NEW OFFICERS GO IN TODAY

New County Attorney, District Clerk and Two Commissioners Will Take Oaths Of Office

Four new county officials, including two county commissioners, are to be sworn in here Friday.

Miss Hattie Server of Wilson will succeed Skip Taylor as district clerk. She will occupy the office formerly occupied by District Attorney G. H. Nelson on the third floor of the court house just across the hall east of the district court room. The present district attorney, Truett Smith, occupies the office immediately north of the Nelson office.

Rollin McCord will take office as county attorney, succeeding the veteran jurist and lawyer, Judge C. E. Cain. Judge Cain has already removed his office furniture and library back to his former office rooms over the First National Bank. McCord was admitted to the bar about a year ago and has had little experience, but he is ambitious and determined to make good. He is a son of R. B. McCord of Grassland, former county commissioner.

L. M. Nordyke and Jim Isard will retire as county commissioners. Mr. Nordyke, who resides near Midway, will be succeeded by Sam Holland of Tahoka. Jim Isard of New Home will be succeeded by Tom Hale of West Point.

Rev. W. L. Henderson will succeed Mr. Estes as justice of the peace at O'Donnell.

All other county officials will remain at their present posts. Judge P. W. Goad having been appointed by the commissioners court several months ago to fill out the unexpired term of County Judge W. E. Smith, who resigned to take the office of postmaster here will enter upon his first elective term. He was elected to the full term at the November election. Other hold-over officials are: H. C. Story, county clerk; Aubra Cade, tax assessor and collector; Miss Viola Ellis, county treasurer; and B. L. Parker, sheriff. County Superintendent H. P. Cavness was elected for a four years term two years ago. W. S. Swan will also enter upon an elective term as justice of the peace. He was appointed more than a year ago to fill the unexpired term of Uncle Ben Rogers, who was compelled to resign on account of ill health.

George Small of Tahoka and Waldo McLaurin of O'Donnell will continue to serve for another term as county commissioners.

S. M. Bean, Age 84, Injured By Fall

S. M. Bean, 84, who resides near the telephone office here, lies at the point of death in a Lubbock hospital as the result of injuries sustained when he fell accidentally at his home last Saturday. His leg was broken in two or more places above the knee, the fractures being of a most serious nature. He was immediately taken to the sanitarium for treatment. Physicians say that there is little chance for him to recover sufficiently to ever leave the sanitarium and his death is expected daily.

Mr. Bean is the father of Mrs. Jack Curry, who with her husband resides a few miles east of Tahoka, and it was their son who was accidentally killed with a feed fork in the hands of Gus Barrington while loading feed into a box car here about two weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Donaldson and children returned Monday night from a visit with her brother, N. J. Roberts, and family at Crowell and her sister, Mrs. M. T. Linecum, and her family at Altus, Oklahoma. Mr. Donaldson reports that crops were exceedingly short in all that territory the past year, but prospects are better for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gill took Christmas dinner with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Clayton at O'Donnell.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Evans spent Christmas day with her parents at Station and Sunday with his parents at Justiceburg.

COTTON CROP IS 46,579 BALES

Total Is Now Expected To Reach 48,000 Or 50,000 Bales For The Year 1936

Again Lynn county stands second among the counties of the plains in the number of bales of cotton ginned, according to the Government report released a few days ago. It stands 13th in the entire state. In spite of the summer drought, its crop will slightly surpass the crop of 1935. Prior to December 13, a total of 46,579 bales had been ginned in the county from the 1936 crop. The total, when the entire crop is in, will probably run between 48,000 and 50,000 bales. Last year the crop totaled nearly 47,000 bales.

Lubbock county stands first on the plains and Dawson county is third.

In the entire state, 2,752,862 bales were ginned this year as compared with 2,570,409 bales the preceding year.

The crop was gathered much earlier this fall than it was last fall, and hence far more cotton was ginned in the county before Christmas 1936 than was ginner up to the corresponding date in 1935.

We give below the government report for the following Plains and adjacent counties for the two years.

| County | 1936 | 1935 |
|---------|--------|--------|
| Bailey | 13,855 | 10,154 |

Jas. C. Ingram, 79, Died Sunday Eve

Death came at 11 o'clock Sunday night to James Carter Ingram, 78, who has resided the past seven years with his daughter, Mrs. V. A. Thomas of Draw.

Mr. Ingram suffered a stroke of paralysis about a week preceding his death. Pneumonia afterwards developed, resulting fatally.

The body was taken Monday afternoon to Moran in Shackelford county for burial. W. M. Harris of this city drove his ambulance conveying the body to Moran. Funeral services were held there Tuesday, followed by burial in the Moran cemetery.

Mr. Ingram was a native of Tennessee, but he resided at Moran many years. When his wife died seven years ago, he came to reside with his daughter, Mrs. Thomas, at Draw in this county.

Mrs. Thomas and other relatives of the deceased have sincere sympathy of many friends in this great bereavement.

Strain And Rice Buy Land North Of City

J. R. Strain of the New Home community reports that he recently purchased an 80-acre tract of land from Mr. Allison. The land purchased lies just a mile or two south-east of New Home.

Mr. Strain has also made contract for the sale of a quarter section of land situated between Tahoka and Wilson which he owns.

Skip Taylor reports that he effected a sale of a quarter section of land situated about five miles north and one mile west of Tahoka a few days ago. The land was the property of the Amicable Life Insurance Company and was purchased by Boyd Rice of this city. Mr. Rice, we understand, will move upon the farm but will remain in the civil service work here.

Mrs. Spurgeon O'Neal, the former Miss Jonnye Walker, has been here from Austin the past two or three weeks visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Walker.

Tenant Farmers Of Lynn County Hold Meeting, Seek Aid From Government

The Southern Tenant Farmers Union for Lynn county held a meeting in the court house here Saturday night and adopted a set of resolutions appearing below.

The Southern Tenant Farmers Union is a South-wide organization. Its purpose, of course, is to look out after the interests of the tenant farmers. They claim the Government's policy the past few years in connection with the rapidly increasing use of tractors has driven thousands of tenants from the farm and forced them to seek work elsewhere. Many of them have been compelled to look to the W.P.A. for employment and they find that the monthly wages allowed W.P.A. workers are so meager that they can scarcely support their families thereon. Many tenant farmers in Lynn county are losing their places each year, they point out, thus aggravating the situation. Ross Ford, secretary of the Tenant Farmers Union of Lynn county will be unable to find land to work in this county this coming year. Bert Fowlkes is president of the Lynn county organization.

The resolutions adopted here Saturday night are as follows:

That all land above a family sized basis shall become the property of the government. That all land exceeding a family sized basis shall be farmed cooperatively.

Minimum wage laws, sanitary quarters for all seasonal and local rural whole and/or part time workers. W. P. A. to function throughout the year on a union hour day and five day week until all land and land usage monopolies are adjusted. Social security for all rural workers. All rural and whole and/or part time to be considered on all future agricultural and soil conservation programs. That all administrators shall be elected by the workers.

That all children must attend a (Cont'd. on back page)

Tahoka Schools Re-open Monday

The public schools of Tahoka will resume work next Monday, after a two weeks vacation.

All the first six grades will meet in the new grade school building, the Central Ward building having been abandoned.

There will probably be an increased attendance when work resumes Monday.

Editor Remembered By Club Women

The editor and family appreciate the thoughtfulness and kindness of the Dixie H. D. Club, who remembered us with a very substantial Christmas gift consisting of canned fruits, vegetables, preserves, and fresh eggs.

The editor was also kindly remembered by the County Council of the Lynn county H. D. Clubs with a beautiful and useful gift brought to the home by Miss Lilith Boyd.

The H. D. Clubs and 4-H Clubs of Lynn county are doing a great work under the direction of Miss Boyd, as they have done for many years in the past, and we are always glad to help and encourage them in every way possible.

Oscar Roberts Retires After Working At Drug Store In Tahoka For 26 Years

Oscar Roberts, after twenty-six years in the employ of one firm, is retiring from his position as clerk at the Collier Drug Store, until recently the Thomas Bros. store. Oscar has accumulated quite a bit of property and has decided to take life a little easier in the future.

The story of Oscar Roberts' success, though not so pretentious as some, would sound like a Horatio Alger story.

He began work for Clifford Thomas in the drug store here 26 years ago as a 13-year old school boy at a salary of "$10.00 a month and all I could eat and drink," he says. Otho Thomas later became associated with his brother, and Oscar was retained as a clerk. In fact, he has never worked at any other job during the past 26 years, except during nine months he spent in the U. S. Army in 1918.

However, while working in the store he has done some successful trading. Always thrifty, he managed to save a little money from his salary and buy a farm, mostly on the credit, several years ago. A few years later he built a brick business

Cawthorn Infant Buried Tuesday

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cawthorn residing five miles east of Tahoka, born Wednesday of last week, died early Saturday morning, and the remains were interred in the cemetery here Saturday afternoon. Rev. George A. Dale of the Baptist Church conducted the funeral services.

Mrs. Cawthorn, mother of the infant, is a niece of Mrs. W. M. Harris. She is reported to be doing only fairly well.

HARRISES HAVE VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Harris had as their visitors from Sunday till Wednesday Mrs. Earl Harris of Marietta and her son, Leonard Harris, who is teaching at Queen City, Cass county, and Mr. Harris' niece, Miss Virginia Morgan of Naples, Morris county.

Leonard Harris attended school here two or three years and is a graduate of the 'Tahoka' High School. Many friends will be glad to know that he is now a successful teacher.

District Attorney and Mrs. Truett Smith spent Christmas with Mrs. Smith's parents at Claude.

VISIT POST ROTARY CLUB

Buster Fenton, Homer St. Clair, L. F. Craft and W. T. Bovell attended the Rotary luncheon at Post on Tuesday of last week. They reported that they received a royal welcome and enjoyed a splendid Christmas program given by the Post Rotarians.

Levine Bros. Close Store In Tahoka

Levine Bros., who have conducted a dry goods and clothing business here the past several years, have closed out their stock of goods here and discontinued the business.

Al Lehman was the manager of the store here during its entire existence, except a period of several weeks last summer and fall. He and family removed to San Angelo late in the summer but he came back at frequent intervals and has spent the last two months here most of the time. Having closed the store at the close of the Christmas season, Mr. Lehman left for San Angelo Monday. He ordered the News sent to his address, as he desires to keep in touch with his many friends here.

A. T. Cobb, who has been conducting a men's furnishing store here the past year, will move his stock of goods into the store vacated by Levine Bros. at an early date. The fixtures and the walls of the building are now being repainted and other changes in the interior of the store are being made. Mr. Cobb will get moved this week or next.

Traffic Cop Hurt In Accident Here

Bill Alder of Lubbock, state highway patrolman, was thrown from his motorcycle and sustained a fracture of the arm here Monday evening in attempting to avoid a collision with a car driven by A. N. Norman of this city.

Norman was in his car going up highway No. 9 in a northeasterly direction from the court house lawn and he made a sharp turn to the west at the First National Bank corner, turning immediately in front of Alder's motorcycle. Alder swerved his machine suddenly to avoid a collision but in doing so he was thrown from the machine.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Mitchell and family and J. T. Bowen of Greenville and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mitchell and family of Wolffarth were visitors in the L. O. Mitchell home during the holidays. Messrs. J. F. and Hugh are brothers of L. O.

SIX ARE HURT IN CAR WRECK

Two Critically Hurt In Car Wreck Eight Miles North of Town Tuesday Night

Six persons were injured, two of them very seriously, in an automobile crash which occurred in front of the R. L. Haley home near the two cross-roads filling stations eight miles north of Tahoka at 7:20 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Most seriously injured possibly was W. P. Prince of Amarillo who suffered a fracture of the skull, a severe cut over the left eye, and less serious injuries.

Miss Beatrice Gilmore, 19, apparently had suffered a severe injury to the head and painful abrasions on both knees. An x-ray examination was to be made Wednesday morning to determine the extent of her head injuries.

Garland Gilmore, 21, also sustained lacerations and bruises at the right base of the head, while Miss Mae Gilmore, 14, was severely shocked.

H. L. Brooks, 29, and Mrs. Brooks of Gadsden, Alabama, received painful cuts and bruises on the head and limbs and other parts of the body.

The accident occurred when the Ford coach driven by Garland Gilmore coming south on highway No. 9 cut across the highway to enter the driveway in front of the Haley home on the east side of the highway. H. L. Brooks was going north in a Pontiac and was doubtless traveling at a rather high speed. When the Ford car cut across the highway in front of him he threw on his brakes and made a desperate effort to stop but was unable to do so in time to avoid a collision. The Pontiac struck the Ford at about the front door, and the impact was terrific, though neither car turned over.

In the car with Brooks was his wife and W. P. Prince of Amarillo. In the Ford car were Garland and Misses Beatrice and Mae Gilmore, who were intending to attend a dance in the Haley residence. The Gilmores live eleven miles north of Tahoka.

All the injured were taken to the Lubbock Sanitarium, where their wounds were treated. Brooks and Gilmore, the drivers of the two cars, were released from the hospital the same night. The others required further treatment.

Christmas Enjoyed By Unfortunates

The Goodfellows distributed about twenty baskets to as many Tahoka families on Christmas eve.

Each basket contained food and clothing as well as toys for the kiddies. Some coal and a mattress were bought and presented to one destitute family. Those who distributed the baskets got great joy out of it and many families were made happy.

More than ninety dollars with which to purchase the supplies were contributed by the Methodist and Baptist churches, the American Legion, and the Rotary Club.

Real Estate Sales Begin To Pick Up

Traffic in Lynn county lands seems to be reviving.

Charley Thompson, who recently located here to engage in the real estate business, reports the sale of two or three farms and other deals are pending.

Through an ad. which he inserted in the classified columns of The Lynn County News, he found a buyer last week for a quarter section of land belonging to his brother, Joe Thompson, situated 10 miles southeast of Tahoka. The purchaser is H. C. Harter, who resides in the Magnolia community. We understand that Mr. Harter will move on to the land just purchased.

Mr. Thompson also reports the sale of a quarter section situated two miles southwest of Draw to Albert Williams of that community. This land has been in the hands of a loan company for several years.

Mr. Thompson is advertising other lands in this paper. His office is over the First National Bank in this city.

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

Competent Mrs. Simpson If Edward Has a Son The Latest Gang Killing Goose and Gander

"Mrs. Simpson purchases villa on the north coast of Africa, looking out on the blue Mediterranean, for her 'royal honeymoon' with the former king of England." Here you see the capable young American woman; she buys the honeymoon villa; if she married an American she would have expected him to buy it.

This incident helps to explain how Duke Edward came to rely on the Baltimore girl. The former English King Edward in his "instrument of abdication" declared his "irrevocable determination to renounce the throne" for himself and his descendants.

Europe will turn from important matters to read about the latest American gang killing. Joseph Scaduto, aged twenty-eight, was shot down two months ago while having his shoes polished in New York city.

New York city ordered $126,795 worth of typewriters, union labor complained - that manufacturers were "unfair" and the purchase was stopped.

As far as New York city was concerned that was done to get votes; no New York citizens are involved in the alleged "unfairness."

If all makers of typewriters signed an agreement not to sell a typewriter to New York city for 50 years, and never to repair one, that would not embarrass the city; for the courts would punish that as conspiracy.

H. G. Wells, who has influence in England, was "brought up in a simple, sentimental, low-church English home." Referring to the archbishop's slurs on Mrs. Simpson, he writes: "I learned to think the proper treatment of men who insinuate shameful vague things they cannot specify or substantiate about a woman is horse-whipping."

Doctors announce a new compound that kills "sinus germs in the blood stream," a most important announcement. The new compound, called protosil, is non-poisonous to the patient, kills the germs that cause sinus trouble, and may kill other disease germs.

Congressman Fish of New York wants members of the Republican national committee to abdicate, that a liberal Republican party may be built up.

Does anybody imagine that a "liberal" Republican party could have held back the political Johnstown flood last November?

If the Republican party turns liberal now, it may find in 1940 that it has done so just in time to miss carrying an election that conservatism might have carried.

The world would like to know more about the Baroness Eugene de Rothschild, hostess of the duke of Windsor, former king.

She was Miss Catherine Wolf of Philadelphia, has been three times married, and when the king amuses himself with bowling in her castle, she beats him, and all the other men players. Plenty of energy there.

Our good neighbor Chile, anxious to keep gold at home, decided to restrict "luxury importations" and unwisely included automobiles, including trucks, among "luxuries." As a result Chile's industries face heavy losses, her network of modern highways will fall into decay.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Cuban Congress Ousts President Gomez—Another Archbishop Attacks Edward, Duke of Windsor—Treasury Plan to Curb Credit Inflation.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

MIGUEL MARIANO GOMEZ, president of Cuba, was on his way out because he defied Col. Fulgencio Batista, the real ruler of the republic, by vetoing the sugar tax bill to raise funds for the building of schools that would be conducted by army officers.

Gomez defended himself vigorously but was resigned to his fate. The prosecution was conducted by three members of the house—Carlos Palma, veteran Republican leader; Eduardo-Martinez Fraga, Nationalist, and Felipe Jay, Democrat.

Vice President Federico Laredo Bru was ready to succeed Gomez automatically. He is a lawyer, sixty-one years old and was a colonel in the Cuban war of independence.

ARCHBISHOPS of the Church of England just can't let the duke of Windsor and his love affair alone. The Most Rev. Dr. William Temple, archbishop of York and second only to the archbishop of Canterbury, took his turn in lambasting the abdicated king, in a Christmas diocesan letter that displayed little of the Christian spirit.

"It has happened to many a man before now to find himself beginning to fall in love with another man's wife. That is a moment of critical decision and the right decision is that they should cease to meet because the passion is so developed as to create an agonizing conflict between love and duty.

"This decision often has been taken by men of honor. And when the power of personal attraction is reinforced by the glamor of the throne the moral obligation is the more urgent for that reason.

"Let us remember that any kind of love which can be in conflict with duty is not the love of which the gospel speaks." The British press and a great many of the English people are disgusted with these repeated attacks on Edward by the prelates and there is a growing danger of a split in the Church of England.

Dispatches from Edward's haven in Enzesfeld, Austria, say that he is planning to make Mrs. Simpson the duchess of Windsor in May next, immediately after her divorce becomes absolute. Meanwhile he probably will remain at the castle of Baron Eugene de Rothschild without seeing Mrs. Simpson.

There were reports that the duke might take legal action against the archbishop of York, presumably for slander.

SIMEON D. FESS, former senator from Ohio and for years a leader in the "Old Guard" of the Republican party, died suddenly in the Carlton hotel, Washington. He had been in retirement from national politics since 1932 when he was defeated for re-election to the senate.

ACCORDING to a decision of the United States court of appeals in New Orleans, the national labor relations board has authority to compel employers to bargain collectively with their employees. The tribunal upheld the board's cease and desist orders against Agwines, Inc., which operates the Clyde Mallory Steamship lines, in connection with the dismissal of seven employees for alleged union action.

THE Supreme Court having upheld, in the Chaco arms embargo case, the neutrality powers of the President, Mr. Roosevelt let it be known that he would ask congress to revise the present neutrality law to give him broader discretion in his relations with foreign governments. In other words, the "teeth" which he and the State department have always thought the statute lacked. Just what the President would ask was not told to the press, but there were indications that he wants authority to:

- 1. Declare an arms embargo "upon the outbreak or during progress of" a war, and forbid the passage of American citizens or transport of American goods on belligerent ships, except at the traveler's or shipper's own risk.
2. Determine the actual volume to which commodity shipments would be limited and enumerate the items becoming contraband beyond those limits.

Government officials looked upon the Supreme Court's decision as the most sweeping approval of a New Deal law the tribunal has yet given. They read in it an inferential approval of the reciprocal trade treaty program, still untested, and a broader inference that the President should be given more latitude in negotiations of all kinds with foreign governments.

DELEGATES to the inter-American peace conference in Buenos Aires signed the 69 accords approved during the sessions and the conference came to an end. Farewell congratulatory speeches were made by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Argentine Foreign Minister Carlos Saavedra Lamas and the head of the Peruvian delegation, Carlos Concha. They all urged that the peace efforts be continued in the next Pan-American conference, which will be held in Lima, Peru, in 1938.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MORGENTHAU and Chairman Marriner Eccles of the federal reserve board announced a new program for curbing credit inflation, and it is likely to involve $1,000,000,000 of borrowings in 1937. About a billion dollars worth of gold is flowing into the country annually, and if this continues next year, it was said by officials, the treasury will take that amount out of the money market, to offset the effects of the gold influx on domestic credit.

The plan, which probably was devised by Mr. Eccles, is intended to hold the excess reserves, which are the reserves that member banks deposit with the federal reserve system in excess of legal requirements, on the same plateau where they are now. Previously gold flowing into the country was channeled up as excess reserves upon which an inflationary credit boom could be built.

THREE new indictments against major oil companies, oil trade publications and individuals were returned by a federal grand jury in Madison, Wis., in order to avoid delay in the trial of the anti-trust cases. With few changes the new true bills are similar to those returned previously by the 1935 grand jury and contested as invalid on grounds that the grand jury was illegally impaneled.

It is understood that the government plans to bring the cases to trial in March.

UNDER the general leadership of John L. Lewis the war for unionizing the steel industry and destroying the company unions is now under way. Some 250 company union representatives from the Pittsburgh, Cleveland - Youngstown and the eastern districts met in Pitts- burg and were told by Philip Murray, chief aide of Lewis and chairman of the committee for industrial union, that a strike in the $5,000,000,000 industry might result "if the industry continues to employ its dog-in-the-manger attitude," in dealing with trade unions.

Thereupon the delegates adopted resolutions unanimously condemning the company union plan as a "farce," and establishing a new organization called the "CIO representatives council," with this "declaration of principles":
1. All steel workers be organized into a national industrial union.
2. Employee representatives use their influence to enroll the steel workers into the steel workers organizing committee's campaign.
3. All steel workers be thoroughly informed by employee representatives who know from experience that the company union is a device of the management and totally unable to win any major concessions for the steel workers.
4. CIO employee representatives remain inside the company union for reasons obvious to all.

The wage demands are:
A $1.24 a day increase for all employees receiving over $5 a day.
A 30 hour, five day week.
Paid vacations of one week for employees of two years' service and two weeks for employees of five or more years' service.
Time and one-half pay for overtime within the regular working week.
Double time for Sundays and holidays.

Arthur Brisbane, Editor, Dies at 72

Work Known to Millions; Column Popular in This Newspaper.

New York, N. Y.—With the death of Arthur Brisbane Christmas morning, the world lost its most widely known and most widely read newspaper writer and editor. The veteran commentator, whose column "This Week" appeared regularly in this newspaper, died of heart disease while he slept. He was seventy-two.

True to the Brisbane tradition, he kept up the terrific pace of his work to the last. When he was stricken late in the afternoon of Christmas eve he had almost finished his column, "Today," which appeared in many large daily newspapers, principally those of William Randolph Hearst's string. He was forced to call upon his son, Seward, 22, to complete it. It was the first time in his life Arthur Brisbane had not finished what he had set out to write.

Millions of Readers. It was only a few hours afterward Mr. Brisbane fell asleep in his Fifth avenue apartment. At his bedside were his physicians, Dr. Leopold Stieglitz and Dr. Frederick Zeman, and a nurse. In the apartment his entire family had gathered—his wife, Mrs. Phoebe Brisbane, whom he had married in 1912; his son, Seward, and his four daughters, Mrs.

ARTHUR BRISBANE

J. R. K. McCrary, 23; Emily, 18; Alice, 14, and Elinor, 12. The great editor never awakened.

Probably no one knows how many millions of persons read Mr. Brisbane's verse, analytical comments upon the news of the day. It is estimated that 25 millions read his daily column. Additional millions followed with satisfaction the weekly column syndicated by Western Newspaper Union to this and many other leading weekly newspapers.

Mr. Brisbane was wealthy. It is reported that his yearly salary at the time of his death was $260,000. In addition, there was the return on his extensive real estate holdings.

Arthur Brisbane was born in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1864. He attended the public schools and then, forsaking college education, he became a reporter on the old New York Sun at 19. Yet his rise to the position he held in the world of journalism at the last was not the Horatio Alger type of success story, with glory crowning the hero after countless tear-jerking tribulations. He was good and he was successful from the start.

It was not long before he was the Sun's London correspondent. After five years, there was a shake-up on the paper and the management cabled him to return. He said he would if they made him managing editor. Managing editor! He was just 23. They made him managing editor. And so well did he execute his job, Joseph Pulitzer took him over to the New York World, which, under the Brisbane directorship, soon became the most influential organ of public opinion in America.

"Greatest Journalist of Day." When William Randolph Hearst came from California and bought the New York Journal he hired Mr. Brisbane—at a reduction in salary of almost 50 per cent. But there was an agreement that as the circulation increased, so would his compensation. His earnings on the World were multiplied in almost no time.

The association with Hearst became a life-long friendship, and Mr. Brisbane soon became regarded as next to Mr. Hearst in importance in the chain of newspapers. When he died, Mr. Hearst said: "I know that Arthur Brisbane was the greatest journalist of his day."

It was Arthur Brisbane who was credited with bringing the trend of newspaper style "down to earth." He believed that newspapers should be written for the ordinary man, not the intelligentsia. He wrote that way—and his columns appealed to college professors as well as to merchants and farmers.

He dictated his 1,000 to 1,200 crisp, unswayed words daily in half an hour to an hour. There was a dictaphone beside him wherever he went. He would even wake up in Pullman berths and begin dictation at two or three in the morning.

UNCOMMON AMERICANS

By Elmo Scott Watson

Western Newspaper Union

First War Correspondent ON THE monument which they erected over his grave are inscribed these words: "He was a poet, journalist, author, and farmer—eminent in all." Yet this does less than justice to the career of George Wilkins Kendall.

A native of New Hampshire, Kendall became a printer at an early age and followed his trade in many cities. He was in New York in 1833 when an outbreak of the dreaded cholera caused him to take ship for New Orleans. There he entered the employ of a paper called the True American, and while working there conceived the idea of a new daily newspaper which should follow the policies that had made the New York Sun and Philadelphia Ledger so successful.

Taking into partnership Francis A. Lumsden, a fellow employee, Kendall launched the New Orleans Picayune in January, 1837. He was only twenty-eight at the time and his resources were small. But he was such an enterprising editor that the Picayune soon became one of the best known papers in the country.

At the outbreak of the War with Mexico in 1846, New Orleans became the chief outfitting point for the American forces. It was also the natural center of communication between the armies in the field and Washington. Kendall was quick to see the journalistic opportunity which this offered. He organized a system of relays of horses and riders between Mexico and New Orleans and of fast boats between New Orleans and Baltimore. Then he accompanied the armies of Scott and Taylor and began sending back vivid first-hand accounts of their battles, frequently writing his dispatches while cannon roared and bullets whistled around him.

Kendall supplied the government with its first knowledge of the battle of Buena Vista and it was again this enterprising journalist who informed Washington that the treaty of peace had been signed. He came out of the war with the title of major and a bullet in his knee, received at the storming of Chapultepec. In his later years he retired to a farm in Texas where he was a successful farmer and stock raiser and he died there in 1877.

Ambassador to His Native Land HE WAS born a Yankee during the early days of the American republic. Forty years later, having helped establish a new American republic, he came back to his native land, the accredited minister to its government from the government of the younger nation of which he later became the last president. And in brief is the paradoxical career of Anson Jones.

Born at Great Barrington, Mass., on January 20, 1798, young Jones decided to become a doctor. After several years study in Litchfield, Conn., he was licensed to practice in 1820. Then the wanderlust seized him and he wandered to Philadelphia, to New Orleans, to South America and finally settled in Texas in 1833.

At the outbreak of the troubles between Texas and Mexico he was among the first to advocate a declaration of Texas independence. When the war started he enlisted as a private but was soon appointed a surgeon in the Texas army of liberation. With it he served at San Jacinto and after the republic was founded he became representative from Brazoria to the Texan congress.

In 1838 he was appointed minister to the United States. Thus this Yankee came back to his homeland as an "ambassador" from a "foreign power." While in Washington, he was elected to the Texas senate and later became its president. During the second term of Sam Houston as president of the Lone Star republic, Jones was his secretary of state, and in 1844 he was elected president.

That was a critical year in the affairs of the new nation. There was talk of annexation by the United States and a sharp division of opinion arose among Texans over it. One of those who was opposed to it was the President. But the citizens of the republic voted overwhelmingly in favor of it and on December 29, 1845, the republic of Texas came to an end and the state of Texas succeeded it.

Bowing to the inevitable, Jones turned over the reins of government to James Finckney Henderson, the first governor of the state of Texas, and retired to his home in Washington county. In 1857 he was prominently mentioned as a candidate for United States senator but he was destined never to return to Washington where he had once gone as "ambassador." In a fit of insanity he died by his own hand on January 8, 1858, convinced to the last that Texas had made a mistake in giving up its independence.

The GARDEN MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE

Copyright S. S. Van Dine WNU Service

SYNOPSIS

Philo Vance, famous detective and John F. X. Markham, district attorney for New York county are dining in Vance's apartment when Vance receives an anonymous telephone message informing him of a "disturbing psychological tension at Professor Ephraim Garden's apartment" advising that he read up on radio-active sodium, consult a passage in the Aeneid and counseling that "Equanimity is essential." Professor Garden is famous in chemical research. The message, decoded by Vance, reminds him that Professor Garden's son Floyd and his puny cousin, Woode Swift, are addicted to horse-racing.

"You know this Floyd Garden well?"

Vance nodded. "Fairly well. He's a member of the Far Meadows club and I've often played polo with him. He's a five-goaler and owns a couple of the best ponies in the country. I tried to buy one of them from him once—but that's beside the point. The fact is, young Garden has invited me on several occasions to join him and his little group at the apartment when the out-of-town races were on. It seems he has a direct loud-speaker service from all the tracks, like many of the horse fanatics. The professor disapproves in a mild way, but he raises no serious objections because Mrs. Garden is rather inclined to sit in and take her chances on a horse now and then."

"Have you ever accepted his invitation?" asked Markham.

"No," Vance told him. Then he glanced up with a far-away look in his eyes. "But I think it might be an excellent idea."

"Come, come, Vance!" protested Markham. "Even if you see some cryptic relationship between the disconnected items of this message you've just received, how, in the name of Heaven, can you take it seriously?"

Vance drew deeply on his cigarette and waited a moment before answering.

"You have overlooked one phrase in the message: 'Equanimity is essential,' he said at length. 'One of the great race-horses of today happens to be named Equanimity. He belongs in the company of such immortals of the turf as Man o' War, Exterminator, Gallant Fox, and Reigh Count. Furthermore, Equanimity is running in the Rivermont Handicap tomorrow.'"

"Still I see no reason to take the matter seriously," Markham objected.

Vance ignored the comment and added: "Moreover, Doctor Miles Siefert told me at the club the other day that Mrs. Garden had been quite ill for some time with a mysterious malady."

Markham shifted in his chair and broke the ashes from his cigar.

"The affair gets more muddled by the minute," he remarked irritably. "What's the connection between all these commonplace data and that precious phone message of yours?" He waved his hand contemptuously toward the paper which Vance still held.

"I happen to know," Vance answered slowly, "who sent me this message."

"Ah, yes?" Markham was obviously skeptical.

"Quite. It was Doctor Siefert."

Markham showed a sudden interest.

"Would you care to enlighten me as to how you arrived at this conclusion?" he asked in a satirical voice.

"It was not difficult," Vance answered, rising and standing before the empty hearth, with one arm resting on the mantel. "To begin with, I was not called to the telephone personally. Why? Because it was some one I know. To continue, the language of the message bears the earmarks of the medical profession. 'Psychological tension' and 'resists diagnosis' are not phrases ordinarily used by the layman, although they consist of commonplace enough words. To go another step; the message obviously assumes that I am more or less acquainted with the Garden household and the race-track passion of young Garden. Therefore, we get the results that the sender of the message is a doctor whom I know and one who is aware of my acquaintance with the Gardens. The only doctor who fulfills these conditions, and who, incidentally, is middle-aged and cultured and highly judicial—Currie's description, y'know—is Miles Siefert. And, added to this simple deduction, I happen to know that Siefert is a Latin scholar—I once encountered him at the Latin society club-room. Another point in my favor is the fact that he is the family physician of the Gardens and would have ample opportunity to know about the galloping horses—and perhaps about Equanimity in particular—in connection with the Garden household."

"That being the case," Markham protested, "why don't you phone him and find out exactly what's back of his cryptography?"

"My dear Markham—oh, my dear Markham! Siefert would not only indignantly repudiate any knowledge of the message, but would automatically become the first obstacle in any bit of prying I might decide to do. The ethics of the medical profession are most fantastic; and Siefert, as becomes his unique position, is a fanatic on the subject. From the fact that he communicated with me in this roundabout way I rather suspect that some grotesque point of honor is involved. Perhaps his conscience overcame him for the moment, and he temporarily relaxed his adherence to what he considers his code of honor. . . . No, no, that course wouldn't do at all. I must ferret out the matter for myself—as he undoubtedly wishes me to do."

"But what is this matter that you feel called upon to ferret out?" persisted Markham. "Granting all you say, I still don't see how you can regard the situation as in any way serious."

"One never knows, does one?" drawled Vance. "Still, I'm rather fond of the horses myself, don't y'know."

Markham seemed to relax and fitted his manner to Vance's change of mood.

"And what do you propose to do?" he asked good naturedly.

Vance looked up whimsically. "The public prosecutor of New York—that noble defender of the rights of the common people—to wit: the Honorable John F. X. Markham—must grant me immunity and protection before I'll consent to answer."

Markham's eyelids drooped a little as he studied Vance. He was familiar with the serious import that often lay beneath the other's most frivolous remarks.

"Are you planning to break the law?" he asked.

"Oh, yes—quite," he admitted nonchalantly. "Jailable offense, I believe."

Markham studied him for another moment.

"All right," he said, without the slightest trace of lightness. "I'll do what I can for you. What's it to be?"

Vance took another sip of the Napoleon.

"Well, Markham old dear," he announced with a half smile, "I'm going to the Gardens' penthouse tomorrow afternoon and play the horses with the younger set."

As soon as Markham had left it that night, Vance's mood changed. A troubled look came into his eyes, and he walked up and down the room pensively.

"I don't like it, Van," he murmured, as if talking to himself. "I don't at all like it. Siefert isn't the type to make a mysterious phone call like that, unless he has a very good reason for doing so. It's quite out of character, don't y'know. He's a dashed conservative chap, and no end ethical. There must be something worrying him deeply. But why the Gardens' apartment? The domestic atmosphere there has always struck me as at least superficially normal—and now a man as dependable as Siefert gets jittery about it to the extent of indulging in shillin'-shocker technique. It's deuced queer."

He stopped pacing the floor and looked at the clock.

"I think I'll make the arrangements. A bit of snoopin' is highly indicated."

He went into the anteroom, and a moment later he heard him dialing a number on the telephone. When he returned to the library he seemed to have thrown off his depression. His manner was almost flippant.

"We're in for an abominable lunch tomorrow, Van," he announced, pouring himself another pony of cognac. "And we must torture ourselves with the viands at a most ungodly hour—noon. What a time to ingest even good food!" He sighed. "We're lunching with young Garden at his home. Woode Swift will be there and also an insufferable creature named Lowe Hammie; a hasty gentleman from some obscure estate on Long Island. Later we'll be joined by various members of the sporting set, and together we'll indulge in that ancient and fascinating pastime of laying wagers on the thoroughbreds."

He rang for Currie and sent him out to fetch a copy of the Morning Telegraph.

"One should be prepared. Oh, quite. It's been years since I handicapped the horses."

Although I was well aware that Vance had some serious object in lurching with young Garden the following day and in participating in the gambling on the races, I had not the slightest suspicion, at the time, of the horrors that were to follow. On the afternoon of April 14 occurred the first grim act of one of the most atrocious multiple crimes of this generation. . . . And to Doctor Siefert must go, in a large measure, the credit for the identification of the criminal, for had he not sent his cryptic and would-be anonymous message to Vance, the truth would probably never have been known.

I shall never forget that fatal Saturday afternoon. And aside from the brutal Garden murder, that afternoon will always remain memorable for me because it marked the first mature sentimental episode, so far as I had ever observed, in Vance's life. For once, the cold impersonal attitude of his analytical mind melted before the appeal of an attractive woman.

CHAPTER II

Shortly before noon the next day we arrived at Professor Garden's beautiful skyscraper apartment, and were cordially, and a little exuberantly, greeted by young Garden.

Floyd Garden was a man in his early thirties, erect and athletically built. He was about six feet tall, with powerful shoulders and a slender waist. His hair was almost black, and his complexion swarthy. His manner, while easy and casual, and with a suggestion of swagger, was in no way offensive. He was not a handsome man; his features were too rugged, his eyes set too close together, his ears protruded too much, and his lips were too thin. But he had an undeniable charm, and there was a quiet submerged competency in the way he moved and in the rapidity of his mental reactions.

"There are only five of us for lunch, Vance," he remarked breezily. "The old gentleman is fussing with his test-tubes and Bunsen burners at the university; the mater is having a grand time playing sick. But Pop Hammie is coming—rum old bird, but a good sport; and we'll also be burdened with beloved cousin Woode. You know Swift, I believe, Vance. Queer crab, Woody."

He pondered a moment with a wry face.

"Can't figure out just how he fits into this household. Dad and the mater seem inordinately fond of him—sorry for him, perhaps; or maybe he's the kind of serious, sensitive guy they wish I'd turned out to be. I don't dislike Woody, but we have little in common except the horses. Only, he takes his betting too seriously to suit me—he hasn't much money, and his wins or losses mean a lot to him. Of course, he'll go broke in the end."

Vance had been watching Garden covertly during this rambling recital of domestic intimacies.

"I know you hate mysteries, and there's apt to be some funny things happening here this afternoon," Garden continued. "Woode has been acting queer for the past couple of weeks, as if some secret sorrow was gnawing at his mind."

"Any specific psychopathic symptoms?" Vance asked lightly.

"No-o." Garden pursed his lips and frowned thoughtfully. "But he's developed a curious habit of going upstairs to the roof-garden as soon as he's placed a large bet, and he remains there alone until the result of the race has come through."

"Nothing very unusual about that," Vance made a deprecatory motion with his hand. "Many gamblers, d'ye see, are like that."

"You're probably right," Garden admitted reluctantly. "But I wish he'd bet moderately, instead of plunging like a fool whenever he's got for a horse."

"By the by," asked Vance, "why do you particularly look for strange occurrences this afternoon?"

Garden shrugged.

"The fact is," he replied, after a short pause, "Woody's been losing heavily of late, and today's the day of the big Rivermont Handicap. I have a feeling he's going to put every dollar he's got on Equanimity, who'll undoubtedly be the favorite . . . Equanimity! He snorted with undisguised contempt. "That rail-lugger! Probably the second greatest horse of modern times—but what's the use?"

He looked up solemnly.

"And that, Vance, means trouble if Equanimity doesn't come in. It means a blow-up of some kind. I've felt it coming for over a week. It's got me worried. To tell you the truth, I'm glad you picked this day to sit in with us."

"Very interestin' situation," commented Vance. "I agree in the main with what you say regarding Equanimity. But I think you're too harsh, and I'm not convinced that he's a rail-lugger because of any innate passion for wood. . . . But as you were sayin', the psychological situation hereabout has you worried. I gather there's a super-charged atmosphere round this charmin' aerie."

"That's it, exactly," Garden answered almost eagerly. "Super-charged is right. Nearly every day the mater asks, 'How's Woody?' And when the old gentleman comes home from his lab at night he greets me with a left-handed 'Well, my boy, have you seen Woody today?'"

Vance made no comment on these remarks. Instead he asked in a peculiarly flat voice: "Do you consider this recent hyper-tension in the household due entirely to your cousin's financial predicament and his determination to risk all he has on 't.e horses'?"

Garden started slightly and then settled back in his chair.

"No, damn it!" he answered a little vehemently. "And that's another thing that bothers me. A lot of the gollwogs we're harboring are due to Woode's cuckoo state of mind, but there are other queer invisible animals springing up and down the corridors. I can't figure it out. The mater's illness doesn't make sense either. And there's a funny business of some kind going on among the gang that drifts in here nearly every afternoon to play the races."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for January 3 THE SON OF GOD BECOMES MAN

LESSON TEXT—John 1:1-14. GOLDEN TEXT—And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us. John 1:14. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Home. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Boyhood of Jesus. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—God Coming to Us in Jesus. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Fact and Purpose of the Incarnation.

The opening of a new year always brings with it a sense of solemn responsibility for one's life and service, and at the same time a thrilling expectancy. No better way can be found to begin this year of our Lord, 1937, than in the study of God's Word, not only by ourselves, but in the fellowship of others in the church and Sunday school.

The series of lessons outlined for the year gives us the eagerly apprehended opportunity of studying during the first three months of the Gospel of John. Space does not permit of a suitable introduction to that study here, but we trust that no one will fail to read John 20:31, which states the purpose of the apostle in writing.

Three great and fundamental questions are answered in chapter 1:1-18, namely, (1) Was Jesus Christ God or man? (2) Does it matter how we regard him and relate our lives to him? (3) Is there suitable evidence upon which we may rest our faith in him?

I. Jesus Christ Is God (John 1:1-5).

"In the beginning" of Genesis 1:1, Jesus Christ already "was" not only "with God," but he "was God." He is the living "Word," the complete and final revelation of God. He is infinite, eternal, divine, both the Creator and Redeemer. He is both the Light and the Light of men. That Light shines in the darkness but the darkness does not comprehend it.

II. Men Are Either Believers or Unbelievers (vv. 6-13).

There are only two classes of people who will read these lines—the saved and the unsaved. What a solemn thought! To which class do I belong?

The Lord of Glory, the Creator of all things, came to his "own world" and it "knew him not" (v. 10). How tragic is that fact, but how much deeper is the stab of the next verse, his own people "received him not."

The Light still shines in the world, and it is still all too true that men love "darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil" (John 3:19). Such men are lost, "dead in trespasses and sin" (Eph. 2:1).

But, thank God, there are those who "receive him" (v. 12), and to them he gives the power or authority, to be the sons of God. This change is expressly declared to be a. Not by reason of family, or heredity, "not of blood";

b. Not by natural instinct or development, not "of the will of the flesh"; and

c. Not by human volition or will power, not "of the will of man, but of God."

These are important matters and some one may well ask, "What evidence is there for these things?" Faith is not a venture into the dark. We have the strongest of all foundations in the sure Word of God. The evidences of Christianity are many, thoroughly full, and satisfying to any honest inquirer. We refer to but one.

III. Our Faith Rests on the Testimony of Eye Witnesses (vv. 14-18).

John the Baptist and John the Apostle both beheld the "glory as of the only begotten of the Father" in the One who as the "Word was made flesh and dwelt among" them.

The law was "given by Moses" (v. 17), that is, God sent the law through a human messenger. "But grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." No messenger, no matter how great or worthy, would do to bring the gospel of the grace of God. His only begotten Son brought it; it came by him.

RELIGION AND THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

"Spread of Communism and deterioration of morality was laid in part to public schools, because of their failure to give religious instruction, by the Most Rev. C. E. Byrne, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Galveston, in a sermon Thursday morning," according to a press report in the Dallas Morning News of December 25. "Our school laws play the cruel joke of nonsectarianism on all but the unbeliever and the free-thinker," the Bishop is quoted as saying.

We think the Bishop is wrong. In the first place, Communism does not seem to be spreading in this country. The Communist candidate for President in the recent election received only an insignificant vote, while the Communist candidate for governor in Texas received only a few hundred votes in the entire state. There is practically no communistic sentiment in the United States, if the recent election returns reflected the sentiment of the American people.

In the second place, if there were such sentiment, it could not be chargeable to the public schools. Communism does not readily take root among a highly enlightened people. It does not thrive in a democracy. It finds its most fertile soil among the ignorant and among people who have never enjoyed the liberties the American citizen has long enjoyed. Public education and democracy are the foes of radicalism of all kinds. The public school does not breed communism; it suffocates it.

The Catholic Church has always opposed the public schools on the grounds that education and training of the children belongs rightfully not to the State but to the Catholic Church. The Catholic Church does not favor "religious instruction" in the public schools unless it is given by the Catholics themselves. If possible, it would dominate the education of all the children of the country and make Catholics of all of them. Having done this, it would be easy to dominate the state also.

This is no attack upon the Catholic Church; it is just a succinct statement of the Catholic position respecting these matters.

Now as to the matter of religious instruction in the public schools. In a country that vouchsafes to every individual the right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience and that believes in the complete separation of Church and State, it would not be proper or practicable to give religious instruction and training in the public schools. Instruction that would suit the Protestant would not suit the Catholic, and instruction that would suit the Catholic would not suit the Protestant. Instruction that would suit either of these would not suit the Jew. Instruction given by the Baptist Church would not altogether suit the Methodist, and vice versa. To undertake to give religious instruction in the public schools would breed interminable confusion and turmoil.

But are the public schools a menace because religious instruction may not be given in them? The Catholics think so. We think not. The Catholic think that the public schools should be abolished and that the education of the children should be turned over to the Church. We think that the public schools are necessary to the enlightenment of the people and the perpetuation of popular government.

The Catholic Church is growing at rapid strides in this country, and we deem it a greater menace to our country than is Communism; for while its purpose may be benevolent and commendable, its triumph would sound the death knell of the great principles upon which our government is founded; religious freedom, complete separation of church and state, and popular education.

This Christmas season brought the heaviest holiday business that the country has enjoyed for several years. There is evidence everywhere that Prosperity at last has come around the corner. The Christmas holidays also brought perhaps the largest number of fatal accidents of any Christmas season in recent years. There were doubtless more car wrecks and crashes than usual. This was due in part to the vastly increased number of cars on the highways. The traffic on some of the main highways of the country was little less than phenomenal. Many of the fatalities were due, no doubt, to drunken driving. Many others were due to the spirit of recklessness and abandon that seems to seize so many the moment they take the wheel of a car and hear the whir of the motor. Teeth should be put into the drivers' license law, and every driver should be held strictly accountable for every injury to another caused by reckless or drunken driving.

The entire newspaper world and millions of readers of Arthur Brisbane were shocked when they learned of his death Christmas morning. The News has been running a syndicated column written by Arthur Brisbane, which many of our readers have greatly enjoyed. While we might not have agreed with much that he wrote, yet he was indisputably one of the most thoughtful and virile newspaper writers in this country. In fact, it is said that he was paid the highest salary of any newspaper writer in the world. Mr. Brisbane's column will be greatly missed from the future issues of the News and hundreds of other papers throughout the country.

MRS. CALLAWAY GIVES PRETTY CHRISTMAS PARTY

Mrs. E. E. Callaway, entertained with a pretty Christmas party Tuesday in her home. The Christmas motif was carried out in the decorations of the living room. The dining room was illuminated with red candlelight and the table was laid with Venetian cut-work silver metal cloth, and a silver centerpiece placed on a reflector held Christmas flowers, with a blue light playing on the reflector. On the buffet, red tapers burned in silver candelabra.

A watch service at the Baptist Church Thursday night has been announced by the pastor, Rev. Geo. A. Dale. The service will start with a prayer meeting at the usual hour, followed by a watch program. An entertainment by the young people will be held in the rear apartment of the building. The company will watch the old year out and the new year in. Everybody invited.

NAZARENE NOTES

"Uncle Bud" Robinson is coming to Tahoka, Saturday, January 16, and will preach at the Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m. Everyone is invited to attend this service. He and E. M. Hall are touring this district in the interest of Bethany and Daniel College. Be sure and meet Uncle Bud at this time. He is well known all over the United States, and he perhaps has traveled more miles and preached more times than any other preacher living today. He is past 76 years of age and is still active in the Lord's work. While some of his friends have retired, he says Old Bud has retired. We are expecting a number of people from other places. Some will come a hundred miles to hear him. Don't forget the date, January 16, 1937, Saturday night, 7:30 p. m. Caring the editor and the many readers a prosperous and happy new year. Welcome to our church. JOHN FERGUSON, Pastor.

G. E. HOGAN'S CLASS HAS CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The Business Men's Bible Class taught by G. E. Hogan at the English Theatre enjoyed a most excellent Christmas program last Sunday. Appropriate talks were made by Messrs. M. L. Penn, Sam Holland, and Frank Billman. A musical program provided by G. W. Simmons is said to have been very fine. The Reeves sisters of Grassland, pupils of Mrs. R. L. Richardson, gave a piano duet. Duane Reeves of Grassland and Miss La Voyle Richardson gave a violin and accordion number. George Hogan III and Edwin Rogers gave a vocal duet. A vocal solo was given by Miss Ola Lee Stevens with Miss Coza Lee Thompson giving the piano accompaniment.

A goodly number of men were present and greatly enjoyed the entire program.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

I want to express my thanks to my friends here and at O'Donnell for the many presents that were given to myself and family at the Christmas season. May God's richest blessings rest upon each of you and may I live so as to merit your continued love and respect. The Lord's work continues to go forward in a fine way, the attendance at O'Donnell last Lord's Day being larger than usual, and a mother returned to her first love at the morning service. The church at O'Donnell as well as the one here is growing, for which we thank God and take courage. I would like to see Tahoka have a great religious awakening and am working and praying to that end; join me won't you? God's way is the shortest road out of sin, but the last which most people take. Love more and live more. Give more and have more. Do more and grow more. Those who are too selfish to help the poor, benefit the world by leaving it. Too many preachers are gauging their preaching by the appreciation of the audience. What does God think of it, brother? Some people attend church to see, others to be seen, and some worship God in spirit and truth. Some good resolutions for us Christians to make: Resolve to read the Bible more and to pray oftener. Resolves to live cleaner lives and to make Tahoka a better place in which to live. Resolve to give more to the Church and less to the Devil. Resolve to watch our own selves more and our neighbors less. Subject next Lord's Day morning: "New and Old Things"; evening service, 7:15 p. m. Begin the new year right by attending worship at the friendly church.—R. P. Drennon. R. H. Turner has been sick the past few days.

Ancient Beds of Great Luxury, History Reveals

Ancient and medieval writings describe beds of great luxury, of silver and gold they appear in the Bible. As part of the furnishing of an Athenian villa one is described of maple veneer with an ornamented board at the top to support the head and girths stretched across to support the mattress. After the introduction of Asiatic luxury into Rome, according to a writer in the New York Sun, wealthy citizens furnished their sleeping apartments with large couches of rare Indian woods and ivory and sometimes inlays of gold, amber or tortoise shell. Throughout the Middle Ages beds were furnished with sets of priceless tapestries or splendid embroideries mounted upon four-post frame work which they entirely concealed in a wealth of curtained and canopied inclosure. In the sixteenth century beds retained their four-post and canopied forms and their rich hangings but the frame acquired importance on its own account. The stately curtains were made to be drawn, revealing handsome carved wood panels and posts sometimes gilded and painted and often inlaid. Gradually the hangings, however, became subservient to elaborate carvings and other enrichments such as gilding, painting and marquetry.

Dome of the Invalides

The great dome of the Invalides church, beneath which Napoleon's tomb lies, was built by Mansart at the beginning of the seventeenth century on Grecian lines and consists of twelve painted compartments, opens immediately above the tomb, says the Baltimore Sun. The remains of Napoleon were placed in the beautiful tomb in 1840 with great ceremony. Looking down upon it from the marble rail above, it is seen suffused in a soft sunset glow, obtained by the finely tinted windows, yellow at the sides and bluish above. The great sarcophagus is cut from a single block of magnificent Finland granite, of a rich red, presented by the Czar Nicholas. This slab rests upon a base of green Vosges granite. The sarcophagus is the work of Visconti.

LEWIS M. GOODRICH

Attorney General Candidate Here

Lewis M. Goodrich of Shamrock on the North Plains was here Tuesday in the interest of his candidacy for attorney general in 1938. He spent several hours here Tuesday in the interest of his candidacy. He is a man of pleasing address and makes a good impression upon those who meet him.

WE DELIVER

There was something we planned to say here, something we'd had in mind all year about old acquaintance that shouldn't be forgotten. . . something very flowery, but it all seems rather unimportant in the light of what we feel like saying now that the time has come. It's simply this: everybody wants a happy new year for himself and the other fellow, and we've resolved to do our best in the next 365 days to make it a happy new year for the other fellow, because we know of nothing that will make US happier, a year from today, than the knowledge that we did.

Meat Cuts and How to Cook Them LAMB CHART

Housewives in search of new and attractive meat cuts to add variety and flavor to their menus will be interested in the lamb chart shown above. The fact that lamb offers such a wide variety of cuts is a revelation to many who in the past have thought of this meat only in terms of legs and loins. A study of this chart will reveal that there is a lamb cut for every purse and every purpose. In addition to showing the many possibilities in lamb cuts, the chart is an excellent guide for cooking. You will want to keep it for ready reference.

STAR-STUDED CAST MARKS "LIBELED LADY" AT ENGLISH

The most dazzling, star-spangled pageant of notable personalities since the sensational "Dinner at Eight" and unprecedented "Grand Hotel" are to be seen in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer front-page, ninth marked joy special, "Libeled Lady," showing at the English Theatre this week.

Jean Harlow, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy, and Walter Connolly head the cast.

Jean Harlow plays a character paralleling her famous "Red Dust" portrayal for ribald humor. Powell is a reporter Beau Brummel who prefers hunting tabloid sweethearts to front page stories. Miss Loy is the famous daughter of the richest man in the world. Tracy is the harassed managing editor, more in love with his newspaper than his sweetheart.

Few screen plays of the current season have required more lavish settings, more beautiful gowns or more varied backgrounds. The action leaps from New York to London and to a picturesque mountain lodge. The latter sequence required the entire company to spend weeks in the beautiful lake country of the High Sierras.

The story deals with a metropolitan newspaper which finds itself defendant in a libel suit brought by one of the world's richest men. Tracy, as the managing editor, locates Powell, a former reporter known for his peculiar ability to settle such suits out of court.

The fact that Powell, in his efforts to quash the suit, falls in love with the millionaire's daughter, Myrna Loy, while trying to hoodwink her father, complicates matters as does the fact that he marries his boss' sweetheart, Jean Harlow.

Miss Gussie McCulloch, student in Southwestern Baptist Training School, Fort Worth, Texas visited her parents, Rev. and Mrs. S. K. McCulloch at New Home and friends in Tahoka during the holidays.

Miss Ina Bess Hicks, Baylor College, Belton, Texas visited her father Alvin Hicks and other relatives during the holidays.

Sylvester Reese, Miss Lucille Wright, and Skiles Thomas all of Texas Tech, Lubbock spent the holidays with their parents here.

FLOYD JAYNES UNDERGOES APPENDICITIS OPERATION

Floyd Jaynes was rushed to the Lubbock Sanitarium in the W. M. Harris ambulance early Wednesday morning suffering from an attack of appendicitis. He underwent an operation at about 11 o'clock, but we are unable to make any report as to his condition at the hour of going to press.

Mr. Jaynes seems to have had his share of hard luck the past two years, having lost two children by death within that period of time. Many friends hope that he may speedily recover from his present illness.

A New Year—A New Congress

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

America at this time greets a New Year—and a new Congress.

What do the American people ask of each?

Of the New Year, opportunity for longer strides along the road to recovery.

Of the new Congress, whatever action, or restraint, may be necessary to make such strides possible. . . . America is ready for those lengthened strides. The need exists for new buildings, new goods, replacements for many things that supply and serve the people. Industry and commerce—all our creative facilities—stand ready to meet that need. Workers in every field are eager for the employment that increased production assures. Talk of closer cooperation among all elements essential to a quickened program fills the newspapers.

All that seems necessary is Confidence.

Confidence that public, rather than factional, advantages will sway the men chosen to represent us in our National Legislature.

Confidence that no new barriers will be placed in the way of work and production.

Confidence that constructive plans for the future will not have to be scrapped overnight to meet the vagaries of every glittering economic novelty.

Confidence that the worker's income will not be wasted by political extravagance billed against his present and future earnings.

Confidence that throughout the nation humanitarian considerations will dominate political aspects in emergency measures to aid the unfortunate.

The Seventy-fifth Congress faces a glorious opportunity to inspire this confidence.

If it grasps the opportunity, it can earn the gratitude of a great and encouraged people.

If it fails . . . our wishes for a Prosperous New Year will have been in vain.

Miss Sylvia Robb, former home demonstration agent of this county but now holding a like position at Greenville, Hunt County, visited friends here Saturday. Miss Robb did excellent work here and is well pleased with her work at Greenville.

Earl Rochell, who has been located at Breckenridge the past two or three years, was here over the week end and the first days of this week with his wife and children. He will probably locate somewhere in this section soon. He was formerly in the cafe business here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mathis of Levelland spent the Christmas holidays here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Milliken. Mrs. Mathis was the former Miss Tommy Milliken.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Vititto and baby of Abilene visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Simmons, during the Christmas holidays.

Rev. and Mrs. George A. Dale had as visitors from Wednesday until Saturday of last week Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Edwards and children, Malcolm and Ann, and E. E. Dale, all of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dale, George T. Dale, and Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Kennedy and little daughter Dorothy Dale, and Miss Ellen K. Klapp, all of Lubbock.

Mrs. N. A. Barker and Fred were informed Sunday of the sudden death of A. C. Gist of Colorado, which occurred at that city on that day. Mr. Gist was the father of J. T. Gist, who married Miss Eleanor Barker of this city. He suffered a heart attack and sank down dying instantly.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Randolph returned to their home at Moran Saturday after having spent Christmas here with their daughter, Mrs. Beecher Sherrod, who accompanied them home. She returned to Tahoka Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gleaton and children spent Christmas here, with the L. F. Frazier family, Mrs. Gleaton being Mr. Frazier's sister. They reside at Ralls.

R. H. Collier, a prominent druggist of Post and father of Wynne Collier of this city, suffered a peculiar and distressing accident on Monday of last week when a bone from the wing of a quail lodged in his throat. He was taken to the Lubbock Sanitarium where x-ray pictures were made. It would have been exceedingly difficult if not impossible to remove the bone but attending physicians expressed the opinion that the bone would pass on into the stomach within a few days, where it would be dissolved. This apparently has happened, and Mr. Collier is now suffering no further discomfort.

By a vote of 69 to 15 the citizens of Sudan recently voted a bond issue of $15,500 for the construction of a sewer system for the town. A grant of $11,200 of WPA funds has been approved and awaits only the approval of the President, which will be used to supplement local sewer funds. Work is expected to begin within the next few weeks.

Rufus E. Heath of Big Spring, 20, was instantly killed when the truck he was driving turned over on the highway between Lamesa and Seminole recently. Heath is believed to have fallen asleep while driving.

Six new county officials are to be sworn in at Crosbyton Friday. The new officials are W. V. Hames, district clerk; Ben F. Hicks, county judge; Clay Henry, tax assessor and collector; J. F. Garber, county treasurer; and O. O. Scott, county surveyor. Only two former county officials hold over, Emory Pleatt, county clerk, and Robert McKee, county attorney. One new county commissioner also takes office, E. H. Jones.

A freak accident to a Clarendon car is reported by the Clarendon News of last week. Jerome Stocking of that city left his car parked in a clump of trees on the Word Ranch near that city while he and Vance Johnson, Amarillo News-Globe reporter, were photographing some wild game. A deer wandering near mistook his own image reflected from the side of the shiny black car as another deer and immediately made war upon his fancied antagonist. As a result the new car was raked and disfigured from fender to fender, and Mr. Stocking was compelled to take it to a garage for repairs.

ADVERTISING CHIEF

Being wounded in the World War proved a bit lucky for Roger W. Birdseye. Going to New Mexico and Arizona to recuperate, his writings attracted the attention of the Santa Fe Railway which found a place for him in its advertising department. This month he was promoted to general advertising manager of the Santa Fe System Lines with headquarters in Chicago.

Five thousand dollars worth of feed belonging to Reed and Snyder was destroyed by fire at Seagraves a few days ago. A pile of cotton burs was ignited from the backfire from a tractor used in grinding feed, and a stiff breeze spread the flames to a huge corn pile near by. Little water was available and it was with difficulty that the fire was brought under control.

An extensive water conservation program for the Panhandle-Plains area was launched at Amarillo a few days ago, when the Panhandle Conservation Association was organized with John McCarty, editor of the Amarillo News, as president. The program calls for the construction of many farm and ranch ponds and one or more large lakes for each of more than 20 Panhandle counties. Funds are to be raised and a representative sent to Washington to lay the association's objectives before the federal authorities there.

THANK YOU

I should like to take this method to offer a "Thank You" to each and every one of my friends who wrote me such cheerful and inspiring cards and letters during my recent stay at the health clinic in Wichita, Kansas, following an operation. I should have liked to have answered each of you personally, but due to the condition of my health and the orders of my physician, I was unable to do so, and now that I am at home, though rapidly regaining my strength I find it necessary to remain in bed a large portion of the time, so my time for writing is still very limited. I never knew before just how dear friends and the homeland could be until I was away from them and ill. Wishing each of you a very Merry Christmas and the happiest of New Years, sincerely yours—L. H. Moore.

MAMMA CLAUS VISITS THE OLD FOLKS

Dear little kiddies, who are able to get out, have one on me in getting to see Santa Claus. But I have one on you, too.

Tuesday morning, Dec. 23, I heard a car stop out at the front and very soon I heard someone come tripping in, placing on my table the best of eats and a huge bag of fruit. It was a dear old lady with silvery hair, wearing a red cap with a big shiny buckle pinned on the side of it, and wearing a long coat. And, who do you think it was? Well, it was Mamma Claus! Now, that is where I have one on you, kiddies.

Listen, little folks, this is the way the story goes:

After Santa Claus started down here to Texas with nice things for the little girls and boys, Mamma Claus being alone and feeling very lonely, decided she would come down too, and bring Christmas cheer to the old folks. So, that is how the dear old soul happened up to my house last Tuesday morning.

She did not stay long, and bidding me a pleasant good morning, she went on her way with Christmas cheer for more old folks.

I hope the dear old soul comes back again.

Happy New Year, little folks.

Casting Precious Metals

In casting gold and silver, temperatures running about 1,600 degrees Fahrenheit are used. These temperatures create a considerable problem in materials for the mold boxes, as most metals oxidize at such great heats. Recently an alloy of nickel and chromium has been chosen as the material for these boxes because it resists destructive oxidation until a thermometer reading of 1950 degrees is reached.

EVERY day is a fresh beginning, Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain, And spite of old sorrow, and older sinning, And troubles forecasted, and possible pain Take heart with the day, and begin again.

by Katherine Edelman

PERHAPS it was something about the closing of the year that brought Paul and Ethel to the final decision. Anyway, it was New Year's eve when they talked the matter over in a business-like way, and definitely decided upon the break. Months of growing irritation seemed to leave no other alternative than the court, they agreed. Both seemed relieved when the decision was made, and both agreed the quicker everything was over and settled, the better. They would begin packing up right away; the smaller things could be put away tonight.

Outside snow was falling in thick, white flakes. Every now and then sudden gusts of wind rattled the doors and windows. But neither of them seemed to notice. Perhaps the tumult in their own hearts dulled them to the fact that a storm of a different kind was venting its anger outdoors.

"What about this old clock Uncle Henry gave us?" Ethel asked, as she took it down from the mantel. Paul laughed a little harshly. "You keep it," he said; "time isn't going to mean a thing to me from now on."

"But it came from your Uncle," Ethel protested; "he would want you to have it."

"I tell you I don't give a darn about the clock—or about anything else for that matter." Paul threw a pile of books that he had just picked up across the length of the room. "Let's get some one else to do this—this sort of thing makes the whole business seem awful."

"Why, Paul, we just decided that we would be business-like—that we would make no fuss, or—"

"Well, I thought I felt that way, but I was wrong. I just can't fool with this stuff tonight. . . . Ethel, this may sound crazy, but is there any reason, now that we've decided to part for good, why we can't go out and celebrate the New Year together. We—we don't have to really like each other to do that—we can go down and watch the crowds. Anything to get away from this gloom!"

"Do you really mean that?" There was a queer little catch in Ethel's voice as she spoke, and her blue eyes seemed a bit misty. "Of course I'll go—I'll be glad to—there's too many ghosts around here tonight; it does make packing a bit difficult. . . . But, can you get a cab this late?"

"I'll get one," Paul's voice was firm. Relief and eagerness shone from his dark eyes. "You hurry and doll up. I'll see to the cab."

In half an hour they started away. Both were flushed, excited. It seemed a bit daring, adventurous, to go out celebrating the New Year together, when they had decided only an hour ago that life under the same roof was unbearable any longer.

In spite of the crowds in the hotels and cafes, they found a little table, with a delightful view of everything that was going on. Paul ordered a bit recklessly. Since this was to be their last evening together, he was going to do the job right. But when the food came, they both ate rather silently. The small talk that had come so easy on the way down seemed to suddenly fall them.

Every once in a while Paul glanced across the table at his wife. What a pity, he thought, they couldn't make a go of things! In his eyes Ethel was easily the best

THE NEW YEAR By GEORGE COOPER In Indianapolis News

A SONG for the Old, While its knell is tolled, And its parting moments fly! But a song and a cheer For the glad New Year. While we watch the Old Year die! Oh, its grief and pain, Ne'er can come again, And its care lies buried deep; But what joy untold Doth the New Year hold, And what hopes within it sleep!

A song for the Old, While its knell is tolled, And the friends it gave so true! Let us greet the New, Heart and purpose ever leal! Let the hills we met, And the sad regret, With the Old be buried deep; For what joy untold Doth the New Year hold, And what hopes within it sleep!

A song for the Old, While its knell is tolled! With a grander, broader zeal, And a forward view, Let us greet the New, Heart and purpose ever leal! Let the hills we met, And the sad regret, With the Old be buried deep; For what joy untold Doth the New Year hold, And what hopes within it sleep!

looking woman in the room—distinguished, different. . . . Once his glance caught hers and held it for a moment. They both flushed and turned hurriedly to their plates. . . . Some one asked the orchestra to play "Love's Old Sweet Song." As silence followed the opening of the familiar melody both of them were swept by emotion. . . . Their love had been the most wonderful thing in the world! How had it died so soon? What had happened? That was the question taunting both of them as the song went on. . . . Looking back they saw a hundred little things, magnified until they assumed tragic proportions—small hurts left unhealed, sharp words, silence and misunderstanding. There had been nothing terribly serious; neither could find any big, bitter thing accountable for the wreckage.

Again, Paul looked at Ethel. This time she made no effort to look away. Tears shone in her eyes. Suddenly his hand stole across the table and found hers. "I love you, Ethel," he breathed; "can't we begin again?—can't we prove to ourselves and to the world that 'Love's Old Sweet Song' is really the sweetest song of all?"

For a moment they did not realize that the orchestra had changed to a livelier air. Then as they sensed its swinging rhythm Paul reached out his arms. In a moment they were gliding with the happy throng of dancers, a newer and deeper love throbbing in their hearts.

Resolution That Falls It is sad but true that never yet has a New Year's resolution paid the Christmas bills.

David's New Year's Inspiration

by Alice B. Falmer

DAVID had escorted Dorothy May to the New Year's grand ball for the last three years and they had danced the old year out and the New Year in, while whispering sweet "nothings" into each other's ears. But this year David was possessed with the New Year's spirit. He felt a strong desire to make someone else happy.

"What on earth is the matter lately, David, you seem to be so exuberantly happy?" spoke mother, in her kindly observant way. "Has Dot promised to marry you, or are you contemplating a proposal for her?"

"Something better than that, mother, I am planning New Year's resolutions," replied David. "Several days before the great holiday, David found himself in a large department store, buying a new gown for his mother. He felt rather out of place in a ladies' dress section, but with the aid of an understanding saleslady, he soon found just the thing, a golden brown floral design, his mother's favorite color. Then he thought of slippers to match and a pretty nosegay to pin upon her dress, and he was quite finished. He left the store simply bursting with enthusiasm. Just as he turned the corner toward home, he ran into Dorothy. "Why Dot, I'm so glad to see you."

"Looks like you have been shopping, Davy." "Yes, but I have something important to ask you, Dot. Would you mind having your brother Joe see you to the New Year's ball? I have something very important to attend to first, but I'll be there later."

"Why David Morely, what do you mean?" said Dot, indignantly. "Are you really breaking the spell of our annual rendezvous?" Then, before he could reply, she continued with pretended indifference. "Very well, I'll go with Jean Raft. I know he'll take me. I suppose you are driving Dolly for a ride. Well, you are welcome to her. Good-by!"

Voices and laughter proclaimed the approach of another happy New Year, as David came charging into the cozy living room where his mother was just finishing the home papers. "I have your things laid out, Davy, your best shirt and favorite tie."

"You are always so thoughtful, mother, never thinking of yourself," Dorothy spied them first and came charging over.

said David, as he chuckled, contemplating the great surprise. Some hours later David appeared, quite ready for the evening. He did really look charming and mother did not hesitate in telling him so. "I'm off," he shouted, and then he was gone.

But it was not long before mother heard the loud peal of the door bell. "Who in the world can that be on New Year's eve?" thought she, hurrying to the door. She stepped back in surprise as she saw David, himself, standing there smiling.

"What is it, my boy, have you forgotten something?" "No, mother, I am your gallant knight, come to take you to the New Year's ball. The cab, without, awaits your pleasure, Madam!" And David laughed merrily. They both roared with laughter.

"To prove that I really mean it, mother, go up and look in your room." Although she did not comprehend what it was all about, she climbed the stairs with vague misgivings. But when she beheld the beautiful outfit her son had selected for her, she stood still and stared.

The silence was broken by David shouting impatiently from below: "Hurry, mother, or we shall be late for the ball!" Mother called out, "All right dear," as she slipped into the new finery, truly feeling like a girl again. As she pinned the flower upon her dress, she marveled at David's ingenuity.

An hour later David and his mother arrived at the New Year's ball. Dorothy spied them first and came charging over, flushed and excited. "Oh, Davy, can you ever forgive me?" she sighed, beaming upon him, adoringly. David's reply was drowned out by the Happy New Year wishes on all sides of them, but his eyes expressed the joy of an inspiration fulfilled.

Pleasure Giving— Talking to Advantage of Others and Joy to Ourselves in 1937

TALKING is the recognized medium of communication between persons who are together or who, being absent, use a telephone. It is unfortunate having such a marvelous medium at our command that we so often fail to put it to the use worthy of its value. It is possible to send a glow of happiness through the listener when we speak merited words of appreciation. It is possible to solace those in sorrow by words of comfort spoken from the heart. It is possible to make joy doubly glad some by expressing our happiness in the good fortune of others. Through talking to our children we can spur them on to do fine things, or encourage them in worthy resolves. In short the good we can do by talking in the right spirit is inestimable. Ey talking in the right way we bring good to others and joy to ourselves.

who repeats it cannot believe her ears, and wonders if anyone else knows about the unfortunate circumstances, or else she finds a strange pleasure in repeating slander. It may be the derogatory words are against someone she dislikes. It may be they are about a total stranger. If the talk was commendatory repeating it would foster fine things. Good things should be given frequent repetition. We all could add so much to the pleasure and joy of living during the new year 1937, if we would set a watch on our talk, and by a wishful determination, use this great means at our command to help others. It is one of the things that costs nothing and yet which can do such an endless amount of good. It is a way open to all alike.

It is when we swerve from the best use of the spoken word that we drag it down and harm both ourselves and our hearers. There is an expression "too much talk" which is significant of this very thing. The words speak for themselves, declaring that it would be advisable to cease saying the things we are. It is never said of good words. Of them we could say: Let us have more talk of the same sort, it is needed. Have you ever considered how much is said when derogatory talk is going on? Words are spoken and reiterated over and over again, as if by repetition the unpleasant things would be increased. Unfortunately this is what happens. Unkind or unfriendly conversation, by some perverse twist of human nature, is sure to be repeated, and usually with embellishments. Either the one

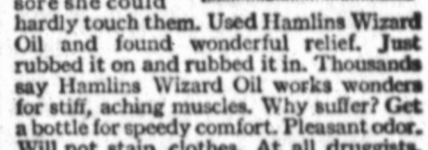

Uncle Phil Says:

Tomorrow Disappoints Tomorrow always promises well, but remember there is reasonably certain to be one disappointment. One loves even a precocious little boy with his front teeth out. He's meeker for the time being. Some men have great patience, but Henry D. Thoreau put it another way by saying they lived a life of quiet desperation. Bills that you run fall due and fall due and fall due; but if you pay as you go, you forget all about your expenditures. We have to go along from day to day, even when we know we are frequently treading on toes. Some become indifferent.

PAIN IN BACK

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon expression is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomfort from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three or four years of life. 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

MRS. FAIRES IS GRATEFUL.
 Mr. Editor and Readers of our good paper:

I don't know where I have been for the past week—perhaps floating through space somewhere, and the descent must have been both pleasant and easy, as I awoke this morning on my bed as usual feeling no bad results after a week of thrills and feasting fit for a queen. The ball of good cheer started rolling Tuesday morning, December 23, and just kept rolling in good eats and presents from friends, children, and grandchildren.

And there were so many nice greetings too—one from Oregon and one from away up close to where Santa Claus lives.

On Christmas morning in came two ladies depositing on my table the biggest feast for two old folks I ever saw. Dad looked over the good things and drew a long breath and said "My! How I wish I had a bigger silo."

I said "Dad, get some spoons and we will have Christmas dinner together today for the first time in a long, long time."

So Dad brought the spoons and we fell to.

I said to Dad, "Now, Dad, don't eat so much. You know good eats always make you sick."

And the old fellow replied, "I don't care, Christmas comes but once a year, and I have plenty of aspirin and alka seltzer tablets."

I can't blame the old fellow for making a pig of himself, because he has been doing his own baking and brewing for the past several months, and he always was like Collin's ram when there were lots of good eats around.

Guess I had better run along; I have stayed too long already. Wish I could say Happy New Year to every one everywhere.

I may come again in the future if the kind editor permits.

Respectfully,
 MRS. W. J. FAIRES.

W. S. (Skip) Taylor and family spent Christmas with one of Mr. Taylor's brothers at Bronte. Returning home Sunday night, Mrs. Taylor and daughter, Olga Faye, left Monday morning to spend the week with Mrs. Taylor's mother, Mrs. Meador, in San Antonio.

W. C. McKinzie and family visited his parents at Lawton, Oklahoma, last week, returning home Sunday. Mr. McKinzie says that an inch of rain fell over most of Oklahoma Saturday, which was very fine for the wheat.

Herman and Miss Hazel Anglin of Farwell spent the Christmas holidays here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Anglin.

Mrs. T. C. Boucher and children of Abilene visited J. K. Woosley and other relatives here Sunday.

DR. GEORGE W. COX
 New Texas State Health Officer

DR. GEORGE W. COX CHOSEN STATE HEALTH OFFICER

Austin, Dec. 30.—A young man's ambition formed nearly thirty years ago materialized on December 14 when Dr. George W. Cox was chosen State Health Officer. Through busy years in the practice of medicine and surgery Dr. Cox nursed the desire to engage in public health work. Dr. Cox as a youthful physician accepted appointment of Gov. Thomas M. Campbell to be in charge of quarantine stations at Brownsville and Corpus Christi. During that four years of service he developed an abiding interest in public health work.

Dr. Cox has had a varied and interesting career in medical and health service. He was born at Gonzales and educated in public schools there and at Polytechnic College at Fort Worth. Later he was in the University of Texas and Vanderbilt University, where he studied pharmacy and advanced chemistry. He was for a time a pharmacist and in the drug business at Corpus Christi. He studied medicine two years in the University of Texas Medical College at Galveston and received his degree after two more years of study in Tulane University, in 1906. It was shortly thereafter that he was appointed by Gov. Campbell in the quarantine service, then maintained by the State and later taken over by the United States Public Health Service. Later he practiced medicine at Corpus Christi and was at Ozona for a time before moving to Del Rio, where he has practiced general medicine and surgery for the past seventeen years.

Dr. Cox was a charter member and is past president of the Del Rio Rotary Club and has been active in all civic affairs of his town. Since he was appointed by Gov. James V. Allred as a member of the State Board of Health in January, 1935, Dr. Cox has devoted his time to an intensive study of public health problems in America. A few months ago he resigned his membership on the Board and since then has been engaged in a study of the public health systems in Kentucky and New York, and the United States Public Health Service in Washington.

Bill Burselen has been sick of the flu this week.

We approve of soil conservation against wind, water and over grazing and believe all flood and silt control should begin in the water sheds. We believe in conservation of all timber and natural resources.

Special instructions to our representative to the National Convention: Ask for a clause in the farm bill to read something like this:

First: That the landlord only receive Government money in accord to the amount of rent that he receives for his land; to-wit, if he only receives one-fourth as is the custom on cotton he will only get one-fourth of the federal money.

Second: Make the tenant's part of crop and money independent of landlord's part, with the right to do as he pleases with same.

Third: That all farm labor shall receive standard union wages and shall work standard union hours. Further, that labor shall be classified as skilled, semi-skilled and common labor—skilled laborers being the operators of all motor-driven machinery, semi-skilled being all assistants to the operators of motor driven machinery, and common laborers shall be composed of that class of labor to which belong men, women and children without any training.

Lady's Painful Trouble

Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." ... If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method to express our heartfelt thanks to those friends and neighbors who so generously aided us following the disastrous fire which destroyed our home. Mr. and Mrs. Grady Burkhart.

D. W. Gagnat Will Hold Open House For Farmers In This Area As Part Of The John Deere Centennial

"THE BLACKSMITH'S GIFT," A HOLLYWOOD FILM EPIC, STARRING MONTE BLUE WILL BE ONE OF THE FEATURES OF ALL DAY PROGRAM JAN. 7th UNDER AUSPICES OF LOCAL JOHN DEERE DEALER

D. W. Gagnat Hardware, local implement dealers, will hold an all day open house and an all day program of entertainment and educational features, on Thursday, January 7th, in their store and the English Theatre to commemorate the John Deere Centennial.

This remarkable picture is an all-Hollywood production, featuring Monte Blue, and that outstanding comedian of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," Fuzzy Knight, in a dramatic story of the early settlement of the West. It relates the story of a grave problem that threatened for a time to defeat the advance of the early settlers—and tells how one man met that difficulty with a solution which changed the course of American history.

In its gripping drama there is sentiment aplenty, but the loquacious Fuzzy Knight as a gossip hanger-on offers a continuous run of comedy. Other leading parts are played by Arthur Aylesworth, Otis Harlan, Anne Hovey, John Marlowe, and Claire McDowell.

In addition to this feature production, three other pictures will be shown, including "From One Anvil," a sequel to "The Blacksmith's Gift," "Her Husband's Choice," and a short news reel showing new developments in agricultural methods.

"Her Husband's Choice" is a sequel to "Sheppard & Son," shown last year. You'll see your old friends of former years—Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard; their son, Dick; their daughter, Phyllis; her soon-to-be husband, George Barkley, and Jim Brady. It's the story of a modern farm boy and girl planning to start in farming for themselves . . . their efforts to restore the family farm . . . their plans for tractors, implements, and crops . . . and how the desire for a tractor was satisfied in a very unusual way. This picture, packed with entertainment, is an education in modern farming methods as well.

Besides the entertainment features, the program of the day will include talks and demonstrations which will, in effect, be a short course in modern farming and D. W. Gagnat extends a cordial invitation to every farmer in this area to be present for a day of pleasure and profit.

"We especially want every farm boy who is interested in becoming a better farmer to be present," Mr. Gagnat said. "Much of the program will be of special interest to young people on the farm."

The hosts of the day plan to make this open house one of the big occasions of the season where farmers from every section may meet and get acquainted and exchange experiences. At the same time, it will be an opportunity to learn many new ideas which will make farm operations more profitable.

The open house this year is a part of the John Deere Centennial celebration; for it was in 1837, just 100 years ago, that John Deere gave to the world the steel plow.
