COUNTY FARM BOARD NAMED

Meetings Held In Five Districts Of Lynn County This Week To Select Committees

The new government soil conservation program was explained and community committees elected in five divisions of Lynn county Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights of this week. Good attendance and interesting discussions are reported at all meetings by County Agent V. F. Jones and his assistant, C. A. Lawrence, who conducted the sessions.

Each of the five divisions of the county is represented by a committee, the chairman of which automatically becomes a member of the county board. And, from the county board will be selected three men to compose the important county committee.

The following are the committees selected to date:

New Home: J. R. Strain, chairman, Lynn West, W. D. Askew, and New Barham, alternate.

Wells: P. O. Cabbiness, chairman, Fred McInty, E. A. Roberts, and J. Wright Edwards alternate.

Edith: R. M. Stewart, J. W. Norman, J. W. Link, and Rush Dudgeon and R. W. Barton alternates.

Draw: E. W. Holloway, H. W. Calloway, Lonnie Williams; and L. T. Brewer, B. F. Rainey, and H. C. Beattie, alternates.

Meetings were held at Wilson and Morgan, both in the same division, Thursday night, too late for us to report the committee selected this week. R.

RAIN IS AID TO SOUTH PLAINS

Wheat And Pastures Are Benefitted. Excellent Season In Ground For Crop Year

The entire South Plains section was covered with a soaking rain last Thursday and Friday.

Last week we reported a rainfall here amounting to .34 of an inch. Well, old Jupiter Pluvius got on the job again almost before the paper was off the press and he didn't let up until our rain gage measured 1.44 inches. The rain fell slowly, continuing over a period of many hours, and the weather has alternated since between cool, cloudy days and warm balmy ones, with no drying winds, thus permitting the moisture to soak deep into the soil.

The rain was not only fine for the pastures and wheat fields but it has put the soil in fine condition for the planting of other crops, though planting time is not here yet. Farmers and business men are much pleased over the outlook.

Rain was very light in the Amarillo country, we are sorry to report, though it was sufficient to be of considerable help to wheat. There have been so many dry years and wheat failures in that part of the state that everybody down in this cotton-and-maize country is hoping that the wheat belt may have abundant rains soon.

Start Beautifying Public Square

For the past several days workers have been busy cutting down the old unsightly trees on the court house lawn and removing them. The lawn has been well broken up with plows and will be leveled and smoothed. An underground irrigation system is also to be installed.

At a meeting of the commissioners court Monday, Miss Lillith Boyd was appointed to supervise the landscaping and beautification work. She will have such shrubs and flowers and grasses planted out as her judgment may dictate.

The prospects are that the lawn will yet be made "a thing of beauty and a joy forever." The commissioners court is to be commended and congratulated upon this forward step.

Tennis Contests At New Lynn

New Lynn will be host at a tennis tournament this week end at which there will be contestants from four counties, Lynn, Garza, Terry, and Dawson, according to J. B. Bolin, superintendent of the school.

Contests begin at 2:30 p. m. Friday and continue throughout this afternoon and all day Saturday. Tournaments are in both boys and girls' singles and doubles. Awards will be given first, second and third place winners in each contest.

All schools are invited to enter. The contests will be on New Lynn's new clay tennis courts. Excellent backstops have been built.

School Consolidation Is Being Talked

Sentiment is growing in favor of a centralized high school in the eastern part of Lynn county, J. B. Bolin, superintendent at New Lynn, told The News Saturday.

The plan, should it meet with the favor of the patrons, is to combine the New Lynn, Garlyn, Magnolia and Gordon districts for high school purposes. An election will possibly be called some time soon on the proposition, he says.

Grade schools would be maintained as at present, but all high school students would attend one centralized high school.

MISS TREDWAY WEDS

Miss Emma Tredway, formerly of Tahoka, and Mr. Otis Harris of O'Donnell were married recently.

Independent Basketball Tournament Under Way At Tahoka Gymnasium

An independent basketball tournament began at the grade school gymnasium here last night and will continue through tonight and Saturday night. The games begin at 7 p. m. and four games are being played each night.

At the conclusion of the tournament Saturday night, 65 individual medals will be awarded and three trophies to the teams winning first, second, and third place.

The eight teams engaging in the tournament last night were: Post, Southland, New Home, New Lynn, Pleasant Valley, Kraft Cheese of Lubbock, CCC Camp of Lamesa, and Tahoka.

A small admission fee is charged each night.

E. Galloway Of Welch Is Buried

Funeral services were held in the Baptist Church here last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock for Mr. E. Galloway, father of Mrs. Jim Burleson, who died in the West Texas Hospital at 4:04 o'clock Friday morning. Death resulted from meningitis following a mastoid operation. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Geo. A. Dale, and interment was made in the Tahoka Cemetery under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home. The body was laid to rest beside the remains of his wife, who died March 4, 1926, eleven years almost to a day preceding his death.

Mr. Galloway's home was at Welch in Dawson county. He had been suffering for some time with an ear affection and was taken to a Lubbock hospital Monday for an examination. He came back to the Burleson home here and the next morning he was suffering so intensely that Mr. and Mrs. Burleson took him to the West Texas Hospital, where he was found to be in a most serious condition. There an operation was decided upon as the only possible means of saving his life, but that proved unavailing. Mr. Galloway was almost 75 years of age and a native Texan, having been born in Upshur county on March 28, 1864. While he was yet a child the family moved to Bastrop county, where he was married to Miss Mag-

Walter Forrester Buried Saturday

Walter J. Forrester, 59, another of the early settlers of this county, died here at 11 o'clock Friday night at the home of his sister, Mrs. R. L. ("Aunt Beckie") Roberts, following a long illness. Cancer of the intestines and liver was the cause of his death. He had not been well for a year but his condition did not appear to be critical until about a week before his death.

Funeral services were conducted at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Harris Funeral Home, Rev. Geo. A. Dale officiating, and interment was in the Tahoka Cemetery.

Walter Forrester was one of the earliest settlers of this county though he moved away many years ago and had resided elsewhere most of the time since.

He was born on September 15, 1877, at New Hope, Arkansas. His father and family removed from Arkansas to Limestone county, Texas, when Walter was a lad thirteen years of age. They resided at or near Mexia two years and then removed to Snyder. In 1900, the father and two sons, Walter and Robert, filed on state lands situated near the line of Lynn and Terry counties and established a ranch and moved upon it. This later became known as the Lumsden Ranch. About 1911 or 1912, Walter sold his ranching interests and removed to California. He continued to reside

Pleas Of Guilty In Liquor Cases

Pleas of guilty were entered in the county court Tuesday by Lawrence Jackson and Fred Pierce to informations charging the sale of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws of this state.

Judge Goad assessed Jackson's punishment at a fine of $100.00 and imprisonment for 60 days in the county jail. Pierce is a mere youth, and his punishment was a fine of $100.00 without imprisonment. His fine has been paid. He has doubtless learned a lesson by which he will profit. Jackson has filed motion for a new trial.

Another youth, Fred Moore, entered a plea of guilty to the offense of mischievously driving nails into an automobile at the Lakeview school house recently. He was fined $1.00 and the trimmings.

Receive Awards For League Meet

Pennants and ribbons for the Interscholastic League meet to be held here two weeks hence have arrived. Superintendent Barrett announces. There are seven pennants and 150 sets of ribbon, each set consisting of one blue, one red, and one white ribbon.

The pennants are to be awarded to the winners in boys' playground ball, girls' playground ball, volley ball, boys' debate, girls' debate, one-act play, and choral singing.

The ribbons are to be awarded to first, second, and third places in various contests.

Preliminary contests among the pupils of the Tahoka schools in the story-telling and declamation contests were held in the high school building here Wednesday and Thursday nights.

"Womanless Wedding" Will Be Held In Tahoka Next Thursday Evening

The gala social affair of the year, the formal wedding of Miss Willie (W. G.) Barrett to Mr. Shorty (George) Hogan, will take place amidst a glamorous setting on the stage of the high school auditorium Thursday night, March 18, at 7:45 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The ceremony itself will be performed by Bro. Truett Smith. The wedding will take place before a beautifully decorated altar of onion tops, turnip greens, celery, and other flowers of the blooming variety. The bride will also carry a bouquet of the same flowers.

Little Miss Alvin Hicks will be the ring bearer, accompanied by little Miss Louie Weathers as train bearer. Flower girls who will appear in pretty little dresses of pastel shades are: Misses Carl Pratt, W. D. Smith, Prentiss Walker and Jack Minor. They will strew flowers (vegetables to you) in the path of the bride as she approaches the altar.

Miss V. F. Jones will be maid of honor, and Miss L. F. Craft will be matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Misses E. S. Evans, Rollin McCord, Oscar Roberts, Buster Fenton, Cecil Ayers, Frank Hill, Pete Hegi, Homey Maxey, H. B. McCord, Emil Prohl, Harlan Cook, and Jess Gurley.

Special guests in town for the wedding are: Misses Mae West (D. W. Gagnat to you), Raymond Weathers, Claude Gentry, Fred Bucy and two nieces, Wynne Collier and T. T. Garrard, and little Miss K. R. Durham.

FARMERS GET SOIL CHECKS

Money From Government For Soil Conservation Received By 207 Farmers This Week

The first bunch of soil conservation checks from the Federal Government arrived in Tahoka Tuesday and are being handed out to farmers by the county agent's office. A total of 356 checks were received on 207 out of 1107 complying farms for a total of $63,895.20.

The average received by each farmer is a little over $300, however, Assistant Agent C. A. Lawrence explains that since several large farms were included in the first bunch of checks, the average for the county will possibly not run quite that high.

These funds being distributed now are for soil conservation, including contouring and terracing of land and for the plowing under of crops left on the ground to build up the soil and to prevent erosion by rain and wind. Mr. Lawrence says.

Other checks are expected to arrive at an early date, but farmers are requested not to call at the agent's office to inquire for them until they receive a card of notification that the checks are ready.

City Candidate Line-Up Changes

There have been some changes in the line-up of candidates for city offices since our announcement last week.

The name of Deen Nowlin has been filed as a candidate for mayor, following the withdrawal of his name from the list of candidates for aldermen.

Homer Harrison has also filed as a candidate for city marshal, and A. F. McGlaun has withdrawn from the race.

The name of Joe Bovell has been filed as a candidate to succeed himself as alderman. The name of Belton Howell has also been filed. The other candidate for alderman is L. F. Craft. Two are to be elected. We still have no information as to whether Jim Burleson, whose term as alderman expires with this election, will permit the use of his name again or not.

WOW Will Start On Building Soon

It was announced a few weeks ago that the Woodmen of the World Camp here would build a hall on the east side of the square. Their plans have been changed, however, and they are now planning to build on a couple of lots recently purchased which lie immediately north of the John Evans Filling Station, facing Sweet Street.

The building will be about the same dimensions as that originally planned for the east side of the square, which was 24 by 64 feet in size, and will be of stucco finish. Work is expected to begin within a few days.

Boydston's Barber Shop Will Move

The Boydston Barber and Beauty Shop situated on upper Main Street is preparing to move into new quarters.

The compartment of the Good-nough building on the west side of the square which is occupied by the Thompson Land Company is being fitted up for the purpose and the barber shop and beauty shop will be moved into it some time next week.

Charley Thompson has reserved a space in the building, however, and will continue to conduct his real estate business in this building.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. White of the Piggy-Wiggly Store and their son Tommy and James Lake, who works in the store, have all been sick of the flu recently.

WILL REBUILD PRESENT LINES

Government Grant Of $3,500 Given City Of Tahoka For Water Line Improvement

Work of extending the city water works with WPA funds was begun Wednesday morning, according to Mayor Jim Dye. About twenty workers have been assigned to the job, we understand, but only about ten of them are on the job at the same time.

Just now the pipes leading from the old city wells to the reservoir are being taken up. This piping will be used to replace smaller pipes throughout the city. In many places also the pipe now being used will be laid deeper so as to prevent freezing in the severest weather. Altogether changes will be made in about 13,000 feet of the city pipe lines. WPA funds to the amount of about $3,500 have been allocated to this purpose, we are told. The City will be out only a nominal sum.

Football Boys Given Sweaters

At the High School chapel meeting Wednesday, beautiful lettered sweaters consisting of a blue coat with a white chenille letter, were awarded to the following football boys and their coach, Prentiss Walker: Joy Edwin Brown, Clyde Godsey, Travis McCord, Paul Casebeer, Reed Parker, Truett Cooper, Arvil Akin, R. C. Wells, Max Minor, Harold Snowden, G. C. Price, James Patti, Robert Maddox, Nathan Wooley, Hiram Snowden, and Delton Pemberton.

Delton Pemberton is the captain, and Travis McCord has been elected captain for next year.

Doctor Is Indicted After Baby Dies

Sheriff B. L. Parker returned Wednesday night from Elgin in charge of Dr. Robert Harp of this city, who stands charged by indictment with the offense of destroying the life of an unborn baby. The child was that of a Mexican woman residing near New Home and the offense is alleged to have been committed about the middle of February. The Doctor was indicted by the grand jury here a few days ago.

Dr. Harp left here about two weeks ago, informing District Attorney Truett Smith where he was going. We are not advised as to whether a trial will be sought at this term of the court or at a later date.

Market Is Leased By Ivan Cathcart

Ivan Cathcart, who has been operating the market for the Guarantee Food Store the past few months, has leased it and will run it on his own hook hereafter.

He is running his advertisement, however, in connection with the grocery advertisement. He will appreciate your patronage.

JAMES MINOR HONORED

Word has reached Tahoka that James Minor of this city, a student this year in Howard Payne College at Brownwood, was recently honored by being elected president of the Freshman class. Since the class contains about 300 members, this was a distinct honor. James made an enviable record in school here both as a student and as an athlete and his numerous friends are proud of the record he is making at Howard Payne.

MARRIED HERE

J. P. Morgan, who lives out in the east portion of the county, and Miss Geraldine Lovelady Nelson of Milesboro were united in marriage here by Rev. Geo. A. Dale on March 2.

J. B. Walker was confined to his room with the flu several days last week.

Fire Does Damage At Luallin Home

Fire of undetermined origin did considerable damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ovid Luallin about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Only the north wall of the house itself, however, was seriously damaged. A piano sitting near the wall was apparently damaged beyond repair. Some additional damage to the interior of the building was also done by fire and water, but the fire department succeeded in extinguishing the flames before they spread to any great extent.

No one was at home at the time except Ovid, who was in the backyard. Others discovered the fire before he did. How the fire originated is yet an unsolved mystery. It caught either in the piano or on the north wall near the piano.

Insurance was carried on the building in one of the companies represented here by R. W. Fenton Jr., and a satisfactory adjustment was made promptly.

Barnes Is Charged Liquor Violation

W. C. Barnes was arrested and placed in jail a few days ago on a charge of selling liquor in violation of law.

The evidence in this and other cases filed here recently was collected, it seems, by a representative of the state liquor board.

SPEAKS AT LUBBOCK

Frank P. Hill appeared on the program of the West Texas Museum Association at Texas Tech last Friday evening, speaking on "Folklore of the South Plains." His talk was originally scheduled for the afternoon program, but was changed to the banquet hour, due to the absence of Coke Stevenson, scheduled for that time. An address by Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul featured the night program. Judge and Mrs. Tom Garrard also were present from Tahoka.

McPHERSON HAS PNEUMONIA

J. B. McPherson was taken to a sanitarium in Lubbock for treatment for pneumonia Tuesday. One lung was badly affected and the other slightly so on Wednesday, it is said. He had been sick several days before pneumonia developed.

Lewis and C. I. O. Gain Recognition From Steel Industry and Plan to Tackle Textiles—Neutrality Measure Adopted by Senate.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union

YOU'VE got to hand it to John L. Lewis. The beetle-browed leader of the C. I. O. is going places and doing things, despite several setbacks in his plans to unionize all industry. The steel magnates are yielding to a great extent, and the threat of a general strike in that industry is fading out. With the Carnegie-Illinois corporation, largest subsidiary of United States Steel, leading the way, the biggest concerns in that industry are granting increases in wages and the 40 hour week, and agreeing to deal with the unions affiliated with the C. I. O. This is the first time in forty-five years that "Big Steel" has recognized union labor as a bargaining agency for its employees.

John L. Lewis

Lewis and Philip Murray, chairman of the steel workers' organizing committee, were jubilant, but the Carnegie-Illinois corporation issued an official statement that toned them down a bit.

"The company will recognize any individual, group, or organization as the spokesmen for those employees it represents," the statement said, "but it will not recognize any single organization or group as the exclusive bargaining agency for all employees."

"Under this policy the status of the employee representation plan is likewise unchanged. It will continue as the spokesman for those of the employees who prefer that method of collective bargaining, which has proved so mutually satisfactory throughout its existence."

The General Electric company declared its willingness to discuss a national collective bargaining agreement with the United Electrical Workers, a C. I. O. affiliate; and the indications were that Lewis and the Appalachian coal operators would be able to negotiate a new wage and hour agreement in time to avert a coal miners' strike.

The C. I. O. announced the formation of the United Shoe Workers of America with a nucleus of 20,000 members and went after New England's shoe industry. Still more important, Lewis and his aids let it be known that the next target of the C. I. O. drive would be the textile industry.

Secretary of Commerce Roper and Secretary of Labor Perkins expressed much gratification over recent developments.

That the public, as usual, will have to pay for what the worker gains in all these negotiations was evidenced by the action of the steel companies which announced price increases of $3 to $8 a ton for semi-finished and finished steel products.

The sit-down strike policy was tried at Sarnia, Ont., and promptly was given a black eye. Fifty employees of the Holmes foundry there took possession of the plant, but 300 nonstriking workers battled them for two hours, threw them all out and sent nine to the hospital. The police did not interfere with the fight. Shortly after negotiations opened between the Chrysler motor corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America, the union presented resignations of 103 of the 120 employee representatives on work councils in Chrysler plants in the Detroit area. The resignations all said "the great majority of our constituents are heartily in favor of the U. A. W. A. as the sole bargaining agency to represent them."

Sit-down strikers in the plant of the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation at North Chicago, Ill., who defied court eviction orders, were routed by a force of deputies and police armed with tear gas guns, and were arrested for contempt of court. Also taken into custody was the strike leader, Max Adelman, who had fled to Wisconsin. The strikers and their friends insisted they would prevent the reopening of the plant by strong picket lines and the corporation obtained an injunction against such procedure. The sheriff said he was prepared to deal with any act of violence. This is another C. I. O. strike, and Governor Horner of Illinois gained no glory in his efforts to settle it.

Among the many strikes in the Detroit district was one of 150 employees, mostly girls, of the largest Woolworth store in Detroit. They planned to extend the strike to all other units of the company there, meanwhile keeping the big store closed by the sit-down method.

BUSINESS men and economists again were talking about the prospects of inflation after the decision of the Supreme court upholding the New Deal's gold clause abrogation act for the second time. The ruling was made in the case of the Holyoke Water company, which, moved by a desire to protect itself against loss in the event that the dollar should be debased, had written into leases to the American Writing Paper company clauses giving it the privilege of demanding from the latter payment in gold coin or bar gold. Now the Holyoke company must be content to accept payment in present depreciated dollars.

The court's decision was regarded as removing the last barrier to the free exercise of authority over monetary matters by the administration.

GUESTS at "victory dinners" all over the country heard President Roosevelt deliver at the feast in Washington a preliminary appeal to his party and the nation to support his plan to pack the Supreme court. He said that a crisis exists demanding immediate social and economic legislation to improve the lot of the common man and that there is no time to lose, lest a great calamity, such as a revolution or the advent of a dictatorship, be visited upon the country in the two or three years that might be necessary to remove the obstruction of the New Deal in the manner prescribed by existing law.

Incidentally, Mr. Roosevelt let his hearers understand that he has no intention of seeking a third term in the White House.

OUR War department has finally decided that the autogyro is a good thing—long after European nations reached the same conclusion. Secretary Woodring announced that six autogyros had been purchased for military purposes at a cost of $238,482. They are the Kellitt KDL wingless planes, which have a top speed of 125 miles, a minimum of 16 miles, a cruising speed of 103 miles, and a cruising range of 3 1/2 hours, or 361 miles. The plane is powered with a Jacobs I-4 engine, which develops 225 b. h. p. at 2,000 r. p. m.

The army air command for years resisted suggestions for tests of the autogyro but for the last year it has been tried out by all branches of the army and the report was that it was essential to the modernization of the army.

"FREEDOM of the seas" as an American policy was abandoned by the senate when it passed, by a vote of 62 to 6, the resolution submitted by Senator Key Pittman on behalf of the foreign affairs committee continuing the President's present power to declare an embargo upon the shipments of arms, ammunition and implements of war to belligerent nations.

The measure also provides that President may declare it unlawful for any American vessel or aircraft to carry to warring nations any articles whatsoever he may enumerate. However, foreign nations may purchase such articles, arms and munitions not included, and transport them to their own countries at their own risk. And the act will not apply to an American republic, such as a South American country, engaged in war against a non-American country provided that the American republic is not co-operating with a non-American state in such a war.

Senators Borah and Johnson fought valiantly against adoption of the resolution but when it came to a vote only four others supported them. These were Austin, Bridges, Gerry and Lodge.

THERE is war on between Mayor Fiorella H. La Guardia of New York and Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany. The mayor, addressing a gathering of Jewish women, proposed that a "Hall of Horrors" be erected for the city's 1939 world fair which would include a figure of "that brown-shirted fanatic who is menacing the peace of the world."

Hitler himself made no retort but Ambassador Luther was directed to protest to the State department. The Berlin press raged against La Guardia, one of the mildest names applied to him being "scoundrel super-Jew."

AFTER a lively debate the house of commons endorsed Great Britain's huge rearmament program by a vote of 243 to 134. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who outlined the principles of the British foreign policy, repudiated the policy of universal military commitments for Europe as "unworkable" with Germany and other powers absent from the League of Nations.

Next day the navy announced that its share of the rearmament program would cost $325,325,000, this including the construction of 80 warships. Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, said only $135,000,000 of the cost will be borne by Britain's new $2,000,000,000 defense loan, forcing the nation's taxpayers to dip into their pockets for the additional $390,325,000.

We make fun of the bathing suits our mothers wore. But middle-aged persons of both sexes disporting on the beach in the modern skimpees present a morbid, not to say gruesome, spectacle, except to students of the adult human leg, including the slabby-shanked, the full-calfed, the bowed, the double-jointed, the buckled, the knock-kneed, the spavined, the ankle-sprung, the heavy-hocked, the varicose-veined, the fur-bearing, etc., etc.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Privacy for the Windsors.
SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—"In order to live quietly and escape as much public attention as possible—" I'm quoting the dispatch—"the duke of Windsor and Mrs. Simpson, following their marriage, will seek a secluded residence in the United States."

The idea is not new. Hoping to kill Stanford White in some very remote secret nook, Harry Thaw picked out a New York roof garden on the first night of a big musical comedy. And only lately one of our movie queens, striving to get away from it all, put on all her portable jewelry and went to the Broadway preview of one of those colossal, titanic, gigantic, mastodontic superscreen epics, only to come forth complaining that one could never flee to the most private of hiding places without being annoyed by crowds.

So America is certainly the right place for the newlyweds' honeymoon—where nobody will stare at them, or follow them, or yell at them or ask for autographs or photographs or interviews or try to tear their clothes off for souvenirs.

Why, just off-hand, I can think of fully three spots where famous folks may enjoy such immunity—Mount McKinley in the winter, Death Valley in the summer and Alcatraz island all the year round.

Giving Up Earl Browder.

FOR years it has been my regular custom to give up something during Lent. Last year I gave up boiled turnips—I never eat boiled turnips, anyhow—and jokes about Mae West.

The year before, I gave up "Anthony Adverse" (at page 2,749) and nearly all Little Theater movements. The year before I gave up Upton Sinclair as my spiritual guide in matters political.

For this year I decided to give up Mr. Earl Browder. I don't quarrel with his sincerity. He happens, though, to be the outstanding exponent in America of the communist movement, which has done so much for human happiness and human progress in the countries that tried it, such as Russia.

Victory Dinners.

WHO says New Dealers aren't smart business men? That $100 victory dinner means a clear profit of $94.70, figuring the food at $5 a head and the combined speeches at 30 cents, which, even if they average up to most after-dinner speeches, is indeed a high valuation.

Back in Andy Jackson's day you could pay off a campaign deficit with hoop poles and con peels. And in Thomas Jefferson's time the strongest pack mule in Virginia couldn't tote $100 worth of vittles. So, naturally Jeffersonian simplicity and Jacksonian thrift will be extolled.

Presumably the Republicans will follow suit with a nonvictory dinner or donation shower for John Hamilton's hope chest. Needy guests will wear Liberty Leaguers' old clothes, while the idea of having Canada annex Maine and Vermont will be strongly opposed.

Congressman Ham Fish will speak—such being his habit—unless, for economy's sake, they switch his name around hind part before and serve him as two courses.

Signs of Spring.

OUT here the first sign of spring is not the birds coming back. Mainly, our birds don't flit away. They go mute awhile, being practically the only residents that even temporarily refrain from bragging about the climate, or, in case of a cold snap, explaining that this is very unusual.

With us the herald of spring is the surf-bather—that hardy adventurer who plunges in and comes forth as blue as an Easter egg and as deflated-looking as a toy balloon on the morning after circus day. Because the Pacific is never what you'd call a real cozy ocean and especially it isn't following a chill-some winter.

We make fun of the bathing suits our mothers wore. But middle-aged persons of both sexes disporting on the beach in the modern skimpees present a morbid, not to say gruesome, spectacle, except to students of the adult human leg, including the slabby-shanked, the full-calfed, the bowed, the double-jointed, the buckled, the knock-kneed, the spavined, the ankle-sprung, the heavy-hocked, the varicose-veined, the fur-bearing, etc., etc.

Sometimes a fellow gets to thinking that right young babies and raw oysters are almost the only things that should ever be exhibited on the half-shell.

Study Plan for Crop Insurance

Idea Is to Try It on Wheat in 1938; How It Will Work on Individual Farm

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON—The government is preparing to embark on the plan to insure the wheat crop of the country, beginning in 1938; and a bill to provide for the Federal Crop Insurance corporation, introduced by Senator Pope of Idaho is being studied. It follows the suggestion made by President Roosevelt in a recent message and incorporates the views of an agricultural department committee which has given long and serious thought to the matter.

It is certainly not a new idea. Crop insurance has been longed for and proposed and tried out here and elsewhere. The thing runs back a long way, but the first mention of it here was a Japanese trial made under the auspices of a German economist back in the eighties. Private insurance companies have tried it out disastrously in this country, (except as to hail insurance), failing because they bit off more than they could chew when they tried to insure crop prices in addition to crop yields.

In this new government crop insurance ideal the premiums will be paid in wheat or a cash equivalent, a lien on the crop, or some other security. But one definite proposal is to use the premiums thus collected to build up a vast storage of wheat against the day when a national shortage requires going to the bins and distributing the stored-up wheat.

The immediate query from individuals is "How it will work on an individual farm?" It works like insurance on anything else—business enterprise or human life. The amount of insurance on any farm is to be determined by the average yield on that particular farm; the farmer to be insured a percentage on the average yield of his farm over a period of years. This insures the crop and not the price. The examples given to congress by the President are based upon a six years' average. This provides for low premiums on farms with low average yields, but it does not prevent a good coverage on farms that produce good yields. Wherever possible both the premium and the indemnity are to be in bushels of wheat.

On one farm where figures were used for the purpose of a simple explanation, the average yield per acre for six years was eight bushels. To insure a wheat crop on that farm the experts conclude that a premium of one and one third bushels of wheat would be charged. This is one single farm, in a section near Washington, D. C. The principle would be the same elsewhere, but the figures might be different.

Although the insurance corporation which would be set up under the present plan will be able eventually to insure other crops, wheat is chosen as the first to be insured for two reasons: One, the wheat farmers appear to be more strongly united behind the idea; two, because the program is experimental and it seems wiser to start with a single commodity. In addition, there is a further limitation, the insurance plan will probably be open only to farmers participating in the present soil erosion program, because this crop insurance plan will be made a part and parcel of the whole extensive agricultural program. Paraphrasing it should be said that the administration's agricultural experts believe the best crop insurance program was the A. A. A. program which has been killed by the Supreme court's idea that agriculture is a local and not an interstate affair.

Statistical sharks working on the possibilities of insured wheat crops say that had there been widespread wheat-crop insurance during the past six years, wheat farmers actually would have received some of the benefit of increased prices—a blessing generally saved for the speculators instead of the producers. This would come about by means of the storage of wheat from premiums in good years and the reduction of such reserves in the poor years. They base this on the returns from the great plains area. Payment of premiums with wheat in that area from 1930-1932 inclusive would have piled up a 75,000,000 bushel wheat reserve. In the next three years the droughts would have wiped out the reserves, for they would have been paid back for drought stricken insured wheat farmers. Paying that insurance back in wheat would net the farmers a profit. The wheat paid in premiums was worth about $60,000,000; the wheat paid back as insurance would have been worth $100,000,000—a profit of $40,000,000 to the wheat farmers of the great plains. It looks good. Whether or not this speculative feature is authentic, the best view here is that crop insurance will reduce to some extent, the necessity for seed loans, feed loans, drought relief and similar emergency aids. Because of this reduction in relief the government would be justified in contributing toward the administration and storage expenses of a crop insurance corporation. The federal expenditures in agricultural relief total about $615,000,000 for the past ten years; and this does not include the A. A. A. benefit payments.

Government experience in insurance includes the famous war risk insurance, insuring ships under the American flag. The insurance placed was $2,250,000,000, the premiums collected $46,000,000; the losses paid $29,000,000—profit! $17,000,000. The cost of administering this enormous business for four years was only $165,000, which is proof that government can run a business.

A large section of the power trust has decided it is cheaper to obey the holding company act and register with the Securities and Exchange commission than fight it. So the two tremendous holding companies known as the North American company, ($1,250,000,000) and the American Water Works and Electric company, ($500,000,000) have placed their names on the register in the office of Jim Landis, keen and tireless chairman of the S. E. C. That means 67 out of 265 Power Trust Holding companies submit voluntarily to government regulations. The rest are still holding out, possibly waiting for the final settlement of the law suit brought by one of the granddaddies in the Power Holding company field—the huge Electric Bond and Share corporation which has so far refused to sign on the dotted line, refuses to register, and declares that if a holding company registers as a holding company with the SEC., it loses or rather waives all its constitutional rights in any other matter between the power trust and Uncle Sam.

This sounds as if they were scared to register, but already a federal court in New York (Judge Mack) rules that they must do so under the law, and although that case may be taken to the Supreme court, the two big shots of the power world mentioned above concluded that they had enough of the fight and voluntarily threw up their hands.

The power trust need not be credited with a change of heart on any count except that it is cheaper to comply with the law than not. You see these huge companies need to issue stock and sell bonds constantly. They could refinance themselves—all of them—right now, at a great saving because interest rates are lower than they have been for years. These corporations could easily call in hundreds of millions of dollars worth of their existing securities and issue new securities in their place at much lower interest rates and save millions a year. BUT under this securities and exchange law (SEC) they are not permitted to issue any securities at all unless they come in and register. Those companies which have registered have had the benefit of this new low interest rate; some of the others may drag on too long—and sink of their own weight with all this old fashioned high interest rates on their books.

The necessity to register is a part of the holding company act which contains the famous "death sentence," which is the section empowering the SEC to order the dissolution or separation of large, useless, or corrupt holding companies. Many of these large concerns will be taken apart. That will not affect the operation of electric light and power companies, but it will prevent too powerful a control over billions of dollars worth of other folks' money by small groups of financiers. Nor will there be any great losses; in fact in some instances there will be a profit to the stockholders. Furthermore, the dissolving process will take a long time.

This government, trying to juggle battleships and world peace all at once, finds it necessary to authorize the building of two new tremendous battleships that will cost $50,000,000 apiece—and thus serve notice on the rest of the world that while we regret it—we are not going to stand by and take a dare from anyone.

The world's attempts to limit naval armaments and expenditures was a farce to nearly every nation except the United States of America.

We now have fifteen battleships, all we were permitted to have under former treaties. Battleships, it should be recalled, are the central floating fortresses around which whole fleets of lighter vessels, cruisers, destroyers, submarines and aeroplanes operate. They have the long range guns; the greatest threat.

We are not superior in battleship strength. England has 19 and is building two. England ruefully announces a tremendous naval building program costing seven and a half billions—and that country is reeling from the idea of added taxes. Japan, already scraping the bottom of the till for cash, is adding eighty-eight vessels of all sorts to its fleet; France is building two battleships and forty other warships. There is a never ending discussion as to the efficacy of battleships versus aeroplanes. Can a battleship withstand the attack of an airship? Both sides have good arguments—at any rate this country which ought to be supreme in the air, stands seventh on the list of nations in aircraft preparedness. We have 2,074 planes for war; Japan has just as many. Germany has 2,800 planes; France 4,000; Italy 4,400; Great Britain more than 4,600 and Russia is reported to have more than 5,000.

Doughnut on Mayflower

From no less an authority than the American baking industry itself comes the information that the doughnut came over on the Mayflower. The theory is that the Pilgrims had learned to make them in Holland, indicating that this familiar pastry came into the New World by way of Plymouth Rock as well as New Amsterdam.

The information that the first doughnut shop in America was opened in 1796 puts the appropriate stamp of venerableness on a ubiquitous institution.—St. Paul Dispatch.

The GARDEN MURDER CASE

"By George! I did hear something, now that you put it that way. I thought nothing of it at the time, since Woody was already dead. But just as I re-entered the doorway there was an explosion of some kind outside. I thought it was a car back-firing down in the street, and paid no attention to it."

"That's very interesting," Vance's eyes drifted off into space. "I wonder . . . But to continue your tale. You say you left the roof immediately and came downstairs. But there were at least ten minutes from the time you left the garden to the time I encountered you entering the apartment at the front door. How and where did you spend these ten intervening minutes?"

"I stayed on the landing of the stairs and smoked a couple of cigarettes. I was trying to pull myself together."

Heath stood up quickly, one hand in his outside coat pocket, and thrust out his jaw belligerently toward the agitated Kroon.

"What kind of cigarettes do you smoke?" he barked.

The man looked at the Sergeant in bewilderment, and then said: "I smoke gold-tipped Turkish cigarettes. What about it?"

Heath drew his hand from his pocket and looked at something which he held on his palm. "All right," he muttered. Then he addressed Vance. "I got the stubs here. Picked 'em up on the landing when I came up from the dame's apartment."

"Well, well," sneered Kroon. "So the police actually found something! . . . What more do you want?" he demanded of Vance.

"Nothing for the moment, thank you," Vance returned with exaggerated courtesy. "You have done very well by yourself this afternoon, Mr. Kroon. We won't need you any more."

Kroon went to the door without a word.

"A good story," Markham commented dryly when Kroon had gone. "Yes, yes. Good. But reluctant." Vance appeared disturbed. "Do you believe it?"

"My dear Markham, I keep an open mind, neither believin' nor disbelievin' . . . Prayin' for facts. But no facts yet. Drama everywhere, but no substance."

There was a rustle in the passageway, and Madge Weatherby came rushing into the study, with Heath following and protesting vigorously. It was obvious that Miss Weatherby had dashed up the stairs before anyone could interfere with her.

"What's the meaning of this?" she demanded imperiously. "You're letting Cecil Kroon go, after what I've told you? And I"—she indicated herself with a dramatic gesture—"I am being held here, a prisoner."

"The fact is, Miss Weatherby," said Vance, returning to his chair. "Mr. Kroon explained his brief absence this afternoon lucidly and with impelling logic. It seems that he was doing nothing more reprehensible than conferring with Miss Stella Fraemon and a brace of attorneys."

"Ah!" the woman's eyes glared with venom. "Quite so. He was breaking off with the lady for ever and ever."

"Is that the truth?" Miss Weatherby straightened in her chair.

"Yes, yes. No subterfuge. Kroon said you were jealous of Stella. Thought I'd relieve your mind."

"Why didn't he tell me, then?" "There's always the possibility you didn't give him a chance."

The woman nodded vigorously. "Yes, that's right. I wouldn't speak to him when he returned here this afternoon."

"Care to revamp your original theory?" asked Vance. "Or do you still think that Kroon is the culprit?"

"I—I really don't know now," the woman answered hesitantly. "When I last spoke to you I was terribly upset. . . . Maybe it was all my imagination."

Vance looked at the woman quizzically. "Since you're not so sure that Kroon did the deed, have you any other suggestions?"

There was a tense silence. Miss Weatherby's face seemed to contract. She drew in her lips.

"Yes!" she exploded, leaning toward Vance with a new enthusiasm. "It was Zalia Graem who killed Woody! She had the motive, as you call it. She's capable of such things, too. There was something between her and Woody. Then she chucked him over. He didn't have enough money to suit her. You saw the way they acted toward each other today."

"Have you any ideas as to how she managed the crime?" Vance asked quietly.

"She was out of the drawing-room long enough, wasn't she?"

"Poignant question. Situation very mysterious," Vance rose slowly and bowed to the woman. "Thanks awfully—we're most grateful. And we shall not hold you prisoner any longer."

When she had gone Markham grinned sourly. "The lady is well equipped with suspects. What do you make of this new accusation?"

Vance was frowning. "Animosity shunted from Monsieur Kroon to La Graem. Yes. Queer situation. Logically speaking, this new accusation is more reasonable than her first. It has its points . . . If only I could get that disconnected buzzer out of my mind. It must fit somewhere . . . And that second shot—the one we all heard."

Vance again moved to the buzzer and inspected it with care. "No indications of a mechanism."

"It could have been removed before the repair man arrived," theorized Markham without enthusiasm.

"Yes, another possibility. I had thought of that too. But the opportunity was lacking. I came in here immediately after I had found the johnnie shot. . . . He took the cigarette from his lips and straightened up. 'By Jove! Someone might have slipped in here when we all dashed upstairs after the shot. Remote chance, though.'"

"Does the buzzer connect with any other room besides the den?" asked Markham.

Vance shook his head. "No. That's the only connection."

"Didn't you say there was someone in the den at the time you heard this shot?"

Vance's gaze swept past Markham.

"Yes. Zalia Graem was there, ostensibly telephoning." His voice, I thought, was a little bitter.

"We might get more information from the young woman herself," Markham put in sarcastically.

"Oh, yes. Quite. Obvious procedure. But I have a few queries to put to Garden first. Pavin' the way, as it were. I say, Sergeant, collect Floyd Garden and bring him here."

Garden came into the room un- easily and looking slightly haggard. "What a mess!" he sighed, sinking dispiritedly into a chair. "Any light on the case?"

"A few fitful illuminations," Vance told him. "By the by, it seems that your guests walk in and out the front door without the formality of ringing or being announced."

"Oh, yes. But only when we're playing the races. Much more convenient. Saves annoyance and interruptions."

"And another thing: when Miss Graem was phoning in the den and you suggested that she tell the gentleman to call back later, did you actually know that it was a man she was talking to?"

Garden opened his eyes in mild surprise. "Why, no. I was merely ragging her. Hadn't the faintest idea. But, if it makes any difference, I'm sure Sneed could give you the information, if Miss Graem won't. Sneed answered the phone, you know."

"It's of no importance," Vance brushed the matter aside. "It might interest you to know, however, that the buzzer in this room failed to function because someone had carefully disconnected the wires."

"The devil you say!" "Oh, yes. Quite." Vance fixed Garden with a significant look. "This buzzer, if I understand it correctly, is operated only from the den, and when we heard the shot, Miss Graem was in the den. Incidentally, the shot we all heard was not the shot that killed Swift. The fatal shot had been fired at least five minutes before that. Swift never even knew whether he had won or lost his bet."

Garden's gaze was focused on Vance with wide-eyed awe. "God God, man!" He shook his head despondently. "This thing is getting hellish."

"By the by," said Vance, "Miss Weatherby tried to convince us that Miss Graem shot Swift."

"Has she any grounds for such an accusation?"

"Only that Miss Graem had a grudge of some kind against Swift and detested him thoroughly, and that, at the supposed time of his demise, Miss Graem was absent from the drawing-room. Doubts that she was in the den phoning all the time. Thinks she was up here, busily engaged in murder."

Garden drew rapidly on his pipe and seemed to be thinking. "Do you yourself regard Miss Graem as capable of a cold-blooded, skillfully planned murder?"

Garden pursed his lips and frowned. "Damn it, Vance! I can't answer that question. Frankly, I don't know who is and who isn't capable of murder. The younger set today are all bored to death, intolerant of every restraint, living beyond their means, digging up scandal, seeking sensations of every type. Zalia is little different from the rest, as far as I can see. She always seems to be stepping on the gas and exceeding the speed limits. How far she would actually go, I'm not prepared to say. Who is, for that matter? It may be merely a big circus parade with her, or it may be fundamental—a violent reaction from respectability."

"A vivid, though not a sweet, character sketch," murmured Vance. "One might say offhand that you are rather fond of her but don't approve."

Garden laughed awkwardly. "I can't say that I dislike Zalia. Most men do like her—though I don't think any of them understand her. I know I don't. There's some impenetrable wall around her. She's either damned superficial or deep as hell—I can't make up my mind which. As to her status in this present situation . . . well, I don't know. It wouldn't surprise me in the least if Madge was right about her. Zalia has staggered me a couple of times—can't exactly explain it. You remember, when you asked me about father's revolver, I told you Zalia had discovered it in that desk and staged a scene with it in this very room. Well, Vance, my blood went cold at the time. There was something in the way she did it, and in the tone of her voice, that made me actually fear that she was fully capable of shooting up the party. I was relieved when she put the gun back and shut the drawer. . . . All I can say," he added, "is that I don't wholly understand her."

"No. Of course not. No one can wholly understand another person. If anyone could he'd understand everything. Not a comfortin' thought . . . Thanks awfully for the recital of your fears and impressions. You'll look after matters downstairs for a while, won't you?"

Garden seemed to breathe more freely on being dismissed, and with a mumbled acquiescence, moved toward the door.

"Oh, by the by," Vance called after him. "One other little point I wish to ask you about."

Garden waited politely. "Why," asked Vance, blowing a ribbon of smoke toward the ceiling, "didn't you place Swift's bet on Equanimity?"

CHAPTER IX

The man gave a start, and his jaw dropped. He barely rescued his pipe from falling to the floor.

"You didn't place it, don't you know," Vance went on dulcetly. "Rather interestin' point, in view of the fact that your cousin was not destined to live long enough to collect the wager, even if Equanimity had won. And in the circumstances, had you placed it, you would now be saddled with a $10,000 debt—since Swift is no longer able to settle."

"God Almighty, stop it, Vance!" Garden exploded. He sank limply into a chair. "How do you know I didn't place Woodie's bet?"

Vance regarded the man with searching eyes. "No bookie would take a bet of that size five minutes before post time. He couldn't absorb it."

"But Hannix—" "Don't make a Wall-Street financier of Hannix for my benefit," Vance admonished quietly. "And another thing: I happened to be sitting in a strategic position near your table when you pretended to place Swift's bet. You very deftly pulled the cord taut over the plunger of the telephone when you picked up the receiver. You were talking in to a dead phone."

Garden capitulated. "All right, Vance," he said. "I didn't place the bet. But if you think, for one moment, that I had any suspicion that Woody was going to be shot his afternoon, you're wrong."

"My dear fellow!" Vance sighed with annoyance. "I'm not thinkin'. Higher intelligence no' at work at the moment. Mind a'blank. Only tryin' to add up a few figures. Ten thousand dollars is a big item. It changes our total—eh, what? . . . But you haven't told me why you didn't place the bet."

Garden rose angrily. "I didn't want him to lose the money," he asserted aggressively. "I knew what it would mean to him."

"Yes, yes. The Good Samaritan. Very touchin'. But suppose Equanimity had won, and your cousin had survived—what about the payoff?"

Well-Dressed at Li

IT WAS some job, Ladies of The Sewing Circle, to get these three lovelies together to pose for the camera this week. They're under the strict tutelage of Dame Fashion just now, learning the latest lessons on how to be well turned out this Spring with-out benefit of a private mint. You can understand, then, why the co-ed above, center, sort of jumped the gun, so to speak, and was already on her way when the camera clicked.

A Frock That Clicks. Speaking of things clicking, don't think that new princess gown she's wearing isn't doing it in a big way. Can't you see from where you're sitting that it is simple to sew besides being a figure-flatterer of the first order? The buttons half way and a neat little collar in contrast are all its lively lines need to complete the perfect balance—chic vs. simplicity. Take a tip from this stylish student and figure it out for yourself in cashmere or velveteen. The style is 1202 and it can be had in sizes 12-20 (30-38). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material plus 1/4 yard contrasting.

Go Print for Spring. The charming young lady above, left, has chosen to model a very dainty and rather picturesque little frock for she believes you'll be interested in this style as a fitting gesture to Springtime. Especially in a modern print, featuring, say, pussycats or deep-sea flowers, would this frock be tempting. The skirt is bias-cut for artistic reasons, and the circles of contrast aid and abet its gracefulness. Let yourself go print then, come Spring. Style 1257 is designed in sizes 12-20 (30-40 bust). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. Eleven yards of bias binding is required for trimming as pictured.

Gay House or Street Frock. Lest you begin to think every day is Sunday for our starring trio, the trim-looking young lady above, right, wants you to concentrate now on her new gingham gown. Not an ordinary bread-and-butter cotton version, but a beautifully cut, carefully planned dress for general service. The linked button front is enough to give it first place on your Spring sewing list if Sew-Your-Own designers, know their clients as well as they think. However, there's more to recommend it: a young becoming collar, a simple yoke-and-sleeve-in-one construction and a slender action-built skirt. Put them all together they spell CHIC—that little word with a vast meaning. Style 1267 is for sizes 34-48. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 35 inch material plus 1 1/4 yards contrasting.

Wins by Tail A good tail is vitally important to a racing greyhound and to a race horse because the animals use it as a combination rudder and balance when taking a curve. The famous greyhound, Mick the Miller, owed much of his success to his perfect tail, while the colt Coronach—son of the Derby winner Coronach—owed his failure to win any of his many races to the fact that he had no tail at all.—Collier's weekly.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Any erroneous reflection upon the reputation or standing of any individual firm or corporation, that may appear in the columns of The News will be gladly corrected when called to our attention.

The security of our country rests not upon the success of this faction or that but upon the character of our people. One group, moved by self-interest or malice or a desire for revenge may triumph today and another faction tomorrow, but in the end nothing has been gained. Only character can make a man a good citizen. It is for that reason that we must rely upon the home, the church, and the school, and a free press for the perpetuity of this government. Unless the home and the church do their part in the development of character and unless the school and the press do their part in imparting information and developing the reasoning powers of the individual, our country will eventually go on the rocks. Ignorant, weak, and dishonest men and women do not constitute the material out of which an enduring society is built. Freedom and justice can not thrive among a dishonest, selfish, ignorant, and immoral people.

Our own state senator, G. H. Nelson, is again making himself heard at Austin. Last year he gained much notoriety and much favorable comment throughout the state by his proposal for a one-house legislative body. A few days ago he cast a bombshell into the camps of the race-horse gambling fraternity by attaching a repeal amendment to a house bill to license jockeys. The bill carrying the repeal amendment was engrossed by the Senate by a vote of 20 to 8. The bill is to come up for final passage Wednesday and will probably be passed before this paper goes to press. Its adoption will be a great victory for civic righteousness in this state, and will be another feather in the cap of our capable senator.

It is not the fact that there are a large number of lawyers in the legislature and in Congress that should excite our criticism; it is the fact that some lawyers are there for the express purpose of representing and protecting certain selfish interests. No man can serve two masters. No lawyer should be allowed to take a fee from any corporation whose interests may be affected by pending or proposed legislation while he is ostensibly representing the interests of the whole people in the legislative body. At least, if he does so he should be required to publish it to the world.

Yes, it is true that one or two former Presidents undertook to change the number of the members and personnel of the Supreme Court in order to control or change its decisions—but they were wrong when they did it. We can not excuse ourselves for doing wrong by citing the fact that somebody before us has committed the same wrong.

Mrs. Bonnis Brover left Sunday morning to join her husband in Los Angeles, California, where he is employed.

FAVORS CURBING POWER OF SUPREME COURT

To the Editor: When the first settlers of America came to the New World they brought the old Common Law of England with them. It was the law of the country at that time. They also brought Grants or Charters from the mother country. These Grants or Charters were written. They specified certain rights and privileges beyond which the mother country could not go.

The colonies had legislatures whose laws had to conform to the provisions of these charters. If they did not, they were void, and could be so declared by the colonial courts, or, on appeal, by the privy council of England. There was nothing strange about this. Neither the legislatures nor the colonial courts were independent departments of government, each supreme in its sphere. Both were subject entirely to the laws of Parliament and the English king.

Now when the colonies became free and there was no longer any governmental authority superior to the courts and legislatures of the late colonies, this reason for the legislature disappeared. Both were now coordinate departments of government, supreme in their own spheres and responsible only to the people at the ends of their terms of office. Both were subject to the constitution, but there was no provision of that constitution which authorized the courts to refuse to enforce unconstitutional laws, any more than the legislature was given authority to refuse to appropriate money for the judges' salaries if the legislature thought the court had acted unconstitutionally.

Remember that our constitution is a compromise between two schools of thought. We then, as well as now, had the conservative as well as the Democrats. The conservatives were led by Hamilton, Madison, and Wilson. The Democrats were led by Jefferson and others. Mr. Madison on June 5th and again on June 6th moved that the courts have the power to pass on the constitutionality of the acts of Congress, and each time the Democrats voted it down. This same motion was made again on July 21 and again on August 15 but failed to pass and was never a part of the Constitution.

Mr. Jefferson said that we should have checked balanced government. He said that the people would be a check on the legislative department and that the legislative department should be a check on the judicial department, and his argument was accepted at all times. As a compromise, the executive was given the veto power, a power that no other national executive had.

Well, then, how did it ever happen that the courts gained the power to pass on the acts of Congress? It was in what is known as the Maybury versus Madison case. In 1802 Mr. Jefferson was elected President, and before Mr. Adams retired he appointed 16 justices of the peace in Washington, which Mr. Madison (then Secretary of State) refused to certify, and four of them asked Mr. John Marshall, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court at that time, to mandamus Mr. Madison for their certifications. Mr. Marshall in a decision that contained 10,000 words said that it was right that they should have their offices but that the law that they were appointed under was unconstitutional, and that he could not enforce it. On this peg was hung the Dred Scott decision and a great many more decisions that the conservatives, or Tories as they used to be called, asked for.

tion was worked out, submitted and adopted. Second, Thomas Jefferson was not a member of the Constitutional Convention. He, however, was strongly opposed to a strong centralized government. He was a great advocate of "States Rights" or the sovereignty of the states. He even went so far as to contend that a state court had the right to declare a law of Congress unconstitutional and that a state had the right to nullify within its own boundaries, any act of Congress which it deemed unconstitutional. And although Madison has been credited with being the "Father of the Constitution" and ably urged its adoption by the states, he later joined Jefferson in his advocacy of the rights and powers of the states as opposed to the rights and powers of the Federal Government. These views are set out in the Kentucky Resolutions written by Jefferson and the Virginia Resolutions credited to Madison.

You say that the Constitution did not give the Supreme Court of the United States the authority to declare an Act of Congress unconstitutional; but if Jefferson's and Madison's views had prevailed, the Supreme Court of any state could have done so. Great as these men were, their interpretation of the Constitution, had it prevailed, would have done much more than limit the power of the U. S. Supreme Court; it would have paralyzed the power of Congress and the President and would have rendered each state supreme within its own boundaries. This is in striking contrast with the views of President Roosevelt, who holds that the states have no rights which the Federal Government must respect and that Congress and the President, have the right under the Constitution to enact and enforce any legislation that they may deem to be in the interest of "progress" and for "the general welfare of the people."

Mr. Ford, you make bold to severely criticize one of the ablest jurists this country has ever had for, his decision in a case about which you and I know practically nothing, and yet it was this same Chief Justice John Marshall who rendered decision after decision declaring and establishing the authority of Congress to legislate respecting many matters which had theretofore been in doubt. If his decision in the case you cite enlarged the power of the Supreme Court, much more did his decisions in other cases enlarge the powers of the Congress and the President. It was he who developed and expounded the doctrine of the "implied powers" granted to Congress by the Constitution. This doctrine has since been stretched almost to the breaking point by other decisions, and now President Roosevelt attempts to further stretch it so as to make it cover everything. Had not Chief Justice Marshall and others been liberal in their interpretation of the Constitution, President Roosevelt and the present Congress would not today have half the power that the present Supreme Court concedes that they do have. They would never have gotten even to first base, in the first place, in New Deal legislation.

And now, you want to abolish the right of the Supreme Court to interpret the Constitution. If the courts are not to have the authority to interpret our laws, and the Constitution, which is the Supreme law, then pray tell us, Mr. Ford, who is to have that authority? Can Congress try a law suit and determine the rights of a litigant under the law and the Constitution? Can the President do it? To ask the question is to answer it. Only the courts can do so. That is what they were created for.

Come again, Mr. Ford. We enjoyed your search for the light.

OUR AMERICAN SYSTEM
In his Victory Dinner speech—a typically Rooseveltian oratorical effort, persuasive and pungent—Mr. Roosevelt by implication took the supreme court to task for assuming the power of veto in certain New Deal laws held invalid. In spite of Mr. Roosevelt's charm and undoubted good intentions we should not lose sight of some fundamental facts in our democratic form of government. Congress makes the laws. If the president doesn't like them, he writes his "I forbid" across their faces. The supreme court has no say-so in a presidential veto; only congress, by a two-thirds majority, may re-enact legislation over such a disapproval. If the law is passed by congress and approved by the president it becomes operative, affecting the daily lives and business of the people. If a citizen finds that the law is wrecking his business without due process or is proving unfair in any other manner, he has only one recourse. That is through the courts. On trial of his cause, the citizen arrives eventually at the court of last resort—the supreme court of the United States, his one and only safeguard against unwise, unfair or unconstitutional legislation. The supreme court is the only tribunal qualified to pass finally upon the constitutionality of any statute. It cannot enact laws, it cannot administer laws; but it, and it alone, can say whether they conform to the constitution. Congress legislates, the chief executive administers and the supreme court acts as umpire. This is our famous government of checks and balances, established by our forefathers after years of argumentation and strife.

When you deprive congress of the right to legislate, or the chief executive the right to administer, or the supreme court of the right to decide what does or does not conform to the constitution, you have destroyed the historic balance. If you were to elect a deputy congressman for every duly elected representative, or a couple of deputy presidents for the duly elected chief executive, you would upset the balance and destroy the American form of government. Similarly, if you packed the supreme court with men known to be willing to follow you blindly in interpreting the constitution, you would just as surely upset the balance and destroy the spirit of the dear-bought American system. If Mr. Roosevelt packs the court, his successor in office—possibly one holding diametrically opposite views on governmental problems—would be entitled to do the same, and probably would. Perpetuating economic or sociological ideas by manipulating the supreme court to obtain favorable decisions is dangerous to free institutions and contrary to the American spirit. We follow Mr. Roosevelt in most things; in this we are against him completely and unalterably.—Ablene Morning Reporter-News.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lillith Boyd, H. D. Agent

HACKBERRY H. D. CLUB
The Hackberry Home Demonstration Club met Friday afternoon, March 5, at the home of Mrs. B. N. Billingsley.

The subject for the day was "Dentistry." Mrs. B. Spence explained that "Mothers with young children should get them to establish the habit of using the tooth brush early on their baby teeth as they are the basis of permanent teeth, whether good or bad."

Mrs. Denton told the club that if they wanted pretty, white teeth to use old standbys such as lemon and salt as a dentifrice.

Refreshments were served to the following members present: Mmes. Clyde Haire, Ed Denton, B. Spence, J. W. Stotts, Herman Dobbs, B. N. Billingsley, and Hubert Taylor. New members: Mrs. Sam Martin and Miss Kathryn Stotts. Visitors: Misses Alta Clements and Mary Alice Martin.

WILSON H. D. CLUB
"Great care should be used in handling milk," said Miss Boyd, county H. D. agent, to the Wilson H. D. Club at the home of Mrs. M. C. Brandon Wednesday, March 3.

"A bucket with a lid covering most of it gives more protection in milking than an open bucket. A strainer cloth will not remove all sediment from the milk. Filter pads should be used as they strain out all particles."

Miss Boyd also gave a demonstration, making Neufchatel and processed cottage cheese.

Members present were: Mesdames J. W. Lamb, P. D. Server, Robert Lamb, Sterling Alderson, B. A. Cumley, L. B. Thornton, J. F. Covey, D. A. Hill, J. R. Hamilton, Jack Miller, M. J. Sozer, Clyde Shaw, H. B. Crosby, Edwin May, Howard Cook, W. H. May, Douglas Finley, B. W. Baker, M. C. Brandon, and S. G. Anthony.

NEW LYNN H. D. CLUB
New Lynn H. D. Club met March 3 at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. J. B. Hoskin. After a short business meeting, Miss Boyd gave some helpful hints on making cheese and made some process cottage cheese.

Members present: Mesdames R. W. Barton, J. A. Jaynes, E. B. Terry, Caveness, P. K. Fleming, J. B. Hoskin, and Mrs. John Meeks, a new member.

MRS. JONES CLUB HOSTESS
The Ladies' Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Weldon Jones March 4. We quilted two quilts, one for Mrs. A. J. Bell and one for Mrs. Weldon Jones.

A program was given on the care of teeth, especially those of children.

The meeting date of the club has been changed from the second and fourth Thursdays to the first and third Thursdays.

We had four visitors. They were: Mmes. T. I. Jones, E. D. Payne, Jarrell Chesser, and Joe Sanders.

WELLS 4-H CLUB
The Wells 4-H Club met March 4th at the Wells school house. The roll was called and the minutes were read, then the meeting was turned over to Miss Boyd. Some of the girls worked on their slips. The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock.

TELLS OF NEW CABINET

"The work surface, covered with linoleum, in my new built-in cabinet is ten feet long, including a sink," said Mrs. J. W. Lowrey, sponsor of the Petty 4-H Club.

"All of the material used in the cabinet was old except the panels for the doors. We had to buy hinges, knobs, a sink, paint, paper and an outside door. The total cost was $24.95. A stool and a work table were made from used materials. We are now ready to pipe the water in; we have the pipe and storage tank on hand. Two windows and a door with a glass admit plenty of light," added Mrs. Lowrey.

SELLS 54 DOZEN EGGS

"I sold fifty-four dozen eggs last week from my flock of approximately three hundred hens—two hundred leghorns and one hundred mixed," said Mrs. E. B. Terry, co-operator in the New Lynn Home Demonstration Club.

"I shall get two hundred baby chicks next week and I intend to pay for them by selling about forty old hens that are not laying."

"Usually, I get from $10.00 to $14.00 per week from my eggs and cream. I buy groceries for three families out of my egg money. They are worth more in trade. My hens made it possible for me to keep my children in college," said Mrs. Terry.

GRASSLAND 4-H CLUB

"I made this hat rack from three panels board at cost of twelve cents," said Miss Belle Stewart, sponsor, at the meeting of the Grassland 4-H Club Friday, Mar. 5.

"I finished it with a clear varnish," she added.

Mary Alice Norman is our new poultry demonstrator.

Members present were: Viola Roberts, Mona Laws, Neida Lois Moore, Margie Shepherd, Mary Alice Norman, Oleta Saunders, Allene Williams, Rosalie Thompson, Billie Greer, Alta Bess Reeves, and Lorene Norman.

NEW HOME 4-H CLUB

The New Home 4-H Club met Friday, Feb. 26. We worked on our dress slips and our hand towels.

Mrs. Boswell Edwards, our sponsor, encouraged us in our work and asked us to have all our work completed by next time, which will be March 12.

THREE LAKES CLUB

"Cheese can be made very economically at home," said Miss Lillith Boyd to the ladies of the Three Lakes Club in the home of Mrs. A. L. McMillan March 4.

Being very nutritious, cheese should be served quite often. It may be used as a substitute for meat in the menu. Two kinds of cheese was made, processed cottage cheese and Neufchatel cheese. Recipes for both of these may be secured from Miss Boyd.

Cheese sandwiches and hot chocolate topped with whipped marshmallows were served to the following: Mmes. Fred McGinty, I. L. Johnson, Jarrell Cox, Miss Boyd, Mildred Cox, Mrs. McLaurin, a visitor from Wells, and the hostess.

GRASSLAND H. D. CLUB

"A very good way to utilize your surplus milk is to make it into cheese," said Miss Boyd, as she demonstrated cheese making at the meeting of the Grassland H. D. club in the home of Mrs. L. H. Kenley.

Members present were: Mmes. C. E. Short, M. C. Thomas, G. C. Watson, Paul Lawson, A. L. Shepherd, L. H. Kenley, and Gus Porterfield.

Choosing A Vocation

It is very vital for a young person to choose his vocation early in life. The high school student is none too young to begin giving serious thought to this problem. In fact, it is well for the student to have definite plans for his work in life before he begins the high school career. If these plans have already been formulated the high school training can be chosen to best fit the person for his chosen work. The people who derive the most benefit from their vocations and who help humanity most are those who plan, work and live their work. There should be a practical method by which one chooses his vocation. First of all, the vocation must be one that appeals to the individual and one he is able to learn.

There are many reasons why the individual should have this set of definite plans for his life work. The person who is busy and working to a purpose is the happy person. It is an inspiration to all of us to see a person who is efficient. A great deal of satisfaction comes to the individual from a sense of systematic work well done. There is a double pleasure if we know that our well accomplished work is taking us ever onward toward a worthwhile goal.

We read of the college graduate who is a very complete failure in every way. These failures are in many cases due to the lack of a definite set of plans for life and work. Certainly we students wish to avoid such failures and we can do this by setting a goal and working ever upward toward it.

Home Economics News

On Saturday, Feb. 29, a group of approximately twenty-five Tahoka girls accompanied by Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Rusk, and Mrs. Cooper and their instructor, Miss Hazel Phipps, attended the annual meeting of the Home Economics Clubs of the district. The meeting convened at Slaton. Most of the girls are members of the Tahoka Home Economics Club.

The party from Tahoka arrived at Slaton at 9:30 o'clock, in time to register. The theme of the whole program was "Homes in Other Lands". Short pantomimes were given on home life of foreign countries by different schools. The meeting was very educational and interesting.

Tahoka represented Holland and as their part of the program Joan Edwards, dressed as a Dutch girl did a tap dance. As a special number, Misses Betty Sue and Eloise Roberts, Doris Connolly, Louise Rogers, Dottie Turrentine and Mary M. Tunnell presented a tap dance to the tune of "Shortnin' Bread." They were accompanied at the piano by Miss Marjorie Wells. The meet next year will be held at the Lubbock Senior High School.

The Home Economics III class is studying nutrition and diet for the family. Several experiments are to be performed in connection with this work. The department will use some white rats in the experiments. The rats will be furnished by the nutrition department of the Texas Technological.

The experiment is to be very interesting and educational. The Albino Rat is very easily tamed, will eat foods that humans do and respond to the care and diet. The diets are to consist of bread and water, bread, and milk, and butter and sugar. The nutritional value of vegetables and fruits will also be demonstrated.

The rats to be used will be of the same condition as a two year old child. The girls plan to name the rats Tom, Dick and Harry. They are sure to derive much benefit and interest from this work.

Chapel Program By The Seventh Grade

Miss Hayes and some of the members of the seventh grade have charge of the Chapel program for next Wednesday, March 10. The play is to be about Benedict Arnold, the most famous traitor of American history. The spy who carried the communications for Arnold and the British was caught and killed. Arnold escaped to the British and died of sorrow and regret. The student body is looking forward with pleasure to this entertainment.

Strength During MIDDLE LIFE.

Strength is extra-important for women going through the change of life. Then the body needs the very best nourishment to fortify it against the changes that are taking place.

In such cases, Cardui has proved helpful to many women. It increases the appetite and aids digestion, favoring more complete transformation of food into living tissue, resulting in improved nutrition and building up and strengthening of the whole system.

Alex Riddle says that R. H. Bates was mistaken about one thing with respect to that Wells & Welcher gin which we mentioned last week. He says that he worked with the gin in the fall of 1908 and that one day they ginned as many as twenty bales. But that was when Alex was younger and not so fat as he is now. The gin was built in 1906.

POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE WED

Erk Pitts and Miss Gaynell Tate, two of Tahoka's most popular young people, were united in marriage at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Dave Reed of Roby, long-time friends of the groom's parents at two o'clock last Sunday afternoon. Rev. B. N. Shepherd of Abilene, former pastor of the Baptist Church here, officiated, using the beautiful ring ceremony.

The bride and groom were accompanied to Roby by Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Ahrens, and the party returned to Tahoka the same afternoon.

Mrs. Pitts is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Tate of this city and has been reared here. Mr. Pitts is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Pitts of the Dixie community, where he spent several years of his boyhood. For the past three years he has been employed at Boulloun's grocery store and recently he acquired an interest in the Cash Store. On March 1 he became manager of this store succeeding Larkin Weathers.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitts are both graduates of the Tahoka High School. Mr. Pitts having been a member of the class of 1933 and Mrs. Pitts of the class of 1935. GEORGE BOVELL HONORED WITH BIRTHDAY DINNER

George Bovell, residing six miles north of Tahoka, reached the half century mark last Sunday and Mrs. Bovell staged a surprise birthday dinner for him. It was some surprise too. A big turkey dinner and a fine birthday cake with fifty candles on it, and a lot of old-time Tarrant county friends there to help him enjoy it.

The "company" came Saturday all the way from Crowley to enjoy the occasion. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Bovell's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Welborn Dickeson, and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Horn, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Stewart and two sons, Reed Jr. and Horace Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Chapman, Joe Bovell, brother of the honoree, and wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bovell and babies, Mrs. Sallie Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hearse, all of Tahoka, and Mr. Hearse's nephew, Tommy Joe McChristian, a student in Texas Tech, were also guests.

All the Crowley guests returned to their homes Sunday except Mr. and Mrs. Dickeson, who remained here till Wednesday.

Mrs. Laura McCormack has been quite ill for about a week, but is now much improved.

Plan Pan American Olympics

Officials of the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition welcome George Marshall to Dallas where he will stage an international summer sports program to open with the Exposition, June 12.

Washington Promoter Retained by Dallas To Stage Show Units

A Pan American Olympic promoter of all athletic meets of 1937 on the North American continent, has been announced by George Marshall, entertainment director for the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition. Marshall has just been brought to the Exposition from Washington, D. C., on a salary of $100,000.

Tentative program under way by Marshall includes air and auto races, track meet, football and polo games, a spectacular night show in the auditorium and international girl shows in the casino and band shell. All athletic events and shows will have Latin American participation, carrying romance and color of the southern republics. Marshall will set up a Washington office to contact Latin American and Canadian legations relative to participation in all events. The Olympics will continue throughout the life of the Exposition from June 12 to October 31.

PRESBYTERIAN SERVICES SUNDAY

The months quickly gather up into the years. Next Sunday is the last Sunday in our Church calendar year. Our Church year, in the Presbyterian Church, always closes on the first Sunday of April, or last Sunday of March, before the Spring meeting of the Presbytery. All Church finances, both local and benevolent, are gathered up and properly used, and all reports approved by the Church and prepared for the forthcoming meeting of the Presbytery. This we always do, and though most of our Home Mission churches are small, in comparison with a few others, yet we are not behind the greatest of them in preaching a lofty Gospel, in going about doing good, and in our regular times of worship and offerings, giving expression and testimony to the heart and faith in us, in the interest of our Lord and His Kingdom, where we try to serve Him all the year 'round. But, like the Disciples of old, not without difficulties, handicaps, Satanic influences to combat, crosses to bear, and sometimes persecutions, unexpected, learning and knowing by experience that through many tribulations we are entering into the Kingdom of God.

Next Sunday the Tahoka Church will elect elders to attend Presbytery at Pecos April 20th and attend to other important local matters.

We here express our thanks and appreciation for the Tahoka Church. Their fine spirit of service and loyalty, the comfort and help they are to us in the great and needy Home Mission work of this El Paso Presbytery. Our members have graced their places and have been a help to many.

Be in our service 11 a. m. Sunday. Morning theme: "The Sin Displacing and the Joy-Bringing Gospel," a sermon radiant with the deeds of the Apostles. Let us have a fine attendance. Why not? A fine S. S. lesson and a fine worship hour and fellowship. Come, and invite others. Everybody cordially invited. —W. K. JOHNSTON, Minister.

Judge P. W. Joad and family were called to Brownfield last Sunday morning by the serious condition of a daughter, Mrs. Cecil Bradshaw. She underwent a major operation in the Treadway-Daniels hospital there. She is said to be improving satisfactorily.

MRS. FAIRES IS GIVEN SURPRISE ON BIRTHDAY

Mr. Editor: I come again asking for space to report another pleasant surprise from a number of the Sunshine ladies of the Magnolia community, among whom I have lived for twenty years past.

March the fourth dawned damp, and the clouds looked heavy and gray, and as I looked out I said, "How dreary for a birthday, and few will venture out today. I heard a knock at the front room door and a trip, trip over the floor, then open came my room door.

Lo and Behold! It was a bunch of the Sunshine Ladies all smiling and cheeks aglowing. Dark clouds and sandstorms don't stop their going out on their missions of cheer — makes one wish birthdays came more than once a year.

We wined on good coffee and the best of eats, with three times as much as the crowd could eat. If you doubt it for a moment you should have taken a peek.

In our crowd was Gracie Allen Number Two, who never lets one think of getting blue. It was a jolly crowd, and it was great to have them here, if for only once a year. —Mrs. W. J. Faires, Rt. 1.

Prospects Bright On Highway 84

Harry Hines, Wichita Falls, member of the Texas Highway Commission, was principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, attended by 203 citizens of that town and representatives from Tatum, New Mexico, Plains, Lubbock, and Tahoka.

Waldo McLaurin, commissioner of Precinct 3, and Mrs. McLaurin, represented the Lynn county commissioners court. A committee from the Tahoka Rotary Club composed of Mack Penn, W. E. Smith, Wynne Collier and Frank Hill also attended.

Mr. Hines expressed himself as being deeply interested in the construction of highways of the South Plains and particularly in the completion of Highway 84.

He stated that the state would "build highway 84 across to the New Mexico state line just as fast as we can." He spoke of a projected road connecting Brownfield with Lamesa and urged the commissioners to "jump in and pitch with the WPA" to get the road started.

Highway 51, from Brownfield north through Levelland to Littlefield, was characterized as giving "very valuable connections," with those towns. "It ought to go on to Dimmitt," he added. Another road of importance that should be extended is a proposed road now being worked with WPA funds from Muleshoe south to Morton. "It probably ought to go on to Plains," he added. Commissioners were advised to get after WPA and, if the road is built according to state specifications, the state highway department "may take it over."

And The News is tempted to ask this question: Why not start asking for or seeking means of building that road to Wilson and Slaton while the WPA is functioning and Harry Hines is interested in highway building? Terry county seems to have won his favor. Lynn county now needs a paving project east of town and one to Wilson.

Elect Directors Of Rotary Club

The Rotary Club at its luncheon Thursday discussed a proposal being made by the International authorities to change the boundaries of a number of the districts, reducing the size of the district in which Tahoka is situated, and annexing a part of the territory to another district. The matter was finally referred to the board of directors for consideration.

The club also heard a report from Frank Hill, speaking for himself and others, concerning the chamber of commerce meeting held in Brownfield Tuesday night, at which highway construction in this section of the state was discussed, Harry Hines of the state highway commission being the principal speaker. He reported that the prospects for the construction of additional highway in this vicinity seem to be excellent.

The club elected the present board of directors to serve for the ensuing year. The board consists of M. L. Penn, president; Wynne Collier, W. S. Anglin, L. F. Craft, Homer St. Clair, Deen Nowlin, and Dr. K. R. Durham, secretary.

Visiting Rotarians present were: Mr. McMurtry, Amarillo; Fletcher Benbow and Russell Mitchell, Levelland.

Dr. Ann West With Flood Refugees

Mrs. W. J. West recently received a letter from her daughter, Dr. Ann West of Dallas, written while the latter was doing volunteer professional work as a physician among the flood refugees at Forest City, Arkansas.

Dr. West described Forest City as a town of 5,000 population with 12,000 refugees there seeking food and shelter. When she first arrived, she says conditions were terrible. She was riding to the hospital daily in an army truck and working with the sick twelve hours a day.

"The hospital," she says, "is the American Legion Hut and the beds are army cots just wide enough apart to set a folding chair in between them. There were 126 in one room at first. The ambulance is an army truck, and regular army stretchers are used to bring the patients in."

Forest City, she says, is about forty miles from Memphis, and most of the intervening land was covered with backwater from the tributaries of the Mississippi. "The conditions here got under my skin at first until I couldn't sleep," she stated in another paragraph. "So many sick people and so many of them dying until it was terrible. But now there are not so many critically ill ones and not near so many deaths." Some had been able to return to their homes but there were still 11,000 in the camps there, she said.

Dr. West has been practicing medicine in Dallas the past year or more. For a few years she practiced in this county, and she has many friends here who will be greatly interested in her experiences in the flood district.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Chappel, long time friends of the editor, were here Tuesday and made a very pleasant call at the News office. Mrs. A. Z. Jackson of Lubbock is staying here with Mrs. Gladys Stokes during the latter's illness. Mrs. Stokes is gradually improving.

Contrasts In Government

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

A famous historian has recently pointed out a series of striking contrasts between government by the many—as in America—and government by the few, or even by one—as in some nations of Europe.

Comparing the two, he shows that in nations where the people actually rule: Wars are less frequent.

The standards of individual well-being and of living are higher.

Freedom of religion, of speech and of the press has been preserved.

Individual energy and progress are greater.

Science, art, literature and other high forms of human endeavor have made swifter strides.

Life, personal safety and general stability are more secure.

These contrasts he draws not from the dim past, but from the present, with the picture of what is actually happening on the broad front of world events clearly before him.

The picture is not only for the eyes of the historian. Constantly it flashes before all the American people in headlines, in news photographs, in reports from many authoritative sources.

It stands a constant refutation of those champions and admirers of the new dictatorships abroad, who would have the American people swap their power and independence for the desperate experiments now developing in Europe.

If the American people want to see what the Democracy established by our Constitution means, let them consider the progress in national development and individual well-being achieved by the United States during its century and a half of history.

If they want to understand what Dictatorship, or Communism, or other denial of government by the people can bring, let them look at the nations now suffering under such experiments abroad.

Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Thomas and three daughters of Ennis are here visiting his mother and brothers, A. L. C. A., and W. O. Thomas, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Gore and family of Littlefield visited Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Thomas Sunday. Mrs. Gore and Mrs. Thomas are sisters.

MacMURRAY PORTRAYS FIRST HISTORICAL ROLE

Handsome Fred MacMurray, who has played roles as a newspaperman, Texas Ranger, band leader, society boy, engineer and whatnot, comes to the screen as a dashing Virginia Cavalier in "Maid of Salem," a tender romance of Seventeenth Century America, in which he is co-starred with Claudette Colbert, and which shows on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday at the English Theater.

Salem are redrawn in "Maid of Salem," and the entire village, as it existed in 1692, was built from old maps for authenticity.

Miss Colbert and MacMurray are supported by a brilliant cast which includes Louise Dresser, Bessie Bartlett, Gale Sondergaard, E. E. Clive, Harvey Stephens, Bonita Granville, Virginia Weidler, Rosita Butler, Beulah Bondi, Edward Ellis, Donald Meek and many others.

THEODORA GOES WILD IS COMING TO THE ADA

"Theodora Goes Wild," a rollicking Columbia production which introduces Irene Dunne to motion picture fans in her first comedy assignment, will show at the Ada Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Supported by an exceptionally strong cast, Miss Dunne is permitted to run fancy free through a sprightly tale of a small town girl who wins her big-city man in a big-city way. Melvyn Douglas appears opposite Miss Dunne in the leading male role, with Thomas Mitchell, Thurston Hall, Rosalind Keith, Spring Byington, Elisabeth Risdon and Margaret McWade rounding out the cast.

For years Miss Dunne has been known as a dramatic star, portraying such roles as Sabra Cravat in "Cimarron," the forgotten woman in "Back Street," the blind widow of "The Magnificent Obsession" and the more recent Magnolia Ravenal in "Showboat." In "Theodora Goes Wild," as can be guessed from the title, Miss Dunne indulges in a wild spree of sophisticated comedy which at once establishes her as one of the screen's finest comedienne.

Mrs. Fred Fleener and two little sons of Lufkin are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Walker.

The Curse of Progress

A Fatherly Fear

"I'm afraid my boy Josh'll never make a farmer," said Mr. Corn-tassel.

"Why?"

"He's too refined. He wants to discourage an insect pest by standin' off an' callin' it Latin names, instead of bein' coarse an' uncompromisin' an' hittin' it with a hand-ful o' paris green."

Roughly Spoken

The woman motorist had given her evidence with an abundance of superficial detail.

"Now tell me," asked the magistrate, "when you knocked down this man, what was his attitude, roughly speaking?"

"It was," answered the woman.

The Dog

"Why is it that you encourage all your clerks to get married?"

"Well," replied the knowing boss, "I find that married men are not in such an awful rush to get home early as single men."—Wall Street Journal.

Household Questions

To make lace look new, squeeze in hot, soapy water, then in cold water, and then in milk to stiffen it. Press on the wrong side with a fairly hot iron.

One gallon of coffee will serve 25 medium sized cups. The size that would accompany a dessert after a dinner.

Chocolate stains may be removed by washing in cold water or by soaking in boiling water to which borax or a little glycerin has been added.

Rayons should be pressed with a warm, but not hot iron. A hot iron will melt some synthetic materials.

Dishes that have contained sugar or greasy articles should be soaked in hot water before washing.

A couple tablespoons of molasses will make beans brown nicely.

When blankets are to be washed for the first time they should be soaked over night in cold water and then rinsed. This is to remove the sulphur used in bleaching. After this they should be soaked until clear in a lukewarm lather made with boiled soap and water, and then rinsed well in clear water.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work and do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent dizziness, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eye—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Eating Habits of Hindus

As a rule the Hindus are not meat eaters and the women never are. In India it is not the custom for a man to go abroad and eat food prepared by others. He takes his meal in his own house. Fire and wood are sacred to him, and their purity must be guarded. The Hindu woman will not cook any food without first taking a bath. She will not start cooking without having made her pujas—which doesn't mean a prayer of ten minutes or so, but a complete disciplinary system of meditation.

Wool Tailleur for an Early Easter

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE calendar announces an early Easter. Supposing the weather should happen to go temperamental. Just merely supposing it should by any chance happen to cloud a bit, rain a bit, possibly send down a snowflake or so, then, oh then, comes that ever haunting "what-to-wear" question. And the answer? A practical, ultra modish tailored wool outfit is the logical answer if you want to be ready for rain or shine. Smartly, simply fashioned, it must be of a swanky wool weave in latest approved color with fashion-right accessories that add the final accent of chic. The illustration pictures what we are meaning to say. Perfect is this trio of "what-to-wears" for Easter or for any spring day, be it sunshiny or cloudy.

Before we describe in detail the stunning tailleur pictured we want to say a word in regard to outstanding colors for spring. We are going to talk mostly about black, navy, beige, gray and the new pastels. Many best-dressed women are selecting black cloth suits with which they plan to wear frilly lingerie blouse or neckwear, adding white doekin gloves and a white boutonniere. As to navy, it's big news for spring, navy wool twills especially for the classic suit. And there's beige! It also, is staging a most exciting comeback. In the pastels you'll adore the new "dusty pinks," also various soft blues, "rusty" yellows and misty greens. You will be hearing the expression "softly tailored" frequently this season because most suits have lost their mannish lines and the trend is to graceful, subtle silhouettes. Note, for example, the charming youthful suit to the right in the picture. No femininity is sacrificed. Smart in either black or navy is the lightweight wool that styles this distinctive spring model. The skirt is short and slim and the cutaway jacket buttons up to a "young" round collar. The short blouse is of white satin. The pillbox hat with jaunty quill and piquant face-veil is decidedly chic. Pastel blue wool kasha makes the three-piece cape costume centered in the group. Capes are very important this season, emphasizing as they do the softly tailored theme. A slightly flared skirt is topped by a short-sleeved, front-buttoned jacket with body of jacket and sleeves made in one piece, stitched onto a yoke. The matching cape with fitted shoulders ties at the chin under the jacket collar.

It is to be expected that the three-piece tailored ensemble to the left be in the smart widely-exploited beige color, for as we said before beige is definitely "in" this spring. With the jacket this very lovely three-piece becomes a smart suit, just such as will fit into the Easter style program admirably. Without the jacket you have a winsome light wool dress which will come in perfectly for mild spring days. The matching beige fur is a smart detail for the fur-trimmed suit is conspicuously present in advance style displays. Note the off-hat of Breton influence, for this is the very latest for hat and hairdress. The black doekin gloves and strap-handle bag "say it" with fashion emphasis.

SMART PLAID TWEED

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Plaid woollens for spring! You'll be "tops" in fashion if you come out in a full-length reefer coat, a picturesque cape suit, a classic jacket suit or with a short box coat of plaid woolen. It's English, it's Scotch, it's both. Due to the interest shown in the coming coronation, woollens take on a decidedly English accent this spring. The coat pictured is of imported tweed with coronation red prominent in its coloring. The white toya hat has red grosgrain inserts in complement to the red in the plaid.

GLOVES PROMINENT IN SPRING STYLES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Soft, oozy glove kidskin, that makes the hands look long and slender, is very much in fashion now. The styles shown by Aris for formal afternoon wear are exceedingly chic and those marvelous 16-button evening gloves in glove kid or suede reach the nth degree of extravagance.

Mokado, the superlative quality French doekin, is the supreme in that leather. It is washable, which accounts for its continued popularity. Nothing could be handsomer than a pair of six or eight button handsewn doekin gloves. The longer lengths, by the way, are smarter this season than the short, either in white, black or fetching new colors.

While the plain, classic slipper remains most acceptable, the costume glove is more interesting and more fun to wear. Then, there are all sorts of touches, such as hand-whipping, embroidery, stitching, thong lacing and so on, that give the new gloves distinction.

Pendant Earrings
Earrings have regained prestige and since ears are sometimes covered by the coiffure this means the pendant type will be worn as well as the clip. Simple necklines add to the possibilities of earrings.

Silver Threads
The current coin of fashion is silver gleaming on crepe or satiny backgrounds. A blouse with the glimmer of silver—needn't be expensive at all—will turn your suit into a five o'clock costume.

Berets High in Back
Some of the new berets are high in the back and notched at the edge.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for March 14

JESUS PRAYING FOR HIS DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT — John 16:5-7; 17:14-26. GOLDEN TEXT — That they may be one, even as we are one. John 17:22. PRIMARY TOPIC — When Jesus Prayed for His Friends. JUNIOR TOPIC — Did Jesus Pray for Me? INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC — Jesus Praying for Us. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC — Unity with God and One Another.

The assurance that someone is praying for us is an anchor in a time of storm. Many a man or woman has been on the point of giving up in despair, of yielding to temptation, and has been carried through to victory by the intercession of a godly mother or father. Just to know that someone prays for us is to find strength for the knees that have weakened and for the heart that has all but failed. Infinitely more precious is the truth of our lesson, that the Lord Jesus himself prayed for each one of his followers. John 17:20 makes clear that while he prayed for those who were with him at the time, he also included in his petition all who since that day have come to believe on him because of their testimony.

Before entering upon his inexpressibly precious and beautiful prayer, the Lord gave to his followers a promise which was of vital importance.

I. A Promise (16:5-7).
Persecution is coming, and Jesus will not be with them to meet the trying hour. He is about to enter upon that final scene in his earthly life, which will bring it to its end in "a place called the place of a skull."

How then can he say to them that it is expedient for them that he go away? Because he will send the Comforter, the Holy Spirit. Students of the Scriptures recognize in the Holy Trinity an inscrutable mystery, but receive the ministries of the three persons in the one Godhead with glad and thankful hearts. It is a subject which cannot be entered into here, but which richly rewards careful study. Suffice it to say that while the Holy Spirit has always been active in the earth, he did enter upon a ministry of a special nature when Jesus had gone to be with the Father.

The essence of the work of the Holy Spirit is to glorify Christ (16:14), and in so doing he convicts the unbeliever of sin and guides the believer into all truth. The mark of a Spirit-filled Christian is that he permits the Spirit to glorify Christ in him and in his service for God.

II. A Prayer (17:14-26).
When one enters the sacred precincts of John 17 he feels that he has come into the holy of holies, and that he would not only lose the shoes from his feet, but also stand silent in worship and in praise. He prayed for me—for me! Each student of this lesson will wish to enter fully upon the meaning of these words as he re-reads them, in the illumination of the Holy Spirit. May I suggest three things which Jesus sought for His children?

1. Consecration (vv. 14-16). No one is Christ's child without regeneration, but, sad to say, there are many children in his blessed household who are not obedient, not spiritually well and strong. They are in the world, they must be here, but alas too many of them want to be as much like the world as possible. He prayed that we might be kept from evil, separate from the world, kept by God even in a world that hates him and his truth.

2. Sanctification (vv. 17-21). This means to be set apart and cleansed for God's service. How is it accomplished? Through the truth. His Word is the instrument of sanctification. Little wonder that there is so little holiness of living when the Word has so little opportunity to touch and cleanse the life.

This separated life brings God's people into that unity of love—all in Christ, and he in the Father—all bound up in that "one great bundle of love."

3. Glorification (vv. 22-26). When Jesus came into the world in the flesh he voluntarily laid aside the glory which was his, and which still is his, and which he prays that we may behold. "But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image" (II Cor. 3:18). Thus in beholding his glory we also may enter into his likeness.

City Versus Country
It cannot escape even a casual observer that the Bible begins with a scene in the garden to end in a city: one may be "nearer God's heart in a garden than anywhere else on earth"—but certainly "the dwelling-place of God is with men."

Giving and Taking Orders
He who will not accept orders has no right to give them; he who will not serve has no right to command; he who cannot keep silence has no right to speak.—Hubbard.

Experiences of Life—

Their Significant Interest and Some Ways to Meet Them

THE journey through life is filled with experiences from the time we are born to the day we die. Without them life would be dull and uninteresting. The but we had no eyes to see them at the time.

Since life is so full of experiences some of which turn out felicitously, and others not so satisfactorily, there must be a good reason for our having to go through the events. I remember when I was a little girl and there was something which, to me, seemed very important to decide rightly, how I envied grown-ups. They always knew just what to do! The fallacy of this assumption we all know.

The benefits of our life experiences come through our way of taking them, and on our wisdom of decisions when these require our consideration. If we think of ourselves only we become selfish, hard, and difficult. If we decide with a larger vision of results, and of the best good to others as well as to ourselves, we become fine and strong characters. By the exercise of good judgment and by making the best of things we learn to develop well by experiences.

A Child Is Puzzled Over Some of Her Experiences and Believes Mother Is Free From Such Things.

more experiences are crowded into our lives the fuller and more interesting they become.

When we are in the midst of events that have elements of danger or when they are of momentous proportions with matters at stake that may be disastrous, should things turn out differently from our wishes, the mind is too excited or too much engrossed with results to grasp anything but the immediate moment.

Reviewing Experiences.
However, on looking back over the past, we discover what thrilling times we went through, and how the experiences stand out as dramatic and of significant interest. Often we find ludicrous features entered into the experience in that state until about the year 1926, when he acquired a tract of land near Clovis, New Mexico. Since that time he has divided his time between Clovis and Tahoka. About a year ago, he came to Tahoka ill, and thenceforth made his home with his sister, "Aunt Beckie". He never knew that he was suffering from cancer, but his condition gradually grew worse, and he was confined to his room most of the time.

WALTER FORRESTER WAS BURIED LAST SATURDAY

It was almost two years before Lynn county was organized and before Tahoka was founded that Mr. Forrester settled in this county. In 1903 he helped organize the county. He was here when folks really lived the simple life, and when it took a rugged character to endure the hardships. Yet he was as gentle in his disposition as a woman, kind, and considerate of others.

Two brothers, W. L. and R. C., preceded him in death, the former at Snyder and the latter here. Besides Mrs. Roberts, he leaves two other sisters, Mrs. R. D. Lee of Lovington, N. M., and Mrs. Homer Marcey of Ropesville, all of whom were here for the funeral. He also leaves a number of nephews, nieces, and other relatives. All the relatives have the sincere sympathy of many friends.

E. GALLOWAY OF WELCH BURIED AT LOCAL CEMETERY

 gie McCrory on January 4, 1889. He and family removed to McCauley in Fisher county more than thirty years ago. About fifteen years later they removed to Ringling, Oklahoma, where they remained six years, and then came to Welch in Dawson county, where he continued to reside until his death.

He leaves surviving him the following sons and daughters, all of whom were here for the funeral: Bryan, Gerald, Riley, and Cleo Galloway, all of Welch. Mrs. J. H. Cornish of Heaton, Oklahoma. Mrs. Clifford Fancher of Welch, and Mrs. Jim Burleson of his city. He also leaves three aged sisters, Mrs. W. C. Bellamy of Dale, Mrs. Ann Cook of Olton, and Mrs. Lee Bellamy of Coryell county, none of whom were able to attend the funeral. Mrs. F. L. Kelley of this city was a sister-in-law, having been the wife of Mr. Galloway's brother, long since deceased.

Mr. Galloway was a splendid Christian gentleman and an attendant of the Primitive Baptist Church. He delighted to sing the great old hymns used so much by the members of that church.

Mr. and Mrs. Burleson and the other relatives have the sympathy of the people of Tahoka in their irreparable loss.
