O'Donnell Man Fires On Peace Officers

Unexpectedly and without warning, Deputy Sheriff John Johnson and Night-watchman Brown at O'Donnell suddenly found themselves the target of some man's bullets about seven o'clock Saturday evening. Not knowing who their assailant was, they returned the fire, and one of the shots fired by Mr. Johnson took effect in the neck of their murderous antagonist. It entered on one side and passed out at the other, barely missing the vertebra.

After the man had shot six times, emptying his pistol, and after the officers had also fired several shots, they approached his car and found the occupant to be H. H. Walker, a citizen of Dawson county residing a few miles south or southeast of O'Donnell. Though severely wounded, he was in the act of reloading his pistol. The officers over-powered and disarmed him and he was immediately taken to a sanitarium in Lubbock to have his wound treated. Later he was taken from the sanitarium to jail and on Wednesday was brought to the jail here.

Walker, a farmer, 64 years of age, had once been an inmate of an asylum, and it is believed by many that he was insane when he made the murderous assault upon the officers. The Lynn County grand jury in session here Wednesday returned two bills of indictment against Walker, charging assault with intent to murder the two officers.

State Capitol Building Is Magnificent

(By Frank P. Hill)

Austin, Oct. 15.—Whether you saw Texas' great capitol building in 1888, in 1936, or will see it in 1950, it has been and will be for many years to come a surprise and an inspiration to those who view the structure for the first time. Substantially built and beautiful, the Capitol is in keeping with other great and good things of a great state.

Texas' capitol is 311 feet high, seven feet taller than the U. S. Capitol, and is the largest state capitol in the nation—is 528 feet in length, 290 feet in width, covers three acres and has 19 acres floor space—has 392 rooms, 18 vaults, 924 windows, and 404 doors—is built of Texas granite, quarried at Burnett, hauled to Austin over a railroad, built especially for the purpose, in 15,000 freight cars—erected by Capital Syndicate, 1882-1888, in exchange for 3,000,000 acres of Panhandle-Plains lands in ten counties reaching from Hockley county north along the New Mexico state line to the Oklahoma line—land today worth fully $80,000,000 and enclosing two score towns and villages.

To reach the top of the dome, one rides an elevator up four floors; then must climb 283 steps up winding stairways. But the trip is worth the time and energy, as evidenced by the fact that an average of 100 people a day make the climb. A beautiful view of a beautiful city and country from this lofty perch is something everyone remembers always.

The statue on top of the dome is the original Statue of Liberty having been erected before her more illustrious sister in New York harbor.

Inside of the dome was last painted in 1922, but the job has not been completed to this day. Painting work had reached the sixth floor level. A workman fell from his precarious position, crashing through the glass floor of the rotunda over one hundred feet below. No one has yet been found to complete the painting.

Fair Warning!

City officials say that most car drivers are observing the traffic regulations but that a few seem to pay little attention to them.

Mr. Finch says that he has been instructed to enforce the regulations and therefore he wishes once more to give fair warning to all who deliberately violate the regulations that they must observe them or answer in court for their offenses.

Safety Lane Is Conducted Here

Of the 670 cars inspected at the Safety Lane conducted here Wednesday, 372 were found to be defective, according to report made to the News by Jack Reeves and W. C. Alder of the state highway patrol force.

These defects were classified as follows: Defective brakes, 122, lights, 91; horns, 58; mufflers, 14; windshield wipers, 86; and steering gear, 1.

Only 103 drivers whose cars were found defective came back to report the defect repaired.

The tests were conducted under the direction of Sergeant G. E. Schauer of the Division of Public Safety, Highway Department, Austin. Assisting him were Capt. W. W. Legg and highway patrolmen W. C. Alder, Jack Reeves, Weldon Lawson, J. C. Ferguson, and W. E. Renfrow, all of Lubbock.

While here Sergeant and Captain Legge addressed the public school pupils at Central Ward and at the High School, seeking to impress upon the children the necessity of carefulness and caution in the operation of automobiles, hoping that lessons instilled in the minds of the children may bear much good fruit in later years.

"We have decided that the best way to prevent accidents is to educate the children of today as to the dangers of careless driving or the driving of defective cars," Sergeant Schauer said to the News. "We are telling them to become back seat drivers, to watch their parents and call attention to any mistakes they make or any acts of carelessness they may commit. Strictly speaking there is no such thing as an unavoidable accident. All wrecks and injuries are due to somebody's carelessness or negligence. Reckless or careless driving rather than defects in cars are responsible for most of the car wrecks and personal injuries.

The people must be educated to drive more carefully. Ninety-two little children already have been killed in Texas this year. We are making these talks to the school children and conducting these 'safety lanes' with the hope that we may save the lives of many children hereafter from the folly of reckless driving.

"We wish to express our thanks to the people here for their co-operation and courtesy," Sergeant Schauer and Captain Legge said.

Lynn County Council Meets

At the regular meeting of the Lynn County Council of the home demonstration clubs last Saturday afternoon, the Exhibit committee reported that Lynn county club women had won 23 places in the Panhandle-South Plains Fair.

The council voted to extend thanks to Mr. Anglin of the Texas Utilities Company and to Mr. St. Clair of the Cleora Smith Lumber Company for accommodations which made possible the County Home Demonstration Club Exhibit shown here Friday and Saturday.

Members present were Mesdames G. A. Edwards, Buel Draper, J. R. Strain, Roswell Edwards, R. W. Barton, Roy Kelley, A. L. Dunagan, M. O. Canaday; visitor, Mrs. P. W. Goad.

Lawn Contest

Having made the second pictures of lawns that were entered in the contest the judges will announce their decisions in next week's paper.

Five prizes are to be given in each of two classes: First, the lawn showing the greatest improvement during the contest. Second, the most beautiful lawn at the end of the contest, regardless of what has been done.

Post Rotarians Visit In Tahoka

Upon invitation of the Tahoka Luncheon Club, the Post Rotary Club came over in a body Tuesday night and rendered a program at the American Legion Hall.

The program was one of those delightful affairs that eludes description. Jay Slaughter presided, and he seemed to generate wisecracks and witticisms as easily and naturally as water bubbles out of a spring. Jay seems to be a pretty good second edition of Will Rogers.

T. R. Greenfield was the principal speaker of the evening. He set forth in an impressive manner the good to be derived from a Rotary Club and explained its objectives and ideals.

The musical program and a couple of readings by Miss Lewis were par excellence. First, the entire group sang "The Eyes of Texas." An accordion solo and an encore were given by Miss Royalty, and a violin trio by Lyall Pickett, Mary A. Simms, and Frances Duckworth, with Mary Lawson as piano accompanist.

Several Post speakers expressed the hope that Tahoka might organize a Rotary Club, and a number of Tahoka speakers re-echoed the sentiment. They also expressed their appreciation of the splendid program which the visitors had rendered.

Preceding the Rotary program, the members of the Tahoka Luncheon club pulled a few stunts themselves, Wynne Collier presiding.

First, Walter Anglin gave his brief lecture and his dramatic demonstration of the power of nitroglycerine. Truett Smith extended a brief welcome to the visitors at the conclusion of which he and Raymond Weathers projected themselves into the future and carried on a conversation as of the year 1950. In this conversation they proceeded to give the low-down on a lot of the visitors and a few of the home boys to the great delight of all.

A splendid feast was served by Mrs. Jack Alley.

"Baby Trench Silos for Baby Bees," is the slogan of the 4-H club in Eastland county.

Lynn County Club Women Make Creditably Exhibit of Canned Goods

Notwithstanding the hot, dry summer, which was exceedingly hard on gardens, the H. D. Club women and 4-H club girls of Lynn county made a most creditable exhibit of canned vegetables and fruits at their annual exhibit in the front offices of the Texas Utilities Company last Friday and Saturday. The exhibits were varied and attractive to the eye as well as to the appetite.

Miss Nannie Hill, county home demonstration agent of Hockley county, judged the entries. First, second, and third place winnings are given below:

Snap Beans
First, Mrs. A. C. Weaver, Tahoka; second, Mrs. R. W. Barton, New Lynn; third, Mrs. W. S. Anglin, Tahoka.

Field Peas
First, Mrs. A. C. Weaver, Tahoka; second, Mrs. W. S. Anglin, Tahoka.

Tomatoes
First, Mrs. Garland Pennington, Tahoka; second, Mrs. F. E. House, Dixie; third, Mrs. P. K. Fleming, New Lynn.

Carrots
First, Mrs. M. O. Canady, Tahoka; second, Mrs. A. C. Weaver, Tahoka; third, Mrs. J. R. Strain, New Home.

Tomato Juice
First, Mrs. Garland Pennington, Tahoka; second, Mrs. A. C. Weaver, Tahoka; third, Mrs. R. W. Barton, New Lynn.

Canned Beets
First, Mrs. W. S. Anglin, Tahoka; second, Mrs. A. C. Weaver, Tahoka; third, Mrs. M. O. Canady, Tahoka.

Canned Peaches
First, Mrs. M. O. Canady, Tahoka; second, Mrs. Paul Johnson, Dixie; third, Mrs. E. L. Littlepage, Midway.

Canned Pears
First, Mrs. R. W. Barton, New Lynn; second, Mrs. W. S. Anglin, Tahoka.

Trench Silos Being Dug in Lynn

There are evidences that Lynn county farmers are becoming interested in trench silos.

A few were in use prior to this year and recently others have been dug.

Doubtless the largest trench silo in the county is the one which has just recently been dug by W. H. May on his big farm out east of Wilson. It is 170 feet long, 9 feet wide, and about 8 1-2 feet deep. It has a capacity of 250 to 300 tons of feed.

Will Montgomery has also dug a smaller silo on his farm two miles northwest of Tahoka, with a capacity of 40 or 50 tons; and Joe Poin-dexter of New Home has dug one of like size on his farm.

L. W. Fulford, we understand, has dug or is planning to dig one on his farm with a capacity of 125 tons.

Several other farmers have expressed the intention of digging trench silos, according to County Agent V. F. Jones. He thinks at least eight or ten more will be dug in the county soon.

The trench silo is growing in favor or in communities in which it has been tried, says Mr. Jones.

In the first place, it is comparatively inexpensive. In the second place, feed properly stored in a trench silo will keep indefinitely. And in the third place, it is easy to place the feed in it and take it out as needed.

Feed may be placed in the silo either in bundles, with or without the binds being cut, or it may be chopped up before being deposited in the silo. In either case, it is packed down thoroughly, much water being used. When thoroughly wet and packed in the trench it is covered with dirt. Any amount of rain water soaking in later will not damage it. When opened later, it will be found that the feed is very compact, and if left open indefinitely, only the surface exposed to the air will spoil.

Another advantage of the trench silo is that it is perfectly safe from damage by fire or rodents.

Mr. Jones thinks that the trench silo will rapidly grow in popularity in this section of the state as its merits become better known.

Panhandle-South Plains Fair

The News has received a communication from the secretary of the Panhandle-South Plains Fair Association expressing appreciation of the publicity given the Fair by this paper and the co-operation it gave.

Extensive improvements have been made and others are to be made in order that the Fair may be made better from year to year. "More than $25,000 was spent on the new race track; the grandstand which seats more than 5,000 people cost approximately $15,000," the secretary says. "All of this expenditure was made for the entertainment of fair visitors. It is hoped that before the opening of the 1937 fair other improvements can be made that will add to the pleasure and comfort of guests at this fair."

Y. W. A. Organized

On last Monday evening at 7:15 a group of young ladies of the Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. M. L. Penn for the purpose of planning a reorganization of the Y. W. A. Twelve girls attended the meeting. Plans and methods were discussed, and several matters of business decided upon. After the business session, Mrs. George Dale and Mrs. Penn served punch and sandwiches.

The next meeting will be with Miss Obera Forrester. A short study course in the Y. W. A. Manual will be begun at that time.

Plant breeders at the Texas A. & M. Experiment Station have developed a new variety of Sudan grass.

Negro Is Convicted On Murder Charge

Age Minister Honored Sunday

Rev. J. J. Richardson was the guest of honor at a great birthday dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fenton Sunday, the occasion being in celebration of his ninetieth birthday.

Barbecued beef and chicken with all the accessories and numerous other articles of food prepared as Mrs. Fenton knows so well how to prepare them were served. The meat had been barbecued by Claud Weis, known far and wide as an adept in this line.

As a climax, a cake bearing ninety lighted candles was placed on the table and as the guests snuffed out the candles they made a wish for the continued health and happiness of the honor guest. A few words of appreciation were spoken by the editor, to which the aged minister responded most happily.

The honoree was born on October 12, 1846. His birthday actually came therefore on Monday, but Sunday was selected as the day on which to celebrate for the convenience of members of the family who lived at a distance.

Born in Alabama, deceased came to Texas in 1868. He has spent most of his life as a Presbyterian minister, holding pastorates in many places in North and Central Texas. For 62 years, he has been preaching the gospel, and it seems to have agreed with him physically as well as spiritually, for he is still hale and healthy for one of his age. In fact, he does not appear to be nearly as old as he is. There is no knowing, either, how much good he has done in the world. We need more men of his type.

Those present to enjoy the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fenton Sr. and their daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Fenton, in whose home the celebration was held; Mrs. P. R. Wingo and sons, John Peyton Wingo and his wife, Martin Wingo, and James Wingo, all of Kent, Culberson county; Mrs. Fenton and Mrs. Wingo being the only living children of the honoree; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Fenton and daughters, Ney Camille, Jessie, Kathryn, and Barbara, all of San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fenton Jr. and daughters, Peggy and Mary Beth, of Tahoka; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fenton and children, Patty, James Hester, Ruth, and Joan, of Tahoka; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fenton and daughter, Mary Louise, of Tahoka; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fenton and children, Frank Jr. and Jan, of San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Claud Wells and daughter, Barbara, and the editor.

Over 2,000 Bales Ginned in Tahoka

At eight o'clock Thursday morning, 2029 bales of cotton had been ginned in Tahoka, according to reports given by the five gins here.

Much of the cotton ginned has been very poor grade on account of the heavy and continued rains that fell during September, but much of the cotton that is coming in now is a better grade. The continued sunshine for the past week or more has caused the cotton that was damaged by the rains to puff up and bleach somewhat and has also caused the green bolls to open.

Cotton has been selling on the local market for 10 to 11:50 cents a pound. Cotton seed are worth $29.00 per ton.

Quite a good many Mexican cotton pickers are in the county but not in as great numbers as in some other years. Last Saturday was a good business day for Tahoka and the coming Saturday is expected to be another.

Rates for railroad transportation of cottonseed within the State have been cut sharply by the Texas Railroad Commission.

Mose Caro, negro, charged with the murder of a Mexican named Carusto, was convicted by a jury in the district court Tuesday, and his punishment was assessed at four years in the penitentiary. He accepted sentence, which was pronounced upon him by Judge McGuire Wednesday, and will be taken to the penitentiary at Huntsville within a few days.

Caro and Carusto were cotton pickers last fall and winter on a farm in the Gordon community in the northeastern portion of this county, bunking in the same house together. In mid-winter, after the cotton picking season was over, they disappeared, as most cotton pickers do, and nothing was thought about it.

About the middle of April, a badly decomposed body wrapped in a sack was found partly buried between two rows on the Robert Rackler farm in that community. Officers and other were unable to identify the body but they believed it to be the remains of a Mexican. There were also evidences of foul play. They set to work on the case on the theory that the body was that of Carusto and that his negro companion had committed the murder.

A few weeks ago, Sheriff E. L. Parker was notified by Travis county officers that they had a Negro who was believed to be the man who was wanted in this county. Mr. Parker went to Austin immediately and brought Caro back. He admitted that he had done the killings but claimed that it was done in self-defense in a fight that resulted from vile remarks made by Carusto concerning Caro's mother. Caro was indicted two or three weeks ago, and his case was called for trial Monday.

Not being able to employ counsel, the court appointed Judge B. P. Maddox and Tom Garrard to represent him. District Attorney Truett Smith was assisted in the prosecution by County Attorney C. H. Cain.

Aged Citizen Dies Here Sunday

The death of Allen Isaac Ecord, aged father of Mrs. Robert F. Harp, occurred at the Dr. Harp residence here about five o'clock Sunday afternoon. Present at the time of his death were the Dr. Harp family; an only son, Kenneth Ecord, and his wife of Parsons, Kansas; and a nephew, W. Harley Dallas, and his wife of Brownfield, Mr. Dallas being President of the Brownfield State Bank. Also present were Dr. Harp's mother, Mrs. C. A. Harp, and his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harp of Abernathy.

The body was prepared for burial by the Harris Funeral Home of this city and was taken to Lubbock Monday and thence transported by rail to Kansas City, Missouri, for burial at Lee Summit near that city, former home of deceased. The remains were accompanied by Mrs. Robert Hart and other relatives.

Mrs. Dr. Harp and Kenneth Ecord are the only surviving children, while the Dr. Harp family here and the Dallas family at Brownfield are the only relatives residing in Texas.

Mr. Ecord was born in Ohio, November 22, 1854, and was therefore almost 82 years of age. In early life he migrated to Lee Summit, Missouri, where he spent most of his life. He was active as a farmer until about six or seven years ago, since which time he has resided with his children. He had been a resident of Tahoka since the Dr. Harp family moved here last year. His wife died at Lee Summit, Missouri, in 1923, and his remains were buried beside her grave Wednesday.

Mr. Ecord was a member of the Methodist Church and W. O. W. and K. of P. fraternities.

Produce buyers are expecting a large turkey crop in the Yoakum (South Texas) area.

Yes, a Queer World Supply and Demand If All Worked Hard The Biggest Brain

How Queer is our world! Fascists, led by Sir Oswald Mosley of the English Blackshirts, who think they ought to change the British government, learned from a mob that fascism does not suit England—yet. The Blackshirts were driven home.

Arthur Brisbane

Next day, bands of the Fascists invaded the London Jewish quarter, smashing windows. In the first day's rioting between Fascists and the crowd that does not want fascism, hundreds were hurt.

England is becoming modernized. One of her race track gambling-gangsters, murdered "American fashion" in the course of gangster business, was honored with a funeral that would make Chicago or New York stare.

Mussolini does not believe that old "supply and demand" is necessarily omnipotent. While cutting four per cent from the value of Italian money, he forbids any increase in prices, any rent increase for two years. That experiment will be watched with interest. The word "money," most important in the world to many, has less real meaning than any other word in the dictionary, nobody knowing anything about it.

A new law in Paraguay compels every able-bodied man to work, whether he wants to or not. Here men that want jobs can't get them. There men can get jobs, but don't want them.

The general idea is good, but if all able-bodied men had been compelled to work always the human race would still be far back in the dark ages. One of the greatest Greeks said truly that bodily slavery was necessary, because it gave leisure to a few, leisure made thought possible and thought created progress.

If all men had worked hard, by compulsion, there would have been no deliberate thinking. Slavery would be necessary now for the world's progress had not machines taken the place of slaves.

Scientists of the Smithsonian Institution announce discovery by Dr. Hrdlicka in the Aleutian islands, off the coast of Alaska, of a skull that once held the biggest brain on record, excepting that of the Russian novelist Turgenieff, who had a brain cavity of 2,030 cubic centimeters. The biggest American brain belonged to Daniel Webster, 2,000 cubic centimeters.

But brain size and weight are not everything. Beethoven, with a 1,750 cubic centimeter skull, will outlive in importance Webster, the French naturalist Cuvier, and other "big brains."

Adaptation to usefulness is the important thing. It is said that the eye of the eagle is twice as heavy as the eagle's brain.

Wine bottled in Germany hereafter will have, instead of a cork, a plug of German wood.

To help make Germany independent of the outside world, the use of cork, that does not grow in Germany, is forbidden. This will save 10,000,000 marks a year, spent abroad for cork.

German wood, according to authorities, is cheaper, better, resists breakage, acid, alkali, and eliminates cork taste.

One question is, will the wooden cork swell up at the lower end sufficiently to overcome the pressure of gas in a champagne bottle?

At Jonesville, Va., Rev. T. Anderson, in a demonstration of faith, allowed poisonous serpents to bite him three times, assuring his congregation that they could not harm him.

A copperhead moccasin snake bit him twice on the right hand; a rattlesnake once on the left.

Unfortunately Rev. Mr. Anderson, member of the Holiness persuasion, died soon afterward.

We go up and down quickly in the United States, particularly in new enterprises. William Fox, once one of the most energetic, successful of moving picture men, now a bankrupt, tells the court that in 1930 he was worth one hundred million dollars; now he has only "odds and ends," meaning only a few hundred thousands, here and there.

Our South American neighbor, Nicaragua, forbids all slot machines and other gambling devices in that country. All must be destroyed.

Nicaragua's government says such machines teach children to gamble, and their owners are parasites of the worst kind, making a profit of 68 cents on every dollar.

Lewis Doesn't See Peace in Federation of Labor—Russia Resents Fascist Aid Given Spanish Rebels—Mormons All Off-Dole.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the A. F. of L., who had just been calling on President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., told the newspapermen that the prospects for peace between the warring factions in the federation were better and that those participating in the controversy "were becoming more temperate." However, that same evening John L. Lewis, the dynamic leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization, rather dashed the aforesaid prospects for peace. In Washington he laid down, as the only basis for restoration of peace in the ranks of organized labor, a program consisting of these two propositions:

J. L. Lewis

1. Revocation by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor of the order suspending ten C. I. O. unions on charges of insurrection.

2. Isolation of certain mass production industries which would be organized strictly on Lewis' "one big union" theory.

It had been stated that David Dubinsky, head of one of the suspended unions, had submitted a compromise peace proposal, but Lewis told the correspondents that he knew of no change in feeling between the battling factions; that he had made no move for peace and contemplated none; that the C. I. O. drive to unionize the steel industry was "proceeding satisfactorily" and that the Dubinsky proposal was similar to the one previously offered to and rejected by the A. F. of L. council.

POLITICAL expediency brought about a strange state of affairs in Minnesota. Fred Curtis and Patrick J. Delaney, respectively Democratic gubernatorial and senatorial nominees, withdrew from the race in favor of the Farmer-Labor candidates in return for Farmer-Labor support for the re-election of President Roosevelt. The members of the Democratic party throughout the state were rather dismayed by this action and some of the leaders protested vigorously.

John E. Regan, the party's 1934 gubernatorial candidate, issued a statement asserting that Minnesota Democrats had traded votes and engineered "coalition of parties" before, but "never has there been an absolute sellout."

Alric Anderson, St. Paul attorney who was the Democratic candidate for attorney-general two years ago, marshaled his followers into the "Democrats-for-Nelson Club." Martin A. Nelson is the Republican gubernatorial candidate.

Joseph Wolf, former national committeeman, and Judge J. D. F. Meighen, state central committee chairman, led that group of Democrats supporting both Farmer-Labor candidates and President Roosevelt.

ATTACKING abuse of the franking privilege, which has been practiced by followers of any and all parties when they got the chance, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan proposes that congress pass legislation that will put a stop to this evil, "for the sake upon the one hand of the postal revenue and for the sake, on the other, of political fair play."

When John G. J. G. Winant resigned from the social security board, his letter to the President was a strong pro-New Deal document. It was printed by the press bureau of the social security board and franked to a large mailing list, and Senator Vandenberg asked Mr. Winant whether he thought that was a legitimate use of the franking privilege. Mr. Winant replied promptly that, lest there be any question of the propriety of the matter, he had paid the mailing costs. This attitude was warmly commended by Senator Vandenberg, as it must be by all good citizens.

HELP given the Spanish insurgents by Fascist countries so enraged soviet Russia that she gave notice that, unless it ceased she would free herself from any obligations to the agreement for neutrality. The representatives of the 27 nations on the international committee of non-intervention in the Spanish war were about to meet in London, and Moscow's challenge caused a real sensation. Moiseyich Kagan, soviet delegate on the committee, specifically named Portugal, Italy and Germany as the offenders and called for an investigation. It is believed that if Russia is not satisfied in this matter she will send airplanes and other war material to the Spanish government.

Kagan's communication made the direct charges that German airplanes reached the Spanish rebels from Germany, that poison gas reached the rebels from Italy, and that Portugal permitted its frontier to be used by the rebels.

Spanish Fascists pushed their lines so closely around Madrid that they called on the government to surrender the capital immediately and thus save it from a destructive bombardment. An airplane fleet showered the city with circulars telling the citizens that further resistance was useless. One of the most threatening of General Franco's advances was directed at Aranjuez, whose capture would cut off Madrid's food supply from the Mediterranean.

The government claimed that an army of loyalist miners had fought its way to the center of Oviedo against the desperate resistance of the rebel defenders.

Gen. Francisco Franco, chief of the insurgents, decreed a Fascist dictatorship and created a "junta of state" which will govern subject to his will. In his first statement of policy, Franco assured workers they would be "protected against the ills of capitalism and that steps would be taken to regulate favorable working hours."

SIX months ago the Latter Day Saints church—otherwise the Mormons—inaugurated a program to make every able bodied member self-supporting by October 1.

Heber J. Grant

In the great tabernacle at Salt Lake City Heber J. Grant, president of the church, told an audience of thousands that the plan had succeeded and that the drive had taken all the needy members off public relief. The church has consistently opposed "pay without work." In reading his report President Grant took occasion to criticize the Townsend pension plan and government control of crops, and he warned the members to avoid "political entanglements."

Under the church relief drive, land was leased and the needy provided with implements for tilling. Womens groups have made clothes and bedding. Members have contributed the financial equivalent of two meals monthly to a special fund.

In scattered storehouses, Mr. Grant reported, supplies have been laid up in generous quantities for distribution among the needy who helped produce them.

Under the program, the speaker declares, "the curse of idleness would be done away with, the evils of a dole abolished, and independence, thrift, and self-respect will be once more established amongst our people."

AS THE time for the expiration of the Washington naval treaty draws nearer, the utterances of Secretary of the Navy Swanson take on more and more the nature of sharp warnings to Japan not to get too gay in the Pacific. In a press conference the other day he said:

"Fortifications are intended to answer fortifications. One menace must be met by another menace."

And he gave notice that the navy should be ready to do the necessary meeting. About the same time the State department was studying a proposition, made to it and to Japan by Great Britain, for an extension of the treaty pledge of the three nations not to build new fortifications or naval bases in certain of their Pacific possessions. In Tokio it was said the government might agree to this provided certain changes were made giving Japan "fairer" treatment in the light of an altered international situation.

ACCUSED of complicity in the plot against Dictator Stalin for which 16 prominent Russians were executed in August, Karl Radek, brilliant journalist, is under arrest and in danger of losing his life. He disappeared just after the executions of the others, but was caught a few days ago.

In his last article, published in the official newspaper Ivestia, Radek confessed his unfaithfulness to the Communist party, but defended himself with a vitriolic attack on Trotsky and claimed he had "expiated" his sins by foiling Trotsky's attempted sabotage of the Stalin regime.

KURT BJORKVALL, Swedish aviator, made an attempt to fly alone from New York to Stockholm. Thirty-two hours after the start he was picked up from the ocean about one hundred miles off the coast of Ireland. Supposedly he had run short of fuel. The rescue was made by a French trawler. The plane was badly damaged and was abandoned.

The only wealth is life: the only way to make the best of this world is to make the best of the other. For the two are one. The highest gleams ever through this lower. The pilgrim to the better country is the man who, living or dying, knows the bliss of perpetual youth.—J. Brierley.

PATTERNS OF WOLF PEN

By HARLAN HATCHER

Back in the kitchen, she lifted the stove lid to lay on a piece of wood. The hot lid slipped away from the lifter and fell on her right hand leaving a black smear and the furious bite of fire tearing into the skin. She caught her breath with the first pain, waving her hand up and down to relieve it. "What an awkward thing for a body to do and on a hot day when you can't hardly get your breath in this kitchen, and then to go and burn your right hand just when you're ready to mix up the corn-bread batter." She washed away the soot and anointed the burn with linseed oil from the bottle in the cupboard and spread soda over it and wrapped it lightly with a white rag. She placed the large wooden mixing bowl on the table and began to stir in the meal and the sour milk, the soda and the shortening. It was an awkward process. She took the bowl into her right arm, pressing it against her, and stirred slowly with her left hand. Some of the soft batter sloshed over against her dress. A wisp of hair slipped from its place and dangled into her eyes. She pushed it back with her left hand, leaving flakes of cornmeal stuck in it and on her perspiring forehead. She was hot and fretted. "Gracious, but I feel a sight. I could nearly cry." Outside she heard the yard gate close sharply as the bucket of rocks on the wire between the gate and the post pulled it shut. "There's Jesse and I'm so glad I could cry. He'll help me some now and me with this burn." She dabbed at the sweat on her lip, blew upward to flip the lock of hair out of her eye again, and went toward the kitchen door. "On, Jesse, I'm sure glad—" She had reached the door. Her words ended as abruptly as though the living self had walked straight out of its hot body into the habitation of spirits. She stood perfectly still, hugging the bowl of corn-bread batter, shielding her burned hand, looking at him through the meal-stained lock of hair. "Good evening," he said. "This is Sparrel Patter's place if I'm not mistaken." For the first time in her life she was without the words a meeting needed. She stood dumbly in the door, while the young man came on across the yard to the porch. He was as tall as Sparrel and as straight. He wore a brown corduroy cap, breeches of the same material tucked away at the bottom into heavy shoes, a blue shirt and a black bow tie. He walked with the easy grace and strength of a man who was used to moving about in the open on foot. "Mr. Shellenberger described the place like a surveyor, that is, if this is the Patter place," he said, his blue eyes and his voice smiling at her across the porch. Slowly Cynthia felt her natural self return to the doorway. She looked at the young man. Over his left arm he carried a large brass surveyor's compass with shining, upright peep-sights on each end. With his other hand he grasped a long, smooth Jacob's staff like a huge walking stick tipped with brass, and over his shoulder was slung a knapsack and a surveyor's chain. "This is the place. Daddy and the boys are out about the barn somewhere." "Well, I'm glad to get here before dark. My name's Reuben Warren. I've come to survey the place. The folks over at the Landing thought I couldn't make it to your place before nightfall if I came on foot, but here I am." Cynthia was bewitched by his voice and the clear music of his spoken words. His vocabulary was very much the same as that of the better Gannon Creek folk, but the quality of the intonation, the rhythm of the sentences, and the pitch of the voice were unusual to her ear. The silent interval, lengthening from the ending of his words and filled with the amazement of two people looking at each other for the first time with a recognition beyond their immediate understanding, grew too emphatic, and Cynthia remembered to say that the menfolk would be in soon and to invite him to sit down. "I'd better get on with the supper if you'll excuse me." Reuben Warren set the Jacob's staff against the door, slipped the knapsack from his shoulder, and then sat down with the compass on his lap and felt the agreeable glow of rest sweep up the muscles of his legs and settle in his neck and shoulders where the heavy knapsack had imprinted a red band. He sat at ease, watching the dark shadow of the Pinnacle slice upward toward Cranesnest. "The finest place I've seen in all my trips into the hills. I wonder what the man who developed a place like this will be like?" Cynthia hurried back into the kitchen. "Reuben Warren. What a nice name. Reuben Warren. It's like a singing. It goes like his talk." She poured the batter into the large iron skillet and placed it in the oven, bending over the stove and opening the door carefully with her burned hand. The loose strand of hair again fell into her eye. This time she would fix it properly. She went to the mirror that hung above the table and looked at herself. She gave a gesture of despair. "Oh, my gracious, Cynthia Patter, you never looked such a sight in your whole life. That awful wisp of hair over your face and the corn-meal in it like scruff, your hand buried and bandaged, and your sweaty face all red as a beet, and this old brown striped calico dress on and it spotted with batter! And Reuben Warren saw you like that, and he'll think that's the way I always look, and I don't. I never do. Just this one time, and there he should be ready to look at me and think I am slouchy about the house, and I'm not." The tears started her and bore with them a physical relief and relaxation. There flashed into her mind the picture of her mother Julia years ago in the wood-lot with a dress full of chips, looking up suddenly at Sparrel Patter on a tall horse, and then staring down at her dress, and running away to the kitchen with her confusion. The vision was so sharp and so unexpected that it completely changed Cynthia's mood and she felt a smile forming through her tears. "And me dreaming on about a pear tree and a fine dress like Lady Arabella's and him saying, 'Lady, you're the prettiest sight I ever saw in all my born days.'" She removed the unsightly bandage and brushed away the loose soda, and carefully washed the burned hand. Then she bathed her eyes back into composure. She felt her spirit lifting above the confusion and the heat. As she went on with the supper she began to sing without forming any words that could reach the porch. She opened the oven to look at the baking sweet potatoes and the bread. She went into the smoke-house and sliced off the best cuts of the home-cured ham to fry. She took dripping spoonfuls of dark fragrant honey from the stone jar, and sweet rosin butter from the spring-house, and a fresh loaf of wheat bread from Julia's box. Then she slipped the every-day red and white-checked cloth from the table and spread in its stead one of the hem-stitched white covers from the cedar-smelling linen closet in the hall. She poured the brown sugar back into the jar and filled the bowl with white granulated. She cut a spray of wild honeysuckle from the clump behind the drying kiln, arranged it in a low brown earthen pot, and set it in the center of the table. It was all very beautiful now, and she stood back to admire it for an instant. "He'll see that I'm not anyway slouchy, if he has any eyes. And he has. I guess I'm glad Mother went over to Jenny's today, after all." She heard Sparrel and the boys coming into the yard. She looked at the supper again and ran up to her room to change into a fresh dress. "Blue is best for my face when it's hot and for my hair." She felt neat and orderly, like the table she had just laid. She hurried back to the kitchen. She put the coffee on the stove. She got milk from the spring-house. "I guess I've got things about ready for him now." Outside on the porch she could hear the voices of her menfolk making Reuben Warren welcome on Wolfpen. The clear and easy tones of Reuben ripped over the slow deep talk of Sparrel, and in both there was the ring of friendliness. "Where's your mule?" she heard Abrai ask. "I haven't any mule." "Then how did you get over here with all them things?" "I walked." "You walked?" "Yes, I walked. Don't you people ever walk any? You're as bad as city folks." It was the first time she had heard his free laugh. Cynthia was taking up the supper. She could hear the men at the wash rock, Jesse offering Reuben the soap and Jasper the towel. Everything was ready now and she stepped to the door. The days were noticeably lengthening, as though the light clung to the trees and the sprouting fields and tried to shoulder the darkness from the hollows. "Come in to supper," she said. She saw Sparrel and Jesse and Reuben Warren look at her burned hand as they passed into the dining room, and she let it drop quietly behind her skirt. "You sit right here, Mr. Warren." Sparrel said, placing him on the right facing the kitchen where Cynthia stood ready to serve. Then Sparrel asked the blessing, raising his head and looking at Cynthia as he said the Amen. Cynthia returned the look of communication, following Sparrel's eyes over the white table to the honeysuckle in the center. "He thinks it all right to tidy up the table for company, but he wonders why I put on the white cloth for Reuben Warren and let Shellenberger take just what he found." Sparrel passed the food to his guest, urging it upon him generously after the manner of Gannon Creek folks. Cynthia moved silently about the table with water for the glasses and with hot coffee and warm triangles of corn bread that was soft and flaky between the crisp red crusts. Her brothers took only the wheat loaf, but Reuben refused it for the corn bread, and Cynthia flushed with confused pleasure, for she felt intuitively that he did it out of consideration for the distress and embarrassment she showed when she met him at the door with batter in her hand. It was the first time in her life that such a secret understanding had come to her and it left her surprised with the wonder of its recognition and communication. "His face is long, and then it isn't long. And it isn't round. It's like his chin. It's his high forehead with the black hair roached back off of it. Wonder what if I'd been out there with the sheep like I was that day. Things always just come out the way they are, I reckon, without any of a body's what if..." Abrai had finished and was full of questions. Where did Reuben live? How did that Shellenberger fellow find him? How did he know where to come by himself? How did a man go about surveying a tract of land? And Cynthia stood by Sparrel watching over the table, listening to the talk of Reuben Warren in reply, captivated. "My father has an office down at Catlettsburg. He is a surveyor. You can look out of the office window and see the Big Sandy and the Ohio coming together in a V around West Virginia. Shellenberger just dropped in one day on his way to Pittsburg and said he was buying some timber-land from Sparrel Patter in Pike county and he wanted a surveyor. My father was tied up on a big job over in Ohio, so I packed up the traps and took the train and then the boat and came to Patter Landing. I got off there this afternoon about two-thirty, and walked over the bridge path. It felt good to stretch my legs. When I saw this place from up there at the head of the hollow, I thought it was about the finest place I've ever seen away from the river." "Does it take very long to learn to be a surveyor?" Abrai demanded. "It's not a very hard job. You just naturally learn it after some time. I guess I've been around with my dad since I was about fifteen." "When do you mind to begin running off the tract?" Sparrel inquired. "We'll begin right away. What part are you selling off?" "The timber-land down the creek. I reckon. But I calculated I'd have the whole place run off first and then we'd cut across to get the part for Shellenberger. Did he say when he would be back?" "In a few weeks, he said, and we might go right ahead with the work. We might look at the deeds right away if you have them handy." The men arose from the table. Cynthia placed a lamp on Sparrel's desk, and the men went into the big kitchen to sit and look at the deeds. "That was a mighty good supper," Reuben was saying as he paused by her, passing from the dining-room. "I guess I worked up an appetite over those hills." He laughed pleasantly. Cynthia was not used to hearing remarks about the food, and she had no confident words for reply. "It wasn't very much. Mother is over at Jenny's today." She ate by herself until Jesse came in again and sat down. "How did you burn your hand?" "I dropped a hot lid on it. And it was just before he came and I was about to cry. I thought he was you and I went to the door with a bowl of milk." Jesse smiled and looked at the burn. "It's not very deep." But he helped her clear away the dishes and then actually washed them, against her protest, in the kitchen where Reuben and Sparrel and Jasper and Abrai were sitting and talking about the survey. Cynthia could see them and hear them as she worked. Sparrel had brought out the tin box, freckled with rust, containing his deeds and papers. The folded foolscap was yellowed and spotted with age. It was musical to hear Reuben's voice reading the deeds. "The Commonwealth of Virginia to

Saul Patter... four thousand acres, more or less, situate between the Big Sandy River and Gannon Creek, and bounded and described as follows, to-wit: ... this twentieth day of March, 1798. ... to Barton Patter... one thousand acres, more or less, situate on Gannon and Marebone Creeks—this ninth day of August, 1814. ... to Tivis Patter... four hundred acres, more or less, situate on Sycamore Creek. ... this nineteenth day of August, 1825. ... to Sparrel Patter... three hundred and fifty acres, more or less, situate on Horsepen Branch, and bounded and described as follows, to-wit: ... this tenth day of September, 1854." "These are old ones, all right," Reuben was saying, turning them over in his hands and smelling the odor of old paper. "The Patters have been here a long time, haven't they?" "Just a hundred years now." "I suppose this is a good time to sell if you've got timber-land." Reuben was again looking at the deeds. "Beginning at a twelve-inch white oak on Cranesnest Point from which a two-foot hickory bears to the northeast about one pole; ... then e along the ridge about sixty poles to a twenty-inch black oak ... These bearings and distances are not very definite. Looks like we'll have to do some hunting and guessing." "I guess Saul and Barton just stepped it off and marked trees with an ax when they surveyed," Sparrel said with a chuckle. "Where is this Cranesnest and Pinnacle?" Reuben asked. "The two points you saw yonder from the porch, Cranesnest on your right," Jasper said. "We'll go up there and see if we can make a start tomorrow." Cynthia heard the talk go on to Sparrel's books and the Weekly Gazette and Cincinnati where all the big Ohio River boats went, and the growth of the coal and lumber business and the Big Sandy River traffic, the coal mines and unsightly villages, and the river towns of Catlettsburg and Ashland and frontown and Portsmouth all beginning to expand with sawmills and furnaces and brick plants and wholesale houses. She finished the kitchen and went to prepare the beds. The sound of their voices carried no words to Cynthia in the corner room. She smoothed the sheet and got two large soft pillows and laid them in the place of the bolster. "I guess that's ready for him, and it's not any slouchy." She looked at the bed again, and then went to the closet and chose the best red and white coverlet in the difficult snail-trail and cat-track patterns, spreading it over the foot of the bed. Then she went down to the kitchen and said to Sparrel in the exact manner of Julia that the beds were ready any time now. She got into her nightgown, feeling the cool star-touched dark moving about in the bottoms and looking into her room. "May nights on Wolfpen are cool and soft. What a long day since Mother went to Jenny's. It was just this morning. Now it is night and I have cooked two meals and served a stranger who was not yet so strange. I wasn't by the sheepfold, I wasn't by the well, I wasn't by a pear tree in a soft blue gown. I was just hot and fretted and untidy-looking. But Rebekah had a water-jug on her shoulder, and I don't reckon that's any different mark from a wooden bowl in a body's arms, and it's as good to feed a man good bread that he likes as to water some dusty old camels. Mother was on a chip like The orchard is so quiet at night like the Great Dipper above the Pinnacle. Saul is quiet and Barton is quiet, and Tivis. The men are quiet, and the mill wheel down there is still—There weren't any blossoms on the pear tree, anyway." CHAPTER VIII Cynthia was up before daybreak, alert and happy in the feeling that she was mistress of the household on this first morning. She brushed her hair carefully. "Mother always looks neat and fresh when she goes to get breakfast, like she was going to meeting or somewhere." Sparrel was in the kitchen building the fire. He greeted her kindly. "I didn't have to call you this morning." "I had it on my mind and I woke up." "I reckon Julia'll be back by noon. She picked a good time to go," Sparrel said, but gently and with no wish to embarrass her. Sparrel went on to the barn. Before Cynthia had rolled the biscuit dough flat on the bread board to be cut into circles, the boys were at the wash rock. Abrai was excited and playful. When Jesse came up, still rubbing his eyes, Abrai fung a pan of cold water in his face, and then dodged him, laughing, about the well and the rock. Reuben laughed with them. He saw Cynthia before the table in the kitchen looking fresh and rested and without confusion. "Good morning." "Good morning." "I'm afraid we've made a lot of extra work for you." "Not at all," she said, and slipped the pan of biscuits into the oven. "It's not much work, and it's always fun to see if the biscuits will rise and get crisp without burning." "I hope these won't burn," Reuben said. And they didn't. They were brown and flaky and the men broke them open with their fingers and put butter in them to melt, and ate them with honey. Cynthia served them and watched them eat with satisfaction, thinking of the different moods this strange spring had brought. She liked to hear Reuben talking with Sparrel about the work, his pleasant voice speaking easily and capably to the point. "We will need two ax-men to clear a sight, and a rod-man and two chain-men. You'll have to help me find the marks on the trees and keep directions. The early deeds won't help much except to tell us that the line crosses a ravine or ends on a rock ledge." "One of my boys will have to stay on the place to look after things," Sparrel answered. "The other two can help. We can get another chainman and two ax-men all right." Jesse and Abrai drew lots for the beginning. Jesse won. But Abrai was so full of disappointment that Reuben said to Sparrel: "We can't do more than get started this morning. If you can spare them, suppose we all go up and look over the ground." And Abrai looked across the table at Cynthia and smiled. From the kitchen window Cynthia watched the five men, carrying axes, a corn knife, the compass and the chain, go out of the yard by the well, and along the path that led to the Shelf and then, more vaguely, up to Cranesnest. By the time the men had reached Cranesnest Shelf, the mist was gone from the hollows except for the thin wisps still clinging to the treetops in the deep purple wrinkles of the hills at the head of the hollows. They stopped by the rails on the Shelf and Sparrel answered Reuben's questions, telling of the Patter men who lay there, and of Cynthia's fancy concerning Saul. "I should have been of Saul's time," Reuben said. "Think of being the first white man to stand on one of these points, just as the mist is lifting, and saying to the silence, 'All I can see when the mist is up will be the Patter lands.'" "The next best thing is to re-survey the land those old fellows first walked over." Then he laughed boyishly, and they climbed on up to the rocky point of Cranesnest. The Patter men stood behind Reuben, seeing the glorious panorama afresh through his eyes; the absolute peace in the Wolfpen hollow from the house down to the mill which squatted like a black spider at their feet. "This is a good place to begin just about anything," Reuben said, watching the glint of sun on Gannon creek where it bent out of sight. They had no trouble finding the oak tree designated as the beginning point in the deed of 1814. It was now a huge tree, and the three ax marks in the rough bark had grown and spread until no inexperienced eye could have identified them. "That's the old corner tree," Sparrel said. And Reuben, looking at the deed, "Thence in a southeasterly direction, following the back of the ridge, about fifty-five poles to a sixteen-inch walnut about a pole from a big rock which sticks out near the head of a hollow; that's definite, all right." Slowly they made their way along the ridge, Abrai pushing ahead through the underbrush trying to locate marked trees, Jasper hacking at the slender saplings with his ax, Jesse slashing the greenbriers and the small brush with the knife, Sparrel and Reuben stepping off the distance as they advanced. They climbed over fallen, rotting and moss-grown tree-trunks, through grapevine tangles and berry vines, and over rocks. It was hard, slow going. Then Abrai found a tree notched fore and aft to set them right again. (TO BE CONTINUED)

"I'm Afraid We've Made a Lot of Extra Work for You."

Believe Death Valley Was Once a Lake Bed In support of the view that Death valley in California was formerly the bed of a lake, is the discovery of traces of an ancient water-line running along the flanks of the enclosing mountains at a height of 600 feet. The bottom of the valley is 200 feet below sea-level. The winds from the Pacific cross four ranges of mountains before reaching the valley, and by that time they have been drained of their last drop of moisture. It is said that no spot on earth surpasses Death valley in aridity or Tophet-like heat. The lake that once filled it is believed to have been fed by a river which has now also vanished. The borax deposits of Death valley are commercially important, but labor is all but impossible in a place where to be without water for a single hour in summer means death. NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC
Any erroneous reflection upon the reputation or standing of any individual firm or corporation, that may appear in the columns of The News will be gladly corrected when called to our attention.

In the approaching presidential election, the voter will have the choice of casting his ballot for a man who has received the approval and the blessing of the special interests or for a man who has shown his independence of the special interests. It is obviously true that at times Roosevelt has shown too little regard for the Constitution, but his errors have been made in an effort to help the "forgotten man". There are many New Deal activities that are subject to grave criticism, and it may be that we have reached the point where our Government shall be compelled to tighten up on its spending, but we believe in a progressive administration if at any time hereafter it may be inclined to become too radical in its policies or too extravagant in its spending, a more conservative and more evenly divided Congress may be depended upon to call a halt. There is no danger of communism or radical socialism dominating this government at Washington whether the President be Roosevelt or Landon.
However, as some one has pointed out, a progressive administration will take the wind out of the bar of the communists, whereas a standpat administration would only add fuel to the communist flame.

It is regrettable that in heated political campaigns, politicians will still resort to the spreading of false statements and to the use of despicable methods in their efforts to defeat the candidate of the opposition. Recently the News editor received gratis a book entitled "The Roosevelt Red Record and its Background", in which the author undertakes to show that President Roosevelt is in sympathy with and is giving aid and comfort to the communist organization in this country, which seeks to overthrow our form of government and to set up a communist form, to destroy all religion and establish atheism, and to annihilate color lines and permit and encourage the free intermarriage of Whites and Negroes. This charge is too absurd for informed, sensible people to believe for a moment, but there are a lot of uninformed and foolish people in this country who can vote. These falsehoods are intended to catch the vote of this class. It is to be hoped that the time will soon come when such methods will prove to be such a boomerang that no party will dare to use them.

The astonishing story of GULFPRIDE
THE WORLD'S FINEST MOTOR OIL

THE results you get from GULFPRIDE OIL can be obtained from no other motor oil in the world!
For only GULFPRIDE is made from choice Pennsylvania crude . . . refined to equal the best motor oils on the market . . . and then further refined by Gulf's exclusive Alchlor process.

This process was developed by Gulf after 15 years of scientific research—the kind of painstaking research that is behind every Gulf product.

Read the facts below. Then replace your summer-worn oil with GULFPRIDE now. At all Gulf dealers.

(Left)
BEATING THE BEST. No other process
refines oil so thoroughly as Gulf's Alchlor process. When a blend of 6 of the finest Pennsylvania motor oils—already highly refined—was put through this process, 20% waste came out. Proof that the Alchlor process makes GULF-PRIDE finer than the finest other Pennsylvania oils.

A GULFPRIDE USER
drove from Bennington, Vt.
to Portland, Ore., averaging 400 miles a day. He did not add a single drop of oil. An unusual record, yes. But ex-

TERRACING LINES TO BE LAID OUT

Lyndon B. Johnson, director of the National Youth Administration in Texas, announced Thursday that NYA participation in soil conservation projects will get underway within two weeks in nine North Central Texas counties. Gradually the program will be expanded to embrace 50 Texas counties, these being selected wherever employable youths are available in counties whose farmers have expressed the greatest desire to their county agents for terracing work.

The National Youth Administration will furnish surveying crews in the county. These crews will work under supervision of a transit man chosen by the county agent. The crews will run terrace lines for farmers applying to the county agents, but the farmer must construct his own terraces.

The nine counties chosen for testing out the program are Callahan, Shackelford, Scurry, Nolan, Jones, Stephens, Mitchell, Taylor, and Eastland. About 170 young men will be employed on the nine surveying crews, Mr. Johnson estimated. Boys working on these projects will work on a third adult time and be paid the prevailing wage.

The Texas A & M Extension Service has estimated that terracing benefits farm land an average of $8 an acre. A need for more surveying parties has delayed the terracing program in many parts of the state in the past.

TEXAS DELEGATION APPEAL FOR SUPPORT OF NATIONAL TICKET

As nominees of the Democratic Party to represent our State in the National Congress we are naturally deeply interested in the pending National campaign.

We share with our fellow Texas Democrats a feeling of pardonable pride in our State's enviable record as the Nation's Banner Democratic State and we are eager, as we know they are, that this fine record shall be fully maintained this year.

We feel that Texas owes a debt of gratitude to our great President, our Vice President, our own John N. Garner, and our Democratic Administration. Therefore, we are assuming the liberty of urging our friends and individual supporters, as well as all of our fellow Democrats of Texas, to give their active personal support to the Democratic ticket in its entirety, and especially to cooperate in every possible way with our Texas National Campaign organization in achieving its objectives. We urge them especially to make such liberal contributions as they can to the National campaign fund now being raised in Texas to help the cause of Democracy in other states.

We are confident of an overwhelming victory in November, but to assure it beyond peradventure, all loyal Democrats should do their part in proportion to their means.

Senators Morris Sheppard, Tom Connally.

Congressmen Wright Patman, First District, Martin Dies, Second District, Morgan G. Sanders, Third District.

Sam Rayburn, Fourth District, Hatton W. Summers, Fifth District.

Indigestion Gets Quick Relief

Millions of men and women are suffering from disturbances of their digestive systems, due to acidity, and this is often the real cause of ill health, tired-out, run-down feeling, loss of "pep" and zest for living. If you are suffering from indigestion, atonic dyspepsia, sour stomach, gas pains, "raw stomach," inflammation of the intestines (enteritis), gastric acidity and sick headaches, you can't afford to ignore these warning signs. Take Gasa Tablets, the Doctor's Prescription, which are intended to soothe the raw, inflamed lining of the "acid stomach," and to help convert the starchy foods into dextrose. Because of this remarkable success in many cases of acidity and digestive troubles resulting from acid conditions, Gasa Tablets are offered to sufferers under a guarantee that the first bottle must produce results or money back. How Inflation Hits Your Savings

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

"The very man who has the deepest interest in sound currency is the man who earns his daily bread by his daily toil."

Daniel Webster said that nearly a century ago. His statement was true in his time, it was true years earlier, and it is true today.

France proved its verity as early as 1795, when currency inflation forced workers and wage-earners to pay the equivalent of $9 for a pound of bread and of $40 for a bushel of potatoes.

Germany proved it shortly after the World War when inflation wiped out utterly the average worker's savings, and sky-rocketed the prices of everything save the bare necessities of life far beyond his reach.

Russia proved it when her revolutionary leaders used inflation to help drag every worker down to a state of regimented and dependent penury.

In every instance currency inflation hurt the worker and helped the speculator. Always it crushes the thrifty and exalts the gambler. How?

It achieves this effect not by reducing the number of dollars in the earner's pay-envelope or savings account or insurance estate, but by reducing the actual purchasing power of those dollars.

It means that out of the same income—or savings—he must pay far more for food and clothes and shelter and everything else he buys.

That's fine for the well-heeled speculator who profits by buying in a low market and selling at inflated prices. But it's hard on the worker—or on his widow and children if he has entrusted their future to insurance or savings funds accounts, as most American wage-earners do.

How can the average worker and citizen escape this menace?

Well, as history has proved, the blight of inflation descends on a nation in one of two ways. It may be adopted deliberately as a method of raising prices. But more often it comes as a result of straining government resources through extravagance and debt.

Force the politicians to eliminate waste and the piling up of public debt—and you remove this threat at the earnings, the savings and the security of every worker and his family.

The "Sunday School Lesson" published each week in this newspaper has been adopted by thousands of church instructors throughout the United States as a regular part of their weekly work. It is a review and exposition of the international lesson for each week, prepared by Dean Harold L. Lundquist of the Moody Bible Institute at Chicago, a recognized leader in the nation's church work. Dean Lundquist has been active in teaching youthful groups for years, thereby acquiring an insight into the needs of these people for understandable explanations of Bible passages. In view of his accomplishments in church work, it is not surprising that Dean Lundquist's exposition of the weekly Sunday School lesson is being used in almost every community of the nation. As teacher or student you will find it extremely helpful.

SOCIETY

Club and Church News

BAPTIST W. M. S.

All circles of the Baptist W. M. S. met together in the church Monday afternoon. Our pastor, Rev. Geo. A. Dale, brought some interesting and beautiful thoughts from Paul's letter to the Church at Philippi. From this personal letter we learned much of the human side of Paul. And, too, the letter shows the close relationship between Paul and those he had led to Christ. The very memory of them and of their good deeds to him warmed and cheered him into forgetting his dreary prison cell.

In a short business session the group voted to help purchase a mimeograph machine for Wayland College, and made plans to attend an executive Board meeting in Lubbock Friday.

The women of Tahoka Baptist church are invited to a meeting for women only, at the church next Monday night at seven.

The regular monthly business meeting of the W. M. S. will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 at the Church.

In addition to the pastor, Rev. Geo. A. Dale, the following attended Monday's meeting: Mesdames Garland Pennington, J. B. Walker, H. B. Howell, H. M. Snowden, A. O. King, Geo. A. Dale, M. L. Penn, E. I. Hill, J. L. Nevill, G. E. Hogan, A. J. Edwards, Pledger Coleman, L. A. Scay, E. N. Weathers, Homer St. Clair, R. C. Wells and Wiley Fortenberry.

NEW LYNN H. D. CLUB
Mrs. Susie Bartley, Reporter
(Delayed)

"You don't have to go to the store to get your gifts" said Miss Boyd in a talk she gave to the H. D. members at Mrs. Newman Bartley's home Tuesday, October 6. "One could give a glass of jelly, a cake, some home-made candy, a bag of shelled popcorn, or almost an innumerable lot of things about the home if one would just stop and think awhile."

The next meeting will be with Mrs. P. K. Fleming.

Members present were: Mesdames E. B. Terry, Hub Stalcup, Newman Bartley, and Susie Bartley; visitors, Mesdames Jim Thornbro and Lois Jaynes.

EUZELIAN CLASS

In the regular business meeting of the Euzeilian class Tuesday night in the Baptist Church the following officers were elected: H. P. Caveness, Teacher, Mrs. H. M. Snowden, President; Mrs. R. C. Forrester, first Vice-President; Mrs. Geo. A. Dale, second vice-president; Mrs. Roy Leslie, third vice-president; Mrs. W. M. Harris, fourth vice-president, and Mrs. J. P. Stuart Secretary-Treasurer.

Mr. Caveness, Mrs. Caveness and Mrs. J. B. Walker each made brief talks to the class after which the social committee, Mrs. S. H. Aissiter and Mrs. Gladys M. Stokes directed a series of active and mirth provoking games.

Lovely fall flowers decorated the rooms and the refreshment plate suggested the "Hallowe'en" season. Those attending were: Mr. Caveness and Mesdames Caveness, Holland, Snowden, Walker, Forrester, Billman, Dale, Howell, Billmean, Hill, Miss Dorothy Holland and the hostesses Mrs. Stokes and Mrs. Assiter.

DRAW 4-H CLUB

The ways to prepare and serve carrots and beets were discussed by Miss Boyd at the Draw 4-H Club meeting. Each member is to serve either carrots or beets before the November meeting.

Mrs. R. L. Cates was selected as instructor for next year.

How Cardui Helps Women To Build Up

Cardui stimulates the appetite and improves digestion, helping women to get more strength from the food they eat. As nourishment is improved, strength is built up, certain functional pains go away and women praise Cardui for helping them back to good health. . . Mrs. C. J. Ratliff, of Hinton, W. Va., writes: "After the birth of my last baby, I did not seem to get my strength back. I took Cardui again and was soon sound and well. I have given it to my daughters and recommend it to other ladies. . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician."

Trees For The Plains

(An Editorial)

It is said that the "Shelterbelt" project for the plains states has been abandoned.

A lot of fun has been poked at the shelterbelt idea, and it appealed to most residents of the West as absurd.

Nevertheless, the time is doubtless not far away when there will be ten times as many trees, possibly a hundred times as many, on the plains of West Texas as there are today.

The Chinese Elm has proven its adaptability to this climate. It is remarkably drought-resistant, grows more rapidly than most other trees, is long-lived, and is attractive in appearance. Furthermore it is easy to propagate.

Last year these trees produced innumerable seeds. On many of the premises in Tahoka, countless numbers of little Chinese Elm trees came up last Spring. If a tenth of these had been preserved, there would now be enough young trees in Tahoka to line all the highways and public thick in places that naturally many roads in Lynn county. They were so many that some people deliberately killed them to keep them from choking out other shrubbery or flowers. Some of them died from neglect during the intense heat of the dry summer.

But thousands of them are still living. A number of homes in Tahoka still have several hundred of these trees growing on the premises.

What are to be done with them? By all means they should be utilized. Home-owners who do not have Chinese Elms on their premises should procure some of these trees this winter or early next spring. Some agency or organization or club should see to it that many of them are transplanted along our public roads and highways. Land-owners who have lakes in their pastures, could make their farms much more attractive by setting out some of these elms around the lakes, and then protecting them from the livestock until they get considerable growth.

And by all means, those old gnarled, disfigured, half-dead locust trees on the court house lawn should be dug up and nice young Chinese Elms set out in their places.

If the people of Lynn county will only try, they can make the whole county attractive and prosperous-looking by the use of Chinese Elms—and it will not require but about a half dozen years to bring about the transformation.

Refreshing Relief When You Need a Laxative

Because of the refreshing relief it has brought them, thousands of men and women, who could afford much more expensive laxatives, use Black-Draught when needed. It is very economical, purely vegetable, highly effective. . . Mr. J. Lester Roberson, well known hardware dealer at Martinsville, Va., writes: "I certainly can recommend Black-Draught as a splendid medicine. I have taken it for constipation and the dull feelings that follow, and have found it very satisfactory."

Six Amendments On November Ballot

A Few Facts About Constitutional Amendments To Be Voted On In November

STATE LIQUOR DISPENSARY SYSTEM PROPOSED

The first proposed Constitutional Amendment to face the voter on November 3rd is S. J. R. No. 3-A which provides for a State dispensary system to have exclusive sale of distilled liquors and all profits from the sale of such liquors would go to the state. The sale of spirituous distilled liquors for private profit, as is now the case, is prohibited within this State, by this Amendment, except when such sale is made to the State, according to B. P. Matocha, Secretary of State. It is further provided that the State of Texas shall have the exclusive right to purchase at wholesale and to sell at retail such distilled spirituous liquors. Such sale shall be made only in unbroken packages and no such liquors shall be consumed on the premises where sold. The difference between the proposed plan and that now in effect would simply be one of ownership—i. e. by the State rather than the individual.

The State would maintain various places of business for the purpose of the sale of such liquor direct to the consumer. These places of business would only be maintained in the counties, precincts or incorporated towns where by local option elections such sale has been made legal. Local option as now in effect would not be changed by adoption of the amendment. The sale of alcoholic beverages containing not more than 3.2 per cent alcohol which has been legalized in such political subdivisions shall not be prohibited by this section.

This amendment further provides that the open saloon shall not be reestablished.

It is also provided in this Amendment that the Legislature shall have the power to regulate the sale for private profit and possession of distilled liquors for medicinal, scientific and mechanical purposes.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT PROVIDES FOR TEACHER RETIREMENT FUND

Proposal No. 2 effecting a change in the State Constitution is S. J. R. No. 18 providing that the Legislature shall have the right to levy taxes to provide a Retirement Fund for school teachers and persons employed in public schools, colleges and universities, supported wholly or partly by the State.

According to the interpretation of Secretary of State, B. P. Matocha, it is provided that the State shall contribute to such Retirement Fund an amount equal to that paid for the same purpose from the income of each such person. It is a matching plan. Each person so employed in such State schools, colleges and universities will likely be required to set aside so much of their salary and the State will set aside a like amount. This Amendment further provides that the amount contributed to such Retirement Fund by the State shall not exceed at any time five per cent of the compensation paid to each such person by the State or school district, and shall not be more than One Hundred Eighty Dollars for any one person in one year.

No person shall be eligible for a pension under this Amendment who has not taught twenty years in the State of Texas, but those who retire before they have taught for a period of twenty years in this State and who have been contributing to the Retirement Fund shall be entitled to a refund of the money paid into the fund. All funds provided from the compensation of said persons, or by the State, for such Retirement Fund, as are received by the Treasury of the State of Texas, shall be invested in bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties or cities of this State, or in bonds issued by any agency of the United States Government, the payment of the principal of and interest on which is guaranteed by the United States Government.

Persons who are the recipients of pensions from such Retirement Fund shall not be eligible for any other pension retirement funds or direct aid from the State.

H. J. R. No. 23—WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE PROPOSED

For a number of years there has been a definite movement to give State Employees the benefit of Workmen's Compensation Insurance. The State, by law, requires other employers in all other industries to carry such insurance on its employees while the State has not done so. It will be possible for the State to insure its workers under the terms of the third proposed Amendment to the Constitution, which will be submitted to Texas voters November 3rd, according to Secretary of State B. P. Matocha.

The amendment is permissive and not compulsory. It gives the Legislature power to provide such insurance. It does not compel them to do so.

It is pointed out that perhaps the most men effected by this proposal are in the Highway Department where most of the hazardous work of the State is done.

However, there are a number of other departments which would be interested.

The heart of the amendment is found in the following language: "The Legislature shall have power to pass such laws as may be necessary to provide for Workmen's Compensation Insurance for such State Employees, as in its judgment is necessary or required; and to provide for the payment of all costs, charges, and premiums on such policies of insurance; providing the State shall never be required to purchase insurance for any employees."

WOULD LIMIT GOVERNOR'S PARDONING POWER

Removal of the absolute power of pardon and parole from the hands of the Governor and vesting it largely in those of a non-political board, is the effect of Amendment No. 4, on the November 3rd ballot. This Amendment known as S. J. R. No. 26, makes provision for the Governor to grant parole, pardon, commutation, etc., of sentences upon the recommendation of a Board.

In interpreting the Amendment Secretary of State B. P. Matocha said: "The proposed Board of Pardons and Paroles would be comprised of three members; one of whom would be appointed by the Governor; one by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and one by the Chief Justice of the Court of Criminal Appeals. They will serve for six years, one member's term expiring every two years. It would be impossible in this manner for any one individual or official to ever have complete control of the Board."

The Governor is given the power to grant one thirty day reprieve in a death case. This is his only initiative, however, He has the veto power on all recommendations and he may revoke paroles and conditional pardons.

This amendment was given its impetus by Governor James V. Allred, who is advocating its enactment. It is believed that its adoption may be a step toward ending abuses and stopping mistakes made in the issuance of various forms of clemency.

In cases of treason, under the terms of the proposed Amendment the Governor has the power to grant reprieves, commutations of punishment and pardons with the advice and consent of the Legislature.

At the present time all power of clemency, commutations, etc., is vested in the Governor and no small portion of his time is devoted to reviewing the thousands of applications. It is a strain and a responsibility which many feel is too much to place on any one individual.

AMENDMENT WOULD RAISE SALARIES

Proposal No. 5 to the State Constitution known as S. J. R. No. 14 proposes to raise the salaries of certain Constitutional Officers, namely the Governor, Attorney General, Comptroller of Public Accounts, Treasurer, Commissioner of General Land Office, and Secretary of State. This Amendment provides that the Governor shall receive as compensation for his services an annual salary of Twelve Thousand ($12,000) dollars; as compared to the Four Thousand ($4,000) he now receives, and shall have the use and occupation of the Governor's Mansion, fixtures and furniture.

The salary of the Attorney General would be fixed at Ten Thousand ($10,000) Dollars as compared to the Four Thousand ($4,000) he now receives.

The Comptroller of Public Accounts, the Treasurer, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office each hold office for a term of two years, reside at the Capital of the State during continuance in office, perform the duties required of them by law, and now receive a salary of Twenty-five Hundred ($2,500) Dollars per year. This Amendment would increase the salary of these officials from Twenty-five Hundred ($2,500) Dollars to Six Thousand ($6,000) Dollars annually.

The Secretary of State is appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, and holds office during the term of the service of the Governor. The present salary of the Secretary of State is Two Thousand ($2,000) Dollars per year and this Amendment would provide a salary of six Thousand ($6,000) annually.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. O. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

WOULD LIMIT POWER OF THE CITIES

Larger cities is the clear intent of H. J. R. No. 9 relating to the apportionment of State Representatives for the counties of this State whose population exceeds seven hundred thousand (700,000) people, B. P. Matocha, Secretary of State, declares.

It is provided by this Amendment that no county in this State shall be entitled to or have under any apportionment more than seven (7) Representatives in the State Legislature unless the population of such county shall exceed seven hundred thousand (700,000) people as ascertained by the most recent United States Census.

In the event a county shall have a population in excess of seven hundred thousand (700,000) people, then such county shall be entitled to one additional Representative for each one hundred thousand (100,000) population in excess of seven hundred thousand (700,000) population as shown by the latest United States Census.

This Amendment also provides that no district shall be created which would permit any county to have more than seven (7) Representatives except under the above conditions.

Simply speaking, H. J. R. No. 9 would limit the number of Representatives in the State Legislature to not more than seven (7) from any county, unless that county had a population of more than seven hundred thousand (700,000). In that case, one would be allowed for every one hundred thousand (100,000) above the seven hundred thousand (700,000).

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lillith Boyd, H. D. Agent
GARDEN IRRIGATION

"My cold frame cost only 76c because I used boards I found about the place. I had to buy the covering, wire and some nails," said Mrs. H. M. Snowden, co-operator in the Tahoka Home Demonstration Club. "All winter I saved cans which were about the same size. I used them to tile the cold frame. A baking powder can served as an inlet. There was just one row of tiling running lengthwise the frame which was 9 by 20 feet. This did not irrigate it as well as it should and we intend to have two rows next spring.

The seeds were planted in March. We did not have any vegetables during the spring or summer except in the cold frame. Other than supplying our own table, and giving some to the neighbors, I sold enough radishes and mustard to more than double the original cost. The first of September, I planted it again and radishes, lettuce and beets are growing in it and turnips in the garden," Mrs. Snowden added.

MAKES WOOL COMFORTS

Mrs. J. W. Lowery, co-operator in the Petty Home Demonstration Club is providing for some extra pieces of warm bedding. Since shearing her three pet sheep she has enough wool for several wool bats. She intends to wash the wool and place it in a cheese cloth covering or have this done and then make it into comforts.

Quilts can be used quite sometime before cleaning if properly cared for. A protector sewed across the end and frequent sunnings help to keep them fresh.

DOES CANNING

"Even though I did not get to fill my goals of canning carrots and beets, I helped my mother can other products," said Allin Garnett, co-operator in the Draw 4-H Club.

"I helped her can 19 containers of peaches, 15 of apples, 10 of pickles, 45 of pears, 25 of corn and 12 of beans. I reached all of my clothing goals," she said.

Mrs. Howard Bayne and two little children of Levelland are here this week visiting her father Wilford Jones and her sister, Mrs. Marvin Berry.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

O, you beautiful weather! How our Heavenly Father does mix the good with the bad (so we think) but in reality it is all good if we could realize it.

We are looking forward to next Sunday with a great deal of interest. Brother Wallace and Austin Taylor will begin our meeting at 11 a. m., and we are expecting a feast of good things. We are hoping that Tahoka shall have a real religious awakening and that many souls will be saved. The public is invited and every member is urged to attend every service.

We want to thank the editor for his fine editorial on clean pictures. We too would like to see the pictures improve in their moral tone.

We surely miss Frank P. from the office but enjoy his fine articles from the capital.

Doesn't our new school look beautiful? It is sure a beauty and how proud we should be of it!

Don't forget our fall meeting begins next Lord's Day at 11 a. m. Come and you will find a warm welcome.

SENIOR EPWORTH LEAGUE MEETING

The Senior Epworth League of the Methodist Church met at six thirty in its regular room last Sunday evening.

The leader for the evening was Lois Montgomery and the subject was "Laying aside Every Weight." Hymns were sung that fitted the subject and Miss Mary Margaret Tunnell gave a discussion on "The Cheering Section." Miss Luda Strasser gave a discussion on "Watched by the Past, the Present, the Future and God." The leader finished the program by a discussion which included training for the race of life and "laying aside sins which doth so easily beset us." This program depicted life as a race for which we must train and through which we must keep our eyes fixed upon Jesus and the goal at the end of the race.

Mrs. Paul King has made plans for the program next Sunday evening. The subject is Jesus Can Help You. We greatly desire the presence of all young people in our meetings.

J. B. Nance was a recent visitor in Austin.

Hans Tunnell Dies Thursday

Just as our last forms close, word comes that Hans Tunnell died at about 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. No funeral arrangements have yet been made.

He had been at the Veterans Hospital at Legion near Kerrville since 1933 until this summer, coming home early in September with Mrs. Tunnell and Mary Margaret, who spent the summer with him.

A full account of his life will appear next week.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

We have only three more Sundays before annual Conference, so let's make them great days for the church by having a large attendance at every service.

Church school at 9:45 a. m.
Preaching services at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Epworth League at 6:30 p. m.
Missionary society at 3:00 p. m.
Monday at the home of Mrs. Paul King.

The public is invited to all our services.

TAHOKA DEFEATS DRAW REDWINE

In a hotly-contested game, the Tahoka Bulldogs defeated the Draw Redwine team here last Friday afternoon by a score of 25 to 13.

Every member of the Tahoka team played his part well, and it was a good game from start to finish. Draw-Redwine has one of the best teams outside the larger towns in this whole section.

The Bulldogs will play the Tahoka All-Stars at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, and it promises to be another good game. The proceeds will go into the athletic fund.

O'Donnell will play the Bulldogs here next Friday afternoon, the first time the two teams have contested in two years.

The Hands That Shape America

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

For many decades America has led the world in the development of new methods and new products that lighten the labor, enrich the lives and speed the progress of humanity.

The motor-car, the motion-picture, the modern radio-set, the many uses of electricity in our daily lives—these are a few of the gifts to transportation and industry and production.

Aircraft, the newer plastic and metal products, modern farm methods and machinery, oil in its multiple uses—these are a few of the gifts to transportation and industry and production.

Who is responsible for these achievements? The politician, operating through the slow hand of government? Or the American citizen, working free and unhampered to translate ideas into practical reality—as did Edison, for example.

The answer is obvious.

The story of American achievement is the story of many Edisons who, through the enterprise, their practicality and their success, have given higher standards of living and greater opportunities for employment to millions of fellow-workers.

The story of politics and bureaucracy has been the reverse. Too often it has been a story of barriers planted in the paths of the men who are laboring to carry American enterprise to its highest developments—to make ideas grow into generous production and long payrolls.

For the politicians and the bureaucrats to assert that they, rather than the workers and earners, created our success is to jump the claims of the very men who made America and advanced the American people.

America in the past was built not by its politicians, but by its people. America in the present—and in the future—will be shaped by the same work-hardened and capable hands.

C. E. McPherson of Joshua, Johnson county, uncle of our own J. B. McPherson, is here this week visiting and looking after his Lynn county farms. He has farms in other parts of West Texas also. He is pleased with the crops here this year considering the terrific drought that prevailed in the summer. The News goes regularly to his address and he says he enjoys it.

School News

School news this week is like the proverbial hens' teeth, slightly lacking. Nevertheless we have won a football game since we last went to press, and the entire faculty and student body seem to be in somewhat better humor as a result.

Another good reason for scarcity of school news this week is the fact that we are all pretty much interested in the outcome of our first six weeks effort. Nothing is more distracting to a student or to a teacher than to know that he has fallen short of expectations on the first lap of his school journey. Still, we feel that one should do his best from the beginning. For that reason we offer no apology for the teachers who do their duty. Neither do we sympathize a great deal with those who spend their time loafing and expect the world to hand out what they get on a silver platter.

Seventh Grade News

The seventh grade held its first class meeting September 11. Officers were elected as follows: President Greta Joyce Applewhite; Vice-President Billy Jack Edwards; Secretary-Treasurer, Jerry Jean Simmons; and reporter, George Hogan. Blue and gold were selected as class colors and the yellow rose as the class flower. Plans were discussed for a class Halloween party. We wish to have our party at some private home; however if this cannot be aranged, we shall have it in one of the rooms at the school, since we have permission to do so.

We expect to have much fun in our work this year. We should enjoy ourselves under such nice teachers.

ANGELS CHEER

A poem by Greta Joyce Applewhite
The clouds were floating through the sky.
On that late, gloomy day;
An angel came from Heaven by,
And pushed the clouds away,
A harp she carried in her arms,
That shone so bright—'twas gold.
Indeed! it was to make the charms
Of people—young and old.
Up to the window softly she went
And peeped into the room.
It was shabby, but she was sent
By God, to chase away the gloom.
She softly touched the strings
And oh! so softly sang.
It really helped the poor old things—
And in their hearts the songs still rang.
After the angel had cheered them all
And did them all relieve,
She went back to the marble hall
To wait 'till next Christmas Eve.

The Snooper Snoops

Again the snooper is on the rampant. Why we don't know, but he, or she, or who ever it is with us still looks as if he'd got an eye full of all the happenings at last Friday's ball game and hibernated for the winter, but no.

Knock! Knock!

One more knock before it is too late.
Knock! Knock!
Who's there?
Hewitt!
Hewitt who?
Hewitt all the beans?

New School

Our new building is getting nearer and nearer completed. Boy! Does it look good to us? Don't you know that every one in Lynn County will be interested in holding their basketball games there. Guess it will really be a sort of community center and will help us get better acquainted with our neighbors.

From Outside

We are told that a man may walk along the shores of the Great Salt lake where a few years ago the water would have been over his head. Maybe that is where all our recent rains came from.

Attendance

Teacher says there are a lot of parents who don't seem to care whether their boys and girls come to school regularly or not. We wonder why it is that folks can always find something wrong when teacher gets off the track; or better when our neighbor's boy is found down by the railroad track. Guess a fellow ought to look under his own bed before he goes around in other folks back yards. We know from experience that a fellow can't be expected to get all that is put out for him unless he is there for it.

School is just like any other form of feed trough; if you don't get there when the bell rings, someone else is going to get your share of the grub.

Freshmen have Program

The Freshman class is responsible for the chapel program this week. We know that it will be a good one. Guess we'd like to see them put on an exhibition showing what they think of us upperclassmen. Don't know though as it would change us much.

Draw-Redwine

SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY NEWS

(Editorial Note: We are publishing a part of the matter sent in by the pupils of the Draw-Redwine schools for publication last week. It was unavoidably crowded out, and much of it is out-of-date for this week. School is now suspended a few weeks for cotton picking, we understand, and we are not sure that any other items will come in until school work is resumed.)

Honor Roll

Draw-Redwine school has completed its first six weeks of work. The following students made an average of ninety or more: Jo Alice Simpson, primer; Billie Ruth Lightner, second; Mamie John Florence, third; Laverne Garnett, Geraldine Mensch, Mary Jean Luttrell, Oma Lee Lightner, Ina D. Crawford, and George Lewis Robertson, fourth; Zeland Jo Willingham, and Robert Giles, fifth; and Thelma Williams, Pat Hensley, and Byars McDaniels, high school.

Miss Oetha Sturgeon, teacher of the sixth and seventh grades, and Mrs. Laurence Sanford, teacher of the primary grades, went to Lubbock Friday afternoon and returned Sunday morning. While there they visited their parents and attended the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Cash and small daughter of Post visited Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Shannon and family Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. Cash is Mr. and Mrs. Shannon's daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Porterfield of Grassland visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sherrill Sunday afternoon. Mr. Porterfield is Mrs. Sherrill's brother.

Elvin Fisk suffered a severe sprain in his right leg in the game with O'Donnell. It was feared that a bone might be fractured, but an x-ray picture revealed that this was not true.

Many of the students are making plans for attending a number of places of entertainment during the time that school is turned out. Some are going to the Midland Fair and Rodeo; others plan to see the Texas Centennial.

We have one hundred forty-six pupils in grammar school at Draw this year. This is a great increase over the past few years.

An English club has been organized in the fifth, sixth, and seventh grades with the help of the teacher, Miss Sturgeon. A program is given on Mondays by the seventh grade, on Thursdays by the fifth grade, and on Fridays by the sixth grade.

Women Who Have Pains Try CARDUI Next Time!

On account of poor nourishment, many women suffer functional pains at certain times, and it is for these that Cardui is offered on the record of the safe relief it has brought and the good it has done in helping to overcome the cause of womanly discomfort. Mrs. Cole Young, of Leesville, La., writes: "I was suffering with irregular... I had quite a lot of pain which made me nervous. I took Cardui and found it helped me in every way, making me regular and stopping the pain. This quieted my nerves, making my health much better."... If Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

schools are planning a trip to the Centennial. The group, consisting of about twenty-five, will leave on Wednesday, October 14. They will go to Lubbock and proceed by train from there. The sponsors of the trip are Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, Irene Beckham, Mr. and Mrs. Russ, all of Joe Bailey, and some of the patrons of different communities. Every one expects to have an enjoyable trip and to learn many things about their own state.

A Large Attendance

There was an unusually large crowd at Sunday School Sunday morning. The subject for discussion was, "Why Do People Drink."

All this month temperance will be studied in an effort to reduce the bad effects of liquor.

This is rally week, and every one is asked to visit some one and ask them to come to Sunday School. It is hoped that the attendance may be increased and that it may not decrease, as it usually does during the winter months. For this reason an offering was taken to buy a stove for the church.

The pastor preached an interesting sermon Sunday morning and in the evening Mrs. Carmack talked on 'Partnership.'

Try This Remarkable "Phillips" Way
Thousands are Adopting

On every side today people are being urged to alkalize their stomach. And thus ease symptoms of "acid indigestion," nausea and stomach upsets. To gain quick alkalization, just do this: Take two teaspoons of PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA 30 minutes after eating, OR— take two Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets, which have the same antacid effect. Relief comes almost at once— usually in a few minutes. Nausea, "gas"— fullness after eating and "acid indigestion" pains leave. You feel like a new person. Try this way. You'll be surprised at results. Get either the liquid "Phillips" or the remarkable, new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Delightful to take and easy to carry with you. Only 25¢ a box at all drug stores.

Disproportionate Votes

One of the executives of King Features, who is putting out a new voting test called the Crossley Poll, explains the apportionment variation in election returns in the following language: "Each voter in Nevada counts more than 18 times as much in deciding who shall be the next President as the individual voter in the state of New York. Nevada has only 23,000 families, yet it has three electoral votes; while New York, with 133 times as many families, has but 47 electoral votes. A similar disproportion runs through the entire list of states"—Washington Star.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. © Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for October 18 THE SPOKEN AND THE WRITTEN WORD

LESSON TEXT—Acts 17:1, 5-11; 1 Thessalonians 2:7-12. GOLDEN TEXT—The Word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword. Heb. 4:12. PRIMARY TOPIC—When People Read the Bible. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Power of Jesus' Name. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How May I Win Others to Christ? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Evangelism and the Bible.

The persecution at Philippi served not to discourage Paul and Silas, but rather to send them forward into new territory with the gospel message. Passing through two cities they came to Thessalonica, then as now a city of considerable importance. After a successful though stormy ministry there they journeyed forty miles to Berea, where the Word was gladly received.

I. Preaching the Word (Acts 17: 1, 5-8)

Paul's experience at Thessalonica presents an excellent illustration of 1. How the Word should be preached (vv. 1, 5-8).

This section is incomplete without verses 2-4, which are omitted from the printed portion but should be included in the study of the lesson. Notice four things concerning his preaching.

a. The place (v. 1). Paul went to the synagogue, not by chance or because it was a great religious holiday, but because it was his "custom." The synagogue was the center of Jewish worship, and there Paul met those who were ready to receive the Word of God.

b. The method (vv. 2-3). "Reasoning from the Scriptures." No better method has ever been devised. It is God's method. Let us get back to exposition of the Scriptures—"opening" them to men and women, "alleging," or setting out in order the truth.

c. The subject (v. 3). He preached three fundamental doctrines—the atonement, the resurrection, and the deity of Christ. Scripture preaching will be doctrinal.

d. The result (vv. 4-8). Faithful preaching of God's Word brings one of two results in the hearts of men—they are either "persuaded" and converted, or they become angry and persecute. Those who rightly received the truth were glad to join with Paul; the others raised a hue and cry because Paul and Silas were turning "the world upside down." As a matter of fact the world is already wrongside up, and Paul sought to set it right.

It is still upside down in our day. Coming to Berea, we find Paul's experience there an illustration of 2. How the Word should be received (vv. 9-11).

Good hearers are as important as good preachers. How should the Word be received?

a. With readiness of mind (v. 11). This is a mark of nobility. The world regards the sophisticated doubter as the learned man, but he is not. Noble is the mind and heart that receives God's truth.

b. Carefully and thoughtfully (v. 11). There would be less error and folly in the pulpit if there were more intelligent Bible study in the pew. Do not assume that what some learned professor, or distinguished radio preacher says is true. Check his message by the Word.

In the final portion of our lesson Paul tells the Thessalonians that when he was with them he was concerned not only about preaching the Word, but also about

II. Living the Life (1 Thess. 2:7-12)

Paul did not contradict his preaching by his living. His was a 1. Sacrificial service (vv. 7-9). The man who preaches for his own glory—or gain—is not a true preacher of the gospel.

2. Consistent example (vv. 10-12). The minister of Christ must behave "holy, righteously, and unblamably" if his people are to "walk worthy of God."

Our Place in the World

Whatever the place allotted to us by Providence, that for us is the post of honor and duty. God estimates us not by the position we are in, but by the way in which we fill it.—Tyron Edwards.

Getting Rid of Misery

Half the misery of human life might be extinguished, would men alleviate the general curse they lie under, by mutual offices of compassion, benevolence, and humanity.—Addison.

Flattering Matron Frock

This frock is the eighth wonder of the world. Just imagine only four major pieces to cut and sew and you've completed a frock that renders a becoming, chic, and flattering appearance to a size 34 or 46.

It has clever short sleeves, that can be supplanted by long ones, scalloped blouse opening and the kind of collar that echoes the admiring "ahs" of your neighbors. The dress is dart fitted at the waist and shoulders for ease and a slimming effect, while a self-fabric belt adds its contribution too. You want to own this thoroughly young style and attractive model that's as easy to make as to look at, don't you? Here's your opportunity, order his debonair

Household Questions

If cream or custard sauce curdles put the vessel in which it is cooking in a pan of hot water and heat well. It will soon become smooth again.

To remove lime which accumulates on the inside of a tea kettle boil a strong solution of vinegar inside of the kettle, then rinse thoroughly before putting in water.

When preparing fruit salad sprinkle bananas, peaches, pears and apples with lemon juice or marinate with French dressing as soon as they are cut. This prevents discoloration from exposure to air.

Flaked salmon and chopped cucumber pickles moistened with mayonnaise makes a tasty sandwich filling.

Sandpapering baby's shoes before they are worn prevents slipping and saves many a fall.

Always store baking powder in a tightly covered container. If it is exposed to the air some of the strength will be lost.

Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theodor's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

THE PATHFINDER

is the one and ONLY publication with the knowledge, experience and courage to give you every week the first-hand, inside information which is positively necessary for you to have. It is the ONE publication which is under no obligations to the big moneyed interests or Czars of trade—none of those fatal tie-ups with the selfishness who gamble in the very life blood of the people. That's why the Pathfinder is in a position to tell you the unvarnished facts in the plainest possible English. You can depend on every word it says—and there is no substitute for reliability.

EVERY WEEK FROM WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington is now the news center of the entire world. It is the one place in the country where a strictly unbiased and reliable publication can be issued. That is why the Pathfinder is located there. The same clear sighted vision which led to the selection of the National Capital as the home of the Pathfinder over 40 years ago is the backbone of every single issue of the Pathfinder today.

It is our privilege for a limited time to offer you at a greatly reduced bargain price the greatest and most popular national weekly—THE PATHFINDER—together with THIS PAPER, both a full year—52 weeks—for

Only $ 1.75
