LEGION ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Barrett Will Head Post For Year; Brownfield Post Visits City Next Thursday.

At a regular meeting of the Marion G. Bradley Post of the American Legion Thursday night, September 10, officers for the ensuing year were elected.

Prof. W. G. Barrett was elected Post Commander, succeeding Sam H. Holland. A. M. Cade was re-elected Post Adjutant, Pledger Coleman, H. O. Hargett, and L. B. Burk were elected first, second, and third Vice Commanders. Sam H. Holland was elected Finance Officer; C. W. Conway, Chaplain; W. S. (Skip) Taylor, Historian; A. F. McGlaun, Sergeant-at-Arms; J. O. Johnson, Mess Sergeant; W. E. (Happy) Smith, Service Officer; and M. C. Finch, House Custodian.

The Brownfield Post of the American Legion will come over and install these officers on Thursday night, October 8, at 8 p. m. All members are urged to be present and enjoy this ceremony.

Another item of business transacted Thursday night was the decision of this Post to sponsor the Boy Scout organization here.

Refreshments were served by the members of the American Legion Auxiliary.

143 Bales Cotton Ginned In Town

Cotton picking, which was just beginning, has been delayed by the showery weather that has prevailed this week.

The five gins here had ginned only 143 bales up to noon Thursday.

Cotton is bringing about 11 to 11½ cents per pound. Seed are selling for $29.00 per ton.

Not much rain has fallen here, the total precipitation up to Thursday noon amounting to only .28 of an inch, but it has been misty and showery the past two or three days. The showers will be of some benefit to cotton and feed if cold weather doesn't come too soon.

Vocational Aggie Class Is Active

The Vocational Agriculture boys are getting their work started for the year. Projects are being decided upon and a list of supervised project jobs has already been worked out.

There is to be a meeting next Monday night for the purpose of reorganizing the Future Farmers of America chapter. The boys will set up a program of work that they wish to accomplish this year. Five of the boys with their supervisor will attend a district program of the F. F. A. at Lubbock Saturday. Plans for a district program of work will be worked out. This will include some judging contests.

The agriculture teacher is supervising a Farmer Evening School in the Edith community. Problems that are of importance and interest to the farmer are taken up. These meetings consist of discussions and studying Experiment Station results. The group is planning a trip to Littlefield in the near future to study the Government Soil Erosion Projects. All farmers are invited to attend these meetings each Thursday night at the Edith school house at 8 o'clock.

Any agricultural work that the boys and their teacher can help with will be welcomed if you will get in touch with them. They hope that they may be of help to the community as well as carrying out their regular class work in school.

Conference Is Held By Presiding Elder

Presiding Elder W. M. Pearce of Lubbock held quarterly conference at the Draw Methodist Church last Saturday afternoon.

Rev. C. C. Armstrong of Tahoka filled the pulpit at the morning service.

Dinner was spread and a fine feast enjoyed at the noon hour.

Nelson, Mullican Form Partnership

Announcement has been made of the forming of a partnership for the practice of law by Judge Clark M. Mullican and Senator G. H. Nelson. The firm will have their offices in the McElroy building on Broadway in Lubbock. They will have a suite of three offices, a large library room, a ladies lounge, and a store room. Miss Pearl Wright will be their secretary.

Until recently, Judge Mullican had been on the bench since 1923. In that year he was appointed by Gov. Pat Neff as judge of the 72nd district court, which then embraced the counties of Crosby, Lubbock, Hockley, Cochran, Garza, Lynn, Terry, Yoakum, Dawson and Gaines. For a few years, therefore, he held court in Tahoka.

After the new 106th district was created, Judge Mullican continued to serve as judge of the 72nd district until the 99th district embracing Lubbock county alone, was created, when he was appointed judge of that district, and he continued to serve in that capacity until the first day of the present month, when he resigned.

Judge Mullican was generally recognized as one of the ablest district judges in the state.

G. H. Nelson came to Tahoka in 1925 as superintendent of the schools here. Three years later he was admitted to the bar to practice law and was elected county attorney. After serving four years in this position he was promoted to the office of district attorney, and while serving his second term in this capacity he was elected to the state senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Arthur P. Duggan. He made an enviable record as district attorney and quickly made a reputation as an outstanding member of the Senate.

The law firm of Mullican & Nelson will doubtless prove to be a strong one.

Course In English May Be Given Here

George Smallwood, professor of English in Texas Technological College, will be in Tahoka at the office of County Superintendent H. P. Caveness Saturday at 10 a. m. for the purpose of conferring with school teachers and any others who are interested in taking an extension course in English.

The class would meet in Tahoka, and credit would be given toward a degree to those taking the course.

Farm Loans Aid To Lynn County

In Lynn county 734 loans were closed in the amount of $1,767,950 by the Federal Land Bank and the Land Bank Commissioner, from May 1, 1933, through June 30, 1936, according to information received by H. P. Drought, National Emergency Council state director for Texas.

Of the loans closed in this county 339 for $1,058,500 were made by the Federal Land Bank and 395 totaling $709,450 by the Land Bank Commissioner.

Through the agency of the Farm Credit Administration in Texas $196,139,976 has been loaned during the same period. These loans included 18,363 of Federal Land Bank loans for $89,429,400; 31,213 Land Bank Commissioner loans in the amount of $58,151,000; 27,593 Production Credit associations totaling $27,780,358; 123,286 emergency crop loans amounting to $13,808,994, and 42,834 drought relief loans for $6,970,224.

In addition to refinancing loans through the Farm Credit Administration, the farmers in Texas were benefitted also by a reduction of mortgage principal which amounted to $6,288,500. Further savings resulting from lowered interest rates are estimated at $3,550,000 annually.

In the period May 1, 1933 through June 30, 1936, 765,674 mortgage loans, totaling $2,056,156,826 were made and $1,391,373,603 was advanced in loans to cooperatives, while $318,878,072 was loaned to cooperatives by the agencies of the Farm Credit Administration in the United States.

TAHOKA OPENS SEASON TODAY

Play At Littlefield In Night Game To Dedicate New Stadium Just Completed

The Tahoka Bulldogs will play the first game of the year tonight with the Littlefield team as their antagonists. The game will be played at Littlefield and will be the first game in that city's newly constructed football stadium, Seely Field.

Built with PWA funds, the field is modern in every respect, sodded and with a quarter mile track, two stands, complete lighting and speaker equipment. The dedication program will start with a parade of 1,200 school children at 7:30. Congressman George Mahon will be the principal speaker.

It is hoped that a number of Tahoka football fans may find it possible to attend the game and root for the Bulldogs.

Coach Prentice Walker says that he has some good material on the team this year but most of the College Students Return To School

A number of Tahoka students are entering college this week. We failed to get a complete list, but we have noted the following.

Miss Pansy Tankersley left last week-end to enter Baylor University at Waco.

Miss Ina Bess Hicks went to Belton Sunday to enter Baylor College. James Minor and Ernest Gill are new students in Howard Payne College at Brownwood.

Miss Ruth Suddarth and Miss Lottie Stephens have entered the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon.

Robert Drennon is a first year student in Abilene Christian College.

J. D. Donaldson Jr. will leave Monday to enter the Medical College of the University of Texas at Galveston.

Charles Carmack will enter the Baylor Medical College at Dallas.

There are doubtless a number of others, and we would thank their friends or relatives to call our attention to them.

FIRE IS PUT OUT

Fire of unknown origin did considerable damage in the brick garage of Dr. L. E. Turrentine last Sunday night. It was extinguished, however, by the fire department soon after the alarm was turned in.

Softball Season Nearing End, After Five Teams Thrown In Three-Way Tie

(By League Reporter)

The predicted possibility proved to be an actuality—in the end of the season's schedule five teams were tied with five wins and two losses. Then, to reduce it to a possible play off of the four highest, five club names were put in a pot (by general agreement), and two drawn out, said two to play an eighth game, the loser to be eliminated.

The Fireboys and Cleaners were drawn, and their battle was fought last Monday night, the Cleaners losing by a 4 to 2 score.

On Tuesday night a twin bill was heartily enjoyed by a huge crowd of loyal league supporters. This was the beginning of the play-off for winner of last half.

The first was "war to the knife and knife to the hilt" between the Bankers and the Fireboys. Was it a real ball game? You tell 'em brother! Evans pitched six and two-thirds innings before a hit was yielded, then, after one lone smacker, he held the Banker force to absolutely no another bingle. He struck out six, and issued free passes to but two. This was the one one-hit

"Tired Business Men" Play "Knock-Knock" at Meeting of Tahoka Luncheon Club

The Luncheon Club had a lot of fun Tuesday.

That first-name rule, under which it is a finable offense to call any member Mister, is giving the boys a bit of trouble. George Dale is collecting a lot of nickels off the offenders. The club how is talking of appointing a committee to check up on his books.

As a little diversion Tuesday, the game of "Knock, Knock" was indulged in and afforded quite a bit of amusement. Dr. K. R. Durham was the generalissimo in charge.

Prentice Waker made a brief talk on football prospects. He stated that the high school has a lot of good material this year out of which to build a team but that nearly all of them are inexperienced. He invited the members of the Luncheon Club and the people of the town generally to come out and watch the

PWA Makes Many Schools Possible

State Director Julian Montgomery of the Public Works Administration recently announced that 477 school buildings either have been built or are now under construction in Texas.

"During the next three weeks, when the thousands of school children in Texas enter school they will find several hundred new school buildings awaiting them," said Mr. Montgomery. "It is estimated that the 477 buildings, when completed, will contain 3800 class rooms and will accommodate approximately 150,000 students. The total estimated cost of the 477 buildings is approximately $30,000,000.

"One hundred and thirty-three counties in Texas are represented in this state-wide PWA school program, giving a uniform distribution to the employment of relief labor. The cities of Austin, Corpus Christi, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio and Wichita Falls, together with many other Texas cities, have modernized and enlarged their school system with the aid of the Public Works Administration. This PWA school program, when completed, will have furnished direct employment on the site of the work to some 15,000 unskilled, semi-skilled and skilled laborers.

Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Armstrong and Mrs. W. D. Smith attended a pastor and laymen's meeting of the Lubbock District of the Northwest Texas Conference of the Methodist Church held in Brownfield one day last week. They report an excellent program.

South Plains Fair Opens Sept. 28th

Lubbock, Sept. 17.—When West Texans and New Mexico residents come to Lubbock Sept. 28 for the opening of the twenty-third annual Panhandle South Plains Fair, they will be offered the greatest regional exposition ever staged in West Texas. For the fair has been combined with a Centennial celebration and a full six-day racing program to make it one of the outstanding events on the scheduled program of Texas' celebration of her 100th anniversary.

A steel grandstand seating 5,000 people has been erected on a standard half-mile track and barns built for more than 100 horses to assure the fair visitors of a full afternoon's entertainment each day "watching the bangtalls run." Some of the outstanding horses of the smaller circuits will be here for the race program.

Such outstanding features as the "International Museum of Oddities," "Doeen's Freak Animal Show," both from the Chicago World's Fair; "Hollywood Monkey Circus," "Hil-Hat Revue," and "Harlem on Parade," both musical extravaganzas, the latter a colored show; "The Wall of Death," "The Fountain of Youth," a host of new rides and other shows will be seen on the midway, the largest collection of shows and rides ever assembled in the smaller fair circuits of the Middle West.

One day of the fair has been set aside as special Centennial Day and old timers of this section will be honored in the program. A gigantic pageant of Texas history will be presented before the thousands assembled in the racetrack grandstand in a night program.

Special Centennial fireworks will be shot off each night of the fair.

Forrest Sells Old Lumber Yard Here

S. L. Forrest of Lamesa was here Tuesday on business, having sold the lumber and the sheet iron of which the sheds of the Forrest Lumber Company here were constructed. W. A. Yates and Tom Hale were the purchasers.

Mr. Forrest has been running a little classified ad. in the News the past few weeks offering this property for sale, and the ad. found the purchaser for him.

Mr. Yates will use the material in the construction of cow sheds, a shed for his tractor, and other buildings on his farm.

Audit Is Made Of A. M. Cade Books

R. M. Holstead and M. B. Hill, tax supervisors of the State Comptrollers Department, have been here this week auditing the books and records of County Tax Collector and Assessor Aubra M. Cade, and at the close of the audit Wednesday afternoon they took occasion to compliment Mr. Cade for the efficient manner in which he had kept his books.

They reported to the office of the Comptroller at Austin that they found that for the three years covered by their audit Mr. Cade had not only remitted all he was due the State for taxes collected but also that the State actually owed him a balance of $67.67. The period covered by the audit begins with July 1, 1933, and ends June 30, 1936.

The audit disclosed that the roll charges for state taxes against Mr. Cade for the three years was $118,115.72; and that he had actually turned in to the State the sum of $116,617.68. This included current and delinquent ad valorem and poll taxes, but it did not include car license taxes nor independent school district taxes.

County tax charges against Mr. Cade for the same period amounted to $144,998.13; and his actual county tax collections during this period amounts to $149,373.46.

Mr. Cade takes great pride in the manner in which his books are being kept. He has given much thought to the matter and has taken great pains to keep his records correct.

CONTRACT FOR NEW JAIL IS LET

Escape-Proof Cells Will Be Built In Court House; Work Starts After Court Term

The commissioners court in session here Tuesday let the contract for the construction of a new jail on the fourth floor of the court house.

The contract was let to the Southern Prison Company of San Antonio for a consideration $4,600.

The new structure is to be situated in the northwest quarter of the fourth story of the courthouse. It is to consist of two cells with twelve bunks. It is to be built of tool proof metal and so constructed that friends or relatives who may visit prisoners may converse with them but can not possibly slip to them weapons or saws or other articles. It is said to be the last word in jail building.

This new jail will be used for the incarceration of the worst prisoners. The present jail, which is situated in the southwest quarter of the fourth story, will not be abandoned, but it will be used as a prison for misdemeanor offenders and non-dangerous prisoners.

The present jail has proved to be totally inadequate as a prison for desperate criminals. Many escapes have been made from it. The new jail was badly needed, and the commissioners' court is to be commended for making provision for the structure.

Work on the new structure is not to begin until after the close of the fall term of court, which opens the fourth Monday in this month, but when work begins it will be pushed to completion. The new jail is to be completed and ready for occupancy within about sixty days from this date.

New Theatre Is Opening Soon

D. B. English states that the work of remodeling the new Ada Theatre building is practically complete, but it does not seem probable that he will be able to give the first performance Saturday as originally planned because of the fact that up to Thursday morning the seats for the new play houses had not arrived.

These seats were shipped from Grand Rapids, Michigan. If it is not possible to open the new theatre Saturday, he will open it just as soon as the seats do arrive. He expects to have an unusually good picture for the first performance.

N. E. Wood Infant Buried Thursday

Funeral services for little Saralee Wood, two months old infant of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Wood, were held at the Baptist Church here at ten o'clock Thursday morning. Rev. Geo. A. Dale officiating. Interment was in the Tahoka Cemetery under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home.

The baby died in a hospital in Lubbock Wednesday morning, following an operation for a stomach trouble which had been performed a few days before. The child had been afflicted with the trouble from birth.

Born on July 19, 1936, little Saralee lacked just three days of being two months old. She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Wood, and of course they lavished a wealth of love upon her. They have the deepest sympathy of many friends in this sore bereavement.

Crowd At Opening Gagnat Motor Co.

Gagnat Motor Company, dealers in Dodge and Plymouth motor cars, reports many people visited their new show rooms in the old Bra-shear building Saturday. Lee Roy Knight and D. W. Gagnat are to be congratulated on the excellent display they have in their new quarters.

Further improvements are being made on the building this week.

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

World's Chemists Busy
The New Hell-Broth
Our Huge Gold Pile

The great fighters in Asia and Europe in the days of Frederick the Great and Napoleon had little idea of war's future. But marvelous things, some of the greatest, Napoleon especially, might have done with today's inventions.

Arthur Brisbane

Frederick the Great's father selected the tallest men he could find for his guard, probably kept them away from the firing line. In battle they would have been killed first, hit by the bullets that go over the heads of shorter men.

The wholesale killers of the old days prepared their killings by marching men up and down, drilling them, encouraging them with titles, brass bands to lead them, fancy uniforms. All that means little now.

About 100 miles from Berlin there is a station called Leuna. There most useful work is done, in theory and through study of the manufacture of synthetic petroleum; and there most important, learned men with big heads, spectacles and an amount of education that would make you dizzy if you could imagine it, concentrate their brains on the preparation of better, more efficient poison gases and high explosives.

Every country has its similar death laboratory; men perhaps as efficient as those of Germany, though Germany is the kingdom of chemistry, the teacher of other nations.

Henry Irving, on the stage of his theater in London, prepared an impressive presentation of the witches in "Macbeth," old, toothless hags, preparing their hell-broth, with power to summon spirits from the dead and make them foretell the future.

Far more efficient are those solemn German chemists, physicists and other professors, preparing the real hell-broth of poison gas, upon which the future of civilization and the domination of the earth may depend for many centuries.

We had our periods of universal barbarism and cannibalism, our ages of flint, bronze and iron, our many interesting forms of rulership, planned to give one or a few control over all the others. We had the age of military feudalism, and many think that we are now seeing the end of "industrial feudalism."

There may be in the centuries ahead of us a period of airplane-poison gas rule, which will make the peoples of the world as completely subject to a single dictatorship as were the ancient galley-slaves, swinging their oars under the lash.

There are a good many things we haven't seen and many to which we devote too little thought, including perhaps the fact that it is dangerous to be too rich if you are not prepared to defend yourself against burglars.

Those thousands of millions in gold that we are hiding away in a hole in the ground, as ingeniously as any squirrel hiding his hickory nuts, may bring us trouble some day.

The thought of those ten thousand millions' worth of gold bars and dollars, hidden not very far below the surface, might cause some ingenious Asiatic or European to say to himself:

"For one or two billions I could prepare the necessary machinery, flying ships and poison gas included, to conquer the necessary areas of the United States and frighten the others into submission. Having laid down my layer of gas, I would descend and take the ten thousand millions and go home with a clean profit of eight billions in gold."

Mussolini races his big Italian built automobile, the engine burning alcohol, made of Italian farm products—no gasoline. Some lawmakers in America suggest compelling the use of 10 per cent alcohol in all fuel for American automobiles. Fuel alcohol can be made from corn, and the law, it is said, would give work to 2,000,000 men on 30,000,000 acres of farm land.

It seems impossible to believe the hideous accounts of the maltreatment and cruel deaths inflicted upon women in the civil war now raging in Spain.

That men should fight and murder each other is to be expected, since they are at best "half tiger, half monkey," and often the monkey gives way to the tiger. But that they should inflict shameful ill-treatment and hideous death on defenseless women seems utterly unbelievable, even when you know what men are, in a mob.

Hitler Demands Return of German Colonies—American Fleet to Maneuver in North Pacific—Discord in World Power Conference.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union

HUNDREDS of thousands of Nazis, attending the party convention in Nuremberg, were roused to great enthusiasm by a proclamation from Reichsfuehrer Hitler to the effect that Germany, having re-armed and scrapped most of the Versailles treaty, was ready to press its demand for restoration of its pre-war colonies. This, he asserted, was necessary to the economic independence of Germany and would be achieved within the next four years. Said the chancellor:

Adolf Hitler

"It is regrettable that the rest of the world fails to understand the nature and greatness of our task. If a certain British politician declares Germany needs no colonies as she may buy her raw materials, then this remark is about as bright as that of the Bourbon princess who, when she saw a mob crying for bread, wondered why—if the people had no bread—they did not eat cake."

"If Germany had not, for fifteen years, been squeezed dry and cheated of her entire international savings; if she had not lost her entire foreign holdings; if, above all, she still possessed her colonies, we could much more easily master the difficulties."

Then, addressing the convention directly, the fuhrer launched a new campaign against bolshevism and the Jews.

"Bolshevism seeks to exterminate governments based on a community of race and blood and replace them by non-Aryan Jewish element of no race," Hitler warned. "Sooner or later sovietistic authority states will end in anarchy, since Jewish elements possess only despotic faculties, never organizing reconstructive ones."

"The rock of foundation of the state is an authoritarian will. Unlimited individual liberty leads to anarchy. All states have experienced the destructive effects of democracy."

"Bolshevism seeks to exterminate governments based on a community of race and blood and replace them by non-Aryan Jewish element of no race," Hitler warned. "Sooner or later sovietistic authority states will end in anarchy, since Jewish elements possess only despotic faculties, never organizing reconstructive ones."

FOLLOWING closely upon the visit to France of Gen. Rydz-Smigly of Poland, France and Poland signed a military treaty of friendship. It was reported, too, that France had agreed to lend 600,000,000 francs for completion of Poland's new railroad linking the Silesian coal fields with the port of Gdynia, rival of the Free City of Danzig.

Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, told Berlin the Franco-Polish accord would have no effect on friendly relations with Germany; but nevertheless there was considerable anxiety in Warsaw concerning Germany's reaction.

BACK at his desk after an illness of six months, Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson immediately made an announcement that will be of deep interest to Japan.

The annual fleet maneuvers, which last May were shifted to the Canal Zone as a conciliatory gesture to Japan, will be held next year in North Pacific and Hawaiian waters, and probably the Tokyo press will yelp again.

With the announcement Sec. Swanson asserted Japanese plans to retain overage submarines and destroyers involve a "violation" of the London and Washington naval treaties, which are to expire December 31 by Japanese abrogation. He followed up his charge with the statement that the United States has completed plans for two new battleships and is prepared to begin construction "at a moment's notice."

The fleet maneuvers, officially designated as "fleet problem No. 18," will be held during late May and early June. The area of operations, it was indicated, will be the triangle between the Aleutian Islands, Hawaii, and Seattle, where the fleet problem of 1935 was conducted. Vessels and planes probably will work as far west as the Wake Islands.

Armament of the new battleships is at present limited to 14 inch guns, but Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, said frankly that if Japan does not agree to this limitation by next April, "the sky is the limit."

AMERICAN dairymen are protesting vainly to Secretary of State Hull against the reciprocal trade treaty with Brazil which, they assert, is seriously injuring the industry by encouragement of the manufacture of imitation butter. Under the treaty, Brazilian babassu oil, unknown in United States markets prior to 1935, now is being used at the rate of more than a million pounds a month for manufacture of a butter substitute.

Mr. Hull referred the protests to Assistant Secretary Sayre, who pointed out that the provision for free importation of the nut and oil was authorized by congress in the trade agreement act of 1934. He added that the success of the program was of vital interest to the American dairy farmer, "who has more to gain from the re-establishment of prosperous domestic markets for his products through the restoration of an abundant foreign trade than by a policy of excluding even the most remotely competitive products."

THERE was glee in government circles when it was announced that the United States treasury offering of $914,000,000 in 20 to 23-year two and three fourths per cent bonds dated September 15 was oversubscribed nine times. Of those who are informed know that the reason is the banks, insurance companies and other investment institutions are glutted with money for which they have been seeking profitable employment.

Of the treasury's latest offering $400,000,000 of bonds is to raise new cash and $514,000,000 is to provide for the exchange of 1.5 per cent notes maturing September 15.

HUNDREDS of delegates, from many nations, were present when the third World Power conference opened in Washington, with President Julius Dornmueller in the chair.

Prospects were good for a useful discussion of the problems connected with the industry, but discord crept in early in the proceedings. At a round table debate on public regulation and ownership of utilities, M. P. Davidson, representing Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, said the only way to reduce electric rates is by threatening public ownership. Three prominent private utility men promptly "took a walk," and John C. Dalton, manager of the County of London Electric Supply, criticized Davidson's talk as a "tirade."

The discussion started in connection with a paper by John E. Zimmerman, president of the United Gas Improvement company, who held that power "yardsticks" such as the TVA and Boulder Dam cannot be compared with private utilities unless operating conditions are similar. Such yardsticks, he said, will lead to competitive methods already proved "wasteful and unsatisfactory."

In papers taking the opposite view, Prof. William E. Mosher of Syracuse university, and James C. Bonright of the New York State Power Authority, held that public competition with private companies is "indisputable evidence" of declining faith in regulation.

ACCORDING to the New York Times, whose dispatches from Washington are usually most reliable, President Roosevelt is considering for submission to congress, in event of his re-election, a far-reaching plan of governmental reorganization. The plan possibly would involve, the Times stated, the consolidation or abolition of some of the major departments and bureaus.

"Whatever the President finally proposes," the Times said, "one may hear in informed quarters now that the regular cabinet posts might be decreased."

A possibility, the Times stated, would be consolidation of the army, navy and air corps in a department of national defense.

"The administration proposes to follow a definite policy of curtailing or dismantling emergency units that have outrun their usefulness," the paper continued.

FRANCE'S government has decided that conditions in Europe are so threatening that it must spend a huge sum for national defense. So it adopted a program for increasing the efficiency of the army which will cost $930,000,000 in the next four years. The proposal was made by Edouard Daladier, minister of defense. The first installment of $280,000,000 will be disbursed in 1937.

The program calls for an intensive increase of mechanized units and also for rearmament. Furthermore, it provides an increase in the size of the professional army and the creation of a specialized group of long service noncommissioned officers such as already exist in the French navy.

The program also provides for strengthening the frontier fortifications. But the chief improvement will be made in the air force which will be increased by 2,000 planes.

FIERCE attacks by the Spanish rebels resulted in the capture of Irun, on the French border, and the defenders were mercilessly slaughtered save for those who were able to take refuge in France. The town was reduced to smoking ruins, and the victors promptly started an advance westward against San Sebastian, their main objective in the north. Recognizing the fact that this large resort city could not long be defended, the government administration there offered to surrender the place if full amnesty were promised; but declared if this were refused the city would be burned to the ground and the 625 fascist prisoners held there would be shot. There was great discord among the defenders, the anarchists insisting on destroying the city anyhow.

Then the Basque nationalists took a hand, assuming control of the city and sending a lot of the anarchists to Bilbao. This move resulted in a virtual armistice while negotiations for surrender of the city went forward.

Later it was reported that the rebel forces had rejected the terms of surrender, and shelling of the city began. The civilian inhabitants were fleeing in panic.

South of Madrid the government forces were said to have made progress and there were claims that Talavera had been taken and that the Alcazar in Toledo was practically battered to pieces by loyalist artillery. The rebels' advance on Madrid from the south and west was supposed to have been halted.

The Madrid government was reorganized and Francisco Largo Caballero, left wing Socialist, was made premier.

French workers in Paris in a great demonstration insisted that the government abandon its non-intervention policy and give active aid to the Spanish government. Premier Blum, while not concealing his sympathy with the Madrid crowd, declared that if France dropped neutrality, Italy and Germany would be able to give the Spanish rebels much speedier and more effective aid than the French could give to the loyalists.

Representatives of twenty-four powers were scheduled to confer in London on plans for the establishment of a nonintervention control committee. Portugal, however, was still holding out.

CREWS of two Portuguese warships mutinied and decided to take the vessels to the aid of the Spanish government forces at Malaga or Valencia. As the ships started to leave their buoys the shore batteries opened fire. Twelve of the mutineers were killed and twenty wounded, and the others speedily gave in. The Lisbon government said the men were under the influence of communist propaganda.

SENATOR GEORGE W. NORRIS of Nebraska, Republican, who said he wished to retire from public life, is a candidate for re-election in spite of himself. A petition placing him on the ticket was filed by more than forty thousand of his friends, and only one thousand signatures were necessary. Mr. Norris is seventy-five years old. Chairman Farley of the Democratic party said the filing of the Norris petition made him "very happy."

Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, severe critic of the New Deal, was defeated for nomination as United States senator by the present incumbent, Richard B. Russell. In Washington state Gov. Clarence D. Martin was renominated by the Democrats and former Gov. R. H. Hartley was named by the Republicans. Gov. Ed C. Johnson of Colorado captured the Democratic nomination for senator and will be opposed by R. L. Sauter, Republican. Arizona Democrats refused renomination to Gov. B. C. Moer, selecting instead R. C. Stanford of Phoenix. In Connecticut the Republicans nominated Arthur M. Brown for governor.

HEROIC actions and dramatic rescues marked the collision of the excursion steamer Romance and the steamship New York in a dense fog ten miles off Boston, Mass. The Romance sank in twenty minutes, but every passenger and member of the crew was taken safely aboard the New York. The rescued numbered 268, most of the passengers being women and children from Greater Boston. The New York then turned back into Boston harbor with a twelve foot hole in her bow. There was no panic aboard the Romance, and the officers and crews of both vessels displayed discipline and bravery that elicited high praise.

JULIANA, crown princess of the Netherlands, has found her future husband in a German prince, Bernhard zur Lippe-Biesterfeld. The announcement of their betrothal was hailed in the Hague with utmost joy. Juliana, who is twenty-seven, is beloved for her jollity and good humor, and also she has been carefully trained for the throne. Prince Bernhard, twenty-five years old, has been working for the German dye trust.

MRS. BERYL MARKHAM of England put her name on the roll of fame as the first woman to make a solo flight across the north Atlantic from east to west. She started from London for New York, but her fuel gave out and she was forced to land her small monoplane at Baseline cove near Louisburg, Nova Scotia.

CROWN OF THORNS

DOUBTS of the identity of the leading presidential candidates, so thoroughly dispelled early in 1936, sometimes have held on to the mind of the conventions. So it was that the Democratic gathering of 1896 provided a tremendous upset, giving the party William Jennings Bryan, a leader who literally was to wear a "crown of thorns" through three unsuccessful campaigns.

No less than 13 candidates for the Democratic nomination were regarded seriously in 1896 and the usual stable of dark horses was present.

"Pitchfork Ben" Tillman of South Carolina, whose hat was definitely in the ring, prodded the delegates unmercifully and the wordy battles from the platform spread to one fist fight after another on the floor. Then Bryan was recognized.

"We are fighting in defense of our homes, our families, and posterity," he declared. "We have petitioned and our petitions have been scorned. We have entreated and our entreaties have been disregarded. We have begged and they have mocked us when our calamity came. We beg no more, we entreat no longer, we petition no more—we defy them!"

His remarks were on the financial plank of the Democratic platform and Bryan fired them directly at the delegation from New York. Then he closed with the defiance which still rings down the corridors of time: "You shall not press down upon the brow of labor this crown of thorns, you shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold."

He "stopped the show." The delegates went wild. When the business of the convention could be resumed the day following, Bryan was nominated.

His defeat by McKinley, two succeeding failures for the presidency, in truth settled a crown of thorns upon the brow of Bryan which he was doomed to wear until the last public act of his life—participation in the famous "monkey" trial down in Dayton, Tennessee. He held, and he swayed, multitudes with the power of his oratory, but on election day he could not mark their ballots for them.

THE FIRST PLATFORM ONE of the essentials of a modern political convention is the adoption of a "platform" upon which the Presidential nominee is to "take his stand" during the campaign. Whether or not he stays on it is quite another matter but few candidates would think of going before the "peepul" without one.

The first platform appeared during the campaign of 1840. In that year the Democrats, holding their convention in Baltimore, set forth what they considered the fundamental principles of their party.

Asserting that the federal government was one of strictly limited powers and that all grants not expressly made to it were reserved to the states, this platform

Declared against the assumption of state debts, contracted for local improvements, by the federal government.

Denied the power of the federal government to foster one industry, or section, to the detriment of another.

Asserted that the federal government exceeded its authority when it raised more revenue than was required to defray the ordinary expenses of administration.

Denied the power of congress to interfere with or control the institution of slavery.

Declared against the handling of public funds by private banks.

Denounced restrictions upon the privileges of citizenship and of ownership of land with respect to foreign immigrants.

They then unanimously renominated Martin Van Buren for the presidency and got ready to fight the battle of ballots along the lines of policy they had laid down. But if they expected their opponents to meet them on that ground they were grievously disappointed. The Whigs not only failed to adopt a platform but they failed to put forth any statement of principles for the very good reason that they didn't have any. They disregarded issues entirely, and launched their whirlwind "Tippecanoe and Tyler, Too!" campaign.

The bewildered Democrats stood firm on their platform and watched the procession go past—a triumphal procession for the Whigs!

Secretary of the Treasury In 1789 congress enacted a law providing that the secretary of the treasury may not engage in trade or business, own steamships or otherwise be active in profit-making enterprises during his incumbency. He is liable, on conviction, to a $3,000 fine, dismissal and may never thereafter hold office under the federal government. The same provisions apply to the treasurer of the United States and the register of the treasury.

SYNOPSIS

In 1755 Saul Pattern of Virginia came into the beautiful Virginia country of the Big Sandy valley in Kentucky. Chief of the perils were the Shawnees, who sought to hold their lands from the ever-encroaching whites. From a huge pinnacle Saul gazed upon the fat bottom and the endless acres of forest in its primeval quietude at the mouth of the Wolfpen. He felt an eagerness to possess it, declaring it a place fit for a man to LIVE in! Five years later he returned with Barton, his fifteen-year-old son, and built a rude cabin. In Saul's absence the Indians attacked Barton and wounded him so badly Saul was forced to return with him to Virginia. In 1796, when it was reasonably safe, Saul returned with his family and a patent for 4,000 acres, this time to stay. He added to the cabin, planted crops and fattened his stock on the rich meadows. Soon other settlers arrived. A century later, in the spring of 1885, we find Cynthia Pattern, of the fifth generation following Saul, perched on the pinnacle from which her great-grandfather had first viewed Wolfpen Bottoms. The valleys heretofore untouched by the waves of change sweeping the Republic, are at last beginning to feel that restless surge. Her dad, Sparrel, and her brothers, Jesse, Jasper and Abner, convert the old water-wheeled mill to steam power. Cynthia feels that something out of the past has been buried with Saul. Cynthia is a pretty and imaginative miss in her late teens, who, after Saul, and her other forbears, and fancied them still living. Sparrel proudly brings home the first meal out of the steam mill, and Julia, his wife, is pleased. Generation after generation has added comforts and conveniences to Saul's homestead, and Sparrel has not stirred. The family goes easily into the work of the new season, due to the simplicity of life designed long ago on the Wolfpen. Joy is abundant. Jesse plans to study law.

"When is she due in Pikeville?" Shellenberger asked.

"Sometime tomorrow, if she's lucky. Pretty fast going, Catlettburg to Pikeville in two days. That's traveling."

There was a score of passengers on the Fanny Freeze, all men save one, a travel-tired woman who sat with her baby on a chair on the upper deck mindless of the smoke. Some of the men idled about the narrow passageway, or leaned against the railing watching the families digging in the fields. Several gathered around the heap of freight on the lower fore-deck. Shellenberger found Barnes sitting on a barrel of flour in the sunshine.

"Cinders ain't so apt to get in a man's eyes up front here," Barnes said. "Yes, it's much better up here," Shellenberger answered.

Shellenberger regarded Barnes, trying to take in all his dimensions. He was a large man in a dusty brown suit, the pants tight-fitting, hugging his knees, and squeezing down into a pair of straight black boots with brown ears to pull them on by. His sandy hair flared out from under a high crowned black hat and joined a flowing red beard which swept down from his ears to the fifth button on his vest.

Shellenberger filled his pipe leisurely. He could hear a young mountaineer describing his adventures on his first journey out of the hills.

"... I just give up that Catlettburg was sure all a-fire and a-burnin' down the way everything was a-blazin' up like a brush heap in a clearin', and I yelled out to Taz, he was back at the tiller, Taz was, I says, 'Let's take and tie up, Taz, this dad-burned town's a-burnin' up.' And Taz he made a sight of fun outen me a-devillin' me on account I'd slept clean a-past Catlettburg and here we was already a-runnin' in to Ashland where they got all them furnaces and things."

The laughter was frayed by the wind and carried back into the swirling smoke.

"I suppose you've been down to Ashland or somewhere?" Shellenberger inquired.

"I rode the Greenup County circuit, and I'm going up to Pikeville to ride that circuit now."

"You are well acquainted with the upper Big Sandy then, I imagine?"

"I ought to be, brother. I've rid a sight of country in these parts in my day. I've rid about every single creek and hollow."

Shellenberger spread out a map of the Big Sandy region.

"There's Catlettburg at the mouth of the river. There's Louisa. And there's Richardson where we took the boat. That's Paintsville, there's the mouth of Gannon creek."

"That's the mouth of Gannon we're just now passing," Barnes said, pointing to his left over a salt barrel.

"A man could float a good-sized raft down that stream. Is it that wide very far up?" Shellenberger asked.

"It's fifty to a hundred feet wide for a right smart piece up. I've rid the full length of it head to mouth many's the time."

"I understand there are some large tracts up in there, still held by the old original settlers. Is that right?"

"That sure is right," Barnes said. "You couldn't find a finer lot of folks anywhere than along that creek. Some's been living there high on to a hundred years or so, wouldn't surprise me."

"Where'd you say we're at now?"

"Right there. See? There's Gannon Fork running off there to the south."

Here we are rounding that bend. There is Paintsville, Prestonsburg, there is Beaver creek going off to the southwest, and there's Pikeville, then the Breaks and the Virginia line."

"So you are well acquainted along that valley?" Shellenberger repeated.

"About where is the Pattern property?" "Well, now, let's see. The Harts would be about there, and, well, the Patterns would be just about there, near or far, I judge."

"It is a large tract, isn't it?"

"He's got a sight of land, I don't reckon he knows how much he has got. Clever man though, Sparrel Pattern is. He's got books and a deal of learning. He does doctoring. And his woman, there ain't a taker woman on the creek than Julie Pattern."

While Cynthia and Jesse planted the last of the sweet-potato sprouts in House Field, the Fanny Freeze landed on the sharp bend at Prestonsburg and was tied up for the night to a big sycamore that shone yellow in the dusk. Toward noon of the next day, Shellenberger walked briskly down the gangplank at Pattern Landing. Barnes watched him go, saw him greet Nelson, Sparrel's grandson, and got up the bank by the wide path that lost itself in the willows.

Cynthia stood by the door to the kitchen in the evening listening for an instant to the quiet flutter of the live things on Wolfpen about to receive the dark.

"The days in the garden with the sun on your back are good days. They ought to go on and on forever. The evening always comes so fast when you've got things to set out. Then your body feels so good after work, just standing a minute before supper while another day goes out. A body can see the dark come in the same way you see the big hand of the clock move; you look away for the space of a little thought, and then when you look back again it has moved, or grown darker."

Jesse was coming in from Barn Hollow. He stopped at the beehives by the garden fence to straighten a rock under a corner of one of the boxes. Jasper and Abner came up from the barn.

"How's the lambing?" Jesse asked. He poured out water in the pan on the wash rock.

"Thirty-eight lambs now, fourteen pair twins," Abner said.

Jesse laughed at the way he said it. "There's Bible for it."

"That one young ewe is in some trouble," Jasper said.

"I feared that," Sparrel said.

Cynthia felt a surge of pity for the poor ewe which was imperfectly equipped to bear the lamb she had conceived, and was now ruthlessly trapped in a snare whose purpose Cynthia could not fathom. There was a faint noise in the orchard path behind the house. Sparrel got up. The boys listened. Cynthia paused in the doorway. Julia came from the kitchen.

"It must be Nelson," Jesse said.

Two men on muleback came from the path into the yard. Cynthia saw that it was Nelson and a stranger. She concentrated on the stranger whose features were obscure in the last of the daylight.

Sparrel welcomed the visitors from where he stood.

"Howdy," he said in his deep voice.

"Howdy, folks," Nelson said, still holding to the bridle of the mules. "I brought this feller over from the landin'."

He says he wants to see you, Grandpap."

"You're welcome," Sparrel said.

"Come in,"

"Thank you, Mr. Pattern. My name is Shellenberger."

"These are my sons, Jasper, Jesse and Abner."

"Howdy," the boys said, and shook hands one after the other.

"My wife and daughter."

Shellenberger removed his hat and bowed.

Cynthia was taken by his bearing.

"He's good-mannered; he says 'Missis' to mother, and he calls me 'Miss Pattern' and that sounds funny; nobody ever said that to me before."

"You are just in time for supper," Julia said politely.

"It does smell like it, and it smells good," Shellenberger said.

From the end of the big table, Sparrel asked for the blessing of God upon the food before them. Shellenberger was making some rapid readjustments between what he had vaguely expected and what he actually saw. The log cabin of popular talk, filled with thin children and hounds holding soul and body together inadequately with corn bread and greasy bacon, had represented for him the four thousand square miles of the Kentucky mountains, and left him unprepared for Wolfpen Bottoms, with his big house, these people, and this table full of hickory flavored ham, candied sweet potatoes, mashed Irish potatoes, fluffy hot wheat biscuits, sweet yellow butter, and black honey tasting of clover blossoms and wild-flowers.

"This is an unusual section of country up here, Mr. Pattern," Shellenberger observed.

"There's not a finer piece of country anywhere than right around here," Sparrel said.

The silences at the table were natural and unstrained, broken occasionally by Shellenberger's remarks and Sparrel's replies. Cynthia wondered what Jesse was thinking about this man who had so unexpectedly appeared at their supper table. How he changes the evening and the room! A minute ago it was just like it always is. Now it's— His hair has a bald spot and a cow-lick in it, and there is a funny ridge right above his eyes in his eyebrows and across between his eyes, and his nose is stumpy, and his eyes are deep in. He talks nice, but I don't believe I like him much.

Abner seemed to be interested in him. "Whereabouts do you come from?"

Abner suddenly asked.

"Well, I suppose I come from a great many places," Shellenberger answered.

"I move around wherever my business takes me. I've just come from Pittsburgh to Catlettburg on a boat and from there to Richardson on a train, and from there to your father's landing on a Sandy River boat."

"Pittsburgh is a long way off from here, ain't it? How long does it take to come from there?"

"Most of three days."

"Why did you want to come way up here to Wolfpen?"

Shellenberger laughed, and Sparrel smiled at Abner's serious and insistent questions.

"You mustn't pry into other people's affairs so, Abner," Julia said.

"Not at all," Shellenberger said. "I wanted to see this fine country up in here, and see if we couldn't do some business with each other, your father and I."

They left the subject there during the rest of the meal. The men got up. The evening was balmy and they sat on the long banistered porch, looking down Wolfpen toward the black mass of Cranesnest Mountain.

"You have a big place here, Mr. Pattern."

"It's a good-sized place," Sparrel said.

"My great-grandfather took up about five thousand acres when he came in here and it's been added to a right smart since, maybe another thousand."

"What do you do with all of that acreage?"

"Why, we have about sixty acres of good bottom-land in crops, a good deal in grass, and there's this part here with the house and garden and orchard; my two girls have farms on it, and the rest is just land to have around you to look at and hunt in. I hadn't thought much about what I did with it," Sparrel spoke slowly and clearly. Shellenberger noted the pleasant sound of the voice.

"Then you get all your income from one hundred and fifty acres, let us say, and all the rest of the six thousand lies idle and unproductive?" Shellenberger balanced between question and assertion.

"Why, if you think of it like that, yes. Only land, at least a right smart of it, was made to just be there to be around a body and be looked at. I spend part of my time just looking at Cranesnest and the Pinnacle. They don't have to have any use only that."

"And yet you have to pay taxes on the entire place, don't you?"

"Yes," Then, "Just what are you aiming at?" Sparrel asked directly.

Shellenberger filled his pipe carefully and when the pipe was going, Shellenberger turned to Sparrel.

"I need good timber, Mr. Pattern, and you've got what I want. I looked at it pretty carefully as I rode over here. You own everything from here to the river, don't you?"

"Just about, I reckon."

"What do you think that land is worth to you?"

"Well," Sparrel said, "I just hadn't thought anything about what it's worth. There's a fine stand of timber in there."

"I'm told that land in this country is valued from a dollar to a dollar and a half an acre. Of course bottom-land alone is worth more. I'll tell you what I'm prepared to do, Mr. Pattern. If you'll sell me a few thousand acres of this timber hill land, I'll pay you four dollars an acre for it. You would still have more land than you could keep your eyes on; it wouldn't touch your farms or your meadow land."

Sparrel was in no hurry to speak. The proposal lay in the space between them.

"I hadn't thought anything about selling off any of it. I guess I'd just as soon have my land," he said.

"I am offering you a price about three times what hill land is worth."

Sparrel thought about this a few minutes in silence. Cynthia in the kitchen could hear words from the talk and she began to see the hills trapped like the poor ewe and led waste by lumbermen.

"There's still a sight of timber below me. Why did you come way up here to my place?"

"Well, I'll tell you exactly why, Mr. Pattern. Most of the good timber down along the river has been bought and cut. There is a lot of it on the sides of the hill away from the river, but you can't get at it profitably. Your place has a fairly good outlet: Big Sandy river on one side, Gannon Fork on the other and smaller creeks cutting into both streams. I'd want to look over the land a little more carefully, but it seems to me that nearly all of the marketable timber could be snaked right into one or another creek, then brought to the two big streams and rafted and floated out. It's worth nothing to you now as it stands; I noticed a good deal of the timber is falling and decaying, and a fire would play havoc with it. I'd rather get what I need in a large tract than bother with a whole lot of small straggles. That's why I am here and that's just I offer you such a big price for it. It'll never be worth any more, and it's liable to be worth a lot less, especially if fire should get into it."

Sparrel let the sales speech die away. "I don't guess I want to sell any land," Sparrel said.

Shellenberger attacked once more.

"You can't eat it. I can't carry it away. These natural resources were put there for us to use, Mr. Pattern. You haven't any right to hoard up timber when it's needed to develop the country. This country's got to develop sooner or later, you know. It can't just lie here on a vacation forever for you to look at. We must develop with the country."

"I don't take much stock in this development, the way it's carried out," Sparrel said, still slowly and clearly.

"We've developed this place for about a hundred years, but it's some different from the way they've developed the Peach Orchard section by taking high on to a million dollars a year in coal and timber out of these mountains, and bringing into it nothing but a lot of ignorant, drinking, fighting people from down the river to do it with. That is the way the country's being developed, looks to me like, Mr. Shellenberger."

Shellenberger pulled at his pipe for a while. Then he dropped his voice to an easy friendliness.

"Well, there's not much danger of that in my proposition, Mr. Pattern," he said laughing. "When I buy some land from you, I'll be a neighbor of yours, and we'll see that it stays respectable and everybody benefits. I don't want you to decide right off about it, anyway. Think it over a few days. I want to go down Gannon creek, and I have some business over at Pikeville. We can talk about it again."

With that Shellenberger turned more to the boys and began to tell them about the mills at Pittsburgh, about the river traffic and the Ventura passenger boat, and his travels to Philadelphia and New York, and to Washington. He told of the endless miles of railroad being laid in the West, and how the people were flocking to the cities and farms in the new states and helping business. The boys were excited by the thought of all that was going on beyond the valley.

Cynthia sat by Julia in the kitchen door, a little way withdrawn from the men, listening to the talk of the great world that lay beyond the mountains. And for a long time after Julia had called to Sparrel that the beds were ready, and the menfolk had left the porch and gone upstairs, Cynthia went on with her round of thought.

"It seems a long way off from here, hills as big as the orchard and garden put together. Sometimes when I lie here by the window and look out down the hollow I can feel the fingers of the world creeping up the river and edging in here; Jesse wanting to go off to read the law, me thinking of the Institute over at town."

CHAPTER V

Shellenberger was in good spirits the next morning. He rose early with the family, and instead of using the blue washbowl which Julia had placed in his room, he came down to the yard and joined with the boys at the wash rock, dashing cold water from the well over his face and neck. He talked easily with them about the lumber business back in Pennsylvania and spoke further at the breakfast table of the way the country was growing, the cities booming, and the Ohio valley filling up, and markets expanding, and how that made it just the right time to open up a big tract of timber like Sparrel Pattern's because it was worth more now than it had ever been before or would likely be again. He disconcerted Julia by offering to pay for his night's lodging. He gave Nelson a coin for guiding him over the mountain, and went with Sparrel to the barn to get a mount for his journey. Sparrel let him have one of his saddle mules, as a part of his hospitality to the stranger, and told him how to leave it in Hardin Stusser's stable below the court-house at Pikeville and he would get it when he rode over at the end of the week on his monthly trip to town.

"You think over my proposition for a few days, Mr. Pattern," Shellenberger said. "You can't afford to turn it down. Look me up at the hotel at the end of the week." He climbed awkwardly into the saddle as the mule jumped about under him.

"You just follow the creek right on around and you won't have a bit of trouble finding the way," Sparrel said.

When Shellenberger had gone, the whole family understood that some intangible alteration had affected the atmosphere of Wolfpen Bottoms. At dusk the night before it was one thing and they were used to it and at home in it; in the morning of the next day a new element had come into the valley and disturbed the spiritual equilibrium to whose tensions they were accustomed. The values by which they lived had endured for just a hundred years. They had been sufficient to order a way of life which brought satisfaction and meaning into the activities of four generations of men and part way into a fifth. They had produced their culture. Now, suddenly, new pressures were there. Shellenberger had unhinged the easy swing of life. He brought with him a strange restlessness and left a portion of it in Wolfpen Bottoms.

Julia looked over the palfins of her garden into indefinite space and tasted the feeling of disturbance. Jesse rubbed the black saddle of the shepherd which had bounded back from the barn. Jasper stood by the woodlot playing idly with the catch on the gate, and then walked down toward the sheepfold.

Cynthia sat on a stool near the kitchen door looking into the cloud tangles above the Pinnacle. "The white clouds are soft as lambs' wool in a bag and there could be no bars to pick out of it. If a body could sit on a fold of cloud and lean back against a fluff of woolpack and move about and the high above all the land that man wants to number, and then the grooming of the big popular trees when they fall and send the little under trees might not sound any louder to you than the rush of an oriole's wing, and that wouldn't pain something inside of you. I guess it must be because a body's soul adjusts too much on the ground where so many things are hurt right before your eyes and cry into your ears that keeps it troubled. And then again, it might reach all the way up to Heaven, and when that man wants to cut down our trees I reckon Grandfather Saul feels an ache in his long legs, and Grandfather Barton gives a cough, and Grandfather Tivis, well, I just imagine he sees the whole valley filling up with unpainted, rough-sawn, sliding hopes. Still, if you sat all night in Cassiopeia's Chair and went about above things under a veil of moonlight when evil is hidden and the moan of trees and the cry of a young ewe can't be heard because stars sing and you breathe the sweet influence of the Pleiades, and in the daytime you watched the wind play in the white cloud mist under you and wave it the way a breeze from the hollow plays in the beard of the wheat before a storm, then maybe a body wouldn't think about the hurt things in the world at all."

Lightning's Action Not Checked by Any Object

Lightning is a powerful force. The formation of clouds, or the movement of the water particles in violent cloud movement creates positive electricity that seeks relief. If the negative or ground charge is the stronger it spills over as it were and passes skyward off the points of lightning rods or other prominent points. But if the positive charge in the clouds is the stronger and is not neutralized by the negative charge from below it comes to earth with a blinding flash and deafening crash, striking the most prominent point in range.

Breaking the connections between earth and sky does not stop the discharge of lightning. It has to be neutralized, asserts an authority in the Montreal Herald, by contact with the negative charge in the earth. But a broken connection, as when lightning rod is broken, or metal rod and spouts are not grounded, only causes the lightning bolt to go elsewhere and do damage. It stops at the break maybe, but holds out pleading hands to the positive force in the clouds.

Any erroneous reflection upon the reputation or standing of any individual firm or corporation, that may appear in the columns of The News, will be gladly corrected when called to our attention.

WE ARE TO BLAME!

We feel moved to write this little editorial in criticism of ourselves—the people of Tahoka.

It's about our courthouse lawn.

A few years ago our court yard was one of the beauty spots of the town. It was in fact one of the most attractive court yards in this part of the state. We took great pride in it.

But just look at it now!

Instead of enhancing its beauty from year to year we have permitted it to run down. It looks like some old bachelor's quarters down in the rag-tag part of town. It is now one of the shabbiest court yards to be found anywhere in this part of the state.

First, through no fault of our own perhaps, we were induced to permit the state to build its highway right through the lawn, greatly impairing its symmetry and beauty. But that is past history and there is now no remedy for that.

But we can remedy the unsightly condition brought about by our neglect. We have permitted some of the trees to die, even some of the young ones. We have permitted much of the grass to die. We have permitted the surface to become uneven and mis-shapen. It is now anything but a beauty spot.

We have been making the excuse that this condition is due to lack of funds, hard times, unpaid taxes, drought, and an insufficient city water supply.

It is true that we have been afflicted with all these misfortunes. But so also have all the other county-seat towns around us, except possibly as to the water supply.

Still, we remember that, in order to supplement the water supply, the County had a well drilled on the courthouse yard a couple of years ago. We are not using that well, and have never used it to any appreciable extent, to supplement the city supply. There may be a perfectly good reason why it is not being used. We don't know.

It is true that the city water supply ran distressingly low this summer—a situation which was unexpected and for which nobody can be blamed. So, when we needed water most sorely this summer, the city supply failed us, and for some reason we did not find it wise or practicable or profitable or "sum-pin" to use the well on the courthouse lawn.

But we are coming now to the future. If we have made mistakes in the past, let's profit by them.

Here is our suggestion. If the trees and the grass on the courthouse lawn were watered regularly and amply each winter, when the water supply is abundant, comparatively little irrigation would be required in the summer time.

Let's look after our courthouse lawn this winter, folks, and forever hereafter. Let's restore it to its former park-like beauty. Whenever we had occasion a few years ago to compare it with the courthouse lawns in our neighboring towns, our bosoms swelled with pride. When we compare it with these lawns in Lamesa, Brownfield, and Post today, we hang our heads in shame. Let it not be so again henceforth forever.

IS HITLER SEEKING WAR?

Adolf Hitler is again rattling the sabre. He has been looking with covetous eyes across the Russian border upon the rich natural resources of that country.

Hitler is a ruthless dictator. But people tire of dictators unless they keep on doing something daring and heroic, or unless at frequent intervals they keep on promising people new pots of gold.

So, in order that he may continue to hold his job as dictator, Hitler is at the same time cultivating the military spirit among the German people and holding up before them rich pots of gold reposing as yet undisturbed in the land of the Bolsheviks.

Addressing 45,000 youths and 5,000 maidens at Nuremberg last Saturday, Hitler is quoted as saying:

"While Russia has eighteen times as much territory as we, Bolshevism can not feed its people. What flops they are!"

"We have to struggle for every acre of ground by reclaiming it from the swamps or the sea. If I had the Ural Mountains, with their incalculable store of raw materials, Siberia, with its mountain forests, or the Ukraine, with its tremendous wheat fields, Germany, under national Socialism, would be swimming in plenty."

Permeating the entire speech was a lot of braggadocio praising German arms and German power.

On Sunday he was even more war-like.

Speaking, it is said, to 120,000 uniformed soldiers and 50,000 spectators, Hitler exclaimed: "Let no one be deceived! We are ready at any hour!"

Boasting of his 2,500,000 Storm Troopers, his 225,000 black uniformed S. S. men, and his armament equipment, Hitler asked: "Who can oppose this bloc of national determination? . . . If I should call a demonstration," he went on, "it would amaze the world. Millions upon millions would respond, with flaming hearts."

From this it is clear that Hitler, like Mussolini, is power-mad. He has visions of another great German empire. The wealth of the "blundering Russians" lies at his feet. If he can fan the military spirit of the Germans into flame, if he can bring to them the vision of a new far-flung German empire mightier and richer by far than the old empire of Bismark or of Kaiser Wilhelm, and can inspire them to fight with fanatical fury to bring this about, he is ready for the conflict.

The Germans are a great people, and we admire their intellectual ability and appreciate their many fine qualities, and therefore we hope that they will not permit Adolf Hitler or any other ambitious man to again plunge Europe into war.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 14 submits to the people of Texas a proposal to fix the annual salary of the governor at $12,000 the salary of the attorney general at $10,000, and the salaries of the comptroller, the treasurer, and the commissioner of the general land office at $6,000. This proposed amendment to the constitution is to be voted on at the general election to be held the first Tuesday in November. Amendments raising the salary of the governor and other state officers have been submitted and voted down several times before. It is to be hoped that the amendment is adopted this time. The living expenses of a governor are necessarily very heavy. Be it said to the credit of most of our governors but to the shame of the people of Texas that most of them have left the office broke. We have raised the salary of the President of the United States from time to time, so that he is paid a salary commensurate with the dignity and responsibilities of the office. But we have not raised the salary of our governor for the past sixty years. With more than six million people, we pay the same salary now that we paid when we had only a few hundred thousand people. We do not believe in extravagance anywhere in the government, but neither do we believe in niggardliness. Our governor, our attorney general, and our other state officers should be paid decent salaries. We hope that this amendment is adopted.

One of the proposed constitutional amendments to be adopted or rejected by the people at the November election is that which would create a Board of Pardons and Paroles to take the place of the present board of pardons advisors. It inferentially limits the pardoning power of the governor to cases which have been passed upon and a pardon recommended by the Board of Pardons. This Board of Pardons and Paroles is to consist of three members, one to be appointed by the governor, one by the chief justice of the supreme court, and one by the presiding justice of the court of criminal appeals. The first three appointed are to serve terms of two, four, and six years respectively, the same to be determined by lot. After that they are to serve six years each. Appointments must be confirmed by a two-thirds vote of the state senate. This amendment would take a great burden and a great responsibility off the governor, who does not have time to study carefully each case in which a pardon is applied for. The amendment should be adopted.

Adobe houses are again becoming popular in Gaines and other South Plains counties, according to Willard Bright of the Gaines County (Seagraves) News. These houses, he claims, are not of the inferior type, like those built fifty years ago, but are of substantial construction. Houses of the new type are not only durable but are also beautiful and attractive, he avers. The cost is about one-fourth that of the ordinary modern brick. What we want to know is: Is this on the level or is it propaganda? Can good adobe be made out of that Gaines county sand? If so, Gaines county is the richest in natural resources that we know anything about.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Halleysville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . WOULD COMBINE BOARDS ON WELFARE WORK

Austin, Sept. 17.—A bill creating a State Board of Public Welfare which would absorb the Old Age Assistance Commission, the Texas Relief Commission and the Division of Child Welfare of the Board of Control, will be studied by the Texas Planning Board in Austin on Friday, Sept. 18. The bill and the recommendations of the Board then will be forwarded to Gov. James V. Allred.

The bill, drafted by the Planning Board's government and social aspects committee, provides for a board of nine members, appointed by the Governor, to administer old age assistance, aid to dependent children, assistance to the needy blind; general home or family relief; supervise all child welfare services; cooperate with the Federal Social Security Board, and fix the fees to be paid to ophthalmologists and eye specialists for the examination of applicants for assistance as needy blind persons.

To facilitate the work of the Welfare Board, the bill provides for the creation in counties, or in districts, which may include two or more counties, local units of administration to serve as agents of the State Board. These county or district boards in turn would be served by local advisory units.

The county or district boards would be named from lists of representative citizens furnished to the State Board by the commissioners courts.

The State Board of Public Welfare also would have the power to supervise and license all private institutions, boarding homes and agencies providing assistance, care or other direct services to dependent, neglected or delinquent children, the aged, blind, feeble minded and otherwise dependent persons.

LUBBOCK FAIR BOOSTERS VISITED TAHOKA THURSDAY

Two bus loads of Lubbock citizens including members of the Lubbock high school band visited Tahoka about eleven o'clock Thursday morning on a tour of South Plains towns, advertising the Panhandle-South Plains Fair, which opens at Lubbock on September 28 and runs for one week, closing on Oct. 3.

An urgent invitation was given the people of Tahoka to attend.

More than 17,000 Texans died unnecessarily during 1934, according to a report just issued by the Texas Planning Board's public health committee. In each instance death was caused by a preventable disease. The report also points out that Texas spends 10.73 cents per capita to protect domestic animals from disease but spends only 3.68 cents per capita for disease control among human beings.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lillith Boyd, H. D. Agent

NEW HOME H. D. CLUB
Mild flavored, strong flavored, and raw vegetables were scored by Miss Lillith Boyd and the club members in a regular meeting of the New Home H. D. Club Friday, Sept. 11, in the home of Mrs. Van Bates.

These were scored by their general appearance, flavor, texture and color. "If one would score her dishes she would be able to improve upon them each time," was a point brought out by Miss Boyd. Table etiquette of the seventeenth century and that of today was discussed. Our rules for correct table etiquette of today are much more reasonable than those of yesterday.

Some products were brought for the South Plains Fair. All products to be entered must be in Miss Boyd's office by Sept. 23rd.

Those present were: Mmes. Joe Poindexter, H. A. Parriss, G. H. McWhorter, Van Bates, Emmett Aherns, R. H. Bates, Boswell Edwards, J. R. Strain, and Miss Christine Bates.

QUILTING AT MRS. PHIPPS

Women from Dixie, Joe Stokes, Petty, New Home and Wilson were in attendance at the quilting held in the home of Mrs. G. K. Phipps Thursday, September 10.

Refreshments of cake and ice cream were served to: Mmes. Carl Walker, Floyd Reese, R. L. Smith, H. A. Macha, Lee Short, Tommie Lishman, Jess Tabor, G. G. McWhorter, D. D. Renfro, Grady Gore, Grandma Scholler, Callie Cabe, G. M. Murrah, and G. K. Phipps, hostess, and Miss Ella Murrah.

Have a good time? I say we did! If you don't believe it, just meet us at Mrs. H. A. Macha's Thursday, Sept. 24. Everyone invited.

NEW LYNN H. D. CLUB

New Lynn H. D. Club met with Mrs. C. C. Coffee.

"We should all try to send in an exhibit to the fair, if possible," Mrs. Roy Kelly, club president, told those present. Some brought their exhibits and turned them over to the exhibit committee.

Recipes were discussed and exchanged. Some had made recipe files; others had made recipe books.

Ice cream and cake were served to the following: Mmes. Newman Bartley, Roy Kelly, R. W. Barton, P. K. Fleming, E. B. Terry, C. C. Coffee, Susie Bartley, and Charles Taylor, members; and Mmes. Lizzie Pate, Delton Pate and Oble Pate, visitors.

Miss Lottie Stephens of the Midway community went to Canyon last Saturday to enter West Texas State Teachers College. She was accompanied by her parents and by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Griffith, her former teachers. Miss Stephens was student in the Tahoka High School last year, graduating with high honors.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Moore of the northwest part of the county are the happy parents of a little five pound, ten ounce girl, born Saturday in the Mercy Hospital at Slaton. She will be known as Marcella Ann Moore.

HAS GOOD TIME; REPORTS IT IN RHYME

Dear Mr. Editor and Readers of The Lynn County News:
I come today to tell you of a very happy event

That took place in my home on Friday September tenth.
Thirty-nine Sunshine ladies came to my home with twinkling eyes,
Bringing to me a most pleasant surprise.

Two lovely Friendship quilt tops each ready to frame,
On each block embroidered a familiar name.
There were old friends, new friends, and strangers too,
And not a moment for one to feel blue.

All chatted and worked and had a good time;
By and by some one said "It is time to dine."

My! so many boxes I had never seen,
Each full of cake fit for a queen.
We ate and drank till the sun was low,

Then every one said "It is time to go."
Each one declaring "I have had a fine time,
And we hope to come back again sometime."

My cross in life is heavy to bear,
But it is great to live among those who love us and care.
—Mrs. W. J. Faires.

Need Funds For Demo Campaign

The National Democratic campaign committee must rely largely upon small popular subscriptions for funds with which to carry on the campaign for the re-election of Roosevelt and Garner.

It behooves every Democrat, therefore, who is interested in the re-election of Roosevelt and the continuation of the New Deal to make a small contribution.

Tom Garrard of Tahoka is chairman of the committee for the 19th congressional district and is ready to receive contributions at any time. He has already incurred some small expense and the committee needs some funds with which to carry on. If you are in favor of the Democratic ticket you should see him at once.

County's Books Will Be Audited

The West Auditing Company of Abilene was awarded the contract by the commissioners court Tuesday to audit the books of all the county officials.

The work will be done at an early date.

One horse power is not necessarily equivalent to the strength of one horse. When James Watt tried to sell his steam engine as a substitute for horses, he sought to compare its power with that of the average horse. Borrowing a brewery horse, he found that he could do 22,000 foot pounds of work a minute. Then, allowing for generous losses of fifty per cent, he decided that 33,000 foot pounds was the strength of one horse. It is rumored that Watt placed the figure ridiculously high for fear of finding a horse that would out-pull his engine.—Farm & Ranch.

Cotton breeders are now working intently to bring to the cotton field the "blood" of the American Indian cotton that has only one important good quality—exceptionally fine fiber. This new interest in fine fiber is prompted by practical tests that have revealed the new and surprising fact that strength and spinning quality is associated with fine fiber, as much as it is with long fiber.

The United States Department of Agriculture poultry scientists are trying to develop lighter strains of turkeys which will weigh between 12 and 15 pounds apiece. Housewives are demanding a smaller "tom" for holiday dinners—no more 20-pounders that last for a week.

MISS MARY JANE WEATHERS AND BILL SEWELL MARRIED

A beautiful ceremony which united in marriage Miss Mary Jane Weathers and Mr. William Sewell was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Weathers, Saturday afternoon, September 12, at 5 o'clock, by Dr. W. K. Johnston, local pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

Just preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Rubie D. Suddarth played "Because" by D'Hardelot, and the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was given for the Processional. The beautiful ring ceremony was read to the strains of "I Love You Truly" played softly by Mrs. Suddarth, as the minister and the happy couple stood before the rose-decked fireplace, the house being lavishly decorated with cut flowers.

The bride, who was dressed attractively in brown with matching accessories, carried an arm bouquet of yellow rosebuds and tube roses. Little Nancy Ray Weathers, sister of the bride, acted in capacity of flower girl as the bride's only attendant.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sewell, parents of the groom, Mrs. A. B. Robertson, Wade Robertson, and Sug Robertson, all of Slaton, and Mrs. Kenneth Kimbrough of Austin.

The couple left immediately for a week-end trip.

Says Landon Gains in Texas

CHICAGO.—"The Lone Star state looks promising for Landon and Knox and the whole Republican ticket," is the good news R. B. Creager (left) of Brownsville, national committeeman for Texas, is shown relating to Meyers Y. Cooper, former governor of Ohio. Gov. Cooper, assistant to national Chairman John Hamilton, reported his home state a sure thing for the Republicans.

Halsey will enter the law department of the University of Texas.

Both the bride and groom are students of the Texas Technological College, the bride being a graduate, and the groom would have received his degree from that institution this summer had not his studies been interrupted by his political campaign. Both had long been campus favorites at the Tech.

Attending the wedding from Tahoka were Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Hill, the latter being an aunt of the groom.

BAPTISTS CELEBRATE ANNI- VERSARY WITH BIG PARTY

Members of the Baptist Church and their friends enjoyed a special program given Monday night celebrating the close of the second anniversary of Rev. George A. Dale as pastor and welcoming the new members that have come into the fellowship of the church during the past two years.

The opening song services were conducted by L. D. Howell, Supt. W. G. Barrett of the city schools presided throughout the evening. A vocal solo was given by Miss Robbie Milliken with Mrs. J. K. Applewhite at the piano. A piano solo was rendered by Miss Valerie Wells.

A brief address of welcome to the new members of the church was delivered by Dr. K. R. Durham, after which a nice gift was presented to Rev. and Mrs. Dale by E. I. Hill on behalf of the church. The gift was an electric cooker. Happy responses were made by both Rev. and Mrs. Dale.

A male quartet composed of Dr. K. R. Durham, L. D. Howell, Henry Douthit, and Harold Snowden sang a couple of Negro spirituals, "All Over God's Heavin'" and "Standin' in Need o' Prayer."

At the close of the program in the church, the congregation assembled on the spacious lawn, where a number of games were enjoyed followed by a watermelon feast, a hundred nice melons having been provided for the occasion.

Perhaps more than 200 people were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee King were made happy last Friday morning over the arrival of their first-born, a boy. The little fellow has been given the name of Jerry Lee. Mother and babe are doing well.

Cattle Imports Mount on Reciprocal Treaties

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Average monthly imports of cattle and calves have multiplied more than five times during the last two years since reciprocal trade treaties of President Roosevelt's administration went into effect, it is revealed in data released by the United States department of commerce. Following are the monthly imports for the first six months of each of the last three years:

Imports of Cattle and Calves.		1936.	1935.	1934.
January	21,772	6,103	7,865
February	28,265	38,113	7,334
March	51,616	52,777	9,298
April	79,328	50,881	15,434
May	56,816	50,413	5,859
June	46,247	31,845	4,708

Total 284,044 230,132 50,498

For the first six months of 1936 the United States imported 113,536 head of cattle weighing more than 700 pounds each from Canada, under the reciprocal trade treaty which went into effect Jan. 1. Such imports for the first six months of 1935 totaled 50,255. Imports of Mexican cattle of this weight showed a similar trend.

DYES HAVE VISITORS FROM ALABAMA AND KANSAS

Mayor and Mrs. Jim Dye almost had a family reunion at their home here last Friday.

They had as their guests Mr. Dye's mother, Mrs. J. L. Craig, and his niece, Mrs. Bob Hooper, both of Plainview; his sister, Mrs. A. C. Johnson, and her son J. C. Johnson, and their friend, Miss Ella Lewis, all of Gadsden, Alabama; and his brother, J. M. Dye, and his family of Turon, Kansas.

It was the first visit of some of these to this section of Texas.

Lee Wood, who is ill in the Veterans Military Hospital at Los Angeles, California, is reported to be showing slight improvement, according to his father, R. C. Wood. He is holding his own very well, Mr. Wood says.

BOY SCOUT CIRCUS IS PLANNED FOR DISTRICT

Definite dates for the Boy Scout Circus have been set for November 26-27 to be held in Lubbock.

Approximately 1,600 scouts and scouters from all over the South Plains Council are expected to participate in the first scout demonstration of its kind ever held in this section of the country.

The general circus committee is being developed and the specific assignments are to be mailed out to all troops within the next ten days.

Top soil from Central Texas farms which was washed down the Colorado River during the 1934 flood would raise the level of Bastrop county four feet if it was spread evenly over that county, according to estimates made by Texas Planning Board flood control engineers.

Texas Beauties Visit Exposition

Miss Thelma Brown, left, 16-year-old Houston, Texas, girl, who was chosen as Houston's beauty queen during that city's one-hundredth birthday celebration, is pictured here in the lounge of the Ford Exposition building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas. She is holding the guest book which is being signed by her attendant, a blonde beauty, Miss Cleo Manley, 18. The two girls were featured in programs planned for Houston Day at the Exposition.

O'DONNELL ASKS FUNDS FOR WATER SYSTEM

Notification that the application of the City of O'Donnell for funds to improve the city water system has been granted in the national office of the Public Works Administration was received this week by Mayor B. M. Haymes, and actual work on this project is expected to begin immediately. A federal supervisor will be sent out to take charge of employment and construction, and as soon as he arrives, men will be hired and the work will start. Mr. Haymes had no official information as to the probable date of his arrival, but was of the opinion that it will be within the next week or ten days.

Pending that, the city has already purchased the pipe it was to supply, and it is being strung and welded, from the new well on the C. H. Doak farm, into town. The pipe was bought from a Lubbock firm. Mr. John Earles is in charge of the welding and stringing. It will be recalled that a test well was drilled several months ago on Mr. Doak's farm. Two additional wells will be put down near the first one, and pumps will be installed for all three. Water will be brought into town by means of huge water mains. Several of the old water mains are to be lowered past the freezing point, and a top will be built over the big storage reservoir.

As is customary with all similar federal projects, only local labor will be used, and all work will be done by hand. The customary wage scale will be paid. Earlier in the summer it was estimated at least thirty men will be used, and nothing has been said to contradict this statement. However, when the supervisor arrives and sets up his office, more definite information will be available.—O'Donnell Index.

Judge C. H. Cain spent several days last week in Fort Worth engaged in the trial of a case. While there he took a look-in on the state Democratic convention and heard Senator-nominate Josh Lee of Oklahoma speak. Judge Cain regards the Oklahoma case as one of the very strongest men in the entire Southwest and predicts that he will soon gain a prominent place among the members of the U. S. Senate.

Loans Add 400 Million to Roosevelt Deficit

WASHINGTON.—Fresh borrowing added 400 million dollars to the deficit of the Roosevelt administration in mid-September, according to an announcement by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., secretary of the treasury. The addition might reach a total of 440 millions, he admitted.

The United States deficit on Sept. 9, before the new borrowing, was 414 million 551 thousand. During President Roosevelt's administration the national debt increased from 21 billion to more than 33 billions.

"IT HAD TO HAPPEN" HAS PERFECT CAST

George Raft and Rosalind Russell co-star as the screen's newest romantic team, and Leo Carrillo in the comedy lead, Raft's best man as the suave star courts the glamorous Miss Russell, in "It Had to Happen" which show sat the English Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

As the gay bad man, the genial brigand and the gallant caballero, Leo Carrillo's performances have been bright spots of many recent screen offerings, but now with a totally different type of role, he creates an unforgettable personality in this new picture. It's the picture which introduces the screen's sensational new romantic team, George Raft and Rosalind Russell.

In this dynamic story of a man who had risen to the pinnacle because he was drawn on and on by an unattainable beauty—and what happened when he met that beauty—Carrillo is cast as George Raft's friend and ally.

From immigrant lads in a big city, they fight their way up together, until Raft is the top man of the heap. Then, when this masterful lover gets himself entangled with the glamorous Miss Russell, Carrillo becomes the amused onlooker, who wonders why his hard-headed friend makes so much fuss over a pretty face.

There are plenty of romantic complications before Raft wins the hand of this hard-to-get lady, and through it all Carrillo carries on in his vastly amusing and disarming style.

The picture, which was adapted from Rupert Hughes' story and directed by Roy Del Ruth, also numbers among the prominent members of its supporting cast Arline Judge, Alan Dinehart and Arthur Hohl.

O'DONNELL STREETS ARE GRADED AND LEVELED

Acting with the co-operation of the county commissioner, Waldo McLaurin, the city council has this week put one of the big county grader to work on our streets, and they are already showing decided improvement. Due to the drainage problem, streets in O'Donnell have always been hard to keep in good shape, while lack of finances has also been a vital consideration in this work.

However, after the rains of last week and dust storms which preceded them, members of the council deemed it absolutely necessary that something be done to better the streets and the above-mentioned work has been the result. We are told that all the principal residential streets will be graded and leveled.—O'Donnell Index.

UNIVERSALLY POPULAR

The "Sunday School Lesson" published each week in this newspaper has been adopted by thousands of church instructors throughout the United States as a regular part of their weekly work.

It is a review and exposition of the international lesson for each week, prepared by Dean Harold L. Lundquist of the Moody Bible Institute at Chicago, a recognized leader in the nation's church work. Dean Lundquist has been active in teaching youthful groups for years, thereby acquiring an insight into the needs of these people for understandable explanations of Bible passages.

In view of his accomplishments in church work, it is not surprising that Dean Lundquist's exposition of the weekly Sunday School lesson is being used in almost every community of the nation. As teacher or student you will find it extremely helpful.

German Singers Meet In Texas

Dallas—German singing societies from coast to coast will join the Texas Saengerbund, state singing society, in a National "Saengerfest" Oct. 4, 5, and 6 at the Texas Centennial Exposition.

"State wide Saengerfests have been held in Texas since 1885," said Fritz Haller, president of the 17 combined German organizations of Dallas who are sponsoring the three-day celebration. "The old get-together custom of community singing has been observed periodically for more than 60 years, but this will be the first time a German song-fest has been held in Dallas since 1914."

Mass chorus singing, with orchestral numbers between songs, feature the Saengerfests.

"Thousands of invitations have been sent out, and acceptances received from German singing societies as far North as Milwaukee, East as Birmingham, and West as Los Angeles," said Mr. Haller. "All of South Texas, where the largest German settlement in the state is located, will be here."

The Frohsinn Singing Society of Dallas will be official host to visiting singers at the song festival which will be held in the Amphitheater of the $25,000,000 world's fair.

LEVINE BROS. OBSERVES THE JEWISH NEW YEAR

The Levine Bros. store here was closed at six o'clock Wednesday evening and remained closed through Thursday and Friday in observance of the beginning of the Jewish New Year, known as Rosh Hashana. This is the opening of the year 5697 according to the Jewish calendar.

The Levine Bros. store will open again for business at 7 o'clock Saturday morning, but it will be closed again on Saturday, September 26, in observance of Yom Kippur, the Jewish Day of Atonement.

Unlike the Christians, the Jews are very scrupulous in the observance of their sacred days.

Plans for an areal map of Texas at an estimated cost of $1,500,000 are being considered by the Texas Planning Board's mapping committee which estimates that such a map would take about ten years to complete.

Greek Boy Studies For Consular Work

Lubbock, Sept. 18.—In 1918 a 9-year old Greek boy took his first look at American shores. He was coming to Belton, Texas, to live with his uncle, a restaurant operator. This week he will bid farewell to New York harbor, but only for three years.

"Little Gus" Kallis has changed during those eighteen years. He came to Lubbock in 1925 and learned English in the local high school, completing his secondary education in three years. College came easy for Gus, and he received a bachelor of arts degree from Texas Technological College in 1932. After graduation there was nothing to do but help his uncle in the restaurant business.

But now "Little Gus" is going to do something else. When he returns to the United States in 1939, he will have completed three years in the University of Athens and will be ready to enter the American consular service.

PLANTS FALL GARDEN

Mrs. W. S. Anglin, co-operator in the Tahoka Home Demonstration Club, has taken advantage of the recent rains and has planted a fall garden. She did not limit it to turnips and collards but has growing lettuce, radishes, mustard, spinach, two varieties of beans, turnips, collards and cabbage.

Garden products grown in the cool seasons are deeper in color and richer in vitamins, therefore, food value is higher. The results of a recent experiment show the best tests came from fall and winter gardens.

Many a Friend Recommends

BLACK-DRAUGHT

People who have taken Black-Draught naturally are enthusiastic about it because of the refreshing relief it has brought them. No wonder they urge others to try it! ... Mrs. Joe G. Roberts, of Portersville, Ala., writes: "A friend recommended Black-Draught to me a long time ago, and it has proved its worth to me. Black-Draught is good for constipation. I find that taking Black-Draught prevents the bilious headaches which I used to have." ... A purely vegetable medicine for the relief of

SERVES MANY POTATOES

"In my meal plans I serve Irish potatoes in some form every day," said Mrs. Fred McGinty, co-operator in the Wells Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. McGinty realizes that potatoes in the diet help to keep the base balance in the blood. Irish potatoes are one non-acid food which retains vitamin C after it is cooked.

CANS BY GUIDE

"I have used the bulletin 'Canning Fruits and Vegetables' from the Extension Service as a guide in all of my canning this year," stated Mrs. J. R. Strain, farm food supply demonstrator in the New Home Home Demonstration Club.

"My snap beans are in quarts and I processed them 45 minutes at 11 pounds pressure," she said.

Because of a higher altitude, Mrs. Strain added one pound pressure extra, as suggested.

GRASSLAND H. D. CLUB

Table service and scoring vegetables were given by the H. D. Agent Tuesday, Sept. 8, at the home of Mrs. Paul Lawson. Miss Boyd told many interesting things about general appearance of food, suitable and convenient containers for serving. Cabbage, beans, asparagus and salads were scored.

Plans were made to send canned fruit and vegetables to the Lubbock Fair.

Our club will carry two cars of women to the agricultural meeting at Lubbock Thursday, Sept. 17.

There were fourteen members present, and one new member, Mrs. Douglas Greer. Visitors were Misses Gies Mathis, Tate, Lewis Ward and Miss Zelma Thrallkill.

Cave-man style
A woman who was having a house built detected one of the bricklayers halving the bricks with his trowel. With a triumphant gleam in her eyes she approached him swiftly and said: "Isn't that rather a primitive way of cutting a brick in half?"
The man looked up, smiled and said: "Lor' bless yer dear heart, lidy, there's a far more primitive way than this, believe me."
"Really, and what's that?" she inquired.
"Biting it, lidy, biting it."

"Bedad," replied Pat, "it's no good; it goes off when I'm asleep."

Thinking Men Oppose Change

Prefer Security of Roosevelt's Sound Foreign Policy; Seeking Farm Vote

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON. — We ought to be proud of the fact that the diplomats and rulers of the world look on Franklin Roosevelt as a master hand in the art of minding America's business in such a way that we are now about as free from entangling foreign alliances as we have ever been. This is important to the people of America because there is no doubt that in the eventual next world war the powers will endeavor to bring us into the scrap—as before.

Because of Roosevelt's strong position and his keen grasp of international affairs, plus the grave danger of the wrong man in the White House in a time of international stress, thinking men are talking against any idea of a change of administration. Landon, has not, at this writing, given any inkling of what his views may be on these international matters; and for all I know he hasn't any—but it is well to remember that the series of little wars we inflicted on our small southern neighbors for years were the outcome of the so-called "dollar diplomacy" of the Wall Street investors who used to run the state department.

We had an idea once that there was a manifest destiny which sent this country into every South American and West Indian cane brake and jungle to see whether or not we couldn't make a little money in some of these foreign enterprises. Then, to back up the American enterprises in these regions, we used to have a part of our navy and marine corps down there acting as policemen. This used to irritate these South American and West Indian countries beyond description and was the reason for the eternal ill feeling those folks used to bear toward us. There never was any reason for us to be backing up this type of dollar diplomacy which kept us on the verge of small warfare in Cuba, Nicaragua, Mexico and other neighboring lands. There may have been reason for us now and then to act the part of an armed arbiter in some hot-headed island where the natives were running wild—but by and large the wisest thing this country ever did was to drop all ideas of the big stick in other people's countries and start on the Roosevelt idea of being a good neighbor to everybody.

We are working up trade agreements that are showing up the old selfish high tariff policies; we have certainly gained a great foothold in Canada that way; also in several other countries. We are about to stage a great western-world conference in South America which ought to lead to the establishment of a solid North American bloc of countries to stand together, mind their own business, and resist European and Asiatic influences. It may be the new world against the old world sometime in the future, and we can start right now to get ready.

Roosevelt sees a long way ahead in these world matters; it would be a shameful thing to sidetrack him now just as he is getting the United States in a leading international position as a peace maker.

Roosevelt has been keeping his weather eye open on European affairs for a long time past; and the country should realize that it has been far seeing statesmanship which has placed us right now in a strong neutral position with respect to every one of the European snarls—including the Spanish horror. Otherwise you would have seen us gradually edging our way into a European war through the device of moneys loaned or munitions sold to one side or the other. But Roosevelt's neutrality policies, backed up by congress, have made it clear to the world that we will have none of Europe's dirty mess.

COURTING FARM VOTES.

The farm vote is the exciting prize in this campaign; and it is interesting to know that the Roosevelt campaign in the Middle West farm belt is to be conducted educationally by a non partisan, or possible omni-partisan committee of farm leaders who have been hammering on New Deal principles for years past. Headed by William Settle of the Indiana farm bureau federation, this committee is now being organized throughout several states and has some well known names connected with it at this writing. There is Frank Murphy of Minneapolis, attorney for several large farm organizations, and remembered for the fact that although he was a delegate to the G. O. P. convention which nominated Hoover, he bolted that outfit and led 5,000 farmers to Houston demanding a farm plank that meant something.

Another well known Mid-West farm leader on this committee is Homer Hush of Iowa, who makes the plain statement that "the farmer who deserts Roosevelt is a sucker." Others are Paul Weis of Wisconsin, a Progressive; Sam Fishman, Kansas Republican read out of that party by Chairman John Hamilton of the G. O. P. national committee of the founders of the nonpartisan league.

This committee will have its headquarters in Chicago; you will see the result of its efforts in the way of booklets, pamphlets, cartoons and exhibits. One of the Republican efforts it is now engaged in combating is the G. O. P. hatred of the reciprocal trade treaties. As I have told you in this column, there is a grave danger in farmers being beguiled into believing the reciprocal trade treaties are a menace to agriculture—and vote for the Landon administration without realizing they are voting to build a tariff wall which will bring back all the old evils that pestered and ruined them before. A Republican tariff has always worked wonders for the industrialists who put up the prices of everything they sold to farmers—while the farmers got nothing at all out of it.

NO WASTE HERE.

It is a sad commentary on the selfish political tactics of the New Deal's enemies that they continually refer to the "waste" of the Public Works program and never yet have given credit for such enormously helpful things as the 4,115 schools which have been built this past two and a half years with Public Works money. Thus providing facilities for 1,200,000 children who otherwise would have either not been provided for or who would have been crowded into completely inadequate rooms or buildings.

There is no wastefulness in such a program. It was an employment-creating drive, which not only gave jobs, spread millions of dollars where they were needed, but provided a great investment in American citizenship.

These schools, which range from one-room buildings to whole new high schools, are scattered over half the 3,071 American counties in all the states. These buildings represent 70 per cent of all the new school buildings in the country in the past two and a half years. This 70 per cent cost $462,000,000, of which the federal government gives more than half. Some of the money, about $90,000,000, was loaned to the communities by the government and will be repaid. The rest was raised by the taxpayers in the communities benefited. There is no waste and no local kick; why then does a man who knows as much as Frank Knox go roaring around the country belaboring Roosevelt for a program that has done as much as this PWA school building program? It reflects on a man's intellectual honor to make charges like Knox makes.

The figures I have reported here have just come from Secretary Ickes; they do not include $30,000,000 spent by the federal government on federal schools among the Indians and at the military and naval academies.

In addition, the government has loaned nearly $60,000,000 to universities which have built new gymnasiums, cafeterias for students, much needed dormitories, etc. The actual expenditures so far (there being a lot yet to come) total $200,000,000 and have provided 800,000 months of work for laboring men at the local sites, and 4,000,000 months of labor per man at various factories. PWA, thus far, has done a tremendous job in resuscitating the school-world from the low level it had fallen into during the depression years, especially the period 1930 to 1933.

ANOTHER QUESTION.

That old question "what is the Constitution between friends" gives way now to the question "what is the Supreme Court among the governors of drouth-stricken states." That is a local matter, and as the result of this there was a great deal of political hot air blown this way and that by various gentlemen seeking to oust Mr. Roosevelt from the White House. They declared he was violating states' rights and what not—but I notice that the minute he and the responsible officials of the drouth-stricken communities got down to brass tacks, they had no other idea about solving agriculture's drouth problem than on a national basis; not a state basis; and mainly with federal and not with state funds.

In that way of course the President has injected the Constitution into the campaign. He did not do so in any political argument on his trip through the drouth area; and his trip was entirely official and not political. Yet the consequences must have a bearing on politics and on the campaign. It strikes me the situation is a complete practical answer to the legalistic and I think the erroneous conclusions of the Supreme Court.

The President's general program for agriculture and federal spending to aid the distressed millions, therefore, seems to have every body's approval; and that means Gov. Alf Landon, too. I don't see how the Republicans can make an issue of federal spending, or how anyone can split hairs on whether or not agriculture is a local or a national matter.

Curiously enough, the Landon managers are hoping to make a great vote getting impression among the crowded millions of the eastern cities; and one of their arguments with the city folks is that the New Deal's agricultural policies have raised food prices and thus increased the living costs of the city dwellers.

Lesson for September 20

CHRISTIAN LIVING

LESSON TEXT—Romans 12:1-3, 9-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Christ liveth in me.
Galatians 2:20.
PRIMARY TOPIC—How Jesus Wants His Friends to Act.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Explains How to Act.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Is Christian Living?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Live as a Christian.

As a fitting conclusion to a three-month study of the Spread of Christianity to the gentile peoples of Western Asia, we consider the teaching of the great apostle to the Gentiles concerning "Christian-Living."

The early chapters of Paul's epistle to the Romans present the greatest exposition of profound Christian doctrine ever written. But even as it is true that the fruit of Christian living can grow only on the tree of Christian doctrine, it is equally true that the knowledge of Christian truth should result in Christian living. "Faith without works is dead."

Our lesson pointedly presents the true Christian life as being

I. A Life Yielded to God (Rom. 12:1-3).

A recognition and deep appreciation of the mercies of God leads to a yielding of body and mind in living sacrifice to God. If we are Christians our bodies are the temples of the Holy Spirit. We must not lend our bodies to activities which destroy their usefulness or hinder our service for God but rather yield the body with all its abilities to God.

But after all "it is the inside of a man that counts." The presenting of the body in living sacrifice is possible only when there has been the inner transformation by the renewing of the mind. One cannot live physically without being born; it is equally impossible to live a Christian life without having been born again.

The Christian life is yielded to God not only for its own peace and satisfaction, but it is to be

II. A Life of Service (v. 9-15).

We are not saved by serving but we are saved to serve.

In the first place the Christian serves the Lord. He abhors evil, but his life is not merely negative, for he cleaves to that which is good. He is not lazy, but diligent. His spirit is aglow with zeal for God and his cause. He is full of joy and hope, patient under trials, a man of steadfastness in prayer.

Such a man will not fail to serve his fellow-man. He will really love the brethren, not merely make a hypocritical show of loving them. He will seek the honor of others rather than his own glory. He will be given to the almost lost art of hospitality. He will be ready to stand by his brother, in the day of joy or of sorrow. He will go even further, for he will bless those that persecute him.

The measure is not yet full for we note next that the Christian lives—

III. A Life of Humility (v. 16).

In these days when we are urged to assert ourselves, to demand our rights, to "succeed" at any cost, and when men are measured by their worldly achievements, it sounds rather old-fashioned to talk about humility, about condescending to lowly things, of not being "wise in our own conceits."

But humility is still the crowning grace of a truly Christian life. Those who follow the lowly Jesus, in fact as well as in profession, are still strongest when they are weak, and mightiest for God when they are humble.

Note also that we follow a victorious Christ who calls us to

IV. A Life of Victory (v. 17-21).

It is possible to talk much about the victorious life—to discuss it at length as a theological question—and have little real victory.

Paul speaks plainly. The Christian is honorable in all things. He meets every obligation. He is a man of peace. He is not concerned with avenging himself upon one who has done him wrong. Spite fences, boundary disputes, family quarrels, are not for him. Evil is not to overcome him. God gives the victory.

A great lesson, and one that we cannot study without some disquieting thought. Christian, how does your life and mine appear as they are held up to the mirror of God's Word? Let us make a covenant that by God's grace and power we shall go forward in real "Christian living."

A Human Being

There cannot be a more glorious object in creation than a human being, replete with benevolence, meditating in what manner he might render himself more acceptable to his Creator by doing most good to his creatures.—Fielding.

Visions of Better Life

It is well to have visions of a better life than that of every day, but it is the life of every day from which elements of a better life must come.—Maeterlinck.

Shirtwaister for School Girl

Here is the frock for juniors to make for school days. A combination of rhythm in its hemline, rhyme in its color scheme and racy in its style. For late summer wear, try tub silk, linen, cotton or shantung with long or short sleeves. For autumn and winter—"tweedie" silk crepe or broadcloth.

The waist, gathered slightly to the shoulder yoke front and back, has a center pleat and pockets for trimming. Buttons—a matter of choice. A small collar, tie, and belt complete this most effective frock. By way of suggestion, make the collar and cuffs in contrast, and detachable to be readily removed for laundering.

Supreme Court Justices

Congress may, by statute, change the number of Justices on the Supreme Court and if that number is enlarged the President could appoint new members, with the consent of the Senate. O'Donnell Editor Undergoes Operation

Mrs. Ferrell Farrington, editor of the O'Donnell Index, was taken to a sanitarium in Lubbock Monday, where she was to undergo a major operation the next day.

The News has not heard from the sanitarium since the operation, but in this instance, no news is doubtless good news. It is presumed that she is recovering as well as could have been expected.

Mrs. Farrington's brother-in-law, Arlie Farrington, will substitute for her as editor of the Index during her enforced relinquishment of the position. The substitute editor, who was here Monday, stated that it would probably be two or three months before Mrs. Farrington would be able to resume her work with the Index.

The News joins many friends in wishing her as speedy recovery as possible.

Mrs. Earl Hillin of Rosebud, niece of Sheriff B. L. Parker, who was formerly employed here in his office, has returned to Tahoka and resumed her former position.

BUSINESS MEN HEAR TEACHERS AT LUNCH CLUB work-outs and draw their own conclusions as to the kind of material he has.

Superintendent W. G. Barrett had been given short notice to give a talk on schools, and he touched on a number of phases of the school work here. He reported that there are now about 205 pupils enrolled in the high school, of which number 59 are coming from outside districts. These include high school pupils from Edith, New Lynn, Magnolia and Grassland. He pointed out that there are probably fewer pupils in the high school from the Tahoka district than there have been some former years.

Discussing the need for a good band here, Mr. Barrett expressed the opinion that what is needed is a band tax. Towns that have good bands, he stated, provide the money by taxation. Only a very light tax is required, and he felt that the returns would more than offset the cost.

Calling attention to the fact that some of the boys who play football come in from the country on the bus and are compelled to remain here for practice many afternoons after the bus has gone, he appealed to Luncheon Club members and to the citizens of the town to furnish them transportation to their homes after football practice. A number promised to use their cars once a week for this purpose but a few others are needed.

An appeal was also made by Mr. Barrett and by Coach Prentice Walker for cars in which to transport the team to Littlefield on Friday night of this week for Tahoka's first game. Any who can go should communicate with Mr. Barrett or Mr. Walker at once.

Rev. B. N. Shepherd Visitor in Tahoka

Rev. and Mrs. B. N. Shepherd of Hereford visited friends here Wednesday.

Brother Shepherd had undergone a minor operation in the Lubbock Sanitarium on Monday by which a section of an enlarged bone in the nose was removed. His nose, was still pretty sore but otherwise he was feeling fine. Mrs. Shepherd, it will be remembered, also underwent an operation of the major type in the Lubbock Sanitarium not long since. She has almost fully recovered.

Brother Shepherd was pastor of the Baptist Church here for a period of five years, during which time he did a great work. He is now pastor at Hereford and reports the work as going fine.

Baptists Attended Seagraves Meeting

Rev. and Mrs. George A. Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cooper, and Mmes. Martha Stroud, Garland Pennington, F. M. Billman, B. H. Howell, E. I. Hill, and P. W. Goad attended the annual meeting of the Brownfield Baptist Association at Seagraves Wednesday.

Other Lynn county churches represented were Wilson, O'Donnell, New Home, Central, Redwine, Bethel, Three Lakes, Wells, Pride, and Petty.

Rev. George A. Dale of Tahoka is moderator of the association, Rev. S. K. McCullough of New Home is clerk, S. B. Pierson of Ropesville is treasurer, and John Heck of Wilson is chairman of the Executive Board.

Build Addition To Sewing Room

An addition to the county sewing room, 18 by 24 feet in size, is now under construction.

A contract for the job was let by the commissioners court to the Woodbridge Lumber Company Tuesday, the contract price being $321.

The demand for more room at this building had become so urgent that the court felt that the small appropriation for the purpose would be money well spent.

P. R. Dickey, late of Wellington, has accepted a position with the Boydston barber shop here.

Woods Shoots Hole-In-One At Lubbock

C. N. Woods, Tahoka jeweler, has achieved an ambition that every golf player has—he made a hole-in-one.

Sunday while playing on the Lubbock Country Club course in company with Otis Felty, manager of Shamburger Lumber Co. in that city, Woods' tee shot on No. 9 landed square in the cup for a hole in one stroke, No. 9 being a 145 yard hole. However, since three witnesses are required for qualification as a member of the National Hole-in-One club, he was sorry that he did not have more witnesses to the shot.

Big Enrollment In Draw School

Draw-Redwine consolidated school has a total of 215 enrolled this year, sixty of these students being in the high school grades, according to P. C. Thorpe, superintendent. The school has nine teachers including the music teacher.

Eleven grades are being taught at Draw this year, although the school is affiliated with only ten grades. The school is making application for eleventh grade affiliation this year.

Redwine and Draw school districts were consolidated as the result of an election held during the past summer.
