Wrecking St. Clair To Make Way For Filling Station

Modern Buildings Will Replace Early Day Structure Bought By Oscar Roberts

Contracts which have been under negotiation for several weeks were finally consummated a few days ago which are to result in the tearing down of a portion of the old St. Clair Hotel and the construction of a modern $5,000 service station, and the removal of the remainder of the hotel building onto an adjoining lot and the conversion of the same into an automobile tire store.

Oscar Roberts has purchased the hotel building and lot from the Temple Trust Company, of which Dean Nowlin is local representative, and will erect thereon the filling station. The building will occupy grounds 60 by 100 feet, and in addition to the ordinary service station features it will contain two washing and greasing booths. It will probably be of brick and tile construction with a stucco finish. Facing 60 feet on highway No. 9 and 100 feet on highway No. 84 with spacious driveway across the southeast portion of the structure, this station will occupy one of the very best locations in the entire town.

Wilson School Is Closing Soon.

The Wilson school will close Friday, June 4, after maintaining its regular nine months term. The high school commencement exercises will be held on Thursday night of June 3, and the program will be rendered by members of the Senior class, which consists of 15 boys and 9 girls. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached on Sunday, May 30, by Rev. Paul A. McCasland, pastor of the Wilson Baptist Church. Grammar school exercises will be on Tuesday and Wednesday nights of June 1st and 2nd.

One and one-half credits of affiliation is being added to the school's 25½ credits already held, this additional credit being in the department of vocational agriculture. One more credit will be added in this department next year to complete the four credits allowed for agriculture. The school already holds four and one-half credits in vocational home economics, three in commercial work, and one in manual training, besides the traditional literary subjects.

For the past two years the school has not been on the state aid list, because of a new school law that eliminated schools with over 400 scholars in one district. But a modification in the application of this law, together with a change in the scholastic population, will put the school back on the state aid list for next year, and will make the school one of the best financed schools in the county. Tax rates now in effect will with state aid enable the school to become fully equipped. It is hoped that the gymnasium can be finished with bleachers, lockers, and a ceiling overhead to improve the acoustics of the auditorium.

Of the twenty-eight people connected with the school as board members, teachers, janitor, and bus drivers, all have been re-elected or offered their same positions for next year. There will be a minimum of change, however, because some are taking advantage of promotions elsewhere or choosing other kinds of employment.

The school's alumni association had its annual banquet on Friday night of May 7, and many familiar faces appeared back on the scene, and some strangers (babies). The banquet was served by the Home Demonstration Club of Wilson, and they did an excellent job of it.

Next year's graduating class will break the school's record, as the present junior class has approximately 40 in it. With this live group and an improved teaching program the school expects to serve the community better next year than ever before.

Proposed Change In Rural Route Injures City

Effort Being Made To Change Route 2, Wilson, To Operate Out Of Slaton Office

The News is informed that an effort is being made to have Rural Route No. 2 out of Wilson removed to Slaton; that is, to have the mail over this route sent out from Slaton instead of Wilson.

Our information is further that the patrons residing along this route have not been consulted about the matter and that they would not be benefitted by the change. The effect of the change, however, would be to hurt both Wilson and Tahoka.

This route extends from Wilson through the New Lynn community and drops down within a few miles of Tahoka. It is more than sixty miles long and serves more than 170 families, all of whom reside in Lynn county and nearly all of whom live in the legitimate trade territory of these two towns.

If the route should be changed so as to extend out from Slaton, nearly the entire route would still lie in Lynn county and there would be very few patrons on it in Lubbock county.

If the people of Wilson and Tahoka and the patrons served by this route feel that this proposed change is unjustified and undesirable they should make their desires in the matter known at once. They should confer with the postmasters at Tahoka and Wilson, who are in favor of retaining this route just as it is and who can probably help them to get in touch with the proper authorities at the proper time.

J. E. Morgan's Son Died Monday

Glady Morgan, about 36, son of J. E. Morgan of Magnolia, died in California Monday morning, according to a message received here about 10 o'clock that day. Mr. Morgan and another son, Curtis, accompanied by County Attorney Rollin McCord, left immediately for California, where it is expected he will be buried.

Mr. Morgan received word of his son's critical illness with pneumonia Sunday afternoon. He had been sick only a few days.

Trackmen Place In Denton Meet

Coach Prentice Walker and four of his High School track men attended a state-wide invitation track meet at North Texas Teachers College, Denton, Saturday, and the boys managed to place in two events.

Tahoka's relay team, composed of Max Minor, Ivan and Travis McCord, and J. W. Hickerson, won fourth place in the relay against a field of 42 teams. Also, Travis McCord won fourth in the 440-yard dash record 52.4. Max Minor placed fifth in low hurdles, in which a new record was set at 25.3 seconds.

Petty Man Died Last Thursday

J. P. Hatcher of Petty died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. F. Mooney, on Thursday of last week and was buried here Friday. Funeral services were conducted at the Harris Funeral Home here, Rev. Ben Hardy of the Tahoka Methodist Church officiating.

Born on February 11, 1872, Mr. Hatcher was just a little past 75 years of age. He had been a resident of the Petty community, the past six or seven years. His wife preceded him in death about two years ago, since which time he had been making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Mooney.

Deceased left surviving him two sons and three daughters, together with a number of other relatives. He was a devoted member of the Methodist Church at Dixie and was a faithful Christian gentleman. The News extends condolences to all the bereaved.

Children Sent To Training School's

Upon trials held in the county court last week, Marie Graves, 15, and George Graves, 13, children of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Graves, were judged to be delinquent children, and the former was committed to the Girls Training School at Gainesville for a period of two years and the latter to the Boys Training School at Gatesville for five years.

The girl pleaded guilty to breaking into a farm house and taking a wrist watch. The boy also confessed to the charge of stealing some automobile tires.

The girl was eager to go to the training school, where she felt that she would have better opportunities and better treatment than were accorded her at home. The boy had been before the court before on a charge of receiving stolen property but was pardoned and never served out his time in the pen. The evidence showed that the home surroundings and influences were not conducive to making good citizens out of these children, and the Court decided that the best interests of the children required that they be committed to these institutions.

These cases were tried before the county judge, P. W. Goad, without the intervention of a jury. The delinquents were taken by Sheriff B. L. Parker to Gainesville and Gatesville respectively on Friday of last week.

Softball Contests Attract Crowds Past Week

Winners And Oilers Take Lead, As Bankers Are Whipped By The Oilers

Tahoka's soft ball games are drawing good crowds of spectators, who seem to be enjoying the games immensely. Double headers are being played each night, four nights in the week.

On Monday night the Carmack Gin defeated Cross Roads by a score of 17 to 7, and New Home won over T-Bar by a score of 13 to 7.

On Tuesday night Draw was defeated by the Tahoka Cleaners, the score being 10 to 5. Then the Cosden Oilers gave the Bankers their first drubbing to the tune of 8 to 7. The standing of the eight teams in the tournament up to Tuesday night was as follows:

Team	P	W	L	Pct.
Carmack Gin	3	3	0	1.000
Cosden Oilers	3	3	0	1.000
Bankers	3	2	1	.667
Cleaners	3	2	1	.667
T-Bar	3	1	2	.333
New Home	3	1	2	.333
Draw	3	0	3	.000
Cross Roads	3	0	3	.000

Spring Football Game Is Today

Tahoka Bulldogs of 1937 and members of former teams may be seen in action this afternoon in a spring football game on the High School gridiron at 4 o'clock.

For the past several days Coach Prentice Walker has been conducting spring football training, and the practice game will give him, and the fans as well, some insight into the material available and the prospects for next fall.

Coach Walker invites everyone out to the scrimmage.

Candy Salesman Is Guilty Of Assault

As the result of an affray that occurred at a private residence here on Wednesday of last week, H. M. Chick of Lubbock, a candy salesman, pleaded guilty in the county court Saturday to a charge of aggravated assault, and the court assessed his punishment at a fine of $25.00 together with the costs, which he paid.

The trouble occurred when Chick went to the residence to collect a debt. He soon became involved in a difficulty with one of the members of the family and others then interfered. He was charged with having struck the wife of one of the men. He claimed that the striking of the woman was a mere accident but entered his plea of guilty just the same. He also paid a fine in the justice court for an affray.

New Home Groups With Two Other Rural Schools

Joe Stokes And Petty Join Move In Northwestern Area For Better School Facilities

A re-grouping of rural schools in the northwest portion of Lynn county was effected at a meeting of the county board of school trustees held here Monday, whereby Rural High School District No. 2 was extended so as to include Petty. Originally it consisted of the New Home and Joe Stokes districts.

This district was created by the county board early in April. Later it developed that Petty desired to come into the grouping, and so at the board meeting here Monday the former action of the board was rescinded and an order adopted grouping the three districts into one for high school purposes.

One of the trustees from the New Home district and one from the Joe Stokes district originally named, to wit: J. T. Balch and W. A. Armes, were dropped and two from the Petty district were named as members of the new board. This board, as appointed by the county board Monday, now consists of the following members: J. H. Isant and Wayman Smith from New Home, M. C. Ball and R. D. Randolph from Joe Stokes, J. B. McAllister and Joe Unfred from Petty, and J. R. Strain from the district at large. Mr. Strain is made president of the board and Joe Unfred secretary.

Work On Highway Is Again Delayed

Work on highway No. 9 has been delayed somewhat by reason of the fact that the rock crusher being used by the Morgan Construction Company broke down a week ago and has been out of commission since. It is expected that it will be repaired and back on the job, however, within the next two or three days. With good luck and no further breaks, the company expects to finish the job in two weeks after work is resumed.

The topping has been spread and the highway completed for a distance of four miles on the north end of the eight-mile stretch being built.

Work on highway 84 west of Tahoka is still progressing very satisfactorily. Grading is now being done thirteen miles west, while the laying of caliche has reached a point twelve miles out. It is hoped that topping may be placed on another stretch of this highway this summer.

H. D. Club Officials Coming Thursday

Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, A. & M. College Extension Service editor, and Miss Lida Cooper, district Home Demonstration agent, will be in Tahoka Thursday, May 20, to meet with reporters of the various home demonstration clubs of Lynn county.

The meeting with reporters opens at 11 o'clock in the morning in the office of Miss Lillith Boyd, local home demonstration agent. The group will have lunch together.

"This is an opportunity for all reporters to receive the most competent assistance in report writing," Miss Boyd states.

Crop Prospects For Year Improved By Showers

Rainfall .45 Of Inch In Tahoka; Came At Right Time; Farmers Are Busy With Planting

Fine showers visited all parts of Lynn county and the major portion of West Texas last Sunday. In this county the rainfall seems to have varied in amount from a quarter of an inch to three-quarters, with a few small localities reporting as much as one to two inches.

The rain gage kept by the News measured .45 of an inch. Most farmers were delighted to have the rain, though in many localities it was not particularly needed at this time. In many parts of the county, however, the soil had become a little dry on top, and the showers were just the thing.

Hail that did some damage was reported in a few places, but the territory covered was not extensive and the damage was slight. Much cotton and feed are being planted and some of it is coming up. The wheat crop in the county still promises to be excellent though the acreage is not large.

Teachers Named To Fill Vacancies

Five new teachers were elected to the 1937-'38 faculty of the Tahoka which the board hopes to fill with a science teacher capable of teaching band or orchestra. In every case, the teacher elected was an especially trained and experienced in the work for which they were elected.

Lee Dodson, principal of Spad consolidated school, Lamb county, was elected high school principal and teacher of mathematics. Mr. Dodson is a graduate of West Texas State Teachers College, has had six years experience. He is a single man.

Grade school principal will be E. H. Smith, who is at present principal of a school in Dawson county. He attended Simmons University, and hold a B. A. degree from North Texas Teachers, Denton, and is working on his M. A. degree at Simmons University. He majored in elementary education, and has had twenty years teaching experience, serving as principal at McCasland and Sylvester, Fisher county. He is married and has one child.

Miss Jewell Simpkin, graduate of Texas Tech, teacher at Wilson the past two years, was elected Spanish teacher in the high school. She will also teach two English courses. She comes highly recommended as a leader of young people.

Miss Helen Helton, of Canadian, was elected a second grade teacher. She is a graduate of West Texas State Teachers, with primary education as her major. She is an accomplished musician.

Miss Lucille Collier, teacher of the first grade at Post for the last five years, will teach in the first grade here. She attended McMurry College, is a graduate of West Texas State, and majored in primary education. Miss Collier is a sister of Wynne Collier of this city.

Mrs. M. H. Edwards was elected music teacher, and Miss O'Bera Forrester expression teacher, no salaries being paid these, however, by the school.

Teachers previously elected for next year are: Supt. W. G. Barrett, Prentice Walker, Cecil Ayers, Mrs. Lenora Tunnell, Mrs. S. H. Assiter, Miss Ada Hoyle Hays, Miss Willie Pearl Dockery, John Kirkwood, Miss Lowell Douthit, Miss Linnie Tippit, A. R. Bostick, Mrs. Deck Dunagan, Mrs. L. F. Craft, Mrs. Pete Hegi and Mrs. Claude Gentry.

Para Lee Sayles is teacher of the colored school.

COOK MOVES TO RAILS

Harlan Cook has accepted a position with the Bruce Spencer Drug at Ralls and he and Mrs. Cook and little son left Thursday for that place. Mr. Cook has been employed at the Wynne Collier Drug Store, and the former Thomas Bros Drug, the past few years. Prior to that he was employed at Tahoka Drug. Both he and Mrs. Cook are graduates of the Tahoka High School and are fine people.

The Hindenburg sinks into a flaming inferno after explosion which cost 36 lives at Lakehurst, N. J.

ZEP CRASH KILLS 36 AT LAKEHURST

20 Passengers, 44 of Crew Survive As Hindenburg Explodes.

THIRTY-SIX persons were killed and many injured as a series of explosions shattered and burned the German dirigible air liner Hindenburg when she attempted to moor at Lakehurst, N. J., at the end of her first trans-Atlantic crossing of the season. The catastrophe began with an explosion of the highly inflammable hydrogen gas with which the ship was filled, in one of the rear gas cells.

There were 97 on board. Forty-four of the crew of 61 escaped with their lives and 20 of the 36 passengers survived. One member of the ground crew died of injuries received as he was trying to aid in bringing the great silver liner to earth.

The morning after the disaster smoke was still curling from the mangled skeleton of what had once been the world's largest flying vessel. There were still a few bodies unidentified or unaccounted for.

In a section of the crew's quarters in the hangar which had hastily been transformed into a morgue, a small group of men and women filed past the charred remains of 26 of the victims in an attempt to identify them. Other detachments of sailors guarded all approaches to the wreck of the airship and all information was refused.

Inquiries Under Way.
Three inquiries into the tragedy were to get under way. Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper was expected to be on hand to take charge of an investigation by the bureau of air commerce. Rear Admiral A. B. Cook, chief of the bureau of aeronautics of the United States navy, arrived to head a separate naval inquiry. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States, flew in and immediately went into conference with officials of the American Zeppelin company.

All this official activity, however, attracted little notice, for the mind of everyone is still concerned with the horror of the tragedy and in the ears of those who witnessed it still echo the screams of the victims as men were blown through the heavy glass window of the ship's observation room.

What caused the explosion probably never will be known to a certainty. And as to exactly what happened—the beginning and the end of the event were so closely merged together that even here the versions vary.

Even Capt. Ernst Lehmann, veteran of ten successful round trips on the ill-fated Hindenburg, could only mumble, as he fell into the arms of an American friend: "I don't understand. . . I don't understand."

The following, however, is the story as related by E. W. Kirkpatrick, one of the ground crew who was standing directly beneath the huge silver bag when it burst into flames.

Describes Liner's Arrival.
The Zeppelin was scheduled to have been moored at 6 p. m. There were several hundred persons on the edge of the large landing field waiting to cheer the successful end of her first trip across the Atlantic this year. Among them were several holding tickets for the return journey, for after a quick refueling and inspection the Hindenburg was to have started back at midnight. It was first seen over the field at was not far from the ground. There was a rush toward the scene then, as though everyone was drawn by an invisible magnet. Men from the quartermaster corps who had been standing by ran for a ship. Three trucks, a four-seater airplane bus and several private cars were driven quickly across the field.

Men jumped to the ground, tearing their way through the bursting flames, and were dragged to safety. The heat from the flaming ship was so intense, however, that rescue work was prevented for several minutes.

All those minutes are nothing but the reaction of confused impression by those who were there. And probably scores of acts of heroism will go unrecorded and unpraised—both on the part of rescuers on the ground and of the passengers.

Rosendahl Acts Quickly.
This chaos, however, did not last long. Comdr. C. E. Rosendahl, in charge of the naval airport, was standing beneath the spreading stations of the mooring mast. It did not take long for him to galvanize into action. A cordon of men was thrown around the burning mass to keep back the crowd. Other men were dispatched to rush through calls for nurses and doctors and ambulances from surrounding towns and villages. Meanwhile the injured were rushed to the emergency hospital on the field and given first aid for their burns.

"I was standing directly beneath the ship when the first explosion came," Kirkpatrick said. "All of us in the ground crew were reaching for the ropes and were ready to haul her across the field. With that first explosion—it was like a huge puff of igniting gas that sometimes happens when you open a furnace door—we all ran back. From there I turned and saw the fire leap out. Another explosion came further forward. By that time the whole ship was in flames. It didn't come to the ground with a crash, though. It just seemed to sink down easily, like a floating fire balloon on the Fourth of July. I don't even remember hearing any crash even when it hit, though I suppose there was one."

Mrs. Margaret Unger of Maywood, N. J., was one of those waiting to make the return voyage on the Hindenburg.

"It was the most horrible thing I ever saw in my life," she said, still white and trembling from her experience. "I wanted to look away but I couldn't. I didn't hear any explosion because I was too far away. But I saw the ship start to sink, and then a huge burst of flames. It seemed to sweep over the airship all at once, and I saw three, maybe more, exploded out of the windows."

Ship Out of Control.
Ames Camp of Lakewood, N. J., another witness, said the ship "appeared to yaw as she dropped her mooring lines. It swung almost a full half circle and seemed to be extremely hard to manage."

"Then came the flash and I didn't wait to see any more. I ran toward the ship with the rest of them." Although the Zeppelin continued to burn for several hours and was still smoldering at daylight, it took only a matter of seconds to reduce it a skeleton of wreckage.

Late arrivals among the army of newspaper men, photographers and radio men found the roads blocked with cars and had to race back to Newark and return by plane.

Search for bodies of the victims continued by the light of the huge navy field floodlights. Work was later postponed until daylight, partly because the metal embers were still too hot to allow the searchers to make any progress.

Speculate on Cause.
There was much speculation as to what caused the explosion. Naval experts offered a possible explanation that it might have been caused by the grounding lines, causing a spark which ignited "free gas."

F. W. Von Meister, vice president of the American Zeppelin company, offered two theories—the first that it had been caused by an electric current induced by static; the second that the gas was set off by sparks from the exhaust when the engine was throttled down for a landing. This he said, seemed plausible, as the ship was valving gas gently as she came on the field, tossing over ballast to reduce her altitude.

"Ordinarily," he said, "she would have been expected to be perfectly safe the moment she dropped her lines."

Report by Rosendahl.
Commander Rosendahl forwarded a complete report both to the commandant of the fourth naval district in Philadelphia, his immediate superior, and to headquarters of the Navy department in Washington.

His explanation of what happened tallied in the main with that of unofficial witnesses. According to his report, however, it was four minutes after the giant ship had made contact with the ground that the flames burst out.

"Four minutes later," he states, "fire broke out all working progressively forward. The ship settled to the ground tail first and was completely on fire by the time the ground was reached. The fire burned for several hours and was finally extinguished by chemicals."

"Out of 97 on board, 64 escaped alive, including 44 of the crew of 61 and 20 of the 36 passengers. Two of the 20 passengers, however, are seriously injured. Twenty-six bodies have been recovered, of which nine are still unidentified."

GEORGE VI AND ELIZABETH CROWNED

Five Million Voices Cry, "God Save the King!" as Guns Boom Glad Tidings From Historic Tower of London.

London, England.—"God save the King!"

As the great guns of the Tower of London boomed forth the news that the Archbishop of Canterbury had placed the weighty Crown of St. Edward, the Crown of England, upon the head of George VI, the cry came forth in a mighty swell from five million throats as from the throat of one man.

This was the climax of the greatest show on earth, a show for which a generous share of the throng which lined the six and one-half miles of the processional route had waited without moving from their places through the dampness of a London spring night and, indeed, through part of the preceding day.

Those of the King's subjects who had not been able to afford $2 to $250 for a seat that would assure them a glimpse of their new monarch on his proudest day began marking off space along the curb on the afternoon of May 11. Smart alecks who thought they could put off their vigil until sunrise of Coronation Day were doomed to stretch their necks an inch or two in twelve hours of straining to see over several rows of earlier arrivals.

"A Quiet Empire."

It was a heavy day of work at the end of many back-breaking weeks of preparation for the 9,000 gentlemen and ladies of the peerage whose rank and purse entitled them to sit for an entire day in 10 to 25 pounds of clothing per capita, on a hard seat 19 inches wide without ever moving. But it was a magnificent show.

"The Lord give you fruitful lands and healthful seasons," said the archbishop in the benediction which followed the crowning of the King, "victorious fleets and armies, and a quiet Empire."

No one in Britain could deny that in a time of world-wide unrest, a time of urgent necessity for imperial strength and unity, the political expediency of "a quiet Empire" prompted the government to make of this the most splendid coronation in all history. The government expense in the crowning of George VI has been estimated to be double that in the coronation of his father 26 years ago; its backing of the dazzling pageantry required expenditures of $2,620,000 of public funds, not counting an estimated $500,000 spent by the royal household in entertaining royal and foreign guests.

In the vast coronation pageant the government hoped to lend new emphasis to that sentiment which is the real bond holding the empire together, and which is symbolized by the crown and the man who wears it. There is still an undercurrent of dissatisfaction over the abdication of Edward VIII. The new King and Queen must be popularized to the fullest possible extent. The coronation was an opportunity to accomplish this, and the government could afford to let none of it slip past.

The show and the crowd lived up to all advance billing. It was estimated that there were 300,000 visitors who had to cross the ocean. All London's 12,000 hotel rooms were sold out. Souvenir manufacturers and vendors did the expected land office business. The drink bill for toasting the new King was guesstimated at $10,000,000.

Queen Goes First.

Pomp and regal solemnity were byword of the day from the time the King and Queen boarded the coronation coach at Buckingham Palace in mid-morning. Eight magnificent cream-colored horses drew the ancient four-ton vehicle down the streets it has traversed since 1761, when it was built for Queen Anne. In its heavily ornate gold and jewels it carried the spectators back through the pages of history to those days before the American colonies had revolted and prevented the British Empire from including the lion's share of North America.

The ancient coach, a tradition at coronations, bore the royal couple down the mall to the Abbey, where the Queen's procession left the King to enter first, so that she could stand and wait for him by the chairs of state, or recognition chairs, in front of the royal box where the other members of the royal family were seated.

Peers and peeresses were in their places before the central figures of the coronation drama arrived. And before them the real martyrs had assumed their positions. These were the eight newspaper photographers the government had permitted to be present.

Abhorring the thought of flash bulbs marring the solemnity of such an occasion, but still anxious that pictures be taken, officials hit upon a solution. They provided camouflaged quarters for camera men in false pillars and other positions which blended into the background of the Abbey. Narrow slits in the walls of these refuges enabled the cameras to peer out at the spectacle. But the poor "photos!" They had to be "set up" before anyone entered the Abbey and maintain their cramped positions for eight or nine hours. They were not permitted to withdraw until everyone else had left.

A general color scheme of blue and gold with rich, soft velvet hangings made a brilliant background for the cast and for the spectators in their gorgeous uniforms and gowns. Peeresses wore robes of crimson velvet, trimmed in ermine, unless they happened to be of royal blood, in which event they were required to don the purple velvet of royalty. The court gowns worn underneath were of white, cream, silver or gold. Fashion experts estimated that the most economical of them cost at least $1,200. Uniforms of the men started at about $600 and went up from there.

History's Greatest Gem Display

This did not, of course, include the jewelry or the coronets. The cheapest coronet could hardly have been purchased for less than $100. The total of all the rings, bracelets, necklaces, etc., worn by the 9,000 present must have run into the millions, and was probably the most costly and magnificent display of gems ever worn in one place at one time in the world's history.

Rank of the members of the nobility was indicated by the amount of ermine on the robes of the women and the length of their trains. A duchess was marked by four rows of ermine on her robe, and a train two yards long. A marchioness was permitted three and one-half rows of ermine and a one-and-three-fourths-yard train; a countess half a row less of ermine, half a yard less train; rank was further graded down at half a row and half a yard per classification.

The head of the procession, which had included a great list of dignitaries, the King's representatives and royal persons with their families from all over the world had been waiting at the west door of the Abbey, and as the royal coach approached, filed in to await their monarch. Following them came the chaplains, deans and officers of Westminster, then the archbishops with the Queen consort and the ladies and gentlemen of the court.

Enter the King.

Noblemen close behind bore the staff and the sceptre, with the cross and the golden spurs, and the three swords which signify mercy, temporal justice and spiritual justice. These were the trappings of St. Edward, with which English kings are invested.

Then came more dignitaries, and the King's sceptre with the dove symbolic of mercy and equity; the King's gold and diamond orb, surmounted by the Christian cross; the crown of St. Edward, the patent and the chalice and the Bible.

Then entered George VI in the crimson robes of state, to join his Queen, and march through the choir and up the stairs to the theatre. Passing the thrones, they then knelt at the faldstools before the recognition chairs to offer prayers. Next they proceeded about the Abbey to all four sides before the view of the assemblage. The King went to his chair and once more faced each side of the Abbey as the Archbishop, in loud tones, announced him.

After the regalia had been brought and placed by the dean of Westminster upon the altar, the Archbishop asked the King, according to ritual, "Sire, is your Majesty willing to take the oath?" and the King answered, "I am willing." He gave his oath to govern the people of the British Isles and the Empire according to their laws and customs; to maintain the profession of the Gospel and the Church of England; and signed the oath, the King repeated and subscribed to the declaration required by parliament and, with the assemblage, prepared for the communion service.

Following this lengthy service, the King, having first removed the cap and robes of state, ascended to the throne of St. Edward, the ancient chair which contains beneath its seat the historic Stone of Scone upon which the kings of Scotland sat as they were crowned a thousand years ago. After a silken pall had been put over the King, the Archbishop anointed him upon the hands, breast and face with the holy oil, and he was ready to be presented with the spurs and the sword.

King Receives His Crown.

These given, George VI removed the pall and was clothed for the first time in the royal robe of purple. The orb and cross were brought from the altar by the Dean of Westminster and placed in the King's hands by the Archbishop. "He was next invested with the ring and the sceptres."

Then as the King bowed his head the Dean of Westminster brought the Crown of St. Edward, and the Archbishop, receiving it from him, held it but momentarily upon the head of the King (its weight is terrific).

This was the signal for the trumpets and the guns in the Tower of London, for the peers and peeresses to cry "God save the King!" and for the millions who, along the processional line outside, had been waiting for that moment, to toss their hats in the air and cry likewise, "God save the King!" The peers were now allowed to put on their coronets.

There followed more religious ceremonies of great length and solemnity, and then the coronation of the Queen, following which the peeresses cried, "God save the Queen!" and donned their coronets.

Still more long hours of ceremony. Then, in the early evening the King's coach at last passed once more down the processional route, and the millions who had waited all day for the sight went home happy.

The GARDEN MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE

Copyright S. S. Van Dine WNU Service

"The disconnected buzzer wires gave me the answer this morning," explained Vance. "Her scheme was both simple and bold. She knew that, if she followed Swift upstairs before the big race, she would have no difficulty in enticing him into the vault on some pretext or other—especially in view of the fact that he had shown a marked interest in her."

"Precisely... She made it a point to be the one to discover that fact, in order to draw suspicion entirely away from herself," Vance paused. "As I say, her plan had to be revised somewhat because Doctor Garden had not returned. She had chosen the Rivermont Handicap as the background for her maneuvers, for she knew Swift was placing a large bet on the race—and if he lost, it would give credence to the theory of suicide. In a way, Doctor Garden's absence helped her, though it required quick thinking on her part to cover up this unexpected gap in her well-laid plans."

"Of course, one of her chief difficulties was the disposal of the second revolver—the one she fired down here. She was confronted with the necessity either of getting rid of the revolver—which was quite impossible in the circumstances—or of hiding it safely till she could remove it from the apartment; for there was always the danger that it might be discovered and the whole technique of the plot be revealed. Since she was the person apparently least under suspicion, she probably considered that placing it temporarily in the pocket of her own topcoat, would be sufficiently safe. It was not an ideal hiding-place; but I have little doubt that she was frustrated in an attempt to hide it somewhere on the roof or on the terrace upstairs, until she could take it away at her convenience without being observed."

"My dear sir! That would have been impossible, as you can readily see. How would she have got back downstairs? We were ascending the stairs a few seconds after we heard the shot, and would have met her coming down. She could, of course, have come down by the public stairs and re-entered the apartment at the front door without being seen; but in that event she could not have established her presence down here at the time the shot was fired—and this was of utmost importance to her. When we reached the foot of the stairs, she was standing in the doorway of Mrs. Garden's bedroom, and she made it clear that she had heard the shot. It was, of course, a perfect alibi, provided the technique of the crime had not been revealed by the evidence she left in the vault. No. The shot could not have been fired upstairs. The only place she could have fired it and still have established her alibi, was out of the bedroom window." He turned to Zalia Graem. "Now do you see why you felt so definitely that the shot did not sound as if it came from the garden? It was because, being in the den, you were the person nearest to the shot when it was fired and could more or less accurately gauge the direction from which it came. I'm sorry, I could not explain that fact to you when you mentioned it, but Miss Beeton was in the room, and it was not then the time to reveal my knowledge to her."

There was another brief silence in the room. "But, Mr. Vance," put in Doctor Siefert, frowning, "your theory of the case does not account for the attempt made on her own life."

"Vance smiled faintly. "There was no attempt on her life, Doctor. When Miss Beeton left the study, a minute or so after Miss Graem, to take my message to you, she went instead into the vault, shut the door, making sure this time that the lock snapped, and gave herself a superficial blow on the back of the head. She had reason to believe, of course, that it would be but a short time before we looked for her; and she waited till she heard the key in the lock before she broke the vial of bromin. It is possible that when she went out of the study she had begun to fear that I might have some idea of the truth, and she enacted this little melodrama to throw me off the track."

Siefert had leaned forward and was studying Vance closely.

"As a theory, that may be logical," he said with skeptical gravity. "But, after all, it is only a theory."

"Vance shook his head slowly. "Oh, no, doctor. It's more than a theory. Miss Beeton herself—and in your presence—gave the whole thing away. Not only did she lie to us, but she contradicted herself when you and I were on the roof and she was recovering from the effects of the bromin gas—effects, incidentally, which she was able to exaggerate correctly as the result of her knowledge of medicine."

"But I don't recall—" Vance checked him. "Surely, doctor, you remember the story she told us. According to her voluntary account of the episode, she was struck on the head and forced into the vault; and she fainted immediately as the result of the bromin gas; then the next thing she knew was that she was lying on the settee in the garden, and you and I were standing over her."

"That is quite correct," Siefert said, frowning at Vance. "And I am sure you also remember, doctor, that she looked up at me and thanked me for having brought her out into the garden and saved her, and also asked me how I came to find her so soon. If she had been unconscious, as she said, from the time she was forced into the vault to the time she spoke to us in the garden, how could she possibly have known who it was that had found her and rescued her from the vault? And how could she have known that I found her soon after she had entered the vault? ... You see, doctor, she was never unconscious at all; she was taking no chances whatever of dying of bromin gas."

Siefert relaxed and leaned back in his chair with a faint smile. "You are perfectly right, Mr. Vance."

"But," Vance continued, "even had Miss Beeton not made the mistake of lying to us so obviously, there was other proof that she alone was concerned in that episode. Mr. Hammie here conclusively bore out my opinion. When she told us her story of being struck on the head and forced into the vault, she did not know that Mr. Hammie had been in the garden observing everyone who came and went in the passageway. And she was alone in the corridor at the time of the supposed attack. Miss Graem, to be sure, had just passed her and gone downstairs; and the nurse counted on that fact to make her story sound plausible, hoping, of course, that it would produce the effect she was striving for—that is, to make it appear that Miss Graem had attacked her."

Vance smoked in silence for a moment. "As for the radio-active sodium, doctor, Miss Beeton had been administering it to Mrs. Garden, content with having her die slowly of its cumulative effects. But Mrs. Garden's threat to erase her son's name from her will necessitated immediate action, and the resourceful girl decided on an overdose of the barbital last night. She foresaw, of course, that this death could easily be construed as an accident or as another suicide. As it happened, however, things were even more propitious for her, for the events of last night merely cast further suspicion on Miss Graem."

"From the first I realized how difficult, if not impossible, it would be to prove the case against Miss Beeton; and during the entire investigation I was seeking some means of trapping her. With that end in view, I mounted the parapet last night in her presence, hoping that it might suggest to her shrewd and cruel mind a possible means of removing me from her path, if she became convinced that I had guessed too much. My plan to trap her was, after all, a simple one. I asked you all to come here this evening, not as suspects, but to fill the necessary roles in my drama."

Vance sighed deeply before continuing. "I arranged with Sergeant Heath to equip the post at the far end of the garden with a strong steel wire such as is used in theaters for flying and levitation acts. This wire was to be just long enough to reach as far as the height of the balcony on this floor. And to it was attached the usual spring catch which fastens to the leather equipment worn by the performer. This equipment consists of a heavy cowhide vest resembling in shape and cut the old Ferris waist worn by young girls in pre-Victorian days, and even later. This afternoon Sergeant Heath brought such a leather vest—or what is technically known in theatrical circles as a 'flying corset'—to my apartment, and I put it on before I came here."

"This waistcoat, or corset," he said, "is worn under the actor's costume; and in my case I put on a loose tweed suit today so that the slightly protruding rings in front would not be noticeable."

"When I took Miss Beeton upstairs with me, I led her out into the garden and confronted her with her guilt. While she was protesting, I mounted the parapet, standing there with my back to her, ostensibly looking out over the city, as I had done last evening. In the semi-darkness I snapped the wire to the rings on the front of my leather vest without her seeing me do so. She came very close to me as she talked, but for a minute or so I was afraid she would not take advantage of the situation. Then, in the middle of one of her sentences, she lurched toward me with both hands outstretched, and the impact sent me over the parapet. It was a simple matter to swing myself over the balcony railing. I had arranged for the drawing-room door to be unlatched, and I merely disconnected the suspension wire, walked in, and appeared in the hallway. When Miss Beeton learned that I had witnessed to her act, as well as a photograph of it, she realized that the game was up."

Parading the Fashions

A STYLE show De Luxe for De Ladies on this De Lightful Spring day!

Betty Ann feels just a bit the most elegant of the three for her housecoat is superlative. She has "skirts" like the ladies in the feminine yesterdays; her basque is form-fitting; her sash has a bow, and her sleeves puff. The illusion is so perfect that she is about to reach for smelling salts or a sprig of old lavender."

Matrons Have Vanity, Too.

Mama, very young for her years, can not resist styles that bring more compliments her way. The no-belt feature of this one is definitely new, and does wonders for the figure a bit past the slim stage. The continuing collar, which in soft pastels is always flattering, gives the break required by the all-in-one waist and skirt. The fitted top and flaring bottom make for style plus comfort, a demand matrons, even though youthful, always make."

Parties and Picnics.

Winifred on the left is privately making up her mind to have a housecoat, too; though she is mightily pleased with the way her print has turned out. She chose this style because the fitted, broken waist line and front seamed skirt are so very slenderizing. She's on her way to the 4-H meeting now and has only stopped to remind Betty Ann of the picnic. "The Jolly Twelve" are having on Tuesday."

The Patterns.

Pattern 1285 comes in sizes 12-20 (30 to 40). Size 14 requires 3 3/4 yards of 39 inch material. Pattern 1282 is for sizes 14-20.

Two men were talking about their children. "I've spent much more money sending my boy to a good school, and the young scoundrel doesn't even trouble to write to me," said Robinson.

"That's funny," replied Boots. "I always manage to get my son to write."

"How do you do it?" "Easy," replied Boots. "I send him a letter saying I am enclosing a ten-spot—and forget to enclose the ten-spot."

Subtlety A customer sat down at a table in a smart restaurant and tied a napkin around his neck. The scandalized manager called a waiter and instructed him: "Try to make him understand, as tactfully as possible, that that's not one."

Said the thoughtful waiter to the customer: "Pardon me, sir. Shave or haircut, sir?"—The Kablegram.

(32 to 44 bust). Size 16 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. It requires 2 1/2 yards of ribbon for the belt.

Pattern 1983 is for sizes 36 to 50. Size 38 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. With the short sleeves it requires only 5 yards of 39 inch material.

NO MENTAL DECREPITUDE HERE

Recently we had the opportunity and found the time to read in full the exhaustive opinion of Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes in the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation case upholding the constitutionality of the Wagner Labor Relations Act. We also read excerpts from the dissenting opinion of Justice McReynolds. This was another of those 5 to 4 decisions, five this time upholding the law and four dissenting. It was indeed a battle royal, a contest between intellectual giants. Chief Justice Hughes' deliverance will probably go down in history as one of the ablest opinions ever handed down by the Supreme Court. His clear-cut reasoning is all but invincible — except on one lone point.

On the other hand, the gungent, hammer-and-tongs logic of Justice McReynolds is scarcely less powerful and convincing.

Calling attention to the fact that the Jones-Laughlin Steel Corporation, with its main manufacturing plants at Pittsburgh and Aliquippa, Pennsylvania, owned coal, ore, and limestone mines in several different states, that it shipped its manufactured products to all parts of the country, and that it owned railroads and steamship lines which were used in the transportation of its raw material and its manufactured products, and with nineteen subsidiary concerns operating throughout the country under its general direction, Chief Justice Hughes drew the conclusion that the manufacturing plants at Pittsburgh and Aliquippa were merely parts of a "completely integrated enterprise," a great interstate system, and that the local manufacturing plants therefore as well as the transportation lines were engaged in interstate commerce and were therefore subject to federal regulation. He held therefore that Congress had the right to regulate the employment of labor in the manufacturing plants of the Jones-Laughlin Steel Corporation just as it had the right to regulate the employment of labor in its trade and transportation activities.

The Wagner Act prohibits the discharge of any employee engaged in interstate commerce from joining a labor organization. The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation was found to have discharged some employees because of their membership and activities in a certain labor organization. The Labor Relations Board created by the Wagner Act had ordered that the Company reinstate these employees. The effect of the Hughes decision was to compel their reinstatement.

Associate Justice McReynolds contended in effect that while the Steel corporation was engaged in interstate commerce in so far as its trade and traffic across state lines were concerned, the operation of its manufacturing plants at Pittsburgh and Aliquippa was not an interstate enterprise but was a local or intrastate enterprise, and that Congress had no authority to regulate the employment of labor in these plants.

"We are told that Congress may protect the stream of Commerce," he says, "and that one who buys raw material without the state, manufactures it within the state, and ships the output to another state is in that stream. This too goes beyond the constitutional limitations heretofore enforced. If a man raises cattle and regularly delivers them to a carrier for interstate shipment, may Congress prescribe the conditions under which he may employ or discharge helpers on the ranch?"

But Justice McReynolds bases his contention mainly on the proposition that the Wagner Act violates the fundamental right of contract. "The right to contract," he says, "is fundamental and includes the privilege of selecting those with whom one is willing to assume contractual relations. This right is unduly abridged by the act now upheld. A private owner is deprived of power to manage his own property by freely selecting those to whom his manufacturing operations are to be entrusted. . . . An employer has some rights under the Constitution and he should be free to select the men he would hire. That's essential to his business. But Congress has seen fit to say that you may not discharge a man you hired yesterday."

The above are mere fragments of the opinions written but they show the general trend.

It occurs to us that it would be difficult for a local business man or farmer to find fault with Justice McReynolds' line of reasoning if it were undertaken to make the Wagner Act apply to him and his business or farming operations. Most of our business men and farmers have the old-fashioned idea that they have the right to discharge an employee in the store or on the farm at any time they see fit, for any reason they see fit, or for no reason at all—at least after notice has been given at a reasonable length of time beforehand.

Now suppose that one of our farmers found that one of his employees had united himself with some labor organization which was very distasteful to him and was taking a leading part in its activities, and he should decide to pay the fellow off Saturday night and let him go. Then suppose the Government should intervene and say:—"Mr. Farmer, you can not discharge Mr. Laborer for any such reason. He may be a rank communist, and the organization to which he belongs may be continually fomenting discontent among your other employees, but that makes no difference, you must reinstate him."

"The Thunder you say; don't I have the right to hire and fire whomsoever I please, whenever I please?" exclaims the farmer.

"No, not under the Wagner Act," says the Government.

And Mr. Justice McReynolds argues therefore that such an Act violates the sacred right of private contract and is unconstitutional.

Until the New Deal arose nine-tenths of the people of the South would have agreed with him.

But now, he is just another "old man in his dotage" on the Supreme Court bench, and we must give the President power to kick out or to appoint some "brain-truster" in his place.

The Dallas News and other publications seem to regard the entire high plains section of Texas as being in the "Dust Bowl". They seem to make no distinction between that intensely dry and sandy portion of the Panhandle that embraces the extreme northern and northwestern portions of this region and the remainder of the vast plains empire. They do not seem to realize that it is almost 300 miles as the crow flies from the north line of the Panhandle to Big Spring, and that it is 200 miles due west from Stamford to the New Mexico line. Only a comparatively small portion of it has been denuded of its soil by the winds. Most of this region has not suffered one-tenth as much, by erosion from the sweep of the winds as North, Central, and East Texas have suffered from the ravages of floods. It is meet and proper that all possible steps be taken promptly to save our lands from further erosion, but the Dallas News and other great daily newspapers further East should rid themselves of the notion that all this vast area is about to be converted into a sterile desert by the action of the wind. It is not so. We can prove it by the size of the crops we have been raising, and we can prove it by showing these "down-east yankees" our country if they will agree to just come out and take a look.

The University of Texas and the entire state suffered a distinct loss Tuesday in the sudden and unexpected death of Dr. H. Y. Benedict, President of that great educational institution. Dr. Benedict had been connected with the faculty of the University for forty years and had been its President the past ten years. Though born in Louisville, Kentucky, he grew up as a country boy on the line of Young and Stephens counties in this state. His educational advantages were meager, for he enjoyed only eight months of formal schooling before he entered the University of Texas as a student in 1888 at the age of 19. But he had learned much at his mother's knee and out under the stars. As a boy, he must have been deeply interested in the heavens, for as a student in the University he gave much time to the study of astronomy. Soon after receiving his M. A. degree in the University, he was advanced to a tutorship, and was then given a fellowship in astronomy at the University of Virginia. Later he studied mathematical physics and astronomy at Harvard and received his Ph. D. degree in that institution. Then he came to Vanderbilt as head of the Mathematics department and a little later to the University of Texas as associate professor of mathematics and astronomy. As president of the University, he had the great pleasure of administering the million-dollar legacy left the University by W. J. McDonald for the founding of the great astronomical observatory near Alpine in the Davis Mountains, just recently completed. Dr. Benedict is a striking example of what brains and persistence and pluck can do for a boy.

Last Sunday seems to have been a bloody Sunday in Fort Worth. Monday's Star-Telegram says that last week-end was the most disastrous period of the present year, two persons being sent to their death and eighteen others being injured in automobile accidents occurring on these two days. Whiskey and beer played their part in the making of this black record. Fools continue to get drunk and drunken men continue to drive cars on the streets and highways. But the biggest fool fool of all is the sober man who will persist in driving like a drunken one. Evn careful drivers will become careless occasionally, but there is no excuse for any man to drive habitually like a drunk Indian. Juries should tighten up in meting out punishment to such boobies as these.

Reports are that the unicameral legislature in Nebraska is working fine so far. Legislation is being enacted with more deliberateness and care, lobbyists seem to be having little success, and much expense is being saved the people. With the increasing confusion that characterizes the work of our legislature and the ambiguity of many of our laws, there is a constantly growing sentiment in this state in favor of the Nebraska plan. Senator Nelson may live to see the day when those who demanded that his unicameral resolutions be thrown out the window are themselves thrown out and his resolution or a similar one submitted to the people of Texas and adopted.

A BONEHEAD

A Bonehead is a person whose head is a solid bone without a single brain cell to function.

Critical Bonehead is the guy who is loping through life looking for perfection in men and measures. He never saw a man or woman who was perfect, as if there were such a thing on this mundane sphere. Yet, Crit is worrying about it and is wearing himself out in the search of a perfect man or woman.

Crit is also worrying about the government. He is looking for a perfect administration of governmental laws and measures, but he has never succeeded in finding them. Critical Bonehead sticks his finger in a tub of water, pulls it out and then looks for the hole he made.

The failure to find the hole does not discourage him.

Crit buys a doughnut, eats it, and then complains of the baker because the doughnut had a hole in it which he couldn't eat or use for fertilizer.

Mr. Crookley Bonehead is a member of this thinkless family who imagines he can get by with crookedness. He thinks he can get by with sheepstealing, poker playing or bootlegging. Yes, he knows that his brother, Sheeper Bonehead was caught sheepstealing. He knows that Pokeasy Bonehead, his uncle, was soaked for playing poker, and his cousin Jug Bonehead hubbed a powerful lot of grief for bootlegging, yet, Crookley thinks they will never catch him in any of his crookedness. He thinks he is too smart. The fact is Crookley can't think. His head is a solid bone with never a brain cell to work.—Uncle Bill in Sterling City News-Record.

That sable-hued Mitchell, Negro congressman from Chicago, has sued a railroad for damages because its servants ejected him from the white compartment of a passenger coach in Arkansas. They may send such impudent wheeps to Congress in the North, but down here in the South we are more likely to give them a free pass to that other country that many of our Congressmen seem to be ultimately bound for.

What is the "Low-price Field"?

YOU hear a lot about "the low-price field" these days. A good many cars claim to be in it. So whenever the low-price field is mentioned, remember:

Until Ford came, no average American could own a car.

Today all Ford prices are still low — with the prices of the 60-horsepower Ford V-8 $30 to $60 lower than those of any other car of comparable size.

But with Ford, "low price" doesn't merely mean low figures on the price tag. It means much more than that. It means low prices and low costs all the car's long life. Low prices for service — for parts — and, above all, for operation.

Both Ford V-8 engine sizes are economical to operate. The 85 horsepower gives greater gasoline mileage this year than ever, and the "60" delivers the highest mileage in Ford history.

Private owners, cab companies, fleet operators all report that the "60" averages from 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Alvin Hicks Gets Abilene Position

Alvin Hicks has accepted the position of local manager of the Higginbotham-Bartlett lumber yard at Abilene and will move his family to that city immediately following the close of school here.

T. M. (Tobe) Kennedy, who has been employed in the local yard here for several years, succeeds Mr. Hicks as manager of this yard. The other employees in the yard here will continue to hold their present positions, we understand.

This promotion came to Mr. Hicks rather unexpectedly, it seems. At least Mr. Kennedy and the other boys in the yard had no inkling of it. The district manager for Higginbotham came up Friday morning and took Mr. Hicks back with him before the boys here hardly knew what was happening. It developed later that the manager of the yard at Abilene had resigned his position there and accepted a position with an oil company. The company needed a manager for the Abilene yard and they picked Hicks for the job.

Mr. Hicks has been manager of the Higginbotham yard here several years. Several years prior to that he was with the Cicero Smith yard here, and then went to Midland, where he operated a yard for several years. About five years ago he came back to Tahoka as manager of the Higginbotham-Bartlett yard. For the past four years he has been president of the school board here and has been active in civic affairs. He and family will be greatly missed in Tahoka.

Mr. Kennedy, who succeeds Mr. Hicks here, is a young business man of the highest integrity, and he has the best wishes of many friends in his new position. Prior to his joining the Higginbotham-Bartlett firm he was for several years with the Forrest Lumber Company.

Lockwoods Leave For Washington Visit

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lockwood left Thursday morning by rail for a month's visit with relatives in Washington, D. C., and Plattsburg, N. Y.

In Washington they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitehead, Mrs. Whitehead and Mrs. Lockwood being sisters. Both Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead are in the Government service there.

They will also visit Mrs. Florence Mason, a niece of Mr. Lockwood, at Plattsburg.

They are looking forward to a very pleasant trip. Of course they will visit Congress occasionally and may take a look-in on the Supreme Court. They have a number of friends in Washington, including our present and former congressmen, George Mahon and Marvin Jones, whom they expect to see.

Before leaving, Mr. Lockwood expressed himself as delighted with the crop out-look here. "I don't know that I ever saw it any better at this time of year," he stated.

E. H. Boullion was sick Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week and not able to attend to his duties in the store. He was reported better Thursday, however.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Piquay, Garth Piquay, and Herman May spent Sunday at Westbrook visiting relatives.

Rotary Club Hears Preacher-Musician

Notarians enjoyed a treat at their luncheon Thursday noon in the musical program given them by Rev. Winston Borum, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Midland and a member of the Rotary Club there. With his wit, his guitar, his humorous songs, and his quaint observations, he kept his hearers laughing throughout the entire program. He was introduced by Dr. K. R. Durham, the doctor having been a member of a church in Shreveport a number of years ago of which Rev. Mr. Borum was then pastor.

Other former friends of the speaker were Alvin Hicks and Tom Garrard, both of whom knew him at Midland.

Alvin Hicks made a brief farewell address, since he is leaving the city, and Tom Garrard made his maiden speech in the club. He was elected to membership a few weeks ago and this was his first opportunity to attend.

The Rotary Club still has about thirty members.

L. C. Tatum of Lubbock was a visitor Thursday.

All-Day Singing Is Held At Draw

A county-wide singing convention will be held at Draw Methodist Church next Sunday, beginning immediately after the morning church service.

Rev. C. F. Carmack, the pastor, will preach at the 11 o'clock hour as usual.

Sandwiches will be served at the noon hour to all visiting singers from other counties. Lynn county people will be expected to furnish their own lunches.

Singers from Lubbock, Garza, Dawson, and other counties are expected. A number of the music companies will have representatives present. The O'Donnell quartet will have a place on the program.

The singing will begin immediately after lunch and continue till late in the afternoon. Everybody invited.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to extend our thanks to the many friends for the kindness shown during the illness and death of our dear father (Mr. J. P. Hatcher), and for the floral offerings—Cameron, Clara Belle, Aaron, and Frances Hatcher, and Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Mooney.

Richard R. Lee of Dallas, vice-president of the Southwestern Life Insurance Co., was here Thursday conferring with Mrs. Gladys Stokes, local representative.

M. T. White was a business visitor in Fort Worth Monday.

Strength During MIDDLE LIFE

Strength is extra-important for women going through the change of life. Then the body needs the very best nourishment to fortify it against the changes that are taking place.

In such cases, Cardui has proved helpful to many women. It increases the appetite and aids digestion, favoring more complete transformation of food into living tissue, resulting in improved nutrition and building up and strengthening of the whole system.

Roy Leslie Having Fun With Bees

Roy Leslie is having a bit of fun—and trouble—with a hive of bees this week. He has a hive that swarms every day, but after buzzing around aimlessly for a long time, they invariably go back into the hive from which they came.

Roy has not been in the bee business long enough to have gained expert knowledge concerning them and their habits, but he thinks they have lost their queen. If this is the case, they will probably develop another one before settling down anywhere in a new home.

It was by mere accident that Roy got into the bee business, his chief job being to look after the interests of the West Texas Gas Company at this place. One day about five years ago a swarm of bees hove into town from somewhere—nobody knows where, but it must have been from some apiary miles away—and when they reached the gas office in the midst of a sandstorm they decided to cast anchor. They accordingly began settling on the limb of a tree and pretty soon Roy had him a nice swarm of bees. He hustled up a box and shook them down into it, and he has been in the bee business ever since. He now has five hives and he will have six if he ever gets this last swarm straightened out and settled down to business.

By the way, did you know that the study of a hive of bees is more enchanting than the study of the ancient Roman Empire? Their seeming intelligence, their habits of life, and their system of government is nothing less than amazing. And the bee is the only insect that furnishes food for man.

Watchman Stationed At Old School House

Following action taken by the Tahoka school board, C. F. Dykes has moved into the abandoned Central Ward school building, and has been given authority to keep trespassers off of the property. Some damage had already been done the property by thoughtless trespassers.

Winter Knight and H. B. McCord went down to Austin Tuesday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McGee and son Grady and Mr. and Mrs. Earl McGee of Lamesa visited D. L. Nicholson and family last Sunday.

Mrs. J. T. McGee is a sister of Mr. Nicholson. Arnold Houston made a business trip to El Paso this week.

OLD TIME COURT HOUSE OF HORSE AND BUGGY DAYS, MORE RECENTLY USED AS A HOTEL, TORN DOWN TO MAKE WAY FOR AUTO SERVICE STATION

This is a view of Tahoka's public square in 1905, two years after the organization of the town and county. The old court house, erected in 1903, is the center of attraction in this picture. Used as a hotel since erection of the modern court house in 1916, this historic landmark is being wrecked this week to make way for a modern filling station.

We Are Nearing The End
 With the end of this week comes the end of the routine class work. The remainder of our time will be devoted to review and examinations. For us this part of the year can be the best or the worst; it will be just exactly what we make it. We will get just what we put into it. None of our instructors will advise us to try to do our whole year's work in these last days. They will advise us to review diligently that which we have learned during the year. Our final days of study should not consist of the learning of new things but merely the recalling of the things we have already learned. Besides the lessons we are getting from books, the last for some of us in Tahoka High, there are the last days of happy associations with our friends and classmates, some of whom we may never see again. We will in later years treasure the memories of these last days together, so let us make them the happiest of the year.

"The Skyline" Is Out
 "The Skyline," Tahoka High School annual, has been finished for this year. The final assembling was done on Monday afternoon. The book has 75 pages, and 75 copies of the book were put out. We are all very proud of our copies and those who did not buy an annual are wishing they had.

The Seventh Grade honors went to Lenora Anglin and Greta Applewhite, a tie.

NOTES FROM CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
 These are busy days, but we take time to visit a little. Seems that everything is taking on new life, even the church work. We had a beautiful service Sunday, Mothers' Day. Some time ago I visited a good friend of mine who was in very poor health and discouraged with life. He asked me the question, "What is Life? I wish each of us would ask ourselves this question. What is My Life? The poet asked the question in the song, "Is the World a Better Place Because of You? Life is God-given, but it's up to us how we live it. A good Christian life is beautiful. In visiting over our town of Tahoka, I see beautiful homes, with beautiful lawns and beautiful shrubbery in full bloom, but to bring out this beauty it took energy and strength, time and hard work. The beauty in a Christian life is in the Service we render to others. Jesus gave his life for others. Last there is the abundant life or the overflow life, which is a life so full of good things that we can't contain it, and the overflow is for others. If not going elsewhere to church, come to ours. You're welcome.—Jno. R. Ferguson, Pastor.

Y. W. A. GIVES MOTHER-DAUGHTER BANQUET

The Young Women's Auxiliary of the Tahoka First Baptist Church entertained their mothers with a Mother and Daughter banquet in the basement of the church last Thursday evening, May 6. A Mexican theme was carried out. The room was beautifully decorated in Mexican colors. Hanging lights were covered with Mexican straw sombreros. There was a profusion of wild Texas flowers of Mexican colors on the tables and other places. Other table decorations were Mexican pottery in the form of vases, candle holders, pots, and Mexican figures; also Mexican rugs, shawls, and baskets. Table centerpieces were devil's pin-cushion cacti. The plate favors were small Mexican pots, which were lacquered with bright Mexican colors, filled with small cactus plants. A very nice menu was planned and prepared by the girls of the organization. The following program was very interestingly rendered: Theme—"The Potter and the Clay." Toastmistress—Lois Goad. Welcome—Altha Wayne Jennings. Response—Mrs. J. B. Walker. "The Hand of the Potter is Generous"—Robbie Milliken. "A Handful of Clay"—Lorene Reese. "The Potter at His Wheel"—Marye St. Clair. "The Firing Process"—Beryl Robertson. "Vessels Meet for the Master's Use"—Berta Hill. "Mexican Water Jars"—Marion Hooper. Benediction, "Have a Thine Own Way, Lord"—Ail. During the meal, piano music was furnished by Miss Grace Williams and several recitations were given by the pupils of Miss O'Ber's Forrester. At the close of the program a miscellaneous shower of gifts was presented to Miss Marion Hooper, who was leaving for her home in San Diego, Texas. A very delightful evening was enjoyed by all.

ELDER DRENNON MAKES A FEW MISTAKES

I had the privilege of preaching the Gospel three times last Lord's Day. What a wonderful privilege it is to preach the glorious Gospel of Christ to a lost world. I had rather have my job than any other in the world. It does not pay much in dollars and cents but it pays in other things far more valuable than either. A few embarrassing times in life: Just a few days ago a fine young man and woman came to the parsonage to get married. I mistook the lady for a friend of ours who had recently married in Lubbock, so I congratulated her on her marriage and then they asked me to tie the knot. Was I confused? I say I was! But I got into trouble worse than that. Some time back I was called to hold a funeral. They did not open the coffin until after I had finished my sermon, and what do you think—I had preached another man's funeral. I met the man whose funeral I preached on our streets a few days after! How do you think I felt? I will try to be more careful after this. I guess the most of us make a few mistakes along the way of life. Do you? I will fill the pulpit here next Lord's Day. Bible study, 10 a. m. Preaching 11 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. Visit the friendly church and enjoy the spiritual worship.—R. P. Drennon.

NEW METHODIST S. S. CLASS ORGANIZED

The Marthas of the Methodist Sunday School met with Mrs. N. M. Wyatt Wednesday evening for the purpose of reorganizing the class. After an enjoyable social hour, the following officers were elected: Mrs. A. M. Daniel, president; Mrs. F. C. Calvery, secretary; Mrs. Bill Darby, treasurer; Mrs. Ira B. Krebs, reporter. Mrs. Hardy has been selected as the teacher. If you are not a member of another Sunday School, come the young married women's class at the Methodist Church next Sunday. You will be welcomed by this friendly group.

PHOEBE K. WARNER CLUB HEARS BOOK REVIEW

The Phoebe K. Warner Club met in the home of Mrs. A. P. Edwards Friday of last week. A book review of "The Good Earth" was given by Mr. Truett

Smith. Life of the author, Pearl Buck, was given by Mrs. Carl Griffing.

Roll call was answered with facts about China by the following ladies: Mmes. R. W. Fenton Jr., A. P. Edwards, L. F. Craft, C. L. Hafer, L. E. Turrentine, L. C. Haney, R. W. Fenton Sr., Truett Smith, Carl Griffing, W. B. Slaton, H. C. Storck, L. E. Weathers, G. M. Stewart, W. G. Barrett, E. E. Callaway, and Homer Maxey.

A refreshment course was served. Next meeting will be Friday afternoon with Mrs. Larkin Weathers.

W. H. Thornhill is remodeling and stuccoing his residence in north Tahoka. When completed this will be one of the most attractive homes in the town.

 "Saves Housewives Many Dollars"

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lillith Boyd, H. D. Agent

CONVENIENT PANTRY SAVES WOMAN STEPS
 "A pantry that is conveniently arranged will save the housewife time, steps, and energy," said Miss Boyd at the New Lynn Club meeting Tuesday, May 4.

The meeting was in the home of Mrs. J. A. Jaynes. Miss Boyd gave an interesting lecture on pantries and cleaning closets, illustrating her talk with posters.

A refreshment plate was served to the following members: Mmes. Carpenter, Winkler, Barton, Flemming, Short, E. B. Terry, Baker, Cavness, Browning, Cooper, Jaynes, Newman Bartley, Meeks, Doyle Terry, Roper, Hoskins, and Miss Boyd. Visitors: Miss St. Clair, Home Demonstration Agent from Farmer county, Grandmother Fleming, Mrs. Jesse Jones, and Mrs. Luther Reed.

The next meeting, May 18, will be with Mrs. Claude Roper.

HEMS MAY BE PUT IN BY MACHINE

"Hems for school and sport dresses may be put in by machine, provided the machine stitching does not leave a definite line around the skirt," said Miss Lillith Boyd, county home demonstration agent, at the meeting of the Grassland 4-H club which met May 7th.

"For sheer and nice dresses, hems should be put in by hand," said Miss Boyd.

Miss Billie Jo Wall was a guest. Members present: Misses Viola Roberts, Neida Lois Moore, Margie Shepherd, Mary Alice Norman, Lorene Norman, Billie Williams, Faye Blasingame, Frances Aten, Billie Groer, Joy Moore, and Bernice Huffaker.

STORAGE SUBJECT AT WILSON CLUB MEETING

Storage in the kitchen was the theme of the meeting of the Wilson H. D. Club at the home of Mrs. J. F. Covey May 5.

Miss Boyd suggested that storage space in the kitchen be arranged to save steps, time and energy. Dishes should be placed on the shelves in such a way that they can be removed easily. Staples should be arranged so as to be easily accessible, with seldom used articles placed on the back of the shelves out of the way. Care should be taken in placing food in refrigerators so that the air can circulate freely.

Mrs. Howard Cook gave a report of the plans for serving the Alumni banquet May 7. Fifty-nine plates were served at the banquet.

Mrs. S. G. Anthony was elected as delegate to the Short Course at A. & M.

Mrs. Jackson West was received as a new member in the club.

Mrs. Lemon was a visitor. Members present were: Mmes. M. J. Soar, M. C. Brandon, Jackson West, Edwin May, J. F. Covey, J. W. Lamb, L. B. Thomson, D. A. Hill, W. E. Galloway, Jack Miller, B. W. Baker, P. D. Server, Howard Cook, S. G. Anthony, J. R. Hamilton, and B. A. Crumley.

DIXIE H. D. WOMEN STUDY POSTURE

"There are seven causes of wrong posture," said Mrs. Guion Cobb to the Dixie Club Wednesday, May 5, at the home of Mrs. G. B. Sherrod.

"These causes are as follows: Malnutrition and getting over-tired, carelessness, holding one position too long a time, a wrong mental Delicate Summer Pies Always Enchant the Family Palate!

SUMMER pies should be as light as a thistle-down—from the pastry which melts in the mouth, to the light, refreshing filling. In short, the ideal summer pie should so enchant the palate that diners will consume it with zest even on a broiling hot day.

These pies will bring the season's first berries economically to your table.

Strawberry Sponge Pie

4 cups sugar
 1 1/2 cups strawberries, crushed
 1 package strawberry-flavored gelatin
 1 cup hot water
 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
 1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Sprinkle 4 tablespoons sugar over berries; let stand 10 minutes. Dissolve strawberry-flavored gelatin in hot water. Drain 1/4 cup juice from berries, add to egg yolks, and cook in double boiler until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire. Stir gelatin into egg mixture. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat salt and remaining 4 tablespoons sugar into egg whites. Fold lightly into gelatin mixture. Pour into cold pie shell. Chill until firm. Garnish with whole strawberries.

Coconut Cream Raspberry Pie

4 tablespoons sugar
 4 tablespoons cake flour
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 2 cups milk
 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
 1 cup shredded coconut
 2 teaspoons vanilla
 1 pint raspberries
 1 baked 9-inch pie shell
 2 egg whites, unbeaten
 1/4 cup sugar
 Dash of salt
 2 tablespoons water
 1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, flour, and salt in top of double boiler. Add milk and egg yolks, mixing thoroughly. Place over rapidly boiling water; cook 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from boiling water; add 1/4 cup coconut and vanilla. Cool. Place 1 cup berries in pie shell. Add filling.

Place egg whites, sugar, salt, and water in top of double boiler; beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat 1 minute; remove from fire and continue beating 1 minute, until mixture will stand in peaks. Add flavoring. Pile lightly on filling. Arrange remaining berries around meringue. Sprinkle with shredded coconut.

attitude, misfitting garments which continually push or pull the body out of its correct position, bad eyesight and foot arch troubles."

The hostess was presented with a miscellaneous shower, the occasion being her birthday.

Refreshments were served to: Mmes. R. F. Janak, M. Berry, Guion Cobb, A. C. Aycox, A. L. Dunagan, Alex Johnson, Paul Johnson, S. B. Francis, L. E. Huffaker, Buel Draeger, and Mrs. Sherrod.

Our next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. V. H. Macha at 3 o'clock May 19th.

COLD FRAME LETTUCE IS MUCH BETTER

"My family never enjoyed eating lettuce grown in the garden but when I gathered it from my cold frame it did not have that bitter taste so common to open-garden grown lettuce," said Mrs. W. S. Anglin, cooperator in the Tahoka Home Demonstration Club.

"I planted three packets of white icicle radishes. This amount produced a surplus which I sold. Too, I sold all the Marglobe and Earliana tomato plants I did not need for my own garden. I am quite sure

I shall receive enough from my sales to pay the expense of making the frame. In my three cold frames I have 990 square feet. Lettuce radishes, tendergreens, mustard, beans, beets, carrots, cucumbers, okra and onions are growing. I shall either remove the cover or raise it for the tall plants," said Mrs. Anglin.

Mrs. Anglin bought 110 yards of cloth for the covering for $3.00.

MRS. WEAVER FINDS COLD FRAME PAYS
 "I canned 42 containers of spinach and mustard from my cold frame last week," said Mrs. A. C. Weaver, Home Food Supply Demonstrator in the Tahoka Home Demonstration Club.

"From 105 feet of spinach I canned 28 pints from the first gathering and canned 14 pints of mustard from 60 feet of row space.

"We had five fifteen-foot rows of Marglobe and Early Stone tomato plants. From these we sold one day 2150 plants with approximately 150 left.

"The tomato plants and some pepper plants will pay the expense of making the cold frame—boards for sides, tobacco cloth for cover, and seeds which amount to about $10.00," added Mrs. Weaver.

KITCHEN SHOULD HAVE PROPER STORAGE SPACE

Having the proper storage in the kitchen saves time, steps and energy. Miss Lillith Boyd told the Draw-Redwine Club on Friday, May 7, at 3 p. m. in the home of Mrs. R. R. Ragan.

Mrs. W. T. Luttrell gave a report of the one day short course which was held at Canyon May 6th. Eight from our club attended the short course.

Next meeting will be with Mrs. Willis Pennington on Thursday, May 20, at 3 p. m.

Visitors were Mrs. G. O. Key and Mrs. Marvin Eldridge.

Mmes. H. B. Brewer, M. C. Nash and Z. K. Hensley were new members.

Members present: Mmes. W. Z. Florence, R. R. Ragan, W. T. Luttrell, Willis Pennington, F. C. Thorpe, L. A. Watley, S. D. Dabney, A. R. Hensley, Graham Hensley, and W. E. Dubree.

SEVENTEEN WOMEN AT COUNCIL MEETING

The Lynn county council met in regular meeting May 8 with seventeen ladies present representing every club in the county except two. Reports were given by Extension Education, Writers, and Financial chairmen. Mrs. Mill Finch gave a report on the Canyon Short Course trip.

The Council voted for Lynn county to sponsor a county chorus, composed of women from different clubs in the county.

Mrs. Anthony of Wilson, Mrs. Connolly of Tahoka, and Mrs. T-pit of Friendship were selected as voting delegates in the election of officers at the Short Course at A. & M. College.

TAHOKA WOMAN REPORTS ON TRIP TO CANYON

The Tahoka Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Milt Finch for its regular meeting Wednesday, and Miss Boyd gave a demonstration on Storage in the Kitchen. Three things should be observed: Save steps, time and energy—everything handily placed.

Mrs. R. L. Richardson gave a report on the One Day Short Course at Canyon.

Everyone that went to the Short Course surely enjoyed the trip. The most interesting thing to me was the clay cowboys, located in the Museum, and presented by the Class of 1935. The hills and a spring of water, in replica, were just like they were down in the Palo Duro park. The old time wash pan and water bucket, in miniature, were at the spring, and the spring looked like it had water in it. One cowboy was asleep, with his boot under his head for a pillow, his hat pulled down over his face. The other cowboy was cooking supper, had beans on to cook, and bread ready to cook. The cabinet was built in the chuck wagon, and contained a little sack of flour, beans, and an oldtime-coffee mill was fastened on the wagon. The saddle pony was all ready to go any time they needed him. A little pair of spurs was hanging on a tree, and their pistols were by their sides. It sure was a good imitation of cowboys. This was just one of the many exhibits in the Museum.

Mrs. Paul King was elected reporter for the year 1938, with Mrs. A. C. Weaver assistant.

Members present were: Mmes. W. S. Taylor, Claud Wells, A. C. Weaver, R. L. Richardson, J. K. Wooley, W. S. Anglin, James Connolly, Jack Corley, Jack Penton, L. O. Mitchell, H. O. Patterson, and Paul King. Visitors present, whom we were to have, were: Mmes. Geo. A. Dale, O. A. Luallin, Cecil Shaw, and our Agent, Miss Boyd.

GRASSLAND H. D. WOMAN HAS EARLY GARDEN

"I have had spinach, radishes, lettuce, mustard, and onions out of my garden already," said Mrs. W. R. Greer, home foods supply demonstrator, at the regular meeting of the Grassland Home Demonstration Club which met in the home of Mrs. R. B. McCord on Tuesday, May 11. "I grew all of my early vegetables in the garden," she added.

One new member, Mrs. J. C. McGraw, was present.

Regular members present were: Mmes. O. C. Watson, W. R. Greer, J. O. Thrailkill, A. A. Lawson, M. C. Thomas, Johnnie Ray, Jim Greer, Paul Lawson, C. E. Short, W. H. Kenley, Miss Boyd, and the hostess.

MISS BOYD SPEAKS TO PETTY 4-H CLUB

"For a long, slender neck and face, a round or boat shaped neck line is more becoming," Miss Lilith Boyd, county home demonstration agent, told the members of the Petty 4-H Club which met May 12 at the school house.

"The round face and short neck type person should wear the V-shaped deep narrow oval, or tuxedo neck lines," added Miss Boyd.

Members present were: Wandzell Hemmeline, Wanda Lou Rogers, Willetta Smith, Wilma Doris Crews, Kathryn Osborne, Donnie Mae Porter, Thelma Mae Watkins, Veda Porter, Dollie Mae Hagins, Frances Hatcher, Elwyna Cullins, Dorsene Rodgers, Doris Stevens, Ina Mae Carrall, Ruby Don Middleton, Maurine Lowe.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Delegation Reports Fine Convention

The Tahoka aggregation that attended the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention in Brownwood this week returned home Wednesday night, reporting immense crowds, good speeches, wonderful music, and a great time generally.

Charles Gagnat gave a good account of himself in the 'My Home Town Contest,' and there was no candidate for queen present more beautiful than Miss Dottie Turrentine, according to other members of the Tahoka delegation. But another was crowned queen. She was accompanied to Brownwood by Mrs. Goza Lee Parker, with Jack Applewhite heading the Tahoka delegation. Jack is one of the board of directors of the organization.

Milburn McCarty of Eastland was elected president for the ensuing year and Wichita Falls was chosen as the 1938 convention city.

Justice R. W. Hall, Of Amarillo, Dies

Chief Justice R. Walker Hall of the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals, Amarillo, died Monday and was buried the following day. Judge Hall had been a member of this court for twenty-five years, and he was an ornament to the bench and the bar of Texas.

In addition to being an able lawyer and jurist, he earned the reputation many years ago of being a real humorist. He was greatly beloved by the lawyers who practiced before him and by thousands of others who knew him. A great man has gone to appear before a still higher tribunal.

The New Lynn Home Demonstration Club in arranging a minstrel program sponsored by the club and given by the men of the community. She thought nothing more about it.

But on last Saturday the women of the club presented her with a fine large angel food cake in appreciation of the service they felt she had rendered. Of course she was happy and grateful that the club had thus remembered her.

FRIENDSHIP CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. EDWARDS

The Friendship Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Lloyd Edwards on May 4th.

We quilted one quilt. Some of the members went to a Mothers Day program which was held at the Legion Hall.

Mrs. McKenzie was our visitor.

Mrs. W. M. Harris In Serious Condition

Mrs. W. M. Harris, who underwent a mastoid operation two weeks ago and who was thought to be improving satisfactorily, suffered a relapse Wednesday afternoon and for several hours seemed to be in a very precarious condition. Thursday afternoon, however, she seemed to be somewhat improved and physicians entertained high hopes for her ultimate recovery.

Bart Cowan Makes Cafe Improvements

Bart Cowan, proprietor of Bart's Cafe, is this week repainting and redecorating the interior of his establishment on Main Street. Bart says he will soon have his food dispensary "as dolled up as a sore thumb".

Mrs. A. W. Puquay returned Tuesday from a visit of several days with a sister and other relatives at Mount Vernon. She reports that they had a wet winter and now they have a dry spell and crops are late. But she says that there is a wealth of flowers of marvelous beauty all along the highways from here to Mount Vernon.

Mrs. G. M. Stewart and Mrs. Homer Maxey left Thursday morning to visit relatives and friends in Roscoe, and Sweetwater. Mrs. Stewart reports that her uncle, Tom Crutcher of Sweetwater, who has been critically ill the past few weeks is showing little or no improvement.

G. C. Johnson returned recently from Paris, where he spent the past four months with his daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rogers. He reports entirely too much rain and cool weather in that part of the state, causing the planting of crops to be two or three weeks late.

Mrs. Nellie Ingram residing a few miles west of town has been in a serious condition the past few weeks, suffering from diabetes, but seems to be better the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Noble and Mrs. Levi Noble and son Jerry returned home Thursday after a stay of several weeks at Rockport on the Gulf coast.

H. M. Snowden and daughter Julia visited his sister at Littlefield Tuesday night. His sister is seriously ill and grave fears as to the outcome are entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Young of the Guarantee Food Store spent Sunday at Littlefield with relatives.

James Minor Struck By Drunken Driver

While walking along a sidewalk in Brownwood last Saturday afternoon, James Minor of this city, who is attending Howard Payne College there, was struck and run over by a car driven by a drunk. He sustained a severe injury to the back of the head and one leg and was sent to a hospital for treatment. Jack Applewhite and other Tahoka people who were in Brownwood this week saw and talked with James and his physician and brought back the report of the injury. It was hoped and believed that James might be able to be up again in a few days.

The drunken driver was arrested and placed in jail.

Newmoore

Misses Ruth Williams and Darleen Tunnel visited in our school Tuesday, April 18.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Nichols spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. John Lloyd, of Berryflat.

Miss Geneva Gatewood spent Sunday with Elsie Mae Duncan.

Little Evelyn Joyce Moore of Lamesa is spending the week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hanes.

Billy Joe Nichols has the measles.

The Newmoore ball team went to Mesquite Sunday and played ball. The score was 12 and 3 in Newmoore's favor.

A. H. Senn and his mother of Rotan were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Simpson last week end.

Mrs. Clyde Thomas gave a party Saturday night.

There will be a party at Geneva Gatewood's Saturday night in honor of Miss Elsie Mae Duncan.

Supt. W. G. Barrett and family spent the week end with his mother at Anson.

Work Sheets Must Be Signed May 15

Saturday, May 15th is the last day for signing work sheets on the 1837 Government Soil Conservation program, according to V. F. Jones, county agent.

Mr. Jones states that the signing of a work sheet does not obligate the farmer to comply with the program, but it does place the farm in an eligible position to comply.

Sheriff B. L. Parker Tuesday morning received an invitation to the coronation ceremonies in London the next day. Not being the possessor of an airplane that he was sure could get him there on time, he decided, after mature deliberation, not to attend. He felt confident that King George would be satisfied with a telegram expressing his regrets and explaining the situation. B. L. expects to reciprocate by inviting the king over the next time he is inaugurated as sheriff.

Mrs. S. E. Reid returned to her home here Monday after having spent several weeks with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Reid, who has been taking treatment in a hospital in Temple and who underwent an operation for gopher a couple of weeks ago. The patient showed satisfactory improvement following the operation and was released from the hospital last Monday, returning to her home at Talco, Titus county.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Haney and little daughter visited relatives in Roscoe and Abilene Saturday and Sunday.

Health Warning Is Given Vacationists

Austin, Texas, May 13.—As the summer season approaches, a word of warning is timely to prospective campers, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, summer vacationists, fishermen, and others who may enjoy getting out into the open, relative to the possible dangers that may be encountered from the standpoint of contracting infection under the changed environment. This is especially true of diseases that may be transmitted through food and water supplies.

Typhoid fever is a disease the amount of which is greatest, as a rule, where there is the least sanitation. It is an unnecessary and preventable disease. It is spread from person to person by water, milk, flies and food. Every case is contracted by taking into the mouth some substance contaminated with typhoid organism, and these occur only in nature in the bowel and bladder discharges of persons sick with typhoid or from carriers, persons who have had typhoid and who after recovery still harbor the germs in their systems.

Persons planning a vacation or trip where sanitation may not be rigidly enforced or where food handlers are not regularly examined should protect themselves against this disease by being vaccinated. Three inoculations with typhoid vaccine, a week apart, are necessary to secure protection against this disease and the immunity established is good for two years. The purity of water or milk cannot be judged by looking at it. Play safe and have your doctor protect you.

Little Winona May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin May of Wilson, who recently underwent a mastoid operation in a Lubbock sanitarium, is reported to be recovering satisfactorily.

Trench Silos Are Declared Profitable

County agricultural agents of the Northwest Texas region report that farmers, dairymen, and ranchmen who stored feed in trench silos last year have opened the silos and that their stock has received the benefit of the silage during the winter months.

In Callahan county, J. G. Barton of the Dudley community finds that a day seldom passes without a neighbor visiting his trench silo, from which he has been feeding 14 sheep, 8 mules, and 4 cows. His milk cows actually picked up in production during the cold weather when he opened his trench.

A ranchman of the same county, E. H. Williams of Putnam, says, "My 140-ton trench silo is the only thing that saved me during the cold weather as my wheat was grazed too close for further use."

A Motley county farmer, J. T. Swim of Roaring Springs, saved several tons of sprouted maize heads by using a trench silo. Swim fed out 15 tons on the silage, shorts and cottonseed meal.

"A trench silo is a very economical way of storing feed for six weeks or for 10 years," Henry Ham of Moore county told a group of farmers who visited his farm during a trench silo tour. Ham stressed the fact that silage is free from damage through rain, snow, dust, rats, weevils, and fire.

A trench silo meeting at the farm of T. W. Ashley, near Big Spring in Howard county, attracted 20 farmers. The silo contains 150 tons of grain sorghum which Ashley has been feeding to calves, yearlings, cows, ewes, lambs, and work stock. A group of eight yearlings, which had been fed out with silage as a roughage were shipped to market on the day of the meeting.

When 12 inches of rain fell on his filled, but uncovered, trench silo, last September, Joe Poindexter of the New Home community in Lynn county, thought his feed had been ruined. The silo was covered with mud after being open a week, and Poindexter recently reported to his county agricultural agent that he was feeding from the trench and that only a small portion of the top silage was spoiled.

An eight pound boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Boswell of the West Point community in the Lubbock Sanitarium Saturday morning. A Caesarian operation was necessary. The mother has been in a critical condition but at last reports was apparently recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Eubanks and son James of Slaton were visitors in the editor's home Sunday. Mr. Eubanks and Mrs. Hill are cousins.

Mary Ann Walker

Helen Millwee

For the second time in three years the 2400 students at T. S. C. W. elected the president of their student body by a unanimous vote. Miss Mary Ann Walker of Wichita Falls, a journalism student, was accorded this honor. On the other hand, the contest for the vice-presidency, won by Miss Helen Millwee of Dallas, was one of the most heated in the history of the school. They will serve during the 1937-38 scholastic term.

Rev. W. K. Johnston of Lubbock, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, was a pleasant caller at the News office Monday morning. Dr. Johnston calls every time he is in Tahoka, and his calls are always pleasant. He brings with him a smile and friendliness that we appreciate and he always has a word of encouragement that helps us to get over the hard places. Like his Master, he seems to go about doing good in the world. He reports a well attended Mothers Day service at the Presbyterian Church Sunday.

Mrs. Ross Harmonson of the Lakeview community has been seriously ill the past several days in a Lubbock sanitarium.

NOTICE TO CITIZENS

Notice is also given that water contracts must be signed on or before May 20 in order to enable citizens to take advantage of the special reduced rates. — Rosemary Nelms, City Secretary. 88-21c

Mrs. E. I. Hill and brother John Halsey of Lubbock left Tuesday morning to visit their father, Mr. Hop Halsey, at Rogers, Bell county. They were accompanied by Mrs. J. L. Reese, who went to visit relatives in Coryell county. Mr. Halsey expected to return within a few days but Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Reese went for a visit of three or four weeks.

Rev. and Mrs. Geo. A. Dale had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Kennedy and little daughter Dorothy Dale, George Dale, and Miss Ellen K. Clapp, all of Lubbock.

More Mileage to you—
BREAD & BUTTER TO ME

My station is all on its own. My living's got to come mostly from just you people right here. I want your steady trade, so's to build a real growing business. And there's where it helps me a lot, I can tell you, to be selling Conoco Germ Processed oil. You see it makes customers and keeps them for me. It's patented—the only oil that can Oil-Plate your engine. Meaning that a definite part of this oil always fastens direct to every working part... forms a real Plating of oil, which can't run down. Other oils will "dry off" every time you park, but Oil-Plating can't, so you'll never make any hard, grinding starts. And that ends the worst wear of all. Or when you're hitting it up all day, you won't find this real Oil-Plating rubbing right off, like just some plain little drops of oil. Oil-Plating's not thinning out either, nor burning right up. Which gives you mighty solid reasons why Oil-Plating means more mileage from your engine and your Conoco Germ Processed oil. Besides making customers, I get a kick out of changing you to an oil I can believe in myself, right to the limit.

THE LYNN COUNTY NEWS

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Humane Fox Hunting.
SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—In England it has been decided that fox-hunting is humane. This opinion emanates from the hunters. The foxes have not been heard from on the subject.

Maybe you don't know it, but there's a lot of fox-hunting among us, especially down south. Being but a lot of stubborn non-conformists, southerners do not follow the historic rules. A party at large wearing a red coat, white pants and high boots would be mistaken for a circus band. And anybody blowing a horn as he galloped across hill and dale would be set down as an insane fish peddler; and if you shouted "View, halloo! Tantivy, tantivy! Yoicks, yoicks!" or words to that effect, they'd think you were a new kind of hog-caller.

Down there they've chased the fox until he's wise. The foxes have learned that the hounds can't follow trail on a paved highway and so quit the thicket for the concrete when the chase is on. A fox has been sitting in the middle of the big road listening to the bewildered peck.

On second thought maybe Brer Fox isn't so smart, after all—not with automobile traffic what it is. 'Tis a hard choice—stay in the woods and get caught or take to the pike and get run over.

Courageous Republicans.
WHO, besides the writer, can recall when the Democrats held their jubilation rallies the night before a presidential election and the Republicans the night after the returns were in, when they had something to jubilate over? Now the situation is just the other way around. The Literary Digest poll was practically the only thing the Republicans had to celebrate during the entire fall season of 1936.

Still, we must give that diminished but gallant band credit for courage. Here, in an off-year, they're spiritedly planning against the next congressional campaign.

English Recruiting.
THE English are still having trouble inducing young fellows to join the colors. First, the government tried to increase enlistments by giving every recruit a giddy new blue uniform, absolutely free of charge, and still the lads refused. So now, as an appeal which, 'tis believed, no true Britisher can withstand, the military authorities announce that, hereafter, Tommy Atkins will have time off for afternoon tea.

This may be a new notion for peacetime, but, during the great war, the custom was maintained even up at the front. Many a time I've seen all ranks, from the brigadiers on down, knocking off for tea. However, this didn't militate against his majesty's forces, because, at the same hour, the Germans, over on their side of the line, were having coffee—or what the Germans mistake for coffee. And the French took advantage of the lull to catch up with their bookkeeping on what the allies owed them for damage to property, ground rent, use of trenches, billeting space, wear and tear, etc., etc. Did it ever occur to our own general staff that guaranteeing a daily crap-shooting interval might stimulate volunteering for the American army?

The Job of Censorship.
ONE reason why moving pictures are so clean is because some of the people who censor them have such dirty minds. To the very pure everything is so impure, is it not? That's why some of us think the weight of popular opinion, rather than the judgment of narrow-brained official judges in various states, should decide what should and what should not be depicted. Anyhow, there are so many movies which, slightly amending the old ballad, are more to be pitied than censored.

Sponsors of radio programs also lean over backward to be prudishly proper. But without let or hindrance the speaking stage, month by month, grows fouler and filthier. Suggestive lines once created a shock in the audience mind. The lines no longer suggest—they come right out and speak the nastiness. Sauce for the goose isn't sauce for the gander, 'twould seem—or maybe, after the reformers got through saucing radio and screen, there wasn't any left over for the so-called legitimate stage.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for May 16

THE FORBEARANCE OF ISAAC

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 26: 12-25. GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. Matthew 5:9. PRIMARY TOPIC—A Man Who Wouldn't Quarrel. JUNIOR TOPIC—Was Isaac a Hero? INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Prevent Quarrels. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Promoting Peace.

In a world largely dominated by the philosophy that might is right, and in which men are urged to assert themselves and demand their rights, exacting them even by lawless and violent methods, it is increasingly difficult to proclaim the truth that meekness is not weakness and that the Christian virtues of patience and long-suffering are not simply outmoded theories which do not fit our modern world.

The story of Isaac, the second of the patriarchs, is instructive from beginning to end. The five chapters preceding our lesson merit careful reading. Isaac had come through many blessed experiences and had also sadly tasted the defeat of unbelief and sin before we reach the time of our lesson. Fearing a famine, and evidently not being certain that God would care for him, he had gone down from the promised land, and was dwelling in the land of the Philistines. But God had not forsaken him, and even there he blessed him.

I. Peace, Prosperity, and Envy (vv. 12-17).
Isaac was at peace although he was in the enemy's territory. God had given him great prosperity with the result that the Philistines hated him. Times have changed, but men are the same. Many are they who will not have the Lord Jesus Christ to rule over them, but who cast envious glances toward those who because they have honored God have been honored by him with peace of heart and have been prospered in whatever they do. (Read Psalm 1.)

Note that Isaac's testimony is strengthened by his willingness to yield even what was his right, rather than cause contention. Undoubtedly there are times when one must defend his name and his possessions, but all too often those who "stand up for their rights" have wrecked homes, churches, and nations, and have gained nothing but an empty victory.

II. Peace in the World is Temporary (vv. 18-21).
Isaac moved on and dugged more wells, and for a time he was again at peace, but not for long. He was still in the land of the Philistines. We are in the world. We long for peace, we would throw all our influence on the side of peace. But let us not be misled, for as long as sin is in the world there will be strife and war.

Many noble Christian men and women have permitted their God-given hatred of war and killing to mislead them into support of unscriptural and impossible peace programs, often to the loss of their interest in the preaching of the gospel and the winning of souls to Christ.

But is there then never to be "peace on earth"? III. Perfect Peace in the Presence of God (vv. 22-25).
When Isaac came up into Canaan the land which God had promised him, he found permanent peace and renewed fellowship with God. Even so, the Christian man and woman who will step out of a spirituality-destroying fellowship with the world and will come wholly over into the spiritual Canaan will find true peace and intimate communion with God.

A broader application of the same truth brings before us the teaching of Scripture that when the One who has a right to reign, the Lord Jesus Christ, returns to take his throne, then and not before, will peace cover the earth. In the meantime those who bear the beautiful name Christian, who are true followers of the Prince of Peace, will give themselves to such patient, loving, and long-suffering testimony to Him that their personal influence will be toward peace in the home, in the church, in the community, in the earth.

Always remember that God's Word, the Bible, is our guide. Let us read it diligently, intelligently, prayerfully. To help the reader to do this, the writer of these notes will be glad to supply without cost or obligation a Bible-reading calendar with a workable plan for reading the blessed Book through in a year. If possible enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your request.

Faults Showing Up
The good often sigh more over little faults than the wicked over great. Hence an old proverb: that the stain appears greater according to the brilliancy of what it touches.—Palmieri.

Sin of Not Doing
Doing nothing at all is often the worst kind of wrong doing. Simply failing to do what we ought to do may be more inexcusable than any mistake in our best methods of doing.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Outer Leaves of Lettuce—The outer leaves of lettuce, often trimmed off and thrown away, are more than 30 times as rich in vitamin A as the inside leaves.

Boiled Whitefish—Clean a whitefish. To sufficient water to cover add salt and vinegar and a bunch of parsley and a quartered onion. Cook until the flesh separates easily from the bones. Drain and place on a hot platter, garnished with parsley and serve with a sauce.

Removing Mustard Stains—Mustard stains can be removed from table linen by washing in hot water and soap and rinsing in warm water.

Hanging Pictures—Never allow picture frames to touch the wall if it is damp. The frame will soon become damaged. With a small tack or gramophone needle, attach two small corks at the bottom of your frame. These will keep the frame off the wall.

Soaking Salt Fish—When soaking salt fish add a small glass of vinegar to the soaking water and it will draw out more of the salt.

With Fancywork—Before starting to draw the threads on linen for hemstitching, wet a small brush, rub it over a bar of soap until a lather is produced, scrub the threads of linen that you wish to draw, and they will pull out easily.

Butter Layer Cake—When raspberry jam that is not of firm consistency is to be used for filling a sponge sandwich cake it is advisable to butter the inner surface of each layer before spreading it with jam. This will prevent the moisture from soaking into the cake and making it sodden.

Beef Juice—To make beef juice add 1 pound of fresh, raw, finely chopped round steak without fat to 6 ounces of cold water. Add a pinch of salt, put the beef and water in a glass jar and stand it on ice, over night. Shake and strain it through coarse muslin, squeezing hard to obtain all the juice.

Tomato and Lima Bean Casserole—Drain the liquid from a No 2 can of green baby lima beans and combine the beans with a can of tomatoes. Add a little butter and seasoning, then mix. Place in buttered casserole. Cover. WNU Service.

Young-Looking Skin at 35—Now a Reality For Women!

THOUSANDS of women now keep the allure of youthful, dewy skin at 30-35-40 and even alert! Now a modern skin cream acts to free the skin of the "age film" of semi-visible darkening particles ordinary creams cannot remove. Often only a night's enough to bring out divine new freshness—youthful rose-petal clearness, and to eliminate ugly surface pimples, blackheads, freckles. JOYS and GLOOMS

BAH! EVERYWHERE I LOOK I SEE JOY AND HAPPINESS! IT'S GOT TO STOP!

HE'S RIGHT! GLOOMS... GET AFTER THOSE JOYS!

OH, DADDY... MOTHER SAID YOU WOULD BUILD ME A PLAYHOUSE!

WHAT! ME BUILD A PLAYHOUSE? I SHOULD SAY NOT! I'M DEAD TIRED!

TEAR INTO 'EM, BOYS!

WHY... WHY... LEN! I DON'T UNDERSTAND!

OH, YOU WOULDN'T! YOU NEVER SHOW ME ANY CONSIDERATION! YOU KNOW I NEED REST! I HAVEN'T BEEN SLEEPING WELL... BUT WHAT DO YOU CARE?

I WORK HARD ALL DAY... LIE AWAKE ALL NIGHT... AND ALL YOU DO IS THINK UP MORE WORK FOR ME!

WELL... IF YOU'D DO AS THE DOCTOR SAID, YOU'D NOT ONLY SLEEP BETTER, BUT YOU'D BE A WHOLE LOT EASIER TO LIVE WITH!

HE TOLD YOU COFFEE-NERVES WAS CAUSING YOUR SLEEPLESSNESS! WHY DON'T YOU QUIT COFFEE AND DRINK POSTUM INSTEAD FOR 30 DAYS, AS HE SUGGESTED?

OH, ALL RIGHT... I WILL!

BEAT IT MEN... WE'RE LICKED! POSTUM ALWAYS DRIVES US OUT!

30 DAYS LATER.

SINCE HE GOT RID OF HIS SLEEPLESSNESS, HE'S BEEN A NEW MAN!

YOU SAID IT SWITCHING TO POSTUM WOULD BE THE TRICK FOR HIM!

YOUR MONEY BACK... IF SWITCHING TO POSTUM DOESN'T HELP YOU!

If you are one of those who cannot safely drink coffee... try Postum's 30-day test. Buy a can of Postum at your grocer's and drink it instead of coffee for one full month. If... after 30 days... you do not feel better, return the top of the Postum container to General Foods, Battle Creek, Michigan, and we will cheerfully refund the full purchase price, plus postage (if you live in Canada, address General Foods, Ltd., Cobourg, Ont.). Give Postum a fair trial... drink it for the full 30 days! Postum contains no caffeine. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. Postum comes in two forms... Postum Cereal, the kind you boil or percolate... and Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup. It is economical, easy to make and delicious. You may miss coffee at first, but after 30 days, you'll love Postum for its own rich, full-bodied flavor. A General Foods product.

Two Facts To Consider -

Fact 1 The new Kelvinator is Plus-Powered... has double the capacity of other refrigerators of equal size.

Fact 2 The new Kelvinator runs half as many minutes per day... rest of time stays cool, using no current.

IN YOUR HOME THESE FACTS MEAN—

- BETTER REFRIGERATION—Kelvinator's Plus-Power assures safe refrigeration temperature at all times. The Built-in Thermometer gives visible proof of this safe, constant temperature.
- MORE ECONOMICAL OPERATION—Kelvinator's Plus-Power assures less current consumption, less running time each day. Kelvinator backs its economy statements by giving you a written Certificate of Low Cost Operation.
- GREATER SAVINGS—Kelvinator's Plus-Power prevents food spoilage... permits you to buy in quantity at less cost... affording you greater savings in your food budget. The difference will pay for your Kelvinator.
- MORE FREEZING CAPACITY—Kelvinator's Plus-Power gives abundant reserve capacity to provide plenty of ice, quickly, no matter how hot the weather. All the ice you want when you want it.
- LONG LIFE, DEFENDABILITY—Kelvinator's Plus-Power unit runs less time and at slower speed... Kelvinator's Five-Year Protection Plan is your assurance of years of dependable, care-free service.

ST. CLAIR HOTEL BEING WRECKED THIS WEEK

has signed a ten-year lease for the building, and one of the best young business men in town will probably be engaged as manager of the station.

The work of demolishing the old structure was begun Wednesday and will doubtless be well under way before this paper reaches the reader. The newer portion of the hotel, which was constructed about thirteen years ago, is to be skidded over on to the adjoining lot situated between the old hotel site and the Carlos Courts, and will be remodelled and converted into a tire store. Sheriff B. L. Parker and his son, Homer Parker, will probably be in charge of the business.

The demolishing of the St. Clair Hotel marks the passing of one of the most interesting landmarks in the town, which must bring a pang of regret to the breast of every pioneer citizen here. The old portion of the building, standing on the east end of the lot, was originally Lynn county's first court house. It was constructed on the courthouse square in the summer of 1903 soon after the county was organized and the city of Tahoka laid out.

S. N. McDaniel, Lynn county's first district and county clerk, who still resides here, and Charley Doak, Lynn county's first sheriff and tax collector, who now resides in O'Donnell, had their offices in this structure.

The first district and county courts held their sessions within its walls. The first grand juries had very little to do, but they held their abbreviated sessions in one of the rooms of this old building.

Some stirring events also transpired in this building in the early days of this county, which we haven't the time nor space to relate here. Some of the churches conducted their services in this building too on Sundays back in those early days, while the young people of the town and the country for miles around enjoyed many a dance on the then smooth floor of the district court room at night during the week.

The building was used as the county's court house until, 1916, when the present attractive brick structure was begun during the administration of County Judge Joe Stokes but built chiefly during the first administration of Judge C. H. Cain. The old building was sold to a man named Williams, who moved it upon its present site and converted it into a hotel, for which purpose it has been used since by various and sundry hostlers.

And so, after having served the courts and the public for thirty-four years, this old building this week came to the end of a distinguished career.

Dean Leidigh On Planning Board

Lubbock, May 13.—Dean A. H. Leidigh of the Texas Technological College—agriculture division—has been appointed to succeed R. C. Hopping of Lubbock on the Texas Planning Board.

Member of the board's land use committee for two years, Dean Leidigh will serve a two-year term in his new capacity. Land economics is a field of which he has made a hobby. For twelve years he was with the State Experiment station, doing agronomic work relative to soil improvement.

Hopping had resigned from the board because of the pressure of private business.

NEW HOME LEADS SCHOOLS IN GROUPING PLAN

county in extent of Territory. It extends from highway No. 9 on the east to the west boundary line of the county. The only rural districts lying in the northwest quarter of the county not included in this new high school district are Dixie, Lakeview, and West Point. It has 322 scholastics within its confines, according to the census taken in March. It will employ twelve teachers for the three schools, with Prof. J. T. Carter of New Home as superintendent.

Rural High School No. 1 (the Draw-Redwine district), the Wilson Independent district and the O'Donnell Independent district are each slightly smaller in extent of territory than the new High School District No. 2, but O'Donnell and Wilson each has more scholastics.

For the next year, it is probable that the first seven grades will be taught at Joe Stokes and at Petty as heretofore, but the high school pupils in these districts will be transported to New Home. Three buses will be used by the district, and grade pupils in the Joe Stokes and Petty districts will be transported to their respective schools, as will also many of the grade pupils in the New Home district.

It is probable that a plan will be worked out, according to a statement made to the News by County Superintendent H. P. Caviness, where by the grade pupils, after next year, will be distributed among the three schools on a basis of convenience. It may so happen occasionally, Mr. Caviness pointed out, that a whole grade will be transported out of one district into others when only a few that district after distribution on pupils in that grade would be left in the "convenience" basis is made. But that is a matter to be determined by future developments.

Under the law, a full nine months school term must hereafter be maintained in each of the three districts.

Mr. Caviness further pointed out that neither of the districts is to be assessed for the indebtedness of the others, but a uniform assessment for maintenance purposes is to be made throughout the three districts. The district board of trustees will equalize assessments throughout the three districts, as has been done heretofore in each district separately.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Dobbins and their grand children, Martha Jane and Stewart Dobbins, and their friend, Wanda Ruth Witherspoon, of Roscoe visited Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Stewart Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Dobbins are Mrs. Stewart's parents.

Tech Will Graduate 277 This Spring

Lubbock, May 13.—Attorney-General William McCraw and the Rev. Walter P. Jennings of Plainview will be speakers at Texas Technological College graduation exercises late this month.

Jennings, pastor of the First Christian Church at Plainview, will preach the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning, May 30. McCraw will deliver the commencement address the following month.

Candidates for degrees from Texas Tech this spring total 277, 33 more than the 1936 figure, announced President Bradford Knapp.
