Light Rain Falls In Lynn County; Is Aid To Crops

Precipitation Is .39 Inch Here; Total For The Past Twelve Months Is 26.22 Inches.

A light rain fell here and throughout most if not all Lynn county at an early hour Thursday morning. The rain gauge kept by the News registered .39 of an inch. The rain is reported to have been slightly heavier north and west of Tahoka. Wilson reported about a half inch. The fall was reported about the same from Tahoka to Draw. Other sections reported a light rain. It fell gently everywhere, every drop of it soaking into the soil.

This was the first rain of any consequence since July 20, when .70 fell here. The total rainfall in Tahoka during the month of July was 1.08, though it was much heavier than that in a large portion of the county.

The rainfall by months this year to date is as follows: January .08, February .01, March 1.44, April 1.04, May 3.11, June 2.74, July 1.08, and August to date .39. The total for the year is 9.89. It has probably exceeded that figure by several inches in some parts of the county, however.

The excellent crops throughout the county are due in a large measure to the excessive rainfall early last fall. In September last year 13.86 inches fell in Tahoka, an all-time record for any one month since a record of the rainfall has been kept here. October brought 1.42 inches, November .76, and December .39. The total rainfall during the past twelve months is 26.22 inches, which is about six inches more than normal.

The rain here Thursday morning was preceded by several days of unusually warm weather. The temperatures recorded by the government thermometers kept by the News office since Tuesday of last week are as follows: Tuesday 98, Wednesday 102, Thursday 100, Friday 104, Saturday 101, Sunday 100, Monday 99, Tuesday 100, Wednesday 102. Other days this year on which the thermometer registered as high as 100 are as follows: June 30, 100; July 1, 100; July 13, 101; July 14, 103; July 15, 105. It will be seen therefore that July was an unusually warm month.

Back From Snow-Capped Mountains

Miss Evelyn Hill, a primary teacher in the Waco city schools, left for her home Wednesday night after a ten days visit with her sister, Mrs. W. G. Barrett. She accompanied the Barretts on a trip to Colorado last week, returning to Tahoka Wednesday morning of this week. They spent several days at Lake City up in the mountains of Southwest Colorado, whose tops are still covered with snow, and the temperature had a habit of dropping down near the freezing point each night at Lake City. We are wondering why in the world the Barretts didn't stay longer.

D. J. Pennington Is Plains Newcomer

D. J. Pennington of Redwine, a newcomer to the Plains from Arkadelphia, Arkansas, dropped into the News office Saturday to get acquainted and to take exception to our recent statement which intimated that Elbert Boullion were only a long-tailed shirt when sojourning in Arkansas. He claims he has known Boullion a long time and also that he never saw him in a long-tailed shirt, even as a boy. He declares that Arkansas is a very modern state, Bob Burns' statement to the contrary, and the Boullion family is one of the finest in that state.

Mr. Pennington was born in Arkansas and lived there 58 years, coming to Lynn county ten months ago. He thinks this is a great country, and hopes to spend 58 years on the Plains.

D. J. and his wife and his brother, H. W., and wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Austin Rowe and children expect to leave next week for that state to attend an old time Methodist camp meeting at Davidson camp grounds near Arkadelphia.

New Home Elects Two New Teachers

The subjects of vocational agriculture and home economics have been added to the curriculum of the New Home High School, according to Supt. J. T. Carter, who was here Tuesday.

Mr. Carter says that at a meeting of the board of trustees Monday night, W. W. Hall, of Hale Center, a recent graduate of the Texas Tech, was elected as teacher of vocational agriculture, and Miss Floy Austin of Lueders, a graduate of C. I. A., was elected home economics teacher. Miss Austin has had a few months experience as a teacher at Denton.

Dates Are Set For Old Timers Meet

Twelfth annual reunion of the West Texas Old Settlers Association will be held at the Hank Smith Memorial Park, in Blanco Canyon ten miles north of Crosbyton, Thursday and Friday, Aug. 12 and 13.

Mrs. Nellie Witt Spikes, secretary, writes: "We want you to be there. Big times for old-timers both days, with sing-song and speaking Thursday, formal dedication of the Hank Smith memorial monument on Friday, Judge Pink L. Parrish making the dedicatory address."

RA Supervisor Is Given Transfer

Geo. C. Jones of the Resettlement Administration, who has been serving as assistant county rural supervisor for Lubbock and Lynn counties the past two years, has been transferred to a similar position in Collingsworth, Wheeler, and Gray counties. He left Monday for his new duties.

Mrs. Jones accompanied her husband but will continue to Warren, Ohio, for a month's visit with her daughter, Mrs. Wayne C. Neff.

Blanco Co. Reunion Will Be Next Week

Ex-residents of Blanco county will hold an all-day picnic at Two Draw Lake, near Post, Wednesday August 11, according to L. H. Moore of the Lakeview community. This is an annual affair, and 75 or 100 people are expected to be present.

M. C. Richey, J. W. Warrick and Henry Aten compose the food committee, and Ben Moore of the publicity.

Narrowly Escapes Burning In Car

Leslie Duckett, son of G. M. Duckett, who lives about seven miles northeast of town, narrowly escaped from a burning automobile at the farm home Tuesday afternoon.

Duckett had started to the field in the car, a Model A Ford, soon after noon. When a short distance from the house, gasoline from the leaky carburetor caught fire, and just as Duckett fled from the machine the gas tank exploded, throwing flames all over the car. Three castings were saved.

Tom Garrards Return From Western Trip

Judge and Mrs. Tom Garrard returned to their home here Sunday from a trip through several of the Rocky Mountain states. Mrs. Garrard says that some of the mountain drives in Colorado are wonderful and the climate most invigorating.

They were at Cheyenne, Wyoming, enjoying the Frontier Rodeo when Judge Garrard received a message that his presence was needed at a meeting of the State Board of Education in Austin. So, immediately after his arrival at home Sunday, he left for Austin.

Mrs. Garrard says that the Rodeo was indeed a great show—and quite a number of Texas people were there to see it. One day it was announced that 128 Texas cars were on the grounds. Texas cars were everywhere in evidence on the highways. The only pang of regret he suffered was that they were compelled to return home before their visit was ended.

Beer Runner Is Found Guilty

A. L. Martin of Big Spring was tried in the county court here Wednesday on a charge of unlawfully transporting beer. The jury found him guilty and assessed his punishment at a fine of $25.00. Through his attorney, Temple Dickson of Sweetwater, he gave notice of appeal.

Martin is the man who was arrested by Sheriff B. L. Parker here early last week and from whose possession was taken about 75 cases of beer. He was accompanied by a woman, who gave her name as Miss Pat Dunn, who was charged with unlawfully carrying brass knucks. Her case was called for trial Thursday. She pleaded "not guilty" on the grounds that she was a traveler, and the jury found in her favor.

Martin's defense on the trial was that he was transporting the beer from Big Spring to Amarillo, both cities being in "wet" territory, and that his act was therefore not unlawful. It seems that he had no bill of lading, however, showing the destination of the beer, and this fact proved fatal to his defense.

Walker Resigns Coaching Job

Prentice Walker, coach of the Tahoka High School Bulldogs, and teacher of science, for the past three years, gave his resignation to the school board Monday. He announced that he had accepted a permanent position with the J. K. Applewhite International tractor agency.

Walker came here from an assistant coaching position in North Texas Teachers College, where he had been an all-conference halfback and received honorable mention on the All-American. With meagre material, he has done exceptionally well with the Bulldogs, and had a fine influence over the boys he taught. Board members stated his connection with the Tahoka schools has been highly satisfactory.

Last year athletics in the Tahoka schools were self-supporting, the first time in many years, if ever before.

F. F. A. Is Planning An Encampment

The F. F. A. officers met Friday night at Mr. Hufstetler's and made preliminary plans for a summer camping trip by the Tahoka Future Farmers.

Truett Cooper, president of the Chapter, has called a meeting of entire membership for Friday, Aug. 6. The meeting will be held in the Vocational Agriculture room at the High School and will begin promptly at 8:30 p. m. All members are urged to be present and to be making plans for the trip.

The present plans call for the trip to be made August 12, 13, and 14. The members will make final decision as to where to go Friday night but the place being mentioned most is Christoval, on the Concho River.

Mrs. Lee Wood of Lynwood, California, arrived Sunday to spend a few weeks with her mother, Mrs. E. S. Davis, and other relatives.

Magnolia, Garlyn Election Called

On the petition of citizens of the Magnolia and Garlyn school districts, the Lynn county commissioners court has called an election on August 16 for the purpose of consolidating the two districts. Although the Garlyn school building is in Garza county, much of the district lies in Lynn, and Magnolia is entirely in Lynn county.

Plans are, it is said, to move the Magnolia building to Garlyn, or to some intermediate site, the removal to be financed by the Post bank. Also, an agreement is said to have been reached whereby Post will operate a bus throughout the combined district, dropping the grade children at the consolidated school and transporting the high school students to Post.

Should this be done, the Post bus route will come within seven miles of Tahoka. The Tahoka district is now operating a bus through the Magnolia district.

Tourist Camp Is Being Erected

Mrs. Minnie Freeman Burns has under construction on Highway No. 9 in south Tahoka a new and modern tourist camp. When completed, there will be about twenty apartments, with a bath for each two apartments, and hot and cold water in each apartment. The building is frame and stucco.

Two front rooms of the building were built for Minnie's Beauty Shop. Then two tourist apartment were erected, and this week four more such apartments are being built.

Mrs. Burns is tearing down the old Jack Alley home and using the lumber therefrom to construct the new structure. This house was the town home of this pioneer Lynn county ranchman. Built in the 'days when most people in this section took their baths in a wash tub, the Alley home is said to have contained the first modern bath room in Tahoka.

Sam Singleton In Bed With Broken Foot

Sam Singleton, who is connected with the Tahoka Appliance Co., dropped a battery on his foot a few days ago and broke one of the bones thereof.

Since the accident he has been confined to his room in O'Donnell unable to walk. He will probably be laid up for several days yet.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. West and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Williamson returned a few days ago from Murfreesboro, Pike county, Arkansas, where they went to visit relatives. Mr. West says that crops back there are good but that he could throw a rock across the ordinary field. He saw one orchard, however, that was a humdinger, or something of the kind. It comprises many thousand acres and is said to be the largest peach orchard in the world. It is owned by a company.

Miss Pollyanna Walker returned a few days ago from a visit of several weeks with her aunt, Miss Jo Bulloch, at Aspermont.

Nelson Breaks Nose As Result Of Fall

Senator G. H. Nelson was the victim of a painful though not serious accident in Lubbock Wednesday, according to W. S. Anglin of this city who happened to be in Lubbock when the accident happened.

The Senator fell and broke his nose as he started to ascend the stairway leading from the sidewalk to his office. He went immediately to a sanitarium, where he received prompt surgical treatment. It is not thought that any permanent injury was sustained.

Will Montgomery Brought Home

Will Montgomery, who has been so seriously ill for several weeks in the Mercy Hospital, Slaton, was brought back to his home here Monday in a Harris ambulance much improved.

He was taken to the hospital in a most serious condition and soon thereafter underwent an operation for appendicitis. He did not improve satisfactorily and several blood transfusions were found necessary before any steady and substantial improvement was apparent. He has been steadily improving for a number of days, however, and it is now felt that the crisis has been passed.

Wilson Young Lady Has Arm Broken

Miss Florine Server of Wilson, sister of Miss Hattie Server, district clerk, accidentally fell on the floor of a skating rink in Lubbock Monday night and broke both bones of one of the forearms. She was taken immediately to a hospital, where the bones were set and the wounds treated. It is hoped that the injury will heal speedily.

Miss Server is employed in the post office in Wilson.

Revival Meeting At New Home Church

A two weeks revival meeting will begin at the Baptist Church at New Home Sunday, according to announcement made by the pastor, Rev. S. K. McCulloch.

Rev. Z. E. Kent of Crosbyton will do the preaching and Boswell Edwards of New Home will lead the song services.

A cordial invitation is extended to everybody to attend.

Ed Sanders New Deputy Sheriff

Following the resignation of Norvel Redwine to accept a position as a member of the state highway patrol, Ed Sanders was appointed deputy sheriff Saturday, and is on the job.

Mr. Sanders is an old-timer in Lynn county and has many friends here who are much pleased at his appointment.

Canaday Moving To Arkansas

M. O. Canaday, clerk in the local post office, has effected an exchange with a lady clerk in the postoffice of Nashville, Arkansas, and he and family are expecting to remove from Tahoka to that city about the middle of this month.

Mr. Canaday has been a clerk in the post office here since November 16, 1927, a period of almost ten years. He and Mrs. Canaday came here from Dierks, situated in the same county as Nashville, just prior to the above date. They have many friends here who will regret their decision to return to their native state. Mr. Canaday served for a time as Boy Scout master here, and Mrs. Canaday has been active in home demonstration work.

The young woman who is coming to take the place of Mr. Canaday in the postoffice here is Miss Ethel Calahan. She has no relatives here but does have some friends, and she was here about the first of July to look over the situation. She is said to be a very fine young woman and will doubtless receive a cordial welcome in Tahoka.

Jack Applewhite made a business trip to Amarillo Wednesday.

Contract Awarded On Highway 84 West Stretch

Will Complete Hardsurface To Brownfield; More Promises On East Highway

The Lone Star Construction Company of San Antonio has been awarded the contract of reshaping the base and placing asphalt base preservative on 11.2 miles of highway No. 84 west of Tahoka, beginning at the end of the present paved portion of this highway five miles west of town and extending to the Terry county line.

Bids were opened by the state highway commission last Saturday. The bid of the Lone Star Construction Company was a little more than $12,000.00.

Contract for the completion of this highway in a similar manner from Brownfield to the Lynn county line was let several weeks ago, and the work was finished this week. The completion of these two contracts will make No. 84 an all-weather road between Brownfield and Tahoka.

Judge P. W. Goad and Commissioners George W. Small, Waldo McLaurin, Tom Hale, and Sam Holland were in Austin the first of this week conferring with the state highway commission respecting the building of this important highway from Tahoka east to the Garza county line.

While the commission was unable to make them a definite promise as to the improvement of this stretch of the highway, yet the members of that body treated them with great courtesy and consideration and showed a willingness to do the right thing. It is believed that a plan will be worked out satisfactory to all concerned whereby the work of rebuilding this segment of 84 may be started at no distant date.

Norvel Redwine On Highway Patrol

Norvel Redwine left Saturday for Austin to begin training for service as a member of the state highway patrol force. He received notice earlier in the week of his appointment.

Out of more than one thousand applicants who recently stood examinations for these positions, Norvel was one of 125 who were accepted. He was requested to report at Camp Mabry, Austin, Monday morning, where he with all the others are required to take a seven weeks training course. At the conclusion of this school of instruction, Norvel will be assigned his place of service.

As yet, he does not know just where he will be stationed. This is a very responsible branch of the state service and is reasonably permanent, with a fair salary attached.

Norvel has been serving as deputy sheriff here since the death of his father, who was killed by a negro prisoner 17 or 18 months ago. He is youthful, strong, steady, and cool-headed, and should make a very capable member of the force. He has many friends throughout Lynn county, who are delighted at his appointment.

Winter Kinghts Back From Mountains

Winter Knight and family returned Saturday night from a prolonged stay in the mountains of New Mexico, where Winter was recuperating from a stubborn attack of the mumps. Several weeks were spent at Ruidoso. Just before returning home they visited Summer Knight at Hot Springs, where he has been several weeks in the hope of recovering his health. Winter reports that Summer is somewhat improved but his condition is still none too encouraging.

While at Ruidoso, Winter found much recreation in fishing for those elusive Rainbow trout, and he says he succeeded in landing a few nice ones.

Miss Lilith Boyd visited her parents at Perrin last week. She was accompanied back to Tahoka by her sister, Miss Laverne Boyd, who came to spend a couple of weeks.

WAR ON TWO CONTINENTS

Japanese Bomb Tientsin . . . Fearful Battle Rages Near Madrid . . . Congress Wants to Pack Up and Go Home

Japanese soldiers cremate their dead at Fengtai.

SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

China Skies Rain Fire

THERE was war in North China whether it had been officially declared or not. Japanese bombers zoomed over the densely-populated city of Tientsin, raining death and destruction, and endangering thousands of citizens of the United States and other foreign countries. The air attack was Nippon's retaliation for a Chinese army drive which nearly drove the Japanese out of their North China stronghold.

Chinese troops declared that "thousands of non-combatant men, women and children were killed or injured" by the airmen. The bombers left holocaust in their wake. Flames engulfed Tientsin's principal buildings, the central railway station, the militia headquarters, the famed Nankai university, and the Chinkiang international bridge connecting the Chinese city to the foreign concessions. In the latter, inhabitants who were not concerned at all with the war were forced to seek what safety they could in cellars which provided little shelter from the exploding bombs. Chinese and Japanese soldiers fought hand-to-hand in the streets, with entrenchments in some places only 100 feet apart.

Three Chinese armies, operating suddenly and swiftly along a 95-mile front between Taku (Tientsin's seaport) and Peiping, conducted the attack which incurred the wrath of the Japanese military command. They drove the Japanese away from the three key railroad stations and entered the Japanese concession.

Japan immediately responded with her air attack, concentrating upon the heavily populated Chinese section of Tientsin. Infantry attacked the Chinese barricades in several parts of the city. Japanese artillery went into action, and drew lusty response from the enemy, which sent shell after shell hurtling into the heart of the Japanese concession. Many soldiers on both sides were killed.

From Peiping the Chinese Twenty-ninth army was driven back 80 miles to the west, until not a Chinese soldier was left in the city or its environs. Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, commander, resigned, turning over his post as chairman of the Hopei-Chahar political council to Gen. Chang Tsu-chung, a subordinate division commander.

Madrid's Moat of Blood

THE Spanish government was defending Madrid against the insurgent forces in the most terrible battle of the entire civil war and the most important. It couldn't last; it was too furious. The whole loyalist cause apparently rested on resisting this, the most vicious attack the rebels had yet made. Gen. Francisco Franco's army, under his personal supervision, was making advances, but at such loss of men that the cost might be too great.

Insurgents stormed loyalist entrenchments directly in the face of point blank machine guns. Losses were so terrible that thousands of wounded lay without food or water among thousands already dead and decaying in the hot sun. Infantry, tanks, cavalry and artillery were supplemented by airplane bombers.

In one salient 250,000 men were fighting, including the cream of both armies. The loyalist position was admittedly the most serious of the whole war, and upon the government's ability to withhold against the attack rested the fate of the best units in its army. It was reported that 20,000 Italian troops had joined the rebels for the battle.

Each side claimed the losses of the other had been greatest. Insurgents reported that the government salient had cost 300 fighting planes and 20,000 casualties. The government declared that Franco had lost at least 100 planes to its 20 or 30, had lost 20,000 to 25,000 men, and had consumed $15,000,000 worth of war materials.

Gen. Franco's other armies were busy, too. While the Madrid conflict was in full sway, the insurgents sprang a surprise air attack on Barcelona. In the early days advance planes dropped flares which lighted up the city. Then came additional planes, dropping bombs on the easy target and turning machine guns on citizens who attempted to flee. At least 65 persons were killed and 150 injured.

The rebels in the East were reported to have driven across the Teruel-Cuenca border and to have seriously threatened the loyalist "life-line," the highway between Madrid and Valencia.

"Whadd'ya Say We Scram?"

WITH Supreme court bill recommended to the senate judiciary committee, a new substitute bill for reform of only the lower courts due to be reported out of the committee, and a new senate majority leader selected to take the late Senator Robinson's place, the overwhelming sentiment of the members of the seventy-fifth congress was to pack up their bags and get as far away from Washington as possible.

Even measures which President Roosevelt had insisted bear the "must" label were being shoved aside with dispatch, as Vice President Garner sought to heal the party wounds inflicted during the bitter court battle and salvage as much of the President's legislation as he could. The first to be buried was the new AAA and "ever-normal granary" bill; the senate agriculture committee shelved it until the next session. The committee authorized James P. Pope, Idaho Democrat and co-sponsor of the bill, to prepare a senate resolution to lay the plans for regional hearings on a comprehensive farm program during the remainder of the summer and report back in January.

It seemed certain that the President's legislation for governmental reorganization would be left over until next session when the record of three months' hearings by the joint congressional committee was made public. It was revealed that committee members have not even come close to agreement on any of the main points involved.

Majority Leader Barkley said that the White House still wanted the wages and hours bill, the Wagner low-cost housing bill and a judiciary bill passed, as well as legislation to plug tax loopholes. The Wagner bill, meanwhile, was reported out of committee, and it was expected the senate would act upon it quickly.

New Court Bill Drafted

FOUR important provisions were contained in the new court "reform" bill reported out of the senate judiciary committee, but none of them involved any changes in or additions to the personnel of the Supreme court. The new bill provides for:

(a) Direct appeals to the Supreme court from decisions in the district courts involving the constitutionality of federal statutes.

(b) Intervention by the Department of Justice in all suits involving the validity of federal statutes.

(c) Trial of all suits to enjoy the operation of federal statutes by a court of three judges—one judge from the circuit court of appeals and two district judges.

(d) Reassignment of district court judges by the senior circuit judge of each circuit, wherever additional help may be needed to relieve congested dockets. Judges sitting away from home would receive $10 a day additional pay.

Ambition in Bloom

CONGRESSMAN SOL BLOOM of New York, who, it is said, is the "spittin' image" of George Washington, and once posed for a bust labeled "The Father of His Country," sponsored a brief bill in the lower house, but unfortunately (for Congressman Bloom) it was rejected—in fact it never even came to a vote.

It provided that a book be given, at the government's expense, to each naturalized citizen with his citizenship papers. The book, exhibited in the house, is a handsome affair, all done up in blue and gold. The cover contains, in large letters, the inscription: "The Story of the Constitution, by Sol Bloom. Copyright, by Sol Bloom."

"The Closest Call"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, everybody: Well, sir, for a long time I've been warning young fellows to stay off of side door Pullmans. I've seen so many adventure yarns about lads who have come to grief beating their way on freight trains that I'm pretty well convinced it's a dangerous pastime. But here's a lad I can't very well warn to stop riding freight trains.

In the first place, that was his job. In the second place, he's reformed and isn't working on the railroad any more. And in the third place, he knows all about the hazards of railroading. He probably knows a doggone sight more about it than I do.

If those aren't enough reasons, I could probably think up some more. But here comes today's distinguished adventurer—Edwin F. Eckdahl, of Young, Saskatchewan, Canada—another fellow who has come a long, long way to join our club. And here's the story:

Ed started railroad work in the early part of the century, braking on the Pennsylvania. His run was out of Logansport, Ind., and those were the days when the men had to contend with the old style link-and-pin drawbar and when air brakes were few and far between. There might be a few air-braked cars on every train, but most freights consisted principally of "jacks" or hand-braked cars.

Ed says every brakeman tried to get a few air-braked cars up at the head of the train, where they'd help a lot in holding back the other cars, but some of the old die-hard conductors wouldn't allow that. "There are brakes on top," they used to say, "and the brakeman is getting paid for braking them. Let him work for his money." It was one of those conductors that Ed was working for—and it came near costing him his life.

Proving That It Pays to Be Careful.

It was one day early in 1906 that that happened. Ed's train pulled out of Chicago about 10:30 on a cold winter night with a light train of meat and merchandise. "We had a nice string-of-air-braked-cars," he says, "but they were behind about ten or twelve 'jacks' and the conductor said 'nothing doing' when the rear-end man and I wanted to switch them. It had rained in Chicago and the tops of the cars were covered with a coating of thin ice, and my first job was to go over the tops and chip that ice from the running boards on the ten or twelve cars I was to use for braking."

His feet shot out from under him.

Ed had ice clips on his shoes to keep him from slipping. They were pretty dull, but he thought they'd last him one more trip. He worked his way along until he was about ten cars back of the engine and then, near the I. C. crossing at Riverdale, the train hit a slight curve. Ed was unprepared for it. He lost his balance and was forced to step off the flat running board onto the sloping, ice-covered top of the car.

The instant he did his feet shot out from under him. He started sliding off the top. "I was on my back," he says, "but when my legs were over the side I managed to turn over on my stomach—and, as luck would have it, a nail that had worked up from a board in the car top caught in my coat. I was so far over the side that there was more of me in the open than on the roof. I was just able to keep part of my chest and arms on the car. And there I hung.

There Wasn't Any Prospect of Aid.

"I knew if I slid off I wouldn't have much of a chance. All I could do was hang on—and get back on top if that was possible. It was cold weather and the position I was in was tiring me out. The longer I stayed there the worse it would be."

Ed knew he couldn't look for any help. The engineer would think he was in the caboose and the conductor would think he was in the engine. His lantern had shattered and gone over the side when he fell and he couldn't signal with that. He tried pulling himself forward with the flat of his hands against the car top, but they slipped on the smooth ice.

"I tell you it kept me busy," he says. "I didn't know how long that nail would hold me, or how long the cloth of my coat would stand the strain. But believe me, I stuck tight with all the strength I had."

Ed Runs Into Unexpected Difficulties.

But now Ed noticed something that was working in his favor. The heat of his palms as they pressed against the top of the car was melting the thin coating of ice. In one spot his hands were beginning to take hold. He began to move his palms forward to melt the ice up ahead.

It was a long, slow process. "By wriggling my body as a snake would," he says, "I was able to bring it forward a little. I had to melt quite a bit of ice to get myself in a fairly safe position and even then the wind and the swaying of the car threatened to throw me off at any minute. And then I ran into another obstruction."

It was that nail which had caught in his clothing. In the beginning it saved his life. Now it was holding him back, keeping him from moving any farther forward. Ed didn't dare move a hand to free it. And there he was, fastened to the car, unable to move any farther and not knowing when a low spot or a curve in the track would shake him off.

He began to get a bit panic stricken then. He clawed at the top of the car with futile hands. And suddenly his groping palms struck on another nail worked up out of the boards like the first one.

"I caught hold of it by a thumb and finger," Ed says, "and only then did I dare to move the other hand down and loosen the nail that was caught in my coat. I wriggled back on the top and when I reached the running board I was covered with sweat and my hands and face were full of slivers. All I did was lie flat on my face and pant."

The train was pulling into a station and the engineer whistled for brakes, but Ed didn't move. "Of course the train ran past the station," Ed says, "and I was in line for a hauling out. But when I told the engineer what had happened he had to make his excuses for not seeing my lantern disappear. I've had lots of close calls in railroading, but that was the closest one."

"Yankee Doodle" Abroad in 1814

In 1814 the Americans met the English to arrange terms ending the War of 1812 in Ghent, Belgium, and the city of Ghent asked the American envoys for the tune of the chief American song in order to play the English and the American national music, together. But it appeared that none of the Americans was musical, so Henry Clay, one of our ambassadors, called his servant and the musical negro whistled them "Yankee Doodle," the notes were copied down, and "Yankee Doodle" was first played as America's national song abroad.

Learning Life's Lessons

In the midst of bewildering misfortunes, it is well to remember that every mountain must have its valley, and every oasis its desert, and every island its lonely sea, and every rainbow its storm cloud, and every day its night. But never has an oak tree grown without weathering the storm, and every Calvary has its resurrection. Life's lessons are never learned without heroic self-discipline. This is the acid test of character. Nothing is gained by brooding. Poise and happiness are lost if we debate life rather than live it heroically.—The Uplift.

No. 1: Ah, my dear reader, 'tis the sad story of a very inexperienced and frisky young gentleman, who after having wandered from his mother's side—

No. 2: thought that life's green pastures always seemed to be on the opposite side of a very high wire fence. Don't many of us get those frisky ideas in the glorious hey-days of our youth?

No. 3: And he was quite unhappy until he realized that possibly his predicament wasn't so bad after all, if he could but find the answer—

No. 4: which surely must be close at hand.

But at that, it sometimes takes a good nudge in the southeast corner of the anatomy before we fully grasp our opportunities. And when we do, we wish someone had given us that hide-side kick a little sooner.

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Reburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwittingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure by the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the radio, had invited her to call and developed a deep affection for her. Mark discloses that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lola, from whom he is now divorced. He says he does not trust Henri and Clotilde Jacques, Mrs. Dane's servants. He says he is not interested in an offer of Brooke's to share the estate with him. Leaving her department store job, Brooke refuses an offer to go stepping with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her. At a family conference she learns she must live at Lookout House alone, since Lucette, her younger sister who is taking her job, her brother, Sam, a young playwright, and her mother plan to stay in the city. Jed and Mark are astounded when they hear of Brooke's plan. A family friend, that she had witnessed a hitherto unknown will with Henri and Clotilde two weeks before Mrs. Dane died. Brooke had arrived just as she was leaving. Jed suggests that Mark open his part of Lookout House, get friendly with Brooke and try to find out about the will. Jed agrees to stay with him. Mark accepts Brooke's invitation for a family Thanksgiving dinner at Lookout. Mrs. Reburn announces on Thanksgiving eve that she has been invited to England. Sam and Lucette decide to move in with Brooke and Sam plans to produce a new play locally. After the Thanksgiving dinner Brooke tells Mark that little of Mrs. Dane's silver collection is left. Jerry Field and his sister Daphne drop in and announce they will be neighbors for the winter. Later Inspector Harrison of the local police visits Mark and is informed about the missing will and silver. As Harrison leaves, Lola arrives. She announces that she and her new husband, Bert Hunt, have started a neighborhood filling station. Mark almost makes a break about the missing will and Brooke is suspicious. Returning home, she sees Lola talking covertly to Henri. "Mr. Micawber," Mrs. Dane's pet parrot is missing. Henri is ugly and warns Brooke she had better like him and Clotilde. That night while the cast of Sam's play is rehearsing and the Jacques are away, Mark shows Brooke the missing silver which he had found cached in an unused upper floor store room in his house. A black gloved hand pulls the key from the store room door.

"Jed stopped at your house for a minute, he'll be here pronto; the other actors—so-called—have gone home. I'll say I'm here early. After they'd walked through the first act, it was a choice between dismissing the cast or shooting them. I had a sane interval and decided not to shoot. I'm giving them tomorrow night off."

"Then I'll throw a party for the Reburns and Fields at that new Supper club just opened in town. Give them a let-up from the play. What say, maestro?"

"Okay with me. It's darned good of you. Perhaps I have overworked them, but there is so little time before the performance." Sam sat up and ran his fingers through his hair.

"With that so near, wouldn't you think those dumb-bells would know their parts? I ask you! Besides that, the leading man has walked out on us."

"It's tough. Can I help, Sam?"

"Can you help? I'll say you can. Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party." Take the lead." He caught Trent's arm. "Be a good scout. Help a poor, distracted playwright-producer, will you? With you and the Crane woman in the leads, we'll make a two-star offering of it. That girl's good."

Sam's despair had changed to exultation. Mark Trent temporized: "How do you know I'm good?"

"How do those boozes out in Hollywood know an actor will be a wow on the screen sometimes before they give him a try-out? Something here, m'lad, something here." Sam tapped his broad brow, "tells me you'll be stopping the show."

"That same something couldn't tell you where I'm to get the time for a theatrical career, could it? All right, all right," Mark conceded in response to Sam's groan, "I'll take the part. Give me the sides and I'll try to know the lines at the next rehearsal."

Sam caught Brooke as she entered the room. He hugged her as he exulted:

"What d'you think, gal? Trent has signed up for 'Islands Arise'! Will he pack 'em in as the lead? I ask you!"

Jerry Field appeared at the door beating a huge spoon against a tin pan.

"First call for the dining car! First call—"

Sam held up his hand.

"Just a minute! We're all invited to dine and dance tomorrow by the new male lead in 'Islands Arise,' Mark Trent! Sam Reburn announcing."

"You in the play, Mark?"

"How exciting!"

"Dinner and dance in the big city! What a break!"

Jerry Field interrupted the excited comments.

"Where are your gardenias, Brooke?"

His tone set Mark Trent's lips twitching. Under cover of lighting a cigarette, he caught the girl's furtive glance at the wastebasket. She put her hand to her shoulder.

"Why—why I must have dropped them."

"Where've you been?"

"Hi there, m'lad! Sam's stern manner were those of a totem parent guarding his offspring. "That isn't a topic for group discussion. We don't make people punch the time-clock in this family."

Jerry Field's face turned a bright and lively crimson; his voice and eyes were furious.

"I wasn't asking Brooke to punch the time-clock. I thought I might find the gardenias for her—"

He stopped as Jed Stewart appeared on the threshold. He was tapping a gardenia against his lips.

"Run to earth, Mark. Who's the charmer who leaves a flower outside your door?"

CHAPTER VII

An hour later Jed Stewart slumped deeper into a crimson-cushioned chair in Mark Trent's library and demanded:

"How was I to know that Field had brought Brooke the gardenias? Didn't he look like a meat-axe though, when I barged into Lookout House waving that flower and giving the whole show away by telling where I picked it up? I'm the original village cut-up, I am." He lighted his pipe.

"It wasn't all my fault. I didn't know, did I, Mark, that you and she had been cruising round this house?"

"You didn't. I hadn't told you then that I had discovered Aunt Mary Amanda's silver parked in a store room. Decided to wait till I had the goods on someone, but I couldn't resist the temptation to show it to Brooke. You should have seen her eyes when she saw it piled on that table."

He poked the fire till orange and scarlet flames, shot with pale

"Started for the Sole Purpose of Chiseling Money Off Me, I Suspect."

green, roared up the chimney and sent a tangy puff of wood smoke into the room.

The sharp ring of the phone broke the silence.

"Trent speaking.—Lola! What do you want?—Not interested. If you like selling gas, sell it, only remember that the allowance stops.—Is she? Mrs. Gregory's word goes, here. You should have made sure of that before you set up shop.—What? What sort of paper?" Mark Trent looked at Jed Stewart who had come close and was moving his lips without making a sound. He nodded understanding. "I haven't rung off.—Yes, I heard what you said. I can't imagine how any paper you may have will interest me, but bring it here tomorrow at five.—Sure, I'll be alone.—Yes. Good-by."

Mark Trent cradled the telephone. "Lola has a 'paper' to sell me. She suggested that I have my check-book in hand tomorrow. What do you make of it?"

"If it is the 'paper' Mrs. Gregory witnessed, how could she get hold of it?"

"Henri?"

"She said she had written to her, didn't she? She's bringing it tomorrow afternoon! There's a catch in it somewhere. It sounds too easy. You don't think she'll back out at the last minute, do you, Mark?"

"Not if there is money in it. She said also that Mrs. Gregory was putting the filling-station out of business. It was started without a license. Started for the sole purpose of chiseling money off me, I suspect."

"Right as usual. What say we call this an evening? I'm due in court in the morning in my best Gentlemen of the Jury style; furthermore, we'll need our brains running wide open when Lola comes at five. She has a 'paper' to sell! Won't we feel cheap about our suspicions of Brooke if it proves to be the 'paper' we're after?"

"I stopped suspecting her some time ago. Shall we go up? We are getting provincial. If we were in town we'd be just beginning to go places. Toddle along. I'll put out the lights."

Mark banked the fire before he ran up the stairs. Jed Stewart yawned as he stood at his door.

"In spite of the late excitement, I'm sleepy. Night-night, Mark. I'll drop our problem into what the psychologists call the deep mind. Perhaps it will float to the top in the morning all nicely solved." He was whistling softly as he closed his bedroom door.

Mark crossed his dark room to the window. What a night! The sky was powdered with stars. The sparks of gold were like the lights in Brooke Reburn's eyes when she was happy or thrilled, and she had been thrilled when she had heard of his plan to dine and dance in town.

He drew the gardenia from his pocket. Nothing beautiful about it now but the leaves. He didn't need a paper which Lola Hunt might produce to clear his mind of suspicion that Brooke had influenced his aunt in any way. He drew the flash light from his coat pocket. Lucky he had thought of it when he had taken Brooke to see the silver.

"Mark! Mark!"

Jed's voice? He laid the flower on the dresser before he opened the door. With the electric torch still in his hand he crossed the hall and knocked at Jed Stewart's door. He knocked again. Why didn't he answer? He flung open the door. A coat had been hung over the back of a chair. A shoe lay on the floor. Cold air was stirring the chintz hangings. Where did it come from?

The bath-room! Mark sprang to the door and stopped in amazement. The window was wide open, but the air was strongly scented with perfume. The shower was dripping. Shaving materials were flung about as if hastily dropped.

He thrust his head out of the window. There were two ways to escape from the little balcony under it. Drop to the terrace, or through Lookout House. Had Jed and an intruder crashed in there? Brooke would be frightened. He'd follow them. He swung his leg over the sill.

"Stop!"

He went rigid in obedience to the hoarse warning, but only for an instant. Why was he perching like a dummy with the light from the room behind making him a perfect target for the person who had grunted? He moved his leg. No response to that from the balcony. Quickly he flashed his powerful light in the direction from which the sound had come. That would blind the person watching.

His eyes followed the light. In his amazement he lost his balance and pitched forward. At one corner of the railing, blinking and shivering in the glare, huddled the run-away green parrot.

He held up by a bird! He slid to the balcony. Reached for Mr. Micawber, grabbed him, flung him into the room behind him. He could hear the parrot squawking with fury as he closed the window.

"That seems to be that! Now, where's Jed?"

He peered over the railing. No uprights on this balcony to slide down. The next one had iron trellises which connected it with the stone terrace. Had Jed entered Lookout House by the window? Who occupied the room of the next house which opened on it? He would investigate.

He tiptoed to the window, reduced the light in his torch before he flashed it over the glass. The shade was closely drawn and the sash locked. No one could have gone in there. Cracks of light were visible in the two rooms beyond where French windows opened on another balcony. Had Jed entered that lighted room? How could he get there? He was too stout to swing across. Could he himself do it?

He appraised the distance, stepped over, and swung. Cautionally he stepped over the rail and ripped his hands from the frosty iron.

With his heart drumming like an airplane motor he concentrated his attention on the window. A crack of light showed between the hangings. Whose room was it? Should he take a chance that it was Sam's or Brooke's and tap lightly?

A window was being opened cautiously. Where? He flattened himself against the house. Must be the end balcony outside the studio. He visualized the interior as he had seen it the day he had helped Jerry Field sketch in the tree trunks on the backdrop.—Someone was crawling out! A man! He was sliding down an iron trellis like a monkey! Now he was running across the lawn bent double! He was entering the garage!

Mark Trent crammed the electric torch into his pocket and swung a leg over the railing. He hitched along till his feet found an upright, went down hand over hand, his palms sticking painfully to the iron as he moved them.

From purple tree shadow to purple tree shadow he skulked. Near the garage he hid behind shrubs. The click of a lock! He held his breath as he listened. Who had been in the Lookout House garage at this time of night? Whoever it was, was leaving. He could hear cautious footsteps. An automobile starting! He strained his ears. It was speeding down the street toward the causeway. That didn't prove anything, it would be easy enough to turn into a side road and cut back. Was the man who had sneaked from the house driving? Had he stolen the car? Even so, he couldn't follow it, he must find out why he had entered the garage.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL

By Carter Field
FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington.—Most significant in connection with Gov. Herbert H. Lehman's attack on President Roosevelt's Supreme court enlargement bill was the fact that the President has turned, one by one, against so many of his former close advisers and lieutenants.

The recent fight for leadership of the senate Democrats, to fill the place made vacant by the death of Senator Joseph T. Robinson, demonstrated this in a striking way. For all the four years of his first administration, Roosevelt's closest confidant among senators was very generally regarded as Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina.

In fact, if Senator Robinson had died a year ago there would have been little doubt on Capitol Hill that selection of Senator Byrnes as leader would be the thing the White House wanted.

Actually Senator Byrnes discovered, shortly after the recent battle began, that all the White House wires were being pulled for Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky. Senator Byrnes found he had no chance at all. He was caught between two millstones. So he retired from the race, and Barkley was chosen.

The most effective supporter the President has had on Capitol Hill has been the very non-talkative Vice President, John Nance Garner. The Vice President was really ousted as one of the President's advisers months ago, when he became very vociferous, in the privacy of the President's office, in insisting that the government should take a strong stand on the sit-down strikes. Senator Byrnes lost his popularity at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue for the same reason.

Favored Barkley

Neither Garner nor Byrnes had ever liked the court bill, but they were following the President on it, just as Joe Robinson and Pat Harrison were.

But the President knew their hearts were not with him on this issue—to him the most important of all. That is why he was for Barkley for leader, instead of Harrison. He has always known he could depend on Barkley. Back in 1932 he was so anxious to get Barkley for temporary chairman of the national Democratic convention that he agreed to let Jouett Shouse be permanent chairman if Shouse and his friends would not oppose Barkley for temporary chairman.

This agreement was made with Robert Jackson, then secretary of the Democratic national committee (the New Hampshire Jackson, not the Robert H. Jackson of New York who is now assistant attorney general). Listening in on an extension telephone was Harry F. Byrd, now a senator from Virginia.

The importance of a vigorous temporary chairman at a political national convention is extraordinary in any close contest. On him depends the job of overseeing the selection of the permanent list of delegates! Senators Sherman Minton of Indiana and Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington were called in with Senator Barkley and Senator Key Pittman of Nevada after the death of Robinson. This gave a clue to the present situation. They are among the most radical men in the upper house.

Wages and Hours Bill

The average senator and representative, in trying to figure out just what he should do to play safe on the bill regulating wages and hours, is like a golfer about to drive. He must remember to get his stance right for direction, his grip as the pro told him to keep it, also to keep his left arm straight, just which part of his anatomy to move first in pivoting, and above all to keep his eye on the ball.

The only trouble with this illustration is that in worrying about the wages and hours bill there are considerably more things to remember, forgetting any one of which may prove far more disastrous than when a golfer tops, hooks, slices or whiffs.

Who could have foreseen, for instance, that freight rates would be important?

It started when some Southern congressmen, insisting that the South must have a differential to permit its employers to work their labor longer hours and pay them less than their competitors in the same line in the North, gave as one reason for the necessity of this "advantage" that the South pays higher freight rates.

It so happens that the interstate commerce commission is now digging into that question, under active prodding of certain commercial interests in the South.

Insiders predict—though predicting what the I. C. C. will do is almost as dangerous as forecasting court decisions—that there will be orders from the high court of commerce adjusting freight rates in the South. This would have the effect of depriving the Southern congressmen of one of their arguments in favor of the differential, if the decision of the I. C. C. is as predicted. But it will not end the discussion. It may even provide an unexpected bit of trouble in annoying the security holders of some of the Southern roads. It is almost certain to bring agonized cries from the truckers who will be forced by competition to reduce their rates.

Muddled the Water

Meanwhile, of course, everybody knows that the freight rate argument was just thrown in to muddy the water—that nobody was really weighing these freight rates seriously as an argument for the differential in favor of the South on wages and hours regulation.

For of course no change in freight rates is going to change the situation with respect to the colored workers on whom the South depends for such a large proportion of its labor. The fact that a farmer may be able to send his crops to market at a little lower charge for freight is not going to make him willing to pay his workers more—not if he can get out of it. And he is going to be just as sore on his representative and senators if they vote to do that to him as if there had been no change in the freight rates whatever.

So no decision by the I. C. C. is going to modify the course of those fighting for a differential favoring the South. It is merely going to deprive those advocating the differential of a sideline argument, and deprive them of it just about the time they are tired of talking anyhow.

All of which makes it just a little clearer why so many senators and representatives would like to put this bill, and a good many others, over until next session. It may be just as ticklish then, but they would like to stop worrying now!

Very Few Left

Once there were plenty of Republicans in high public office, notably in the senate and house of representatives, who had the same general ideas about their party that Joseph T. Robinson had about his. There are mighty few, if any, left, and those who even come within striking distance of Robinson's batting average are without exception so branded as "reactionaries" and "Tories" that in presidential campaigns they are regarded by candidates and national chairmen as liabilities rather than assets.

Robinson believed that the most important thing to determine about any official act of his was whether it would help or hurt the Democratic party. Absolutely consistent on this, he never allowed any personal view or prejudice to influence him in the slightest if it seemed to him to run counter to the chances for electing a Democratic President at the next election.

The best illustration is prohibition. There may live a man who can say flatly that if Joe Robinson had not been in politics he would have been a dry, or a wet. But most of his friends around Washington and Little Rock doubt it. Robinson was never one of those politicians who make public speeches one way and talk privately the other. When Robinson embraced an issue, whatever may have been the original reason for his taking that side, he went all the way. He made speeches for it. Then with extraordinary speed he changed to the new position and became just as fanatical about that.

Loyal to Party

Prohibition was mentioned because it is one of the most easily demonstrated cases. Robinson was born bone dry under the party leadership of William Jennings Bryan. He became wet when the party turned in that direction at the 1928 Democratic national convention. Like many others, Robinson was convinced by the 1928 landslide that the country was overwhelmingly dry and hence that any national party to win an election must be dry.

So at a national committee meeting the following year, held at a Washington hotel, when John J. Raskob proposed a new plan opening the door to repeal, Robinson made one of the most stinging speeches ever delivered at such a gathering.

"You shall not nail the skull and crossbones of an outlawed trade to the masthead of Democracy!" he shouted.

But three years later, when the Democratic national convention went all the way wet in its platform and then nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt, who accepted the platform, Robinson became an ardent wet again!

What few Northerners and Westerners understand is the cause for this extreme party loyalty. It is sound politics in the South because of the generation-old feeling—ever since reconstruction—that success of the Democratic party is the most vital issue in the world—that everything else sinks into insignificance when compared to it.

It has been just about 45 years since there has been any comparable feeling about the Republic party.

FARM TOPICS

PLAN WINDBREAKS FOR NEXT SPRING

Scheme May Be Worked Out During Summer.

By J. E. Davis, Extension Forester, University of Illinois—WNU Service.

Although it is too late in the year to make windbreak plantings of trees on farms, it is not too late to start making plans for plantings to be made next spring. Preparations which can be made during spare time this summer for a protection planting next spring include marking out the area, digging a diversion ditch to drain barnyard water around the windbreak planting, fencing the area to be planted and plowing the ground in the fall.

"Trees are best ordered early to assure getting the desired varieties before supplies run out," Davis states in his new circular, No. 27, "Windbreaks for Illinois Farmsteads," which has just been published by the Natural History Survey in co-operation with the agricultural college.

Detailed information on planning, planting and caring for a windbreak are contained in the circular along with a description of the kind of trees available, their advantages and disadvantages. Copies of the circular may be obtained by writing the agricultural college at Urbana.

"Illinois farmers are taking a renewed interest in windbreaks," Davis said. "Demonstration plantings showing the best practices for establishing and maintaining windbreaks have been made on farms in 12 Illinois counties this spring. More are being planned for next year."

"Most ornamental nurseries grow the types of trees satisfactory for windbreaks and some of the larger nurseries specialize in producing windbreak trees."

Information on sources and prices of windbreak planting stock may be obtained by writing Davis at the agricultural college.

Eggs Require Special Care During Warm Days

The warm days of summer are the danger days in the high quality egg trade. Unless poultrymen maintain a watchful eye and exercise the greatest care, many factors that easily escape attention, may result in the loss of customers, says a writer in the Rural New-Yorker.

Egg quality deteriorates rapidly at temperatures over 70 degrees. Hot days, high temperatures in the poultry house, broody birds remaining on the nests, are often the cause of a lack of freshness in the product. Eggs should be gathered three or four times daily in clean, well-cushioned containers. Leaky, cracked or soft-shelled eggs should be placed in separate containers when collecting to prevent soiling of the eggs and possible contamination from odors of oil, or other pungent material.

As soon as the eggs have been gathered, they should be placed in a cool, dry room, free from odors and where the temperature is not over 50 degrees.

Eggs should be graded to size, candled, packed in clean, attractive containers, and marketed at least twice a week. In shipping, they should be protected from the sun and wind.

Bitter Butter

Bitter butter may be due to bitter milk or to the salt used, says J. R. Dice, head of the North Dakota Agricultural College dairy department. Milk from cows in poor physical condition, or from cows that have reached an advanced stage in the milking period, may produce bitter butter, butter that has a poor texture, or the cream may refuse to churn out entirely. If sample tests of the individual cows fail to indicate the responsibility for the bitter flavor, examine the salt being used. Chemically impure salt, especially salt containing relatively large amounts of magnesium salts or calcium chloride, or both, may give the butter a bitter flavor.

Lambs Need Corn

It does not pay to cut down on corn and legume hay in favor of oats and non-leguminous roughage when fattening lambs. This feed-lot truism, well understood by experienced live stock men, was demonstrated again this past year in Four-H Club western lamb feeding projects at Spencer and Waterloo, Iowa. Reducing the corn ration and legume hay ration actually doubled the cost of producing a hundred pounds of gain in many of the lots.

Segregate Roosters

In order to protect the interior quality of eggs, roosters should be removed from the breeding pen as soon as the hatching season is over. If the male remains with the hens, the eggs will be fertile, and if a fertile egg is held at a temperature ranging above 68 degrees Fahrenheit, the germ will develop. A fertile egg will deteriorate much more rapidly than an infertile egg. An infertile egg seldom rots, but a fertile egg will decompose rapidly.

OUR NEIGHBOR HAS A GROUCH

Because we recently remarked in these columns that the rebuilding of highway No. 84 from Tahoka to Post is more important to the people of Lynn, Garza, and other counties further east than is the rebuilding of this highway from Tahoka west,
"though that is important and much appreciated by the people of this section of the state", we said, our old friend Andy Jack Stricklin of the Terry County Herald got on a "high horse" and called us "provincial" and made a nasty allusion to "rutty" towns.

We can't figure out what called forth this hostile outburst. Jack must have just had a bad case of the bellyache, and we hope he has gotten over it long before this.

Highway No. 84 is more important to Tahoka and Brownfield than to any other town. Therefore, Tahoka and Brownfield ought to be more intensely interested in its improvement, every foot of it, than anybody else. We are delighted that this highway is soon to be paved full length between these two towns. We sincerely hope that it may soon be paved from Brownfield to the New Mexico line. Naturally we hope that it may soon be paved from Tahoka to Post. Is that provincialism?
Maybe so. But it takes that kind of "provincialism" to get highways built. We notice that Lubbock, for instance, is seeing to it that as many highways as possible are heading into that city and that all of them are being paved just as fast as they can get the state highway commission on the job.

Come on, Jack, and help us get highway 84 paved from the New Mexico line just as far east as possible, the farther the better.

A news story in the Dallas News
Tuesday described boom conditions at Corpus Christi as a result of the bumper cotton crop which was being harvested. Farmers were jubilant and business men kept their stores open Sunday to care for the business rush. "The only dark spot in the farmer's picture", said the story, "was a shortage of pickers."
Farmers are having difficulty in getting help to harvest the crop.
In the next column was a story from Beaumont telling of the organization Sunday of a state federation of C. I. O. workers. Resolutions were adopted protesting the cut in the Texas WPA rolls, due to throw 15,000 out of employment, and letters were directed sent to WPA officials in Washington and to state Congressmen protesting the reduction in the number of WPA employees. A separate resolution also protested discrimination against foreign-born workers, with particular reference to Mexicans of San Antonio and South Texas. We cite these two stories to call attention to the unreasonableness of C. I. O. leaders. They are ready to protest any time any one of the big corporations discharges a worker. Likewise they are ready to protest every time the Government drops a worker from its pay rolls. At heart many if not most of them are communists. In line with their communist tendencies, they are always quick to protest against "discrimination" against Mexicans or Negroes.
They are calculated to stir up trouble in Texas, racial trouble as well as labor trouble. We don't need the C. I. O.'s now any more than we needed the I. W. W.'s in war time.
The I. W. W.'s got no sympathy from the Woodrow Wilson administration. Their successors, the C. I.
O.'s, should get no sympathy from the FDR administration.

On August 23 the people of Texas are to vote on a proposed constitutional amendment providing that the legislature may provide for assistance to destitute children under fourteen years of age, not exceeding $8.00 per month for one child nor $12.00 per month for all the children of one family. Although our taxes are already very high, we favor the amendment but we hope that after it is adopted no dema-gogic politician will have the gall to rise up and shout that the people understood the amendment to apply to all children in this state, rich and poor alike, under 14 years of age, or that the full amount of $8.00 or $12.00 as the case may be must be paid at all times regardless of circumstances.

One of the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on by the people of Texas on August 23 would grant to the legislature power to provide assistance to the needy blind over 21 years of age not to exceed $15.00 per month each. Although the passage of the amendment means more taxes for a tax-ridden people, it seem right and humane for the state to assist the needy blind, but we hope the folks will note that little wor-"exceed," and will also take note of the fact that the legislature is given power to exercise discretion and common sense in making provision for this aid. Hence we hope that if the amendment is adopted we will never hear any animal with two legs and two long ears braying that the full sum of $15 must be paid each and every month to all blind persons alike over 21 years of age.

A news story from Carlsbad, New Mexico, brings the information that 39,726 people visited the cavern during July, every state in the Union, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, and 22 foreign countries being represented by the visitors. Since January 1 the cavern has had 107,955 visitors, and since it was opened to the public it has had 930,632 visitors. It is expected that the million mark will be reached before the end of September. If the people generally knew what a wonder the cavern is, a million others would see it within the next two years.

We hope the people raise the money with which to establish that Big Bend National Park. With paved highways built over the mountains and through the canyons of that rugged country, thousands of visitors would be attracted to Texas each summer. Those canyons along the Rio Grande are said to be among the most picturesque in the whole country. Why not make it possible for the people of the nation to see them? We are for the park.

Terracing farm lands and contouring the rows are proving their value out here on these plains.
These methods, which have long been practiced by some farmers, are being more generally adopted year after year. These practices conserve both the water and the soil and greatly increase the annual yield of crops. The time will doubtless soon be here when every foot of cultivated land in Lynn county will be thus treated.

If the Government under the Constitution is authorized to go into the business of building and renting houses, we think there is a vast opportunity for service in this field.
However, any Government undertaking of vast proportions must be watched with an eagle eye to prevent graft and scandal. Politics, patronage, and graft are the three evils that are calculated to vitiate and wreck many an otherwise excellent Government enterprise.

The trees which have been planted and have grown up around our farm homes the past few years have made a wonderful change in the aspect of the country. Many more trees should be planted out.
Every farm should have them. They add so much to the attractiveness of the terrain. Plant a tree.

A Tragic Anniversary

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Recently the world noted, with a sort of shocked surprise, that the war in Spain had entered upon its second year.
During those tragic twelve months,
terrible losses in life have been suffered.
During them, whatever freedom the people of Spain may have enjoyed has been grievously threatened.

For into the conflict have entered the rival influences and forces of the two great enemies of individual freedom—Communism and Dictatorship. And whichever of the two may win in the end, the people themselves will lose.

Both those political products of a distracted and frightened Europe are the enemies of that democracy which we of America revere. Both preach the subjection of the individual man and woman to a dominant state or dictator.
Both are repugnant to the basic principle on which our own nation was founded.

And whichever side wins faces a hollow victory. America can prove that.
So can those other nations where democracy stands secure, and, with it, government dedicated to freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion and freedom of opportunity.
While Europe endures the tragic conflict, America celebrates this summer the 150th anniversary of a Constitution which announced the principle that "We, the people," would control our government.

What that principle can mean is demonstrated in our established record of national achievement and individual well-being—a record which no Fascist or Communist state has even remotely approached.

means giving the mileage

It's up to me to make this business go, because it's mine. I never did a smarter thing than featuring Conoco Germ Processed oil, with all its long mileage for you. Talk doesn't make mileage or customers, but I can tell you what does...
Oil-Plating your engine with Germ Processed oil. The patent Germ Process makes oil actually take hold of every working part and keep it coated with a durable Oil-Plating... entirely extra to the regular moving type of oil film. Oil-Plating backs up the oil film while the car is running, and never drains down during hours of parking. Then you'll never start up without lubrication. And at the end of your longest run on a hot day, your engine will still have its full

MISS ROBB MARRIES WICHITA FALLS MAN

Friends here have received the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Sylvia Robb, now county home demonstration agent of Hunt county, which event is to take place at 7 o'clock this afternoon at her residence in Greenville. The groom is Mr. Cecil Glenn Kersey of Wichita Falls.

Miss Robb was home demonstration agent of Lynn county about two years, going from this place to Greenville about 15 months ago to take a similar position there. She was very popular here both as a home demonstration agent and in social circles, and repeated reports from Greenville have been to the effect that she has been eminently successful in her work there.

Mr. Kersey is a graduate of the Texas Tech, holding both B. A. and M. A. degrees from that institution in Business Administration. He is now connected with the traffic department of the Burlington railway lines in Wichita Falls.

The bride and groom will make their home in that city. Miss Robb has hosts of warm friends here, who extend every good wish for her happiness through a long life.

ELDER DRENNON IS IN MEETING AT GAUL

Here we are in Gaul, the forgotten town. Had a fine meeting yesterday (Sunday) with three services and dinner on the ground. And what a dinner—seven big platters of fried chicken. I surely ate plenty, and then some. This is one of the quietest county seats I was ever in, but some of the finest people I was ever among.

I didn't enjoy the editorial last week on the monkey business. I think it was a case of sour grapes. If you will just read the editorials every week you may draw your own conclusions. I am sorry it put Happy in bed. Will be more careful after this. I didn't know it would shock him that much to learn the truth.

I will continue here over next Lord's Day, and then begin at Mesquite next Monday or Tuesday. Some advantages in this out of the way place: No mixed swimming pools, no half clad, cigarette smoking girls, no blood curdling picture shows, and last but not least, no women playing bridge for prizes, which is gambling.

(Note to Editor: You may correct and print this if you wish.—R. P. DRENNON.)

Ed. Note: We will print it as is, and leave it up to Happy to make corrections, if any. Will say, however, that the preachers get all the grapes. Editors get only the stems and the husks.

NAZARENE CHURCH WILL HAVE REVIVAL SOON

A few words as a friendly visit, which has always been a pleasure to me, and am now thinking of childhood days, when Father took Mother and us children in a two-horse wagon to visit some relative, friend or neighbor, which was always a joy to my boyish heart.

And, while we have grown into manhood, we find a disposition yet within us to love to visit. There is a social side of life. While yet we find a few people who curse the government and our leaders and talk hard times, make life miserable for themselves and others; while others spread sunshine and make life worth while for themselves and others.

Two little boys examined a bee and a rose bush. One said the bee was a stinging bee; the other said it was a honey bee. One said the bush had thorns on it; the other said it had roses on it. The question is: How do we look at things? On the 15th day of this month we are beginning a revival in the Church of the Nazarene in Tahoka with Rev. S. L. Wood of Wellington, Texas, doing the preaching. You are invited to attend and help in these services.—J. R. FERGUSON, Pastor.

METHODIST CHURCH IS TAKING IN NEW MEMBERS

Our meeting is getting some very fine results. Nothing startling nor sensational, but gradually getting into the lives of many. Bro. Doak is doing real preaching. Bro. Nance is going into many homes and getting people enlisted. Bill Sewell is looking after the singing, and it is greatly helping the meeting. Mrs. S. E. Reid hasn't missed a service at the piano. The attendance is growing and a number have already come into the church. Let's make the last days count for much.

Re-Employment vs. Political Jobs

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

From various sources at Washington and elsewhere, America is hearing reports of increased private employment.

This is a refreshing contrast to the recurrent reports of more and more political jobs which we have grown so accustomed to hearing.

It means much more to the progress, the well-being and the general happiness of the nation. Why? Because constructive employment, whether in business, in agriculture, in manufacturing, or in any other field, means not only increased production, but—through the earned income of the workers—ability to consume the results of American enterprise. This, in turn, means more jobs, more income for those who hold them, and higher standards of living.

Political job-holding, on the other hand, means only a drain on the worker's earnings, bringing neither him nor his family an adequate return for the cut it takes out of his pay-envelope. It creates neither goods nor real opportunity.

Although encouraging, the employment gain reflected by official figures is not as great nor as swift as the American people could wish. But it is apparent; and many students of the current scene believe it will continue.

Let's hope they are right. Let's hope that nothing is done to divert this progress of re-employment from its natural and promised course. Let's hope that it is permitted to develop into the strong movement which represents normal employment and normal production and normal consumption in America.

Throughout their history, the American people have constituted a nation of productive workers, whether in the field, the office or the shop. Their dominant desire is to resume constructive activities.

In that way, they realize, lie both progress and recovery.

SHERRODS ATTEND GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Sherrod, Miss Floyce Sherrod, Mrs. Pearl Brown, Mrs. G. C. Shaffer, and Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Sherrod attended the Golden Wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. Joe Sherrod at their home six miles east of Lubbock in the Canyon community last Saturday.

For many years following their marriage the couple resided in Brown county, removing to Lubbock county about 15 years ago. Rev. Sherrod is a brother of F. M. Sherrod of this city and has served many rural Baptist churches as pastor during the past half century.

They are the parents of ten children, all of whom are married and have families of their own, all but one residing not far from the home of their parents. One daughter lives at Clovis, New Mexico. Besides the children, all of whom were present, relatives were there from Brownwood, Childress, Tahoka, and Carlsbad, New Mexico.

A great feast was enjoyed at the noon hour, and it is said that the cake provided for the occasion weighed 25 pounds.

NEW LYNN EPWORTH LEAGUE MEETING

The New Lynn Epworth League met at eight o'clock Sunday evening and after the program the president gave a report on a business meeting that the officers of the Hub-Lubbock Union attended.

The winners of the month's contest will be decided next Sunday night. We wish to extend a hearty welcome to everyone to attend our League.—Pub. Supt.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Yates and Mr. and Mrs. Pledger Coleman left Wednesday morning on a pleasure trip to Washington and Oregon. They will visit Grand Canyon, Salt Lake City, Yellowstone, and many other intermediate points of interest.

Little Misses Mary Beth and Barbara Tubbs of Coleman are here this week visiting their aunt, Mrs. T. T. Garrard.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Nevill and family left Tuesday morning for Flagstaff, Arizona, for a few days visit with a daughter, Mrs. Faye Fleming.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lilit Boyd, H. D. Agent

MRS. BAKER PLANTS HUGE GARDEN

To furnish a great portion of food for the year, Mrs. E. W. Baker, home food supply demonstrator in the Wilson Home Demonstration Club, has three-fourths of an acre in garden space which is watered from an irrigation well near by.

Because of sufficient space, she did not limit her varieties or amount planted. At present she has growing in her garden Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, black-eyed peas, butter beans, Kentucky wonder beans, stringless green pod beans, bush beans, pencil pod beans, English peas, Marglobe and June pink tomatoes, sweet pepper, okra, lettuce, Detroit dark red beets, corn, yellow crookneck squash, cushaws, pumpkins, cucumbers, peanuts, carrots, and earlier she had mustard and radishes.

For Mrs. Baker's family of four she will need 589 containers including vegetables, fruit, meat, preserves, jelly and pickles, to serve during five non-productive months.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Jackson came up from Stamford Wednesday to spend a few days visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Edd Hamilton. Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Hamilton are their daughters. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson were in business here several years. They are now engaged in the grocery business in Stamford.

L. A. Forsythe and Eldon Gattis of this city and Miss Inez Sharp of Lamesa and Miss Margaret Cloudas of Olustee, Oklahoma, visited the Carlsbad Cavern last Sunday. It was the first time any of the party had visited the big underground wonder and it gave them the thrill of a lifetime. The boys say it is absolutely indescribable.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Craft of this city and Miss Ruth Evans of Portales, New Mexico, left Sunday for Boulder, Colorado, where the ladies will attend a six weeks term of the Colorado State Teachers College. Mr. Craft is expected back about the end of the week.

Variety Of Topics At Rotary Club

Charley Guy, editor of the Avalanche-Journal publications, was booked for an eloquent and witty speech at the Rotary luncheon Thursday, but he failed to get here. His wife telephoned that he was suffering from ptomaine poisoning and was therefore unable to come. It was a perfectly good alibi, but we hope his illness is not serious.

"Slim" Carpenter furnished several vocal numbers of cowboy music, accompanying himself with a guitar.

Judge P. W. Goad spoke on the outlook for highway No. 84 east of Tahoka. He could bring no definite promise from the state highway commission, which he and the members of the commissioners court interviewed Monday, but he came back feeling good over the prospects.

Winter Knight was called upon to deliver a discourse on "Mumps," but he cut his speech much shorter than the duration of the disease with which he had been experimenting.

Aubra Cade gave a most interesting talk on Canada, having traveled a distance of 250 miles in that country recently while returning from Detroit. He had opportunity to talk with a number of the inhabitants and says he found a surprisingly strong sentiment there in favor of annexation to the United States. He found the Canadians to be a fine people.

Superintendent W. G. Barrett gave an account of his fishing trip out to Lake City. He gave a vivid word picture of the country, which was much enjoyed.

Homer St. Clair suggested that the Rotary Club sponsor the raising of a fund in Tahoka for the purpose of aiding in the purchase of land for the establishment of the Big Bend National Park. One dollar will buy an acre of land, it is said. A committee of Cade, Barnett and Weathers was named by President Collier to solicit funds here, and quite a few donations were made at the club meeting.

J. B. McPherson called an immediate meeting of the barbecue committee, at which plans for a free barbecue were discussed and a finance committee was appointed.

W. S. Robertson, member of the Dawson County Courier, Lamesa, paid the News a fraternal visit Friday.

"I Saw It in the News Review" is a common expression among those who keep well informed on current events. They know that in the "Weekly News Review," which appears regularly in this paper, they obtain a comprehensive interpretation of world events written by Edward W. Pickard, one of the nation's most widely-known news commentators.

Weekly News Review
deals with the important happenings and their effect upon our country. It is more than news—it is an interpretation of the news, and therefore much more valuable to the person who wants to understand what is going on in the world today.

Read it carefully from week to week. You will find it interesting and helpful in your discussion of world events with your neighbors and friends.

Shallow Oil Test Is Announced

Location for a shallow oil test in western Lynn county, just a mile east of the old Kingsland well in Terry county, by C. H. Hutto, oil man, and A. R. Brownfield, on whose ranch the test will be made, has been announced.

Location is in the exact center of section 6, block A-1, E. L. & R. R. R. Co. survey, Lynn county, and a half mile from the Lynn-Terry county line. The old Brownfield well encountered oil showings at a shallow depth, it is said. A shallow test was recently completed west of the old well without results, and now the area to the east is to be tested. Contract depth is 1,000 feet, it is said.

GAYNOR-MARCH COMING IN "STAR IS BORN"

Janet Gaynor and Fredric March come to the English Theatre for three days on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, August 8, 9, and 10 in David O. Selznick's technicolor production, "A Star Is Born."

This glamorous story of a little country girl who came to Hollywood, faced the odds of 100,000 to one and scaled the heights of stardom, marks the first up-to-the-minute story to be filmed in technicolor.

Adolphe Menjou, May Robson, Andy Devine and Lionel Stander are featured in the supporting cast, which also includes Owen Moore, Peggy Wood, Elizabeth Jennis, Edgar Kennedy, J. C. Nugent, Guinn Williams and others.

The film shows many famous Hollywood landmarks in their natural colors for the first time. Among these are the Trocadero, world-famous night club, Grauman's Chinese Theatre, the Santa Anita race track, the Biltmore Bowl as it looks during the annual banquet of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, the Hollywood Legion Stadium, where stars see their prize fights, the Hollywood Bowl, the Brown Derby, celebrated eating place, and the famous intersection of Hollywood boulevard and Vine Street, the center of movieland.

Following their return from a trip up into the Northwest last week, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hafer visited Midland Monday. Among other interesting places visited on the Northwestern trip was the ever-interesting Yellowstone Park. They greatly enjoyed their vacation.

Mrs. H. B. McCord and son, H. B. Jr., and her mother, Mrs. W. D. Smith Sr., left Tuesday morning for a visit of several days with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Smith Jr. at Albuquerque, New Mexico. They also expected to visit the second oldest town in the United States before their return, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Mrs. Belle Matthews of Grassland Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Turentine and Miss Dottie and Miss Doris Jean Cade returned last week from a vacation trip to New Mexico.

NEW YORK FAIR 1939 IN CONSTRUCTION STAGE

NEW YORK (Special).—The $900,000 Administration Building of the New York Fair is under roof some 22 months in advance of the exposition's opening date and in August will be ready for occupancy by the hundreds of specialist workers who conduct the business of the "industry" and advance development of the $125,000,000 world event. The corner stone of this first major Fair building was laid on April 27 in the presence of many notable figures in national life.

The Administration building, shown as progressing in actuality and by an artist's sketch, is the Fair Corporation's workshop and showroom. While the 1216 1/2-acre site of the exposition is today the scene of much and varied activity, with several exhibit pavilions going up this year, the majority of the 300 buildings necessary to housing the exposition are scheduled for construction in 1938. By midsummer of next year, it is estimated, fully 15,000 persons will be employed in building activities where only a year ago there was nothing but waste land.

PACIFIC FIR GOES TO NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK (Special).—"Good old Douglas fir" from the Pacific Northwest will provide the foundations for the most spectacular of wonders at the New York World's Fair of 1939.

This was learned when the Fair Corporation offices in the Empire State building announced the purchase of more than $100,000 worth of fir pilings from the National Pole Treating Company. This particular lot of fir sticks will be driven into the ash fill of the 1216 1/2-acre exposition site to guarantee the support of the two unique structures forming the Theme Centre of the "Nation's Fair." These are the 300-foot Perisphere, a globe seemingly supported on the waters of fountains, and the Trylon, a 700-foot triangular needle or beacon and broadcasting tower.

Shipments of the 1200 sticks, 95 to 99 feet in length, are taking place this month, after creosote treatment has been accorded them either at the National Pole and Treating Company's plant at Hill-yard, Washington, or at the Minneapolis yards.

Mrs. A. T. Kent and daughter Miss Juanita and Miss Blanche Dunagan of Madisonville, arrived Wednesday morning for a few days visit with the Dunagan families here. Mrs. Kent and Miss Blanche Dunagan are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dunagan.

Mr. and Mrs. James Connolly and children went down to Cleburne Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Connolly's sister, who died Saturday. Funeral services were to be conducted Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Clements of Stanton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. I. Gattis and family Tuesday night. Mrs. Clements and Mrs. Gattis are sisters.

Less Monthly Discomfort
Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUL, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardul, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Northwest Thrilling To Texas Girls

Miss O'Berger Forrester and Miss Auda Mae Aycox returned Wednesday morning from an extended trip through the Northwest, and they gave us a description of the marvelous beauty and grandeur of so many scenic points along their route that it would require columns to publish it.

One of the first points of interest was Colorado Springs, near which city they visited Pike's Peak, the Cave of the Winds, the Garden of the Gods, Seven Falls, and other magic spots.

At Denver they visited the magnificent Capitol building, the five million dollar court house and other public buildings.

At Cheyenne they visited the biggest and most colorful rodeo in the world.

They drank in all the splendors of Yellowstone Park and then headed out for Salt Lake City, passing through a little nook of Montana and a corner of Idaho. From unique Salt Lake City, where they visited the Mormon Tabernacle and took a "swim" in the Lake, they proceeded to historic old Santa Fe, New Mexico, and thence across the state back to Texas.

On the trip they had met and chatted with both the governor of Wyoming and the governor of Utah, and had seen many other noted personages.

"The Rest Of The Record"

BY JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

Austin.—There are times when every public official wishes he could lay before the people all the facts in a current controversy, so that the people themselves might judge whether his acts were justified.

Several editor friends to whom I made this comment have replied, "Well, Jimmie, why don't you write out those facts as you see them?" So I have decided to do just that, and take advantage of the generosity of these editors by laying before their readers what I call "the rest of the record." This is my first try at it.

SCHOOL CRITICISM UNFAIR

It's a strange thing when public officials are criticized for reducing taxes—for reducing taxes without detracting one iota from public service. Yet, believe it or not, that is exactly what is happening in the current controversy over the state's public school apportionment.

Because State Comptroller George Sheppard and I cut the property tax rate for school purposes from 20 cents to 7 cents, we are accused by other public officials—who should be as deeply concerned as we are over the average man's tax burden—of taking something, somehow, from the school children of Texas.

I tell you flatly, that is not true. At their best, these statements give you but a part of the record. And a very distorted part, at that.

Every informed school official knows that since I have been governor, the schools have received far more aid from the state than ever before in the state's history.

RECORD FRIENDLY

For parents in general, who are not apprised of the mechanics of state aid, this explanation is in order: The state helps support schools through two means. First, there is the available school fund, which is divided among the districts on the basis of registered children of school age.

Then there is the "rural aid fund," or the "equalization fund," so-called, which is an additional grant to poorer rural districts.

Rural aid has jumped two and a half million dollars each year I have been in office! When I was inaugurated, it totaled three million dollars; today it is five and a half million. The present controversy isn't over rural aid; it is concerned with the available school fund, distributed on a basis of so much for each child—the state "per capita."

Now this fact is undisputed: During the first year of my administration, the state contributed $19 per student in the per capita apportionment toward the education of each

New York State to Erect $1,600,000 Amphitheatre at "Nation's Fair of 1939"

NEW YORK (Special).—The State of New York, it is disclosed in architectural drawings made public, will be represented officially at the New York World's Fair of 1939 by a $1,600,000 combined marine amphitheatre and exhibit building of many distinctive features largely designed for the presentation of master stage spectacles and compelling exhibits by state departments and 62 counties.

The accompanying photograph shows how a total of 16,500 spectators can be afforded unobstructed view of an island stage of magnificent proportions set 100 feet offshore in an exposition lagoon and to be screened, between acts, by sheets of water blown by compressed air from the lake and made doubly effective by the projection upon them of light and color. Above and behind the tier of seats shown is a broad promenade 800 feet long which will afford a view of the whole exposition and the 280 acres of lake-shore amusement zone.

The insert shows the exhibit pavilion facade and the forward position of the grand reception hall above which will be a circular auditorium seating 1000 persons. Under the amphitheatre, on two floor levels, 70,000 square feet of space is provided for New York State exhibits.

The New York State Legislature this spring appropriated $2,200,000 for official participation in the $125,000,000 exposition. Enactment provides for the building, for a $250,000 exhibit and for $350,000 maintenance and operation. Contracts for construction of the dual purpose structure, a permanent addition to the site, will be let soon in public bidding by prequalified bidders.

of approximately 1,500,000 Texas children—and this payment likewise was the highest amount in Texas history!

But here is the fact which the critics want you to forget: the per capita this next year will be even greater—at least $20, and perhaps a little more—and at the same time property tax payers will get a tax reduction! The revenues will come from other sources than ad valorem taxes on property.

Does that sound like taking anything from anybody?

TAX REDUCTION STAND

Upon what are the critics basing their charges? Well, here's how it all happened:

The law says the per capita shall be fixed by the State Board of Education, on or before August 1st. At this time, the Comptroller shall furnish the Board of Education with an estimate of available funds. The Board is then required to do a simple problem in arithmetic—divide the total anticipated revenues by the total number of pupils—and the answer is the per capita.

Now another law says the Automatic Tax Board, of which Mr. Sheppard and I are members, shall meet by July 20th and set a property tax which will insure enough anticipated revenues to pay $17.50 per capita.

I construe these two laws to mean that the tax board must meet first, find out how much money will be available for schools, and vote enough property taxes to make up the difference. Last year, that's what we did. We found we could reduce the school tax from 35 cents to 20 cents and still pay the schools $17.50. Not a soul objected. Happily, revenues from other sources were greater than expected, and a per capita of $19.0 was possible.

But this year, for some mysterious reason, the Board of Education met first, and presumed that we would continue the 20 cent tax, regardless of need. Why they so presumed is as deep a mystery as why they met before they possibly could know what the revenues would be—for they couldn't know until after the tax board met. With the 20 cent tax rate, they could make a per capita apportionment of $22, or expressed another way, an increase of $4,680,000 over last year.

I firmly believe that certain people thought they saw a way to tie the hands of the Tax Board and force Mr. Sheppard and me to yield to political expediency at the expense of the taxpayers—who certainly ought to be entitled to some consideration. Everybody knows how burdensome real estate taxes have become.

Right here I want to say George Sheppard showed unusual courage. Most everybody knew how I felt on the matter; so they concentrated on him and he was deluged with telegrams, letters and personal visits to play politics. He is a fine public official, and I suggest if you approve his course, you drop him a note. He will appreciate it.

Mr. Sheppard and I saw eye to eye on this matter; we believe that the law makes it mandatory on us to see that the schools get $17.50 per capita. We did that and they're going to get $20; and at the same time the taxpayers are going to get a tax reduction.

As a final citation of the record, concerning the attitude of public school teachers: In February of this year, one of the heads of the Teachers Association told a legislative committee that if they could "hold the $19 and maybe get $1 more they would be tickled to death." By that statement, the teachers have reason today to be plenty happy.

Matching Lace Trims Silk Sheers

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

NO MATTER how much your taste and the general tenor of your life may call for practical tailored and sporty-type clothes, none other than a really and truly dress-up dress will answer to occasion. If anything more apropos can be found than either of the stunning models pictured in the way of dressiest-dress gowns that tune graciously to afternoon functions, garden parties and such, pray tell where is it?

The illustration presents exactly the type of dresses we have in mind. Here you see two gowns that are one hundred per cent vintage. They are modern up to the instant, and they are fascinating in regard to nicety of detail and they carry that air of sartorial elegance which every woman of discriminating taste covets. Make it yourself, have it made, or buy it ready made as you will, a dress of the type of either of these handsome frocks will give you endless satisfaction, for no matter what comes up in the way of social affairs unless extreme formality demands ultra full-dress attire, gowns such as pictured class their wearers as among the those present in the best dressed group.

This gesture of dying lace in exact match to the silk sheer it trims is proving a most exciting venture to designers in that it invites such free play of imagination. Then, too, the lace being the identical color enhances the dress without making it look too fussy or overdone—gives it the exclusive accent that many covet but few attain.

Current collections include both dark and light sheers with matching lace trims. A costume done in monotone color scheme of either the very fashionable spruce green or beetroot red would be outstanding. Grays in the pastel shades are greatly stressed, also rose-beige.

As to swank styling the redingote theme prevails since it offers such excellent opportunity to introduce border effects with lace insertions after the manner shown in the charming dress to the left in the picture. This redingote gown is a most fetching style for the cocktail hour. It is made of gray silk marquisette tastefully embellished with insets of matching lace. The huge red straw open-crowned hat worn with it plays up in dramatic contrast to the demure gray of the dress. It is flower-trimmed and has black streamers that tie under the chin.

The other young woman seeks and finds midsummer coolness in a gown of beguiling rose-glow silk marquisette trimmed with insets of matching lace. The tiny self-fabric buttons add to the choiceness of this dress. Short sleeves and short gloves also do their bit toward giving smart style accent. The modish poke bonnet is a blue straw with violet and old rose velvet ribbons trim.

Straight coats probably will outshine fitted ones next fall. White rubberized silk is used for a child's tailored raincoat.

The newest way to wear your kerchief is to make a little turban out of it. Summer bags and scarves are shown in gaily printed white linen or pique.

If you are tired of knitting or crocheting, why not try another old-time craft—smocking? Sashes have come back. Big ribbon ones tied in the back are smart on frothy evening dresses.

Chanel is stressing dotted prints for summer wear in both lightweight wool and silk materials.

All of those unusual shades which are associated with Mexico and South America are being stressed.

What Women Want to Know About Fashions

Hats and fans go together. Flowers bloom on hats more than ever.

Big call is for daytime suits of dark sheer. Elaborate lace jabots are worn with tailcoats.

Black lace incrustations on white organdie are noted.

Bandeau turbans that leave most of hair exposed are popular.

GOD FEEDS A PEOPLE.

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 16:11-30; 17:3-6. GOLDEN TEXT—Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh from the Father, James 1:17. PRIMARY TOPIC—When God's People Were Hungry.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God Feeding His People. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How God Provides for Our Needs. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Supply Adequate for a Nation's Need.

Israel, led by God, is on a journey to the promised land. But to reach their goal they must pass through the wilderness. Not only are there weary miles to travel, but there are privations to be endured. Life is like that.

"People may be strong and hopeful at the beginning of a project, and most effusively and devoutly thankful at its close, but the difficulty is to go manfully through the process. Israel was in the desert, and never were spoiled children more peevish, suspicious, and altogether ill-behaved. If they could have stepped out of Egypt into Canaan at once, probably they would have been as pious as most of us; but there was the weary interval, the inhospitable wilderness! So it is in our life. Accept it as a solemn and instructive fact that life is a process . . . more than a beginning and an ending" (Joseph Parker).

Note how elemental are man's needs in the final analysis—bread and water. The very things we take almost for granted as we concern ourselves with life's weighty interests and profound problems become, if lacking, the only things that have any real meaning. And who is it that can provide them? No one but God Himself.

I. Bread from Heaven. (Exod. 16:11-20).

Observe first of all that this was a divine provision. There are responsibilities in life which we may bear—and must bear, but in the ultimate meeting of our real needs we must look to God.

Secondly, we note that it was a daily provision. What forehanded folk many of us are, and no doubt rightly so, for God puts no premium on improvidence. But once again we must recognize, as did Israel in receiving the daily manna in the wilderness that ours is indeed a moment by moment existence. We plan bravely for the next decade or the next generation, but as a matter of fact it can only come to pass "if the Lord will." Read James 5:13-17.

Finally, it was a limited provision—enough for the day and no more, except for a double portion on the sixth day, and none at all on the Sabbath. These provisions were made clear to Israel, and yet there were those who attempted to lay up for the morrow, and some even went out to seek manna on the Sabbath day.

We marvel at their stubborn obstinacy, but are we not often just like them. Some there are who are always expecting that the laws of both God and man should be set aside for them, but, mark it well, they ultimately come to grief. The spiritual application is obvious, and most serious. God has provided a way of redemption, and has made clear how man should and must relate himself to it. Folly it is to ignore God's plan.

II. A Rock in the Wilderness. (Exod. 17:3-6).

"And the people thirsted"—for the daily manna was not enough—they must have water. Needy, yes, constantly needy are God's children.

God always provides. There is a rock in the wilderness. But what pleasure does a murmuring people find in a rock when they famish for water? It is God's delightful custom to meet our needs in unexpected ways and by means which we do not understand. Even our physical necessities come from unthought of sources.

III. The Bread and the Water of Life.

Let us make certain that we do not miss the spiritual truth of our lesson which is revealed by Scripture itself. Paul speaks in I Corinthians 10:1-4 of this very incident in the experience of Israel, and says that they "did all eat the same spiritual meat and did all drink the same spiritual drink; for they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them; and that Rock was Christ." See also John 4:14.

Hungry and thirsty soul, you who are still unsatisfied after tasting all that life apart from Christ has to offer, will you not, just now, take him who is the living bread, and come to the Rock which flows with living water?

How to Keep Quiet

Character is revealed by small things; it is also hidden by small things. Speech often hides it, and again distorts it, for those who brand themselves by the pettiness of their conversation have sometimes unsuspected depths within; but the surest revealer of character is silence—intelligent silence.

Progress

No man who feels the worth and solemnity of what is at stake will be careless as to his progress.

Sew, Sew, Sew-Your-Own

TO MAKE you the girl of his dreams (and to keep him always dreaming), that's the happy ambition behind these newest creations by Sew-Your-Own. One of these frocks to enhance your beauty, and an evening to spend in that romantic lane of Moonlight and Roses—isn't it quite likely that you will become the girl of his dreams?

Luncheon for Two.

When he takes you out to luncheon you should be the very essence of chic. A two piece like the one at the left will bring the sort of eye-compliments you like, and you'll find it a great boon to comfort if the date is to be soon. You will probably want it made of the season's hit material, sheer crepe. The vestee is smart in a contrasting color.

When It's Dancing.

He'll be very Scotch about giving away dances when he sees you in your copy of the frock in the center. It was really born to dance. The tucked skirt has all the thrilling sophistication of a gored one, and it's much easier to sew. Little touches of grosgrain, and pretty puff sleeves add the kind of quiet elegance that makes this your choice for those happy hours of dancing under the stars.

End of Summer.

The season, like romance, rolls swiftly. But you still have time to do a few summery things in a summery frock such as the one at the right. In dimity or swiss it will make you more youthful and charming than many a more ornate style (and after all the girl of his dreams must be young and charming). A good suggestion might be to cut a carbon copy, while you're about it, in sheer wool with long sleeves. Then there'll be nothing to worry about when a cool evening happens along.

The Patterns.

Pattern 1288 is designed for sizes 14-20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material.

Pattern 1228 is designed for sizes 11-19 (29 to 37 bust). Size 13 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 or 39-inch material. With long sleeves 4 3/4 yards are required.

True or False Views

Everyone is continually, by every action and thought, building up within him a true or false view of his own nature and of the world, a view which puts him into a right or wrong attitude to himself and to his fellow men.

Hot Weather is Here— Beware of Biliousness!

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the more common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them. Take Calo-tabs, the improved calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts, combined. You will be delighted with the prompt relief they afford. Trial package ten cents, family pkg. twenty-five cents. At drug stores. (Adv.)

When to Have Done

There seems to be no part of knowledge in fewer hands than that of discerning when to have done.—Swift.

Enthusiasm

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm. The way of life is wonderful; it is by abandonment.

Tech Is Equipped For Seed Testing

Lubbock, Aug. 5.—State department seed testing laboratory will be located at Texas Technological College after September 1, as a result of a $2,000 appropriation in the departmental appropriation bill of the recent legislative session, according to information received by Dean A. H. Leidigh of the Texas Tech agriculture division.

Funds also were provided for equipment, salary of an analyst, and maintenance. The laboratory was set up at Texas Tech five years ago, but it was discontinued after three years' operation. The present branch likely will become permanent it was predicted. Hundreds of seed samples were handled yearly in the original laboratory. Leidigh pointed out.

Strength During MIDDLE LIFE

Strength is extra-important for women going through the change of life. Then the body needs the very best nourishment to fortify it against the changes that are taking place. In such cases, Cardui has proved helpful to many women. It increases the appetite and aids digestion, favoring more complete transformation of food into living tissue, resulting in improved nutrition and building up and strengthening of the whole system.
