Former Pastors To Preach At Local M. E. Revival

Revs. Doak, Breedlove, Smith Will Take Part In Meeting Which Opens Sunday

A revival meeting will start at the Methodist Church Sunday and will continue two weeks, according to announcement made by the pastor, Rev. Ben Hardy.

This evangelistic campaign is to be, unique in that several different outstanding pastors and evangelistic leaders will be used at different times during the two weeks campaign.

During the first week, there will be preaching at night only. In addition to the pastor, the speakers will include Rev. J. E. Stephens, pastor at Olton, formerly of Post, who will preach Tuesday night; Rev. R. T. Breedlove, pastor at Brownfield, a former pastor at Tahoka, who will preach Thursday night; and Rev. H. C. Smith, pastor of the San Jacinto Methodist Church in Amarillo, also a former pastor here, who will preach on Friday night.

During the second week, Rev. D. B. Doak of Wewoka, Oklahoma, a former pastor here and a former presiding elder of the Lubbock district, will preach both morning and evening each day.

Rev. B. L. Nance of Phoenix, Arizona, a personal visitation evangelist, will be here during the entire two weeks to do special personal work.

These are all able and much-loved ministers and they will doubtless bring a series of strong and appealing messages.

In making announcement of the revival, Rev. Hardy said, "We urge your attendance and cooperation. We cordially invite members of other churches and pastors. If you sing, come and help us. We are hoping for a revival that will be a blessing to the whole town."

Mass Meeting Of Farmers Called

E. W. Holloway, secretary of the farmers organization in this county, has furnished us with the following call for a mass meeting to be held in Amarillo on Wednesday, July 28. John Heck of Wilson is president of this association. The call was sent out from the Texas Agricultural Association headquarters at Brownwood.

Call For Mass Meeting

Feeling that the National Congress is not acting with as much dispatch as reasonably should be expected in connection with the new farm bill now before the House, farmers of Extension Districts 1, 2 and 3 are to hold a mass meeting in Amarillo July 28th, to discuss the new bill and to urge Congress to take immediate action.

Unless this or some similar program is enacted this year, farm leaders point out, the country may be faced with another agricultural debacle similar to 1933, when prices for farm commodities dropped to such low levels that more than half of Texas farmers were faced with bankruptcy and loss of their homes.

Although the mass meeting at Amarillo is under the auspices of the Texas Agricultural Association, every farmer is urged to attend and lend his voice to the urgency of the request for action from Congress.

A delegate of farmers from this county is making plans to attend the meeting.

Aged O'Donnell Lady Falls, Breaks Hip

Mrs. Lucy Woods of O'Donnell, 85, sustained a fracture of the hip when she fell on a sidewalk in Lubbock Monday afternoon.

She was immediately taken to a hospital where the injury was treated, after which she was hurried back to her home in O'Donnell. Her condition was said to be serious.

L. F. Frazier returned Tuesday night from Comanche, where he had been to visit his aged mother, who is seriously ill. It is not expected that she will recover.

Wade Howell Tells Of Trip To Boy Scout Jamboree, Washington, And New York

A boy can see lots of things when he goes to town.

Wade Howell must have kept his eyes open while attending the Boy Scout Jamboree in Washington recently. He can tell about so many interesting things that he saw that we do not have room to jot them all down here.

In the first place, it was a rare opportunity to gain some intimate knowledge of the capital city and the history of our country.

Of course one of the first places visited was the Capitol building. Congressman George Mahon was exceedingly thoughtful and helpful in showing the boys around. Wade says he saw the House of Representatives in action. He and many others of the boys were also permitted, while the Senate was not in session, to enter upon the floor of the Senate Chamber, and to remain there for a considerable period of time. They also visited the Senate Office Building and the House Office Building via the subway, or underground passage.

The Hall of Statues, the Library of Congress, and the Supreme Court Building were other places of much interest.

One of the most interesting places visited was the Bureau of Printing (Cont'd. on last page)

Panhandle Wheat Crop Harvested

Greatly varying reports come from the different sections of the Plains-Panhandle section of the state respecting the wheat crop.

In some counties one of the best wheat crops on record has been harvested while in many other counties the yield has been exceedingly light. In some counties, farmers are reported to be greatly disappointed at the turn-out. Wheat which looked good in the field has yielded little grain.

The heaviest crop comes from Floyd county. Crosby, Hale, Swisher, Castro, Brisco and some others have also made good yields. In Randall, Deaf Smith, and some other counties the yield has been disappointing, while in most of the north Panhandle the yield is said to be light.

Co-op Gins Build New Oil Mill

John Heck of Wilson was a business visitor in the News office Wednesday and while here stated that the Farmers Cooperative Gins of the South Plains are now engaged in the construction of a cotton seed oil mill in Lubbock.

The site of the building is south of the Denver Railway water tank and northeast of the Lubbock Nursery. Most of the foundation work has already been done.

The capacity of the mill will be about 75 tons of cotton seed per day.

The South Plains Farmers Cooperative Association embraces twelve or fifteen counties. Lynn county has two directors on the executive board, John Heck of Wilson and J. A. Anderson of O'Donnell.

Mrs. H. P. Caveness arrived home Sunday night after a visit of nearly two months with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Dixon, at Akron, Ohio. It will be remembered that a little daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Dixon a little more than four weeks ago. At two weeks of age the infant developed an internal trouble and an operation became necessary. The operation is thought to have corrected the trouble, as the condition of the child has been improving since. Many friends of the family here hope that the little lady may completely and speedily recover.

Mrs. M. E. Wilson and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. D. Locker of Joshua, spent Saturday night here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Smith en route to Plainview to visit relatives. They are long-time friends of Mrs. Smith.

T. I. Tippit and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Tippit, Mrs. J. L. Reese and daughter, Miss Lorene, returned Monday from Gatesville, where they attended a big family reunion.

Calvery Improving Variety Store

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Calvery are having additional shelving built and other improvements made in their store in order that they may be able to handle a larger stock of goods this fall.

With the new arrangement they expect also to be able to display their stock more attractively. They are preparing for a greatly increased business this fall.

Ask Topping Bids On Highway 84 West Of City

Will Hardsurface Highway To Brownfield; Hope For Work On Highway East Of Here

We are publishing a notice this week calling for bids for the hardsurfacing of more than eleven miles of highway No. 84 west of Tahoka. The gap to be improved begins at the end of the pavement five miles west of Tahoka and extends to the Terry county line. Bids are to be opened and contract let on July 31. The notice calls for the reshaping of the base and the laying of asphalt base preservative.

Contract has already been let for the laying of a base preservative on this highway from the Lynn-Terry county line to Brownfield.

F. C. Stanley, resident engineer, estimates that the Lynn county job will be completed about the middle of September. Possibly the Terry county job will have been completed by that time. This will afford a paved highway all the way from Tahoka to Brownfield.

It is hoped that the state highway commission may find it possible to begin rebuilding this highway from Tahoka to Post in the near future. To the people of Lynn and Garza counties as well as other counties further east, the paving of this highway east of Tahoka is much more important than the paving of it west, though that is important and much appreciated by the people of this section of the state.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist Church here Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. George A. Dale. Burial was in the Tahoka cemetery.

Besides the parents, deceased left two sisters and three brothers surviving as follows: sisters, Lenelle and Audie Mae; brothers, Leon, Eugene, and Lowell.

The family has the deepest sympathy of many friends here and in the Magnolia community.

Sanders New Head Of Donna Schools

Friends here will be interested in learning that A. E. Sanders, superintendent of the Littlefield public schools for the past four years and formerly principal of the high school here, has accepted the position of superintendent of the Donna schools in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Mr. Sanders had been re-elected at Littlefield but resigned that position last week to accept the Donna superintendency.

Mr. Sanders was principal here some ten years ago, serving here for two or three years. Later he served as superintendent at Ralls and went from that place to Brownfield, where he served as superintendent until he was elected to the Littlefield position.

He still has many friends here who are much pleased at his continued promotion in the field of education.

Chester and James Connolly and families and Mr. and Mrs. Clay Bennett returned Tuesday night from Siloam Springs, Arkansas, where they attended a reunion of the Connolly families from five states. They report a wonderful time, though the reunion was not as largely attended as usual. They went and came via Texhoma and Guymon, Okla., passing through the heart of the Dust Bowl and they say that is indeed a desolate region.

Mrs. Cynthia McLarty of Fort Worth is here for a few days visiting with the A. I. Thomas and J. A. South families. She is an aunt of Mrs. Thomas and Mr. South.

Lumsden Home At Wilson One Of Finest Farm Places Be To Found In County

When we visit some of the more elegant homes of Lynn county and note the wealth and variety of trees and shrubbery with which they are surrounded, we are made to wonder what will be the aspect of these once-barren plains fifty years hence. Twenty-five years ago there was scarcely a tree in Lynn county except scrubby mesquite, an occasional black locust, and a few fruit trees that the most optimistic of the few freeholders in the county had planted out. Now there are numerous homes in town and country enshrouded in great groves of marvelously beautiful trees and evergreens.

Perhaps the most striking example of wooded landscape developed by the hand of man in all Lynn county is the enchanting grove that affords a setting for the L. Lumsden home situated on a slight elevation a bare half mile east of the little town of Wilson.

We had the pleasure of visiting this home recently just at sunset, and as we drove up and parked under the shelter of stately trees and listened to the chatter of countless birds among the foliage, we could hardly realize that we were in fact out on the so-called barren plains.

The house itself is doubtless the most elegant and imposing residence in all Lynn county. It is a ten-room, two-story brick structure of modern architectural design, fringed with well-selected and thrifty foundation plantings of shrubs and vines, with a spacious lawn of blue (Cont'd. on last page)

Rain Great Help To Lynn County Crops

New Agriculture Teacher Is Here

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hufstедler moved here from Lubbock Friday and are occupying the Fred Barker residence.

Mr. Hufstедler was recently elected teacher of vocational agriculture here, succeeding Mr. Cecil Ayers, who resigned to accept a similar position at Spur. Mr. Hufstедler has had three years of experience as a teacher.

Two Die In Wreck Near Wolfforth

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bynum, residing ten miles west of Meadow, were instantly killed about noon Tuesday when their car collided with a truck on the Lubbock-Brownfield highway a mile south of Wolfforth. Billy Bynum, 6, son of the dead couple, and Louis Downing, about 40, brother of Mrs. Bynum, were also seriously injured. R. N. Marchbanks, of Lubbock, driver of the truck, was not seriously injured, but his truck was badly damaged. The old car in which the Bynums and Downing were riding was completely demolished.

Marchbanks has been absolved of all blame for the accident. The driver of the car was apparently looking back into the back end of it and did not see the truck until he was very near it and then became too excited to avoid a collision.

Bob McCord Has Narrow Escape

Bob McCord of Grassland had an experience recently that seldom ever happens to men except in the story books.

He was suddenly and unexpectedly brought face to face with Death, and only by maintaining his self composure and using his utmost strength was he able to successfully fight it off.

It all happened in the simplest sort of way. His tractor was standing in the shed and he went around to the front and cranked it. To his surprise it started up. It was in gear. It butted up against the wall and stopped but a rear wheel began to spin around at a rapid speed. He rushed back to throw the lever, but as he did so his foot slipped and he fell almost directly under the spinning wheel. It caught his clothing and was in the act of dragging him under it when he realized that he must match his wits and his strength against that of the iron monster. He grabbed a post of some kind that happened to be near determined to never let go as long as it was possible to hold on. "Two or three times," Bob said, "I thought I could hold on no longer, but I renewed my determination and finally the clothing was utterly torn from my body. This released me and I got up and stopped the engine."

Bob says that he never did get excited in the least, but he lay there holding on to that post and wondering what he would look like when he should come out from under that wheel on the other side.

His injuries consisted of painful lacerations and abrasions on the thigh and leg, resulting in great inflammation, and he was compelled to keep to his bed a couple of weeks.

Resident Engineer Stanley Is Moving

The people of Lynn county will regret to learn that Resident Highway Engineer F. C. Stanley and family will move to Plainview at the end of this month, where Mr. Stanley will hold a like position. Mr. Stanley has been a good citizen here and his family will be greatly missed.

He will probably not be replaced here unless and until the work of improving highway No. 84 east of Tahoka is begun.

Light showers in some localities to heavy rains in others covered Lynn and some of the adjoining counties at an early hour Tuesday morning.

One small area covering about three sections west and southwest of Dixie was visited by a destructive hail. Several hundred acres of cotton was badly damaged or completely destroyed. Among those suffering losses were Lee Short, Grady Gore, J. H. Bearden, W. J. Benson, O. M. Murrah, Clem Gillespie, Robt. Noble, Herman Crouch, and a few others.

The rain was heavy in practically all the north and west portions of the county. It was lighter east and south of Tahoka.

In the Dixie community, the fall was reported at 3 to 4 inches. At New Home, Petty, Joe Stokes, and Wilson, the fall was reported at an inch to two and a half inches. Heavy rains also fell in portions of the Lakeview, West Point, and Three Lakes communities. Good rains visited Edith, Grassland, Magnolia, New Lynn, and all the eastern portion of the county, though in some localities in this territory not more than a quarter of an inch fell.

The rain was generally light south of Tahoka, including the South Ward, Midway and Redwine communities. It was also light at O'Donnell and most of the surrounding territory. At Draw is was somewhat heavier, some reporting as much as two and two and a half inches east of Draw.

The rainfall in Tahoka amounted to .70 of an inch.

These rains were generally preceded by a high wind and were accompanied by one of the most awe-inspiring electrical displays Nature ever staged. Blinding flashes of lightning and crashing peals of thunder followed each other in quick succession for a comparatively long time, and some damage has been reported.

W. S. Anglin of the Texas-New Mexico Utilities Company reports that many light bulbs were burned out in the town of Tahoka, one transformer was put out of commission, and other damage to the property of the company was done. A horse belonging to Lloyd Preston was killed by lightning at the Arthur King place a mile south of Tahoka.

Aside from the damage done by hail and lightning, however, the rain brought untold benefits to the farmers and business men of the county. Much of the feed is already practically made, while this rain will carry thousands of other acres to maturity. Some of the feed in the southern and eastern portions of the county, where this rain was light, will need more rain soon.

As for the cotton, Lynn county on the whole never had a more promising crop at this time of year. It is thrifty and growing, and much of it is fruiting well. With favorable conditions from now on, the county should make a bumper crop. On the other hand, unfavorable conditions could develop which would greatly cut down the yield. It is not safe yet to predict the production of the county this year, but most of us are inclined to place it at a high figure nevertheless.

Musical Program Saturday Night

The Tahoka Appliance Company will sponsor a free musical entertainment Saturday night on the streets of Tahoka, featuring several well known KPVO radio artists. The program will be in front of their store on the west side of the square.

Everyone is invited to the program, and a very entertaining evening is promised.

Mrs. Clyde Hartman, who has been at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Brasfield, at Andrews the past several days, has written to Clyde here that Miss Mavis Brasfield has been released from the hospital and is now at home but that the injury to her head is still giving much trouble. The skull was fractured a few weeks ago when she fell from the running-board of a moving car onto the pavement in Odessa.

Falls 'Face to Battle'

WHEN Sen. Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas dropped dead of a heart attack in his apartment across from the United States capitol, the President's plan for securing new appointments to the Supreme court bench, even in its amended form, died with him.

That is the belief of close observers in Washington. For "Joe" Robinson was the President's tower of strength in the legislative branch of the government. He had served the Democratic party well in the senate since 1913, and as the majority leader in the upper house since 1932.

Joe Robinson's job it was to keep a smooth balance between the conservative democrats, largely of the South, and the more radical members of the party from the North and West, so that the objectives of the New Deal could be turned out of the legislative mill.

Robinson never fought harder than he did in his last battle. As he worked hard and long in an attempt to get the "compromise" court plan passed, often raising his voice and exerting himself mightily in senate arguments, it was apparent to his colleagues that he was not well. Sen. Royal S. Copeland, the only physician in the senate, had several times asked him to calm himself lest he hasten his own death.

While the senate was adjourned for Robinson's funeral, administration leaders sought to rally support so the court bill could be passed, even without the late senator's leadership. But the opposition forces were equally determined to take advantage of the psychological aspect of the senate following Robinson's death—the desire to effect a peace, finish the session's business in a hurry and get away from the capitol.

The forces opposed to the bill believed that when the issue came up again they would be successful in recommitting the substitute bill to the judiciary committee, an effective way of killing it. The indication of opposition greater than had been expected in the house of representatives was another factor pointing to the eventual fall of the bill.

Another battle was not long in getting under way: to decide who the new majority leader of the senate should be. Conservative Democrats were anxious to wrest a measure of control from the White House by backing Sen. Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who has been faithful to the President, but is fundamentally conservative. The more radical senators backed Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic national convention keynoter, who had been Robinson's assistant as floor leader. Another prospect was Sen. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, but it was believed his strength would eventually be transferred to Harrison.

Another thing that had Washington guessing as a result of Robinson's death was the vacancy on the Supreme court left by the retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter. Robinson, it was generally believed, was to have received the appointment.

Struggle in the Senate

TWELVE Democratic senators and one Farmer-Laborite were believed to hold the fate of the administration's substitute for the original bill which would increase the number of Supreme court justices to 15. The administration was certain that the bill would receive at least 38 votes, with 48 necessary to a majority since Senator Robinson's death. Forty-three senators were definitely committed against it. Thirteen were still uncommitted as the battle raged on the senate floor and in the cloak-rooms.

The twelve uncommitted Democrats were: Andrews (Fla.), Bone

(Wash.), Brown (N. H.), Caraway (Ark.), Duffy (Wis.), Johnson (Colo.), Lewis (Ill.), Murray (Mont.), Overton (La.), Pepper (Fla.), Russell, Jr. (Ga.) and Wagner (N. Y.). Lundeen (Main.) was the Farmer-Laborite.

The substitute for the original Ashurst bill provides for appointment of one new justice each year to every justice remaining on the court after reaching the age of seventy-five years.

New Sino-Japanese Conflict?

WAR between China and Japan was believed almost inevitable as hopes of settling a new outbreak of hostilities by diplomatic means faded out. The fighting ensued as Japanese gendarmes attempted to take over the policing of Yu-ning and Lukowkiao, two villages in the Peiping area, near Marco Polo bridge. This, the Japanese said, was provided for in the North China truce.

According to the assertions of the Japanese war office, Chinese soldiers fired upon the gendarmes and opened up with trench mortars against the Japanese contingent at the Yu-ning station. This action allegedly compelled the Japanese to make a night assault, costing 20 lives, in order to occupy the towns of Lungwangmiao and Tungshingwan. It was said the Chinese troops had also advanced into these points.

Officials of the Hopen-Chahar council claimed the Japanese moves were in open violation of the truce. They further accused the Japanese of conducting night army maneuvers, using real bullets instead of the blanks ordinarily employed in maneuvers. As Emperor Hirohito and Premier Fumimaro Konoe conferred with military leaders and the cabinet, the Japanese people frantically prepared for the war that loomed.

China's Nanking government gave orders to Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, commander of the North China forces, that his army was not to retreat for any reason, but was to be prepared to make the "supreme sacrifice" to hold its position until Gen. Chiang Kai-shek should arrive with 50,000 fresh troops.

As the fighting continued in the Peiping area, with no hope of an effective compromise on the two nations' demands, war seemed the probable result.

Although an agreement was reported to have been made between local Chinese and Japanese authorities at Tientsin, settling the dispute to the satisfaction of both, the national government at Nanking has continued to insist that no agreement reached locally would be observed.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Taxes

WHEN Representative Hamilton Fish (Rep., N. Y.) sought to demonstrate the unfairness of the tax invasion investigation committee, he demanded that the committee investigate the income of the wife of the President from radio broadcasts, charging that she was not paying a cent of income taxes upon those earnings. She had turned over $39,000 to the American Friends Service committee, a Philadelphia charity, kept $1 per broadcast for herself and paid nothing whatever from her radio earnings to the government.

Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson replied for her, explaining to Chairman Doughton of the congressional committee that the bureau of internal revenue had advised Mrs. Roosevelt she need pay no tax on the receipts from the broadcast. He declared the responsibility "is not that of Mrs. Roosevelt, but that of myself and others who were treasury officials at the time."

Sane Reducing of Weight

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

"IF THE amount of food taken is greater than necessary to provide fuel for the energy that is used or expended, the excess food is really the source of the accumulation of fat in the body; if the amount taken equals the amount required for the energy needs of the body, the weight remains stationary; if the amount is less than required to provide for the energy used, the stored up fat is drawn upon and loss of weight follows."

"Stated in the simplest language, it follows that the diet or food treatment of overweight consists in using less nourishment than is needed to maintain body weight."

The above are simple statements and known to most overweights, but as they come from Prof. Sanford Blum in his book "Practical Dietics in Health and Disease," they carry the weight of one of our greatest authorities on food and diet.

There can be no cast iron rules on reducing weight, that is rules that will fit every case, nevertheless the main idea that food must be reduced is the ideal or motto that should be adopted by every overweight who is in earnest about getting rid of his surplus fat.

Naturally, it is at once realized that a big framed individual doing hard work outdoors is going to need more food than an undersized one who works sitting down indoors.

When to Reduce Diet.

Likewise it is more sensible to reduce the diet of an individual who regularly overeats than that of one who is a small eater, because there is a limit beyond which it is unsafe to further reduce the food intake. It seems simple enough to outline a diet containing a definite number of calories or heat units, which being less than is being eaten at present, should, therefore, reduce the weight in proportion. Unfortunately no one knows just what will happen to certain foodstuffs in every individual because each body handles foodstuffs in its own individual way. It is not then the amount eaten but the amount the body uses that is important.

Principles of Treatment.

Dr. Blum tells us that certain general principles are noteworthy in the treatment of obesity (overweight).

1. Overweight may be combated by reducing the amount of food below the level required to maintain body weight.

2. Certain kinds of food have greater caloric (heat or fuel) value than others. Alcohol, fats, carbohydrates—starch foods such as potatoes, bread, sugar—are "fattening" foods. They have high caloric values and in laying out the diet for overweight the quantities of such foods should be limited or reduced in amount.

3. Some kinds of food have small caloric values. Such foods are green vegetables, fibrous vegetables—celery, cabbage, cauliflower—fruits, lean meats. They may be taken in larger quantities by overweights.

4. Some varieties of food, while not directly apt to put on weight, stimulate the digestive glands and increase the appetite. Such foods include highly seasoned, spiced, and preserved foods. They should be avoided entirely by overweights.

5. Some foods are indigestible and should, therefore, be avoided.

"In conjunction with the diet or food treatment of overweight other measures may be employed; for example purgation (Epsom salts and other purgatives), massage (a method used for athletes and movie stars), increased amount of exercise, and hot, steam, Turkish, electric light, and other kinds of baths. But in general, the best results will be obtained by sticking closely to the food regulations outlined above. People do not become fat from what they do not eat."

Mind Affects Body.

WHEN the old physician looks back at his earlier days in medicine and remembers how the stethoscope to help examine the heart and lungs was about all the "outside" help he could obtain, and now sees how the laboratory physicians can give so much help, he may wonder if medicine is not becoming a "mechanical" science. There is now the X-ray; examination of blood, urine, stomach contents; the electrocardiograph and fluoroscope for heart examinations; the functional tests on gall bladder and kidneys, and other methods of laboratory help.

Yet as he thinks further he realizes that while all these mechanical devices are of great help where real or organic trouble exists, they are not of much help when the patient believes himself to be very sick and yet no organic ailment is present.

The lesson for us all in these days is to try to acquire a philosophy of life, by religion or otherwise, that will help us to attain poise or calmness of mind.

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Curly Hair" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO everybody: Well, sir, here's a yarn about a fine, thick head of hair. Now if that sounds strange, let me remind you that this isn't the first time a head of hair has busted into literature. There's a yarn in the Bible about a head of hair that is now famous all over the world. I mean that crop of wool that gave Samson the strength to fight whole armies over there in Palestine, until Delilah got out the shears and clipped it off.

This head of hair we're going to tell about today isn't quite so famous as Samson's, but it's been through almost as much excitement. It never figured in any of those wars over there in Palestine, but it did strike a blow for the Irish cause in the Black and Tan revolution in 1918.

That head of hair belonged to Thomas O'Donnell, and Tom is today's Distinguished Adventurer and the lad whose tale we are telling. Tom's hair was thick and curly back in 1918 when he was twenty years old and a soldier in the Irish Republican army. "I was proud of it then," he says, "and I seldom had a hair cut, so it was quite long." And Tom lived to see the day when he was not only proud of that hair, but doggone thankful for it as well.

You know that Irish revolution wasn't fought like most wars. Guerilla tactics were the order of the day. The Irish couldn't scrape together enough men to line up their army and fight the English in the open, so they just got together in small bands that could strike and then scatter before the English could catch up with them. The lad you saw working around the farm in the afternoon might be one of the bunch of raiders who fought the "Tans" after darkness had fallen. In fact, that lad might have been Tom O'Donnell himself, or maybe his brother, for both of them did a bit of night prowling whenever word came of a chance to hit at the enemy.

Boys Had Fire in Their Hearts That Night.

And one day in April, 1918, the news was spread about that the English were sending a force to be stationed at Tiebrid, County Tipperary, near the farmhouse where Tom lived with his brother and his dad. The force was to occupy a big mansion on top of a hill and orders came from

Sure enough, it looked like a woman there in bed.

Irish Rebellion headquarters that the mansion must be burned before the English had a chance to get into it.

About sixty of the boys went out that night, and Tom and his brother were among them. They carried gasoline five miles across the fields, and burn that mansion they did. Then they scattered before any large force of English might catch up with them.

The flames of the burning building were visible for miles around. Military detachments started closing in on the place, but the boys knew short cuts through the bogs. Tom and his brother got home safely, floundering through mud in a pouring rain. Tom's brother went straight to bed, hiding his wet clothes under the cot he slept on, but Tom sat up to make himself a pot of tea before retiring. The tea was barely ready when he heard a lorry full of soldiers pull up on the road outside the house.

Soldiers Wanted to Find Out for Themselves.

Quickly Tom put out the light. He left the pot of hot tea on the table and hurried into the room where he and his father slept. He had a gun, and if they caught him with that—well—they'd shoot him, that's all. He jumped into bed besides his dad, clothes and all, and tucked the gun in beside him. Then he told his dad to let the soldiers in.

In another minute the soldiers were in and all over the place. "Has anyone been out of the house tonight?" they demanded. Tom's dad said no one had been out. But those soldiers were taking nobody's word for it. They began to search the place. Then one of the officers noticed the hot tea on the table. "Who has been making tea?" he wanted to know.

Tom's dad said no one had made any tea—everyone had gone to bed early. But there was the tea, and his story certainly sounded fishy. Those soldiers began to search every crack and corner.

Tom Becomes His Father's "Wife."

In Tom's brother's room they found a lot of wet clothes, and that was plenty bad. It meant Tom's brother would go to jail for taking part in the night's doings. But Tom's brother had no gun, and Tom had. If they found that gun, Tom would be shot—and maybe his brother would, too. And it looked as if those soldiers were bent on finding everything in the house that night.

They were coming toward Tom's room now, and under the blankets, shivering in his wet clothes, Tom could hear them. And then Tom had an idea. It was a slim chance, but it might save him. Tom ran his fingers hastily through his hair, brushing it back in a sort of pompadour. Then he buried his face in the pillow and pulled the bedclothes up around his face so that only his long curls showed over the top of the counterpane. And just as he finished, an officer came walking into the room.

"Get up there," he roared. But Tom didn't move. And at that moment, Tom's dad came in. Saw the long hair hanging down over the bedclothes—and got the idea. To the officer he said, "That's my wife, sir, and she's very deaf."

The officer took a closer look. Sure enough, it looked like a woman there in the bed. He didn't know the neighborhood very well, and it's a good thing for Tom he didn't. Any one of the people in the countryside might have told him that Tom's dad lived alone in that house with his two boys. But for all that officer knew, Tom's dad was telling the truth. Well, sir, the British soldiers might have been tough on the men, but they didn't drag women out of bed in their night clothes, and this one didn't insist on Tom's getting up. The soldiers finished their search without finding any more incriminating evidence, and they went off taking Tom's brother with them. He got a sentence of eighteen months in an English prison, but Tom, who faced a far worse fate, got out of it entirely because he had a quick wit—and a thick, curly head of hair.

First Bread From Acorns

The earliest known bread flour was made from acorns. Indeed, Indians on South America's west coast still eat acorn bread. The nuts are so bitter to taste they first must be thoroughly soaked in boiling water. Although white bread made of wheat flour is almost standard food in the United States, that's not true of the rest of the world. Rye bread is eaten almost exclusively in some parts of Europe and bread of millet in other sections. Barley bread, another of the earliest foods, is still made, and tapioca meal is used in some parts of South America. China and India, too, have a native bread. It's made from durra, a grain resembling millet.

Origin of the Basques

There are various theories as to the origin of the people of the Basque country. 1. That they are descended from the tribes known to the Romans as the Iberi. 2. That they are descendants of some of the fairer tribes of northern Africa. 3. That they are remnants of the inhabitants of the lost Atlantic continent. 4. That they are an indigenous race. The name "Basque" is considered to be a form of Vasco, an inhabitant of Vasconia or Gascony; according to one authority some of the Basques derive it from "Bayascogara," meaning "We are enough," a reference to their extreme conservatism and independent spirit.

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Reyburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Armada Dane. Unwittingly she overheard Jed talking to Mark Trent, nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure by the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the radio, had invited her to call and developed a deep affection for her. Mark disclosed that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lola, from whom he is now divorced. He says he does not trust Henri and Clotilde Jacques, Mrs. Dane's servants. He says he is not interested in an offer of Brooke's to share the estate with him. Leaving her department store job, Brooke refuses an offer to "go sleeping" with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her. At a family conference she learns she must live at Lookout House alone, since Lucette, her younger sister who is taking her job, her brother, Sam, a young playwright, and her mother plan to stay in the city. Jed and Mark are astounded when they hear from Mrs. Gregory, a family friend, that she had witnessed a hitherto unknown will with Henri and Clotilde two weeks before Mrs. Dane died. Brooke had arrived just as she was leaving. Jed suggests that Mark open his part of Lookout House, get friendly with Brooke and try to find out about the will. Jed agrees to stay with him. Mark accepts Brooke's invitation for a family Thanksgiving dinner at Lookout. Mrs. Reyburn announces on Thanksgiving eve that she has been invited to England. Sam and Lucette decide to move in with Brooke and Sam plans to produce a new play locally. After the Thanksgiving dinner Brooke tells Mark that little of Mrs. Dane's silver collection is left. Jerry Field and his sister Daphne drop in and announce they will be neighbors for the winter. Sam adds them to the cast of his play. Later Inspector Harrison of the local police visits Mark and is informed about the missing will and silver. As Harrison leaves, Lola arrives. She announces that she and her new husband, Bert Hunt, have started a neighborhood filling station. Mark almost makes a break about the missing will and Brooke is suspicious. Returning home, she sees Lola talking covertly to Henri. "Mr. Micawber," Mrs. Dane's pet parrot is missing.

"Cracky! I forgot! Jerry Field is coming to dinner. Thought we could all go to rehearsal together. Do you mind, Brooke?"

"Of course not, Lucette. Did you tell Henri to set a place for him?"

Lucette nodded before she greeted Jerry Field.

"How are you, stranger?"

"Little girls shouldn't be sarcastic, Lucette." He unfolded a green waxed paper. "For you, Brooke."

"Gardenias! I've never seen more perfect ones. What wax-like petals! What lovely leaves! Thanks billions, Jerry."

Brooke turned to the mirror and pinned on the flowers. She saw Jerry Field watching her as he said:

"I strive to please. Sam, you slave-driver, why did you call a rehearsal again tonight? We've been working every evening this week."

"What does that prove? Call what you've been doing working? I call it playing. We'll run through the three acts tonight, and, m'lud, for the love of Mike, put some punch into your part, even if we are rehearsing with no props."

The dining-room was cheery with firelight and the flames of tall yellow candles, which matched to a tint the acacias in the bay window. The blue of bachelor buttons, the soft pink of carnations, the yellow of Souvenir roses in the golden bowl on the table repeated the colors in the rare Persian rug. The flickering lights threw fantastic patterns on the walls and smudged the butler's face with shadows as he drew out Brooke's chair. She smiled at her brother who sat opposite.

"Cheerio, Samuel. Something tells me that 'Islands Arise' will be the hit of next season. Picture your adoring family in a box at the opening, fairly swooning with pride when the audience yells—"

"Author! Author!"

The telephone interrupted. Henri answered it and returned to the dining-room.

"Probably someone panicky for fear she can't get tickets to the great and only show of the season, Sam," Brooke said on her way to the door.

In the living-room she answered the call:

"Brooke Reyburn speaking."

"This is Mark Trent. I want to show you something. Make an excuse to stay at home from rehearsal, will you?"

"Yes."

"Get Henri and Clotilde out of the house. Can you?"

"It's movie night in the village. They'll go."

"Phone me as soon as they start."

"I will."

"Good-by."

What could Mark Trent have to show her? His voice had been drenched with mystery. Brooke was projecting and rejecting answers to the question as she went back to the dining-room.

She wrinkled puzzled brows as she looked across the table at her brother.

"How many of what, Sam?"

"Has the little old memory gone blotto? Didn't you say the call was about tickets?"

"Don't beat me, Sammy. I thought it was. It was only an insurance agent who has been on my trail. How did the market behave today, Jerry?"

mother as an excuse for staying away from the rehearsal; as property woman she wasn't important yet. She was positively tingling with curiosity. What had Mark Trent to show her? Why had his voice been hushed as if he feared he might be overheard?

"Boy, you wouldn't think old Micawber making his getaway would leave such a hole, would you? It's almost as if someone in the house had died." Sam's voice interrupted her thoughts.

"When we get back from rehearsal we'd better make this find-the-parrot-night. Suppose he's hiding up in a tree on the grounds, Brooke?"

"If he is, Henri will get him. He was white when he told me he had lost the parrot. I'll slip into a coat, go out and whistle for him myself when you've all gone to rehearsal."

"What's the big idea walking out on us, Brooke?" Jerry Field demanded in his most spoiled-boy tone as he held Lucette's coat in the hall.

"I told you, a letter to Mother, and sandwiches to make. Bring the cast back here after rehearsal, Sam, for a bite to eat."

Lucette dashed out with the two men at her heels. As she watched from the porch, Brooke saw Jed Stewart join them from the Other House. Their voices and laughter drifted back. Did Jed know that Mark Trent had phoned? She waited, drawing in long breaths of the cold salty air, until the rear light of the car was but a red spark in the distance.

When she returned to the living-room, Henri was collecting cups and saucers. She watched him in the mirror while she pretended to be absorbed in fastening the two gardenias more securely to the shoulder of her lace frock. He stopped on the threshold, holding the silver tray.

"Anything more this evening, Miss?"

"Nothing, Henri, except that I wish you would impress it upon Clotilde—I can't seem to—that when I order Roquefort cheese dressing for a salad, I mean that, and not mayonnaise. This is the third time she has made the mistake."

"She thinks mayonnaise more suitable. You don't like Clotilde and me much, do you, Miss Reyburn?" His smile was an ugly thing, having under it the suggestion that it would be to her advantage to like them.

"I don't!" was on the tip of Brooke's tongue, but she caught the words back. With the production of the play so near, this was not the time to change servants. After that she would get rid of the couple if it meant doing the work herself. She temporized:

"Because I insist upon having my orders carried out, doesn't mean necessarily that I don't like you, Henri. Can anything more be done about finding the parrot?"

"I'll look round before I go to bed, Miss, but I think in the morning we'll find him huddled in a corner near the house."

"This is movie night in the village, isn't it?"

"Yes, Miss, though if you are to be alone and mind—"

"Of course you are to go, Henri." Brooke had an instant of panic. Suppose he insisted upon staying at home? "I shall be alone long, Mr. Trent and Mr. Stewart will be here with the cast after rehearsal for a little supper."

"Will the supper keep up till late?"

"Probably, but we will take care of the dishes."

"Thank you, Miss."

"Have you put plenty of ginger-ale and seltzer water on the ice?"

"Yes, Miss. The mint is chopped and the fruit juices are ready for the drink just as you told me."

Henri's eyes seemed but sparks in cavernous depths.

"Excuse me, Miss, you'd better like Clotilde and me. We could put you out of this house if we wanted to. Anything more?"

"No, thank you."

"Good night."

"Good-by."

"Good-night."

"Good-night."

"Good-night."

"Good-night."

"Good-night."

"Good-night."

"Good-night."

"Good-night."

"Good-night."

"Good-night."

Brooke was too indignant to answer. What did the man mean by the threat he had inserted so casually between two sentences? What did he know? Had Jed Stewart and Mark Trent confided to him their suspicions as to "undue influence"? Were they grooming him to testify for them? Had they set him spying upon her? Should she repeat his threat and demand to know the truth when Mark Trent came? No. Better cool down. She was too furious now. She would wait until after Sam's play. That must go smoothly; it might be his big chance—after that—well, after that she would investigate a few things, she would find out why Mrs. Hunt and Henri were so friendly, to begin with.

With eyes wandering to the tall clock, ears strained to hear the chug of the servants' flivver on the drive, inhaling the scent of gardenias with every breath, her thoughts returned to Mark Trent's message. Why had he phoned? Perhaps she was dramatizing his voice, perhaps it hadn't been mysterious except in her imagination.

"There they go! I'd know the wheeze of their car if I heard it among a million. I'll wait five minutes before I phone Mark the Magnificent. Must be something in the air. First I have a hot chill and then a cold chill, I'm so excited."

She watched the clock. Dipped. Waited. Probably Kowa had gone to the movies. He—She put her mouth close to the transmitter.

"Mr. Trent?" Brooke Reyburn. They've gone."

"Okay. I'll be there like a shot."

Brooke replaced the telephone. His voice was excited. It had set her nerves tingling. She would be at the front door to open it before he had a chance to ring.

In the hall she listened for his step on the terrace. Why did he take so long? His "like a shot" was more like an hour.

"I'm here," a low voice announced behind her.

In her surprise, Brooke leaned back against the door and looked up at Mark Trent. She never before had realized how tall he was, nor how black his gray eyes could be.

"How did you get in?"

"The connecting door upstairs. Took the quickest way. Look that door. Give me the key. I'll put it in the pocket. Queer things are in the air. We won't take a chance at being locked in or out."

That didn't sound as if Henri were his tool, Brooke thought, as she entered the living-room.

"Where is Mr. Micawber?" Mark Trent demanded, his eyes on the empty cage.

Brooke told him what Henri had told her.

"Um, lost him, did he? The plot thickens."

His voice was uncompromising, his eyes unflinching and direct as, hands in the pockets of his dinner jacket, his brows knitted, he looked at her.

"Ooch, I'd hate to battle with you," Brooke thought. "It would be like trying to dent a steel wall." A loud she said:

"What is the mystery? It is a mystery, isn't it? I've been jittery ever since you phoned."

His smile was a flash of white teeth below his small dark mustache.

"Glad I got my Big Moment over. Can't have Sam monopolizing all the drama in the neighborhood. Sure the Jacques have gone?"

"I heard their car go out. One couldn't mistake its wheeze. I told Henri that we would have supper here for the cast after rehearsal and that he would not be needed."

"Fair enough." He caught her hand. "Step on it!"

Why was Mark Trent afraid to have Henri, his tool—if he were his tool—know what he was doing, Brooke wondered, as, side by side, they hastily mounted the winding stairs. She felt as if she were in a dream, as if at any moment she might waken to find herself snuggled in the wing chair before the fire. But the squeak of a tread was real; Mark the Magnificent's muttered execration at the sound was real; so was his grip of her hand. Why was he so careful about being heard? He appeared friendly with her; was that part of his plan, his and Jed Stewart's?

On the second floor before the door which opened into his house, he stopped.

"Look," he whispered. "I tried this, had a hunch I might get through quickly this way. When it opened, that key was in your side."

He turned the knob. "Better leave it where it is. We don't want anyone to know that we have seen it. Come."

He followed her into the hall of his house and closed the door gently behind him.

He pressed a button which switched on a light in the floor above and ran up the stairs.

She followed slowly. Where was he taking her? It seemed hours since they had left her living-room. Suppose Henri slipped back and found her gone? Would he suspect where she was? Of course he had left the key in that connecting door. Who else would have done it? What business had he in Mark Trent's house? Did he come for instructions?

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for July 25

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 12:1-28. GOLDEN TEXT—"The Lord thy God hath chosen thee to be a special people unto himself.—Deuteronomy 7:8. PRIMARY TOPIC—Ready for the Journey.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ready to Start Home. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How God Prepares a People. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Equipped for a New Era.

"Let my people go"—such was the word of the Lord to Pharaoh through Moses and Aaron. "Who is the Lord, that I should obey his voice to let Israel go? I know not the Lord, neither will I let Israel go"—thus hardened Pharaoh his heart. The issue was so drawn for one of the great struggles of history. On one side was a bold and mighty monarch with all the resources of the empire of Egypt, and on the other an unorganized multitude of slaves. No, wait, on the other side was Almighty God! The outcome was never in doubt and through the unpeakable horror of the plagues we come to consider the last of the ten, the death of the first-born, with which is joined the establishment of the Passover.

The Passover is of sufficient importance to justify careful study simply as the perpetual feast of Jews, but to the Christian it is also a most blessed and instructive type of Christ who is, according to Paul, "our passover" (I Cor. 5:7). Let no one who studies or teaches this lesson fail to point to "the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29).

I. A Lamb Slain (v. 21). The sacrifice appears, a gentle, submissive lamb, a male without blemish, which is separated for the giving of its life that the first-born in Israel might be saved.

No. 1 that God's instructions were explicit, and were to be obeyed if there was to be redemption. There are those in our day who would substitute any and every other method of salvation for God's revealed plan. They talk about character development, the redemption of the social order, peace and politics, and forget the Lamb of God.

II. A Blood Salvation (vv. 22, 23). The act of faith in marking the lintel and the doorposts with the blood, brought salvation to the families of Israel. Had they waited until they could reason out the philosophy of their promised redemption, or had they shrunk from the blood as they have been slain. It was when the destroying angel saw the blood that he passed over them.

Many there are in our time who speak disparagingly of the blood of Jesus Christ, but it is still the only way of redemption. "Without shedding of blood there is no remission."

It is best an age that is so blasé and sophisticated as ours to attempt to cover its dislike for God's way of redemption by suddenly becoming too cultured and sensitive to hear of the blood of the Lamb of God shed on Calvary's tree for our cleansing from sin.

III. A Perpetual Memorial (vv. 24-28). God wants his people to remember. We, like Israel, are to remember the bondage from which we were delivered. Down through the ages the Jews have kept the Passover. Our Hebrew neighbors do it today. Let us honor them for their obedience to God's command and at the same time seek to point them to the One who is the true Passover, Jesus Christ.

IV. Christ Our Passover (I Cor. 5:7). Let us add to the assigned lesson text this New Testament passage which speaks of our Lord Jesus Christ as "our passover . . . sacrificed for us."

The bondage in Egypt was terrible in its afflictions and sorrows, but far more serious is the bondage in which men find themselves under sin and the rule of Satan. Surely there is need of divine redemption, and there is none to bring it to us but the Lamb of God. He was the One who without spot or blemish (I Pet. 1:19) was able to offer himself in our behalf that in him we might find "redemption through his blood" (Eph. 1:7, Col. 1:14).

"Is the blood upon the house of my life? Is the blood upon the doorpost of my dwelling place? Have I put up against the divine judgment some hand of self-protection? Verily, it will be swallowed up in the great visitation. In that time nothing will stand but the blood which God himself has chosen as a token and a memorial. The blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanseth us from all sin" (Joseph Parker).

Labor and Patience Truth is to be costly to you—of labor and patience; and you are never to sell it, but to guard and to give.—Ruskin.

Judging Another's Sorrow One can never be the judge of another's grief. That which is a sorrow to one, to another is joy.

Follow Our Convictions Never swerve in your conduct from your honest convictions.—Horace Bushnell.

For Discriminating People

Now is the time for all smart women to come to the aid of their wardrobes. Sew-Your-Own wants to lend a hand, Milady; hence today's trio of mid-summer pattern makers.

At The Left. A trim little reminder that careful grooming is an asset anywhere, anytime, is this frock. It features simplicity. Its forte is comfort. Make one version in cotton for all purpose wear, another of sports silk for dressy occasions. You'll praise the cool cut of its short sleeves and softly rolled collar. Yes, Milady, you'll enjoy making it.

In The Center. Here you have a light and breezy ensemble that's the perfect attire for Society. It has cosmopolitan dash, refinement, and engaging charm. Once more you'll be the subject of complimentary tea table talk with your delightfully slender silhouette. Make it of sheer chiffon or more durable acetate. You'll have a hit in either.

At The Right. The little lady who likes unusual touches in her frocks will go for this new dress and pantie set. It has the chic of mommy's dresses plus a little-girl daintiness that is more than fetching. Wrap around styling makes it easy for even the tiniest girl to get into and it's quite a time saver on ironing day. A splendid idea is to cut this pattern twice and be assured of little sister's all summer chic.

The Patterns. Pattern 1237 is designed for sizes 34 to 46. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 inch material plus 1/4 yard contrasting for collar. Pattern 1333 is designed for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 7 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. The dress alone requires 4 1/4 yards. To line the jacket requires 2 1/4 yards of 39 inch material. Pattern 1322 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. Size 6 requires 3 1/2 yards of 35 inch material plus 5/8 yards of ribbon for trimming as pictured. Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

THIS is truly an ice cream age, for never was ice cream more easily obtained or better than it is now. Good ice cream can be bought, and it can be made at home—in a freezer or in the freezing tray of an automatic refrigerator. As quick as a wink a package of ice cream powder can be turned into luscious dishes of many-flavored ice cream.

Here is a basic recipe for freezer ice cream—and with the addition of fresh fruits and berries or sauces, the recipe can be varied in many delicious ways.

Freezer Ice Cream. 1 quart milk 1 package ice cream powder (vanilla, strawberry, lemon, maple, or chocolate flavor)

Add milk very gradually to ice cream powder, stirring until dissolved. Pour into freezer can; place in freezer and pack mixture of cracked ice and salt around can (use 8 parts ice to 1 part salt). Turn slowly for 3 minutes, then rapidly and continuously until frozen. Makes 1 1/2 quarts ice cream.

Any of the following may be substituted for milk in this recipe: 1 quart rich milk or light cream, 1 cup cream and 3 cups milk, or 2 cups evaporated milk and 2 cups milk or water.

*With chocolate ice cream powder, add 1/2 cup sugar.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Any erroneous reflection upon the reputation or standing of any individual firm or corporation, that may appear in the columns of The News, will be gladly corrected when called to our attention.

About the strongest argument against a unicameral instead of the bicameral legislature is the possibility that a majority of the members of a small one-house legislative body would be corporation lawyers, unless adequate steps were taken to prevent such a catastrophe.
The Nelson proposal would prohibit any member of the proposed un-cameral legislature from accepting employment or remuneration from public service corporations while serving as a member of the legislature. That ought to be the law, whatever kind of legislative body we have. The trouble with Texas today is that we have a bunch of legislators—particularly state senators—who are holding their positions for the sole purpose of looking out after the welfare of some special interest. Professedly they are serving their constituents but really they are serving some corporation. They should be driven from power. "No man can serve two masters" with opposing interests.

Some official connected with the state game commission suggested the other day that the Blantons who went hunting and never returned down on the King Ranch eight months ago may have starved to death. Yes, or they may have wandered to the coast, waded out into the Gulf and drowned. Or a big bad bull may have bitten them.
It's unthinkable that they could have been shot.

A new "seat of wisdom" has been installed on a certain street corner in Rogers, according to The Rogers News. They made it sixteen feet long and covered it with iron, to take the place of a wooden settee that had been whittled to pieces long ago. "This substantial seat upon which our citizens may sit while solving and settling all perplexing problems both of a public and private character is a real contribution to the comfort and contentment of a very large contingent of our citizenry", observes the News. May it have a long and useful career is our prayer. We are wondering what the heck would become of our country if all these "seats of wisdom" to be found in nearly all of our country towns and all these rickety boxes and chairs stationed around the coal stove in every village grocery store should become as obsolete as that once indispensable adjunct of civilization, the family horse and buggy.

Congress a few weeks ago passed an act continuing for another year the 3 1/2 percent emergency rate on approximately two billion dollars of Federal Bank land loans to farmers. President Roosevelt vetoed the bill. He said it would cost the Government too much money. If this bill does not become a law, the old contract rate of 4 and 5 and 5 1/2 percent will apply. So the Lower House of Congress again passed the bill over the President's veto, by a vote of 260 to 98. So it seems the House as well as the Senate is refusing longer to take orders from the White House. It may be that the Senate too will pass it over the President's objections. If so, it will save the farmers many million dollars.

The ill repute in which the legal profession is held is due to the crookedness of a comparatively small minority of the fraternity. If the shrewd conscienceless crooks could be eliminated from the profession, there would soon be a marked change in the esteem with which the profession is generally regarded. It has been often said that the profession itself should clean house. But that is hard to do, for the crookedest criminal wants the shrewdest and crookedest lawyer he can find to represent him.
As long as there are all sorts of people there will be all sorts of lawyers.

The glory of this country does not lie in its legislative bodies so much as in its courts. A far greater percent of the judges of our courts are men of the highest honor and integrity than are the members of our legislative bodies. In moral character and integrity, they are far superior, too, to our constabulary, which includes all our peace officers from the chief of our state rangers to the policemen on the beat. It is highly important that we keep our courts free and independent.

If you appreciate beauty, you will certainly appreciate that beautiful court house lawn. What a change has been wrought in its appearance
the past few months!

Up in Colorado it is claimed that a species of striped fly is killing the grasshoppers. If they prove unequal to the task, we suggest that those Coloradans import a few South Texas mosquitoes. We'll place our money on those babies any time in a contest with any pest that the plains of Colorado or Kansas can trot out.

A Wall Street brokerage firm will send out an auto trailer this week, a news item states, in search of $100,000,000 of "buried treasure" it believes to be hidden in trunks and closets throughout the country.
They can search us. We'll swear that we don't know anything about it.

The great trouble with this country is not that we have judges of our highest courts who were formerly employed as attorneys by the great corporations but it is that we have too many members of our legislative bodies who are now employed as attorney by the great corporations.

The city council has been doing some fine work on the streets re-ing the work. There is no better way to spend a few hundred dollars of the City's money.

DREAM AIRPORT—RAISED FROM BOTTOM OF SEA

First official sketch of new San Francisco's new "downtown" metropolitan airport will appear after the close of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition. Treasure Island, shown here, is in the geographical center of the San Francisco Bay metropolitan area. It will be the site of the World's Fair in 1939 and after the close of the Exposition, will become one of the country's major airports. In the background may be seen Alcatraz Island, American "Devil's Isle"; the Golden Gate Bridge, and at left, a glimpse of the San Francisco skyline. Sketched by Artist Ken Sawyer.

World's Fair 'With Future' Leads to Big Air Terminal

SAN FRANCISCO.—The only World's Fair with a future! This is the description coined by San Francisco Bay Region civic leaders for the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, as the Chamber of Commerce here launched a nationwide drive to inform the world of the "air terminal of the West" which will remain as a monument to the 1939 World's Fair.

With Treasure Island, San Francisco Bay site of the World's Fair, due to be completed this month, boosters for the new island airport united in telling the story of the modern flying field which will succeed the Exposition on its 400-acre man-made site. When opened at the close of the 1939 Exposition, the new airport in its picturesque bay location will be at approximately the geographical center of the San Francisco metropolitan area. Cost of the airport proper will be in excess of $7,000,000, borne entirely by the federal government and the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition. Thus, through the 1939 World's Fair, San Francisco will obtain a second major airport without one cent of cost to the city. Hence, the description—"The Only World's Fair with a Future."

POULTRY DEMONSTRATOR REPORTS ON WORK

"One of the most interesting parts of my poultry work this year has been the different ways of preparing poultry products," said Mary Louise McDonald, poultry demonstrator in the Midway 4-H Club, as she told about her poultry work. "I have prepared eggs for breakfast ways other than just frying them. I have served poached eggs, creamed eggs, eggs and cheese on toast, and scrambled eggs in butter. Eggs for lunches may be made into sandwiches, stuffed eggs, salads, cookies, individual custards, and many other ways," Mary Louise added.

USES SIMPLE PATTERN ON HER FIRST DRESS

"I selected a cotton print with light weight pique for trimming to make my dress in club work," said Margie Shepherd, clothing demonstrator in the Grassland 4-H Club, in the story of her club work. "Because it was my first dress to make, I used a simple pattern. It was cut princess style with short sleeves. The trimming consisted of buttons down the front and a white collar. The cost of my dress was 58 cents," said Margie.

44 GIRLS ATTENDED 4-H ENCAMPMENT

Forty-four 4-H Club girls with sponsors and several visitors attended the encampment in Lubbock at MacKenzie Park Monday and Tuesday of this week. Seven of the eight clubs were represented.

After a picnic lunch on Monday the afternoon was spent in recreation, including a swim just before supper. An interesting program was given at night.

The rain Monday night hindered plans for Tuesday.

Miss Jewell Redwine returned Sunday night from Las Vegas, New Mexico, where she attended a six weeks summer term of the New Mexico Normal University. She will teach next session in Valencia county, that state, beginning about the last week in August.

Mrs. Sue Robertson left Wednesday on a business trip to Dallas and also to visit the Pan-American Exposition.

Still Deep in the Red

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

For more than six months Congress has sat in virtually continuous session.

What work has it completed?

With one exception, little that the average citizen can recall. And that exception is by no means novel. It is merely a continuance of the free-handed spending of the people's money, which for the seventh consecutive year has kept our national finances deep, deep in the red.

At the close of the fiscal year, on June 30, for example, the national deficit—which means the excess of expenditure over income—was approximately $2,800,000,000.

And the public debt—which means postponed taxes—exceeded $36,000,000,000.

There have, of course, been promises at Washington of efforts to eliminate extravagance, and with it such staggering cost-sheets.

But, somehow, the evidence of financial restraint has been lacking. Appropriation bills have remained lavish, "nuisance taxes" have been extended, "must" legislation for economy has been absent.

All this public spending—as every house-wife knows—brings inevitably in its train higher costs of living. Rising food prices constitute today an emphatic reminder of that fact.

On Congress rests the responsibility for spending the people's money. But that responsibility should not be one-sided.

Congress should accept the responsibility for saving some of the people's money for them as well.

And on the evidence of such responsibility members of Congress may expect to be judged when next they appeal to their employers—the men and women who foot the bills—for a vote of confidence at the polls.

Illinois Fence for New York Fair

NEW YORK (Special).—Illinois-made fencing is being shipped to the New York World Fair for enclosure of the 389.8 acres comprising the central exhibit area. This was learned when Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation, announced the award of a first fencing contract to the Cyclone Fence Company, whose New York offices are at 370 Lexington Avenue.

Officials of the manufacturing firm announced that its Waukegan plant was shipping the fencing and that installation would start as soon as the first steel reached the 121 1/2-acre exposition site on Flushing Meadow.

The contract price of the nine-foot steel fence installed, complete with gates and concrete footings at ten-foot centres, as derived from figures submitted by pre-qualified bidders, is $32,812. About three miles of fence are required to enclose the central exhibit area along three sides and down to the Flushing river.

Immediate enclosure of the tract was made necessary, Mr. Whalen said, by the great and varied construction work that is already taking place on the site two years in advance of the Fair's opening date. The Illinois-made fence will inclose all of the Transportation Zone of the exposition and the area that will be dominated by the two Theme Centre wonders, the Perisphere and Trylon.

Don't put up with useless PAIN

Get rid of it

When functional pains of menstruation are severe, take CARDUL. If it doesn't benefit you, consult a physician. Don't neglect such pains. They depress the tone of the nerves, cause sleeplessness, loss of appetite, wear out your resistance. Get a bottle of Cardul and see whether it will help you, as thousands of women have said it helped them.

Besides easing certain pains, Cardul aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.

Rotary Planning Big Celebration

Wade Howell, Boy Scout who attended the big Jamboree in Washington recently, was a special guest of the Rotary Club Thursday and told in an interesting way of his visit in the capital city.

His recital of the events of the trip is partially covered in another place in this paper, but he recounted many other interesting facts which we can not mention now.

J. B. McPherson reported for the Fair committee that the proposal to have a county fair this fall had been abandoned but suggested another kind of entertainment to be given early in October, which seemed to meet with general approval. President Wynne Collier asked that the committee work out its plans and report later.

W. T. Bovell, L. C. Haney and H. B. McCord compose a committee in charge of a donkey baseball game to be played here August 26.

Don Jones of the Lubbock Experiment Station was called upon for a few remarks. In his brief response he stated that the people of Lynn county the past winter and spring had procured 9,000 trees from the station with which to plant out windbreaks, mostly Chinese Elms. He was down making an inspection, and in so far as he had gone had found that fully 70 per cent of the trees were living. Lynn county had been furnished more trees than any other county except one. Privately Mr. Jones stated that he hoped the farmers of the county would continue to plant out trees upon their premises.

Other visitors at the club were Jim Becker, J. N. Fleming, and U. A. Randolph of Lubbock, C. A. Hollingsworth of Lamesa, John Curry and Chester Hufstetter, new citizens of Tahoka. Mr. Hufstetter is the recently elected teacher of vocational agriculture in the high school.

Little Miss Janie Lee McAtee of Henryetta, Oklahoma is here visiting her grandmother, Mrs. J. H. Cobb, and other relatives. Her mother, Mrs. J. R. McAtee, who was so seriously sick, is reported to be much improved.

Tahoka Playing In Lubbock Tourney

The Tahoka baseball team went to Lubbock Thursday afternoon to play its second tournament game, their antagonists being the Lubbock Hubbers. The game was to be called at 2 o'clock and the News had received no report as to the outcome at the time of going to press.

Tahoka played Brownfield last Sunday, to open the tournament, defeating that team handily and upsetting the dope bucket.

The Wolforth Wolves and the Newmoore team were also to cross bats Thursday afternoon, the game to begin at 4 o'clock.

Dr. L. E. Turrentine and family, accompanied by Miss Doris Jean Cade, are on a pleasure trip out in New Mexico this week.

Mrs. Arthur Dahl of Asherton in the Winter Garden District on the Rio Grande arrived Thursday morning to spend several weeks visiting her mother, Mrs. Creed Clements, and other relatives in the Dixie community.

Jack Cox Jr. has just returned from Henrietta, where he spent several weeks visiting his grandfather, Pete Wetsel.

Miss Dorothy Wilborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wilborn of Magnolia, underwent a major operation in a Lubbock sanitarium on Wednesday of last week. She is reported to be recovering nicely. She was attending a business college in Lubbock when she became ill.

Miss Mary Ellen Pesterfield left the first of the week in company with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Leslie of Amarillo and Kenneth Leslie of Lubbock on a pleasure trip out through New Mexico. She expected to return about the end of the week.

Miss Carrie Lutrick of Plainview spent last week end here with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vail. They also visited in the home of Rev. Ben Hardy. Brother Hardy having been one of Miss Lutrick's teachers many years ago.

Jim Wetsel made a trip into Central Texas last week, going as far as Temple and passing through twenty counties on the round trip, and he says that he saw excellent crops everywhere on the route.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stone of Hale Center were here Wednesday night and Thursday visiting her mother, Mrs. J. M. Spears. Mr. Stone is an employee on the Frank Norfleet Ranch.

BAPTIST W. M. S. HOLDS TWO MEETINGS

The Royal Service program of the Baptist W. M. S., directed by Mrs. Wiley Fortenberry, covered the subject of our missionary work among the negroes.

During the social hour, the Sallee Circle served refreshments to the following: Mesdames Fortenberry, Stroud, Walker, Rogers, Nowlin, Howell, Dye, Wanda Dyer, Mary Preston, King, Snowden, McKinzie, Pennington, McIntyre, P. W. Goad, Mother Goad, Robertson and Hill.

This meeting was held in the church, as was the regular business meeting on the third Monday, which was presided over by Mrs. J. B. Walker.

After the devotional, brought by Mrs. H. F. St. Clair, reports were heard from committee chairmen: Mrs. H. M. Snowden, recording secretary; Mrs. A. O. King, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Geo. A. Dale, benevolence; Mrs. Hill, education; young people's leader; Mrs. Dale, Mrs. St. Clair, personal service; Mrs. Pennington, stewardship.

Mrs. Dale gave an interesting report of the Girls' Encampment at Ceta Canyon, which was attended by Mrs. Dale, four Y. W. A. and seven G. A. members and by two other women of the church.

"The Encampment is well worth all we put into it," said Mrs. Dale. "And how we did wish that every Y. W. A. and G. A. member of our church could have been present. If each mother could only go once and realize how much the Encampment means in a spiritual way, she would want all girls of Y. W. A. and G. A. age to attend every year," she concluded, after stressing the consecration of the leaders and the interest of the girls.

Mrs. Hill, on behalf of the hospitality committee, expressed thanks to those who entertained the visiting minister and singer during the revival, with special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. S. N. McDaniel and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Howell, who kept the men in their homes.

Mrs. Pennington led in making plans for a stewardship lesson to be taught next Monday morning.

Mrs. St. Clair reported a visit to a Christian negro woman, who is ill.

Mesdames King, St. Clair, Wells, Burleson, Nevill, Snowden, Dale, Pennington, Fortenberry, Howell, Walker, and Hill were present. The next business meeting will be held on the fourth Monday in August.

All W. M. S. and Y. W. A. members and sponsors of each girls' organization are urged to attend the annual Mission Study Institute at Brownfield on August 19.

METHODIST CHURCH READY FOR MEETING

Our revival starts Sunday and runs two weeks. Rev. B. L. Nance, a visitation evangelist, will be with us.

The first week there will be preaching at night only. Rev. J. E. Stephens, Rev. R. T. Breedlove, and Rev. H. C. Smith will be with us on different nights to preach.

The second week Rev. D. B. Doak will preach mornings and nights. We urge your attendance and cooperation.

We cordially invite members of other churches and pastors. If you sing, come and help us.

Yours for a revival that will be a blessing to the town.—Reporter

SERVICES AT BAPTIST CHURCH ARE FINE

There was a slightly increased attendance at Sunday school and an excellent congregation in the church services at the Baptist Church last Sunday.

During the day there were eight additions to the church, six by letter and two as applicants for baptism. Baptismal services were held Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Cade and children left Sunday for Detroit. They expect to bring back a new car.

PANHANDLERS DE LUXE

Judging from the expression on the faces of Zoe Dell Lantis, pretty plate girl of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, and Sam Johnston, president of the Angels Camp Calif., Boosters' Club, who is seen here as a miner, there's plenty of pay dirt in the pan. Miss Lantis uncorks the smile while Johnston reveals plans for a "Forty-niner Mining Camp" at the Exposition.

EUZELIAN CLASS HAS PARTY ON LAWN

The beautiful lawn of the First Baptist Church was the setting for an outdoor party when the Euzelian Class members entertained their husbands with a watermelon feast last Thursday evening.

Games were played under the direction of Mesdames R. C. Forrester and E. I. Hill, while Mesdames J. E. Dye and Geo. A. Dale were in charge of refreshments.

Invited guests included several new families who have come among us. The following attended: Rev. and Mrs. Geo. A. Dale, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cooper, Mrs. H. B. Howell, Mrs. R. C. Forrester, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dye, Mr. H. P. Caveness, Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reddell, Mr. and Mrs. Homer St. Clair, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Snowden, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Reese.

Mrs. Otho Tidwell of El Segundo, California, is here for a month's visit with her mother, Mrs. W. C. Carver.

Postmaster W. E. Smith has been sick since Monday and not able to fill his place at the post office.

New Oil Town In Yoakum County

An auction of town lots is to be made today at Bennett, a new oil town being promoted by L. P. Bennett, in the southeast portion of Yoakum county.

An oil well was recently brought in near that place and other wells are being drilled.

Miss Helena Hodge of Burlington, N. C., who is a guest in the home of C. B. Gregg in the Garlyn community, visited the News office Thursday and exhibited some very aged letters, the oldest being dated 1848. Another was written in 1854. They are in an excellent state of preservation. She thought it might be worth while for some museum to preserve them.

Roy Finch, Miss Lillian Finch, and Alvin Shelton of this county were among the number who attended the big Tippit-Moore family reunion in the Mother Neff Park near Gatesville last Sunday.

Carriers Leave For Annual Meeting

G. M. Reid and H. L. Roddy of Tahoka and W. E. Suddarth of O'Donnell left Wednesday to attend the state convention of the Texas Rural Letter Carriers' Association in session in Wichita Falls the last half of this week.

Mrs. Roddy and the children are visiting relatives in Hamilton county while her husband attends the convention.

Mr. Suddarth was formerly editor of The Texas Carrier, official organ of the Texas R. L. C. A., which is still printed in the News office, and he is one of the leaders in the Association.

The Texas Carrier for July, the convention edition, contained eighteen pages of news and advertising. The paper is printed on book paper and has a circulation of 2,500.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dale and son Sunne Lee of Wichita Falls were here Sunday as guests of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. George A. Dale.

Will Montgomery Not Improving

The reports which have been coming from the bedside of Will Montgomery in the Mercy Hospital in Slaton the past three days have been none too encouraging.

Early in the week his condition began to grow more precarious. Tuesday another blood transfusion was given him, this being the third one. C. G. Welcher furnished the blood. Wednesday the patient had a rather bad day, but was seemingly better Thursday. Many friends are hoping for a turn for the better.

BILLMAN BETTER

F. M. Billman, who was injured three weeks ago in an accident at the ice plant, is still confined to his room in a hospital in Lubbock. Physicians report, however, that there is no evidence of a recurrence of stomach trouble with which he was afflicted and they believe that he will be able to leave the hospital soon.

O'Donnell Receives Shower; Revival Is In Progress

O'Donnell, July 21.—A light rain fell here Tuesday morning. It will be of benefit to growing crops. We have the best crop prospects ever known in these parts, it is said.

O'Donnell is doing considerable building and remodeling.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Moore will soon occupy a very modern brick residence which they are constructing near the business section of town.

The Palmer house has undergone extensive additions and complete renovation. New furnishings, which are modern and artistic, have been installed throughout.

A protracted series of services began July 9th, to continue through July 24th. The night services are being conducted at the Methodist Church, the day services at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

Rev. E. J. Davis, pastor at Deweyville, Texas, and son of our local townsman, Mr. C. L. Davis, is delivering able messages at these services. Mr. W. H. Cheatham, local Cumberland pastor, is in charge of the music. Mrs. A. W. Gibbs is pianist. Rev. M. R. Pike, local Methodist pastor, is devoting all his time to the meeting, working in every capacity possible for the success of this worthy cause.

The South Side Baptist Church is conducting its annual mid-summer revival meeting.

Mrs. F. W. Goad and daughter, Miss Ethel left Thursday for a month's visit with Mrs. Goad's mother at Denison.

New Lynn

The Methodist meeting closed Sunday night with three additions to the church. Had some good preaching but it seems not to move the members out of their cool seats.

Well, we had a happy "accident" here Saturday. H. D. Nelson, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson of this community, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Meeks got married. W. P. Bussell pronounced them husband and wife.

The gin boys are working on the gin here, getting it ready to go.

Mr. Gary and family and W. P. Bussell and wife went to O'Donnell Sunday.

Just one week from Wednesday night the Baptist meeting starts here. Brother M. E. Robertson will do the preaching.

The people have got pretty well up with their cotton chopping in this neighborhood.

The people are going to give Mr. Claborn a day's work Thursday. He has had lots of misfortunes. His daughter was in the hospital twice. Then he had to take his wife up there for an operation. She is slowly improving. Hope she will soon be up again.

Well, I guess I'd better ring off for this time. You folks take The Lynn County News if you want to keep posted.—Tobe.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cain left Saturday night for a few days visit with his parents at Canyon, after which they expected to spend a few days more enjoying camp life in the Palo Duro Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Tobe Kennedy are the parents of a little daughter, born July 12. The little lady has been named Mary Lee. This is their second child, the older one also being a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Faulkner of Earth, Lamb county, came down one day last week to see the new granddaughter, little Miss Mary Lee Kennedy.

Mrs. Harold Edwards and children of Berger are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Poer, and other relatives.

MRS. ROOSEVELT LIKES FAIR "SAMPLE"

NEW YORK (Special).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, like more than 200,000 others persons from all over the world, has already sampled the New York World's Fair of 1939 by visiting the exhibit the Fair Corporation maintains for the public on the Fifth Avenue floor of the Empire State building.

"I am much interested in this Fair," said Mrs. Roosevelt, after she had seen the ingeniously illuminated models and animated displays that promise so many wonders for the Nation's Fair. "It seems to me that there is opportunity here to do a remarkable piece of work from the educational standpoint. The conception of the whole Fair as outlined to me sounds very provocative of thought." The theme of the Fair is "Building the World of Tomorrow."

ELDER DRENNON'S TRAVELOGUE

(Written last week)

We filled the pulpit at O'Donnell last Lord's Day with pleasure and profit.

Left Tahoka for San Antonio at 6:15 a. m. Monday, arriving there at 6:15 p. m. How fast we do travel! No car trouble, as we have a V-8.

Most of the scenery was cluttered up with beer signs. It seems that some people drink more beer than water, but I stuck to water, believe it or not.

Visited the zoo and saw some monkeys that resembled some folks I know. One old fellow looked like he might have been an editor in the long ago. Another I addressed as Happy Smith. He winked and seemed pleased. Another which looked more intelligent than the others must have been a preacher, as he was continually taking up a collection of peanuts.

San Antonio has many places of interest, such as the Alamo, the Missions, many fine parks and museums, and best of all, they are free.

How different it was in Dallas! They are after the money strictly this year, it seems, but I passed them up when I learned that it would cost me ten bucks to spend the night there.

The crops looked fine on most of the route; dry in just a few small spots.

I arrived in Denison Thursday, July 15. Visited my old home where I lived for 40 years. How many sad and pleasant memories came to my mind as I visited the old home, my first school, and the old swimming hole! What a blessing it is for a child to have a home to look back to! Miss my many friends there but am meeting many of my boyhood friends here. What a blessing friends are!

Will begin a meeting near Denison Sunday. Have a few mosquitoes to fight and the chiggers are looking for me. More next week from one who misses the good breeze of the plains.—R. P. Drennon.

(Ed. Note: Happy Smith has the floor.)

SINGING AT NEW LYNN SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be a big singing in the school auditorium at New Lynn next Sunday, beginning at about 2:30 p. m., according to Prof. H. M. McEachern.

He says that a number of good singers from Lubbock county will be there and a fine program of music is assured. A great crowd is expected to be there.

Hop Halsey and Jim Lindsey of Lubbock were visitors in the editor's home Sunday. Hop is a nephew of Mrs. Hill and was a candidate for the legislature last summer. Falling of election he entered the University law school last fall, recently returning to his home in Lubbock. Jim Lindsey is a Tech student and has been editor of the Tech paper, the Torreador.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Robertson and two daughters, Misses Beryl and Edith, left early Monday morning on an extended trip through south and east Texas. They expected to visit San Antonio, Houston, Galveston, Mt. Pleasant, and Dallas. At Dallas they will visit the Pan-American Exposition.

Mrs. C. A. Harp, mother of Dr. Robt. P. Harp, late of this city, died of heart trouble in the Lubbock Sanitarium Sunday. She was a resident of Abernathy. Burial was in Abernathy Tuesday morning. Dr. Harp is now a resident of Celina, Collin county.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Eakin have moved into the Assiter apartment in the Mrs. Gladys Stokes home for the summer, while Mr. and Mrs. Assiter are taking their vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Howell and son, Paul Howell, left Tuesday afternoon for Proctor, in Comanche county, to be at the bedside of his brother, I. M. Howell, 82, who is seriously ill and not expected to recover.

The Curse of Progress

Auntie, Septie? "Never, never, never," said the teacher. "kiss animals. Can anybody tell me the dangers of such a practice?"

Susie's hand shot up. "I can, teacher," she cried. "My Auntie used to kiss her pet Peki!"

Teacher smiled encouragingly. "Well—?"

"The Peki died!"

Easy Way "Stop!" thundered the man in the barber's chair who was having his hair trimmed. "Why do you insist upon 'telling me those horrible, blood-curdling stories?"

"I'm sorry, sir," said the barber. "but when I tell stories like that, the hair stands up on end and makes it much easier to cut, sir."

Exactly Cook (to assistant on entering galley and seeing stew had boiled over) —I told you to notice when the stew boiled over.

Assistant—I did, sir, it boiled over at exactly 10:31.—U. S. N. A. Log.

TUB SINGING

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

Um, yum! Looky here! A whole quart of nice, cold milk, and all for yours truly. This is what I call something really okay.

I've never poured my own milk before, but it hadn't ought to be much of a trick.

A good eye, a steady hand and a will to win are all that's necessary.

It's a cinch. Never a slip. Couldn't miss if I tried. I'd have poured my own months ago if I had realized what a soft job it is.

Well, no use being stingy, with a whole quart set out for me. Might as well give it the works.

Now here's the thing that takes real skill. For I've heard Grandma say there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington. — Republicans in the house and senate are receiving an astonishing number of letters from lifelong G. O. P. voters insisting that practical expediency dictates the breaking up of the Republican party as a national institution.

The writers almost without exception take the ground that the important thing, both from their own selfish interests—which they generally construe as the good of the country—and the carrying out of the old Republican economic ideals, is not only to prevent the re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1940 but to prevent the election of any one chosen by Roosevelt who will carry on the New Deal policies.

The only thing that holds the Democratic party together at the moment, many of these writers insist, is the presence on the field of battle of their enemy, the Republican party. Some of them make the point that the old truism that there are more Republicans in the United States than Democrats—that this is a Republican country—is no longer accurate. A new generation has come of voting age, which has no party ties rooted in the old tradition, they insist, and apparently a very large majority of the younger folks have very definitely affiliated with the Democratic party.

Even the often made statement by Republican Chairman John D. M. Hamilton about the tremendous number of Republicans who voted in the last election, nearly seventeen million, is the bunk, many of these writers go out of their way to assert. They point to the fact that a tremendous number of these "Republican" votes were actually cast by Democrats who have no love whatever for the Republican party, its traditions or leaders. They instance Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, Bainbridge Colby, former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, and though he never made a public statement that he was going to vote for Alfred M. Landon, many writers also mention Newton D. Baker.

Would Scrap G. O. P.

There is no way of telling how many Democrats, unhappy about the New Deal tendencies of their party, voted for Landon. But every one of the folks writing in recently and asking that the Republican party be scrapped in order to open a clear road for an effective conservative opposition to the New Deal seems to think a great many.

Yet the opposition to being classed as a Republican, or to giving aid and comfort to a revival of the G. O. P., the writers point out, deterred literally millions of Democrats from jumping party lines. Many of the letters mention such well-known Democratic leaders as Senators Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, and Walter F. George of Georgia as among the Democrats who supported Roosevelt, more tepidly and some strongly, merely because he was the Democratic nominee, running against a Republican.

Without the national Republican party opposition to hold it together, many of these letter writers believe, the Democratic party would almost immediately split into two parties, giving the country the conservative and progressive division on economic lines to which it is entitled, and getting rid of bygone issues, labels and prejudices which should no longer be permitted to bedevil our presidential campaigns.

Holding Corporations

Not many votes are involved, so there is no telling what congress will do about it, but there are a great many individuals on Capitol Hill who think the personal holding corporation, in many instances, is perfectly moral and justified.

The best demonstration is one that did not happen. But let us take the case of the author of "Gone With the Wind." That book came out just over a year ago. It is generally estimated to have earned one million dollars for Margaret Mitchell. All of that million was earned in two calendar years, most of it in the first. And the government will take approximately half of that!

Now no one would object to the government taking fifty per cent of an income of half a million dollars a year—if the income came every year—if it was interest on invested capital or earnings from a going concern.

But here is a case where an author, certainly from a comparative standpoint, eked out an existence during the ten or fifteen years in which this major opus was under construction. Furthermore, while this statement may be confounded later, most authors think it is extremely unlikely that the writer of "Gone With the Wind" will produce another highly profitable work. As a matter of fact, there is no indication to date that she will attempt it.

Now to apply the corporation idea. If Margaret Mitchell had incorporated, the government would have taken fifteen per cent of that one million dollars—the normal levy on corporation earnings. The rest could have remained in the surplus, save what part she drew out for spending. On that part drawn out in dividends she would have to pay income taxes, of course, but she would escape the enormous surtaxes that an income of half a million dollars rates. She could distribute the taxes over the rest of her natural life, and the government would be lucky to get $200,000 instead of the $500,000 it gets with Margaret Mitchell unincorporated.

How It Works

The point here is that there are a great many people who have brief periods of very high earning power, sometimes coming toward the end of a lifetime, and sometimes very early. It is just possible, for example, that Shirley Temple will never earn a dollar after she is ten years old. Or nine for that matter.

Often a comedian or more serious actor will struggle in comparative poverty for twenty years, as did the late Frank Bacon, and then have a wonderful three or four years. Sometimes it is only one year.

There are other forms of occupation where the same thing works out, with plenty of ups and downs, mostly downs. But the only way to prevent the government taking half or more of the profits in good years, although not helping out in bad years, is to incorporate.

To hear the testimony of the government experts before the house committee, and to read the newspaper articles about their testimony, the casual reader might assume that the person thus incorporating actually dodged all taxes in that particular direction. Let's look at what the government actually does to corporations!

In the first place, it takes fifteen per cent of all net earnings. That is a fair sized tax in itself, more than one dollar out of eight. In the second place, the corporation pays two additional taxes to the federal government, on its capital stock and on excess profits. In the third place, when the corporation pays out dividends, they become the income of the person receiving them, and are subject to all income taxes, even including the normal tax, from which previous to the last March returns they were exempt.

May Be Long Session

Only a surprise move by President Roosevelt, which may come but is not expected, can prevent the present session of congress running into October.

Actually congress can adjourn within two weeks of any Tuesday on which the President lets the leaders know that he is willing for certain legislation to go over until next session. This legislation includes of course the Supreme court enlargement measure.

The legislation which would have to be put over until next session also includes much of the government reorganization proposal made by the President. Mr. Roosevelt can get part of this without any delay whatever, notably the half dozen additional secretaries he wants. But certain phases of it would be fought to the death by senators and representatives, some of whom are in entire sympathy with the President on most of his proposals.

But if Mr. Roosevelt should take the advice given him by Vice President John N. Garner before that astute gentleman left for Texas, it would amaze every one how quickly congress could clean up its odds and ends, clear its calendars of everything to which there is no real opposition, and scatter.

It has been apparent to every one with the slightest interest in looking beneath the surface that congress has been stalling for months.

Time Not Wasted

But meanwhile the time is not being entirely wasted. There are reactions from the constituents of the congressmen. They gradually find out enough about home sentiment to determine whether they dare support or oppose certain measures. They can appraise the value of trades they contemplate making.

This year, however, this watchful waiting process has come pretty near to breaking all records, largely because of the two major pieces of legislation. One of them, the Supreme court proposal, is a major issue. The other, government reorganization, involves personal politics.

And while they have hung back on this, with the senate adjourning for British week-ends, and meeting only a few hours—sometimes minutes—when it does actually convene, the labor issue has become more important than anything actually on the agenda.

In holding congress in session to break the filibuster that is certain if the President pushes his Supreme court plan, Mr. Roosevelt is acting against the advice of most of his friends and party colleagues.

Fashion Is in Mood for All-White

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AFTER all when it comes to looking your sweetest and prettiest is there anything in the way of a lovely party frock more flattering to endearing feminine charms than all-white? Really now, is there?

Evidently fashion feels the same way about it for with all the exciting, the glamorous, the esthetic, the hectic, the eye-appealing delectable tones and tints on the color card this season, comes all-white on the scene and the contest is on, written all over the style program and in big headlines—white versus color!

The chic and the charm and the immaculate nicety with which the all white costume dresses you up during the daytime hours is exceeded only by the magic and the irresistible loveliness of the dine-and-dance and the formal party frocks that designers are creating of frothy white silk sheers this summer such as mousseline de soies, silk organdies, finest dainty silk nets and soft "drapy" filmy chiffons that sway and flutter and dance to the strains of rapturous music.

Then there are the stiff silks that are such favorites and which require such queenly styling to do them justice. Their vogue in all white is outstanding with particular emphasis on gleaming white satin which this summer is more than ever holding sway in ballroom and at formal night functions. A most fascinating white silk satin gown is shown centered in the illustration. Its stately princess lines are delightfully in keeping with the exquisiteness of the fabric itself. The Jenny Lind shoulder line adds indescribable charm and the square-inclined neckline and the majestic sweep of the skirt so expertly styled so as to slenderize at the same time that it achieves a full hemline, are all details that glorify. The sophisticated simplicity of this gown and the elegance of the all-silk satin is its big appeal.

An interesting feature about present party dresses is that their silhouettes go to such extremes. Some are sheathlike to the knees with flaring hemlines and slenderized fitted waistlines, while others are that bouffant it requires yards and yards of material to make them. For the airy-fairy types that are so entrancing and so beloved this season by the younger set, vaporous filmy chiffons and billowy tulle and nets are the logical answer.

Beautifully draped in classic lines is the dress pictured to the left. It required yards and yards of white silk chiffon for its fashioning. The girdled straps of narrow ribbon reflect Greek influence.

To the right a most exquisite silk chiffon evening ensemble is shown. The girlish simplicity of this dainty gown and cape commends this costume to the young debutante. This lovely creation naively informs you that not all the honors are going to all-white for in this instance the chiffon is in the new exquisite desert dawn tint, which is a delicate pink shade that is too lovely for words. The gown has a halter neck which is most becoming to the wearer. The cape is grace itself. By the way, you really should have a cape of chiffon or of net or of some type of silk sheer to wear with lingerie dresses, for the transparent cape is one of fashion's pet vanities this summer.

RIBBONS TAKE ON ADDED IMPORTANCE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Ribbons have not been so important for a long time as they now are. They are used for sashes, for girdles, shoulder straps that are part of the design of the dress, for bandings and for entire jackets and toques.

Many of the better styled frocks and tailored suits have their edges finished with grosgrain ribbon bindings. The new idea of these bindings is carried out both in monotone and in contrasting effects. Beige finished with black or brown ribbon bindings is a favorite theme, also black bound with white grosgrain.

Perky velvet ribbon bows trim print frocks while many dress fronts are fastened with narrow tied ribbons. Ribbon trims on hats are widely advocated and there is considerable use of broad belting ribbon to artfully band high crowns.

Use of All Kinds of Lace

Revived for Summer Wear

The use of all kinds of lace has been revived for summer wear. Helene Yrlande uses pure white lace for a fitted deshabille which has enormously full, puffed sleeves to the elbow. The low cut front décolleté is filled with doubled bands of chiffon in pale yellow and pale green.

These two colors are repeated in the chiffon sash which is twisted about the bodice Grecian fashion, and tied in back with the floating chiffon streamers hanging in back and forming a suggestion of a train.

Use Pink Chiffon Roses to Trim Evening Jacket

Pale pink roses of shaded chiffon are applied cleverly as trimming on an evening jacket of sheer, white chiffon in the new Schiaparelli collection. The same type roses are used as a back shoulder yoke on a blue satin evening cape.

Pale yellow and green chiffon is used effectively to make sprays of mimosa applied on a white organdie evening gown.

NET OVER PRINT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Broad brimmed hats which fashion has decreed for summer wear combine well with this type of afternoon dress which is of black cable net worn over an underslip of gay print on dark background. It is made with puff sleeves and sailor collar. Catalin costume jewelry including a bow clip-brooch and bangle bracelets in the new "pepper and salt" design by Schiaparelli add chic to this costume. The hat is of black haku with a large white poppy.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Browning Biscuits.—Biscuits can be given rich brown tops by brushing the tops with a pastry brush dipped in milk before placing them in the oven.

Cooking Cabbage.—Cabbage should be cooked only until tender when tested with a fork. Too much cooking results in changed color and an indigestible product.

Disagreeable Odor.—The smell of new paint has a very bad effect on some people. To minimize it, fill a pail of water and sprinkle in it some hay and one or two onions, freshly sliced. Stand this in a room newly painted, and much of the smell will be neutralized.

When Drawers Stick.—Black lead or black lead pencil rubbed on the edges of a drawer which has become swollen from heat will enable it to be opened and shut quite easily.

Turnips Au Gratin.—For this tasty dish half-cook turnips in boiling salted water, then cut into fairly thin slices and drain well. Arrange in layers in a buttered fireproof dish, and cover each layer of turnip with grated cheese, a seasoning of pepper, and some little dabs of butter. The last layers should consist of breadcrumbs sprinkled with grated cheese and dotted with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until well browned.

Meat Pinwheels.—Biscuit dough, left-over meat chopped with onion, carrot and parsley. Spiced tomato gravy. Make your favorite biscuit dough and roll out fairly thick. Spread the meat mixture over the surface, leaving an inch margin of dough uncovered. Then roll up dough and meat together, and slice off pinwheels. Grease a shallow pan and lay in the pinwheels. Bake in moderately hot oven until done, about 30 minutes.

Storing Brown Sugar.—Brown sugar will not become lumpy if stored in an airtight jar.

Heating the Oven.—Open the oven door for a minute soon after the gas has been lit and you will find that the oven will get hot much quicker. By doing so you let out the moisture that always collects when the oven is not in use.

To Clean the Piano.—Use the suction cleaner to remove dust from the inside of the piano, and clean the keys with a soft cloth moistened with methylated spirit. Polish with a chamols leather. WNU Service.

WADE HOWELL TELLS OF TRIP TO WASHINGTON

 and Engraving, where Wade says he saw the employees make a $100,000 bill, the highest currency denomination printed. He also saw them making postage stamps. Wade says it takes many men and three days time to make one postage stamp. Those same men in that same time make possibly hundreds of thousands of stamps, however.

Other buildings and places commanding their interest and admiration were the Smithsonian Institute, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, Arlington Cemetery, Mt. Vernon, Lee's Mansion, and the White House.

From Washington they went to New York. There they took a bus ride over the city, and later went through a large portion of the city by boat. Of course they went up on top of the Empire State Building.

Across the state to Buffalo and thence out to Niagara Falls. Wade admitted that the falls were somewhat of a disappointment, however. There was not as much water going over the falls as he had expected to see.

Thence they had a 300-mile journey over on the Canadian side of the international boundary line and thence back into the good old U. S. A. and on to Chicago for only a brief stop. From Chicago they came via Kansas City and Amarillo, and then—home!

It was a great trip for Wade and 26,000 other boys who went from every nook and corner of our great far-flung country. Possibly nearly every one of them gathered information and inspiration that will make him a better citizen.

LUMSDEN HOME IS ONE OF FINEST IN COUNTY

 grass and clover in front and on either side. A little further out on either side and at the rear are the trees—beautiful Chinese elms; a few stately cottonwoods, some black locust, and the Evergreens, Cedars, Juniper, spruce, and pines. In the rear also is a rose garden and a lily pool. Rising scarcely above the tops of the neighboring trees are two windmills, pumping generous streams of water from the depths of Mother Earth into an elevated tank. Near by is another well from which a still larger stream of water is being pumped by electric power. This is stored in an immense, surface tank still further back in the rear premises, and from this tank the water flows through an under ground hollow-tile irrigation system aggregating 1400 feet in length to irrigate a garden of luxuriant vegetables. To the abundance of water on the Lumsden premises is due the vigor and freshness of the trees, shrubs, flowers, and grasses.

Since Mr. Lumsden is one of the pioneer ranchmen of Lynn county, the owner of broad acres of farm lands, and the builder of this palatial home, one would hardly suspect that either he or Mrs. Lumsden would be interested in poultry. But, as a matter of fact, they are very practical people. They have found that the poultry business can be made to pay, and therefore it is not surprising to find that they are among the most successful poultry raisers in the county. They now have between 800 and 900 White Leghorn hens and pullets, and the weekly income from the sale of eggs alone is no insignificant sum.

Commodious and substantial houses and sheds have been built in which to house and care for these chickens, and the task of overseeing them has been assigned chiefly to the Lumsden housekeeper, Miss Louise Mendel, who has been with the family for years.

There are fine Jersey cows also in the Lumsden barn yards, and a pen of fine blooded hogs. The pens and poultry houses are always kept clean and sanitary and are themselves really attractive.

And scattered over and around all these immense stock and poultry yards are trees, trees, trees—fine, attractive trees—away out here on the "trackless waste of desert plain."

Harley D. Woods of the Texas-New Mexico Utilities Company was here Monday on business for his company and while here was the guest of W. S. Anglin, local manager.

Mrs. Hall Robinson will leave Sunday for the Fort Worth and Dallas markets to purchase her fall and winter stock of ready-to-wear and millinery.

Willie and Bert Nelson, children of Senator and Mrs. G. H. Nelson of Lubbock, visited friends in Tahoka Sunday.

Dixie

Several in our community are feeling very happy over the good rain. Others feel very blue because of the damage of the hail.

We are still having good crowds out for Sunday school and church. Mrs. E. E. Perry has gone to San Saba for her health. She is also visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Inman, who have been at Glen Rose the past two weeks, returned home Sunday afternoon.

Miss Lebusa Macha, who has been attending the Texas Tech at Lubbock, returned home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Perry spent last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Perry.

Paul Van Dyke has gone to Oklahoma to visit relatives and friends. W. R. Warren and Pierce Hallmark went to Lubbock Monday on business.

Friends from Levelland visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Pitts Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Knight and Jack Edwards returned Monday morning from Hot Springs, New Mexico, where they have been with Summer. They report Summer as showing some improvement. Mrs. Summer Knight and her mother, Mrs. Edwards, remained at his bedside.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kuykendall and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kuykendall, Tuscaloosa, Alabama, are leaving for home today after a week's visit with the R. B. McCord family and other relatives here. The elder Mrs. Kuykendall is a sister-in-law of Mrs. McCord.

Mrs. E. J. Cooper and daughter, Mrs. P. A. Nowlin, and the latter's little daughter left Thursday morning to visit relatives at Greenville and Lone Oak. They will be accompanied home by Mrs. Cooper's mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Grisham.

The News received a brief communication Thursday from M. T. White, formerly in the grocery business here, now in Coleman, stating that he is doing a nice business there and sending his regards to his Lynn county friends.

Miss Lois Short, daughter of Henry Short, residing four miles north of Tahoka, underwent an operation in a hospital in Lubbock Tuesday for appendicitis. Latest reports from the hospital were that she was recovering satisfactorily.

Rev. C. F. Dyke is able to be out again this week after having suffered two relapses from an attack of the mumps. The preacher says he is going to take care of himself this time.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. West of Tahoka and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Williamson of Grassland left Thursday morning to visit relatives at Murfreesboro, Arkansas. That was Mr. Williamson's boyhood home.
