CITY'S COTTON GINNINGS 7,697

Ginning Fully 80 Percent Complete Ginnings Estimate; County Crop Is Nearing 40,000

Reports from the five gins in Tahoka made early Thursday morning indicated that 7,697 bales of cotton had been ginned in Tahoka this season, counting round bales as half bales.

This is an increase of 2,457 bales over the report of two weeks ago, when 5,240 bales had been ginned. It is estimated that at least 80 percent of the crop is gathered. Many cotton pickers have already left the country and others are leaving every day.

It is also estimated that 36,000 to 38,000 bales have been ginned in the county, though it may run a little less or a little more than these figures. Tahoka gins around one-fifth of the county's cotton.

The crop this year is much earlier than last year. Up to this time last year only 3,916 bales had been ginned in Tahoka, and it was estimated that 12,000 to 14,000 bales had been ginned in the county. Last year, however, the total crop amounted to around 46,700. It is doubtful if the total reaches that figure this year.

The grade of the cotton that is now being brought to the gins is not as good as it was earlier in the season and the price is now ranging from 9 to 10 cents. The average, one gin man said, is below ten cents.

Rotary Club Will Meet Wednesday

Nearly a full membership was present at the luncheon of the Rotary Club at the American Legion hall at noon Thursday. This was the first meeting of the club following the presentation of the charter. One new member was received, Frank P. Hill, and the membership is now 29.

Miss Marjorie Wells was elected the club sweetheart and pianist, and the president, Mac Penn, was elected song leader or "tune-hister."

The club voted unanimously in favor of the town's closing up again on next Thursday, Thanksgiving day, and the committee having such matters in charge was instructed to solicit the proprietors of all business establishments to sign an agreement to close. The prospects are that the town will be closed as it was on Armistice day.

A brief talk on Rotary was made by Rev. George Dale and Rev. Ben Hardy, the new Methodist pastor, who was a guest, also made a few pertinent remarks.

President Mac Penn proved himself to be a great entertainer with the harmonica as well as a most proficient presiding officer.

The luncheon next week will be served on Wednesday, due to the fact that Thursday is Thanksgiving day.

TWO COUPLES MARRIED

Two couples were married in Lynn county last Saturday.

Tracy Jackson of Draw and Miss Laura Odum of O'Donnell were united in marriage here by W. S. Swan, justice of the peace.

Roy Poindexter and Miss Helen Strickland of Draw took the marriage vows administered by Rev. C. F. Carmack, pastor of the Draw Methodist church.

According to the announcement just made by the National Conference of Jews and Christians, six persons have resigned as honorary vice presidents of the Freethinkers Association. Their resignations, the conference declared, came as a protest against an appeal that Jews renounce their "antiquated creed." The appeal was made by Joseph Lewis, president of the Freethinkers.

Miss Lucille Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wright and a student in the Tech, who underwent an appendicitis operation in a Lubbock hospital recently, was released from the hospital and brought home last Sunday.

G. C. Shaffer, Frank Brown, Mrs. Loyce McMahan and her little son Laylan Boyce visited Mr. and Mrs. Buster King at Hobbs, New Mexico, last Sunday.

Teachers Meet Here Saturday

The teachers of Lynn county will have their annual meeting here Saturday, according to County Superintendent H. P. Caviness.

All teachers in schools having less than 500 scholars are required to attend and all others invited. While the teachers in the Tahoka schools are not required to attend this meeting, yet it is expected that they will do so.

The meeting will be held in the high school building here, beginning at 10 a. m.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Texas Tech. and Prof. G. D. Holbrook of the State Department of Education are expected to speak. Superintendent W. G. Barrett of the Tahoka schools and Superintendent S. G. Anthony of Wilson also have places on the program.

Warning Is Given On Hunting Ducks

With the opening of the duck hunting season only a few days away, hunters are warned of the stringent laws governing the hunting of this fowl. The season opens November 26, Thanksgiving day, and closes December 25.

Canvasbacks and Redheads are not to be shot under any condition. Any person hunting, or killing duck must possess a duck stamp, which may be procured from any postmaster for $1.00. The bag limit is ten per day. The hunter must not shoot with a rifle; nor can the hunter use a shotgun with more than three shells.

The duck crop is said to be larger this year than in three years, but game wardens will patrol this section to enforce the laws. During the past few years ducks have been killed off at such a rapid rate that fear is held of their extinction unless the public cooperates with the game wardens in enforcing the hunting laws.

Club Reporters Will Meet Here Saturday

All the reporters of the Home Demonstration and 4-H Clubs in the county are requested and expected to meet in the office of the home demonstration agent, Miss Lilith Boyd, at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. All new reporters especially are urged to be present.

One of the purposes of these meetings is to instruct the reporters how to write their reports so as to have news value and make them interesting. It is important that reporters attend.

O'Donnell Water Supply Increased

(By Mrs. Alma House)

Mr. John Earles states that three wells have been drilled on the C. H. Doak farm two miles west of O'Donnell to supplement the city water supply.

A pump has been installed over one of the wells. It has a capacity of forty gallons per minute. Pipe needed to bring the water into town was purchased by Mr. C. H. Doak, city councilman, at Lincoln, New Mexico, at a bargain price.

The laying of the water main is a Federal project. The government has furnished two thousand two hundred feet of pipe; eleven thousand feet being used to complete the job. Mr. Howard Samuels of Big Spring is in charge of construction.

Mrs. Broce Yarborough of O'Donnell, died in a sanitarium at La-mesa Friday, Nov. 13. Interment was in the O'Donnell cemetery on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Yarborough was a long-time resident of the plains. She leaves a husband and eight children.

Deputy Sheriff John Johnson has been removed from the sanitarium in Lubbock to his home in O'Donnell, where he is rapidly recuperating from his recent illness.

School's Homecoming Is Set For Wednesday

Having defeated Ralls in football 14 to 2 here this Wednesday, Tahoka high school is making plans for a big homecoming day game next Wednesday, when the Bulldogs will attempt to "bulldog" the Post Antelopes.

On this day, all exstudents of Tahoka high school are being invited back to the campus to meet and associate with one another again. It is hoped that a number of out-of-town exes will be here. All lettermen of past teams are being invited to attend the game, and these will be special guests of Coach Walker. Mr. Walker is mailing cards to all lettermen whose addresses he has, and if any ex-lettermen do not receive such a card by Tuesday they should get in touch with the Coach immediately.

A football queen and several duchesses have been elected by the local high school students, and several

City Will Assess Parking Fines

A number of our citizens have gotten tickets recently for parking their cars across the sidewalk and thus blocking traffic.

It is a violation of a city ordinance to park a car across a sidewalk and yet people persist in doing it right in the business section of town. Warnings by the city marshal have done little good, so he decided recently to invite all offenders to tell it to the court.

If you don't have a dollar to throw away better not block sidewalks with your car.

D. T. Rogers Suffers Stroke Of Paralysis

D. T. Rogers suffered a stroke of paralysis out at the farm of his father-in-law ten miles north of town last Thursday.

He was brought to his home east of town and has since been in an unconscious or semi-conscious condition. Grave doubts are entertained as to his recovery.

Cotton Report Of Nov. 1 Is Given

Texas ginned 2,303,351 bales of cotton this season prior to November 1, against 1,903,142 prior to November 1 last year, according to a report issued by the Bureau of the Census recently. This shows an increase of more than 400,000 bales, or nearly 20 percent over last year. This does not necessarily mean that the crop this year will be 20 percent larger than the crop last year, however, for possibly picking was further advanced on November 1 this year than it was last year.

South Plains counties are making a good relative showing for this stage of the harvesting. The crop is always from two to four weeks later here than it is in Central and East Texas.

On the Plains, Lubbock county is again leading. Lynn county comes second with Dawson a close third. Ginnings for counties in this section of the state are given below for both 1935 and 1936 up to November 1. Ginnings since the first of November has probably boosted these totals from 30 to 50 percent at the present date.

Ginning reports by counties were:

A. Hicks Home Burns To Ground

The Alvin Hick home, near the high school building was completely destroyed by fire at about one o'clock Monday night. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

No one was in the house when the fire started, Mr. Hicks said he had been in the house early in the evening but has no idea whatever as to how or in what part of the house the fire originated. Mr. and Mrs. Hicks have been living in another house, going to this place once or twice a day to look after their things there.

All of the furniture in the house as well as much of Mr. Hicks' clothing and that of Miss Ina Bess and other personal effects including her school graduation gifts were destroyed.

Higginbotham-Bartlett Company was the owner of the building, but the furniture was Mr. Hicks'. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Hunters Of Deer In Hill Country

A number of Lynn county citizens have been deer hunting the past few days and others are planning to go soon.

Aubrey Thomas and Luther Thomas and son, R. M., of Grassland, went down to Fredericksburg to try their luck. Aubrey and R. M. came back Wednesday, having brought down two deer, but Luther had not returned Thursday morning. It was not expected that he would return until he got his too.

Claude Thomas and LeeRoy Davis of Grassland left Thursday morning for Clouderot, New Mexico, where they expected to get their game.

Sheriff and Mrs. B. L. Parker left Tuesday for southwest Texas, where B. L. intended to demonstrate that he is just as adept at hunting deer as he is at hunting criminals.

Jess Gurley and Howard Wheeler went somewhere south the first of the week to try their luck, but we understand that they came back with a gloomy report.

Cemetery Dues Are Now Being Collected

The annual cemetery dues are now being collected, and it is hoped that every person or family who has one or more loved ones buried in our cemetery will cheerfully pay the dues when the collector calls.

These dues together with funds derived from the sale of lots are the only sources of revenue which the Association has, and all the expenses of keeping the cemetery clean and attractive must be paid out of these funds.

Mrs. J. R. Singleton is doing the collecting.

INA BESS HICKS HONORED

Belton, Nov. 19.—Miss Ina Bess Hicks of Tahoka has been elected sergeant-at-arms of Alpha Literary Society at Mary Hardin-Baylor at a recent meeting. The society is one of three freshman societies at the college.

SHERROD IS NO BETTER

F. M. Sherrod, 80, who has been seriously sick several weeks, is showing no improvement, we are sorry to report. Mr. Sherrod came to the plains many years ago as a buffalo hunter and he has known practically all of the old-timers in this section of the state. Many friends hope that he may yet be restored to health.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Howell have moved to Seminole to spend the winter with their son, Babe, whose wife died a few weeks ago leaving the husband and four children.

At the New Jersey Baptist Convention in Atlantic City the past fortnight, the Rev. M. M. Lewis charged that the problem of suppressing gambling had been made increasingly difficult by church members who play the numbers game and buy sweepstakes tickets. "There are members of our churches," he said, "who condone this wholesale gambling without realizing that their attitude... weakens law enforcement."

STARTING WORK ON HIGHWAY 9

Contractor Is Moving On Ground; 5-Mile Topping Job On No. 84 Nearing Completion

After many long delays, work will finally start on the unpaved stretch of state highway No. 9 between Tahoka and Lubbock Monday morning. Morgan Construction Co., Brady, holds the contract for the job, and they have been moving men and equipment into town for several days preparatory to starting work.

Work of placing the topping on five miles of highway No. 84 from Tahoka west is expected to be completed this week, possibly today. Resident Highway Engineer F. C. Stanley states. Work of building the grade and drainage structures is also going forward, the grade having been completed over a stretch of eight miles, with about eight miles yet to go to the west county line. When the laying of additional caliche will be begun on this job is not known.

According to Mr. Stanley, the highway No. 9 contract calls for the completion of 7,954 miles of road at a price of $51,110.90. Of this mileage, a second course of caliche must be placed on 5.3 miles before the asphalt is poured. Caliche will be hauled from the pit on the West farm. The topping will be a modified triple asphalt surface treatment. Eighty working days are allowed the contractor for completion.

This section of highway No. 9 was started as a relief project and progress was very slow. Finally a contract was let for topping a stretch through Tahoka and to a point about three miles north of town. On the north end the highway department topped another stretch. The relief work was finally stopped several months ago, and no work has been done on the remaining eight miles of unpaved road since that time.

Harp Singers Are Coming Sunday

The South Plains Sacred Harp singing convention will meet in the high school auditorium here next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock for an all-day singing, according to Prof. H. M. McEachern of Grassland, president.

A basket dinner will be spread at the noon hour and everybody is requested to bring a well-filled basket.

Everybody is also invited to come and spend the day, and especially the aged people, says Mr. McEachern, and enjoy the enchanting music made by the Sacred Harp singers.

NEW TRACTOR DEALER

With three tractor dealers here already, Messrs. Applewhite, Gaigant, and Snowden, still another is to open a business here the last of this week, we are informed. Mr. Lagrone of O'Donnell has leased the Wells building at the southwest corner of the square for a tractor office and headquarters.

Mrs. Barney Greathouse of Midland came in last Thursday night for a few days visit in the home of her parents, Judge and Mrs. B. P. Maddox. As a Rotary-Ann, she was one of the group from Midland attending the Rotary Club banquet here.

Dr. L. H. Adams of the Carnegie Institution's geophysical laboratories has just announced the belief that the core of the earth is as hot today as it was when the planet first took shape 1,500,000,000 to 3,000,000,000 years ago. He estimated that the core, made up of dense, semi-plastic iron, had a temperature of about 5,432 degrees Fahrenheit. (Water boils at 212 degrees).

"The bite of the Black Widow spider is normally no more severe than that of a mosquito." Thus another popular belief was upset recently as Harry B. Weiss, Department of Agriculture expert, reported that the red-dotted insect was relatively harmless. He said he frequently ran them over his hands.

"No, she looks pretty sick, Jesse." "Yes, she's kind of worn out. I reckon you're not getting this morning." "I reckon not." "Sorry?" "Some, maybe, and because Mother is sick." "Somebody could go over to Lucy's or Jen's and get one of them to come in." "No, Jesse. They've got their own children and work to attend to, and well, I wouldn't want them to anyway," Cynthia said. "When do you aim to go?"

"In about two weeks now, I calculate to get my share of the stuff in." "Have you read your book?" "I finished it up and read some of it over."

She felt suddenly unhappy inside and depression squeezed at her spirit. There were so many things she had wanted to talk about so she could carry them into the day bright with the sunshine and Jesse's understanding. And there was Reuben far away in some distant county, and the uncertainty of Julia's sudden illness, and confusion everywhere to be attacked, ordered and subdued. But she could not get it out between them at the kiln, whether because Jesse was farther away after these months, or because she hadn't touched the right notes to bring them together she didn't quite know.

"I thought I'd get some of the beans from the upper hollow," Jesse said. "Is Abrai getting up today?" "He better not yet, Daddy says."

He picked up the long, narrow bean sacks. "If I don't go, I won't get a thing done," he said, and started away. Then he halted, looked around at her again, and returned a step or two.

"Was there something you . . . ?" he asked carefully.

"No, there wasn't anything, Jesse." "I'm sorry you can't go today, Cynthia. Maybe it won't be long. Don't you get sick."

It was unexpected and clothed in a depth of genuine feeling which warmed the coldness she had felt creeping over her. She might even yet say the things in her heart. But he was going on now. She watched him away and then went back into the yard. "There's a sight of things to do without thinking about yourself, Cynthia. Pattern, and making out to yourself that you're wanting somebody to sympathize with you."

It was in the second week of September that Julia Sparrel died. She lay in the room which Sparrel had built for her when he brought her as a bride to Wolfpen. She lay on the sheets which she had made with her own hands by the fireplace as the children grew through the winters, on the bed where three generations of Pattern women had lain before her.

Sparrel was broken. He sat by Julia's side on the chair he had made for her when they were young. He spoke no word and no tear fell.

that the service was held under and around the tan-bark shed where there was room for every one. She looked very beautiful in the brown cloth dress she had woven with her own hands. They carried her slowly through the yard and up the path to Cranestep Shelf, the people following. They laid her beside Grandmother Adah, Tivis's wife, just as the great shadow of the Pinnacle reached the stone by Saul's grave. They left her there in the silence and the peace. The people went away. The dark came again, the autumn dew dripped like rain in the orchard leaves, the fog settled in and shifted eerily about, erasing the stars.

Cynthia, in collapse on her bed: "I ought to feel. But I can't any more. I am not me. The weight pushes the me down. I don't know how to think about it, and it hurts to feel."

The plans Cynthia and Julia had made for the Institute now seemed as remote as though they belonged with other people. She could construct no vision of herself riding over the hills into town with the things she and Julia had packed in the telescope strapped to a mule. This was her place, where Julia had always been, directing the house for Sparrel.

Gradually the deadness grew customary as the days lengthened into a new routine. The work of the fall harvest filled up and spilled over the days into both ends of the night. Cynthia did all the woman's part with some aid from the boys. She and Jesse gathered the late beans from the garden. She pickled them in the brown earthen jars in the cellar, giving painstaking care to preserve the flavor which Julia developed in them. The sweet potatoes were carefully dug, put into open slatted crates and stacked in the cellar where they gave off a good earthy smell. The Irish potatoes were buried in the hole by the smoke-house. Sparrel and the boys made the sorghum—thick and brown and full flavored. The stone jars were filled with apple and pumpkin butter and tomato preserves, the great goose-necked and green-striped squash and burnished copper-colored pumpkins were buried in the haymow. Jesse brought in the dark honey from the hives and filled the jars on the fruit shelf. Between times Cynthia labored to finish the shirts which Julia had already cut for the stitching. It was as if each one had put forth exceptional effort to make this autumn like the others but more intense. For the fall days on Wolfpen had always been good days.

Cynthia tried to cook meals like her mother for her menfolk, and to order all things with as little change as possible. She looked after Shellenberger and spread his two sheets as a matter of course and custom. She even had a better liking for him because of the way he spoke and left unspoken his shock and his sorrow at the death of Julia.

"She was a fine woman, I am very sorry."

And so September gave way to October, and the poignant grief was, by repetition, a little older. There was even a melancholy beauty in the days. Cynthia watched the squirrels spring over the moss-stinted rocks and up the tree-trunks, their tails waving quickly and with an ultimate grace in rhythm as though they might be either propelling the nervous bodies forward and upward or merely making a trim and flowing gesture of wild joy in perfectly timed physical movement. The hills turned riotously from the long summer green into all the flamboyance of autumn, arranging in exotic patterns around the hillside the flame-and-gold-en-hued maple leaves, the soft yellow of the poplars, the dull rich scarlet of the white oaks, the deep brown of the black oaks, with a few vivid green trees screaming among the dark green pines. Nothing was left untouched.

Cynthia found herself in moments of complete abandon to the display around her, her heart gone out of her into the prodigal splashing of color. Then she would have that sudden vague awareness of tears in the heart from which she had escaped for an instant and to which she must return. They came with the first sight of the dark clouds gathering over the Pinnacle, presaging the coming of the cold rains and the violation and the annihilation of all—the glowing beauty which supported the hours.

When the first sprinkles shattered the flaming maple near the smoke-house, she cried, "Oh, rain, leave the leaves alone! Give them one more day!" But the rain did not hear the cry of one lonely girl deep in the Big Sandy hills. All night long she could hear the battering attack of each heavy bullet of rain tearing through the magic world of yesterday, and she knew that on the morrow the sun would disclose their wet and melancholy nakedness. The summer was over.

Cynthia was not sorry. But the work was nearly done now, and she knew that he was restless to go, and was waiting only for the drovers to come. The news that they were riding up the creek was less exciting than formerly. In past years the drovers, with their talk of politics and the growth of Mount Sterling and Maysville, had been an important link with the outside world. But this year Gannon Creek had already seen a steam-engine, a sawmill, and a lumbering enterprise; and Reuben Warren and Shellenberger had been there.

The drovers came up the creek from house to house performing the ceremony prescribed by custom. They were dressed in their tight trousers, tall boots, broad hats, and with red handkerchiefs around their necks. They went to the barnyard at each place and leaned over the rails, sizing up the cattle. They walked in among them to slap the rumps of the steers and feel their hide. They told a story or two, sending their big laughs infectious over the group of men gathered around, and giving a holiday spirit to the bargaining. Then they made their final offer, the sale was closed, and the drovers and the neighbor men moved on behind the growing herd to the next house. Where they were at meal-time, there they all ate, taking turns at the table under the hospitable urchins of the womenfolk. And when evening came, the neighbors returned home and the drovers spent the night wherever they happened to be.

At Wolfpen, where they always managed to stay the night, Sparrel gave them the use of a fenced meadow for their cattle and stalls and feed for their saddle mules. But when they talked about buying his steers, Sparrel said:

"I guess I won't be selling any this time." "Why not, Sparrel?" "I told Shellenberger I'd let him have all we could spare for his men this winter."

Then Jesse said, "I want to sell mine to you fellows." Sparrel looked at his son in silent surprise, but offered no interference.

"We'll be glad to look at it, Jesse," they said. Cynthia watched them go to the barn-plot where Jesse had driven in his fat steer. She could see them out there looking and feeling and bargaining. Then, after a proper time, they drove it out of the pen and down to the meadow with their herd.

Jesse came back to the house where Cynthia was. She knew from his look that he was content, and that it was the pleasure of a man in the quality of his product and in seeing others appreciate it, as well as satisfaction with the price it brought.

spring rafts; he was going to float one. Sparrel said little, staring into the fire and looking at his sons. And Jesse twisted his mouth, glanced at his father, at the fire, at Cynthia, at Jasper, put his hands into his pockets and took them out.

"I guess the fall work's about done up now," Jesse said. "We've done right well with it," Sparrel said.

"I reckon I'll go over to town now and read the law with Tandy Morgan." It came with nothing but a higher pitch and a brittle utterance to betray the nervous constraint behind it.

Sparrel said easily and very gently "I allowed you had a mind to it. You'll need some money for that." He took from his pocket the long leather sack which he carried, and held it out to Jesse. "If you're going to be a lawyer, be a good one, son, and be clean about it. The law can dirty a man."

"It didn't dirty Blackstone or Lincoln any, I mean to be that kind. And I don't need the money," Jesse said, handing the purse back to Sparrel. "I got enough for the winter."

Cynthia knew the fervor of his voice and was moved.

Sparrel had got up from his chair, and stood looking down at Jesse. With unaccustomed demonstration he laid his hand on Jesse's shoulder and pushed away the leather sack. "Keep it, son. That's what I get it for. I'll just ride over with you tomorrow and see you settled, by your leave."

In the morning they rode down Wolfpen, Sparrel choosing the Finemare for the journey, and Jesse on his own mule with the small grip of clothes and the yellow Blackstone firmly strapped to the saddle.

Instead of waiting at the gate until they had passed from sight, Cynthia went to the upstairs window from which she could see over the barn and orchard to the path through the Long Bottom, and as the Finemare and the mule passed swiftly through the meadow and out of sight, she put her hands on the window-sill and bowed her head upon them and wept silently in her loneliness.

"Mother died in the month of September, last month, and it might have been all the time there ever was. But the dried stalks of her holyhooks and sunflowers still stand in the garden. And now Jesse away for the winter to study the law. And Reuben has not come back. The end of July it was, another lifetime. It may be September, and it may be spring. . . . But it is late October, Mother is dead, Jesse is gone away, Reuben has not come back. It is not Wolfpen any more, for Wolfpen is a good place and this is a place of sorrow and loneliness. In the space of one summer, if Reuben would come, you do not come, and your two letters. . . . She went to the bureau drawer in her room and took them again, knowing full well each word in the thin precise writing with the perfection of print.

. . . and my father has accepted the office of surveyor for the Eastern Iron Works and I am to do most of the field work. The company has bought several thousand acres of land around here because of the ore pockets and the charcoal timber I am beginning the surveys this week and will be in the field most of the autumn but it will not stand in the way of my coming to Wolfpen as soon as I can. . . .

The other one she knew so well that she merely held it in her hands while she saw the carefully built sentences march through her mind.

. . . I have been in the hills west of the river for two weeks and just came in this Saturday and my mother gave me your letter. I am sorry and I had to read several times before I could take in what it was saying. I liked her so very much. She was so quiet and so kind and it seemed to me while I was in her house that her life was self-contained and in order like her fine garden and her quilts. I can hardly think of Wolfpen nor of you or your father without your mother. It must be very hard for you. None of my family has ever died, but I remember how I liked your way of thinking of your people in the graveyard on the Shelf. I hope that in your grief now you can think of your mother in the same way. I wish I had known so I could have come. I don't know just which that will be now, but it will be. . . . She thought it was a good letter. It was like something written in a book, but it was Reuben. The person who wrote was always different from the person who spoke to you, and you must grow used to the difference until you can see the same person in both. The morning was gone, and she realized with surprise that her reluctance to see Jesse go away for the winter and her jeers for her mother were not separable from her secret thoughts of Reuben and that in the end they had been curiously submerged and forgotten in him.

He wondered what had brought him to the house on this afternoon.

"How's your mother today, Doug?" "About as well as common. How are all your folks?" "All well, Jesse went over to town today. He's going to read the law with Tandy Morgan this winter."

"He has a good turn for following something like that. I guess he ought to make about as good a one as Tandy. I didn't take to books much. Seems like I wasn't cut out for lawyering or doctoring or surveying but just to be a Gannon Creek farmer, and not so good at that, 'pears like."

"Now, don't you go to making little of yourself," Cynthia said. "A feller loses all heart, Cynthia. I've worked harder and done about as poorly this year as ever since I been trying to run the place."

"Didn't they buy your 'seng, Doug?" "I didn't have any, only about four pounds."

"Why, Doug?" "The mice chewed it up, Cynthia. They harked part near every single foot I had. It just about made me sick when I dug in and there they were eaten up."

"I'm awful sorry, Doug. How's your other stuff?" "I got a right good crop of corn and beans."

"Ours did right well, too." There were pauses now between the bits of talk.

"I got the porch fixed up now, and it looks right nice."

"It will be a help to the place," Cynthia said.

"I'm going to work, cut timber with Shellenberger this winter. They're getting a sight of cutting done down there."

"I haven't been down there. I don't want to see it."

There was a silence, the small talk ended. The mention of the lumber camp had driven Cynthia's thought toward so that she forgot Doug for a time until she was pulled into it again by the sudden explosive shock of his words:

"Let's us get married, Cynthia. What do you say?" She looked full at him for a minute, feeling sorry for him. She knew that she had never loved him, and that she could not marry and live with him. It was difficult to say it in words which would tell him without wounding him.

"I like you, Doug. I've always liked you since we were little. And we all like you. But I couldn't, you see, Doug. It's just that I don't love you that way." She was afraid, even while she was speaking, that he wasn't understanding. He had never touched her in his shy, indirect love-making, but now his emotions were too wrought on by her nearness and the sense of her withdrawing from him. He sprang upon the porch and swept her violently into his arms. His movements were so sudden and so unexpected that she was bewildered for a moment, and he held her so firmly that she could not move. He did not try to kiss her. He merely put his cheek against her head and brushed his lips against her hair. It lasted for only an instant, and she sprang away, freeing herself.

"Doug! You stop! What's come over you?" "I want you for myself. You're aiming to marry that feller, ain't you? I know. He's a surveyor and has downriver manners, and I'm just a Gannon Creek farmer. Well, he won't get you. You hear me? He won't get you." His outbreak was as much of a surprise to himself as to Cynthia.

"Don't you touch me again, Doug!" she cried.

Ingenious Nawab
About 30 years ago in Rajkot, India, the Nawab of Junagadh held a reception during which, for the first time, he never moved from his throne.

Secretary Roper Plans National Census of Unemployed—Armistice Day Duly Observed—Opening of the Huge San Francisco-Oakland Bridge.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

NOW that the election is over, Secretary of Commerce Roper is laying plans for the complete census of the unemployed in the United States which has so long been called for.

also placed a wreath at the tomb, and all stood bare headed as 'taps' was sounded precisely at 11 o'clock

Everywhere in the United States and in all the allied countries the anniversary was suitably observed, and in Poland the day was one of especial rejoicing for it is regarded as the birthday of that re-born nation.

An ironical note came from Geneva where the League of Nations announced that 8,200,000 men are now permanently under arms throughout the world.

The league calculations show that men under arms throughout the world just before the outbreak of the World War numbered 5,900,000, not counting naval units.

San Francisco's dream of 30 years was realized when the great bridge across the bay of Oakland was formally opened with elaborate ceremony.

The secretary intimated that the census machinery might be made permanent so that a close check be kept on persons out of work, as is done in England.

It is divided roughly into two parts, mechanically speaking. The west side, from San Francisco to Yerba Buena, is of the suspension type.

As the climax of a four-day celebration, President Roosevelt pushed a button in his White House office lighting two green lamps on the bridge and officially throwing it open for traffic.

Col. Josef Beck, foreign minister of Poland, concluded his visit to London and departed with assurances of Great Britain's friendliness and desire to co-operate with Poland in its contest against Nazi intrigues.

In a joint report by the federal bureaus of agricultural and home economics the prediction is made that farm cash income available for spending in 1937 will continue the upward trend shown in 1936.

Record production of truck crops also was forecast. All sections of the country will share and all important truck crops will be included except celery, onions and spinach.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in an interview intimates that for a year there may be no new legislation for crop control along the lines of the outlawed AAA.

When Admiral William H. Standley retires on January 1 from the post of chief of naval operations, it will be filled by Admiral William D. Leahy, now commander of the navy battle force.

It was also announced that Maj. Gen. John H. Russell, commandant of the marine corps, would be succeeded in that post when he retires from active service December 1 by Brig. Gen. Thomas Holcombe.

King Victor of Italy had a birthday, and President Roosevelt, in his cabled message of congratulations, was careful to follow the American policy of not recognizing territory acquired by force.

Cornell University at Ithaca, N. Y., is to have a new president in the person of Dr. Edmund E. Day, an internationally known social scientist and economist.

According to Science Service, if whisky is subjected for seven hours to "intense sound vibrations," which means "a loud noise," the seven noisy hours will age the whisky as much as "four years in the wood."

New Italian Baby By Permission of Unions Some Things We Do Well Throwing Out Kings

Italy expects a new heir to the throne in January. If it is a boy, and lives, and nothing happens to prevent, it will succeed in time its grandfather, the present King.

Mr. Hull, Secretary of State, sailed for South America six hours late, to help bring peace to the world, or at least help set a good example on these two continents.

There must be, for public necessities, including shipping that carries passengers and mails, some better plan than the strike plan, and one that would be just to workers.

This country makes some things better than any other country—automobiles, and moving pictures, for instance—and Englishmen know it.

Nicholas Schenk, head of Loew's and its biggest stockholder, missed an opportunity, and knows it.

It is said the royal tombs reserved for Spanish kings have been violated, some or all of the bodies thrown out. It would be a pity to offer insult to what remains of the truly great King, afraid of mice and spiders.

London, with the biggest floating fleet on earth, is striving to "humanize submarine warfare."

That is like trying to humanize rat poison. Look at Spain and you see what will happen in the next war; everybody will kill as many as he can, as brutally as possible; you remember the Lusitania?

The biggest crowd seen in Washington greeted the President on his triumphant return to Washington, the White House and his job.

Voltaire's learned Dr. Pangloss was wrong; it is not true that "all is for the best in the best possible of worlds."

In spite of all our wealth and prosperity, more mothers die in childbirth, in this country, than in any other "civilized" country in the world.

You know that better conditions are needed in America when you see photographs of the wretched two-room log cabin in the swamp bottomlands where Mrs. James Bridges gave birth to quadruplets.

In the window he saw his suit adorning an elephantine and improvised dummy, and under it the legend, "We made this suit for Mr. Chesterton for 45s. No order too big for us."

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Any erroneous reflection upon the reputation or standing of any individual firm or corporation, that may appear in the columns of The News, will be gladly corrected when called to our attention.

Italy's internal affairs are not supposed to be any concern of ours.
How it governs itself or permits itself to be governed is none of our business except as it may serve as a horrible example to us or as a model to be followed. To those of us who love freedom, it is now demonstrating the length to which a dictatorship can go in the exercise of tyrannical power. Mussolini is now planning, according to a press dispatch from Rome, to abolish all the courts. In their place he will set up Fascist State committees. These he will dominate absolutely. Lawyers will not be permitted to accept fees from clients nor to argue cases before these committees. They will be paid by the state, if at all, and will be allowed to present only the bare "facts" in any given case. The jury system as we have it in England and America will be unknown.
Mussolini is the State. The legislative power, the executive power, and the judicial power are concentrated in him. In this country we have the three as three distinct branches of government, and it will be a sad day, for us if and when we permit any two of them to be concentrated in any one person or group. The more we know about dictatorships the more we love America.

A few editors in this section of the country are still raving because Texas is not paying every person over sixty-five years of age a monthly pension of $30.00 per month. They are raving because the legislature at its most recent called session deliberated the pension law.

which will result in many being cut off the pension list who have heretofore been approved for pensions. Of all men, we think editors should use common sense.
To pay 200,000 aged people in Texas $30 a month would require $6,000,000 monthly, or $72,000,000 annually. Where would we get the money? They say the federal government would furnish half of it.
No, it wouldn't. It wouldn't furnish one cent of it. It gave Texas to understand a few weeks ago that unless we deliberated our state pension law so as to cut down the number of pensioners it would cut Texas off the federal pension list. Where would Texas get the additional 72 million dollars every year?
We should settle that question before we make plans to give it away. Yes, newspaper editors as a rule are very sensible and conservative, but there are a few who, well, we've said enough.

Supreme Court Justice Louis D.
Brandeis observed his 80th birthday a few days ago. In the interpretation of the Constitution, he is one of the most liberal or "progressive" members of the court. In almost every instance where there has been a division of the court as to the constitutionality of an act of Congress, he has stood for its constitutionality. This would indicate that a man's age has little to do with his attitude in his interpretation of our laws.

And now Lubbock has the big city-itis!
The great "Hub of the Plains" has installed parking meters, and if you wish the privilege of trading there you must pay a nickel an hour to park your car on the main thoroughfares. Trade in Tahoka, folks, where your business is appreciated, where you do not have to pay for a place to stop that old Model-T.

One of the things Tahoka needs more than almost anything else is more civic pride. Our alleys and vacant lots should be cleaned up. Our public grounds should be beautified. Time was when our court house lawn was one of the most attractive in this whole plains country. Nuff said!

Another thing that we sorely need is a spirit of cooperation. Petty jealousies never built a town nor made it a fitter place in which to live. Tahoka citizens should all pull together for the good of the town.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES
Services last Lord's Day were good. The attendance at the morning hour was larger than usual.

We intend to start our old-fashioned mid-week Bible study soon. We want to begin with the book of Joshua, so read the book and get started with the first lesson.

Our lecture at the Slaton Lecture-ship was received kindly and we were treated fine.

One thing I would like to see started is singing Sunday afternoon in the various congregations of the county.

Some things to think on: Hard work and hard luck are not on very good terms. The door of Opportunity opens to those who have enough pep to push. The best kind of sympathy is that which lends a hand. The religion which makes a man look sick cannot be expected to cure the world. The only substitute for brains is silence. Right is a bigger word than either success or failure. The father of success is work and the mother, ambition. How did you live yesterday and what are your plans for tomorrow? May we see you at the services Sunday.—R. P. Drennon.

Just prior to the re-election of President Roosevelt recently, Bishop Michael J. Gallagher of Detroit announced that priests in his diocese would not be allowed to take active part in politics in the future. The bishop made it clear, however, that he did not intend to call a halt to the work of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin.

Dr. Foster Kennedy, professor of clinical neurology at Cornell University Medical College, has just declared that noise is a major hazard in modern existence, contributing to chronic ill health and premature old age.

RED CROSS AID TO MORE THAN 500,000 DISASTER VICTIMS

Large Urban Areas Devastated As Elements Hit 20 States East of Mississippi

"The number of disaster victims assisted by the Red Cross during the fiscal year ended June 30, was more than four times the number aided in the previous twelve-month period," Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman, said in commenting on highlights of the annual report just issued.

Pointing to the many-sided problems created by the wide variety of types of disasters which occurred during the year, Admiral Grayson said, "The Red Cross sent hundreds of trained workers into 23 states to meet the many exigencies of catastrophes which included earthquake, epidemic, explosion, fire, hurricane, ice lock, landslide, refugee relief, shipwreck, tornado and typhoon. The Red Cross took charge at the scenes of 105 domestic disasters of major severity."

The report emphasized the marked value of Government-Red Cross cooperation when disaster strikes, giving as example the flight of Army bombing planes which dropped Red Cross food to marooned refugees at Renovo, Pennsylvania, during the Spring floods. More than 10,000 persons were rescued from the second floors of homes in Wilkes-Barre and Kingston through Coast Guard-Red Cross cooperation at the height of these same floods.

"Government agencies and relief groups were of invaluable assistance to Red Cross relief forces at all times," Admiral Grayson stated.

RED CROSS HIGHWAY POSTS AID INJURED

1,000 Function At Key Points To Give Emergency Care To Traffic Hurt

Highway first aid stations, set up by the Red Cross to give emergency care to victims of traffic accidents, are saving lives, according to James L. Fleser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations.

"More than 1,000 of our emergency posts are already operating in 47 states and thousands of others will soon be established at key points along America's highways," Mr. Fleser stated.

The Red Cross highway posts are concentrated at danger spots in rural areas where medical aid is not readily available. The importance of this coverage of the open road, the Red Cross holds, is given sharper emphasis by the fact that there has been a 150 per cent increase in rural traffic fatalities during the past twelve years.

The project was initiated last year on a national scale as a practical approach to the highway accident problem. The Red Cross felt that it could best apply its strength by succoring those who continue to be injured pending a reduction in the highway accident rate through legislation and safety education.

"Our program brings first aid skill to the scene of accident in an effort to reduce the number of persons killed and maimed in automobile mishaps," Mr. Fleser said. "Our highway first aiders are not medical men in any sense, but it is their job to turn the injured over to the medical profession in the best shape possible."

The Red Cross highway posts are established at gasoline service stations, tourist homes, rural police and fire departments. The personnel of the posts are trained by the Red Cross in first aid, standard first aid equipment is installed at each station, and identifying signs for the benefit of motorists are erected beside the highway at both approaches to the station.

The attendants of these roadside units who qualify as first aiders volunteer their services through the Red Cross and may under no circumstances accept pay for caring for the injured.

To complement the highway first aid stations, the Red Cross has announced formation of mobile units. Several thousand trucks which regularly ply the highway in the course of routine work will be equipped with first aid kits. Drivers and crews will take courses in both standard and advanced first aid, and each truck will be identified as a Red Cross mobile unit. More than a hundred trucks are already operating.

The highway police of eight states who have finished first aid training will join this army mobilized to cut accident fatalities and prevent complication of minor injuries through mishandling at the scene of accident," Mr. Fleser said.

"We receive reports from our first aid stations daily, telling of essential care given to traffic casualties on the spot and of lives actually saved."

This and many other Red Cross programs of equal value are supported by the people of America during the annual Roll Call for members. This year the Roll Call will be held from November 11 to 24.

The Office-Holder Is Your Employe

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

No business enterprise of any importance can depend for success on the knowledge and ability of its top executives alone.

It must rely also on the quality and training of the men in the ranks—whether they labor in office or shop or field.

Within recent weeks there has become evident a growing conviction that this is also true of government.

Both at Washington and elsewhere plans are being discussed for better training of the non-coms and privates who hold or look forward to jobs in the public service. A federal agency has recently recommended such training as a step towards economy and efficiency. Its proposals are supported by private research groups which have studied the problem independently; by colleges of high standing which offer courses leading to careers in the public service, and by various state and municipal governments which encourage special training for their own employes.

But the one who should be most deeply concerned is the average worker and taxpayer. Why?

Because he, in the last analysis, is the real employer. He—with millions of his fellow citizens—constitutes the government, whether federal, state or local. He doesn't merely share in its benefits; he meets all its bills—including the payroll. The higher the quality of the public service for which he pays, the more he gets for his money.

And the service is likely to be higher in quality if his employes are chosen and retained on the basis of what they know rather than that of whom they know. Not only that, but the field is likely to be less overcrowded—therefore, less costly to the taxpayer who foots the bill.

If the American citizen would get his money's worth he must insist on ability not only in the top offices of government, but in the lesser jobs as well. This, too, becomes part of his responsibility as a shareholder in the most important business on earth.

The office-holder is his employe.

Queen Lawler To Reign Homecoming

Miss Doris LaVerne Lawler was elected Football Queen of Tahoka High School at balloting which closed a contest Thursday at noon. She will be crowned at the football game between Tahoka and Post here next Wednesday afternoon.

Duchesses will be Misses Lottie J. Townes, Mary Ellen Conway, Melba Evans, and Jerry Jean Simmons.

Several other near-by towns are expected to send duchesses to the coronation fete.

The contest was sponsored by the football boys, and approximately 10,000 votes were cast at a penny a vote.

THE COURT SUPREME

Inevitably, the question of the United States Supreme Court, its jurisdiction and authority to strike down statutes embodying national policies expressing the national will shall have been revived by the thundering indorsement of Roosevelt and his program. It is unimportant to what extent recent decisions helped that unprecedented victory along. We think the answer to the question, "What to do about the Supreme Court?" is supremely simple. It is: Nothing.—Waco News-Tribune.

The Supreme Court does not strike down statutes or erect them. It passes upon the constitutionality of laws brought to its attention. Representatives of the political authority appear before the court and defend any statute brought to the court for examination in the light of the Constitution. Representatives of those opposed to the statute appear and argue against the statute. The court examines the questioned act, then combs the Constitution for reasons why the act is lawful. The court presumes the statute was properly framed and soundly based upon the fundamental law. But if the court finds that presumption faulty, that the law is not within the scope of permissive legislation, that its provisions are inhibited by constitutional clauses, it pronounces the disputed legislation null, void and of no effect. If that is striking down a law, the Waco contemporary's words were well chosen. But the verb "strike" connotes a violent action.

The Supreme Court is never violent. It discountenances violence. When classes the offending statute as error. Being error, it cannot be ennullifying a law, the court simply forced against those who oppose it. The authority of the Supreme Court is as old as that of the Congress and the President. It has to do with law, while Congress has to do with policy and action.

A. W. White of Los Angeles, California, who has been here looking after his farming interests the past several weeks, left Tuesday for Crosby county to visit friends and wind up some business matters. He stated that he would probably return to Tahoka before returning to Los Angeles about ten days hence.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Seth and Misses Doris Connolly and Marie St. Clair visited the Centennial at Dallas last week.

County Exceeds Demo Fund Quota

As previously promised in The News, we are giving a complete list of Lynn county donors to the Democratic campaign fund. An incomplete list was published in late October, but at the request of Tom Garrard, district chairman, we are publishing this list.

Lynn county went over her quota of $604.00 by sending in $610.35. Judge Garrard sent in $590.35, and the difference was that which was sent by various individuals to the state or national committees.

Keep a Good Laxative always in your home

Among the necessities of home is a good, reliable laxative. Don't be without one! Do your best to prevent constipation. Don't neglect it when you feel any of its disagreeable symptoms coming on. "We have used Theford's Black-Draught for 21 years and have found it a very useful medicine that every family ought to have in their home," writes Mrs. Perry Hicks of Belton, Texas. "I take Black-Draught for biliousness, constipation and other ills where a good laxative or purgative is needed. I have always found Black-Draught gives good results." Sold in 26-oz. packages.

Boy Scout Circus Plans Completed

All scouts, cubs and their leaders from all parts of the South Plains Council are busy making final preparations for the big Boy Scout Circus to be held Nov. 27 and 28 at Texas Technological College in Lubbock. Approximately 1600 boys and their leaders have been preparing for weeks on their various stunts to be given in the circus.

Seventeen big events are on the schedule of the program which promises to be by far the biggest thing that has ever been held for youth in West-Texas.

Some of the outstanding events that are being developed are: A big Indian Dog Dance ceremony put on by Troop No. 22 of Lamesa under the direction of Joe Spikes, scoutmaster; a first aid act with troops from scattered sections of the council participating; scouts on the Flying Trapeze promises to be an outstanding event, with Mr. Kendall Young and his three sons, all of Troop 24 of Levelland, which is perhaps the first act of its kind ever put on by scouts in a Boy Scout Circus; a big communications act put on by the troops at Littlefield.

Muleshoe, Morton, Bula, Levelland, Circle Back, Anton, and Olton, with Mr. H. B. Teal of Sudan in charge; a bicycle act with scouts from Troops 25 and 26 of Littlefield demonstrating feats, figures, and special stunt riding under their director, Mr. A. B. Sanders; Mr. Charles Brock, scoutmaster of Troop 32 of Crosbyton, will direct contests and games which scouts like to plan with troops in the towns of Crosbyton, Floydada, Ralls, Lorenzo, Spur, Slaton, Post, Matador, and Lockney participating; a brief closing ceremony will be put on by Troop 23 of Lamesa under their leader, Mr. Leslie Pratt.

One of the high lights of the circus will be the impressive opening pageant to be put on by troop No. 28 of Slaton directed by Rev. C. G. Sewell, their scoutmaster. The climactic event will be comprised of the camping and pioneering stunts which will pack the floor of the gym with such things as bicycle camp, gowbeys camp, pup tent camp, lean-tos, rustic bridges, 15 foot signal towers, 40 foot rope bridge, beehive shelters, Indian tepees, campfire circle, etc. These events will be under the direction of Mr. Gene Stobaugh, scoutmaster at Lorenzo, and Mr. George Hamilton of Lubbock. A special cubbing event for the younger boys ages 9, 10 and 11 will also be staged. They will dress as Indians and make Indian tepees. The show will be run off on a time schedule for all events so that there will be no period that will not be filled with action from start to finish. There will be an announcer, lighting men, properties men, entrance and exit guards, information men, ringmasters, etc., to see that the show clicks along in true circus fashion. Special decorations will add to the circus atmosphere.

Special arrangements have been made for free housing for all out of town scouts, cubs, and leaders for Friday night, November 27, and their breakfast Saturday morning, November 28, in the Lubbock homes. During Saturday a special entertainment will be provided for all out of town scouts and leaders.

General admission tickets are now on sale by our local scouts and cubs for 25c each. If bought at the gate they will sell for 35c. Local scouts receive a commission on all tickets they sell. Early reports indicate a capacity crowd and all persons who possibly can are urged to get their tickets in advance from your local scouts.

Reserved seat tickets can be secured for 25c and one general admission ticket or 50c cash.

HOMECOMING!

Never in the history of Tahoka High School has a Homecoming been staged. The spirit of loyalty to one's school is a spirit that even the oldest of the alumni can never quite forget. The happiest days that come in later years are those in which one can meet old friends and associates and recall past experiences. The expression of love and loyalty to one's school is beautiful and inspiring whether it is shown by the present or the former students.

It is fitting that we have a special celebration of this important event, the first of its kind in the history of our school. Plans are being formulated for such an entertainment. These plans include a scheduled football game with the football team of Post. The program will also include the coronation of a football queen. The four candidates who have been selected are being designated as "Duchesses". The girls who have been chosen are: Lottie Jo Townes, Senior class; Mary Ellen Conway, Junior; Doris Lawler, Sophomore; and Melba Evans, Freshman.

The Queen is to be chosen by vote; the voting is to be done by paying one cent for each vote.

We hope to have a very enjoyable day. We students should strive to make this a memorable event and a happy occasion in the history of the school.

CHAPEL PROGRAM

As last Wednesday, Nov. 11, was a holiday, we had our assembly at the eighth period on Tuesday. We were delighted by a talk from our principal, Mr. M. L. Penn, on Armistice and what it should mean to us. He impressed upon us the reverence we should bear toward the memory of our War dead; that this spirit should be shown by our conduct. He then expressed a wish for a happy day at the Brownfield celebration. After this interesting and inspiring talk, the student body joined in several peppy yells.

We have never known Turkeys to have the Black Head after using—

SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY NEWS

Five new students have enrolled in grammar school since school was resumed. They are: Mary Anne and Betty Jean Reed and Joyce and Lois Veach in the primary room, and Pauline Crosswhite in the fifth.

The eighth and ninth grades of Draw-Redwine high school have received their English composition books which were ordered only a short time ago. The tenth and eleventh grades are preparing to order notebooks of the same type. These notebooks will be used for laboratory work.

Fans saw an interesting game Friday afternoon when the grammar school boys played the Redwine boys. All enjoyed the game, but none so much as the small players themselves, for it was their first game. Draw made two touchdowns and Redwine none. When they start playing together in a few years for Draw-Redwine High, they will really be a good team.

There was a good attendance at church and Sunday school Sunday morning at Draw. The pastor, Bro. Carmack, preached an interesting sermon on "A Revival in Our Own Hearts".

Sunday evening the League and the older folks met. The League program was as follows: Subject, "Making Friendship Grow." Leader, Geneva Cargile. Scripture reading, Eph. 4:31-332. Song, "What a Friend

We Have in Jesus." Prayer and other talks were made by Pat Hensley, Beatrice Shewell, and Helen Williams. Afterwards, Mrs. Carmack made an interesting talk on "In His Place," which all enjoyed.

There was a nice crowd at Redwine Sunday School and a good lesson. We wish that more people would attend Sunday school and church next Sunday. Let's make Brother Braswell happy by being present.

Miss Alma Landers has returned from visiting her relatives in Wingo.

Miss Ozella Williams visited her relatives on the East Plains Sunday.

Miss Mary Alise Lightner visited her relatives Sunday afternoon.

Oil-Plated Engine

OFFICIAL COUNT of last year's emergencies handled by the American Automobile Association shows "3,200,000 motorists caught with depleted batteries . . . and 2,000,000 had starter difficulties." Don't let it be you this Winter. Have your electrical system checked, of course. Buy good gasoline. And give your engine the big extra surety of modern Oil-Plating.

Oil-Plating with Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented—leaves a definite Plating of oil on every engine part continuously . . . Continuously!

Then Oil-Plating is always there to head off wear, not only while you drive, but between times, too. Through hours of cold at the curb or at night—when other oils drain down—your engine remains completely Oil-Plated. For the patented Germ Process actually enables this oil to unite with bearings, pistons, cylinders and other parts, to Oil-Plate them for smooth, slippy, dragless starts. Since there cannot be a moment of "missing oil," the greatest cause of Winter wear is out, as you change to Conoco Germ Processed oil and its exclusive Oil-Plating. Continental Oil Company

City Will Close Up Thanksgiving

Many of the merchants and some of the gins have indicated to the News that they expect to close on next Thursday, Thanksgiving Day. It is believed that all places of business here will be closed except the cafes and restaurants.

Farmers should find out in advance about the matter and not bring cotton to the gins on that day unless they know that the gins will be running.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lilith Boyd, H. D. Agent

NEW LYNN H. D. CLUB

The New Lynn H. D. Club met with Mrs. R. W. Barton Tuesday, November 17. After election of officers, they discussed and decided on the Christmas program. They would like very much if all the members would come. Bring your presents and have a jolly good time, as there will be games and stunts that all will enjoy.

The club meets with Mrs. J. A. Jaynes December 15.

Members present: Mmes. J. A. Jaynes, R. W. Barton, J. M. Spears, P. K. Fleming, Winnie Bartley, Roy Kelly, and Susie Bartley.

Visitors present were: Mrs. Alton Fleming and Miss Margaret Alton.

COUNCIL MEETS

The Lynn County Council held their regular meeting Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

Officers to serve next year were elected as follows:

Chairman, Mrs. M. O. Canaday. Vice Chairman, Ms. J. H. Kuykendall.

Secretary-Treasurer Mrs. Garland Pennington.

Reporter, Mrs. M. C. Brandon. Parliamentarian, Mrs. Lloyd Edwards.

Members present were: Mesdames Paul J. Lawson, J. H. Kuykendall, R. W. Barton, G. A. Edwards, Buel Draper, M. C. Brandon, S. G. Anthony, I. M. Draper, A. L. Dunagan, Garland Pennington, M. O. Canaday, Loyd Edwards, J. B. Edwards, and J. R. Strain.

Mrs. Rufus Slover was a visitor.

MIDWAY H. D. CLUB

Midway H. D. Club met at the home of Mrs. R. L. Littlepage November 19 at 2:30 p. m. Each member answered roll call with "My greatest achievement this year." Some mentioned kitchen improvement, some bedroom improvement, others canning.

Mrs. I. M. Draper gave a report of the last council meeting.

Plans for an encampment were discussed and all voted in favor of having a get-together of the club women and their families in our own county.

The next meeting, two weeks hence, will be a Christmas party at the school building for the club members and their families.

Mrs. Littlepage, food demonstrator, gave a report of her year's canning, and exhibited her products on pantry shelves. Each co-operator reported her canning.

All retired to the dining room where there was exhibited on the dining table a suitable breakfast, dinner, and supper, also a washday lunch and Sunday night supper.

Members present were: Mesdames Rufus Slover, I. M. Draper, R. B. Floyd, G. A. Edwards, Howard Draper, O. R. Crow, H. D. Owens, R. L. Littlepage, Pete Curry, Austin Rowe, R. T. Cope, Herman Brewer, and Miss Lilith Boyd, agent.

ALL-SEW CLUB

The All-Sew Club met Thursday, November 12, in the home of Mrs. Kary Mathis.

Plans were made for the club to have a luncheon with their annual Christmas tree in the home of Mrs. Truett Smith Thursday, Dec. 17.

A patriotic motif was featured in the refreshment plate.

Attending were: Mesdames A. L. Lockwood, E. E. Callaway, J. A. South, Truett Smith, H. C. Story, Fred Hegl, C. A. Thomas, C. E. Woodworth, and C. L. Hafer.

The club will meet December 3rd with Mrs. R. L. Richardson.

WILSON H. D. CLUB

The Wilson H. D. Club met at the home of Mrs. L. B. Thornton November 18th.

Each person answered the roll call with "Something for which I am most thankful."

Mrs. Douglas Finley read an article, "Sharing Thanksgiving," stressing the idea that "the ones who are most truly thankful are they who have most freely given."

Mrs. M. C. Brandon told of the responsibilities and privileges of club officers.

The following officers were elected for the next year:

President, Mrs. M. C. Brandon. Vice President, Mrs. B. W. Baker. Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Douglas Finley.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lilith Boyd, H. D. Agent

NEW CLUB AT NEW HOME

Miss Lilith Boyd, county home demonstration agent, visited New Home school last Friday and assisted the girls in organizing a 4-H Club of 48 members.

The officers of the new club are: Sponsor, Mrs. Boswell Edwards, President, Reva Veach, Vice President, Oneta Fay Ballow, Secretary, Juanita Walker, Reporter, Maxine Ratliff, Song Leader, Thelma Ruth Strain, Clothing Demonstrator, Carrie Ruth Powell.

Poultry Demonstrator, Marjorie McWhorter.

The club will study poultry and clothing this year. Work will start immediately on "Pot Holders".

The club give promise of being a very successful one.

EDITH H. D. CLUB

The Edith 4-H Club met Friday, Nov. 13, at 9 o'clock and plans for 1937 were outlined by Miss Boyd. Each club girl is expected to have her sewing box equipped and a pot holder completed at next meeting.

Officers elected were: President, Mary Stewart, Vice-President, Ouida Weathers, Secretary, Dorothy Kahl, Reporter, Wanda Taylor, Poultry Demonstrator, Mary Stewart, Clothing Demonstrator, Cressie Garnett, Sponsor, Miss Marie Owens.

PETTY CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

"In making your pot holders, you have the opportunity to use some of the colors you like most," Miss Boyd told the members of the Petty 4-H Club Thursday, Nov. 12.

Pot holders were started and directions for a well equipped sewing box were given.

Officers elected for 1937 were: President, Thelma Mae Watkins, Vice President, Kathryn Osborne, Secretary, Veda Porter, Reporter, Helen Leheu, Poultry Demonstrator, Ina Mae Carrell, Clothing Demonstrator, Kathryn Osborn, Sponsor, Mrs. J. W. Lowrey.

RAISES BIG PEA CROP

"We had several acres in black-eyed and cream peas planted. When they reached the canning stage, several families took them to the canning kitchen and had them canned for a percentage. I received 200 containers as my part," said Mrs. J. R. Strain, Home Food Supply Demonstrator in the New Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Strain has an organized pantry in her cellar. She used wall paper to wrap the cans with, turning the plain side out.

She said, "My motto for canning is quality rather than quantity."

CANS SWEET POTATOES

"Because we have difficulty in storing sweet potatoes successfully, I usually can mine," said Mrs. J. O. Thrallkill, cooper in the Grassland Home Demonstration Club.

"I have more than 30 containers to add to my list of leafy, green and yellow vegetables. I serve one from this group each day," said Mrs. Thrallkill.

MAKE CALLS FOR SAMPLES OF LYNN COUNTY MINERALS

Austin, Nov. 19.—The Texas Planning Board's mineral resources committee today broadcast an appeal to the farmers and property owners of Texas to send samples of minerals located on their land to the planning board at Austin.

The mineral resources committee is engaged in surveying the mineral resources of the State. The task is a gigantic one and the committee needs the aid of property owners in compiling authentic data on the State's mineral deposits.

As samples of minerals are received by the committee they are classified and tested in the Board's laboratories for commercial values. The results of these tests are then forwarded to the owner of the land from which the sample came so that he will know what lies beneath the surface of his property. The location of the deposit, the type of mineral, and all other data pertaining to the deposit also is recorded on special county mineral maps.

As comprehensive data is compiled on the various mineral resources of the State the committee then attempts to interest manufacturers to come to Texas and develop the minerals they are particularly interested in.

Already the committee has compiled considerable data on the various types of clays which are found in Texas and this information is being paced in the hands of pottery manufacturers who are showing a great deal of enthusiasm over the Texas clays.

The committee mineralogists have pointed out that any strange rock formations may contain valuable minerals and it is samples of such formations that the mineral resources committee is particularly interested in getting.

Lynn county is known to have rich deposits of volcanic ash (silica), potash, and clays, as well as sandstone and limestone.

HIS MISTAKE: HE MOVED TO TOWN

It would be hard to find a subject with more human interest than one for which the Progressive Farmer recently offered prizes, "My Biggest Mistake in 1935." We reproduce the letter which was awarded the second prize:

"Three years ago I bought a small farm, intending some day to move to it. Two years ago I was laid off my job and my first thought was to move to our farm and cut out some of our expenses. I will admit it was tough going for awhile, getting adjusted to living away from town, but the school bus came right by the house, there was a church close to us, and we bought a second-hand car. I got a job nearby and my son did the farming, and did pretty well.

"But in the fall of 1935 I began to think I could do a little better in town, so I rented out the place and moved back to town. After two years of living in the country where in the late afternoons I could hear the cowbells ringing as cows were coming up for the night, the whippoorwills beginning to sing, and the end of the day was quiet and peaceful, I found myself with all the noise of the city about me at night—paying rent, buying wood and coal, buying milk and butter and eggs. Our living

Many a Friend Recommends BLACK-DRAUGHT

People who have taken Black-Draught naturally are enthusiastic about it because of the refreshing relief it has brought them. No wonder they urge others to try it! . . . Mrs. Joe G. Roberts, of Portersville, Ala., writes: "A friend recommended Black-Draught to me a long time ago, and it has proved its worth to me. Black-Draught is good for constipation. I find that taking Black-Draught prevents the bilious headaches which I used to have. . . . A purely vegetable medicine for the relief of CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS expenses have just about doubled, and I believe I can truthfully say our biggest mistake in 1935 was moving from our farm back to town. Providence permitting, it is a mistake I am going to rectify in another twelve months."

Announcing THE FORD V-8 FOR 1937

The Quality Car in the Low-price Field

V-8
85 HORSEPOWER
Maximum Performance with Good Economy
Bore, 3.002 in. Stroke, 3.75 in. Displacement, 221 cu. in.

Two Engine Sizes - One Wheelbase AND A NEW LOW PRICE

V-8
60 HORSEPOWER
Good Performance with Maximum Economy
Bore, 2.8 in. Stroke, 3.2 in. Displacement, 136 cu. in.

THE New Ford V-8 for 1937 is the most beautiful Ford car ever offered. It is built in only one size—one standard of roomy comfort and modern appearance. But you may have either the improved 85-horsepower V-8 engine for maximum performance—or the new 60-horsepower V-8 engine for maximum economy. The smaller engine makes possible a lighter car—lower operating costs—and a lower price.

When you drive the 1937 Ford with the 85-horsepower V-8 engine, you are master of a power plant that gives everything you can possibly demand in speed and acceleration. Today, improved carburetion enables it to deliver its thrilling performance with unusually low gasoline consumption.

The new 60-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine delivers V-8 smoothness and quietness—even at speeds up to 70 miles an hour—with gasoline mileage so high that it creates an entirely new standard of economy in modern motor car operation.

We invite you to see this new Ford car, and arrange to drive one equipped with the engine that fits your needs.

FEATURES

APPEARANCE—A newly designed car. Headlamps recessed in fender aprons. Modern lid-type hood hinged at the back. Larger luggage space. Spare tire enclosed within body. Completely new interiors. Slanting V-type windshield opens in all closed cars.

COMFORT AND QUIET—A big, roomy car. Extra space in the body, not taken up by the engine under the hood. Comfort of the Center-Poise Ride further increased by smoother action of the long-tapering springs, with new pressure lubrication. New methods of mounting body and engine make this a quieter car.

SAFETY

BRAKES—New Easy-Action Safety Brakes, of the cable and conduit control type. "The safety of steel from pedal to wheel." Self-emergizing—car momentum is used to help apply the brakes. Tests show that about one-third less pedal pressure is required to stop the car.

BODY—Not an ounce of wood used for structural strength. Frame structure all steel, sheathed with steel panels—top, sides and floor. All are welded into a single steel unit of great strength. Safety Glass all around at no extra charge.

Who'd ever dream of connecting this top-notch model, that breathes an air of luxury and keen styling, with a six-piece paper pattern? Well, here's your proof—note the diagram. Simplest of all is the cut-in-one yoke and panel, that sweeps with determination from shoulder to hem, back and front, adding height to its wearer's stature. Hips are given a trim fit and the waistline develops a neat inward curve by the elimination of bulk through clever seaming. A smart flap collar, a button detail, and long or short sleeves makes it a conservative style for which you'd expect to invest three times the amount of money you do.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1984-B is available for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with long sleeves. A contrasting collar requires 1/2 yard. Price of pattern, 15 cents (coins preferred). Send for the Barbara Bell Fall Pattern Book containing 100 well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Exclusive fashions for children, young women, and matrons. Send 15 cents (in coins) for your copy. Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 367 W. Literature a Key

The wealth of beauty to which literature is the key is absolutely illimitable. It unlocks the storehouse of all known human wisdom and gives the reader freedom to choose what he desires.

If his choice is wise, it broadens his thought, intensifies his love of life, makes him capable of enjoying the pleasures of others, allows him to feel emotions which inspire noble deeds, gives him higher ambition in life, with a sense of duty and a desire to fulfill it.

When You Want to Alkalize Stomach Fast

Try This Amazing Fast Way - The "Phillips" Way Millions Are Adopting

On every side today people are being urged to alkalinize their stomach. And this ease symptoms of "acid indigestion," nausea and stomach upsets. To gain quick alkalization, just do this: Take two teaspoons of PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA 30 minutes after eating, OR—take two Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Relief comes almost at once—usually in a few minutes. Nausea, "gas"—fullness after eating and "acid indigestion" pains leave. You feel like a new person.

Try this way. Get either the liquid "Phillips" or the remarkable, new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Each one equals a teaspoon of the liquid. Only 25¢ a box at all drug stores.

Ancient Mayas Kept Thanksgiving Day

WHEN football fans turn out for the Thanksgiving games they will perhaps realize that they are conforming with an old American custom, but do they know how old that custom is? asks a writer in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Thanksgiving football games were instituted in America about 2000 B. C. The custom began among the ancient Mayas, who, although they did not eat mince pie or sit in concrete stadiums, did dine on turkey and did set aside a day on which they offered up the first fruits of the harvest season, feasted and played, or watched a ball game in a stone-walled enclosure.

The department of middle American research at Tulane university has discovered that the Mayan games were like ours in many respects. Just as fans today travel for miles to see the Thanksgiving games, so did our predecessors on this continent journey across the land, on foot or horseback, to Chichen-Itza, holy city of the Mayas, to view the holiday spectacle.

In his description of the Mayan game, Maurice Reis, on the staff of the department of middle American research at Tulane, says: "As it began when Rome ruled the waves and Frenchmen wore bear skins as their Sunday best, football wasn't just football. That is, the ball wasn't kicked with the foot and the scores were produced by persuading the ball to pass through a perpendicular ring high on a stone wall."

When the thousands of pilgrims who came every year arrived at Chichen-Itza, they offered sacrifices to the earth gods in an impressive thanksgiving ceremony led by the ruler.

"The earth gods," says Alfredo Barrera Vasquez, of the staffs of the Mexican National Museum and the National University of Mexico, who is of Maya descent, "are called the Four Bacabs and are represented as supporting the four corners of the earth. Each god has an appropriate color: red for the east where the sun rises, black for the west where it sinks into darkness, yellow for the warm south and white for the cold north. Yum K'ax, Lord of the Forest, resides at the center of the universe and is characterized by the colors blue and green."

The Thanksgiving ceremonies still take place in some parts of Mexico today, although most of the old customs are dominated by the Catholic influence.

The name of the principal god of the harvest is lost. However, we have many representations of him on ancient monuments. He is always depicted as being young and handsome, symbolic of life and growth. From his head grows maize instead of hair.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for November 22 AN AMBASSADOR IN CHAINS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 28:16-24, 30, 31; Romans 8:6-11. GOLDEN TEXT—I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me. Phil. 4:13. PRIMARY TOPIC—In the World's Greatest City. JUNIOR TOPIC—An Ambassador in Chains. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Prisoner Speaks for Christ. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Chained But Not Silenced.

The rescue of Paul from the Jewish mob by the Roman authorities resulted in consideration of his case on their part to determine what manner of man he was, and why his words and actions provoked such violent reactions among the Jewish subjects of Rome in Judea. When it appeared that Festus, who was procurator, was inclined to turn him over to the Jews at Jerusalem, Paul, knowing of their hatred, makes

I. An Appeal to Caesar (Acts 28:16-19)

It was an act of great significance, and largely determined the course of Paul's life and ministry until his death. It is a question upon which there is no little difference of opinion whether Paul was right in making this appeal. Perhaps Dr. G. Campbell Morgan has best gathered up the truth of the matter in saying, "His way was that of an attitude revealing for all time what the duty of the Christian man is—to be true to his Lord, to be true to his conscience, to be loyal to the powers that be, and to make his appeal to them where necessary, for protection, in order that he may continue his work in accordance with the will of his Lord." Paul made no appeal to save his own life, but he did want to continue his ministry. And this he was permitted to do, for after he had come to Rome we find him to be

II. A Prisoner Preacher (vv. 20-24, 30, 31)

He was chained, but not silenced. He was anxious that those in Rome should "see" and "speak with" him (v. 20). They knew of the Christian "sect" only by rumor as one "which everywhere is spoken against" (v. 22). He now proclaimed the truth to them, and with what results? "Some believed" and some disbelieved" (v. 23). Again, we see that the greatest of all preachers met just the same encouragement and discouragement that we face. The witness and messenger is not judged by the success that crowns his efforts, but by the faithfulness with which he discharges his duty. Let us not condone our own carelessness or inefficiency by saying that even Paul was unsuccessful; but if we have been faithful and diligent, let us be encouraged even though some disbelieve.

Verse 30 indicates that Paul either had a large measure of liberty, being permitted even as a prisoner to dwell in a private house, or that he was tried and acquitted and continued to work in Rome for a period of years. Whichever may be true we cannot but admire the faithful testimony of this man upon whose body time and trials had borne heavily, but whose spirit was as young and as powerful as the message he presented. And what was his message? We find it in his epistle to the Roman church. It was

III. Justification by Faith (Rom. 5:6-11)

Christian men and women are those who were weak (v. 6), ungodly (v. 7), and enemies of God (v. 10). But having been justified by his blood (v. 9), they are "saved" (v. 9). What a beautiful word—"saved!" Brought back to God, "reconciled to God through the death of his Son" (v. 10), we are indeed, saved if we have accepted him as our Saviour.

This was Paul's message, and it is our message to a lost world.

Count Your Mercies

Be on the lookout for mercies. The more we look for them the more of them will we see. Blessings brighten when we count them. Out of the determination of the heart the eyes see. If you want to be gloomy, there's gloom enough to keep you gloom; if you want to be glad, there's gleam enough to keep you glad. Say, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits." Better lose count in his enumerating your blessings than lose your blessings in telling over your troubles. "Be thankful unto him and bless his name."—Maltbie D. Babcock, D. D.

A True Life

One truly Christian life will do more to prove the divine origin of Christianity than many lectures. It is of much greater importance to develop Christian character, than to exhibit Christian evidences.—J. M. Gibson.

Power of the Spirit

The spirit of a person's life is ever shedding some power, just as a flower, is steadily bestowing fragrance upon the air.—T. Starr King

Household Questions

A little salt added to pumpkin sauce will greatly improve the flavor.

To clean fireplace bricks, cover them with a paste made of powdered pumice and household ammonia. Let it dry for an hour, then scrub with warm soapy water.

To prevent that hard crust forming on left-over cooked cereal pour a cup of cold water over it before placing in the refrigerator.

Cooked prunes stuffed with celery and nuts make a tempting salad. Stuffed prunes can also be used as a garnish for chops, roasts or steaks.

Left-Handers

Dr. H. H. Newman of Chicago university, biologist, studied the hands of 100 students—50 of each sex—and found first that there are all grades of left-handedness and second that left-handers not only can use their right hand better than right-handers can use their left, but that the palm and finger prints on left-handers are more like their right than the left of right-handers is like their right.

Women from Coast-to-Coast Prefer Phillips Delicious Southern Soups... and yet They Sell for One-fourth Less!

Yes, women the country over are choosing PHILLIPS DELICIOUS soup when they buy soups. The word has spread—"these Southern soups are different... better!" And no wonder! You can taste the garden-fresh vegetables in them—vegetables ripened to rich flavor under Maryland's favoring sun. You can taste the just-right seasoning that Southern cooks know how to give. Yet they sell for one-fourth less.

Spotless kitchens... highest standard for all ingredients... rigid inspection of the whole cooking process... are matters of pride with Phillips. And PHILLIPS DELICIOUS Soups are sold from Maine to California—from Chicago to New Orleans—at neighborly prices which will surprise you when you buy them and still more when you taste them. You, too, will say they are "AMERICA'S GREATEST FOOD VALUES!"

"THE GORGEOUS HUSSY" IS COMING TO ENGLISH
 Joan Crawford as the beautiful and fiery Peggy O'Neal, tavern-keeper's daughter who became the First Lady of the Land.
 Clarence Brown, who directed three of her greatest hits—"Possessed," "Sadie McKee" and "Forsaking All Others"—again behind the camera.
 Robert Taylor, the screen's most sensational "find" since Clark Gable, fresh from triumphs in "His Brother's Wife" and "Private Number," playing a dashing young naval officer who woos the Hussy and becomes her first husband.
 Lionel Barrymore as Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States.
 Fanchot Tone making his first appearance with Miss Crawford since their marriage, as the Hussy's second husband, cabinet member and political figure.
 Melvyn Douglas, seen recently in "Annie Oakley" and Garbo's leading man in "As You Desire Me," playing the romantic-prideful John Randolph of Roanoke whose tragic love for Peggy O'Neal was tripped up by political issues.
 James Stewart, whose talent sped him to fame in "Small Town Girl," "Wife Versus Secretary" and "Rose Marie," now playing an early American newspaperman, the Hussy's best friend—the best man.
 These are a few of the highlights of "The Gorgeous Hussy," new Metro-Goldwyn - Mayer production from the best-selling novel by Samuel Hopkins Adams, which opens at the English Theatre Sunday.
 A fictionalized treatment of America's most romantic period, it is primarily a story of the stormy circumstances surrounding the election to the Presidency of Andrew Jackson, and the role that the girl played therein.

News Briefs From Over South Plains

Another re-settlement colony similar to the one at Ropesville will be opened on a 9,800 acre tract of land on the Cochran-Hockley county line, if present plans of the New Deal Re-Settlement Administration are carried out. About 80 farms would be improved by the Government and sold to young farmers on the long-time payment plan.

Caliche is being laid on the Lubbock to Levelland highway in Hockley county, and highway officials have indicated that they later expect to extend the road improvement program into Cochran county. Cochran, Hockley, and possibly other counties lying along highway 24 are said to be seeking a new highway from Lubbock to Roswell through Hockley and Cochran counties. New Mexico officials are said to have promised to meet Texas at the state line west of Cochran county with a paved highway. The road would be in competition to highway No. 84.

The Post Dispatch, published by Eddie Warren, last week passed its tenth milestone. Eddie puts out an excellent paper.

The only gin at Tokio, seventeen miles west of Brownfield, burned recently.

Brownfield is just completing the laying of 30 blocks of paving—caliche base with asphalt topping—giving the city a total of 46 blocks of paving.

A new oil pool has been opened up in Gaines county with the bringing in of a well three miles northwest of Seminole. The gas pressure is strong, and a production test on Tuesday showed it to be at least a 200-barrel well.

Rev. J. E. Eldridge, formerly pastor here, and later a presiding elder, is the new pastor of the Floydada Methodist Church.

Uncle Isom Lynn, West Texas pioneer and Indian fighter, first settler of King county, died recently at his home in Guthrie.

GRIPPING DRAMA LAID IN MODERN CHINA

A gripping drama of intrigue, romance and adventure, "The General Died at Dawn," which begins Sunday at the Ada Theatre, brings Gary Cooper to the screen in another colorful soldier-of-fortune role.

With modern China as its background, the plot of "The General Died at Dawn" revolves around the awakening of China to the oppressions of her predatory warlords and the beginnings of a spirit of resistance. Cooper, as the champion of the down-trodden, is in the ranks of the new movement. Playing opposite him is beautiful Madeleine Carroll in the role of the lure held out by a war-lord to lead Cooper to destruction.

"The General Died at Dawn" is the thrilling story of love that blooms between a man to whom danger is life and the girl who was paid to get him out of the way. Having trapped him she soon finds herself enmeshed in the same web.

Remorse causes her to offer life for the freedom of the man she loves. In a thrilling climax the pair snatch happiness and love from the very jaws of death and save the cause to which the man had dedicated his life.
