COURT "IN AIR" OVER GROUNDS

Problems Over Beautification Of Couthouse Lawn Discussed By Commissioners

The commissioners' court was in session Monday, and among other things they discussed the condition of the court house lawn.

All agreed that the lawn should be beautified but arrived at no definite conclusion as to just how it should be done and took no action. There seem to be two stumbling blocks in the way of any plan suggested.

First, it was stated that the caliche and the clay that were dug out of the basement when the court house was built had been spread out over much of the surface of the lawn, which made it difficult to grow anything very successfully on the premises.

The second problem is the water problem. It is claimed that the well which was drilled on the lawn by Levi Nordyke two or three years ago will not furnish a third of the amount of water necessary to keep the lawn adequately irrigated.

One of the commissioners suggested that with the expenditure of a considerable sum of money, septic tanks could be installed on the premises, irrigation tile laid under the surface of the lawn, and the sewer water purified and used to irrigate the premises. He believed that if a beautification program was to be adopted this would be the cheapest and the best in the long run.

Possibly a third question in the minds of the commissioners is: Whether or not the tax-payers of the county would approve of their expenditure of the funds necessary to beautify the premises and keep them beautified. Naturally they are very cautious and conservative in spending the people's money, and they should be. Unless much interest is shown in the matter by the people of the county, they will probably do nothing. The commissioners are not to be blamed or criticized for this attitude at all. If the men and the women of Tahoka and the men and women of the other communities of the county have any real interest in the matter, they should let it be known to the commissioners. It is up to the people of the county to decide whether their court house lawn shall continue to deteriorate and to become an eye sore or shall be improved and beautified.

The trick can be turned at comparatively small cost.

School Building Near Completion

The new Tahoka grade school building is rapidly nearing completion, and plans now are to move equipment from the old building into the new during the Christmas holidays, according to Supt. W. G. Barrett.

Date for an open house and dedication program has been tentatively set for Monday, December 14 at which time all people of the community will be invited to inspect the structure. The date, however, is subject to the approval of Government officials who expect to be present at the occasion.

Christmas holidays this year will be of two week's duration, Mr. Barrett says, beginning December 18 and ending January 4, in order that sufficient time will be had for making the change to the new building. The school board also expects to lay some concrete sidewalks on the grade school campus during the holidays.

Justice Performs Several Ceremonies

Dan Cupid made frequent calls for the services of Judge W. S. Swan Saturday and Sunday. He married two negro couples Saturday and three white couples Sunday. Two of the white couples were from Brownfield and asked that their names be not published. The other white couple were M. C. Williams and Miss Pauline Maines of the Lakeview community. They have the best wishes of many friends.

Brownfield Wins Football Game

Tahoka lost its annual Armistice day game Wednesday to Brownfield by a score of 13 to 0. The game was played in Brownfield and before a large holiday crowd.

The game is said to have been a good one, and the Tahoka boys are said to have put up a good fight. Both Brownfield scores were made on passes. In the second quarter, a Tahoka pass was intercepted by a Brownfield man who raced 95 yards to a touchdown. Then, in the third quarter, Brownfield completed a pass over center good for 15 yards and a touchdown.

The Bulldogs meet Rails next Friday afternoon.

NEW METHODIST PASTOR COMING

Rev. C. C. Armstrong and Rev. Ben Hardy of Anson Exchange Methodist Churches

Rev. C. C. Armstrong returned Monday from Houston, where he had been in attendance upon the joint meeting of the five Texas conferences of Southern Methodists and the single Texas conference of the Northern Methodist Church during the preceding week.

He brought back with him the information that he had been assigned to the Church at Anson for the ensuing year, and the Anson pastor, Rev. Ben Hardy, has been assigned to Tahoka. Brother Armstrong and family moved Wednesday and Brother Hardy and family are moving to Tahoka this week. Brother Armstrong says that the gathering at Houston was an immense one. He didn't know how many people were in attendance but said that at some of the services the big auditorium in which the national Democratic convention was held in 1928 was packed full. The daily press reported that as many as ten thousand people were there. It is the first time in the history of the denomination that such a meeting has been held in Texas—that is, a joint meeting of all the conferences.

Brother Armstrong has served the Tahoka Church only one year. He has labored faithfully while here and has made many friends among the people of other denominations as well as his own. Friends here hope him a prosperous pastorate at Anson.

There are few other changes in this immediate section. Rev. M. R. Pike remains at O'Donnell and Rev. C. F. Carmack at Draw-Grassland. Rev. J. T. Howell, a former pastor at Tahoka, is the new pastor at Wilson, and Rev. R. T. Breedlove, also a former Tahoka pastor, in more recent years, has been assigned to Brownfield. Rev. Tony Dyess, well known here, was assigned the work at the Anton-Spade churches.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Fain returned a few days ago from a visit at Bartlesville, Oklahoma, and Eureka Springs, Arkansas, stopping over in Dallas for a brief visit there on the return trip.

Negro Woman Is Stabbed In Back

Della White, a negro woman, was stabbed in the back in an altercation with a negro man in a negro cotton pickers' shack in the New-moore community Tuesday night.

Following the affray, the woman was taken to O'Donnell, where her wound was dressed, and Peewee Burgess, charged with the offense, was brought to Tahoka and placed in jail. Officers were delaying the filing of a complaint awaiting developments in the condition of the assailant's victim. While the wound is a serious one, it is not believed that it will prove fatal.

The difficulty, it is sad, arose over some money which Burgess claimed but which the woman had in her possession and which she refused to surrender to Burgess. Several negro cotton pickers were residing in the shack and were present at the time of the affray.

County Court Has An Unusually Busy Session; Many Liquor Cases Are Heard

Services Held For B. P. Bairrington

Funeral services for B. P. Bairrington were conducted at the Baptist Church here Friday afternoon and interment was in the Tahoka Cemetery under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Geo. A. Dale, pastor of the Baptist Church, and Elder R. P. Drennon of the Church of Christ.

Born in Newton county, Mississippi, March 15, 1859, Mr. Bairrington was more than 77 years of age. He had been a resident of Texas for about sixty years, having removed with his father's family from Mississippi to Navarro county in this state when he was a youth about seventeen years of age.

He was first married in Navarro county, and of this marriage three children were born, these being Mrs. Herman Bruce and William P. Bairrington, both of Ontario, California, and Otto Bairrington of Hubbard, Texas.

His first wife dying, he was married later to Mrs. Annie Regans, a widow, whose maiden name was McGlaun, a sister of Frank McGlaun of this city. To this union ten children were born, as follows: Cleve Bairrington, Mrs. Frank Henderson, Mrs. A. J. (Janie) Minor, Mrs. Curtis Stevens, Ben, Gus, Chester, Nell, and Sina Bairrington, all of Tahoka.

Reckless Negro Lands In Jail

A negro named Carr sitting behind the wheel of a car and stepping on the gas came a-zipping along highway No. 84 late Saturday afternoon and upon approaching the intersection of highways No. 9 and 84 he was unable to see the red light glowing above the street in front of him. Hence he didn't stop, nor even hesitate, but dashed right on like a drunk Indian. In the middle of the street, his car struck a V-8 Ford driven by Jimmy Baker and smashed it into smithereens. His own car was not badly damaged. Fortunately, neither occupant was seriously hurt.

The negro was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Norvel Redwine and taken to jail, where he is still getting his bed and board. He first gave his residence as Lamesa but later told Sheriff Parker that he lived in Dallas. A complaint for reckless driving was lodged against him. This was not an accident; it was just a case of pure-dee recklessness and well might have resulted in somebody being killed.

The county court has been much busier this term than usual. The repeal of the Dean law and reducing the penalty for liquor violations seems to be responsible for a part of this increased business. Under the Dean law, all liquor violations were felonies and were prosecuted in the district court. Under the present local option laws, liquor violations are only misdemeanors and come within the jurisdiction of the county court.

Since the county court opened last week, there have been three pleas of guilty to violations of the liquor laws and one contested case has been tried before a jury.

Maurice Davis of Big Spring was the first up. He was charged with the unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquor in this county. Several weeks ago, he was stopped here and his car searched by officers, who found ten cases of whiskey and several cases of beer in his car. He was placed in jail and the liquor was confiscated. Charges for the unlawful transportation of liquor were filed against him in the county court, and when his case was called for trial last week he entered a plea of guilty. Judge Goad fined him $100.00.

Lawrence Jackson of Draw, this county, was charged with the unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale. He decided it was useless to fight the case and entered his plea of guilty. He likewise drew a fine of $100.00.

W. C. Barnes of Tahoka also found himself confronted with an

Show Operators Are Given Fines

Operators of two of the gambling devices which were run here as a part of the carnival that held forth here last week were arrested and fined Saturday night for operating gambling devices. A fine of $25.00 was assessed by Judge W. S. Swan in each case and the trimmings run the total up to $38.00.

One man is said to have lost more than $40.00 bucking a game that gave him practically no chance to win.

As is well known, practically all the so-called games at any carnival are purely gambling schemes, and it is through these outfits that the operators make a large part of their profits.

Every time one of these carnivals comes to Tahoka, we regret afterwards that we ran any publicity for them—but it's hard to keep from doing it.

The various rides afford much fun and pleasure for the kiddies and the young people, however. It is regrettable that the skin games can not be eliminated.

Annual Red Cross Roll Call Opened

The drive for Red Cross funds began Wednesday, with A. L. Lockwood as Roll Call chairman for Lynn county.

The apportionment for Lynn county has been fixed at $400.00. Mr. Lockwood calls attention to the fact that Lynn county contributed nothing to this cause last year on account of the fact that he was called away just before the drive was to begin and was away during the entire time for the roll call. It is doubly incumbent upon Lynn county, therefore, to raise her apportionment this year.

DAWSON MAN IS FOUND KILLED

W. F. Peacock, 72, Grandview Store-keeper Killed Sunday Night By Unknown Assailants

The dead body of W. F. Peacock, 72, a store-keeper in the Grandview community, twelve miles northwest of Lamesa, was found Monday morning sprawled out on the floor of his little store by a cotton-picker who had gone to the store to make a purchase. The door of the building was only slightly open and the startling discovery was made when the laborer pushed the door open and entered. He immediately notified his companion outside and telephoned the officers.

An investigation was immediately instituted in which Truett Smith district attorney, and B. L. Parker, sheriff of this county, and other officers joined. If any clues as to the identity of the murderer has been found, officers have not made the fact known.

It is believed that robbery was the motive for the murder. A bar of iron with which it is thought the deed was committed was found near the store. There was evidence that the victim had been killed by a lick on the head while filling a sack with potatoes, and it is believed that a single blow did the work. The box in which the aged man is known to have kept his money was missing. It is believed that the murder and robbery were committed between ten and eleven o'clock Sunday night. Rain later in the night had obliterated any tracks that might have been made.

Peacock was a bachelor and lived alone in the little store which he operated. He had been a resident of the Grandview community for 15 years. It is said that he had been robbed on one or two previous occasions but no evidence as to the identity of the robbers had ever been discovered.

Peacock is survived by two brothers, J. W. Peacock of Ellsville and C. E. Peacock of Electra, one sister, and several nephews.

Funeral services were held in Lamesa Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Lucille Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wright of this city and a student in the Texas Tech, underwent an operation for appendicitis in the West Texas Hospital last Saturday. She is reported to be recovering nicely.

Topping Work On Highway 84 Starts

The work of spreading the asphalt on highway No. 84 west of Tahoka was scheduled to begin Thursday morning. It was first intended to begin Wednesday morning, but on account of the dampness and also on the fact that it was Armistice day, the work was delayed. The topping is to be placed on five miles of this highway at this time. Grading and the placing of the caliche base is proceeding westward.

The work of topping eight miles of highway No. 9 north of Tahoka is also scheduled to begin just as soon as the contractors receive their work order, which is expected to be within the next few days. This section of highway No. 9 has become very rough, and the people of this county will be much pleased when the work of topping it begins.

ROTARY HOLDS CHARTER NIGHT

Rotary Notables From West Texas Here Last Night For Banquet Of Local Club

Last night was an important event in Rotary history in this section of the state.

At a banquet served to members of the local Rotary Club just organized here, the wives of members, and many visiting Rotarians, Fred Wemple of Midland, governor of the 41st district of Rotary International, formally presented the charter to the Tahoka Rotary Club. His presentation address was generally pronounced a most excellent delivery, and the response by Mac Penn, president of the Tahoka Rotary, was most appropriate.

The Post Club sponsored the organization of the Tahoka Club, and as is customary in such cases, practically every member of that club together with their wives were present. Representatives of the Rotary clubs at Brownfield, Floydada, Levelland, Littlefield, Lubbock, Midland, Ralls, and Slaton were also present, as was Bernard Bryant of Stamford, past governor of the 41st district of Rotary International, who also made a most enlightening and inspiring address on "What Will I Get from Rotary?"

As president of the Post Club, which sponsored the organization of the club here, Phil Bouchier introduced the presentation speaker of the evening, Fred Wemple, E. I. Hill of the Tahoka Club was master of ceremonies.

In addition to the addresses, there was singing by the assembly led by Mac Penn and several instrumental numbers by Miss Marjory Wells and Charles Gaignat on the piano and violin, while Miss Royalty of Post delighted the audience with a couple of accordion numbers.

The banquet was served in faultless manner by Mrs. Jack Alley.

The importance of this occasion was due in part to the fact that the Tahoka Club is the first that has been organized in the 41st district since 1929. This in turn is due in large measure to the depression that has prevailed in this section and throughout the nation. But Charter Night for any newly-organized Rotary Club at any time is made a great occasion.

The Tahoka Rotary Club starts off with twenty-nine members, most of whom are very enthusiastic over the program of work it presents and are very optimistic as to the club's future.

Drunks Are Filling Up County Bastile

"There have been more drunks thrown in jail here since I have been sheriff," said B. L. Parker to a representative of the News Monday afternoon. He says that possibly a majority of the "drunks" are Mexicans and negroes but that many whites have likewise taken on more booze than they could carry and gotten into jail.

On Sunday night, Mr. Parker went down to O'Donnell and he and other officers rounded up ten offenders and placed them in the city lock-up. Three of them paid off Monday morning and the others were brought to Tahoka and given a booth for the time being away up on the fourth floor, where they may get a good view of men walking the streets who have sense enough to stay sober.

Mr. Parker says that there has been much gambling here also among negro and Mexican cotton pickers and some whites, and the jail has been full most of the time lately.

Tahoka Closed Armistice Day

All the business houses in Tahoka were closed tight Wednesday and everybody took a holiday. Some went to Brownfield to see the ball game, some visited their "wife's kinfolks", some went other places, and some just rested. Nothing but "eats" could be bought anywhere. It was Armistice Day.

These things gave her enough to think on. The work around the house offered more than she could do. Slowly September was creeping into Wolfpen. Soon Cynthia would be going away and the thought was pleasant. She had finished the diverse colored cloth for the men's shirts and the blue twill cloth for her own dress, and now she was sewing them while Julia did the cutting. "Next week will come in a hurry," Julia said. "It's been such an odd summer," Cynthia answered. "No two summers are the same, Cynthia. "But this one is such an awful lot different the others seem alike. "There have been others, Cynthia. The summer Jesse was sick, and the year Lucy got married, and the spring Jenny moved over on Horsepen; but you were little and didn't notice it like I did to see the two girls gone. "And now with me about to go. "But it's just over to town to the Institute, and not like marrying and going off for good and all. "Sometimes I don't think I'd better go and leave you here with everything. "It's not much, Cynthia, now that Mullens stays at the camp with the new men. I don't mind Shellenberger like you do, and I'll get Amy to come over on wash-days. I'll manage all right like I always have. I want you to go and you must. And what we don't get done can just wait. And there'll be a right smart of money when Mr. Shellenberger pays for the land. We've been putting more than enough stuff away each winter. You just set your mind at rest, and be thankful for your chances. Cynthia sewed quietly in thought for a time. She looked at her mother, noting the unselfish look of her face in repose and conscious of the kindly strength of every faint line about her mouth and forehead. Her sense of withholding herself from intimate communication with Julia was suddenly and impulsively gone. "Mother," she said. "Yes, Cynthia. "Do you think I ought to marry somebody?" "Why, yes, Cynthia, some time you should marry. "How old were you when you married Daddy?" "Just about your age. A little younger. "Is that too soon to marry or not?" "It would be too soon for you, but it was right for me. I was big for my age. I knew how to manage a house and your father asked me to marry him. A girl should marry when the right time for her comes. "Do you think I ought to marry—Doug, Mother?" Julia controlled her surprise before she spoke again. "Doug is a mighty good boy. "But do you think a girl ought to marry just a boy who is good? Doug asked me to. "And what did you say to him?" "I said it wasn't time to think about things like that, and he asked me, 'If... if...'" "Asked you what?" "If... well, he wanted to know if I... if he... She shifted the varicolored shirting on her lap, looking up and then down. "He said, 'Has that... have you gone to liking that surveyor?'" It was uttered, and it seemed very strange to see it taken out of secret and put in the room between her and her mother—just a little phrase "liking that surveyor." "It was such an odd world within to be folded up in three words and stood upon a sewing stand or a bench by the loom. Julia let it stand there until it was no longer ill at ease, and then said without probing Cynthia's secrets. "What did you tell Doug?" "I told him a lie. "His sudden stab was so unexpected that Julia exclaimed, "Why, Cynthia?" "It seemed like a little boy lie when I told it, but that was yesterday, and today it looks as big as Cranenest. "Mother. "What, Cynthia?" "Do you think Reuben was about the nicest boy you ever saw?" "Well, I still remember your father, Cynthia. "And how he saw you first on the chip pile. You always look the same when anybody mentions that. I'm glad you saw him first that way. "Mother. "Yes, dear?" "Do you know how I first saw Reuben?" "No, you never said. "I had burned my hand on the stove, and I was stirring the batter with my left hand, slopping it out against my old dress, and I was so hot and my hair was stringing down in my eyes and I was just about to cry. Then I heard the gate and thought it was Jesse and I went to the porch saying something to him and there he was tall and neat as a poplar, and I couldn't even run like you did when you first met Daddy, but I stood there and mumbled. And then I went back in the kitchen and cried. "Mother. "What, Cynthia?" "Don't things ever come out the way a body dreams them?" "Hardly ever, dear. But sometimes they are better. "I always thought I'd be looking neat and ladylike and standing by a pear tree, and I wasn't. But maybe it was more like you and Daddy. "They were both silent now, each running forward with her own thoughts and unaware for the instant that a unique moment had passed between them and that they had said things more intimately than ever before. After a time Julia came back, carefully preserving the fragile expansiveness which had confessed these things to her. "Then, "You liked him that much, Cynthia?" "Yes, Mother. "Have you... talked anything about it?" "Yes... well, no, not right plain out. It is something you just know about the way you know you are breathing, or a laurel sprig bursts out pink in the sun up the Pinnacle—or is that just crazy talk Jasper always said about me saying Saul was prowling around the place?" "It's real nice to be able to know anything that way. A body can't always know things for a certainty. "He's going to be a county surveyor some day. What is a county surveyor?" "I don't just know, but your Daddy would. "I reckon it doesn't matter much. Don't you think he is different from Doug?" "Yes. But he's lived different and worked different. Doug is nice folks. "Mother. Do you think I ought to marry Reuben?" "Well, Cynthia, you're going to school next week. "Yes, and I wouldn't miss that for anything hardly. But there is next year. "And," Julia continued, "he hasn't so much as asked you. "He said he would come back, and, Mother, it just screamed out that very first day: 'That's him.' "Yes, but he may have... interests down the river where he lives, and you mustn't... unless he has told you... "Can't you tell a body things in any way but words, Mother?" "Why, yes, I reckon so, Cynthia, only a body could be mistaken, you know. Plenty folk mistake plain words. And it comes by nature for Reuben Warren to be nice to people. "That afternoon we sat on the gray stone by the sycamore and he laid his hand over mine in the white-haired moss, and then he took it away again but it was still there, and that's how you know when it's true. "You are a strange girl, my dear child, and I reckon you ought to know it's that way with you. But I wouldn't have any blight spot your heart for this world. "I guess I oughtn't of lied to Doug though. "I reckon that was just the thing you ought to say to him," Julia said. "I wouldn't want to make Doug feel bad. He works awful hard at the place and he is banking so much on his crop of 'seng. I did promise him I'd go look at his 'seng bed before I go. "You ought to do that, and I must send Sarah some of the purple dahlias and some wheat loaf. "And on this they began to readjust their inner lives to the new intimacies born of Cynthia's confession.

"Mother." "Yes?" "Don't things ever come out the way a body dreams them?" "Hardly ever, dear. But sometimes they are better. "I always thought I'd be looking neat and ladylike and standing by a pear tree, and I wasn't. But maybe it was more like you and Daddy. "You ought to do that, and I must send Sarah some of the purple dahlias and some wheat loaf. "And on this they began to readjust their inner lives to the new intimacies born of Cynthia's confession.

She smiled to him, and waved back as she took the ford over Gannon. And she smiled with her own sense of pleasure as she heard Abra's voice pitched high saying, "No. It won't go that way. Here. Watch me." She dreaded the thought of looking up the hollow where the trees had been cut. As she came into the road beyond the shadow of the Pinnacle where Dry Creek would burst into view, she played a game with herself and the Finemare. "We'll see if we can go by without either of us looking over there to the slaughter pens," she said aloud. It was a difficult game to play. She fixed her eyes on the Finemare's ears for many paces. Then she looked off to the bright, sun-tinted green on the timbered ridges to the north, and down into the cool dark pockets in the hollows where the shadows lay. The Finemare held her neck straight down the road between the patches of rank horse-weeds as high as her back. "It's not fair for me, Finemare, because you couldn't see over along here even if you wanted to. But I just naturally face that over there because I sit sideways, and I have to stretch my neck to look the other way. It's funny how you try not to look at something you don't want to see and all the time feel it pulling at your eyes so hard you can't hardly keep them off of it." She caught at a great white roll of cloud, trying to decide whether to have it be a dragon straining for its prey, or a fair host of angels draping a veil of luminous wings over the unmolested hills. Then she decided they were just ordinary clouds with nothing to do but go riding in the sky in the afternoon. So she resisted Dry Creek while they passed the rank horse-weeds, and the cane-brake shooting pale yellow poles high above her, and came to the open meadow. There she suddenly felt the hure of ugliness rushing across the open space and reaching for her eyes, as though a barrier had fallen. She resisted with an effort. She heard the voices of men framing the curious, sharp, monosyllabic cries to the mules and oxen. She felt the smell of wood smoke in her nose and on her tongue. Still she did not look, and the mare was absorbed in the animated manipulation of her own legs. "I reckon maybe we can do what we make up our minds to. And if you won't look while I do it, I'll shut my eyes till we are clean across the meadow and get our backs to it." She closed her eyes, and gave her body in relaxation to the rhythm of each precise step of the mare. Then she felt the muscles on the mare's shoulders contract with a snap, and tighten back to her rump, as she swerved and broke the rhythm of her gait. Cynthia involuntarily opened her eyes to see a young rabbit leap into a clump of berry vines. As she followed its leap she heard men shouting, followed by the swish and the sharp explosive crack of a tree beginning its fall. The mare looked and Cynthia looked into the hollow at the heavy fall of a great tulip tree, ingling against all the efforts of the lumberman down-hill through space in a thunderous sighing swish, rebounding from the ground on resilient hinges and springing like a beheaded chicken a dozen yards from the stump on the steep hillside. "I reckon a body just has to look sometimes when things get hurt and die. Does it make your stomach twist too? We both did it at the same time, and maybe you are not so different from other people just because your square mouth won't make any words." And Cynthia looked into the smoking brush piles and ugly stumps where "possums used to crouch in the padded silence. The Mason place was unaltered: the weathered paling fence where she left the mare, the chickens about the yard, the slight musty smell of the house compounded of wood-smoke, unaltered rooms, cooking and sickness. It dawned suddenly on Cynthia that it was this recalcitance of other people which had always made her vaguely unhappy at the Masons.

The roof over the porch was still incomplete. There was a hen to Sarah's hickory-split rocker. Cynthia went on into the kitchen. Sarah had her large bare feet propped on a cushion while she shelved beans from the sack by her side. She wept to see Cynthia, dabbling at her eyes, and smiling and talking all the time about how long it had been since she had come to see her, of the progress of her afflictions, of the gifts Julia had sent, and of Doug. "He's gone over to his 'seng patch again. He goes over there part-near-every-evening-with-his gun." Cynthia told her about the news from Wolfpen and her plans for the Institute. Sarah made her usual exclamations and another of these visits was nearing an end. "So you go off next week," Sarah said again, hobbling to the porch. "You'll be coming back to visit before long, I reckon." "Yes, it's not so far." "Doug is over by the 'seng bed, Cynthia. He'd never get over it if you went off without saying good-by," she said, dabbling at her eyes again. "I'll go by the patch like I said. You take good care of yourself while I'm gone." "I'll do the best I can, Cynthia. I wish you didn't have to hurry off." Doug was crouched in a clump of sumac bushes looking down on the oblong glade. He was so intent that he did not see or hear her at once. She slipped down from the mare and stood watching him shoulder the gun, and trying to see what he could be shooting at. There was nothing to be seen but a few cardinals flitting about the red seed-pod berries on the 'seng. While she looked, he fired, and as she batted her eyes and calmed the startled mare she saw a puff of red feathers jerk sharply upward and then flutter to the ground. "Oh!" she cried, as if she were hurt, and hid her eyes against the mare's neck. "Why, howdy, Cynthia." He came out of the bushes full of pleasure at the unexpected sight of her, and then looking puzzled as he sensed obscurely that she had turned away her spirit. "How's the folks?" he said, touching the mare's mane. "What in the world are you shooting, Doug?" she demanded. "Birds." "Was that a cardinal you just killed?" "Yes. That makes nearly two hundred I got this week and I only missed three." "Oh, shame on you, Doug! How could you do such a thing!" "Why, they're heartin' every berry in my 'seng patch and eating the seed I wanted to save." "But to shoot a cardinal—it's sinful, Doug." "Not when they riddle my seeds." "But, Doug! You don't kill cardinals just because..." She looked at him. Words were useless unless their meanings were already sensed before they were spoken, and here they were not and could never be. "Do you want to let them eat up my seeds I want for next year?" he exclaimed. She turned the mare slowly back into the way she had come, moving down the hollow again toward the road. Doug followed along close behind her, confused and perplexed. "I guess you'll be going away right soon now," he said at last. "Yes. On Monday. Daddy is riding over with me." "What's the use of your going off over there, Cynthia? You don't have no need for that kind of book learning." "But I do, too." "You're just going over there because of that surveyor, and you know it." "Why, I'm not either; I've been counting on going there all year and a right smart before any of those men came to the creek." "I saw you looking at him." "That doesn't make any difference in it." "You swear it?" "I told you once when you were up to our house." "You swear it then?" "I don't feel any call to give account to you, Doug." It was sharper than he had ever heard her speak. Instead of advancing his rising temper, it halted it. "I calculate I ought to get about a thousand dollars for my 'seng. I'm going to dig it soon now." "That'll be nice and I'm right glad," she said. "I have to go back now. I just stopped to say good-by." "Cynthia." She waited, looking up the hollow. Reuben moving in and out of her thoughts. "Don't go off over there. Let's... why can't we... let's us marry." Cynthia screeched, seeing birds tumbling through the still air into death. "I'm getting things in good shape now and I been thinking about you while I was doing it. Will you?" "It's not time for me to think about that, Doug." "When you get back, then?" "We can see about it then. It's just not time yet and I hadn't thought to marry."

"You won't feel too stuck up after you've been over there?" "Doug Mason, sometimes I get so mad at you I could die. You know better than that." "It's just that... you know... sometimes it's right lousome and I get to thinking about you going off to people not just like us, and... You won't change your mind about going?" "Why, no, Doug. I've been planning on this all year." She got easily into the saddle. "Good-by, Doug." "Good-by, Cynthia." He went back to the 'seng patch, stopping to look at the pile of birds, and then, hearing again the peculiar liquid chirping of the redbirds biting into his 'seng berries, he added three more to the heap. Cynthia booted the mare with her heel and hurried from Sarah and Doug, the birds and the fallen trees, back to Wolfpen through the ruins of the visit she had planned. The final days were busy ones for Cynthia, but without visible evidence of her inward excitement at the thought of being away from home. Julia was always near her with kind words and suggestions for the packing. She would lay a garment on the bed, saying, "Do you suppose you might need this, Cynthia?" "Maybe I'd better take it along. A body never knows." They fingered the articles and looked affectionately at each other during the long silences. Then three days before the time for Cynthia to leave, Abra came home early from the camp looking pale and weak, but declaring, he was all right when Cynthia and then Julia asked him if he felt sick. "You look pale, son," Julia insisted. He ate little for supper, leaving the table before the others to lie in the cool on the porch. Sparrel went out to him. "What's the trouble with you, son?" "I guess I just got my stomach riled a little at the camp." "When did it begin to hurt?" "It's felt funny for a day or so." Sparrel gave him some of his remedies and after a while Abra went to bed. He lay there for two days very sick and refusing food. Then Julia, who had looked tired for many weeks and had been up and down for two nights with Abra, fell sick in the third night and had to lie in her bed very pale and without strength. On Monday at the hour set for half a year for Cynthia to ride away from Wolfpen, she sat by Julia and was startled to see how large her eyes were under the pale skin of her forehead and how weak she had grown from her sickness. "You must go, dear, as we planned. I'll be all right now," she said in a low voice. "I've never been sick to amount to anything." But Cynthia sat by her bed, saying, "Abra's some better. I wouldn't go off today and you sick. A few days won't make a sight of difference." Thinking: "I wonder how sick she is and why it came on so sudden right now. It must be the spread over the place of the sickness in the trees or it wouldn't be gotten down there in Dry Creek and fasten on Abra and come on up here. It won't make a bit of difference if I'm a little spell late. She looks so pale under her dark hair, tidy even when she lies in bed sick, and hardly any gray. It's been a hard summer. She looks tired. I'd rather see her lie a time and get well than go over to the Institute right at the start. I guess she's asleep now. Maybe she'll rest a while. I'll see Jesse." She left Julia in a weak sleep, the long fingers of one hand lying delicately along the sheet. She found Jesse by the drying kiln spreading apples in the sun. "How is she?" Jesse asked, whispering it. "Asleep now." "She didn't sleep any last night." (TO BE CONTINUED)

"You'll Be Coming Back to Visit Before Long, I Reckon."

CHAPTER XII

It was in the afternoon at the end of August that Cynthia went down to say good-by to Sarah Mason and Doug. It was the first time in many weeks that she had sat the Finemare and ridden out of Wolfpen. It was a joyous thing to feel horse muscle flow under her thighs and connect with her spirit, to hear the soft plopping of quick hoofs against the sand. It was tonic to efface the thought of what she would see when she peered into the hollow at Dry Creek filled with new men whom Sparrel called riffraff and was troubled about. She waved to Jesse in the meadow where he had been furiously tossing hay and was sitting now under a haystack with the book opened on his knees. "I reckon Jesse sure means business whether he pitches hay or reads the law. I'm right glad he'll be over there too, even if he don't come for a week or two." Sparrel was outside his shop, leaning against the shade by the door, looking to nowhere out of Wolfpen, with puzzlement on his face. It slipped off as Cynthia came into the mill-yard, and he spoke kindly to her and patted the rump of the Finemare. "You two make a fine-looking outfit, if I do say it myself." Cynthia, seeing a remnant of her Daddy Sparrel in his eyes and voice, thought, "He ought to have more pleasure out of all this business than he's getting, but he lets other men's troubles be his own because they are on his land, when he ought to let Shellenberger and his black man run on to suit themselves, and be happy up Wolfpen with his own place."

Tremendous Victory of President Roosevelt Gives Him Electoral Vote of 523 to 8 for Landon—Congress More Strongly Democratic.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union

WE LIKE your New Deal policies and have complete confidence in your administration. Go as far as you like.

President Roosevelt

That in effect, was the message sent to Franklin Delano Roosevelt by more than twenty-five million American men and women when they voted to continue him in the Presidency for another four years. It was the most tremendous victory ever scored by a Presidential candidate since the days of James Monroe, for Mr. Roosevelt captured the 523 electoral votes of 46 states. Only Maine and Vermont, with five and three electoral votes respectively, were won by Landon and Knox, the Republican candidates. Their popular vote, when all returns are in, and tabulated, may be fifteen and a half million.

The amazing New Deal landslide is looked upon by most unbiased observers not as a Democratic party victory, but a personal triumph for President Roosevelt, an expression of confidence in him and a recognition of the improvement in the country's business and industry. It was so overwhelming that the President may well consider he has been given carte blanche to do as he pleases in carrying his policies on to their logical ends. What he may please to do, depends largely on pending decisions by the Supreme Court of the United States on New Deal legislation.

President Roosevelt, moreover, will have at his command a congress more heavily Democratic than were the last two, for the lingering hopes of the Republicans that they could capture enough seats to enable them, in conjunction with conservative Democrats, to put up effective resistance to New Deal measures, were not realized. The New Deal majority in the new senate will be about five to one, and in the house it will be almost four to one. The few Republicans will be permitted to take part in debate, but when it comes to a vote the congress will be virtually a one-party affair.

Governor Landon and Colonel Knox, his running mate, accepted their defeat gracefully and sent to Mr. Roosevelt congratulatory telegrams promising to support, as good Americans, his efforts for the welfare of the country. The President responded with words expressing his confidence that "all us Americans will now pull together for the common good."

The Republican party, despite its terrific drubbing, is not dead. Its national organization is intact and it, and such organizations as the American Liberty league, the Sentinels of America and the Volunteers, will continue their efforts to keep the ship of state on an even keel and headed in the right direction.

William Lemke, candidate of the Union party, failed to carry a state and his popular vote was not impressive; but he was re-elected to congress from North Dakota on the Republican ticket.

Incidentally, John N. Garner, who was scarcely mentioned during the hectic campaign, was re-elected vice president and will preside over the senate again. He took no real part in the battle, just riding along with his chief.

Among the well-known Republican senators, unseated by the upheaval are Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, Lester J. Dickinson of Iowa, Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island and Robert D. Carey of Wyoming. The one gain by that party was the Massachusetts seat won by Henry Cabot Lodge II, grandson of the noted senator. He succeeded in defeating Gov. James M. Curley, Democratic boss of the state. The Michigan seat of the late James Couzens was won by Representative Prentiss M. Brown, who beat former Gov. W. M. Brucker. William E. Borah of Idaho, Arthur Capper of Kansas and Charles L. McNary of Oregon, all listed as Republicans, were re-elected; and so was George Norris of Nebraska who ran this year as an independent with the approval of Mr. Roosevelt. Minnesota Democrats meekly accepted the wrecking of their state ticket by New Deal orders and helped elect Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Laborite, to the senate. New Hampshire, the only state in which the Presidential vote was at all close, sends a Republican to the senate in the person of Gov. E. Styles Bridges. Other governors who won in senate contests were Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island, who defeated Senator Metcalf; Clyde L. Herring of Iowa, victor over Senator

Dickinson, and Ed C. Johnson of Colorado, who defeated Raymond L. Sauter.

Among the many Republican members of the house of representatives who failed of re-election were Isaac Bacharach of New Jersey, Chester Bolton of Ohio and Mrs. Florence P. Kahn of California. George H. Tinkham of Massachusetts and Bertrand H. Snell of New York, minority leader, retained their seats. The new house will have five woman members, one fewer than in the last session. Oregon elected its first woman representative, Nan Wood Honeyman, Democrat and close friend of the Roosevelt family.

AT LEAST 25 states elected Democratic governors, and the number may be 27. In only three were the Republican nominees winners. William Langer, independent, won the governorship of North Dakota, from which he was ousted some time ago. Elmer Benson, Farmer-Laborite, was victorious in Minnesota, and Philip F. LaFollette, Progressive, in Wisconsin. New York re-elected Gov. Herbert Lehman, but he ran far behind President Roosevelt. Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, Democrat, also won, but his vote, too, was far less than that for the head of the ticket.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, leaving Hyde Park for Washington to "try to balance the budget," as he said, authorized the announcement that on November 17 he would start on a cruise on the warship Indianapolis for a rest of about four weeks, and that it was possible he might go to Buenos Aires, Argentina, to open the Pan-American peace conference on December 1. He may also visit Rio de Janeiro.

JAMES A. FARLEY, manager of the triumphant Roosevelt campaign, resumed his office of postmaster general, attending the first post-election meeting of the cabinet. He said he would serve out his term but refused to comment on predictions that he would not be in the next cabinet. Mr. Farley is about to leave for a short vacation in Ireland.

The Democratic national chairman, commenting on the election, called attention to his exact forecast that Roosevelt would carry every state except Maine and Vermont, and added: "We would have carried Maine if we had put forth the same effort there as we did in the September election."

DEFENSE MINISTER EDOUARD DALADIER sees a possibility of a swift attack on France by Germany, so he urged upon the chamber of deputies army committee the immediate fortification of the Belgian and Swiss frontiers and the speeding up of manufacture of war materials. He asked the committee to recommend an appropriation of 500,000,000 francs to fortify the borders with another "Maginot line" of steel and concrete "pill boxes" and underground passages.

Obligatory physical training for all Frenchmen, beginning at the age of eighteen, was proposed by Daladier as an aid to building up the French army.

The number of professional troops in the army, he asserted, has increased in the last few months from 106,000 to 144,000.

KING EDWARD VIII, making his first parliamentary appearance since he succeeded to the throne of England, opened parliament with his throne stood alone in the house of lords and beside it rested the crown which has not yet been placed on his head. Robed in crimson and gold, the monarch read his address to the nation, beginning with his affirmation of the Protestant faith.

"My relations with foreign powers continue to be friendly," he said. "The policy of the government continues to be based on membership in the League of Nations."

He took up in turn the points of his government's proposed program. It would, he promised, work with other nations through the league, for peace. It would "persist in efforts" to build a new Locarno treaty and to extend the naval armaments limitations treaty signed last March by Britain, France, and the United States.

The government, he announced, will call an imperial conference in London next May, and that after his coronation he would go to India to be crowned emperor.

Mrs. Wallis Simpson, the king's American friend, had a choice seat in the diplomats' gallery, being accompanied by two other women.

Lesson for November 15

THE HEROISM OF CHRISTIAN FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:12, 13, 27-34; Romans 9:15. GOLDEN TEXT—Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. John 15:13. PRIMARY TOPIC—On the Castle Steps. JUNIOR TOPIC—On the Castle Steps. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Taking Risks for Christ. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Risking All for Christ.

We now come to the close of the third missionary journey of Paul. As he came to Jerusalem for the last time in his eventful life he was warned by a prophet, Agabus at Caesarea, that if he went up to Jerusalem he would be bound and given over to the Gentiles.

Heroism of the highest and noblest type has characterized the followers of Christ in all times. Paul was not one to be deterred from what he believed to be God's will by the probability that he would suffer. Like all who follow the Lord Jesus Christ in truth he was I. Fearless, in Practice as well as Theory (Acts 21:12, 13, 27-34).

Many there are who sing, "I'll go where you want me to go, dear Lord, I'll be what you want me to be," or smoothly repeat consecration vows, who are frightened away at the slightest difficulty, and who feel that they must have been mistaken about the Lord's will for their life at the first indication that their guidance would interfere with their comfort or convenience. No such cowardice or vacillation was found in Paul.

In the first place, he did not intend to have a holy purpose weakened by disheartening talk. How many young men and women have left a place of sacred meeting with God aglow with the purpose of serving Him in the foreign mission field, and then permitted an uninterested friend or relative or employer to talk them out of it.

In the second place, we find Paul carrying through his purpose. When he came to Jerusalem he was counseled to enter the temple to take a Nazarite vow, and thus to satisfy his enemies. Some have commended Paul for thus pacifying those who withstood him, others strongly condemn him for yielding. His purpose was good, but his act led to unfortunate results. An infuriated Jewish mob saw him in the temple and wrongfully accused him of defiling the temple by bringing a Greek into this holy place.

A riot ensues, and Paul would have been killed had not the Roman captain and his band rescued him. Was Paul afraid? He immediately turned his arrest into an unsurpassed opportunity to give a testimony and to make a defense of his ministry (See Acts 21:40-22:22). He admonished others to "be instant in season and out of season" (II Tim. 4:2); he practiced what he preached. He constantly urged faith in God, steadfastness in the midst of trials; he gave full proof of these things in his own ministry.

In all this he did not seek his own glory, or any honor for his own name. The Christian hero knows nothing of heroism for publicity's sake; he does not serve with an eye on the "grandstand." Paul was actuated by a deep and a genuine

II. Concern for the Salvation of His People (Rom. 9:1-5).

The Christian worker who knows nothing of "great sorrow and unceasing pain" in his heart over the plight of the unsaved does not follow in the Pauline succession, nor does he know the heart of the Man of Sorrows.

Paul surely did not wish himself separated from Christ, but was so deeply moved that he said he "could wish" it if it were not wrong—in order to save his brethren.

Do we need a revival of compassion in our churches, and in our own hearts, a yearning over the multitudes about us who are as sleep without a shepherd?

A Golden Link

A mother's love is indeed the golden link that binds youth to age, and he is still but a child, however time may have furrowed his cheek, or silvered his brow, who can yet recall with a softened heart, the fond devotion, or the gentle chidings of the best friend that God ever gives us.

Love of Our Work

It is only those who do not know how to work that do not love it. To those who do it is better than play—it is religion.

Life is not made up of great sacrifices of duties, but of little things of which smiles and kindness and small obligations given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart.—Sir Humphrey Davy.

Prejudices

Prejudices may be intense, but their lives are limited—to discover when they are dead and to bury them, is an important matter, and no unseemly tears should be shed at their funerals.

RED CROSS HIGHWAY POSTS AID INJURED

1,000 Function At Key Points To Give Emergency Care To Traffic Hurt

Highway first aid stations, set up by the Red Cross to give emergency care to victims of traffic accidents, are saving lives, according to James L. Fieser, vice-chairman in charge of domestic operations.

"More than 1,000 of our emergency posts are already operating in 47 states and thousands of others will soon be established at key points along America's highways," Mr. Fieser stated.

The Red Cross highway posts are concentrated at danger spots in rural areas where medical aid is not readily available. The importance of this coverage of the open road, the Red Cross holds, is given sharper emphasis by the fact that there has been a 150 percent increase in rural traffic fatalities during the past twelve years.

The project was initiated last year on a national scale as a practical approach to the highway accident problem. The Red Cross felt that it could best apply its strength by succoring those who continue to be injured pending a reduction in the highway accident rate through legislation and safety education.

"Our program brings first aid skill to the scene of accident in an effort to reduce the number of persons killed and maimed in automobile mishaps," Mr. Fieser said. "Our highway first aiders are not medical men in any sense, but it is their job to turn the injured over to the medical profession in the best shape possible."

The Red Cross highway posts are established at gasoline service stations, tourist homes, rural police and fire departments. The personnel of the posts are trained by the Red Cross in first aid, standard first aid equipment is installed at each station, and identifying signs for the benefit of motorists are erected beside the highway at both approaches to the station.

The attendants of these roadside units who qualify as first aiders volunteer their services through the Red Cross and may under no circumstances accept pay for caring for the injured.

To complement the highway first aid stations, the Red Cross has announced formation of mobile units. Several thousand trucks which regularly ply the highway in the course of routine work will be equipped with first aid kits. Drivers and crews will take courses in both standard and advanced first aid, and each truck will be identified as a Red Cross mobile unit. More than a hundred trucks are already operating.

"The highway police of eight states who have finished first aid training will join this army mobilized to cut accident fatalities and prevent complication of minor injuries through mishandling at the scene of accident," Mr. Fieser said.

"We receive reports from our first aid stations daily, telling of essential care given to traffic casualties on the spot and of lives actually saved."

This and many other Red Cross programs of equal value are supported by the people of America during the annual Roll Call for members. This year the Roll Call will be held from November 13 to 26.

O'DONNELL ITEMS

(By Mrs. Alma House)
Mr. Will Ed Treadway of O'Donnell has spent most of this year at Lexington, Texas, in the interest of his health. He is well known in this county and his friends will be glad to know that the change of climate has been of benefit to his physical condition.

O'Donnell has the unique distinction of being located in two counties, Lynn and Dawson. This is no handicap but on election days there must be a voting booth in each county. There are no business houses on the Dawson county side. The garage of Mr. and Mrs. Sorrells has been the polling headquarters for a number of elections. However, on Nov. 3rd the voting booth was moved into the Sorrells living room on account of the cold weather. Mr. C. H. Mansell, Mrs. E. L. Sorrells, and Mr. L. H. Hohn, judges of the Dawson county booth, were holding election by a gas fire, the weather being too cold to use the unheated garage.

Mr. John Johnson, Lynn county deputy sheriff, who resides at O'Donnell, is on the road to recovery from an attack of pneumonia. He is expected to be able to be moved from the Lubbock Sanitarium to his home by the last of this week.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Billy Doyle Huffaker entertained a number of his little friends with a birthday party at his home Nov. 5th, celebrating his sixth birthday. A number of games were played, including a treasure hunt at which each found a balloon, apple and suckers.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cocoa and cake were served to: Eloise and Jo Ernest Harvick, Gilbert Waynes and Jimmy Gilliam, Bobby Knight, Nancy Ann Cobb, W. G. and Roxilee Spruell, Patsy and Wilda Mae Nichols, Marvin Haley and sister, Donald Lee and Billy Doyle Huffaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Drennon and two little daughters of San Antonio spent the week end here visiting Elder and Mrs. R. P. Drennon, the two men being brothers. They were accompanied from Abilene by Robert Drennon, who came to visit his parents. Robert is a student in A. C. C. While here they also visited in the editor's home, Mrs. Drennon and Mrs. Hill being distant relatives. They were accompanied home by Mr. Drennon's mother, who has been making her home here.

Mrs. A. M. Cade of Tahoka, Mrs. Naymon Everett and Mrs. T. J. Yandell of O'Donnell attended the Grand Chapter of the Eastern Star at Mineral Wells week before last.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

I had a very busy day last Sunday with a journey to Brownfield where I united in marriage Miss Bessie Fay Chishom and Mr. O. L. Waiton at 8 a. m. Ate breakfast with my old friend, John Benson, near Brownfield. Home 9 a. m. when I bade good bye to my dear old mother, who left with my brother and family for San Antonio to spend the winter; then to O'Donnell in time for Sunday School. I preached morning and evening—and back home at night, tired but happy. Who said a preacher never does anything? Try this program some day and see if it does not run into work.

The church at Saton will have a Lectureship next week with two lectures a day, 10 a. m. and 7 p. m.

A few good thoughts: God has everything to give but nothing to sell. Most criticism is nothing but envy all dressed up and no place to go. It is utter folly for people to bury the hatchet unless they bury the handle—also. It is much more important to add life to your years

Nations Prosper As They Are Free

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

"Countries are well cultivated, not as they are, fertile, but as they are free."

That axiom, pronounced many years ago, remains true today. Now, as then, it applies not only to the soil, but to every form of productive activity—whether at the farm, the factory, the store, the office or the laboratory.

It was through the freedom of her workers—not political liberty alone, but the freedom of unfettered energy—that America became great.

It was largely because of this freedom that the standard of living for all Americans became the highest in history, while the workers of Europe—hampered by government edicts and restrictions—lagged far behind.

It was this freedom of enterprise that converted our central plains into earth's greatest granary, that released our hidden mineral wealth for world-wide utility; that transformed the experiments of the scientific laboratory into the realities of every-day life and use.

It was this freedom that gave the American workers more and better farms, more and better homes, more and better food, more automobiles, more telephones, more radios, more comforts of all kinds, than any people on earth.

Let's remember these things through the months immediately ahead. Let's remind those in whose hands we have placed the reins of government that it was freedom of opportunity and of labor that made America what it is.

Let's ask them—with our help—to sweep away all the barriers that block the road to recovery, and to let the American people press forward as they did during the period of their greatest development, free from the handicap of bureaucratic edicts, whether past or present or future.

Let's impress on them anew that countries are well cultivated, not as they are, fertile, but as they are free.

And that means freedom of our intelligence, our energies, and our spirit, as well as of our persons.

than to add years to your life. Three very sweet words: I love you. Enclosed find check. Let me help. Dinner is ready. Keep the change. Vacation with pay. All is forgiven. God loves you.

Formula for success: More bone in the back and less in the head. How about meeting you at the friendly church next Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.? I will be there. Will you?—R. P. DRENNON.

BUILDINGS

Buildings were first erected to be used primarily as shelter for man. In later civilization, buildings took on the nature of works of art. Perhaps as important as any phase of Greek or Roman art, was the development of architecture. Even though we do not have the opportunities of viewing and admiring ancient Greek or Roman examples of architecture, we still find many of these same principles embodied in modern structures.

In truth we do not consider an architect, who is able to plan and direct the erection of a beautiful edifice, as other than a great artist. A beautiful building can be as inspiring as an exquisite bit of poetic art or a sublime composition in music. It may be that we get much of our regard for majestic buildings from the fact that many of them are monuments to heroes or ideals.

Just as important as these older and more famous structures, are our own public buildings. We students should strive to see, appreciate, and preserve the beauty of our school-houses, churches, and various other public buildings. Not only must we have respect for our buildings, but we must strive to instill these ideas into the thinking of our younger friends and associates. The best way of teaching a lesson is by example. If a younger person sees some older boy or girl, whom he practically idealizes, doing a thing, that young person will very likely attempt to copy his ideal. Besides the example we set before these younger boys and girls, we are preserving our buildings for their future use. So we see that we should preserve our buildings as works of art and beauty, as examples to our juniors, and from a deep inborn respect and desire to create rather than to destroy.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS

"Increasing the Vocabulary" has been the phase of study for the Public Speaking Class. The students all gave ideas on the various ways of increasing the vocabulary. The members of the class also used twenty-one new words in composing a nonsense story. The stories were read in class as oral compositions. The work is being thoroughly enjoyed by the members of the class.

ARMISTICE

Many times we think of November eleventh only as a holiday, a day when we are free from our regular routine of work. We may not stop to consider the real significance of the day. We, younger people do not remember the horror, nerve-racking tension and the terrible destruction of the War. We cannot imagine the blessed relief brought to the world by the signing of the Armistice. We should try to picture the sorrows of the past war and its useless destruction. We must, remembering this, strive with all our power to avert another such wholesale slaughter. If we can convince enough people that peace is possible we can have the blessed security of peace. Each student should and can have his part in such a program.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB IS ORGANIZED

The nomination committee having selected two nominees for each office, the Home Economics girls were asked to choose their officers. The balloting was done on Wednesday, Nov. 4. Officers elected are: President, Jo Alice Brooks; Vice President, Rosa McKenzie; Secretary, Helen Ruth Bell; Reporter, Mary M. Tunnell. Chairmen Doris Lawler and Jo Belle Milliken of the social and program committees have been selected. Plans are being made for a profitable and interesting club year.

SPORTS

Instead of regular chapel on Wednesday, Nov. 4, all boys were spoken to by Mr. Penn, Mr. Barrett, and Coach Walker. The primary discussion was on preparations for a basketball team. About forty boys indicated that they would be out for basketball training. Workouts will begin when the new gymnasium is ready for use.

Mr. Barrett stated that this training would be worked into the daily schedule if possible. Such an arrangement will permit the boys from out of town to enter into the games. Prospects are bright for a very strong basketball club.

Mr. Penn, being from Brownfield urged all present to help in defeating the Cubs of that city in football on Armistice. Mr. Walker believes the Bulldogs have excellent chances for victory.

Nervous, Weak Woman Soon All Right

"I had regular shaking spells from nervousness," writes Mrs. Olga Sanders, of Paragould, Ark. "I was all run-down and cramped at my time until I would have to go to bed. After my first bottle of Cardui, I was better. I kept taking Cardui and soon I was all right. The shaking quit and I did not cramp. I felt worlds better. I gave Cardui to my daughter who was in about the same condition and she was soon all right."

SEVENTH GRADE

The Seventh Grade has organized a Choral Club. Meetings are being held on Mondays and Thursdays of each week from 8:30 until 9 o'clock. We are doing our best to have a good club.

GLEANINGS

All we know is what we gather from the waste basket after all other people have finished with the news. It seems to us that we have been hearing a lot about the interest manifest in a neighboring community. Guess when that has been read, lot of folks will know why.

Been notice' a lot of students imbibin' in the filthy weed a little too frequent-like and most too close to the campus. Guess a feller has a right to smoke if his pa and ma dogs, Jest the same it don't make it look any better for folks to fire up the minute they steps off the school yard. Yet we're still glad they has enough respect for us to get that far away.

Some folks is just naturally nice to have around. Others don't suit so well. Been wonderin' how it would be if all of us always did just what the other fellow wanted. Reckon as how there'd be a lot-o' selfish folks runnin' 'round on the loose. Seems as though they might be too many now to suit some of us.

Bet if Will Rogers was here he'd probably say somethin' like this: "Well, it looks like the democrats is goin' to have a hard' four years ahead of them. If they had more Republicans in the Senate and House they would have something to keep in line, but as it is they won't be able to whip any one but themselves, and whoever heard of a feller doin' such a thing." Republicans is like I was when a kid. Every time us kids had a horse to ride I was put on the tail end. Often they wasn't much end for me to hold to so I was left out in the pasture.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Brown and two children of Belton were here over the week end visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Brown, and sister, Mrs. W. C. Wells.

MARRIED

B. B. Ater and Mrs. Mittle Nettles of the Lakeview community were united in marriage here Saturday by Rev. George A. Dale.

MORE ABOUT LAWYERS AS LAWMAKERS

Replying to our comment on a recent editorial in the Canyon News, Clyde Warwick, editor of that splendid paper, says:

"Mr. Hill is eminently correct about the need of good lawyers serving in the legislative halls.
More certainly The News did not mean to infer that lawyers should be excluded from legislative halls.
We are of the opinion that the very best lawyers, the men of the best training, honest and conscientious lawyers, should be elected to the legislature and to congress and kept there as long as they will serve.

"The great drawback in legislation is the fact that too many fresh from college lawyers, and lawyers who have made a failure in their practice are elected. These are the birds who make a mess of things.

"But the legislature should not be composed exclusively of lawyers.
There is need of a composite cross section of the state in legislative halls — lawyers, doctors, dentists, merchants, farmers, teachers, newspaper men, etc. Only in this manner will just legislation affecting all phases of business be based. But the tragedy of the whole legislative setup is that a lawyer who is a recognized failure in his own profession is too often elected over candidates representing some other profession.

"The public has a long way to go before it will always recognize merit and always select those best qualified to represent them."

It seems from the above comment that Mr. Warwick and the editor of this paper are not far apart. We need able men from the various professions and occupations in the legislature, as well as at least a considerable number of able lawyers.
It is possible that much of the trouble in legislation arises from the fumbling of young and inexperienced lawyers and older members of the bar who have failed in their profession, as Mr. Warwick suggests, but we believe that we can place our finger on a sorer spot than that—the smooth and brainy lawyer who is in the legislature to represent some special interest, such as oil or sulphur or natural gas or other corporate interests. These are the birds who too often mess up the legislative program designed for the benefit of the common people.

NOW GIVE US JUSTICE

We opposed the amendment to the constitution which would limit representation in the legislature from the larger cities on the grounds that we believed it to be undemocratic and unjust. We believe in representation according to population, as nearly as that may be practicable.

But the people of Texas have spoken and by their votes they have written this new proposal into our constitution. Henceforth no county in this state may have more than seven representatives in the Lower House of the legislature until its population exceeds 700,000.

Of course we favor observance of this constitutional provision as long as it is a part of our constitution.
We would condemn any county or any legislator who would seek to have a law passed in violation or evasion of this provision of our constitution.

But we also favor the observance of our constitution in other respects.
For the past sixty years at least,

and possibly for the full period of our statehood, our constitution has required that the legislature shall make provision for the redistricting of the state following each decennial census. It has not always done so. It has not yet done so since the census of 1930. As a result East Texas has nearly three times as many representatives in the legislature as it is entitled to and West Texas has only about one-third as many representatives as it is entitled to.

Now, we think that it is high time for West Texas to demand that redistricting of the state into Representative districts be accomplished at the earliest possible moment. It can be done at the regular session of the legislature which meets early in January.

We will confess that since West Texas has joined with East Texas and other sections of the state in limiting representation from the cities, it is now in a poor position to ask the cities to aid it in getting justice from East Texas.

But even though this injustice, as we see it, has been done the cities, we do not believe that they will be content for a small minority of our citizenship who reside in East Texas to continue to hold such commanding and disproportionate power in our legislative body. It is unjust and unfair, and we do not believe that the people of East Texas themselves desire this condition to continue. It is only the East Texas politicians that desire it.

What are our Representatives and Senators from West Texas going to do about it? Are they going to continue to sit supinely in their seats at Austin and not raise a whimper against this crying injustice? Or, are they going to demand that it be remedied? They should band together and introduce and support with all their might a just and fair redistricting bill in the next legislature. Of course they are weak in numbers as compared with the Representatives from other parts of the state, but unless East Texas is willing to do justice they should carry the fight to the people and make their voice heard to the very remotest parts of this vast commonwealth. It may be that a fight for the Nelson proposal for a unicameral legislature will bring these East Texas politicians to their senses.

Already since the recent election in which President Roosevelt won the most sweeping victory of any candidate for the Presidency since the days of James Monroe and the New Deal has been given the ardent approval of the people, there is a sentiment flaming up in some quarters to re-enact some of the measures declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States, constitution or no constitution. We can not believe that either President Roosevelt or a Democratic Congress will for a moment countenance any such course. The President at his inaugural takes a solemn oath to preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States, and each member of Congress before entering upon the duties of his office takes a similar oath. That Congress and the President could be induced to deliberately violate their oaths, throw the Constitution to the winds, and re-enact measures that have already been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, which is itself a creature of the Constitution, is unthinkable. If such legislation is deemed advisable, then a constitutional amendment covering the point should be drafted and submitted to the states for their approval, as the constitution provides,
but no class of citizens should ask the President or Congress to flout
the Constitution.

We understand that the Administration at Washington is planning some sort of legislation that will make it easy and profitable for the tenant farmer to acquire a home.
If the Government can do something practical and effective along this line, eventually making practically every tenant farmer a home owner, we think it will have accomplished one of the greatest achievements possible for the people of this country.

We believe that the Constitution of the United States should be amended in some particulars. We would not increase the power of the President at the expense of Congress nor would we curtail the power of the Supreme Court, but we would give Congress plenary power to enact legislation respecting all public utilities and the country's natural resources, such as oil, natural gas, coal, sulphur, iron, copper, gold and silver, etc. Also, we would give the Federal Government unmistakable power to enact laws for the conservation of water and soil as well as timber. These are broad powers, but we believe that our civilization and our development have reached the stage where it would be to the best interest of the people as a whole for the Federal government to have this authority. At the same time we would preserve the perfect freedom of the individual in the acquisition, ownership, management, and enjoyment of the home and the farm. We would encourage home ownership and discourage the ownership of large tracts of land as an investment or for speculative purposes. This goes farther than the New Deal but does not necessarily include some of the New Deal measures.

We have no sympathy whatever for the doctrines or the methods of the Communists. But we are not afraid if them as long as they are given the right of free speech and fair treatment. If there is anything that is calculated to promote the cause of communism, it is such high-handed acts as some city officials and private citizens perpetrated in Indiana and Texas during the recent Presidential campaign, when their rotten-egged Communist candidates, used all sorts of violence to prevent them from speaking, and even threw them into jail. We note that the great Methodist Conference in session in Houston last week denounced these high-handed methods.
The Methodists are right. There are no rights that Americans should guard more jealously than freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom to worship God according to the dictates of one's own conscience or not to worship Him at all if the individual is so inclined.

If and when the Communists become guilty of treason or rebellion or violence, then it will be time to arrest and punish them.

It seems to be a notorious fact that numbers of our state senators and representatives, fine fellows and patriotic citizens though they be,
are in the employment of various special interests as attorneys. This should not be. "No man can serve two masters." Whether the Nelson proposal for a unicameral legislature is adopted or not, that provision of it certainly ought to be adopted which would prohibit members of the legislature from accepting employment and compensation from special interests and corporations during their tenure of office. The people will never be assured a fair inning at Austin until this is done.

We have never taken much stock in the charge frequently heard that a majority of our representatives in the legislature are a bunch of boobs.
There are some of that kind there at each session, but the vast majority of them are men of more than average ability and intelligence.
Many of them are really brilliant fellows. While we should like to see a still abler set of men in our legislature, we do not think that "dumbness" is one of the main troubles down there. It is the system that we have, the unwieldiness of the lower house, the frequent inability of the two houses to agree, and the practice of permitting corporation lawyers to serve at the same time as so-called representatives of the people.

If the Literary Digest, in the poll which it conducted during the recent Presidential campaign, sought to get a fair and dependable expression of public sentiment, its efforts certainly were an inglorious failure. Millions of people in America will always believe that this poll was mere propaganda. The Digest should adopt new methods and try to redeem itself the next time.

We do not know just what kind of crop insurance plan Secretary Wallace has in mind, but if a plan can be devised which is both practical and constitutional we hope that it may be adopted as soon as possible after Congress meets and put in operation in time to cover next year's crops. We are strongly in favor of the crop insurance idea.

It may be hard to work out a practicable measure.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lillith Boyd, H. D. Agent

TAHOKA H. D. CLUB
The Tahoka H. D. Club met in the home of Mrs. A. C. Weaver on Monday, Nov. 9, in an Achievement Day program.

Mrs. Weaver, the Farm Food Supply demonstrator, told of her accomplishments in planning and filling her pantry. "I have canned a total of 575 containers of fruits, vegetables, pickles, preserves, and jellies. This will aid in planning and serving adequate meals for the family, and I will realize a net saving of $62.75 on these products." These facts were brought out in her story, as told to the club.

Miss Boyd gave a demonstration on meal planning and the essentials of an adequate diet. The following were present: Meses J. K. Wooley, Paul King, W. S. Anglin, R. W. Fenton, A. D. Wallace, Claud Wells, J. O. Patterson, Milt Finch, M. O. Canaday, Chas. Nelms, A. C. Weaver, and Miss Lillith Boyd.

WILSON H. D. CLUB
"A cold frame or hot bed is the only way to have an early garden in West Texas," said Miss Boyd, county H. D. agent, to the Wilson H. D. Club at the home of Mrs. P. D. Server November 4th.

"Scrap lumber may be used as successfully as new lumber in making a cold frame or hot bed. Unbleached muslin or tobacco cloth may be used as covering. If dipped in oil before using, it will give more protection. A bed six feet by six feet makes a nice size for the average family. The beds need to be dug out about twenty-three inches, then filled with eighteen inches of manure and five inches of soil on top. Onions, radishes, lettuce, beets, and all kinds of greens may be planted in a cold frame. Make several plantings in order to have fresh vegetables at all times.

Visitors present were: Meses Joe White, Hilda Lamb, M. W. Todd, D. A. Hill. Members present were: Meses Edwin May, John Lamb, Weldon Leamon, L. B. Thornton, M. J. Seamer, M. C. Brandon, B. W. Baker, J. W. Wilson, W. H. May, W. I. Lemon, P. D. Server, S. G. Anthony, and H. B. Crosby.

MIDWAY H. D. CLUB
The Midway H. D. Club met at the home of Mrs. G. A. Edwards November 5, at 2:30 P. M.

As 'twas Thanksgiving program, each answered roll call with "Something for which I am thankful." Each expressed herself as being thankful for the club work in all its phases.

Much stress was placed on instructions received in supplying their families with adequate and balanced food. Several mentioned that the club meetings gave opportunity for social contact with our neighbors. Due to the business proceedings being lengthy, the Thanksgiving program was omitted.

The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. E. T. Cope. Vice President, Mrs. Rufus Slover. Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. I. M. Draper. Reporter, Mrs. Sam Floyd. Parliamentarian, Mrs. Pete Curry. Chairmen of the following committees were elected: Finance, Mrs. Howard Draper. Social, Mrs. Pete Curry. Council delegate, Mrs. R. L. Littlepage. Alternate, Mrs. Rufus Slover.

Mrs. J. C. Wells was a visitor. Members present were: Mesdames Rufus Slover, Pete Curry, Sam Floyd, O. R. Crow, I. M. Draper, R. L. Littlepage, Lloyd Edwards, R. B. Floyd, Howard Draper, and G. A. Edwards.

NEW LYNN H. D. CLUB
"I did not have any place to store anything when I became food demonstrator at the first of the year 1936," said Mrs. Roy Kelly. "Now I have twenty feet and am proud of what I have."

The club met with the food demonstrator of the club. The co-operators gave reports on their year's work. Mesdames Roy Kelly and R. W. Barton exhibited a balanced meal and Mesdames Susie and Winnie Bartley exhibited a wash day dinner. The next meeting is with Mrs. R. W. Barton.

Members present: Meses J. A. Jaynes, Roy Kelly, R. W. Barton, S. B. Francis, Claude Roper, C. B. Caveness, Susie Bartley, Winnie Bartley. Visitors were: Meses W. Coffey, F. S. Barton, Tom Winkler, and Miss Margaret Barton.

GRASSLAND 4-H CLUB
"A box 7 by 10 by 2 inches is a convenient size for a sewing box for club work," said Miss Boyd at the meeting of the Grassland 4-H Club on November 6.

"The name and address of the owner should be on one corner of the top of the box," she added. Officers for 1937 are: President, Doris Chapman. Vice President, Mary Alice Norman.

Secretary-Treasurer, Lorene Norman. Reporter, Lamyrlie Ramsey. Clothing Demonstrator, Mary Ruth Edwards. Poultry Demonstrator, Margie Shepherd.

Program Committee: Rosie Lee Thompson, Jimmie Lou Thomas, Lamyrlie Ramsey. Sponsor, Miss Bell Stewart. Sixteen members were present and began work on pot holders.

USES WRAPPING PAPER FOR LABELS

"I cut brown wrapping paper the size of can labels and used them instead of buying standard 4H labels for my pantry this year," said Mrs. R. W. Fenton, co-operator in the Tahoka Home Demonstration Club.

"Even though it required more time to label cans with these, the containers have the same protection from rust and dirt and the cost was nothing," said Mrs. Fenton.

Accomplishments In Home Food Supply

By Mrs. A. C. WEAVER
(Home Food Supply Demonstrator, Tahoka H. D. Club)

I began preparing for my home food supply by buying lumber and cheese cloth to make a cold frame 3 feet by 9 feet at a cost of $1.20. I planted two packets of Marglobe tomato seeds, one packet of World Beater pepper seed, one packet of Icicle radishes, and one packet of Denver's half long carrots. I set out 600 tomato plants, gave 500 away and sold 400 for $1.00. I transplanted 40 pepper plants to the garden and sold a dozen for 10c. From this cold frame, we had radishes for the table for three weeks from one planting and shared some with friends in the meantime. After the plants were taken from the cold frame, Detroit Dark Red beets were planted; in July I canned 6 quarts.

In the garden, I grew enough tomatoes to supply the table with fresh ones for two months and canned 30 quarts, made 7 pints of tomato juice, and 6 pints of soup mixture. The latter contained tomatoes, corn and okra. I canned 6 quarts of okra, 6 pints of greens, 1 pint of English peas, and made 20 quarts of cucumber pickles. I had fresh cucumbers for four weeks.

I have 140 containers of leafy, green and yellow vegetables. I lack 10 having enough to serve balanced meals for a period of five months. I plan to make some more kraut and provide fresh vegetables to fill this deficiency.

"I lack 14 containers having 180, or the necessary amount of other vegetables. As I have only 43 containers of tomatoes, it will be necessary to supplement them with lemons, oranges, grapefruit, or other canned tomatoes. I have 79 containers of other fruit.

Forty-one containers of preserves, jams and jellies are on my pantry shelves. If more of this class is needed, I shall use honey and syrup principally, because syrup is richer in iron.

My canned products are stored in the kitchen. Since the top shelves are the warmest, I have preserves, jellies and pickles nearest the ceiling; next, fruits are placed and vegetables are just below.

I think it is well worth my time and effort to have canned during the canning season. In computing the value of my pantry, I used a value sheet furnished from the Extension Service and found it valued $103.58. My total expenses were $25.20, making a profit of $78.30.

RESOLUTION IN RESPECT TO OLD PIONEERS ADOPTED

At the annual meeting of the Old Settlers Association held at the G. W. Small residence near Tahoka last summer, a committee was appointed to draft and to have published resolutions of respect to the memory of pioneers of this county who had died in recent years.

This committee is composed of A. R. McGonagill, J. D. Donaldson, and D. T. Rogers, who have prepared and submitted the following. The pioneers whose memory is being honored are: "Uncle Jimmy Fleming, Jack Alley, W. C. (Cass) Cowan, T. C. Leedy, W. J. Crouch, J. S. Wells, Coleman Wells, Elton George, and many others.

The resolutions follow: "Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to remove from our midst friends and companions of many years; years in which the bonds of friendship were firmly cemented by shared experience of hardships, joys, adventure, endeavor—all the things incident to the settling of pioneer territory and the building thereon a substantial, lasting civilization; and while we deeply deplore the severing of these string ties of friendship and affection, and have enshrined in our hearts the names and deeds of our departed comrades. But, Be it Resolved that we, the members of the Lynn County Pioneer Association, do submit to the Divine Providence of God, and do extend to the bereaved loved ones our deep sympathy and tender solicitude.

"Respectfully submitted, A. R. McGonagill, J. D. Donaldson, D. T. Rogers, Committee."

Draw

Draw school opened Monday with a small attendance. All of the teachers arrived for the opening of school after cotton picking except one. The attendance was much better Tuesday, since the news of opening of school had reached everyone.

The Draw Sunday School had very good attendance Sunday. The weather was rather bad, but the Draw Sunday School never fails.

The League met Sunday night and had an interesting meeting. The attendance at League is rather small, and we invite everyone out.

The Draw Sunday School League had a social Friday night at the home of the Sherrills. The young folks played several games and had a wonderful time. Refreshments were served and everyone pronounced it a joyful evening.

The Draw-Redwine Longhorns were just too much for a bunch of Cowhands to handle. They took an overwhelming defeat by a score of 32-0. Every man did his part and played well. The game was played on the Longhorn field.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McClintock and small son of Post have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. F. White and family this week. Mrs. McClintock is Mr. and Mrs. White's daughter.

Miss Lucille Shannon of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Cash and small daughter of Post spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Shannon and family.

Miss Gladys Douthit, teacher in Draw-Redwine grade school, has been sick the past week.

We have three new students in high school. They are Doris Coursey, Gladys Lynch and Adriene Warren.

Several new students have enrolled in grammar school since vacation, and we expect more to start.

Members of the Agriculture class have received their bulletins from Washington. They had been ordered for quite a while.

The Draw-Redwine school has received a collection of about twenty-five new books for the library. These books will be used for reports in English and for recreational reading. Some of the students have started reading these books and are enjoying them very much.

Mrs. J. L. Reese, who has been under treatment at the Lubbock Sanitarium for several weeks, is now much improved.

Misses O'Berger Forrester and Auda Mae Aycox are taking a vacation this week, going on the football excursion from Lubbock to Los Angeles, California.

Rev. and Mrs. George A. Dale, Mrs. Belton Howell, and Miss Lois Goad left early Tuesday morning to attend the Baptist General Convention of Texas, which is in session at Mineral Wells this week. They expect to be back for next Sunday's services here.

Mrs. Craig Tefteller, who was very critically ill so long, is now steadily improving at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Simmons. She is now able to be up much of the time.

Red Cross Nurses Combat Disease on Wide Front

At the close of the fiscal year ended June 30, there were 673 Red Cross nurses bettering health conditions and caring for the sick in 604 communities. These Red Cross public health nurses cared for a total of 233,616 persons during the year and made more than a million visits on their behalf.

The annual report of the American Red Cross states further that these nurses cooperated with doctors in examining 671,057 school and pre-school children, with 342,861 physical defects during the year and made more than a million visits on their behalf.

RED CROSS AID TO MORE THAN 500,000 DISASTER VICTIMS

Large Urban Areas Devastated As Elements Hit 20 States East of Mississippi

"The number of disaster victims assisted by the Red Cross during the fiscal year ended June 30, was more than four times the number aided in the previous twelve month period," Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman, said in commenting on highlights of the annual report just issued. "Over 131,000 families and medical care, and thousands of homes were rebuilt or repaired by the Red Cross to enable them to carry on."

Pointing to the many-sided problems created by the wide variety of types of disasters which occurred during the year, Admiral Grayson said, "The Red Cross sent hundreds of trained workers to 39 states to meet the many exigencies of catastrophes which included earthquakes, epidemic, explosion, fire, hurricane, ice lock, landslide, refugee relief, shipwreck, tornado and typhoon. The Red Cross took charge at the scenes of 105 domestic disasters of major severity."

The report emphasized the marked value of Government-Red Cross cooperation when disaster strikes, giving as example the flight of Army bombing planes which dropped Red Cross food to marooned refugees at Renovo, Pennsylvania, during the Spring floods. More than 10,000 persons were rescued from the second floors of homes in Wilkes-Barre and Kingston through Coast Guard-Red Cross cooperation at the height of these same floods.

"Government agencies and relief groups were of invaluable assistance to Red Cross relief forces at all times," Admiral Grayson stated.

The complete resources of Red Cross leadership, training and disaster experience were brought into play by the Spring floods and tornadoes which took so heavy a toll of life and property in eastern and southern states this year, the annual report reveals. The Red Cross aided 77,000 families in 14 flooded states east of the Mississippi and 4,000 families in 6 tornado hit states south of the Mason-Dixon line in this one operation.

"Never before have as many metropolitan centers borne the brunt of attack by wind and water within a single year, challenging Red Cross preparedness and efficiency by so wide a variety of pressing human problems," Chairman Grayson said.

In its work of relief to disaster sufferers the Red Cross expended in excess of $5,200,000 for the year. The report points out that this figure does not include assistance given in 27 lesser disasters with a total of 2,000 persons aided, and adds that additional millions will be used to "clean up" Spring floods and tornadoes.

"Numerous local disaster situations occurring during the year were met by Red Cross chapter funds and manpower," Admiral Grayson said. "In each major relief operation undertaken the great army of Red Cross volunteers aided trained workers with the task of rehabilitating those without resources who had suffered losses."

"The Red Cross disaster relief service is one of many Red Cross activities supported by the American people through membership at the time of Roll Call, held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving."

TEXAS SECOND IN DEMO CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

Austin, Nov. 11.—Contributions of Texas Democrats to the Roosevelt-Garner campaign fund exceeded those of any other state in the nation with the exception of New York, State Campaign Director Roy Miller announced here today.

With this state's contributions already approximately $275,000, or $25,000 in excess of the quarter-million dollar quota fixed by the Democratic National committee, each mail delivery brings more funds from rural sections of the state.

But a national party deficit of approximately $500,000 exists, Mr. Miller was notified by national headquarters in New York, and Texas Democrats will be asked to do their share by helping to balance the Democratic party's books.

"I have not yet been notified of the exact amount this state will be expected to raise, but I am certain that we shall have little trouble in raising it, if our campaign is as successful as the pre-election drive for funds," Mr. Miller declared.

The Texas campaign fund this year was made up of the largest number of individual contributions ever made to any political campaign in the history of the state. Mr. Miller said. He estimated that more than 20,000 individual donations to the party's "war chest" were received from Texas Democrats.

Fifteen thousand postcards—used to acknowledge contributions of one dollar or less—were mailed to contributors from state headquarters. Some of the contributions were as low as six cents.

Officials and employees at headquarters here were busy this week preparing a tabulated report showing the amount of contributions received from each Congressional district in the state and from each county in the state.

Red Cross Potential Life Savers Number Nearly 2,000,000

First aid and life saving certificates issued by the American Red Cross since the start of the service 26 years ago now number 1,888,702. During the past year the Red Cross qualified 222,693 persons in first aid and taught water safety and rescue methods to 80,961.

This army of First Aiders and Life Savers is one of the great safety factors in the nation. They are trained to give immediate first aid at the scene of accident, thus saving many lives and preventing permanent injury. Red Cross training includes skill in treating for shock, splinting fractures, checking arterial bleeding, applying artificial respiration, towing drowning persons to safety, and in the safe handling of boat and canoe.

Red Cross volunteers, framework of the organization, last year gave a total of 1,707,220 hours of service, producing 655,074 garments, 4,355,719 surgical dressings, 16,773 Christmas bags for soldiers, sailors and marines serving overseas. Perhaps the most important undertaking of these generous contributors to the public welfare is the making of braille books for the blind, with 242,000 pages printed during the past twelve months.

Of the 16,500,000 school children enrolled in the Junior Red Cross societies of 52 nations, more than half are members of the American Junior Red Cross representing 24,582 schools in this country.

Red Cross chapters aiding the needy in their communities act on approximately 22,674 family problems each month.

GARRARD THANKS PEOPLE FOR AID IN CAMPAIGN

To the People of the 19th Congressional District:

'Tis with grateful appreciation that I acknowledge receipt of the Campaign expenses donated to the Roosevelt-Garner Campaign by the citizens of the twenty-five counties of the 10th Congressional District.

Dawson, Lynn, Lamb, Lubbock, and Terry counties contributed their full quotas to the fund and the other counties, with the exception of one or two, contributed in large measure their quotas, but due to the rush in such large territory, it is impossible to state at this time just how much each county contributed.

Suffice to say, however, that the large vote given to Roosevelt and Garner and the liberal contributions in the 19th Congressional District are gratifying to the National and State Executive Committees and to the District Committee, and I want, on behalf of the state, national, and district committees, to thank all county committees and organizations and all voters and contributors who have made possible such a wonderful victory for President Roosevelt and our own native son, Vice President John N. Garner.

TOM GARRARD, Chairman of the Democratic National Campaign Committee for the 19th Congressional District.

(Note: A list of the Lynn county donors to the campaign fund will be published in next week's Lynn County News.)

Today's "Heroes of Civilization"

Courage and resourcefulness, in the line of duty or otherwise, seem confined to no particular class, race or age.

Many years ago, George Bernard Shaw said: "The courage to rage and kill is cheap. My bulldog has it, but he lets the groom beat him all the same." Military courage may not be precisely "cheap," but it certainly seems less fine than the behavior of what Carnegie called "the heroes of civilization." It is one thing to go over the top with the band playing—metaphorically, at least—and another to go over alone, without incentive outside of the job that is to be done and without thought of glory.—Channing Pollock in Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adierika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."
—Mrs. Jas. Miller.
Adierika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.
Dr. H. L. Shamb, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli." Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation. Leading Druggists.

Party Line-Ups in 10 Congresses

This chart shows how Republicans and Democrats will share seats in both houses of seventy-fifth congress, as compared with nine preceding congresses.

Election Sets a New Record With 43,000,000 Votes Cast

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, elected to a second term by a greater plurality than any candidate has ever enjoyed in the past, finds himself now with perhaps more power than has ever before been trusted to any man in the world. He polled some 25,500,000 popular votes, to set a new all-time record. Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, his Republican opponent, was a bit shy of 16,000,000, while William Lemke, the Union party candidate, polled about three-fourths of a million.

These results were based upon 107,309 districts reported out of the 122,722 in the United States. It was estimated that the total vote, with all districts reported, would approximate 43,000,000 also a new all-time record. The American people, providing the incumbent Democratic candidate with 523 votes in the electoral college to 8 for Governor Landon, also voiced their approval of the New Deal by materially increasing the Democratic majority in both houses of congress.

PRESIDENTIAL VOTE BY STATES

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt swept to re-election on the crest of the largest wave of votes, both popular and electoral, ever cast for a Presidential candidate. It was apparent with 106,251 districts reported out of a total of 122,722 in the United States. The table below shows the number of districts reporting in each state, the popular vote, the electoral vote and the winner's plurality in each state. Pluralities are estimated, since in most cases complete returns will not be available for some time.

Table with 10 columns: STATE, Dists. Rptd., Roosevelt, Landon, Lemke, Plurality in Dist. Rptd., Elect. Vote, and Ldn. Lists 48 states and totals.

Here's How Parties Line Up in Congress

With smashing Democratic victories all down the line, this is the way the houses of the Seventy-fifth congress will line up, as compared with the Seventy-fourth congress. The next house of representatives: Democrats 334, Republicans 89, Progressives 7, Farmer-Laborites 5. Total 435.

THE VOTE IN 1932

Every pattern is accompanied by an illustrated instruction chart giving step by step details for quick sewing and perfect fit—the short cut to an adequate wardrobe.

Pattern 1821, a comely morning frock fashioned along princess lines, is available in a wide range of sizes, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. The smooth fitting and slenderizing hip line joins with the scalloped collar and cuffs in contrast to achieve a flattering effect, and this design is so simply made and so easy to wear, in swiss or percale or lawn or pongee, it will win instant favor. Size 38 requires four and three-fourths yards of 39 inch material.

Pattern 1843, the fitted slip, offers a choice of the strap or built-up shoulder and makes a perfect foundation garment for a smooth silhouette. Fashioned in silk or taffeta or pongee, the pattern employs just six pieces and goes together like a charm. Send for it today, in size 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 or 44. Size 36 requires three and one-fourth yards of 39 inch material.

Uncle Phil Says:

Reminiscence: The scenery one remembers most fondly will be what he saw while sitting serenely in contemplative meditation. Culture also consists in knowing what not to cultivate. A fault mender is better than a fault finder. The way of the transgressor is hard, but apparently not half hard enough, or there wouldn't be so many repeaters. Virtue and Vice: Following virtue is a steep ascent; following vice is a precipitous leap. Everything in nature goes by steps, nothing by leaps. Many a man has noble aims, but it is the hits that count. Probably your wants are as twenty to one to your needs. But They're Not Assets: A man of bitter and glittering words may not have many friends but he has hosts of envious admirers. Science, the friend of man, turns murderer in times of war. A good deal of common sense consists in just simply not butting in. No Time to Choose: Lots of things he doesn't want come to the man who is impatient. If science knew how to produce a genius, it would produce too many. Besides backbone, another thing equally lacking, altogether too generally, is self-respect. A hard-shelled man doesn't necessarily mean a hard-boiled one. Good society wants good morals, and whenever they can't be, wants them kept out of sight. Greatest triumph is to fish your friend out of the blues and make him laugh again.

SIGNIFICANCE OF INSCRIPTION ON OUR DOLLAR BILLS

A Treasury department circular states that the design on the back of the new one dollar silver certificate presents for the first time on any money issued by the United States, a representation of both the obverse and reverse of the Great Seal of the United States, first adopted in 1782, prior to the adoption of the Constitution. The reverse of the Great Seal shows an unfinished pyramid, surmounted by an eye in a triangular glory. The pyramid bears in Roman numerals the year of the Declaration of Independence, 1776. Above the eye is the Latin motto "Annuit Coeptis," rendered as "He (God) favored our undertakings." The motto at the bottom, "Novus Ordo Seclorum," is translated as "A new order of the ages." The eye and triangular glory symbolizes an all-seeing Deity. The pyramid is the symbol of strength and its unfinished condition denotes the belief of the designers of the Great Seal that there was still work to be done. Both the mottoes on the reverse of the seal are condensations of excerpts from Virgil's Aeneid—Cleveland Plain Dealer. Canada's Indians Gain: There is no foundation for the common belief that the Indians of Canada are a vanishing race. The census, which is taken at five-year intervals, has shown a substantial increase in each of such periods during the last fifteen years at least. According to the last census there were in Canada 122,911 Indians—62,943 males and 59,968 females. About 112,500 live on the reservations.

"Now I Lay Me—"

This child was hurt when a tornado struck Tupelo, Mississippi, necessitating medical and nursing care for hundreds—care which in many cases could not have been given without Red Cross assistance. It is a fine tribute to the organization that the young beneficiaries of its health and relief services invariably place themselves in the hands of the Red Cross with a completely confident, "Now I lay me—"

COUNTY COURT HAS BUSY SESSION—LIQUOR CASES

unlawful possession charge. He too "shelved down the corn" and told the court he was guilty. His sale was the same as his two predecessors at the bar of justice. He had to dig up 100 perfectly good dollars to satisfy the demands of the law.
On Tuesday of this week, Ben Bairrington went to trial on a charge of unlawfully possessing intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale. This was a beer case. The jury found him guilty and assessed his punishment at a fine of $100.00. He was represented on the trial by Judge B. P. Maddox and made a motion for a new trial. This being overruled, he made his recognition before the court and prepared to appeal the case to the court of criminal appeals.
The boys who persist in running marble boards "contrary to the statutes in such cases made and provided" are also finding themselves arraigned before the bar of justice. Last week Andy Cargile and B. J. Boyd, both of O'Donnell, entered pleas of guilty in the county court to operating this kind of gambling device. The experience cost each of them just $100.00 and the trimmings.
Dr. Charles P. Tate of O'Donnell found that it is not profitable to practice medicine without a license duly obtained and registered. He was charged with doing so in two cases and admitted his guilt to the court. Each offense cost him $50.00 and costs.

Lady Took Cardui

When Weak, Nervous
"I can't say enough for Cardui as I talked all day," enthusiastically writes Mrs. L. H. Caldwell, of Statesville, N. C. "I have used Cardui at intervals for twenty-five years," she adds. "My trouble in the beginning was weakness and nervousness. I read of Cardui in a newspaper and decided right then to try it. It seemed before I had taken half a bottle of Cardui I was stronger and was soon up and around."
Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

BAIRRINGTON RITES HELD HERE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Ka, and Mrs. A. E. Carter of Paluacah.

With the exception of his oldest son, William P. Bairrington of Ontario, California, all of his children and his step-daughter, Mrs. C. B. Cook, were present at the funeral.
Mr. Bairrington and family had been residents of Lynn county since 1923. Until advancing years prevented, he was engaged in the occupation of farming. For the past few years he had been too feeble to work. He became seriously ill just a few weeks before his death and all that loving hands could do to prolong his life was done, but to little avail.
The bereaved children have the deepest sympathy of hosts of friends and especially of those who have lost a parent at the hands of Death.

Judge Goad Ties First Nuptial Knot

Judge P. W. Goad underwent a new experience one day last week, and he admits that it was a trying ordeal. He performed his first marriage ceremony.

A fine couple came down from Lubbock, procured the necessary papers, and asked Judge Goad to function. After fumbling about a bit and clearing his throat a few times, he finally got his stentorian voice into action, and when he got through that couple realized that they were muchly married. The happy couple were John B. Arnold and Miss Genevieve Orr.
The Judge's second experience was with a colored couple, and he thinks he tied the knot good and tight. The brunettes were Daniel Anderson and Elva Tucker.

Schools Re-opening After Brief Recess

County Supt. H. P. Caveness was busy visiting schools the first of the week. He says that most of the schools of the county which suspended a few weeks ago to enable the school children to assist in gathering the crops have opened again.
