at the right of the mural painting.

Walking past this building and continuing along the beautiful Esplanade, 300 feet wide and 1,000 feet long, with its huge reflecting basin in the center, the visitor sees rising before him the largest of all the exposition buildings—the million-dollar Texas Hall of State. Built of native white limestone, one wing houses exhibits illustrative of the historical events which made the state of Texas, and another is devoted to displays of the social and industrial life of the state. Here, also, is the Hall of Heroes, where a tribute is paid to the pioneers and other men who had a hand in building the great commonwealth of today.

But if this treasure house of the past isn't enough for one who seeks to recapture the atmosphere of the old days, he can find it in the dramatic re-enactment of Lone Star state history presented under the title of the "Cavalade of Texas." It is a great pageant produced on a stage 350 feet wide and 200 feet deep. There 300 actors and actresses, some of them descendants of the heroes and heroines whom they are impersonating, present each day a pageant depicting 400 years of Texas history, from the landing of the Conquistadores down to the present day.

Spanish galleons and pirate ships float on the artificial river which runs across this giant stage; Franciscan friars, French and Spanish explorers, patriots in the Texas War of Liberation, American frontiersmen, buffalo hunters, cattle trail drivers, cowboys, Texas Rangers, Confederate soldiers—in fact all of the characters who once stalked across the stage of Texas history—will appear upon this modern stage in colorful pageantry. A unique "curtain" marks the end of each scene in this spectacle. It is a sheet of fine water spray, 100 feet high, with colored lights playing upon it to produce the mood of the scene which follows.

Another of the chief elements of the Dallas fair is that it is an exposition of the many varied industries and businesses of a modern American state. Towering above all others are the "Big Three" of where oil derricks point toward the sky, there flows constantly a stream of "black gold" to complete the triad of Texas' chief sources of wealth.

At the exposition the story of these three giants is told in graphic exhibits, as is the story of all the other varied industries and occupations which have contributed to the greatness of Texas and which will continue to make it great.

Among the most important buildings on the grounds are the halls of transportation and varied industries and the buildings of the farm center, five in all. In the latter will be conducted live stock, agricultural, poultry and food shows and similar exhibits. In fact, the majority of the outstanding national live stock and poultry shows of America this year will be staged at the Dallas fair.

Live stock shows scheduled include National Dairy show, October 10 to 18; Texas Centennial Exposition Swine show, October 17 to 28; Texas Centennial Exposition Sheep and Goat show, October 29 to November 8; Texas Centennial Exposition Horse show, October 31 to November 8; National Mule show, November 14 to November 20.

The National Dairy show has never before been brought to the Southwest, and with the National Mule show ranks among the premier events of its kind internationally. Texas Hereford Cattle show; Texas 4-H Clubs Live Stock show and Texas Future Farmers of America Live Stock show are also scheduled.

In the poultry building of the exposition the following shows are scheduled: National Turkey Egg and Turkey Poultry show, June 6 to 25; National Baby Chick and Egg show, June 6 to 25; Advertising Brooders show, June 26 to August 27; National Young Bird Pigeon show, August 28 to September 3; Wild Bird show, September 4 to September 10; 4-H Club Poultry show, September 11 to September 17; Future Farmers of America Poultry show, September 18 to September 24; Young Bird Poultry show, September 25 to October 1; National Bantam show, October 2 to October 8; American Breed show, October 16 to October 22; Mediterranean Breed show, October 9 to 15; English and Asiatic Breed show, October 23 to October 29; United Orlington Club of America show, October 23 to October 29; Texas Cornish Club show, October 23 to October 29; All Turkey show, October 30 to November 5; Texas Pigeon Association show and Rabbit show, November 6 to November 13.

Hundreds of fine specimens of southwestern game and bird life are mounted in habitat groups in the hall of natural history. The aquarium of the exposition, one of the largest in the United States, is stocked with myriad varieties of salt and fresh water fish, in 86 different tanks and pools.

For the nature lover, the hall of horticulture is a near approach to heaven. It is surrounded by flower gardens where hundreds of varieties of roses, wild flowers and other floral gems are growing. Strolling in the gardens, the visitor hears the music from the symphony shell on the lagoon nearby, where outdoor programs are given daily during the exposition.

The people of Texas look upon their fair as a tribute to the past, an exhibition of the present and a herald of tomorrow. In February, 1924, 2,000 Texans met in Austin determined to make sure of a centennial observance in 1936. For more than a decade the spirit of the founders of the Lone Star state has kept the centennial alive and active in the minds of the people of the state. To provide for it properly the state constitution had to be amended, elections held and money appropriated.

Pure Exhilaration

THE amount of pure exhilaration that is inherent in an obstacle and a difficulty has never been adequately estimated. There is really no such stimulus known elsewhere. It is like a ladder set up that one may climb. It is a tacit invitation to command the outlook. It is the open door of opportunity. It is the intimation to look within and discover one's latent powers and use them. It is one of the most forcible intimations of immortality.—Lillian Whiting.

Cardui During Middle Life
Women who are entering middle life will be interested in the experience of Mrs. L. C. McDonald, of Paragould, Ark., who writes: "I took Cardui during change of life. I was so weak, so nervous, I could hardly go. I just dragged around. I had fainting spells and would just give down. My back and head hurt. I read of Cardui. I took about seven bottles. It gave me relief and strength. I am now 60 years past, and can do a pretty good day's work in the house and garden."

THE DUST BOWL

The Panhandle and the Plains of Texas and portions of Oklahoma, Kansas, and Colorado have just undergone a prolonged and devastating drought. Last year the dust storms and sand storms were almost unprecedented in their severity. To a stranger or a visitor, it looked as if the whole country were ruined. Indeed most of them jumped to the conclusion that the country was never of any account to start with. Even some of the old-timers in this section became exasperated. Three or four crop failures in succession was enough to make them faint-hearted. So, they appealed to the Government for aid.

In describing their predicament, these dispirited plainmen painted a black picture. Even some of us newspaper boys used up most of the dark and lurid adjectives in the dictionary trying to describe conditions. It was a true picture; but many of those living in other sections of the country were quick to conclude that this was the normal condition of the country, that the "Dust Bowl" was worthless as a farming region and "always" would be.

Then, some of those theorists occupying high positions in Washington started a campaign to have the entire region converted back "into grass. One of them even predicted that all that vast and rich farming section extending from the Rocky Mountains to the Mississippi was destined to become a desert. Kansas City was in time to become buried in desert sands. Not all the Washington theorists held views so extreme as this of course, but all of them believed that vast areas in the "Dust Bowl" must be turned back into pasture lands. Farming in this region must be abandoned.

So, to enforce their arguments, these theorists procured an appropriation, or an allocation, of $250,000 with which to take pictures of the region. The pictures were taken. Of course, the areas of greatest devastation were photographed. The worst of the drifting sands were shown. It is a weird picture. And now this picture, entitled "The Plow that Broke the Plains", is being placed on the screen by a Department of this Government.

In the meantime, the rains have come. Rivers in the so-called "Dust Bowl" have been overflowing their banks. A number of people in fact have been drowned right in the heart of the "Dust Bowl". But the aforesaid Government department goes merrily on showing the picture of "The Plow that Broke the Plains" to countless multitudes of people all over the country.

"So, the people of the "Dust Bowl" are raising a howl. They have a right to. While the pictures may be true, they do not tell the whole story. It is like taking a picture of an emaciated man just recovering from a terrible attack of typhoid fever, and holding that out to the world as the picture of the man in normal condition. To show only the dark picture without at the same time showing the many bright ones that might be taken, is like telling just half the truth, which, we are told, is often worse than telling a whole lie.

Now, we contend that the Government, in showing this picture to the world, is doing the people of this section a great injustice. It leaves the wrong impression. It does not reveal the information that normally the Panhandle produces great crops of the best wheat grown in the United States, and that the South Plains is one of the greatest cotton-producing sections of this state; that Lynn and Lubbock, and Lamb and Dawson, and Crosby counties on the South Plains have taken their place during the past ten years among the twenty or thirty leading cotton counties of Texas. Thus we could go on indefinitely. But this is enough.

It should be enough to call a halt on this "Dust Bowl" picture showing business. It should be the end of "The Plow that Broke the Plains". A great government of all the people should not deliberately do a grave injustice to any class of its people, however benevolent its motive may be.

RETURNING TO SANITY

Before statewide prohibition was adopted in this state in 1919, most of the counties of the state had already voted dry under the local option laws. Only a few of the counties containing the larger cities, a few South Texas counties, and a few others scattered over the state still remained wet. Even some of the most populous counties in the state had gone dry. Then came state-wide and national prohibition.

But, beginning with the Al Smith campaign of 1928, a studied and well-planned attempt to break down prohibition was begun. Indeed it was begun two or three years before that date, but it did not really come out into the open until that year. The country was flooded with wet propaganda. Much of it was false and pernicious. Under the persistent and long-continued onslaught, sentiment against prohibition of any kind gradually gathered strength.

So, when Franklin D. Roosevelt in accepting the Democratic nomination in 1932 declared that national prohibition was doomed, it was obvious that he spoke the truth. He had helped and thereafter helped to bring its doom.

And the same sentiment which crushed national prohibition, wrecked state prohibition too in most of the states that had adopted it. Texas was no exception to the rule. As soon as the murder of national prohibition had been accomplished, the clamor for the crucifixion of state prohibition in Texas arose. At the very first opportunity it was ruthlessly stricken down. A conglomerated mess of regulations of the liquor traffic was enacted into law. But the right of local option was restored to the counties and smaller subdivisions of the state.

Under these laws, all the counties that had remained wet up to the time of the adoption of state prohibition continued wet after its repeal, and those counties that had voted dry prior to the adoption of state prohibition remained dry after repeal of the statewide law.

But, overwhelmed by the same wet sentiment which had swept the entire country, many of these erstwhile dry counties hastened to call prohibition elections and to legalize liquor in some form or other. Recent elections, however, show that a distinct reversion against the legalized liquor traffic is setting in. Counties that had legalized 3.2 beer and even stronger liquors are now voting dry again. They are finding that even the beer joints soon become offensive to the sensibilities of all ladies and gentlemen. They are finding that the business that these joints bring to a town is not worth the cost. They are going to find this out more and more as time goes on. A lot of folks are going to become disillusioned. Give the liquor traffic a little rope and it will hang itself. More and more counties in the course of time are going to vote dry. People are again returning to sanity. It may be a long time before we adopt national prohibition again, but somewhere down the road we will do it.

CRITICISM

We are a very intemperate people. Just now, in the North and East, there is a lot of unjustified and intemperate criticism of President Roosevelt. Four years ago, there was a lot of unjustified and intemperate criticism of President Hoover, and there still is much of the same kind. Presidential candidates are just as guilty of this sin as anybody else. Four years ago, Roosevelt as a candidate scathingly criticised President Hoover. Now, Hoover, as a partisan and a defeated candidate, is scathingly criticizing President Roosevelt. Let death suddenly overtake either of them and the other would weep at his grave.

Doubtless neither of these two great men is entirely sincere in his criticism of the other. Most of us are not entirely sincere in our criticisms. We often criticise without knowing all the facts. We sometimes criticise without knowing scarcely any of the facts. Criticising, especially in political years, seems to be the great American pastime.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

BLACK-DRAUGHT

But had you ever thought about how much harm this intemperate criticism does?

Abraham Lincoln was assassinated by a man who was actuated by his insane malice. For four years he had breathed the atmosphere of criticism and hatred. He merely carried out in deed what many others had inspired by word of mouth. This act rekindled and intensified the flames of hatred in the North, and as a result the South was made to suffer.

McKinley was assassinated by a foreign labor crank. The intemperate criticism he heard and read fanned the fires of hatred and passion in his soul to a white heat, and he decided to get rid of this alleged tool of capitalism.

A similar crank undertook to assassinate Franklin D. Roosevelt, even before he was inaugurated President; and every President must be closely guarded to keep some crank, inspired by bitter criticism that he hears, from murdering the chief magistrate of our nation, feeling that he is thus ridding the country of a public enemy.

If President Roosevelt or ex-President Hoover should be assassinated today, the American people would be to blame, whosoever the hand might be that pulled the trigger.

We ought to be more temperate, more cautious, and more sure of our facts in criticising those in office or out of office, and especially those in high station. By our intemperance and bitterness, we may be inspiring some crank to send a leaden bullet through the heart of a great and patriotic American.

PENSIONS

Two or three of the candidates for governor are becoming terribly excited and incensed because no "old age pensions" have been paid thus far and because, as they claim, the State will be unable to pay these pensions in full as they become due.

It is strange that they have not been raving about pensions that are over-due ex-Confederates and their widows. For years and years the State has been delinquent in the payment of these pensions, though they are a mere bagatelle as compared to the vast sums that are to be paid to the aged under the new law. Why don't they raise thunder about the State failing to provide for these old veterans who served the Southland so valiantly—and so sacrificially in the dark days of the Civil War? Is it because these ex-Confederates and their widows have grown few in number and cannot cast many votes? Are they so concerned about the "aged" who will be entitled to assistance under the new law for political reason? Well, some of us are slightly suspicious that their indignation is inspired by their desire for votes, for there are many voters in Texas who will reap benefits under the new law.

But in spite of the raving of the politicians, most of us realize that it takes a reasonable length of time to get the machinery set up, to meet the requirements of the federal government as to the payment of pensions, to list the eligibles under the new law, to pass on the qualifications of the applicants, and to get the funds in pocket with which to make payments.

So, most of us are not getting excited, as some of the candidates are, and most of us will doubtless vote for these demagogues to remain at home for at least two more years.

FORD V-8 ECONOMY MEANS HIGH "Dollar Mileage" (MORE MILES PER DOLLAR)

NO MATTER how you classify your expenditures for car up-keep—it's your total expenditure that counts. How much "dollar mileage" is your car giving you?

Dollars do go farther in the Ford V-8. Modern improved carburetion gives you unusual gasoline mileage with brilliant V-8 performance. Most owners of today's Ford change oil only every 2000 miles and add none between changes.

And after the first few thousand miles you begin to understand what Ford V-8 "dollar mileage" really means.

It gives you more miles per dollar because it gives you all-round economy—low first cost, low up-keep cost, low depreciation and long life—as well as low gasoline and oil consumption. All these are big items if you aim to buy the most economical car.

Blue Socks Play Wilson Sunday

Tahoka Blue Socks, playing their first game of the season, lost out to T-Bar 9 to 5 in a game on the new diamond near the High School Sunday afternoon. Melvin Greathouse, Coon Hill, and Anderson each did mound duty for the local team, and Hill is said to have done good work. Sunday afternoon the Blue Socks will play the strong Wilson team on the Wilson diamond at 3:00 o'clock. Local fans are invited to go with the team to the neighboring city.

Chas. Armour Guy of the Lubbock dailies says that it makes an editor feel real good to be thanked for services rendered, once in awhile. You bet your boots. But it kinder galls one to go out to a play that you have given two or three columns of free advertising, sometimes on the front page and everybody is thanked and rethanked, but the paper is entirely forgotten, and perhaps it rendered the greatest service in getting out a crowd—and the money—than any other individual mentioned. That incident happened right here in Brownfield not over three weeks ago.—Terry County Herald.

Lee Wood, who is undergoing treatment in Muscatine, Iowa, is slightly improved, according to word received here from R. C. Wood, who is with Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Eakin of Levelland visited A. R. McGonagill and Mrs. Gladys Stokes here over the week-end.

LONDON NOMINATION

As we go to press Thursday afternoon, it is a foregone conclusion that Governor Alf M. Landon is to be the Republican standard bearer in the approaching Presidential campaign. It was obvious that he would be nominated on the first ballot or by acclamation Thursday night or Friday. Practically all of the other candidates had already withdrawn and were pledging Landon their enthusiastic support.

Former President Hoover spoke to the convention Tuesday night and received a great ovation. He made a powerful and terrific arraignment of the Roosevelt administration.

Mrs. Earl F. Wilson of Lockney and Miss Rose Wood of this city attended the graduation exercises of New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell last week. They were accompanied home by their nephew, Cadet Morgan Noble, who has been attending the Institute.

Thomas J. Williams of Draw brought to the News office a few days ago a pumpkin of the Pike's Peak variety which he raised on his farm last year and successfully kept through the winter. Apparently it will make good pumpkin pie yet. We'll try it some of these days.

Dr. and Mrs. K. R. Durham and children left Sunday morning to visit their parents and other relatives in Arkansas and Louisiana. They expected to be gone two or three weeks.

Mrs. L. O. Sparks left Tuesday to spend a few days with her husband, who is at Houston at the present time.

Dr. Robert Harp made a trip up into Hale county last Sunday and took a look at his brother's wheat crop, situated between Abernathy and Hale Center. He says that this and other wheat in that vicinity will make from 10 to 20 bushels per acre, in spite of the spring drouth that held on so long in the wheat belt.

Club and Church News

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES
 Good attendance wanted Sunday. We are not short on pews, fans or water. But bring your purse, and some old person for company. All of our folks are young. No pillows allowed during the sermon. Listening becomes automatic, after you really tune-in to the sermon, and apply what you have in stock to understanding it. Come to church Sunday After our fine rains and the added enthusiasm of work, on the farm and every where, looking forward to a harvest time. And, so there is a becoming zeal and activity about our Christian service. If we would enjoy the largest possible harvest. These times challenge Ministers and God's people to do their best. Something depends, now days upon the Gospel preached and the attitude of Christians toward the same. Writes Mr. Babson recently "The most potent influence for good in this country now, and for that, the whole world, is the open Church and the Gospel preached. The real Forts of civilization, after all, are our Christian homes, schools of training, and Gospel preaching Churches. The hope of future citizenship is here. Patriotism therefore, dictates, that we take care of these noble supports of good government, on time Good government is made up of good families and individuals."

This week, we have been impressed with a marvelous yard and lawn culture going on everywhere. So many man, under family mandate, cleaning up around the place. Towns, villages and whole communities given to beautifying their places with lovely flowers, grass lawns, trees, and yard comforts. An index of civic pride. Let us also look with in, and upon each Sunday, do a little internal yard improvement upon our heart's lawn, keeping the weeds down, while the beautiful things of truth and Grace grow, in our hearts, yard or garden, all the year around.

Preaching services 11: a. m. No night service. Morning theme "The great Spiritual Readjustment Program." Its need and method. Fine gospel hymns Be in this service. Glad to have you. Everybody cordially invited.

 W. K. Johnston, Minister.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES
 Our visit to O'Donnell last Lord's day was very pleasant, with fair crowds and a fine interest. The work here was carried on in a splendid way with attendance unusually good. Brother John Benson and family of Terry county were among the visitors. I was sorry I missed them. Come again, John.

What a wonderful thing friendship is! I wonder if we value friendship as we should. The most of our success is due to the help given us of our friends. Our aim should be to make as many friends as possible and just as few enemies. But, the best of all is, that we may all have Jesus as a friend, and what a wonderful friend he is, one that will be with us always if we will let him.

A note of warning, if you have the privilege of going to the Centennial and are there over Lord's day, don't forget the worship and also take your religion along with you.

I will fill the pulpit here next Lord's day morning and evening. Come worship with us in the good old-fashioned New Testament way at the friendly church.—R. P. Drennon.

MIDWAY H. D. CLUB
 "Variety in colors of vegetables tend to furnish the required variety in vitamins," said Mrs. R. J. Cope to the Midway H. D. club at the home of Mrs. G. A. Edwards Wednesday, of last week. A round-table discussion followed on the preparation of the main dish, as to what meats and vegetables are best served together.

Mrs. Ruth Crow prepared a very attractive poster on fruit juices. Miss Marie Owens displayed a poster on desserts.

Mrs. R. L. Littlepage discussed "Serving a Meal, using the above products."

Mrs. Howard Draper, secretary-treasurer, gave a financial report.

 "Vegetables were scarce in the dietary one hundred years ago," said Miss Boyd, county H. D. agent, to the Wilson Club at the home of Mrs. W. C. Huffaker June 3.

"Vegetables were eaten only in season, as no canning was done, nor was there the variety of vegetables that we have now. Tomatoes were not eaten, as they were considered poisonous.

"Vegetables are important for mineral salts and vitamins, as well as proteins, carbohydrates, and fats. Vitamins help to balance the mineral salts in the diet. Vegetables, if possible, should be cooked with their skins on to save food value, also cooked the shortest possible time, saving the liquid in which they are cooked.

"Meals should be planned ahead of time in order to plan well balanced meals."

Mrs. Walker Server was a new member present.

Refreshing Relief
 When You Need a Laxative

Because of the refreshing relief it has brought them, thousands of men and women, who could afford much more expensive laxatives, use Black-Draught when needed. It is very economical, purely vegetable, highly effective. . . Mr. J. Lester Roberson, well known hardware dealer at Martinsville, Va., writes: "I certainly can recommend Black-Draught as a splendid medicine. I have taken it for constipation and the dull feelings that follow, and have found it very satisfactory."

Lovely "Sweetheart of Texas"

To millions of people throughout the nation, who have read with interest the Texas Centennial's booklets describing the beauties of Texas, lovely Janice Jarratt was known simply as the "girl on the cover". But in response to a wide public demand Centennial officials revealed her identity as the San Antonio girl who won fame in New York as America's best-loved model and became ranked as one of the world's most beautiful women. Back to Texas she came last week, and in an elaborate ceremony attended by hundreds Governor James V. Allred bestowed upon her the official state commission as "Sweetheart of the Texas Centennial." It will be her duty to reign with charm and gracious distinction over many of the scores of Centennial celebrations being held throughout all Texas.

MRS. BRANDON TELLS OF CANNING WORK
 When planning a canning budget for the year, one should provide enough fruit to serve five times a week for seven months or approximately 150 containers. This amount does not include citrus fruit or tomatoes. Mrs. M. C. Brandon, president of the Wilson Home Demonstration Club, told her members how she added to the number of containers for this year's food supply which helped solve the problem in meal planning.

"When I canned peaches, I also canned the peellings in separate containers. Now I use them in many ways as in pies, mincemeat, etc. I made an egg custard yesterday and added some ground peellings to the mixture before cooking. I used the remainder of the peellings in filling for a spice cake today."

WELLS H. D. CLUB
 The Wells Club met at Mrs. Etter's Thursday, June 4. Our new agent Miss Boyd met with us.

Some of the girls cut out their pajamas and then we decided whether we wanted to meet during the summer or not. We decided to meet once a month.

We were adjourned about eleven thirty.

NEW LYNN 4-H CLUB
 The New Lynn Club girls met with Mrs. E. B. Terry, their sponsor, June 2. Out of twenty-five members, there were only two present. They were Alliene Bartley and Margaret Huff. The girls were supposed to bring the material to make a pair of pajamas. Alliene had already made hers, so she did not bring them. Margaret brought her material and Miss Lilith Boyd, H. D. agent, and Mrs. E. B. Terry helped her cut out her pajamas. The club girls' next meeting will be with Mrs. E. B. Terry the first Tuesday morning in July.

LORETTA YOUNG, TONE STAB IN "THE UNGUARDED HOUR"

With the production of "The Unguarded Hour" at MGM, a new romantic team threads through the gripping scenes of a fresh departure in mystery-romance stories. The picture shows at English Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

It unites Loretta Young and Franchot Tone, popular young players who each trail a succession of hits, Miss Young for "The Crusades" and "Shanghai," and Tone for "Mutiny on the Bounty" and "Lives of a Bengal Lancer."

Although different in every respect, the new picture, based on the play, "The Unguarded Hour," by Ladislaus Podor, English adaptation by Bernard Merivale, bears closest comparison with the hit picture, "The Thin Man," in that it deals with a well-to-do young married couple, the husband of which is a brilliant attorney.

Briefly, "The Unguarded Hour" is the story of an attorney whose brilliance enables him to send men to the gallows by circumstantial evidence alone.

In his most sensational case, he finds his wife the witness whose testimony absolves the defendant, after which he himself becomes involved in a crime, trussed in a skein of circumstantial evidence which he cannot break.

It is a thrilling story which never lags, from the first scene at a May-fair party to the fadeout in a tense courtroom.

Directing the production was Sam Wood, whose last two pictures were the record-breaking "A Night at the Opera" and "Whipsaw."

The supporting cast is a powerful one, including such names as Lewis Stone, Roland Young, Jessie Ralph, Dudley Digges, Henry Daniell, Robert Greig, E. E. Clive, Wallace Clark, John Buckler and Aileen Pringle, the famed star of silent-film days.

CARD OF THANKS

KITCHEN IMPROVED FOR ONLY $4.00

"When I began improving my kitchen this year, there were no built-in features except a closet behind the door," said Mrs. J. A. Jaynes, co-operator in the New Lynn Home Demonstration Club.

"We moved the closet, which is four feet wide, and extended on the same side a working surface with storage space below, across the entire width of the kitchen. There was a double window in the wall and we closed the lower half and moved the sink and faucet in front of the window. The work surface is covered with rug border linoleum. I finished the woodwork in this unit with two coats of ivory enamel," Mrs. Jaynes stated.

The finish on the doors and facings in Mrs. Jaynes' kitchen is very dark. She intends to remove the original finish and use ivory instead. They spent $4.00 in improving. This includes paper for the walls and ceiling.

NEW LYNN H. D. CLUB

"One hundred years ago we did not have many vegetables," said Miss Lillith Boyd, home demonstration agent, to members of the New Lynn H. D. Club at the home of Mrs. J. A. Jaynes Tuesday afternoon.

"Some of our most important vegetables," she said, "were considered poisonous at that time. For instance, the tomato was the deadly love apple. Now it is one of our most used fruits and vegetables. Its juice is used as a beverage in place of orange or other fruit juices. The tomato is also used for making preserves, also to be eaten in the raw state. As a vegetable, it is used for making soups, vegetable salads, casserole dishes, and in other ways too numerous to mention."

"Plant tomatoes and can all you can get," Miss Boyd advised. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. H. A. Winkler on June 16. It will be an all day affair, as they are to demonstrate table service. Each member is to bring a covered dish; also a thimble.

Visitors at the meeting Tuesday were Mrs. Pete Wetsel of Henrietta, Mrs. Jesse Jones, and Mrs. Raymond Stone.

Members present were: Mmes. J. A. Jaynes, Dee Howrey, Roy Kelley, R. W. Barton, Everett Smith, E. B. Terry, H. A. Winkler, P. K. Fleming, Susie Bartley, and Herbert Stalcup.

TAHOKA H. D. CLUB

"Meals should be definitely planned so as to include daily at least one serving of green vegetables, one of starchy vegetables, and one serving of another vegetable, in order to supply the needed amount of minerals and vitamins. Two servings daily of meat, cheese or eggs are sufficient to supply the protein needed in the diet. Some citrus fruit or tomatoes are needed in each day's meal." This information was brought out in a demonstration given by Miss Lillith Boyd, at the home of Mrs. W. S. Anglin on Wednesday, June 10, at 3 p. m.

As part of the demonstration,

Unicameral Legislature Is Proposed For Texas

By G. H. NELSON
State Senator, 30th District

THE PROPOSED BILL

It is my proposal that we shall take the Congressional Districts of this State as they were created according to the 1930 Federal census, and elect from each of these Congressional Districts, two men, each for a four year term, one to be elected each two years, thus creating a one house Legislature with forty-two membership.

By doing this we will eliminate the cost of re-districting this State by the Legislature which has not been since 1920, and which according to the constitution of Texas, should have been done in 1930. In this manner each section of our State will be proportionately represented according to its population, thereby giving to the cities and to the rural districts as well, their representation.

This system would provide a longer term for all of its members, thereby giving recognition to training and experience within the office, and at the same time would provide an opportunity for the people to speak every two years their mandates to both of their representatives. These two men being elected from the same territory by the same people will serve as a check and balance so much desired by the opponents of this plan. This would make a small deliberative body, and yet would strike a medium between both of our two houses as they now exist.

I propose further that each member shall be paid not less than $5,000.00 per year, and that each member shall be prohibited from taking employment from any person, firm or corporation during the tenure of his office, thereby compelling him to give his full time and his best efforts to his constituency as a whole. With the constitutional per diem of $10.00 per day for the days that the Legislature is in session, which amounts to $50.00 per month for your legislators, are you to censure them if they from necessity, are compelled to take employment from various interests, such as will and does influence them in their vote upon the various questions which arise in the Legislature? Can you expect to secure from your citizenship, men who are capable and anxious to render a public service to their people, to make such a sacrifice?

There are those who have said to me that they thought I was proposing a plan which consummated a saving to the people instead of increasing the costs of our Legislature. In answer to this, I give you the following figures. For the 42nd Legislature there was spent for salaries of your Legislators $402,842.34; for traveling expenses of such men $47,123.27. The total cost for forty-two men at $5,000.00 per year for each two year period would be $420,000.00. Then after allowing the same traveling expenses for each of these forty-two men as is now allowed for each of the one hundred and eighty-one men, we would have a clear balance for each two year period of approximately $10,000.00 from salary and expense fund alone.

My proposal likewise calls for one continuous term of the Legislature for each two years period. This does not mean that the Legislature shall stay in session all the time, but that they may meet with or without the call of the Governor of this State, at such time as needed for further carrying on the business of this State, and that when they do convene, that they shall stay in session, not for an arbitrary time, which permits the crowding of legislation to the last minute of the session thereby encouraging filibustering and the passage of hasty laws, but until their work shall be efficiently concluded.

There are those who say let's wait and see what Nebraska does. Is this a good reason for waiting?

If the argument of the opposition is sound, then we should never adopt such a system, but on the other hand, if the conclusions herein drawn and the facts herein stated cannot be successfully disputed, then why should we wait for anyone? The general public throughout this State favor this proposal—saying if the people could only get a vote on that question there is no doubt but that the same would be adopted.

There is one way of securing the adoption of this proposal in Texas, and that is that two-thirds of the members of the house and of the Senate shall vote to submit to the people of Texas a constitutional amendment for their approval or disapproval after the regular session of the 45th Legislature. You can now discuss with your prospective Legislators who are now running for such positions, their views with reference to this question, thereby letting them know what your desires in this regard may be.

If the people of this state desire to have this form of legislation, then what Legislator is there who has the right to say to his constituency that we will not vote upon this proposal?

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR GOOD HEALTH

And here comes a letter from your next door neighbor, a man whom you all know, a man whose word has always been considered his bond, one of your taxpayers and community builders, and is as follows: "This letter is to state that I was a sufferer of stomach trouble for eight years. I spent three years of suffering and went to any number of doctors, three told me that I had a gastric ulcer. Two months ago Gas-Tons tablets were recommended to me. I bought a bottle and began taking them and since that time I have gained fifteen pounds and am able to do, for the first time in eight years, my regular farming work. I unconditionally recommend these tablets to any one suffering from severe stomach pains, gas or colitis. Anyone wishing any information in regard to the results I have received will address me, Route 1, Shallowater, Texas. I will gladly reply. This statement is made voluntarily hoping that other people suffering as I did may receive the benefits that I have." And this letter was signed by E. S. Nelson of Route 1. After what this good man has said what more could we add? And we feel that the only question that could enter the minds of any stomach sufferer would be whether to try the 25 tablet size at $1 or the 100 tablet treatment for $3. Improvements are being made at Two Draw lake this week as plans go forward to entertain hundreds of people with a two-day Fourth of July celebration at the lake.

Wide 40-foot driveways are being made around the lake. The grading work is being done under the supervision of county commissioner J. W. Stotts. Repairs will be made on the automobile bridge as quickly as the road is completed.

Besides the drives, large parking spaces are being cleared around the auditorium and a children's playground will be built within the next few weeks.

Committees to arrange a program and to select entertainment for the two-day celebration will be named

"Stop fretting," Barry commanded. "He'll be out in a month."
Barry's heart had gone out to Peggy and to her boy. A chorine with the domestic virtues of a clergyman's wife—that's what Peg was. "I'd like to give Pat a squint at the underdog she thinks she despises so," he thought.

The next morning there were two responses to the advertisement suggested by Evans. Barry wrote asking both applicants for the reward to call at his rooms. On the way to The Globe, he dropped in on Tim Laughery.

Tim had been assigned to a new case now, and regarded the Kelly matter as a closed incident. Barry's zeal amused him. "What're you talking about?" he inquired with mock seriousness. "Kelly? We're at the Ziegfeld Follies, buddy."

Barry reported his interview with the Oriental.

Tim grinned. "We knew all about that ten days ago!"
He produced his records.

"There was a call at 8:16. That came from a hotel in the Forties—an actress named Betty Barclay. Then there was three calls from Kelly's—at 8:22, 8:37 and 9:41. That first number's the house of a lawyer named Hood. Next comes the Yale club. And the third's a flat in Riverside drive."

"Whose?"
"I don't know."
"What about the call that came in while Rogers was there?"
"Boloney."
"You mean there wasn't any such call?"

"Not on my records. Of course, it might've been sent from a nickel-in-the-slot booth. You can't trace those things. Listen, pal, you're on a wild-goose chase. This Rogers lad done it."

CHAPTER VI

Barry proceeded to The Globe, quite expecting to find his dismissal there. "I'm going to draw down fifty bucks," he thought, "and what have I done for it?"

But Ernie Harwood had caught the contagion for "sleuthing."
"The other papers have practically dropped it," he said. "Okay. We'll go on working quietly, and, some day, we'll turn up the story. It's good any time. And I'm dead sure now the cops have got the wrong party. Maybe they don't know it, too. Maybe they don't want to know who bumped off the big boss. What're you doing?"

Barry told him.

"Let's see those telephone numbers."
Standing over him, Barry pointed out that somebody had made two calls from Kelly's within eleven minutes after the receipt of the message from Betty Barclay. Harwood saw nothing remarkable about that. "But," Barry persisted, "who was 'somebody'?"

Kelly didn't get home till 11, the Filipino says. Mrs. Kelly was in Harlem. Who called the Yale club, and the flat on Riverside drive?"
Harwood sent for a newspaper file.

"I thought so," he observed, his finger on one of its pages. "Betty Barclay's the dame Mrs. Kelly named when she was going to divorce Kelly."
Barry whistled.

"That might explain Mrs. Kelly calling a lawyer named Hood."
The city editor glanced back at the file.

"Especially since he was her lawyer. Gimme that big red book."
Barry obeyed.

Hood. Graduated from Yale. He wasn't at home, so they tried to get him at his club. Law firm: Hood & Loring. Gimme the telephone book. Just a hunch, but—Okay. The Riverside number's the home of Horace Loring. Somebody wanted legal advice that night, and wanted it bad."

"Who?"
"Use your imagination."
"Mrs. Kelly?"
"Sure. She took the call from Betty Barclay."
"She didn't. The butler took it."
"All right. Then he gave it to her, and she went wild. You want to know why the Oriental's 'cagey'?"

He smiled, almost as warmly and kindly as Winslow had done. "You've got a nose for news," he went on. "When I hired you, I said you'd get a raise if you were worth it, and fired if you weren't. Well, I think you're worth a hundred a week."

"That's swell of you," Barry gloved, "but I don't see what I've done."
Wednesday brought the desired letter from Bad Naubema, and three more from gentlemen who hoped to receive the fifty-dollar reward. With these, as with their predecessors, Barry made appointments beginning at four o'clock Thursday. Mrs. Ridder's envelope contained a check drawn to her order by "the old man," and endorsed simply "Eleanor Ridder."

"She's a good business woman," Barry said to himself, ironically.
It hadn't occurred to her to doubt the sender of that cablegram, or what he meant to do with the money.

"Winslow'll take it," Barry told Peggy, "and take his retainer out of it. Then he can give us his check for the rest. Winslow's name'll be on this check when it's returned to the old man, and, of course, that's all right."

"What'll we do with Winslow's check?"
"Start a bank account in your name. Then I'll go to you when we need funds, and tell you what for. Give this letter to Jack, and tell him it ought to make him ashamed of himself."

It almost did. Even more than the communication Barry had shown him, this answered Jack's question as to whether his mother cared. "I'm so glad you've got work," she had written, "and so glad you're taking an interest in that boy. It shows I've always been right about you. And it will help you, too. We can't help others without helping ourselves—making character. I want to boast—to your father. He's no better, though. Worse, if anything. Goodness knows when we shall get back to America, and I'm so anxious to get back—now!"

The real Jack Ridder answered that letter without prompting, and the "fake" Jack Ridder posted the answer.
At three Thursday afternoon, he was in his rooms, preparing to quiz the reward-seekers. Barry had reason to know the ways of impostors.

The first caller was just that, "I was walking down Fifth avenue," he recounted, "and I happened to glance to my left. I saw the cab coming, lickety-split—"

"To your left?" Barry asked. "That would have been east. And Sixteenth street's for traffic from the west."
The second applicant was waiting by now—a lunch-counter clerk who'd run out of his place "to see what the excitement was about," but hadn't seen much. On his heels, came an exceptionally interesting Jehu. He was an M. D., he told Barry, "but business is bad, so I'm out to make a little."

"A little business?" Barry asked. "Well, I haven't hit anyone yet."
He was thirty-five, neatly dressed, and wore glasses, and his English was pure and unadorned. Moreover, he had a scientific instinct for observation. "I saw the taxi," he said, "and the woman step off the curb. I knew the cab would hit her, and it did."

"Get the number?"
"Of course," the visitor answered. "Took it down as the runaway crossed in front of me."
He produced a prescription pad.

Barry wrote it in the note-book to which he had transferred the number of Kelly's lost latch-key.
"How did you happen to be in lower Fifth avenue at that hour?" he asked.

"I went down—some time before—with a very singular person."
"Why do you say he was singular?"
"He acted strangely. At least, I thought so at the time. I picked him up in a tobacconist's shop a few minutes before twelve o'clock. 'Where do you want to go?' I asked him."

"To a drug store," he answered. "There's one in the Flatiron building, at Broadway and Twenty-third street. Take me there."
"It seemed a long way to go for a drug store, but I supposed he knew someone, or wanted a special prescription. Anyway, it was none of my business, and I took him. He gave me a fifty-cent tip, and went into the Broadway entrance. Five minutes later, while I was wondering where to go next, I saw him walk out of the door that opened on Fifth avenue. I started back uptown."

"About half past one, I picked up a couple that wanted to go to the Broadway, on Eighth street. I took 'em, and was making for Times square again when the traffic lights stopped me at Sixteenth. Then I saw the woman and the cab. The whole thing was over in a minute. The taxi struck her, went right up on the pavement, smashed a lamp-post, and kept going. But I got the number."
"Then, of course, I jumped out of my cab and went to the woman. She was beyond help, though. And, by this time, a policeman had turned up, and I decided to move on." He smiled. "A taxi-driver learns to avoid the constabulary."
"So you didn't give the cop that license number?"
"What for? The woman was dead and arresting some poor, scared taxi-man wasn't going to do her any good. I started back to my cab, and whom should I bump into but the chap I'd driven to the drug-store. He was coming out of Sixteenth street, so I lost in himself that he hadn't even noticed the crowd. 'Hello,' I said. 'We seem to be meeting a lot tonight.'

"Who are you?" he asked, curiously.
"I'm the taxi-driver who took you to a drug store on Twenty-third street a couple of hours ago."

"I never saw you before in my life. You've made a mistake," he said. "I live in this street, and I've been home all evening. You never drove me anywhere."
"Have it your own way," I said, and climbed into my buggy.

"I wasn't mistaken, and neither was he. He was in kind of a daze until he recognized me, and then he got almost hysterical. You'd thought I'd accused him of murder."
The doctor rose from his chair.

"Maybe I'm doing that," he added. "There was a murder that night, you know, in that street. But, of course, you know it. Your ad didn't fool me."
"Then why did you answer it?"
"Well, my conscience has been hurting me a little." He smiled again.

"Who Are You?" He Asked Curtly.
"That's my number, and my name and address, if you want me."
"There's your fifty dollars."
"Thanks."
"I wish you could tell me more about your singular fare."
"I wish so, too, but I can't. I'd know him if I saw him again, but I'm not likely to see him."
"Would you mind leaving me a receipt for that money?" Barry asked.
"Certainly not."
"I like to have vouchers for what I pay out."

The doctor nodded, and went to the desk.
Barry was halted by an exclamation.
"What is it?" he asked.
The doctor turned to him.

"That's the man I saw in Sixteenth street," he said. "Believe it or not, that's the man."
In his hand was Barry's newspaper, with the picture of Judge Hamblidge.
"I must see Pat at once," Barry thought.

What was he going to say to her? Six days before, she had given him a pretty plain warning to keep out of this. Barry no longer had any doubt of that. He had decided to do so, and then Willets had reminded him that gentlemen didn't "abandon ladies in distress." Well, what was a gentleman to do now?

"Damn it," he raged; "I can't blame her for wanting to protect her own father! And it doesn't make the least difference, anyway, I'd go on loving her if she'd committed the murder!"
Once more, he asked himself what right he had to assume that either Pat or the Judge had anything to do with that murder. Pacing the floor, he reviewed all his evidence again, and reached a conclusion as to what it indicated. That brought him back to the idea of himself as Pat's ally. "If I can make her see that," he said, "she's got to come clean, though. And she will. When I can tell her about Peggy, and make her understand that the truth will clear that boy. And then we can get together to clear the Judge. There might have been a whole lot of reasons—decent ones—for his going to Kelly's that night."

Evans phoned at ten.
"I've been having dinner with Kelly's chauffeur. His name's Nolan," Evans said, "and he don't talk much. We got pretty thick tonight, though."
"Suppose we start for home at nine in the morning," Barry said.

He was hungry, and tired of thinking. So he had a snack at the corner. Precisely at nine the next morning he called Pat and told her he was coming. "Something important's happened," he said.

"Why not lunch with us?" Pat suggested.
"We're lucky if we get out by two," Barry told her. "And, anyway, I want to see you alone."
"I'll expect you at two," she said.

Evans was waiting, and full of his evening with Nolan. "I didn't dare ask a question," Evans reported. "He's the suspicious kind. I think he drinks, though, and a fellow that drinks is bound to loosen up some day."
"Buy him all he can hold," Barry counseled.

Conversation lapsed after that. Evans' passenger was rehearsing his part of the coming interview. "I'll bet she knows now what it's about," he speculated.
And she did.
"Come in," Pat invited, leading the way to the drawing room.
Pat indicated a chair. "Sit there," she bade him. "It's awfully warm for June."

Tomorrow a New Day

FINISH every day, and be done with it. You have done what you could. Some blunders and absurdities no doubt crept in; forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day; begin it well and serenely, and with too high a spirit to be numbed with your old nonsense. Today is all that is good and fair. It is too dear, with its hopes and invitations, to waste a moment on the yesterdays.

Courage is a virtue of no doubtful seeming; there can be no contradiction, no diversity of opinion about it.—Richter.

He who is not liberal with what he has, does but deceive himself when he thinks he would be liberal if he had more.—W. S. Plumer.

First Coins Dated 700 B. C.; Gold, Silver Mixture Used

The world's first coins came into existence in Lydia, Asia Minor, about 700 B. C., when a metal called electrum, a natural mixture of gold and silver, was used.
Two of the most interesting coins in the history of American money are the "Pine Tree" shilling, a silver piece minted in Boston in 1652, and the Spanish-American silver coins known as "pieces of eight."

GAS-MAKING STOVE COOKS MEAL FOR 2c

Amazing New Invention of W. C. Coleman Brings All the Modern Conveniences of City Gas to Homes Beyond the Gas Mains

The new Coleman Range will do the family cooking at a cost below that of coal, wood or kerosene stoves, and do it quicker and better.

This remarkable new Coleman Safety Range lights instantly just like gas. Makes its own gas from ordinary lead-free gasoline. Its patented, fuel-saving Band-A-Burners are easily regulated to exactly the heat desired for frying, boiling, baking or broiling.
Mr. Coleman uses Everdur Metal for the fuel tank, a big safety feature. Everdur metal will not rust or corrode.

In addition to providing every cooking advantage of the finest city gas range, Mr. Coleman's new Range adds beauty in the kitchen by distinctive styling and pleasing color effects in gleaming porcelain enamel finish.
Readers of this paper wishing full information about these wonderful Coleman Ranges will receive illustrated literature and a valuable Stove Check Chart by addressing a postcard to W. C. Coleman, Dept. WU-235, Wichita, Kansas—Adv.

Olds Officials at Centennial

There were scrolls and scrolls and scrolls when the Oldsmobile good will caravan arrived in Texas. One, with more than 100,000 signatures, was presented to the people of Texas. Another from the governors of other states was given to Governor Allred. A third was presented to Mayor Sergeant of Dallas. All carried messages of good will to the people of Texas from the people of the rest of the country. And just to make it unanimous Oldsmobile dealers in Texas presented D. E. Ralston, vice-president of Oldsmobile, with scrolls of good will to put Oldsmobile in fourth place in their territory. Presenting these scrolls are, left to right, W. J. Bryan, zone manager at Houston; D. E. Ralston, J. R. Austin, zone manager at Dallas, and L. J. Elunden, regional manager in the south-west.

EXPECT BONUS BONDS IN SOME TIME NEXT WEEK

(Cont'd from first page) their homes or other property. Others will make needed and long-deferred purchases. Most of them will find immediate use for the money, and it is believed that the funds received will very materially stimulate business here and throughout the country.

Mr. Wells' statement follows. To Veterans who are patrons of this office.

The following is instructions we have had from the department concerning the handling of your bonds at this office.

Your bonds will be mailed in Dallas at 12:01 A.M. Monday June 15th, and should reach us Tuesday morning June, 16th, at 8:30 A. M.

These bonds will come to each individual in a registered letter and we will have to make a complete record of each letter which will probably consume all day Tuesday, but will be delivered as soon as our records are complete.

If you want to cash your bonds, you will be required to have them certified and if certified before a postmaster or a designated postal clerk, they will be mailed by us without any charge to you, to the postmaster, Dallas, Texas, and you will receive a check for the full face value, which will take about three to four days time.

Veterans who do not know us or we do not know will be required to furnish positive identification before we can deliver your bonds and if you live on a route out of this office you should have some one with you to positively identify you to the carrier. This will save time and much trouble to the carriers. It is greatly desired that if you don't need to cash your bonds that you hold them as long as possible.

We want every veteran to know that you will be shown every courtesy and accommodation possible at this office and we want you to feel free to call upon us for any assistance which we may be able to render.

We will not be allowed any extra help in the office, therefore we realize the tremendous task it will be to handle these bonds and respectfully ask that you as well as all our patrons bear with us during the rush.

Respectfully yours,
 W. C. Wells, Postmaster

C. H. CAIN ANNOUNCES FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

(Cont'd from first page) misdeemeanors, for it is the County's law office and the officers and entire citizenship are entitled to such legal information as that office can properly supply, and it is the duty of the County Attorney, at the request of the District Attorney, to render him every assistance possible.

I regret that the duties of the office are such that it will not be possible for me to make a canvass of the county and visit each voter. I am depending upon my friends and your investigation of my qualifications, if you do not already know them.

I solicit your favorable consideration of my candidacy and promise, if I shall be your choice, to render you honest, faithful and impartial service.

Mrs. W. D. Haney of Roscoe came up Friday and spent the week end with her son, L. C. Haney, and family. Mr. Haney also came up Sunday morning and they returned home late that afternoon.

SKELETON FOUND ON FARM IN GORDON COMMUNITY

(Cont'd from first page) sack. Part of the sack had rotted away but the head and upper part of the skeleton were still covered. The sack had been wrapped around the head and face and made secure with baling wire. There was no clothing whatever on the body except a blue shirt. The teeth were all sound, according to Dr. Turrentine, and it was his conclusion that the body was probably that of a comparatively young man. The skull on one side of the head was "caved in," indicating that death had been caused by a terrific blow on the head.

The field had been listed up in January, according to Mr. Hagler, and it was the opinion of Dr. Turrentine and the officials that the body must have been placed there soon after that time.

Officers believe this to have been a case of murder but have no evidence as to the identity of the murderer.

LAWN IMPROVEMENT

(By Mrs. E. I. Hill)

With all pictures made, with three full months to go and with good soaking rains that put life into everything, the Lawn Contest sponsored by the Tahoka Luncheon Club is getting off to a good start, according to our observations during the past few days. In fact, it is doing more than starting; it is spreading. All over town, up and down every street and alley one can see men and women with hoes and other implements making war on unsightly weeds and rubbish, and around ever so many homes we see them kneeling to work the flower beds and transplant more plants.

Every time we pass the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Smith on Highway 9 we wish that all people who say "What is the use of trying to have a yard in Tahoka" could see it. For, by leveling, putting out grass, and starting a hedge these young people have laid the foundation for an attractive and satisfactory yard whether they spend much or little on it in the future. Would that more yards were begun in like manner.

One of the lawns entered in class II is that of Mrs. Gladys M. Stokes, who lives in that attractive stucco duplex on Highway 9. The gentle slope of this lawn adds much to its appearance, and one notes that it is always well cared for. The attractive and appropriate foundation plantings about the home give a fine background to the lawn. The "homey" backyard of this place is just as attractive as the front. It must be seen to be appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Harris have greatly increased the attractiveness of their spacious lawn by removing old trees, putting out Chinese elm and other young trees, planting shrubs to level front and back yard, leveling yard and building up edges and corners. Their lawn is lighted, too, and a lawn party at the Harris' is an event to be remembered.
