WOW Will Dedicate New Building In City Thursday

Local Camp Is Completing New Home For Lodge At A Cost Of $3,000, Howell Says.

The new Woodmen of the World Building on Sweet Street just east of the City Park is nearing completion, and an inspection of the interior reveals the fact that it is a most attractive structure for the purpose for which it is to be used. The dimensions of the building are 24 by 64. The main hall is approximately 50 by 24. The ante-room, a store-room, and a rest room comprise the other rooms in the building. The interior is attractively finished while the outside is finished or will be finished with stucco in the natural color.

The building was constructed at a cost of about $3,000. It will be dedicated at a special meeting to be held on Thursday night, April 22, at which all Woodmen and former Woodmen are expected to be present and the general public is invited. R. E. Miller of Dallas, state manager of the W.O.W., will be the principal speaker. There will be a speaker also and possibly a brief program of music, according to announcement made Tuesday by Belton Howell, who has been one of the chief promoters of the reorganization of the camp here and the building program that followed.

A large crowd is expected to be present next Thursday night.

McLaurins Build Unique Home

(Mrs. Alma House, Correspondent)
Mr. and Mrs. Waldo McLaurin of O'Donnell have rock-veneered their ten room residence and built a double garage with servant's quarters, wash house and sleeping room.

The building is unique in that the McLaurins have gathered the rock from many points in Texas and from twenty-four states of the union.

A rock fireplace was added to the living room with a tile hearth laid in cobblestone effect.

A large south porch was added to the residence. Porch columns are of rock, with an arch of rock between them. The floor is of concrete.

This is one of the most beautiful and modern homes on the Plains.

Sam Hines of Stamford was contractor on the job and was assisted by Jack Cathey and Fae Slaughter. Work was begun in November and will be completed about May 1st.

E. A. Roberts of the Pride community has let a contract to Mr. Hines to rock-veneer and make additions to his residence.

Goy Johnson Killed In California Wreck

The News has received the following communication from Mrs. Ollie Johnson, Willows, California, telling of the accidental death of her son Goy. Mrs. Johnson resided here many years and Goy was reared here. They removed to California last year. The letter follows:

Dear Friends: This is to let you know of our sorrow. Goy Johnson was buried in Willows on March 31. He was in Davis, California, on Monday to go to work Tuesday. While riding a motorcycle and when turning a short curve he met a car and could not dodge it, so they ran together. He was thrown from the motorcycle headlong onto the pavement, which rendered him unconscious, broke his neck, punctured the left lung with broken rib, both arms and left leg broken, and he never regained consciousness. He lived eight hours in that terrible condition.

He leaves a wife and little son 20 months old and a daughter one month old, also his mother and two brothers and a sister, J. T. Cecil, and Ethel, also his wife's brother Charlie Deason, with a host of friends.

After the collision, Goy was carried to Woodland Clinic, where he passed away. The body was then brought to Willows for burial. — Mrs. Ollie Johnson, 225 S. Murdock St., Willows, California.

Mrs. Johnson will have the sympathy of many friends here.

Teachers Elected By Tahoka School Board At Meeting Tuesday Night

Two Are Attending WOW Convention

Belton Howell and Jess Gurley left Thursday as delegates of the Tahoka Camp of the Woodmen of the World to attend the Head Camp convention of the W. O. W. in session Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week in Abilene. A record attendance is expected and the Tahoka delegates were looking forward to one of the greatest meetings in this jurisdiction.

Audit Being Made Of County Books

The firm of West & West of Lubbock and Abilene, who recently audited the books of the county officers of this county, made their report to the commissioners court in session here Monday.

"Our audit shows that the books of the county without exception have been very efficiently kept the auditors stated. They were unimpaired in their praise of all the county officers for the manner in which they had kept their books.

They also stated that they found the bonded indebtedness of the county to be less than that of any other county in all West Texas which they have audited recently.

New Home School Exhibits Projects

More than 200 people attended the New Home school exhibit held in the auditorium there Tuesday night in connection with the P. T. A. meeting, according to J. T. Carter, superintendent.

The program consisted of talks on good manners by Miss Pearl Hufstetler, Mrs. Henry Heck, and Mrs. McCormick.

Each grade had an exhibit, outstanding among which was the exhibition of woodwork by Joe Stokes school students, which included an elaborate covered wagon, worked out in a history project by Leard Armes and David Massey.

Also of interest was the free-hand art work of Mrs. Ross' primary students, the English history collection of Miss McCollom's students, and the Spanish collection by students of Miss Hufstetler.

Much interest was shown in a demonstration of the mimeograph on which the school paper is being printed and which at present is being used for the publication of the school year book.

New Home And Joe Stokes Combine

The County School Board was in session in County Superintendent H. P. Caveness' office here Monday. The most important item of business transacted was the consolidation of the New Home and Joe Stokes Independent school districts into one high school district.

The consolidation was ordered up on the petition of the trustees of both the districts concerned. Accompanying the petition of the trustees of the Joe Stokes district was a petition to them signed by practically all the patrons of the school.

Trustees for the consolidated district were appointed by the county board as follows: J. H. Izard, Wayman Smith, and J. T. Balch from the New Home district and M. C. Ball, R. D. Randolph, and W. A. Armes from the Joe Stokes district, J. R. Strain from the district at large.

These trustees were selected from the board of the former districts. The trustees of the New Home district, who will retire as such as soon as the business of the board is wound up, are J. R. Strain, W. G. Minton, A. J. Shadden, Wayman Smith, J. T. Balch, Joe Poindexter, and J. H. Izard.

The trustees of the Joe Stokes district, who will be supplanted by the new board, are: M. C. Ball, R. D. Randolph, Legn Jennings, Hillary Smith, W. A. Armes, and J. W. Harston, there being one vacancy on the board.

All high school pupils in the consolidated district will hereafter attend the high school at New Home. Some of the lower grades will continue to be taught at the Joe Stokes school but the number has not yet been determined, according to County Superintendent H. P. Caveness.

Paving Project To Cemetery Being Considered

Cost To Lynn County And City Of Tahoka Will Be Negligible, County Judge Goad Says

The commissioners court and the Tahoka city council now have an opportunity to get a hard-surfaced road built from Highway No. 9 to the cemetery at very little cost, according to County Judge P. W. Goad. The P. W. A. office at Big Spring is proposing to bear the major part of the expense.

The project will call for the construction of grade and drainage structures, the laying of caliche base, and the placing of topping consisting of crushed rock and asphalt, making a road very similar to highway No. 9 itself. It is to extend from the southeast corner of the cemetery directly west to a connection with highway No. 9, following the present community road over this route.

All that will be required of the county is that it furnish the material consisting of caliche and crushed rock and the grading equipment. It is estimated that this will cost approximately $600.00, and the county will be allowed a rebate on this amounting to about $200.00 for the use of the county machinery and equipment. The actual cash outlay therefore will not much exceed $400.00.

Cecil Peeples, College President, Visits City

President Cecil Peeples of Lon Morris Junior College, Jacksonville, former teacher in Tahoka High School, was here last Friday shaking hands with old friends.

Mr. Peeples taught here in 1923-'24, and in addition to teaching was athletic coach. Since leaving Tahoka, he has steadily advanced to his present position as college president.

Weather On Plains Ideal This Week

Snow and sandstorms are so unusual in this South Plains country that it was a big news item when we reported both last week.

Fine weather is not so uncommon and hence is not news, but the weather has been so warm and genial this week that we just can't help remarking about it. California at her best couldn't beat the weather we have had several days this week. All the trees are putting on their robes of green, and even the mesquite trees are putting out their green leaves.

Spring is here, folks, spring is here!

Ladies Quartet Sings At Lubbock Church

The Ladies Quartet of the Tahoka Baptist Church were invited to sing in the anniversary services of the College Avenue Baptist Church in Lubbock Sunday and they accepted the invitation, going up for the night service. The quartet consists of Mesdames F. C. Stanley, K. R. Durham, Elbert Rogers, and H. P. Caveness, with Mrs. J. K. Applewhite as pianist.

This quartet has enjoyed considerable distinction in Baptist circles for several years. Originally it was composed of Mesdames R. C. Wells, K. R. Durham, G. H. Nelson, and H. P. Caveness. Mrs. Nelson moved away several months ago and Mrs. Stanley has been substituting for Mrs. Wells frequently in recent months.

The occasion was the seventh anniversary of the founding of the College Avenue Church. It had three services Sunday, morning, afternoon, and evening. Mrs. Stanley was present also at the afternoon service and sang a solo.

Rev. Boyd Milburn is pastor of the church and has been during the greater part of its existence.

Scout Course Is This Week End

There will be a Boy Scout Leadership Training Course for local men Saturday and Sunday, held out-of-doors at a camp site near Brownfield. M. L. Penn, Tahoka scoutmaster, is lining up the committee and promoting attendance for the school.

The course will be a camp leadership training where the men will cook their meals and sleep in tents. The camp opens at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and closes Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A number of Scouters from Brownfield in addition to Mr. Penn will participate in the program. Earl M. McClure, Scout executive, will be in supervision.

All men interested in attending this course should get in touch with Mr. Penn. Several local Scouters have already indicated that they plan to attend the course.

R. C. WOOD MUCH IMPROVED

The condition of R. C. Wood, who was taken to the Lubbock Sanitarium in a serious condition last Friday, is now reported to be much improved. Mr. Wood has been suffering from some type of pneumonia.

J. K. Applewhite was a business visitor in Amarillo Wednesday.

All Districts Report New Members On School Boards

In the various school trustee elections held in the county on Saturday, April 3, quite a number of new trustees were elected. In a few districts there were spirited but good-natured contests, but in most of the districts only a small vote was polled.

The commissioners court canvassed the returns Monday and found the winners to be as listed below. We are indebted to County Superintendent H. P. Caveness for a list of the hold-over trustees. We omit New Home and Joe Stokes as separate districts for the reason that since the election these two districts have been consolidated into one Rural High School District and a new set of trustees named by the county board.

We list below the entire board for each district, indicating the winners in the recent election and the hold-overs.

Tahoka—Winners: J. O. Tinsley, Frank Hill; hold-overs: Dr. L. E. Turrentine, F. M. Billman, H. B. Howell, J. S. McKaughan, and W. L. Burleson.

County Scholastics Increase Over 1936

The scholastic census of the various school districts of Lynn county taken during the month of March shows a slight increase in the scholastic population of the county. About half the strictly rural districts in the county show a slight increase, while the other half show a corresponding decrease. The Tahoka district shows the greatest increase. O'Donnell shows a slight decrease. County Superintendent H. P. Caveness had received no report from the Wilson district up to Tuesday but it is believed the report will be about the same as last year, with the possibility of a slight decrease.

The total scholastic population of the county last year was 3368. The probabilities are that it will slightly exceed that figure this year. The total scholastic population this year not including Wilson is 2973 against 2947 last year. Wilson had 419 scholastics last year.

There are 77 negro scholastics this year, not including Wilson, of which number 42 are in the Tahoka district.

The scholastic population by districts for the two years is as follows:

David L. Watson of Okmulgee, Oklahoma, was a pleasant visitor in the News office Tuesday night. Mr. Watson is a former newspaper man himself, his last experience having been the publishing of a paper in one of the suburbs of Chicago. He has had experience also in Oklahoma and other parts of the country.

J. P. West, mail carrier here, visited his family at O'Brien over the week end. He reports that his little son, eight years of age, is being kept out of school just now by ill health. The family will remove to Tahoka after the close of school.

Keeping the Mouth Healthy

By
DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

THERE is no question but that the use of mouth washes and tooth brushes helps to keep the mouth clean, the breath sweet, removes tartar, and removes little particles of food which may cause cavities in the teeth.

However, more than mouth washes and tooth powders and pastes is necessary to keep the mouth completely healthy in many cases.

When the tongue is coated, tartar present on the teeth, the throat red and congested, the first thought should be to cleanse out the lower bowel.

Our grandparents before them all gave a good purgative—usually castor oil or Epsom salts—in these cases of unhealthy mouth.

In the Journal of Laboratory and Clinical Medicine, Dr. Mills, University of Cincinnati, says: "A close association seems to exist between the first part of the food tract—the mouth—and the last part—the colon or large intestine. Putrefaction or decaying of food wastes in the large intestine seems to result in bad breath, excessive deposit of tartar, and lowered vitality of the gums. It is also thought that even decay of the teeth may be traced to excessive wastes or constipation in the lower bowel or intestine."

Remove the Putrefaction.
"Putrefaction in the lower bowel or intestine is also the cause of many cases of acne—pimples, and the removal of such putrefaction often brings most rapid and complete disappearance of severe cases of acne."

"It is suggested that these mouth and skin troubles result from the wastes from this putrefaction in the large intestine getting absorbed into the blood and carried by the blood to the glands in the mouth and in the surface of the skin—the saliva and the sweat glands."

The use of the bismuth meal in getting the X-ray picture of the working of the intestine has helped some of these cases as this heavy powder scrapes or scrubs the lining of the bowel, removing the wastes and the organisms causing the putrefaction.

However, Dr. Mills recommends the use of kaolin—the clay used in making china or porcelain—as the most rapid and certain treatment of putrefaction. A prescription of it is not expensive. He recommends kaolin 6 ounces, water 4 ounces, and a simple syrup 2 ounces. The dose is half an ounce, 4 teaspoonfuls, twice a day before meals.

Water Balance and Weight.
I have spoken before of the amateur oarsman or sculler, who, having won the Diamond Sculls at Henley some years previously, decided to make another try for this coveted trophy. Accordingly he arranged with a boxing instructor to "work out" every day for an hour at boxing and gymnasium work. Despite the fact that he took off three pounds every day, he was the same weight at the end of a month as when he started.

He stopped his exercise believing that with his added years it had become impossible for him to lose any of his accumulated fat.

What was the matter? Why did he not lose weight?

His weight was kept up because of the great amount of water he drank—one to two gallons every day. Had he taken a small amount of water each time he felt thirsty he would likely have lost almost half a pound daily.

And sometimes when just the ordinary amount of water, tea, coffee or other liquids are taken daily—two to three quarts—there is little or no loss for days and sometimes weeks. This is due to the fact that each individual has what is known as a water balance—the amount of liquids in various organs and tissues of the body, that appears to be the right amount to keep them in good condition—skin, blood, digestive, joint, spinal and other juices.

Thus we find at times an overweight individual faithfully cut down food for a week or even two weeks and find the loss of weight disappointingly small. Discouraged, no further attempt at reducing is made, because he or she feels "just meant to be fat."

Now, if our sculler and this other individual who found no loss of weight after all this work or cutting down on food, had continued for another two or three weeks or a month the reduction in weight would have been very satisfactory. Once water balance is established, the weight may go off at the rate of one or two pounds per day.

"It has been shown that under carefully controlled conditions even a normal individual would maintain his body weight or even add to it while he was being underfed."

Senate Condemns Sitdown Strike but Spares President—
Henry Ford Defies Lewis—Governor Benson
Incurs Censure of Minnesota Senate.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union.

IN ORDER to get the Guffey coal control bill through the senate without an amendment condemning the sitdown strike, Majority Leader Joe Robinson promised to permit consideration of a resolution carrying similar condemnation, but when it was presented and adopted, by a vote of 75 to 3, it was not a joint resolution, which would require the signature of the President. That was what Senator McNary and others wanted, but Robinson said it must be concurrent, because he would not put Mr. Roosevelt in the position of having to indicate his position on the sitdown strike by either signing or vetoing the measure.

Besides declaring the sitdown strike "illegal and contrary to sound public policy" the resolution also adopted took a double slap at the employers by also declaring: "That the so-called industrial spy system breeds fear, suspicion and animosity, tends to cause strikes and industrial warfare and is contrary to sound public policy; and that it is likewise contrary to sound public policy for any employer to deny the right of collective bargaining, to foster the company union or to engage in any other unfair labor practice as defined in the national labor relations act."

Sen. Robinson

lem. They will prevent mob rule. Apparently the sheriff was not an unbiased law enforcement officer in this case."

MOVING back again to the West, we find Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor governor of Minnesota, involved in labor troubles that might conceivably result in his impeachment. About 200 members of the "people's lobby" staged a sitdown in the senate chamber at St. Paul for the purpose of enforcing their demands for immediate action on the governor's relief plan. Benson had previously spoken to the crowd, telling them "it is all right to be a little rough once in a while" in dealing with the legislature, and the lawmakers were exceedingly resentful. The governor, after one day and night, persuaded the demonstrators to leave, telling them they had done a good job.

Gov. Benson

On regaining possession of its chamber, the senate put through a resolution condemning the governor for "inciting people to riot" and failing to perform his lawful duties to "quell and quiet the mob."

While there was no serious talk of impeachment, the report was current that the senate resolution was drafted deliberately as a possible basis for such action.

BITUMINOUS coal miners were on strike only one day, for the new wage scale, providing an $85,000,000 increase of pay for the 400,000 men, was signed by representatives of the operators and the United Mine Workers of America. Of course the consumer will have to pay for this wage boost. Charles O'Neill, president of the United Eastern Coal Sales corporation and chairman of the operators' delegation at the conference, said the cost of bituminous coal at the mine would go up at least 25 cents a ton.

The miners won a raise of 50 cents a day, but lost their demand for a 30-hour week. The 35-hour week, or 7 hours a day and 5 days a week, which was in effect under the old contract, will remain. Also the men failed to get two weeks' vacation with pay and a guaranty of 200 days of work a year.

THERE is going to be a lively three-cornered struggle in the southwestern oil fields. The C. I. O., whose plans in that direction were mentioned in this column not long ago, has begun the campaign to organize the workers in the Texas field. Harvey C. Fremming of Washington, president of the International Association of Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers and close friend of John Lewis, is in charge of the operations. A rival movement for members and prestige will be started in a few days by the A. F. of L.

Gov. James V. Allred of Texas has given notice that he will use "every resource" against sit-down strikes, which he declares are unlawful and un-American. He added: "My investigation convinces me that sit-down strike organizers have invaded Texas. Sit-down methods do not represent the desires of an overwhelming majority of organized labor in this state."

TRANS-ATLANTIC air service between the United States and Great Britain may be expected to start almost immediately, for the last obstacle in its way was removed by an agreement with Canada concerning routes through the Dominion.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. Monroe Johnson announced that two routes through Canada had been made available for trans-Atlantic flying craft that will make a total of four trips a week. One route is by way of Shediac, N. B., and the other through Montreal. The hop-off point for eastward flights over the ocean would be from Bottwood, N. F., which also would be landfall on the westward flights.

Johnson said that under the agreement British and United States planes would make two crossings a piece weekly.

SENATOR JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS of Illinois told the senate that he believes the time has come for President Roosevelt to call an international peace conference that would revise the treaty of Versailles. He said the object of the conference would be to reach a "new disposition that might content the nations that are now in revolt and which continue in conflict because of the affront and injury they feel was worked upon them under the terms of the treaty."

The senator asserted the popularity of Mr. Roosevelt abroad would lend much to the success of such a conference.

Hello everybody

"Man With the Knife"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HERE is a story sent to me by Eva Halm of Chicago—the story of a little girl whose impulsive act saved her from one danger, only to throw her into another one.

Eva has grown up in the meantime, but back in 1907, when she was just a kid, her dad was superintendent of the trolley car lines over a large area in Chicago. He spent the day going from one station or car barn to another, and at night, after dinner, he usually drove down to the biggest station and checked over the others by telephone.

Those were the horse and buggy days. Eva's dad drove a spirited horse hitched to a light rubber-tired runabout, and usually when he went to the main station in the evening someone in the family rode with him.

On this particular night it was Eva who was to go driving with him. There had been some labor trouble on the line and some of the men were out to "get" the superintendent. As a result, he carried a loaded '38 revolver in a leather holster in his hip pocket.

Dad Took His Gun Along.

He slipped the gun in his pocket that night as he was starting out and then buttoned his coat and overcoat over it.

Eva noticed that. She knew, too, that there were a couple of pretty tough customers among the men who were "after" her dad, and she asked him why he didn't keep that gun in his overcoat pocket where he could get at it more easily.

But dad just laughed at her. They got into the carriage and drove along. The station he was heading for was quite a distance away and about three miles from home.

Eva Used the Whip and the Horse Plunged.

they had to cross the Belmont avenue bridge over the north branch of the Chicago river.

The bridge was darkest in the middle, for only the arc lamps at either end gave it light. They had just about reached that darkest point when a roughly dressed man stepped out from behind one of the bridge uprights.

Eva's dad had to pull up the horse. Often, when he couldn't be reached by phone, a pitman was sent from a nearby station to give him a message at this point.

There Were Two of Them.

He brought the horse to a stop as he approached the man and said "Well, what is it?"

But at that same moment another roughly dressed figure stepped from the other side of the bridge and caught hold of the horse's head.

For a minute no one spoke. Then, suddenly it dawned on Eva that these couldn't be men from the station. If they were, why didn't they answer? And if they weren't—well—then they must be a couple of those fellows who were trying to "get" her dad.

And then Eva saw something else. The fellow up front by the horse's head had something in his hand which gleamed dully in the dim light.

Eva Had an Inspiration.

A knife! Right then was when Eva acted on impulse. She jumped to her feet, reached over the reins in her dad's hands and snatched the whip from his socket. As she grabbed that whip she thought of the gun in her dad's pocket, buried under those buttoned-up coats where he couldn't get at it. Then she raised the whip and brought it down on the horse's back with all her strength.

The horse reared and plunged. The man at his head jumped aside, cursing. The carriage moved back and forth, and Eva fell sideways. Just in time her dad reached out and caught her.

"But for his quick action," she says, "I would have been thrown to the bridge and probably knifed to death."

But that move of her dad's was disastrous. In reaching out for her he had slacked up on the reins and lost control of the horse. The horse got the bit in its teeth and away it went.

But at last dad pulled the horse up and turned it into the street leading to the station. When it was all over he turned to her and said: "You must never do that again. You might have been killed."

But Eva still wonders what would have happened if she hadn't done it. ©—WNU Service.

Love of Card Games Is

Noted in Briton's Talk

The Briton's love of card games is reflected in his speech, says a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine.

"That's the card," we say when a person does the correct thing, i. e., he has played the right card. We call a sharp fellow "a knowing card"; a man of personality "a great card." "A queer card" describes someone we don't quite understand, or don't quite trust. "When in doubt play trumps" is advice to play the bold game in life—to go all out for a win.

We say of a successful man that he "played his cards well." To "throw up the cards" is to cease to struggle. When the other fellow appears to hold every advantage, we complain that he "holds all the cards."

A queer thing about a pack of cards is that it is like a calendar. There are 52 cards in a pack, and 52 weeks in a year. There are four suits in a pack and four seasons in a year. There are thirteen cards in each suit, and thirteen weeks in each quarter. Counting the Aces as 1, the Knives as 11, the Queens as 12, and the Kings as 13, the pips in a pack total 364. Add 1 for the Joker and we get 365 pips in a pack.

Different countries use different symbols to represent the four suits. Germany used to use Leaves, Hearts, Bells and Acorns. In Spain, Columbine, Roses, Pinks and Rabbits have now changed to Espados (swords), Copas (chalices), Dineros (money), Bastos (cudgels or clubs). French cards have a Pique (pike-man), Coeur (chour-man), Carrioux (tiles or artisans), Trefle (clover or farmer).

Our English "Spades" are a mixture of the French symbol, a pike, and the Spanish name, espados; "Clubs" picture the French trefoil, but adopt the Spanish name; "Hearts" is a corruption of the French Coeur into Coeur.

Unique Islamic Custom

For about 1,200 years, a unique Islamic custom has been practiced in Muna, Arabia. As enjoined in the Koran, every Mohammedan passing through the town on his way to Mecca, has stopped at the rock pile and thrown 49 stones at Satan. "Satan's Abode," indicated by a sign, says Collier's Weekly, is the official target and gentlemen who playfully hurl rocks in other directions are arrested.

Ale-Wives in England

Centuries ago, we read of Alrecks, of Hordoland, choosing Geirhild as his wife on account of her skill in brewing "nobby" ale. Ale-wives held a monopoly in the beer trade in England 500 years ago, says Pearson's London Weekly Magazine, and so brisk was their trade that they were forbidden to sell ale on London bridge because they obstructed the traffic.

The Garden Murder Case

by S. S. VAN DINE

Copyright S. S. Van Dine
WNU Service

CHAPTER XII—Continued

"For God's sake," Garden burst out, "it's up to you to find out the truth. I'm on the spot—what with my going out of the room with Woody yesterday, my failure to place his bet, then the mother's accusation, and that damned will of hers, and the medicine. You've got to find out who's guilty . . ."

As he was talking the door bell had rung, and Heath came up the hallway.

Vance went to Garden and, putting a hand on the man's shoulder, urged him back into his chair. "Come, buck up," he said; "we'll need your help, and if you work up a case of jitters you'll be useless."

"But don't you see how deeply involved I am?" Garden protested weakly.

"You're not the only one involved," Vance returned calmly. He turned to Siefert. "I think, doctor, we should have a little chat. Possibly we can get the matter of your patient's death straightened out a bit. Suppose we go upstairs to the study, what?"

In the study Vance went directly to the point.

"Doctor, the time has come when we must be perfectly frank with each other. The usual conventional considerations of your profession must be temporarily put aside. I shall be altogether candid with you and trust that you can see your way to being equally candid with me."

Siefert, who had taken a chair near the door, looked at Vance a trifle uneasily.

"I regret that I do not understand what you mean," he said in his suave manner.

"I merely mean," replied Vance coolly, "that I am fully aware that it was you who sent me the anonymous telephone message Friday night."

Siefert raised his eyebrows slightly.

"Assuming, for the sake of argument," he said with deliberation, "that it was I who phoned you Friday night, what then?"

Vance watched the man with a faint smile.

"It might be, don't you know," he said, "that you were cognizant of the situation here, and that you had a suspicion—or let us say, a fear—that something tragic was impending."

Vance took out his cigar case and lighted a cigarette. "I fully understood the import of that message, doctor—as you intended. That is why I happened to be here yesterday afternoon. The significance of your reference to the Aeneid and the inclusion of the word 'equanimity' did not escape me. I must say, however, that your advice to investigate radio-active sodium was not entirely clear—although I think I now have a fairly lucid idea as to the implication. However, there were some deeper implications in your message, and this is the time, if you see, when we should face this thing together with complete honesty."

Siefert brought his eyes back to Vance in a long appraising glance, and then shifted them to the window again.

"Yes, I did send you that message. I realize that nothing can be gained now by not being frank with you . . . The situation in this household has bothered me for a long time, and lately I've had a sense of imminent disaster."

"How long have you felt this premonition?" asked Vance.

"For the past three months, I should say. Although I have acted as the Gardens' physician for many years, it was not until last fall that Mrs. Garden's changing condition came to my notice. I thought little of it at first, but as it grew worse and I found myself unable to diagnose it satisfactorily, a curious suspicion forced itself on me that the change was not entirely natural. I began coming here much more frequently than had been my custom, and during the last couple of months I had felt many subtle undercurrents in the various relationships of the household, which I had never sensed before. Of course, I knew that Floyd and Swift never got along particularly well—that there was some deep animosity and jealousy between them. I also knew the terms of Mrs. Garden's will."

Siefert paused with a frown.

"As I say, it has been only recently that I have felt something deeper and more significant in all this interplay of temperaments; and this feeling grew to such proportions that I actually feared a violent climax of some kind—especially as Floyd told me only a few days ago that his cousin intended to stake his entire remaining funds on Equanimity in the big race yesterday. So overpowering was my feeling in regard to the whole situation here that I decided to do something about it, if I could manage it without divulging any professional confidences. But you saw through my subterfuge."

Vance nodded. "I appreciate your scruples in the matter, doctor. I only regret that I was unable to forestall these tragedies. That, as it happened, was beyond human power." Vance looked up quickly.

"By the by, doctor, did you have any definite suspicions when you phoned me Friday night?"

Siefert shook his head with emphasis. "No. Frankly, I was baffled. I merely felt that some sort of explosion was imminent."

Vance smoked a while in silence. "And now, doctor, will you be so good as to give us the full details about this morning?"

Siefert drew himself up in his chair.

"There's practically nothing to add to the information I gave you over the phone. Miss Beeton called me a little after eight o'clock and informed me that Mrs. Garden had died some time during the night. She asked for instructions, and I told her that I would come at once. I was here half an hour or so later. I could find no determinable cause for Mrs. Garden's death, and assumed it might have been her heart until Miss Beeton called my attention to the fact that the bottle of medicine sent by the druggist was empty . . ."

"By the by, doctor, what was the prescription you made out for your patient last night?"

"A simple barbitol solution."

"And I believe you told me on the telephone that there was sufficient barbitol in the prescription to have caused death?"

"Yes," Doctor Siefert nodded. "If taken at one time."

"And Mrs. Garden's death was consistent with barbitol poisoning?"

"There was nothing to contradict such a conclusion," Siefert answered. "And there was nothing to indicate any other cause."

"I Saw That She Was Dead."

"When did the nurse discover the empty bottle?"

"Not until after she had phoned me, I believe."

Vance, smoking lazily, was watching Siefert from under speculative eyelids.

"Tell me something of Mrs. Garden's illness, doctor, and why radio-active sodium should have suggested itself to you."

Siefert brought his eyes sharply back to Vance.

"I was afraid you would ask that. But this is no time for squeamishness. I must trust wholly to your discretion. As I've already said, I don't know the exact nature of Mrs. Garden's ailment. The symptoms have been very much like those accompanying radium poisoning. But I have never prescribed any of the radium preparations for her—I am, in fact, profoundly skeptical of their efficacy."

He cleared his throat before continuing.

"One evening while reading the reports of the researches made in California on radioactive sodium, or what might be called artificial radium, which has been heralded as a possible medium of cure for cancer, I suddenly realized that Professor Garden himself was actively interested in this particular line of research and had done some very creditable work in the field. The realization was purely a matter of association, and I gave it little thought at first. But the idea persisted, and before long some very unpleasant possibilities began to force themselves upon me."

Again the doctor paused, a troubled look on his face.

"About two months ago I suggested to Doctor Garden that, if it were at all feasible, he put Miss Beeton on his wife's case. I had already come to the conclusion that Mrs. Garden required more constant attention and supervision than I could afford her, and Miss Beeton, who is a registered nurse, had, for the past year or so, been working with Doctor Garden in his laboratory—in fact, it was I who had sent her to him when he mentioned his need of a laboratory assistant. I was particularly anxious to have her take Mrs. Garden's case, rather than some other nurse, for I felt that from her observations some helpful suggestions might result."

"And have Miss Beeton's subsequent observations been helpful to you, doctor?" asked Vance.

"No, I can't say that they have," Siefert admitted, "despite the fact that Doctor Garden still availed himself of her services occasionally in the laboratory, thereby giving her an added opportunity of keeping an eye on the entire situation."

Siefert shook his head with em-

phases resulting in any information regarding the general situation here?"

"Nothing that I had not already known. In fact, her observations have merely substantiated my own conclusions. It's quite possible, too, that she herself may unwittingly have augmented the animosity between young Garden and Swift, for she has intimated to me once or twice a very strong suspicion that she is personally interested in Floyd Garden."

Vance looked up with augmented interest.

"What, specifically, has given you that impression, doctor?"

"Nothing specific," Siefert told him. "I have, however, observed them together on several occasions, and my impression was that some sentiment existed there. Nothing that I can put my finger on, though. But one night when I was walking up Riverside drive I happened to see them together in the park—undoubtedly a stroll together."

The nurse appeared at the door at that moment to announce the arrival of the medical examiner, and Vance asked her to bring Doctor Doremus up to the study.

"I might suggest," said Siefert quickly, "that, with your consent, it would be possible to have the medical examiner accept my verdict of death due to an accidental overdose of barbitol and avoid the additional unpleasantness of an autopsy."

"Oh, quite," Vance nodded. "That was my intention." He turned to the district attorney. "All things considered, Markham," he said "I think that might be best."

Markham nodded in reluctant acquiescence as Doremus was led into the room by Miss Beeton. After a brief interchange of explanations and comments Doremus readily agreed to Markham's suggestion.

Doctor Siefert rose and looked hesitantly at Vance. "You will not need me further, I trust."

"Not at the moment, doctor," Vance rose also and bowed formally. "We may, however, communicate with you later . . . And, Miss Beeton, please sit down."

The girl came forward and seated herself in the nearest chair, as the men went down the passage-way.

"I don't mean to trouble you unduly, Miss Beeton," said Vance; "but we should like to have a first-hand account of the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Garden."

"I wish there was something definite I could tell you," the nurse replied readily in a business-like manner, "but all I know is that when I arose this morning, a little after seven, Mrs. Garden seemed to be sleeping quietly. After dressing I went to the dining-room and had my breakfast; and then I took a tray in to Mrs. Garden. She always had tea and toast at eight o'clock. It wasn't until I had drawn up the shades and closed the windows, that I realized something was wrong. I spoke to her and she didn't answer me; and when I tried to rouse her I got no response. I saw then that she was dead. I called Doctor Siefert at once, and he came over as quickly as he could."

"You sleep, I believe, in Mrs. Garden's room?"

The nurse inclined her head. "Yes. You see, Mrs. Garden frequently needed some small service in the night."

"Had she required your attention at any time during the night?"

"No. The injection Doctor Siefert gave her before he left her seemed to have quieted her and she was sleeping peacefully when I went out."

"What time did you leave the house?" asked Vance.

"About nine o'clock. Mr. Floyd Garden suggested it, assuring me that he would be here and that he thought I needed a little rest."

"Had you no professional qualms about leaving a sick patient at such a time?"

"Ordinarily I might have had," the girl returned resentfully; "but Mrs. Garden had never shown me any consideration. She was the most selfish person I ever knew. Anyway, I explained to Mr. Floyd Garden about giving his mother a teaspoonful of the medicine if she should wake up and show any signs of restlessness. And then I went out into the park."

"At what time did you return, Miss Beeton?"

"It must have been about eleven," she told him.

"Mrs. Garden was asleep when you came in?"

The girl turned her eyes to Vance before answering.

"I—I thought—she was asleep," she said hesitantly. "Her color was all right. But perhaps—even then—"

"Yes, yes. I know," Vance put in quickly. "By the by, did you notice anything changed—anything, let us say, out of place—in the room, on your return?"

The nurse shook her head slowly. "No. Everything seemed the same to me. The windows and shades were just as I had left them, and—wait, there was something. The glass I had left on the night-table with drinking water was empty. I refilled it before going to bed."

Vance looked up quickly. "And the bottle of medicine?"

"I didn't particularly notice that; but it must have been just as I had left it, for I remember a fleeting sense of relief because Mrs. Garden hadn't needed a dose of medicine."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for April 18

THE EFFECTS OF ALOCHOLIC BEVERAGES

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 13:13; 19:23-25; Deuteronomy 32:31-33; Proverbs 23:29-32. GOLDEN TEXT—At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder. Proverbs 23:32. PRIMARY TOPIC—A Man Who Had First Choice. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Way of Woe. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Science Says About Alcohol. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Scientific Basis of Temperance.

The American people are alert to the forces which threaten the bulwarks of national life, and are ready to take intelligent and effective action against them when fully aroused to the danger. The powers of evil know this to be true and are careful to avoid anything that directs our attention to what is constantly going on under cover. The liquor question is one of our nation's most serious problems. The devastating results of the widespread sale and use of intoxicants will only be known as Christian men and women unmask this wicked business which poses under the banner of congenial and pleasant living, and proudly points to its recognition by the government as a legal enterprise.

The facts are available through various temperance organizations and in such books as "Alcohol and Man," by Dr. Emerson of Columbia university. The Sunday School lessons for 1937 present four opportunities to bring the matter squarely before the adults and children who are in our Bible Schools. We have already (Jan. 31) considered the economic problem, and will later deal with temperance as a social and moral evil. The lesson for today affords a special opportunity to touch on the scientific side, presenting intoxicants in their true light as a poison. Look up the word "intoxicate" in a good dictionary and you at once have a picture of what beer, wine, and whiskey do to the human body.

The Christian approach to any consideration of the matter is by recognizing that man is a spiritual being, dwelling in a physical body.

I. We Live in a World of Moral Responsibility (Gen. 13:13; 19:23-25). Life is not a careless drifting from day to day, from pleasure to pleasure, into sin or not as one may choose, with no responsibility for one's actions. Man was created in the likeness and image of God. He possesses the power of choice. He knows right from wrong. If he chooses to do right he has all the resources of the omnipotent God to call upon as his strength and stay. But if he chooses to turn his back upon God and upon Christ, and to go into the ways of sin, let him be sure that there is a day of judgment to come from which he shall in no wise escape. The destruction of the wicked cities of the plain, terrible as it was in itself, is but a prophecy of judgment to come. See Luke 10:12.

II. Men Go Two Different Ways (Deut. 32:31-33). Moses contrasts the Rock in which his people trusted, and the corrupt standards of their heathen neighbors by which they were tempted. One greater than Moses spoke of the two ways (read Matt. 7:13, 14), and pointed out the sad fact that there are many that go down the broad way to destruction, and few who walk in the narrow way of life. Let us seek to win our young men and women away from the sinful ways of this world.

III. The Liquor Way is the Wrong Way (Prov. 23:29-32). Skillful indeed are the advertising devices of the liquor interests! They associate their intoxicants (poisons) with holiday festivities, happy family gatherings, social preferment, and so on. They do not picture the bleary eye, the babbling tongue, the "wounds without cause." They carefully overlook the broken-hearted mother, the ragged children, the empty cupboard, and the devastated home life. They say nothing of the men who have lost their characters and their jobs, and of the women who have lowered themselves beyond description because of their love for liquor. Let us in tenderness and heart-broken humility present to our Sunday School classes that picture, which is a disgrace to our nation. The wine may look red, and it may even go "smoothly down the throat" (a possible translation of the words "when it moveth aright," v. 31), but it still has the bite of a serpent and the sting of an adder (v. 32).

Aims and Duties
What are the aims which are at the same time duties?—they are the perfecting of ourselves, and the happiness of others.

Injustice
The injustice of men obscures the justice of God, and often His mercy.—Madame Swetchine.

Doing Good
"Doing good is the only certainly happy action of man's life."—Sir Philip Sidney.

Smart, Flattering Dresses

MRS. DICK EVANS has come to town and brought Ann and Eddie LeRoy with her. She lives in Palm Beach in the winter time and, of course, knows all about style. That's why she wears this directorio type frock that is both new and figure flattering. In the floral print she has chosen she is perfectly gowned for the parties that will be given for her in the home town. The kiddies are wearing the simple styles appropriate to childhood and therein their smartness lies.

Auntie Rose Sews, Too.
Little Ann is asking Auntie Rose if she makes her clothes too. "Sure enough, dear," comes the reply. "I made this percale for mornings and have a beauty in yellow crepe cut from the same pattern to wear to the Bid-or-Bi meetings."

"I'll bet you can sew fast, too, the way Mother does. It only took her two mornings to make Eddie's suit and my dress. Won't you help me with my doll clothes now?"

"Indeed I will, Ann, and then we will have some of those oatmeal cookies you like for lunch."

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Any erroneous reflection upon the reputation or standing of any individual firm or corporation, that may appear in the columns of The News will be gladly corrected when called to our attention.

The Claude News is in favor of paying no more attention to the Constitution than if it did not exist.
Yet the Constitution is the supreme law of the land. Right now the Claude editor is giving supreme obedience to Acts of Congress. When a majority of the Court declares an Act of Congress unconstitutional, Wagoner denounces them as dictators. Apparently, he wants them to declare every law constitutional whether it is or not. Personally he hates the Supreme Court and has no use for the Constitution. But if Congress should enact a law which he doesn't like, over the veto of the President, we suspect he would want the people to mob Congress—or, maybe, he would want the President to disband it as a gang of crooks and scoundrels. On the other hand, if the President should veto a law which Wagoner strongly approves, he would probably denounce the President as a traitor. That's been his "long suit" heretofore.
Scarcely an issue of his paper comes off the press that doesn't get all over the editor of the Lynn County News. But it does no good for us to point out to him the error of his way. When you get him hemmed up, he will break out through the pen, and you can never tell which way he is going next. In fact, he sometimes meets himself coming back a half dozen times in the same issue of his own paper. So, we guess we will have to give Tom up as hopeless. He seems to be beyond redemption.

DUST

Who said the dust did not blow back in the good old days? Ask any of the old timers. Worth A.
Jennings states that 42 years ago Monday the dust was so thick he could not see, and very little land was under cultivation at that time.
He remembers the date very distinctly, as the wind changed to the north and snow blanketed the Panhandle that night.—Canyon News.

Old-timers tell us that the sand-storms were fully as bad before the coming of the plow as they have been since. We have often noted that land listed before the sand-storms start does not blow half so badly as unbroken farm lands or even dry pasture lands. Converting these rich South Plains lands back into pasture lands, as some of the brain-trusters have suggested, would not solve the dust problem. It may be that the deep sandy lands in the real dust bowl of the Northwest Panhandle should be turned back into ranch lands. It's a cinch that they have been worth nothing as farm lands for the past several years. Whether they would ever be worth much as grazing lands is problematical. We don't pretend to know. But the old-timers of that section ought to know ten times as much about it as a whole cowpenfull of Tugwells.

NUTS

A Dr. Popenoe of California gave a series of lectures at Tech recently on marriage and home life. In his speech he made the statement that people should be paid salaries according to their home life. That a married man should receive a larger salary than a single man, and an additional amount for each child in the family dependent on him.

This all sounds good, especially to a man that has six or eight children in his family, but anyone with a very small portion of reasoning can see at once that it is not practical at all. If I hire someone to work for me, I don't care if he is single, married, or has a dozen children. What I want is a competent worker. A man's private life should not enter his business.

Were such a practice made, to adjust a man's salary according to the number of his family, it would be the greatest curse ever passed on the home. All the single men would get the jobs, and the man with a few children would not even have a look in. A man running a business will naturally hire the person who will put out

WORDS AND PLOWSHARES

History seems to be reversing itself. We are told that swords would be beaten into plow shares, but now, apparently, plow shares are being beaten into swords. All over Texas a fancy price is being paid for scrap iron and hundreds of plowshares are being shipped to Japan and other countries to be made into implements. Farmers can no longer leave their implements outside with safety, as thefts of tractor engines have been reported even out here in the Panhandle. Farmers would do well to guard their machinery.—
Miami Chief.

People have to go prepared when there is a mad dog running loose in the community. There seem to be still some mad dogs among the nations. With Japan and some of the big nations of Europe in a wild scramble to see which can build the most and biggest battleships, it is up to Uncle Sam to build some too.
Battleships and an effective air force are our best guaranties against attack. At the same time we should cultivate the spirit of peace among the nations of the world. Secretary Hull and President Roosevelt are due a full measure of praise for their efforts along this line.

CANT FOOL A MESQUITE

The old time natural settlers in West Texas, the mesquite trees are about the best prophets we have in announcing the revival of Spring.
It is very seldom old man Winter catches the mesquite napping. You will notice they have not put on their Easter dress of green as yet.
—Big Spring News.

Isn't it strange how the mesquite seems to use more than human wisdom in protecting itself against the trickery of the elements? There are a thousand mysteries in Nature that the scientists have not fathomed yet.

YEAH!

"WHERE YOU MEET YOUR FRIENDS"

THE CO-ED CHARM COLUMN

By Irene

May I hereby state that the following column is in no wise meant in a personal light. If you are afflicted with some of the faults mentioned, it is incidental. Or, if the author be guilty, please remember she is only trying to help you by recounting facts and not by example.

Let's take a look in your mirror. No, I mean LOOK! Twice! Is that really you? Is that crows feet I see around your eyes? Tsk, tsk, look at those hands! And, I'll bet you play bridge, too! How time does fly! Well, don't worry. Just read the charm column. What? Just a bit of free information every week from your local beauty operator, gleaned from popular and beauty magazines, beauty text books, encyclopedias, dictionaries and what have you.

Ladies, according to the above mentioned literary compositions, there are two enemies to beauty. The best way to get to the bottom of things is not to be squeamish, but frank and honest, so, pardon me girls, the enemies are ignorance and laziness.

I shall attempt to dispense with the ignorance part in this column, but the other part is up to you, and, if you are afflicted with it, read no farther, my friend, read no farther, for one must work for beauty.

Much as we'd like to, we can't do it all for you.

If you neglect beauty, yes, I mean you, it may not lose you anything in life, but it certainly won't gain you anything, you know. Look where Joan Crawford's charm got her, not to speak of Mae West's curves!

Psychologists say that beauty comes from the inside out, which is a good thing to bear in mind, but alas, I am only a beauty operator, so let's start at the outside and develop Personality through Personal Appearance.

Did you ever overhear anyone remark of you, "There goes an attractive lady?" No? Then there's something seriously wrong. Let's look at you at a distance. You are standing still. You think you look like a fashion plate, but you look like a drizzle that just cracked in the middle.

It's important! Find out what you should do about it by reading next week's column.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McPherson are visiting in Fort Worth this week.

Goat Is Speaker At Rotary Club

At the Rotary Club luncheon Thursday, Judge P. W. Goad suggested the possibility of procuring West North Third Street from highway No. 9 to the high school building. P. W. A. funds with which to paving and the street extending south from the high school building to highway No. 84.

He told the club that he had assurance that this project could be completed at very little cost to the city. Such a project was recently completed in the city of Big Spring, he pointed out, at absolutely no cost to the city.

He also gave some encouragement to the proposal to procure a small tract of land a little later on one of the highways in the county for a roadside park.

Wynne Collier made a short talk on "What eight years in Rotary have meant to me," and E. I. Hill spoke briefly on Rotary Club work.

Cricken With Four Legs Reported

Mrs. V. A. Botkin reported Wednesday that one of her neighbors, Mrs. McCarty, has a baby chick with four legs.

Two of the legs seem to be useless, however, as he uses only two of them in walking. Nobody seems to know what the other two were put there for unless they are to be substituted for the good limbs when the latter become tired. Or possibly they might be used in cases of emergency, such as defending himself against attack by some of the other members of the brood. The chick at last account was enjoying good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henderson returned Tuesday from a six weeks visit with their son, Douglas Henderson, in Los Angeles. Mr. Henderson says that it had been nearly nineteen years since he visited Los Angeles and the growth and change in the city was marvelous.

Although N. W. Alphin has been up a couple of weeks, he is still suffering from an ear and nose affection following a very stubborn attack of the flu and tonsillitis. He became ill about eight weeks ago and was confined to his bed for several weeks. He says the flu he had was the genuine stuff, like that which infested the country during the World War.

CARD OF THANKS

FLU HAS CHURCH OF CHRIST PASTOR DOWN

Old Mr. Flu still has me down. I have decided that flu is a disease that gets you down, kicks you around, and then leaves you too weak to get up. I am in the last stage at the present.

But sickness has its bright side. It makes us appreciate health more and gives our friends a chance to show kindness to us and they sure have been nice to me. I am made to wonder if we appreciate our friends as we should. We talk of a "pull" but "pull" usually means friends that help in time of need. He who has one true friend is not poor.

I want to thank my many friends who have shown an interest in my welfare and pledge to live so as to be worthy of your friendship.

I was not able to fill the pulpit at O'Donnell last Lord's Day, but hope to preach at least once here next Lord's Day at 11 a. m.

Visit the friendly church where you are always welcome.—R. P. Drennon.

MRS. SMITH HOSTESS TO RAINBOW CLASS

The Rainbow class of the Tahoka Baptist Sunday School met at Mrs. Smith's Tuesday night for a class meeting. We discussed business matters, elected officers, and played games. For refreshments we had ice cream. Everyone reported a nice time.

QUARTER CONFERENCE AT METHODIST SUNDAY

On next Sunday night at 8:00 o'clock, Bro. Pearce will preach and hold Quarterly Conference. Will expect a written report from Sunday School Women's work, and Young people's work.

Our District Conference will be held at Slaton April 19 and 20. Quite a number from here will go.

On Friday night, April 23, the Memorial Banquet will be held in the church basement. There will be a good program, and we expect a large attendance. Tickets are 50c. The money raised will go to pay debt on the Mission Board.

Mrs. W. D. Smith, Mrs. H. F. Gibson, and Mrs. Ben Hardy are attending the Women's Missionary Conference at Stamford this week.

MARVIN HEALY HONORED ON EIGHTH BIRTHDAY

A number of Marvin Healy's friends were entertained Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Nash in honor of Marvin's eighth birthday. He received many gifts.

Games were played by the following: Mary Louise, J. W. Bessie, Inez, Pauline, George, and Dorothy Rainey, Clara Lee Henry, Donald Lee and Bill Huffaker, Mary Lee McDonald, C. C. Jones, Joyce Belle Healey, Joe Bob Nixon, Marvin Healy, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Healy, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rainey.

LEGION AUXILIARY HAS BUSINESS MEETING

The American Legion Auxiliary met in regular business meeting at the Auxiliary room on Tuesday afternoon.

The house was called to order by the president, Mrs. Richardson. Officers were placed at a rap of the gavel. Sergeant-at-Arms Mrs. A. M. Cade closed the doors. Colors were advanced by color bearers, Mmes. Patterson and Cade, while members saluted the flags. The national song was led by Mrs. Taylor.

On account of so much business the program was omitted till a later date.

Mmes. Dr. Turrentine, Snowden, and Taylor were appointed to arrange a Mothers Day program and lectures.

A "42" social was planned for Monday night, April 19.

Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Turrentine signed this year's membership cards.

Colors were removed by bearers, and the meeting adjourned.

Request: Each one using the Legion Home is asked to be as careful with the building and fixtures as if it were your own home, please.—Reporter.

Buck Barnes of Clovis was a visitor here during the week end.

BOOK REVIEWS ON PHEBE K. WARNER CLUB PROGRAM

Mrs. L. F. Craft and Mrs. Carl Griffing were joint hostesses to the Sunday School Club April 9 in the home of the latter. Two very interesting book reviews were given by Mrs. R. W. Fenton Sr. and Mrs. Craft. The program was concluded with a piano duet by Misses Joycelyn Maasen and Mildred Cooper. The club voted to have a book review given by each member during the coming year.

LEGION AUXILIARY BEAUTIFIES HOME

On Monday morning Mrs. R. L. Richardson, American Legion Auxiliary president, called a meeting to clean up and help beautify the Legion Home.

The center of attraction was the Auxiliary room. It is being furnished and new drapes hung. Soon it will be a room that all will be proud of, when it is finished.

At the noon hour a real feast was spread for Auxiliary members and their husbands. Eighteen were present. The commissioners court were invited guests to enjoy the "eat" and association.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all of our friends for their kindness and for the beautiful floral offering, during the illness and death of our father, brother, and grandfather.—Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jones and family, Mr. and Mrs. Pelham Clements, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Buchanan, Miss Lora Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. F. Lane and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lane and family.

S. N. McDaniel, who with his wife returned from a visit with their daughter in the lower Rio Grande valley, says that they had to return home to get in out of the cold. While the temperatures were not nearly as low there as they were here, yet the dampness of the atmosphere added to its coolness, made them shiver. We think the main trouble, however, was the fact that they realized they were missing a string of mighty nice, fine sandstorms by being so far away from home and they rushed back with the hope of getting to enjoy one or two before the season is over.

W. R. Rogers Thursday morning took over the management of Carlos Courts, Robert Wilcox, who has been operating it, having given up his lease. The property belongs to the Peck estate.

Mmes. Frank Winn, Roy Riddle, Walter Posey, and Clark Mullican, all of Lubbock, were guests of Mrs. Gladys Stokes Wednesday evening.

Dixie

There was a good crowd out for Sunday School Sunday. We want you all to come back.

Bro. McCulloch of New Home is holding a Baptist meeting in the Methodist church. Everyone is invited to come and be with us.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Inman visited Mrs. Inman's sister at South Ward Sunday.

Miss Reba Joiner, who has been sick for a long time, is improving rapidly.

Frank Raindl Jr., who has been visiting his sister at Shiner, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Perry and family visited Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Owens of O'Donnell Sunday.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lilith Boyd, H. D. Agent
WRITERS ASSOCIATION HOLDS MEETING

The Lynn County Writers Association met with Mrs. M. C. Brandon in the chair Saturday, April 10. Programs were planned for the remainder of the year. Each month all who are not present will miss something worth-while and interesting. Since the purpose of such an organization is to teach club-reporters to be better writers, each member is urged to be present at all meetings.

Lynn county was selected by Miss Lida Cooper to be the "Model Writers Association" of this district. We may have visitors from one of the other counties and clubs at any time. Let us make the Association a model one. Members present were: Miss Mildred Cox, Three Lakes; Mrs. Weldon Jones, Friendship Club; Mrs. R. L. Littlepage, sponsor of Midway 4-H; Mrs. S. G. Anthony, Wilson; Mrs. M. C. Brandon, Wilson; Mrs. J. Paul King, Tahoka; and Mrs. Boswell Edwards, New Home.

A. & M. EXPERT SPEAKS AT NEW HOME H. D. CLUB

"One must establish a child's confidence while the child is young," said Miss Hale, specialist in child development and education, to the New Home H. D. Club Friday, April 9, in the home of Mrs. J. R. Strain.

Parents gain the child's confidence by talking with them. A parent should never be too busy to hear a child's story. A child must have some interest in the home if they are to love and appreciate it. This interest may be created by giving them some definite work to do.

Visitors present were: Mmes. P. W. Goad and James Connolly of Tahoka, and Mother Alexander.

NEW HOME 4-H CLUB HEARS A & M WOMAN

"Soda or soap with a soft cloth and warm water is very good to use in cleaning or washing a chicken," said our county agent, Miss Lilith Boyd, to the New Home 4-H Club girls at the home of Mrs. Boswell Edwards Friday, April 9.

"Soda is preferred since the carcass is sometimes bloody and soap and blood create quite a slime. If crude oil is used around the poultry houses and rubs off onto the fowls nothing but soap will remove it. After washing the fowl, rinse it carefully in clear water to remove any trace of soda. Then dry the carcass with a clean dry cloth."

The girls were highly honored by having Miss Hale from the Child's Health Clinic of A & M talk. Her subject was "Learning to be Likeable."

We all like for people to like us, and to be liked by everyone we must have certain characteristics. We should never say anything about any other person's dress or her ways of doing things. We should all be good losers as well as good winners. The best place to learn to overcome our handicaps is in our

FACTORS IN GOOD CAKE MAKING ARE TOLD

Three action baking powder and a good cake flour are important to consider in successful cake making. Miss Lilith Boyd told the Three Lakes Home Demonstration club ladies at the meeting in the home of Mrs. Fred McGinty, on April 1st.

Use a thermometer if possible in cooking icings in order to have an icing of just the right consistency to spread nicely.

A cake to have a nice texture must be given plenty of beating. Always cream butter and sugar thoroughly, and add a little flour before adding the liquid.

Our next meeting will be with Mrs. Clabe Sparks.

Ice cream, tea and cake were served to the following members: Mesdames A. L. McMillan, J. C. Sparks, C. F. Gaylen, I. L. Johnson, Elzo McMillan, L. H. Johnson, J. W. Edwards, Jarrell Cox, Fred McGinty, Carol Edwards, Misses Mildred Cox, and Lilith Boyd, and two visitors Mrs. J. E. Etter and Mrs. Lucille Barnes.

DRAW-REDWINE CLUB HAS NEW MEMBERS

Miss Boyd gave a demonstration on making and scoring butter cake at the Draw-Redwine Club on Friday, April 2, in the home of Mrs. Ralph Cates.

A report from the council delegate was heard and business discussed.

We had two new members, Mrs. D. Parker and Mrs. S. Dabney. Next meeting will be with Mrs. F. C. Thorpe.

Members present were: Mmes. W. T. Luttrell, F. C. Thorpe, H. W. Callaway, R. R. Reagan, Ralph Cates, Willis Pennington, D. Parker, S. Dabney, and W. E. Dubree.

MIDWAY CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. DRAPER

"In higher altitudes reduce the amount of sugar in a cake," Miss Lilith Boyd, Lynn county home demonstration agent, told the women of the Midway club at their meeting in the I. M. Daper home at 2:30 p. m. April 8.

Miss Boyd demonstrated the making of a white cake with boiled icing. The cake scored 80.

Mrs. Howard Draper was hostess. Present were: Mmes. F. P. Taylor, H. A. Rowe, Pete Cuffy, Rufus Slover, R. B. Floyd, I. M. Draper, Sam H. Floyd, members; Mmes. Cleona, McCaskill, Fred McGinty, and Miss Patsy Fred McGinty, visitors.

MISS OWENS HOSTESS TO EDITH 4-H CLUB

"Birds cut and drawn for canning are precooked by placing the feet in the bottom of the cooker with one cup of water added," said Miss Boyd at a meeting of the Edith 4-H Club, which met in the home of the sponsor, Miss Marie Owens April 8th.

"The feet are placed below the egg. It does not matter if they are over-cooked since they are only cooked for gelatine," said Miss Boyd. All club members were present.

MIDWAY GIRLS STUDY CHICKEN CANNING

"Either cans or jars may be used in canning chicken. No. 2 cans, No. 1 cans, half pint jars and pint jars are recommended as the most convenient size to give the best product," Miss Boyd told the members of the Midway 4-H Club, which met April 8 in the home of the sponsor, Mrs. R. L. Littlepage.

Members present were: Icaphe Nieto and Marlene Stephens, Bessie and Mary Louise Rainey, Evelyn and Mary Louise McDonald, Ruth Grider, Reba Phillips, Letha Pearl and Opal Johnson, Clovis Stephens, and Clara Lee Henry.

New members are: Ouida Weathers and Pauline Cloer.

The Curse of Progress

Eager to Oblige

He examined the menu carefully, and then tossed it irritably on the table.

"Waiter," he called, "is this all you have today?"

"Yes, sir," said the waiter, whose term of service expired at the end of the week.

"Why, there's nothing on the menu fit to eat—absolutely nothing!" roared the diner. "Bring me the manager!"

"Very good, sir," eagerly piped the waiter. "How would you like him—grilled or fried?"

A Delicate Competition

"Didn't Crimson Gulch, take up the idea, just for novelty, of offering a prize for the toughest-looking man?"

"Yes," answered Cactus Joe. "But the enterprise fell through. There wasn't anybody who would have had nerve enough to face men who was maybe jest lookin' for trouble and formally announce to one of them that he had won the prize."

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—their life—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to ensue.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—fatigue, nervous, all worse still.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body wastes. Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed by the country's best medical men. Sold at all drug stores.

Butterfly Bridal Veil Is Lovely

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THERE'S a spirit of romanticism and the prettily feminine being revived this season that affects the entire program of fashion for spring and summer. In no phase of the mode is this favor for the pretty-pretty type of dress and adornment so definitely emphasized as in the realm of bridal array.

If you are in quest of a veil and headdress that dramatically and picturesquely interpret a beguiling new theme just say "butterfly veil" to your milliner or utter the magic word in shop or salon where bridal array is made a feature and you'll forever after agree that dreams do come true. The bride centered in the illustration is wearing a most exquisite butterfly veil, so called because of the huge applique lace butterflies that flutter among the mists of tulle like butterflies winging their way in a garden of sweet scented flowers. The model pictured is a full, circular fingertip veil but if you prefer a long veil rather than short they are shown in either length. The tiara that makes this beautiful bride "look every inch a queen" is appiqued with princess lace.

The versatility of types in headdress makes it an easy matter for any bride-to-be to find a style tuned to her individuality. Note the variety shown in this group. In the upper right corner a Margot style cap declares romance and poetry in its quaint picturesque type. The pointed bonnet-like brim of stiffened tulle is appiqued with battenburg lace. A diadem of pearls and rhinestones is pictured above to the left. Her gown has a becoming latticed beadwork neckline.

If you covet a veil of Parisian chic note the classic cap in the panel below to the left. Hand-rolled satin rosettes trim this cap. The veil is cut to a double point in the back, finished all around with a four-inch hem. An exquisite veil and headdress are pictured in the right lower panel, featuring a most lovely halo of beautiful lace with quaint ruffle across the back. Fashion this season is most kind to the individualistic bride who seeks outstanding originality. In the matter of color—especially, exciting innovations are taking place. Many a bride will be a "perfect picture" in pale pink, or in an extremely delicate blue and the latest news for wedding gown and veil is beige so light it is just a degree or so from white.

This pale beige for the bride invites dramatic color schemes for the attendants, one of which is rose tones for the bridesmaids, from pale pink to American beauty with arms laden with roses. A more daring color scheme includes yellow, apricot and flame sheer frocks for the maids contrasting the creamy beige of the wedding gown and veil.

And here's more news for brides-to-be who are planning a wedding scene that will ever linger in the memory of those who behold—the bridal veil fashioned of the identical chiffon or filmy mousseline de soie as that which makes the wedding gown; appliques of lace or flowers (either artificial or handmade) on satin or sheer gowns; net over silver lame for distinctive originality; wide use of the new summer veils that pattern mousseline de soie of fragile beauty with tiny velvet motifs. The bridesmaids wear the same white fabric with the velvet motifs in delectable flower colorings.

© Western Newspaper Union.

FLOWERS AND VEILS By CHERIE NICHOLAS

You can be just as piquant-minded and alluringly feminine in your choice of millinery as you care to be this spring. Fashion's mood is for pretty flowers and saucy veils in hilarious colors. The "first" hats have come out decked in flowers. For early wear the new little flower toques are making a great splurge. The model pictured is of bright red carnations. It would look fetching with a flare-around red veil bordered with big chenille dots. The new "beauty spot" veil is vastly becoming. See it shown here. Note the huge dot which comes at just the right place on the face to show off flirtatiously.

Dalmatian Styles The new vogue of Dalmatian styles has brought another interest in velvet. Little waistcoat and boleros with berets to match are being adopted by the college set and by the sub-deb crowd.

It's a model you mustn't miss for now and summer days to come. Comfortable, utterly smart, it gives you a grand new poise whether you choose a silk, rayon or sheer cotton print!

PAVING TO CEMETERY IS BEING CONSIDERED

(Cont'd. from first page) should be willing to bear part of this expense, County Judge Goad and other members of the court approached the mayor and other members of the city council respecting the matter, and at a meeting of the council Monday night, the council readily accepted the proposal and voted to appropriate $200.00 to be applied on the project. The cost of the project is estimated at $3500.00, most of which will be for labor to be paid for by the W. P. A.

Furthermore, the W. P. A. proposes to plant out grass on the shoulders of the grades along the pavement at little or no additional expense to the local authorities.

"I feel that this is a project that the people of Lynn county and the city of Tahoka can not afford to pass up," Judge Goad stated to a representative of the News Tuesday. "But while the expense is very small, the commissioners court feels that the City of Tahoka should be willing to bear a part of it, since the people of Tahoka will profit from this project much more than the people of the county generally." Judge Goad also called attention to the fact that it is imperative that prompt action be taken while the Morgan Construction Company has its rock-crushing machine in the county so that the county may get the rock crushed at a reasonable figure and will not be compelled to make other and more expensive arrangements for rock-crushing machinery.

Mrs. Jessie Jewell Stephens of the Jones Dry Goods Company, became ill Wednesday of tonsillitis.

Delegation Attending S. S. Convention

Rev. and Mrs. George A. Dale, Mrs. F. L. Kelly, and Miss Marion Hooper left Monday morning to attend the state Baptist Sunday School convention in session in Dallas this week. They expected to return home Thursday. Several thousand Sunday School workers from over the state have been in attendance.

Rev. Dale returned last Sunday from Aspermont, where he conducted a ten-days revival meeting. He reported a number of conversions and additions to the church.

Rev. W. M. Draper, pastor of the Lorenzo Baptist Church, filled the pulpit here Sunday morning, in the absence of the local pastor. The young people of the church had charge of the services Sunday night and gave a well-rendered program.
